NARDIN LAUDS OFFICERS AT INSTALLATION

Tells S. G. A. That Correct Publicity Depends on Co-eds

BEAUTY ARTICLES HARM

That the problem of correct publicity for University women can only be accomplished by each girl being the right kind of woman; that the co-eds alone, oblivious of other women, receive the entire consideration when publicity articles on the cost of being beautiful are written; and that this year's S. G. A. officers have done much to produce worth-while publicity, were the opinions given by Dean Louise F. Nardin last night at the installation of officers of S. G. A. for the year 1922.

Pleased With Cardinal.

"The editorials in the Cardinal depicting the true worth of the Wisconsin women pleased me very much," said Miss Nardin, "and although the problem of publicity is not yet solved, we are taking steps in the right direction.

"I wish to hand down, also as a tradition, that girls in S. G. A. become scientifically minded in their judgment of others, and never believe a report so detrimental to another's reputation, until it is proved true," said Miss Nardin.

Install Officers.

The problem of the Mixers, of the proper standard of conduct for Wisconsin women, and a sincere regret that the present officers would no longer be "her neighbors" were further discussed by Miss Nardin.

Six new officers were installed by the old officers, Ellen Correll '22 officiating. They are: Cleo Parsley '23, president; Mary Baldwin, '23, vice-president; Ellen Harris '24, secretary; Eleanor Head '23, treasurer; Pauline Dickinson, '23, census chairman, and Anita Haven, '24 district chairman.

NICOLAS WINS IN FRESHMAN DEC

The final freshman declamatory contest, held under the auspices of the Forensic board Wednesday afternoon, March 29, at Bascom hall, was won by Alfred Nicolas, a student in Letters and Science, who made a speech entitled "Our Foreign Policy."

John Weimer took second place with a talk on his impression of "The Perfect One," and Bert Hilbers' "International Mind" was given third place. The winners were picked on a grade system by which each contestant could receive 300 points, a hundred from each of the three judges.

The decisions were extremely close, there being only three or four points difference between the grades of the first and second men and only one point between the second and third. The judges were Prof. R. W. West, assistant in the department of speech, Carroll Heft, a sophomore in the Law school and Victor Warner.

Nine freshmen made speeches at the preliminary tryouts for the contest held Monday afternoon, March 27. Two of these were chosen for the finals and two more freshmen were sent into the finals as representatives of the three hill literary societies.

ALL SET FOR BIG JAMBOREE

Brilliantly Costumed Grand March Will Be First Event

A full program of entertainment has been planned for the 1922 Varsity Jamboree to be held in Lathrop gymnasium and Concert room from 8 until 12 o'clock, Saturday, April 1.

A grand march of brilliantly costumed masqueraders at 8:30 is the first event. The sale of fancy dress costumes thus far indicates that the formal march will show more variety and display than ever before.

Fox Trot At 10.

At 10 o'clock, the prize fox trot will be held. This event will be judged by a committee of seniors, and those chosen as the best on the floor will be awarded the special prize for the occasion.

Special group features, and a song act, by Carolyn Hinsdell, are scheduled for 10:30. Unique lighting and varied decorations will help to make the fancy dress party a brilliant spectacle.

Kenneth Fagg, '23, has drawn the cover for a Jamboree program which those on the committee say will be an innovation in its line.

The cover design consists of a masquerade clown bearing a banner lettered "Varsity Jamboree."

Award Prizes.

Prizes, including three silver cups, and other awards, the pictures of groups and costumes, are on display in the window of the Photoart house. The costumes are from the Hess Masquerade shop, Williamson street. Fancy dress clothes will be on exhibit in the S. G. A. room in Lathrop hall for three days. The prices range from $1.50 to $4. Four times as many costumes have already been sold than were used last year, according to the proprietor of the shop.

The ticket sale in charge of Walter Frautschi '24, is progressing rapidly. More pasteboards have been ordered and their sale is restricted strictly to students.

An eight piece orchestra under Jess Cohen will furnish the music.

VETS PROTEST O'HARE MEET; VOLTZ HISSED

Declare One Convicted of Sedition Should Not Use Capitol

CALL LEGION FOOTBALL

Hisses, cat-calls, and cries of "throw him out!" which greeted an attempt of Philip Voltz '23 to defend the Social Science club brought to a dramatic climax a protest meeting held by ex-service men against allowing Kate Richards O'Hare, socialist convicted under the espionage act, to speak in the State capitol tonight.

Aside from the confusion when Voltz was dragged from the platform after calling the American legion "a political football," the meeting was quite orderly. It resulted in the passage of a resolution declaring that Mrs. O'Hare, "once an American," is not worthy of the hospitality of the people of Wisconsin and protesting against the use of the capitol by such a speaker. Out of nearly 300, only four votes were negative.

"The ex-service men want to discourage any kind of disorderly demonstration if the O'Hare meeting should be held," said Paul Tobey '23, president of Gun and Blade, last night. "We feel that every decent minded citizen should stay away from the meeting."

Jackson Cites Charges

Paul Tobey '23, representing Gun and Blade, Ephriam Peterson '23, representing the Red Arrow club, and John Fritschler, '23, and Lester Brann '22, representing the university post of the American legion were among those on the platform.

J. W. Jackson, introduced by R. B. Montgomery, commander of the local post of the American legion, outlined the grounds of the protest, reading records from the court that convicted Mrs. O'Hare during the war. In various speeches she

CALLSEN OUT FOR CARDINAL BOARD

Margaret Callsen '24, reporter on The Daily Cardinal staff, has announced her candidacy for one of the two two-year positions on the Cardinal Board of Control, which will be filled at the annual spring election on April 28.

Her candidacy was officially endorsed by S. G. A. at a meeting held last night in Lathrop parlors.

Miss Callsen is the newly-elected treasurer of the Y. W. C. A., and is also a member of Press club, Orchesus, W. A. A., and of Chi Omega sorority.

She has served on committees for Homecoming, the Religious conference, and the Charity ball, and has played on the freshman and sophomore hockey and basketball teams.

Pokey, Heroine of Play is Man Hunter

Shaw's "Woman the Huntress" and Ibsen's emancipated woman are blended into one in Pokey, the heroine of Philip Moeller's historical burlesque which is a part of the Edwin Booth program of three playlets to be presented in Lathrop concert room tomorrow night.

Pokey, Olivia Orth '23, shows her man-hunting proclivities when she holds John Rolfe, Don Marvin, '23, over the edge of a cliff and proposes. No Don Juan or Shaw ever found himself in a more perplexing dilemma.

A SCOOP!

While many worthy contemporaries have been pondering on the sudden rise of the Tri Deltas into the social limelight we having accidentally come upon the reason in the form of a pamphlet which they issue to their pledges do hereby announce that we will publish the same in serial form for the benefit of the less favored majority. We feel that it will be of benefit to both sexes. The first installment follows:

RULES FOR PLEDGES

This book of rules is published by the Wisconsin chapter of Delta Delta Delta to be used by their pledges as a guide to social success. Study the rules at home and practice them among the men. They are guaranteed to work. Let us make the Deltas socially supreme on the campus. As an added incentive one of our alumnus has offered to give a diamond set badge to the first Delta who makes herself Prom Queen.

The Committee—

KATE WINTER, Chairman.

Rule 1. Never turn down a date for they are always easier to break than to make.

Rule 2. Never break a date unless you have a better one in prospect.

Rule 3. In breaking a date always give some plausible excuse because you may want a date with the man in question at some other time. Besides he may be Prom chairman some day.

Rule 4. Never let a man escape. Pass him on to one of the less favored among us.

Rule 5. In accepting a date make the man think that you are breaking another to go with him.

ALL DUBLIN TURNS OUT TO HEAR MICHAEL COLLINS SPEAK

The photo shows Michael Collins addressing vast throng in College Green, Dublin, on Anglo-Irish treaty. The insert shows Collins as an orator.

Political speeches in Ireland are more popular than the Follies in New York. Thousands gather almost daily in different parts of Ireland to hear speakers—pro and con—on the Anglo-

Irish pact. Michael Collins recently defended the treaty before the largest crowd which ever assembled in Dublin. The crowd gathered in College Green. Thousands crowded within hearing distance and other thousands fought to get closer. Arthur Griffiths, Collins' colleague, has predicted that the treaty will be ratified by an overwhelming vote. The photo seems to verify the prediction.

New Orph Bill Has Attraction For All

Sam Mann and Associate Players in the bright and breezy comedy drama entitled, "Home Made Justice," will feature the new vaudeville bill which opens at the Orpheum tonight and remains for the balance of the week, including the Sunday performances.

Mr. Mann is no stranger to the Madison theatergoers, and as in the past, will present something of interest and enjoyment in his new offering.

Next of importance on this program will be Walton and Brant, a team of entertainers appearing in the comedy skit called "Huh" which is built for comedy effects.

Of unusual interest will be the appearance on the bill of Lady Tsen Mei, the Chinese nightingale. This 24 year old girl possesses a voice ranging from male baritone to lyric soprano. Miss Mei, is a graduate from the conservatory at Pittsburg, and also received a diploma after a four year course at the Columbia university. Lady Tsen Mei is also a star in motion pictures. "Having Troubles of Their Own," is the vehicle that will introduce Monroe and Grant and Conn and Hart. The bill following the showing of Pathe news and Aesop's Fables reels, will open with Arthur Nelson, presenting Katland in "Friendly Enemies." There will be two performances nightly and matinees on Saturday and Sunday.

Spring Clothing To Be Sold By Parents, Teachers

A spring sale will be conducted at the Service Shop, Doty st., by the Randall school Parent-Teachers' association, Thursday, in which spring clothes will be featured with a special line of children's clothing.

Volunteers Make Great Work Of Public Welfare Society Possible; Many Help Cause

Health Center Is Most Vital Department; Is Caretaker
Of Children's Health in Community; Day Nursery
Also Important Phase of Welfare Work

The great majority of Madison people probably do not realize the extensive service done by volunteer workers of the Public Welfare association. The executive officers and committees with their various branches constitute a force of over a hundred persons.

Probably the most vital branch of the Public Welfare is the health center, located at the Hawthorne cottage and headed by Dr. Dorothy Mendenhall. She has been responsible for its development and growth, furnishing besides her valuable time, a trained nurse. With the aid of Drs. Harry Kay and Homer Carter, who give a week of their time every month to the health center, she is able to provide medical care for children who might not otherwise get this service.

The Day Nursery is of inestimable value to working mothers. Here they can bring their children and leave them all day long, for the small sum of 10 cents, knowing that they will be in good care. It is through the efforts of Mrs. Volney G. Barnes that the nursery is such a success. She guides and directs its development, and does all the book-keeping. Dr. Louis Fauerbach gives part of his time to examining the children before they may be permitted to enter the nursery. Previously, Dr. Carter did this work, but his duties at the university became too heavy, and he was required to give it up.

Mesdames Henry Sheldon and George Gernon give a great deal of their time to the Service shop. With the aid of their committee, Mesdames Kittleson, Brumm, McNamee, and Kingsley, they take care of the incoming stock, the classification and selling of it, and see that some club or organization has the shop every day. Without their help the Public Welfare would either have to employ someone to do the work or close the Service shop.

Mrs. Louis Hobbins is the chairman of the finance committee and gives at least one day a week to this work. The members of her committee are Messrs. T. R. Wilson, E. J. Frautschi, N. J. Frey, F. M. Kilgore, J. B. Ramsey and William Kittle. Letters of appeal are sent out by this committee, and it is responsible for all contributions, outside the Service shop. A card index is kept of all monthly contributions and in this way Mrs. Hobbins knows just how much she can count on each month.

Mrs. Chester W. Constantine arranges the programs and makes the plans for the Friendly Visitor committee. Miss Helen Clarke, an instructor in the department of sociology, is giving a short course in social case work for the Friendly Visitors and Mothers' Pension supervisors.

The Holiday Relief committee, headed by Mrs. McNamee, performs a very useful service by preparing and packing Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for poor families in Madison. This means weeks of work before hand for the committee. Mrs. McNamee's committee consists of Mesdames William Kittleson, Louis Rieber, George Levis, E. J. Hart, and F. M. Wilcox.

Prof. E. B. Gordon is the chairman of the Neighborhood House committee. His committee, which consists of Mrs. Arthur Wellman, and Messrs. Thomas W. Gosling, and Walter Murray, meets once a month and makes plans for the Neighborhood House, which are submitted to the Public Welfare for approval before they are put into effect. A great deal of credit should be given to Miss Mary Anderson, secretary of the university Y. W. C. A., who interests the girls of the university in this project, and secures their co-operation. Over 30 girls have offered their services to the Neighborhood House, and are spending several hours a week there. They are as follows: Jean McNamara, Lula Staab, Ruth Bowker, Lillian Jennings, Eleanor Flynn, Pearl Wheeler, Eleanor Day, Cornelia Heise, Seville McReynolds, Eleanor Sykes, Rosanna Lindschi, Mary Preston, Margaret Campbell, Lillian Soldan, Ruth Catlin, Catherine Watkins, Ruth Tier, Adelaide Richardson, Elizabeth McCoy, Frances Royce, Christine Maxwell, Marguerite Baines, Florence Baillie, Hazel Kelly, Elizabeth Turney, Margaret Brabant, Genevieve Hardy, Marjorie Jones, Jennette Kennen, Julis Hahn, Marie Dresden and Alta Irwin.

Mrs. E. B. Steensland is the chairman of the Tag Day committee, and her committee consists of the following: Mesdames Milton Hendorf, Jerome Jones, Joseph Dean, C. A. Harper, William Smith, William McNamee, Wm. Krause, W. D. Tenney, B. M. Nelson, A. J. Oelmiller, Isaac Sinacke, C. W. Dresser, Thomas Quinn, Carl Hoebel, H. J. Leahman, Gilbert Smith, Mrs. Wagner, of South Madison, I. M. Kittleson, G. H. Killand, M. H. Conklin and C. O. Fox. Mrs. A. J. Marshall has charge of seeing that tags and boxes are provided.

The executive officers and committee are not to be overlooked, for their work is no small task. The president of the Public Welfare association is A. W. McConnell; E. J. Frautschi, vice-president; Rev. A. J. Soldan, secretary; Mrs. I. M. Kittleson, treasurer. The executive committee is headed by Mrs. William Kittle, who has backed the association ever since its beginning and gives a good part of every day to helping Miss Davis work out plans and measures for the organization. Mrs. Kittle has on her committee Messrs. Arthur Wellman, J. P. Butler, A. W. McConnell and the Rev. Mr. Soldan.

Naval Limit Treaty Passes U. S. Senate

Ratified Without Reservations; Backed By "Irreconcilables"

(By the Associated Press)
 WASHINGTON—The arms conference naval treaty limiting the navies of all the great sea powers was ratified today by the senate. The senate's approval of the pact was voted without reservation or amendments and with Republican and Democratic "regulars" and "irreconcilables" generally standing together in its support. The ratification vote was 74 to 1, Sen. France, rep., md., casting the only negative vote. Of the 74 affirmative, 48 were republicans and 26 democrats. Announcements were made that all absent and paired senators favored ratification.

Cestre Lectures On Middle Age Chivalry

"Jeanne d'Arc added a new element, the spirit of democracy to the faith and chivalry of the middle ages," said Prof. Joseph Cestre in speaking on the subject, "The Ideal of Faith and Chivalry in France During the Middle Ages," yesterday at 4:30 in Bascom hall. "She typifies democracy in its most winning aspect," Professor Cestre continued. "Jeanne combined the faith and chivalry of the past with a feeling for the humble." Professor Cestre traced the development and influence of faith and chivalry from the days of the Romans through the middle ages down to the dawn of the modern era. He pointed out how steadfast faith helped to win the victories of Chalons, Poitiers, and the recent success at the Marne when France and civilization were in danger of being engulfed by the hordes of barbarians.

Uniform or Full Dress O. K. at Ball —CALUWAERT

"The military uniform will be considered the proper dress for the 1922 Military ball, although it is probable that full evening dress will be worn by many, especially by the men not in the cadet corps." This statement was given out by Evrard C. Caluwaert, '22, yesterday, in order to correct the impression that only uniforms would be worn. "stood," said Caluwaert, "that the Military ball is for all students at the university and not only ex-sergeants and members of the cadet corps. Those not connected with the corps or some military organization will probably find it more convenient to attend the ball in full dress." The price of tickets has been set at $4, so it would be within the reach of all who wish to attend, and officers in the corps have agreed to discourage the use of taxis, according to Caluwaert. "It has never been the custom to use taxis in the past, and the cadet corps does not want to encourage their use this year."

No Dipnet Fishing Is Allowed Near Madison

The use of meshed nets with a mesh smaller than three inches for dipnet fishing will not be permitted this year, according to Deputy Conservation Warden Henry C. Gruebner of Sheboygan. Any one caught violating the law will be severely penalized, he says. But no dipnet fishing is allowed around Madison anyway, so Madison fishermen will not begin busily stretching their nets till the mesh reaches three inches. Only the streams flowing into Lake Michigan or into Green Bay are allowed to be used for dipnet fishing. It is a method for catching in large quantities what are known as "rough fish"—carp and suckers. Dipnets not exceeding eight feet in diameter, and with a mesh not smaller than three inches, are required by law, with a penalty of from $50 to $100 for violation. Deputy Gruebner has sent out a general warning that after the opening of the season, March 1, the edicts have been strictly enforced.

INTELLECTUAL FUSSING.

AT the entrances to the Library reading room are swinging doors marked, "For the Use of Readers Only." A student pushes them through them, gets a book from one of the shelves and sits down to study. The doors swing open again and a girl enters, glances around the room, spots two empty chairs which happen to be across the table from the one studying, and occupies one. Soon the doors swing in once more, a man enters this time, who carefully looks over the assemblage, and, upon discovering the girl, hastens toward her and with a charming smile, charmingly returned, takes the chair next to her.

Does he sit next to her and does he gladly welcome him in order that they may be of mutual inspiration to one another in studying? No. As beautiful as the thought may be it is far, far from the truth. Do they even try to study? What an absurd question. Of course they don't, they never intended to, for such phrases as "a wonderful time," "gorgeous dress," "lovely flowers," and "an awful bore" are hardly indicative of much mental effort. In plain campus English their purpose is fussing, and with admirable determination they carry it out, much to the annoyance of the student across the table.

The minutes pass by. Their conversation becomes more and more animated and also more disturbing to the wretch across the way who has a quiz section the following hour. The fussers are having a delightful time. It is so cozy in the Libe, and so much more economical than the Chocolate Shop or the Copper Kettle, and then, also, one must not lose sight of the fact that the intellectual atmosphere gives a higher tone to fussing. Finally, the man and girl get up to leave, and he taking her arm, chivalrously guides her through the maze of tables and over the rough spots in the floor, and the doors marked "For the Use of Readers Only," swing out and they are gone.

The one with the quiz section staring him in the face sighs with relief, and then with despair when he discovers that only ten minutes remain in which to do the work of fifty. As he turns to his book he breathes a silent but heartfelt prayer that spring will quickly and consistently come in order that fussers may use the drive instead of the Libe.

BIOGRAPHY AND THE FASHION PLATE.

AT the head of the upper campus is the statue of America's best loved and probably greatest man. An English critic once said that he was crude.

Did you ever give that awkward, gaunt figure more than a cursory glance? Stop and look at it critically the next time you pass. The hair is long, unbarbered, one might almost say unkempt. There is no hint of a mathematical part, a sleek surface, or accurately trimmed edges. The old fashioned collar is loose, and in ill-fitting folds, while the cravat is wretchedly tied. The coat hangs upon the figure in sags and wrinkles, and one is inclined to surmise that the original was rusty. The trousers, bagging sadly at the knees, show evidences of never having been pressed since they left the tailor's hands, and hang limply with anything but a nicety of break over the instep. And the shoes—how unlike the smart oxfords that pass by them every day.

The figure is dressed in an ungainly fashion; there is no sign of style or smartness. Yet that man won the dying love and reverence of a nation, which called him "Old Abe" with a jealous affection it has shown to no other. His genius saved a country, and his nobility of character remains, and will always remain, a criterion of the bigness of man.

Matthew Arnold called him crude. Crude, perhaps, if by crudeness is meant the failure to conform to the minute in style of dress. But what if he was crude in that sense? Lord Chesterfield has left nothing to the world but a collection of graceful, but uninspiring letters, and Beau Brummel is little more than a synonym for a dandy. Abraham Lincoln, in spite of his homely and unfashionable clothes, has left an undying monument.

Is it no more worth while to study the biographies of men rather than fashion plates?

IF YOU DON'T WEAKEN

In the vernacular, "It's a great life if you don't weaken," and now that the first semester exams are well past and the experiences of that final week are becoming rather vague memories, there is a tendency to slack up and allow events to take their course. However, it may not be wise "to weaken" too soon. The regular four-week quizzes will soon be here and in addition, statistics on the standings of the respective dormitories, cottages, and organizations are being compiled on a semester basis. Both of these impending events should have an immediate effect on current work.

It seems hard to keep grinding on, when there seems no particular need for it, and yet that is the only way to keep up with the game and to be in a position to do work continually. The various new year, as well as new semester, resolutions should be recalled and applied—at least until the spring fever epidemic—during these days of slackness and of readjustment. It will be a great life later, if you don't weaken now! —Grinnell Scarlet and Black.

Variety of Spoons Shown at Exhibit of State Museum

Spoons, dating from the bronze age to 1865, representing all makes and designs, are shown this week in the Spoon exhibit at the State Historical museum.

Chips of wood and sea shells served primitive people as spoons, until hollowed out bones were introduced. One specimen comes from the pile dwellings in Switzerland.

Bowl Large, Handle Small.

Early Indian spoons were fashioned of buffalo or ox horn, and the spoons used in ceremonials were elaborately carved in the form of human beings, gods and animals. At this time the bowl of the spoon was large and the handle small.

Flemish spoons of the middle ages were massive, both in workmanship and in design, and the later models show their development from the round bowl to the pointed, oblong bowl. An English spoon used about 1760 shows the intricate design and stamp of its maker.

Metal Spoons Exhibited.

The housewives of Revolutionary days made their own spoons by pouring molten metal into a wooden shape.

Blue enameled spoons from China, painted wooden ones from Norway, and intricately carved ones from the Philippine Islands, are shown as examples of ancient workmanship.

One dented silver spoon was found in the ruins of Ft. Shelby at Prairie du Chien in 1840. During the civil war the soldiers used a combination knife, fork and spoon.

Visiting Cameraman Likes U. W. Students

A total of 1,500 plates developed and printed in the three weeks he has been here is the mark set by Jacob Alstrom, veteran college photographer, who is making his annual visit to Wisconsin for the nineteenth time. Alstrom is well-known among fraternity and sorority circles at Wisconsin and at colleges in 32 states which he visits each year.

"I like the people at Wisconsin and at Michigan better than any other students in all the territory I visit," Alstrom said. "The students in the middle west are far more sociable and friendly than those in other parts of the country. Each year I travel from Maine to Colorado, covering 32 states, but I can safely say without prejudice or attempting to seek favor that I like the Wisconsin and Michigan students best."

Alstrom's home is Cape Cod, Mass., but he claims that he likes the students in this part of the country much better than those in eastern schools. Alstrom visits fraternities and sororities, taking individual, group, and house pictures. He makes a stop of three months at Wisconsin each year.

Prof. Says Quartet Will Please Public

The Chicago String quartet, which plays at Music hall at 8:15 tonight will be a positive delight to its audience, according to Prof. Edward Earle Swinney of the Music school.

The quartet played at the Madison high school two years ago and will be remembered by many as the Great Lakes quartet. Tickets for seats in the middle sections were rapidly selling out yesterday afternoon but there will probably be plenty more seats left for sale today.

Madison Holds Record With 52 Eating Places; Many In City Content To Dine Out

Three More Food Emporiums Contemplated; Madison Has One and a Quarter Lunch Rooms for Each 1,000 of Its Population, Estimate

With three new restaurants to be ready by next fall, Madison will soon hold a record for the number of eating places per population. It is probable that the city now has more restaurants and cafeterias than any city of its size in the United States.

With 40,000 population, Madison has between 48 and 52 restaurants and cafeterias. Of these, 15 might be ranked as restaurants proper, and the rest are cafeterias, tea rooms, "holes in the wall," "hash joints," and "dog wagons". And there has been no count made of boarding houses.

The big question is, Who eats at home? There is one and one-fourth eating place for every thousand of population. And when a good many of them can reckon by actual count that they are serving 12,000 or 18,000 every day, the number begins to mount up until you can't see where any one in the city ever gets a meal at home.

With 7,000 students always more or less "eating around" and with Madison's transient population, the city has formed the habit of taking its meals out. Even people who have been long established in homes here are apt to let Betty and Bill eat down town while mama and papa trot out to the neighborhood cafeteria.

And there are fooderies to suit all tastes, from the huge cafeterias serving hundreds of working people daily, to little prettily-decorated tea rooms with their select clientele, and o the all night dog wagon. And yet there is a continual wail of, "I wish there was some different sort of a place to go and eat!"

By next fall there will be a new eating place on State st., next to the lower campus; one further up on State st., and one on Fairchild and E. Main sts. in the establishment that was formerly the Fitch undertaking parlors.

Madison Will Have 3 New Apartments

H. E. Nichols Erects 3 Houses On Clifford Court; Contain 24 Dwellings

Madison will have three new apartment buildings of eight apartment each, probably by next fall. They are to be erected by Harvey E. Nichols, who already owns a number of apartment houses, and will be located at 225, 227 and 229 Clifford court.

The buildings are to be 40 by 70 feet and of brick veneer. Each will cost about $18,000, according to the building permits issued a few days ago by Building Commissioner Phillip Dean.

The buildings will add 24 more living places to Madison, scant accommodations, and will assist in a slight degree in the solution of the housing problem here, which, it is said, is as acute as ever. Each apartment will have four rooms.

Haresfoot Formal Night Will Be On Friday, April 21

Friday night, April 21, will be formal night for "Kitty Corner," the twenty-fourth annual production of Haresfoot club. Performances will also be given Saturday afternoon and evening at the Parkway theater.

Circular letters have been sent out to all fraternities announcing the dates. A large number of requests for tickets have already been received. The regular mail order sale will not open until April 1.

Prices are as follows: evening, $2.75, for boxes, loges, and first 10 rows; $2.20 for the rest of the main floor; $1.65 and $1.10 for balcony; matinee, $2.20 for first 10 rows and the loges; $1.65 for rest of main floor; $1.10 and $.55 for balcony.

The new W. A. A. officers were installed, and the new board members for the following year were elected at the meeting held Tuesday night.

JONES TELLS GRAFTERS ABOUT WIS. MARKETING

The Grafters' club, an organization made up of students in the horticulture department of the College of Agriculture, was addressed last night, March 29, in the Horticulture building, by Mr. B. B. Jones, on the subject of "Standardizing and Marketing of Wisconsin Fruits and Vegetables."

Mr. Jones told of the work that is being done by the department of markets in the state in inspecting and fixing a grade for fruits and vegetables. How the farmers were setting a high grade up to which they must live in producing fruit and selling it, and how they were benefitted by this standard, was pointed out by the speaker.

Commercial National Bank Window Displays Are Talk Of Town; Thrift Is Theme

Financial Effort Takes New Channel In Use of Display
Window and Employment of Special Man; Crowds Demonstrate Success of Scheme

A new channel for financial effort to take—seen generally only in larger cities than Madison—is the use of show windows for display purposes by a bank, the conducting of thrift campaigns by such displays and the employment of a publicity manager and display artist by a banking institution. Such a program is being carried on by The Commercial National bank, State and N. Carroll sts.

The novel displays, putting across so effectively the ideas of thrift and saving, have been probably the greatest single window attraction in Madison for years. Time after time the sidewalk is crowded to the streets by the crowds which stop, gazing at the latest exhibition.

"The object of all this is to give people something interesting to look at and indirectly to teach the thrift lesson," says O. J. Kreul, the bank's publicity manager. "We're getting business not only through the front door, but also through the windows."

When the bank is not putting on a campaign of its own, the windows are used for booster displays for Madison industries and stores which do not have show windows of their own. No charge is made for the use of the bank's advertising space, the only requirement being that properties and assistants to help arrange them will be furnished. The policy in regard to merchants and manufacturers is "first come, first served." The windows are often taken for a long time in advance.

Displays are changed at least once a week. At the big seasons of the year, such as Christmas and Easter, the bank reserves all rights, and puts on an elaborate display of its own.

The next exhibits to be shown will be from the French Battery company and will consist of a showing of all articles manufactured by that company, while processes of making will also be illustrated.

To stage animated ads in the window is the next project that Mr. Kreul is keeping up his sleeve.

Last Saturday night an unusual display was put on that blocked traffic on the street. Pantomimes were staged in the window illustrating thrift lessons, one of the most exciting being the shavingshoeshining act, where a shoeshining chair was used that gave the crowd a surprise. It was furnished by Van Dusen.

Between pantomimes music was poured into the street from a magnavox and by the end of the party, at 9:30, people were dancing on street and sidewalk. Such a show, with a repetition of the pantomimes, will be put on later this spring, according to Mr. Kreul.

Just divorced from this concern, it is now a new corporation, capitalized at $7,700 with 700 shares of stock at $11 par. J. F. Little, E. F. Kramer, and F. B. Cowdry are the principal stockholders.

Veterans Protest O'Hare Meeting

declared that mothers of American soldiers were "no better than brood sows" and that soldiers would serve merely as "fertilizer for the soil of France," it was charged. Jackson also read a telegram from Gov. R. A. Nestos, of North Dakota, confirming the charges.

Tobey Speaks

Jackson also told of efforts to prevent the meeting and a protest gathering Tuesday night at Gov. John J. Blaine's office, when the governor refused to make any definite statements. Governor Blaine left Madison yesterday.

Voltz tried to speak after Jackson's talk, but was denied the floor until after a speech by Paul Tobey '23, president of Gun and Blade. "During the war it was freely said that Wisconsin was a pro-German state, and yet there isn't a state in the union that stood up like Wisconsin," declared Tobey, speaking in a low, dignified voice. "The reason is that we have been misrepresented by organizations and speakers who have been brought here.

"The Social Science club could not get a university building so they went and used the lieutenant-governor's name to get the capitol. "Now, that building is ours; we fought for it. It's our capitol and our state. I don't think it right for the governor or anyone else to give the capitol for the use of a woman who is nothing better than an anarchist.

Voltz Hissed

"The governor has done a lot for us, but this is going a little too far, to give our capitol for the use of a Social Science club which is part Bolshevik but doesn't know enough to be anarchist and hasn't got back-bone enough."

"I am a member of the Social Science club who has had 21 months' service," then declared Voltz, shouting above a chorus of cat-calls. "I know the American legion stands for fair play and will hear me.

"This meeting is a defiance of authority. Governor Blaine represents the people of the state." Strong hisses.

"Legion a Football"

"I believe that the American legion has a right to use the capitol, that the Chamber of Commerce, the Republican party, and the Social Science club have a right to use the capitol." Much confusion.

"I am not here tonight to defend Kate O'Hare; I am here to defend free speech," and he read a section from the state constitution. "Mrs.

O'Hare is not to speak on Socialism, but on prison reform. I would be as angry as you if she should talk disloyally, but she will not.

"I believe that the American legion is being used as a football—as a political football."

The crowd serged forward and pulled Voltz from the platform. Jackson took him from the crowd and led him back to the stage.

"Go Home to Bed"

"We all got shell shock more or less," he said. "This young fellow believes what he says. Lots of 'em got stung. But if he were to tell us that that woman could say the Lord's prayer in the capitol and not profane the building, not one of us would agree.

"My advice is for him to go home and get a good night's sleep."

But Voltz didn't go home. He finished his speech, declaring that the governor must be consistent and not discriminate between organizations.

"The capitol is just as much mine as his," and he pointed to Tobey.

Red Flag Raised

Arthur Looker, survivor of the Lost Battalion, told of a meeting he attended in North Dakota, when Mrs. O'Hare dragged down an American flag and raised one of red. The lights went out and the meeting turned into a riot, he said.

Several men spoke from the floor against using any violence to prevent the meeting and declaring that the protest was not against free speech but against the use of the capitol for the meeting.

"Let her speak from the h'—tops or hire a hall," said one man.

An executive committee composed of representatives of Madison and university organizations met after the adjournment and discussed means of preventing the address to-night.

University Co-eds Will Aid in Drive

Three university girls, Lucile Campbell '22, Estner Toepfer '25, and Irene Vivian '25, will help to sell tags Saturday for the Public Welfare association in its attempt to raise the $5,000 more needed for the relief of Madison's poor.

The campaign is being launched because the association has twice as many families as it had last year to provide for, and a substantial increase in funds is necessary to carry on this work. The high school girls are turning out in force to make the sale of tags a success.

Movie subtitle—"Outside of the three-mile limit, a sea captain has the power to make a couple man and wife." Then some "dark-corner athlete" piped up, "How wide is Lake Mendota?" It's as wide as a high jumper is high.

AD CLUB ELECTS 8 NEW MEMBERS

Plan to Raise Standard of Advertising in University Publications

Those elected were: Karl S. Reynolds, '23, Edwin G. Hammen, '22, Donald Bell, '24, Robert Reynolds, '23, Benjamin Wupper, '23, Harold H. Frey, '23, and Milo E. Smith, '24.

Eight new members were elected to the university Advertising club at a meeting held yesterday noon at the University Y. M. C. A.

Plans were completed to raise the standard of advertising for college publications. Conferences, under the direction of A. Berge, '22, will be arranged with the business men of the city who advertise in the magazines, and they will meet with representatives of the magazines.

"These conferences will bring to light what the publications have been doing for the business man, and what he has been doing for us" said William Engelhardt, '22, president of the club.

"Questionnaires will likewise be issued to the advertisers who will answer all the necessary questions. By the end of the semester, a sane policy of advertising will be followed by all the publications.

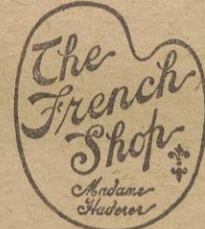

With modern track men breaking record every season, sport fans are beginning to believe that they completely overshadow old champions.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

LETTERS ARE AWARDED AT BOARD MEET

Managers and Athletes Rewarded For Efforts

The awarding of letters and numerals to the members of the basketball, swimming, gymnasium, and boxing teams constituted the greater portion of the work that came before the Athletic board, which held a meeting at the armory yesterday noon.

The basketball "W's" were awarded to Captain Ceaser, Taylor, "Rollie" Williams, Gibson, Tebell, Gage, and Irish, while J. Williams was presented with an aWa. George Davis was awarded a manager's "W." Winfield Ellis was made Varsity basketball manager for next year, and class numerals were given Gerald Koch, who served as alternate to Ellis during the past season. Alfred Hyatt and Herman Engelke were made assistant managers for the 1922-23 season.

Swimmers Awarded

John Bennett and Hugo Czerwonky were awarded major sport "W's", on account of having won either first or second places in a conference swimming meet. Captain Collins was awarded his emblem, and it was decided to present Davies, Lamboley, and Gilbreath with either major or minor sport letters, depending on whether or not the members of a relay team, which places first, rates the same as do individuals who win either first or second places.

Koch, Huehner, and Copeland were voted SWT's, while Peterman was awarded the manager's emblem. Kitchen, Porth, Kleitzen, Boerke, Hansen, and Leitz were presented with "W's", while the gWt was awarded to Stevens, Koch, and Thompson.

Fresh Get Numerals

Freshmen basketball sweaters and numerals were awarded to Smith C. Davis, W. W. Harris, H. R. Hertz, A. E. Mabry, J. A. Morrison, W. J. Morrison, K. S. Mainland, A. D. Spooner, and H. A. Myers, while Joseph Feuchtwonger, W. A. Stolte, N. H. Leavitt, A. B. Liebermann, C. S. Nolte, E. B. Rundell, J. A. Hager, F. W. Ralke, and H. C. Peck, were granted only the numerals.

Boxing numerals were awarded to Moore, Gould, Leverill, Russell, and Fabera.

Eddie Stevenson was appointed baseball manager for the coming season.

Soph Women Beat Juniors at Baseball

In a game marked by hard and fast playing, the sophomores beat the juniors 25 to 14 in one of the final games of the women's baseball tournament Tuesday afternoon.

The game was evenly contested by both teams during the first innings, but the juniors rapidly lost out in the count after injuries made a changing of their team necessary. Dorothy Williams '23 sprained a thumb, and Norma Carl '23 sprained her ankle while making a run to first.

This gives the sophomores three victories, putting them in the lead of the tournament. The last game will be played Friday afternoon between the freshmen and the seniors.

"Jimmy" Murphy, Notre Dame high jumper who starred at the last Olympic games, is now scholastically ineligible. The recent professional slaughter hit Notre Dame harder than anybody thought it would. With a Notre Dame athlete ineligible and with the price of moonshine going up, what is this poor world coming to?

WISCONSIN SKI MEN WILL TRY FOR $1,000 CUP

Badger Ski Club to Lay Plans For Capturing Harding Prize

Wanted—The $1,000 President Harding cup offered to champion college ski-jumpers. BADGER SKI CLUB, M. K. Drewry, President.

This sign will be hung out at the Norwegian house after a meeting of the Badger Ski club tonight.

Because the Wisconsin organization of leapers has an opportunity to win the $1,000 trophy offered to the best college ski-jumpers, the Badger Ski club will tonight lay plans for capturing the prize.

Dartmouth college has for two consecutive years won the annual winter sports carnival held on Lake Placid, N. Y. No opposition was offered the easterners. To prevent their winning it a third time and thus gaining permanent possession of the trophy, two Wisconsin jumpers will make the trip to Lake Placid next year.

Sverre Strom is almost sure to be one representative, with the second to be chosen from the following Varsity jumpers who will return: Schjolberg, Christianson, Goodrich, and Isdahl. Taranger and Hoff are to leave next week for Norway after their college courses are completed.

To win the Harding cup, Dartmouth jumpers were forced to jump only one-half the distance made by Ragnar Omtvedt, national amateur ski-jump champion, who told Wisconsin men about the trophy. Their best distance has been equaled by every member of the Wisconsin squad.

The Ski annual, published by the National Ski association, carried an article on the Wisconsin ski slide in this issue. It is recognized as one of the best slides in the country.

Frosh and Soph to Meet at Gym Today

The final standing of the freshman and sophomore girls will be decided in the gymnastic meet which will take place today at 4:40 in Lathrop gym.

The sophs are ahead in the squad competition which has gone on all year and counts two-thirds of the final score. The standing is now:

Sixty of each class will take part in the marching and floor work, and squads of five will compete for apparatus honors on the ropes, rings, swing-jump, box, buck, and window ladders. Nina Faris will lead the cheering for the sophomores and Marian Strong for the freshmen.

SOPHS AND JUNIORS TO DECIDE BOWLING TITLE

The winner of the class championship of the women's bowling tournament will be decided when the sophomores and the juniors meet Thursday evening to play off the final game.

Both teams have won two games and lost one, making this extra game necessary to decide the tie. The game is called for 7:15, and the classes are to meet to cheer in bodies.

WOMEN BASKETEERS TO HAVE SPREAD SATURDAY

The annual basketball spread for all women who have played basketball or who are interested in the sport, will be held in Lathrop, at 11:30 Saturday morning.

Varsity basketball team will be announced at this time, and that team will meet the faculty in a match game after the spread. Those intending to come are to sign up in Lathrop for it.

Sundt Awarded 8th "W" For Showing in Indoor Track Meets

With the close of the indoor track season, Guy M. Sundt '22 was awarded his eighth "W" for scoring points in the Notre Dame and Iowa dual meets, and for winning second place in the shot put at the Big Ten meet held in Patten gymnasium, Northwestern.

Sundt has equaled the record made by Eber Simpson, all-around star, who also gathered in eight letters by playing for three years on the football and basketball teams and two seasons with the baseball nine.

Sundt was captain of the football team last year, after three years of previous Varsity competition. He was elected captain of the 1919 eleven, but resigned upon "Chuck" Carpenter's return to school. The Badger athlete played halfback and fullback on the team, winning four football "W's".

He is one of the best weight heavers in the conference and a star broad-jumper on the track squad. Sundt won his basketball letter on the 1919-20 five.

"Rollie" Williams, captain-elect of the 1922 football squad, will probably excel the record made by Simpson and Sundt. Williams has won five letters, with good chances of getting four more.

TICKETS FOR ANNUAL "W" DANCE ON SALE FRIDAY

Tickets for the annual "W" dance, to be held on Friday, March 31, at the Woman's building, are on sale at Morgan's and the University pharmacy. Tickets may also be purchased from all "W" men.

The proceeds from the dance go to a fund to finance the annual relay carnival. Tickets are priced at $1.50.

Brutus Hamilton, University of Missouri, won the 1920 decathlon championship. He scored over 7,000 points in the 10 events. Everett L. Bradley, University of Kansas, and Robert Le Gendre, Georgetown university, were close behind Hamilton.

BADGER GYM TEAM TAKES 2ND IN MEET

Finish Season in Good Battle at Northwestern

Wisconsin took second place in the twelfth annual meet of the Northwestern Gymnastic society, which was held at Minneapolis last Saturday.

There were over 200 contestants in this meet, and it took considerable time to tabulate the results by teams. The University of Minnesota, which took third place in the conference gymnastic meet this year, copped off first in the contest last Saturday with a score of 923.7, while the Badgers were a close second with 912.0 points.

Bumer Injured

Coach Fred E. Schlatter's men did not show up as well in this last meet as they did in the conference meet, where they took second, Chicago placing first. Their poor showing was due in part to an injury that Bumer received from a fall off of the horizontal bar before the meet commenced. In spite of his injury, Bumer went through with his exercises, but failed to place in any of the events.

Stevens Takes a First

In the side-horse event, Stevens took first place, the only first that the Badgers got. This is the second year running that the Badgers have taken the side-horse cup. Hanson and Koch of Wisconsin tied for third place in the side-horse. Porth and Rand, of the Badger team, took second and third places, respectively, in club swinging.

Successful Season

The meet last Saturday was the last in which the Badger acrobats are to compete this season, which has been quite a successful year, since they took second in the all-conference meet, and second in the meet of the Northwestern Gymnastic society, besides defeating Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. twice and Minnesota once in dual meets.
