FROSH RECEIVE PENALTIES FOR CAP VIOLATIONS

Sentences Vary From Lake
Parties to Solos on Hill

Violating school traditions has resulted in student senate action on ten cases, the penalties ranging from ducking in the lake, to singing for five minutes on upper campus at noon.

R. J. Quinn, found guilty of disrespect and of failure to comply with requests of upperclassmen, was sentenced to carry an open umbrella and to use a large market basket for carrying his books to classes for two consecutive days. The date will be set by the sophomore traditions committee.

For failure to wear green caps, Carlyle Dietrich Norman Clark, and Phil Rogers were sentenced to be thrown in the lake.

Singing for five minutes on the upper campus at noon on two successive days was the penalty imposed on Albert Scheu, who was found guilty of failure to wear a green cap.

Kenneth Butler was acquitted of failure to button; Ole Gundersen was acquitted as an overseas man, and was asked to make formal application for exemption for the remainder of the year; Niles Colman was acquitted with warning.

Eugene Kraemer was acquitted and put on probation for compliance with all traditions for the remainder of the year. Sidney Bliss was acquitted on the plea of serious physical condition vouched for by the clinic. He was asked to appear before the senate judiciary committee next Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Union building.

Dates for the lake parties will be set by the clinic. According to Dr. Van Velzah, they will not be sanctioned until the water is much warmer, which will probably be sometime next month.

PYTHIA-CASTALIA IN JOINT DEBATE

Co-ed Clash Only Rivalled by
That of Men's Societies

Co-eds will occupy the forensic limelight Friday night when the women's literary societies, Pythia and Castalia, clash in their annual joint debate at Music hall on the question of giving the Philippines an independence equal to that of Cuba.

The affirmative will be supported by Castalia with a team composed of Florence Koltes '23, Mildred Thorne '22, and Gladys Haskins '22, closer. Fern Busby '21, Carol Conlee '22, and Eleanor Shearer '22, closer, will uphold the negative for Pythia.

Next to the historic joint debate between the men's literary societies, the Pythia-Castalia clash which is again being boosted as an all-university affair, has already gained the front rank of platform popularity at Wisconsin. The debaters have been at work on their respective cases since the beginning of the second semester, and their argument Friday night should offer something constructive for a solution to this much mooted national problem.

BROCKHAUSEN AND TROST HEAD FIRST OF 1923 BADGER TICKETS

HERBERT H. BROCKHAUSEN

Herbert H. Brockhausen, Milwaukee, is a candidate for editor-in-chief of the 1923 Badger, and Arthur Trost, Milwaukee, is a candidate for business manager of the 1923 Badger on the first ticket to be officially announced.

Brockhausen is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity and of the Arts and Crafts club. He is a member of the university post of the American legion and is art editor of the Wisconsin Athletic Review. He worked in a professional capacity on the 1918 Badger and designed the 1921 year book completely. Brockhausen is art editor of the 1922 Badger and has originated schemes that saved money for both the 1921 and the 1922 Badgers.

The Thirty-second division art club was first conceived and organized by Brockhausen at Waco, Texas, in 1917. The works of this club now hang in the Art Guild club rooms in Waco and San Antonio. Brockhausen has had eight years of commercial experience as artist, salesman, and copywriter, holding positions with six houses in San Antonio, Texas, and in Milwaukee. Recently he has established a commercial art service in Madison in competition with the many printing and engraving houses of Chicago, Milwaukee, and Minneapolis. He is enrolled in the College of Letters and Science.

Trost is Milwaukee district foreign advertising manager of the 1922 Badger and was on the advertising staff of the 1921 Badger. He is a member of the Advertising club and is advertising manager on the business staff of the Wisconsin Athletic Review. Trost has had one year of practical experience in publishing work in Milwaukee, which included both contracting and copywriting. He is in the course in commerce.

ALLEY GIRLS

You Can Dance With 'Em
for a Nickel at the Charity Ball

A corner for the elite—with admission 5 cents.

Does it sound impossible? If you think so, come to MacDougall's Alley at the Charity Ball mixer next Saturday night and see for yourself. A corner of the gym will be roped off where only twelve couples will be allowed to dance at a time and where the slickness of the floor will call for rubber heels to insure safety.

The ladies of the alley? That is the best part of all, for they will be waiting inside the arena—these dancing dozen dainty damsels—to challenge the existence of any stray grouch might have slipped in. The members of the dancing brigade will not be the same all the time, but there will always be twelve of them. And can they dance? Oh, man, yes!

They will all be in costume, but their temporary partners may be or not as they choose. A corps of policemen in the persons of the floor committee will keep order in the waiting lines. No, gentlemen, it's not every mixer that has a MacDougall's Alley.

GILL FIRST JUNIOR FOR UNION BOARD

Corrington C. Gill '22, is the first to announce his candidacy for the one junior position on Union board to be filled at the spring elections April 29.

Gill is business manager of The Daily Cardinal and a member of White Spaces, junior honorary society

MILITARY BALL GUESTS CHOSEN

Wounded Service Men Are Honored By Cadets

The honorary guests, the guests of honor, and the patrons and patronesses of the ninth annual Military ball have been announced by Cadet Capt. Ralph E. Hawks, chairman of the reception committee. They include Gov. and Mrs. John J. Blaine, Pres. E. A. Birge, members of the faculty and their wives, and residents of Madison who have been active in military affairs.

The eight federal board students who served overseas and who were wounded in action are to be the honorary guests. They are all badly disabled and are receiving their education from the government. A special box will be reserved and decorated for them. In sending out the invitations, the committee has attempted to make the 1921 ball a function of interest to all Madison as well as to the university.

The reception will be held in the governor's office and reception room at the capitol on April 8, at 8:15 p. m. Governor Blaine and other prominent state and university officials will be in the receiving line, as well as the ball chairman and his assistants. The honorary guests, the guests of honor, and the patrons and patronesses, and all students attending the ball

BASEBALL NINE OPENS SEASON ON APRIL SIXTH

Varsity Line-up Uncertain
as First Game Approaches

The 1921 baseball season will be officially opened when Northwestern college comes here to play on April 6. The Badger nine has been greatly handicapped this spring because of the unsettled weather which made outdoor practice impossible.

It had been planned to shift the opening game of the preliminary schedule ahead to Saturday, April 2, and Coach Guy S. Lowman would have been given an earlier opportunity to see his men in action. Recent weather changes, however, have made this proposed change in the schedule impractical and the first game will not be played until Wednesday, April 6.

The lineup for the opening game has not as yet been announced. Several of the old mainstays are back this year and will add their previous experience to this year's team. Allan Davey seems to be the logical choice for behind the bat, and Jack Williams is working out well for the first base position.

Captain Alvah Elliott, Edgar Farrington, Robert Hardell, Carson Lyman, and George Ruediger are the men who are being tried out for the people air and being pres' tions. Elliott and Farrington can be used to advantage anywhere in the infield, and Hardell has been showing up well lately, both in infield positions and in the outfield.

Carl Ceaser, and William Snow, two other members of last year's team, and H. Y. Christensen have also been working out well for outfield positions. Rolland Williams and Gus Tebell are new on the squad and have not been out long enough to insure places on the team. However, they are both men of experience and ability and will probably be included in the lineup for the first game.

PLANS FOR EXPO ARE PROGRESSING

Department of English Will Put on Shakespearian
Pantomime

A pantomime of Romeo and Juliet played on an Elizabethan stage reproduced as nearly as possible on a small scale is the exhibit planned by the English department for the Exposition. The chief purpose of the exhibit is to illustrate the various parts of the Elizabethan stage, the model being 20 feet wide and 12 feet deep.

Dorothy Shaner '23 and Esther Guerini '23 with the cooperation of Professors W. G. Bleyer and O. J. Campbell will select the parts from Romeo and Juliet to be presented. The cast will be chosen from members of the three dramatic societies Red Domino, Twelfth Night, and Edwin Booth, Christian Affeld will have charge of the building of the stage.

A diamond saw run by motor will cut through rocks and polish them so thin that they will be transparent is part of the exhibit to be put on by the geology and geography departments of the College of Letters and Science at the exposition. Through a projection microscope spectator will be able to see the color and texture of the rock. This particular ANOTHER Tuesday morning. Two more and vacation comes, with mid-semester sandwiched in between.

THAT'S not such a cheerful beginning, is it? No. And the contris aren't ery helpful today. But this one drew a little snicker from us; see what it does to you.

ANY TIME, ANY PLACE, ANYWHERE

Dressed in dainty nothings,
Bits of lingerie,
With perhaps some frou frou
Reaching to the knee,
Standing, sitting, lying,
Any time or place,
Poses she in every Attitude of grace.

Mercy! Does this happen
Often, do you say?
Sure, I see her plainly,
Almost every day.

Now she bathes in public,
Now reduces fat,
Now she wears a nightie,
Or something less than that;
Next she call attention—
Vetements de dessous
Just a one-piece garment
Fitting—a mong—a more Doo!

Gracious, what a creature!

Where can she be seen?
In the advertisements,—
Any magazine.

BERRY BATCH.

THE Charity Ball advertises that it will reserve special dancing space for privileged persons who can pay. Get your square foot early; that's all some people . . .

Nominated to Warm the Thermometer

The berry who matches pennies before church so as to have enough to put into the collection plate.

AXENTS

Mary had a southern voice,
To vamp the men she used it;
But when her real lingo she did spill,
When horrid boys abused it:
"Roast bif, crim pie, hem-n'aig four, bolla red, buttered, choklut pie, coff'."

AND now there's not much left to do but to close up the thing.

A longing that is restless,—
A feeling that is pain,—
A yearning for caresses,—
Hell, I'm in love again.

Alpha Chi Omega	10	32	23.80
Gamma Phi Beta	9	33	20.52

Highest individual average is 155.05 per cent made by Esther Ayers '23, and the second highest is 155.33 per cent made by Helen Thompson '22, a member of Alpha Omicron Pi.

WEDNESDAY BRINGS OUT NEW OCTOPUS

the following questions in the Octopus office last night: "What do you think of the Spring Fever number of the Octopus, which comes out

"Pat" Dennis: The only drawback to this number is that when it comes out I am afraid the entire student body will want to take a day off to enjoy it properly.

Arthur Freytag: The Spring Fever number has a uniquely languid, limpid, slushy atmosphere that gets you every time.

Rodney Welsh: (He has left town for a month's vacation after reading the Spring Fever number, which impressed him deeply.)

Fred Sperry: By the way, Jiji-boom is back again, and Bazinook, and Xanimork, their unique uncle.

PRESS CLUB WILL HEAR MACINNIS

Sale and Smith Will Conclude Tonight's Program at Lathrop

"Some Types I Have Known," is the subject of a short address to be delivered by Charles B. Macinnis '22, to the University Press club at the regular bimonthly meeting which will be held in S. G. A. room, Lathrop hall, this evening. Members of the club will form in line at Lathrop cafeteria at 6:40.

Two other brief talks will be given. William M. Sale '22, will speak on "The Journalists' Need of Background," and Wyman Smith, grad. will hold forth on the subject of "Salable Special Feature Articles."

Open forum, discussion will follow the speeches. The regular business of the club will be transacted before the speech program. Raymond O. Bartels, '22 newly-elected president of the club, will have charge of the meeting.

HOLBROOK GIVES PHILOSOPHY TALK

Miss Isabel B. Helbrook of Chicago who is, in her own words a New England, old maid school mam of 30 year's standing," spoke last night on the various stages of mental development through which a child passes. Among the various interesting statements she made was this: No boy or girl should be allowed to indulge in extremely intellectual studies until he or she is at least 18 and preferably 20 years old.

Trains Keep Running On Central Time Schedule

All clocks of the Northwestern road will be governed by central time, according to A. W. Bower, division freight and passenger agent; but working time has been advanced one hour by the company in the Chicago limits to conform with daylight saving Chicago time. Clocks were advanced one hour in Chicago at 2 Sunday morning. Railroad men who have been working from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. are now on duty from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m.

I thot I wood rite you a few lines at onct respecting a show that the Gunand blade is gonna put on next week, come Friday. This here Gun and blade is a gang of old veternar- iens from the army which was wounded in France by the Germans and ather causes. I belong to this gang as I was a initiated into the charter last year becuz of my bonus which I didn't get.

As I am gonna be one of the lead- ing actors in this here show you oughta com. I take the part of a funny character which the coach sed I was good for as they didnt wanta spend money for making or costo- oms and I fit in good there.

You no back home how I always was the cut up anyhow and you sed I oughta go on the stage. Well at last im gonna make my debutt for the first time in public.

The name of the show is the made and the mldi. I aint neither one.

That post is took by another fellow and a girl, both coeds in this uni- versity as I am also. The made is sure a swell looker and so is the rest of the corus girls, but dont you worry about me betting stuck on no ac- tteress, thats why you should come to the show next friday.

Its gonna be held at he fuller opry house with full orchestry seenery etc. I will preserve you a front seat if you cum where you can see just how I look on the stage and you can mee me at the stage door afterwards As there is three hundred other peo- ple in this here show besides me I will wear a red necktie at the door so you will reconlise me. There is on- ly one other fellow in this here town wears red nektie and he is one of them funny looking pefessors so dont get us mixed.

Hopping to here from you soon.

OCTOPUS TO BRING SPRING BACK WHEN PLACED ON SALE WEDNESDAY

We are not qualified as weather experts, nor do we lay claims to occult penetration of the future, but on one prediction we will wager our names, fames, and for- tunes,—scrap value, less deprecia- tion,—and that prediction is that on Wednesday morning, when the Spring Number of the Octopus ap- pears, the cruel winds will become balmy zephers, that the cold will abate, and that the ice will, Lo and Behold! be even as running water.

The "back-fire" of winter may kill the buds on the trees, may bite the delicate tips of the little grasses, may even frost the noses of austere professors, but freeze out the Octo- pus—never! We are sure of this; we will tell you the reason, but it must be kept secret. The tem- perature of the Octopus is derived from internal sources, and never falls below the level of good humor—about 98 degrees Fahrenheit.

The moment that one turns the fifth page he is conscious of a glowing pulse beat. At the seventh page his mouth twitches uncon-trolably, at the twelfth he smiles, at the fifteenth he laughs, at the sixteenth he laughs harder, hy- steria on the seventeenth, and spasms on the eighteenth. And while he is thanking the Almighty that he remembered to buy an Oc- topus, he will also be wiping the perspiration from his brow.

Now our staff of mathematical experts have calculated that, through the increase in humor heat about the campus on Wednesday, allowing at least five thousand calories to each person, the net re- sult will produce a general raising of the temperature in this and neighboring localities. The outcome of our computations is, however, more or less dependent upon each student buying a paper, in order that the laughing may occur ap- proximately at the same time, thus gaining a greater consummate ef- fect. Anyway, you notice, and see whether we are wrong—the Octo- pus blooms on Wednesday morn- ing, and it will be accompanied by a moderation in the weather.

CLASS SWIMMING MEET TO BE HELD WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Although the Wisconsin indoor swimming season was officially closed with the Big Ten swimmin- meet in which the Badgers won fifth place, two intra-mural contests will be held in the gymnasium to decide the inter-class and inter-fraternity championships of Wisconsin.

The inter-class tournament will be run off at 7:30 on Wednesday eve- ning, and the inter-fraternity meet is carded for April 6. All "W" swimmers are ineligible for compe- tition in these contests. Swimmers who desire to enter the inter-class events are asked by Coach Joseph C. Steinauer to sign up at the tank on the night of the meet

M. CUMONT TALKS ON "IMMORTALITY" THIS AFTERNOON

Franz Cumont, a member of the French Academy, will lecture at 4:30 Tuesday and Wednesday in room 165 Bascom hall. Today he will talk on "The Evolution of the Belief in Immortality Among the Ancient Romans," and Wednesday his subject will be "The Ways of Earning Immortal Life."

M. Cumont was formerly pro- fessor in the University of Ghent and at the outbreak of the war he was curator of the Musee Cin- quantenaire at Brussels. He is the world's most eminent authority on the later period of Roman Paganism. At the request of several of the large universities, among them be- ing Yale, Princeton, Harvard, Berkeley, and Wisconsin, he is mak- ing a second tour of the United States. His first trip was in 1911.

STUDENTS ESTABLISH LIVERY STABLE BUSINESS

A new kind of student commer- cial enterprise has been started by some students at the University of Michigan who have gone into the livery stable business. "Saddle horses de luxe" is the business slogan of the new livery which hopes to attract student patronage.

DETROIT SYMPHONY GIVES CONCERT IN ARMORY TONIGHT

"I am looking forward to the De- troit concert largely on account of its conductor, Ossip Gabrilowitsch. Before he took charge of the Detroit orchestra he was a pianist, and al- though all the press reports say he is a wonderful conductor, I wish to judge for myself. I want to see, and personally form an opinion of what kind of a conductor he will be," declared Dr. Charles H. Mills, di- rector of the Music school, in speak- ing of the Detroit Symphony Or- chestra, which is to play in the uni- versity gymnasium at 8:15 tonight.

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra is one of the most recently organized in the country, but within a short time it has won a reputation for itself which bids fair to rank it with older organizations of the country. The orchestra appears in Madison under the auspices of the Madison Orchestral association.

BOARD REPRESENTATIVES ON THE SENATE

FIVE of the seventeen members of the Student Senate are chosen from the various student boards. The editor-in-chief of the Badger represents the Badger board. The Cardinal board, the Forensic board, the Union Board, and the Athletic board are free to elect anyone of their number to membership on the Senate.

There is no reason why the practice of the Badger board should not be followed by the other boards. The editor of the year-book is on the Senate because he is personally responsible for the success of the Badger.

For the same reason the editor of the Daily Cardinal should be on the Senate rather than a member of the Cardinal board of control. The presidents of the Athletic and the Forensic boards should be required to represent their organizations on the Senate because of their direct responsibility.

These provisions should be incorporated in constitutional amendments to be voted on at the spring elections.

POLITICS

PROSPECTIVE office holders are now submitting their cases to the student body. Friends of the various candidates are organizing to put over their favorite sons. As the old-line political writers used to say, the pot is beginning to boil.

The keen interest manifested in politics this year is a healthful sign. It brings the student body closer together, benefits the campus morale, and affords a good opportunity for the study of human nature. The large number of candidates insures a lively time.

At the beginning of the contest it is well for the student to keep a few basic principles in mind. The first principle is that the whole school is concerned and the whole school ought to take a hand in the contest. The stay-at-home voter is just as harmful to a campus as the stay-at-home voter is to the larger body politic. Politics is the game of the few only as the rank and file of the voters allow it to become so through their indifference. Get out and learn what is going on. Be prepared to cast an intelligent vote.

The next principle to keep in mind is that qualification is the test to which all candidates must be subjected. "Nice fellows" are all right in their place, but they have no business in office if this is their only claim to a position of responsibility. Political organizations are necessary and beneficial, but their support alone is not enough to commend a man for office. Personal acquaintances are pleasant and valuable, but the student should look beyond these when preparing his ballot. After all, the students are not parceling out political plums on election day; they are selecting men and women to carry on the important and responsible business of student self-government. The fitness of the candidates for the job is the big question. Nothing else matters much.

Lastly, the campaign should be conducted clean. Fortunately the Student Senate has put many safeguards around campus elections and thereby has made cleanliness easy. But it is not enough to obey the letter if the spirit of these regulations are to be ignored. The zeal of the campaigner often leads him thoughtlessly to overstate his case, sometimes to misrepresent it. There should be none of this latter practice during the present contest.

To sum up: Every student should vote and vote intelligently—support should be given on the basis of qualifications—the campaign should be clean from the bottom up.

55 DEGREES IS MERCURY DROP

Cold Spell Fails to Arrive in Time to Spoil Easter

Compunction must have seized the weather man Saturday night or Sunday morning, for he not only postponed the 55 degree drop in temperature until Monday morning but also held up the showers he so cheerfully predicted for Easter morning. As a result of these considerate acts, the morning Easter parade was a decided success.

The churches were packed to capacity and some were so crowded that would-be-attendants had to be turned away. Many people stood during the entire services, while some sought churches that were less crowded.

With late afternoon came a drop in the temperature, which fell steadily from 65 degrees, in the morning to 10 degrees Monday morning. A high wind velocity 40 miles an hour accompanied the drop, and toward evening old winter bonnets, heavy coats and furs appeared. According to the weather man the cold wave will be severe, but he promises rising temperature Tuesday.

PENCHANT FOR REALISM SHOWN IN MARCH LIT ON SALE TODAY

By Walter K. Schwinn

Maybe you have wondered, sometimes, as I have, at the penchant of most university writers for realism, staring and bold. We are told by some people, more or less seriously, that we are passing through the most blissful and carefree period of our existence; yet those who record our emotional reactions in artistic form present us, for the most part, as exponents of the realistic tradition, visualizing life with the all-seeing eye, impartial and unconfined.

Take the new number of the Lit for example. "Jazz," by Don Hanson, is one of the bloddiest slices of life that has been presented on the Lit pages this year. It presents a gruesome picture, detailed and exact; yet Hanson so restrains the spirit of the story that it is by no means repulsive, although unskillful handling might have made the story photographically sordid. "Jazz" is sheer realism.

Pennel Crosby's story, "The Decorative Treatment," has the broad strokes and forceful treatment of "Jazz," but it is no less vivid. More of delicacy of handling the subject in this story, more color, and more beauty, but there is still much strength. One rather wishes that the tale had ended a little differently. In both of these stores the theme is well connected and bound by the use of artistic symbols, in "Jazz," the well-interpolated din, din, din of the banjo, and in "The Decorative Treatment," the red flamingoes.

Another good story is Earl Hanson's "Two Men and a Train," which is a little more of a narrative than either of the other stories. The atmosphere of the story is excellently described, and the talk of the two men on the train is quite characteristic. There is a bit of psychology introduced, and the rather ironic turn given at the end is cleverly managed.

We are taken away just a little from the bold and burning realism of these stories in "Happy Day," by Adah Newcomb. The plot is inconsequential, and the real value of the piece lies in its colorful and sparkling description of the happy June day. We cannot become deeply interested in either of the characters, nor do we care much what becomes of them, but we are refreshed and exhilarated by the motion and sound that is introduced in the story.

In the poetry of this month's Lit there is relief from the almost overwhelming realism of the prose, "O'Carolyn," by John Culnan, written in triolet form, is a lilting song. "The Song of the City," by Alice Crew, is good, and Horace Gregory always pleases, his lyric "Song" being especially beautiful and clear.

Some people like sketches, snapshots, or miniatures, as they desire to call them; for those people "Swinging," by Marion Strassburger, will be read with pleasure, for, of its kind, it is good. Paul Gangelin's editorials grow in interest and versatility; this month's subjects are forcefully treated with sense and judgment.

Altogether, the Lit is good. And if you are fond especially of straightforward realism and unsparing details, you'll enjoy most of the stories. I have heard that this is the sort of material that "gets away" with most of the literary groups about the campus, and I know that it appeals to many students. But, speaking very personally, I'd like a few exercises in the imaginative and whimsical style, if only for a change.

"THE RIVALS" TO BE PRESENTED TO FOUND LOAN FUND

More than 200 loans, totaling over $11,000, were made last year by the Regents of the university to aid needy students in earning their way through college. Every available dollar of the 20 different student loan funds was used for this purpose.

Because of the increasing number of needy and worthy students who apply for small loans, the funds are at present far from adequate. In order to establish a new student loan fund, which will be available to freshmen as well as to upperclassmen, Dean S. H. Goodnight, at the head of a representative group of students has succeeded in bringing to Madison a company of players.

The Coffey-Miller players will present Richard Brinsley Sheridan's three-act comedy, "The Rivals," in Music hall on Saturday, April 9. The entire proceeds of both performances will be used to establish the new student loan fund.

The students who compose the committee that is arranging the production are: Everett Jones, College of Engineering; Lee McCandless, fraternities; Helen Thompson, sororities; Carlyl Parkinson, Home Economics; Lowell Geiger, newspaper publicity; Lloyd Strobe, College of Letters and Science; Abraham McMahon, College of Agriculture; Auta Lyman, Y. W. C. A.; Flora Filtzer, Red Domino; Alice Frick, Twelfth Night.

"HEALTH WEEK" OPENED TODAY

Films, Lectures, Examinations Feature Drive Against Disease

Health Week opens today, according to announcement made by Miss Margaret McCarthy, physical director of the Y. W. C. A.

There will be films on "Foot Folies" run in the local movies. Posters made by the girls of the association will be in prominent shop windows. Health examinations will be given at the association by appointment to any woman or girl of the city, and it is desired to make the health center at the association a permanent factor in community welfare.

Health week, to be observed annually throughout the country, is the result of the International Conference of Women Physicians held in New York two years ago at which more than 20 different countries were represented. Health week in the United States is promoted by the Women's Foundation for Health.

Health week in Madison this year is to emphasize home talent. Dr. Dorothy Mendenhall is to speak at the Y. W. C. A. building tonight. Miss Gertrude Bronson, Dane county school nurse, is to give noon-time talks at the French Battery Co., Monday; the Burgess Battery Co., Tuesday, and the Badger Shoe Co., Wednesday. Dr. Selena Severson will give the health examinations, which will be followed by classes in individual corrective health exercises. A health code has been worked

FIRELIGHT PROGRAM HAS NEW FEATURE

Interpretive Dances and Readings Entertain at Weekly Crucible Frolic

A different element was introduced into Saturday night's firelight program with the interpretive dances done by members of Miss H'Doubler's class. Carol Goodner '23, and Lillian Bressler '23 proved very entertaining in their rendering of nursery rhyme dances, "The Big Brown Bear," and "The Land's Mistake."

Other features of the program were readings by members of Red Domino. Mary Graham Lindsay '22 read a short story, "Ten P. M.," by Mary Aldess. Miriam Doan '22 gave two dialect poems from the Norse lyrics of William E. Kirk, "Acou Swan Anson," and "George Washington."

Games and dancing followed the program.

Firelight meetings are held every Saturday night at 7:30 under the auspices of Crucible, honorary junior girls' organization, and are open to all men and women in the university. The firelight programs have proved popular with a great many men and women students.

WELL-BALANCED BILL OFFERED AT ORPH THIS WEEK

By M. W. C.

The Orpheum last night presented a well-balanced program to its patrons in which the audience took part in several acts. This "community spirit" was present in the act by the Garcinetti brothers, whose intelligent dog should be included among the cast of characters. Rosa Caire takes you ahead thirty years when our 1920 customs are obsolete.

Hazel Harrington and company, which supported her well-displayed talent in their unusual and fast-moving skit of "Paris Repaired." The best act was Leona La Mar, the "Girl with the 100 Eyes, who 'sees all, knows all, tells all,' in an interesting and baffling manner. A very artistic background adds atmosphere to this remarkable girl.

Facial contortions, and versatile dancing aid Lane and Moran in their clever and humorous act. Louis Hart's Dream is an elaborate feat of muscular skill, which makes use of the well-known fairy tales of "Jack and the Beanstalk," and "The Giant-Killer," in an unusual production.

At The Theaters

AT THE STRAND

Douglas Fairbanks will be seen as a dyed-in-the-wool Greenwich Villager in his new production, "The Nut," which will be shown at the Strand theater Wednesday to Saturday. As a wealthy young fellow whose hobby is invention, he adopts all the eccentricities and Bohemianism attributed to the people of this famous quarter.

The incorporation of a number of clever novelty features make this vehicle different from anything Fairbanks has ever before appeared in. The outstanding element in the picture is the remarkable love story that runs through it. As a wealthy young fellow with a hobby for invention, the hero falls so desperately in love with a girl that he really touches your heart with the mishaps he encounters in his efforts to win favor in her eyes. Everything happens to him from losing his clothes to being suspected of murder. How he at last works out his problem furnishes one of the most remarkable endings ever presented, and for that reason the theater management believes the public will be nutty about "The Nut."

Bebe Daniels in "She Couldn't Help It," and Fatty Arbuckle in "Out West" will be the attraction at the Strand for the last times today.

AT THE FULLER

An event that will be looked forward to by theatergoers with more than ordinary interest will be the coming of Jack Norworth, the noted musical comedy favorite who is to appear at the Fuller theater Saturday matinee and night, at the head of his own company in the scintillating comedy success, "My Lady Friends."

As to the merits of this play little need be said, as it is regarded as the comedy gem of all last season's offerings, and remained nearly a year at the Comedy theater in New York.

Jack Norworth has always been identified with the highest class of musical comedy. His last engagement in New York was with the Winter Garden Revue, the "Gaieties of 1919," in which he was featured. "My Lady Friends" is the work of Emil Nyitray and Frank Mandel, the latter being co-author of "Mary," the latest George M. Cohan success.

AT THE GRAND

"The Kid," Chaplin's new picture now showing at the Grand, is the picture which was involved in his divorce suit and was tied up in court for a long time. A six reel picture is something new for Charlie. It was made with a special effort to please women and there are a few sobs and many laughs in the six reels. It is probably the funniest thing he ever did. Little Jackie Coogan, as the Kid, comes in for a considerable portion of the popularity of the film.

Because of strong vein of pathos Chaplin's unusual comedy talent stands out stronger and more joyous than in any previous production of his. There are five characters, the man, the woman, the kid, the tramp and the policeman. Chaplin is the tramp.

The woman abandons her baby by leaving it in a limousine car. Thieves steal the car and toss the baby into an ash pile where it is found wailing by the tramp. The tramp raises it through babyhood and into early childhood. The woman has made a success on the operatic stage and devotes her life and fortune to aiding children of the slums. Thus she comes to know both the tramp and the kid without suspecting the latter's identity.

When it is discovered that the tramp is not the kid's father the authorities seek to separate them, but the tramp has spent his life evading authority and does it again. The woman discovers that the kid is her abandoned baby and the picture draws to a happy close.

Chaplin as a nurse, as a guardian to a precocious kid, and as a reason why the police force should be increased has one of the best comedy roles that has ever been prepared for him on the screen.

WASHINGTON — Hubert Work, president of the American Medical association and Republican national committeeman from Colorado, was given a recess appointment by Pres. Harding today as first assistant postmaster general.

The development, the present importance, and future possibilities of agriculture, Wisconsin's most important industry, will be given in a bird's eye view at the Agricultural college exhibits for the University Exposition. The exhibit will reflect many of the outstanding recent developments in agriculture.

"Time was when production and more production was the dominating note in Wisconsin's farming. Now the stress falls on more economical production and better marketing methods," said Philip Gates '21, chairman of the agricultural exhibits.

"All of the seventeen departments of the college are working on a composite picture of the state's agriculture. Half of the gymnasium annex will be devoted to these exhibits and demonstrations."

How to inoculate legumes with pure cult bacteria will be demonstrated. Other displays showing how science helps the farmer will be explained. These are results of the studies of the agricultural school and are free to the farmers of the state. Labor-saving devices that help unbend the farmer's back will be demonstrated. Better marketing methods, invaluable to the progressive farmer, will be advocated.

A model cottage with a tea room where meals will be served is the plan of the Home Economics school. A demonstration room working out the problems of a family budget and a model laundry are additional features of this part of the exhibit.

All exhibits and demonstrations will reflect the advance that is being made in thought and practice on Wisconsin farms and the state's agricultural laboratories.

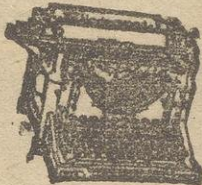

The slogan of the college displays is "Just so far as the farmer is progressive can the state and the nation be progressive."

ETAIONNUNUNUU MISSOURI UNIVERSITY PARTY INVESTIGATED

A party conducted by students of the engineering department of the University of Missouri is being investigated by the federal authorities. A still and raisins were found. According to the prosecuting attorney a number of students who were members of the fraternity were found making beer. The use of the still constituted part of the initiation.

EASTER EGGS

Co-eds Blossom Forth in a "Go-to-Church" Sunday Parade

When the co-eds blossomed forth on Easter morning State street rivalled Fifth avenue. This was one "morning after" when no one stayed in bed.

Spring bonnets and corsages seemed to vie with each other in brightness. There was just enough March wind to make many girls top their Easter finery with fur coats. But some were true devotees of fashion and spring suits and coats went up the street despite the cold. Scarcely a man wore an overcoat. Who can say that vanity is women's vice alone? Many of the Frosh brethren gained attention by making use of the old device, —a bit of color.

The amount of grey almost made one think that the girls were going back to Quaker days, but the length of the skirts suggested the days of Eve. Many wore the ostrich plums, furbelous, and oh,—there were bows and beaux. Who ver saw more devoted couples than were in this Easter parade?
