The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

A Young Man Held a Party

One time a young man thought about getting married. So he made a meal and invited all those who had marriagable women. When the time came for them to arrive he placed a broom by the doorway. When they entered they stepped over where the broom was. One young woman picked up the broom and set it in the corner before she sat down. The young man saw this, that she was neat and picked things up in the house. So he took a liking to her and later they married.
