UNCLE SAM'S FIRST FUEL CONSERVATION SIGN

Every American householder can help win the war by saving a shovelful of coal a day, according to the United States Fuel Administration. At the end of a year the saving would amount to fifteen million tons.

This would keep five million people warm all winter.

It would keep 7,500,000 soldiers warm all winter in cantonments.

It would send a fleet of twenty-five battleships three thousand times across the Atlantic.

Monthly Income from Mortgages

The Central Wisconsin Trust Company, of Madison, has worked out a plan to take care of those people to whom a monthly income would be a convenience.

It should be said at the out-set that the money entrusted to us for this purpose is made secure by every possible means. It is invested in first mortgages on property worth at least double the amount of the loan, approved by our executive committee and by our attorneys. Only such mortgages are assigned to you and become your own property. The Central Wisconsin Trust Company then collects the interest, sees that the taxes are paid, and that the insurance is kept in force. We then pay you a regular income on the first of each month.

There are several important advantages to this plan besides that of receiving a regular amount on the first of each month. Your income begins from the day you leave your funds with the Trust Company and continues to come in in regular monthly installments so long as you continue the arrangement. There are no periods when you have no income or where the income is reduced by reason of having only a part of your money invested.

You have the safest of all securities,—namely, first mortgages on real estate.

In the selection of your mortgages you have the benefit of the judgment of men who have been lending money for the greater part of their lives,—men whose judgment is well recognized in the community. No loan will be made if there is objection made on the part of any one of our Loan Committee.

You will have absolutely no trouble in connection with your investments.

Your income will be as large as it is now and probably larger. An interview will quickly determine this.

"Go back to the simple life, be contented with simple food, simple pleasures, simple clothes. Work hard, pray hard, play hard. Work, eat, recreate and sleep. Do it all courageously. We have a victory to win."

"Reune" in June!—1858, '63, '68, '73, '78, '83, '88, '93, '98, 1903, '08, '13.

Reune in June! "He is thirty-three years of age and has a wife and two children, but these grounds of exemption did not appeal to him, or to his wife, or to his relatives; hence he entered the service voluntarily. He has been very successful in his work and is enthusiastic and very anxious to go forward to active duties at the front. In these respects he is simply one of the many hundreds of Wisconsin's loyal children who are everywhere, and at all times responding to such duties as may be presented to them for action."

Thus wrote one of our courageous graduates, who "reuned" last June, of his loyal son who graduated from our University in 1907. To any graduate from those classes of years ending in "three" or "eight" who hesitates in the least about returning next June for the Commencement reunions, we have but one answer; and that is to confer with any of your "two" or "seven" neighbors who came back last June. You will learn from them that war time reunions are not devil-may-care-vaudeville stunts with a we-wont-go-home-until-morning, and bar-keeper-fill-the-flowing-bowl accompaniment. They are good times of a worth while character. They do benefit the University. They benefit the returning alumni still more. They are not merely justifiable; they are actually necessary. They are worth many times the price and sacrifice of time and money.

You prefer evidence to opinion? Well, read this: "I visited Madison during the Commencement last June, and was present at most of the public functions beginning with the gathering on Sunday, and ending with the graduating program on Wednesday. From the beginning to the end was exhibited at all times a most gratifying expression of loyalty to our Country and its aims. The attitude of the University is well stated in the article entitled, 'Patriotism,' on pages two and three of the November issue of the ALUMNI MAGAZINE. To Wisconsin men in this part of the Country, it is a matter of self-congratulation that our Alma Mater has from the beginning taken such an open and firm attitude of loyalty. The example of the University has had a wonderful effect not only in the state of Wisconsin, but elsewhere throughout the United States. I take this opportunity to express my great pleasure concerning the attitude of the University and its representatives with reference to the war."—(Signed) Carroll S. Montgomery, '72, Omaha, Nebraska, 12-24-17.

Nota Bene "Attention is once more called to the Press Bureau which is in a position to aid the University greatly at the present time by sending out reliable information concerning the University activities. The faculty are urged to cooperate in giving information to the Press Bulletin."—U. F. M. 12-3-17.

Remember! The first Monday of February is FOUNDATION DAY.

The University committee is of the opinion that it is not wise at this time to attempt the course in informal ethics recommended by the Board of Visitors. The committee hopes, however, that in the future the deans of the various colleges may find opportunity to bring more definitely before instructors of freshmen, especially those teaching here for the first time, their obligation in this respect toward their students.

Such seniors as have 90 or more credits of regular academic work in the general course leading to the B. A. degree in the College of Letters and Science, or the equivalent number of credits of regular academic work in other courses and colleges are to be granted at the next commencement their appropriate degrees in case they have enlisted in or have been drafted into the Army or Navy of the United States since the close of the last academic year.

Those "eligible to benefits of the Carnegie Foundation who may enlist in the land or naval forces of the State or Nation or who engage in industrial or other enterprises or activities recognized by the Carnegie Foundation as contributory to the success or efficiency of such forces shall have their pension privileges kept alive during the continuance of the present war."

THE SPECIAL SERVICE OF THE UNIVERSITY TO THE WAR

A communication to the Alumni from:

S. M. BABCOCK, professor of Agricultural Chemistry,
 J. R. COMMONS, professor of Political Economy,
 J. S. EVANS, professor of Clinical Medicine,
 M. F. GUYER, professor of Zoology,
 L. R. JONES, professor of Plant Pathology,
 C. K. LEITH, professor of Geology,
 E. B. MCGILVARY, professor of Philosophy,
 D. W. MEAD, professor of Hydraulic and Sanitary Engineering,
 M. V. O'SHEA, professor of Education,
 F. L. PAXSON, professor of History, and
 W. A. SCOTT, professor of Political Economy and director of Commerce Course.

The University of Wisconsin has shared with the public in its general war efforts such as enlistments, liberty loans, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and loyalty campaigns. These activities of the University are the ones to which most public attention has been paid. But the special and distinctive war contributions of the University in the way of expert service might be better known, and it is to these activities that we wish to call particular attention.

The following list of special services is only partial. Some of them, rendered under Government supervision, cannot yet be made public.

PRESIDENT VAN HISE'S CONTRIBUTION

We would cite first the personal contributions of President Van Hise,

'79. He has summarized some University activities in a recently published letter, but has made only briefest mention of his own work.

The President has been honored by the confidence of certain branches of the National Administration and has taken important part in conferences and plans relating to many phases of the war. To him has been intrusted particularly the task of organizing the program of food conservation and regulation in educational institutions throughout the country. At the request of the administration he has prepared a discussion of the problems of the conservation of food, and of the regulation of fuel and other natural resources, as a basis for educational courses and lectures. The first half of this book has been published and distributed by the Government and is now in wide use. The second part has been completed only within the last week and is now being printed and distributed by the Government. In this work he has been in close cooperation with the Food Administration, Fuel Administration, and Department of Agriculture, and has been assisted also by the War Trade Board, the War Industries Board, the Priority Board, and the Shipping Board. The Department of Agriculture has prepared under personal direction of Secretary Houston, a chapter on food production to be incorporated in this book. To this work President Van Hise has brought his wide experience in conservation and other public questions, and has drawn heavily on his energy to bring out promptly one of the most immediately useful and effective war documents yet issued by the Government.

President Van Hise has also delivered a large number of addresses in many parts of the country on the subject of food control and regulation of natural resources. He has delivered patriotic addresses at the University on the occasion of the first war convocation in May, at Commencement, at the Varsity welcome to new students in the fall, and to the faculty, calling for service in full support of President Wilson's program.

These activities alone constitute a notable personal achievement, but his greatest contribution is in administration of the University to accomplish some of the results summarized below.

STUDENTS AND FACULTY IN WAR SERVICE REQUIRING SPECIAL TRAINING

Some hundreds of students have entered the Army as officers and gone into war industries, in which special training is required. A Reserve Officers Training Corps was early established. Seventy faculty members cooperated in instruction. One hundred and twenty-seven members of the faculty have gone out into the army or other war service, nearly all of them having been called because of their special training. This has involved a considerable amount of reorganization of faculty and courses. Every facility and encouragement has been afforded the specially trained students and faculty members to go into war service. Generous allowances of University credits have been made. Faculty positions have been

Chicago, Ill., December 26, 1917.
Dr. Charles R. Van Hise, President,
University of Wisconsin,
Madison, Wisconsin.

My dear Dr. Van Hise:—Since Senator La Follette is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, many people are intimating that this institution is in some way responsible for the policies he has pursued since the United States entered the war. The Alumni know this is not true, but in order to meet this intimation, and sometimes more than an intimation, I should be pleased if you as president of the University could see your way clear to furnish me with a statement of the attitude of the University concerning the policies advocated by Senator La Follette.

Very respectfully,

JOHN S. LORD,
President of Alumni Association.

held open and in some cases salaries continued to men out on war work.

THE AGRICULTURAL CAMPAIGN

The Agricultural College, including the Experiment Station, has met promptly and comprehensively a great variety of war problems relating to food production and use. In fact the story of the activities of the Agricultural faculty and students, both within and without the University, would make a volume in itself, which would go far toward showing the great part the University is taking in constructive war work. Fortunately the previous accomplishments and the organization, both in the Agricultural research and the extension fields, were such as to be quickly adaptable to emergency service. We would mention only their effective organization of agricultural resources through emergency food agents, the silo campaign which resulted in saving a much larger proportion of the Wisconsin corn crop than ever before, the "wheat drive" to increase the production of wheat, engineered in cooperation with the State Bankers and Millers Associations, and the publication of the many timely war bulletins. The release of a large portion of the students for food production work last spring permitted many of the staff members to be stationed in strategic positions for county and other special services about the state

Madison, Wis., December 27, 1917.
My dear Mr. Lord:

Your letter of December 26th, inquiring in regard to the attitude of the University toward the policies advocated by Senator La Follette concerning the war, is received.

The best answer to this inquiry is what the University has done in assisting in the prosecution of the war. Upon various occasions this has been publicly presented by speech and in the press. Suffice here to say that the University has vigorously supported in every possible way the war policies of President Wilson from the time of his address to Congress, April 2d, in which he asked for a declaration of a state of war with Germany. In this support I have participated with my full energy.

I strongly believe the policies of Senator La Follette in relation to the war are dangerous to the country.

Very truly yours,

CHARLES R. VAN HISE.

To John S. Lord,

President of the Alumni Association,
Of the University of Wisconsin.

and made possible the immediate and effective application to war needs of the principles of agricultural preparedness which this College had so efficiently developed before the war opened.

Special mention should also be made of the activities of the Home Economics Division of the Agricultural College in its work in food conservation, its studies of bread and meat substitutes, its work on war clothing, its reorganization of courses to meet war needs.

In addition to the leadership thus contributed in the state food campaign numerous drafts have been made upon both the men and the women of the Agricultural faculty, including the Dean, for assistance in organizing and directing the corresponding national work in the various lines in which Wisconsin's leadership is recognized.

THE PART OF THE ENGINEERS

The Engineering College has its representatives in Europe and in a great variety of special services connected with the Army and Navy throughout the United States and with State and National Boards. One of its engine experts is in England on an important commission in relation to aeroplane and submarine engines. In the engineering laboratories experimental work on various lines is going on in connection with war problems. A special report on coal utilization is ready for distribution. At the same time, by reorganization of its staff, the College is continuing effectively the preparation of men for these purposes. The recent order of the Secretary of War recognizing the service of the engineering schools in preparing men for special service, gives these schools a cooperative status in war preparation, and makes it clear that the most important duty of the student is to continue his preparation until such time as he is called for special service. About 40 per cent of the engineers are authorized to enlist in the engineers reserve corps and to remain at the University to advance their training.

THE MEDICAL SCHOOL

The relation of the Medical School to special war activities is obvious. The War Department has ordered students drafted from the medical schools to remain and complete their training and it is urged that students not subject to draft do not enlist before the completion of their training. By reorganization the University Medical School has been able to maintain its instructional work on an efficient basis, and at the same time to send both faculty and students directly into medical war service, several of them being already in Europe. The entire medical faculty volunteered its service to the Government. Some were accepted for foreign service and the remainder were asked to carry on the work at the University.

Members of the Medical faculty are serving on the special cars equipped by the Red Cross for emergency war service in the United States. Others have given much time to medical examination of enlisted men. Even more important is the inauguration of a series of investigations on problems relating to the war, some of which are bringing distinctive results.

GAS INVESTIGATIONS

In cooperation with the Gas Defense Board, the physiological chemists, pathologists, bacteriologists, and other scientists of the Medical School, some twenty in all, have been working night and day to test the effects of gases and to devise automatic apparatus for detection of gases. This work has been highly successful and several members of the faculty are engaged in applying results in plants manufacturing gases for war uses.

CHEMISTRY AND RAW MATERIALS FOR WAR USE

The department of Chemistry has sent ten members of its staff and many more advanced students to work with the War Department on gases and explosives and to the field of industrial chemistry. Members of its faculty are filling important administrative positions in the Gas Defense service and others are engaged in France in investigation for the service. In its laboratories important investigations are being conducted in direct cooperation with the Ordnance Division of the War Department.

GEOLOGY AND RAW MATERIALS FOR WAR USE

The department of Geology, in cooperation with the Wisconsin Geological Survey, is engaged in investigations of mineral resources needed for war purposes, particularly iron, manganese, nickel, etc.

SUBMARINE WORK OF THE PHYSICS DEPARTMENT

Some of the most conspicuously successful work on essential war problems has been accomplished by the Physics department, not only in its own laboratories, but through faculty and students sent out into war service. It is too early yet to make public announcement as to the brilliant results which have been attained, particularly with reference to submarine investigation. It is enough to say that this work has won recognition and the support of the Government, and that when the facts are made known, they will constitute a thrilling story of scientific cooperative achievement, of which the University and the state will have reason to be proud. This investigation was financed in its early stages by the University and now the Government has taken it over along with the faculty members concerned.

LETTERS AND THE WAR

At first thought it might not be clear that other departments of the College of Letters and Science, Political Economy, Commerce, Languages, History, Philosophy and Psychology, Education, and others, are doing equally useful service, but such is the fact.

Historians are cooperating with the State Department. Several members have been in Washington repeatedly for this purpose.

The Economics department has been engaged in reorganization of the quartermaster department, in food and fuel control, in control of relief work, and on the State Council of Defense.

The Language departments are furnishing interpreters and teaching French to the soldiers. Many of the language instructors of these departments spent the summer on this work in the soldier camps.

The Commerce Course is offering a special course on Ordnance and Quartermaster Supplies, and its faculty and students have gone out into these and other fields of war activities where their special training is useful.

The department of Education, in cooperation with the psychologists, has developed apparatus for testing candidates for aviation service. This apparatus, of which one of the members of this department called into the Aviation Service has charge, is now in

On motion of Regent Vilas, seconded by Regent Jones, the following resolution was unanimously adopted by rising vote:

WHEREAS, The Regents of the University of Wisconsin at their regular session of January 16, 1918, have received a detailed report of the activities, plans, and accomplishments of the University which have been developed in consonance with the deliberations of this Board, and

WHEREAS, This report shows the untiring efforts of the President of the University in behalf of the welfare of the nation during these times of national stress, and

WHEREAS, The Regents recognize that his services are of unquestioned value to the government and to the various national councils which have availed themselves of his advice and counsel, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Regents of the University of Wisconsin at this time express their unqualified endorsement of these patriotic activities and pledge him their undivided support.

Further be it

RESOLVED, That the Regents of the University appreciate and honor the patriotic sacrifices of colleagues, faculty and student body, which demonstrate a faithful adherence to the ideals of the University in this hour of international peril; and further be it

RESOLVED, That the Regents of the University pledge to the Nation and to the State their unswerving and enthusiastic support in the solution of the problems presented for national defence and for securing and maintaining an unassailable Democracy.

use by the Government. The department is also developing tests for candidates for other war service.

AID IN STATE LOYALTY CAMPAIGNS

In cooperation with the state and county councils of defense, the University has sent a considerable number of men into all sections of the state to deliver loyalty addresses or to present special aspects of the war situation.

A series of twenty-four war propaganda articles for circulation in newspapers and pamphlets has been prepared by members of the faculty specially fitted by their training to cover special phases of the war situation. Most of the departments of the institution have cooperated to make these statements authoritative. These articles have been translated into other languages in order that they may reach all sections of the population. Additional timely publications on war topics have been issued by the Agricultural, Extension, Scientific, and other departments of the University.

THE EXTENSION DIVISION

This Division has used its state wide organization in effective publicity work in connection with many war measures. The variety of its activities is indicated by reference to a few out of a large list.

The district field organization has participated in Red Cross and Liberty Loan drives; members of the Extension Division staff are officers in county councils of defense and like organizations. District staff members have assisted the United States Government in segregating and controlling the alien population.

War emergency classes for training in home nursing and social service as related to the war emergency have been conducted in Milwaukee. Courses are being given on war time social service and home economics in eighteen Wisconsin cities. The entire civilian relief institute training work for the state of Wisconsin designed to train volunteers in each community to organize and administer local relief and give friendly aid and counsel under the Red Cross to the dependents of soldiers' families is undertaken by the Welfare department.

The University Chautauqua programs of the summer were all constructed about a central idea of patriotic inspiration and instruction with reference to the war emergency. The season's lecture program has been modified this year with reference to the promotion of patriotic leadership throughout the state.

In the department of Debating and Public Discussion innumerable well-selected package libraries on a great variety of subjects relating to the war have been circulated throughout the entire state continuously.

Prior to mobilization and while Wisconsin soldiers were in Wisconsin camps, free instruction in French was given to enlisted men.

Cooperation with the International Y. M. C. A. for the instruction of enlisted men continues and will be carried on after the men are on the French front.

A member of the Division has spent much time in Washington in organization work in a branch of the Department of Labor, which has to do with the problem of securing trained men for government service, especially for war industries.

NEW WAR COURSES

The University has adapted many of its courses to war needs and for the present year has introduced twelve new courses for preparation in special war service in wireless telegraphy, aeronautics, ordnance, tractors, war marketing, Red Cross nursing, and other branches. Several of these courses are given at the request or suggestion of Government Boards. Additional new war courses are offered by the University and agricultural extension service.

AEROPLANES AND THE FOREST PRODUCTS LABORATORY

Some years ago the Government established the Forest Products Laboratory at the University of Wisconsin under a cooperative arrangement with the University. In this laboratory is concentrated the greater part of the government testing and investigative work on forest products for the United States. The specific war problems assigned to this laboratory by the War and Navy Departments have involved the doubling of the force and a trebling of the expenditures. At present some 150 men are employed, of whom seventy are technical men. The University has cooperated in this work from the beginning by supplying investigators from faculty and students, by loaning laboratories and other room, and by investigative work by its own staff. Some of the problems assigned by the Government to this laboratory are tests for the selection and preparation of woods to be used in aeroplanes, and fixing the Government's specifications for same; tests of wood for ship building and preparation of specifications for their selection and preparation; specifications for the preparation of wood to be used in army vehicles and artillery wheels; investigation of glues and coatings for aeroplane propellor blades; tests to increase the production of acetone, a wood distillation product, for use in explosives and other purposes; substitution of wood pulp for cotton for explosives. The fundamental importance of this work for immediate war needs need not be emphasized.

THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN MAINTAINS ITS HIGH STANDARD OF PUBLIC SERVICE

The above list of special University services might be indefinitely extended and the story of any one of them could be developed in interesting detail, but enough has been said to indicate that the University of Wisconsin is making full use of its greatest opportunity to furnish skilled service, and that the prestige which the University has enjoyed in many fields of knowledge will be enhanced when the full story of its special war activities is known.

Almost anywhere we turn in the University we find constructive work in war problems. In fact there is such a variety of expert service being directed toward common war aims as to give a most bewildering impression of the power of attack of a great University organization, even to those of us who have been connected with the University long enough to understand something of the broad scope of its activities. The value of University research has again been exemplified.

THE UNIVERSITY LEADERSHIP

It is difficult to convey to anyone not familiar with University conditions a true conception of the time, energy, careful planning, and coordination necessary to bring results of this kind. The President, with the cordial support of the regents, deans, and faculties, has from the outset thrown himself into this work with his usual enthusiasm and force, with a firm grasp of the essential needs of the situation and of the steps to be taken to meet these needs. He has recognized from the outset the fact that the University, whatever else it does, must furnish expert service to beat the Germans at their own game, and has been untiring in his efforts to accomplish this purpose by executive effort, by personal scientific contributions, by patriotic addresses, and by daily consultations with the faculty and students.

BOOK NOTES

Brief reviews of writings by Wisconsin students, alumni, and faculty.

In the Paths of the Wind (The Four Seas Company, Boston $1.00). By Glenn Ward Dresbach, ex '12. After leaving the University in 1911, Mr. Dresbach spent four years in the Canal zone and two years in Tyrone, N. M. Last September he enlisted in the U. S. A. In this tastefully printed volume of 77 pages, he continues in the bright and graceful lyric strain which characterized "The Road to Everywhere," his first book of verse, published a year ago, and adds several poems of a different order which in interest and execution rival Masfield and Frost, of whom they remind the reader, and in poetic fancy excel them.

Henry Baird Favill, by his son, John Favill, (Privately printed.) A memorial volume of the life, tributes, and writings of Henry Favill, B. A. '89, L.L.D., '15, of Chicago, who died last year. The book includes the principal writings and addresses of Dr. Favill, who was not only foremost in the medical profession, but also found time to actively engage in civic welfare, education, and philanthropy in his community and state.

A portion of the volume is reserved for the expression of suitable tributes and resolutions by many personal friends, associates, societies, and organizations with whom he had been intimately related during his long life of service.

The Cruise of the Corwin, by John Muir (Houghton, Mifflin, $2.75). William Frederick Bade has edited the log of the Corwin as set down by John Muir on his expedition in 1881 into the Arctic Ocean and Behring Sea in search of the lost Arctic explorer, De Long, and his ship, the Jeannette. The Corwin sailed from San Francisco directly to the island of Unalaska and thence proceeded thru Behring Sea, landing on the northeast coast of Siberia. Going farther north on their search they made the first landing by white men on Wrangell Land in the Arctic Ocean. The book is made up of the original journals, partly by Mr. Muir himself and partly by his competent editor. It will rank as one of John Muir's best books.

"Why We Entered the War."—Special pamphlets by prominent professors of the University may be secured by alumni from W. G. Bleyer, 33 South Hall, U. of W.

On Foundation Day every member of the General Alumni Association is asked by the Alumni Board to secure at least one new member on Monday, February 4, 1918.

ATHLETICS

By W. D. RICHARDSON, Alumni Member of the Athletic Council

After going through the preliminary season with a clean slate, the Badger basketball five which is now being coached by Guy S. Lowman who came here from the University of Indiana to take Dr. Meanwell's place as director of the gymnasium and coach of basketball, has up to the present date a standing of 500 per cent in the conference basketball race.

The Badgers have a rather hard schedule mapped out for them as the season was started off with a brace of games on foreign floors. The cardinals opened the season against the Northwestern university five at Evanston, Ill. Northwestern had a veteran five, every man having been a regular last season, while the Badgers were "green," only Captain Chandler and Eber Simpson having had intercollegiate experience before this year.

The purple had been touted greatly as probable conference winners and had had so many nice things said about them that the Badgers took it for granted that they were good. The result was that the members of the team went on the floor and allowed their thoughts to defeat them. While the Northwestern team is undoubtedly a strong aggregation, the margin was not a correct comparison of the strength of the teams, according to Coach Lowman who said upon his return that eight points at the outside represented the difference.

Northwestern, taking advantage of the "greenness" of the Badgers, started off with a rush and at the end of the first half the score stood: Northwestern, 15; Wisconsin, 8. In the second half, the purple warriors again began to "do things" until late in the session when the Badgers overcame their "stage-fright" and played a fair game. Wisconsin was unlucky in baskets, the Badgers gaining only four during the game. The men succeeded in getting the ball up to the rim a number of times but it refused to go in. The score:

Northwestern	Position	Wisconsin
Marquard	R. F.	Simpson, Maisel
Underhill	L. F.	Zulfer
Hubbell, Wilcox	C.	Chandler
Ellingwood	R. G.	Birch, Simpson
Gessler	L. G.	Brack

Field goals: Underhill, 4; Ellingwood, 4; Marquard, 3; Hubbell, 2; Wilcox, 1; Zulfer, 2; Chandler, 1; Maisel, 1.
Free throws: Underhill, 5; Chandler, 9.

Three days later the Badgers met Iowa and won a clean-cut victory over the Hawkeyes. The Badgers started out with a determination that was lacking in the Northwestern game and as a result, the Hawkeyes were never in it. Captain Chandler led his team in the scoring and play, his four baskets and six free throws being the highest scoring of the evening. Simpson, the other veteran of a year ago, although playing a guard position, caged five baskets. The score:

Iowa	Position	Wisconsin
Berrien	R. F.	Maisel
Olson	L. F.	Zulfer
Pyles	C.	Chandler
Von Lakum	R. G.	Simpson
Brown	L. G.	Swenson

Substitutions—Pease for Zulfer; Bauer for Pease; Spengler for Maisel; Birch for Simpson; Brightam for Pyles.
Field baskets—Simpson 5; Maisel 4; Chandler 4; Berrien 4; Von Lakum 2; Brown 1.
Fouls baskets—Chandler 6 out of 8; Von Lakum, 7 out of 17.

WISCONSIN ALUMNI CLUBS

"Sit together, listen together, sing together, eat together, and talk together and you'll work together."

CHICAGO ALUMNAE

By ANNA BIRGE, '06

The Chicago Association of Wisconsin Alumnae met at the College Club, Stevens Bldg., on Dec. 8, at 12:30. After an informal luncheon Mrs. W. J. Keller, assistant to Dean Mathews, spoke on "The Housing of University Students." The next meeting will be on Jan. 12. Any Wisconsin women living in or near Chicago are cordially invited. If you are not on the mailing list send your name to the secretary, Anna Birge, 1211 E. 54th St.

CHICAGO

By H. D. WILE, '12

In spite of the war our club activities have gone forward at a good pace. The annual meeting was held November 20 at the Hotel Sherman which about one hundred fifty members attended.

The following officers were elected:

G. I. Haight, '99, president, O. W. Middleton, '07, vice president, H. D. Wile, '12, secretary-treasurer.

Tom Jones of the Athletic Department was the principle speaker, and responses were made by prominent members including Bishop Fallows, our retiring president; Dr. A. J. Ochsner and S. S. Gregory. The Friday noon luncheon continues regularly at the Grand Pacific, and we suggest that out-of-town alumni visiting in Chicago make it a practice to join us at the luncheons, where they are most welcome.

Numerous good speakers have been provided, including Clarence Darrow, well known attorney who gave the masterful address on "America at War," the principle theme being free speech as affected by present conditions. As Mr. Darrow is a Socialist, his address was most interesting.

A new activity of the Club has been started, being a National Service committee, of which Bishop Fallows is chairman. The idea of this committee is to furnish speakers for any public occasion from the membership of our club, and also to keep in touch with our members who have joined the colors. We are pleased to say that, so far, about twenty-five have gone into the service, and that most of them have already won commissions. We also wish to report that the $300 taken from our Song Book fund has been invested in the Second Liberty Loan.

CLEVELAND

By E. A. ANDERSON, '13

Upon invitation of the City Club, of which Mr. Allard Smith, '98, is vice-president, the U. W. Alumni club of Cleveland was present at a luncheon, November 24, at which President Van Hise was the speaker. Our famous president gave an unusual address on the subject of "Government regulation before and since the beginning of the war." Dr. Van Hise's logical analysis of the trend of public opinion and governmental policy towards the necessary industries of the Nation, was of keen interest to the audience.

DETROIT

By W. G. ERDMAN, '14

A meeting of the Wisconsin Club was held on December 20 at which a seven course Christmas dinner was served. A policy for the future of the club was outlined and a committee appointed. It was decided to hold the meetings regularly on every Thursday beginning the first Thursday in January, 1918, at the Detroit Chamber of Commerce. One meeting a month will be devoted to an evening dinner as it was thought some members could come some evenings who could not be there regularly during the noon meeting.

After the dinner and business meeting an old-time song fest was held in which all members participated.

LOS ANGELES

By WM. F. ADAMS, '00

Forty-six alumni and former students of the University residing in Los Angeles and Southern California had a very pleasant reunion and "Hoover" dinner at the University Club on Saturday, Dec. 15.

Dr. Silas Evans, former president of Ripon College, who was on the faculty of the University for a year and who is now president of Occidental College, was a guest of honor. Other specially invited guests were Willis Durst, '17, and Scott Robison, University boys who are now stationed at Ft. McArthur and at San Pedro. Dr. Evans made a very eloquent and thoughtful address on the Wisconsin idea of service to the state as exemplified in the service which has been rendered by the University to Wisconsin, to the Federal Government, and to the people. The soldier boys were called upon and responded with a recital of recent events at the University and told of their purpose in enlisting in the service of the Nation.

Dr. Frank Gordon, '89, was a very efficient toastmaster and contributed much to the success of the banquet. Those who responded to toasts were: Mrs. Abbie Fiske Eaton, '94, formerly instructor in German in the University, who represented the Alumnae Association; Dr. John Shedd, now connected with Occidental College, who was instructor in physics at the University in 1899; Judge L. W. Myers, '93, one of the Superior Court judges of Los Angeles Co., and F. M. Porter, '81, dean of the Law School of the University of Southern California.

A list of those present, aside from those already mentioned, is as follows:

Sara McKay, '06; J. W. Buchanan, '06; Mrs. J. W. Buchanan, (Bertha Fisher), '08; Ida Auerbach, '12; Katherine Carey, '05; J. G. Carey, '05; Mrs. J. G. Carey, (Faye Rogers), '05; Wm. Adams, '00; Isabel Holden, '05; H. E. Bailey, '03; Leo George, '12; Wm. Ferris, '95; Ralph Whinery, '05; Ida Jones, '05; Mabel Pratt, '04; Arthur Stewart, '04; Alice Gregory, '01; A. F. Hansen, '07; Dr. J. W. Nevius, '02; A. C. Conway, '91; Martha Thompson, '00; C. Wurdemann, '13; Mrs. C. Wurdemann, (Mary Brown), '15; Helen Wurdemann, '15; Caroline Burgess, '94; Sophy Goodwin, '89; Dorothy Pringle, '14; Alice Sinclair, '11.

PHILADELPHIA

By ERNEST F. RICE, '08

The local alumni club dined most sumptuously on December 15 at the Arcadia Cafe, one of Philadelphia's newest restaurants, amid the strains of John Philip Sousa's latest success, "Wisconsin Forward Forever."

The speaker of the evening was C. C. Parlin, '93, chief of the Research Division of the Curtis Publishing Co., who talked most interestingly for over an hour on the industrial and economic features of the country as affected by the war. We were also fortunate to have with us Edw. Schildhauer, '97, of the Artillery Fuse Co. of Wilmington, Del., who told us about some of the trials and tribulations of the munition makers. Our guests included Sergeants Hugo Reyer, '17, and B. N. Wolf, '17, stationed at League Island Navy Yard.

A resolution was also passed to send a vote of thanks to John Philip Sousa for the splendid march he composed and dedicated to our Alma Mater. A resolution was unanimously adopted endorsing the stand taken on November 3, 1917, by the General Alumni Association, condemning the attitude of Sen. La Follette, and approving the resolution adopted at that meeting. It was also decided as a war economy to limit our dinners to three or four a year, and, in order to make them truly representative of the alumni body, hereafter to include the co-eds.

The following officers were elected for the current year:

Vice-president—M. S. Judell, '17, Secy. and Treas.—E. F. Rice, '08.

MARSHFIELD

By E. C. KRAEMER, '15

On Saturday, Jan. 5, the U. W. alumni club of Marshfield and the Marshfield students University club held a joint meeting in the Presbyterian church parlors, Marshfield.

The program consisted of a short business session of the alumni club followed by music and talks by members of both clubs. Among the students, Wm. Connor, '21, Patience Kamps, '20, and James Wegner, '20, spoke of the University's work along war lines. It was shown that by the large enlistments, by aiding in Y. M. C. A., Red Cross, and Liberty Bond work, the students and faculty had certainly done their share. Attorney C. B. Edwards, '97, pointed out that by the many concrete expressions of loyalty among the alumni, they had stamped Wisconsin's name indelibly over the world. Most Wisconsin lawyers are University alumni, he stated, and they all have shown how they stand.

Judge R. E. Andrews, '97, offered for adoption a resolution as follows:

"Whereas, the nation is in the midst of a great war and this country needs a united front of all loyal citizens for the cause of democracy, be it resolved that we, the U. W. alumni club of Marshfield and the Marshfield students University club do pledge our loyalty and uncompromising support to this government and the administration in the conduct of the war."

After light refreshments and the song, Varsity Toast, all left. It may be here stated that the Marshfield alumni club is alive and kicking—it is loyal too!
