Faculty, Students Probe L&S Curriculum

Two Committees Seek to Find New Technique

Fish Conducts Investigation With Professors, Campus Leaders

Two committees, one of faculty members, and one of students, have begun studying the curriculum of the college of letters and science empowered to bring recommendations for change to the faculty of the college during the late spring months.

The faculty group, under the chairmanship of Prof. Carl Russell Fish, has been at work since late in November.

The student committee met for the first time yesterday noon at the University club to begin its independent work which may culminate in a separate report or series of recommendations to the faculty. Marjorie Carr '31 was chosen as temporary chairman of the group.

Students serving on the committee are:

Marjorie Carr '31 and Lehman C. Aarons '30, appointed by Dean George C. Sellery; Einar Lunde '31, appointed by Dean Harry Glicksman; Lowell Frautschi, grad, appointed by Dean C. S. Slichter; William T. Gill, Law 2, appointed by Acting Dean O. S. Rundell; Frank D. McCarthy, Med 3, appointed by Dean C. S. Barden.

Three student activities are represented on the committee also. Marian Horr '30, represents W. S. G. A., Van Johnson '30 represents the Wisconsin Men's Union board, and William P. Steven '30 represents The Daily Cardinal.

Professors who were appointed to the faculty committee by Dean George C. Sellery of the college of letters and science include:

Rosenberry Ties Law, Commerce

Chief Justice Speaks at Initiation of Alpha Kappa Psi

Chief Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry of the Wisconsin supreme court stressed the close relationship between present day law and commerce at the initiation banquet of Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional commerce fraternity, in the Memorial Union Thursday.

"Since there was only one commerce school prior to 1900, there was not much business analysis. Now, with new forms of taxation it is important for lawyers to know the fundamentals underlying business transactions, and for the business man to understand the fundamentals underlying law," he asserted.

"As a result of the intimate relationship between the practice of law and commerce the methods of business have changed, and our modern business rests upon high ethical standards."

The following men were initiated at the banquet: Prof. Fayette H. Elwell, head of the accounting department of the economics faculty, Lyle J. Carpenter '31, Arnold E. Lamm '30, Frans C. Larson '31, Robert Sandke '31, Ronald Smith '31, and Irving Roberts '31.

Senior Summaries for Annual Due in Badger Office Today

All senior summaries and blue slips from DeLonge's with $1.50 must be turned into the Badger office today if they are to be printed in the Badger, Fred Crawshaw, business manager, announced Thursday. The senior section will go to press Saturday.

Leap in Chest Fund Assures Aid for Tsai

With Thursday's contributions of $41 raising the Wisconsin Good Will Chest fund from $179 to $220, the charity drive committee is confident that the necessary amount will be reached before the Christmas holidays.

Only three campus organizations have yet sent their contributions. The Women's Athletic association board members voted a gift of $10 at their board meeting Thursday noon. The Daily Cardinal's donation of $75 and the W. S. G. A. gift of $25 were announced Wednesday.

Union board will give a dance at the Memorial Union Saturday night for the benefit of the Good Will Chest. Large receipts are expected from this source.

With these prospects, the committee is assured that Lun Tsai, impoverished Chinese student who is combating tuberculosis, will be given funds for effective treatment to help him in his fight for recovery.

Today's contributions follow:

International Club Hears Porter, Rugh Musical Program

Mr. Rugh, Chinese secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Paul Porter, secretary of the Industrial League of Democracy, spoke on different aspects of international relations at a meeting of the International club held in the Memorial Union Thursday night.

Members of the club who contributed to the evening's entertainment were: T. C. Hsu, grad, Dauphin Chu '33, C. H. Chang, grad, and Mary Standring '33, all of China. The Philippines were represented by Angel Giron '30, Martin Conde '33, and F. G. Tonogbanua, grad.

Memdough Mazloum '30, and Hahmed Kazim '30, gave a talk on Turkish art and played the flute. Sadao Hirose, from Japan, spoke on the beauties of Japanese literature. Sophie Schmidt, grad from Russia, ended the program with a Russian monologue.

Hawkeyes Begin to Clean House; Bar 14 Athletes

Take First Step Towards Reinstatement in Big Ten

(Special to The Daily Cardinal)

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 12.—By declaring 14 athletes ineligible because they benefitted from a university trust fund, the University of Iowa's board of control of intercollegiate athletics has admitted that the Western conference was justified in sustaining its ban on the Hawkeyes at the meeting here last week, and has made the first step toward winning back their playing franchise in the Big Ten.

The action of the Iowa board of control at its meeting last night indicates they are convinced the Conference is sincere in its struggle against professionalism and shows that Iowa also wants to do the right thing.

They have invited the conference eligibility committee to come to Iowa City and cooperate with them in the effort to clear up the whole problem.

Exactly 28 men were originally on the list of borrowers from the "trust fund," but 14 of them are not in school this year.

The men declared ineligible and the amounts they were loaned are:

Mike Farroh, football, basketball, track, $45.

Pete Affre, football, $45.

Maurice Benson, basketball, $45.

Floyd Mitchell, baseball, $45.

Doyle Plunkitt, basketball, $45.

Francis Wilcox, track, $45.

Theron Boyer, track, $45.

Oran Pape, football and track, $45.

Christmas Spirit Pervades Campus; Churches Entertain

Christmas spirit pervades the campus as students begin to anticipate the holiday season.

A Christmas tree, for the first time in the history of the university, twinkled greetings to the students who were on the hill Wednesday afternoon.

Christmas trees, mistletoe, and wreaths made their first appearance, as decorations for the numerous parties given by fraternities and sororities. Various Christmas entertainments are to be given this week-end by campus church organizations. Affairs have been planned by Presbyterian house, Wesley Foundation, St. Francis house and Newman club.

Williams Suffers Painful Burns From Acid Mishap

Henry S. Williams '32 was severely burned on his right hand at about 4:15 p. m. Thursday.

He was performing a copper unknown experiment in Chemistry 14 when a flask of boiling sulphuric acid spilled over his hand. Williams was immediately rushed to the infirmary where he was given treatment, and later released.

At first it was thought that the injury to his right hand would force him to abandon his course in machine design but it was later revealed that he is fortunately left handed.

Debaters Win Contests From Illini, Indiana

The Wisconsin negative team defeated the Illinois affirmative by a close decision according to word received late last night from Prof. Carl Taylor, who accompanied the team to Urbana.

A Wisconsin varsity debating team played hostile hosts to an Indiana trio, Thursday night in Music hall, when they took honors in the opening contest of the Big Ten inter-collegiate debating season.

Indicting the chain store system on three counts, Maurice Levine '31, Sydney Leshin L3, and Walter Graurke L3, scored emphatic points, and swept on through a devastating rebuttal in upholding the affirmative of the question: "Resolved: That the principle of the chain store system is detrimental to the best interests of the American people."

Declaring that the chain store system takes more and gives less to the community from which it reaps its profit, that it is a tendency towards monopoly resulting thus in control of distribution, and that it ultimately means the establishment of an economic feudalism because of its narrow concentration of wealth, the debaters secured the approval of the judge, Prof. C. C. Cunningham, of Northwestern university, with their analysis of (Continued on page 2)

Holt Appointed Faculty Member of Union Council

Frank O. Holt, registrar, has been appointed faculty representative on the Union council, the general governing board of the Wisconsin Union and the Memorial Union building, the office of the president announced yesterday. Mr. Holt's appointment fills the vacancy occasioned by departure of Prof. C. L. Jamieson who has gone to the University of Michigan.

Veteran End Gets Captaincy at Grid Banquet

Frank Knocks Education System; Kohler, Thistlethwaite, Little Speak

By BILL McILRATH
Johnny Parks, at the annual football banquet last night, relinquished his position as captain of Wisconsin's football team to Milton Gantenbein, end, of LaCrosse.

Frank Hits Education

Pres. Glenn Frank took a firm stand with football and intercollegiate athletics as attacked in many recent criticisms of sports, and suggested that educational systems might need reform more than intercollegiate athletics.

"If I were given 25 of the best years of my life to remedy conditions, I would spend those 25 years trying to make education more compelling to the students rather than trying to alter the present football system," he said.

Kohler Speaks

Gov. Walter J. Kohler, Pres. Frank, Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite, Athletic Director George Little, Prof. H. C. Bradley, ex-captain Parks, and Emerson Ela, a local attorney, were the speakers of the evening, with Prof. Bradley acting as toastmaster.

After extolling the work and the achievements of the physical education staff and pointing out the difficult problems which any coach has to meet, George Little drew an exceptionally large cheer from those present by saying "I hope our conference will be a Big Ten again soon, and without any new entries."

Parks Explains Survey

Kohler Faces Expansion Issue

Governor Explains Executive Difficulty in Meeting Appropriations

Legislative appropriations are in reality only authorizations for the governor to try to raise money, said Gov. Walter Kohler at the Association of Commerce banquet last night in reference to the demand for university building funds.

Comparing the entire business of government to a commercial enterprise, the governor remarked, "It is a problem, now faced in the state of Wisconsin, to give the people the benefits, which they desire, and to give them, at the same time, the best government economically possible."

"I am in sympathy with the aims of the university, and I will work for practical means of expansion," he went on. To bear this out, he cited the fact that he was a member of the group that originally planned the Memorial Union.

In replying to the governor's statement, Pres. Glenn Frank told the assemblage that there is no other organization in the state's make-up that is more ready to realize the difficulties that are confronting the chief executive in regard to financing public institutions. He assured the governor that "the University of Wisconsin will keep itself surgically clean, not becoming guilty of the vice of loving expansion for expansion's sake."

Hillel Players Give 'Disraeli'

Dramatic Group Is Advocate of Little Theater
Guild

The Hillel Players are to inaugurate in Madison the newest in theatrical theory, with the presentation of "Disraeli," Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 14 and 15.

As advocates of the Little Theater Guild system, which is fast securing tremendous support among drama lovers, they will endeavor to present productions in an intimate, informal, yet highly professional manner.

The Guild system, which is a recognized power in New York city, has been quickly adopted by various communities throughout the country, securing at the same time, a unique pride heretofore barely found in theatricals, as a civic achievement. The growth of this tendency has been due to the relapse the legitimate stage has suffered since the advent of talking motion pictures.

The Hillel Players as leaders in Madison of the movement, have chosen the stage play by Louis N. Parker, centering about the famous English-Jewish statesman, "Disraeli," named "Queen maker." The play was recently transposed into the "talkies" by George Arliss.

"An All-Student Production" An entire student personnel has been working on the mechanical end of the play's production. The scenery, under the direction of Norman Schapiro, has been designed and painted in the Hillel workshop, and the lighting equipment and effects have been planned and executed by an electrical staff guided by Harry Sweet '33.

The intimacy of the "Little Theater" will be preserved, it was announced, since the enlarged stage will permit the seating of only 200 persons at a performance.

The Players, under the direction of Mrs. John Guy Fowlkes, the former Agatha Karlen, leading lady with Al Jackson's Garrick Players for almost three years, include a number of people who are prominent in campus activities.

Rosalyn Silver '31, who is taking the part of Mrs. Noel Travers, was leading lady in the Bascom Players presentation of "Kempy" produced under the direction of Prof. Troutman. Max Goldsmith '32, who is playing "Disraeli," is junior coxswain on Mike Murphy's varsity crew.

A special acknowledgement by the Dean's office has been received allowing the presentation of two performances, Saturday and Sunday nights.

philosophy; A. R. Hohlfield, German; W. H. Twenhofel, geology; E. M. Gilbert, biology; Warren Weaver, speech; Ricardo Quintana, English; C. J. Anderson, education; C. A. Smith, secretary of the faculty, secretary; Selig Perlman, economics; C. S. Slichter, dean of graduate school.

The student committee is not confined to a study of the curriculum. Prof. Fish explained to the group yesterday, unless it so wishes to limit itself. It will work independently of the faculty committee until such time as the two committees have formulated their respective points of view.

A single report from the combined groups or two reports in case of disagreement will be submitted to the faculty of the college of letters and science.

This faculty may accept or reject the proposals. Any proposals accepted are subject to the approval of both the university faculty and the board of regents. The problem of working out curriculum changes, and then outlining instructional techniques will take at least two years, and changes will not be actually incorporated into the curriculum until the fall of 1931.

said the men agreed almost unanimously on the following topics—that they play football purely for the love of the game; that if there were no pressure on them as freshmen to join the squad, they would nevertheless have gone out for football; and that playing football does decrease one's chances of earning his way through college.

Coach Thistlethwaite also criticized recent attacks made on intercollegiate football systems, but made particularly important the showing and determination of the team during the past season.

Noyes, Van Hise Win Floor Tilts Wednesday

High, Botkin Teams Crush Opponents in Dorm Competition

Noyes house of Adams hall grabbed the spotlight in the dormitory basketball games Wednesday night by trouncing La Follette house 46-4 in a one-sided affair. La Follette was completely outclassed from the beginning, and the outcome was only a matter of how high the score would be.

The Van Hise-Siebecke game was the closest fought of the evening. Van Hise finally winning out by virtue of a last minute basket. The final score of 17-16 was mainly due to Siebecke's inability to make free throws. Botkin ran up a 27-9 score against Vilas in the highest scoring game in Tripp hall play, while High house had things their own way in its 11-2 win over Fallows.

In the Noyes-La Follette game, Ritholtz and Byers scored 34 of their team's 46 points, the former caging 11 field goals for a total of 22 points. While Byers was sinking six baskets to give him a total of 12 points. The box score:

Governor of Iowa Berates Big Nine at New York Meet

Governor Hammill of Iowa asserted he would stand by the ousted Hawk-eyes in their present difficulties with the Western Conference at a meeting in New York Wednesday noon.

In a speech in which he berated the Western Conference characterizing their action in the Iowa squabble as "neither fair nor just," Hammill pointed out "that it was a most unusual procedure for a group to expel one of its members on the grounds of wrong doing without affording the accused an opportunity to be heard in its own defense."

Hammill expressed his opinions while addressing guests at a luncheon in his honor at the Western Universities club in New York city Wednesday. He deplored the overemphasis of athletics as contrasted with the lack of emphasis on the academic and intellectual side.

Four Veterans Join Grapplers at Finish of Football Season

Four veteran matmen returned to Indiana's wrestling squad the past week with the close of the football season. Unger and Hojnacki, who played in the Indiana line during the grid season, are out for the heavy-weight division. Ross, who scored the two touchdowns against Northwestern to give Indiana its only Big Ten victory, is out for his old position in the 155 pound class. Waraska, the fourth of the grid quartet, is expected to wrestle in the 165 pound division.

Other varsity men who have been working out in preparation for the opening of the season include: Captain Scott, 165 pounds; Bell, Reed and Obringer, 145 pounds; G. Bel-the 155 pound class. Waraska, the shaw, 155 pounds; Jessup and E. Belshaw, 135 pounds; and Connelly, Connor and Gray, 125 pounds. Coach W. H. Thom has arranged one of the most difficult schedules attempted by the Indiana team but he feels his proteges will have a successful season. Last year the Crimson matmen were runners-up to Michigan for the Big Ten championship. The initial test for the Indiana team will be with Cornell college of Dubuque, Iowa, on Dec. 13.

Wife of Ochsner Alumnus Located in Cleveland

Mrs. Frances A. Ochsner, self-styled "only legal wife" of the late W. H. Ochsner, former university student, architect, and late Stanford university instructor, is now employed by the Cleveland, O., health department, according to the Associated Press.

She has filed a petition in San Francisco superior court seeking to secure part of the $9,000,000 posthumous fortune of Ochsner, whose leases in rich oil lands were developed after his death in 1925.

Mrs. Ochsner, whose sister and mother, Mrs. Anna Straslipka, live at 329 W. Mifflin street, according to her petition met Ochsner while he was at the university in 1903.

Married at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, on Sept. 15, 1903, they were parents to a child that died in infancy. In 1909 Ochsner deserted her, she said.

Mr. Ochsner entered the university in 1902 from Prairie du Sac. He enrolled in the general science course with the class of 1906 but left school in February, 1904, according to alumni records. The records list him among "lost" alumni, since no information was available on his whereabouts after leaving school.

The SAE's clung to the first rung of the inter-fraternity indoor track meet yesterday at the end of the first six events with a precarious one-point lead over the DU's, whose 14 points gave them a comfortable margin over the rest of the field. Dunbar, an athletic freshman from the Sig Alpha chapter, aided his group by taking firsts in both the high hurdles and pole vault, which, coupled with a win in the mile by Wright, gave the leaders 15 tallies.

Bitter competition is expected to mark the final half of the meet Saturday, with several outside fraternities given a chance to catch the leaders. Saturday's events will include the 40-yard dash at 3:00; the half mile, shot put, and high jump at 3:30; the two mile at 4:00; and the all-important relay at 4:15. As it has been decided to double the points in the relay event, this will undoubtedly be the most exciting in the meet, since a victory with its 10 points will aid materially toward winning.

The score of events during Thursday's meet are as follows:

Mile: Won by Wright, SAE; O'Neill, DU, second; Perry, Kappa Sig, third; Tromm, PIKA, fourth. Time—4:50.

40-yard low hurdles. Won by McGuire, Beta Theta Pi; Kubista, PIKA, second; Davis, Kappa Sig, third; Johnson, Phi Delta Theta, fourth. Time—5:5.

40-yard high hurdles. Won by Dunbar, SAE; Johnson, Phi Delta Theta, second; Budlong, DU, third; Pyre, Beta Theta Pi, fourth. Time—5:8.

Quarter mile. Won by Lang, Kappa Sig; Mitchell, ZBT, second; Bassett, DU, third; Redick, DKE, and Pyre, Beta Theta Pi, tied for fourth. Time—5:56.

Pole vault. Won by Dunbar, SAE; McGuire, Beta Theta Pi, Neller, DU; and Guy, Phi Delta Theta, tied for second, third, and fourth. Height—11 feet.

Broad jump. Won by Hayes, DU; Piper, Phi Kappa Tau, second; Kubista, PIKA, third; Nelson, DKE, fourth. Distance—20 feet 1½ inches.

Gymnast Squad Faces Problem

Lack of Veterans Hits Maseley

Men's Chances in Big Ten

With but two letter men available from last year's outfit, Coach A. F. Maseley of the gymnastic team, which finished third in the Big Ten, is facing a serious problem.

Material is the poorest in seven years. Outside his two veterans, Capt. Dan Hayward, who performs well on practically all the heavy apparatus, and Ralph Kraut, whose specialties are the horse and tumbling, none of the candidates have any experience.

The squad is coming along so slowly, in fact, that Coach Maseley has deemed it inadvisable to arrange any early season preliminary meets, such as were a regular feature of other years. The situation is unusual here, Wisconsin always having been strong in gymnastics. The Badgers finished third in the conference last season and second in the two preceding years.

A new policy was recently decided upon by the Wisconsin athletic council under which meets will be scheduled only with institutions supporting both gymnastics and fencing on an intercollegiate basis.

In addition to his two veterans, Coach Maseley is drilling the following

S.A.E. and A.K.K. Scrap for League Crown on Sabbath

Two highly touted backfields augmented by two stalwart lines will clash Sunday when the AKK's meet the SAE's for the fraternity football crown.

The game will be played at 10:30 on the intramural field. The game according to advance weather dope is almost certain to be played on an ice-covered gridiron.

The effectiveness of the AKK running attack has been impaired by the injury to Hal Pomainville last Sunday. However, his brother Lee and Leo Millard are two of the hardest hitting backs in the league.

If the SAE forward wall which is reputed to be the strongest in the league stops the running attack the AKK's will revert to the air. In Parish they have as adept a receiver of passes as has been seen in some time in fraternity grid circles and his mate Frechette is not far behind.

Farquhar Has Heavy Program

Skiers Entered in Nine Meets; Stars Will Go to Lake Placid

Because of a heavy thaw, tiny rivulets replaced shiny snow and ice crusts and forced the Badger Esquimaux to fight their daily hockey battle over Coach Farquhar's desk yesterday and to confine their speed-skating and skiing exercises to the surrounding malted milk emporiums. However, the icemen were not without inspiration and were happily looking forward to their coming contests with competitors at Lake Placid and other such resorts where the chief implement of warfare is still the ski and the skate.

The ski schedule includes competition in most of the nation's important meets. Coach Farquhar intends to take his boys away from Madison for competition at Gary, Ind., Cary, Ill., Milwaukee, Stoughton, Racine, Oconomowoc and to the winter sports frolic at Wausau. The big climax of the season will come when a few of the outstanding stars are picked to do their bit at Lake Placid, N. Y.

News that the huge ski slide is in perfect condition was welcomed by the skiers as they are itching to get the old wooden boards clamped on a pair of steady feet. The ski jump will be the scene of two home meets before the snow melts in the spring. An intercollegiate meet probably including Marquette and Minnesota will be the feature in one of the exhibitions while an open meet will be the other gala event.

The three skiers who are expected to do things in a big way this year are Henry Hansen, Jimmy Parker, and Ralph Olson. Hansen is said to be the cream of this group and may be the fortunate one at Lake Placid. Hansen is also being groomed for the snow-shoeing event and the ski marathon at Lake Placid.

Ocock, Wartinber, Christian, Pip Nelson and Hansen are the speed-skaters who are due for big things this year. Ocock who is also a hand at cross-country is one of the speediest blade men ever to be developed at Madison. Last year at Lake Placid Ocock was one of the Badgers to place.

The Varsity hockey team will practice from 3:30 to 5 every afternoon while the frosh will cavort from 5 on. Coach Farquhar explains that this is the first year that any freshman team has been good enough to give the varsity a real tussle in their practice arguments. The yearlings boast of stars in Russ Jackson, a center with loads of experience from the Milwaukee Country Day School, Kubista, defense man at Central High last year and Schealer, a goalie who also hails from Central.

candidates for the gym team: Irving Bosshardt, horizontal bar and horse; Phillip Canepa, tumbling; Theodore Canepa, bar and horse; Theodore R. Coker, horse; Robert Cook, clubs and parallel bars; H. H. Darbo, bars and rings; John T. Dowell, horse and rings; Ervin Koth, horse and rings; Warren Meyer, horse and tumbling; Louis W. Probasco, rings and parallels; Byron C. Redeen, horse; W. R. Rinell, tumbling and parallel.

Company Rifle Matches Open This Week

Six Teams to Be Represented in Competition for Com- mandant's Cup

Rifle matches between teams representing the six R. O. T. C. companies for the Commandant's cup will commence the latter part of the week. There are over 125 students under instruction at the Camp Randall rifle range in preparation for these matches. This match is to be fired annually under the same conditions as the intercollegiate matches fired by the corps rifle team after the holidays, the 10 individual high scores of each company being taken as the score of that company. One hundred or more students will participate in this match.

Individual championship matches for the R. O. T. C. individual and freshman individual championships will be completed after the firing of the intercompany matches. The 15 high score competitors in the intercompany matches rated as sophomores or higher in the university will compete for the corps individual championship.

Subsequent to the firing of these matches selection will be made of members for the corps rifle squad and the corps freshman rifle team, and preparations made for the firing of scheduled matches in competition with other schools.

Pittsburgh Tangles With Hoosier Five on Indiana Floor

Bloomington, Ind.—Three Indiana University athletic teams went through light workouts Thursday afternoon in preparation for scheduled contests tonight. Both the basketball and wrestling teams will perform in Bloomington while the swimming team will make its appearance at the Anderson Y. M. C. A.

What is believed to be one of the most outstanding basketball home games of the year will be played here Friday night when Pittsburgh, one of the foremost teams of the east, meets the Crimson five in the Indiana field house. Two years ago Pitt was national champion and last year won all its eastern games. Indiana met defeat at the hands of Pitt when it played in the east last season. Court fans will be given an opportunity to witness the play of an all-American basketball star in Capt. Hyatt, high point scorer last year.

The first scheduled swimming meet in which Coach Paul Thompson will enter men in every event will be held tonight with the Anderson Y. M. C. A. team. He plans to use a number of sophomore candidates because of the scarcity of veterans from last year's team. Outstanding among the new men is Julius Coon, of Bloomington.

Jail W. H. Miller for Sale of Fake Dental Licenses

Diplomas from the University of Wisconsin Medical school, and from other universities were sold in the million-dollar Chicago "diploma mill" the alleged leader of which, W. H. Miller, was convicted Wednesday on charges of conspiracy to sell illegal medical and dental licenses to persons not qualified to practice.

The workings of the mills were exposed by state attorneys, who secured a $2,000 fine and seven months and a day jail sentence in the conviction of Miller. Several other members of the ring await trial.

It was charged that Miller and his associates had photostatic prints made of legitimate diplomas. Engravings were made from which fraudulent diplomas were printed and sold, along with forged state licenses and seals.

"Licenses" and "diplomas" were sold, witnesses said, to persons all over the country, the average price being $2,000.

NOTICE

There will be a meeting of all candidates for the Winter Sports team, including speed-skaters and skiers, at 7:30 p. m. tonight in the Trophy room. All prospects should be present.

Kohler's Radiator

Fixture Didn't Get Tested in U. W. Lab.
—Ha, Ha

EVEN tragedy has its humorous moments. The recent refusal of Gov. Kohler to sign the appropriation for the Mechanical Engineering building, which we have all been considering as the occasion for weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth, suddenly appears to be very funny.

The governor, in his capacity of president of the Kohler manufacturing company, makers of assorted necessary gadgets, wanted to test a new radiator fixture. His company applied to the university for tests, only to find that the equipment of the Engineering department was so obsolete that the tests could not be made. The tests were made at the University of Minnesota.

The governor is perhaps doing the best he knows for the university, but he has not as yet given adequate explanation for his persistent refusal to release funds appropriated from two to five years ago; in consequence we take a particular delight in the news of the boomerang effect of his official decision.

Our laughter is inexcusable, we suppose, and as some of our betters upon the thrones of the college might say, childish and irrational; but we have behind our merriment the human frailty which chortles with laughter and rolls upon the ground with glee at the sight of a pompous, tall-hatted fat man slipping on the ice.

Both the disappointment of Mr. Kohler and the accident of the fat man have in them something of poetic justice.

Good Will Chest

Fund Growing Slowly as Recess Comes on Apace

CHRISTMAS comes to the campus Sunday night, the publicity chairman of the Christmas Festival is already telling us. There to a program which will culminate in Handel's majestic "Hallelujah chorus" 900 students, it is hoped, will begin forming their "Christmas spirit."

But strangely, Christmas spirit, like school spirit, can be fake and artificial and pure sham. And like a good deal of the rah-rahism which permeates many a campus activity, Christmas must begin to mean more than mere attendance at the Christmas Festival.

We would not imply that one should miss the Festival. We hope you will go; but we also hope that you will do more. We refer again to Wisconsin's Good-Will Chest, which in its first week has accumulated less than $100 from students and faculty. There could be no greater opportunity for an expression of genuine Christmas spirit.

Fifty years from now tipping in this country will be practically abolished.—Mary A. Lindsley.

Readers' Say-So

Fulcher Not Complacent

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

YOUR leading editorial today, "Fulcher and Us," is most refreshing. Being very much impressed with your tolerant spirit, your forceful style, and fearless devotion to your convictions, I cannot refrain from offering a word or two of praise and encouragement.

First, Mr. Fulcher is very inconsistent in his claims. With one fell swoop he characterizes the editorials in the Cardinal as blather and piffle, and then proceeds to show that he really does not think this or else he would not have taken the time to write such an extended article. Life is too short to give such weight to all the blather and piffle we encounter. If Mr. Fulcher is to take this position, he will certainly live a busy life ere he counteracts even a small portion of the extant blather and piffle. Common sense tells us to ignore the things that have no weight and give our attention to the millions of things that DO have weight.

The smugness of the academic mind is amply revealed by Mr. Fulcher. A careful reading of "Sumner's Folkways" would help him to understand himself. The passionate devotion to "things that be" has never made for progress, but on the contrary has made it slow and painful. In other words, a modification of the lecture method is most surely worthy of a trial, but such trial will never be made while the "Fulchers" are in the majority, or rather, in authority.

The scientific attitude of mind calls for trial and experiment and not arm-chair logic and dialectic. There is one fact that stands like the Rock of Gibraltar—objective experiment has proved and disproved myriads of the contentions of philosophical reasoning. A great many of the leading educators of the country realize that there is something wrong with the pure lecture method. It is certainly safe to say few would claim perfection for it—not even such passionate devotees as Mr. Fulcher.

Granted then that the system is improvable, how may any improvement be secured? Will it be secured by characterizing all discussion and questioning on the matter as mere blather and piffle? Will it be secured by the authorities' folding their arms in sweet contentment and saying, "We know of nothing better, so why disturb the set order of things?"

We rather suspect that Mr. Fulcher, without his being aware of the fact, has done a great deal toward helping the cause. His willingness to enter the discussion shows that he is not a victim of the deadening complacency and satisfaction which ignores any suggestions of improvement. The editor of the Cardinal should feel complimented that his articles have called forth such a stinging and vituperous answer.

The tone of his (Prof. Fulcher's) article is that you are an insolent young "puppy" for daring to invade the sacrosanct stronghold of traditional methods of classroom procedure.

Here we are getting the benefit of just such discussions as the Cardinal claims we should sometimes have in the classroom. It makes us all think and react to the situation, which in the last analysis is the way we learn things. It is rather intriguing to wonder whether or not the editor of the Cardinal is profiting more by these discussions than he would by attending a series of Mr. Fulcher's lectures.

—L. G. Bailey, Grad. Student in Education.

Explains It for Us

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

IHAVE FOLLOWED with interest the recent editorials on the lecture system that have appeared in your paper. They certainly illustrate to a nicety the criticism which Prof. Baker of Harvard launched against the college editorial in his essay The Mind of the Undergraduate. Of them he says, "they neither summarize existing conditions, so that you are thoroughly informed, nor do they summarize and comment at the same time."

Throughout the essay Prof. Baker piles up evidence that proves conclusively that the average undergraduate refuses to think. He admits that this condition is not apparent until the prospective freshman reaches high school, and that it reaches its maximum in college. But why, may I ask, does the undergraduate refuse to think? Is it not, perhaps the method of instruction in the university that destroys any desire on his part to think? What reward besides what Prof. Baker describes as a "delicate pleasure in the process of thinking" is offered the student under the present system?

The lecture system has certainly withstood the test of time. It has been used continuously since the establishment of the University of Paris in the early eleventh century. Established this system is without a doubt, but is it thought provoking? The lectures themselves are, I believe, usually stimulating and if the subsequent quiz sections were conducted as Mr. Alden suggested in his article that appeared in Wednesday's Cardinal, the system would without a doubt stimulate thought.

But as the quiz sections are now conducted they discourage cogent, coherent thought, and encourage the reiteration not only of facts but of conclusions deduced from the facts. In the written quizzes we are asked for not our knowledge of facts but for conclusions. Not our conclusions, understand, but the conclusions of the author of our text book or those of our lecturer. If we reiterate these conclusions correctly, we get a

FACT AND FANCY

By EFA

JOSEPH R. GRUNDY, lovingly called "grand daddy of all lobbyists," slipped into the Senate chambers yesterday, "with a smile and in silence." He did not come as an outsider as he has heretofore done—he came as the new Senator from Pennsylvania, to take the seat vacated by the barring of I'm-Honest Vare. His passing as a lobbyist was the occasion Tuesday of a dramatic spectacle, promoted by Senator George W. Norris.

With a yellow woolen jacket, part of a tariff display, unfurled as a banner, Senator Norris impersonated Mark Antony.

"Senators, if you have tears, prepare to shed them now. You all remember Grundy's mantle. In this place Caraway ran his dagger through. Through this, the son of a wild jackass stabbed and as he drew his cursed steel away, mark how the blood of Grundy followed it. This was the most unkindest cut of all, for when the noble Grundy saw the jackass stab in ingratitude, more strong than traitor's arms, it quite vanquished him. Then burst his mighty heart and in this mantle, muffling up his face, the great Grundy fell."

IN REPLY to a questionnaire 443 freshmen at Rutgers university tell why they went to Rutgers instead of to Podunk, Sarmouth, or the U. of W. One came because he was sent. Another declared he attended because he might "go home on short notice," and another succinctly replied, "I came here to study." One said "I aspire some day to attain the highest standard of manhood that exists." One "to prepare myself for the higher, nobler things of life." One gifted frosh explained it thus: "I came to Rutgers because of economic, social, and cosmic factors of which I had little or no choice. I came in order to learn to think for myself and to acquire control of mind, in training for higher forms of thinking in abstract terms."

WHILE youths in the Paris Latin Quarter were organizing a secret society "against the American spirit" Dr. Marcel Aubert, associate curator of the Paris Louvre was saying at a New York luncheon, "I have been amazed by your museums and libraries and the wealth of French cultural associations which you in this country possess. I must admit that there are certain branches of French art which are better represented in your country than they are in France."

The Paris anti-American society, however, believes that there is altogether too much Americana over in France, and it's not in the museums and libraries either. So a blacklist has been drawn up including U. S. cigars, food, clothing, razors, movies, automobiles, and strangely, alcohol.

Criticism of the "American spirit" is based upon its crass materialism, its lack of spirituality, and its total ignorance of beauty.

But Dr. Aubert holds contrary views. He tells us that France is "yearly welcoming to France larger and larger delegations of American students."

Almost at the same time another visitor, Prof. Carl Milles of the Royal Swedish Academy of Art, speaking in another New York hotel, said: "There is more culture in America than people in Europe imagine . . . On the whole all my experiences are only flattering to the Americans." So it goes.

good grade so why should we go to the trouble of thinking about the matter at all? Because as sure as we do we will be accused of trying to substitute something else for what was wanted, in short, of bluffing.

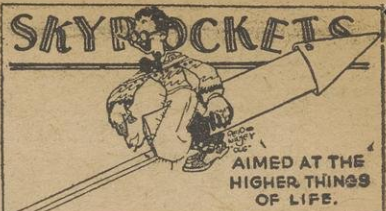

In another part of his essay Prof. Baker asks if lack of thought has not something to do with the inordinate interest of the student body in the varied undergraduate activities. "How," he reasons, "can the undergraduate who thinks about the possibilities of his undergraduate career, realizing what his chances are, fail to see that to behave in this way is to lose just the special chances for which he would have told you he was coming to college."

"For which he would have told you." Ah! In that phrase lies the fallacy. How many of the incoming class of '33 were absolutely frank in the answer to the question, Why are you going to college? And if we had been how many of us would be here? The point I am attempting to make is that many students come to college expressly for the activities. But why should a successful football team or the prospect of joining a fraternity attract prospective freshmen to one university more than a brilliant lecturer in English, an astute professor of mathematics, or a brilliant historian that are on the faculty?

In conclusion I join you in demanding of the faculty, What is the undefinable something that attracts the students to undergraduate activities? Ask them to explain why, as President Wilson is forced to admit, "The side shows are so numerous, so diverting—so important, if you will—that they have swallowed up the circus and those who perform in the main tent must often whistle for their audiences discouraged and humiliated?"

—John Hoffmann Jr., '33.

The ghosts whom I got to know on good evidence in our late inquiry were rather feckless folk.—Sir Charles Oman.

LIZZIE LOVES 2

Chap. 4.
What 4?

As the dawn crept stealthily upon an unsuspecting world, Queen Lizzie tripped down the steps of the royal mansion, and fell upon the neck of the Lord Chancellor.

"My neck!" gasped that an-guished personage.

"No indeed," replied the queen. "Mine belongs to the king!"

"Sh-h," said the Lord Chancellor, uprooting his right ear from the frozen earth, "there's a conspiracy against the king!"

"Oh, no," laughed Lizzie, "that's just a mustard plaster. We'll serve peanut butter tomorrow. You see, the king was getting a little chesty."

"Sh-h," whispered the Lord Chancellor, eyeing the heavens suspiciously, "we're going to be-head him!"

"Then you'll be getting ahead," said Lizzie, coyly winking her good eye. This was too much for the Lord Chancellor, who slowly dissolved into the morning dew and trickled away.

Nevertheless, Lizzie resolved to warn the king, for before her marriage her maiden name had been Warner, and besides the king was a good scout even if he was a tenderfoot. Perhaps he would soon be promoted to second class.

This is all. REJOICE? REJOICE! Heh, heh.

Senators Plan Capitol Annex

Work on New State Building to Commence in March

Definite plans for the building of the new capitol annex were discussed Tuesday afternoon at the session of the legislative interim committee on public buildings. Members of the committee are Senator Walter S. Goodland of Racine and Otto Mueller of Wausau, and Assemblyman M. E. Laffey of Milwaukee, E. Merwyn Rowlands of Cambria, and H. A. Martin of Richland Center.

Work on the new state office building will be in progress by March 1, Senator W. S. Goodland, chairman of the special legislative committee in charge of the work announced after this morning's session of the committee.

The committee met with the state architect and it is believed the specifications will be ready so that bids can be opened by Feb. 1 and the work can be begun just as soon after that as the contract can be awarded and the contractor can make arrangements or his equipment and help.

This afternoon the committee is taking up the question of the use of stone from the state quarry at Amherst. The state board of control is desirous that the product of this quarry be utilized so that work can be given to inmates of the Green Bay reformatory.

One of the questions which the committee will inquire into is as to whether there will be objection from organized labor to the use of the Amherst stone because of its being quarried by convict labor.

Members of the committee including Senator Goodland feel it will be a good plan to build the structure of Wisconsin stone if it can be done without complications.

Van Hagen to Be Toastmaster at Tau Beta Pi Dinner

Prof. L. F. Van Hagen will be the toastmaster at the initiation banquet tonight of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, and Arthur Peabody, state architect, will give the address. The banquet will be held at the Park hotel at 6:30 p. m.

The initiates are all seniors with the exception of Theodore Perry and Karl Peters, who are both juniors. The others are: Russell Reed, Orville Cromer, William Kuelthau, Walter Tacke, James Van Vleet, George Washa, Chester Held, Richard Bielefeld, Stanley Watson, Arthur Wehmeyer, Newton Willis, Edward Heberlein, Frank Matthias, Henry Lenschow, Rezin Plotz, Marcus Hunder, John Catlin, Stewart Johnson, William Tuffnell, Fritchof Fostdal.

'More Whiskey Sold Today'

MacInnis Tells W.C.T.U.

That more whiskey is being sold to children now than a year ago before the repeal of the Sevenson act was affirmed by Rev. C. K. MacInnis in a recent speech before the Milwaukee W. C. T. U. at its anniversary luncheon. However, not one-tenth the amount per capita of intoxicating liquors is being used now that was used before prohibition, the speaker declared; hopeful effects generally were resulting from prohibition, he said.

Union Fosters Christmas Spirit at Buffet Supper

Twinkling lights of a gay Christmas tree and the soft glow of red Christmas candles will greet guests at the weekly buffet supper in Tripp Commons of Memorial Union, from 5:30 to 7 p. m. Sunday evening.

A special Christmas menu will be served for the Yule-tide supper. Many of the guests will go from the holiday supper to attend the all-university Christmas festival Sunday evening.

An atmosphere of informal festivity will be the keynote of the supper. The distinctive feature of the buffet suppers has been marked by a homelike atmosphere since the first.

The suppers are sponsored every Sunday evening by the Woman's Affairs Committee. Hostesses this week will include Ruth Burdick '31, Marie Orth '30, Marion Horr '30, Helen McLellan '30, Bethana Bucklin '32, Margaret Modie '30, Sally Owen '30, Betsey Owen '32, and Merle Owen '32.

Police Seek Cuban for Brutal Murder of Former Student

A swarthy Cuban, Nicola Diaz, formerly a student in the English classes of Miss Cordelia Gummershimer, Ph. D., graduate of the University of Wisconsin summer school two years ago, was being sought Wednesday as the person responsible for her brutal slaying early Sunday morning in Rockford, Ill., where she had been teaching.

Letters of four admirers of Miss Gummershimer had been perused and their writers quizzed, but others gave satisfactory explanations of their whereabouts at the time the murder was committed.

Diaz was seen at a filling station six miles out of Rockford on the road to Chicago, shortly after the time the murder had supposedly been committed, and appeared nervous to the attendant, who failed to notify officials until Wednesday, when the murdered teacher's funeral rites were being held.

Miss Gummershimer's body was found in her apartment, where she had been attacked and beaten to death with a piece of gas pipe, found near the body.

Aurner's Class to Investigate Letter Writing

An attempt to investigate the level of business letter writing in Wisconsin will be the holiday project of Prof. R. R. Aurner's class in business administration, Prof. Aurner announced yesterday.

Each student will be assigned to investigate the general run of business letters in his particular locality. All the results will be compiled and presented at round table groups.

Mr. Aurner hopes through this project to form some definite conclusions about the plane of business letter writing in the state as a whole.

New Clothes Are Arriving Every Week

Right now when most other merchants have stopped buying . . . when some even are holding sales . . . we keep right on buying . . . bringing in new patterns . . . or filling in to previous best sellers. The reason is . . . that we are selling . . . and our stocks are fresh and up to the minute at all times. This week the new arrivals include:

OVERCOATS

To fill in the sizes of those coats which are most in demand by University men, we have received

Full Belt POLO COATS

From Adler Rochester come the warranted Mt. Rock Fleece Coats in the Polo style, which we introduced this season with remarkable success. Dark greys and dark browns are shown in this week's arrivals.

Central American States

Need Financial Aid--Jones

"Guatemala, Honduras, and Salvador cannot get out of the conditions in which they are now unless they can get loans," declared Chester Lloyd Jones, director of the school of commerce, and professor of economics and political science, at the meeting of Club Cervantes Thursday night. These countries have borrowed money and have been unable to pay the interest. Now they cannot get any credit.

Prof. Jones was in Central America last summer, and visited these countries in order to study them from an economic point of view.

The program was concluded by a piano selection, "Melody," by Rachmaninoff, played by Martha Jentz '31.

WHA Program Features Talks

Marjorie Holscher '31 Presents Musical Numbers on Air

Educational, interesting talks, and music were included in the WHA program for Tuesday, Dec. 10.

The "On Wisconsin" program opened at 12 noon with a talk "Our Debt to Sulphur" by H. R. Dittmar, instructor in chemistry. Marjorie Holscher '31, sang five numbers: "Die Mainnache" and "Sapphic Ode" by Strauss, "The Virgin's Lullaby" by Buck, "Gesu Bambino" by Pietro Yon, and "Hedge Row and Meadow" by H. Waldo Warner. Her accompanist was Melba McWhinney '32.

Price Speaks

In the Farm and Home hour at 12:30 p. m., Walter V. Price spoke on "What Time Is It In the Dairy Industry." In his speech, he pointed out that the dairy industry has gone through distinct changes as it developed. In the early stages of its development there were no factories making cheese or butter. On the farms, as surplus milk accumulated, it was made into cheese in a quantity sufficient only for the family needs.

Later, when there was a surplus amount of cheese, it was traded for other articles, Mr. Price declared. This marked the start of the dairy. Then the factories developed. Methods of condensing milk were soon used. This was an important step, as milk could be transported more cheaply and preserved for a longer time. Dry milk was soon invented beginning another new industry, for the cities required more milk. The various steps, he said, indicate the age of the industry, but as there are new developments continuously, it is difficult to judge if it is really old.

"What's Happening In the Pure Food Laboratory" was told by J. J. Henry. He pointed out how the food inspectors collect samples of food in various parts of the state. They are sent in to the State Pure Food Laboratory at Madison where they are tested by chemists. The laboratory also tests new foods coming on the market. Mr. Henry gives a talk on similar subjects every Tuesday and Thursday.

Miss Gladys Meloche, assistant professor of home economics in her speech on "Every Community Deserves a Christmas Tree," in the Homemakers' Hour at 10:15 p. m., traced the custom of the Christmas tree in the home back to the time of Martin Luther.

She advised that for a community tree, a spot visible from some distance be selected. The decorations need only be colored lights, although in Lincoln Park in Chicago the tree is sprayed with water until covered with ice. On Christmas Eve the community can gather around the tree and sing carols.

Graduate Club to Entertain at Christmas Party

Friday evening, December 13, the Graduate club will hold their Christmas party in the Great hall of the Memorial Union. It will be an elaborate and enjoyable event according to all reports.

The guests will include members of the Graduate club, graduate students of the university and faculty members, and all university alumni in Madison or vicinity.

This year's party is named "The Story Book Ball." Little Bo Peep, Mary, Mary Quite Contrary, Little Jack Horner, Humpty Dumpty, the Queen of Hearts, and Old King Cole will be the receiving line to greet the guests. Each one of these characters will take charge of a part of the evening's songs and entertainment. The dance numbers of the programs will be named after these story book folk.

The entire Great hall will be decorated in the Christmas spirit, and Santa Claus will also be present to distribute favors from a huge Christmas tree.

Committees in charge of the ball are:

General chairman, Earl Hildebrand. Control and finance committee: John Loneragan, Russell Larson, Marion Harris, Alfred Leahey, and the Misses Vera Templin, Jeannette Terrill, Barbara Carfield and Julia Frank.

Decoration committee: Charles Lee, Robert L. McMurray, Edwin H. Kroeker, and the Misses Edith E. Lynn and Mary Draper.

General arrangements committee: Charles Dollard, Carl Johnson; and the Misses Philippa Gilchrist, Arzalia Johnson, Mollie Vlasnik, and Mabel Britell.

Program committee: Max Alberts, Robert Magie, Charles Born, and the Misses Marie Love and Gertrude Beyler.

Reception committee: Porter Butts and Dale Chapman; the Misses Esther Bubolz, Gertrude Schmidt, and Flora Hanning.

Publicity committee: De Forest Palmetter, Walter Banfield, and Miss Katherine Frusher.

Telephony knows no barriers

Telephone lines must cross natural barriers. This means construction methods must be flexible, readily varied to peculiar local conditions.

Special problems arise, too, in telephone laboratory, factory and central office. How to protect poles from insect attack? How to develop more compact equipment for use in manholes? How to assure a sufficient number of trained operators? How to build long distance business?

It takes resourcefulness to find the answers, to surmount the barriers. There is no stereotyped way.

Week's Farm Program Over WHA Featured by Address on Economics

An explanation of how business volume affects farm profits was given by Prof. Isaac F. Hall of the agricultural economics department, as a feature of the Monday noon farm program over WHA. Duane Kipp, of the state conservation commission, spoke on "What Wisconsin is Doing to Catch up with its Timber Use." The usual music and "Tomorrow's Weather," features will be given on each of the farmer's noonday radio programs during the week.

Walter V. Price, professor of dairy husbandry, will speak on "What time is it in the Dairy Industry?"; on Tuesday, "What's Happening in the State's Pure Food Laboratory?" will also be discussed. "Some Outstanding Results in Plant Pathology During 1929" will be discussed by Prof. G. Dickson of the plant pathology department.

On Wednesday Gustav Bohstedt, professor of animal husbandry will talk on "The Cheapest Ways of Putting Protein into our Dairy." W. F. Renk, of the state department of agriculture and marketing will give advice on the direct buying of live stock.

The program for Thursday will touch a different vein. Miss Ethel T. Rockwell, professor of speech, extension division is to give "Some Suggestions on Organizing and Directing the Home Talent Plays." "The Education of All Americans a Century Ago" will be presented by Prof. J. K. Hart of the education department.

On the Friday program "Vitamins in the Poultry Diet" will be discussed by James G. Halpin, professor of poultry husbandry. Prof. H. F. Wilson will talk about "What Wisconsin Honey Producers Are Doing."

Saturday noon "Teamwork in Cooperative Marketing" is the subject of H. M. Knipfel, from the state department of agriculture and markets. Griffith Richards, professor of soils, will answer "Do Wisconsin Soils Need Lime?"

The RAMBLER

"Complete
Campus
Coverage"

At the Daily Cardinal banquet . . . skyrocketeers Gordy, Sinus, and Kenelm Pawlet came in like a couple of college boys . . . they gave the Rambler their three pieces of pumpkin pie . . . which were vile . . . Carlos Quirino '31 insisted on passing notes up the length of the table . . . and so did D. Joy Griesbach '31, Herb Tschudy '31, and Casimir P. Scheer '31 . . . and Bill Payne business manager told what bob godley '30 called "jokes" . . . someone else called them "chokes" . . . but all agreed that they were Payne's . . . one never realizes how many people work on the deed until the banquets roll around . . . "Merry Christmas" was on each place card . . . incidentally, bob godley was put on as an impromptu speaker . . . the department of dormitories and commons must read the Cardinal . . . the silverware was unmarked . . . and all the jokes by the speakers drew hisses.

About the infallible Captimes which raises a hullabaloo when there is a flaw in a stereotype. The other day, a news story carried the name of the governor of New York and in three places said, Franklin W. instead of Franklin D. Roosevelt. And the story began, "Gov. Franklin W. Roosevelt, New York, will sound the keynote for the 1930 presidential campaign. . . ." (Two years too fast, Captimes.)

Right now we are getting all sorts of stories about the long skirts that are coming into being again. May we quote the following from a Neenah, Wis., newspaper of the 1850's? Here goes:

"We may be wrong in our view of the matter, but still we do not believe that any woman of sense—any woman of decency, would envelope herself in one of the abominable things—yet it is getting to be a custom among 'fashionable' folks to make a public exhibit of as much of their persons as possible. We do not believe in doing anything by halves. If they want to revive the fashion of the time of Adam and Eve's rule in paradise, let them 'go the entire swing,' and be done with it. Then if decent people do not want to see such a display they can be prepared to turn their faces in another direction. As it is under the tilting hoop rule a fellow never knows what moment the 'dear creature' is going to throw her hoops up to her knee."

There's a decided effort under way to give the Memunion boxcar an English effect—that of putting billposters all over its walls. At present one may read of the refectory and the Badger on its sides.

Warren Drouet '30, former skipper of the varsity crew, was in the Badger office Thursaft writing out the names of his brother Theta XI's when he came to the query, "Where founded?" He pondered a moment and remarked, "I know the place is Rennselaer, but I can't spell it." He put down R. P. I.

Who placed an EMPTY flask in the Rambler's box?

Over at the A.T.O. house the boys are telling about the effusion of Baltimore table manners being shown by John W. McCleary, grad.

They tell all sorts of stories about that economics examination which was given yesterday. 'Tis said that one student took a look at the paper in Music hall and fainted. Among the other complaints are those from the boys and girls who had to trek all the way out to the Ag campus to take their quizzes.

One of the boys in a back seat in one of Prof. Louis Kahlenberg's lectures, rested his feet on the seat in front. Punned the prof, "Your standing may need raising, but this is not the time for it."

During our radio talk last Wednesday, someone called up WHA, and added something about the Ag campus. He told of the day he first came to the university. Being hungry and not having any money, he found his way out to the experimental patch at the college and swiped a dozen tomaatoes. He got a job the next day and everything's been fine since that day. He added, "I owe it all to the college of agriculture."

Ibsen Play Read by Test College Players Tonight

"An Enemy of the People," by Hendrik Ibsen will be read by the Experimental College Players at their meeting in LaFollette den at 7:15 p. m. tonight. Herman Eberiel is the director.

The play deals with a doctor in a small Norwegian town who discovers that the water supply for the public baths, in which the community has invested all its savings, is impure. His brother, the mayor of the town, tries to persuade him to suppress his discovery, but he refuses and is ostracised as an enemy of the people.

The cast of the play follows:
Charles Wason '32 . . . . . Dr. Stockton
James Parker '32 . . . . . Peter Stockton
Chester Sinclair '33 . . . . . Aslakson
William Chaikin '32 . . . . . Hovstad

Prof. Kahlenberg Delivers Speech at Milwaukee Club

Prof. Louis A. Kahlenberg of the university chemistry department will address the Milwaukee section of the American Chemical society at the Milwaukee Athletic club tonight.

A dinner in the speaker's honor will precede the talk. Prof. Kahlenberg's subject will be his visit to European laboratories last summer and his attendance at the meeting of the Royal society and of the Chemical society of London.

Prof. Kahlenberg has seen long service with the University of Wisconsin, and was head of the chemistry department before he devoted more of his time to research work.

County Fair Barker Suggests Memory Stunts of Stage Actor

By NCS

Leave it to a college student to do eight things at once and be non-chalant about it. That is the record set by Fred Craig, jr., red haired memory wizard and concentration expert now appearing at the Orpheum. Craig has been a student at Dennison university in Ohio and attended summer school here at Wisconsin. But he has to admit that it was neither in lecture rooms or at the Phi Delt house that he learned his unusual memory stunts.

The idea came from watching a pen salesman at a county fair back in Ohio when he was in graded school. Craig started in by writing the names of his school mates upside down and backwards, then gradually added to his repertoire by learning to add and multiply while he wrote. And now he does all that, combines any number of words in a long string which you decipher by skipping certain letters to spell out the original words, reads a paper upside down and backwards and finishes with a flourish by naming the streets of any city while he is writing, reading, or what have you.

But Freddie has not only been an actor, he has served as a newspaper man, too. However, while he was supposedly correspondent in a town near his native city of Canton, Ohio, he was out of town on the night the local gas station blew up, and that is one of the reasons he went on the stage.

He has never before been back in Madison since he was attending the university, but he likes playing college towns, in spite of the fact that they are supposed to be "tough" on acts. Craig says that about the only people he knows around here any more (he was here in 1925) are Louie and Hermie at the "Campus" and Shorty of the "Dugout."

According to recent figures, if all the ancestors of the people who claimed Mayflower fame were weighed, they would sink the Leviathan.

Gene Duffield Parades

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

PERPLEXITIES, I know are hardly graceful or inspiring things to parade before the public eye, but the report of Pres. Frank's statement to the legislature's interim committee has left me in such a quandry, that I must in the hope that somewhere they will find an answer.

The report quotes Pres. Frank as saying that the Experimental college, which is to be abandoned within a few years, has yielded definite results and has been highly successful. Furthermore, the general plan of study used at the Experimental college will occupy, in the future, 40 per cent of student's time during their first years. The other 60 per cent of their time will be given over to natural sciences and foreign language.

Sees Skeleton

This scheme is the result of our experimenting; it is, apparently, to be proclaimed as the finding of the Experimental college, which with laudations ringing in its ears, will be laid away in eternal rest. This newest product of educational evolution will not stand forth in the full glow of life until the faculty committee on the curriculum reports, but its skeleton is discernible in Pres. Frank's remarks. The announcement of its advent will awake much interest and, I am afraid, many perplexities.

Just what is the new system to be? How will it compare with the present one? The committee's report will give the definitive answer to these questions, but already the report has cast its shadow before it in the twice-repeated 60-40 arrangement. Tentative answers, therefore, can be formulated.

At present the average freshman carries a course of 15 credits which includes five credits of science and four credits of elementary foreign language. Assuming that credits roughly measure time spent we find by simple arithmetic that science and foreign language combined occupy 60 per cent of the students' time. Apparently the existing ratio will not be disturbed.

Illusive Problem

The remaining 40 per cent is the interesting and illusive problem. At present most freshmen, but not all, study, in addition to science and a foreign language, history and English composition. By fusing these two subjects into a glorified study of a historical epoch with emphasis on numerous well-written reports, we would have, some persons say, a course similar to the Experimental college's reading-and-report method of handling the Greek civilization.

There is a superficial resemblance. At first blush one might be tempted to exult, "Here is the core of the Experimental college. Here is a system which embodies that core and adds the vital subjects of science and foreign language. We have found the Experimental college a success."

But where in the proposed system is the tutorial method, the unique teacher-student cooperation plan, the small college unity, and a thousand and one other ventures associated with the Experimental college? What has become of the community residence ideal? "The combination of both residence and instruction, both living and learning, in the dormitories is an essential part of the Experimental college plan," said Pres. Frank three years ago, and Prof. Meiklejohn added, "... students should live in small buildings ... and ... teachers should share that residence, should be members of the groups, influencing and leading them by friendship and general acquaintance."

More important, where is the plan to study human situations and not subjects? Where is the education which said, "We must try to know the Self, and Society and the World?" I do not pretend to know whether all these devices and ideals are sound. I do know, though, that they were part, and parcel of the Experimental college venture, woven into its whole being, lending it hue and texture and purpose. And they are no where to be seen in the looming arrangement.

Will Not Hang

Therefore, a statement announcing such a revision and lauding the college, it seems to me, will not hang together. I do not say that a system as outlined above does not embody the only usable discovery of the Experimental college.

I do not say the Experimental college is either a success or a failure. But to say in one breath that the college has evolved nothing more than a history course, whether good or bad, is to forget all the hopes, the ideals, the plans, and the dreams that surrounded the Experimental college's inauguration.

To adopt such a revision as the sole discovery of the experiment is not to declare the experiment a success. It is, in fact, to say that we have been wrong, hopelessly wrong, in four-fifths of the dreams we have cherished since the college was founded three years ago.

What construction are we to put on these remarks? Is the 60-40 arrangement only the first of many revisions which will transfer the bulk of the Experimental college to the hill? Or is the college to be junked and only one cog-wheel salvaged? Read between the lines as I will. I can not understand what is in the wind.

—Eugene S. Duffield.

Favors Change

Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

I MIGHT as well begin by saying that I am in favor of the lecture system, so that those who are deaf to any such partiality may turn to the next page. I am in favor of the lecture system, but not as it exists at the present time.

The freshmen have done nobly in expressing their views of the prevalent educational method employed in the university, and the summary of their ideas printed in Sunday's Cardinal rounds up the discussion into more definite grounds: Does the lecture system depend upon the quality of the lecturer for its efficacy? The consensus of fresh opinion favors the affirmative; I say that the efficacy of the lecture system does NOT absolutely depend upon the lecturer. I believe it depends, to a great extent, upon the attitude and background of the individual student.

Lecturer's Task

For instance, at a Shakespeare lecture there are anywhere from one to two hundred students. "Mass education" reveals itself in the fact that there are probably no two students who have the same background of English literature upon which the morning's lecture is to be imprinted, and with which it is to be assimilated. Does anyone realize the Herculean task of the lecturer?

His material must be "interesting" to keep the non-literature majors awake; it must be chronologically or simply enough arranged to allow the block-head English majors to follow it; it must have a "fresh point of view" for those who demand originality; it must have sufficient dignity and profundity for those who do their best to think.

And to amuse the rest of those students who are unclassified or unclassifiable, the lecturer must "clown," as one of our most brilliant professors seems to have found great necessity for.

The result? Everyone sleeps, unless the lecturer is of the type of which one dreams during the lecture. Not only is everyone dissatisfied, but those who do their best to think are disgusted with the level to which the lecturer necessarily descends to keep the greatest part of his audience awake. This lowering of lecture standards to suit the average student's ability to comprehend, is deplorable, and is one of the prime reasons for the present failure of the lecture system.

Seek Elsewhere

In other words, get at the student—BUT NOT THROUGH THE COLLEGE! If the elementary and high schools gave the average boy and girl the necessary background to appreciate, understand, and interpret material of college calibre, there would be better professors to meet the requirements of the better student, and matters would improve considerably.

I do not believe that the college is the proper place to attack the prevalent educational evils: one only goes to the horse's head to fix the hind wheels of the cart. Of course, to get back into the elementary and high schools to raise their standards of education and educational equipment is a slow, tedious process; years will pass before the lifetime efforts of some of our foremost educators in this field (Continued on Page 11)

Larson Denies Slap at Kohler

Claims Tie-Up of Funds Does Not Influence Depart- ment Policies

Prof. Gustav L. Larson, chairman of the department of mechanical engineering, in a letter to the Capital Times, denies that the refusal of the Engineering college to make tests for the Kohler company was occasioned by the Governor's tie-up of funds for the new Mechanical Engineering building, as was hinted in a recent Capital Times story.

Hampered by Inferior Equipment
Conceding that the university is being handicapped by the delay of the building, Prof. Larson nevertheless declares inferior equipment would prevent the department from undertaking the testing, and that the governor "will do the best he can for engineering if sufficient funds are found available for this disposal."

Prof. Larson's letter follows:
"An article on the front page of your paper Tuesday night under the heading 'U Fund Tie-up Hits Back at Governor Kohler' has just been brought to my attention.

"In view of the fact that certain statements in that article are credited to me, I wish to give you the facts and correct the misleading impressions that the article contains.

Consulted by Kohler Plant
"I have been in very close touch with the development of a new product at the Kohler plant and have been called into consultation regarding some of its details.

"Neither the University of Wisconsin nor the University of Minnesota has been asked to make tests on Kohler heating equipment as erroneously stated in the above mentioned article. The Kohler company is developing its own testing plant for this purpose as is common practice with all large industries.

"The universities that have the best experimental equipment for testing radiators and boilers are the University of Kentucky, Purdue University, the University of Illinois, and the University of Minnesota.

Badger Grad at Minnesota
"The professor of experimental engineering at the University of Minnesota is a graduate of our own Mechanical engineering department and he is considered one of the highest authorities in the country on the testing of heating equipment. It is, therefore, perfectly logical that engineering graduates employed at Kohler should seek his advice and suggestions in planning a testing plant that would be in accordance with the best practice obtainable, and particularly so in view of the fact that the engineer in charge of this development at Kohler is a Minnesota graduate who is thoroughly familiar with the testing equipment at Minnesota.

"It is true that our own engineering college is very much in need of additional space and new equipment will be felt; and in general the American will balk with impatience until results can be seen from such a project, but I believe in the high schools, particularly, rests the educational disease.

Give the average boy or girl a sound grounding in facts before he is 17 and when he gets to college he will have something to present at round-table discussion groups, and he will be able to use, creatively, the material his lecturer presents. The college student should have ideas as well as the ability to collect facts, but unless the college student gets the facts with which he builds his ideas, before he comes to college, the college professor will have to give the facts to him.

Sloppy Education

And as long as this is necessary lectures will remain dry for those who have been lucky enough to have gained a good background of literature, science, or art before he gets into the university. (And, incidentally, a skyrocket to those lecturers who refuse to lower their standards of presentation to suit the vast majority!)

Clean up the sloppy education in the high schools: make the high school an institution of learning where active minds are filled, instead of social natures developed, and the standards of the American university will be raised one hundred per cent!

and the proposed new building will give us some of the relief that is necessary to enable the school to keep pace with the tremendous advances that are taking place along all branches of engineering.

Appreciates Governor's Position

"I fully appreciate the complexity of the problems confronting Gov. Kohler and realize that ours is only one of the numerous problems that he is called upon to solve. I believe, however, that he is interested in aiding the school to turn out the best engineers possible and that he will do the best he can for engineering if sufficient funds are found available for this disposal."

Rundell Approves Seminar System for Law School

Seminar sessions in undergraduate law courses are a more efficient method than the regular class groups, is the opinion of Prof. O. S. Rundell, acting dean of the Law school, who has been inaugurating the new system.

Criminal law, problems in labor law, and business association and corporations are among the courses to be offered in seminar groups in the future. These meetings will be held in the evening at the Law school under the direction of Prof. W. H. Page, Prof. W. G. Rice, and Prof. P. F. LaFollette.

A present group meetings on the order of seminars are being held.

Commons Writes Preface of New Economics Book

"Efficiency and Scarcity Profits" is the title of a recent book written by C. J. Foreman, associate professor of economics at the University of Chicago, that is now being published by the University of Chicago press. "It is a study of various profits made in business, and gathers material from the fields both of economics and of law," said Prof. Foreman in a recent interview.

The following is the foreword to the book, and was written by John R. Commons, professor of economics.

"Students who have been reading Prof. Foreman's articles in the legal and economic journals, beginning 1918, have been aware that something new and important was coming along. But they could not see how Mr. Foreman was organizing his material into a system of thought and research. They could only see piecemeal that here was something different—it was the relations between law and economics worked out on a minute study of reported cases in English and American common law.

"Mr. Foreman is a pioneer in this field of research, first opened up to him by his teacher, Prof. Ely. He had, of course, spent many years on the subject before he began publication. I have been greatly aided by his articles in trying to follow a similar line of research, and have each year furnished to my students a growing bibliography of these articles. It was a true foresight of the incoming theories of interdependence of law and economics when the editors of these legal and economic journals published his articles, and when the University of Chicago Press brought them together so that lawyers may see the economics of law, and economists the law of economics.

His distinction between efficiency and scarcity profits is his leading thesis, but back of it is his suppression of free competition by freedom of contract, and his theory of the original common law as a workable relation between the individual and the state formulated by judges hundreds of years before economists, philosophers, and modern courts had obscured it."

Orchestra Plays First Concert

Morphy Directs 65-Piece Group in Year's Initial Program

David Williams '30 is concert master of this year's 65 piece university orchestra which will present its first concert of the season on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 15, at 3 p. m., in the men's gymnasium. The orchestra is under the direction of Maj. E. W. Morphy.

Mr. Williams is a Jullard scholar in the Music school. He was one of the soloists at the Vesper service given at the Y. W. C. A., Sunday, Dec. 8.

The program will be made up of the Sibelius symphony in E minor and a group of short, light numbers. This symphony has never been played in Madison.

The entire program is:

Symphony No. 1 in E Minor..... Sibelius
Andante, ma none-troppo; Allegro energico
Andante, ma non troppo lento
Scherzo-allegro
Finale (Quasi una Fantasia)
Andante; Allegro molto.

Prof. Cool Finds Spanish Students Can Bore Teacher

Prof. C. D. Cool of the Spanish department filed a counter charge against The Daily Cardinal Tuesday. Prof. Cool is noted in the Commerce school for his remarkably painless pounding of commercial Spanish into student cabezas.

Looking sadly at his class at 10 a. m. Tuesday, he asked a question. The class was apathetic; the class didn't move from its lethargy; it was in fact, dumb. Prof. Cool asked the question again. Still no answer. Finally he said:

"I think I'll start a movement for students to make classes interesting. I've done my bit by The Daily Cardinal in pepping things up. You students may be bored but, much as I hate to say it, you're boring too. There ought to be a movement to pep things up for the teachers."

Watch Your Step Today--Friday 13, of Hoodoo Month

Of all the Fridays in the year, Friday of this week is the most perilous. Not only does it share the usual superstitions against both the day Friday and the number 13, but Dec. 13 is, according to "Practica Rusticorum" a particularly dangerous day.

The Romans alone considered Friday a fortunate day, and in the Hebrides and Northumberland it is considered especially ill-omened.

Most people consider that no new work should be begun on that day; superstitious sailors refuse to start a voyage on Friday, and it is indeed a temptation to providence to marry on either Friday or the 13th of the month.

In regard to weather on Fridays an old proverb says:

"----- Friday's moon

Come when it will - comes too soon." Around the number 13 cluster beliefs equally forbidding. In his eighth Eclogue Virgil says that 13 is a particularly ominous number and quotes the popular belief that if 13 people meet in a room or eat at the same table one will die within a year.

The conventional number at medieval Witches' sabbaths was 13 and from this fact comes the name "Devil's Dozen" for 13. Dread of the number is also a Basque belief.

Those who yield to their superstition and remain cautiously at home Friday have even chances of failing to protect themselves for Dec. 15 and 22 are also considered days of misfortune and bad luck.

Mr. C. F. Redlich, the successful expert, says:

The "Perfect Retention Shields" hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy the weight you lift. They give instant relief, contract the opening in a remarkably short time and strengthen the weak tissues (the real cause of rupture) so that they frequently recover their previous natural retaining power, needing no further outside support. Stomach trouble, backache and constipation often caused by Rupture promptly disappear.

Truly remarkable and prompt results have been obtained not only with recent and not fully developed ruptures but also with old, long neglected ones.

Ingenious, recently perfected devices are now holding ruptures firmly which heretofore never had been retained.

No elastic belts nor filthy legstraps are used.

I guarantee the durability of my absolutely sweat and moisture proof, sanitary appliances.

75% of ruptured children recover completely through expert mechanical treatment according to statistics.

Do not waste your money on widely advertised mail order contraptions. You cannot fit yourself.
