LAKE GENEVA OBSERVER & BAY LEAVES

F. M. VAN EPPS
EDITOR & PUBLISHER

WILLIAMS BAY, WIS

The editor has received so many letters of appreciation from the readers of " Lake Geneva Observer " and " Bay Leaves ", that he is encouraged to go on and give them as many numbers as possible throughout the Winter.

Instead of trying to secure a large circulation, the effort will be confined to making it of real interest to those who have a keen interest in knowing more about Lake Geneva, its history and development, its people past and present, the institutions and activities in which the readers are interested.

There is a wealth of material to be had by studying the old newspapers, biographies, records, etc. The history of Lake Geneva ties up with that of Chicago and that relation will be the basis of a series of articles and biographies this Winter.

In order that we know just who lives on the lake, the editor is preparing a directory of lake shore residents, and those living in homes with lake shore privileges. This will be published in sections and later put together.

The paper is not entitled in the present form to free circulation as the newspapers which many of the readers have been getting. It is not a shopper. Advertisements are welcome and are read by all the readers.

An effort has been made to make a good, readable paper by using good, expensive paper. Your comments have shown that you wish the editor to keep it in the same form.

Will you not continue to send in letters with suggestions? Kindly feel that it is your paper. Articles, poems, personals and suggestions for biographies are welcome. Clippings about Lake Geneva sometimes escape the editor's notice.

Be sure and send Winter addresses. Send postals and items about the places where you go.

You may wish to send the paper to friends.

Very truly yours,

F. M. Van Epps
Editor.

GEORGE STURGES

George was the fifth son of Solomon Sturges, and a brother of Shelton, who was the subject of the first of this series of articles about the first families on Lake Geneva.

He was born at Putnam, Ohio, May 13, 1838 and died at Snug Harbor, Lake Geneva August 12, 1890.

He came at the age of seventeen with his father to Chicago and took a position as a clerk in Sturges, Buckingham and Co.. He later formed a partnership with his brother-in-law, Ebenezer Buckingham under the name, George Sturges & Co. and leased the old Fulton elevator, located on North bank of Chicago river near Rush street, and engaged in the business of warehousemen and buyer and shipper of grain.

He helped in forming the Northwestern National Bank of Chicago out of the Solomon Sturges & Sons bank. The new bank opened its doors on August 15, 1864. Buckingham, his brother, was the first president. Later George succeeded to the position.

In 1867 the bank moved into the new Chamber of Commerce building on the south-east corner of La Salle and Washington Sts, which was destroyed in the Chicago Fire of 1871. When the Chamber of Commerce Building was rebuilt they occupied the same location. In 1876 they moved into the Reaper Building and in 1888 into the Rookery Building and in 1900 the bank was consolidated with the Corn Exchange National Bank.

The writer of the article about George Sturges says " Under the exceptionally capable management of George Sturges, the Northwestern National Bank won an enviable reputation in the financial world ".

He early developed ability of high order. He made a study of the banking practice of his day and was the prime mover in the formation of the Chicago Clearing House, offered the use of space in his bank for the starting of it and gave untiring service in getting it started.

After the Chicago fire he boldly announced that his bank was open for business as usual and during the panic of 1873, when his bank could very well have taken advantage of the conditions, his bank published the following: Resolved, That this bank is abundantly able, and will protect the rights of its customers, and will not suspend currency payments in any amount.

George Sturges was married to Mary Delafield on October 16, 1862 in Duncan's Falls, Ohio.

They had nine children: Wallace Delafield, Albert, Ethel ( Mrs. W. F. Dummer), Marion Delafied ( Mrs. Samuel Dauchy ), Rosalie ( Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter ), Helen ( Mrs. Arthur DuBois ), Clara ( Mrs. Templeton Johnson) Julia and George.

Mr. Sturges first came up to Lake Geneva with his brothers on fishing trips and soon joined his brother, Shelton in making his summer home on the lake. His first home is the Library, which was given by Mrs. Sturges to the city for Library purposes.

He then built "Snug Harbor " naming it because of the small cove in front of it from Snug Harbor down on the Atlantic.

His wife was a real helpmeet, encouraging him in his business and in presiding over the large household which were born and raised in Snug Harbor. "She had rare strength and sweetness of character and great personal charm " says one who knew her. She was kindly interested in her humblest employees who loved her.

The " Arrow " which was the first of the fleet of beautiful boats to grace the lake ( The " Cisco" owned by Fairbank, a smaller boat had preceded it) was enjoyed by Mr.

Sturges and his family and used in taking their friends out for teas etc.

The flag pole on "Snug Harbor" recalls a story about it by a former employe of a nearby estate. Anxious to have his flag pole higher than that of his neighbor N.K. Fairbank and not knowing the height of it bet a young man $5.00 that it was a certain height and the bet was taken up and when paying up the bet said " It was worth it to have the information".

The sum of $2000 has been raised by friends of the late Mrs. Charles K. Hutchinson, who was founder of the Lake Geneva Garden Club. It is to be known as The Frances K. Hutchinson Award of the Lake Geneva Garden Club, the income from the same to be used annually for the preservation of wild flowers. The fund has been presented to the Garden Club of America to be administered by them, and it is hoped that amounts may be added to the fund for this purpose.

Other articles about the first families will appear most every week.

SOME OTHER NAMES THAT SHOULD BE REMEMBERED.

To the names of those remarkably skilled workmen who helped to beautify the estates we should add the following :

William Hambright, who helped Shelton Sturges beautify that first estate and a wonderful job he did. Hambright was almost directly from Germany. His home for many years was on the hill and was bought by Wm Wrigley as a part of Green Gables.

Mr. Herbert P. Crane of St. Charles, Ill., father of Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell of Jerseyhurst, lost control of his car last Thursday night while going down the Maytag hill at Lake Geneva. His car was smashed and he was taken to the Walworth County hospital for treatment of bruises.

Mr. Croker was the foreman for Levi Z. Leiter. He was a down Easterner. As he was always called Croker no one remembers his first name.

The Walden W. Shaw family departed last Thursday for Pasadena, Calif. to spend the winter at their home there.

George Weitzel was foreman for George Sturges.

Mrs. George McClellan will be hostess at a benefit party for the Eastern Star Chapter, Lake Geneva, on November 2, at her home, 1024 Geneva Street.

W.H. Lawrence was the foreman for N.K. Fairbank.

HEIRS OFFER OTTO YOUNG MANSION
FOR PRIVATE SCHOOL

IT COULD BE WORSE

Rev. E.L. Killam, pastor of the Baptist Church at Lake Geneva, has just returned from a 3400 mile trip in upper Mich. and around the lake. He found a pretty blue bunch of business men in the resorts. Business was down more than 50 %.

Mr. Lawrence H. Whiting announced at the annual meeting of the Geneva Lake Home Owners Protective Association that the heirs of the late Otto Young estate were anxious to utilize the beautiful lake front property in a manner in keeping with the ideals of the founder of the estate. The Episcopal diocese of Chicago is interested in establishing a boys school on the property and at least two other schools have the property under advisement.

We have been lucky in this region, especially around Lake Geneva. It may have been off some, but it could have been a lot worse.

The property has been unused for many years.

Cheer up.

ANNUAL MEETING OF WALWORTH COUNTY
FIRE OFFICERS

The eighth annual meeting of the Walworth County Fire Officers Association held in the auditorium at Elkhorn last Friday night, broke all records for attendance. One hundred sixty members and guests were served at the banquet prepared by the ladies of the Congregational church.

Victor Rutter of the Fire Insurance Rating Bureau of Wisconsin, the first guest speaker of the evening spoke on "Specifications for Rural Fire Apparatus and Fire Department Organization." He outlined the reason for standardizing on apparatus and equipment and organization, in an interesting way, showing that a good set-up to start with is most essential.

G.F. Kessler, Supt. Fire Prevention of Wisconsin gave an interesting talk on "Flamable Liquids and Their Hazards". Giving statistics of the heavy damage and deplorable loss of life from the improper and careless use of flamable liquids shows that folks are still in the habit of kindling fire with kerosene.

Captain Emory A. Coffin of the Chicago Firemen's Drill School, talked on "Fire Drills and their importance."

The closing address was presented by Capt. James Young of the Chicago Fire Patrol. His subject was "Salvage Operations at Fires." All volunteer departments should carry more salvage covers and tools and devote more attention to salvage work at fires, as it means a big saving to property.

In the afternoon the firemen present were given instructions and actual work in drill evolutions in hose and ladder work, conducted by Capt. Emory A. Coffin and Cal Isacson, Chicago firemen.

The present officers of the Association were reelected unanimously to serve another year— Pres. C.V. Bachellet, Chief Delavan Lake Dep't., Vice-Pres.—H.C. Robb, Chief Sharon Dep't., Secy-Treas.—C.A. Foster, Chief Lake Geneva Dep't. Officers from the 13 Departments in the Association were present.

LINN FARMERS' FAIR A SUCCESS

The 24th annual Fair given by the Linn Farmers' Club at Zenda last Saturday, October 8, was a great success both in attendance and exhibits. 364 persons were served at the noon dinner and a large number at the oyster supper in the evening. Mrs. Chas. Karcher was in charge of the dinner at noon and George Bachelet and Tom Tibbitts were in charge of the supper.

Mr. James Cornue is president of the Club, Harry Thatcher, Vice-Pres., Wm Sommers, Treasurer; Mrs. Warner Bingham; Secretary. P.J. Weter and James Cornue were in charge of the junior department of garden exhibits. Mrs. Jacob Polyock and Mrs. Hugh Robinson of the culinary class; Mrs. Harvey Snudden of the sewing department; Albert Ledger, superintendent of the live stock; Miss Ruth Dickinson of the school exhibits. Harry Thatcher of the farm products; Mrs. Franklin Walsh, Jr., and Mrs. Ed. McCarty of the culinary class; Mrs. Leonard Snudden of adult fancy work. Paul Gavin had charge of the pony exhibit.

The town of Linn's new fire truck arrived in time for the town Fair and was exhibited on the grounds during the day. It is the first time this town has had a fire truck and will be kept in Lake Geneva and used on both sides of the lake, as part of the lake lies in the town of Linn.

-----
Mr. John P. Stanton of LaGrange Ill. was visiting old friends in Lake Geneva and vicinity and attended the Linn Town Fair last Saturday. He is 82 years old and has never missed the Walworth County Fair in more than sixty years.

-----
Mrs. D.J. Oetjen, Mrs. C.M. Bjorge and Mrs. F.M. Van Epps were guests of Mrs. Chris Madison at a benefit party for the Lake Geneva Chapter of the Eastern Star, held at Mrs. A. Brown's home, Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Freeman Mann won first prize in Contract; Mrs. Bjorge first in Auction bridge; Mrs. Wm F. Best, second in Auction bridge.

SALVATION ARMY CANVASS OCTOBER 17

The Salvation Army annual appeal is now in full swing thruout Walworth County. As in former years, Mrs. Arthur Ohl has kindly consented to act as Chairman of the drive, and with her group of loyal workers will commence the solicitation about October 17. The quota for Williams Bay is set at $70, and with the hearty cooperation of each interested person, should be fully subscribed.

According to Ed. S. Heberden, the Army's Field Representative, the public is warned to beware of two bogus solicitors who are working the State claiming to be solicitors for The Army. The Salvation Army has no outside solicitors in the County at any time.

FALLING LEAVES ON HIGHWAYS ARE DANGEROUS

Pretty on the trees, but pretty dangerous on the highways. That describes the brightly colored leaves that will start falling soon, and the State Highway commission today issued its annual warning to motorists to beware of falling leaves on streets and highways.

These leaves collect moisture and will cause dangerous skids. City drivers especially must watch for leaves, as they tend to collect along the curbs, where they will absorb moisture.

FIVE ARE ADDED TO WATER SAFETY PATROL BOARD

The following have been added to the board of directors of the Geneva Lake Water Safety Patrol: Ernst Schmidt, Arthur Wakeley, William Spencer, J.E. McAuley, and Mrs. P.K. Wrigley. These names were submitted by a committee appointed for that purpose.
