TRACK MEN TO MEET GOPHERS ON SATURDAY

Knollin Showed Fine Form
in Badger-Maroon
Meet

A light workout consisting of short sprints and easy jaunts was yesterday's program for the Wisconsin track squad which engages Minnesota in the first home meet of the conference outdoor track season on Saturday, May 14, at Madison. Badger track and field men came out of the Chicago meet, which they won by a 105 to 30 score, in excellent condition and will be in top-notch form against Minnesota. Two Chicago sprinters, Bartky and Bates, were injured in the Wisconsin-Chicago meet and will probably be out of competition for the remainder of the year.

Albert J. Knollin '22, who won individual honors against the Maroons with 15 points, showed that he is rounding into the form which gave him a tie for the high hurdles Big Ten indoor record. Knollin placed first in both hurdle races and won the 100 yard dash in 10 1-5 seconds after he had been set back a yard for breaking. Guy M. Sundt '22 scored 14 points for Wisconsin in the field events. Sundt captured the shot put and the javelin throw, and finished second to Willis Reget '23 in the running broad jump.

While Wisconsin was overwhelming Chicago on the cinder path, Minnesota, the Badger's next opponent, was being defeated by Ames 84 to 65. Anderson, Minnesota, was the outstanding star of the meet. The Gopher runner won the 100 yard dash, the 220 yard dash, the 120 yard high hurdles, and 220 yard low hurdles. His time in these events, however, was slower than that of Knollin, Wisconsin sprinter and hurdler.

Brown, Minnesota, copped the javelin throw, Madison won the hammer throw, and Kelly finished

LIT SOCIETIES TO BANQUET TONIGHT

In celebration of their victories in the joint debate this year Pythia and Philomathia will hold a banquet tonight at 7:15 o'clock in the Badger room of the Belmont hotel. It is expected that 75 will be present.

Pythia defeated Castalia early in the spring and Philomathia wrested victory from Hesperia last January.

The list of speakers for the banquet includes Gladys Borchers '22, Wisconsin representative in the N. O. L. last year; Alice Tucker '22, Eleanor Shearer '22, Charles D. Assovsky '21, and Robert B. Stewart '23.

Between the courses readings will be given by Ruth Kopke '22, and Laues Owen '23.

Sterling Tracy '21 will be toastmaster.

CURTAIN CLUB PLAY CAPTIVATES "CUBBESS" AT DRESS REHEARSAL

"I love you, Nan, I love you. Dear sweet, will you marry me? Do you love me?"

"I love you, Dick."

"Kiss me, kiss me!"

And then—guess I hadn't better tell you any more, old fellow, because I might spoil it. Jack Harding can sure make love. That scene's a knockout. You're going to the show tonight aren't you? Yeh! I mean 'The Tragedy of Nan,' the one the Curtain club, you know, the faculty dramatic organization is putting on at the Fuller tonight.

Go listen to Jack reel off some of his pretty speeches and then try 'em on your girl. She'd sure fall for you then, boy, provided you could get them out half as good as Jack does. I saw the dress rehearsal and was so absorbed that I completely forgot that it was a marvelous day and that I had to stay inside the gloomy theater instead of going canoeing.

For a fact, I've never seen such good acting in Madison. About the only thing we ever see is either a distinctly amateur production or one of these third rate companies which stop off now and then for a day or so. But this is different, it's real acting. The plot isn't very intricate, and neither are the lines by themselves, but interpreted in the way they are, it gets you, you just can't help it.

Every member of the cast has had actual stage experience and they show it. "Every one of the principal roles is acted in a manner which not only excels any amateur interpretation I ever saw, but which ranks with that of first class professionals," Mr. Pyre, who is in charge of the production of the play, told me.

Mavis Chubb, as Nan Hardwick, the leading lady and the object of Jack Harding's affections is really wonderful. You won't blame Jack a speck for falling for her and you'll probably have that 'all the world loves a lover' feeling until—

1922 BADGER OUT IN RECORD TIME

Those Who Lost Subscription
Stubs Will Be Protected

In order to protect every student who has made a deposit on the 1922 Badger, which will be issued on May 18, the Badger office will make special arrangements for those students who have lost their subscription stubs since the subscription campaign last fall.

"Students who have made the $1 deposit and have mislaid their stub should call at the Badger office any day this week between 4 and 5:30," said Roger Russell '23, circulation manager, yesterday. "Students will be required to prove their ownership of a book by signing the office stub and presenting their fee card. Those who have lost their original stubs will receive their Badgers on Thursday, May 19, at Music hall."

Although the vast majority of books are already subscribed for, there is still an opportunity for those who have not signed up to make a reservation for an annual at the Badger office any afternoon this week between the hours of 4 and 5:30.

"We have been assured by the binder that the delivery will be prompt, and we can be sure that the distribution of the 5,000 volumes will take place on Wednesday, May 18," said Cap Rasmussen, business manager, yesterday. "The shipment will arrive in one box-car load from Chicago, and will be spotted for unloading on Sunday, May 15, 30 days earlier than the usual date of arrival."

MANY WRITE FOR SPECIAL EDITION OF COUNTRY MAG

Conservation of Wisconsin's Beauty and Resources is Theme

Writing on various phases of conservation of natural beauty and resources in Wisconsin, many special writers have contributed articles to the May feature number of the Country Magazine.

Jens Jensen, consulting landscape gardener for the West Side parks in the city of Chicago tells of the impressive beauty of the Devil's lake country and the grandeur of the limestone bluffs in Door county.

John S. Donald, former secretary of state and now professor of farm management in the College of Agriculture gives many new and interesting reasons why we need state parks. He deals not only with the aesthetic reasons but the economic as well.

A lilting rippling rhyme from the pen of Dr. A. S. Alexander makes a true Scotch plea for the preservation of our fast disappearing flowers.

"Planning our Playgrounds" is the title of a comprehensive scheme for the preservation of the best types of scenery in Wisconsin written by Prof. F. A. Aust, landscape designer at the university.

Charles E. Brown, curator of the Wisconsin Historical museum, has written an interesting article on the fascinating subject of Indian mounds. Miss Louise Kellogg, research associate for the Wisconsin Historical society, points out that Wisconsin has some of the oldest inland waterways in the United States.

The magazine will abound in pictures; there will be seven full page half-tone plates and a large number of half page plates. Brown duo-tone ink will be used throughout.

It is expected that an edition of 2,500 will be needed to supply the demand for this issue.

COUNCIL DECLINES LINK WITH SENATE

The Council of Forty has declined to accept membership on the student senate or to act as the executive arm of that body. This action was taken at a special meeting held Sunday afternoon. The reasons for not accepting official connection with the senate are given in a statement which the executive committee of the council was instructed to prepare. The statement follows:

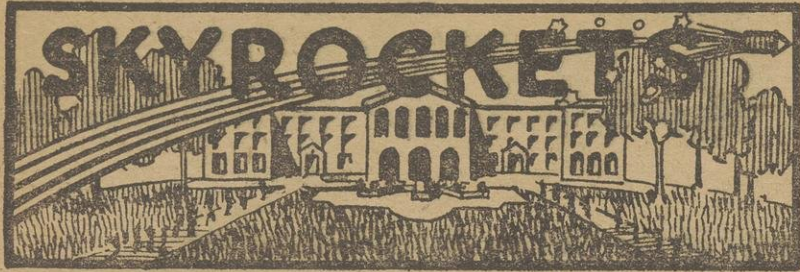

"The Council of Forty appreciates the confidence expressed in it by the student senate and the student body in the referendum recently submitted to vote, but feels that to attach itself to the senate in an executive capacity would be beyond the scope and original intention of the council and therefore respectfully declines the honor."

"The Tragedy of Nan"

TONIGHT—FULLER THEATER

Admission 50c, $1.00 and $1.50

IT'S only by the l. o. A. that you are permitted to read a col. this morning. Two chocolate nut sun-dae, a can of ripe olives, and a hamburger almost laid us away yesterday; towards evening we were nigh u. d., even to the point of praying for non-existence to end our woes.

Come little typhoid germ,
And nestle in our chest,*
Finish this our earthly term,
Lord knows, 'tis for the best.

*The correct bit of anatomy doesn't rhyme.

SOME brief sunshine cheered us up a bit, and we were able to be about for evening. But a relapse almost overtook us when we read in the shaily deet:

"The university display will be in competition with four hundred other displays from universities and commercial egg plants in the middle west."

PEOPLE who insist on mispronunciation, tell us that "The Tragedy of Man" was written by Darwin, in reply, perhaps, to W. J. Bryan.

ALTHOUGH we believe that the tragedies of most men are written in co-Edith's date book.

THAT the kissing season at the Ag school is closed, was announced by Welly Brothers yesterday. "The tulips have all faded," says he. But the bridal wreaths are coming on.

FROSH SERENADE AT Y. W. COTTAGE

The members of Freshman commission joined the rank of serenaders last week-end when they left the W. W. C. A. cottage on the lake near Black Hawk cave and serenaded the physics instructors who live in a neighboring cottage.

The instructors returned the compliment promptly, causing much glee among the freshman campers.

The week before last the cottage was opened by the Cabinet council and next week Sophomore commission will have charge. The cottage will be open during the month of May and every woman is invited to go and spend the night or week-end just to get a taste of camp life.

The women cook their own meals on a little oil stove and even make the fire themselves. Miss Anderson is in charge of the cottage and will be pleased to have all the women who care to, come out and spend a night with her.

New Livestock Shipping Body Formed in St. Paul

Representatives of a number of livestock shipping associations of Minnesota met April 27 and decided to incorporate the second livestock terminal selling agency in the South St. Paul market. The new corporation will be owned by the shipping associations. Organization work will begin in the field within a month.

Puts Foot On Wrong Pedal; Car Hits Pole

A Hudson coupe owned by the Lester Brothers garage, crashed into a post on the side of the road near Ft. Atkinson Sunday noon. Its four occupants, Mr. Grant, Milton Gazette, Leo Lester and L. D. Lutterman were badly shaken up. They were on their way from Waukesha to Madison and in rounding a corner the driver struck the speed accelerator instead of the brake. The car was badly damaged.

TO some the term "gentleman drunk" may seem incongruous, but Sunday night on Henry street proved the fact to us that there are such drunks, and again, that there are not.

KEN EDE wants to know how an ordinary little glass tube can be graduated, and he can't.

A coupla Sundays ago, the D. U.'s asked Doc Stuart and his wife over for dinner. They smilingly accepted, and at the proper time appeared. The boys seemed slightly startled, but he thought little of it.

All went serenely until the Doc noticed that his silverware was marked with the Sigma Chi crest. So was his wife's. And his right-hand neighbor. The Doc's eyes twinkled as he prepared to jest with the men about him.

"I see you fellows have a good deal of the Sigma Chi tableware?" he observed jovially.

"Well yes," answered his neighbor rather suspiciously, tapping his forehead the while. "We ought to; we're all Sigma Chis."

The Doc staggered hastily to his feet, ran out the front door, and noticed blazoned in the door-step, "630 N. Lake St."

All the D. U.'s and Sig Chis in American government and politics will receive "Exs" for their final marks.

"He sat on the bridge at mid-night,

His feet touched the water."

EVJUE TO SPEAK AT PRESS CLUB

All members of Press club are required to attend the bi-weekly meeting in the S. G. A. rooms, Lathrop hall, at 5:15 p. m. At this meeting, William T. Evjue, editor of the Capital Times, will speak.

"Because of several important matters," said Rodney Welsh, president, "we are making this meeting compulsory. Those who will not be able to attend must see the secretary."

Mr. Evjue will talk on the subject of "The Influence of the Press on Legislation." Having served as business manager of the Wisconsin State Journal and having been associated with several other papers, Mr. Evjue has had wide experience in the newspaper field. As a former assemblyman and political leader of Wisconsin, Mr. Evjue is well known throughout the state and is well fitted to give Press club an idea of the vital questions confronting the present day journalist.

Bill Barring Artificially Bleached Flour Passed

The assembly gave final passage Monday to the bill prohibiting the sale of artificially bleached flour. While this was done during the stress of war it is claimed that is no longer necessary and should be immediately stopped. Assemblyman French introduced a bill at the request of Atty. Gen. Morgan providing for a biennial meeting of all district attorneys with the attorney general at Madison.

With but a bare quorum present no important measures were considered in the lower house Monday and they adjourned to 9 Tuesday morning. The senate took a vacation Monday and will meet Tuesday morning at 10.

Forty-five hundred different models of motor cars have been manufactured since 1905.

there I go again telling the story. Nevertheless, Jack takes a very hard role, that of having to lose the sympathy of his audience after he has once obtained it, and he does it well too, not only the love making scenes but the whole role.

Flora Filtzer's mighty good too. She takes the part of Nan's aunt and has a difficult character role to play. Although you will detest Mrs. Pargetter, the part she takes, you will be impressed by the wealth of excellent acting behind the character.

Oh, yes, and the old fiddler, Gaffer Pearce,—he's just great. With seemingly no connection with the plot of the play, he has to get across the relationship of his utterings to the trend of events and he does it remarkably well. Davis Edwards plays this role.

Miss Margaret McCarthy, Professor Morgan, Professor Campbell, Eugene Byrne, and the rest of the cast which includes Janet Van Hise, Riah Fagan, C. D. Leake, and Robert Williams, display excellent dramatic ability.

The scene is laid in a peasant cottage in England and every detail has been worked out. Two of those curious old fashioned benches which can be converted into tables were obtained here in Madison and lend a great deal to the realistic atmosphere of the show.

The Mitchell Auto Sales Co. was made a sales partnership June 1, 1918, when G. E. Teckemeyer entered into partnership with W. R. Bentley. The firm was one of the oldest auto concerns in the local fields, having been in business 12 years. On Aug. 1, 1920, Mr. Teckemeyer took over the business and has upheld the firm's policy of service and fair play. Through this policy the firm has continued to grow and today is the distributor for the Mitchell Sixes, Gardner Light Fours and Selden trucks. Each of these lines was selected with care and none was contracted for until the management was entirely convinced that the public could not be offered anything better for the money invested.

EDMUND VANCE COOKE

ON May 19, Edmund Vance Cooke will appear here under the auspices of the Forensic board to read a number of his own poems.

Edmund Vance Cooke stands forth as one of the best known and most popular of our present day American poets. For a quarter of a century he has delighted and inspired the American public. His works have been published throughout the land in various newspapers and magazines. Recently, phonograph records of Mr. Cooke's poetic readings have been made by the Columbia Graphophone company.

Edmund Vance Cooke is perhaps not a great poet in the sense that Shakespeare, Milton, Wordsworth, or Browning are great poets, but he is a delightful and charming poet. In his work he has fused pathos and humor with a remarkable human sympathy. There is also in his work a true and noble inspiration.

As a platform reader, Mr. Cooke has won distinction throughout the country. He has appeared on the lyceum platform for over twenty seasons. It was largely because of this success that Mr. Cooke was booked for Madison.

The student body has a real privilege in the opportunity to hear Edmund Vance Cooke on May 19.

ADMINISTRATIVE BOARDS

THE Student Senate has requested that the newly elected administrative boards which send representatives to the Senate organize as soon as possible and elect their next year's representatives to the Senate. These representatives could be present at the remaining meetings of this year's Senate and could thus become familiar with Senate procedure.

The administrative boards that comply with the Senate's request will do much to better student government by providing an experienced group of senators at the beginning of next year. If the boards fail to comply, considerable time and energy will be lost next fall in getting the Senate organized and in getting the new men familiar with their duties.

The newly elected boards should hasten to organize and elect their next year's representatives to the Senate.

"BROTHER OR BRUTE"

THERE is perhaps no subject calling forth more campus discussion at the present time than Mr. Bryan's broad-side into the theory of evolution.

Various types of opinion have been entertained and expressed. To some people, the Commoner's views were a surprise and a shock. To some, the views were an absurd and a farcical attack made by one unfamiliar with the rudiments of science and logic—an attack which substituted ridicule for scientific argument, and which failed to reach the fundamentals of the theory of evolution. To other people, Mr. Bryan's arguments were sound and convincing; they appeared to shatter the generally accepted theory of evolution.

It is beside our purpose to pass judgment on the merits or demerits of Mr. Bryan's stand. Whether people agree or disagree with the arguments submitted by the orator, all must agree that the forceful statement of the anti-evolution arguments has evoked more interest in evolution and has started more people thinking in regard to that subject than any other single recent event.

To the extent that Mr. Bryan's lecture gives rise to a serious consideration of a profound philosophical question, it is commendable. It is highly desirable that people turn their attention to the great problems in the field of philosophical thought and try to ascertain just what the truth is.

If the theory of evolution is as well founded as most people think it is, then the thought aroused by Mr. Bryan's speech will strengthen that theory. If evolution is a sound doctrine, it need fear no attack such as Mr. Bryan advanced. If, on the other hand, the theory of evolution is unsound, it deserves to fall.

Regardless of how we look upon the logic or effectiveness of "Brother or Brute," we must admit the general thought on evolution evoked by the speech is well worth while.

HUGE LAWSON PLANE WRECKED

Four Escape Death as Giant Carrier Crashes in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE—Alfred W. Lawson's giant airplane De Luxe, the largest air passenger carrier in the U. S., was wrecked Sunday morning in a fall of 50 feet. Mr. Lawson and three others in the ship escaped uninjured.

The huge airplane, capable of carrying a score of passengers, was taking off on its first flight, to New York via Chicago. Unfavorable wind direction made the ship slow in leaving the ground and the pilot was forced to pull it into the air before proper flying speed had been obtained.

At an altitude of 50 feet the ship lost its climbing capacity and started to settle.

The plane's left wing brushed a tree top. The branches entangled in an aileron, tearing it off.

With the lateral control gone, the ship was helpless. It began to side-slip almost into the home of John Hughes, 915 Blake ave. A telephone pole caught the right wing, however, shattered it and brought the ship crashing to the ground.

Mr. Lawson had planned to build a number of ships similar to the one wrecked today. These were to carry both mail and passengers. He said he would continue his program. He said he believed he might use some material in the wreckage.

The ship was valued at $75,000. Damage is estimated at $8,000.

As a vote of confidence, J. C. Spencer, Milwaukee business man, and Mrs. J. F. Smith, air enthusiasts of Madison, Wis., led others in writing checks at the scene of the wreck Sunday.

The Rieseler brothers, two of Germany's foremost airplane constructors, have built what is believed to be the smallest airplane ever constructed for general use.

It is designed for pleasure flying. It has a wing spread of but five meters and weighs a trifle over 300 pounds. The wing spread is no wider than the arm spread of

NEW BADGER FARMS BOOST

Over 1,000 Being Settled Every Year, Says Norgord

Over 1,000 new farms are being settled in Wisconsin every year, according to figures made public by the Wisconsin commissioner of agriculture in his annual report Monday. These farms are being formed almost entirely in upper Wisconsin, as the lower two-thirds of the state shows an actual decrease in the number of farms.

Wisconsin maintains its leadership in silos, the report states, there being 82,034 in the state, as compared with 68,000 silos in New York, the second in position.

The largest single item in point of value among the agricultural products of the state was milk, the report says, 8,873,079,000 pounds being produced in one year, valued at $250,596,300. There are approximately 1,800,000 dairy cows in Wisconsin.

Swine are the most important of the meat animals, the latest report showing that approximately 2,000,000 swine valued at $62,000,000 were slaughtered or sold from Wisconsin farms in one year.

Market cattle are decreasing, being reduced from 660,000 in 1917 to 536,000 in 1919. To compensate for this decline there has been a considerable increase in the number of sheep.

Commissioner Norgord concludes the report as follows:

"In the face of declining prices on all classes of livestock, with the possible exception of milk cows, it is felt that the increase in the numbers of livestock in the near future will be small if indeed an annual decrease does not occur."

Highway Commission To Make Gravel Road Test

The state highway commission is to make a test in Dane county to determine to what extent gravel roads will stand up under heavy traffic. To this end a 2½ mile stretch of gravel road will be constructed beginning at Madison's east construction limits and extending northeasterly on State Trunk Highways 10 and 19 to the point where they separate. This stretch will be built in cooperation with Dane county. "The gravel road," says Chief Engineer Hirst in his report, "has increased in favor but there is not yet sufficient data upon it to determine how it will stand heavy traffic. The piece of road selected to test it out is an extremely heavy traveled road and is located conveniently for observation by the commission's engineers."

The United States possesses a motor vehicle for every 50 yards of railroad right of way.

Communication

AN OPEN LETTER

My dear Mr. Bryan:

I heard your speech last night. I am glad for your earnest and impassioned appeal for human brotherhood, peace and the love of God. But you hurt many young people that you and I are eager to help. You produced an effect you did not aim at.

May I make a few suggestions that may help with student crowds?

1. The scientists we know are not irreverent. Fifty years ago it may have been different. Today science and religion and religion and science have no quarrel. Truth anywhere is God's truth. Students I know feel that a study of natural sciences makes God's handiwork more wonderful to them. If you studied as hard as they do the recent scientific work of the world you would not quote such absurdities in the name of science as you did last night.

2. The result of thus ridiculing a reverent and serious study of God's truth in nature made many feel that your great choice—the climax of your appeal, was between not brutishness and brotherhood, but between God and science, and, as you put things, many would say, "If that's so goodbye God"—a result you least desired. Your method seems to divorce God from his world instead of showing his marvelous and constant connection with it.

3. Nietzsche's devilish philosophy stopped with this absurdity. Animals live by selfish laws, survival of the fittest, etc. Men are animals, therefore men should live by brutish laws. Result "the Hun."

Such absurdity is not the thought of today.

We say, Man has a marvelous animal body; man has a mind which we study; man has a moral nature which we study; man has social relations which we study; man has relations with God which we study.

These psychological, ethical, sociological, religious spheres are quite above the animal.

You emphasize immortality. I think some of us can look ahead a million years too. You only looked back on biological evolution. You could not see yourself in that scheme, perhaps, because you did not see that biological evolution may be but a small part of a far more tremendous plan, including moral and spiritual evolution, greater and more wonderful to our vision with every new scientific truth and every new Christian life.

You, Mr. Bryan, began life as two germ cells in your mother's womb. You were a gilled creature, a hairy one, a babe, a child, a man, a man aflame with zeal for brotherhood. Was not God at work upon you from the first and now? If reverent men with endless facts of which you are unaware, trace the whole race in the womb of mother nature a millions years, through man's childhood till he stood erect and Jesus spoke did they see God at work less? Is not evolution but a description of the way we find God working? among stars, rocks, plants, flesh, and in the hearts of men, now and forever?

"When I was an ape, I thought as an ape, I acted as an ape, I lived as an ape; but when I became a man I put away apish things. And I press on to the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

In that endless immortality

BADGER CROPS HELD IMPROVED

Field Operations Resumed in State, Says Report Monday

General improvement in Wisconsin crop conditions during the past week is noted, the Crop Reporting service reported Monday. Field operations have been resumed after several weeks of inactivity due to wet soil conditions. The season is now practically normal in central districts, about a week in advance of normal in northern districts, and a week late in southern regions.

Winter grains, greatly benefited by the heavy rains, are making rapid growth. Abandonment of acreage is small in view of the open winter. Spring grains in lowlands, which were showing yellow, are again reported to be turning green. Acreage will be decreased as it is now late for seeding.

Plowing for corn is again progressing and planting will begin in a few days in western and southwestern districts. A deficiency of good seed for silage corn is reported in some districts.

Hay crops are making good growth, although it is now apparent that a large acreage of old clover was killed during April. Young clover of last year's seeding was not injured materially, but the acreage is less than usual because of high seed prices last spring.

which you so well emphasize, will you not attain ever higher life than here till you reach the measure of the perfect stature?

Is it not possible that you, great man though you be, are but the tadpole of an archangel?

Many of us see evolution as a description of the tremendous working plan of God past and future, physical and spiritual.

There are many of us in a student audience. You must understand us to know your audience.

Very sincerely, and with hopes for your great influence toward human brotherhood and peace and godliness.

AT THE GRAND

Kenneth Webb, the director of "The Truth About Husbands," now showing at the Grand, had some interesting observations to make when recently seen.

His first thought is of the worth of the story and the quality of its direction. Discussing the art of making a screen drama that meets critical taste, Mr. Webb said: "Naturally a producer must have a good story if he is to make a good picture. The story is the foundation and the frame work of the structure he is to build. But if the director goes ahead and builds the structure and leaves out a window here, and a door there; fails to complete the cornice, or neglect to provide locks for the doors, he turns over to the owner an imperfect building."

"It is the same in building a photoplay. The story, like the architect's plan for the structure, may be superb and quite wonderful, but if the director fails to fill in with the proper detail or overlooks some of the smaller things in the story, he will probably present to the motion picture world an imperfect photoplay. When completed the perfect photoplay must pass inspection at the hands of experts in all lines, and should any of these experts discover any glaring defect, from his individual viewpoint, the whole photoplay is very apt to be condemned as imperfect and worthless. Hence the little appreciated, importance of good direction."

AT THE STRAND

Tom Moore in "Officer 666," a picture adapted from the Cohan and Harris stage success of the same name, and Mack Sennett's very latest comedy "She Sighed by the Seaside," are being shown at the Strand theater for the last times today.

Mae Murray in "The Right to Love" will be the attraction at the Strand Wednesday to Saturday.

The picture is said to be a pleasing combination of beautiful scenes and dramatic action. The locale is Turkey and the heroine, played by Miss Murray, is the wife of Lord Falkland, English representative there. Falkland plays fast and loose with another woman and the result is a clash, in which Richard Loring, a young American, slays the dissolute lord. By a clever twist the action is given a happy ending.

The American automobile business is the largest manufacturing business of finished goods in the world.

AT THE ORPHEUM

Bothwell Browne and his extravagant array of bathing beauties headline a well balanced bill at the Orpheum the first half of the week. Sharing his honors are his sisters, two petite, fairy-footed youngsters, who play their piano accordions with the same finesse and spirit that distinguished their dance. Although the dazzling promenade of seaside fashions with the Misses Peggy Leslie, Babe Waters, Gladys Loraine, Billy Belle, and Mickey Burns have been enough to win the approval of a most fastidious audience, the gorgeous spectacle of the dance of jealousy excelled even that. The costumes, the lighting, and the settings are resplendent with Orientalism.

Jimmy Dunn with his line of foolish chatter, and comic songs is back, just as popular as ever. His bubbling personality is one of his biggest assets.

Primrose Seaman, who appears with Arthur Conrad and Company in "A Little Bit of Everything," is an impersonator who manages to put across the Al Jolson and Eddie Foye stuff in an inimitable style.

Opening the bill is Miss Ella Lavall, an athletic young aerialist. She is a capable trapeze and ring artist.

A special committee from the U. S. Grain Growers Inc., is on its way to Montana, Washington, Idaho and Oregon to confer with those who advocate a national wheat pool and decide whether the pool shall be given exclusive right of way in that section or whether the new company with its optional or permitted pool will work in the territory. The first meeting is being held at Helena, May 7, and the committee will be busy until May 21. The future policy of the company relative to the poolers and the pooling plan will be based upon the committee's report. The committee consists of President J. A. Howard of the American Farm Bureau Federation, H. F. Shilling of Northfield, Minn., and Usher L. Burdick of Williston, N. D., both directors of the U. S. Grain Growers Inc.

TRACY ORATION IS CHALLENGED BY M'CAFFERY

Professor Demands Right to Refute Arguments Advanced

R. S. McCaffery, professor of mining and metallurgy at the university, and a member of the Kiwanis club, dropped a bombshell into the camp of Kiwanians Monday noon, when, following an oration on America And Britain For Civilization given by Sterling Tracy, junior in the college of letters and science, he demanded the right to refute the arguments presented by Mr. Tracy, referring in particular to Mr. Tracy's statements concerning Irish independence.

Mr. Tracy won first place in the Northern Oratorical league contests for Wisconsin last week at Iowa City program at the luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. The stirring address thrilled the club members, who applauded him for almost three minutes after he had finished.

His oration, in substance called upon America to befriend Britain, and close her ears to the propagandists who wish to embroil the U. S. in war. He scored Hearst, whom he characterized as a leader in the movement to bring us to war with England, and spoke scathingly of the small circles of propagandists in the U. S. senate.

Mr. Tracy argued that to bring about lasting peace with Britain, our ally and co-guardian of civilization in the western hemisphere, American can neither recognize the Sinn Fein regime nor the present British policy, but rather marshal public sentiment in favor of those factions in England which stand for liberalism. He enumerated the ties that bind the two countries, and pointed out that both the enforcing of the Monroe doctrine and the preservation of the white race can only be assured by the maintenance of the friendship between America and Britain.

Prof. McCaffery, resenting the arguments, declared:

"It may seem ungenerous, but I have heard these arguments from Mr. Tracy, some of which I consider perfectly vicious, and which challenge my Americanism, and I will not let them go unanswered."

The discussion ended here, as no debate on the oration was opened.

BATTER UP

"Marion" Given 4 Strikes and "Mac" Loses Ball at Cardinal Picnic

Two players on bases, two out, and but one strike left!

"Play ball," cried the umpire.

The pitcher glanced about him nervously. Every eye of the crowd watched him eagerly as he gyroscoped a foot into the air, wound up like a pretzel B. P., and tossed the ball toward a demure co-editor at bat.

"Strike three!" called the ump. "But we'll give her another chance."

It was only one of the thrilling moments of the baseball game at the Cardinal picnic Sunday at Bernard park when Irwin Maier '21 was pitching and Marion Goodwin '22 was at bat. The Scribes and Ad Chasers were playing ball. Carson Lyman '21 led the Scribes, while Irwin Maier captained the business staff.

The score was 12 to 9. The Scribes insisted that they would have won easily, if their opponents had not borrowed some of their best co-ed hitters.

"The game was going fine until Corrington Gill broke the bat," Charles MacInnis '23 declared yesterday when interviewed on the reason why the Scribes lost the game.

Carson Lyman, south-paw for the newsies and newsiettes, stated, however, "We would have won unequivocally without the assumption of a doubt if MacInnis in catching hadn't lost three balls. While he was fishing them out of the lake the other side made three home runs."

The party left on a special launch at 4:30. After the ball game at the park, a big picnic lunch was prepared. Weenies and bacon sizzled sociably together on long sticks over a smoky out-door fire. Salad and pie along with other picnic viands served also to appease the hunger.

A picturesque incident occurred when Marjorie Ruff '22, chairman of the refreshment committee, sawed into the apple pies with an axe. Hickman Powell '23 claimed the pie-eating medal. William Tannewitz '23, and Harold Maier '24 both contested second place.

Replenished with eats, the baseball players decided to play another game. As Margaret Daly '22, the scorekeeper, lost the score card yesterday, the exact outcome could not be verified, although both sides insist that the game was tied 69-69 in the thirteenth inning.

Having enjoyed a square meal, the picnic-ers sojourned to the pavilion to enjoy a square dance. With old-fashioned music played with jazzy calliopic creshes, the frolic was continued.

Shouts of "Wuxtra!" were heard when Marrion Strassburger '22 rushed up with a handful of miniature papers, "The Shaily Deet," having for a headline "Staff Sprees at Bernard Park," and for society news, "Girls wearing bloomers will be sent home immediately. No cameras allowed."

"Don't we get fun?" exclaimed
