The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

A Woman Living Alone

Long ago they say there was a woman living alone in her house in the woods. She was poor and they say she did not have a change of clothes so when she got dirty, she took off her clothes and washed them. She noticed that everything she was wearing was dirty so she took off her clothes and washed them. She was washing for a little while when she was surprised that someone was knocking at the door. She didn't know what to do so she removed her hat and hid herself. She was surprised that a man appeared smiling and staring at her. When he left, she noticed there was no crown on her hat.
