HIGH SCHOOL EDITORS MEET HERE FRIDAY

Many Journalists to Attend
Second Annual C. I. P. A.
Convention This Week-end

Two days crammed full of activity is the program for the big delegation of high school editors and advisors which meets over the week end in the Central Interscholastic Press association's annual convention, Nov. 25 and 26.

With an enrollment of delegates that far surpasses anything expected by those in charge, the committees are working at top speed to prepare sufficient entertainment and instruction for them.

To Sight-See Madison

Friday afternoon will be given over to sightseeing for the most part, and after registering, several parties will be organized to inspect some of Madison's points of interest. The Forest Products laboratory, with its interesting experiments and processes will be one of the places which will be open to the visitors.

The state capitol, always a magnet for youthful visitors, will no doubt hold its share of attention, and a party will be taken there. The Historical Library museum will also be visited.

"The Making of a Newspaper," a two reel movie, showing the mechanical processes which contribute to the completion of a newspaper will open the program Friday at 4:30 p. m. The picture was taken in the Detroit News plant and shows the process of editing, make-up, linotype operating and printing. The film will be shown in the Engineering building auditorium.

Luncheon on Saturday

A luncheon will be given to all delegates and students of the university Saturday noon at 12:45 in Lathrop parlors. Gov. John J. Blaine and William T. Evjue, editor of The Capital Times, will give addresses, and five special novelty acts have been prepared for entertainment.

The luncheon is being given by The Capital Times, Wisconsin State Journal, Literary Magazine, Octopus, The Daily Cardinal, Press club, Theta Sigma Phi, and Sigma Delta Chi. All university students are invited to come to the luncheon. The delegates are guests, and students will be charged 75 cents.

To date, 135 high school publications have entered the contests put on in connection with the convention. The delegates already signed up number 183, with indications that the final enrollment of editors and their staffs and advisors will run over 200.

The rooming situation is one of the hardest items in planning the convention. With a steadily increasing number of delegates to

Betty Dislikes Closing Windows In Cold Weather

"Betty, I move that you get up and shut the window—I never will get the courage to get up in this ice-box, and gee, but I hate to think of how it will be outside," said one room mate to the other just after the alarm clock had faithfully proclaimed the hour of seven.

"I was just thinking how nice it would be if you'd do that little thing, besides you're nearest."

"Well, will you let me wear your red wooly hat up the hill if I do? My hair is so short, my ears freeze—you at least have puffs for protection."

"Yes, I guess so—anything, just so that I don't have to be chilled by that cold blast that's coming in the window."

"How will we ever survive that trip up the hill? Br-r-r-r, it makes me cold to think about it. The only trouble with the hat is that nobody can tell where my nose leaves off and the hat begins."

"I guess I'll look up my skates today, you never can tell how soon Mendota will freeze over."

"Come on old dear, you'd better not bundle up any more, better get used to it, 'cause the paper says it is going to be colder and colder."

Haresfoot Follies Features Bill of Song, Dance Acts

Headlining the feature acts at the fourth annual Haresfoot Follies dance, held Saturday evening, Dec. 3, in Lathrop gym and concert room, are skits by Wells Carberry '22, and Hubert Townsend '23, and by Mord Bogie '23, and George Bartlett '22. In addition, a chorus act will be given, completing a well-rounded bill of song and dance.

The Follies performance marks the return of Carberry to Haresfoot shows, his last appearance being made as the star of "Mary's Lamb," the 1920 show. He recently took a leading part in "Phipps," a play in the Red Domino production. Townsend appeared as the Spanish vamp in "Miss Quita," the 1921 production. Bogie and Bartlett will appear in a musical duologue, interspersed with dancing. Both men had parts in "Miss Quita," in which Bogie had the role of the fiery Mexican revolutionist.

Willard Sumner's orchestra will furnish the music for the dancing by the audience. In order to prevent crowding on the floor, only 250 tickets will be sold, according to Carl Bronson '22, manager of the club. Tickets will sell at $2.

Union Vodvil to Hold Last Tryouts

Final tryouts for Union Vodvil will be held Thursday night at 7 o'clock in Lathrop hall. All acts which were picked in the preliminary tryouts are to appear before the judges at this time for the final selections.

All entrants are urged to be on time and to have their acts in the best shape possible for a speedy carrying out of the program. The judges will be Mrs. Flora Filzer Hertzler, Bill Purnell '22, Dick Tyrrell '22, and Ralph Scheinpflug '23.

NOT PROFITABLE TO ANTAGONIZE SCIENCE—ROSS

"Science offers mankind too much in the way of conquest of disease and mastery of the powers of nature for it to be profitable to antagonize," said Prof. E. A. Ross of the Sociology department in a talk given at the Religious Education assembly Tuesday at 9 a. m.

"Whatever happens, men of science are not going to be shackled, so it would be the worst for any movement that set out by opposing or belittling science," he said. "I see no reason why there need be anything anti-scientific in the program of religious educators."

That the maximizing of harmony and cooperation and the minimizing of hostility and conflict is a formula of social progress which probably all students would accept was stated by Professor Ross in his talk. He cited the World War as an example of what happens when national claims and ambitions are not held in check by consciousness of common humanity.

"In truth, the interested, thoughtful men are more and more taking in the promotion of religious education is a healthy prompting of society's instinct of self preservation."

"The fact that there has been struggle for existence and survival of the fittest down through the development of living forms does not in the least undermine my confidence in the soundness of the principle of brotherhood among men."

Two All-England Athletes Visit U. W.

The captain and center halfback of the distinguished All-England hockey team, Miss M. A. Gaskell and Miss Armfield, arrived in Madison yesterday afternoon for a short visit to the university. They are the guests of Miss Cynthia Wesson of the Physical Education department.

Miss Gaskell and Miss Armfield will be the guests of the Women's Athletic association at a hockey banquet for the members of the association and all women interested in hockey this evening at 5:45 in Lathrop. After the banquet they will be entertained by Orchestus, honorary dancing sorority.

The All-England team, which came to the United States to repay the visit of the All-Philadelphia team which toured England last year, has had a very successful tour of the eastern colleges. It won the three games of its series with the All-Philadelphia team played at the Philadelphia Country club. It defeated the college teams at Vassar, Bryn Mawr, and Welsley; and won from other eastern private schools.

In all, the team has scored more than two hundred goals on its tour. The English team, with the exception of Miss Gaskell and Miss Armfield, sailed for England last Saturday.

Besides their visit to the University of Wisconsin, the western trip of the English players will include visits to Northwestern and Chicago Universities, and to Detroit. They will sail for England December 15.

"It is unusual for college women to get into our type of team. She is too young, and is apt to lose her head in the excitement of the game," said Miss Gaskell in commenting on this.

UNION DRIVE BANQUET IS ENTHUSIASTIC

Memorial Drive Workers and Committee Heads Are Well Pleased With Results

Two hundred loyal Memorial Union workers donned tissue paper fool's caps and thronged into Lathrop parlors last night to a sumptuous banquet spread in celebration of the completion of the Memorial Union drive.

President E. A. Birge, bedecked with a green tissue paper cap, arrived in the midst of a chorus of "Cheer, Cheer, the Gang's all Here," and three skyrockets for "Prexy" were given.

Congratulates Workers

"I have been watching the work of the campaign with very deep interest, and I congratulate you on a good job well done," was the sincere praise of President Birge, after he had been introduced by "Hap" Baker, general chairman of the drive. "I was not among the many who proclaimed the task impossible at the start. I knew that the students of Wisconsin could accomplish it with perseverance, organization, and devotion. The more I have watched the work the more deeply I felt that the students here would not fall behind the students of the other great western universities."

President Birge went on to tell how the old period of indifference no longer existed. Students, whose fathers paid taxes, now had just as keen an interest in the advance of the Alma Mater as those out of the state.

"You have made a great movement toward enlarging the devotion to your Alma Mater. No such organized movement has occurred before, and no such spiritual effect has been produced," continued President Birge.

"Hap" Baker Pleased

"Hap" Baker was given a skyrocket of thanks for his constant effort and leadership. He then thanked the workers sincerely for their co-operation and expressed his pleasure in working with them and in making friends of them all.

"This is a grand and glorious occasion," Prof. E. H. Gardner smiled, adjusted his pink headgear and received a skyrocket. "This is the greatest occasion, the biggest job tackled, the biggest cause undertaken, and the greatest display of devotion, spirit, and energy I have ever known. You have made history; you have re-created the spirit of Wisconsin, and given it a new birth in love and loyalty."

Movies of the progress of the Memorial Union campaign were shown, and as the reel was run a continual chorus of songs, new and old, expressed the spirit of those present.

THE NOVEMBER LIT

Opening chorus—Tra-la-la-laru!
Oh... In the Lit
There is not a bit
Of naughtiness this time;
It's filled with wit
Of the genius nit,
And fully worth a dime.
* * *

Having viewed the sorrowful failure of the quasi-professional review in yesterday's edition, it behooves, in the cause of inhumanity, to succeed where the kindly gentleman with the ferocious name failed.
* * *

The most striking thing about this issue of the Lit is the amazing insight shown in the editorials. What a wonderful and agile man is the editor who travels so blithely from the boudoirs of Barnard to those in Orchard street. We ask you, how can a magazine avoid calling forth communications of the tut-tut order, when it exhibits such an editorial policy?
* * *

In view of what and who we are, we must maintain that OSCAR WILDEST does the best work this month; he's a member of this staff, so why should he not be the shining light? This merely goes to show that Lit is finally waking to the real source of intellectual effort—this space. We expect to read Luke McLuke next month.
* * *

It was our great fortune to meet PENNELL CROSBY one time, and while she did not appear to be "a woman of thirty" (page George Moore) she reminded us of the fact that it is necessary to keep your eyes open or to subscribe to a matrimonial gazette in order to end one's story properly.
* * *

Reading the rhythms of MILDRED HILL, it was apparent that this young woman had worked some place during her life, but whether it was in a ten cent store or a hop-joint, no amount of psycho-analyzing her stuff will show.
* * *

Seriously speaking, it is grievous to find symptoms of plagiarism in so original institution as the Lit; but, if we are not mistaken we saw, during our childhood, a piece of work in an eighth-grade "Ready Letter Writer" that is reminiscent of Margaret Emmerling's job, found in the editorial space. It is probably that the young lady spent her time in profitable perusal of this guide to young writers while in the House of Correction.

* * *

The gentleman with the Freudian name who writes so daringly about the latest books is wasting his talent. There is a nice little scandal-sheet—TOWN TOPICS—that could use his brilliant nuances.
* * *

There is a praise-worthy ad in the south-east corner of page 49. It might be better phrased thusly: "After Reading the Lit, Play Billiards!"
* * *

Cogitating further on the verse of OSCAR WILDEST, it occurred to us that we have often been fooled when he came in, panting and dishevelled, with his dope for the column; it never seemed as though he was arriving from a supposedly tame faculty tea.
* * *

WEIMER'S hectic job would have gone well in the Musical Courier or an educational sheet, but we refuse to believe that it is possible to shoo, or coerce in any way three men of this place into a concert hall: Notice! We use "men" in the "American" sense.
* * *

Here's a note on CULNAN'S play.....

After Johnny, blithe and bonny,
Wrote these fond obsession scenes,

Then he took himself away
To disport in the Marines
On an island,—not this dry—land—

Is the place where he can stray
With the sweet Malayan queens.
Fond obsessions, no discre-

tions,—
And we'll leave him there to stay.

The contest is being conducted by the Institute of International Education, and the subject for the essay is prescribed as "The Far East."

Any one of the following three phases of the question may be chosen: The Open Door Policy in China—its history with the practice of spheres of interest in China; How may Japan Provide for its Increasing Population without Violating the Rights of Other States; The Relations of East and West—colonies and settlements of western nations in the Orient and their influences on the development of Oriental peoples.

The contest, which is open to any college or university student, in the United States, will close January 1, 1922. Essays may not exceed 5,000 words.

Judges from five of the largest universities in the country have been selected, and they will make their award on February 15.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

BADGERS LOSE SIX VETERANS FROM SQUAD

Six Stars Graduate, But 1922 Prospects Are Fair

Now that the curtain has dropped on the 1921 Big Ten football season, critics are already looking forward to 1922 and making predictions about the strength of Captain "Rollie" Williams' squad.

With the close of the present year, which sees Wisconsin safely entrenched in fourth place in Conference standings, six first-string men are lost by graduation. Each of the athletes is a seasoned regular whose playing throughout his college career brought Wisconsin to the fore on the football field, and the names of some will be emblazoned forever in Badger football history.

Captain Guy Sundt, "Rowdy" Elliott, "T" Gould, "Jimmy" Brader, George Bunge, and "Jim" Woods compose the sextet which will leave a big hole in Wisconsin's backfield and line.

Sundt Punting Exceptional

Sundt was one of the outstanding stars in 1921, his punting and defensive fullback work making him a candidate for many honorary elevens. Elliott was the driving right half who has been the terror of the Conference for three years. Gould, left end and halfback, by his versatility in any position, showed that he is a football player in the real sense of the word, while Brader, Bunge and Woods were stars of the first water. Brader and Bunge, one with four and the other with three years of big-time competition, proved that they were the best linemen in the West this year. Both are potential prospects for All-American teams.

A perspective view of material for the future shows that Coach John R. Richards has developed a number of men who cannot be prevented from shining on the gridiron next year.

Some "Vets" to Return

At right end, old reliable "Gus" Tebell will be back to guard his flank. Brumm and Hohlfeld will be ready to handle the right tackle and guard positions in as steady a manner as they did this year.

Bunge will be greatly missed at center, but Wisconsin will have several possibilities with which to fill this gap in the line.

Pearce is a big, husky pivot who has been showing up well, and whose work of late in the season was of a high calibre. If Pearce fails to come up to expectations, "Kibo" Brumm could be shifted to center, a position that he filled during the 118 S. A. T. C. year for Wisconsin.

On the left side of the line, Christianson, who played his first year of varsity football in 1921, has two more years of competition ahead of him. For an inexperienced man who had never been under fire before this season, big "Chris" was a strong player. A little slow, but with lots of power, he makes a guard who can compete with the best of them.

Lose Three Stars

Brader, tackle, Gould and Woods, ends and backs, are three regulars whose going will give new men a chance to show their mettle. Coach Richards has men who are ineligible this year, but who are undoubtedly equal to Conference standards. "Marty" Below and Smith, products of Oshkosh Normal school, are a pair of expert forwards. Below might have played this year if eligible. He has been eyed throughout the season, and experts' conclusions announce that he is a good man.

Bieberstein, sophomore star lineman, Allard, 250-pound frosh, and Teckemeyer, freshman center, are good prospects for the forward wall. In addition to these men, there are Paige, Harmon, Rippe, and Die-

EASTERN TITLE IN FOOTBALL IS STILL UNDECIDED

The 1921 eastern football season closed Saturday, with the exception of a few annual Turkey Day games. Harvard sprung an unexpected victory over Yale, thus leaving the championship of the Big Three in a mixed up state.

Yale had already defeated Princeton, who in turn downed the Crimson, and the Blue went into the game a strong favorite. Captain Aldrich and his team started things off with a rush, and before the first period had ended, a drop kick had been sent between the posts.

The teams battled evenly until late in the third quarter, when a 40 yard run by Buell brought the ball to the Yale 11 yard line. Owen was given the ball for three consecutive times, and the last time carried it over for a touchdown.

It has been 12 years since Yale has won a football game from Harvard. The chances looked brighter this season than they have for many years past, but fate intervened and snatched the victory out of their hands.

The Big Three championship now is left entirely unsettled. Harvard, Princeton, and Yale have each suffered one defeat, and each have won one victory. There is little doubt but that the Blue is the stronger team of the three, but comparative scores would not indicate it. This opinion is also shared by the University of California team, champions of the west, who are trying to arrange a game with Yale to be played at Pasadena on New Year's day.

The strong Centre team, which defeated Harvard a few weeks back, had little difficulty in winning from Washington and Lee by a 25 to 0 score last Saturday. Straight football, mixed with a little aerial attack, netted four touchdowns, two by Snoddy, and one each by McMillan and Roberts. The "Praying Colonels" seem to have made football pretty much of an all-year sport down there. A game has been scheduled with Texas Christian University, to be played at Fort Worth on January 7.

Several other games of note were played in the East last week, although none of them had any bearing on a pennant. Brown nosed out a 7 to 0 victory from Colgate in one of the most interesting battles of the day. New Hampshire State administered a 13 to 7 beating to Holy Cross, who, some weeks ago, held the Crimson to a 21 to 21 tie.

Frosh Gym Squad Has Good Material

"The frosh gym squad has some very good material in it," said Coach Schlatter, "and it will offer the Varsity men some keen competition."

The preliminary trials have been completed, and the yearlings are preparing for the second set of tests, which will take place at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, Nov. 29. The final tryouts will occur about the middle of December. After these tests, the frosh team will be selected. There are 22 men out at present, and from this squad, the best eight or ten men will be selected to compose the frosh team.

Each man that tries out is required to take the tests on all of the various pieces of apparatus. In the first tests, Rand had a total of 35.75 points on all pieces of apparatus. E. Schmidt was second with a total of 33.00 points, and Dill took third place with 32.75 points.

In the tests on the horizontal bar, the three highest men, respectively, were E. Schmidt, Rand, and Phillips. On the side-horse, Gebhard took first place, Dill and Kress were tied for second, and Rand, H. Kletzien, Pelton, and Gauper were tied for third. The three high men on the rings were Rand, Phillips, and E. Schmidt. Kress rated highest on the parallel bars, followed in turn by Dill and E. Schmidt. In the tumbling contests, Dill got first, Rand, second, and Phillips, Jenkins, and Gauper tied for third.

Biersach, Wisconsin, made 200 yards breast stroke, in 2 minutes 45 seconds, at Patten pool, Northwestern.

If Yale Battled U. W. It'd Be Some Party, Says Chuck

BY CHUCK

Princeton beat Harvard. Yale beat Princeton. Harvard beat Yale. That's a pretty fix. Who's champion of the country now?

Harvard says, "Give the title to Centre." Yale says, "Give it to us." Princeton says, "Let's toss up a coin for it, the other teams won't care, anyway."

If any of the Big Three claims the gonfalon, the western college world will resemble a meeting of the First Internationale. The sack of Rome would seem like a performance of "Tea for Three" compared to destruction in the elite East. Cambridge, Princeton, and New Haven would wake up the next morning with a headache. People out that way will want to know why there was no warning of the earthquake. Kind relatives could go around and pick up remains of the football teams in a basket.

The old joke would have to be revised.

"You can always tell a Harvard man," says one lad.

"Yes, but you can't tell him much," answers another.

Those babies would be willing to listen to reason after an attack that would make the burning of Rome look like a marshmallow toast held by the W. A. A.

People would like to see Yale and Wisconsin stack up on the old gridiron. Easterners think all that would be left of Wisconsin would be the "i's" and they would be closed as in drinking. Westerners claim all that would be left of Yale will be the "q" and that will be silent as in billiards. Change the "Y" to "J" and Yale would be Yale.

But arguments are of no avail. There's only one way to settle it. Bring on the Bulldog. G-r-r-r-r-r. Watch the Badger chase him back to the kennel. Meow-w-w-w-w. Or how does a Badger sound, anyway? Let's try to schedule the game.

Soccer Progresses Despite the Snow

The soccer tournament has not been halted by the snow. Many of the teams are now in the third series, and will soon be ready for the semi-finals.

The Crescents defeated the Pawnbrokers 2 to 0, Monday afternoon. The Dumbells play the Red Dominoes Tuesday, and the Pirates play the Black Circles Saturday at 1.30. The winners of these two games will play each other some time next week. Whoever wins that game will play the winner of the match to be played at 3.30 Saturday between the Red Diamonds and the Crescents. The team which comes out on top in this series will be one of the two teams to play in the finals.

In the other division the Spades will have to play either the Black Squares or the Skull and Cross Bones at 2.30 Saturday. This will be one of the games in the semi-finals. The other game in this series will take place on Wednesday between the Horseshoes and the Red Wings. The winners of these two sets will meet to decide which one of them will play in the finals.

There are ten games in all to be played in order to complete the tournament. Coach Schlatter had hoped to finish this tournament before Thanksgiving, but the snow has delayed the progress of the games. At present he hopes to complete all games within two weeks.

Harold Krueger, Perry McGillivray, H. J. Hebler, Norman Ross, E. Binney, Jr., W. L. Wallen, Tedford Cann, and Duke P. Kahanamoku are some of the best swimmers in the world.

Three members of the New York city police force were on the 1920 American Olympic team. They are Pat McDonald, weight events; Matt McGrath, weight events; Spengler, heavyweight boxer.

Ralph Rose put the shot 51 feet in 1909. It is the amateur record in the event.

Baker, Hoffman, Johnson, and Butler were a quartet of Michigan track and field champions.

WILLIAMS TO CAPTAIN TEAM IN NEXT RACE

Football Hero Receives High Honor From Teammates

Another of Wisconsin's football heroes has received the highest tribute that his team mates can give him—the captaincy of a Badger Varsity. "Rollie" Williams, star half and quarter, has been chosen unanimously by the squad to lead the 1922 eleven.

During the past two years, Williams has brought the crowd to its feet many times by his runs through the opponents' line, and his playing in the Homecoming game this year will long be remembered by those who witnessed the exhibition.

"Rollie" To Play Half

Williams can be relied upon to lead his team from quarter or half, just as the need comes up and in both positions, he will acquit himself with credit. With the return of Barr and Gibson to the team next fall, Williams will be used at his old position of half, it is expected.

Rollie Williams has the ability of a good leader and much is expected of him when he captains his team in the conference race next year. His gameness is apparent to everyone who has seen him play. Especially was this noticeable in the Chicago game of this year, when on the first play, he received a severe injury to his knee, tearing the ligaments away and causing considerable pain. There was no thought of leaving the game in the Badger pilot's mind and he stuck to the team until the final whistle, when the seriousness of his injury was discovered.

Stars in Basketball

In basketball and baseball, Rollie is as great a star as he is in football. Last year, the basketball season is best remembered by his flashy playing. Playing at running guard on Meanwell's quintet that tied for the title last year, Williams was the most spectacular player of the season. His speedy dribbling, pivoting, and ability to guard Wisconsin's basket from opponents' shots, made him the first choice for All-Western guard.

Holding down an outfield position on the Badger Varsity nine last season, Rollie again came to the front as a great fielder, and a dangerous hitter. He ended his first year in Big Ten sports, as one of the greatest all-around athletes in the conference and he promises to maintain this record during the present year.

Sundt a Great Leader

Guy Sundt, retiring Badger captain, stands out as one of Wisconsin's greatest leaders. Leading his team through a hard schedule with three out of five conference games on strange fields, he has acquitted himself with credit and just as everyone rises to honor the team, they pay respect for the doughty leader who was in a measure responsible for the team's showing.

Without Sundt to back up the line this season, Wisconsin would have been hard put to stop the rushes of her opponents, but his steady work and fierce tackling was always a safeguard against the onslaught of the other teams. Directing his team's defense from his position back of center he has been able to turn the tide of battle many times and either by intercepting a pass or by tackling has held the backs from advancing. His punting was one of Wisconsin's main weapons of defense throughout the season.

Although injured in the Chicago game, he stuck to his post until forced to leave the game in the last quarter. Starting out with a weak shoulder and other ailments, Sundt played a wonderful game, and was in every play, until taken out in the final quarter.

Michigan took second place in the Big Ten outdoor track meet last year.

Senate In Row Over Tax Bill

Penrose and Heflin Hurl Charges As Battle is Opened

MEASURE PASSES HOUSE

Five Badgers Bolt G. O. P. Ranks As Bill Wins By 232 to 109

WASHINGTON—Disorder marked the beginning today of senate consideration of the conference report on the tax bill, the climax being reached in the unusual procedure of expunging senatorial remarks from the record.

The words stricken out were contained in a verbal clash between Sens. Penrose, Rep., Penn., and Heflin, Dem., Ala., in which Mr. Penrose referred to the "black darkness of the state" represented by Mr. Heflin and the Alabama senator characterized Mr. Penrose's state as manipulated by "predatory interests."

The clash was precipitated directly by conversations among senators which Mr. Heflin claimed disturbed him in a speech on the Ford-Newberry senatorial contest. He asked for order. Sen. Penrose had declined to permit Mr. Heflin to "I am not not surprised," Mr. Heflin said, "at the remark of the senator from Pennsylvania. He is known as the big boss of Pennsylvania and no senator can come here from that state unless O. K'd by him."

Mr. Penrose said he had no desire to interrupt Mr. Heflin, "knowing the black darkness he represented in his state."

Mr. Heflin shouted that no state in the union "was so manipulated by predatory interests as Pennsylvania."

When order was restored Sen. Lenroot made the motion to expunge the remarks. Sen. Poindexter, argued it was useless to expunge since every one in the senate knew they had been said and that they would be printed in the newspapers.

The motion however was adopted, by a vive voce vote.

WASHINGTON—Bearing the stamp of approval by 232 to 109, the tax revision bill as finally rewritten in conference was back today in the senate. Republican leaders said they were determined to put the measure through in time for congress to make a get-away by tomorrow night.

Only 11 republicans bolted on the final vote, while six democrats voted for passage. The republicans opposing the bill were Beck, Browne, Lampert, J. M. Nelson and Voigt, all of Wisconsin; James and Woodruff, Michigan; Michaelson, Illinois; Ryan, New York; Sinclair, North Dakota, and Keller, Minnesota. The six democrats were Campbell, Pennsylvania; Lea, California, and Dupre, Favrot Lazaro and Martin, all of Louisiana.

Senate conferees receded on only seven of the amendments adopted by the senate but in other cases they accepted house amendments to the senate changes. Apparently there are three major proposals around which much of the opposition in the senate will revolve—the striking out of the increased inheritance tax and the gift tax amendments and the elimination of the amendment authorizing either house of congress to obtain income tax returns from the treasury.

An examination of the bill as finally drafted by the conferees shows that the tax on carbonated soft drinks manufactured for sale in closed containers is limited to a levy of 5 cents a gallon on the finished fountain syrups used by the manufacturers. First announcement with regard to this tax was that the 5 cents a gallon levy was in addition to a tax of 2 cents a gallon on the finished drink.

Thiessenhusen Wins Turkey and Trophy

Ray Thiessenhusen '23, won the annual Turkey race over a mile and a quarter course, from a field of fifteen entries, yesterday. To Thiessenhusen, go the turkey and the Alsom trophy, for winning the pre-Thanksgiving grind.

Thiessenhusen finished fully 30 yards ahead of Bert Hilberts '25, who finished in second place a few yards ahead of Harvey Hazen '24, who was third.

The cold weather kept the field of entries down to a smaller number than usual but the places were keenly fought for in spite of the weather.

The following received the prizes offered for the first five men to finish, and the last to finish: 1, Thiessenhusen, turkey and cup; 2, Hilberts, goose; 3, Hazen, duck; 4, Herman, rooster; 5, Smithyman, rooster; Cleveland and Lenher, tied for the egg.

Wisconsin nosed out Notre Dame for third place in the Conference track meet held at Chicago last May.

Cabinet For Amnesty On War Offenses

Harding to Study Records With View of Pardon, Says Report

WASHINGTON—President Harding soon will begin a study of the records of all persons convicted of war time offenses with a view to the extension of pardons.

The subject of pardons for violators of war laws was considered at today's cabinet meeting and afterwards it was learned a policy of extending a fairly general amnesty to all such offenders was approved contingent on review by the president.

It was said officially there would be no sweeping proclamation releasing all persons convicted under the espionage and military laws and each case would be considered on its merits. No persons who have advocated property destruction and industrial offenses will be released, but effort will be made to clear up the status of military offenders.

The department of justice has been asked to prepare a digest on each case for the president's consideration.

Claim U.S. Has Edge on Navies

Japan and Britain Think America to Profit by Naval Project

DISCUSSION CONTINUES

Questions of Detail Are Up
Before Technical Advisors
At Parley

WASHINGTON—Naval experts of the three major powers were reviewing today the highly technical questions arisen in connection with the American proposals for immediate reduction of the fleets and a 10 year naval building holiday. The British and Japanese officers appear to have found some details of the plan which will require treatment before there is final acceptance.

For one thing, the British have pointed out the effect on the fleets the American program would have if the full measure of Secty. Hughes' plan were carried into execution. The plan proposes absolute cessation of building for 10 years; the fixing of the life of a battleship at 20 years, replacement building to begin 17 years after the ship to be replaced was completed, this allowing 3 years for construction of the new ship. The 20 year life rule alone is a novel one for other navies. Japan now uses eight years as the life of capital ships, beginning replacement within that period after a vessel is constructed. She has not as yet worked out this eight year cycle, however, expecting with her present building program to attain it in 1928. Great Britain has no replacement schedule at present.

There is some reason to believe that both the British and Japanese experts think the U. S. would come to the end of the holiday in far better shape than either of the other two powers. That appears to be the basis of the discussions now proceeding.

The situation apparently would weigh more heavily on Japan than on Great Britain because under the "5-5-3 ratio" of Secty. Hughes' plan already accepted by the British, the British would have to provide for a 20 per cent reduction of their fleet by 1931 when the ratio would apply, while Japan must get to work promptly on new ships if she was to maintain even the proposed "5-5-3" ratio.

Winter Sports For Women Start Nov. 28

Winter sports season for women will begin Monday, Nov. 28. Freshman and sophomore women have been registering Monday and Tuesday afternoons for four half hour periods of gymnasium work a week. Registration will be continued this afternoon from 2:30 to 5:30.

A new ruling this year gives the sophomore women with high efficiency grades in gymnasium work and sports an opportunity to take two sports in place of a sport with gymnasium work, which has formerly been required.

The five sports which women may choose from are: dancing under Miss Margaret H'Doubler; basketball, Miss Cynthia Wesson; swimming, Miss M. A. Brownell; indoor baseball, Miss Alice Gall; bowling, Miss Alfreda Mossrop.

Due to the early snow storms the inter-class hockey games have not been able to be played off. The freshman-junior game which the juniors won 7 to 4, and the sophomore-senior contest which the sophomores took by a score of 3 to 2, are the only two games which have been played. If the weather permits the other matches will be held this week-end.

Dante Club Holds Varied Program at Music Hall Monday

A vocal solo, "Recitative Ritmato," by Temperance Johnson '23, was an especially interesting number of the program given by the Dante club last evening in Music hall. The solo was taken from an old manuscript of the "Divine Comedy," with music especially composed for it by G. Rossini.

A talk on Dante, "Cavaliere della Corona d'Italia," was given by Prof. M. S. Slaughter of the Latin department. Among the other numbers on the program were:

Vocal duet, "Passage Bird's Farewell," Hildach—Martha Chandler '22, and Winifred Collier '23.

Vocal solo, "Verdi Prati," Handel—Irma Duncan '24.

Piano solo, "Concert Etude," Chaminade—Marjorie Mosel '25.

Vocal solo, "Mi Chiamano Mimi," Puccini—Eunice Neckerman '25.

Piano solo—Alice Rider '25.

"Santa Lucia," and "Finiculi Finicula," by Dante club.

Peter Cheli '23 was in charge of the program.

Among the curios of the Dante exhibit now on display in the Historical museum, are charts and maps showing Dante's conception of the universe, old volumes in Italian, one large portrait of Dante, and several smaller ones—reproductions of old paintings.

The program last evening was the first four events to be held in commemoration of the sixth centenary of Dante's death.

Professor Lipari will explain the Dante exhibit to his Italian classes Friday, Nov. 25, at 3:30 p. m., and will relate some of the main episodes of the "Divine Comedy," and anecdotes of Dante. Anyone interested is invited.

A public lecture, "Dante Six Hundred Years After," will be delivered in Music hall, Nov. 28, at 4:30 p. m., by Prof. Charles H. Grandgent, professor of Romance languages at Harvard university, and a celebrated American Dante scholar.

Professor Lipari has been asked to read a paper under the auspices of the Language and Literature club December 2, at 7:45 p. m., on "A Comparative Study of the Aeneid and Divine Comedy," in the senior lecture room of the law building.

Plumbers Finally Agree With Lawyers

Being unable to come to an agreement on a suitable date for the Lawyers-Engineers football game both interested parties finally agreed yesterday to indefinitely postpone the contest. It is the first time that the magistrates and plumbers have ever arrived at a settlement satisfactory to all concerned.

After carefully considering the breezy evidence of cold weather as told by Jack Frost, star witness, the jury composed of Dean Turneure's proteges voted for a postponement, and the supreme judge casually slipped the word "indefinite" into the court ruling.

English Hockey Team to Banquet

Definite plans for a banquet in honor of the English hockey players were made at the W. A. A. meeting held in the concert room Tuesday evening. The banquet will be held in Lathrop parlors Wednesday night, at 5:45, and is open to all those who are interested.

Small emblems were awarded to Esther Mainland '23, and Romona Hayes '23; pins were awarded to Katherine Barthoff '23, Pearl Anderburg '23, and Elsie Iverson '23. Abbie Elsom '24, and Margaret Butler '23, were taken in as new members.

Prom Play Tryouts to Be Held Friday

Pre-Prom play tryouts for the play "Old Lady 31" will be held in the S. G. A. room, Lathrop hall, Friday afternoon, from 2:30 to 6 o'clock. All students who are eligible for school activities are urged to try out.

The committee which will act in judging the tryouts includes: Gert-rude E. Johnson, professor of public speaking; Henry Rubel '23, Miriam Doan '22, and Marjorie Boesch '23.

WHAT IS THE MATTER?

THAT the enrollment at the university has already suffered and has yet to suffer many withdrawals, is plainly evident.

Current rumor on the campus reports that there is a startling percentage of students who have miserably failed to grade up to the scholastic standards of the university. This condition is found in every college and department and in each of the four classes.

Upperclassmen as well as freshmen are included in the lists of those who are struggling with "cons" and "flunks." If freshmen were the only delinquents, it could be reasoned that many of those who had entered this year were not able to successfully handle university studies. With upperclassmen also failing, however, the explanation is not so easily found.

Heretofore the failures have been generally explained as the faults of the students themselves. It was argued that they were not of university calibre, or may not have received sufficient preparation.

The case this year is so extensive that these explanations will no longer suffice. We cannot blame lack of preparation or ability on men who have successfully competed one or more years' work in the university. Other causes than these two must be contributing to the general effect. Environment of the student may be a contributing factor in a few isolated cases where students have failed to keep up to the standards required by the university. But in a few cases only can this explanation be applied.

That the standards required by the university may be too high is entirely possible. In some departments and in some courses the belief is firm that these standards are entirely too high for the average student. If supermen only were enrolled in these courses the standard could easily be lived up to, but the great bulk of the students are not boasting of being of naught but the average intelligence and training.

Much of the theory of some of the courses of instruction could well be dispensed with, and more of the practical phases of the work instilled. Wading through a maze of theory in order to arrive at a grain of truth is not in the least inspiring. It does not tend toward increased endeavor or interest in the course.

Perhaps some of the failures among the students could be eliminated if the courses were gone over with a view of making them practical as well as interesting. Not all of the student failures can be charged to the fault of the students themselves.

ETIQUETTE AND POLITENESS

SCHOOLS of etiquette are common, but few have ever heard of a school where politeness and kindness to others is the chief aim of the course. It might not be unwise to have such a school.

Judging by the little acts of rudeness and lack of consideration shown to others that are daily evidenced on the campus, a course in the rudiments of politeness is badly needed at the university. To be polite it is not necessary to have the manner of a Chesterfield or a Cary. A little less thought of self and a little more thought of others, a little less visible proof of an exaggerated ego and a more generous belief in the abilities of our friends and acquaintances would go far toward reaching the goal of true politeness.

In this busy world of the present day, it may seem that we have no time to spend being polite. There is such a rush to conquest new worlds, build new financial empires, and acquire the monetary wherewithal which will present the outer show of success, that little time or thought is given to consideration of the inner man and better man that exists in each of us. Too much time is given to the making of a gentleman-outwardly, and not enough to the making of the true gentleman.

The friendly word and the merry greeting are being forgotten through lack of use. We forgot to doff our hats to our friends, to utter the cheery word or to give the friendly hand-clasp—in fact we often forget even the existence of anyone who is not necessary to our success.

No course in education should be complete unless it include at least the rudiments of politeness. The world expects courtesy and consideration for others from an educated man. It is a mark of education—of culture.

Walt Mason, often called the poet philosopher, abandons somewhat his humorous, froth vein and gives us the following homely truths about politeness and etiquette:

"There is a light in my window for all men who are kind and cheerful, for all men who are considerate of others, and therefore truly polite, and no rules of etiquette need govern their coming; they may enter by the door or by the window and sit on the floor and hang their hats on the gas fixtures. They are polite and I am polite, and we rise superior to cast-iron rules. But there is no light in my window, no 'Welcome' on my doormat, for the uncouth delegates who say and do things that wound.

"So many understand etiquette, and so few understand politeness. When I speak of politeness, I have no reference to the stilted forms and ceremonies prescribed by the books of etiquette.

"Now while we are getting back to so many good things, let us get back to politeness, to old-fashioned courtesy and urbanity. The world will be pleasanter and our own lives will encounter fewer sharp corners if we abandon our snappishness and be pleasant and cheerful."

Acrobats at Orph Fail To Please Cardinal Critic

By P. H. J.

The bill at the Orpheum for the first half of the week is distinctly a reversion to type—if a vaudeville performance may be thus described. In bold contrast to the show of last week the present bill contains everything in the variety line from acrobats to ventriloquists. With the old-timer the show ought to get away strongly.

A review of this week's bill would be incomplete without some reference to the unusual musical program which Prof. Edward Skelton, director of the orchestra, has prepared in conjunction with the news film showing the burial of America's Unknown Soldier.

By the way, one of the actors last week told me that the Orpheum orchestra was one of the best on the junior circuit. After hearing their selections last night, one is thoroughly convinced of this fact.

Lester, Bell and Griffin

Acrobats of the rapid-fire, overtable, pull-out-the-chair kind of act. They worked hard.

Austin Goertz and Fae Duffy

Bride and groom stuff with plenty of nationality imitations in all languages excepting the Scandinavian.

Bryan Lee and Mary Cranston

More marriage atmosphere in a sketch that has several clever lines. Quite an exhibit of costly lingerie.

Phina and Company

A troupe of colored singers and dancers. Much shimmying put on by one of the vibratin'est (dance artists) seen in several weeks. Quite a few passably good voices.

The Great Lester

A ventriloquist who is the headliner this week if there is one. Lester's act shows the entertainment value of a man and a dummy, and the audience was quite satisfied to see the man talk to himself.

Rosa King Trio

Wire artists who go through the conventional act and end the show.

Universal Loyalty

Inspires Student

Christian Society

—MLLE. DIDGRAIN

"The one great fundamental inspiration behind the World's Student Christian federation is the universal loyalty to the Lord Jesus Christ. It is the point where we are all at one," said Mlle. Suzanne Didgrain, traveling secretary for the World's Student Conference association, in her talk in Lathrop concert hall on Tuesday noon.

"This world federation is made up of all the student organizations in the world. It was founded 26 years ago by only five nations, and has now expended to include 19, and is in touch with 35 national movements. From a federation mostly Protestant and of the Anglo-Saxon and Germanic races, it has changed to include all denominations and races, its chief aim being to extend its work all over the world.

"In England it is a mixed movement emphasizing the unity of all churches and the loyalty of each Christian to his own church, and deals with all denominations alike. It is here characterized by absolute fearlessness in tackling all the questions of the day. Its motto is: 'Where the truth is let us find out. We do not care what happens.' This British student movement is worthy of becoming the conscious worthy of becoming the conscience of the British nation.

"In Russia the student movement has been able, even in the recent years of seeming hopelessness, to make it possible for some of its students to go on studying, and to help its members to expand spiritually. On the last prayer day, which is the last Sunday in February, the Russian student movement got together $150 for this work. These students will furnish the finest inspiration in Russia with which we will come in contact.

"The European Relief fund was started to help the students in nine European countries not to die of hunger. The students themselves give their time to this work, and getting outside work where they can, and the relief fund is to add the help which they cannot get themselves.

"Without suitable food or clothing, in great need, and forced to lower their ideals because it is too expensive even to be clean, these students, who have been used to as high ideals and standards of living as you and I, accept the aid of the student's relief fund not as charity, but as an expression of Christian fellowship from their fellow students."

Church Head Asks Aid for Student Center

Archbishop Messmer Says Work of U. W. Chapel Important

The extension of the work of St. Paul's university chapel on State st., and the erection of a large community hall or Catholic student center is asked by Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee. A collection will be taken up in all Catholic churches of the archdiocese of Milwaukee, including Madison, next Sunday for the work of the chapel.

In a circular to his clergy, the archbishop writes that the spiritual welfare of over a thousand Catholic students depends on the pastoral work done at St. Paul's university chapel. He declares that this work must be extended and enlarged. The building of a large hall or Catholic student community center is contemplated for the near future. The archbishop declares further that the duty of enlarging the scope of the work "devolves upon the Catholic people and dioceses of Wisconsin. It lies nearer to us than the duty of helping the Catholic University at Washington. For this reason it is not left to the choice of the pastor whether to take up this collection or not. All are commanded to have it taken up in their parishes and to urge their people towards a strong and generous support of St. Paul's university chapel."

The Catholic churches in Madison will observe Thanksgiving day this year as usual by high mass, benediction of the blessed sacrament, special prayers and Te Deum. Special services will begin at 10 o'clock at St. Paul's university chapel.

Ag School Carries On "More Eggs" Campaign

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The Milwaukee agricultural school is carrying on a "more eggs" campaign. Many different experiments are being tried out to increase the production in eggs. Among the tests at the school is that which allows any one in the county of Milwaukee to bring to the school five hens, these are kept by a special arrangement on the nest which, when the hen goes into, it locks, and in this way the number of eggs laid by this particular hen can be kept track of and compared to that of the other four. At the end of a certain length of time certificates are given for each ten, telling how many eggs the hen has laid during the period, and as to its value in production. Different kinds of feed are being used in experimenting at the school, and according to Mr. Hickey the average production of a hen for one year is around 90 eggs. At the school are some hens which average 200.

PADEREWSKI ENTERTAINS "THE KID"

Jackie Coogan and Ignace Paderewski.

Ignace Paderewski, formerly premier of Poland and famed as a pianist, but who is now living in retirement near Paso Robles, California, recently entertained at his ranch little Jackie Coogan, "The Kid" of screen fame. Paderewski derived much entertainment from the acts of the little movie star.

Gopher Chain Gang Puts Out Sheet and Enters the Compet

Every great organization is bound to have its slipups while in the process of attaining fame. So spake a great man once upon a time. But the executive committee of the Central Interscholastic Press association claims it has one of the funniest errors on record.

In receiving answers to some 1,500 invitations to join the association and enter the contest for prep school publications, Secretary George W. Greene was shocked the other day to receive a reply saying that Stillwater "Mirror," publication de luxe of the inmates of Minnesota's state prison, was glad to receive a bid, and entered. A copy of the chain-gang's contribution to the Fourth Estate was enclosed.

By some strange miscarriage of the mails or error in address, an invitation had reached the editor, who goes under the modest "Pen" name of No. 78,694!

The paper, a four sheet daily, well edited, and neatly printed, is quite remarkable for the somewhat "confined" circumstances in which it finds itself and staff. Published entirely by inmates, it boasts a news department, including the progress in the binder twine factory, releases, arrivals, etc. Sports tend to reports of inter-gang games of football, baseball, and boxing matches. Some rather excellent editorials are found also.

Society news? Well I guess! But not under that title. They call it "Cell Changes." No. 666 has changed his place of parking to Padded 987, No. 55,784 taking his vacated abode. Old 13 has taken to "solitary" for a week, etc.

"It's never too late to mend," is the paper's motto. The paper is one of the most interesting entries received. The staff expressed its regret at not being able to send a delegate to the convention.

Might Close 2 Plants if Hebe Not Approved

Closing down of two plants at Oconomowoc and Jefferson or a lessened demand for milk at all plants in the state would be the only two courses open to Carnation milk manufacturers in the event that skimmed milk compounds are definitely prohibited in this state, according to testimony of William C. Cross, assistant general superintendent of the Carnation Milk Products Co., in that company's test case of the constitutionality of the anti-compound law before Judge A. G. Zimmerman, sitting as referee for the supreme court.

The demand for evaporated whole milk he said would not be sufficient to warrant running the plants now devoted to compound manufacture on full production schedules of evaporated milk, and the lessened production would be divided among the remaining plants. The other course would be discontinuance altogether of the Oconomowoc and Jefferson plants.

Drs. T. W. Tormey and Frank S. Meade of Madison testified that skimmed milk is often prescribed for infants and that whole cow's milk is not an ideal infant's food when unmodified. William B. Richardson, chief chemist for Swift & Co., as the principal witness Tuesday morning. He gave detailed testimony with regard to feeding tests.

Death Comes to Famous
Diva at Copenhagen

COPENHAGEN—Christine Nilsson, the noted operatic soprano, died here this morning.

Christine Nilsson was one of the brightest luminaries of the operatic stage of a generation ago. ## Italy Taking Lead in Reduction of Armies

WASHINGTON — Italy has no fear of any of her European neighbors and her sole desire is to have the feelings aroused by the war subside and give way to the spirit of peace, an official spokesman of the Italian delegation to the arms conference said today. The spokesman declared that Italy had not even awaited the call for this conference to begin the reduction of her army, which now has been brought down to less than 200,000 men. Moreover, the period of military service which before the war was 2½ years already had been substantially reduced, and probably would be cut to eight months.

We Forget Our Obligations Says Mayor Kittleson

Mayor I. M. Kittleson today issued a proclamation calling upon all Madison people to lay aside their work on Thursday and join in a quiet observance of Thanksgiving Day. The proclamation follows:

"Thursday, Nov. 24, is Thanksgiving Day, set apart for special consideration and observance of our duties and obligations to duty.

"In this age of eagerness to possess the material things in life, we are too prone to neglect and forget these obligations. Our successes and happiness are too apt to be taken for granted. Reverses and disappointments naturally make deeper impressions on the mind.

"We the people of Madison have much to be thankful for. In spite of the crisis through which the world is passing, Madison has been fortunate. As a people we are generally prosperous and happy, despite the unemployment situation which is not as serious here as in many other cities.

"Therefore, as Mayor, I recommend that all places of business be closed that day to give us opportunity to repair to our usual places of worship and with prayerful thanksgiving 'Praise God from whom all blessings flow.'

"I MILO KITTLESON,
"Mayor."

1100 Safety Boxes Rented In New Bank

Scaffolding Being Removed in Interior of First National

"Just how is The First National Bank going to be of more help to me?" is the name of the first publication put out by The First National Bank, Merchants and Savings Bank, and Central Wisconsin Trust Company jointly, and just issued under the signature of L. M. Hanks, president of the Central Wisconsin Trust Company who will be the active head of the bank and trust company after the consolidation.

With the removal of the scaffolding on the interior of the First-Central Building today, the banking quarters began to take on final form. The decorating has been completed on the ceiling and walls of the bank, the marble around the lobby has been installed and work is now under way on the caging.

According to the officers of the bank, over 1100 boxes have been reserved in the new safe deposit department which is practically completed. The boxes have been installed and at present keys are being fitted for each individual compartment.

That the community room, committee rooms, ladies' room and other services of a similar nature in the new building will be as much available for people in this trade area as for Madison people is the statement made in the pamphlet just published and being sent to the customers and friends of the bank and trust company.

"We want folks to know that while the merged First National Bank, Merchants and Savings Bank and Central Wisconsin Trust Company is a Madison institution," says the pamphlet, "it is as much for the use of Dane county folks as are the conveniences and attractions of the entire city of Madison. Farmers and their families shopping in Madison or here on pleasure will find it convenient and pleasant to stop at the bank—to make this bank their Madison headquarters."

"You don't have to be a member of any organization to meet at The First National," says the pamphlet. "You don't even have to be a customer of the bank. We feel, however, that when people really know our service, when they appreciate the banking and other facilities it will be possible to enjoy in our new home, they'll want to do some of their banking business, at least, at The First National Bank-Central Wisconsin Trust Company."

VERSAILLES—Immense crowds calling to mind the Versailles of the most famous days of the peace conference sessions today travelled from Paris in the hope of hearing the testimony of Fernande Segret "Bluebeard" Landru's eleventh alleged fiance, and the only one, according to the prosecution to escape death at his hands. Landru is facing the charge of having murdered ten women and the son of one of them. Mile Segret staunchly stood by her former lover, telling the judge and jury a story of simple love and delicate attentions bestowed upon her by the man accused of strangling, cutting to bits and cremating ten other women.

Judeans Get Set For 1921-1922 Season

The Madison Judea Athletic club, runners up in last year's city intermediate league, have organized for the season. Only one regular, Sol Epstein, captain and star forward will be lost to the squad. His place will be ably filled by Harry Cohen, forward on the Weyauwega high school team for three years. Abe Epstein, brother of Sol, will play opposite Cohen. Epstein, who led the league in scoring, is this year's captain. Leo Shapiro will again hold down the pivot position. In all the games played last year the lanky center was not out-jumped once. His defensive work was the outstanding feature of every game. Myron Halperin and Joe Sinaiko will both be back again at the guard positions. This pair of guards last year held their opponents to an average of four baskets a game. This year they give promise of showing up better than last year.

ADMIRAL AND LADY CHATFIELD ARRIVE WITH ARMS GROUP

Admiral Lord Chatfield and Lady Chatfield.

Included in the groups of arms conference delegates and advisors who are now constantly arriving in Washington for the opening sessions of the parley is Lord Admiral Chatfield of Great Britain, who will act as one of the advisors to the British delegation. Lady Chatfield accompanied him from London.

The clean playing and sportsmanship of the Judeans have made them one of the most popular teams in the city. In the last three years the M. J. A. C. basket ball team have participated in 68 games, winning all but four. Each defeat being avenged but one. However, these games were lost to teams outweighing the Judeans, and as a result they have been the champions of their class the three years. In 1918—120 pound champs, in 1919—125 pound champs and in 1920—130 pound champs. This season the Judeans are taking on a heavy schedule, booking games with strong Milwaukee, Appleton and Beloit teams.

Thus with four regulars back from last year, and the one vacancy filled by a capable and experienced player, the Judeans bid fair to embark upon a successful season which will find them fighting for their fourth successive championship. The Judeans would like to hear from all 130 pound team. For games call Myron Halperin, manager, Badger 3043.

Harry Leifert '22, and Margaret Walker '22, chairmen of this committee, wish to again ask that any members of fraternities or sororities who can possibly take care of one or two delegates, will notify the committee.

The first session of the convention will be called to order in Sterling hall auditorium, and a program consisting of talks by officers and directors of the convention, and several leading men of the university, will be given.
