THANKS ARRIVE FROM EUROPEAN STUDENT BODY

Last Year's Drive is Answered

Letters of appreciation which are arriving here from European students, in thanks for the donations made them from the funds raised in last year's European Student Relief drive, may be accepted by the sceptics as conclusive proof that their money is being put to good use. The $1500 raised in last year's drive was divided among the European students where the need was greatest.

This drive was not for the purpose of giving European students a university education; it was to help feed and clothe them and to keep them alive while they studied. That our donations were appreciated is shown by such characteristic letters as the following from the student home in Giessen, Germany:

Funds Bought Food

"In this time of the bitterest need of our people, it fills us with the greatest of joy to receive from you in America a gift of $30. We have laid aside a portion of this gift in order that in case of the direst need we may still have a little cash on hand. Two-thirds of the sum, however, was used to buy canned meats, peas, beans, sugar and other important foods, which are daily becoming scarcer. We trust to have made the use of your money which you would have wished, and we assure you again of our sincerest and heartiest thanks. If ever members of your university come to Germany on a vacation trip, it will be a special pleasure and honor to us to be permitted to show you our student home with its numerous arrangements for student welfare.

With academic greetings,
President Eger,
Bus. Mgr. Stratemeyer.
Sends Appreciation

Another excerpt which explains conditions in Europe is from the University of Marburg. It reads: "Please forward to the generous donors the most hearty thanks of the University of Marburg and of its student body. The student who is forced to earn his money during vacation periods in mine or factory is so poor that, for the most part, he has very insufficient clothing and shoes. We have therefore bought with the money which you have placed at our disposition 50 pairs of coarse, strong boots and 50 suits of working clothes. You could hardly believe what joy the news caused when we announced that working clothes and boots could now be provided. In most sincere gratitude we greet you student comrades of the University of Wisconsin."

SEVEN DEGREES GIVEN BY UNIVERSITY REGENTS

Seven degrees were granted by the Regents of the University of Wisconsin at their March meeting. Among the graduating students who received the degrees were the following from Wisconsin cities: bachelor of laws—Harold C. Smith, Jefferson, Aloysius J. Englehard, La Crosse, and Allen Whelan, Mondovi; bachelor of arts—Herbert F. Bier-sach, Milwaukee, and Lucile A. Sar-is, Beloit; bachelor of philosophy, general course—Lester W. Conger, Greenbush.

Geographical and agricultural development of various sections of Wisconsin is studied each year in senior thesis in the state university.

WEATHER: FAIR

Fair weather today and probably tomorrow is the prediction of the weather man. There will be little change in temperature. The maximum temperature yesterday was 28 degrees at 4 p. m., with a minimum temperature of 24 at 8 in the evening.

FOOTBALL STAR RUNS TEA ROOM

Much has been said about woman usurping man's place in business. And now men turn around and encroach upon woman's domain—the tea room.

In this instance it's Erwin Gehrke, Harvard halfback, who has temporarily left school to become manager, head waiter and proprietor of the Old Rose tea room, to earn sufficient money to return to Harvard next fall.

Gehrke found it pretty strenuous to work eight hours a day to make both ends meet, aside from the time he had to give to classes, and, last fall to football practice. So he took a leave of absence and is now busy steeping home-brew teas and concocting pastry and cookies for student consumption.

"I opened this place to make expenses, and if all goes well, I hope to get back to my classes in the fall," Gehrke said. "Nice little place, isn't it?"

BRAYTON TALKS TO PRESS CLUB

Pi-Nite Arrangements Completed; Jamboree News Committee Named

"The reader is subsidized, not the newspaper," A. M. Brayton, publisher of the Wisconsin State Journal, declared in a talk on "Propaganda in the News," to members of Press club last night at the Delta Pi Delta house.

"A newspaper could not publish for a week if it depended on the readers alone," Mr. Brayton explained. "The advertisers pay the expenses of running a paper, not the subscribers. The advertisers come to sell their products, not to control the editorial policy. Mr. Brayton said that if it became necessary to decide, the paper would always decide in favor of what the readers want, in spite of the advertisers.

A newspaper to appear on the floor during the Varsity Jamboree was placed in charge of Gene Alleman '24. The paper will be written, edited and printed by a committee of Press club members working under Alleman. Final arrangements for Pi-Nite, annual Press club frolic, were announced by Jerome O. Bjerke '25, general chairman. A carnival of fun, including feature acts, music, confetti, balloons, and everything that goes to make up a mixer, will await journalists and their friends at the lark, which will be held in Lathrop concert room Saturday.

A four-page newspaper published especially for the occasion, containing spot news on the evening's entertainment, will be sold on the floor. The paper is in charge of Oscar N. Riegel '24. Other events during the evening will be in keeping with the atmosphere of Pi and newspaper offices.

Students not in the Course in Journalism will have an opportunity to purchase tickets at Morgan's and at the University Pharmacy.

ARTS AND CRAFTS CLUB WILL ORGANIZE TONIGHT

The Arts and Crafts club will be re-organized tonight at a meeting for everyone who is enrolled in any art course to be held at 7 o'clock in the Industrial Arts laboratory.

The club was discontinued during the past year and the directors of the Course of Industrial Education and Applied Arts wish to start it up again to bring the students together in a social way as well as solely through their courses.

Martha Groan '23, president of Delta Phi Delta honorary art fraternity, is acting as temporary chairman for the organization and will conduct the meeting until the officers are elected.

Prof. Bruns Will Address

German Club on Art

"The Essentials of German Art," will be the subject of the illustrated lecture that will be given by Prof. Friedrich Bruns, of the German department, at the regular meeting of the German club at 7:30 o'clock tonight in Lathrop parlors.

R. E. BALLIETTE WRITES REPORT ON CONFERENCE

Mid-Western Delegate Gives Details

Editor's note: Following is a report of the proceedings of the Mid-West Student's conference written for The Cardinal by Ralph E. Balliette who, with W. Wilber Wittenberg, attended the meet as an official representative of the Wisconsin student body.

The third annual convention of the Mid-West Conference of Colleges and Universities was held at Evanston, Ill., March 15, 16, 17. The following schools sent 46 delegates: Universities of Arkansas, Chicago, Cincinnati, De Pauw, Indiana, Illinois, Kansas, Miami, Michigan, Kentucky, Minnesota, North Dakota, Notre Dame, Purdue, Tennessee, Tulane, Wisconsin, Missouri and Texas. Colleges included Carnegie Technical at Pittsburgh, Kansas State A. C., Michigan A. C., and Ohio Wesleyan.

Various fraternities opened their houses to us for our quarters, giving us an opportunity to see how well Northwestern could act as host. The morning meetings were held in the lounging room of the Patten gymnasium, and other meetings were held in Harris hall. Both of these places were modern, affording ideal convention facilities, particularly the former.

Hold Open Discussions

A tentative program divided the three days into the following routine: publications on Thursday, including daily papers, magazines and year books; student activities on Friday, and athletics on Saturday.

I will explain the purpose of the conference. This annual meeting is a get-together for the inter-changing of ideas concerning university activities. Discussion of subjects as blanket tax, boards of control, student court, financing of publications, etc., are held freely and the annual minutes of the meeting cover these discussions completely. Then if any particular school desires information concerning any activity such as the blanket tax, it can find a list of the schools which have a blanket tax for all events, and can write them for additional information. There is no claim made that these problems are solved at these meetings, but valuable opportunities are given for

Y. M. REPORTS OPPORTUNITIES FOR MANY JOBS

"There's absolutely no need for a healthy, ambitious boy leaving school because of lack of funds," declared W. L. Young, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. employment.

Many opportunities are open to the boy who wants to earn some money. Every individual can find something that appeals to his interest. Some of the positions available to the students are: cooking, scrubbing floors, painting, collecting, unloading freight cars, beating rugs, hanging curtains, playing instruments, driving cars, and selling everything from hosiery to hardware.

More than 1,000 students entirely or partially work their way through school. Since September, more than 782 jobs have been given out by the Y. W. C. A. The average job nets all the way from 30 to 60 cents an hour.

Housewives often find men more dependable than women. According to one woman who had employed both sexes, the men were far more able for household work.

OMICRON NU ELECTS

Omicron Nu, honorary Home Economics sorority, announces the election of the following Juniors: Helen Winkelman, Elizabeth Knott, and Muriel Warnes.

W. A. A. ADMITS 20 NEW MEMBERS

The following new members were admitted to W. A. A. at the regular meeting last night: Mary Haven '26, Sidonia Many '26, Pauline McLoon '26, Genevieve Ellis '26, Margaret Wegener '26, Mabel Rugen '26, Larch Campbell '26, Genevieve Droppers '26, Elizabeth Well '25, Helen Kreutzer '26, Lois Addington '23, Lillian Piehl '26, Hazel Hyer '25, Dorothy Gay '24, Mary Brader '26, Dorothy Nelson '25, Daisy Simpson '25, Mildred Wohlford '25, Katherine Arnquist '26, and Marian McLay '23.

Those elected heads of sports are Janice Boardman '24, hockey; Josephine Snow '24, basketball; Rosamond Nolte '24, track; Gretchen Kroncke '24, outdoor baseball; Anna Fox '25, volleyball; Anne Smith '25, tennis; Helen Robinson '25, swimming; Doris Burdick '25, indoor baseball; Margaret Callsen '24, dancing; Katherine Fuller '24, bowling; and Ruth Klingler '25, archery.

Pin wearers announced at the meeting were Dorothy Dodge '24, Anna Fox '25, Ruth Klingler '25, Janice Boardman '24, Helen Clark '23, Elizabeth Knott '24, Marion Streng '25, Anne Smith '25, and Frances Hellebrandt '24.

New Big "W" wears are Isabel Capps '23, Josephine Snow '24, and Norma Carl '23.

EUROPE SENDS STUDENTS HERE

Foreign Delegates to Give Talks on New Youth Movement

Three students from foreign universities who are coming to the University of Wisconsin to explain the "New Youth Movement" are expected to arrive in Madison at 12:50 o'clock tomorrow. They will be accompanied by George D. Pratt Jr. foreign secretary of the National Student Forum which invited these delegates to visit the universities of this country.

These students were chosen from European countries in which young people are taking the most active interest in national problems. England, Germany, Denmark, Czechoslovakia and Holland are represented. Two groups of three members each are making the tours.

William A. Robson, England is probably the most prominent of group which will visit here. When the war opened, Robson who had already been engaged in the study of aeronautics, joined the Royal Flying Corps. After his war adventures, he experienced a reaction which changed his attitude toward life to such an extent that he entered the field of social reform. He entered the University of London, and later studied law and was admitted to the bar. At present he is a member of the British Labor Party and has for sometime been connected with an interesting educational experiment known as the "Fabian Nursery" where promising young men are trained for statesmanship.

Antonin Palscek of the University of Prague has been studying at Sorbonne for the past two years. He is of peasant origin and has been a enthusiastic worker of the Student renaissance movement. During the war he worked with the Red Cross in the aid of impoverished students.

Karl Joachim Friederick, Heidelberg student, also has studied in Berlin, Konigsberg and Leipzig. He is a member of the "Freischar" and is thoroughly familiar with the attitude of the German student.

School Superintendent

Seeks Women Teachers

Miss Winifred Collins, superintendent of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company schools, Birmingham, Alabama, is at the University today looking for young women interested in home economics, recreational work, and grade subjects with some social work combined. She will be in the Home Economics department at 10 o'clock and at Professor Ross's office from 11 to 12 o'clock.

S. G. A. TO CALL MASS MEETING FOR TOMORROW

To Decide on New Rules

The date of the S. G. A. mass meeting for the discussion of all of the present rules and regulations has been changed to 7 o'clock tomorrow night instead of next week as announced earlier. It will be held in Music hall.

This mass meeting, the first of its kind ever held here, is being called by Keystone, organization of the presidents of women's organizations and all of the executive officers of S. G. A. Cleo Parsley '23, president of Keystone and retiring president of S. G. A. will preside at the meeting.

Need Two-thirds Vote

Members of Keystone have been considering possible changes at their last meetings and after serious consideration of the matters called this mass meeting to let the university women decide for themselves the problems appertaining to this system under which as under graduate women students they must live.

A two-thirds vote of all of the women present will be necessary to bring about any changes in any rule according to the present S. G. A. constitution, under which Keystone is working.

"Music hall should be filled with women, as it is the one chance offered to the women to express their views concerning the present system of regulations of the university," said Cleo Parsley '23 in speaking of the meeting.

"The apparent discontent among the students over these same rules has lead us to call a meeting which we hope will, through free and open discussion, lessen this feeling. This is the opportunity to give their ideas on the matters and to reach a decision which will have the co-operation of the student body behind it as something which they helped to create," she said.

Plan Free Discussion

"Any rule which the women bring up will be freely and openly discussed at the meeting," said Lois Jacobs '24 president of S. G. A. "It is essential, however, that every woman be at the meeting as the changes will be acted upon definitely and the decision made should be representative of the body of students.

"The women have an opportunity to take the matter into their own hands and to reach the decision which they believe to be the best from all angles and for all of the students. This is given to them directly instead of through any sy anyone seeking information on how

WOMAN JURIST TO ADDRESS CLUBS HERE

The only woman in the State Supreme court bench, Justice Florence Allen, will speak at a joint dinner in Lathrop parlors Thursday. The dinner is to be given by the Business and Professional Women's club, the Dane county league of Women Voters, and the Madison Consumers league.

Previous to her election to the supreme bench last summer, Miss Allen was a judge of the juvenile court in Cleveland.

Madison will be one of the stops to be made on her way to the convocation of the National League of Women voters which is to be held at Des Moines, Ia., in April. While here Miss Allen will be a guest of Miss Marjorie Johnson, graduate student.

STAFF POSITIONS

Positions are open for several night assistants on the editorial staff of The Cardinal. Students interested should call Badger 250 between 11 and 12:15 o'clock today. Personal application also may be made at the editorial office during those hours.

THREE PROFS ATTEND CONVO

Social Workers to Meet in Washington From May 16 to 25

Three faculty members of the university will speak at the national conference of social work to be held in Washington, D. C., May 16 to 25. They are Prof. John R. Commons of the Economics department; Prof. Smiley Blanton, of the Speech department; and Prof. William F. Lorenz, of the Medical school.

Professor Commons will take charge of the mental hygiene section. Professor Blanton will speak on "A Public School Program for Nervous Children and Those Having Speech Disorders." Professor Lorenz will talk on "Delinquency Among Ex-Soldiers."

The program is arranged in such a manner that a day will be devoted to the consideration of subjects concerning industry, health, law and government, the school, the church, the home, and public opinion.

The national conference is held each year for the purpose of bringing the workers together and thus making it possible for them to accomplish things that they could not do without hearing the experience of others.

Most of the workers are people interested in furthering any cause which is for the benefit of society. The total membership of the national conference is 200,000.

Girls' Glee Club Holds Annual Banquet Tonight

The annual banquet of the Girl's Glee club is being held at 5:30 o'clock tonight in the Women's building under the general direction of Mary Eldridge '25.

Charlotte Belscamper '24 the new president of the organization will take her office officially at this banquet. A special program will be held, consisting of toasts by Marion Mosel '23, former president, and Charlotte Belscamper '24, new president, and several musical selections.

The committee for this banquet are: Mabel Showers '23, Helen Wood grad., and Harriet Dohr '23, program; Merle Gibbs '23, Beatrice Parham '23 and Ellen Beckwith '23; Mary Eldridge '25, general chairman.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Mills will be special guests of the club.

FROSH BASKETBALL MEN

Frosh basketball men are asked to turn in all equipment to the manager between 3:30 and 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the gym.

MANY STUDENTS ATTEND CAMPUS RELIGIOUS MEETS

A large number of inspirational and devotional Lenten services for holy week have been planned by the various sects to accommodate university students.

The Campus Religious council is conducting services in Music hall every noon for the entire week. A daily half hour continuing through Friday has been arranged at the Strand theater from 12 to 12:30 o'clock under the Madison Ministerial association. Business men and students are invited to participate in the services.

Noted men who have been secured to address the meetings are: Charles E. Whelan, Madison, Dr. J. R. Denyes, D. D., Wesley Foundation, Pres. Silas Evans, D. D., Ripon College.

St. Paul's University chapel has morning services at 7 o'clock. The Way of the Cross will be read at 12:45 o'clock on Friday.

The Methodist Episcopal University church will have a song service by the student choir under the direction of Prof. L. L. Townsend, at 8 o'clock Friday evening. An Easter sermon on "Immortality" will be delivered at 10:30 o'clock Sunday.

Luther Memorial will have a lecture with illustrated slides of the Passion play by Regent George H. Hambrecht, at 8 o'clock on Wednesday. Special Communion services will be held Thursday, and Lenten devotions on Friday at the same hour. New members will be admitted at Easter ceremonies.

The First Congregational church will hold a "Seven Last Words" sermon on Friday at 7:30 o'clock. At 10:30 o'clock Easter morning there will be a reception for associate members and students.

More than 10,000 shipments of films and slides were made of Wisconsin communities during the last two years by the Bureau of Visual Instruction of the University Extension division.

S. G. A. TO CALL MEET TOMORROW

stem of representation such as is generally employed," she continued.

Previous Consideration Needed
The rules will be taken up one by one and considered individually by the whole meeting, with open discussion on every point, according to Cleo Parsley '23. This gives the chance to make modifications on any subject.

"It will be necessary, however, for the women to consider the matters thoroughly before they come to this meeting if the best and most intelligent results are to be secured," said Cleo Parsley '23. "We want all of the houses to take the matter up before attending the meeting, and to reach definite conclusions before hand. This will greatly help the meeting and will let the business go through more quickly.

The S. G. A. office will be open every day from 10 o'clock until 3:30 o'clock, and there will be some officer of the organization there to talk over the whole matter and to ask about certain points. Any suggestions are urged to be brought in to the office before the meeting.

Notices Sent Out

Exactly 115 letters have been sent out to the 115 women student houses to be read to the groups, telling them of the meeting, its purposes, urging them to consider the questions before they come to the meeting. It would also simplify matters if each group had a spokesman who had the views of the whole group in mind and could present them. It is most essential that the houses send full delegations. Handbills are to be given out Thursday noon as further reminders to the women.

FOOTBALL MEN COME OUT FOR SPRING'S WORK

Squad is Varied But Promising

With a crowd of men of all sizes and shapes reporting to him daily for workouts, Coach Jack Ryan is beginning a hard session of spring football practice.

While practice still holds sway in the gym annex, the men are anxiously looking forward to when they begin outdoor work at Camp Randall. The great amount of snow still on the ground makes it improbable that outdoor work can be begun until after spring recess.

Because of Ryan's purpose to have every possible candidate in the field this spring, the number of men increases daily as new men report, until there seems to be an almost unmanageable mob.

Looks Promising

Practice consists mainly of passing the ball, setting up exercises, and various other training forms. Little actual work is being done with teaching linemen or backfield men the science of the game because of the limited space in the annex.

The bunch of recruits looks very promising. Besides many new men who have the bulk to make varsity material, many old figures are out for the spring work. Tom Nickols, center on last year's team, passed the ball for the forward passing practice. He probably will be available for the team next fall, and the problem of a man to fill the pivot position will be solved.

Holmes Returns

Kibo Brumm, star lineman of the Badger team two years ago, is working out daily and looks good for a berth on the regular squad next fall. Kib was injured last summer and was unable to play last fall, but his injury has greatly improved and it is expected he will be in good shape when the 1923 season starts.

An extremely promising figure is that of Harold Holmes, star halfback who returned to school at the beginning of this semester in order to be eligible for play next fall. Holmes played two years ago on the Badger team and will probably hold down one of the halfback berths next season.

Vets Look 'Em Over

Many other men who played on the Varsity, Frosh, and all-American teams are reporting for practice while others are attending to their studies in order to keep eligible.

Rivah (Rowdy) Elliott, star halfback of teams a few years ago, was in the annex to view the work of the new men. Shorty Barr, who played his last collegiate football last fall, was also in the gym looking the men over.

Women's Gym Department

Will Hold Meet Tonight

Competition between the four classes of physical education majors will take the form of a normal meet to be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Lathrop gym.

Marching, apparatus work, and floor work are to be participated in by all the classes in this annual meet which is to be judged by Miss May Kisko of the Physical Education department of the University of Minnesota. Miss Emily Elmore, formerly of Wisconsin's Physical Education department, and Miss A. L. Gall and Miss C. M. Rise of our physical education department.

Squad work is to count in this meet as it is in the inter-class meet.

Harvard Flash's Career

Drawing to Stellar Close

The greatest athlete of all time at Harvard is found in the person of George Owen whose career is rapidly drawing to a close. A football star of the first magnitude, captain of the Crimson hockey team, as well as of the baseball team, shows Owen's versatility.

Yale and Notre Dame

to Vie in Track Meet

The intersectional track meet between Yale and Notre Dame will take place on May 11, according to the Yale track schedule announced Saturday night. Reports from South Bend had given the date erroneously as May 12.

WOMEN GYMNASTS CLASH THURSDAY

Marching, floor work and apparatus work are to be the features of the annual inter-class women's gym meet between picked members of the Freshman and Sophomore gym classes, at 4:40 o'clock Thursday in Lathrop gym. The Sophomores won the meet last year.

Girls raking above good in regular class work have been chosen from the separate classes to compete in the meet. Squad work which has been done this quarter will count two-thirds of the score in the meet. The present squad rating of the freshman and sophomore class shows the sophomores to be ahead with 26.6 points to their credit. The freshmen are not far behind with 26.1 points.

The meet is to be judged by Miss May Kisko of the Physical Education department of the University of Minnesota, Miss Emily Elmore, formerly of Wisconsin, and Miss Marie Carns and Miss Mary Maxwell of the physical education department of the university.

Miss C. L. Gall's dancing class is to entertain the spectators between events. At the close of the meet, points and chevrons are to be awarded to the squad leaders who have done work of special merit. Attendance at the meet is required of Physical Education majors.

ILLINOIS NEEDS NEW GYM-HUFF

Director of Athletics Points Out Inadequate Facilities

The inadequacy of the physical education plant of the University of Illinois is shown by recent figures submitted by George Huff, director of athletics.

One swimming pool accommodating 75 persons must be used by the 6,209 men of the university. Many high schools have better equipment.

"This is just one instance of the inadequacy of our gymnasium facilities," Director Huff said. "The present gymnasium was erected in 1902 when there were 1,338 men in the University. It cost $50,000. Today there are 6,209 men. Every day the gym is used by 1,415 men. Daily also 1,415 men use the rest of our athletic plant. But full justice cannot be done to our physical welfare program with the gym as it is."

"We have added to our staff a specialist in medical gymnastics and physical diagnosis," Director Huff said. He prescribes "corrective" exercises for the benefit of students who have physical defects which can be remedied or prevented from becoming worse. The number is amazingly large. We want to fit them for their life work by remedying these conditions when possible. This is just one instance of our program of physical education."

"Whether our 6,209 boys shall have the advantage of a new gymnasium in some manner comparable to buildings for similar purpose in states less rich than this, or to gyms in privately owned institutions is now up to the legislature."

Twenty-seven gymnasiums at such institutions as Dartmouth, Indiana, West Point, and Washington (St. Louis) averaged $227,000 in cost, constructed when building costs were probably 50 per cent lower, with $229 average per man student.

Princeton's 2,200 men use a gym that cost $400,000 in 1904, which would mean $900,000 today.

Indiana university, with 1,500 men, expended $300,000 in 1916—it would cost $514,000 now.

Northwestern, privately endowed built a $301,000 gym in 1910. That would be $600,000 today. There are about 1,500 men at Evanston.

"Those are just a few examples of what other institutions have done. Illinois' request for $500,000 to serve 6,000 is modest in comparison," declared Director Huff.

MAT TOURNEY FINALS TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Elimination Contests Now on

Six elimination bouts were run off yesterday afternoon in the inter class wrestling tourney. The eliminations will continue each afternoon this week, and finals will be held at 8 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Seven class numerals will be awarded to freshmen winning in the various divisions. According to Coach Hitchcock seven numerals could be awarded sophomores also but as not enough second year men are entered, it is likely that only three or four sets of numerals can be given to this class.

Sherbert Wins Bout

The first match of the tourney was won by E. Hanson who won from O. Fowler with a decision of 47 seconds. The match was in the 115 pound division and went overtime. It was the hardest contested bout of the first day's rounds, Hanson winning by pre-determination.

In the 135 pound class, H. O. Sherbert defeated A. J. Hermanson by a decision with an advantage of 6 minutes.

Chada Drops Jackson

L. L. Zodner won two matches in the 145 pound division. He first threw R. F. Young with a bar lock and head chancery in four and a half minutes. In the next bout with O. M. Harrison, Zodner took the contest with a decision of two minutes and 15 seconds.

E. C. DeBat, another 145 pounder won the second overtime match of the tournament with a 27 second decision over J. M. Tausig.

H. Chada took a fall from R. Jackson in the 168 pound class in two and a half minutes with a bar lock and head chancery.

Michigan Bests Cornell

Breaking Four Records

The Michigan indoor track team handed Cornell its worst defeat in years and at the same time broke four local indoor track records at an indoor track meet held in Ann Arbor last Saturday night. The Wolverines took first in nine of the eleven events and made a clean sweep of the 880 yard run.

D. K. E. WINS GAME FROM T. K. E. FISH

The D. K. E. water basketball team won an easy victory over the T. K. E. with a score of 6 to 2, last night. The game was the first of those to play off the triple tie between Kappa Sigma, T. K. E. and D. K. E.

During the first half the Tekes held their opponents to a scoreless tie, but the Dekes rallied in the second period and had no difficulty in outplaying the other team.

The Kappa Sigs and D. K. E. are tied now for first place; the final game will be played Thursday.

BALL TEAM TO LEAVE APRIL 5

Eighteen Men Will Make Trip to Universities in the South

The varsity baseball team will start on its southern training jaunt on April 5. Eighteen men, including Coach Lowman and manager, will go. The trip will last 10 days, and during this time nine games will be played.

The schedule is as follows: Thursday, April 5, Armour Tech at Chicago; April 6 and 7, Mississippi College; April 9 and 10, Mississippi A. and M.; April 11 and 12, University of Alabama; April 13 and 14, Mississippi University.

Although the team has been working daily for the past few weeks, it is still impossible to determine what chance they will have in the Conference this year. The late spring has kept the men inside, thereby restricting practice to a great extent. Coach Lowman has been spending a lot of his time illustrating the technique of the game with blackboard work, so that as soon as the weather permits outside work, the men will be ready to test their knowledge.

Men trying out for positions on the battery have been working out since Christmas. Those trying out for catcher are: Becker, Pololck, Aschenbrenner, and Kellub. Radke, Johnson, Pickford, Mills, Cy Johnson, Schrenk, Mayland, Hanson and Tebell are working on the pitching staff.

Nine men are out for the infield positions. They are Holm, Foy, Ellingson, Skafie, Servatious, Combacker, Dugan, Melvin and Steene. Those out for the outfield are Williams, Emanuel, Steinmiz, Flugstad, Heilman, Emanuel and Gibson.

FIRST PLACE IN PIN TOURNEY WON BY SOPHS

Five Women Picked For Squad

The sophomore women's bowling team won the championship in the inter-class bowling tournament which has been carried on during the past week on the Lathrop alleys by virtue of three victories and no defeat.

The seniors captured second place with two victories to their credit and only one defeat. The juniors came third with one victory to two defeats while the first year team came last with three losses.

Seniors Win

The last two matches were played off Monday evening and ended in the seniors winning over the juniors in the first two matches with the game scores of 558 to 507 and 616 to 614.

The freshmen lost to the sophomores in two games 412 to 433 and 423 to 496, while they succeeded in getting the high score in the third match 430 to 412.

Plan Faculty Game

Varsity women's bowling team was announced at the bowling spread held Tuesday noon at Lathrop as follows: Katherine Fuller '24, Dorothy Haskins '25, Helen Lowe '25, Rosamond Nolte '24, and Helen Zuelke '23. Honorable mention was awarded to Elizabeth Barid '23, Mabel Duvie '25, Pearl Hirsig '23, Evelyn Spencer '26, Jeanette Tooman '26.

Plans are being completed for a match game between the Varsity team and the faculty of the Physical Education department, according to Helen Zuelke '23 student head of the sport.

Entries For Baseball League Close Friday

Entries for the inter-fraternity baseball league will close at 7 o'clock Friday evening.

Fraternities wishing to enter must register their entries with one of the following: Ezra Crane, B. 8; Claude Cooper, B. 2763; Sydney Raeburger, B. 849; or George Ruediger, B. 312.

Entries must be in before 7 o'clock Friday, when the committee will meet and arrange the schedule.

MRS. PRESIDENT OF THE U. S.

The university's influence toward better American citizenship among the feminine sex seems to be an important fact which is often overlooked.

That the university woman is trained unconsciously to be a better citizen and voter by campus political activities seem evident when the comprehensive system of self-government is considered.

The college girl can do much toward benefitting public life.

Dean F. Louise Nardin said recently:

"Women can undoubtedly contribute much that is new to public life, sociation for women that lay down Look at your self-government as rules of conduct and ideals.

"Where is there a men's organization on the campus similar to that?"

Strict rules for men are absent at Wisconsin. And the condition here has a precedent in practically every other university of any size. Whether a need exists is another question. Perhaps, like the point system, it doesn't exist.

But the university woman has displayed ability to regulate her own affairs.

She proposes now to change certain regulations, to use her right of the self-government ballot for campus purposes.

Whether or not that privilege is used is a sound indication of her future citizenship, politically, for the nation.

Perhaps if she could see a petticoat president in the White House—we've already had a senator, representatives and judges—it would be easier to go to the university polls and cast her ballot.

MONTAIGNE, CURE FOR BLUES

Dr. Emile Coue's formula for good health has a rival.

"Day by day in every way" has been pronounced to be a sound doctrine by psychologists who have known the principles decades before Coue was born.

But when a learned doctor of medicine in Paris tells us that literature is the better method for health, that involves other principles. If reading was the sole necessity for health, the pale-cheeked "book worm" would outdo the robust ski jumper in rudy health. Unfortunately, it is not.

Just read a page or two of Montaigne every day, states Dr. Arm-aignaud, corresponding member of the Academy of Medicine and still active at 81.

Take a grain of Montaigne's wisdom every day, he prescribes.

"When I feel out of sorts," said the doctor, "I read Montaigne. His good humor chases worry. He is a professor of optimism. His gaiety is contagious."

Humor, after all, is one of the best roads for health.

Fear undermines the health, physiologists state.

And fear is often caused by a gloomy, worrying disposition. Keep the thoughts optimistic, observe sane living, and you may live to be 100.

The Parisian doctor has made one of the most striking tributes to literature.

Do you laugh at that?

THE INTERNATIONAL MIND

International inter-dependence is today so prevalent that a foreign policy of isolation is impossible for a civilized state. Gradually American political leaders are becoming aware of the fact that those that were formerly the most irreconcilable of "isolationists" are at last realizing that their pet doctrine is out of date. They are bending their efforts toward a new and unselfish program.

The moulding of American foreign policy, however, cannot be left to the leaders alone. The American public must generate a genuine interest. Political scientists show that the ignorance of the average American citizen in regard to foreign affairs has been astounding. A vague idea of the Monroe doctrine of avoiding "entangling alliances," has led generations to close their eyes upon anything favoring of international cooperation, to disregard everything but "Mindin' our own business."

At the basis of all hopes for bettering the world's present predicament lies the need of a more sympathetic and unselfish understanding among the peoples of different nations, and especially between the people of the United States and other countries. It is such understandings that Dr. John R. Mott seeks in his appeal for the development of the "international mind" among college students, who, as the future leaders in the moulding of public opinion, can prepare themselves for supplying some day the impetus to the development of a broad and generally-understood American foreign policy.

Editors Say—

EXPRESSING RADICAL VIEWS

(Daily Iowan)

Not infrequently college professors are taken to task by the laity for expressing unorthodox views. Especially is this true of state institutions. Here tax payers, since they must foot the bills, assume the right to order the brand of food which shall be served to students. The threat of dismissal and of public rebuke which the faculty must face under such circumstances, drives the weaker ones to the shelter of hypocrisy or to milk and water conversation. Throttled by purse strings, education has little hope to attain a healthy state.

Universities have for centuries been the stronghold of liberalism—yes of radicalism. Their chief inner source of strength has rested in intellectual freedom and from this has come the great advances in the arts and sciences. By sheer force of reasons the hide-bound and skeptical have gradually been converted from one stage to another without realizing that the views they now hold with such tenacity were once considered as extremely dangerous to society. The fight has gone on for centuries; each foot of ground has been hotly contested, and Reason has always won.

But notwithstanding the experience of ages we find certain individuals and groups today who, under the guise of doing humanity a good turn, deny the right of academic freedom. These same bigoted persons, by so doing, admit the weakness of their stand. Take the legislature of Wisconsin. Recently this august body adopted a set of resolutions excoriating the stand which members of the faculty of Wisconsin University took towards the war attitude of Senator La Follette. Perhaps the professors were mistaken. Time will decide. The legislature of Wisconsin merely desired an opportunity to show its authority. Henceforth professors at that institution will keep their views to themselves or more drastic measures will be forthcoming. This is the menace and the threat.

Books and things—cabbages—
Kings—as penciled by Ever Sharp

Universities and colleges are having thrust upon them their share of ridicule and criticism. The latest book dealing with life in institutions of higher learning is on sale at the Book Corner and is called "The Barb," by William J. McNally; G. P. Putnam's and Sons.

As is indicated by the title, the novel has to do with fraternities. Since Mr. McNally is a Princeton graduate we do not know just where he obtained his information regarding the good and bad points of the fraternity system.

"Greek letterism," says one of characters in this book, "is essentially a thirteen year old game. Psychologically, it's a companion to bed-time stories, Santa Claus, the Elsie books, Grimm's Fairy Tales and the Katzenjammer Kids."

Such a statement sounds something like a number of the things Upton Sinclair has to say about universities. It is quite as sweeping, quite as dogmatic, quite as unsympathetic.

The Cardinal and the Wisconsin State Journal have had a lot of fun this year playing catch. Of course we may be somewhat prejudiced, but we think we know which side of the fence we have been on in witnessing these games.

Tax Up First

There were so many interesting discussions that it is hard than do much more than touch on the high spots, in a resume like this. Yet I am sure that some are worth mentioning.

The blanket tax was the first thing that came up in the publication discussion. Texas had a very workable plan. They fixed a yearly charge of $10.50 to be paid at registration. This tax is not compulsory, but is satisfactory because 4,000 out of an enrollment of 5,000 paid it last year. It includes an athletic coupon book good for athletic contests, a daily paper subscription, and other things including magazine, band and glee club concerts, oratorical and debate contests. It did not include a copy of the year book.

Tulane at New Orleans had a similar plan. Cincinnati had a plan which included everything and Minnesota is about ready to adopt a similar plan on the grounds that it is an educational necessity. Some schools have it as compulsory tax, others as an optional one.

The following schools have a blanket tax: Kansas, Texas, Cincinnati, Kentucky, Carnegie Tech, North Dakota and Ohio. It varies from $8 in Kansas to $10.50 in Texas. Kansas had no trouble in getting this across. They offered $28 worth of admissions for $8. This advantage sold the idea to the students. The money so raised was pro rated among the various activities at the beginning of the year, thereby stabilizing each separate one. All of the schools reporting on this blanket tax were enthusiastic over its success. It is easily seen what a help this plan would be as regards the circulation of the daily paper. Minnesota, which recently had to suspend its daily, is contemplating such a plan.

Financial Schemes Differ

Other interesting matters in the publication discussion included alumni control of the Daily Missourian, complete faculty subscription lists at Michigan, guaranteeing about 1,000 subscriptions to the daily at $3.50, publicity for state work and help out outside organization. Illinois, for example, has a dad's association, which meets, elects a chairman in each county who sees to it that each dad in the county receives copies which have specially arranged articles of interesting material. This organization arranges for a sound financial backing.

The prices of the various daily papers varied from $1 to $5, schools which had a blanket tax (optional) had a very high subscription rate, while others had a lower price in order to help out their circulation lists.

Various plans of control were given, showing the part the faculty and student body took in this actual control. The majority had boards including faculty members in a minority representation.

The magazine publications were also taken up, discussing the following items: advertising, circulation, club rates, prizes for humor, popular men and girl contests, student directorships, etc.

The year book was also discussed freely, bringing in the different questions of price, subscription lists, senior assessment, circulation in state high schools, fall and spring campaigns, use and non-use of advertising, alumni backing, business men's backing, and aid given by university regents.

All Join Discussion

On Friday the student government relations were handled with H. W. Keele of Illinois as chairman. He stated that he thought it the most dangerous phase of college affairs, due to the desire of students of control, and the refusal to accept the resulting responsibilities.

Practically every delegate mentioned phases of his own school, all of which were interesting, including

Space does not permit even a rough outline of the foregoing topics. Texas gave its plan in detail, showing how student councils handled most all of the violations of rule infringements, from those of the honor system, down to disorderly cases. The president of the student council is the executive and the council acted as the administrative body. Since Texas does not have a dean of men, this council handles everything. They have a court of appeals, which includes faculty membership, which has always upheld the council. The action of this council is so sure that violators would prefer not to be brought under its ruling. The power of this council is increasing from year to year, raising again the question of the advisability of so much student power. The student body with the possible exception of the socially inclined, are satisfied with the arrangement and the president also favors an ample supply of power.

Councils varied in membership from 11 to 30. The general conclusion that a council of more than 20 was unwieldy. The problems of continuity also came up, that is the desirability of having the same members hold over from the junior to the senior year.

Griffiths Speaks

This discussion was very interesting, and everyone seemed to appreciate the chance of hearing how other schools enforced rulings.

On Friday, Major Griffiths, director of athletics of the Big Ten, gave an address on "Collegiate Athletics." His talk was very well arranged, clear, and intensely interesting.

He demonstrated the value of athletics to a school, showed the value of loyalty and school spirit, and used as a thesis the thought that the test was "What is good and what is bad for the boy."

Some of the questions fired at him were: "Why not let athletes earn money by playing baseball? Do athletics impair the health of athletes in after life? Are athletes slumping in their school work? Are they over trained?"

What is the value of intra-mural sports? Are they a source of timber for university teams? What would be the effect if all rules (professionalism) were abolished?"

The point system was argued pro and con, also the honor system. The latter was given the most attention, and Illinois led the discussion. Need of change in detail was shown by Illinois. The opinion of the chair was that the success of the honor system depended upon the traditions of the school; it was intimated that the eastern schools with their lore of tradition made more of a success with the honor system than the more recent western and mid-western institutions. After a vote was taken, following the discussion, to ascertain how many schools desired to change their present system. No one voted a desire for change, showing that the honor system is not a burning question at present in the Mid-west.

Consider Ticket Sale

In Saturday's meeting the athletic section was under the chairmanship of McDonald of Kansas. Briefly the following subjects were reviewed: student managers, letter organizations, equipment, athletic intra-mural supplies, cheer leaders, Varsity clans, ticket sales, high school tournaments, major and minor sports, sale of athletic coupon books, and methods of acquainting high school athletes with universities.

One interesting question raised was how the ticket sale was managed to avoid unnecessary standing in line for tickets, and resulting disappointment. Illinois had the following solution: They sold two types of athletic coupon books—one at $9 for seniors, juniors, and sophomores, another at $7 to freshmen. These books furnish admission to all football and baseball games, but when the basketball games were given in the gymnasium, half of the freshmen could go to one game, the other half the next. That is, the even numbered ones to the first game, the odd numbered to the second. This plan eliminated half of the yearlings at each game. This might be interesting to Wisconsin people who are dissatisfied with our present arrangement. On conclusion, Mc-

Kinzie of Purdue was elected president, Griggs of Carnegie teaching vice president, and Moree of Missouri, secretary and treasurer. The next conference will be held at Nashville, Tennessee. (I think all the 1923 delegates would like to go again.)

Co-eds to Have Charge

of Local Service Shop

The Service Shop, maintained by the Madison Welfare association, and run by the various organizations of Madison for the last two days in the week, has been contracted for all this year.

The various clubs and organizations run the shop for certain days of the week, generally the last two days, the shop being run by the Welfare association the rest of the week. The proceeds are used for social service.

The shop, which is located at 113 East Doty, is maintained generally for the benefit of the poorer people in the city.

AT THE THEATERS

MOVIES
PLAYSBetty Compson
Pleases With
Play of Hawaii

"THE WHITE FLOWER"
Featuring Betty Compson.
Presented at the Madison.
Directed by Julia Crawford Ivors.
Released through Paramount.

By CHATTY

Hawaii as it is today, with a bit of the charm and mystery of the old island is found in the picture playing at the Madison.

"The White Flower", starring Betty Compson, is built around the prophecy of a fortune teller in the land of the tropical skies.

Konia Markham, daughter of a wealthy plantation owner on the island, loves and is loved by Bob Rutherford, manager of a neighboring ranch. Complications enter into the plot when Rutherford's fiancée comes to the island to visit for a few weeks, and David Panuahi, an important native desires to win Konia's hand.

The picturization is good and the scenic effects well chosen.

As to the acting of the characters—there wasn't any more than is usually found in an average motion picture, but then this is not a picture which entails a great deal of "real stuff" to put it over. Betty Compson is good looking, and her main appeal lies in the posing which she accomplishes, to the admiration of some of her audiences.

Edmund Lowe as Bob Rutherford was not cast in a difficult role but he portrayed the part of the faithful and misguided lover as creditably as one could expect. We feel that Edward Martindel, who played the part of Konia's father was a better actor than the hero. His facial expressions were such that they did not require the accompaniment of gestures to understand them.

If you are keen about the movie you'll like the show at the Madison.

Rag Time Missing
From Orpheum Bill

Vaudeville of quality will be found in the selection of talent offered at the local vaudeville house for the last times today. Every act is a "hit" in itself, from the excellent novelty presented by Grace Ayers to the "back kicks" which feature Adelaide Bell's dance creations.

The lineup on view for the closing day of the first half consists of: Raymond Bond and his players in the bright comedy sketch, "The Minute Man." The charming star of the Ziegfeld Follies, Adelaide Bell, in out-of-the-ordinary dances. The twinkling stars, Elizabeth Kennedy and Milton Berle in "Broadway Bound," "Youth and Beauty," successfully offered by Edward Lambert and Minnie Fish, Wells and Winthrop in "Foot Seats," and Grace Ayers and Brother in "A

George Beban

The cut above shows George Beban who will come to the Majestic soon in "The Sign of the Rose." The show in which the popular actor will come to town is unique in its arrangement in that the actor and a few of the cast will appear in person.

At an intense point in the film, the picture will fade away, the curtain will be rung up and the actors will go on with the production in person. Then the play will be resumed on the screen, the whole working so that there will be no break in the continuity.

Wallace Reid's last picture will be seen at the Majestic theater next week. It is Booth Tarkington's story, "Clarence," and completed the list of work that this idol of the screen has done. He finished it only a short time before his death.

Pleasant Surprise.

Advocates of modern jazz, rag-time and sheik dancing are in for a severe jolt tomorrow when a veritable "Who's Who" of the theatrical world of fifty years ago comes to the Orpheum, singing the songs and dancing the dances that made them famous along New York's rialto long before the world of vaudeville was heard of. The cast of "Stars of Long Ago" includes Frank McNish, Annie Hart, Laura Bennett, Ed Begley, the famous fat funster of years ago, Katie Rooney, John Harding, Leonard Graver.

Curtain Club Plays
to Be Given April 23

The four postponed plays of Curtain club will be held April 23. These plays were to have been presented last evening at the Madison high school auditorium, but due to illness and lack of time the postponement has been necessary.

Colored Sets
Are Used for Enter Madam

That settings can make acting difficult or easy, was kept continually in mind during the construction of those used in "Enter Madame", Clara Kimball Young's newest picture, produced for Metro by Harry Garson starting at the Parkway today. As a result an elaborate color scheme, designed by the art and technical director, Joseph C. Wright was put into effect, although photographically, it had no value.

"The sets in 'Enter Madame' have unusually rich colors," said Mr. Garson. "They do not photograph, still their effect on Miss Young is all-important. In this picture, she is an Italian prima donna, scintillating, full of color and contrasts, emotional fire. Part of the action is laid in the prima donna's beautiful Italian villa.

"So the colors as well as the furnishings are lavish. Drapes of blue taffeta with gold metallic cloth that sheens and shimmers need not have been used as some other gray materials would have done just as well as far as the photographic effect is concerned. Of course, the purpose is to provide the proper atmosphere for Miss Young, to make her feel that she is the Prima Donna Lisa Della Robbia in the latter's villa."

"Enter Madame" was written by Gilda Varesi and Dolly Byrne. It was directed by Wallace Worsley. The picture is owned and copyrighted by the Samuel Zierler Photoplay Corp.

WISCONSIN MAG OUT TOMORROW

First Edition is Filled With Features By University
Students

The first issue of the Wisconsin Magazine will appear on the news and magazine stands tomorrow according to Hardy Steeholm, editor of the periodical which is published for Wisconsin citizens.

Carry the motto "Know Your Own State," the magazine boasts that it is edited by Wisconsin people for readers of the state.

The March number of the magazine which features winter activities has an article written by Dr. James C. Elsom of the University Athletic department entitled "From the Court of Winter King". It tells of winter sports in all corners of the state.

"On The Dunes" by Miss Katherine F. Sanborn, one of Wisconsin's younger fictionists, has contributed a short story to this issue.

"Each month the magazine will publish a personality sketch of some one in Wisconsin who is rendering a real service to the state or whose life is contributing to the welfare of Wisconsin," said the editor.

The personality sketch of this month, written by Miss Marian Strong, a senior in the journalism course has for its subject, the work the Bureau of Child Welfare and Public Health Nursing in the state. Mary James '23 is another student whose name appears among the special feature writers. Miss James has written an article on the "Bogus Cave" near Richland Center.

Frank A. Cannon, executive secretary of the good roads association of Wisconsin has written at some length on the Green Bay-Chicago Road regarding its historic aspects. The article is illustrated with a good many interesting photographs.

"Wisconsin Women" is a monthly feature for housewives edited by Marjorie Capron, a junior in the Course of Journalism.

Students who would like to make a little money during the spring recess will be given an opportunity to do so by the Magazine acting through the Y. M. C. A. The editors would like to have university students get subscriptions for the paper in their home communities while they are there during vacation. Full information may be obtained at the Y. M. C. A.

Y. W. C. A.

Y. W. C. A. Vespers club will hold a meeting at 12:45 o'clock today in Lathrop Concert room to elect delegates to the Geneva convention.

Wrist Watch and Money Taken During Tournament

An Elgin wrist watch and a small amount of money was taken from Otto Endres '23 at the basketball tournament last Saturday. It is a large watch with a gold stem-winder and a leather wrist band, and was prized by Endres as he had worn it during the entire time he was in service.
