WOMEN TO DECIDE ON NEW REGULATIONS AT MEETING IN MUSIC HALL TONIGHT

Plan Changes in S.G.A. Rules

To discuss and revise the present rules and regulations of S. G. A., the first women's mass meeting will be held at 7 o'clock tonight in Music hall under the direction of Keystone, organization of the presidents of the women's organizations.

The meeting will be called to order promptly at 7 o'clock by Cleo Parsley '23, president of Keystone.

It is expected that every university woman will feel a personal interest in the discussion and will be present to enter into the consideration of the rules now in force. Doors will be closed if the hall becomes too crowded.

Move Not Radical

Isabel Capps '23 yesterday refuted the possible accusations that this mass meeting has been to stir up a revolutionary spirit of antagonism.

"This is no radical overthrowing of conventions or morals. It is a sincere effort to make rules applicable and enforceable," she said. "That is why every woman ought to attend with an open mind and a willingness to co-operate."

In the event that the chairman is unable to recognize every woman who has something to say, slips can be secured from members of Keystone, to record questions or suggestions to be presented directly to the chairman or her assistants. Names should be signed in case the inquirer wishes to talk from the floor. This method is adopted as a time saving device.

Rules Are Antiquated

"The 'why' of the majority of S. G. A. rules puzzles many women," said Kathryn Perry '23. "At this meeting let's establish rules that will have a definite cause behind each one, and make this cause plain enough for every college woman to grasp. Superfluous rules, the excuse of ignorance, and the frequent breaking of the rules we have now, are three things which will be largely eliminated when the 'why' of every rule is understood."

"The rules are antiquated. They have been handed down from the past and should be reformed to meet the desires and needs of the modern woman," said Alice Cummings '25. "Of course, we must have set rules to hold us together, but the time has come to modify our present rules, to make them conform with the needs of today."

"We must take into consideration what an example we set in the eyes of the whole state," remarked Dorothy John '25. "For this reason we should go about the revision of our rules in a level-headed manner, step by step. Only such a policy will achieve worth while results in the long run."

The sentiment of freshmen girls, according to Larch Campbell '26, president of the freshmen commission, is that the present enforcements are amply lenient for first year students.

Freshmen women will circulate hand bills this noon as a final reminder of the meeting.

Y. W. C. A. Holds Special Easter Vespers Sunday

Special Easter vespers will be held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon by the Y. W. C. A. in Lathrop parlors.

The music will begin at 4:10 o'clock as is customary, the services at 4:30, and the informal tea 5 o'clock.

WOMEN TO DEBATE ON CHILD LABOR

Katherine Bigham '25 will be the closer for Pythia, and Fanny Galatas '24, for Castalia in the annual joint debate to be held Friday night at 7:30 in Music hall.

The question to be debated is: "Resolved, that the constitution should be so amended as to permit federal child labor legislation."

Mrs. E. C. Hoebel, president of the Women's Progressive League of Wisconsin, will be presiding officer at the debate. The judges will be Miss Martha Sell, of Madison high school; Prof. Selig Perlman of the economics department; and A. C. Reis, a Madison lawyer. Admission will be twenty-five cents.

NEW YOUTH MOVEMENT DISCIPLES COME TODAY

Three disciples of the New Youth movement are to arrive in Madison at 12:50 o'clock today. The movement will be explained by these students who have been chosen from the European countries in which young people are taking the most active interest in national problems.

Two groups of three members each have been brought to America by the Student Forum to visit the universities. The delegates to Madison will be accompanied by George D. Pratt, Jr., foreign secretary of the organization.

The personnel of the group will be William A. Robson, of the University of London; Antonin Palsek, of the University of Prague, and Karl Joachim Friederick, a Heidelberg student.

FACULTY DRIVE HELD BY Y. W. C. A. THIS WEEK

Approximately $250 has been collected already in the Y. W. C. A. faculty drive which is being carried on now under the direction of Lulu Staab '24. Over 100 women have been organized into teams that will interview all instructors during their office hours this week and next.

The captains working under Lulu Staab, general chairman, are: Esther Fifield '25, Irene Whitehead '25, Jessie McClymont '23, Arlene Page '24, Harriet Green '24, Anita Haven '24, Louise Tobey '24, and Esther Oakes '24.

"The faculty quota is $600 of the annual budget," said Lulu Staab. "Y. W. C. A. is supported entirely by voluntary offerings from the students, faculty, alumnae, and such money raising schemes as the annual bazaar. We have always found a cheerful spirit of co-operation in the previous years and we feel that this year will be no exception."

Isadore Clissold to Be Lake Geneva Delegate

Isadore Clissold was chosen a delegate for the Y. W. convention to be held at Lake Geneva this spring, at a meeting of the Vespers club in Lathrop hall Wednesday noon.

BADGER PAPER COSTS ARE HIGH

"Cost of production of this year's Badger is greater than that of last year, due principally to the fact that a more expensive paper stock is being used," Gamber Tegtmeyer '24, editor-in-chief of the 1924 yearbook, said yesterday.

Cameo ivory in a dull finish will be used instead of a glazed stock. It is made up in special lots, which accounts for the increased price. Over 30,000 pounds or more than a carload of paper, will be required to print the annual.

"Printing will be at least 25 percent more, for the grade of paper used necessitates smut-sheeting of the printed pages," according to Tegtmeyer. "Two presses of the Cantwell Printing company will be at work continuously throughout the month of April."

Engraving is being done by the Stafford Engraving company, of Indianapolis, and engraving costs will approximate those of last year. The Malloy company of Chicago is again producing the covers, which cost about the same as in previous years.

Prof. and Mrs. Charles H. Mills were the guests of honor.

LAST CHANCE TO KEEP CAPITOL STIRS CAMPUS

Bill Passed Barring Use of Building

The Junior prom for 1924 may yet be saved.

A motion to reconsider the joint resolution, passed by the senate yesterday morning by a vive voce vote prohibiting the use of the state capitol for Junior prom and the Military ball, will be made this morning by Senator George Staudemayer, of Portage.

Students to Plead

In a last minute attempt to prevent the resolution from going from the senate to the assembly, where it is certain to be passed, a group of students, representative of university government, publications and organizations, will plead before the senate this morning for a reconsideration of the resolution.

The resolution, according to rules of the senate, may be reconsidered on the next calendar day of the legislature.

Use of this opportunity will be taken this morning. The Cardinal urges that every student interested be present at the senate chamber, south wing of the capitol, by 8 o'clock this morning if possible.

No Roll Call

Action was taken on the joint resolution, No. 42, senate early yesterday morning after a heated discussion on technicalities of passing joint resolutions.

A bill had been discussed by the senate regulating the passage of joint resolutions. Senator Heck's joint resolution was then introduced as "Joint Resolution, No. 52, S."

Several senators were absent from the chamber, and the resolution was passed without roll call or discussion.

Ask Only One Year

Student leaders will point out the fact today that the use of the capitol will only be needed next year as the new Memorial Union building made possible by subscriptions of students, alumni and friends, will be the future place for future proms and balls.

The new Memorial Union building will be completed within 15 to 18 months, a sufficient time for holding the 1925 Junior prom, alumn officials declare.

The Heck Resolution

The resolution, adopted yesterday, follows:

Whereas, from time to time the use of the state capitol has been requested by and granted to persons and organizations for the purpose of holding dances or public entertainments therein for profit; and

Whereas, it is against public policy that a public building shall be used for the purpose of private gain; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the senate, the assembly concurring, That on and after July 1, 1923, the superintendent of public property be and is hereby requested and directed not to permit the use of the capitol building or any part thereof for any dance or public entertainment to which an admission fee is charged either directly or indirectly or from which the public is excluded; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the superintendent of public property.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

FOUR SWIMMERS ARE PLACED ON MYTHICAL TEAM

Bennett is Captain of Star Squad

Tom Robinson, veteran Purple swimming coach, whose selections for the last few years have been regarded as the official honor teams of the Big Ten conference, has made his all-conference honor selections.

Captain Johnny Bennett of the Badger squad has been given the honor of captain of the all-star squad. In making this selection the veteran Purple mentor gives the honor to Bennett since he leads the conference swimmers in the 40-yard dash. He is the only man to have defeated Breyer of Northwestern in this event.

Three Others On Team

Three other Badger sharks to be placed on the mythical team are Czerwonky, captain-elect of next year's team, Gilbreath, and Ellicott. Hugo Czerwonky '24, captain of next year's squad, clipped 7 3-5 seconds from the national collegiate time in the 200-yard breast stroke in the meet at Princeton last week. Czerwonky through the whole year has run Johnny Bennett a close second for individual honors.

"In picking the first and second teams I have been governed by the best performance in both the dual season and conference meet," Robinson explained. "To Johnny Bennett, a senior at Wisconsin, goes the honor of captain. He swam within 1-5 second to Breyer in the conference and gave the Purple flash his only defeat of the season."

Breyer Rates High

"The big surprise of the season is Hubbard of Michigan. He easily won the 150-yard back stroke in the record time of 1:51. Bird of Minnesota split a little dope in winning the fancy diving.

Ralph Breyer is classed as the outstanding man of the season. He broke the conference record in the 40, setting the new time at :19, and reduced both the conference and the national collegiate record in the 440 to 5:24 3-5. He was also anchor man on the record breaking relay team.

Coach Robinson's selections are: 160-yard relay and 40-yard dash, free style—first team, Bennett, Wis., Breyer, N. U., Gow, Minn., Paver, N. U. Second team, Churchman, Ind., Clarke, Iowa, Ortlepp, N. U., Winslow, N. U.

100-yard free style—First team, Bennett, Wis., Gow, Minn., Paver, N. U. Second team, Klingman, Iowa, Churchman, Ind., Gleason, Chicago.

220-yard free style—First team, Breyer, N. U., Lanpher, Minn., J. Dickson, N. U. Second team, Prothero, Chicago, Klingman, Iowa, Churchman, Ind.

440-yard free style—First team, Breyer, N. U., Moore, Ind., Lanpher, Minn. Second team, Prothero, Chicago, Cortis, Ill., Gilbreath, Wis.

Plunge for distance—First team, Taylor, Ill., Heden, Chicago, Hickok, Iowa. Second team, Nutting, Minn., Sonnesyn, Minn., Bradt, Ind.

150-yard back stroke—First team, Hubbard, Mich., G. Dickey, N. U., Bowen, Ill. Second team, Hanft, Minn., Hayford, N. U., Ellicott, Wis.

200-yard breast stroke—First team, Faricy, Minn., Czerwonky, Wis., Dimmore, Minn. Second team, Merrill, Minn., Eiseler, N. U., Lyons, Chicago.

Fancy diving—First team, Bird, Minn., Condon, Ill., Wells, N. U. Second team, Walling, Ind., Sleigh, N. U., Brunner, Minn.

Garberry, Notre Dame Football Star, to Coach

Glen "Judge" Garberry, captain of the 1922 Notre Dame football team, will be the director of athletics at St. Bonaventure college, near Allegany, N. Y. He will also coach four sports. Garberry played on the Notre Dame eleven for three years and was on the West Point squad for a time before the war, although he never played for the cadets.

Missouri Pistol Squad Defeats Princeton Team

The University of Missouri pistol team defeated Princeton 4,376 to 3,316, last Saturday.

Several Newcomers Will Enter Drake Relay Meet

The Drake relay meet scheduled for April 27 and 28 will have several newcomers from distant schools among the large entry listed.

Austin college of Sherman, Tex., will send a champ one-mile relay team and a star sprinter. Florida university is another to enter for the first time. Utah will be represented by teams and individuals from both the Utah Aggies and Utah State university. Washburn college of Topeka, Kas., is another new school with a team entered at the Drake meet. The University of Southern California has not definitely decided to enter the Des Moines relay.

TRACK MEN REST BEFORE RELAYS AFTER RECESS

Expect to Get Outdoors Soon

The customary lull between the indoor and outdoor track seasons has been a factor in placing a damper on track activities until after spring vacation, but all the Varsity middle distance and distance runners are working out on a light schedule a few times a week to keep in trim until they go out to outdoor quarters at Camp Randall. In spite of the prevailing cool weather, the coaches are hopeful of getting their men on the outdoor track sometime during spring vacation week.

Next Meet In April

The next outside competition for the Cardinal runners will come in the form of the Kansas relays April 21 and a practice dual meet with Beloit college here the same date. On the following Saturday, Coach Jones will send a couple of quartets, probably a two and four-mile team to the annual Drake relays at Des Moines, Ia.

With this fast competition coming but a short time after the spring recess, the majority of the middle-distance and distance men will remain in Madison over the recess and take strenuous preparatory workouts.

Drill For Two-Mile

Valley and Hilberts will continue their work in the half-mile and will be joined by Tom Carter who has been out most of the indoor season due to illness. Schneider and John Bergstresser will be among the milers while Rossmeissel will probably alternate between the half and the mile. Tschudy, Perry, Piper, and Sherman will drill for the two-mile.

Coach Jones has not arrived at any definite conclusion concerning the combinations that will be placed in action at Kansas and Drake, and may decide to withdraw altogether from the former meet. No men will be entered in the special field events.

Four Wisconsin Professors to Teach at Columbia Soon

Before attending the summer session of Columbia university where he will teach, Prof. A. K. Lobeck of the geology department will conduct a 25-day geology trip through the Rocky mountains. The trip will begin June 9 and last until July 4.

Professor Lobeck will then go to Columbia to teach physiography at the summer session which begins July 9. At the close of the summer school he will conduct another trip which will be a 12-day trip through New England.

Wisconsin will have three other of its professors on the faculty of Columbia's summer session. Prof. Stephen W. Gilman of the department of economics will teach business administration. The Law School will be represented by Prof. H. S. Richards and Prof. Oliver S. Rundell. The latter will teach insurance and mortgages. Professor Richards will give a course on corporations.

Princeton Beats Yale In Fast Basketball Game

Yale went down a notch from its championship standing in eastern intercollegiate basketball when Princeton uncovered a surprise by beating the old Eli 29 to 26 in a fast game Wednesday night. Previous to the game Yale had had but one defeat.

ROLLIE OFFERED COACHING JOB AT MILLIKEN SCHOOL

That Wisconsin's athletes are in great demand as coaches of smaller colleges is evidenced by the fact that Rollie Williams has received another bid for a coaching job close on the heels of that which was offered him from the Kansas Aggie's school.

The latest offer which has been made to Rollie comes from Milliken college, of Decatur, Ill. The Milliken teams have been rated among the best in the "little nineteen," a conference made up of smaller schools in Illinois, in recent years. As yet, Rollie has made no decision as to what he will do after he is graduated in June.

Besides the offer from Milliken, Rollie and Gus Tebelle have both been offered other jobs. The Kansas Aggie school is angling for both of them in preparation for the launching of a great athletic campaign.

There is also a report that Edward Gibson, halfback on the Badger team for the past three years, will take up the coaching position at Janesville high school.

University Players to Give "Matter of Choice"

The University Players will give a one act play entitled "A Matter of Choice", at 8:15 o'clock Thursday night in the Lathrop parlors. The play is written by William Tannowitz '23. This is the first time that the University players have presented a play by one of their own members. It is a small town play. The mother in one of the best families gives each of her children the right of decision which leads to both humorous and disastrous results.

The cast of the play is: Mrs. Brent, Dora Ingraham '23; Mr. Brent, Henry Klos '26; Margaret Brent, Helen Tyrell '24; Henry Brent, Keith Davis '25; Jennie Brent, Olivia Fentress '23; Maevia Brent, Mildred Engler '26; Phoebe Brent, Bernardine Flynn '26. The play is open to the public.

Soldier Cagers Win Thirty Games Straight

Thirty consecutive victories is the record made by the West Point cadet basketball team during the season just closed. They were coached by Harry Fisher, former Columbia star and later coach of the New York college quintet.

COMPETITION IS KEEN AS FRAT RACE NEARS END

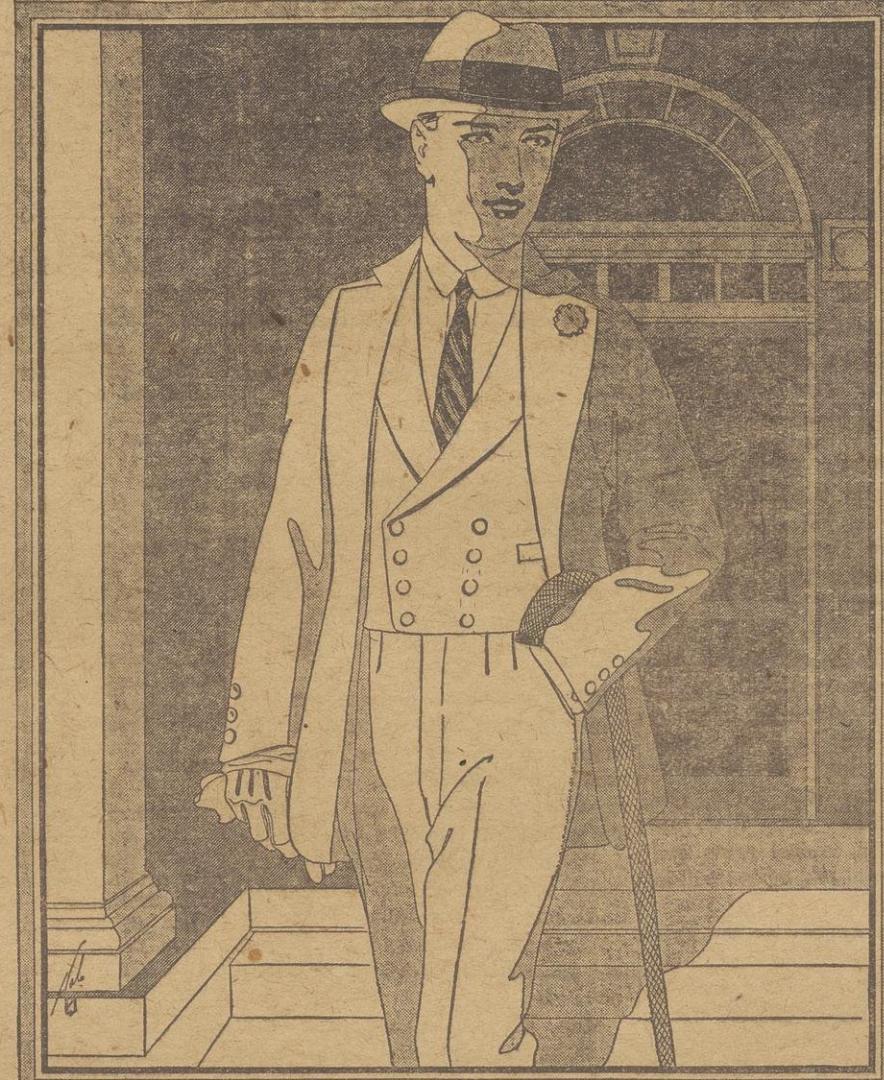

Few Basket Teams in Running

With the number of teams still in the running for the fraternity basketball title fast dwindling, the competition grows keener daily.

The Sigma Phi Epsilon team barely eked out a victory over the Delta Sigma Phi five in the second round of the semi-finals when they took the game by an 11 to 9 score in an overtime period.

The strong D. U. team took the count when they met the Kappa Sigs with a score of 17 to 7.

The Theta Xi quintet, after working through a hard season to get into the semi-finals, had to give way before the onslaught of the Betas and they lost the game by a 13 to 6 score.

SAVE PROM AND THE BALL

With the passage of the Heck resolution in the state senate yesterday forbidding the future use of the state capitol for the Junior promenade and the Military ball, the fates of those two events approach to the critical and precipitous edge, where a push by the assembly and sanction by the governor will mean a quick plunge to oblivion.

Apparently the resolution slipped through the senate yesterday while no one watched—either in the senate or out. It will be introduced for reconsideration by Senator Staudemayer the first thing this morning. It looks like the last chance to save a capitol prom and ball,—in fact a prom or a ball at all—for Wisconsin.

Students will appear at the capitol this morning before the senate goes into session at 8:30 o'clock to state the case for a capitol prom and ball. It is urgent that every student interested in the future of Wisconsin's social tradition should appear this morning in the senate chamber to present the needs for prom and the ball in the capitol.

The immediate necessity for holding prom and the ball in the capitol is apparent. There is no building on the campus adequate in size or construction to allow for the events.

When the university has its Memorial Union building, expected two or three years hence, there will be a campus building in which the affairs can be held. It is only until that time that the legislature is asked to extend the courtesy of the use of the capitol.

If the holding of prom and the ball is turned back to the campus now, it will mean exactly what the legislators profess to oppose, namely, restricted and undemocratic university social functions. It would be physically impossible for students in anything like a democratic group to get inside the gym, our largest building, for instance.

It would mean a more costly outlay than at present to make the gymnasium presentable with decorations and sounding boards and booths even for the few that could attend.

It was to avoid expense and undemocratic restriction that the use of the capitol was asked for prom and the ball. As soon as those functions become costly and for the few—as they will if held in the gymnasium—they will automatically eliminate themselves. The university, the students, and the legislature would not tolerate the affairs on an undemocratic basis.

The complete destruction of prom and the ball is not desirable. In the background there is another necessity for prom and ball. Universities necessarily are inseparably and vitally bound up in scholastic tradition, athletic tradition, and social tradition. They are foundations on which a university rests. Strike a blow at any one foundation and you strike a telling blow at the university.

Man, gregarious creature that he is, must inevitably express himself socially. At different schools that expression takes different forms. There is scarcely one institution, however, that does not have a socially expressive activity in the form of a large dance.

Here an integral part of our social tradition is prom and the ball. Destroying them means aiming a blow, expressing fundamental instincts of the students. It soon would be telling on the welfare of the university as a whole.

CHANGING S. G. A. RULES
CHANGING S. G. A. RULES

There is good justification for immediate modification of certain of the S. G. A. rules which will be discussed in tonight's massmeeting for all women.

Changing the present 10 o'clock rule to a 10:30 rule will allow university women to make use of the library until closing time of 10 o'clock and still get to their rooming houses before doors are locked. As a measure for convenience in transacting the business of the evening, whether it be at the theater, at the library or at a lecture, the rule should be modified.

The rule allowing for week-end dates only until 11 o'clock if one does not attend a dance has been subjected to much criticism on the score that a dance should be no more merit a 12:30 privilege than any other social activity of the evening. The 12:30 week-end privilege should be a blanket one.

When women of the university act on the knowledge that their self-government rules are not commanding the respect and the cooperation of their makers, it is not to be assumed that they desire to substitute for those rules something that will command even less respect.

The move made to discuss the present rules tonight is at once a wholesome and significant one. It is the first time such a discussion has been held. Obviously, with changing social conditions and tendencies, the same rules cannot hold through all time and open discussions of changes are necessary.

In considering acting on changes tonight, however, it will be necessary that each woman discard immediate and selfish motives to view the proposals in the large perspective and light in which they will affect the welfare of university women as a whole and the thousands that will come after.

Tonight's meeting should be attended by every woman, since rules will be discussed and changed which will affect her directly. Two-thirds of those present at the meeting can do the changing. Great good for the university and university women should emanate from this and future similar open meetings.

Editors Say—

THE VALUE OF RAZZ

(Purdue Exponent)

One of the greatest things that many of us acquire in a university education is the ability to accept criticism in the right manner and to better ourselves thereby. One of the best side-line course of the university lies in the absorption of that peculiar form of punishment which is commonly termed "razzing". No man is above criticism, no matter how great a height he may attain. The outside world is full of well-meaning individuals who know more about other people's business than they do about their own, and they are exceedingly free to part with their criticism and advice.

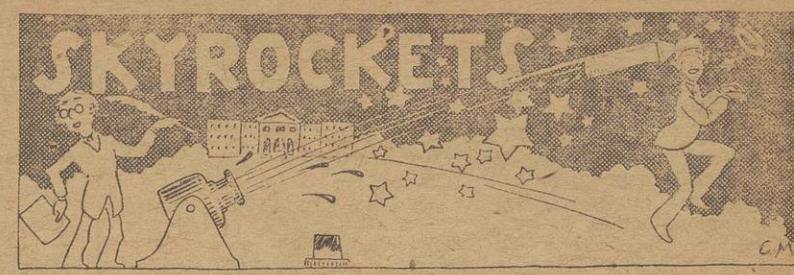

It is commonly termed "razzing". No man is above criticism, no matter how great a height he may attain. The outside world is full of well-meaning individuals who know more about other people's business than they do about their own, and they are exceedingly free to part with their criticism and advice. It is human nature to criticize rather than to applaud and to a great extent to knock rather than to commend. To retain self-confidence, to treat these critics courteously, and still to make allowance for their censuring is an accomplishment not to be belittled. It is also an accomplishment very few have acquired. To have our failures and shortcomings brought to our attention will often cause anger and we will many times harbor ill feelings toward the individual who airs them before us.

Once more the college education comes to the front. College and university students are the greatest razzers of all time. They are probably more adept in the gentle art of razzing than any other group.

The majority of them possess an abundant amount of biting sarcasm and cutting wit ready to be unloaded at any moment. Every student who comes into contact with his fellow students to any extent is subjected to some razzing. If students find out that one of their number is extremely sensitive, that gentleman is in for endless jests and comments until he comes to the realization that he is making a fool of himself in flaring up at every criticism. When he comes to this realization he usually accepts the criticism and takes a self-inventory. The opposite type of individual who is so thick-skinned and hardened is the hardest man to get to, but the college razz will penetrate even here. Criticisms form a mirror in which we see ourselves as others see us, and very few students can go through four years of university work without learning the great value of this mirror.

INTIMATE GLIMPSES OF OUR UNIVERSITY

No. 6 Commerce School

At Harvard one hears very much anti-Jew sentiment, while at Wisconsin we do not take the Commerce school so seriously. Like Kid Shylock, one of Bill Shakespeare's stable, they are about as popular as a legless man in a shoe store. Statistics show us that 50 per cent of the men begin the commerce course get wise within two years and take something else. Which half is the wisest? Ask some poor bozo who is taking 181 for the third or fourth time. The faculty which is made up of B. S.s, M. D.s, C. P. A.s, and H. A.s, spend all their spare time looking for problems they can't do and then dare the boys to get through. The Commerce magazine, the official publication, is one of the best sheets published in the Commerce school and is almost as popular with the Commerce students as Hot Dog and Whiz Bangs.

THE LINE FORMS AT THE RIGHT

Pussy—"I'd yell for father."

Tom—"But I thought your father was in Europe."

ANSWERING "FEARS FOR GIRLS"

Editor, The Cardinal:

There appeared in the Capital Times, Monday, March 26, a communication headed, "Fears for Girls" which, in the interest of Wisconsin women needs a response that the erroneous impression created may be corrected.

Of course, we realize that the contribution loses any possible force that it might have by its signature "Interested Citizen". Ignorance, you know, gives one a large range of possibilities and the writer evidently was well aware of that fact when he hid behind an assumed name.

We agree with the self-termed interested citizen in that "somebody must be responsible for discipline among our women at the University of Wisconsin." We also agree that "the morals of the University of Wisconsin must not be dictated by a few social lights from outside the state who have no regard for those evil communications that corrupt good manners."

Will you pardon the disposal of the above statements in reverse order?

When and how have the morals of the university been so dictated? Perhaps the reference is to the members of Keystone, the most representative women's organization on the campus. Fifteen out of the twenty-five members are Wisconsin women. The ten out-of-state girls have higher grade averages than have the Wisconsin members. IF THE DANCE IS THE BIG THING in their lives at Madison, can anyone complain when they help to keep Wisconsin's scholastic standard up by attaining good marks? But, the dance is NOT the big thing in their lives as you would know, if you knew them and their fine characters and personalities.

The slap at Cleo Parsley is unwarranted. For a year Miss Parsley, as head of the Self-Government association, gave her spare time to working out a better and more efficient S. G. A. system. Now, as president of Keystone, she was ELECTED by that body and the S. G. A. officers, to take charge of a mass meeting at which university women might express their opinions on present regulations and possible changes.

There are 2,721 co-eds in school. According to statistics from all of the dances held last week-end for university students, there were 963 university women present. Draw your own conclusions.

Where has the interested citizen been that he has met only the kind of girls to which he refers? Let him visit Lathrop hall and the women's offices there to see the girls who are leaders in university activities.

All Want To Cheer, Autos Race In Film

"RACING HEARTS"
Featuring Agnes Ayres.
Presented at the Majestic.
Directed by Paul Powell.
Released through Paramount.

By CHATTY

There's nothing like the thrill of an auto race. Even when it is in the movie and you know for sure who the winner is going to be, if you have any sporting blood in you at all, you'll feel a tremendous impulse to get up and cheer. We did anyway at the Majestic yesterday afternoon. Kentucky Derbies aren't in it.

Although the first of the picture seems to drag a bit, the whole thing is well worked out. The race is realistic indeed, especially the final smash-up.

As for the cast, we could hardly wish for a better one. Theodore Roberts is an entertaining old codger and rightly deserves the popularity movie fans accord him. He takes the part of a business man who is so conservative that he doesn't even believe in advertising his wares with the gusto which is so characteristic of him.

The lead, taken by Agnes Ayres, is well done. She is bound to succeed in her desire to advertise the motor cars of her conservative father and of course lets nothing stop her. Richard Dix proves to be a capable man to play opposite this actress.

In our tour of the movies this month we have been given an astonishing amount of the old-time slap-stick comedy to endure. When Charlie Chaplin stopped throwing custard pies and his juniors in movie comedy started to follow his lead we thought that fans would be spared the rough-and-ready comedy for which there is no better term than "slap-stick."

Either directors have run out of more suitable material for their comedies or else they found that the more artful play like "The Kid" did not pay so well. At any rate they have launched upon the unsuspecting fan a host of slap-stick comedies. We wish that one of the proverbial custard pies would hit these directors in the eye or that some scenario writers would join the industry and supply the crying need for comedies of the caliber of "The Kid."

Bruns Gives Lecture on German Art Tendencies

Pictures by Durer, Grien, Grunewald, Runge, Schwind, Thoma, Rethel, Haider, Feuerback, Spitzweg, Klinger, and Bocklin were shown.

Professor Bruns illustrated what he considered the three tendencies of the German art. They are: emphasis on spiritual value of the content rather than on form; love of imaginative and symbolical concepts, and a distinct predilection for realism.

The tendencies of German art were demonstrated by Professor Friederick Bruns in an illustrated lecture before the German club meeting last night in Lathrop hall.

Honors in scholarship were attained by 16 disabled soldiers studying at the University of Wisconsin last year.

Romance, Novelty In Strand Movie "ISLE OF LOST SHIPS"

Featuring Milton Sills.
Presented by the Strand.
Directed by Maurice Tourneur.
By E. A. R.

Adventure, romance, and novelty combined to make the "Isle of Lost Ships" receive the praise of the entire audience.

Far from civilized lands lies an isle of wrecked vessels overgrown with sea plants which drift on the sea and of which there is no definite knowledge save the tales of sailors and songs of bards.

A severe man rules over the unfortunate inhabitants of the island and his word is law. One of the rules is that a woman must be married after 24 hours on the isle. Anna Q. Nilsson as Miss Fairfax was faced with the problem of choosing a husband from among the shipwrecked.

Milton Sills lives the part of the hero, adventurous and courageous. His physical appearance did not require the audience to use their imagination when he fought victoriously.

LABORATORY TO STUDY QUALITY OF HARDWOOD

A resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to cooperate with the Forest Products laboratory in the study of sap strain in gum in elm lumber to improve the quality of automobile bodies, was passed at a conference of manufacturers of automobile bodies with members of the inspection rules committee of the National Hardwood Lumber association at Chicago Friday.

This resolution is significant because it is the first time that the consumers and the producers of hardwood lumber have joined forces to carry on scientific research of this kind.

The investigation is expected to result in improvement of grading and inspection rules, with the ultimate effect of eliminating defects in hardwood products caused by the use of inferior or unsuitable stock which could be profitably used for other purposes.

The expenses will be divided between the automobile body manufacturers and the producers of gum and southern elm lumber.

Pianist Plays Second Time; Conquers All

By M. J. L.

A master pianist returned, played, and conquered again last night at Christ Presbyterian church when Josef Lhevinne appeared for his second recital in Madison during the last two seasons.

Beginning with his interpretation of the Gavotte by Rameau, Lhevinne ran the gamut from the melodic "On the Wings of Song," Mendelssohn-Liszt, to a Chopin group and crescendo his recital to its climax with the Hungarian Rhapsodie of Liszt. The Russian artist, who is acclaimed by some critics as the greatest living pianist, offered his program in three parts, and at the end of each, continuous applause forced him to respond with encores until at the conclusion of the Rhapsodie he re-appeared three times.

Somebody once said that familiarity breeds contempt, but no one disdained the well-known Blue Danube as it was interpreted by Lhevinne for one of the extra numbers. He held complete mastery over the various moods in every opus, from the transcendent poetry of Chopin's Berceuse to the powerful and brilliant treatment of the Polonaise.

Lhevinne was the master technician who, dispassionate, swayed his audience in and out of the various moods embodied in his program. He appeared under the auspices of the Madrigal club.

PYRE PRAISES FRENCH STAR

Says Bernhardt's Success is Result of Genius Plus Work

The death of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt which occurred Monday night in Paris at the age of 78 years, marks the passing of one of the world's greatest actresses, in the opinion of Prof. J. A. F. Pyre, of the English department.

"Her premier place in the dramatic world was gained because of her remarkable genius, her beautiful voice, her magnetic and interesting personality, and—hard work," said Prof. Pyre, who has seen her in "Camille" and "L'Aiglon," two roles which are credited by critics as being among her masterpieces.

"She was an unusual looking woman, beautiful—a beauty hard to describe, for it was beyond mere prettiness," said Prof. Pyre.

During her lifetime the famous French actress played in more than 200 parts, and continued her theatrical work up to the time of her death, despite being handicapped by the amputation of her leg in 1915. She had always expressed the desire to "die in harness."

She won her first definite success as Cordelia in a French translation of "King Lear." During the Franco-Prussian war she became a war nurse. Later she made a tour of England where she was received with great acclaim. After touring Denmark and Russia, she came to America, earning huge sums of money which she principally used to float her less successful ventures at home. Many of her experiments in Paris resulted in financial loss.

Mme. Bernhardt created scores of parts and was never content to act them as others interpreted them. She took the title role in "Hamlet" and also appeared as a man in "L'Aiglon," with marked success. The Hugo and Sardou dramas, both tragedies and comedies, were her greatest triumphs. At the height of her career, the emotional acting based principally on love, hate and jealousy held the predominant place. She will never be surpassed in the emotional field, say the critics.

Meanwhile the world mourns, unwilling to believe that the stage idol of 60 years' standing will never more appear.
