ATTORNEY FOR DEFENSE CALLS FIRST WITNESS

Farmer Tells Conflicting Stories—State Rests
Its Case

(Special to Daily Cardinal)

JEFFERSON, Wis., Jan. 8.—Following five days of continual examination of witnesses, the state rested its side of the case in the murder trial of Matthew B. Lynaugh, Madison patrolman, charged with first degree murder for the slaying of Carl E. Jandorf, university sophomore, at Madison last May 28, and at 3:05 this afternoon the defense placed its first witness on the stand.

Testimony Conflicting

Called by the defense for the purpose of showing that students at the university had been "molesting personal property," Morris Hammersley, farmer of the town of Madison, was given a grilling by Assistant Attorney General J. F. Baker, for the state, that left his testimony threadbare and ragged. Several times he was "caught" in the midst of making statements contrary to those which he had made previously in the attorney general's office at Madison.

He declared that he knew Lunney was a student by the way he was dressed and then couldn't tell how he was dressed, he declared that his brother, Fay Hammersley, was out of the car, in which he was sitting on Langdon street when the officer approached, when in his signed statement he had said that "they all stayed together in the car until after the shot," and he testified to Mr. Baker today that the shot occurred "right away" after the officer's hand dropped, while in his former statement, he had said that "it was not over two or three minutes."

Student Accused of Eavesdropping

Mr. Clancey dropped the bomb shell this morning, which he had promised newspaper reporters for several days, and infuriated state's attorneys, when he fired a questioning accusation at Steiner Hansen '24, student of Ashland, charging him with having eavesdropped to hear conversation which was going on in the rooms of Lynaugh's attorneys at the Jefferson hotel Thursday night. Mr. Clancey asked him repeatedly if it wasn't a fact that he went into the bathroom adjoining the counsel's rooms, turned off the lights and listened. Hansen denied that he turned off the light until he came out, but admitted that while he was in there some-

MARJORIE BOESCH '22 CHOSEN BY MERRICK AS PARTNER FOR PROM

MISS MARJORIE BOESCH '22

Marjorie M. Boesch '22, Burlington, Iowa, will lead the 1922 Prom procession at the State Capitol on February 11 as the partner of Dale M. Merrick, the Prom chairman.

Marjorie Boesch is well known on the campus, being a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority and Twelfth Night dramatic society. She will take a leading part in the pre-Prom play, "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh" to be presented at the Fuller theater on Thursday, February 10, and is a member of the Prom program committee.

Dale Merrick, the Prom chairman, also lives in Iowa. His home is at Eldora.

BANQUET OPENS MAYHEW DRIVE FOR $1,800 FUND

Wisconsin Woman Tells of China's Needs—To Speak
Again Today

"I have promised my Chinese girls that I will not come back until I can bring them a gymnasium in one hand and a swimming pool in the other," declared Miss Abby Shaw Mayhew speaking before more than 100 university women last night at a banquet in the Woman's building.

The gathering marked the opening of the women's drive for the Mayhew fund which is a part of the Wisconsin in China drive beginning Monday. The goal set by the women is $1,800, a sum sufficient to educate two Chinese girls in American schools. Other speakers at the banquet were Miss L. Bascom of the university extension division and Marie Bodden '21, president of S. G. A.

Miss Mayhew, who has just returned from Shanghai, will bring another message to the women of the university at Vespers today, Lathrop hall, 4:30 p. m. Special music will include a vocal solo by Doris Stein '24, with Ruth Beebe '23 at the piano.

Arabs, Turks, gypsies, princes, and princesses, Indians, and cowboys, gay señoritas and shy oriental maids—all in the most gorgeous array will throng the floor of Lathrop gym and concert room next Saturday night at the big varsity Jamboree.

Do you fancy the royal robes and glittering spangles of a fairy princess? Her royal highness will be there in majestic splendor. Dark-eyed gypsy maidens with swishing short skirts—not TOO short by decree of august authority—tight spangled jackets with flowing sashes and jangling crowns of queer Masks may be worn at the Jamboree for the first half hour of the evening. The Jamboree committee wishes to warn all students against appearing in extreme or scanty costumes and reserves the right to request violators of this regulation to leave the floor.

RALLY IN LAST PERIOD WINS FOR BADGERS

Wolverines Defeated 27-24
After Leading at End of First Half

(Special to Daily Cardinal)

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—By a great comeback in the second half Wisconsin's basketball team overcame a six point lead and defeated Michigan here last night 27 to 24. With the exception of the fast playing of the Badgers in the latter part of the game, the contest was slow and lacking in spectacular work.

Michigan Grabs Early Lead

The Wolverines took the lead early in the game and by making all of their free throws led 15 to 9, at the end of the first period.

Captain Taylor's inability to shoot free throws in the first half kept the Badger score down.

Taylor and Ceaser led the offensive attack for Wisconsin and it was the great basket shooting of this pair that brought the victory for the Badgers. Captain Taylor played a great floor game as well, while his defensive work was good.

Karpus Heavy Scorer

Karpus was the leading player for the Wolverines and his accurate free throwing gave his team many points. Rea and Wilson of Michigan were put out of the game on personal fouls and Tebell of Wisconsin was disqualified for the same reason. Jack Williams then went in the game, as forward, while Rollie Williams took Tebell's place at guard. The Badger line-up was: Taylor, and R. Williams, forwards; Frogner, center; Ceaser and Tebell, guards.

DATE OF TWELFTH NIGHT PLAYS TO BE SET AHEAD A DAY

Conflicting Events Cause Change—Tickets Go on Sale Monday

The date of the Twelfth Night production, the one-act plays, has been advanced to Wednesday evening, January 12, instead of the original date, January 13, in order not to conflict with Forensic board plans of bringing Mr. Southwick here to read on the latter date.

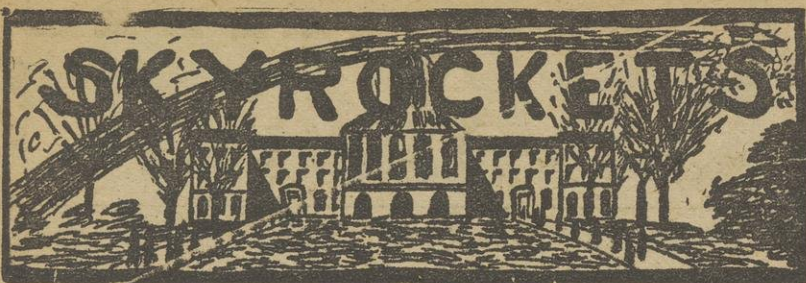

Tickets for the plays will be on sale on the hill Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week and at the door Wednesday night. The program will begin at 8 o'clock, and price of admission will be 35 cents.

"The Dear Departed," the concluding play, is a snappy comedy in which Lawrence Norem '22 as the grandfather, suddenly rises from the dead just in time to prevent his two daughters, Carol Good-year '23, and Irma Borchers '23, as Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Slater, from dividing his earthly goods, with the assistance of their husbands, G. Lowell Geiger '23, and Wayne Beckwith '21, as Ben Jordan and Henry Slater. Much of the action centers about the child, Victoria Slater, which role will be interpreted by Lillian Bresler '23.

AND now you know.

WE quite neglected the Kappa mixer yesterday afternoon. We hope that you had a good time. And this seems a good time to spring the old one about the fellow who was asked to buy a Badger by a co-ed. He replied, "No thank you, I am waiting for Kappa."

POEM

Have you met that type of co-ed, boys,
The one you love to hear
Speak sweet impossibilities,
Sigh and say, "Oh, my dear?"

And when with you at the theater
(Though she's wearing quite a mask)
Takes mirror small and powder puff,
And there completes the task.

While the folks nearby are watching
And make comments you can't hear,
And you feel like saying something
That don't sound like "Oh my dear."

And when with you at the concert,
Music that you'd like to hear
Is drowned out by those sweet nothings
That she pours into your ear?

Do you know this type of co-ed, boys,
That some fellows adore?
If so you'll share my feelings,

There's no need of saying more.

I. TELLEM.

IT is a darn good thing those in charge of the secret managed to keep it until after the Prom girl had been dipped in the lake by a bunch of ruffians in an iceboat. There might have been a riot if the populace had known the chances that were being taken with their Prom girl. She's the only one they have and they want people to take good care of her.

ALL PROM TICKETS SOLD EXCEPT THOSE SAVED FOR ALUMNI

All organizations wishing boxes for Prom should give their orders to Harry Barnes, 644 N. Frances street before Wednesday night.

The entire number of Prom tickets has been reserved, with the exception of a few which are being kept for alumni and guests of honor, according to a statement made last night by Birney F. Miller '22, Prom ticket chairman. More tickets will be issued if the demand is sufficient, since almost 800 couples can be accommodated at Prom supper. Six hundred and thirty-two tickets were sold for the 1921 Prom last year.

All organizations which have reserved a larger number of tickets than they expect to take must notify Miller by Tuesday night, or they will be held liable for paying for all tickets reserved for them.

CHINA RESIDENT 16 YEARS WILL LECTURE TODAY

Arthur Rugh, Y. M. C. A. Secretary, to Talk on the "Oriental Muddle"

ARTHUR RUGH
Y. M. C. A. Secretary to China

Arthur Rugh, Y. M. C. A. secretary to China, will speak on "The Solution of the Oriental Muddle" in Music hall this afternoon at 4:30.

Seventeen years of residence in Shanghai, during which he has thought, dreamed, planned, and hammered away at student work in China, makes him an authority on this complex subject. He has traveled for years up and down the land, visiting most of the eighteen provinces and practically all of the great cities.

Any one of Mr. Rugh's addresses on China is well worth listening to—because he knows what he is talking about and says it admirably. He knows personally the young leaders of China and also thousands of the liveliest and most potential men of affairs. He was also closely connected with the great student body there, the young fellows who brought to the people of China a realization of nationalism and patriotism, and who lead in the boycott against Japanese goods.

In this same group of young men lies the hope of the future of China. When Mr. Rugh went to China 17 years ago, there was only a handful. Today there are more than 1,000,000 students enrolled in modern government schools.

WASHINGTON — The sundry civil appropriation bill, carrying approximately $383,271,291 was passed by the house.

CLANCEY CALLS FIRST WITNESS

one tried the door and that he blocked the entrance.

Philip Gates '21 of Madison, student, was probably the best witness the state produced. At no time during the trial was there a more calm and composed witness on the stand.

He declared that Lynaugh said after he had shot Jandorf: "Let him lay!" and that the students hesitated at first before deciding to go and pick up the boy.

"I heard him say something about 'being ready for the next one,'" testified Gates, "and I remember that he pointed the revolver at the crowd when he started away."

A. J. Bauer of Cedar Brook, a former student, continued his testimony this morning, and explained more thoroughly what he said yesterday regarding the "hissing of the crowd."

"The hissing was begun by somebody in the middle of the street starting a sky-rocket," he said, and on suggestion of Judge G. A. Grimm, told the jury the meaning of the term.

He declared that at the moment prior to the discharge of the revolver in Lynaugh's hand, the policeman stood with his "head back, lips tight, and his eyes wide open." He said that he had "quite a determined look on his face."

During the morning's session, Steiner Hansen insisted, despite the fact that Mr. Clancey examined him rigidly, that "the officer's index finger was in the trigger hole all of the time," and that the blow which Jandorf administered to the policeman and the shot were "not simultaneous."

Judge Grimm, after giving explicit instructions to the jury, adjourned court until 10 o'clock Monday morning. The case proper will undoubtedly continue well into next week, and it is understood that there will be no limit set as to the duration of arguments to the jury.

THE JOINT DEBATE

A university atmosphere offers many opportunities to spend profitable hours. More people collect in the library daily than in any other spot on the campus, and their purpose on the whole is serious. Others take to the quiet of their rooms, where, imbued with the desire of accomplishment, they burn the midnight oil.

Good lectures, worthwhile outside activities, the occasional good show, and the movie are invariably received by capacity student audiences at Wisconsin.

In the light of these facts there is little doubt but that the classic forensic event on the university calendar, the fifty-first annual joint debate scheduled at Music hall next Friday night, will pack Wisconsin's historic auditorium.

It is well that it should. The joint debate is an institution at Wisconsin; it puts on the platform six men who have spent close to a year preparing their respective cases; it has been the medium for solving vital questions of the day; and withal, it is a real scrap.

Perhaps the best example of the relative importance attached to the event is found in the attitude of some of the debaters. Two of the men, who through past experience could easily make the intercollegiate squad, have chosen rather to concentrate on the joint debate.

They willingly forfeit the greater reward, the added personal glory, and the fine trips that fall to the lot of an intercollegiate debater in order to keep in the front rank a traditional university forensic contest. Such tactics speak well for the high place which the joint debate justly occupies.

Save next Friday for the joint debate.

MARKING MILESTONES

NO the 200 or more students who gathered at the 1921 Badger banquet last Friday night the recitation of the achievements of Wisconsin's greatest year book must have been a revelation.

Some often repeated queries—"What becomes of the funds?" "Do college publications ever earn anything?" "Can one spend his time profitably on an outside activity?" "Why don't we get some idea of the inner workings of these organizations?"—were answered to the last degree of satisfaction.

In the face of unprecedented price conditions, the 1921 Badger emerged with a net profit of approximately $2,500. In addition, a complete set of office fixtures and supplies was left for future annuals; the debt of an old Badger, long past due, was paid; provision was made for an appropriate award to staff members, and a record of accomplishments established.

From the record of the 1921 Badger other campus publications should draw a criterion for applying the acid test of their own organizations. Undoubtedly, all have the fine faculty co-operation accorded the Badger.

Moreover, they should be possessed of accounting schemes which are comparable to those of well oiled business units. Students should be informed of everything concerning the status of campus publications which is germane to their legitimate interest—circulation, assets, liabilities and the like.

They have the test. Application is next in order.

FAVORS EXPOSITION

Editor Daily Cardinal:

The agitation for an All-University exposition is timely. There is nothing more vital to a true popular understanding of a state institution, such as the university, than that it should at intervals assemble concrete examples of its purpose and visible testimony of its progress in the form of an exposition. While conditions may have prevented the holding of an exposition within the last few years, those conditions are now removed. The present industrial slump demands that the state's attention be called to an optimistic future. We can do that here at Wisconsin. An exposition would not only display the facts of Wisconsin's highest present attainments but would afford a new starting point and a tremendous stimulus for further development.

An exposition, as a means to court legislative favor, would certainly fail its purpose. We should, of course, offer the legislators, soon to be assembled in Madison, an adequate opportunity to view the school and its work at its best—an opportunity for getting a true appreciation of its value. But the purpose of the exposition must be bigger than this. It ought to justify past appropriations, satisfy the state at large that the investment has brought the highest returns in the nature of educational progress. It is not enough that the state should observe the products of the school in the form of graduates; it should be familiarized with the actual process. Then the exposition should show the unique scientific advancement made at Wisconsin. It should suggest new fields for educational exploration.

Here is a source of news, a source of popular interest, rich in the possibilities for giving the people of the state the true impression of what is going on at Wisconsin. Almost at regular intervals we raise our hands in horror at some fantastic newspaper story concerning a rare, unrepresentative college episode. Why not correct the widespread impressions so created by a news source which echoes the atmosphere that does constantly exist at the university?

Certainly, one way that we can further the idea of state-wide service of the university is by a real exposition of all departments of the university. Tremendous a job though it may be, there are here enough Wisconsinites endowed with the proper spirit and capacities to carry it through.

An exposition is valuable to create true impressions not only among the people of the state at large, but among ourselves—among us at the university. An exposition would be illuminating to many of us, and might definitely clear up our true relationship to the school. All of us undoubtedly would be benefited by a glimpse of the departments not honored by our own individual requirements or elections.

VARSITY WINS GYM MEET BY LARGE MARGIN

Freshman Defeated by 483 to 361 Score in First Prelim

In the first preliminary meet of the season, the varsity squad of tumblers defeated the freshmen gymnasts Saturday afternoon in the gymnasium by a score of 483 to 361. The varsity men easily captured the five events, and rolled up a large margin over their opponents.

L. Tasche '21 was the individual high man in the meet with a total score of 135 points. F. Kubosch '23 was close on the heels of Tasche, with 133 counters to his credit. W. Hammann, freshman captain, gathered in the most points for the first year men, scoring 107½ points, and E. Krieger finished second with 92½.

Finn Aanesen '21, varsity fencer, met four freshman swordsmen, winning every contest. Aanesen conquered E. Peterson, F. Whitehead, A. Thompson, and W. Rowland.

"The freshmen squad made a fine showing," said Coach Fred Schlatter immediately after the meet. "Although the men were handicapped by lack of practice, they furnished good competition for the varsity, who need more work."

The summary follows:

Horizontal bars—F. Bumer '23, V; F. Keitz '23, V; F. Kubosch '23, V. Varsity 102½; Freshmen 57½.

Parallel bars—L. Tasche '21, V; F. Kubosch '23; N. Koch '24, F. Varsity 104½; Freshmen 99½.

Rings—L. Tasche '21, V; W. Kates '22, V; E. Krieger '23, F. Varsity 102½; Freshmen 58.

Tumbling—D. Kitchen '22, V; F. Kubosch '23, and B. Hagen '24, V, tied; C. Osborn '22, V. Varsity 105; Freshmen 61½.

Side horse—J. Curtin '21, V; F. Bumer '23, V; R. Weiss F. Varsity 70½; Freshmen 57½.

ORGANIZER OF STEEL STRIKE TO SPEAK AT GYM

Will Discuss Trade Unionism as the Road to Freedom"

"Trade Unionism as the Road to Freedom" will be discussed Monday night in the university gymnasium by William Z. Foster, organizer of the great steel strike. The public is invited to attend.

Foster was the storm center of attention during the strike of 1919, as the prime mover and supporter of the entire affair. Despite attacks made at that time, he was cleared of all charges of "Bolshevism" and the like by the investigation of the Interchurch World movement, which in its report on the strike forcibly repudiated the idea that industrial radicalism was responsible for the strike.

"Foster is a high authority on trade unionism," said Prof. John R. Commons, of the Economic department at the university, who is to introduce the speaker on Monday. "He has been in the game for many years and has distinguished himself in the work. He knows the situation from the inside."

"The Great Steel Strike and Its Lessons" is the title of a book which Foster has recently published, which tells the story from the workers' side.

The lecture will be held under the auspices of the Social Science club of the university, and will open at 8 p. m.

PROFESSOR ROSS SPEAKS AT DINNER IN WASHINGTON

Prof. Edward A. Ross, who will return to the university for the second semester, spoke before the American Sociological society at a dinner given in Washington last week for members of the various learned associations then in session in that city.

FIRST VOCATIONAL MEET FOR WOMEN TO BE HELD JAN. 19

Co-eds to Be Aided in Selecting Work for Which They Are Fitted

The first section of the Vocational conference to be held next semester, which will endeavor to help all freshmen, sophomores, and new women to choose the right courses for their vocation, will be held January 19. The meeting will be led by Prof. S. W. Gilman.

The fact that so many women have heretofore made mistakes by selecting courses which did not help them in the vocation which they had chosen suggested the idea of holding a conference shortly before the beginning of the new semester in order that practical guidance might be given them in choosing the correct courses.

There will be a second section composed of several meetings in February after the second semester begins. These meetings will be for upperclassmen and will be addressed by prominent speakers. Faculty advisors of various courses will also discuss the subjects in which they are particularly interested.

CADET OFFICERS MOCK FORMAL IS POSTPONED

Final Exams Cause Date to Be Changed From January 28 to April 1

Because of the fact that final examinations for the first semester begin January 29, the university cadet officers' mock formal dance was postponed from January 28 to April 1, at the meeting of the Cadet Officers' association, Friday afternoon, in the Scabbard and Blade room.

The plan, advanced at the last meeting, to adopt a ring, similar to those worn by West Point graduates, for every officer in the university R. O. T. C. who successfully completes the advanced course, was abandoned.

The association decided that instead of having a page in the 1922 Badger devoted to pictures of the Pistol and Rifle clubs, that page should be included in the regular military section, and those club pictures should be omitted. The nature of the trophy or prize to be given to the winning team in the inter-company rifle match was discussed although no definite decision was reached.

all these and many more will frolic together in merry disregard of anachronism.

Nearly 300 costumes will be on display in Lathrop hall Thursday, Friday, and Saturday afternoons from 2 to 5. Many entrants for the prize contest are securing their costumes already or arranging to have them made. Those who wish the widest selection of costumes may go the first part of the week to the costumer, Mrs. F. Hess, 638 William-street, B. 970, and make early reservations.

Some who have costumes left over from last year and would like to rent them to others may arrange to do so on a commission basis through Mrs. Hess, on the three days when she is at Lathrop. Costumes rent for from $1 to $3 apiece.

A big grand march will start the affair, and the gay assembly will file past the costume judges displaying their costumes. The awarding of prizes will come later after the masques have been taken off. General dancing will begin immediately after the grand march, and special stunts will be given during the course of the evening.

Tickets for the Jamboree are on sale now at Morgan's and the University pharmacy.

SCREEN VERSION OF TWIN BEDS OPENS AT GRAND TODAY

THE WEEK AT THE GRAND
Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday—Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven in "Twin Beds."
Thursday, Friday, and Saturday—Lon Chaney and Betty Blythe in "Nomads of the North."

The attraction at the Grand commencing today will be the presentation in film form of "Twin Beds," one of the most successful comedies ever on the American stage. The leading roles are in the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven.

Mr. and Mrs. DeHaven are starring in the production, and they have produced a truly refreshing and hilariously funny comedy in transferring the play to the screen. The picture interprets the abounding humor of the piece more satisfactorily, even, than the stage play, possibly by reason of its ability to follow the action more closely.

Mr. DeHaven, with a master hand, has drawn forth every bit of comedy from the character of Signor Monti, a role admirably suited to his talents, and in which he makes a long stride to the fore as a screen comedian. Mrs. DeHaven is demure and loveable as the innocent young Mrs. Hawkins, and wins the full sympathy of the audience in her precarious situations. A noteworthy cast is in support of the DeHavens, which, indeed, makes the picture very nearly an all star production.

WEEKLY CALENDAR

Sun., Mon., Tues.—Bryant Washburn in "Full House," also Mack Sennett comedy "The Quack Doctor."
Wed., Thurs., Fri., Sat.—Louise Glaum in "Love," also Paramount Magazine and Latest News Weekly.

AT THE STRAND

Bryant Washburn has in "A Full House," a new Paramount comedy drama, another one of those delightfully conceived comedy roles which have brought him such a high measure of success. "A Full House" was scenarized by Alice Eyton from the famous Fred Jackson stage farce. It will be presented at the Strand today, tomorrow and Tuesday.

In the production Mr. Washburn appears as George Howell, a young attorney who gets into most amazing difficulties when he leaves his bride for a few hours to go on a business trip. This journey has a most amusing maze of complications involving another man's love letters, stolen jewelry, policemen and thieves. Mr. Washburn's impersonation is a finely drawn characterization that brings a continual stream of laughs.

Opposite the comedian is Lois Wilson, the pretty and popular leading woman.

Louise Fazenda in Mack Sennett's latest comedy, entitled "The Quack Doctor," will be shown as an added attraction.

"UP IN MABEL'S ROOM," AS GOOD AS LAST YEAR

A sentimentally embroidered "shimmee" from Paris is the "two-year-old little pink thing" that involves the widowed siren, Mabel, and the docile homebreaker, Garry, in an endless chain of humorous complications.

"Up in Mabel's Room," at the Fuller last night, is a frivolous farce which has weathered the sea of time and returned to Madison none the worse for wear.

With a mediocre cast, the play provokes laughs since the lines bubble and sing with wit and fun, but with a cast that aptly interprets the several roles, the comedy soars into the heights of popular farce.

A meek and rotund young plutocrat who has just taken unto himself a sweet, adoring, and adored, childlike wife is startled into paroxysms of fear when he encounters at a house party a golden haired widow with whom he had an affair before his marriage and to whom in a "slip" he had sent a dainty chemise bearing these words, "To Mabel from Garry." This vampirish vixen threatens to tell poor Garry's wife. So Garry and his valet embark upon a quest of the dangerous lingerie. The escapades of the venture supply lots of laughs.

As the vacillating husband, Garry,

James Donlan gives a finished interpretation. Sharing the laud of Mr. Donlan is Miss Hazel Alger, the wily widow, Mabel. She has those ways that only widows are endowed with to make the male succumb, a pretty face, tantalizing eyes, a heap of hair and what not.

And so on with the rest of the cast. It is uniformly good, as are the sets and the costumes.

CORINNE GRIFFITH PLAYS DOUBLE ROLE IN FULLER PICTURE

In "The Broadway Bubble," a story of intense interest by Leigh Gordon Giltner, which has been visualized by Vitagraph, Corinne Griffith appears in a dual role as twin sisters. One of these, Drina Lynn, is induced by her married sister to impersonate her in the husband's home.

"The Broadway Bubble" will be shown at the Fuller theater today. Drina depends upon the fact that her sister, Adrienne Landreth, and her husband have been scarcely on speaking terms for some time to make the impersonation practicable. Complications come swiftly, however, when Geoffrey Landreth begins to feel that his "wife" is different. It is not in Drina's nature to be cold and scornful, for she is naturally warm-hearted and her attempts to ape her sister's chilly manner are not altogether successful. Landreth, encouraged, seeks a reconciliation with his "wife," much to the embarrassment and disturbance of Drina.

CHINA AWAKE TO NEW IDEAS SAYS CHILDS

Conditions in Orient Described in Letter to Prof. E. A. Ross

That the idea of popular government is fast gripping the minds of the people of China, and that the country is awakening to its possibilities more than ever before is the theme of a letter received by Prof. E. A. Ross from Jack Childs '14, Wisconsin's representative in China.

Extracts from the letter follow: "The last few years have been stirring times for us here in China who have been in touch with the student classes. Their nation-wide patriotic movement has done a good deal to arouse the members of the commercial and the gentry classes to a new interest in the problems of their government. It is the beginning, we believe, of a new public spirit in China. The arousing of public opinion in a country like China is a difficult task, but increasingly do we feel the officials will have to deal with the desires of the people as a force too powerful to be ignored. The failure of the movement of Yuan Shih Kai to put himself in as an emperor, the failure of Chang Hsun, the military leader, to restore the old Manchu line, and the collapse of the cabinet this summer which was under the control of the Japanese military power, are all evidences that popular government has a stronger grip on the imagination of the people of China than is sometimes thought.

"Apart from the political situation one feels and sees everywhere the onward march of things. In her industrial life China is going ahead by leaps and bounds. Everywhere here you see great new buildings going up. In Shanghai there were over sixty new foreign enterprises which opened up business in one month alone last year.

"China is also in the grip of a real intellectual revolution. One aspect of this movement of great significance is the literary revolution. The old classical Wen-li style has been dealt a body blow. There are now over two hundred magazines published in what is known as the P'ai Hua or the colloquial language. The importance of having the style of the written language to coincide with that of the spoken cannot well be over-emphasized. These new papers are also standing for the best in modern science and education. This movement is also calling into question many of the old institutions and traditions of China. While it is rather radical in nature and in particular under the spell of many of the latest social theories of rather doubtful value in and of themselves the movement is nevertheless doing a fine service in China right now. It is sweeping out the old superstitions, and making popular the scientific attitude. Many of the leaders of the movement are returned students from the Continent and America. My deepest regret about the movement is that in its enthusiasm for change it is liable to destroy a good deal out of the old civilization in the life of China which might much better have been incorporated into the new social order. It is also a little inclined to be materialistic in point of view although it is not wholly so. It is certainly raising in the minds of the students a host of questions right now, and this very questioning, inquiring attitude which it has stimulated gives us a unique opportunity with the students. We find the avenues to the students are all literally wide open."

NEGATIVE, RATHER THAN AFFIRMATIVE, WON "AG" DEBATE

The Daily Cardinal of Saturday, January 8, in stating the decision of the debate of the Agricultural Literary society, which was held Friday night, announced that the affirmative team won. The negative won by a decision of three to two.

and western civilization is the work for which Miss Mayhew has achieved national recognition as secretary of the Normal school of physical education of the Y. W. C. A. in China.

"Chinese women are learning the spirit of service from American students," continued Miss Mayhew. "It is a constant revelation to them that students themselves are giving to help them, and the annual work of the Wisconsin students is appreciated more than you can realize. China is just beginning to open its eyes to service, and it is work of this kind that is helping them to feel this spirit of mutual aid."

Miss Mayhew described the progress that the Normal school of physical education has made in the past two years since her last visit to America and Wisconsin. Four new buildings have been added and grounds for tennis courts and hockey fields have been acquired. Marie Bodden '21 pointed out that the coming drive for funds was a challenge to Wisconsin women that they could not afford to neglect.

IMAGINARY TRIP UP RHINE RIVER IS THEME OF LECTURE

An illustrated lecture, "A Trip Up the Rhine," was delivered by Prof. B. Q. Morgan of the German department, before the International club in 112 Bascom hall at 7:30 p. m. Friday. With the aid of a large number of stereopticon views Professor Morgan took his hearers on an imaginary journey up the Rhine from Cologne, or Koln, to Mainz on the Hessian border, which is considered one of the most picturesque regions in the whole of Germany.

WASHINGTON—Guy F. Allen, of Somerset, was nominated today by Pres. Wilson to be treasurer of the U. S. Mr. Allen, who has been assistant treasurer, succeeds John Burke, whose resignation was accepted yesterday by the president.
