VARSITY BAND GIVES CONCERT AT GYM TODAY

Classical and Popular Numbers
Are on Program
Offered

The university band will present a well-rounded program at the concert this afternoon at the gymnasium at 3:00. The program has been especially arranged for the University of Wisconsin band by Major E. W. Morphy. It includes mostly classical orchestral pieces.

Selections ranging from the severely classical excerpts from grand operas to the popular numbers have a place on this program. The program has been arranged to present at the outset the compositions demanding the more serious attention of the listener, and the second part of the program is lightened by numbers of ballet music and other selections with the ever popular oriental color predominating.

Special Finale

This finale is a well-known organ composition by the great French organist Lemmens, and is popular on the programs of the great organists of the present day. Mr. Morphy has arranged this composition especially for the University of Wisconsin band, and this is its premier performance for band.

"Not many institutions can boast of an organization of amateurs capable of presenting to the public the difficult and intricate works of such men as Wagner, Thomas, and Tschaikowsky," says the management, "but because of the intense loyalty of the individual members of the university band, this band can proudly offer to the public a type of music which is performed only by the visiting symphony orchestras."

The program is as follows:
Wagner....March from the Opera
"Tannhauser"
Thomas....Overture to the Opera
"Mignon"
Tschaikowsky.....Marche Slave
Intermission
Chaminade.....Ballet Suite
a. Pas des Echappes.
b. "La Lisonjera" Caprice.
c. Variation from "Callirhoe"
Lubomirsky.....Danse Orientale
Ippolitow-Iwanow.....Cortège du Sardar
Weber.....Invitation à la Valse
Lemmens.....Marche Pontificale

ENGINEERS PLAN ANNUAL PARADE

The annual Engineers' Parade in keeping with college tradition is now being planned for. Milton Powers '22 was recently elected, by engineering students, to manage the affair, and the date set as Saturday afternoon, Mar. 19.

Secrecy, it is said, is to accompany most of the plans, especially those relative to the usual take-offs on the Engineers' traditional enemies, the law students. Prizes will be offered for the best make-ups, and all Engineers will participate. Ingenuity in constructing things mechanical has its annual display in this march of floats and students up State street and around the square.

phases of student religious activity and comes with a message for every student.

Meeting Tonight

The first meeting of the conference will be held tonight in Lathrop hall. This meeting will be a convocation of all workers on the conference and all members of students and young peoples' church societies.

The Rev. Mr. Lumpkin of Grace Episcopal church will address the meeting. The formal opening of the convention will be an all-university convocation next Friday afternoon, Mar. 4, at 4:30 in Music hall. This meeting is for every student in the university and for the town people who are interested. This will be Mr. Eddy's first appearance before the conference.

RELIGION AID TO SCIENCE"—ROBINSON

"Religion and science are not incompatible, not enemies, but are mutually supplemental. Science has to be supplemented by something deeper, which may be a religious theory," said Dr. D. S. Robinson in his lecture yesterday afternoon in the auditorium of the Biology building.

"The sciences of chemistry and physics teach us that all things are merely an arrangement of electrons or ions which have force and energy.

"The question of what is life cannot be answered within the limits of biology. You must go beyond to get a rational theory of life.

"Science demands religion's interpretation of the things it talks about; it has to fall back on some philosophy."

BADGERS BEAT CHICAGO 25-19; CONFERENCE PROSPECTS JUMP

HERBERT COACH FOR "MISS 'QUITA"

George Herbert, Chicago, has been secured to coach the twenty-third annual Haresfoot production, "Miss 'Quita," and will prepare the entire show for its tour of Wisconsin and Illinois during spring vacation. Herbert has had much success in acting and directing, and is well known in Madison as the coach of former Haresfoot productions, "Prof. Phiddle, D.D." in 1916, and "Jamaica Ginger" in 1917.

Herbert is in Madison today to make the final selection of the cast and chorus of "Miss 'Quita." The elimination of two casts and two choruses from the 150 men competing for the places has been completed by the club members, and Herbert will chose the final group today. The other men will work as understudies to fit into the part in case of sickness or ineligibility.

The last tryouts will be held today at 2 o'clock in Al Thompson's hall.

AG FEDERATION TO HELP FACULTY CURB LIBRARY VANDALS

The Agricultural College federation held a special election on Friday at which two members of the student body, Lyman E. Jackson '21 and Edna L. Huffman '21 were chosen to act on the library committee of the A. C. F. board. These members will co-operate with faculty members to prevent vandalism in the library.

Carl W. Rogers '23 was also elected to fill the vacancy left by Percy D. Gibson, who was graduated at the close of the first semester.

The A. C. F. was organized in 1920 to promote student activities of the College of Agriculture. It attempts to unify all organizations of that college and the Home Economics department. All organizations of the College of Agriculture are under the direction of the board of the A. C. F., the members of which are chosen by the various organizations, one from each organization, and four from the student body at large. All students of the College of Agriculture are considered as members.

Victory is Assured After Early Scoring By Meanwell's Men

The Wisconsin basketball five defeated Coach Stagg's Maroons last night in the biggest home contest of the year by the score of 25-19.

About 2,200 saw the Badgers perform better than in any previous game this season. From the time McIntosh made the first basket, after a minute of play, there was no doubt as to the final outcome of the game.

Coach Meanwell sprung a big surprise, using McIntosh at center and Ceaser at forward. The new combination worked well, the passing being fast and accurate and the defense practically impregnable.

Team Stars

It was the team which starred last night, there were no outstanding Badger stars, each offensive man doing a part of the scoring. The close guarding of Frogner and Rollie Williams held the fast Chicago forwards, Vollmer and Birkhoff, to only one basket each. A most noticeable fact was the defensive work of Taylor. His improvement in this department was very marked since the last home game.

Halladay was the Maroons' highest field scorer, making three baskets. Besides making one basket, Birkhoff made nine free throws.

The victory increases Wisconsin's chance for a tie for first place in the conference. If the team can keep on presenting the class of ball which was displayed last night, there is no reason why the remainder of the games cannot be Wisconsin victories.

PRESIDENT BIRGE IS VESPER SPEAKER

President E. A. Birge will be the speaker for Y. W. C. A. vespers this afternoon in Lathrop hall parlors, at 4:30. Zirian Blish '22 will preside. Marie McKittrick '21 will sing "My Redeemer and My Lord," by Dudley Buck, to the accompaniment of Miss Madeline Wilman, an instructor in the Music school.

President Birge has not announced a subject for his talk, preferring to speak to the women informally.

FROSH DANCE DATE SET FOR MARCH 12

March 12 has been set as the date of the annual Frosh dance, and will be held in the Lathrop gymnasium, according to T. Gordon Roberts '24, chairman. Thompson's first orchestra will furnish the music.

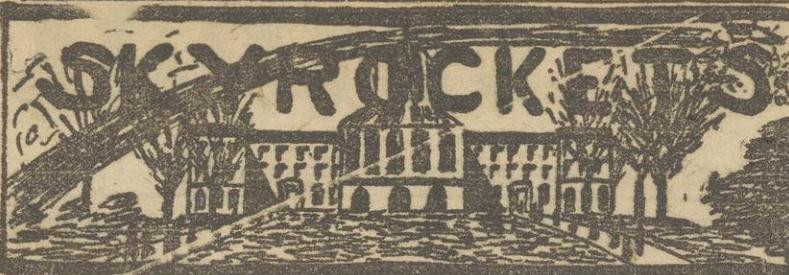

Milton Kissell '24 has been appointed assistant chairman, and the following committee has been selected: decorations, Bernard Demoling; program, John Packard; music, Norman Lillis; floor, C. J. Callen; finance, Donald Rock.

JUST why the Lit staff should worry about selling out for the Chesterton address — or is it lecture? — is a source of amusement to those who have seen G. K. before. Even if only half the audience came, Mr. Chesterton's presence would alone assure a full house.

COGITATIONS AT TEN P. M.
When you meet a classy co-ed,
'bout seventeen,
And all the tea-imbibers admit that she's a queen,
You take her out and find there's nothing in her bean,
What's the use?

And then you meet another, and like her classy clothes,
You like the look that's in her eye, and other things she shows,
You take her out, and find that she is not what you supposed,
What's the use?

You meet the third one at a dance, and, dearie, she can step,
She shoves a wicked shuffle, she's mighty full of pep,—
You take HER out and wonder how she got that awful rep.
What's the use?

You take another out to dine; you spend your hard-earned dough,
From all reports you're positive that she is none too slow,
But at ten o'clock she gently says, "There isn't any mo'"
Gosh, what's the use?
BARNACLE.

BADGER CO-EDS HAVE LIFE GOAL ALREADY CHOSEN

—MISS BENNETT

"The girls at Wisconsin seem to know what they want to do," declared Miss Helen Bennett of the Chicago Collegiate Bureau of Vocations who has been holding personal conferences with senior girls and who spoke at the vocational conference convocation Friday afternoon.

"I was particularly impressed with the fact that the girls in their conferences with me wished to find out rather the opportunities for following their chosen work than to obtain advice as to the kind of work to choose. This is a result of the excellent work that has been done by Mrs. Flett."

Co-eds Keep Dates

"Not one girl failed to keep her appointment," declared Miss Bennett, speaking further of her impressions of Wisconsin girls, "and they all presented a very business-like and wide awake appearance. Interest in a great variety of work was shown by the girls with whom I had conferences. They wished to know about the opportunities for women in everything from home economics to industrial management. Wisconsin is to be congratulated on her vocational conference work."

Session Closed
Yesterday concluded the vocational conference. Round table discussions were held all yesterday morning and included the following groups: Miss Sarah B. Place from the Infant Welfare association of Chicago discussed "Nutrition and the Care of Infants;" Miss Marlatt of the home economics department, "Home Economics and Home-Making;" Miss Celia Linns, "Accounting;" Miss Helen Clark, who assists Professor Gillen in his social case work, "Social Service and Red Cross."

RELIGIOUS MEET STARTS FRIDAY; EDDY IS LEADER

Mr. Eddy began his work among students in 1891 when he went to India at his own expense to work among students there. After fifteen years of service there he became secretary for Asia for the International committee of the Y. M. C. A. In 1912-13 he was engaged with Dr. John R. Mott in student work in Asia. Meetings conducted by Eddy in China during the recent war were attended by audiences that averaged 3,000 a night. Official proclamations of Eddy meetings preceded many of his Chinese meetings.

During the early years of the war Mr. Eddy was with the British army in France and during the closing years on the American and British fronts. He was with the Poles in their last stand before Warsaw, advanced with their flying squadron, and studied conditions among the Bolshevik prisoners. He conducted the first student conference ever held in Czechoslovakia. He has conducted meetings in nearly every country in the world and has a fund of experiences in student work throughout the world. In Egypt his meetings drew audiences of 6,000 nightly.

Has Varied Message

His message to Wisconsin students is an industrial and social one as well as religious one. He is a master of the student and industrial situation in the world.

This Week's Theater Attractions

COMING TO THE ORPHEUM

Today—The Man Hunt; Briscoe & Rauh; Aeroplane Girls; Bucker & Winifred; Barber & Jackson; Ward & Dooley; Kinograms.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday—The Silver Fountain; Murphy & White; Stone & Taves; Marie Gaspar; Harvey, Henry & Grayce; Sultan; Kinograms; Topics of the Day.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday—Juveniles; Pearl's Romanian Gypsies; Anger & Packer; Stratford Comedy Four; Arselma Sisters; Up-side Down Stanley; Kinograms.

Three vaudeville performances are scheduled for today at the Orpheum, a matinee starting at 3 o'clock and two evening performances at 7:15 and 9, when the six act bill including The Man Hunt, Briscoe & Rauh; Aeroplane Girls; Bucker & Winifred; Barber & Jackson; Ward & Dooley, and Kinogram pictures will be the attraction. Seats can be reserved for all performances.

New Bill Monday

For the first three days of the week, starting with two performances Monday night, the Orpheum will present an entire new bill of vaudeville acts and pictures. Headlining the program will be seen Becker Brothers, The Silver Fountain, a study in light, color and form, presented by girls from the Artists Colony of Paris, France; next comes Bob Murphy and Elmore White in a peppy arrangement of tunes and laughs. Arthur Stone and Marion Hayes will offer A Carnival Episode called Green Goods, and Marie Casper, in Shadows of Songland; Harvey, Henry and Grayce, in their musical oddity On the Course, and Sultan, an equine surprise, together with Kinogram and Topics of the Day pictures complete the bill.

AT THE GRAND

"Isobel" or "The Trail's End," adapted from James Oliver Curwood's story, is showing this week at the Grand. The tale concerns a certain Sergeant McVeigh of the Royal Northwest Mounted who goes into the wilds of Canada upon an official mission and meets not only with that sort of adventure which members of the Northwest Mounted anticipate, but also encounters romance under the most spectacular and peculiar circumstances. Mr. Curwood has woven an amazing story, and yet he has stuck to the line of possibility. Romance intermingles with action which is invigorating in its depiction, making an intense story. House Peters is seen as the Sergeant, a role which fits him to perfection, while Jane Novak is featured as the girl.

AT THE FULLER

A new form of the eternal triangle is pictured in "Lure of Youth," the Metro special which will be featured as the attraction at the Fuller theater beginning today.

This throbbing drama in which the villain of the play ceases to be a villain, is the story of Florence Fair, a famous actress, who has come to "recuperate" in a small town and has discovered a diamond in the routh in naive Robert Dent.

Robert becomes Florentine's protege and his unusual adventures in climbing the ladder success makes a story which comes from the pen of the popular writer, Luther Reed, who also adapted it for the screen, is presented with an all-star cast, including Gareth Hughes, Cleo Madison, William Conklin, Lydia Knott, William Courtwright and Helen Weir.

Philip E. Rose directed the production, Robert Lurle photographed it, and Sydney Ulman designed and executed the art interiors. The picture was personally supervised by Bayard Veiller, Metro's Director of Production.

AT THE MAJESTIC

The new company opening at the Majestic today is headed by Billy

Van Allen, former star of Neil O'Brien Minstrels. They say this clever comedian is in a class by himself, when it comes to fast clean comedy, and his ability to bring out every comical situation in "September Morn," the bill starting today, is the result of his experience as principle comedian in many popular comedies.

There will be a number of vaudeville specialties intermingled in the action of the piece. There will be an acrobatic dance by Charles Hoback, and the Ragtime chorus will sing and dance their way through many swaggering, hitting songs.

This company will remain here two weeks, playing four complete musical tabloids. Following this company will be the Elmer Coudy

BADGERS DEFEAT
MAROONS 25-19

During the first few minutes of the game, both teams resorted to long passing. The Badgers soon settled down to a steady pace and from then until the end of the game the ball was advanced to within shooting distance with monotonous regularity.

After 10 minutes of play, Chicago attempted to check the Badger offense by calling time out. They were not successful, however, for Taylor, McIntosh, and Ceaser each scored in rapid succession. Three fouls were called on Wisconsin in the final minutes of the period. Birkhoff made each free throw, bringing Chicago's score up seven points.

Badgers Score

McIntosh again started the scoring in the second half, making a pretty shot in the first minute of play. Ceaser and Vollmer each made a basket and then Wisconsin commenced to foul again. Birkhoff was not as successful as in the previous half, missing three free throws in succession. Halladay followed with two baskets, but after that the Maroons seldom got within shooting distance.

Jack Williams and Tebel were sent in for Ceaser and Taylor in the final minutes of play. Williams was successful in caging a basket in the only shot which he took.

The university gymnasts entertained the crowd between halves with a number of acrobatic stunts.

MR. CHESTERTON'S VISIT

GILBERT K. CHESTERTON'S coming to Madison on March 9 is an event of more than passing interest. The fact that one of England's greatest writers is to be the guest of students of the university is of special interest.

Those who have undertaken the task of staging the Chesterton lecture had originally planned to have the lecture delivered at the gymnasium, but were obliged to change the plan in view of the fact that the contract specified that the speaker made it a rule not to speak to more than 1,200 people at one time.

Brief preliminary announcement of the seat sale for the lecture, which is to be held at the Madison high school auditorium, brought such swift response that within 24 hours nearly all of the seats were disposed of.

Explanations for this unprecedented rush to hear a lecture are many and varied. Some hold that the so-called "educated" are even more interested in the "Ignorance of the Educated," Mr. Chesterton's subject, than in "Education of the Ignorant."

UNIVERSITY STANDARDS

MANY otherwise exceptionally good students received unpleasant surprises as a result of the grades given on the final examinations of the last semester. These students maintain that they carried on their work conscientiously and consistently, had expected to register high grades, only to find that they tallied extremely discouraging averages.

An editorial in the current number of the Octopus expresses the sentiments of those who have suffered. The Octopus departs from its characteristically happy mood and complains about the "select few who take upon themselves the task of raising the standards of the school. In the interest of higher education, they start, not by imparting more knowledge, but by cutting down the grades. A ruthless indiscriminacy marks their work.

"Students who had heretofore distinguished themselves as unusual are recipients of fairs and sometimes less. Just to raise the standards."

The Octopus charges that there is no uniform system of credit, that a person may receive a grade of excellent from one instructor and get only a fair from another for the same work.

On the heel of the complaint made by the Octopus, comes the Wisconsin Literary Magazine with the charge that many students are merely "getting by" without much effort. The "Lit" maintains that harsh measures must be applied to raise the standards of the university. The tendency among students in general, the "Lit" alleges, is to become absorbed by the manifold temptations which college life presents, and that few students put enough into their work to get something out of it.

"There is a remedy—a harsh remedy—namely, 'applying the screws' more than they have been applied. A degree loses its value in the eyes of the man who has worked for it when he sees his neighbor who has not worked for it get one that is just as good. Students who demonstrate that they are not working should be made to work or they should be ruthlessly expelled. If we allow them to linger on one pretext or another they will lower the whole standing of the university."

Both points of view presented above are lively and interesting. The Octopus pleads for the diligent students who get caught in the same net with the shiftless. Perhaps in the dim distant future some perfect means of determining scholastic standing will be devised. At present, we may have to get along with some moderation of the present system.

FULLER PLAY IS WELL RECEIVED

Madison theater-goers were pleased Saturday night with the musical comedy "Look Who's Here," featuring Cleo Mayfield and Cecil Lean. The clever work of these two was supplemented by a presentable cast, and a chorus that was better than the ordinary.

The theme was lightly woven about a man with too many wives, and was backed up with excellent costumes, the most notable being the gowns of Miss Mayfield. As an affectionate friend of the star, Mr. Mack introduced some clever humor and helped along the action of the play with his light lines.
