SPRING ELECTION PETITIONS MUST BE FILED TODAY

Names of 25 Qualified Voters
Required on Each List
Presented

The time for the filing of petitions for candidates entering the field at the spring election on May 9 expires at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The petitions bearing the names of 25 qualified voters must be filed at Dean S. H. Goodnight's office.

Positions are open for two juniors and one sophomore on the Forensic board, eight on the Athletic board, three on the Cardinal board of control, four on the Union board and four on the Badger board.

Elect Badger Board

All qualified voters except freshmen may vote for the positions on the Forensic board. All male students are eligible to vote for candidates running for president and vice-president of the Athletic board, and one "W" man from the six major sports, which includes football, basketball, cross country, baseball, crew and track, and two sophomores to serve on the Athletic board for two years. One letter man from each minor sport is to be elected also.

Everyone can vote for the three one year positions which are open on The Cardinal board of control. The sophomore class will vote for the four members of the incoming Badger board which will be composed of sophomores. At the recent referendum ballot it was decided to elect a Badger board which would appoint the editor-in-chief and business manager of the Badger, and be in power until the year book was completed.

Cardinal Prints Summaries

Men in the respective classes will vote for the two junior and two sophomore positions which are open on the Union board. The present Union board has recommended three juniors, of which one will be elected, and another junior will be elected upon an unrecommended ticket. Three sophomores have been recommended by the board, of which one will be elected, and one sophomore will be elected on petition.

As the petitions are filed, the qualifications of each candidate will be turned over to The Cardinal and the summary will be printed.

ROBERT PADDOCK '26 INJURED IN CRASH

Robert Paddock '26 received a broken ankle about 7 o'clock last night when a bicycle he was riding collided with a ladder projecting from the rear of a truck at the corner of University avenue and Lake street. He was removed to the Madison General hospital.

ECON GEOLOGY CLASS TO VISIT ZINC MINES

Students of the economic geology class under Prof. W. J. Mead will leave for Platteville today where they will spend two days inspecting the zinc mines.

Plan Observance of National Music Week May 4 to 9

The observance of National music week from May 4 to 9 will be the biggest that Madison has ever had, is the opinion of Prof. P. W. Dykema, Prof. E. H. Gordon and Mrs. C. V. Seastone, who compose the committee in charge of the arrangements.

Each day of the week will be devoted to different kinds of music. On Sunday religious music will receive special attention. Monday music in the home, Tuesday music in the schools, Wednesday music in industry, Thursday music in organizations and clubs, Friday music in allied arts, and Saturday radio music and community songs will be considered.

The university band will give an outdoor concert Thursday, May 8, and the university orchestra will give a concert Sunday, May 4. The Glee club will sing before the Women's club on Thursday.

A music contest under the direction of the Music school will be held for high schools of the state.

Extraordinary Scenery Takes Honors in "Twinkle Twinkle"

ALL HARESFOOT SEATS ARE REPORTED SOLD

All seats for every Haresfoot performance had been sold at an early hour yesterday afternoon, according to an announcement given out at the Parkway box office. There still may be seats turned back from some of the fraternity parties which may have ordered an excessive number of seats, but aside from that every seat in the house had been sold. Haresfoot managers declared yesterday that although many of the fraternities will attend in formal groups tonight, the performance is by no means strictly formal. The performance will begin promptly at 8:15 o'clock for all evening performances.

EXPERT TO TALK ON 'RUSSIA TODAY'

Prof. Pares, London, Director of Slavonic Studies, Lectures Here May 1

Prof. Sir Bernard Pares, director of the school of Slavonic studies in the University of London, and senior editor of the Slavonic Review, will lecture on "Present-day Russia" under the auspices of the lecture committee at 4:30 o'clock on May 1 in 165 Bascom hall.

Since 1904 Professor Pares has spent several months of each year in Russia studying and has been an eye-witness of many of the events of which he will tell. During the first Russian revolution he was present at the sessions of the duma. In collaboration with Prof. Samuel Harper of the University of Chicago, he interviewed many of the men who had been prominent in politics and public life, obtaining valuable information.

Professor Pares was instrumental in bringing about the visit of the Russian duma to England in 1909, and in 1912, the visit of a British delegation, composed of members of parliament and other prominent men to Russia, where they were received by the emperor, the duma, and the universities. He was at one time secretary to the Anglo-Russian committee in London which conducted non-political relations for the purpose of strengthening the ties between the two countries.

At the beginning of the war he was asked to serve as official British correspondent with the Russian army. He was an attache to the Russian Red Cross, winning the Soldiers' Cross of the Order of St. George. During his life at the front he served as scout and aviator and was present at the battles of Gorlice and Naroch.

PET WHITE MOUSE DEPARTS THIS LIFE

He left us last night in the darkness and the stillness. All alone he set forth on the last final journey to join his fathers. All unfinished lies his thesis upon "The Variations in the Tastes of Cheese as I have Gnawed Them." Even the last hole that he was gnawing is not quite done.

His pink eyes are closed. No more will he go to class and peer out of a pocket at some unsuspecting co-ed beside his master. His soft white fur unwraps a pulsing, beating heart no more, and his long white tail will curl never again about a friendly finger as he nibbles a kernel of corn.

For Skeesix, the white mouse belonging to Milton H. Erickson, '25, died last night at 12:39.

CIZON FILES PETITION TO FORENSIC BOARD

The petition of Max Cizón '25 as a candidate for the Forensic board from the junior class has been filed with the election committee. Cizón is a member of Athenae literary society and was chairman of the committee on membership and excuses. He was advisory chairman of the 1925 Junior prom and won the sophomore semi-public debate in 1922-23.

Combination of Stars Scores Hit; Show Good, But Pub- licity Too Good

By ELIOT H. SHARP
The Haresfoot show of 1921, "Miss Quita", was featured by its comedy; that of 1922, "Kitty Corner" by its song hits; that of 1923, "Kikmi" by its dancing. The feature of "Twinkle Twinkle" is its scenery—sets and costumes.

Sid Thorson showed what he could do with "Kikmi". But with "Twinkle Twinkle" he so defeats his own record that it is amazing. The opening scene of the first act, with the Dance Grotesque, for which he and the dancing coaches are responsible, is one of the most impressive things we have ever witnessed in musical comedy. The "Let's Play Mah Jongg" number at the end of the same act follows a close second.

The second act set is no less novel and even more beautiful. We can't say enough for the stage effects—gorgeous and unusual costumes, professional lighting schemes and beautiful drops—but we must go on.

The combination of Byron Rivers Thomas McLean, Robert Talley and Porter Butts is an excellent one. Rivers makes a rare girl, with looks and actions most becoming to any one so petite. And he can dance! The real actor of the cast is McLean. The vocal honors go to Butts whose voice is a decided contrast to Rivers' and whose demure actions draw many warranted chuckles. Talley makes a good hero for whom all the ladies in the audience will fall with one accord. Yes, and Gordon Brine is a comer with his blase, unromantic nonchalance, which surpasses his singing.

With a little time the songs will turn into song hits. They certainly have something of the quality of the "Kitty Corner" songs. The music of Twinkle Twinkle, Maid of the Milky Way and Hero of My Story is catchy. It seems a shame that records can not be made of them and some of the other pieces. The competitive system proved its worth as far as the music is concerned. And the lyrics profits by the same method with Heavens, Earth is Hell, Let's Play Mah Jongg and "The Evening Star" featuring.

Dancing, which almost equals that of last year's performance, introduces some of the London Palace Girl steps of Fred Stone's shows which Roy Hager worked out. Again we turn to the Dance Grotesque. Visions of the Armenian Garden are called up by The Hero of My Story, which any co-ed would call "just darling" or words to that effect. And it is.

Don't forget that many of the

Lits Will Discuss Japanese Question, Wage Bill Tonight

Debates on the restriction of Japanese immigration and the adoption of a national minimum wage law will be given by the literary societies tonight in Bascom hall.

Athenae's program consists of a talk on the technique of debating by Otto E. Messner '26, a discussion of The Proletarian by Lewis S. Mrkvicka '25, and a debate on the proposition "Resolved, that Japanese immigration should be controlled by the three per cent immigration restriction law of May 19, 1921." The affirmative will be upheld by Neil B. McMurray '25 and August Schur '24, while Harold A. Beaman '26 and Gregg A. Young '26 will uphold the negative. An open forum discussion will follow.

A debate on the proposition that a national minimum wage law should be adopted will be the feature of the Hesperia program. An affirmative team composed of Roland H. Willey '26, Herbert Naaujoks '24 and Richard R. Rynders '25 will be opposed by Meyer M. Cohen '27, Chaster Rumpf '27, and William Anderson '27 of the negative. The debate will be followed by a talk on "The United States in Central America" by Norman E. Risjord '27.

Badger Staff Puts Out Advertisers' Phone Directory

A new feature of the 1925 "On Wisconsin" Badger advertising department is the telephone directory put out today in direct recognition of the cooperation of those who have advertised with them this year, Earle Gill, advertising manager said yesterday. The directory will be printed on heavy, manila paper with a steel eyelet to be suitable for hanging near the telephone and will be free of charge to anyone applying for it.

Emergency calls will be blocked in conspicuous positions near the top of the page, and all other names will be entered under a regular classified directory.

The by-word of the directory will be "The Following Advertisers Appreciate Student Patronage". It is the desire of the advertising department that this directory will facilitate reaching them.

The lists are to be sent to every campus fraternity, sorority, and rooming house, and to all other places touching the public interest. Anyone who does not receive a directory may call at the Badger office in the Union building and get one free of charge.

RORISON ELECTED RIFLE CLUB HEAD

Drake, Ross, Neess, and Hewitt Also Chosen For Office

William A. Rorison '25 was re-elected president of the university Rifle club at a meeting held last night in the armory.

Other officers who were re-elected are: L. P. Drake '26, vice-president; G. H. Ross '26, secretary; and C. J. Neess '27, treasurer. E. J. Hewitt '27 was elected sergeant of arms.

On May 3 Ripon is to send a five man team to Madison to shoot against the Wisconsin team in an outdoor match.

The meeting marks the close of the indoor shooting season of the rifle team. It won its match with Ripon college by a score of 886 to 770, and defeated Northwestern by a score of 948 to 908.

The team placed second in the state rifle meet at Milwaukee, the 105th cavalry of the national guard taking first place. Eight teams were entered in the meet.

In the telegraphic contests the rifle team defeated Iowa by a score of 983 to 978. The team took third place in the Sixth Corps Area match, Michigan Agricultural college and Michigan state college winning first and second places respectively.

Such a system will mean a great deal to students in furthering the ideals of the university and Wisconsin," Walter A. Frautschi, president of the senior class, said in commenting on the plan. John C. Dawson '24, president of the Union board, and Porter F. Butts '24 also expressed their approval of the scheme.

CAMPUS AFFAIRS MAY FEATURE IN RADIO PROGRAMS

Plans Discussed to Have Students Arrange Broadcasts of Their Activities

Broadcasting of student activities and events from station WHA may be made in connection with the university's regular radio programs if plans discussed by a group of students and Prof. W. H. Lighty, of the Extension division yesterday are completed. The arrangements of the programs and the details of each broadcast would be in the hands of students.

At the present time only a limited amount of attention is paid to the broadcasting of undergraduate affairs, but university officials have expressed a willingness to allow students to use the station for broadcasting various events and performances. The management of the plan probably will be in the hands of the Union board.

Stress Little Things

"The commonplace things of college life are not stressed at all in the publicity and comment that the university receive. The regular flow of undergraduate affairs and the daily work of the students as we see it here are not the things that the outside world hears about," Professor Lighty said in commenting on the plan. "There are so many worth-while things about activities that are valuable to students and the state alike that they should be given an expression and the radio provides one of the best means possible for such favorable advertising."

If the plan as discussed is put into operation every organization on the campus will be given an opportunity to arrange a program to be sent out at intervals.

System Here Unique

No other university has any such working plan at the present time. Broadcasting of such matter has never been done as a regular thing by colleges or educational institutions, although faculty and university programs have been a regular feature of many stations since the advent of the radio.

Venetian night, Varsity night, Music week, senior class Memorial Union campaign, and commencement activities are some of the coming events which may be broadcasted this spring, but the regular series of programs probably cannot be arranged until next fall.

Such a system will mean a great deal to students in furthering the ideals of the university and Wisconsin," Walter A. Frautschi, president of the senior class, said in commenting on the plan. John C. Dawson '24, president of the Union board, and Porter F. Butts '24 also expressed their approval of the scheme.

International Club Revue to Be Given in Lathrop Tonight

The International club revue, "Pages from the International Album," which will be presented at 8 o'clock tonight in the concert room at Lathrop hall, has been designed to portray native life and customs.

A tea room will be used as the setting for the Russian number, which will contain Russian folk songs and dances.

Musical numbers will consist of Dutch songs by Eunice Neckerman '24, Mexican songs by Jose Zapata '24, a number by a Chinese band composed of C. Cheng '25, Charles Shao '24 and Matthew Shen, and Danish songs by Seina Holtz.

Terpsichorean numbers will be given by Candida Cadenas who will interpret several dances of her native Spain, and by the American group who will present an old time quadrille and Virginia reel. Sleight of hand tricks by Carl E. Gluesing '25 and Turkish fairy tales by Yusuf Zia '24 are on the program.

The largest number, the "Tableau Vivant" will be given by the entire group. Exemplifying the motto of the club, the tableau will represent "Above all is humanity."

Tickets which are 50 cents may be procured from any member of the club or may be obtained at the door.

All correspondence and clerical work for the first annual University of Wisconsin high school relay carnival, to be held here on Saturday, May 3, is handled by a special committee, with Carl Klath '26 as chairman.

This committee has been working for more than a month sending letters to all the important high schools in Wisconsin and eight neighboring states advertising the carnival and providing information sought by prospective entries.

We have worked in close cooperation with Coaches Thomas E. Jones and Meade Burke in answering these letters.

"The last date on which entries will be received is Saturday, April 26. We expect several more teams to send in their entry lists before the time is up."

The men who have been helping Klath take care of the clerical work for the carnival are George Ekern '27, Henry Bosch '27, and Leland Rasmussen '26.

Editor of Century Magazine To Address Phi Beta Kappa

"Probably no man in the country in his thirties is a more challenging social thinker than Glenn Frank editor of the Century magazine, who will give the Phi Beta Kappa address next Thursday evening," Prof. E. A. Ross declared yesterday.

"Those who enjoyed Bertrand Russell should hear Mr. Frank, for these two leaders perhaps equal in authority, stand for sharply contrasted views of how to accelerate social progress.

Mr. Russell distrusts the dominant classes and puts his faith in the extension of democracy. Mr. Frank, finding immense significance in the distribution of intellect as revealed by mental testing has little faith that the masses of men can find their way unaided out of the difficulties in which modern society is involved, and pins his faith to their

VARSITY BALLMEN DEVELOPING FAST FOR SUCKER GAME

Warm Weather Speeds Up Practice; Pitcher For Saturday Undecided

The varsity nine is fast becoming a threatening aggregation and shows possibilities of dumping the invading Illini at when it meets them in Wisconsin's first home game of the season Saturday.

Work yesterday afternoon was fast and showed the effects of a few days of warm weather. The varsity went through a prolonged infield practice, while the outfielders chased flies, and then engaged in several innings against Comebacker's frosh.

The infield still shows lack of practice as well as experience, but time and hard work is the best remedy for its faults, and Coach Lowman is sure giving the boys enough of the latter to last for the duration of the war.

Steen, left handed first sacker, has taken a big jump to the fore, and although he must let his apron out a few more notches when fielding the grass cutters, he is pulling in his throws to first and grabbing almost impossible tries out of the air.

Ellingson Goes Good

The weakest spot in the whole infield seems to be at third base. Tangen, who is holding down the position, is a lad without much previous experience. He is going better every day, but is still a little uncertain as to what to do, and is a trifle slow in getting off his heaves to first.

Slim Ellingson, covering shortstop, is going in big league style, and promises to show some fast, snappy fielding in the coming tilts. He is rangy enough to be fast, covers lots of territory, has an easy, natural throw and hits fairly well.

Goss, at second base, while not quite as fast as Ellingson, is reliable and accurate, and a whale of a hitter. His work has been coming better and better, and he seems slated for a permanent job.

Fielders Reliable

The three first string garden tenders, Dugan, Servatius and Emanuel, are all ready and reliable. The first two have had previous varsity experience, while Emanuel is the brother of the Emanuel who played in the days of Tony Zulfer, Rowdy Elliot, Slim Farrington, Phil Falk and others.

The choice as to pitchers for the Illinois tilt is still undecided, but Johnson, Christianson and possibly Luther, have first call. All are first rate college flingers, the first two having had plenty of conference experience.

Illinois looms as the one team likely more than any other to spill the Badgers into the dust. The Suckers took a close contact from Purdue by 6 to 5 count, and look formidable enough to throw a scare into any team save Ohio.

Captain Roettger, Illinois pitching ace, struck out ten men and allowed but four safe hits, so the Badger polers will have to be going at top form to garner a cluster of safeties off him.

BIG SCORES FEATURE FRATERNITY CONTESTS

Yesterday's games in the interfraternity baseball tournament were featured by large scores. The Kappa Sigs won from the Sigma Chis 22 to 5; the Delta Upsilon nine defeated the Phi Theta Deltas 16 to 0; the Chi Psi team won from the Theta Chis 11 to 1, the Delta Pi Epsilon pastimers led the Delta Sig Pis 6 to 4, and the Gamma Eta Gamma team won from Chi Phi 6 to 3.

INDEPENDENT BALLMEN HOLD MEETING TODAY

All men interested in independent baseball play are to meet this noon at 12:45 o'clock in the trophy room of the gymnasium. Both the Wisconsin Intramural league and the Independent Intramural league are still open to a number of teams. A place will be found for all men interested in playing ball whether they represent groups or not, according to George Berg, director of intramural athletics.

Spring Football Going Well With Forty Out For Practice

Two More Teams Are Entered in Relay Carnival

Two more entries for the first annual University of Wisconsin interscholastic relay carnival, to be held at Camp Randall Saturday, May 3, were received by carnival officials at the gymnasium yesterday afternoon.

Normal, Ill., and South Division, Milwaukee, Wis., are the latest schools which have filed applications to participate in the first high school relay carnival held in the Middle West.

"The fact that entries are coming in daily is encouraging," Arthur W. Trost '24, general chairman declared, "and the hopes that the University of Wisconsin relay carnival will be recognized as the official relay meet for high schools will probably be realized after the results of the meet May 3."

Ryan Pleased With Material; Coach Works to Develop Place Kicker

Spring football practice was underway in full force yesterday as about forty moleskin huskies toiled under the whip of Barney Trainer, line coach.

The backfield men devoted most of their time to perfecting the kicking game. Emphasis was placed on the place kick in an attempt to find a man to replace Marty Below, veteran Badger place kicker. Coach Jack Ryan also devoted considerable time to punting and to developing a good drop kicker. He agrees with Bob Zupke, Illinois coach, that the kicking game is one of the most strategic plays in football.

The linemen from tackle to tackle were sent through an intensive drill and the ends

Later the men were divided into teams and sent through some elementary plays. No complex plays will be attempted this spring as the object of spring football is to train the men in the rudiments of the game so that the men will be prepared for a strenuous season next fall.

Coach Jack Ryan is well pleased with the way things are going this spring. A great deal is expected of the Harmon brothers, stars of last fall's All-American eleven. The men who have reported so far have entered into the spirit of the practices and the sessions have been lively, but if spring football is to be a real success at Wisconsin more men must report to Ryan. There are still good men from last year's Varsity and freshman squads that have not reported so far.

Dummy practice is the probable order of events for today.

WOMEN URGED TO TRY FOR CREDIT TENNIS

All women in the university are urged to try for tennis teams which are being organized in connection with the work in the physical education department. All university women are eligible to try for a team and can use this as a spring sport. Juniors and Seniors can play at any time if not taking tennis for credit, and need only to hand in their names and the time played, to Marion Streng '24. In order to facilitate practicing, special courts are provided for women alone, and men will be excluded from playing there. Plans are being made for a tennis tournament at the end of the season which will finish the work for the year.

Nothing but the good graces of a man who owns some cement courts at College Hills has made it possible for the tennis team to practice.

WARNING! There is a city ordinance against playing tennis before certain hours early in the morning.

Why does everybody think that anything that won't get by any place else in this sheet should be dumped in here? Please refrain from cutting remarks at this point.

TRACKSTERS OFF TO DRAKE RELAYS STARTING TODAY

Will Compete For Top Honors in Relays and Individual Competition

Fifteen track athletes and Coach Thomas E. Jones left Madison yesterday afternoon for Des Moines, Iowa, where the Badgers will participate in the annual Drake relays today and tomorrow.

Wisconsin will compete in the sprint relay race, four-mile relay, and the one-mile relay run, in addition to individual competition in the pole vault, broad jump, hurdles and sprints.

Records May Fall

Records are expected to fall in this meet because several record holders have entered in the individual competition and the results of the meet will have some bearing on the final selection of athletes for their specialties in the Olympic games.

Captain William Hammann '24, pole vaulter, LaVern W. Muzzy '25, broad jumper and hurdler, and Harry A. McAndrews '25, sprinter, will participate in the special events, while the four-mile relay team, which placed second at the Kansas relay games at Lawrence, Kas., last Saturday, will be composed of Clayton G. Cassidy '26, Earl E. Schneider '24, John L. Bergstresser '25, and Lloyd M. Valley '25.

Competition Close

In the spring relay race, Harry A. McAndrews '25, Stanley J. McGivern '26, Herbert A. Flueck '25, and Gordon D. Lewis '25, will represent Wisconsin. The one-mile relay team, which finished first in the Ohio State relays at Columbus, Ohio, last Saturday, will enter Gilbert J. Smith '26, Kenneth R. Kennedy '26, Herbert A. Flueck '25, and Bert M. Hilberts '25.

"While I cannot predict anything about the showing of the Wisconsin team in the Drake relays," Coach Mead Burke declared, "the large number of universities and colleges entered will make the competition close in each of the relay races and in individual events."

Other members of the varsity squad will engage the freshman track team in a dual meet at Camp Randall on Saturday afternoon, beginning at 3:30 o'clock. This meet will be the first tryout competition for the members of the varsity squad before the Minnesota and quadrangular meets, while the points counted by the first year athletes will be added to their total for 1927 numerales.

A meeting of all those interested in varsity golf will be held at 12:45 Friday in the trophy room of the gymnasium.

CITY ATHLETIC FIELD NEARING COMPLETION

Madison's municipal athletic field is nearing completion, following the drawing up of a tentative plan, which will make provisions for a football field, baseball field, running track, and bleachers, which were presented to the special athletic field committee of the common council for consideration early next week.

The field as planned will be 300 by 500 feet, and will be situated between East Washington and East Mifflin and Patterson and Bearly streets. Madison has long felt the need of such a field, and hopes soon to have one of the best municipal fields in the state.

"MUSIC HATH CHARMS"

Six or seven Saturday afternoons in the fall the entire university band lines up on the campus and marches forth to Camp Randall to give spirit to the team of warriors plugging up and down the field for the glory of Wisconsin. Nine times during the winter a "pick-up" band holds forth in the balcony of the armory and plays to its hearts content in a successful endeavor to pep up the Cardinal basketeers. Ten afternoons during the spring no band whatsoever lines up anywhere to parade out to Camp Randall to cheer on the Badger diamond team. What a difference! And why? Goodness only knows!

Wisconsin—well, it is not quite in the same position in regard to baseball that Northwestern is in regard to football and basketball, but it is nearly there in the eyes of the Big Ten. It's not that we don't win all the games so much as it is that the great American sport here is not looked upon by the general student body as the great American sport. There are plenty of reasons why students fail to support baseball games—reasons such as the lake and the drive. But on close examination these reasons become unreasonable.

While Wisconsin is trying to push one of its most important major sports it would seem only right and fitting that the university band cooperate in this endeavor. The members of the band might enjoy seeing the games. But at all events it would seem only natural that they and their leader would be only too glad to crash through with a blare that would make the members of the baseball nine realize that they are regarded as something more than pinochle players. And then too, perhaps, the mere presence of the band would draw more rooters.

Listen to that crack of the bat as it knocks that little white ball over the fence! Hear that smack as the whistling ball strikes the glove of the first baseman, and the umpire swings his fist up and murmurs "out!" See that cloud of dust as the runner slides for third and the umpire motions "safe" with down-turned palms!

Listen to that band strike up "On Wisconsin" as the "lucky seventh" starts and the crowd rises to its feet!

Yeh, just listen!

HALF STEP, MARCH!

The institution for Social and Religious Research of New York has sent a number of delegates to the campus to interview students, faculty members, pastors and townspeople on conditions in universities with the end in mind of publishing a report which will include destructive and constructive criticism on institutions of high learning.

Without a doubt there is much that might be changed in every institution for the benefit of that institution. Without a doubt it is encouraging to know that these delegates, university men who have a general idea of conditions, are endeavoring to get at the bottom of bad conditions on the campuses of the country with the hope of improving those conditions.

There is the matter of liquor, of fraternities, of politics, of deans and presidents, of publications and hundreds of other matters which could be put on firmer foundations with a little cooperation between institutions. Conventions, of course, are supposed to provide the opportunity for such cooperation. But conventions usually fall far short of the mark. Perhaps such a report based on research as the Institution for Social and Religious Research will publish may fall far short of the mark. But it is at least a step in the right direction.

Whether the results of the research will be valuable or not is a question. The delegates are interviewing 100 people, with interviews of an hour each, in four days. Not many students can be interviewed when the delegates have such a short list because most of the time must be spent with "faculty members, pastors and townspeople." That much information can be gained when interviews last only an hour is doubtful. Four days on the ground is not such a very long time to make a thoroughgoing survey of the situation either. And when we consider the fact that only 17 institutions in the country are being visited, although those institutions vary in character and run from the east to the middle west one loses confidence in the plan.

But it is better than nothing and as such we welcome it! It means that we are going ahead, but at only half step.

THOSE NAUGHTY DANDELIONS

What a carpet of verdure presents itself to the early climber of the hill. Under the rays of the morning sun it glistens, soft and warm. Rising slopes, and farther out among the Ag buildings, gentle mounds and shaded nooks. Green—as green as a freshman's cap.

In a week or so what will it be? Green? Yes, but spotted everywhere with yellow, little yellow flowers; in themselves very nice indeed, but on an even-flowing lawn or easy slope what a sight!

When contemplating the sight one can not help wondering just why dandelions, along with pesky insects and rank weeds were ever invented by nature. Some insects are of value to humankind. Some are not. Of course, dandelion wine is—or rather, ahem, used to be—delicious, and perhaps some weeds are good for something. But there are always times when these three are pests.

Only with mankind's devout prayer for some one who will do something constructive "about the weather" comes another devout plea for an exterminator of dandelions when they are not wanted.

Other Editors Say—

BLACK CATS IN THE CURRICULUM

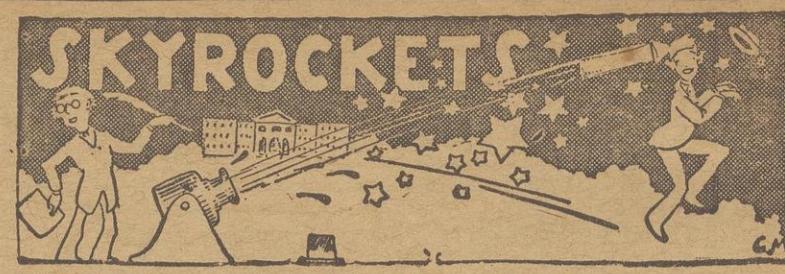

With its seeming hundred, inextinguishable lives, and its perverse persistence in clinging to each of them in this fascinating land of mice and men, the black cat of Poe's weird and gruesome narrative bears a close and obvious resemblance to the black cats in many University curricula.

Certain subjects are as recurrent in the life of the average student as garlic in a Gallic dinner. Try hard as he can to drop the minute analysis of a subject once he has mastered it, many a conscientious student finds that the subject in question continues to pop up like a jack-in-the-box in every course he takes. He cannot get away from it. It is one of those obnoxious black cats in the curriculum that cannot be drowned, poisoned or chloroformed. It is as lingering as smallpox, as irritating and annoying as poison ivy, and as futile as an overcoat on the banks of the Amazon or Nile.

Even as a sad-eyed cow soberly re-chews her food, so students must masticate over and over again the same mental food. Such things as the causes of the Industrial revolution, the history of the remarkable Jukes family, the results of the French revolution, or the basic principles of organic evolution, he must swallow over and over again, even though his hunger has long since been thoroughly satisfied. What sort of a banquet would it be if dill-pickles or potato chips were served between every course? Such is the case at our educational banquets in the classroom.

Some day, we hope, there will not be such overlapping of subject matter in our college curricula, and that some basic, all-freshman course will lay the foundations for advanced study. We trust that the black cats will all be put in a big gray bag with a piece of granite and slung into the depths of the Mississippi.

POSTER EXHIBIT SHOWS FOREST FIRE RESULTS

A large red, yellow, and black poster picturing a forest of mammoth trees blazing and puffing with licking flames and dense smoke, in the back of which is a cigar, a pipe, a cigarette and camp fire, sounds the keynote of the exhibit of posters for Forest Protection week, April 21 to 27, in the corridor of the Historical museum.

Colorful signs and placards from every state in the United States are to be found in the exhibit beguiling the campers, the tourists, and most of all, the smokers, to be careful to see that all fires and matches are out. According to the posters, water power, forage lands, hunting, vacation lands, as well as our lumber supply depends upon the protection of our forest lands and the strong appeal is to prevent the destruction of such lands for these purposes.

This is the fourth annual observance of Forest Protection week in this country and an intensive campaign is being carried on in every state to acquaint the American citizens with the vast amount of damages which result to the natural resources of our country every year from forest fires.

SON OF SAHARA OFFERS SCENES OF DESERT LOVE

"SON OF THE SAHARA"
Presented at the Strand
A First National picture
Featuring Bert Lytell and Clara Windsor.

By H. J. B.
"For there is no East and there is no West
Neither border, nor breed, nor birth.
When two who love stand face to face,
Though they come from the ends of the earth."

This is a burning love story with a thrill in every scene, or at least in every second scene; for between the fiery battles of Arab against white man, and the still more fiery battle of love against pride, "Son of the Sahara" surpasses even "The Sheik" in its Oriental genuineness.

Clara Windsor as the heroine, madly loved by, and madly in love with The Sheik, decides to marry him after a week of sweeping courtship, only to learn that her lover is an Arab. There is a deep-dyed revenge plot woven into the bigger love story and the hair-breadth incidents of being sold as a slave, of having a father and suitor held in captivity by her Sheik-hero, staged in an atmosphere of the typical harem and desert life stamp the story true, and carry the audience into the very heart of the tented land.

And the cynical college Sheik and his co-ed Sheikstress will saunter down State street on their way home, agreeing that "love is the strongest factor in the world."

'ALIMONY' OFFERS VARIED APPEAL IN TRITE PLOT

"ALIMONY"
Presented at the Majestic
An F. B. O. Production

By DOT

Bordering on the sensational and filled with the problems of the modern day of matrimony, "Alimony" is a picture which would have perhaps a wide appeal and perhaps a rather narrow appeal, depending upon whether you think the world's all wrong or all right.

It's the story of the husband and wife who get great riches, and he, in his enjoyment of power, forgets the former struggles with poverty, and leaves his wife far behind him as he sets out in a riot of fast living. And the wife, one of the old-fashioned kind, divorces him, saves her alimony, and in the moment of need, produces the quarter million dollars necessary to save him from financial ruin.

The picture is just a bit old—the costumes were slightly out of date, and the cast starred no one in particular. They were all practically unknown and the acting was mediocre. Among the better ones in the cast were Warner Baxter, as the young husband, Grace Darmond, as the adoring young wife, and Jackie Saunders and Ruby Miller as the two vamps necessary to the picture. The vamps did some "mean" vamp-

Vodvil, Drama and Cinema

Doug and John in New Films Said to Be Better Than Eoer

Two noteworthy movies which have just been released are Douglas Fairbanks' "The Thief of Bagdad" and John Barrymore's "Beau Brummel". From all accounts in current publications they are both of them real knockouts.

When Life devotes the movie review space of two entire issues to one movie you can well believe that movie to be something like a masterpiece. And when Bobby Sherwood says that "The Thief of Bagdad" so outshines any of Doug's past presentations, he means a whole lot. We're not always so terribly hipped on Sherwood's reviews. In an attempt not to be partial to any one concern he sometimes lauds pictures that seem to the average fan pretty sad drivels.

What he hasn't got to say about this Fairbank's film isn't worth saying. It's entirely of Doug's concoction—idea, scenario, part of the direction and acting.

Some people may think that Doug is getting too old to pull his old gymnastic tricks in the same old fashion. Just let those people see "The Thief of Bagdad" and perhaps they will change their minds. For, according to notices, there's as much action and gymnasitics in this latest work of his as there has been in any previous work, if not, more.

Of course, Doug is not an actor. Far from it, and we don't think he or any of his most ardent supporters would ever be foolish enough to say that he is. But he is about as big a factor in the great American moving picture industry as any one despite his lack of histrionics.

The other picture you doubtless know something about as you doubtless do about "The Thief of Bagdad." Probably most of the student generation never saw Richard Mansfield in "Beau Brummel", probably they never saw him in anything at all. It was he who made this play and also the stage version of Stevenson's "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" the successes that they were. Here's what George Mitchell, the reviewer for Judge, has to say about it, and we'll let the picture go with the quotation.

"There is little... in this ear'y play of Clyde Fitch... but the profoundly interesting characterization of the Beau and his adherence to the pride that brought him to poverty and death. But that little is beautifully done. Harry Beaumont has used intelligent discretion in the direction of a very good scenario. The end of the picture has been done with as fine a bit of double exposure as ever drew a compromise between a naturally happy ending and the uplift demanded by a happy-ending-loving public. John Barrymore has never shown to better pictorial advantage. He is a handsome figure. "Beau Brummel" gives him ample latitude to show his pulchritude. The casting is excellent.... "Beau Brummel" is one of the most satisfying pictures we've ever seen. We are indebted to Warner Brothers for its intelligent production and we raise our lid every time we pass the Mark Strand Theater while it is there."

Probably, along with the host of other first class films that have been thus far fought shy of our capital city of fifty thousand population—such other pictures as "America", "The Covered Wagon", and "Ten Commandments"—"Beau Brummel" will be many moons in coming here. Ho-hum. We do get some good pictures. But, Mr. Managers, why not the others?

"DANCING MOTHERS" IS NEW PLAY BY LELWYN

The premiere of "Dancing Mothers," the new play by Edgar Selwyn, in collaboration with Edmund Goulding, will take place at the Belasco theater, Washington, April 29, under the personal direction of Mr. Selwyn. Latest reports are that the student senate is considering a special investigation of the scalping situation in regard to Haresfoot tickets.

Zenobia reports that the Chi Pisis were offering ten dollars a piece for main floor seats. There were so many Chi Pisis in the show that the managers didn't think there was any use saving seats in the audience.

Now that synopses for one act plays are due in Prof. Cooper's course in dramatic technique it will be well to remember the prize offered by the Dorothy La Verne players at the Orpheum. The manuscript is due them by the last day of school.

Who knows there may be another Eugene O'Neill in our midst? He got kicked out of Princeton. At least there are plenty of parallel examples of that here.

On May 16, the Wisconsin Players have scheduled their annual "Comedy Night." There will be a small admission fee but it always is worth paying for a laugh.

It is impossible to say anything more about the Haresfoot show which many of you saw last night and which the rest of you will see tonight or tomorrow.

So let's all just take off five minutes some time this week end to collect all our impressions of the show and get back to normalcy again. We can't rave on forever.

By the way, Eddie Spranger of the Pabst theater, is back here this weekend to see that the show gets a good getaway.

Something significant in the fact that the ladies' matinee on Saturday is always sold out days in advance of the other performances.

Anyway it was a grand and glorious year.

MELODRAMAS AND SPICE IN NEXT WEEK'S MOVIES

* BY H. E. R.

Melodramas of highly exciting climaxes will be in the majority next week at Madison theaters, and the list shows that the idea of "variety is the spice of life" is being carried out.

The Strand, for instance, is featuring Strongheart, the German police dog, in "The Love-Master". This play of the Far North includes Lillian Rich and Harold Austin in the list of characters. The last half of the week, Thursday to Saturday, will bring "Wild Oranges", a tale of a woman-hater who became reformed. Frank Mayo, Nigel de Bruler, and Virginia Valiare the stars in this strange melodrama.

"Flaming Passions", a play adapted from "Lucretia Lombard", the novel by Kathleen Norris, will be shown at the Parkway until Saturday. Monte Blue and Irene Rich are the principals in this picture that needs no foreword. On Saturday, Louis Mann and George Sidney will displace the movie screen with their comedy of a thousand laughs known as "Give and Take".

Glen Hunter will appear in his first Paramount picture "West of the Water Tower", at the Madison next week. This play concerns small town life and love, and has created a sensation wherever shown. It contains an unusually fine cast, such as Ernest Torrence, May McAvoy, George Fawcett, Zazu Pitts, and Riley Hatch.

"The Rapids", a melodrama starring Harry Morey and Mary Astor, will be shown at the Majestic the first part of the week.

The Dorothy Lavern Players are representing "Oh Boy", a musical farce, with an augmented cast of twenty-five, next week. The company has been working on this play for a long time, and we expect to see something good. Madison girls make up the chorus.

GILKEY TO SPEAK AT CONVOCATION

Meeting Will Be Held May 8 to Announce Kenneth Day
Award

Dr. Charles W. Gilkey of the Hyde Park Baptist church at Chicago will be the speaker to announce the 1924 winner of the Kenneth Day Sterling Day Memorial award at the all-university convocation to be held in Music hall at 8:15 o'clock May 8, Arthur Wilden '24, chairman of the investigation and arrangements committee for the award, said yesterday.

President Birge will present the award. The addresses at these convocations will be bound later under the general title of "The Kenneth Sterling Day Lectures on Young Men and Religion, Delivered at the University of Wisconsin."

At the general membership meeting of the Y. M. C. A. on April 17, the election of the man to receive this honor was made. The result of the elections was not made known but the man will be either Gamber F. Tegtmeyer '24 or Carl Rogers '24.

Letters are being sent to all of the campus organizations asking them if they desire to have seats reserved for them at the convocation. Tickets may be obtained from any of the members of the committee in charge of arrangements.

"Since Music hall has a limited seating capacity, all the tickets will be given to students if they apply early; otherwise, the townspeople will be admitted to the convocation. The committee hopes that organizations will have their seats reserved in groups," Wilden said.

There are two kinds of orchestras, both of them good, but one better and at present, far more popular than the other. The one is the orchestra of artists, the other that of jazz hounds. The first kind is that which Nelson Fairbanks has organized. We could have heard more of it.

In the process of writing this, and in an attempt not to hurt anybody's feelings (the easiest thing in the world to do) we have almost been made to think that we were terribly enthusiastic about "Twinkle Twinkle." But in fairness to our-seives we must give a warning, Any show is at a great disadvantage when good publicity precedes its advent. Prospective patrons have heard it talked up at such a great rate that they enter the theater with the expectation of seeing the best performance of their young or old lives. The contrast between the reality and the ideal set up by their previous expectations is apt to be damaging to the show.

We can't for the life of us put our finger on the cause of our not being frankly enthusiastic. Some one has suggested that the beginning—the prologue—was flat. Perhaps that was it. The prologue was an obvious piece of the machinery of the plot. And machinery should never appear in first class productions. But no musical comedy plot need be strong. They never are. This one was at least out of the ordinary.

We suspect that the first night may have had more to do with it. More pep—such as will doubtless appear in the remaining three shows—would have made a world of difference and was perhaps one of the reasons why so much of the humor—a trifle old and a trifle too full of puns—failed to "get across" in better shape.

But the publicity, we reiterate, was too good, and there in the heart of the matter. Without a doubt "Twinkle Twinkle" is the best show Hargrave has ever presented. But, all other reviews to the contrary, it is not a Broadway show. Of course, that is hardly to be expected. But publicity gave us, and we suspect we are not the only one, a subtle feeling that "Twinkle Twinkle" was going to be a Broadway show. We were all set, and left the Parkway with a dissatisfied feeling.

Therefore, if you're going to see it tonight or tomorrow, cut down the zest of your enthusiasm a bit and you'll enjoy your two and a half hours immensely.
