This is an exhibit of a people's art which reflects the everyday scenes and objects of their own environment. Rural people have been influenced little by formal art training. They compensate for any possible technical deficiencies with a singleness of purpose that strikes a refreshing note of honesty in our world today.

Eight previous years of Rural Art Exhibitions have aroused such interest among rural artists that the numbers of entries this year is far greater than the exhibition space. Consequently, the state show is made up of selections from 1500 pictures exhibited at twelve different regional art shows.
