MADISON, WIS., TUESDAY, JANUARY 9, 1895.

[PRICE THREE CENTS.

GYMNASIUM OPEN EVENINGS

ON TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY.

CLASS WORK FOR JUNIORS AND SENIORS.

Lower Floor Open Saturday Nights—
Training of the Teams.

During the vacation the gymnasium was open every afternoon from 2 to 5 and the students who remained in the city availed themselves of the privilege of using it. Prof. Elsom was there every day to give advice and instruction to any who wished to practice. It took the greater part of yesterday to put things in order after the ball and today regular work began again. The freshman class met at the usual hour, and from now on the regular work will be followed. The gymnasium will be open three nights a week—Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 7 to 9:30. This is a rare privilege for college students and the students will appreciate the action of the regents for it. The work during the evening will be given up mostly to practice work for exhibitions in gymnastic work, which are to be given later. Both Prof. Elsom and Mr. Everett will be at the gymnasium on those evenings and conduct the work. On Saturday evening the lower floor of the building will be open for the use of the bath rooms, bowling alleys and natatorium.

Classes will be formed for upper classmen and a regular hour will be set for meeting, and credit will be given for such work. The classes will be conducted the same as the lower classes. As these classes will be small, other students will be allowed on the floor at the same time if they do not interfere with the work of the class.

The men training for the track team will be put in a division by themselves soon and given special training for the work in which they expect to enter into on field day. Prof. Elsom and Mr. Everett will give these men special attention and there is every indication that an excellent track team will be the result.

The baseball team and the boat crew will go into training soon. No student will be allowed to go into practice for either sport without first having a physical examination, and then if he shows any physical weakness will be barred altogether, or if his work on the hill is not satisfactory.

CREW TRAINING.

Begins at Once—Races to Be Arranged
Next Spring.

Training for the 'Varsity crew now begins. The prospects of the crew for this year will undoubtedly make the competition for places quite as lively as last year. Training facilities have been increased considerably. The rowing machine will be in order in time for its use this year whereas last year it was not set up until late in the winter. A rowing tank is looked forward to with considerable of a prospect of being ready by the first of February. Andrew O'Dea, formerly coach of the Lorraine club of Minneapolis and an oarsman who has made a record for himself in Australia, will coach the crew. Dr. Elsom will have charge of dietary and general exercise matters. The number of competitors who began the season last year ranged between 60 and 70. The crew at the end of the season was one of the only 6 crews in the country which could row under 10:38. Though defeated its record at Minnetonka showed that this year's crew with more continuous coaching and a longer season of training will make any crew in the country row their fastest race. The prospects are that the Minnesota Boat club will persuade the Pennsylvania crew west to row a race on Lake Minnetonka. The University of Minnesota promises to put out a strong crew, and thus at least two races will be rowed by the 'Varsity in June. A freshman crew will be put in training and it is hoped that the University of Minnesota will get a class shell crew in order so that a race may be arranged between the first year men as well as between the two 'Varsity crews.

LECTURES ON PHYSICAL CULTURE.

To Be Given by Dr. Elsom on Wednesday Afternoons—Take the Place of Class Work.

Instead of the hour which is devoted to gymnastics by the freshmen on Wednesday a series of lectures will be given by Prof. Elsom to the members of the class in the lecture room, at 4 p. m. on every Wednesday after today. These lectures will take the place of the course of hygiene, which has been required of all freshmen. They will be practical lectures on hygiene, physical exercises and development. There will be practical demonstrations of the results of different exercise before the class. There will be an examination given at the end of the term on these lectures. Attendance will be marked the same as at any class.

CHORAL UNION.

Concert February 5th or 7th—Rehearsal Last Evening.

There was a fair attendance at the Choral Union last evening, but considering that at best there are only four or five more rehearsals there were many absentees.

Prof. Parker announced that a strict register of attendance at the final rehearsals will be kept and those who are not present at every rehearsal will be barred from participating in the concert. Some progress has been made in obtaining soloists. At least two of the artists of last year will aid the chorus this year. February 5th or 7th has been decided on as the date, preferably the former.

MASSACHUSETTS INSTITUTE.

The new catalogue of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has just appeared, and indicates a number of important changes, both in the corporation and the instructing staff. During the year three members of the corporation have died—A. Lawrence Rotch, Henry Saltonstall and Francis A. Waterhouse.

The faculty is changed by the presence of Captain John Bigelow, Jr., who serves as professor of military science, and by the promotion of Associate Professor Despradelle, who becomes professor of architectural design. Three new members are also added to the faculty as assistant professors in the department of chemistry, viz.: Fred L. Bardwell, Augustus H. Gill and Arthur A. Noyes. F. H. Robbins has just taken the place of Charles M. Faunce as instructor in mechanical drawing, while John O. Sumner and Dr. William H. Walker become instructors in history and analytical chemistry respectively. Among the list of new lecturers for the current year are Professor Elihu Thomson, of the Thomson-Houston company, who will deliver a course upon "Recent Developments in Applied Electricity;" Ross Turner lectures upon "Water-Colors," Dr. J. Walter Fewkes on "Anthropology" and Odin B. Roberts on "Patents and Inventions."

About twenty other experts in various lines of industry will continue the courses given during the preceding year.

A new feature of the work in architecture is the establishment of a summer school, similar in its workings to the present summer schools of civil engineering and geology. One session has been held in Chicago in 1893, making studies from the Columbian exposition; and last summer the school was located at Salem and Portsmouth.

AT RADCLIFFE.

Radcliffe college, the woman's annex to Harvard, has started the second year of its existence under that title with many new improvements. The increase of the attendance over that of 1893 has rendered it necessary to make a corresponding addition to the list of courses and instructors. Last year the number of courses given was 111 1-2, but this year it has been raised to 166. Of these 166 courses offered 63 are graduate. The corps of instructors includes nearly all that of Harvard. Most Radcliffe courses correspond to those given at Harvard. Some differ in certain details only, and a few are wholly different. In a great many cases the same professors do not conduct the same courses in both colleges.

LEGACY TO MONMOUTH.

Monmouth College has fall heir to a legacy of an estate valued at $75,000. The gift includes some of the best land in Henderson county, Illinois; also other valuable possessions, formerly owned by Joseph Mathers, late of Biggsville, who died about three weeks ago while visiting in California. The provisions of the gift that the college comes into possession of the estate at the death of the widow, now seventy years of age. It also directs that the college shall invest the property as the directors shall deem for the best interests of the institution. The interest accruing therefrom shall be used to endow two professorships, the first to be called "the Mathers professorship in natural science," the second "Mathers professorship of Greek."

CORNELL MEDALS.

Professor C. A. Fuertes, director of the college of civil engineering at Cornell university, has given two gold medals, one of which will be awarded annually by the faculty to that student of the college of civil engineering who may be found, on graduating, to have maintained the highest degree of scholarship in the subjects of his course during four consecutive years; the other will be awarded to that graduate of the same department who may write a meritorious paper upon some engineering subject tending to advance the scientific or practical interests of the profession of the civil engineer. Neither medal is to be awarded unless there is a candidate of sufficient merit to entitle him to such distinction.

—Burt R. Shurley, '94, is editor-in-chief of the Leucocyte, a monthly published by the students of the Detroit Medical School.

—Hereafter Prof. Coffin will give each of his English history classes one quiz each week. It will occur every Friday.

It is hoped that a large number will respond to the call of Capt. Rohn, for the candidates for the 'Varsity crew. It is none too soon to begin work and the men who go into training immediately will be the ones to make the crew. No one should be deterred from starting in training, because the old men are back. Because a person is on one year is no reason that he will be on the next.

The semi-publics are at hand and Athena and Hesperia will begin the series on Thursday and Friday nights. A man's work on a semi-public frequently determines his chances of representing his society on a joint debate and as one of these societies will be in the joint debate next year, the men will undoubtedly do their best. A large crowd should be present at these exercises.

SCHOLARSHIPS AT CORNELL.

The trustees of Cornell University, upon recommendation of the faculty, have provided nine new scholarships for the freshman and sophomore years, just doubling the present number. The eighteen scholarships are of the value of $200 per annum, and as they last for two years there will be in all thirty-six scholars. At the beginning of each year the scholarships will be thrown open to the competition of all members of the freshman class who have satisfactorily passed the regular university entrance examination in English, and are free from entrance conditions in other subjects. The scholarships are to be awarded to the candidates passing the best examinations in three of six groups. Students are debarred from competition if they have attended any university or college, or have received credit for more than a term's work in advance of their course. Students of high ability from the state of New York will have the additional advantage of being able to secure state scholarships, as there is nothing in the university statutes to prevent a student from holding both a state scholarship and a university scholarship. Many students have been able to pay their way through college in this way. The university scholarship may be retained for two years, provided the holder maintains the same high standard of scholarship which he showed in winning the scholarship.

MEETING OF THE PHILOLOGICAL CONGRESS.

The first Philological congress ever held in the United States, assembled in the library building of the University of Pennsylvania, on Dec. 27. The congress continued in session through the 29th. Babbitt, Columbia College; C. E. Bennet, Cornell University; A. G. Cameron, Yale University; D. C. Gilman, Johns Hopkins University; C. H. Toy, Harvard University; J. H. Wright, Harvard, and Bernadotte Perrier of Yale. Papers were read before the Modern Language association by Prof. E. S. Lewis and Mr. A. W. Herdler, and before the Archaeological Institute by Prof. Allan Marquand, Prof. A. S. Frothingham and Mr. William Rankin, Jr. C. C. Harrison of the University of Pennsylvania delivered the address of welcome, and introduced Prof. A. Marshall Elliott, of Johns Hopkins University, as presiding officer.

On Dec. 28 a memorial service was held in honor of the late William Dwight Whitney, of Yale. Charles R. Lanman, of Harvard, delivered the address.

FRANKLIN FIELD.

The University of Pennsylvania will hold all future athletic contests on Franklin field, which is now in process of construction, and when completed will make one of the best college athletic grounds in the United States. It is expected that by the early spring the new athletic field with its buildings and grand stands will be complete, and the baseball season will find equal to that of any college in the Pennsylvania's athletic equipment country.

The field lies on the north side of South street, east of thirty-third. It is about 800 ft. long, and about 450 feet wide. The ground will be surrounded by a handsome stone wall, at the southwestern angle of which the Bayne Memorial Gate will be erected. The funds for this gate have been raised entirely by subscription among university men.

The running track of three and one-third laps to the mile, encloses a field of three and one-half acres. Stands for the accommodation of spectators occupy the greater part of the eastern and southern sides of the field, while its western end is devoted to tennis courts and the athletic house. The track will be all that the runner, walker and bicyclist could desire, while the great central field will afford every facility for the playing of football, baseball and cricket.

The athletic building will be of exceptionally pleasing design, and will contain a dressing room and rowing tank 40 by 55 feet in diameter.

The second floor contains lockers for the scrub and a dressing-room for the visiting teams. The members of the scrub teams, who render such valuable assistance in the training of the varsity teams, will have everything provided for their comfort and convenience. The visiting teams' quarters will be all that could be desired, with a private staircase leading directly to the lavatories below them and an easy mode of egress to the field.

A new idea is an emergency room on the ground floor, where an athlete can have the best of care, if injured by an accident, until able to be removed.

For the accommodation of the student-body, the alumni and the general public, there have been provided two permanent stands, the covered grandstand, which will seat 5,000 people, and the open stands on the left and right. The covered stand will be two stories in height and will be of cantilever construction, thus allowing an uninterrupted view of the entire field. Provisions have also been made for the erection of huge temporary stands to contain upwards of 25,000 additional seats.

WHAT PENNSYLVANIA WILL PROPOSE.

A great deal of newspaper talk has been done within the past few days regarding a plan to send Pennsylvania's out-door athletic team to England in the spring, which has been characterized by more or less veracity.

The true light of the matter is this. At the meeting of the representatives from the Athletic associations of American colleges, to be held in February, Pennsylvania will propose that a team, composed of eighteen of the best men who took part in the intercollegiate contest in May, the two first men in each of nine events to be selected, be sent to England to have a contest with the eighteen best men there, who will be selected in the same way. If this proposition does not meet with approval, then Pennsylvania, if she wins the American championship, will send her own team to England to enter a contest with England's winning college team, which, of course, will be either Cambridge or Oxford.

Fourteen events compose the American sports and nine the English. If Pennsylvania's proposition is accepted at the February meeting, the sports in the spring will undoubtedly consist of the nine English events, except probably the three mile run, of which American sports have no equivalent.

Columbia college recently issued the twelfth number of its general semiannual catalogue of the officers and alumni of the institution. The first catalogue of this kind was issued in 1774.
