Search for the body of Melvin P. Engler '22, New Glarus, who was drowned about 10:30 yesterday morning in Lake Mendota while canoeing in rough waters 300 feet south of Picnic point, will be continued today. Talbot K. Rogers '23, Long Beach, Cal., a companion with Engler, was rescued by "The Wisconsin" after an alarm had been turned in by a student, Vincent Cox '23, who heard the cries of distress.

Because of the rough waters on the lake starting about 10 o'clock, two other canoes and an overturned sailboat were also rescued in the following hour by the life-saving crew. The overturned canoe on which Engler and Rogers were hanging was not noticed by the life-saving station. No guard was posted in the lookout tower during the morning, although it is customary in the afternoon and at night to station a special man on this duty.

DAVEY AWARDED HONOR EMBLEM

Conference Medal is Given for Athletic and Scholastic Work

The 1921 conference medal has been awarded to Allan C. Davey, for three years a regular member of the varsity football and baseball teams. This medal is awarded each year to the man graduating in the senior class of each conference university, who, through a course of four scholastic years' residence in the university, has the highest degree of achievement in his athletic, as well as in his scholastic work. Equal consideration is given to both lines of endeavor.

The first conference medal was given to M. T. Kennedy in 1915, crew and football man; in 1916 the award went to Dow Harvey, track and cross country; in 1917 to Mead Burke, track; in 1918 to Eber Simpson, football, basketball, and baseball; in 1919 to C. H. Carpenter, football; and in 1920 to Anthony Zulfer, basketball and baseball. The highest scholastic average attained by the winners was Harvey '16, and Davey is the second highest on the list.

Davey has been active in many phases of college life. He was captain of the freshman football team and has figured prominently in many of Wisconsin's victories on the gridiron. In the 1920 season, two victories, the Chicago and Minnesota games, were the direct result of his drop kicks. In 1919 he made a sensational run in the closing seconds of the Chicago-Wisconsin game resulting in a victory for the Badgers. In his position of catcher on the baseball team, he has been one of the mainstays of the team and his loss will be keenly felt. Davey is president of the Athletic board and was president of the junior class last year. He is a member of Iron Cross, White Spades, Artus, and Phi Kappa Phi.

A CIRCUS

Keystone Carnival is Reg'lar
Keystone Comedy

Equalling a three ring circus for variety, bizarre effects, and unique offerings, was the Keystone carnival that opened its gates to the Venetian night audience when the float procession was over.

The lower end of Park street and the lawn in the rear of President E. A. Birge's home were used by the organization in their offering. Japanese lanterns were used for illumination. Everything from balloons to lemonade was sold in the booths on the lawn, and out in the street, dancers moved on corn-meal pavement to the tune of Thompson's orchestra.

The booths were patronized heavily all during the evening, and the dancers thronged the roped-off space in which they were permitted to step about for 10 cents a dance. A large crowd pressed against the sidelines to watch the affair and to listen to the carnival crier's calls from a group of masculine assistants.

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Wisconsin bombarded three Purdue pitchers yesterday for an 8 to 2 victory in a ragged game of baseball featured by hard hitting by the Badgers.

"Lefty" Wagner, whom the Wisconsin nine assaulted for a 12 to 1 win a few weeks ago, commenced hurling for the Boilermarkers but lasted only five innings.

A volley of hits in the second and third rounds, including a double by Elliott and long singles by J. Williams and Snow, resulted in two runs in each of these innings. Wagner lasted an inning and a half longer but was derricked in favor of Wallace after he had loaded the bases in the fifth. The Badgers kicked Wallace for two runs in the seventh.

When Wallace left the mound in favor of a pinch hitter in the eighth, Wagner came in from right field in a second attempt to stop the Badger sluggers. He was greeted by singles by Barry, pinch hitting for Lyman and Elliott, the first two men to face him. Another relief twirler came to his rescue but before the close of the inning he was nicked for two runs when Davey's single scored Farrington and Barry.

Paddock, pitching for Wisconsin, was wild and was hit freely. His support pulled him out of tight holes twice when bases on balls had put him in trouble.

The Badger nine left for Ann Arbor last night to meet the strong Michigan team on Monday, Memorial day.

The score:

Flaring skyrockets, brilliantly lighted floats, soft music over the water, hundreds of people lining every possible inch of shore space, marked the event of the first Venetian night held during a regular session for two years.

The evening was ideal for the affair. The lake which had been rough during the greater part of the day began to calm toward sunset and with the approach of twilight was almost glassy in smoothness. Innumerable canoes and small craft of all variety gathered before the boat house and plied back and forth in the stretch between Park and Frances streets. In the growing dusk they moved about like so many giant water bugs.

Music by the University band held the attention of the large audience while the floats were being shifted into line. As darkness fell golden sparks traced the trail of rockets set off from a barge. They mounted high and broke in vari-colored bomb effects that lighted up for an instant the whole panorama.

The procession started at 8:45 when the Cardinal piloted by Captain Isabel tied onto the floats. The lights on each flared up, strains of music from Don Bohn's orchestra floated in to the audience, and the parade was on. They went west on the lake, circled and returned, passing the reviewing stands and the elaborately decorated and lighted piers.

A humorous incident was introduced when the people who had crowded on the roof of the boat house were found to be interfering with the handling of the lights and

BADGERS DEFEATED IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT

(Special to Daily Cardinal)

CHICAGO, Ill.—After defeating Bros and Gidios of Minnesota, 6-1, 6-3, Tredwell and Gotfredson, Wisconsin, were defeated by Vories and Segal, Chicago, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, in the semi-finals of the conference tennis tournament, held here yesterday.

Vories and Segal are last year's conference champions in the doubles game, and were victorious when they played the Badger team at Madison this spring. Their second match with Tredwell and Gotfredson, however, was a hotly contested one throughout.

Honors in the singles went to Bastian, Indiana, who beat Munz, Michigan, in the finals.

22 Are Made Charter Members of New Agricultural Fraternity

"Farm House", professional agricultural fraternity, was installed in the university last night. This fraternity, first established in 1903, has chapters in Nebraska, Missouri, Illinois, and Kansas.

Representatives from other colleges at the installation were: H. P. Rusk and C. W. Crickman, Illinois; R. E. Holland and C. E. Atkinson, Nebraska; and W. T. Angle, Missouri.

David R. Lacey '21, was elected president of the organization; G. Howard Clapp '21, vice-president; Bushrod W. Allen '21, secretary, and Victor A. Tiedjens '21, treasurer.

Other charter members are: N. G. Preston '21, Helmer C. Casperson '22, Louis W. Taylor '22, John H. Houssek '21, L. E. Murphy '21, Ralph O. Nafziger '21, Verlyn Sears '22, Clifford Lampman '21, Russell E. Frost '22, J. Arlington Anderson, grad, Walter C. Strauss '21, Wabun Krueger '21, William H. Pierre '21, L. H. McKay '21, S. T. Vaughn '21, and John J. Pinney '21. A. W. Hopkins, professor of agricultural journalism, and S. B. Morrison, assistant-director of the agricultural experiment station, are faculty advisors of "Farm House."

WE don't want to crab the act or anything like that exactly, but there were certain things that we missed in the Venetian night parade last night. For instance, we think a good float would have been William Jennings Bryan on a junked battleship; or why not the Delts astride a keg? The Chi Psis might have used a houseboat to represent them, while Dean Goodnight might have represented Robinson Crusoe, sixty days at sea, accompanied by Dean Sellery as Man Friday.

ONE OF THE SASIEST THINGS HE DOES

(From the New York Times)
"Premier Briand has refused to meet Prime Minister Lloyd George until after he has had contact with Parliament."

THE Tri-Delts have pushed ahead of the Chi Omegas in the matrimonial contest, the announcement of three showers and a marriage being the winning numbers this week.

ON reading over the above we might add—safely we hope—that it never rains but it pours.

IF the proposed new junior "honorary" society gets any further than the embryonic stage—which we doubt—we respectfully suggest that its name be not White Dragon, but White Elephant, as much more apropos.

AND while we're in the mood, we want to call your attention to an article in the newest Alumni Mag concerning the class of '21 (which, unless we are sadly mistaken, takes the feather-lined house-slippers for being the most unashamed, most audacious, and most deliberately planned bit of mental gymnastics that has yet appeared in print.

AFTER that effort on their part we wonder why they don't start a phonograph factory, or a gas plant, or something.

desperately to attract aid. They had left the Theta Delta Chi fraternity pier about 9 o'clock, using a 14 foot canoe owned by Rogers, and had started for the university boat house. No life preservers were in the canoe.

As the wind had not yet started to come up, the two decided to go over to Picnic point. Both were in a jolly mood, joking and enjoying the ride all the way. The wind in the meantime had become strong and the waves were beginning to mount high against the side of the craft.

"We're both regular salt tars," Engler remarked lightly to his companion. "Let's go over to the point."

Headed Towards Point

They had headed the canoe toward the point and were a short distance away when the first heavy wave struck the side of the craft and filled the bottom. Other waves in rapid succession, whipped up by the wind, dashed over the side. The canoe then overturned.

Realizing that both were in danger and that the increasing roughness of the lake was making it doubly uncertain, they clung to the canoe and guided it as well as they could. The water was cold and was numbing them. Rogers became weak. The canoe had floated toward the university shore. They tried to guide the craft toward the first point west of the Hydraulics building.

Two engineers surveying on University hill witnessed the accident through their telescope. Edwin A. Carlson '23 sighted the overturned canoe with the two men clinging to it, and called his companion Harold B. Robison who started at once to notify the boat house. Carlson saw Engler sink and Rogers retain his hold on the canoe, but was unable to render any assistance. The Bernard boat had set out by the time Robison reached their pier by the pumping station.

Cries of distress were heard by Vincent Cox who, earlier in the morning, had rented the only canoe let out at the university boat house. He was paddling along the south shore in university bay when the indistinct calls attracted his attention. Sighting the overturned canoe, he paddled rapidly toward the life-saving station, stopping at intervals to attract attention of the life-saving station by pointing with a paddle toward the party.

Engineer Notices Signal

The engineer at the university power station, W. F. Nelson, noticed his signal and the overturned canoe south of the point. A distress call of one long and three short blasts was sounded. He then notified "The Wisconsin," a launch owned and operated by Bernard. The launch went immediately to the spot.

Engler had realized that his companion was becoming weak. Anxious to get aid to him as soon as possible, he pushed off, remarking with encouragement:

"I'm feeling fine and strong, Rogers. You hang on and I'll swim to shore, get a boat, and come back after you."

That was shortly before the warning blasts sounded out a call that life was endangered. When "The Wisconsin" arrived, Engler was off some distance. Rogers saw the boat coming, and tried to call to him. His weak cries were lost in the splashing of the high waves.

Boat Party Rescues Rogers

When Rogers was rescued by the boat party, he was so overcome that he was unable to tell them distinctly to rush to the aid of Engler. The boat men looked around for Engler, but seeing no one in sight decided that the rescued man had been canoeing alone. The boat was turned back.

The "See-Me-Go" launch, substituting for the "Cardinal," which had been incapacitated the previous evening by a muffler blow-out, was rushed by Captain Thomas Isabel, university life-saving guard, to the location designated by the distress blasts. The trip was futile, and the party returned. Rough waters capsized two other canoes off Maple bluff. The students were rescued. A large sail boat, owned by the Delta Upsilon fraternity, was turned over in the bay with all occupants on board. The guards rescued the occupants.

Parents Arrive

Mr. and Mrs. William Engler, New Glaris, parents of the drowned young man, were notified by long distance telephone and arrived by automobile at noon yesterday. The fraternity off w? (sretdayETAoE fraternity of which both men are members had planned a Founder's Day banquet last evening. The affair was postponed by the tragedy.

DANCE DRAMA HELD JUNE 3

The annual Dance Drama will be presented in the campus open air theater Friday evening June 3, at 8:30 o'clock, by Miss Margaret N. H'Doubler's dancing pupils. The recital will include 11 numbers. Edith Ewald '22, W. A. A. representative, is assisting, and stage management and costuming is under the direction of Lee Bacon, graduate.

One of the most picturesque and dramatic dances is the interpretation of the classic, "Orpheus and Eurydice." The prelude takes place on Mt. Parnassus, where the Muses, the source of all inspiration, are gathered.

Orpheus represents humanity, and Eurydice the inspiration which mortals have lost. In the Elysian fields, when Orpheus comes very near to Eurydice, he is tempted to turn around, although it has been forbidden, and he loses Eurydice forever. The Moenads enter and take possession of Orpheus, who perishes.

The final scene occurs on Mt. Parnassus. The Muses are grieving because Man does not appreciate the Arts. There will be 26 dancers in this number, which is the grand finale of the program.

Those taking part in the dancing are:

Seniors—Janet Epstein, Esther Graham, Julia Hanks, Helen Harper, Charlotte MacEwan, Elizabeth Markham, Mary Parkinson, Eleanor Riley, Agnes Samuels, Helen Stevenson, Frances Ellen Tucker, Elizabeth Waterman.

Juniors—Anna Arnquist, Marjorie Boesch, Esther Guerini, Catherine Meyer, Dorothy Schaper, Elizabeth Schon, Irene Spiker.

Sophomores—Lola Barnes, Mira Bowles, Lillian Bresler, Reinette Douglas, Olivia Fentress, Carol Goodyear, Helen Rockwell, Aline Smith, Ellen Swetil, Elizabeth Tuttle.

Freshmen—Margaret Callsen, Janet Cumming, Josephine Jung, Elaine Mabley, Alethea Smith.

Graduates—Lillian Stupp, Bertha Ochsner.

Tickets for the dance drama may be secured Tuesday and Wednesday on the hill at 75 cents. All seats will be reserved.

OUR LIFE-SAVING FORCE

THE lake has claimed its second victim of the year in the death of Melvin Engler. The student body feels deep sorrow at the loss of one of its most esteemed men.

But concurrent with this feeling of sorrow, there is a feeling of profound indignation. The vain protestations, the verbose utterances, and the slothful inaction of our university and city officials in bettering the life-saving facilities of the lake is beginning to get under the students' skin. How long must the lake continue to claim its toll of human lives while our officials sit idly by, lament the calamities, and discuss proposed reforms?

The deplorable inefficiency of our life-saving service that was brought out at the death of Esther Wepking should have been remedied long ago. And what has been done? The city council and the university have sought to enlighten us with wise utterance, but their actions have not matched their words. They have had good intentions, but they have contributed them to the proverbial pavement of the lower world. The time has come to make an end of verbosity and good intentions and do something.

Granting that the students in the overturned canoe were negligent in failing to provide themselves with life preservers, the fact nevertheless remains that they were in the water an hour before any attempt to rescue them was made. To be sure, as usual, our life-saving service has an alibi. But alibis, in such cases, have never yet saved a single life, and they have seldom excused the blameworthy.

There was no one in the watch tower at the time of the accident yesterday. There was no aid sent to the overturned canoe until almost an hour after it had captized, and then the aid was summoned unofficially and was provided by a private boat.

The situation calls for replacing words with action. The student body demands:

First, that at least two expert assistants be provided Captain Isabell. These assistants must be men thoroughly trained in life-aving work.

Second, that, from the time when the first canoe goes out in the morning until the last canoe is in at night, there be a lookout stationed in the watch tower of the boat-house. In stormy weather, the shifts of this lookout must be sufficiently short to secure the maximum observing efficiency.

Third, that, in stormy weather, a guard be stationed on the westward side of Picnic Point. The surface of the lake lying beyond Picnic Point cannot be properly seen from the university shore. This guard should be provided with a small power boat that would do for life-saving service.

Fourth, that means of communication with the life-saving force of the university be established at advantageous points along the shore.

Fifth, that a new life-saving power boat be purchased by the university. A single boat is insufficient for a lake the size of Mendota. The Cardinal, when the accident occurred yesterday, was out of repair, and the life-saving service was using a slow launch. Moreover, the Cardinal is a pleasure boat and not a life-saving boat. It is unfitted for rough weather. The students demand an additional power boat, and they demand a boat adapted to life-saving work.

The foregoing plan may seem large, but its need has been demonstrated in a most costly manner. Failure to provide it is taking human lives.

The life-saving force of Lake Mendota is of concern to both the city and the university. Co-operation between the two is necessary. This co-operation must take the form of more than probs, discussions, and intentions. It must be an appropriation that will secure men and equipment for life-saving purposes. Words or thoughts have never paid the wages of such men or bought such equipment, and they never will. Cold cash speaks in this instance.

How long, City of Madison and University of Wisconsin, are you going to pay for your inaction with human life?

MEMORIAL DAY

TOMORROW, America pauses amid the complexity and bustle of her life to pay tribute to those who gave their lives in the nation's wars. The University of Wisconsin will render her tribute to those dead in a memorial at Lincoln Terrace tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

The true American Memorial Day sentiment is that expressed by Lincoln in his immortal Gettysburg speech. Memorial Day fittingly honors the dead, but it also challenges the living. It bids them take up the task that has been advanced by the dead. It commits the living to the noble principles for which so many gave their lives.

Tomorrow, millions of Americans will concentrate their attention on those principles for which the dead of our wars gave their all. Millions of Americans will strive to continue and advance those principles for the betterment of the world.

SOMETHING WRONG

"O J." is leaving Wisconsin. This may mean little to many students, but to students who have taken courses under Professor O. J. Campbell it is deeply significant. To those of us who have, since the beginning of our college days, looked to him for guidance, sympathy, and inspiration, his impending departure appears as nothing less than a calamity for the English department. No doubt the department will survive, and no doubt his place will, after a fashion, be filled—that is to say, that someone will arise at a given time in a given room and talk on a given subject, but the English department will have to search far and long before it can find a man who can take O. J.'s place in the affection of his students.

We need O. J. Campbell here, and we ought to keep him. He has given lavishly of his time and effort for the promotion of undergraduate interests. For years he has been the person most actively supporting the Wisconsin Literary Magazine; student organizations have grown up around him; he has made the welfare of the undergraduate at Wisconsin his business; he has been the center of numerous activities in university circles—and now we are allowing him to leave us.

In his courses, Professor Campbell has enlisted the interest of his students as one man in a thousand is able to do it, chiefly because, in addition to his being a professor, he had the gift of a charming personality. In this he was a priceless adjunct to his department. There is too little sympathetic contact between student and faculty in the university. Mr. Campbell made his students feel that there was a real and justifiable connection between himself and them, not merely as between teacher and pupil, but as between two human beings interested in the same things as well.

There is something wrong somewhere in the machinery of the university when a man like Professor Campbell is allowed to leave it. It is hard to determine where the fault lies, whether in insufficient provision for the maintenance of a first class faculty or in a lack of breadth of vision to appreciate Mr. Campbell within the department. We do not think that the latter is the case, but whatever it is, there is something wrong, something that can be remedied. It seems pertinent to ask whether we are trying to maintain a university of the first rank or a training school for greater institutions.

We want O. J. to remain at Wisconsin.

former Badger high jumper. Christofferson, Shippewa Falls, also bested Wahl's record, but he was unable to reach the height set by Tuthar.

To win the Wisconsin track championship, Milwaukee East captured five first places and two seconds with a well-balanced squad. The winners took first places in the 220 yard dash, 220 yard low hurdles, discus throw, shot put, and the javelin throw. The contest for the state honors was a battle between Milwaukee schools all the way. Other state schools had little chance and points garnered by them were scattered among eight entries. Milwaukee West furnished strong competition for the victorious East division team. Milwaukee North, which finished in third place, trailed far behind with 13 points.

Stoughton Wins Class B

Only three counters separated first and second positions in the Class B final standings. Stoughton vanquished West Allis by scoring a majority of the points in the field events.

The Class B winner took first position in the javelin throw, high jump, discus throw, and tied for first in the pole vault. Wisconsin high furnished strong opposition to the leading teams and managed to finish in third place with 19 points. Jefferson led the trailers with 12 points.

Graf, Milwaukee East division,

Old fashioned nosegays against backgrounds of black and white, decorated the Alpha Phi house Friday evening for the formal dinner dance of that sorority. Gold pen knives were given as favors. Dean and Mrs. F. W. Roe, Mrs. G. M. Bacon, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Mrs. H. J. Woodward acted as chaperons.

won individual high point honors of the meet. The Milwaukee field man gathered first places in the shot put, javelin throw, and discus throw for a total of 15. He heaved the shot 44 feet 3 inches. Tuthar, high jump record breaker, won second honors by scoring firsts in the high jump and the 120 yard high hurdles. Tuthar ran neck and neck with Zilisch, Milwaukee Washington, for a greater part of the distance in the hurdles, but he pulled away in the sprint and won handily.

Usher Takes Two Firsts

Usher, Stoughton, garnered 11 points for individual honors in the Class B meet. Usher took first in the high jump and the discus, and won third in the pole vault. One point separated the winner from Hilberts, Jefferson, and Brown, West Allis, who each collected 10 markers for a second place tie.

A Washington high school relay team narrowly defeated Madison for victory in this event. The Madison quartet ran a pretty race and threatened the leaders all of the way, but they were never able to overcome the first lead taken by the victors. Milwaukee South division squeezed out a third in the relay.

Price Cuts in Autos
Encouraging, Says Jordan

"The most encouraging factor in stimulating general buying," says Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car Co. "are the recent price reductions announced by automobile and tire manufacturers. While general prices have actually gone down, in many lines, the public has not yet secured the benefit of these reductions. Usually, it takes months for a price reduction to percolate through to the ultimate consumer. If we can take the public's response to our $600 to $900 reduction as indicative of the latent market, then there must be a lot of business waiting to be turned into immediate orders."

COMING WEEK AT GRAND

Sunday and Monday — Charlie Chaplin and Jackie Coogan in "The Kid."
Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday—All star cast in "A Child for Sale."

"The Kid"

Jackie Coogan, the most famous child in the whole world, is the modern Jack, it seems, rising on his magic beanstalk. The little fellow is to begin a tour of the Keith vaudeville houses at a salary of $2,500 per week, a salary greater than that of the president of the United States. Not only will he receive a larger salary than the president, but he receives more publicity than any other individual in the whole world. And all of this because of the wonderful showing he made as Charlie Chaplin's partner in Chaplin's new picture "The Kid." This picture has already been seen in Madison but the announcement that it is to be returned for a short engagement will doubtless be received with delight, not only by those who saw it before, but also by those who missed the first showing. "The Kid" will be the attraction at the Grand Sunday and Monday and the S. R. O. sign should be in evidence on both days.

The management of the Grand announces for next week one of the most unusual pictures in the history of the screen. The picture in question, "A Child for Sale," will open a five day engagement Tuesday, and if it runs true to form, there will not be a single vacant seat at any performance. There is something about the picture that appeals to the audience and wherever it has been shown all attendance records has been shattered. It is a straight-from-the-shoulder, hard-hitting, preachment against the present day evil of rent-profit-eering. It is the first picture which puts forth in dramatic form the story of the injustices practiced today by unscrupulous landlords.

SPECIAL MATINEE MONDAY
AT ORPHEUM

Due to the fact that Monday is Memorial day, the Orpheum will have a special afternoon performance starting at 3 o'clock. An unusually entertaining bill has been booked for the first three days of the week, and holiday pleasure seekers will find in the six acts of vaudeville and pictures ideal amusement for the hot weather spell.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday—Janet of France, Moody and Duncan, Nick Hufford, Dunlay and Merrill, Frear, Baggott and Frear, La Fleur and Portia, Pathe News reel.

At the Orpheum Today

A vaudeville bill containing several new and original acts is the offering at the Orpheum for today, headlining the list are Leon Kimberly-Helen Page and Co., in a satire on the movies called "Location" and Earle Hampton and Dorothy Blake in a song and patter offering entitled "Beau Coup-Nui-sance." Lorraine Evon, violinist and singer, with her Golden Bird, the Five Avalons, in bits of Versatility, Bennington Scott, three feet of dancing, Willie Hale and Brother and Pathe News reel. There will be daily matinees and the regular performances each evening.

STRAND CALENDAR

Sun., Mon., Tues.—William S. Hart in "The Testing Block," also Latest News Weekly, "Prizma Colored and Pictures of Madison.

Wed., Thur., Fri., Sat.—"Partners of the Tide," also Cartoon and a "Prizma" Colored Picture.

AT THE STRAND

Bill Hart is some scrapper, as everybody knows, but in his new Paramount picture, "The Testing Block," which comes to the Strand theater for three days starting today; he is a veritable super-man.

A straying minstrel band, with a lovely girl who plays the violin, winds through the trails of the California Sierras in the days of gold. Mr. Hart is chief of the bandit gang. They force the players to entertain them in the heart of the redwood forest. The half-savage outlaws are avid in their desire to capture the girl and "Sierra" Bill (Mr. Hart) forces them to fight him, one by one, for the right to claim her. He beats them all and then half-crazed, seeks the girl and forces her to marry him. This is the beginning of a story of human tragedy and joy, which unfolds in a might sequence of compelling incidents.

BADGER CREW MEN DEFEAT CHICAGO CLUB

Junior Crew Loses to Military Academy Eight

In the first varsity crew race since 1914, the Wisconsin senior eight defeated the Lincoln Park Boat club, Chicago, at 7 o'clock last night. The Badger crew pulled into the lead at the beginning of the race and gradually drew away from the Chicago combination until at the finish Wisconsin had a margin of five and one-half lengths. The time was 6 minutes 59 seconds.

The competition, which was postponed from Saturday morning, was held over a mile and one-quarter course starting at the Lincoln high school and finishing at the Park street pier. As the two crews took the water, it was apparent that the Badgers lacked the finish of the Middle West championship aggregation. Superior pulling power and greater endurance swung the race in favor of Wisconsin before a half of the course had been covered.

In the second race on the schedule, the Wisconsin junior crew lost to St. John's Military academy. The academy combination finished a boat's length ahead of Wisconsin. The Badgers took the lead at the gun and maintained a slender margin until they reached the boat house. A powerful spurt sent St. John's into a tie with Wisconsin, and a short distance before the finish, the academy crew went to the front, winning by a length.

The inter-college races, which were postponed because of the roughness of the lake, are scheduled to be run off on Wednesday afternoon at 4:30.

Lineups of the crews follow:

ROSTOVITZEFF WILL TALK ON PAINTINGS

A lecture on the paintings of Nicholas Roerich, now on exhibit in the art museum of the Historical museum, will be given at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the museum by Prof. M. Rostovtzeff, of the history department.

The vividness of Roerich's characteristically Russian paintings and their originality of treatment have occasioned much comment. Professor Rostovtzeff, a countryman and a friend of the artist, is well qualified to lecture on these pictures in a most illuminating way. The lecture is given under the auspices of the Madison Art association and is open to the public.

a hose deftly manipulated by someone below had to be turned on them to clear the roof. The attempt was made three times with subsequent wettings of a good number each time, but a few remained to witness the entire event.

The lighting system of which Casey Loomis had charge was a success, and as a result there were more lights on the water than usual. Every float was equipped with a Pyrene extinguisher and adequate life preservers. Gus Tuckerman was in charge of the procession. It was Joe Steinauer's hand that guided the rockets' takeoff.

Decisions of the judges were unanimous that the Phi Delta Theta pier won first prize, the Gamma Phi took the prize for float entries, and that the best decorated canoe was that portraying a gondolier poling his canopied craft which bore a Venetian maiden. The judges were Miss Ayler, head of the art department, Major John S. Wood, and Frances Ellen Tucker '21.

SENIOR SWINGOUT TO BE HELD JUNE 3

Senior women who are to take part in the Senior Swingout will meet at 6:15 o'clock, June 3, at South hall in their caps and gowns; junior women are to form at the rotunda; sophomores will meet at North hall; and freshmen are to come together at South hall. All the women except the Seniors are to appear dressed in white.

Led by Dean Louise Nardin and to music furnished by the University band, the procession will start from their various places and will march to the center of the campus. Here the juniors, with Ellen Correll, president of S. G. A., and Dorothy Ware, president of Yellow Tassel, as leaders, will form a chain through which the seniors, following the leaders, Margaret Croskey, president of Mortar board, and Elizabeth Chandler, president of Blue Dragon, are to pass. The freshmen and sophomores will follow the seniors, making a long procession over the campus.

When the groups have been arranged about the middle of the campus, Mortar board election announcements will be made. There will then be a march toward the Lincoln statue where each class will sing a song to the departing seniors. A maypole dance will complete the program for the evening.

The committee in charge of the swingout urges that every girl be present to march in the procession and to bid farewell to the senior women.
