SIEGE OF PEKING, Fuller Opera House, Saturday Evening.

PROFESSOR WHITNEY STRICKEN.

Died Suddenly at His Home at 9:30 Last Evening.

Acknowledged Authority in Railway Engineering--- Universally Mourned---In Poor Health for Some Time---No Funeral Arrangements as yet.

The announcement this morning of the death of Professor Whitney came as a great shock to his host of friends in the University and elsewhere. Last evening about nine o'clock he was stricken with acute oedema of the lungs resulting from the weakness of the heart. Dr. L. R. Head who has been his attending physician at once called but no relief could be given and in half an hour the sufferer had passed away.

The illness of Professor Whitney dates from November 1899 at which time he contracted a severe cold while returning with his class from an inspection trip to Pittsburg. The cold soon developed into a severe attack of pneumonia which was complicated by weakness of the heart, and it was only through the most careful nursing and watchfulness that the crisis was successfully passed over. By February Professor Whitney had so far recovered that he was exceedingly anxious to resume in a measure his University work, which he did by riding to and from his office in a carriage. But the exertion proved too great and in four or five weeks he suffered a severe relapse. A long struggle followed but he gained gradually during the summer and seemed on the way to permanent recovery. At the opening of the University the Professor again insisted upon doing a share of his work by meeting the students at his home. During the winter he has continued to gain strength and his many friends had hoped soon to see him at his usual place in the University. Yesterday he seemed as well as usual and was very cheerful and happy; but his heart at last failed him and the long heroic struggle came to a close last evening.

Professor Nelson O. Whitney was born on May 3, 1858 at Aiken, S. C., where his parents were temporarily located. He graduated at the Mantua Academy of Philadelphia in 1874 and from the civil engineering course of the University of Pennsylvania in 1878.

During the summer following his graduation he was on the Geodetic Survey of Pennsylvania and the next winter he was instructor in civil engineering in the University of Pennsylvania and in the Pennsylvania School of Industrial Art. For the years 1878-80 he was in the office of the Chief Engineer of the Penn. Railroad where he was engaged in construction work. The next two years he spent in Mexico as locating engineer under the late A. M. Wellington on the Mexican National Railroad. In 1882 he returned to Pennsylvania and became locating engineer on the South Penn. R. R., and during 1884-86 he was resident engineer on the Tuscarora tunnel.

In 1886 he was appointed assistant to the Chief Engineer of the Penna. R. R., in charge of construction and maintenance at Chicago, which position he held until called to the chair of Railway Engineering at the University of Wisconsin in 1891.

Professor Whitney has carried on his work in the University with high ability and his loss will be keenly felt in the Engineering department. Professor Turneaure said in speaking of Professor Whitney: "During the years he has been connected with the University he has exerted a great influence on the students with whom he has come into contact. A perfect gentleman himself, he has always treated his students as such, and there is probably no professor in the University for whom the alumni have a higher regard."

Professor Whitney had a very wide circle of friends outside of the University, both in Madison and among the Engineering profession in Chicago. He was not merely a University man but was a professional man in the highest sense. The Professor had a very wide acquaintance among railroad people and in connection he served to aid a large number of the engineering graduates in securing appointments in their profession. Professor Whitney was a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, of the Western Society of Engineers, and of several Railroad clubs and other societies. He was also an active member of the Madison Congregational Church, being a Deacon of that organization at the time of his death.

Professor Whitney was married in 1883 to Mary Ella Taintor of Philadelphia, who with five children and his mother keenly mourn his loss. The arrangements for the funeral are not as yet completed.

Acting-President Birge this morning called a special meeting of the Faculty on account of Professor Whitney's death.

Later.

The funeral will be held from the residence at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, services being conducted by Dr. E. G. Updike.

February Municipality.

The February number of the local government journal "The Municipality" is out. Dean Johnson continues his excellent series of papers on "Sewerage Disposal." E. R. Buckley contributes an article on "Tar Macadam Pavement." Judge Gaynor, Otto Doner, A. D. Davis and N. P. Lewis furnish valuable articles of municipal interest. The editorial column contains comments on the legislation for cities and the convention at Viroqua.

Remember the date, Saturday evening, Mrs. Woodward's lecture on the "Siege of Peking" at the Fuller Opera house.

The West End club met at the residence of Professor Alfred Vivian on Charter street Friday evening. A paper was read by Prof. A. S. Flint, giving a description of a summer spent along the coast of Massachusetts, being a narrative of an outing by the Professor and a classmate was highly enjoyed by the large audience present.

SENIOR OPEN.

Thirteen Try for Places on Final Contest.

The Senior Open contest took place in Library Hall this afternoon. Thirteen contestants were entered. The four highest are chosen to compete in the final contest on the 29th of this month.

The judges of this afternoon's contest were:

On thought and style; Senator Stout, Judge Winslow and Professor Bashford. On delivery; Dr. Updike, Professor Monaghan and Assemblyman Hall.

The contestants and the subjects of their orations are as follows:

Rounds, Lincoln the Orator; Carr, Andrew Jackson's Services to Nationalism; Beule, A Prophet of the New Time; O'Brien, Safeguards of the Republic; Neilson, Rational Liquor Reforms; Baldwin, Alexander Hamilton; Hines, John Brown; Stover, Was Judas a Traitor?; Sargeant, Abraham Lincoln; Schubring, Our Commerce; Maurer, John Marshall and the Constitution; Nelson, The Redemption of the Negro; Regner, Passing of a World Power.

Third Indoor Meet.

Plans are rapidly being matured for the third indoor meet on March 30. Encouraged by the successes of the other two the management hope to make the coming entertainment the banner meet of the season. Continuing along the same lines as have been adopted in previous meets, the list of events are to include several unique contests as well as several decided innovations. The regular numbers of the program will be run off and judging from the improved form of the candidates the record-breaking work of the past meets is almost sure to be continued in these events.

Interest will not be allowed to lag during any part of the meet. All numbers will be close and exciting and will be run off promptly. Then also there will be several relay races and these never fail to arouse the crowd to the highest pitch of excitement. The various hill literary societies are matched for one race and have already chosen their representatives; the three colleges of the University will go against each other in a second contest. It is very probable that the champion relay team of the West Side High School will be secured to run against the unbeaten Madison team. At the recent meet at Milwaukee the Capital City boys were unable to start and since then have been anxious to secure a chance to go against the winners at that meet.

Then as a decidedly unique number an attempt is being made to arrange a race between the tall and short men of the University. Wisconsin abounds in extremes of both kinds and a race between the long and short of it would undoubtedly prove a drawing card.

As a crowning event of the evening Coach Kilpatrick has been prevailed upon to run an exhibition half. As Mr. Kilpatrick holds the world record in this event, such a trial should be of considerable interest.

Professor Manley closed his series of lectures at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. His subject was the "General Choir," a summing up of the detached treatment of the poets in his former lectures.

Remember that the Glee clubs will sing at the lecture on the "Siege of Peking" by Mrs. Woodward at the Fuller Opera house Saturday evening.

PHIL KING RESIGNS

GIVES UP POSITION OF GRADUATE MANAGER.

Will Retain Position as Coach of Baseball and Football—Position May Remain Vacant.

Phil King has resigned as graduate manager of Athletics at the University, owing to the pressure of outside business. This statement was given Saturday evening. Mr. King will continue to act as coach for the baseball and football teams but the management of athletics will be placed in other hands. Athletics, during Mr. King's management, although not marked by any great departure has been economically and carefully run. Unwarranted expenditures have been scrupulously guarded against while several plans of additional revenue for the athletic department have been initiated. The late football season, while not as great a success as was hoped for owing to the small attendance at several of the big games, was so managed as to net the department a neat sum.

The successor to Mr. King will be chosen in a few days but as to who it will be is doubtful. A well defined rumor is in circulation that the office of graduate manager will be done away with, the various teams to be managed by the faculty director of athletics with the assistance of the various team managers.

Mrs. Woodward's Lecture.

Mrs. M. S. Woodward, who will lecture at the Fuller Opera house Saturday evening on the "Siege of Peking," gave one of her interesting talks at Steinway Hall, Chicago, last Saturday. The hall was crowded and the utmost enthusiasm prevailed. The Chicago press praised her lecture very highly, the only unfavorable criticism being that the hall was not large enough.

Her lecture on the same subject which will be given at the Fuller Opera house Saturday evening will undoubtedly be a great success. The University Glee clubs will sing at the lecture adding a special feature of interest to all University students.

A reception in Mrs. Woodward's honor is being planned for Saturday afternoon at which time she will display a number of curios which she brought with her from China. This collection of Chinese mementoes and curiosities is exceedingly interesting and is said to be very complete.

Professor C. N. Gregory entertained the Town and Gown club at Keeley's Saturday evening.

Professor Whitney's Death.

Early last evening occurred the death of one whose loss will be deeply felt by his many friends among the faculty and students. Professor Whitney was one whose work brought great credit to the institution with which he was connected. His personality made for him friends of all with whom he associated.

The end came suddenly but he had not enjoyed good health for some time, and had been in the habit of hearing his classes at his home.

The University, students and faculty alike feel deep sympathy for the family in their great loss.

A University of Drama.

James K. Hackett, the eminent actor, has recently contributed an article to the Chicago American in which he favors the establishment of a University of Drama. Mr. Hackett, unlike Mansfield and other actors of note, does not consider the time ripe for a National Theatre, but that nevertheless until that time appears "the cause of the endowed theatre can be best advanced through the creation of a University of Drama."

His idea is that this University should not be a school of acting but "an institution endowed by some philanthropist, and perhaps nurtured by the government" with a curriculum equal to that of any scholastic University. "The chief requirement—without which no person could be admitted to the course of study—should be great talent." Besides studying the literature of England, France and Germany, painting and sculpture, there should be a theatre on whose stage young men and women could be constantly acting, in the study and playing of various parts. Dancing and fencing would be taught, and in addition so far as possible, ideas of stage management, lighting effects, science and music arrangements, play constitution, and in short, everything pertaining to the art of the theatre and playwriting ought to be imparted to the students."

The scheme as outlined by Mr. Hackett is a very interesting one, and should lend itself to the consideration of students interested in the drama. Mr. Hackett says that he does not expect to live to see such a University founded but perhaps Mr. Carnegie may add another to his already large number of noble gifts and endow such a University.

President's Band Coming.

April 11 has been fixed upon as the date on which the famous President's Band of Washington, will appear in this city. One or more concerts will be given at the Fuller Opera house. These concerts will be given under the supervision of the Choral Union. The President's band is considered the best band in the world and also the largest. It consists of seventy-four men. The opportunity to hear this band is an exceptional one, for the band is seldom allowed to leave Washington. They have been granted a six weeks' trip this year and will give concerts in several large cities in the West. The band is lead by Lieutenant Santlemann.

Henry H. Morgan, treasurer.

Sophomore Notice.

The assessment ordered by the class at its last meeting has not been fully paid. Some have not yet been seen by the collectors, but there are others who have been seen and who have shown a desire to evade payments. To these latter especially we wish to say that a class tax means a taxation of the whole class. If any pay then certainly all should pay.

Further these funds are not being raised for any individual's use as some try to argue. We ourselves know that 40 cents each will more than meet present expenses but as a matter of business policy a surplus is expected. Whatever balance there is will be required at different times in the future and deposited, not in somebody's pocket, but in some place of safe keeping.

By request the time for collection will be extended to March 20th. With the above explanations it is hoped that all who have not paid will do so as soon as possible.

The collectors are asked to meet at Chadbourne Hall at 7 p. m. March 20. Treasurer.

Seniors who have not paid $1 for the insertion of their photos in the Badger will confer a favor by doing so as soon as possible, as it is desired to have all money in by April 1. Send or give money to

Dr. Hall's Address.

An exceptionally large audience gathered in the Senior Law room yesterday afternoon to listen to Dr. Hall's last talk before the Christian Association. These three talks given on the last three Sundays have embodied much of Dr. Hall's thinking for the last twenty years. In concluding the series he urged the men to make much of miraculous power of God in their lives. The Association has been very fortunate in securing Secretary Hibbard of Northwestern University to address next Sunday's meeting. Mr. Hibbard was the president of the Y. M. C. A. here last year.

umphs in Europe. Mr. Biden as exact and beautiful. Miss von Furseb will give several violin numbers.

Everything will be sung in English.The Military Hop.The third Military hop of the season took place Saturday evening in the gymnasium and was a very successful affair. The attendance was not as large as the last hop, doubtless on account of the attraction at the Fuller, but about one hundred and fifty couple were present. The music was on the whole good, but much criticism was heard in regard to the playing of some of the waltzes. The entire program of fifteen dances and four extras was danced. The chaperons for the evening were: Captain
