5 CENTS

CO-EDS HEAR 1922 BADGER SALES PLANS

Subscription Campaign is Started; Solicitors See Prize Cups

When more than 30 representatives of sororities, woman's organizations, rooming houses and halls met last night in the Union building to view the 1922 Badger's seven big prize cups and listen to rules and plans, the initial steps were taken in the big year book subscription campaign.

Exactly at 12 noon on Tuesday, October 5, the solicitors will be on the campus, at fraternity houses, dormitories, rooming houses and everywhere that the prospective male or female purchasers of a Badger are apt to be at that time. Up until 12 o'clock no verbal or written promises for subscriptions may be taken, but after that hour the authorized receipt books are due to work overtime.

Under the direction of Clarence Rasmussen, business manager of the book, is the general working scheme for the campaign. Active charge is in the hands of Everett Carpenter, William Hawks, Harold Selva and Clarence Wille. It is the expectation of the department heads that with the large number of co-ed solicitors ready to start work more than half the quota of books ordered will be sold within two days.

With the campaign practically under way, editor Tom Coxon is turning his attention to staff applicants. Appointments will be considered in the course of a day or two and announcement made shortly after.

The contents of the annual are now planned out in detail, and Coxon is giving his spare time to work with a corps of writers who are collecting publicity material to use during the campaign period. Management of the publicity campaign is in the hands of Walter K. Schwinn, C. P. MacInnis, and Darrel Dunn.

The seven prize cups will be placed on display in a State street window shortly. Rules as laid down by the circulation department for the conduct of competing teams will be published in The Cardinal in connection with lists of the entrants.

RELIGIOUS COUNCIL TO HOLD WELCOME

For the purpose of extending a welcome to all new students, the Campus religious council is giving a "Varsity Welcome" in Lathrop gymnasium Saturday night, October 2, from 8 to 11.

"Singing, refreshments, and stunts, featuring some of the best talent in school, are expected to make the party a memorable one in this year's social life," says Katherine Rosenberry, who with Fern Constance, has charge of music and stunts. John Baker is directing the party.

The Campus religious council is made up of five representatives, the pastor of each church in Madison doing student work, and of five representatives from each religious organization in the university. Leo Kohl is chairman of the council.

PLAN TO FLOOD LOWER CAMPUS IS RUSH RUMOR

Defiance of Rules will Cancel Event; Police List Complete

Following closely in the wake of the three recent outbreaks by the sophs, — characterized only by the putting of the coralled frosh through a few of the tamer stunts, — comes old Dame Rumor with the startling news that the Class of '23 plans to flood the lower campus for the rush, regardless of the newly made rules. If such action does occur, it will result only in the rush being called off and the abandonment of all future class rushes.

The student senate has decreed that outbursts or hazing of any sort on the days preceding the rush will not be tolerated this year, and that those found guilty of such offenses will be promptly expelled. All possible steps are being taken to insure fair play to both sides.

While the athletic department has not yet definitely announced just what handicap scheme will be used to offset the superior numbers of the freshmen, several such plans are now under consideration.

The five squad captains who had failed to report have now made their selections of "cops" which are as follows:

P. Falk, Capt., C. Jacobus, G. Tuckerman, W. Beckwith, W. Hawley, W. Bonesteel, P. Fischedick, E. Miller, L. Borden, E. Loverud.

C. Moore, capt., L. Norem, W. Kiekhofer, W. Sole, N. Cox, T. Coxon, R. Sorenson, R. Lindsay, G. Davis, E. Crare.

E. Fournes, capt., W. Gausewitz, C. Bronson, P. Stuhled, J. Holbrook, B. Olmsted, B. Neelen, E. Borgelt, W. Hoard, R. Garstang.

D. Van Pinkerton, capt., S. Thompson, H. Spielman, C. Peterson, K. Iches, H. Ray, A. Ward, A. Willet, J. Gleason.

P. Kayser, capt., S. O'Shea, E. Rygh, E. Hirsheimer, R. Peterson, A. Kinnan, C. Lichter, T. Brittingham, J. Schlichter, W. Richter.

All captains and "cops" will report Friday noon at the gymnasium to secure their clubs.

'GREAT UNKNOWN' ON PROGRAM FOR AG SCRIBE MIXER

Secrecy Surrounds Stunts
Planned for Friday Night
Dance

Much secrecy surrounds the stunts to be pulled off at the Ag scribe mixer Friday night in Lathrop hall. The stunts are new and original and Prof. E. B. Gordon, stunt leader, won't even whisper about his chief stunt which he calls the "Great Unknown." There is no such secrecy about the refreshments, however, for the A. W. A. girls promise that there will be cider and doughnuts for all.

The mixer is to be an all university affair under the direction of the Country Magazine. The programs are unique and are miniatures of the Country Magazine which will appear on the campus this week. Thompson's first orchestra will 8:15. Tickets are on sale at 25 cents each and are in the hands of the Country Magazine staff, 21 Agricultural hall.

DRAMATIC READER TO GIVE PROGRAM AT BASCOM HALL

Phidelah Rice to Present 'Peaceful Valleys' Under Auspices of Forensic Board

Phidelah Rice, one of the best known readers on the American platform, will present "Peaceful Valleys," Tuesday evening, October 5, in 165 Bascom hall, under the auspices of the Forensic board. A limited number of seats will be on sale.

"Peaceful Valleys," by Edward E. Kidder, is a rural comedy. This is the play through which, more than any other, Mr. Rice's reputation was made. Leland Powers, of the Leland Powers school, of Boston, one of the biggest public speaking schools of the country, says that Mr. Rice's work has the characteristic of masterliness.

"His work is spontaneous and virile and full of splendid human nature and truth. At the same time he is no haphazard performer; he knows the technique of his profession. Knowing the man as I do, with his cultivated mind, his clean heart, clear head, and winning personality, I do not wonder at his astonishing success," says Mr. Powers of Mr. Rice and his work.

Mr. Rice is a member of the faculty of the Leland Powers school.

CHANGED

Heavies-er-rather Fur Coats Replace Summer Garb of Eds and Co-eds

Why does the university need a weather forecasting department as long as there are co-eds? The co-ed and her fur coat are as reliable a sign of winter as Mr. Groundhog and no sun on a February day.

The appearance of fur coats on the hill yesterday, even though accompanied by silk clad ankles and low cut pumps forced the fact that the pleasant, balmy days of the past week are to be considered a memory. Winter is coming in earnest.

Furs were not confined to the co-eds, however. One saw an occasional leather coat with fur collar buttoned tight, ensconcing a distinctly masculine figure.

Western Union reports that business has been increased by telegrams of this type: "Please send fur coat immediately. Nearly frozen. Love. Signed, A Co-ed."

An unmistakable odor of moth balls in class rooms testified to the fact that winter clothing had a hurry call and failed to rate its annual airing.

Thermometers dropped within five degrees of the lowest temperature they have ever registered at this time, said Eric C. Miller at the weather bureau office.

There will probably be no danger of sweltering at mixers again this fall. The temperature on Saturday at 7 a. m. was 52, and at 4 p. m. was 84—five degrees higher than it has been for sixty years on September 25.

The cold wave passing over Modena, Utah, caused the mercury there to fall 24 degrees. At Yellowstone Park and Duluth, there was a light snow fall. The storm center over Lake Superior is moving rapidly east, and the weather bureau promises a little more Indian summer.

COACH GIVES LINE-UP FOR OPENING GAME

Saturday Match to Give Varsity First Chance to Show Its Mettle

Announcement of the squad which will go on the field as temporary varsity regulars against Lawrence college next Saturday afternoon was made last night by Coach John R. Richards.

"My hope," said Coach Richards last night, "is that the Lawrence team will give the squad as stiff a fight as could possibly be expected in a preliminary game. I expect to use as many men as possible in order to give each a chance to see what he can do."

The Coach intimated that at present the proposition looked none too encouraging, and that the guard position is especially weak. Most of the gains made by the scrubs during yesterday's scrimmage were through that part of the line. Three men were tried at right guard during the last practice skirmish. The play started with Rankin who was taken out for Nelson after about 10 minutes, and the latter was replaced by Gude toward the last.

Brader played left guard throughout but thus far he has not measured up to his last year's form. Cosgrove, who looked like a comer as a line man in the earlier part of the season, has withdrawn from the game because of parental objection to the sport.

Captain Weston is coming through with an even better style of playing than that which won for him the place of all conference end last year. "Red" should make a strong bid for all American honor this season. Tebell and Collins playing opposite Weston. Collins was brought from the back field to help fill the vacancy left by Barnes and Knapp. Anderson is being used as second string left end.

Nothing at all is known of the strength of the visiting team, except that it usually ranks about third in the state, and might spring a surprise as Marquette did last year, when the Milwaukee team very nearly defeated the varsity in one of the preliminary games.

The Sophomore tradition committee has called a meeting of the Sophomore class for this noon at 12:45 in 165 Bascom hall. All Sophomores are expected to attend.

BY this time, folks, the old eight o'clock grind should be completely under way, and the consumption of shredded wheat together with this column should be going forward with their more or less usual regularity. All of which is leading to the fact that it is your col. It's all you make it, y'know.

AFTER all that Harvey T. Woodruffing, we go forward to tell of Walt Perkins, last year's frosh president who couldn't fathom how the fellows roundabout could drink from their cups, since his every attempt put his spoon in his eye.

WHICH, again is almost as bad as the boy who dances with his eyes shut because he hates to see a woman suffer.

AND also the frosh who inquires if it is required that he wear the green when it rains.

SPEAKING of the frosh, things are peeing up at last, today we saw for the first time this year, a next year's soph pressing the button. The plumbers are waking up. Trust the plumbers.

Little Things To Worry About
We walked up the hill behind some freshmen girl this morning who was complaining about the long climb to Bascom Main University hall.

"Y'know," she y'knowed, "that I hurried up so at eight o'clock that when I got to my class, my stockings were all in little rolls around my ankles."

AND we purposely omitted eight o'clocks from our schedule!

LOTS OF EATS AT Y. W. WALKOUT AT PICNIC POINT

A big fire and all kinds of eats at Picnic point is what Y. W. C. A. promises the women of the university who attend the annual Walkout to be held tomorrow afternoon.

All women of the university are invited to meet back of Bascom hall at 3:30 or 4:30. Junior women are asked to bring their advisees. The new women will be escorted by the old.

All women who expect to attend are asked to sign up at Lathrop hall before tonight.

GILKEY TO ADDRESS FELLOWSHIP MEET

Charles W. Gilkey, pastor of the Hyde Park Baptist church of Chicago, is to be the speaker at the first Fellowship meeting of the year in the Y parlors tonight.

Reverend Gilkey is a graduate of Harvard, has published several very widely recognized books, and was one of the foremost writers during the war. The reception of his talks at Harvard university has led to his regular return to Cambridge once a year to conduct a series of meetings in Appleton chapel which have become famous among eastern college men. In addition his talks have been repeatedly given at the other large eastern schools, and he has been the principal speaker before more than one Geneva Summer Conference of students. For all of his acknowledged eminence, Rev. Gilkey is still a comparatively young man, with a young man's outlook, and his reputation is expected to draw an unusually large representation to the first meeting.

To promote the student interest in the meetings the committee in charge will bring to Wisconsin the biggest men in their line which can be obtained to speak on vital national and campus questions. Topics of special interest to the university will be openly discussed in the meetings.

The meeting will continue to hold the old hours from seven to eight on Thursday evenings and will close promptly to permit the men to return to their studies early.

1914 GRADUATE TELLS OF WORK AMONG SYRIANS

Turks Furnish Opposition to Work of American Relief Mission

An account of her experience in Syria during the war was given by Miss Margaret McGilvary in a lecture Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 in 165 Bascom hall.

Miss McGilvary graduated from the university in 1914, and went to Syria two months before the outbreak of the war, as the private secretary of her uncle, who was manager of a printing press in Beirut.

"There are more illiterates in Syria than in any of the far-eastern countries," said Miss McGilvary. "The population is a mixture of nearly all the races in eastern Europe and Asia—especially Greeks, Jews, and Arabs.

"Syria was in great distress at the beginning of the war. The Turks, who controlled it, immediately set about mobilizing troops, and the fields and industries of Syria were left at a complete standstill.

"Some of our experiences with the Turkish authorities were dreadful," continued Miss McGilvary. "The governor of Beirut was very hostile to my uncle because he was engaged in relief work there, and forced him to leave Syria and go to Constantinople. This was not to easy as it sounds. Constantinople is about as far from Beirut as Chicago is from New York, a regular 20 hours' trip in America. It took us just about five weeks to reach there.

"The temperature never rose above 20 below zero," said Miss McGilvary. "The passengers were all afflicted with coughs, bronchitis and influenza, and thirty-two people froze to death in three days. After reaching Constantinople my uncle was imprisoned again for two months, but was released before the signing of the armistice."

Miss McGilvary is planning to return soon to her activities in Beirut. She has written a book based on her experiences in the far east, entitled "The Dawn of the New Era in Syria."

KAPPA'S LOSS OF SOCIAL PRIVILEGES

AT a meeting last Sunday afternoon the Pan-Hellenic Council voted to withdraw the social privileges of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. The penalty prevents rushing and pledging new members, giving parties or dances, and participating in inter-sorority contests during the current semester. It was imposed because of infractions of two Pan-Hellenic rules: the first requires that the rushing shall take place only within certain specific hours; the second allows to a sorority only one formal function a day during the rushing period. One of Kappa's irregularities consisted of hiring a pianist on Saturday evening after holding a picnic, which counted as a formal function. By continuing their parties on Thursday and Friday evenings until 10 and 11 o'clock respectively, they failed in several cases to get their rushees to their homes before those hours, which the rules of Pan-Hellenic set as the time when rushing shall end.

Members of Kappa maintain that the rules in question have never been sufficiently interpreted. What shall be considered a function and whether the hours set by the rushing rules are the hours for parties to end or the times when rushees must be in their homes, have never been clearly understood, they contend. Their conduct, they conclude, constitutes a breach of interpretations of the rules, other interpretations being possible and reasonable.

The fact that S. G. A. rules require women to be at their homes by 10 and 11 o'clock on the nights in question would seem to weaken the Kappa contention that the Pan-Hellenic rule is vaguely phrased. In order to conform to S. G. A. regulations, rushing parties would necessarily end 10 to 20 minutes before the hours when the rushees must arrive at their homes. An interpretation of Pan-Hellenic's rulings would seem to be afforded automatically by the regulations which affects every university woman. As the constitution stands, however, the interpretation which Kappa advances is clearly a possible one.

It should be generally known that the second charge, viz., hiring a pianist after holding a formal function earlier in the day, was reported voluntarily by Kappa's representatives. Their feeling was that the action might be regarded as an infringement of rushing rules, hence their voluntary report. The general opinion among other sororities, as indicated by their votes at the Pan-Hellenic meeting, is that the rule violating formal functions was violated. Kappa's voluntary action, however, indicates a desire to abide by the rules and the belief that they had not seriously infringed.

From the foregoing considerations it would seem that the penalty imposed was too severe. Kappa Kappa Gamma admits a degree of carelessness in observing the rules, for which some penalty should be inflicted. But the withdrawal of the right to pledge their rushees, in addition to the suspension of social privileges, seems over-stringent when more than one interpretation of the rushing rules is possible and when the sorority reported the action voluntarily.

As at present drawn, the constitution of Pan-Hellenic compels the imposition of the maximum penalty. If rushing rules are violated the maximum punishment must be inflicted, regardless of the flagrancy or triviality of the offense. Such a provision constitutes a serious weakness in the regulations. The constitution should be modified and expanded to provide for minor as well as for major infractions.

If regulations are to be effective, they must be enforced. Believing that rushing rules had been broken, Pan-Hellenic followed the constitution and imposed the penalty prescribed. But by its inflexibility the constitution necessitates what seems to the outsider to be a punishment disproportionate to the offense.

Charges preferred against other sororities were laid on the table for investigation at a later meeting. It would seem more equitable to have considered all cases at the same time. Kappa has been prevented from pledging; other sororities against which charges were brought, even if convicted of violating the rushing rules, will have secured the rushees whom they desire.

Both sides to the controversy are convinced that they are acting "fairly and squarely." Their attitudes are unquestionably sincere; the constitution of Pan-Hellenic, then, is at fault. First, it should define its terms beyond the shadow of a doubt; second, it should temper the penalty to the offense. In the present case, a ban on social events alone, or at most, a ten-day suspension of the privileges of pledging, would seem to be abundantly severe. And finally, in order to equalize rushing advantages, charges against all other sororities should be investigated and decided at the same time.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE FELLOWSHIP CLUB

THE Rev. Charles W. Gilkey, pastor of the Hyde Park Baptist church of Chicago, who comes to Wisconsin at the request of the Y. M. C. A. Fellowship club, is the first of a number of well-known national and state figures who will be secured by that organization to lead its series of weekly discussions for the year. He will speak at the first meeting tonight.

Many students have a peculiar conception of the Fellowship club and its purpose for existence. The majority think it a purely religious organization and steer shy of it for that reason. They do not realize that the meetings of the club are open to every man in the institution and that their avowed purpose is to provide a place for different campus groups to get together for discussion of university, state and national problems. The weakest spot in our university life is the student's limited acquaintance with persons representing other groups than his own, and the Fellowship club will more than justify its existence if it does nothing more than bring together the many different campus elements in friendly discussion.

The Fellowship meetings are the logical place for fraternity and non-fraternity men to get acquainted. They offer unlimited opportunities for the development of new viewpoints. They give students the privilege of meeting and conversing with prominent men, and often lead to the formation of lasting friendships.

Every Thursday night during the school year the club will meet in the Y. M. C. A. to listen to a short talk, followed by an open discussion. Travel, science, education, politics, and kindred subjects will be taken up. The meetings commence at 7 o'clock and last only an hour, so that they in no way interfere with plans for the evening.

MADISON BARITONE PLEASES AUDIENCE IN SECOND RECITAL

Murray Webb, Accompanied by Grace Bernard, Gives Excellent Program

Murray Webb, Madison baritone, and Grace Bernard, pianist, presented their second Madison recital Tuesday night before a large audience at the Christ Presbyterian church.

Mr. Webb possesses a pleasing baritone voice which he uses to best advantage in semi-popular ballads. "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," and other similar songs of sentiment he interprets most effectively. In the Pagliacci "Prologue," however, he demonstrated his ability to sing heavier numbers. In spite of a slight break of the voice he gave the "Prologue" a superb reading which made a deep impression.

With him appeared Grace Bernard, who thoroughly delighted all present with her fine work at the piano. As an accompanist she has won an enviable reputation. It is unusual for an accompanist to memorize her accomplishments. This Miss Bernard did; and as a result, all her attention was centered upon the singer to whom she gave great assistance. Her solos were delightful. She excels in the rendition of lighter compositions; thus her playing of the Chopin "Minuet Waltz" was perfect.

CommunicationsOBJECTS TO HAZING

In an editorial entitled, "The Old Order Changeth," appearing in the issue of September 28, the editor tries to eulogize what he is pleased to call the passing of a trusted and necessary habit, namely, hazing. He says that the passing of the hazing of men who are new to these surroundings, has left a dampening influence on the spirit of the school. I take issue with this statement, for I cannot now, nor never could, conceive that school spirit had anything to do with obvious bullying. It is to be noted, that the men who are most prominent in inflicting those measures which are supposed to instill in the freshmen a subdued class spirit, are men who are playing to the popular eye, men who have escaped the same experience. Recently I witnessed a hazing party conducted by several sophomores who seemed to be doing their best to be noticed by the people looking on. In particular, when the scene of torture was shifted to the front porch of a sorority, did these brave executioners endeavor to outshine even the rather clownish antics of their victims. Frankly, the entire habit (it is not really worthy of the name tradition) is plain kid-stuff, accentuated by the bullying instinct of a few men. Is it not proof of what I say in the fact that so few men take an interest in the hazing? And I ask the editor, does he really believe that our school life has suffered from the prohibition of hazing? I do not think that many students can see any connection between school spirit and a form of tantalization which belongs to a past age and spirit.

Is it not rather that true school spirit is to be found on the field and the platform of inter-scholastic contest, and more particularly in the deeds one does in life later on? I take it that what our training here should be for us as regards the inculcation of school spirit is to make us better men and women in our life work. Let's go Wisconsin, is too precious a slogan to waste upon the practices of men who still think in terms of days better forgotten. The true spirit does not need the driving force of physical prodding to reach our undergraduates. W. WRIGHT, '21.

UNIFORMS ORDERED FOR 1,400 CADETS; DRILL IS STARTEDTwo Artillery Batteries Are Formed Besides Twelve Infantry Companies

Latest statistics from the military department show that activities will soon be in full swing. Measurements have been taken for 1,400 uniforms; twelve companies of infantry, with an average line-up of 100 men to a company, have been formed. Two artillery batteries have also been formed. Sophomores start under arms today. The new 1903 model U. S. magazine rifles are to be used, as well as bayonets and scabbards.

Commissions are as follows: Honorary colonel, J. Calvin Wolfe; Colonel, Michael H. Zwicker; Lieut. colonel, Joseph R. Cherr; Majors, Joseph B. Bolender, Cecil M. Russell, Blandford Jennings, Evrand C. Caluwaert, Charles T. Schrage (in charge of signal unit); Captain and adjutant, William A. Field.

HAAKE WILL GIVE TALK AT CARDINAL BANQUET TONIGHTNew Members of Staff to Be Brought Together at Capitol Cafe Party

A list has been posted in the Cardinal office of those who are invited to attend the Cardinal banquet which is to be held at the Capitol cafe at 6:30 this evening.

The banquet will be in the nature of a get-together party. Because of the large number of new members on the staff, it has been thought wise by those in charge to bring the various workers together, and arrange a plan of organization for the year's work.

An interesting program has been planned, including a talk by Prof. Alfred P. Haake, of the department of economics, who was editor of the Cardinal in 1912, and toasts by Carson Lyman, present managing editor, Irwin Maier, business manager, Marion Goodwin, woman's editor, and Louise Haley, assistant business manager. About sixty people are expected.

GLEE CLUB ELECTS 15 NEW MEMBERS

The following girls have been selected from the list of applicants to become members of the Girls' Glee club:

Soprano: Mabel Claxton, Dorothy Pflueger, Doris Stein, Helen McGovern, Mildred Skinner, Alice Sanders, Bertha Phillips, Esther Steuber, Harriett Dohr.

MENORAH WILL HOLD MEETING

Russian Samovars to Lend Nineteenth Century Atmosphere

The Menorah society will start activities for the current year with a rousing open meeting at Lathrop parlors tonight at 7:30, intended primarily as a welcome to the large number of new and prospective members expected to attend. The meeting will be featured by short talks by prominent alumni and students in addition to the rare treat of everybody being served tea from Russian Samovars in typical nineteenth century fashion. If the Samovars are not procurable, the committee on arrangements promises a worthy substitute in the form of punch.

Dean S. H. Goodnight, Dr. Selig Perlman, Prof. R. E. N. Dodge, and Prof. L. B. Wolfenson will each deliver a short talk pointing out how Menorah has taken its place among the leading societies in 76 American universities and colleges by its consistent effort to advance Jewish ideals and culture. The organization is non-sectarian and numbers among its members, wherever it has been established, students from all walks of campus life.

This year promises to be a banner one in the activities of the society at Wisconsin since the local chapter has already gained the edge on the surrounding chapters in its desire to bring to Madison the biennial mid-west conference of Menorah societies listed for December. This conference covers about 20 schools in this section and has always proved a worth while proposition. The fact that Wisconsin has two officers in the national organization may be the means of swinging the larger meet this way.

MARLOTT TO SPEAK AT SUNDAY VESPERS

Prof. Abbie Marlott, head of the Home Economics department and president of the Advisory board, will be the chief speaker at Vespers services Sunday at Lathrop hall.

Girls of the Sophomore commission will act as ushers and Helen Cheetham, vice-president of the Y. W. C. A., will be the presiding officer. Martha Buell and Dorothy Dwight will give violin solos.

Last Sunday, so many people came to hear Dean Roe that it was impossible to take care of the crowd. This week, however, other arrangements have been made and everyone can be accommodated.

GEOLOGY AND THE BIBLE

Men are too willing these days to believe a lie? Why? Because to believe the truth makes us unpopular, calls for sacrifice, ostracizes from society. This is a challenge for you, Mr. Agnostic, who disbelieves the testimony of divinity.

Tonight Mr. Hayward will talk to you at the tabernacle. Is the Noatic flood a fact or a fable? The testimony of rocks and fossils bear witness to the Bible narrative. The evangelist presents a line of argument which grips both the heart and intellect of his hearers. 7:30 rear of Court house.—Adv.

ORGANIZE CLASS IN SIGNAL CORPS WORK AT ARMORY

Lieut. J. A. Ballard Sent to Wisconsin to Instruct Classes in Radio Work

At the request of some students interested in signal corps work, there will be a class established, open to all male students of the university.

There has been no officer in charge in previous years, but this year the war department has decided to emphasize signal corps work, and has sent officers to Yale, Cornell, and a few other schools. To Wisconsin has been sent Lieut. J. A. Ballard, regular army, graduate of the Signal Corps school at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. Latest methods are to be taught, and additional equipment of new type has been requisitioned.

Attendance at this class will be purely voluntary. One or two hours a week will be devoted to the study of signal corps subjects. This will include elementary electricity and practical work with U. S. radio sets and equipment.

The object of the class is to give all men interested in radio or other signal work, an opportunity to use the army equipment available at the university. There is no university credit given for this course, but freshmen or sophomores electing to take it will find it of great value when the time comes to take advanced work in the military department. All sophomores who have already registered for the signal corps work will find it to their advantage to enter this class the first semester.

Lieut. Ballard has placed his services at the disposal of the students for this voluntary work. He can be seen at the armory.
