The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

Handwritten text on a fragment of ancient papyrus, likely from the Voynich Manuscript. The script is an unknown system of symbols and characters. The text is arranged in several lines across the fragment, with some characters appearing to be ligatures or complex symbols. The fragment is heavily damaged and stained, with significant portions missing, particularly on the right side.
