CADET OFFICERS GET COMMISSIONS IN DRILL TODAY

Lieut.-Col. J. F. Barnes to Present Awards at Practice Inspection

About 60 cadet officer commissions will be presented to members of the R. O. T. C. by Lieut. Col. Joseph F. Barnes, commandant and professor of military science, at the practice regimental parade and retreat between 4:30 and 5:30 o'clock this afternoon on the lower campus.

Hold Preparatory Parades

These practice parades and retreats are preparatory to the annual inspection of the entire companies which will take place on Monday and Tuesday, May 23 and 24. There will be two more such parades, one on Wednesday, May 4 and the other from 1 to 5:30 o'clock on Wednesday, May 18.

Inspection May 23

The inspection will be made by the officers of the R. O. T. C., the one on May 23 taking place in the gym and continuing throughout the entire day. The afternoon of the second day will be spent in an outdoor inspection at which time the annual individual and company competitions will be held. Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be presented.

Almost 600 men will take part, divided into three different types of companies—the infantry, the field artillery, and the signal corps.

CONNELL WILL ADDRESS MEDICAL SOCIETY MEET

Dr. F. Gregory Connell of Oshkosh will address the meeting of the University of Wisconsin Medical society at 8 o'clock tonight, in 119 Science hall, on "Indirect Inguinal Hernia." Talks will also be given by members of the faculty of the Medical school.

COLE INVITES ALL TO TRIAD JUBILEE

All-day Carnival on May 14
Will Include Many Features

An invitation to the people of the state to attend the Triad Jubilee on May 14 was broadcast last night by Llewellyn R. Cole, president of the Men's Dormitory association, in a speech sent out over station WHA. The invitation was extended as the climax of a talk in which he gave the history of the dormitory idea and an explanation of the system of self-government now in force.

"The all-day carnival on May 14 will afford residents of the state an opportunity to see the dormitory project in operation and to pass judgment on its success in establishing a greater Wisconsin spirit," said Cole in concluding his speech. Present plans for the Triad Jubilee include games and events to climax the intra-mural sport season, a water carnival, a pyrotechnic display that will go far toward taking the place of Venetian night, and a roof garden dance in the evening.

Work is now progressing under the direction of J. Alden Behnke, general chairman of the event, and Michael Sullivan and Lougee Stedman, assistant general chairmen. Committee heads and fellow advisors are:

Athletics, Theodore Otjen and George Schutt; social, John Wymond and Charles Weichert; invitations, Virgil Woodworth and Wesley Pommerenke; entertainment, Jerome Sperling and Llewellyn Cole; publicity, Herbert Borre and Luther Brooks.

Decorations, Watson Fendig and Paul Henshaw; service, LeRoy Nohling and Elmer Bingham; finance, Henry Merz and Harry Schuck; bill-letting, Chester Bohman and Richard Rosenfels; pyrotechnics, Michael Sullivan and George Chandler; music, Charles Macomber and Clifford Franseen; concessions, Zigmund Lebensohn and Allan Colburn.

Day By Day With The News

By W. C. P.

Tornadoes and driving rain storms continued to take their toll of human lives in the flooded Mississippi basin yesterday. Reports from St. Louis indicate that 23 persons had been killed, 30,000 or more had been made homeless, and that a score of small cities was severely damaged by the path of the two tornadoes which swept Illinois. While the winds displayed their greatest force in central Illinois, the entire state and parts of Iowa were affected. Because of the flood conditions, the national weather bureau has issued new warnings for all states in the Mississippi valley.

Assembly Apologizes, But Continues Attack

After voting to conduct a meeting Tuesday to enable speakers to rebuke Gov. Zimmerman for his charges against the assembly, the body also adopted a resolution criticizing itself for not giving the governor's message a respectful hearing last week. This action was a rebuke to Speaker John W. Eber whose ruling caused the dismissal of the assembly while the message was being read, and the conviction that the speaker had erred now sustains the view that the majority wished to hear the governor's text. At the same time, however, members of the assembly continued to attack the governor more sanely, claiming that the message was disgracefully one sided, showing that though an apology was made, the body is still strenuously opposed to Mr. Zimmerman.

Juvenile Delinquency Reported on Decline

From the children's department of the labor bureau at Washington comes the pleasant news that, despite published reports, delinquency and crime among young people is on the decline. Miss Katherine Lenroot, assistant director of the bureau, says that although no definite statistics are available, statements that delinquency is increasing have no basis. This does not mean that it does not exist, for the many temptations of modern society make delinquency among children always present, even though unnecessary.

The Milwaukee Journal Attacks Superior.

Newspapers are now being requested to issue an appeal to Superior school children to return to their classes, and it is claimed that the responsibility for the strike's continuance rests on the shoulders of the citizen's committee. Three strike leaders also called a mass-

WOMEN DEBATERS MEET MINNESOTA AT HOME TONIGHT

Military Drill and Instruction in Universities is Question Involved

Wisconsin's affirmative team will meet Minnesota in the second annual Women's Intercollegiate debate at 8 o'clock tonight in the Lathrop concert room.

Minnesota Takes Negative

The Minnesota team is under the tutelage of Wayne Morse, a Wisconsin graduate who is well-known in the middle west for his debate work. They will take the negative side of the question, "Resolved, That Military drill and instruction in the state universities of the United States should be discontinued."

Speakers are Experienced

Women on the Cardinal team are Norma Gaulke '28, Stoughton; Aline Ziebell '27, Milwaukee; and Matilda Geil '27, Milwaukee. One of them Miss Gaulke was on the women's debate team against Iowa last year. Miss Ziebell's previous experience was on the Pythia team in the Pythia-Castalia debate last year. Miss Gaulke, besides being on last year's team, is a member of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary forensic fraternity and is taking her major in the speech department. She is a member of Castalia and of the Women's Glee club and is affiliated with Chi Omega sorority.

Although she is majoring in dramatic work in the speech department, Miss Ziebell has done some forensic work. She was a member of the Forensic board and of Keystone last year. She is a member of the Wisconsin Players and has

UNION WORKERS THREATEN STRIKE BREAKERS WITH LAKE DUCKING

By GENE S. DUFFIELD

After three-quarters of an hour of heated arguments and sizzling epithets had led to threats of dragging a non-union worker from his car and ducking him in the lake, and after Madison police had quelled the most vociferous outbursts, union pickets permitted non-union workers on the Memorial Union building to go home unmolested last night, but hurled after them the shout, "be prepared to go into the lake if you come back in the morning."

Just what phase of the present skilled labor strike precipitated the wrangle yesterday is unknown. Union men in the crowd claimed that the non-union laborers had ganged together when they went home for the past two nights and that some of them carried hammers. Non-union men justify their group action by declaring that one of the union pickets struck a laborer as he left the building site Tuesday evening.

The dispute first attracted attention about 5:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon when approximately 30 union men endeavored to engage the non-union men in conversation as the latter left their work. A crowd of workers swelled by a handful of students, soon gathered on the sidewalk in front of the building and milled about, obstructing the way of the passers-by.

Cries of, "Show your union card" and "I don't have to show it to you!" flew back and forth.

"You fellows know what you're up against in a closed shop town, don't you?" one of the strikers yelled at three non-union bricklayers.

"This is a free country," was the retort hurled back.

"We've got the students behind us," was a frequently repeated statement among the ranks of the union men.

Feeling among strikers reached a fever heat when a non-union worker

UNION CUTS DEBT, GETS EXTENSION, FUTURE UNKNOWN

$90,000 Reduced to $62,000;
Accounting Rendered
Bank

Yesterday the Memorial Union indebtedness of $90,000 was cut to $62,000 and the bank extended more time for the payment of the note, but the Union building's future so far as equipment and furniture are concerned remains highly uncertain.

Promises Aid Extension

Interest amounting to $2,300 was paid to the bank and an accounting rendered of the overdue pledges. Besides cash, literally hundreds of promises of payment on May 1, made by students and alumni, were reported to bank officials and were instrumental in getting the note renewed.

"In view of the $28,000 payment in cash and particularly in view of the very large number of promises of payment by May 1, the bank has extended our note," Porter Butts, Union secretary, said in an official statement yesterday.

"But whether or not the note is renewed is not the point at issue, of course. We don't want the note renewed. No subscriber does. It costs money. We have had to pay more than $2,300 in interest already."

"Most important of all, a renewed note ties our hands so far as buying furniture and equipment is concerned and leaves the future of the building seriously uncertain. All money collected still has to be paid on the note in spite of the fact that at this time we ought to be planning and ordering and paying for equipment."

Many Loyal Workers

"Two hundred students and alumni attorneys have made a splendid effort to bring in the money that will clear the note. The response of many of the people they have seen has been equally fine. But there are 1,000 students and as many alumni who are still holding back the project."

"Until they make good their promises, we and they both have to be content to see the project limp along under heavy interest charges and possibly to see the opening of the building postponed many months."

"Any delay, however, will be cut down immensely if the promises of May 1 payments are kept and future payments made on schedule. The more quickly the money comes in now, the more quickly the building can open."

JOURNALISTS HOLD SPRING DANCE SOON

Earl Miller's Seven-piece Orchestra Will Furnish Music for Frolic

One of the most colorful and pretentious social events sponsored in recent years by the University Press club will be the Journalism Spring Frolic, to be held on Friday night, May 6, in the concert room in Lathrop hall.

Earle Miller's seven-piece orchestra, which is to be one of the features of the anniversary radio program offered next Monday night by WIBA, will furnish the music for the occasion. A novel decorative scheme, the nature of which is being kept secret, will add true newspaper color to the party. Several lively stunts will be offered during intermission.

The committees in charge of the Frolic are as follows:

General chairman, Franklin J. Rohrer, '29.

Refreshments, Elizabeth Ashcraft '28, Edith M. Haentzschel, '29, Mary Lloyd, '27, Helen Martin, '27, Renee Newman, '29.

Introduction, Eleanor Kaufman, '29, Isabel Kelly, '29, Raymond Balter, '29, Eugene Duffield, '29, Hampton Randolph, '29.

Music, Genaro A. Florez, '29.

Frank Prepares Letter for 46,000 Graduation Bids

Santy Claus, like the Wisconsin football team, goes into spring training each year, it has been discovered. His first spring practice trip to Madison occurred yesterday when he slid down the chimney of the Union building and left a dozen huge prize packages for the Alumni Records Office.

These packages contain 46,000 return envelopes printed in red which will be enclosed in the invitation which will be sent by President Frank to urge alumni to come back for commencement. The envelopes represent the first of a series of seven requisitions issued by the President's office in preparation for the largest alumni mailing in the history of the university.

Orders have also been placed for 46,000 President-size envelopes, for 46,000 copies of President Frank's commencement letter, and for 46,000 commencement folders giving information and the program of commencement activities. It will require 44,500 two-cent stamps and 500 five-cent stamps for postage. The five-cent stamps will be used on the invitations to alumni who live in foreign countries.

"Speaking of fine tobaccos —Have a Camel!"

MODERN smokers find in Camels a nicety of blending, a friendly cordiality of flavor, an inherent goodness that thrills from the first puff to the last. That is why Camels are the favorite of the present age. The warmth of golden sunlight or autumn fields gleams in their smoke. Camels are the modern expression of all that is the finest.

Camel quality and Camel excellence are recognized wherever modern smokers gather. Particular smokers in this hard-to-please age find the best of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos blended in this famous cigarette. They find a consistent goodness that never fails, no matter how liberal the smoking.

And wherever modern smokers gather, wherever the conversation turns to tobacco, to the world's best, someone is sure to say:

BASEBALL TEAM, RAINED OUT, GETS READY FOR HAWKS

Anticipate Tough Game in Opener; Iowans Strong at Bat

Though handicapped greatly in practice this week by adverse weather, the Wisconsin baseball team is looking to a successful opening against Iowa on Randall field Saturday.

The Hawkeye nine, which returned from its southern training trip last Saturday, will bring a set of keen batting eyes, among other things, to Madison Saturday and Coach Guy S. Lowman, is grooming the best members of the pitching staff, George Stoll, "Ted" Thelander and Stanley Clausen to step up on the mound.

Stoll Eligible

Stoll, who became completely eligible with the submission of marks to the dean's office yesterday has an edge over the other two and is expected to be the starting hurler.

Members of the team have had little opportunity to work over any of the faults which appeared in the Bradley Tech as yet. In fact, the Badgers played pretty good baseball in the field, and there was little that Coach Lowman could find wrong with the defense.

Infield Untried

Several observers have pointed out, however, that the Bradley game was scarcely a true test of the fielders. For instance, Rose and Decker were called upon to make few assists and it is not yet certain that these men can field the ball and get it across to first in time if they happen to oppose a team which runs to left-field hitting, as most of them do. Massey, at second base, made most of the infield assists in rather easy fashion against Bradley.

Also, the Wisconsin infield has not been called upon to show much intelligence thus far. What they will do with opposing men on bases and a crafty batter up is another matter which may or may not decide several important games. Foreseeing such difficulties as this, Coach Lowman has been devoting not a little of the time to strategy both on the offense and on the defense.

Freshmen and sophomore men interested in trying out for the Daily Cardinal sports staff are asked to report to Dan Albrecht at the editorial office between 3:30 and 5:30 any day this week.

MUCH COMPETITION IN WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS

Judging from the number of entries that were made at the W. A. A. meeting Tuesday night, Women's intramurals this spring will show some interesting competition. There are eight track teams entered which will be divided into several large groups for contesting, twelve baseball teams to be divided into groups to play off a round-robin tournament, and fifteen tennis teams. SCRIMMAGE Guess it doesn't do much good to talk nice about the weather—it stays bad just the same. All right—$3&'())$ take that.

As the zero hour of departure for the Kansas and Ohio relays comes still near, the Badger track men are gyped out of their sunny practice hours. But they go right ahead anyway, and we fervently hope that "midspring in Kansas," the catch-phrase which K. U. has been using in connection with the relays, will not develop into a first class April shower.

The University of Minnesota, following a remarkably unsuccessful basketball season, has acquired a new cage coach, David MacMillan, by name, whose former business address was at the University of Idaho. MacMillan has played considerable professional basketball, "150 games in a season" according to the Minnesota Daily, and he has coached at Idaho seven years, a period long enough to indicate that he must have been successful. The job of producing a basketball team at Minnesota, considering the experienced material usually available, is truly a difficult one, and Mr. MacMillan will have been successful if he merely brings the Gophers out of the cellar position which they occupied last season.

Rain means nothing at all to the men who daily conduct sod-testing exercises on Randall practice field. Yes, we mean the football candidates. They scrimmage every night now, and we don't mean dummy. Coach Thistlethwaite, whom the sport writers will undoubtedly christen "Silent Glenn" before long, believes that nothing is better than hard work unless it is harder work and that, so they say, is a pretty good theory for coaching football.

FROSH CAPTURE SWIMMING TITLE IN EASY FASHION

Budding Stars Discovered;
Hold Intercollege Meet
Friday

Aided by a strong frosh swimming squad and with weak opposition offered from other classes, the Freshman class ran away with the inter-class swimming meet held yesterday under the supervision of Coach Mac Simpkins. The Sophs and Juniors finished second and third respectively.

Practically every first taken by the frosh was secured by a member of the swimming squad. Of the eight events held, the frosh won four, the juniors two, the seniors one, and the sophs one. The sophomores however secured enough seconds and thirds to win second place.

Several events brought to light some good talent. Von Maltitz, frosh, showed class in winning the 440. Quisiner, junior, scored a high grade in fancy diving, and Crowley looked good in the 100 yard dash. Fairly good time was made in both relays held, one being won by the frosh, and the other by the sophs.

To round out the year's program in swimming, the inter-college meet will be held Friday at 4 o'clock in the armory tank. This meet will bring together the representatives of the six colleges in the university. Of these, the L. and S. men are favored to win, as most of the frosh men, and former varsity men are in this school.

The meet Friday will be open to all men in the university except members of the varsity swimming squad. Competition in this meet offers an excellent opportunity for the winning of numerals, either for upper-classmen or freshmen. Every first place winner will be awarded numerals, as will every man who scores three points in the meet.

The meets are open to all men who desire to see them, and a good crowd to provide incentive for the swimmers will be welcomed by the managers of the meet.

Summary:

160 yard relay — Frosh: Davis, Lang, Dolan, Crawley, first.
Back stroke — Siler (J) first, Denzky (F) second, Florez (S) third.
40 yard dash — Davis (F) first;

'Keepsie Regatta Course Remains Same as in 1926

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—That there will not be any change in the Hudson River regatta course of the Intercollegiate Rowing association this year was assured here yesterday when J. W. Rollins of Boston, one of the contractors for the west pier of the mid-Hudson bridge agreed to move all barges from the pier site in time for the annual rowing classic.

The first lane will lay between the west shore and the first pier of the Poughkeepsie Bridge and outside the site of the west pier of the new bridge. Scows moored at the bridge site will be moved to allow clear vision of the course at that point, it was learned.

Columbia university's Blue and White oars will be the first to break the water in the Hudson. The New York rowing squad will arrive here June 3 after the races at Philadelphia.

The I. R. A. committee has decided to consider the construction of a new boathouse and the purchase of 26 stake boats.

Nearly all of the colleges which competed last season, have made informal acceptances of invitations to race here on June 29. University of Wisconsin plans to bring a varsity and freshmen crew here and word is expected soon from University of California as to whether it will send two or three eights east.

University of Washington, winner of the title in 1923, 1924 and 1926, will defend its title. Washington lost a varsity race to University of California last Saturday by five boat lengths at Oakland under adverse conditions.

Lang (F) second Dolan (F) third.
440 yard dash—Von Maltitz (F) first, Fox (F) second, Winsey (S) third.

RELAY ENTRIES FINALLY PICKED

Kanalz Wins Place on Mile
Team; Schwenger on Four Mile Quartet

Wisconsin's entries in the Kansas and Ohio relays were practically decided by Coach T. E. Jones yesterday, following time training trials which have been held throughout the week.

The mile relay team considered one of the strongest Badger entries at Kansas, was finally settled with Trevor C. "Pat" Dougan '28, Harwood L. Stowe '28, Gilbert J. "Gil" Smith '27, and Jack P. Kanalz '29, as the favored four.

Kanalz won his place on the team by turning in a neat victory in a match 440 yard race against Raymond J. Erickson '27, half mile star, who switched into the quarter in order to try for the relay team.

Defending Wisconsin's four-mile relay championship at the Ohio Relays will be John C. Zola '27, John W. Petaja '28, Lawrence G. Gumbreck '27, and Robert B. Schwenger '27. The latter won his place on the team by beating Stanley P. Zola '27, and John J. Payne '28, in a special race Tuesday evening. Schwenger's winning time of 4:35 indicates that he will run a creditable section of the four mile event.

Besides the relay entries at Kansas, Capt. Charles E. "Chuck" McGinnis '27 and Robert L. "Red" Kreuz '27, will enter the special events, McGinnis competing in the pole vault and high jump and Kreuz in the javelin throw.

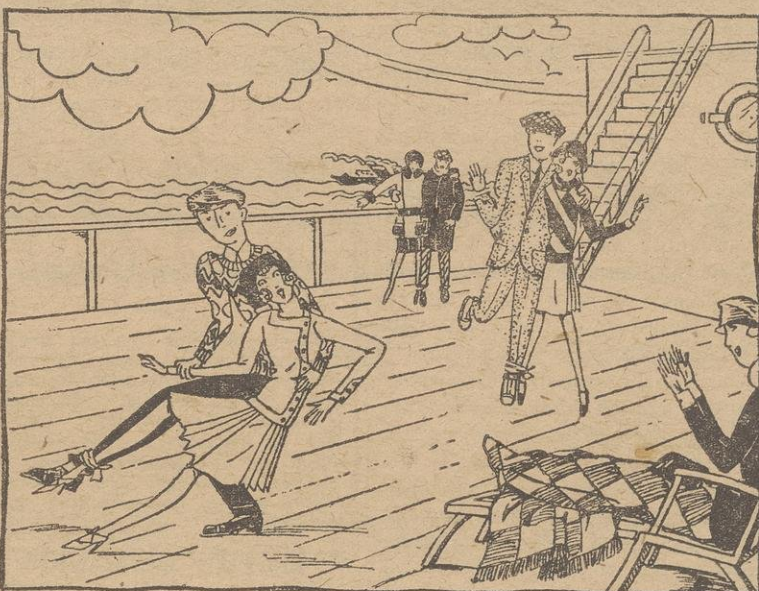

RAIN HALTS GREEK PLAY; GAMES TODAY

Rain again interfered with the even progress of the intramural baseball league yesterday, and most of the games were either called or not played on account of the down-pour. Today's schedule is as follows:

Beta Theta Pi vs. Phi Beta Pi, 5:15 lower campus.

Alpha Delta Phi vs. Tau Kappa Epsilon, 5:15, South field.

Acacia vs. Phi Gamma Delta, 6:00, west varsity.

Sacco-Vanzetti

It is encouraging to see action being taken on this campus to protest against the decision of Judge Webster Thayer, which is sending Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti to the electric chair in Massachusetts. This unfair judgment should not go unchallenged.

Sacco and Vanzetti are being put to death in July for the murder of South Braintree, a paymaster. Three weeks after the robbery and murder, the two Italian radicals were placed under arrest. Sacco was a shoe-worker in Stoughton, Mass., and Vanzetti peddled fish in Plymouth. Together they had been involved in radical propaganda and it was in the effort to hide their compromising literature and warn their friends against the federal police that they found themselves caught in the net which had been spread for the real criminal.

Sacco and Vanzetti are innocent of murder. Their trial was shameful, marked all the way through by the prejudice which Judge Thayer holds against radicals. It was bungling and mismanaged. The defendants were not tried for murder. The bulk of the testimony shows that irrelevant issues—draft dodging, concealing and circulating radical literature, and speaking disrespectfully of Harvard college—were used to poison the mob mind against the defendants. District Attorney Katzmann used all the fears and prejudices of the mob mind to impress upon the jury picked from the conservative community of Dedham, that the radicals should die.

After the verdict Celestino Madeiros, a young Portuguese with a bad criminal record, being held under a death sentence in the same prison with Sacco, sent Sacco a note confessing to the Braintree murder, and declaring that neither Sacco or Vanzetti had any part in it. The defense attorneys, following this clue, built up a strong case proving substantially that the murder was a professional job, committed by the notorious Morelli gang, which had been behind Madeiros.

The newly discovered evidence was made the basis of an application for a new trial, but it was denied. Similarly, an appeal for a new trial to the Supreme Court of Massachusetts was denied. Now only the governor of the state can save the men, and appeals are coming to him from all over the world.

The reason for these denials of retrial are that the judges of Massachusetts are scared to death of Italians and radicals. That is the real issue of the case.

Certainly this is a tragedy of justice. It is worse than Medieval justice, for some Medieval justice was safe and sure. Witness the case of Dante, who in the year 1304 prophesied for the Florentines the collapse of a bridge over the Arno, and the burning of a city quarter in punishment for the rough way in which he, Dante, had been treated in Florence. How tragic it is that Judge Thayer could not have relieved himself by composing a poem, like Dante, and having the jury sing!

The judgment of Judge Thayer's court must not stand. Everything possible must be done from now until July to secure action from the governor of Massachusetts. Sacco and Vanzetti are now the central figures in a greater trial than before—a trial for justice. The people of the whole nation compose the jury.

Chinese "Bolshevism"

The Chicago Tribune, shown by class-room surveys to be the most widely-read metropolitan paper on this campus, continues to see "red." Public opinion is being formed by that organ on this campus.

Public opinion is very important. It is at the basis of all government, because public opinion is the expression of the majority of those who rule. The relation of public opinion to wars is important, because no war can be successfully prosecuted without a public favorable to the war.

Propaganda, which usually is colored news material, is more important than poison gas as a weapon of modern war. Build up "nationalism" and then have the propaganda ready to be turned on. That's the way to get real, active war.

All modern civilized countries have the laws so fixed that immediately on there being a "state of war," free discussion of the matter is checked, and the press becomes "in the name of patriotism, God and country," the organ of the government for winning the war.

The Rev. G. A. Studdert-Kennedy, famous military chaplain during the World War, describes the working of this propaganda as follows:

"On the efficiency of the propaganda department everything else depends. At a moment's notice, every 'civilized' nation must be ready with projectors to let loose upon people clouds of poisonous lies. They must be made to weep with a slush and sentiment that they may not see, to choke with indignation and to cringe with fear that they may not think. Strong but subtle irritants to stir the hatred must be invented.

"Years afterward the truth may come out, but the lies will have served their purpose and people soon forget. They will be just as ready to believe that Russians torture women as they were to believe that Germans melted down their lead for glycerine, if Russia should happen to be the enemy.

"It must not be supposed that all this is done deliberately and out of cynical wickedness. If it were it would be easy to cope with it. The knowledge that it is for the country's sake obliterates the distinction between truth and falsehood. Therein lies the horror of nationalist passion: it has the power of turning good into evil, evil into good. All is grist that comes to its mill. A filthy joke or a splendid poem, it does not matter which, so long as they win the war."

That's war-time propaganda. All of which brings us back to the Tribune, and the public opinion that it may be forming on the campus. A perusal of the news reports in the Tribune from China would indicate that the Chinese Nationalist movement is the movement of a disorderly mob of "reds." We do not believe that is the case. We think that such colored reports as we see in certain "greatest newspapers" are working perniciously to aggravate the war spirit toward China in this country.

If students on this campus knew the actual, unbiased facts, they would perhaps have sympathy toward the Chinese Nationalist movement. We think that the movement is for the best welfare of the long-suffering masses of China. It is working against the old-fashioned political grafters of China who have been bribed by the Shanghai foreigners.

The Nationalists encourage the formation of farmers' unions, and these agitate against high land rentals. These farmers in the old days were forced by the militarists to grow opium poppies.

Wherever the Nationalists go they open schools—for workers, farmers' union leaders, women, and political leaders. They are agitators, seeking to destroy the rotten governmental system which has existed for so long. They interrupt foreign as well as Chinese trade and business.

The Tribune calls these people "reds" and Communists. Call them "reds" if you will, but while you're doing that, remember that Chinese workmen who were paid $1.50 a month now receive $3.75, that the working day has been reduced from 16 to 12 hours in the heavy industries. That is Chinese "bolshevism."

This is sorority initiation week, at least at the domicile where we cater to the diverse appetites of the sisters gathered around the festive board. We note a trend toward tamer sorority initiations which is very encouraging. We hope to see rough-stuff eliminated entirely some day.

The childish contagion, especially mumps and measles, are following in the wake of Mississippi floods and Illinois tornadoes are causing some business for our own infirmary. Blessed, indeed, is a two weeks' rest in the infirmary; but more blessed yet is the outdoors in Springtime.

MISS LEAD

And in honor of the opening of the canoeing season, allow us to present this little piece by Gen. F:

ELEGY

(Written in Lake Mendota)
The pump house sounds the knell of parting loves,

Dark shadows shoreward make their way,
And 'neath the willows lovers sing their songs

And curse the hour that takes them from the bay

Far from the boredom of the lecture room,

Free from the world and its molesting cares,
Carefree, alone, just humming drowsy tunes,

Forgetting all as they their kisses share.

A lingering glance, a sigh escapes my breast,

Sullen and silenced I leave these joyous haunts,

And wend my lonely way once more depressed,
Thinking of love, of spring, of broken vows.

But now we're out of contribs—so Pop will finish the col.

U OF C BOYS WEARING STEP-INS, LACE AND ALL says headline.

We suppose that every week-end night down there the boys step in and then step out.

Eklund will not wear step-ins, he told Pop today. "At least," he said, "not until they put zippers on them."

Smoking a pipe was once a sign of being collegiate; now it's a sign you haven't enough money to buy cigarettes.

Argon the Lazy wants to run an all-university smoker on that new concrete floor at the Mem Une.

Have you paid your pledge, or did your imagination run away with you when you signed?

ROCKETS ARE PROUD TO announce that HECTOR, former rocket writer in the person of Eddie Fronk is cut for union board.

By gosh, we're proud of you my boy, Hector. That means that with your candidacy there will be a chance of the clean politics, so often recognized by Rockets, having a chance. Readers—you can't imagine what that means! You simply can't. We have been sure right along that if Rocketeers were put in charge of the school of commerce the Arden Club, and the lower campus—that something would be done quick. At last we may put a Rocketeer on the Union Board—and if not the Union Board then the wash board.

This afternoon, the army will again conquer the lower campus under the sponsorship of those who don't know the war's over. After a little drill the infantry will march past all the Chinese laundries and Chop Suey joints in town. Each man will be instructed to frown as he goes by.

Onion growers now claim that Cleopatra owed her beauty to eating onions. Now we know why she had tears in her eyes when Mark A. came around.

WANTED—A Canoe, says Cardinal ad. Come, come, control yourself!

"Lake Mendota has proved that it can't be trusted," says a recent editorial.

Which may also be said of some of the studes who go out on it after dark.

We would like to "Meet The Prince"—but say, Bill, can't you give Papa a free introduction?

They have the word "Canoeing" spelled wrong out on the Boat House. Alas, alas, these college sign painters; Now what will William Ellery say?

PLAN EXTRA COUPON FOR CHICAGO GAME, says head. But what we're worrying about is the extra pack.

Easter is passed—and a few glances along Langdon proved that the clothiers must have made some kind of a business arrangement with Heaven.

Romance Language Department Plans Two Foreign Plays

The Romance language department announces the presentation of two plays within the next fortnight, an Italian play on April 27th and a French play on May 4th.

The presentation of "Fiori d'arancio" (Orange Blossoms) will be the event of the Italian evening. Miss Janette Tietjens will take the leading role, and Prof. J. L. Russo, head of the Italian department, will play the role of an old priest. The other characters will be interpreted by Mr. Nick Magaro and Mr. Ruffolo.

The French play is the most ambitious attempt made so far in this line. Cardou's "Les Femmes Fortes" is a very lively, modern three-act comedy giving a peculiar French conception of Americanism; it will be given by a cast formed of university instructors and students.

Both plays are being coached by Prof. Russo who during his three years at Wisconsin has coached three Italian and as many French plays.

DAYS' NEWS EVENTS INCLUDE WIDE FIELD

meeting for last night in hopes of doing something to bring about a peaceful settlement, thus placing the situation more in a muddle.

The Milwaukee Journal, in an editorial yesterday, seems to strike the keynote of the Superior condition when it says:

"Mix a bit of the old school ways and a bit of the new, a bit of city politics and a lot of school politics. Stir well and place young Americans at the ripe and wise age of 17 at the punch bowl. There you have the Superior school situation."

The Journal continues by saying that the city of Superior is most harmed by the hubbub, and that whereas schools should be free from city entanglements, in Superior they are not. No community can profitably entertain such a condition.

Trans-Atlantic Flight Sunday.

Early Sunday, if weather permits, Capt. Charles Nungesser and Capt. Francis Coli, war heroes, are planning another great aviation feat, a trans-Atlantic flight from Paris to New York. Yesterday tests were made by Capt. Nungesser with his plane carrying a load of three tons, and he will now make a test with a four ton load to determine the capacity of his engine. Should the flight be successful, fame awaits the aviators at the end of the 3,800 mile stretch separating Paris from New York.

ENGINEER SPEAKS ON OIL ENGINES

Milwaukee Expert Will Address Students, in Observing "Oil Power Week"

"Oil Engines" will be the subject discussed by B. V. E. Nordberg of Milwaukee at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the auditorium of the Engineering building.

Mr. Norberg will address a joint meeting of the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

The lecture is a phase of the observance of "Oil Power Week," a period set aside for national discussion of oil and its uses.

Mr. Norberg, an executive engineer, graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1907. He is now connected with the Norberg Manufacturing Company of Milwaukee, noted for its large installations of Diesel engines. The speaker will doubtless discuss the 2700 kilowatt engines installed by his company at the Panama Canal.

HISTORIC PENS IN MUSEUM EXHIBIT

Quills Connected With Epoch-making Wisconsin History on Display

Pens play an interesting, if not an important part in politics, as the special exhibit of historic pens in the historical museum will show. This is a collection of quill, wooden, and fountain pens connected with epoch-making events in Wisconsin's history. The wooden pen holders are inscribed with the legends of their history.

The latest contributions are 4 pens used by Robert M. LaFollette in signing decisive bills in his administration. A quill pen, which was used to sign the Primary election bill on May 23, 1903, bears an eagle's feather from the war bonnet of the Ogalala Sioux chief Red Cloud. The other LaFollette pens were used to sign the Civil Service law in 1905, the Advalorem Railroad Tax bill in 1903, and the Railroad Rate bill in 1905.

An unassuming red wooden pen bears the distinction of having signed the first bill in Wisconsin legislation introduced by a woman member to receive final passage and approval of the governor. There is also included a gold pen used by Dr. John Bascom when he was president of the university; a quill pen used by Governor Henry Dodge, first governor of Wisconsin territory; and a gold pen, formerly the property of Governor Nelson Dewey, the first state governor.

A striking part of the collection is a fountain pen which was in use at Milwaukee in 1880, in which the ink was conducted from the reservoir to the back of the pen by means of two little thread feeders.

NATIVE TO INTERPRET INDIAN THEOSOPHY

Krishnarao Shelvankar, a native East Indian, will be the chief speaker at the open meeting of Hesperia literary society in 212 Bascom Hall at 7:30 o'clock tonight, when he will interpret the Indian cult of Theosophy. This is a modern religious sect following in the main the theories of Buddhism and Brahminism, especially in teaching a pantheistic evolution and the doctrine of metempsychosis. Mr. Shelvankar received his M. A. degree at Wisconsin at the end of last semester.

POLICE QUIET UNION PICKETS' DISTURBANCE

er, who union men claim started to leave at 5 o'clock armed with a hammer, attempted to go, unarmed from the construction office to his car in front of the university library.

Just at the moment when the union pickets were surrounding the car and urging that the man be dragged from his car and tossed in the lake, police officers and plainclothes men pushed through the mob and informed the strikers holding the door of the sedan open that they would be arrested if they interfered with the worker's departure. The non-union worker drove away without further hindrance.

At the persuasion of the police the mob dispersed with threats to douse the strike breakers in the lake "where it was good and deep," if they returned to work this morning.

Fur rugs, like other skin materials, will dry and soil very fast in steam-heated rooms, and should be washed in warm suds, like a dog. If mounted, this is impossible, but such rugs can be cleaned with warm cornmeal.

the rest of the week to confer with labor leaders.

"We're not looking for trouble; we want to be fair," he remarked yesterday after the skirmish.

The strike was called last week when the skilled labor unions questioned the construction company's right to use non-union labor on the building. Progress was halted last week but was begun again Monday morning when the company, an open shop concern imported workers from Duluth, its home city.

Union workers were applying the label of "scab" and "rats" to the one of the strike -al- ogy imported laborers yesterday, but one of the strike breakers upon being pressed by the crowd, flashed a union card.
