SIX SPEAKERS COMPETE FOR TITLE IN N. O. L.

Orators of Middle West
Meet Tonight at Music
Hall

Contestants from five other western universities who will take part in the Northern Oratorical league contest at 8 o'clock tonight at Music hall, arrived in Madison last night.

The contest will start promptly and in order not to hamper any speaker, no one will be admitted to the hall while a speaker is in action. Gladys Borchers, the Wisconsin representative, is the first speaker on the program. If the audience is seated before the contest starts her chances for victory will be materially aided.

High Schools Get Tickets

The advance ticket sale points to the largest crowd that has attended an inter-collegiate forensic contest in the history of Wisconsin. A new experiment was tried by the Forensic board to interest high school students in the state university, in addition to giving them the opportunity of hearing this premier oratorical contest which comes to Madison but once every six years. Tickets were forwarded to ten high schools in the vicinity of Madison and as a result about 100 future varsity "greats" are expected at tonight's contest.

The orations which will be delivered are considered by members of the public speaking department as among the best that have ever been given during the 30 years of the league's existence. The orators are well coached and have been at work on their speeches since the early part of the semester. The

FRATERNITY BUYS UP J. B. WINSLOW HOME

Delta Phi Epsilon fraternity, 630 Langdon street, will occupy the present home of Chief Justice J. B. Winslow at the opening of next semester, according to terms of a contract entered into yesterday. The Winslow home is located at 131 Langdon street.

Delta Phi Epsilon is the second fraternity to enter this section of the Latin quarter recently. Chi Phi last year bought a house at the corner of Langdon and Henry streets. The consideration for the Winslow property has not been given out, but it is said to be in the neighborhood of $27,000.

JOB OFFERS FLOOD OFFICE OF Y. M. C. A.

Requests for student help have almost swamped the office of Secretary F. E. Wolf of the Y. M. C. A. this week, with all sorts of jobs being offered for week-end employment. All men who can do work over the week-end are asked to apply at the Y. M. C. A. office today or tomorrow.

JUNIOR PLAY STARS HAVE SHONE BEFORE ON THE AMATEUR STAGE

FLORA FILZER

Flora Filzer, Milwaukee, and James McKivergin, La Crosse, play two of the most important roles in "Cheating Cheaters" which will be presented by the junior class at the Fuller theater tomorrow. Both students have had a variety of stage experience in amateur and semi-professional acting.

Miss Filzer, who was recently elected president of Red Domino, was formerly associated with Edith Adams Stewart in Little Theater work in Milwaukee. She is majoring in dramatic work and intends to do professional work after leaving school.

McKivergin who was the final choice from a list of more than 20 students who tried for the part of Tom Palmer, came to Wisconsin this year from La Crosse Normal where he was president of the

JAMES McKIVERGIN

Buskin Dramatic club. He has played leading parts in several productions, among them "Mart of the Lowlands" and "Strongheart."

Arrangements have been made to take moving pictures of the play and of the audience. These will be taken during the afternoon and evening and will include a special section devoted to action pictures of the gallery. Some of the scenes which the old grads recall are those in the gallery before the show when everyone is "fishing" for a program with a rope of ties and bells and similar devices, or watching the entrance of people on the lower floor and in the boxes to give them sky-rockets. The Edwin Booth dramatic society wishes to get this stunt into its moving picture of university life, and the students who are seated in the gallery will be worked into the picture.

'21 FROLICS IN CRUISE TODAY

Boats Carry Picnickers to Outing at Park Across Lake

Boats will leave Bernard's pier promptly at 4:30 and 5:00 this afternoon for the junior picnic at Bernard's park. The picnic, staged by and for the members of the junior class, will be the biggest class activity of the year, and a send-off for the junior week-end that will enliven the campus for the next few days.

A baseball game between the "Feminine Few" and the "Bevo Bums" will be a headliner stunt. The best athletic ability of the class has been chosen to uphold the honor of the two sides, and excellent material has been recruited for umpires. It is expected that great enthusiasm will be displayed, and the class feels that much is at stake in this contest.

Another big feature of the week-end which will appear on the campus today, are the tags to be worn by every junior. These tags can be secured from Marguerite Shepherd.

PROM PICTURE IN NIGHT EXTRA

Cardinal Special Edition in Hands of Dancers at 1 O'Clock

The Prom Cardinal, a souvenir to take away in remembrance of the season's biggest social event, will be published by Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalistic fraternity, on the night of Prom.

The special Prom edition will be on sale at the Prom as soon as it is off the press. It is planned to have the number ready for distribution at each of the boxes and at all entrances to the Capitol by 1 o'clock.

The big feature will be the Prom picture. Arrangements have been made with photographers and engravers to have the work rushed through on record time so that Prom guests will be able to see the picture in the special Cardinal edition before they leave.

A list of all members of each of the Prom parties will be published. Box chairmen are requested to mail their lists to Leonard Erickson, 16 Mendota court not later than Monday in order that they may be included.

VARSITY NINE IN TILT TODAY AT OHIO CAMP

Play Michigan on Saturday for First Time Since 1905

Wisconsin's baseball team, in charge of Coach Kent, entrained yesterday noon for Columbus, Ohio, where the Badgers will play Ohio State this afternoon in the first game of a hard week-end schedule. From there the team will go to Ann Arbor, Mich., to meet the Wolverines Saturday afternoon in the second battle of the trip.

How the Badgers will stack up against these two teams can hardly be determined from what little dope has been furnished so early in the season, but if the smooth running machine which brought them wins in the two games with Indiana last week continues they will give their opponents hard battles.

Ohio State Loses One

In Ohio State's only conference game of the season it held Michigan to a 3 to 1 score. The Buckeyes have a heavy hitter in Fenner, short stop, who poled three hits in a game with Oberlin college.

Ohio's pitching staff consists of three good twirlers, Kime, Fish, and Miller. Kime or Fish will probably start the game and either Deutsch or Huffman will catch.

The game at Ann Arbor will be the first time the Badgers have met Michigan on the diamond since 1905 and the result of the approaching combat is being looked forward to with keen interest by the baseball fans of the conference.

Michigan Nine Strong

Last year the Wolverines won the conference title in this sport and the present team consists of practically the same crew of batsmen. Coach Kent's men will face a phenomenal hurler when they stand up

SUPPER CLEARS $80 FOR MOTAR BOARD

The Mortar board supper held last night at Barnard hall added over $80 to the co-operative house fund. The supper, which was served cafeteria style, was eaten in the court, and the tables were decorated with spring flowers and yellow and green crepe paper. Members of the freshmen commission helped to serve. After the supper there was dancing in the dining room and in the court. "Bill" Goessling's orchestra donated its services for the occasion.

In spite of the very evident effort which Old Man Weather has been making to literally dampen the ardor of the physical eds in their spring sporting, archery, tennis, baseball, track, and dancing are progressing rapidly. Teams for the respective activities will be chosen in two weeks.

In the past three weeks, only five days have been fair enough for work outdoors, but the rainy day schedule is now supposed to have seen its last use for the season.

The tennis tournament is now being played, about 100 aspirants for honors having signed up.

All departments are working with a view to preparation for a field day to be held the first week of June. Exhibitions of accomplishments in all lines will be given for the benefit of those who would like to know what the physical education department can do.

The date of the inspection review has been changed from Friday, May 14 to Thursday, May 13. Thursday will be devoted to classroom work.

The inspecting board will consist of Colonel F. J. Morrow, Major James F. McKinley, and Captain E. Hunt. The purpose of this inspection is to determine the 15 colleges to be given distinguished rating.

STAFF OF 206 FOR SUMMER SESSION

A staff of about 206 professors, instructors, and assistants will conduct the courses of the twenty-second summer session, according to the preliminary announcement recently issued.

The 1920 summer session of the university will open June 28 and will close Aug. 6, 1920, except in the Law school, whose session will continue until Sept. 3.

Americanization instruction and training for community leadership will be stressed in this summer session. Many departments will specialize in courses for teachers.

A tenting colony on the shore of Lake Mendota will offer living facilities for students and their families. Public lectures, excursions, weekly social hours, and other entertainment are planned for the students.

OVERFLOW CROWD HEARS PROF. OTTO

An overflow crowd of 150 in the Y. M. C. A. parlors heard Prof. Max Otto speak last night on "The Contemporary Religious Crisis," at the Fellowship meeting.

"The church has come out of the war spiritually weaker because of its alliance with secular affairs," said Professor Otto, "and what it ought to preach now is 'What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul?'"

In speaking of religious creeds and their differences, Professor Otto upheld the existence of definite creeds as of benefit to a church. "A creedless religion is a subtle and insidious attack on religion itself," he said.

"If religion can offer an ideal and a program that will appeal to the force of mankind which will raise in him what the transcendental has heretofore raised in him, then all mankind can accede to it and get behind it as being really worthwhile," was the conclusion which Professor Otto reached.

Next Thursday Prof. A. K. Small of the English department will speak on "Harvard and Wisconsin Spirit."

MARKUS, '21, HEAD OF LEGION POST

New University Organization
Already Has 800 Men On Its Roll

Norbert W. Markus, '21, was elected post commander of the University of Wisconsin post of the American Legion at its organization meeting in the Engineering auditorium last night. Other officers elected were: Howard Brant, post vice-president; Robert Mailer, post adjutant; Ernest Hubbell, post finance officer; George Chandler, post historian; Frank Weston, post master-at-arms. Members of the executive committee are George Bryan, Fred McKaye, V. L. Bohannon, and Elmer Byrns.

"Red" Weston pointed out that the purpose of the Wisconsin post is twofold—first, to uphold the laws of the nation and state, keep alive the spirit of the service men and stand for 100 per cent Americanism, and secondly to make the Memorial Union building a real memorial. The post will have rooms in the new building.

A representation of men of the post will be sent to the funerals of three Wisconsin service men whose bodies have arrived in Madison for burial. The men are Earl Wagner, son of Prof. George Wagner, of the zoology department; Fred Courtney, and John Conlin. An offering was taken to send floral offerings. Services for Karl Wagner, who was a Wisconsin student, will be conducted Saturday at 3 p. m. at Forest Hill cemetery.

The question of dues and a name

Said a Clergyman Friend of Ours;

"The only bad thing about my sermons on economy is the effect they have on the collection plate."

And that's what started this advertisement.

True economy doesn't preach stinting. It teaches us to get the most for our money no matter whether it is a sermon or a safety razor we are buying.

In church it is possible to drop in a dime for a sermon worth a dollar, but in buying Spring clothes, you can't lay down $35 and walk away with a garment worth $50.

GOOD CLOTHES at fair prices are an economy.

POOR CLOTHES at any price are an extravagance. Our prices start at $45 this Spring.

And so does your economy.

for the organization was discussed, but left for decision of the executive committee. Money raised by dues above the national dues of $1.25, will be used for social affairs, furnishing of the post's quarters and other expenses. Men belonging to other posts do not have to pay the money for the state again; they can become associate members by paying the difference. There are now about 800 ex-service men registered. The temporary charter has been granted, and a permanent one will be obtained after organization is complete.

The remainder of the lineup will probably be as follows: Knodes, Kirchgessner lf, Perrin rf, Mraz 3b, Langenhan cf, Karpus 2b, Newell 1b.

Miller Twirls Today

For Wisconsin Coach Kent intends to put Miller on the mound first in the Ohio game and start the game at Ann Arbor with Ogle. The remainder of the lineup in the probable batting order follows: Caesar cf, Emanuel lf, Falk 3b, Elliott ss, Zulfer 1b, Farrington 2b, Lyman rf, Davey c.

Herman W. Salen, '21, was elected president of the All-University Hoover club at an open meeting last night in 165 Main hall. Katherine Rosenberry was elected vice-president, and Marcus W. Link, secretary and treasurer.

Link, who attended the convention of college Hoover clubs held in New York May 1, gave a report of the work of the convention and a summary of the speech of Mr. Hoover, who addressed the convention. There are now 61 Hoover clubs in colleges, 23 of which were represented at New York.

Prof. D. W. Mead spoke to the meeting, emphasizing the need for a business administration, and Mrs. M. B. Rosenberry, vice-president of the Madison Hoover club, spoke on the personal characteristics which fit Hoover for the presidency.

The club will not confine its activities to the university, but will endeavor to arouse sentiment throughout the state. It was decided that the campaign committee to be appointed by the president should have at least one woman member.

CAMPUS DANDELIONS

THE spring offensive of the dandelions has begun. Enough have appeared already to deck every man's buttonhole, with enough to spare to make up handsome bouquets for the co-eds.

Here is one field where under-production is unknown. Nature furnishes the raw materials, and the dandelions do the rest. Their conditions of work are enviable, as has occurred to many a strolling pair on Muir Knoll or Observatory hill, but no one has been found who would swap hours with them. Not content with absorbing sunlight for 14 hours, they feed on moonbeams all night long. The result is not sentiment, but substantial dandelion stalk.

If Solomon had written a few more maxims he would have included as a supplement to our excursion to the ant: "Go to the dandelion, thou quitter." The color of its blossom is another example of camouflage in nature; there is not a yellow vertebra in its backbone. Cut down by the mower before its time, it refuses to lie beneath the sod. With marvelous recuperative powers, it stages a complete comeback before the mower's back has lost its lameness. Herein lies a moral lesson. If mid-semester have mutilated your self-respect and shaved your marks down to the level of the dust, remember the dandelion. You are bigger than they are.

Their campaign is perhaps contrary to approved military tactics, but is proving provokingly effective. Scattered in small bands, they are trying to over-run the entire campus at once. Even around Lathrop hall their audacity is unabashed; the remoteness of Ag hall is for the first time no protection. Soon their yellow flag will gleam from every part of the campus.

A vigorous counter-offensive is the best defense. A concerted drive by an army of freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors can yet root out the enemy. Armed with bowie knives, pocket knives, putty spreaders, and table silverware, they can strike terror to the dandelions' roots. Determination will serve for discipline.

Step into the breach, student organizations. Here is a chance for a highly coalition. The Student Senate and S. G. A. can pass resolutions. The literary societies can inflame our wrath by fiery invectives. Wreaths of dandelions can be awarded as prizes to tea-dancers. These are not the only practical measures; others will suggest themselves to the thoughtful reader.

The final objective is to beautify the campus by removing the dandelions which at present detract so greatly from its appearance. The easiest and most effective method is for the students to turn out en masse for half an hour. Which organization will take the lead?

DON'T MISS THE N. O. L. CONTEST

THE greatest oratorical contest that we have had the privilege of hearing in six years will take place in Music hall tonight when the N. O. L. convenes for its thirtieth annual contest. It brings to Madison the best orators in the Middle West as the representatives of five leading conference universities—Iowa, Minnesota, Northwestern, Michigan, and Illinois.

To them we extend a most hearty Wisconsin welcome. The Daily Cardinal wants to assure them that when they appear on the platform it will be before an audience of more than ordinary proportions; one that appreciates the time and effort that has been spent in turning out six orations that rank with the best in American intercollegiate circles.

We are prevented from wishing them success, for we look for the Wisconsin representative to be returned the victor. What every Badger student, however, wants to feel is that all contributing factors, the audience, the reception, the trip, and the award involved, will combine to inspire every contestant to give the best that is in him or her. That accomplished, a well fought contest is a certain result.

Not unlike any event of an intercollegiate nature, the N. O. L. should have an audience of maximum proportions. Wisconsin students have a chance tonight to give as much aid in winning an intercollegiate contest of national importance as they ever did when they packed the stands at Camp Randall or the gymnasium to root for our athletes. Then, too, we owe it to the other schools to show them, as they invariably show us, that Wisconsin wants and appreciates high calibre forensic events of the type of an N. O. L. contest.

The contest comes here but once every six years. In the words of the last Wisconsin representative to win first place, "Music hall ought to be packed Friday night. For the reward which springs from this contest is not merely to the student body which wins it, but to the one which hears it."

Again, to the Northern Oratorical League a hearty welcome. To the representative of Wisconsin the best of luck.

What the College Editors Say

GREEN HEADRESS

Let the freshmen wear green caps!

If such a tradition was ever in vogue at Iowa it was back in the prehistoric ages when enthusiasm for the University exceeded individual selfish loyalty. At least for years the freshman dome has been exposed to the agents of campus weathering without protection of the skull toque until the tradition has been beaten down and washed away to the sea of neglect. Anyway the custom is absent from the campus today.

The Iowan believes that the preps should don the caps, not for reasons of prejudice but as a business of disciplining and training the newcomers in the ways of our University. The campus gives up many privileges to the students and there are many upper classmen who guard these liberties, zealously, believing that time in service, so to speak, should carry certain privileges prohibited to the uninitiated. Those who have been through the mill believe freshmen should serve an apprenticeship.

Advocates of the green cap declare that skull adornment will keep the head within proportional limits, and that by the time the freshmen have attained sophomore standing they will have learned to appreciate their University rather than expecting the University to admire them. Aside from promising more campus spirit, the inauguration of a certain amount of discipline would do away with rowdiness and unsportsmanlike treatment often accorded visiting teams and speakers. Restraint would command veneration for the University.

Machinery might be set in motion by the Student Council this spring for the green cap innovation next fall.—The Daily Iowan.

The campaign will continue for one week. Special sermons will be preached by pastors throughout the state.

Prof. Harry N. Holmes, head of the chemistry department of Oberlin college, will deliver a series of four lectures on colloid chemistry in the Chemistry auditorium May 10, 11 and 12, according to an announcement made by Prof. J. H. Mathews, of the chemistry department.

Professor Holmes is chairman of the committee on colloids of the national research council, secretary of the physical and inorganic section of the American Chemical society, and scientific investigator and contributor of national reputation. He will be guest of honor at a subscription dinner at the University club May 11, for which reservations may be made by any persons interested in meeting him. Such reservations should be made through Professor Mathews not later than the evening of May 7.

The first lecture, "Colloid Chemistry," scheduled for Monday evening at 8 o'clock, is of general popular interest, introductory to the series. The lecture on "Emulsions," to be delivered at 4:30 Tuesday, is of particular interest to scientific men, such as men in medicine, pharmacy, mining, biology and physics. "Gels," the third lecture, to be given at 4:30 Wednesday, deals with highly hydrated structures such as silicic acid gels, soap, fruit, pellicles, ferric arsenate gels, and others, and will be of interest to geologists, biologists, medical and industrial men.

The concluding lecture, "The Industrial Application of Colloid Chemistry," which will be of a popular nature, will be delivered at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in connection with the chemical society meeting.

LIEBERSTRAUM
(Dream of Love)
By Franz Liszt

We hear the piano played so often that we frequently forget the wonders of the instrument. What a band or orchestra needs many different instruments and players to do can, to a great extent, be done by the piano with a single performer. The piano can render many parts and can suggest the tones of many instruments. Much of the extraordinary development of piano music is due to the composer of today's selection.

Frank Liszt (1811-1886) was a Hungarian, and to this ancestry doubtless owed his strong emotional life. He was the most capable pianist of his century and was a worthy composer in many branches of music. His piano pieces appear on every artist's program, for they display piano and performer at their best. But he won a unique place in music through his generous heart. Although himself a composer and performer of the first rank, he seemed entirely free from jealousy and petty feeling, even of men who sought to rival him. Hewas always ready to aid other musicians with money, appreciation, and instruction.

This Liebestraum (Dream of Love) is the third of several compositions of the same type which Liszt wrote. It is a song without words which leaves much to the imagination of the listener. Beginning with a simple, warm, tender melody, Liszt tries to reveal the joy of a lover who is dreaming of his beloved. Evidently fancy is allowed free flight, because as the compositions proceed and enthusiasm rises many ornamentations, trills and runs appear to suggest the wonderful rosy pictures which come to all of us in our most comfortable dreams.

DEAN NARDIN WRITES NEW CIVIC RITUAL

A civic ritual to welcome new citizens into citizenship—entitled "The Makers of America"—has just been prepared by the University Extension division, in response to the growing demand for ways to crystallize the principles of Americanism and to present them to the American public through dramatic and public celebrations.

The ritual was written by Dean F. Louise Nardin, dean of women, aided by a committee consisting of Prof. E. B. Gordon, Miss Lelia Bascom, Dean F. W. Roe, and T. E. Gosling, of the state department of education.

The ritual is in the nature of a solemn ceremonial, that is not too difficult for any community to present. It offers an opportunity, not only for receiving aliens into citizenship, but also for honoring native-born Americans who have attained their majority. The ritual is intended to be an annual observance, to be given on Flag day, the Fourth of July, or some other national holiday.

AT THE GRAND

Norma Talmadge, whose select special production "The Isle of Conquest" is now playing at the Grand, is, at first glance, just a vivacious, beautiful, talented American girl like dozens of other pretty young women. But to the careful observer her intensity is her distinguishing characteristic. Back of those dark, smoldering eyes and that bloodred sensitive mouth, is a girl of big, generous impulses, keen emotions, strong ambitions and keen artistic sense.

Norma Talmadge and all her schoolmates were stage struck. Only Norma was in deadly earnest. She went to the Vitagraph studio and obtained a small part. From that time on her rise has been rapid and sure. But Norma's fame did not come easily or rapidly—she began at the very bottom and worked hard. She played all sorts of roles before greatness came, striving always to "live the blood in each character's veins."

Now, of course, it is easier for her to choose most of her parts. "Still," she says, "I have never resented any role assigned to me, no matter how distasteful, for I realized that each would bring me an understanding of another side of nature. Only by sheer hard work, careful study and keen, unflinching self-analysis and ruthless self-criticism can an actress be sure of reaching the height of success. We must do more than command success, we must deserve it."

WEATHER

The highest temperature during the past 24 hours was 62 at 3 p. m. and the lowest was 42 at 6 a. m. The sun will set at 7:04 p. m.

There has been practically no change in weather conditions since yesterday. The barometer continues high in the lake regions and on the Atlantic coast with fair weather. The temperature has risen slightly. Low barometer in the south and south west continues causing showers in the Gulf States and along the front of the Rockies. New Orleans reports the highest temperature recorded at this season.

NEW YORK — There are 641,900 veterans of the world war dependent on the United States for future existence at an annual cost of $325,000,000, according to Dr. W. C. Rucker, chief medical adviser of the bureau of war risk insurance.

SIX SPEAKERS MEET IN N. O. L. CONTEST

Badger entry, Gladys Borchers, although not a newcomer in inter-collegiate competition, represents Wisconsin for the first time tonight. She has behind her a victory in the State Normal school contest of 1918 and another first place in the interstate contest of that same year, which was the first inter-state normal contest ever won by Wisconsin.

Speakers Experienced

The other entires compare favorably in the point of experience. Fred A. Ossana, the Minnesota representative, is a former inter-collegiate debater and winner of a number of important oratorical contests. He was speaker for the New York society for the League of Nations. He is now a member of Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary forensic fraternity. David A. Wolff, of Illinois, is a junior, and a member of Delta Sigma Rho. Last fall he was a member of the victorious Illinois team in the debate against Iowa.

J. J. Goshkins, the Michigan contestant, is a law student who represented the Wolverines in the Central Debating league last January. Advance information on the other two speakers, Charles C. Spray, of Northwestern and Earl W. Wells, of Iowa, indicates that they have had considerable experience in inter-collegiate forensic competition. The caliber of all the entries indicates that the fight for first place will prove a close battle.

Grads to Hear Contest

Among the alumni who are expected to return for the contest are Alvin C. Reis, '13, who was the last Wisconsin contestant to win the N. O. L.; M. B. "Mike" Olbrich, deputy attorney general; and Fred Merk, winner of second place in 1911. Literary societies are postponing their meetings scheduled for tonight in order to attend in a body. The Forensic board, which takes care of the student end of forensic activities, has planned an extensive course of entertainment for the visiting orators.

They will be entertained at luncheon in the Capitol cafe this noon to be followed by an automobile ride around the university grounds and Madison. After the contest a reception will be held at the University club to be attended by the visiting speakers and coaches, members of the Forensic board, members of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary forensic fraternity, and a number of former oratorical and debating stars who will be in attendance at the contest.

In order not to conflict in any way with the contest, the junior class has planned nothing for tonight as a part of its week-end festivities. Those who will attend the picnic this afternoon can return on the 7:30 boat in time for the opening speech which will be delivered by the Wisconsin representative.

PHILIPP SPEAKS ON EFFICIENCY OF STATE GUARDS

In an address at Janesville last night at a banquet given in honor of the mustering in of the first Tank Corps Unit of the National Guard in the United States, Gov. Philipp gave out a statement from General Haan. General Haan said that when the troops first came to Europe there was a question as to whether the National Guard had been sufficiently trained, but that this was soon found to be groundless, and that the efficiency of the Wisconsin troops assisted materially in allaying this fear.

The banquet was attended by Gov. Philipp, Adjutant Gen. Holway, Col. Whittet, of Madison, the members of the new Tank Corps Unit, and a number of prominent Janesville citizens.

Y. W. C. A. VOTE TODAY DECIDES MEMBER BASIS

New Ruling, if Passed, Will Not Require Church
Affiliation

At the massmeeting of all Y. W. C. A. members to be held today at 12:30, Lathrop concert room, the personal basis of membership for the association will be voted upon.

In order to establish the personal basis, whereby any woman may become an active and voting member who declares herself to be in sympathy with the purpose of the association and professes to live as a Christian, a two-thirds vote in favor of the personal basis is necessary. The personal basis was accepted as part of the alternate basis of membership at the national convention recently held in Cleveland, Ohio.

The present basis of membership requires evangelical church affiliation. Each association, both university and city organizations, throughout the country is privileged to choose the basis it desires.

Before voting, Mildred Rogers, president of Y. W., will read the present constitution embracing the old membership basis and the amendment in favor of the personal basis.

"The vote today will tell whether Wisconsin wants the personal basis," said Miss Mary Anderson, student secretary, and it is important that every active Y. W. member be present to vote."

TRYOUTS OPENED TO ALL CLASSES FOR SENIOR PLAY

"The Jesters" Still Has Main
Character Parts to be Chosen

Tryouts for the senior play, "The Jesters," have been opened to all classes. None of the main parts have as yet been chosen.

Some good men's parts are left and the committee is looking especially to the junior men to fill them. Among the parts are that of Valcano, burly and cowardly except when he is drunk; the Marquis de Mautpres, a well set up elderly man; Robert, a jester who is handsome and polished; Hilarious, the graveyard jester; Jack Pudding, apple-cheeked, good natured and brainless; and Baraco, the temperamental Italian jester, full of fine Latin phrases.

The main part of Chicot, the hunch-backed witty jester, which has been played by Maude Adams and Sarah Barnhardt, has not been filled. The other good women's parts remain, that of Nicole, the comedy maid, and that of Solange, a demure blue-eyed miss.

Tryouts will be held Monday and Tuesday at 4:30 in the concert room in Lathrop. Eighteen copies of "The Jesters" have been placed at the library desk. It is not necessary that the play be read before trying out, as the situation will be explained to anyone who has not had time or opportunity to read the book.

The play will be given June 21 and 22 in the open-air theater.

MUSIC STUDENTS WIN PLAUDITS IN PUBLIC RECITAL

Interpretation and Technique
Given High Praise by Audience

By MILDRED NUSBAUM

A high soprano voice of unusual clearness and vibrancy is that of Caroline M. Oestreich, who received a considerable ovation at the students' public recital last night in Music hall. Miss Oestreich sang "Care Selve" by Handel, and "Look Down Dear Eyes" by Fisher.

Elsa Kremers, who played "Butterfly" by Schumann, displayed a remarkable mastery of technique, especially in octave passages. Two clever and amusing little compositions by Debussy, "Dancing Dolls," and "Golliwogs' Cake-walk" were played by Doris Dellicker with an accuracy of touch and a sympathy of expression which gained the favor of the audience completely. Debussy is a composer of the modern French school which is just coming into prominence.

All of the numbers were characterized by sympathetic interpretation, ease in technique, and accuracy. Vivian Rhodes played Chopin's "Impromptu" in A-flat. "Whims" by Chopin was played by Beatrice Penham, and Gaal's "Barcarolle" was played by Louise Regan, all with a well-developed richness of tone. Paul Sanders played "Valse Caprice" by Whiting, and Frankie Ogle played "Open Thy Blue Eyes" by Massenet-Rogers with understanding and fullness of tone.

The program was concluded by two songs sung by Elmer Hintz, "Vision Fair" by Massenet, and "Life and Death" by Coleridge-Taylor. Mr. Hintz possesses a clear baritone voice, which is well known and very well liked by his audiences here.

CIRCUS IN PLANS FOR TENT LINEUP

Arrangement of tents, side-shows and booths for the university circus has been decided by the property committee and calculations for the number of minor attractions are being made. The big tent will be on the north side of the lower campus and the space between State street and the tent will be utilized for the smaller tents and the booths.

About six of the best side-show offerings will be running before and after the "big show" and possibly during the morning so that ample opportunity will be given for everyone to see everything that is offered outside the regular program.

The property committee has been fortunate in securing from the Ringling brothers four of their largest floats and band wagons, and developments during the next few days may insure two or three more vehicles for the parade.
