FORCE FIGHTING FAILS TO BREAK TIE IN 3 EXTRAS

Then Agree to Call Game
as Score Stands
25 to 25

By HARRY BARSANTEE
Wis. 21, Depauw 21—Game.
Wis. 23, Depauw 23—first period.
Wis. 25, Depauw 25—second period.
Wis. 25, Depauw 25—Final.
That is the story of the thriller which fans witnessed last night. Fighting fiercely, clinging tenaciously to every point, tired almost to the breaking point but unwilling to give in even for a moment, the Wisconsin and Depauw cage teams trapped to a draw in the gym last night.

Two more evenly matched teams are never seen in action for they played three periods over time and still neither could win. It was only after that time, when the players were so all in that they could no longer see the basket that by agreement of coaches the game was called.

Display Uncanny Ability
Coach Meanwell justified the action to the excited crowd by telling them that further playing would endanger the future success of his boys.

The first half ended with the Hoosier team in a 13 to 12 lead. Despite erratic playing at times, the Badgers played a whirlwind game, faster in many respects than the average conference game. Depauw, winners over Illinois a few days ago, came to Madison with a reputation and easily kept it. They could not be defeated. The Badger offense, weakened by an over abundance of bad passes and fumbles, found difficulty in working through the heavy Hoosier defense. With the exception of the first five minutes, when they scored six points in rapid succession, the Meanwell men could not score consistently. The Indianans guarded Wisconsin man for man, and the Hoosier pass almost met its equal in the fast, faultless guarding of the Depauw team.

Playing a fast, long pass offense, Depauw forwards succeeded in getting through the Badger defense all time and again, keeping their score within a few points of the Wisconsin score throughout the game. The collegians had uncanny ability in evading the Badger guards when they were under their basket. White, especially, flashed in and out of the Cardinal defense, dropping the ball through the net some after time on beautiful shots.

Varney Starts Scoring
Of the total Depauw count, White scored 20 points, leaving but five points to be chalked up by his mates. The Hoosiers played a four man floor game, feeding the ball to White for the shots. Spooner continued to lead the Badger scoring. Twisting his way through the heavy opposing guards, he sunk four baskets which looked

Orchestra Concert is Culmination of 3 Months' Practice

Three months study and practice of the university orchestra will culminate in the concert at Music hall auditorium at 8 o'clock tomorrow. The concert, an annual event, is open to the public without charge. "Because of the difficulty of the music attempted which is chosen from the best orchestral repertoire, only one public performance is presented during the semester," said Major E. W. Morphy, director of the orchestra. Few institutions, according to Major Morphy, have an orchestra so built up that it is in present the best in symphonic literature.

Bleyer, Prof. E. M. Johnson, Prof. Grant M. Hyde, Mr. Birdsong, Miss Patterson, Miss Collins, and Mr. Roy French will represent the University of Wisconsin and H. H. Herbert, head of the Journalism department of Oklahoma university, who is doing graduate work at Wisconsin will also attend.

Prof. Willard G. Bleyer, head of the Journalism department at Wisconsin, will read two papers at the convention: "Graduate Work in Schools and Departments of Journalism," and "Some Impressions of English Journalism."

Prof. G. M. Hyde is on the program committee. The presidents of the three associations which will meet at this convention are:

Prof. F. W. Beckman of Iowa State Agricultural college, president of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism; Dean Eric W. Allen '01, head of the school of journalism at Oregon, is president of the Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism; and Prof. W. P. Cirkwood of the department of agricultural journalism of Minnesota, president of the American Association of College News Bureaus.

Mrs. Bleyer Talks To Women's Club On Europe and Asia

"The flight into Egypt with Mary on the ass and Joseph walking by her could not have happened now. Joseph would have been riding and Mary walking beside him. That is the way they do now," said Mrs. W. G. Bleyer Thursday night in an address on her recent trip to Europe and Asia, before the Business and Professional Women's club.

Mrs. Bleyer commented on the immense commercialization of religious rites in the Holy Land. She was also much impressed by the deplorable state of women there.

"Going up the Nile was one of the high spots in my travels. We made short side trips from the boat on donkeys, and once went twelve miles to reach the town we wanted to see."

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB MEETS TOMORROW

The Social Science club will hold its second Cameraderie of the year at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow in the S. G. A. room, Lathrop hall.

Prof. Selig Perlman of the economics department will talk on "The Amalgamation Movement within the American Federation of Labor." There will be opportunity for questions and discussion.

A business session to discuss plans for bringing prominent speakers to Madison during the coming months will be held following the meeting.

Style and Vigor Raise Union Vodvil Far Above "Amateur"

By TORMENTOR

Union Vodvil came back again last night at the Parkway in a new completeness, style and vigor which raised it far above the "amateur" and ranked it with the big time shows of all colleges.

Costumes such as a university vodvil show have never used before, added life and color as well as class. And the many drapes and drops which were imported from Chicago gave an opportunity for effects and settings which were worthy of a metropolitan variety house. And to tone up the settings and Lester's costumes, a light bridge was used, similar to the ones used on the larger musical revues.

Color, harmony of design, dash and pep—all of these gave to the production a thing which it has always lacked—tone. In achieving this is nearer the professional but kept enough of the amateur to make the audience feel intimately acquainted with the actors.

No little of the success of the first night's performance was due to the capable accompanying work done by the Union Vodvil orchestra under the direction of Nelson Fairbanks.

Just one of the touches which brightened up the total effect of the production and indicated a desire to establish a unity throughout the whole was the use of the Dunlap twins, (they look alike), to open and close the curtains of the show. Their sentiment that the faculty should wake up again next year is expressed by all who saw the show and realized its meritorious position.

"Skeets" Gilmore and His Piano Trio
Doing Maier and Pattison one better, these three kept perfect harmony and presented some of the more melodious jazz numbers, in an artistic and finished manner. "Shorty" Walstead gave the first pep to the show and was well received on his song numbers. Even though he was a bit all arms, his blues number of "Yes, We—" was given a great ovation. And it takes a good man to do that.

"Ten Minutes of Vaudeville"

Perhaps the most typically vaudevilian of all the acts was this skit by Jack Cornelius, Charles McKivett, and Henry Sprester. They managed to get in some singing, some guitar playing, a rube act, a few witty puns and some mighty good acrobatic dancing—all of which is a show in itself. The act was funny and cleverly brought together, but the reviewer still has difficulty in tracing the connection between the driver and a geography lesson.

The Wisconsin University Players

The Wisconsin Players made a wise choice in their play for this year and a perfect selection of characters in Thomas McLean and Laverne Morrison. Stephen Leacock was ably assisted by these two players who made a funny play even cleverer and funnier. The two were a bit handicapped by mechanical difficulties such as squeaky castors and a highly imaginative sun, but these only added to the audience's delight.

Wayne Limberg
He had a clever red patent leather suit which made him out as a clown and he whistled very capably, and showed an unusual amount of power in this art. His sketch was rather short and involved nothing but his whistling.

"The Teschans"

To make it a complete variety show a few feats of magic had to be interpolated. The straight jack-et escape which the elder Teschan makes is remarkable and worthy of the most skillful professional. In fact, this act gave all the ear marks of a high class professional group. The effect of the black patent leather

GILMORE WINS IN FROSH ELECTION

Gaston, Reed and Johns Victors in Green Button Voting

Elizabeth Gilmore '26, was elected president of Green Button, organization for all of freshmen women, at the elections in Lathrop yesterday.

Jane Gaston '26, was elected vice president, Peggy Reed '26, secretary and Ruth Johns '26, treasurer.

These officers will serve to keep the freshmen women united and help the new women by various means to become better acquainted with their class. The elections for Red Gauntlet will be held in the spring to serve in the same capacity during the sophomore year.

The Green Button elections were held later than usual this year to enable the freshmen to become acquainted with the members of their class before the officers were named.

WOLF GIVES CHRISTMAS TALK TO SHORT COURSE

"Dad" Wolf will give his annual Christmas talk to the short course students in Ag hall tomorrow morning from 9 to 10 o'clock. There will be no discussion group at the Y. M. C. A. but they will be continued after the Christmas recess.

PROFS. OF ECONOMICS WILL GO TO CAPITAL

The convention of the American Statistical association in Washington is to be held in conjunction with the meeting of the American Economics association. Three Wisconsin representatives will attend the latter gathering. In addition to Dr. Ely, Benjamin H. Hibbard, professor of agricultural economics, and Martin G. Glaeser of the economics department, have arranged to go to Washington.

GIVE CHILDREN'S PARTY TOMORROW

"Y" Will Entertain About 100 Youngsters From Neighborhood House

The annual Christmas party for children will be given by the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night. Approximately 100 boys and girls between the ages of 5 and 10, have been invited and will meet at the Neighborhood house, 768 West Washington avenue, and will be escorted to the association building by members.

A Christmas tree will be decorated by the social committee under the supervision of Robert H. Snyder '26.

The Social Service committee, at the head of which is Leland W. Williams '24, will have charge of the program which will consist of Christmas carols, stories, and recitations. Much of the program will be impromptu and will be executed by the children themselves.

Santa Claus will come later in the evening and will have a present for each boy and girl invited. Ice cream cones, lollypops, pop corn balls, and cookies will be served by the Social Service committee.

11 FOREIGN STUDENTS ATTEND CONVENTION

That 11 students from foreign countries will attend the International convention of the Student Volunteers at Indianapolis, December 28 to January 1, was announced yesterday by Frederick E. Wolf, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. The 11 students are Veclav Strela, Czecho-Slovakia; Franklin Shore, Charles Shao, Charles Wu, Wallace Kiang, H. C. Hsu, and S. L. Wang, all of China; Elenterio Avineula, Philippine Islands; Kenji Sono, Japan; S. P. Vallejo, South America, and Hans Mijasaki, Hawaii.

12 ACTORS START REHEARSALS FOR PRE-PROM PLAY

Prof. Gertrude Johnson Directs
Production of the "Torch Bearers"

The cast for the "Torch Bearers" the fourth annual Prom play, was announced late last night by Olivia T. Orth '24, tryout manager. Twelve students will start rehearsing immediately. Hazel D. Weingandt '25, is chairman of the Prom play committee.

The 12 students, chosen from 200 trying out for parts are:

Laurens Hastings '24, Mr. Frederick Ritter; William E. Ross; Hazel Weingandt—Badger Studio grad, Mr. Huxley Hossefrosse; Otis L. Wiese '26, Mr. Spindler; Gordon W. Abbott '25, Mr. Ralph Twiller; Bert M. Hilberts '25, Teddy Sparring; Clifford J. Crowley '26, Mr. Stage Manager; Mildred N. Engler '26, Mrs. Paula Ritter; Katherine C. Reid '26, Mrs. J. Drug Pampinelli; Ellen L. Flynn '26, Mrs. Nelly Fell; Olivia T. Orth '24, Miss Florence McCrickett; Charlotte S. Case '25, Mrs. Clara Shepard; Dorothea Wilgus '24, Jenny.

Is Satirical Comedy

Katherine Reid, as Mrs. Pampinelli, has the leading role, while Mildred Engler and Laurens Hastings have parts that are also leads. The play is so arranged that all of the parts are quite important and no one part stands much above the others.

Rehearsals will begin today and continue until the day of presentation. The actors have planned four practices a week on a regular schedule. Miss Gertrude Johnson, assistant professor of speech, will direct the production. The Wisconsin University Players are presenting the play.

The "Torch Bearers" is a satirical comedy in three acts by George Kelly. The theme is a burlesque on the Little Theatre movement in the upper strata of society. The first act takes place in Mrs. Ritter's home where a rehearsal is in progress. The second act is back stage at the performance and the third is again at the Ritter house.

Sloan Sees Two Shows

The Prom play will be presented on the afternoon and evening of the first day of Prom, February 7, at the Parkway theater.

The "Torch Bearers" has just completed a successful run in New York and Chicago, being received favorably in both places by the foremost critics. J. Vandervoort Sloan, New York drama critic, expresses the effect of the play very well.

"I was very nearly put out of the theater because I laughed so loudly," Sloan said after viewing the performance for the second time.

Sudden Cold Spell Brings Many Cases of Grippe to Clinic

The sudden drop in temperature from 35 degrees on Wednesday to an average of 18 degrees on Thursday added many cases of sore throat and cold to the usual number reported to the clinic. They are not, however, extremely severe. "The epidemic of grippe which usually comes in November is just beginning now, but it is far from reaching the severity of former years," Dr. Robert Van Valzah said. "The entire amount of illness for the semester has been running below normal, partly due to the delay in cold weather."

Though the infirmary always holds some students suffering with grippe, few of the many recent cases have been acute enough to receive treatment there.

WISCONSIN WINS HONORS AT SHOW

Prof. G. C. Humphrey Says Attendance and Prizes at International Beat Record

"Wisconsin had its biggest year at the Chicago International livestock show from the standpoint of students in attendance and prizes won," Prof. G. C. Humphrey said in announcing results of the show at a meeting of Saddle and Sirolo club in Agricultural hall last night.

Approximately 75 students of the long, middle and short courses attended the show, watched the judging and made trips through the big packing houses where talks were given to the students in the various operating departments.

Perhaps the best showing was made by the sheep department under Prof. Frank Kleinheinz who returned with 30 ribbons, the exact number of sheep shown. In the open and special breed classes of Cheviots and Rambouillets, first and champion ribbons were won. This department also won four firsts in mutton improvement classes and a first for the best five head of sheep shown by any college.

Prof. J. G. Fuller won $300 and 20 ribbons for six Percherons, three Belgians and one Clydesdale shown. First prize was won by "Hester" 8 year old mare in the aged mare class. A second was won by "Trilby" 5 year old aged Percheron.

In steers a first was won by a Ford in the junior yearling grade and cross bred classes and the carcass of this animal won a third and sold for 24 cents a pound.

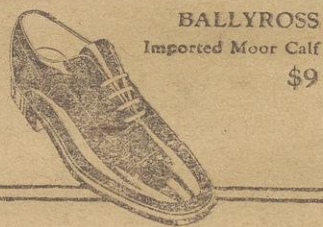

American bred horses were a noticeable feature of the show and considerable confidence was expressed by horse men for the future of the horse industry.

Saddle and Sirolo club pins were given to members of the club at the meeting and general plans for the Wisconsin International Livestock exposition were discussed.

SPEECH PROFS WILL ATTEND OHIO CONVO

Prof. Andrew Thomas Weaver of the speech department, Prof. Smiley Blanton of Speech Hygiene, and Miss Gertrude Johnson of the speech department will attend the annual convention of the National Association of Teachers of Speech, which will be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, December 27, 28 and 29. "Experiments of Studies in Vocal Expression" will be Professor Weaver's subject. Professor Blanton will speak on "A Workable Bibliography for the Beginner in Speech Correction." Miss Johnson will talk on some phase of dramatics.

Oxford Students Have Seven Months Vacation Each Year

How would a six week's Christmas vacation appeal to you? And then six weeks more at Easter? The climax of it all would be a summer vacation of four months. Such things actually do happen this side of paradise. It's a way they have at Oxford.

It's what Gamber F. Tegtmeyer '24, is letting himself in for because he won the Rhodes scholarship from Wisconsin. Not exactly a hard life, you'd say.

"You study during vacations," said Tegtmeyer. "You don't stop working just because you have a holiday. You have a certain amount of work to do by the end of your course, and it is up to you to get it done."

No class recitations are held, but instead the student has consultations once a week with a dean of his college who acts as a sort of father confessor.

"I think it will be one of the things that is going to appeal to me most, the idea of studying when and how you want to," was Tegtmeyer's comment. "The student has no one to force him to work; he does it all on his own initiative. That is one reason why Oxford has developed so many real students."

The School of Modern History will include the courses Tegtmeyer is intending to take up. The subjects of examination for this college are constitutional and political history, modern languages, literature, economics, political science. All of the courses taken are studied in their relation to history.

"I expect to travel in France and in Germany, and of course, in England. And I should like to spend some time in Scotland and if I can manage it, I want to see Switzerland."

The Rhodes award includes an allowance of 350 pounds a year for the three-year course.

POSTMASTER ASKS MAIL CO-OPERATION

Public Must Send Christmas Packages Early or Have Late Delivery

"If the public will cooperate with the post office employees by mailing their packages early, there will be no delay in the delivery of Christmas presents," said Postmaster W. A. Devine in regard to the Christmas mail.

Judging by the comparatively few packages which have been mailed from Madison, everyone seems to be letting domestic packages wait until the last few days before Christmas. Foreign parcels have been sent in relatively large numbers.

"On account of the enormous quantity of packages posted in this city during the Christmas holidays it is suggested that as much as possible be mailed early, so that it may be handled and dispatched before Christmas and thus prevent congestion of the mails," said Devine.

All foreign packages must be mailed by December 23. Length plus the girth of packages are limited to 84 inches, and postal stations urge that seals and rubber bands be eliminated for holding parcels together.

almost impossible. In addition, he counted twice on free throws. Varney chalked up seven points, Diebold and Wackman each made three and Elsom made two.

Varney started the scoring when he sunk a neat shot immediately after the game started. Spooner followed with another, and Varney made his second basket of the game a moment later. With the score 6 to 0 against them the Hoosier collegians took time out, talked it over, and then started.

Coaches Talk to Men

Before the Cardinal could stop them, the collegians had forged through to a 7 to 6 lead. From that time until the end the game, the score remained practically even, one team going into the lead for a moment, only to drop behind a minute later. The game ended with the score 13 to 12 in favor of the De Pauw team.

With the beginning of the second half, the Badgers again started scoring, and went into a four point lead immediately. Then De Pauw started again, and with a few breaks tied up the score. It zig-zagged until with De Pauw in a one point lead all but 50 seconds of the game was over.

Wackman went into the game at center for Wisconsin in place of Gibson. He took the ball on an outside play, dribbled toward the basket, and was fouled by Hirt within his own foul line. Out of his two trials from the free-throw line, Wackman made one good, tying the score at 21 all as the period ended the game.

Throughout the tilt the two coaches by mutual agreement, conferred with their charges at each time taken out.

The first overtime period started with the crowd wild with excitement. White, that speedy DePauw forward, slid under Diebold's arms for a basket, sending his team into a two-point lead. Spooner retaliated a moment later with a neat ringer.

The first overtime period ended with the score knotted at 23 all. Within a minute after the second overtime period started White had again got free for a basket. DePauw stalled, using the Ashmore system of keeping the game in a series of tie plays. Wisconsin, desperate, broke up the system, and Diebold crashed through with the basket which once more tied the score. Shortly after the period ended.

The third overtime period saw two teams battling furiously but helplessly to break the tie. They were too tired to score. DePauw

MARTIN IS DIRECTOR OF WINTER SPORTS

George Martin, graduate student, was recently appointed director of winter sports by Coach T. E. Jones. This appointment is in keeping with the policy of the athletic department to develop interest in winter sports, notably skating, skiing, tobogganing, ice-boating, etc.

Heretofore, although the university is ideally situated for these special activities, no special effort was extended to further interest. The new policy of the department in aiding those interested to participate in this healthy exercise will be welcomed by the students and many have already signified their intention of partaking of the opportunity.

had three perfect chances to score but shot them all to the winds, they were so tired. Then Wisconsin had her chance, but the ball was too heavy to be shot through the basket. The period ended, the players were tired but game. The coaches, however, could not see their charges kill themselves with too much exertion, and called the game.

Gus Tebell '23, who was in the audience, talked to the crowd of fans between halves.

FRATS IN ANNUAL
TRACK MEET TODAYEvent Starts at 2 O'Clock;
12 Fraternities Enter
Teams

Twelve fraternities will participate in the annual inter-fraternity track meet this afternoon in the annex of the men's gymnasium.

The meet will start promptly at 2 o'clock. As in former years, one or two teams appear to have the advantage over the remainder of the field. This year Theta Z and Alpha Gamma Rho seem to be the favorites.

Six cups will be awarded to winners of the meet, four of which will be given to the teams placing in the first four positions, and the other two cups being awarded to the winners of first and second place in the relay race.

The inter fraternity meet is one of the annual affairs in intra-mural sports and always brings out some good competition. That this year is no exception is evident from the amount of practicing which many of the participants have been undergoing during the past few weeks; consequently many close events are anticipated this afternoon.

A block of 20,000 seats has been reserved for Michigan fans for the annual Ohio State-Michigan game next November. This will establish a record for western conference if the block is filled.

CLOSE SALE MONDAY
FOR MARQUETTE GAME

The ticket sale for the Marquette game to be held in Milwaukee, December 19, will close Monday night at 6 o'clock. Three hundred and fifty of the seats reserved for Wisconsin students have been disposed of, and those remaining will be returned to Milwaukee.

Sale on the series tickets has not as yet gotten under way strongly, but with the first games of each series coming immediately after the holidays the sale should increase rapidly.

At present, the sale on series "A" is the largest. This is no doubt due to the De Pauw game being the first of this series.

May Meet Gophers

The inter college soccer tournament will be played Monday afternoon on the lower campus between the Agrics and L. and S. The commerce school and the engineers are also entered in the tournament, but enough men have not signed up to make full teams.

Monday's game ought to be fast with some of the best soccer material on the campus playing and the field frozen hard. A little snow would make the field even better, according to Fred Schlatter, soccer coach.

Another good soccer game for this season is almost assured as the department is only awaiting an answer from Minnesota, which has been invited to come here and play.

Coach Schlatter will pick his team to meet Minnesota out of the men who show up best in the inter college tournament. Men who play against Minnesota will receive a minor "W."

The Newman club will entertain at an informal Christmas party from 8 to 12 o'clock in Lathrop gym on Saturday.

BERG APPOINTED
HEAD OF INTRA
MURAL ATHLETICSAll Inter-college and Class
Meets to Be Given Special Attention

George Berg, who has acted in the capacity of trainer for the various athletic teams for the past six years, was appointed director of intra-mural athletics by T. E. Jones, athletic director, last Tuesday.

Director Berg, in addition to being a trainer of high regard, is also an accomplished coach in the majority of athletic events, and his appointment to the new position will meet the approval of the many students who have come in contact with him through athletic work.

The new plan will enable him to promote athletic events in a more concentrated basis. All inter college meets, inter-class meets, inter-fraternity meets, and meets between other university organizations will be under his direct supervision. The new plan will assure all those concerned in these events a smooth running organization and will enable all meets to be run off in a clock-like manner.

Director Berg was brought to Wisconsin from Chicago, where he was a director of a playground, through the efforts of former coach J. R. Richards. Coach Richards brought him here as football trainer, but his ability in other branches soon broadened his duties, until he was active in conducting all major sports.

ROTATING SCHEDULES

When the Big Ten editors went on record in their convention last week end as favoring the principle of rotating football games around the conference as basketball games are rotated, it was not with the intention of destroying traditional football ties between individual institutions. The editors would be opposed to any schedule making scheme that separated natural rivals.

Director Tom Jones has expressed favor toward a plan of rotation that will permit time honored and traditional games to be played. That is exactly what the Big Ten editors want and what the conference needs.

A system of scheduling could be devised that required two games to be rotated each year, for instance, and the rest left to the choice of the coaches. Such a plan would give each institution a nucleus of games, free from contract difficulties and coaches' caprices, and would bring about competition of every conference university with every other within a period of five years. The traditional games could stay as they are.

The rotating system, however, cannot be worked out in editorial columns. A conference committee can do that. It is sufficient here to point out that there are obvious advantages to some such system and that public sentiment calls for it.

Post season scheduling at best is nerve racking business, and conceivably it can turn out much worse than it did for Wisconsin this year. If the conference directors would improve the unity of the Big Ten as a whole and grant peace of mind to each individual institution, they will present the conference next year with a football schedule that rotates.

STUFF IT FULL

That the citizens of Madison are wholeheartedly furthering the Christmas idea by supporting the efforts of the Empty Stocking club is evident by the news reports which indicate the sums of money which are being contributed toward some poor child's happiness.

Several university fraternities as well as other organizations such as the Gun and Blade club have already enlisted themselves in the movement and have subscribed sums of money to the fund.

University students who come to the City of Four Lakes for the college experience are often prone to forget that they are an important part of the citizenship of the city and as such should bear a portion of the city's burdens and responsibilities.

In the light of the student's responsibilities and in consideration of the Christmas spirit manifest at this time of the year it is to be hoped that more of the campus organizations will follow the meritable lead of these others and will subscribe to the Empty Stocking fund.

Even though the Madison people would fill the stockings to the top, the students should be willing to stuff them a little more.

NOT SO FUNNY

The announcement that a woman in Emporia college, Emporia, Kansas, has initiated a "Date agency" in her institution whereby men and women students are introduced to each other for a small fee, is not such a ridiculous matter as many editors seem to indicate.

While it might not be appropriate to suggest that such an agency be established at Wisconsin, nevertheless, the idea brings to mind that there are in the university a great many men and women who never get a chance to exchange ideas with individuals of the opposite sex. Often times this may be due to the man's bashfulness, but oftener the reason comes from the fact that in his classes there is no one who intrigues or interests him within two or three rows of insurmountable seats. And then the engineers, agrics, and commerce men often have not the opportunity to meet a variety of women.

At least a date exchange is an interesting idea especially when "results are guaranteed."

VARSITY BRIDGE

Bridge, the one time women's pastime for a social afternoon, now seems to have become the all-time amusement for both sexes. In fact, were a canvass made of the fraternity houses about the campus, the men would give the women a strong race for first honors.

As a social pastime bridge is an excellent game; but when it becomes so fascinating as to dominate too high a percentage of one's time it becomes a menace.

Scarcely is it possible to enter any fraternity house in the afternoon or evening without finding one or two tables in session. Two facts here lend themselves to comment. Usually the same group will be playing, and investigation shows that these individuals have the poorest grades in the house. Often they are recorded as having more cuts from classes than others.

It is not infrequent to find all night bridge sessions. "One more hand" results many times in a cut class.

Some fraternities have found it such a detriment to the life of a student, that chapter action against it has been attempted, but with little or no success. The best way to combat such an evil, if evil it forces itself to be, is the creation of public opinion against it. As a man sees himself in "the eyes of the world" so is he more likely to shape his actions accordingly.

Other Editors Say—

A COURSE IN PEDESTRIANISM

A course in walking has been offered by the physical education department of Northwestern university, according to reports.

Such a course is needed at Minnesota, if for no other reason than to teach us the fundamental principles of automobile dodging. In this motor-mad age, where rubber tires have supplemented shoes, the pedestrian of the old school has become almost as extinct as the antediluvian mastodon, the rubber collar, or the colonial wig. On the campuses of the colleges today, long processions of sedans, limousines, and run-arounds, go by where yesterday promenaded the student hiker with his carved walking-stick or ribbon-bedecked cane. The vapors of gasoline, the blue smoke of exhaust pipes, and the dust of the highways today clog the nostrils of the zealous pedestrian who yesteryear would have only sniffed the fresh breezes of the morning.

How regrettable it is that the modern students cannot experience some of those joys of hiking and walking which were available to all in the olden days when Bayard Taylor roamed Europe from the Louvre to the Duomo and back again, when Hazlitt and Coleridge trod the English hills, and when Oliver Goldsmith piped his way on a flute through golden, classic Italy! The walker gets some of that love of nature and breadth of vision which is denied him whose horizon is bounded by the flapping curtains of a self-propelled vehicle.

All clubs and organizations that foster and encourage pedestrianism should be supported by the student body. And, if a course in walking is ever introduced here, it should be met with all the vociferous enthusiasm which it merits!—Minnesota Daily.

Editorial Quips and Facts

A mathematical genius contributes the information that American women spend $150,000 annually for hair nets. Another goes on to say that $63,000,000 is spent for cosmetics, $750,000,000 for toilet preparations including talcum powder, cold creams and rouge and $145,000,000 for scented soaps. The last item, it must be confessed, seems perfectly excusable. The grand total, however, is $1,108,000,000. Rather stupendous, isn't it? But the women can turn around and say: "Think of the money men spend on tobacco." Turn about is fair play. By the way, $100,000,000 is spent annually on chewing gums.

1927—Well those grades might be worse?

Dean—Well it won't be long now.

HIAWATHA SKINNED A SQUIRREL

Hiawatha skinned a squirrel
Just sat down and went and skinned it,
Went and skinned it to a finish.
From its skin he made some mittens,
Made them with the outside inside,
Made them with the inside outside,
Made them with the fur side inside,
Made them with the skin side out side,
Made them with the warm side inside,
Made them with the cold side outside.

Had he placed the fur side outside,
Had he placed the skin side inside,
Had he placed the outside inside,
Had he placed the inside outside,
Then the warm side would have been outside,
And the cold side would have been inside,
So to get the fur side warm side inside
He placed the skin side inside outside.

Now you know why Hiawatha
Placed the outside fur side warm side inside,
And the inside skin side cold side outside.

Do Re Mi

The classical event of the program was the musical and dance melange presented by Mu Phi Epsilon. The interpretive dancing of Reinette Douglas and Caroline Hinsdell stood out as one of the high spots of the entire show and showed a piquant carefreeness and sly humor which these dances must always assume to be successful. The group of women in old fashioned costumes made one of the prettiest spectacles of the show and their singing and specialty numbers were well received. The women showed their importance on a successful program.

Roy Goodlad

Here's the funniest and perhaps the most versatile man in the university. He calls himself a "Smart Guy" and that he is with all of his personal acquaintances with the beasts of the field and the fowls of the air. Once or twice his dialect tended to lapse into the Swedish but for all of that he was one of the high comedy spots on the bill.

Feet Features

Showing a great deal of originality and clever foot work, these men, some of them products of the Haresfoot, twinkled and tripped through most intricate steps and variations. The introductory dance of an eccentric nature by James Hildreth and the Spanish Dance by John McCausland were the most difficult and displayed the most creative genius and interpretation.

Two more funny boys who outdid themselves in the kingdom of humor. Heinie Hall's "Papa" will long be remembered and will undoubtedly become a campus byword. Needless to say Bill Eddy is great on comedy but is no singer.

The TKE Band

And just to show that it was a 1923 and highly up to date vodvil a jazz orchestra was introduced to top off the thing. In a school where every other man is a musician it is hard to find a really outstanding musician, but these did their parts well. Trombonist, where do you regularly play?

U. S. STUDENTS ARE DOCILE, SAYS GRAY

Glasgow Minister, Who Visited Wisconsin Last Spring, Writes in Intercollegian

That American university students are strangely docile in mind is the contention of the Rev. A. Herbert Gray of Glasgow, Scotland, who visited the University of Wisconsin for several days last spring, in his recent article in The Intercollegian, published by the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Gray is connected with the British student movement. He came to this country at the request of the Y. M. C. A. early this spring. He was asked to express his views and did.

"While everywhere else the rising generation is rebellious against the conventions and methods of life that have dominated their fathers, young Americans are eagerly getting ready to go on in the old way. Morally, of course, many of them are rebels. They are making the same old attempt to discard the eternal moral laws which every generation has made in its turn.

"Intellectually they are docile. I found among them little or none of that burning passion to discover a new way for mankind which is the real hope of the world today," writes Dr. Gray.

Being full of life and joy and wit, the students were found by the Rev. Gray to respond quickly to ideals. He believes that they lead too sheltered an existence and almost wishes they might have some of the chilling winds of adversity that blow across the far more tragic countries of Europe.

LAND ECONOMICS CLASS STARTS AT CHICAGO

A series of weekly classes dealing with the subject of "Elements of Land Economics" will be conducted in Chicago next spring at the Chicago Y. M. C. A. school of commerce under the leadership of Dr. George S. Wehrwein, research associate in economics at Wisconsin and a member of the staff of the Institute for Research in Land Economics and Public Utilities. The classes will be held every Tuesday for 17 weeks starting on February 5. Each session will last for two hours. "Elements of Land Economics," by Ely and Morehouse, will be the book which will be used as the basis for discussion.

PRINCETON, N. J.—The honor system during examinations has been adopted here at Princeton. Violators of the pledge will be brought before the committee of investigation, which holds a trial, passes sentence and recommends punishment by the faculty.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Groups of undergraduates have been formed at Harvard to go to nearby secondary schools to promote a greater interest in college.

Bashful Oklahoma Shieks Get Their Dates at Agency

"Desirable dates for bashful young men and timid young co-eds." Miss Margery Markley of Bartlesville, Okla., has made dating easy through her clever idea of establishing the newest firm near the campus of the University of Kansas, the Markley Dating Agency.

The hesitant shiek, for 25 cents may obtain a date with the maiden of his choice, or of one of the same type. Dates for the annual football banquet one of the biggest affairs of the season, were obtained by the co-eds who desired an escort, for 50 cents.

Faculty action has not been taken yet, concerning this new establishment.

265 MORE STUDENTS ENROLLED THIS YEAR

An increase of 265 in the total enrollment has been made this year over the attendance last year, with the largest percentage of increased enrollment in the College of Letters and Science, according to tables prepared in connection with the student directory. There are 5,458 students registered in the College of Letters and Science, an increase of 423 over last year's enrollment; 1,100 in the College of Engineering, a decrease of 63 with last year; 737 in the College of Agriculture, a decrease of 85 compared with last semester; 703 in the Graduate school, with an increase of 46; 157 in the Medical school with a decrease of two; and 39 in the Library school.

ELY GIVES THREE SPEECHES IN EAST

"Forecasting Prices of Farm Lands" is Subject For Dec. 28

The present agricultural situation in its various aspects, especially as related to economic conditions, will be the theme of three addresses to be given at conventions in the near future by Dr. Richard T. Ely, head of the economics department.

The first of these addresses will be given before the meeting of the American Statistical association in Washington, D. C., on December 28. Dr. Ely's subject is "Forecasting Prices of Farm Lands."

At the convention of the Illinois Agricultural association, which will be held at Galesburg, Ill., Dr. Ely will give a paper on "Taxation of Farm Land." He has also accepted an invitation to speak at the Tri-state Development congress which will convene either in Duluth or St. Paul some time in January, at a date to be decided later.

Prof. Ogg, Sharp and Hall Will Go To Columbus Meet

Professors Frederic A. Ogg, Walter R. Sharp, and Arnold B. Hall, of the department of political science, will attend the sessions of the American Political Science association, in Columbus, Ohio, December 27 to 29, at the same time as the American Historical association meets. Professor Sharp will speak on "Political Science in France."

Professor Hall will report on the Madison conference on the Science of Politics.

Mintz Bros. GREAT HOLIDAY SALE

Begins on Saturday, December 15th

This is positively the greatest buying opportunity ever. Examine into it and see the difference rather than the similarity of other sales you have seen. A person needs judgment to discriminate against high prices. The mild weather has forced us to place thousands of dollars worth of new merchandise on sale at sacrifice prices. Who would miss such a chance?
