CARDINAL BANQUET ATTENDED BY OVER 100 AT PARK HOTEL

Meiklejohn and Frank Speak at Board of Control Function

Over 100 members of the business and editorial staffs of the Daily Cardinal attended the autumn get-together banquet given by the Cardinal board of control at the Park hotel last night.

Elmer Freytag '28, president of the board, was toastmaster for the program which followed the dinner.
He explained that the purpose of the banquet was to further friendship between the various departments and the board.

Four Speakers

The four speakers were James Nelson '27, managing editor of the Daily Cardinal, Norbert Eschmeyer
'27 of the business staff, Dr. Meiklejohn, and President Glenn Frank.
Nelson and Eschmeyer outlined the progress the Daily Cardinal had made in the past year and outlined the possibilities of putting out the Daily Cardinal from its own plant.
Dr. Meiklejohn spoke on, "What a newspaper can do for the university."

Dr. Meiklejohn explained that the function of a college newspaper was that of transforming a "multiversity" into a university. He showed that the university exist for the consideration of certain fundamental interests of life and that the chief problem confronting a college newspaper was in finding ways of making our life that of a genuine community.

Meiklejohn's Proposal

Dr. Meiklejohn summed up his talk by outlining a reorganization of the university and the newspaper to contribute to the unification of the university.

From his seven years' experience in journalism, President Frank suggested several propositions which would help to make good journalists. To evolve an effective technique a writer must not under-estimate the intelligence of his readers nor overestimate the information of his readers.

Frank on Journalism

President Frank spoke of journalism today and the satisfaction it brings to the man who is fitted for it by talent and by training.

"Journalism calls for the best a man may have of mind and of morals, of courage, and of creativeness.
The more you can bring to journalism, the better, if you will meet journalism's challenge to simplicity and clearness," he concluded.

YOUNG MUSICIAN TO HOLD RECITAL

Talented Grandson of Late Professor Bull Will Play Here

Storm Bull, 13 year old grandson of the late Professor Storm Bull of the university, will give a piano recital at the Unitarian church Friday in memory of his grandfather.

"One of the most phenomenal talents ever heard in Chicago," Chicago music critics said when Storm Bull gave a concert at the American studio last June. He also won much praise in the child artist series under the management of Ferol Bradford by the expressive and spontaneous style of his playing. He has always been encouraged to compose and to play publicly as means of perfecting his art and critics predict a great career for him.

The program for Friday night is, Prelude, B flat Major, J. S. Bach; Sonata Pathetique, Beethoven; Grave, Allegro di molto; Concerto B flat Major, Mozart; Allegro Vicace Cadenza by Hummel; Poetic Tone Pictures, Op 3 Grieg; Norwegian Bridal Procession, Grieg; From a Child's Day, E. H. Bull; Playtime, Tears, Let's Dance, Grandfather's Tale, Joy; Dance Negre, Cyril Scott.

Red Wagon Revamped for Team Exodus at 5:30 Today

The rope that is used to drag the little red wagon is newly overhauled and the vehicle itself has a new coat of scarlet paint, for the team is going to Ann Arbor at 5:30 o'clock this evening.

Somewhere in the neighborhood of 5 o'clock this afternoon Langdon street will hear its second "Varsity Out" for the current school year.
The team will leave directly from Camp Randall and not from the lower campus which is the usual base for such an exodus; and fog horns, sirens, and "beep-beep" horns will all be united in an attempt to secure a general migration of the Greeks to the east side of Randall stadium. Rooters will pull the members of the team to the railroad siding north of the stadium, whence they will depart for the haunts of Messrs. Yost and Friedman.

George Little, the pupil who for the second time will attempt to overthrow his teacher, Joe Steinauer, Capt. H. Mon, and other members of the team will give pep talks before the departure.

The team will wend its way homeward Saturday night, following the game on the St. Paul special.

WEEKLY CARDINAL CAMPAIGN STARTED

7,000 Form Letters Received at Business Office for Mailing

Approximately 7,000 form letters were received at the business office of the Daily Cardinal today to be mailed out to the fathers and mothers of the university students. These letters are in explanation of the new service now being offered parents through the Weekly Cardinal.

The proposition was put before the fathers who attended the Fathers' day banquet Saturday night, according to James M. Nelson '27, managing editor, and the follow-up letter is planned as the first step in the subscription campaign among parents.

The Weekly Cardinal, a resume of the week's activities on the campus, will be a regular edition every Tuesday morning for off-campus subscribers. The subscription rate for the rest of the year is $1.50.
Students who wish to subscribe to the Weekly Cardinal for their parents may do so at the business office 772 Langdon street.

The second edition of the publication will be sent to subscribers Tuesday morning, according to Norbert W. Eschmeyer '27, business manager.

QUEEN MARIE SORRY SHE CAN'T COME TO WISCONSIN

Another phase of the job of being a Y. M. C. A. secretary was revealed yesterday when C. V. Hibbard, secretary of the University Y. M. C. A., confessed that he had tried to get the Queen of Roumania, Princess Hanea, and Prince Nicholas to visit the university and failed.

Before coming to the post here
Mr. Hibbard was in charge of Y. M.
C. A. work in Europe, having offices in New York. Associated with him, and representing him on the continent was D. A. Davis. Mr.
Davis knew Queen Marie, having been entertained at the palace several times. He also knew of her interest in the Y. M. C. A., for in the letter to Mr. Hibbard, he tells of a letter which Marie wrote him before coming to this country in regard to seeing some of the various aspects of Y. M. C. A. work in this country.

In hopes that Marie could arrange to see a great state university and one of the most beautiful campuses in America, Mr. Hibbard got in touch with Mr. Davis. He heard

Election Returns Reveal State Republican Control

Zimmerman and Blaine Easy Victors in Electoral Race

With Secretary of State Fred R.
Zimmerman as the next Governor, and all minor state offices filled by Blaine-LaFollette candidates, Wisconsin will be controlled by two factions of the Republican party during the coming two years.

Wisconsin's officers for the next term, starting Jan. 1, 1927, therefore will be Fred R. Zimmerman, governor; Henry Huber, lieutenant governor; John W. Reynolds, attorney general; Solomon Levitan, State treasurer; and Theodore Dammann, secretary of state.

Klan Inconsequential

The Ku Klux Klan issue which was brought into the campaign by Charles B. Perry, independent conservative Republican candidate, was totally ignored by the voters. Mr.
Zimmerman winning by a majority over his opponents which threatened to duplicate his showing in the September primary.

Referenda providing for the increase of the governor's salary from its present stationary figure of $5000 a year and another which will allow the recall of elective officers appear as assured of approval on the basis of returns from more than two-thirds of the precincts but there was a possibility that they might be again placed in doubt by upstate returns.

Majority for Beer

Ratifying the beer referendum by a 2 to 1 majority, Wisconsin voters declared at the election that congress amend the Volstead act so as to authorize the manufacture and sale of beer, for beverage purposes, of an alcoholic content of 2.75 per cent, under government supervision but with the provision that no beverage purchased shall be drunk on the premises where obtained.

Wet forces in larger cities of the state polled majorities ranging from 3 to 1 to 6 to 1, as the dry stand of the rural communities was overwhelmed by more than 123,000 votes in the beer referendum.

Blaine Wins Easily

Milwaukee returned a strong beer vote when a ration of about 6 to 1 was maintained. Eleventh hour efforts of both wets and the prohibition forces brought the beer issue into the limelight as election day drew near, accounting for the heavy vote on the referendum and the general statewide interest in the outcome.

Governor John I. Blaine was elected United States Senator by a great majority. He polled 218,894 votes against the 50,147 of his nearest rival, Thomas M. Kearney

Design Clocks for Time Indicators on Grid and Court

A clock device to show the minutes of play elapsed in each quarter of the football and basketball games has been designed by Oscar Romare, mechanician, College of Engineering, and Prof. Ray S.
Owen of the civil engineering department. Mr. Romare is installing the device above the present score board at the south end of Randall field, to be ready when the Homecoming throngs pack the stadium a week from Saturday.

The face of the clock is over six feet in diameter. The works are electrically controlled from the sidelines so that the clock will at all times keep an accurate record of the time. Whenever time is out, the clock will be stopped, and it will be started again when play is resumed.

If the device attracts favorable attention, it is presumed that the athletic department will have it installed for use at the basket ball games this winter. Here as in football, it would add interest as the game drew to a close. Several of the other Big Ten institutions have clocks somewhat similar.

CLARK SPEAKS TO 300 ON RELATION OF OXYGEN, CELLS

Eminent Chemist Lectures on Oxidation in Life
Forms

About 300 people heard Dr. W.
Mansfield Clark, chief of the division of chemistry of the United States public health service on the subject, "A New Approach to the Study of Oxidation-Reduction in the Living Cell," at his lecture here last night.

Ionization Expert

Dr. Clark is one of the foremost scientists in this country in research in this field. Previous to this investigation, he conducted research in the determination of the hydrogen ion concentration.

Elusive Problem

The problem of the relation of oxygen to cell life is very elusive, according to Dr. Clark. Bacteriologists have been working on this problem for a long time, with little progress, but it is believed that the recently completed studies made by Dr. Clark and his assistants will open the way for this investigation.

Dr. Clark spoke here under the joint auspices of the university and Sigma Xi, honorary scientific society.

PLAYERS TO PRESENT FIRST OF PRODUCTIONS

The one-act play, "Sham," will be presented by the Wisconsin Players at their first open meeting which will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in Lathrop Concert room. The play will follow the regular semi-monthly business meeting of the club which is at 7:15 o'clock. It will be open to the public free of charge.

DISCIPLINARIANS EXACT PENALTIES

Faculty Body Suspends One;
Fines Another Three Credits

Two of the three called before the meeting of the university disciplinary committee yesterday afternoon were found guilty and were sentenced for cribbing and stealing books from the university library.
The third man was dismissed from lack of sufficient evidence.

A memo of the junior class was suspended from school for taking a reserved book out of the university library. The fact that he signed a fictitious name to the card required to draw books, and the fact that he at first denied ever seeing such a book were points strongly against him. He was given the most severe penalty which the committee could administer. Prof.
Ray S. Owen, chairman of the committee, said, "This chap, by taking a book which was required for students more than he robbed the university."

A senior caught cribbing in an examination, after admitting his guilt, was assessed three extra credits required for graduation. As he is now carrying 17 credits, he will be unable to graduate in June, due to the penalty.

"The instructor was equally guilty with the student in this case," Prof. Owen pointed out, "for the instructor gave out only one set of questions when he had his pupils sitting in adjacent seats. The Cardinal can razz the disciplinary committee all they wish for sentencing this man, but I believe that any faculty member who is unable to make out two sets of questions to alleviate the temptation is too lazy to teach in a great school like this. He ought to hand in his resignation."

WISCONSIN GRAD AUTHOR OF BOOK

Frank Thayer '16 Discusses Editorial Independence of Press

That the editorial independence of the American press is possible through successful advertising and circulation is the conclusion reached by Frank Thayer, Chicago newspaper man and former member of the faculty of the Medill School of Journalism at Northwestern University who was graduated from here in 1916. He has just completed a four years study of the business phases of the daily newspaper. This inference he has set forth in his book "Newspaper Management," which is to be released next week from the press of D. Appleton and Co.

The financially weak newspaper, he affirms, constantly jeopardizes its editorial integrity to curry favor with different interests, and the hope of the independent press lies in the success of the newspaper as a business institution.

Mr. Thayer's study of the financial end of the newspaper is the first of its kind ever made in this field and a pioneer effort in the business principles of publishing. "Newspaper Management" points out the possibilities of the newspaper when its affairs are conducted according to the methods involved in the present age of big business, and outline the principles of sound newspaper policy together with the accepted practices of newspapers carrying a wide circulation.

The author of "Newspaper Management" was formerly a staff writer on the Springfield, Mass., Republican, and a member of the first faculty of the Medill School of Journalism founded by the Chicago Tribune at Northwestern University. Prior to his position with the Medill School he served on the

"Are you stiff?" is the query with which 25 university women greeted each other yesterday when they met on the hill. The question was justifiable for all of the 25 were stiff, and mayhap are still stiff. It was this way that it happened—the women trying-out for class horseback riding teams met Tuesday and were requested, in order to display riding ability, to unsaddle their mounts and ride bareback. They trotted, walked and cantered to the heart's content of those doing the judging but oh—the world for a mount with which to get to classes yesterday!

STYLE SHOW POSTPONED UNTIL THANKSGIVING

The Pan-Hellenic style show scheduled for the weekend of Homecoming has been postponed until the weekend of Thanksgiving because those in charge of the event thought it would be more successful at a later date. The models will be fraternity and sorority men and women who have been selected by their respective groups and then chosen by Patricia Conrad of Milwaukee, who will direct the performance.

SOUSA COMPOSER OF 104 MARCHES

Proclaimed as Most Prolific of All American Music Writers

That Lieut. Com. J. Philip Sousa, who gives his concert this Friday in Central High School, is one of the most prolific of American composers as well as one of the most famous is indicated by the record of his compositions. In a little red book, which dates from his days with the United States Marine Band, Sousa has set down as he has written them, the various works which have flowed from his pen in more than forty years as a musical director.

Sousa's little book indicates there is good reason why he should be called "The March King." During his career he has written no less than one hundred and four march compositions. There are eighty songs in the Sousa book, sixteen suites, one Te Deum, one cantata, two hymns, and enough miscellaneous compositions to bring the total to two hundred and seventy-two.

These figures do not include transcriptions and arrangements. As a matter of fact Sousa has arranged many times the number of his original works. These figures give the Sousa record to the beginning of the present season and do not include the two new marches, "The Black Horse Troop" and "The National Game;" the new suite, "Cuuba Under Three Flags," his new foxtrot, "Peaches and Cream," and his new waltz, "Co-Eds of Michigan."

Sousa never has kept a record of his arrangements and transcriptions, but to the list, if he had kept one, he would have added this season his new humoresque, based upon "Follow the Swallow," and his "Jazz America," a fantasy upon current syncopated tunes.

MISS DAVIS TO TALK ABOUT STORY TELLING

Miss Sarah Davis, assistant to the Dean of Women, is speaking before the speech department of the State Teacher's Association which is meeting Friday of this week in Milwaukee. "Story Telling and Interpretation" will be the subject of Miss Davis' talk. While in Milwaukee she will be the guest of her nephew, Victor Werner, a law graduate of '24. Miss Davis will return Saturday.

WISCONSIN ELEVEN SPENDS TIME PREPARING TO END MICHIGAN WINS

Two or more potent arguments to be used in the touchdown debate against Michigan Saturday were given to the Wisconsin football team last night.

In their last heavy practice before leaving town, the Badgers drilled about equally on offense and defense. They rather suspect that they have corralled a Wolverine-taming formula which will bring startling, but nevertheless pleasing results. And for gaining ground, the same system which has worked successfully in every game but that against Minnesota is expected to return to its old efficiency.

Little Talks

In the midst of practice, Head Coach George Little gathered the entire varsity squad around him and gave it a little heart-to-heart talk on the various responsibilities the men of Wisconsin will be carrying on Ferry Field this Saturday. Coach Little appreciates the need of a do-or-die spirit and he is seeing that it is developed.

For the second time in two weeks, the Badgers will be facing the short side of the dope as they go into a conference game. Michigan, regarded as a powerful contender for the Big Ten championship, and already decidedly irritated by the unexpected reverse which it received from the Navy, will be handed down by the sports men as an almost certain winner.

Must be Ball Hounds

But if Wisconsin follows the ball as it did against Minnesota, and if Michigan makes one half as many fumbles as it did against the Navy, the Badgers will have better than an even chance. Even granting that the Wolverines have gotten rid of their juggling habits, they will find themselves up against no easy proposition.

Criticism of Wisconsin's failure to loose a passing attack against Minnesota may work something of a change in the Cardinal play this week. Many fans thought that the team was not varying its offensive enough Saturday, though the terrific charging of the Gopher forwards made it somewhat of a problem to do anything successfully.

Should Improve

At any rate, the Badgers should show a distinct improvement in the matter of moving forward, whether it be by pass or run or plunge. Capt. Doyle Harmon is past due on

Hawkeye Harriers Meet Gopher Team Saturday Morning

IOWA CITY, Ia., Nov. 3—Flying feet of the University of Iowa cross country runners which brought defeat to Illinois in the first Big Ten dual meet Saturday, are being prepared for the Minnesota race. The Gophers come to Iowa City with the football team this Saturday.

Form even better than that of last year when he won second place in the Western Conference run, enabled Leonard Hunn to set a new Illinois record for the four mile jaunt. Capt. Speers trailed him by some thirty-five seconds.

Iowa harrier teams have beaten the Gophers for the last two years but the Northmen are reputed to have a well-balanced squad this season.

the delivery of eight or ten sensational runs and none of the Wisconsin fans will object if he gets them out of his system this weekend. His going, considering the present rating of Oosterbaan and Flora, Michigan ends, will be none too smooth, however.

If "Red" Kreuz and Joe Kresky recover fully from the bruises which they received from Minnesota, they should prove strong units in the Wisconsin attack. The Michigan line from tackle to tackle is far weaker this year than last and these two plungers stand for a good chance of making a couple of first downs through it.

Dry Field May Help

Given a dry playing field, Rose and Shaw, the sophomore speed specialists, may get started. Though Shaw hasn't done anything sensational since the Kansas game, his entries into battle have always been an inopportune times and there is no reason for saying that he cannot make good. His ability as a back depends almost entirely on his speed and his deceptive side-step, both of which serve him well in the open field.

YOST THREATENS CHANGE IN WOLFE LINEUP SATURDAY

Listlessness Among Couple of Vets Cause of Revamping

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—As an outgrowth of Michigan's 10 to 0 defeat by Navy last week it was rumored here Tuesday that some startling changes would be made in the Wolverine lineup before the Wisconsin tussle Saturday. The listlessness and indifference displayed by many of the regulars against the Middle at Baltimore has caused the coaches to resort to discipline for the first time this year. It was reported at least, possibly three of last year's Wolverine stars will be taken out of the lineup.

Yesterday's practice consisted in Badger formations of the yearlings being run off for the benefit of the varsity squad, with particular emphasis on the perfection of a defense for the strong backfield which Coach Little will throw into the mix. Crofoot, Harmon, Kreuz and Barnum, who comprise the Badger attack, are clever runners and pass receivers, and are certain to cause the Wolverine forwards much trouble.

Backs Confident

Michigan fans and students are resting assured their gridiron eleven will severely trounce the invading Cardinals Saturday, basing their claims on the past records of Michigan teams the week after they had suffered a defeat.

Two years ago, the week after Grange ran wild against the Wolverines at Urbana, Michigan met the Badgers here and walloped them by a 21 to 0 score.

Air passenger lines in Europe are considering the establishment of a coordinated European winter air schedule.

Rockne Indifferent
as to Notre Dame
Big Ten Admittance

SOUTH BEND—Kunte Rockne was optimistic yesterday to reports from Chicago that Notre Dame was to be invited to join the Big Ten conference.

"I haven't heard any Big Ten talk around here for eight or nine years," said Rockne. "What's the point in our joining the Big Ten anyway?"

Notre Dame fans opine that Rockne has all the Big Ten games with the exception of Michigan, that he wants, regardless of membership, and figures that a membership might or might not bring the Wolverines to amicable relations with the local school.

As matters stand now, the Notre Dame schedule usually calls for two or three Big Ten games each year, ordinarily with the strongest contenders. Michigan always has refused to play Notre Dame, but the other nine members are on friendly relations with the South Bend school.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 3—Handicapped by rain and cold weather, the Purdue football squad, unbeaten in the Big Ten, held its last hard workout of the week here today in preparation for the all-important game with Northwestern at Evanston here next Saturday afternoon, which will decide whether the Purple or the Old Gold and Black will continue the race with the conference leaders for championship honors. A light drill will be given tomorrow night, and Friday morning the Boilermakers will

8,000 TICKETS FOR HAWKEYE GAME REMAIN UNSOLD

Open Sale Will Start Wednesday, November 10th

More than 8,000 tickets for the Iowa-Wisconsin football encounter, which is the Homecoming game, remain to be sold at the general open sale. The mail order sale for the final Badger home engagement closed today.

Commencing Wednesday, Nov. 10, the remaining ducats will be placed at the disposal of the public at the Ticket Office, opposite the University Gymnasium, in Madison. They will also be sold in Milwaukee starting the same date at the University Extension building, 137 Second street.

Hope for All

It is expected that all those desiring to attend the Homecoming tilt will be accommodated in the Camp Randall stadium, according to George Levis, manager of athletics and ticket sales director. Over 2,000 applications from alumni for tickets for the Chicago game at Chicago have been returned, the allotment of 7,500 tickets being taken up the first day.

Student mail order for the Chicago game closed Nov. 5, with indications that many local fans will be unable to secure accommodations for the season's finale at Stagg Field.

entrain for Chicago.

Purdue scouts who have watched Northwestern in action since the first of the season are unanimous in declaring the Purple eleven to be one of the middle west's best teams, possessing a great line, versatility in the backfield, and a group of experienced players, who have shown much "football brains" since the season started.

Varsity Out Today!

The calls for Varsity Out perhaps sometimes seem rather numerous to the student, and he tells himself that this time at any rate it is not his first duty to be with the red wagon. Today no such rationalization will be valid. Today at 5:30 at Camp Randall there is real need of every undergraduate in person. Then it is that our team leaves for Ann Arbor to battle the admitted aces of the Big Ten conference. There is no need for fear of over-confidence on the part of Wisconsin; indeed discouragement is more likely to be the feeling of members of the team, and that is the reason why every student should be on hand tomorrow to show the team that Wisconsin's confidence in its football team is undiminished, that we're backing them always and to the limit, that we're there to hearten and encourage them as much as we can. That is your first duty tomorrow. Be with the team at Camp Randall at 5:30.

John Dollard: Ave Atque Vale

The resignation of John Dollard, secretary of the Memorial Union Building Committee, is announced. And so the university community, or certainly the undergraduate community, loses one of its most purposeful and most effectual leaders. The tangible achievements of Jack Dollard in the four years since he graduated from the university, the one to which we may make casual reference, to which "we point with pride" are very many, and they are very significant: in the three year term of his secretaryship the total amount of the pledges to the Memorial Union was raised more than three hundred thousand dollars and the total amount of cash was more than trebled, and now, as President Mason has said, Jack has completed an important chapter in the history of the project, in spite of vexatious delays and undreamed of obstacles; the splendid completion of the recent emergency campaign for the collection of $113,000 in cash may be understood in large measure in terms of the unceasing efforts, the untiring enthusiasm of the secretary and of the meaningful co-operation and loyalty which he induced in members of the executive committee and in other prominent alumni and friends of Wisconsin; John Dollard began the important work of organizing the alumni records office; his work on the dormitory committee was noteworthy, and the excellence of the plans for the Memorial Union must be explained partly on the basis of the constant thought and research of the secretary of the project.

All of these splendid achievements demanded splendid ability and effort and patience and efficiency and integrity; most especially they demanded a fine and inspiring leadership, and it is in the terms of the influence of the qualities which made possible that leadership that we must measure John Dollard's most real service to our undergraduate community. By reason of his close association with the Union Board and his membership in many undergraduate societies and organizations, John had his finger constantly upon the pulse of undergraduate morale, and the intensely creative vigor of his active and well-equipped mind, the charm of his spirit, and the sincerity and loyalty and force of his personality had a perfectly tremendous and lasting influence upon the quality of the undergraduate leaders with whom he had relations.

Wisconsin loses the immediate presence of one whom Wisconsin can ill afford to lose now or at any other time. Chicago gains a creative force. Not permanently, we hope. We are glad John Dollard is going to Chicago, for he had come to him the magnificent opportunities which his association with Max Mason will offer, but we hope we are but loaning him to Chicago. We hope, that, reinforced by varied experience in the most intellectually active of midwestern universities, John will one day come back to Wisconsin to again help mold undergraduate ideas and ideals in the same fine way. Ave Atque Vale, John.

Non-Sectarian Convocations

In the past few weeks there have been rather many discussions in the Reader's-Say-So column of this paper of the All-University Religious Convocations. It has been alleged that, in denial of their express purpose, they have been sectarian and not representative of all the religious views held by members of the university community. It is probably a healthy thing to have all of these criticisms expressed and considered by undergraduates and faculty opinion before the next general religious assembly.

The point which the writers of these communications make is clear enough and, as regards formalistic aspects, at any rate, generally true: namely, that these gatherings, while purporting to be of an entirely non-sectarian character, have been primarily expressions of the point of view of the Christian religion, of the sect of Jesus of Nazareth. It is true that, generally speaking, the outward aspects of the convocations and conferences have been Christian; the hymns sung have been Christian hymns, and prayers and benedictions have been uttered in the name of Jesus Christ. This is true. But is it important? And may it not be explained purely on the ground of custom and habit, the same as is applied at most of our public meetings of whatever sort? Or may it not be reasonably regarded as a simple courtesy to the beliefs of the sect (if you will) which is represented in such an overwhelming proportion.

This much for the formalistic aspect of the convocations. But when the critics maintain that the Christian sect has been given unfair advantage in the presentation of religious thought in the addresses, they are treading on dangerous ground. The Jewish faith, one of the few other faiths represented in perceptible numbers in the university community has twice been heard in the persons of some of its most outstanding leaders. It is true that the other Oriental religions have never been directly presented, but there are in this country leaders of those religions who could great difficulties in this regard in the way of securing and would give a true presentation. We believe that the committee would do well to make an earnest endeavor this year to secure such a protagonist of one of the more important Oriental religions. Since these are, after all, religious conferences and convocations persons who proclaim that they have absolutely no religious faith or belief can hardly claim representation. As to the various shades of religious but distinctly non-sectarian tenets, it will be remembered that last year Mr. Meiklejohn mentioned the name of Jesus once in his address and that of Epictetus three times, and the addresses of President Frank can hardly be said to have been devoted to an exposition of orthodox Christian doctrine. No, as regards the really important element of the religious convocations and conferences . . . the addresses, we hardly feel that the more severe critics are justified, but any committee dealing with problems connected with religion has a tremendously difficult task, and such a committee does need and should welcome the constructive criticisms of all concerned or interested.

The investigation of Anti-Saloon league politicians in Illinois has given us some brand new ideas on ethics. The dry leaders think it is better to be dry and corrupt than wet and honest.

The Navy League urges us to steel ourselves against the predatory onslaughts of the W. C. T. U., and other organizations which aim to outlaw war. What brazen effrontery on the part of these folks. Outlaw war and military preparedness? Why that's unpatriotic as un-American!

Now that both the student and state elections are over, we can go back to smoking cigarettes and pipes.

There's nothing like taking your readers by surprise. Are you up on your contemporary reading? Then what is this a paraphrase on? "All you get by writing Skyrockets is a lot of conversation?" Answer below.

And now, after long waiting, after everybody else has forgotten it, WE are at last to attain our great ambition—to have the last word on the Bag Rush. We are uncompromisingly against this barbarous Wisconsin tradition. Now, you myopic, messbacked, retrogressive conservatives, yes you—you you WILL get up and say that that is sack-riligious, we suppose.

Benite will now rise and sing a little ditty entitled, "I told her to use Pepsodent, and she gave me the Colgate."

Which is as bad as the one: A butcher advertised "Meat for every pocketbook." So in came a lady and asks, "What have you for a flat pocketbook." "Nothing but the cold shoulder ma'm," sezze.

We're strong on poetry, we love it. Here's a LOVE SONG
The girls all call her "Lordy Jane," I love her.
She doesn't powder, no, nor paint, I love her.
They say "She thinks she is a saint," But I, I know that's what she aint, And, so, of course, I love her.

PASTORAL ON PORCUPINES
(Composed as we walked by the stock farm the other day.)
Oh, Porcupines are a funny lot, Their tails are all tied in a knot, A few coarse hairs is all they've got, Except when they are prized, it Except when they are prized, it seems, They drink their milk from soup tureens, And get such morsels as spoiled beans, And cabbage, lettuce and other greens. Ah, the life of a pig is not ideal, Though his service here is very real. He makes, indeed, a splendid meal, For nothing's wanted, save the squeal.

Our roomie is a silent contributor to Skyrockets, though he doesn't know it—it's his typewriter and paper we're using for these abominations.

Here's one we'll bet even our smartest readers don't know yet, the Infirmary Yell—"Inhale—Nine ty-Nine . . . Exhale—Ninety-Nine . . . Ah! Ah! Ah! Doc Ellis!" invented by George Carl Johnson—LAST YEAR. HA! HA!

They say that the first time you kiss a girl, she is surprised; the second time she is angry; and the third time she is expecting it. Well, if nothing else, I must be naive about it—every girl I've tried seemed to be expecting it.

We've heard that there is a new song out entitled "The Goat Song." It must be satirical.

"Ugh," said the Cultured Person, "these nouveaux riches go to Europe to buy Gobelin tapestries and the only use they have for them is to cover up the butter-and-egg spots on the walls of their homes."

A new brand of hosiery for women advertises: "Now! Silk over the knees." Hm! So that's it. They weren't all silk, and the girls covered it up by rolling them down. Darn clever, these girls!

"Why, my dear, I nearly popped! In our Astronomy class today we were told that there is only fifty-three days left before Christmas."

My friend Larry is in the hosiery business now. He says that the next time he sees me he's going to sock me. Dear Larry!

Do you know, we were really serious about that paraphrase question we asked above. The answer is "Chevrons."

Yours with love,
GARIBALDI AND BENITO

ITINERARY REVEALS SOUSA AS BIG FAVORITE OF AMERICAN STUDENTS

Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa, who with his band of 100 men plays tomorrow in the Central high school, and is this season making his third-of-a-century tour at the head of his famous band, evidently is the favorite musician of the schools and colleges of America. No less than eighteen colleges and universities and eight high schools are on the calling list of the famous bandmaster and most of these concerts are given under school auspices.

Sousa's university engagements include concerts before the students of two of the most famous schools in the country—Harvard, at Cambridge, Mass., and Yale, at New Haven, Conn. Also on the college and university list are Cornell, at Ithica, New York; the University of Virginia, at Charlottesville; the University of Indiana, at Bloomington; Purdue university, at Lafayette, Indiana; the University of Illinois, at Champaign; Northern Normal, at Aberdeen, South Dakota; Huron college, at Huron, South Dakota; the University of Kansas, at Lawrence; and the Kansas State Teachers Colleges at Pittsburg and Hayes.

Other colleges and universities which Sousa will visit are Washington State College, at Pullman; the University of Colorado, at Boulder; Tuskegee Institute, at Tuskegee, Alabama; University of Florida, at Gainesville; Winthrop College for Women at Rock Hill, South Carolina; and Idaho Normal school at Lewiston, Idaho.

Sousa will play under the auspices of high schools at Alliance, Ohio; Fort Wayne, Indiana; Joliet, Illinois; Tucson, Arizona; Spokane, Washington; Boise, Idaho; and Gastonia, North Carolina.

Two of the most famous of the Sousa marches have been dedicated to the students of America. "High School Cadets," written early in his career, started him along the road to fame, while "On the Campus," written only a few years ago, has been one of his most popular compositions.

OHIO PROFESSOR RAILS STUDENTS

Says 90 Per Cent of College Men and Women Are Dumbbells

"I think that 90 per cent of the college students are dumb-bells when it comes to general culture," said Prof. Roderick Peattie of Ohio State university. The fact that some students can obtain a grade of "A" is not sufficient reason for classing them as intelligent people. The use of common sense and general culture makes a man intelligent."

Peattie suggests a plan of study that every student could follow to his advantage.

1. Plan of schedule. The student should schedule his work and abide by it throughout the entire semester.

2. Technique in study. Outline work, take notes at all times. Use outside readings, and above all do not memorize. Devise some method or trick in which you may find easy to remember your lessons, or studying is only a bag of tricks.

3. Concentration. Do not study over 50 minutes on one lesson. Study in a comfortable position and always try to study in same place and at the same time.

"Students make a mistake in the choice of their subjects. They usually choose them according to the instructor. Because a certain teacher makes one think, the student will try to avoid him.

"Some students have in mind only a degree when they attend college. But in years to come the degree will be forgotten and they will be remembered only by the college education received and displayed."

Railroad Rates Are Raised In France

PARIS—Railway fares, which were too low, have been raised 30 per cent. For merchandise the rates were put up 28 and 24 per cent, according to whether the goods were sent by grande or petite vitesse. The decision was reached at a meeting of the superior railways council, under the presidency of the Minister of Public Works, with the object of balancing the budgets of the railway companies and bringing the salaries of the employees in harmony with the general economic conditions.

Moths do not eat clothes. This is done by the grubs which develop from the eggs moths have laid.
