MANY TICKETS SEEK VOTE OF STUDENT BODY

Campus Shows Great Interest in Fall Elections

With a large number of office aspirants already in the field and many more to announce their candidacy for office within the next few days, the fall campus election promises to be well contested for all positions, and of unusual interest to the student body.

For the senior positions three tickets are already in the field, two of them headed by football men. Gridiron heroes are well represented among the other class office seekers as well.

Bunge Heads Seniors

The first of the senior tickets to be announced is headed by George Bunge, who seeks the class presidency. This is Bunge's third year on the gridiron, he having won his "W" last year. He is a member of the Student Senate and is a member of Phi Kappa Psi. With him on the ticket are: Mildred Gerlach for vice-president, Esther Haven for secretary, Edisan Boerke and Idrys Hughes for Senate positions.

Mildred Gerlach is a member of Theta Sigma Phi and of Keystone and is also a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Esther Haven is a member of Mortar Board, the Dolphin club, and Theta Sigma Phi. Boerke and Hughes are members of Delta Sigma Phi and Lambda Chi Alpha, respectively.

Captain Sundt Out

Guy M. Sundt, captain of the football team and a "W" man in track and basketball as well, heads another of the senior tickets. He is a member of Kappa Sigma. Frances M. Beecher, vice-president of S. G. A. and a member of the tennis and swimming teams, a Chi Omega, is the ticket's candidate of the class vice-presidency. Norma Kieckhefer, member of Alpha Chi Omega is running for the secretaryship and Carl J. Englehardt, member of Phi Kappa Sigma seeks the office of treasurer. Warren A. Taylor, last year's captain of the basketball team and a member of Alpha Chi Alpha, respectively.

BOY TRIMS SELF WITH PURPLE, NOT HAVING ANY RED

A ragged little boy on a pony decorated with purple streamers attracted attention at the Alumni registration table, yesterday afternoon, by shouting, "Ladies and Gentlemen, sign here," and riding around in a mad fashion. When questioned as to the reason for the purple trimmings, his face clouded and he said, "Aw gee, I wanted some red ones but I can't find any."

When someone arrived on the scene with a bunch of cardinal streamers, his face lighted up and he said, "Do you 'spose they'll give me some of them?"

Patriotism such as this deserves reward, and the youngster rode off proudly on a horse decorated with much red.

NEW FULLER TO TO OPEN WITH UNION VODVIL

Tryouts Start Soon For 1921 Production—Proceeds Go Toward Memorial

The 1921 production of Union Vodvil will initiate the rebuilt Fuller theater on December 9 and 10, with the most elaborately planned program that has been produced in the history of the production.

Dale Merrick '22 is general production manager. He is assisted by Leslie Gage '23, who will handle the financial end, and Carl Bronson '22, who will handle production proper.

Union Vodvil is produced every two years by Union board. The program consists of feature and specialty acts, which are picked upon their merits from every group or individual who wishes to try out. The proceeds from the production this year will be devoted to the Memorial Union fund.

The customary Friday night formal will be the first of three presentations, the other two, Saturday afternoon and Saturday night, are informal.

The 1921 Vodvil is going to be the best in history, say advance announcements of the big frolic. The call for talent and stunts should be met by a ready response, and plans are going forward, whereby tryouts will start on November 15 to last for several days.

The committee which is to decide upon the selection of acts at the tryouts will consist of Richard Tyrrell, Law '22, William Purnell '22, Ralph Sheinpflug '23, and a girl who has not as yet been chosen.

S. G. A. TO HOLD COSTUME PARTY

Gay Spaniards, dusky Topsys, prim Quaker maidens, and laughing Jacks and Jills will all be present at the annual costume party to be given by the Self-Government association in Lathrop parlors next Friday evening from 7:30 until 11. All university women are invited, and are asked to come in costume.

Prizes for the prettiest individual costume, for the cleverest costume, and for the best group costumes will be awarded. Clever stunts have been promised, and refreshments for all. Boyd's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing.

Margaret Callisen '24, general chairman, has announced the following committees: assistant chairman, Mary Altdorffer '24; refreshments, Irene Spiker '22, chairman; Edith Ewald '22, Ellen Swetil '22; publicity, Marion Metcalf '24, chairman; Eleanor Day '24, Marjorie Ruff '23; music, Vivian Dollard '23; stunts, Alice Frick '23, Gladys Borchers '24.

"We were very successful even though we did not reach the 6,750 program quota desired. The weather conditions were a handicap," said Belle Knights '23, who was in charge of the sale.

Approximately 2,000 programs were sold at the game. The remaining 3,200 were the results of the fraternity and sorority canvass and the sale on the campus.

Two hundred dollars of the sum will be given to W. A. A. to help toward the scholarship fund of that organization; and $1,100 will be used in meeting Homecoming expenses.

With an irresistible attack that completely overwhelmed the heavier Gophers, Wisconsin advanced another notch towards a Big Ten championship by riding rough-shod over Minnesota 35 to 0, in the annual Homecoming game at Camp Randall yesterday. It was the worst licking the Gophers have taken at the hands of Wisconsin since the memorable 39 to 0 contest of 1897.

The game was played in a sea of mud, but speedy Badger backs were undaunted by the slippery footing and their sparkling runs brought the crowd to its feet several times. More than 25,000 persons jammed Camp Randall and braved the damp weather to watch the Cardinal-clad warriors swamp their bigger opponents from the north.

Two Brilliant Runs

Of the five touchdowns rung up by Wisconsin, two were the result of brilliant runs in which the ball-carrier eluded the entire Minnesota team to score. In the third quarter Williams electrified the spectators

SYMPHONY TICKETS MAY BE RESERVED WITHOUT FEE CARD

Students whose fee cards are being used in obtaining football reservations will not be forced to show them in order to obtain student rates for the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra concert which will be held at the university gymnasium on Tuesday evening, Nov. 1. Reservations may be made at any time at Albert E. Smith's Music company, and tickets may be obtained after the fee cards have been returned from the Athletic department, according to Mrs. M. E. Slaughter, who is in charge of the concert.

"Seats for this concert are going well," said Mrs. Slaughter yesterday, "and we anticipate a good attendance. We hope to have a large student patronage, since the coming of this orchestra is one of the finest musical events of the year."

MINNESOTA is dicker for a game with Lawrence, according to the inside dope. They want a game with a good fifty-fifty chance to win.

YOU may have noticed that Carl Russell Fish always wears a red necktie to class when he is going to give an exam. It is claimed that he is taking every precaution to "flag the bull."

AS a casual observer remarked, red was the prominent color in Homecoming decorations, red lights, red crepe paper, and red noses.

AND when one stops to think that the Chi Phi's won the cup for decorations, it also makes one wonder in which of the above three they were superior.

BADGER HARES
BEAT GOPHERS
IN HARD RACEFinkle Finishes First With Captain Wall
Second

In a closely contested race, Wisconsin won her first cross country meet of the season from the Gophers by a score of 27 to 28. George Finkle '23, of Wisconsin, easily led the field over the muddy course, finishing the 4.7 miles in the fast time of 25 minutes 43 seconds. Captain Mark Wall, Wisconsin, crossed the line for second place, running some 200 feet behind Finkle. Sweitzer, Minnesota's star harrier, was the first of the Gopher squad to finish, trailing Wall in for third count.

Following Sweitzer, three more of his team mates, Captain Hoverstat, Winter, and Moon, finished in order for the fourth, fifth, and sixth positions, and, in spite of Wisconsin's splendid lead, it began to look like Minnesota's meet. Badger rooters again took heart, however, when Rossmiessel, of Wisconsin, rounded the corner to the finish on Langdon street, followed by Daniels, Moorhead, and Ramsay, the rest of the Wisconsin squad. Sturman was the fifth Minnesota man to finish, Ulright, of Minnesota coming in last.

Large Crowd Present

In spite of the drizzling rain and the deep mud, a large crowd, including the Minnesota band, gathered in front of the gym to cheer the rival teams to their utmost. At 11:20 the men lined up on Langdon street and were started over their wet and slippery five mile grind by Coach T. E. Jones. The other officials for the race were: timers, Doctor Elsom, H. E. Vail, and Sidney Miller; judges, Major Wood, Fred Schlatter, Mr. Sherman, and Gordon MacKay.

Captain Wall, Wisconsin, took the lead at the start and held the forward position until he was passed by the tireless Finkle. Contrary to expectations, the Gopher runners stayed well up to the front throughout a fast first two miles, but it was also noticeable that they lacked their usual strong sprint at the finish.

Finkle Works Hard

Coming in strong over a difficult course, Finkle demonstrated that he will be a contender for conference honors this year. Rossmiessel, Daniels, and Moorhead, running their first race, proved themselves worthy supporters of Finkle and Captain Wall.

When the team journeys to Chicago next Saturday, the Big City team should fall an easy prey to our fast squad, encouraged by their victory over the Gophers. The six men who ran yesterday will undoubtedly start in the Chicago meet, but as there will be seven men entered, this week's work will determine who the other man is to be. The squad will probably start working to develop a conference team next week, also, as the big meet at Bloomington comes on November 9.

PURPLE AND GOLD
HOLDS MEETING

Plans for interesting the Milwaukee high school students in the university were formulated at a meeting of the Purple and Gold club on Tuesday, Oct. 25, in the cabinet room of the university Y. M. C. A. This club is an organization of Washington high school, Milwaukee.

The organization, Henry Katz '22 president, has been in existence for the past two years, and has interested many high school students in the university. A Wisconsin-Washington dance was given at Milwaukee during the Christmas holidays last year.

by galloping 70 yards around right end. Perfect interference aided the doughty little Badger in his race for a score, and as his legs flashed by the chalklines, one by one, Minnesota tacklers gave up pursuit.

To count the last touchdown Capt. Guy Sundt, who had flashed throughout the contest by his sterling defensive work, intercepted a Gopher forward pass and dashed 50 yards from midfield. It was a beautiful piece of work, with the Badger leader picking his holes uncannily, and evading the entire Minnesota eleven.

A renovated backfield, changed within a week, added all the more glory to Wisconsin's romp. "T" Gould worked in at his old position, left half, while stocky "Rollie" Williams ran the team from quarter. Woods played a good game at end on the offense and half on defense. At the right end, "Gus" Tebell played a great game despite his recent illness which kept him in the infirmary until Saturday morning. Gibson remained on the sidelines until late in the contest.

Rowdy Scores First

Wisconsin's first score came when "Rowdy" Elliott plunged through the Gopher forward wall for a touchdown after line plunges and brilliant racing of the ends had brought the ball within scoring distance. In the third period, Williams made his dash and Elliott added a third score on a hard drive off-tackle. Two more scores were tallied in the last quarter. "Rowdy" pushed through the northmen's line for three yards, and Sundt scintillated with his 50-yard marathon for the final count.

Although weather and field conditions were decidedly advantageous to the Gopher style of play, Minnesota threatened only once, and then early in the first period. After an exchange of kicks, the Gophers took the ball under the shadow of the Badger goalposts. When line plunges failed to gain the required distance, they resorted to passes which were broken up by Wisconsin men. Bunge knocked down one pass and Williams took care of the other, enabling Wisconsin to hold the strapping northmen on Wisconsin's 13-yard line. It was the only fearful moment of the contest, and after the Badger had safely passed the crisis, there was little doubt that their line would open up holes for the sparkling backfield men.

Sundt Punts Often

Sundt punted 50 yards out of danger and during the remainder of the quarter, play was entirely in Minnesota territory. With Elliott, Williams, and Sundt alternating in advancing the ball, Wisconsin scored early in the second period. Another opportunity to increase the total was thrown away when a fumble gave the ball to Minnesota on its two yard line. Two runs, one of 33 yards by Elliott and a second of 40 yards by Williams, had carried the sphere to a scoring position.

An exchange of punts set the stage for Wisconsin's third score, and the fourth came in quick succession, without giving the Gophers time enough to get acquainted with the ball. Threatening Gopher marches down the gridiron were cut off in their embryonic stage by hard steady tackling of the Badger primary and secondary defense. Although Coach Richards injected substitutes during the last period, the Badgers continued their unchecked onslaughts, and with the exception of a few minutes, Minnesota

LET US REJOICE—AND WORK!

THE Homecoming activities are now at an end. It was an overwhelming success, and we hope its stimulating effects will endure until the next gathering of the sons and daughters of our Alma Mater. Homecoming surely impresses one with the worth whileness of a thoroughly community college life and of the energy and enthusiasm that moves such a highly mixed student body as we have here at Wisconsin.

Homecoming this year was an inspiring display of the spirit of Wisconsin. Most of the intricate parts of the general program were superbly administered and executed and the people who have worked and were responsible for its success should be whole-heartedly congratulated. Its organization and supervision were no simple tasks and they were well done.

From Friday's mass meeting and bonfire to yesterday's hobo parade and Wisconsin's five touchdowns, we were enterained and fired with "pep" and pride for our Alma Mater. It is fine to have a reminder every now and then that we are part and parcel of a university that is not merely a mechanical moulder of professional minds, but an intensely human social institution that has a brilliant past and a promising future.

But the brilliant past is a thing of the past. The promising future, however, rests still with us. We fashion and mould it.

Each one should work for his university so that upon his return to his Homecoming he will be able proudly to say "I have done my share."

THE New York branch of the Wisconsin Alumni association has just established a scholarship in honor of Zona Gale, the Wisconsin novelist, to aid students of genius to whom the necessity of going through a severe university course would be a distinct handicap.

Often those who are gifted with exceptional ability in one field are unable to enter a university because they lack the necessary prerequisite credits. The scholarship gives such persons the privilege of matriculation and the right to take only such courses that best tend to develop his particular talent.

It is interesting to note how our ideas on education are gradually being modified to the needs of the naturally gifted people. We are making our institutions more flexible so that they may be least exclusive and more in harmony with man's natural tendencies.

The experiment is a promising one and our New York alumni should be congratulated upon their pioneer venture.

FIGHT ON, FIGHT ON, AND LIVE!

ROBERT ROWLAND SILL in his much-quoted poem, "Opportunity," strikes a chord to which no one can afford to harken with little concern. He portrays how two armies fought to the death in a "cloud of dust on a desert plain," and how one of them, the imperial legions, were doomed to defeat as their princely leader lay wounded and weaponless. At the edge of the field there stood a miserable wretch with sword in hand, making awful grimaces at his weapon.

"Ah, who can show his true mettle with such a rusty iron. If only I had a sword like the king's son's," he snarled.

Saying this, he broke his sword against the stone, stuck the remnants in the sand and without looking back at his falling comrades skulked away. At this moment the wounded prince rushed to the spot, seized the broken weapon and with a furious battle cry led his men to victory.

We like to think that the days of princes and wars are matters of the unpleasant past. Still, some valuable observations may be made on Sill's popular poem.

Each person is born with many imperfections and his environment may be least conducive to his personal unfoldment. Yet he is obliged to use the materials he has at hand and build his own life from them. Often we find those who ever complain of themselves and snarl at their weapons. Yet to cast aside one's hope and fold one's arms in despair is cowardly. Live we must! There is in us a will which masters us and that will shouts unceasingly, "Fight on, Fight on, and Live."

Let us then live well and not act the part of the coward who curses his weapons or the parasite who is a burden to others. Let us then sharpen our weapons and tools on the stones of knowledge and experience and let us build our lives with the best that has been given us. Let us not disgustingly break away from the battlefield, but let us harken to that eternal cry within—

FIGHT ON! FIGHT ON, AND LIVE.

COMMONPLACES

THE world, it seems, is fated to become a bundle of commonplaces, of drab monotonous things. Particularly in ideals does a dead stiffness creep in. It is peculiar how people can rave about the most ultra-ordinary thing and still believe they are uttering pearls of wisdom. Conceit and ignorance play such big roles in our every-day speech. Even in books the same tendency is apparent. What's the matter? Are men losing their power of originality?

Official statistics show a marked increase in the number of fatalities resulting from automobile accidents. Evidently there are strong reasons for persistently pushing the "safety first" movement.

RICHARDS' WARRIORS STOP FAMOUS SHIFT

sota was in possession of the oval only long enough to punt it. Attempting to forward pass their way to a score, the northmen succeeding in completing only one heave in their last fitful struggle.

Wisconsin Backs Best

Analysis of play shows that there is no comparison in the effectiveness of the two opposing backfields. Williams alone rolled up more yardage than the Minnesota quartet. Not only did the Cardinal backs shine on the offense, but their defensive play was of the highest order. Time after time Captain Sundt plunged in to the line of scrimmage to bring down a Gopher runner. End runs by Minnesota were conspicuous by their absence.

The heavier line which was supposed to be an advantage to Minnesota, especially in the wet weather which prevailed, was overshadowed by the aggressiveness and fight of Badger forwards. There were few occasions when backs were unable to find big holes in the Maroon and Gold line. The northmen fought, but their battling was of no avail against Coach Richards' scrappy charges who shifted with the Minnesota shift and overwhelmed it before it could get started.

Every Wisconsin back stood out as a star. "T" Gould's defensive work was on a par with his driving attack. Brought from left end to half on the offense and then shifted back again on the defense, the veteran grid expert was a tower of strength in his last Homecoming game for Wisconsin. "Rollie" Williams at his new quarterback post, not only handled the team with the wisdom of a seer, but flashed time and time again with his dodging and whirling tactics. His work was marveled at by the large crowd. Elliott showed himself to be the same driving back who has helped to put Wisconsin near the top of the conference ladder for three years.

Sundt Excels Self

Captain Sundt excelled in every department of the game. He sensed every formation of the opposition and was after the ball-carrier each time, despite the fact that "Doc" Williams' Minnesota shift was constantly changing the players from one post to another. His punting was steady throughout the contest, and his 50-yard boot in the first quarter drove Minnesota far out of the scoring zone. Never was he stopped without gain when the Badgers needed a few yards for first down.

In the line, George Bunge increased the impression that he is the "best in the west." Big Ollis Aas, Minnesota sophomore who was reputed to be one of the sturdiest pivots in the west, was distinctly outclassed. Bunge smeared every play which was sent his way, and critics wondered why Minnesota, after three years of experience with Bunge's effectiveness, was still trying to pierce his territory. "Jimmy" Brader and "Kibo" Brumm at the tackles play a whale of a game. They were down the field under punts with great speed, and seldom were plays successful through their positions.

Hohlfeld and Christianson in their first Homecoming game were constant examples of Richards' ability to build up a line. Their steady, dependable charging and blocking went a great ways towards stopping the previously much-feared shift.

"Jimmy" Woods, in his new role as end, and "Gus" Tebell, who rose from a sick bed to play against Minnesota, completed a notable Wisconsin line. They stopped Gopher receivers of punts in their tracks. Only two kicks were returned for any distance by Minnesota players. Tebell was on the receiving end of a pretty, short pass, and his effectiveness on both attack and defense was remarkable.

For Minnesota, McCreery was the big ground gainer. Other Gopher backs were unable to pile up much yardage. Martineau was the most consistent of the Gophers. His booting averaged 40 yards, and several of the kicks exceeded 50.

left end. Brader broke up a shift, and McCreery made only a yard. McCreery made it first down on a shift. McCreery added four more. Sundt stouped McCreery with a yard gain. Minnesota took time out because of an injury to McCreery's leg.

The ball was on Wisconsin's forty-nine yard line. While Minnesota rested, the Badgers washed mud from their hands.

Martineau passed, but it was incomplete. It was fourth down and four to go.

Martineau kicked low, and Williams returned only five yards to his own thirty yard line. Sundt booted out of bounds on Minnesota's twenty-nine yard line. McCreery made a yard. Christianson, left guard for Wisconsin, was laid out, but he remained in the game. McCreery bucked center for three yards.

Martineau booted to Williams on his twenty-five yard line and he returned twenty yards. McCreery replaced Gilstad at fullback, and Bailey is playing at left half, and Martineau right half. Both teams took time out to wipe the mud from their hands. The period ended.

Score: Wisconsin 21; Minnesota 0.

FOURTH PERIOD

Gould made two at right end. Elliott hit the other end for three more.

Elliott's pass was incomplete. Sundt punted and the Minnesota players gathered about the ball until the referee called it dead on the Gophers' thirteen yard line. Bailey failed to gain. Brown went through center for sixteen yards and first down. Martineau hit center for a yard. McCreery was stopped with two yards gain. Martineau lost two at left end.

Martineau punted to Williams on his thirty-five yard line, a distance of fifty yards, where he stumbled. He arose and proceeded six yards more.

The ball is on the Gophers' twenty-two yard line. Gibson replaced Williams at quarterback for Wisconsin. Elliott drove through left tackle for six yards. Sundt bucked center for two more. Gould made it first down. Elliott made five. Elliott brought the ball to Minnesota's three yard line. Elliott put the ball over for a touchdown. Wisconsin took time out for Elliott. Sundt kicked goal.
