Hyde Chapel, once Hyde Congregational Church but long unused, is being restored by the new Hyde Community Association as a simple landmark and the focus for a community of city and rural neighbors.

2 Workdays a Year Have Flavor of Old-Time Barn Raising

City, Rural Folks Pitch In To Preserve Hyde Church Building

By JANET M. SCHLATTER

WHEN IS A church not a church? When, having served its day, it becomes a simple landmark, the focus for a community of city and rural neighbors.

This is the story of recent happenings at the one-room white clapboard structure, long unused, formerly Hyde Congregational Church.

Iowa County T north from Barneveld meets County H south from Arena at what was once a busy crossroads community named Hyde's Mill—now called Hyde. Swift little Mill Creek furnished the feed mill's power. Farmers for miles around traded at the bustling general store and patronized Lance Dodge's blacksmith shop.

There was from earliest times a burial ground, and in 1869 Hyde Congregational Church was built beside it. Ministers from neighboring towns served it.

Among them were the Revs. A. H., and Fred and Benjamin Schoenfeld, father and uncles of U. W. Director of Summer Sessions Clarence Schoenfeld. Clay Schoenfeld is a conservation journalist, author of the recent "Wisconsin Sideroads to Somewhere," and has a deep affection for the land. Especially for the Hyde country.

"You have to own a lot of hills to get enough land to farm," one Hyde resident puts it, but city folks who hanker for the outdoors have been buying the wooded bluffs for recreational purposes. Profs. Schoenfeld and Robert A. McCabe of the Wildlife Ecology Department are among these. They liked the solidity of the small Hyde church with its pine shaded graveyard.

One day, as Bob McCabe stood on his bridge watching the water swirl, Tom McCutchin, a Hyde resident and president of the Hyde Cemetery Association, stopped by with news — "The church is being sold." The Wisconsin Conference of United Church of Christ has a policy of selling and having removed its unused small churches. Hyde church was on the block.

Bob and Clay called together informally some local people to see how they felt toward the church. Several had relatives in the quiet cemetery, and they liked the idea of preserving the building. There was never thought of resuming any kind of church service.

So Schoenfeld and McCabe bought Hyde church, and with McCutchin's practical help organized a meeting of city and rural families to form a Hyde Community Association which would legally possess the building. Atty. Robert Brigham, Madison, whose family name is deeply associated with the area, contributed his legal services to the cause.

One condition of purchase was the official change to Hyde Chapel.

HCA members planned two workdays, one in fall and one in spring. The first, Sept. 24, 1966, had all the flavor of an old-time barn raising. It was a gray day, damp and chilly. Bundled in sweaters, jackets and head coverings, everybody came and set to work not bothering with introductions. Foresighted farmers had brought hot water in milk cans, and their wives included cleaning equipment. City women brought elbow grease.

Men scraped, pounded and painted outside, while the women mopped, scrubbed and waxed inside. The Barneveld hardware dealer took off for more window panes. A Ridgeway mason promised to chink the foundation. A Madison doctor's wife produced special wax for the worn pews.

Then came the bountiful country-style potluck lunch, spread out on McCuthin's flatbed wagon parked by the church. Over heaping plates workers at last took time to visit and get acquainted.

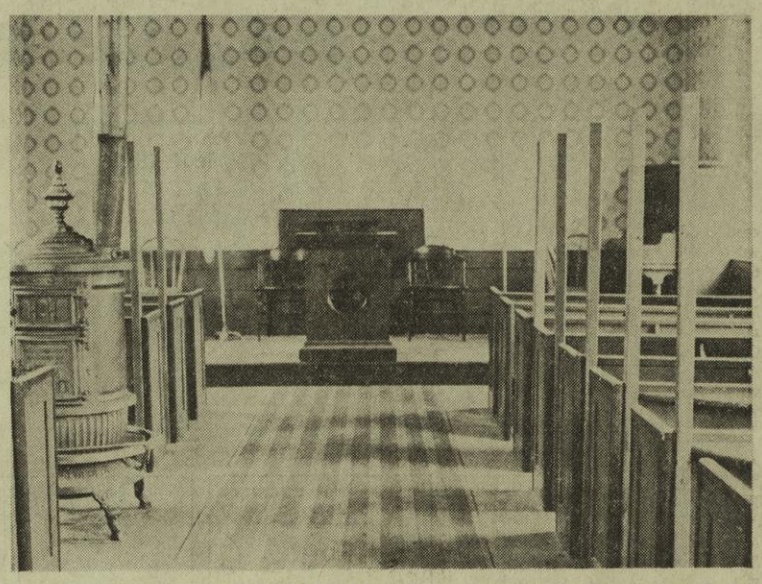
After lunch the HCA formally organized, electing Tom McCutchin president. According to the broad based constitution adopted, HCA can engage in community projects if desired. Hyde Chapel, if needed for a small funeral, can be used. It cannot serve as a church.

As business drew to a close, one overalled member raised his hand, "I move we adjourn and get to work before it rains!" So they did.

Forty members and guests turned out Dec. 18 for the business meeting when HCA bought the church officially.



There's nothing fancy about Hyde Chapel. When it was an unused church, members of the congregation took home various furnishings for safekeeping. Now with its restoration they are bringing them back. The Bible is back on the pulpit, the old organ will be returned in the spring, and two original kerosene lamps will be in place. Restoration is for historic interest only.

Profs. Clay Schoenfeld, left, and Robert McCabe of Madison, ready for an excursion to Hyde. Prof. Schoenfeld's father and two uncles preached at the Hyde Congregational Church. Both men own recreational land in the area, and with Tom McCutchin, a Hyde resident, sparked organization of the Hyde Community Association.

Robert Peterson contributed a juniper for the podium — the true Iowa County Christmas tree. Red oak from Prof. Robert Ellarson's farm stoked the old stove. Mrs. Mary Bowden at the old piano accompanied carol singing. Then everyone attacked the long table laden with coffee and all kinds of fancy cookies— Swiss, Cornish, German and Welsh.

Reminiscing was in order. The Price sisters, whose father was a pillar of Hdye church, remembered who sat where and who prayed the loudest.

Lance Dodge, Blue Mounds, who died this March, was then at 86 the oldest member of the HCA. He told how the church once had two stoves, one on each side. Men sat on one side and women on the other. Lance had lived a mile above Hyde on a 200-acre farm which his grandfather, working for 50 cents a day had bought for 50 cents an acre.

Listeners delighted in his tale of his favorite hunting and fishing pal minister. Beaver were protected, but the minister would occasionally get one and hide it in the church organ. Another minister walked three miles each way every Sunday to preach at Hyde, carrying his heavy Bible.

Members of HCA sometimes think back on what's happened. For one thing, emphasis on the secular, non-denominational aspect of the undertaking has succeeded. For another, everyone seems to appreciate the role of the restored little church as a historical monument and a picturesque bit of scenery.

One fact intrigues Tom McCutchin especially. This new influx of city people, which local residents viewed with suspicion, has turned out to be compatible with traditions of the countryside. He's already talking about a roadside beautification project that the group might spnsor.

Pleasing to the conservative element is this clear-cut example of "do-it-yourself" preservation without any governmental intervention.

After the HCA Christmas meeting, when people were ready to leave, but nobody really wanted to make the break, someone rather hesitantly suggested — hesitantly because this is definitely a church that is not a church — that they end with the old song, "Blest be the tie that binds." However interpreted, it was fitting.

Next work day? Memorial Day weekend.

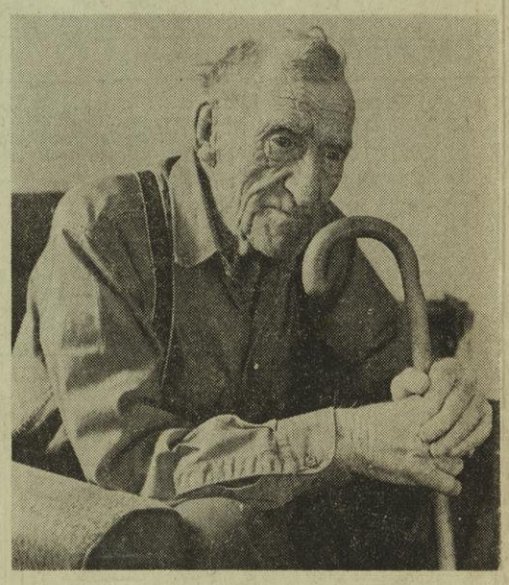
MADISON, WIS., Monday, March 27, 1967



The late Lance Dodge, Blue Mounds, was at 86 the oldest member of the Hyde Community Association. He attended the Dec. 18 meeting and reminisced about old days at Hyde's Mill, when the church was functioning. Mr. Dodge was the man who, while drilling blast holes, discovered Cave of the Mounds.

TO BEGIN with, did you know that there are also "southern lights"? In the northern hemisphere they are called aurora australis.

The northern lights may be seen almost every clear night at a latitude of about 60 degrees. In the regions where they are brightest, a faint arc of light is seen in the dark northern sky after sunset.

Suddenly the arc breaks up into parallel rays of light. The colors in these rays, which are usually pale green and red and yellow, become deeper. Sometimes the parallel rays take a form that seems to look like a curtain or drapery. These draperies, together with long streamers of light, may cover the whole sky.

This display lasts only a short time, perhaps only a few minutes, but it may be repeated several times during a single night. Sometimes the rays come together overhead to form what is called the "corona", or crown. The finest effects of the aurora usually appear at an altitude of 50 to 100 miles above the earth.

The aurora borealis is seen at its best in Alaska, in Canada around the Hudson Bay region, in southern Greenland, and in Norway. Sometimes it is seen farther south in the United States, where it appears as a faint reddish glow.

The theory that scientists have to explain these northern lights is that they are caused by electrically charged particles coming from the sun at high speed. When these particles meet the earth's magnetic field, they are turned aside toward the earth's poles. If the particles then collide with atoms of the earth's upper atmosphere, some of the electrons are removed from the atoms. When these atoms combine again with other electrons, they send out the glowing light of the aurora.

Walked 5¾ Miles On Flight from London to N.Y.C.

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Miss Champa Malkani, 24, walked 5¾ miles the other day at an average speed of just under 600 miles per hour.

Miss Malkani, an Air India hostess, carried a pedometer during a London-New York flight as part of a company experiment to see how much walking their hostesses do.

On the subsequent return journey to London, Miss Malkani walked only 3¾ miles, but it was a late night flight and the hostess did not have to serve drinks or dinner.

THE QUESTION

Do present high school courses really prepare the student to go out into the world on his own?

WHERE ASKED

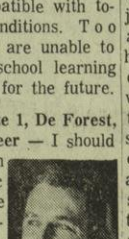
THE ANSWERS

Mrs. Charles W. Bates, Stoughton, Housewife — First, I would like to say that the students of today are getting a much better education than they were in my time. However, I think in the next 10 or 20 years the entire system will undergo a major overhaul. I feel that the present school system is not compatible with today's living conditions. Too many students are unable to correlate their school learning with their plans for the future.

Rod Bott, Route 1, De Forest, Operating Engineer — I should think that with the general basic education the high school student receives today, he should be able to fit into most any type of work. The biggest problem facing a young man starting out today is not one of education. It is the military draft situation. This is why I favor the straight lottery draft system. I am opposed to student deferments because it places the brunt of the problem on the youth who does not want to go on to college.

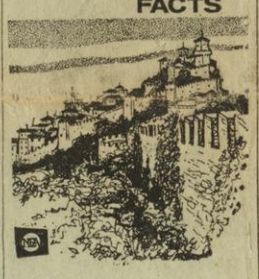


Terry Nordness, 229 Jackson St., Truck Driver — I think there is room for expanded vocational training to take care of the youngster who does not want college. Young people today have far more opportunity to get the education and training than we did in my time. Parents are in a better position to allow their youngsters to continue with their schooling. I think if the young person is willing to take advantage of the opportunities they will have no trouble getting started in the world.

Mrs. Beverly Swope, 6308 Midwood Blvd., Homemaker — Just judging from the actions of my high school daughter, I would say that the schools sponsor too many extra-curricular activities. She seems more interested in these things than in her actual studies. However, I will say that the courses she takes are more complicated than when I went to high school. I think it is much harder for boys, since they not only need advanced education, but must also worry about the draft.

Robert McMahon, Janesville, Manufacturer's Representative — I know the situation has improved a lot over the years, but I think the high schools still overemphasize college prep courses while overlooking the vocational aspect. I personally feel that there are too many college students who would be better off learning a skilled trade. Of course, a lot of this is due to the student deferment. If they are going to defer college students, they should do the same with young men working in an apprentice program.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS



San Marino is the smallest republic in the world and claims to be the oldest in Europe. Founded in the 4th century A.D., it is completely surrounded by Italy and is about half the size of Washington, D.C. According to The World Almanac, the 1962 population was estimated at 17,000. San Marino uses Italian or Vatican money but has its own stamps and coins.

Dr. Brady's Column

THIS PIECE will probably make some people mad, but I don't care.

Countless times I have asserted here that a man belongs at his wife's side when he and she are having a baby. Now I want to add that a man who loves his wife and a woman who loves her husband naturally want to share the miracle of childbirth together. From observation and experience I believe this adds a sacred touch which makes marriage forever. And, by the same token, I believe separation of man and wife at this supreme moment of their married life makes divorce seem less repugnant.

Brady

There are still too many lying-in institutions where unsophisticated patrons, even those who can and do pay their way, are mistreated under what the doctors and nurses in such backward institutions explain as "hospital rules."

Tell me, knucklehead, who makes the "rules?" Not the impersonal and unapproachable board of managers. Not the superintendent or warden. The doctors who are members of the hospital staff make the rules, for their own benefit, and not for the patrons' benefit. It enables the doctor to get away with — all sorts of sins of commission or omission in the star chamber, the isolated delivery room which the husband is not permitted to enter. It enables the doctor to arrive a bit late and still bill the patron for the delivery when, in fact, the nurses or maybe an intern really attended the birth.

An increasing number of youn gexpectant parents regard the birth of their baby as a 50-50 responsibility and so they want to share the miracle together. But ungodly 19th Century hospitals and their medical staffs still regard patrons as lowly peasants who don't understand and, in any case, dare not question the conduct of their superiors.

Thus a good many medical practitioners deliberately deceive prospective parents who wish to maintain the dignity and respect of parenthood, by telling them at first that it will be all right for the husband to remain at his wife's side during labor and delivery, so far as he or she is concerned, an dthen when the time comes, pretending that "hospital rules" prohibit the husband from being present. The very idea that there is a rule, regulation, law or ordinance which prohibits a husband from remaining at his wife's side during the birth is absurd. They get away with it because they are fairly confident the peasants don't know any better.

I think a good many people go to the hospital for childbirth rather than have their baby at home because they don't know any better. The humblest home is a safer place to have a baby than the most pretentious hospital. The statistics, so far as they are available, prove this. It is the $500 snobs, the smart alecks and smart Alices who imagine childbirth in a hospital is safe whereas childbirth at home is risky. I believe this wrong notion is promoted by the fast buck practitioners who find it so much easier to exploit dumb customers under "hospital rules."

Some women chide me for my teaching that a real man's place is at his wife's side when she is in labor. Others tell me how disappointed they were when "hospital rules" excluded the husband from the delivery room. Today there are two ways to avoid this: Either have your baby at home or choose a hospital and a doctor that not only permits but asks the husband to be at his wife's side when their baby is being born.

I'm sorry I can't afford to give directory service. I can only cite the report of the Childbirth Education association that in 45,000 cases of childbirth with the husband in the delivery room there has been no instance of infection traceable to the husband. Expectant parents who want to have their baby at home or in a 20th Century hospital should canvass the physicians of their community in person, by letter or telephone, asking whether the physician approves of the husband remaining at his wife's side. Any answer other than a courteous yes or no disqualifies the physician in any circumstance.

West opens the six of hearts, and you play the queen of hearts from dummy. Do you plan to try the finesse in clubs or in diamonds? The answer depends on what happens to dummy's queen of hearts at the first trick.

If the queen of hearts wins, you know that West holds the ace. You can safely let West win a trick, but if East gained the lead he would return a heart and then West would defeat the contract with the rest of his long suit. You must, therefore, develop your tricks in such a way as to keep East out of the lead.

Win the first trick in dummy with the queen of hearts and lead the queen of diamonds for a finesse. West takes the king of diamonds and returns a club.

Refuse the club finesse. Go up with the ace of clubs and take your nine tricks: three spades, one heart, four diamonds and one club.

Your plan would be different if East could play the ace of hearts to win the first trick. He would return a heart, and you would refuse the trick. You win the third heart, and now you recognize that West is the dangerous opponent. If West gets in he will take the rest of his hearts.

After taking the king of hearts you lead the queen of clubs for a finesse. East wins and returns a diamond. Go right up with the ace of diamonds and take your nine tricks: three spades, one heart, one diamond and four clubs.

In a case of this sort you choose the finesse that loses to the "safe" opponent. You refuse to take the finesse that would lose to the dangerous opponent.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade and the next player passes. You hold: S—9 6 5 3 2; H—10 9 7; D—6 5 3; C—K u. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades. You have only 3 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubleton, plus 1 point for extra length in spades. The total is only 5 points, with 6 points usually needed for a response. Nevertheless, you are advised to raise to two spades because this bid helps shut the opponents out of the bidding. If your partner goes down at a spade contract, the odds are very good that the opponents could make a good score at a contract of their own.

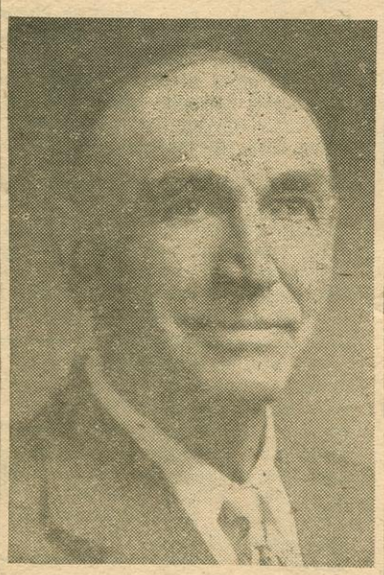
WILLIAM G. ORHT

William George Orht was born at Arena, March 27, 1873, and passed away at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Slauson, 26 Howard St., Braintree, Mass., August 22, 1957, at the age of 84 years.

He was united in Christian marriage to Mary Salzmann on



William George Orht

March 27, 1895 and to this happy union two daughters were born, namely, Marie, Mrs. Wm. Pfanku, who preceded him in death on July 16, 1954, and Gladys, Mrs. James W. Slauson, with whom he has made his home much of the time since his wife's death on Dec. 28, 1944.

His early life was spent in farming and later he established a mercantile business, and a lumber, feed and coal business in Arena.

Always interested in civic affairs he became the president of the village when it was incorporated in 1920.

He has also served Arena as Postmaster and was Vice President of the Arena State Bank from the time it was formed until 1945.

As a member of the Arena First Congregational church he served as deacon and trustee for many years.

His later years were spent in gardening and his hobby of building a mechanical circus gave him and his friends much enjoyment.

Besides his daughter he leaves to mourn his departure a granddaughter, Janet M. Slauson of the home address; two grandsons, 2nd Lt. William J. Slauson of Harlingen Air Force Base, Harlingen, Texas, and 2nd Lt. John P. Slauson, Bartow Air Force Base, Bartow, Florida; also two sisters, Mrs. R. N. Schumann of Madison and Mrs. Elmer Bock of Tacoma, Wash., and a host of relatives and friends.

Funeral services were conducted August 24th at the Russell funeral home in Braintree, Mass., by Dr. John Prescott Robertson of the First Congregational church. Burial services held at the First Congregational church at Arena on August 26th, were conducted by the Rev. Paul Reichert. Interment was made in the Arena cemetery. 1cx

ACCIDENT KILLS PAUL E. JOHNSON

Was Working on Sewer Project Near Janesville at Time of Death

Funeral rites for Paul E. Johnson, 25, a Beloit resident recently, and formerly of Dodgeville, who was killed last Thursday, Aug. 8, when a crane bucket fell on him, were held Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Lulloff funeral home, Dodgeville. The Rev. Duane Hoven of Grace Lutheran church officiated and burial was made in the East Side cemetery, with military graveside services.

Mr. Johnson was working on a sewer construction project near Janesville when the fatal accident occurred. His body was buried under about two feet of dirt when the sides of the 12-foot sewer trench caved in as the crane operator lifted the bucket off of him.

Mr. Johnson who was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson, Dodgeville, served in Korea with the Third Infantry Division. Previously he was a garage mechanic in Dodgeville.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his wife and two daughters, Christian Ann and Cheryl Lynn, all at home; and two brothers, Clifford, Dodgeville, and Onas, Necedah.

PAUL EUGENE JOHNSON

Paul Eugene Johnson was born June 10, 1932, at Dodgeville, Wisconsin. He was baptized into the Christian faith by the Rev. B. O. Steffenson. At the age of 14 he was confirmed at Grace Lutheran church by Pastor Redal.

The famliy resided in the town of Clyde until 16 years ago when they moved to this city.

Paul was employed at Rockford, Ill., for two years. He then served two years in the U. S. Army. Of this service one and a half years were spent in Korea. He was awarded the following medals for his service to our country: the Combat Infantry Badge, United Nations Service Medal, Korean Service Ribbon, the Bronze Service Star and the National Defense Service Medal. Paul was honorably discharged Nov. 3, 1954 at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

He was united in marriage to Georgina Edge in June 1955. Two daughters blessed this union—Kristine Ann and Cheryl Lynn.

He and his family had recently moved to Beloit, Wis., where he was employed by the Staley and Korsburg Construction Co. He was instantly killed at work on Thursday afternoon, Aug. 8, 1957, age 25 years and two months.

He leaves to mourn his early departure his wife and daughters; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Johnson; two brothers, Clifford of Dodgeville and Onas of Necedah; three nieces and a host of other relaitves and friends.

Funeral rites were held on Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. in the Lulloff funeral home. Rev. Duane Hoven of Grace Lutheran church spoke comforting words to the bereaved family. Mrs. Hoven sang two solos, with Mrs. Wilson Brue at the organ.

Burial was in East Side cemetery with military graveside services. Cousins and friends carried the casket to his last resting place.

Blessed be his memory.

I cannot say and I will not say
That he is dead,—he is just away!
He has wandered into an unknown land—
Think of him still as the same, I say;
He is not dead—he is just away!

F. M. ALLEN, WELL KNOWN ARENA RESIDENT DIES

F. M. Allen, 81, long-time Arena automobile and farm implement dealer, died Sunday, Nov. 17, at a Madison hospital.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Charles L. Puls, Madison, assisted by the Rev. Paul Reichert, at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Arena Congregational church. Burial will be made in the Arena cemetery.

Mr. Allen lived in Arena for 60 years and had the Chevrolet dealership in Arena for the past 35 years. He was representative of the Minneapolis-Moline implement company for 56 years, the longest service record with the firm of any dealer in the nation.

He also operated a grocery store in Arena for many years.

Surviving are his wife; three daughters, Mrs. Albert Glatus, Munising, Mich., Mrs. Robert L. Hodgson, Arena, and Mrs. S. J. Vetter, Indianapolis, Ind.; 10 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren; also two sisters, Mrs. Clyde Lewis, New Cambria, Kansas and Mrs. Stella Way, Waterloo, Iowa.

Arrangements were handled by the Roberts funeral home.

SAMUEL THOMAS HAMILTON OF ARENA PASSES AWAY

Samuel Thomas Hamilton, 87, lifelong resident of the Arena area, passed away in his sleep at his home Sunday night, Nov. 24. He had been ill for quite some time previous to his death.

Mr. Hamilton had been a farmer and was a member of the Arena Bible church.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Arena Bible church with the Reverends C. R. Williamson and Gene Kordick officiating. Burial was made in the Arena cemetery.

He is survived by his wife; two sons, Delbert T. Hamilton, Milwaukee and the Rev. Gaylord S. Hamilton, Highland, Ind.; three granddaughters; and one brother, George, Arena.

Arrangements were handled by the Roberts funeral home.

Mrs. C. J. Lanigan

ARENA — Mrs. C. J. Lanigan, 70, Arena, died Saturday in a Prairie du Sac hospital after a brief illness.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. today in the Roberts and Son funeral home.

Mrs. Lanigan was born in Platteville. She was a member of the Mothers of Dover and the American Legion Auxiliary.

Surviving besides her husband are two daughters, Mrs. Stuart Hesse, Elgin, Ill., and Mrs. Edward Winike, Verona; a son, Robert, Spring Green; two sisters, Mrs. Edward Hodgson, Mazomanie, and Mrs. Joseph Hottmann, Arena; a brother, Rev. Philip Ralph, St. Petersburg, Fla.; and 13 grandchildren.

Friends may call at the funeral home until the time of services.

DR. EDWIN BROWN OF ARENA DIES

Community Loses Veteran Doctor Who Cared for Its Needs 50 Years

Arena community lost one of its most beloved and revered citizens recently with the passing of Dr. Edwin N. Brown, 82. He died at a Madison hospital unexpectedly on Saturday evening, April 12.

Funeral services were held at the Arena Congregational church on Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 with the Revs. Rowland Evans and Serge Hummon officiating. Burial was made in the Arena cemetery.

A native of Ohio, Dr. Brown received his medical education at Northwestern University and did his interning in Chicago hospitals. He came to Arena in January 1905 with the intentions of remaining for only a short while and the stay lasted for well over 50 years.

Always kindly, sympathetic, soft-spoken and well mannered, Dr. Brown devoted his life to the welfare of the Arena community where he practiced his calling. Throughout the long years he was in active practice he was on call day and night.

The people of the community honored him at a special program in October 1953, in an endeavor to demonstrate in some small way their appreciation and affection for him.

He was a member of the Congregational church and had for some time been a consulting physician at the Jackson Clinic, Madison.

He is survived by his widow, the former Gertrude Whitt of Arena, whom he married in 1912.

Funeral arangements were handled by the Robert funeral home at Arena.

Merger keeps hospitals alive

By Ron Seely
Of The State Journal

Necessity is indeed the mother of invention. And yes, two is better than one.

Hospital officials in Cuba City and Platteville will attest to either maxim.

With fewer patients and increasing costs, both of the Grant County hospitals faced a dilemma that threatened to undercut much-needed health care in the rural communities they serve. The future for the small hospitals looked bleak and it was obvious drastic measures were necessary.

So the boards of each institution put their collective heads together and came up with a solution — merger.

It is a solution health care specialists say could mean the difference between success or failure for many hard-pressed rural hospitals.

New corporation

The boards of Platteville Municipal Hospital and Nursing Home and Cuba City Medical Center Inc. voted to combine both institutions into a new corporation. The decision came after a recommendation by a committee, made up of five members of each board, which studied the idea.

Health care experts consulted by the committee endorsed the proposal and a consultant's study released early last year also recommended merger stating the hospitals could not "continue on a long-range basis due to the limited population of their individual service areas and changing patterns of health care."

The approval of the plan by each municipality is required before merger becomes a reality. A public hearing on the proposal is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Oct. 30 in the Platteville City Council chambers.

Staff to stay

The tentative plan calls for a new board of directors including representation from both existing boards; a new non-profit, non-stock corporation would be formed and would assume the combined assets and liabilities of the institutions.

No changes in facilities or staff are planned in the near future, according to Ken Creswick, administrator of both institutions.

"The combining of these two institutions is seen as a joining together of management and direction so that both Cuba City Medical Center and Platteville Municipal Hospital will benefit from future health care decisions in our service area," Creswick said.

"This is a way to stop competing with each other and to work together to insure area residents of having higher quality health care and more comprehensive services in the future."

Terry Voss, a planning associate with the Health Planning Council, praised the decision.

"It definitely, unequivocally, is one of the best solutions that I can think of toward solving the problems facing rural hospitals," Voss said.

Foremost among the problems facing small hospitals, Voss said, is a decreasing number of patients with more rural residents going into the urban areas for health care. He added that in the 11-county area served by the Health Planning Council, one of every six patients is served in Madison.

Merger, Voss said, offers a way of increasing the number of patients served by each hospital and, therefore, of financing more services.

"Cuba City and Platteville have small hospitals with good staffs," Voss said. "They both serve small numbers of people. You have to serve people to justify a range of services. By putting two physical plants under one board, you increase the population base the hospital serves. When you increase the population base, you can offer a greater range of physician specialties. You can support a greater range of services. And you can share services."

Support encouraging

The Cuba City Medical Center has 55 acute care beds and 60 nursing home beds while Platteville has 31 acute care beds and 34 nursing home beds. There are five physicians on each staff.

Creswick said support from both communities has been encouraging. Some people, he added, are afraid that a new hospital will be built immediately and the two community hospitals will be closed. Creswick said this will not happen.

"Our study recommended that ultimately a new hospital be built but there are no funds for that right now," Creswick said. "We're not talking about a new hospital. We know that 20 years from now, the wise thing to do might be to build a new hospital between the two communities. But there is no money for that now."

He added that any staff changes would be made through natural attrition.

Creswick said cost savings because of the merger will be slow in coming, maybe as long as five or 10 years. But he did say that more services will be available in the near future.

"We should be able, with the population we'll be serving after the merger and the number of primary physicians we'll have, to support some specialists. This is what we're really hoping for," Creswick said.

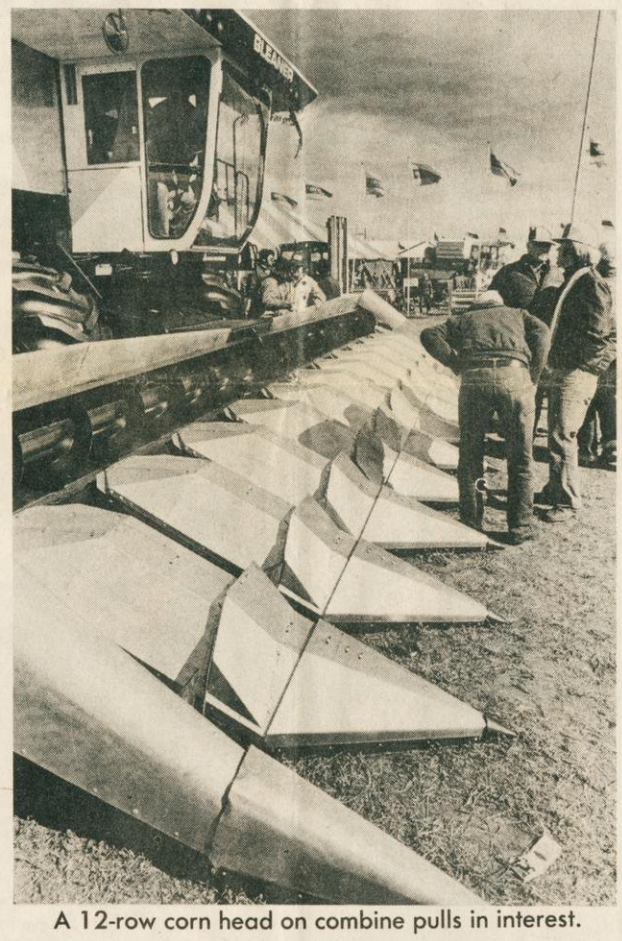
Farm Days crowd biggest ever



A 12-row corn head on combine pulls in interest.

By Robert Bjorklund
State Journal Farm Editor

MONTFORT — The crowds at Wisconsin Farm Progress Days hit an estimated 55,000 persons Wednesday.

The 1979 program, which has attracted 90,000 persons in two days, ends at 4:30 p.m. today.

LaVerne Draves, executive secretary of the program at the Charles Mueller and Roger James farms, south of Montfort and Cobb, said the Farm Progress committee estimated that Wednesday's attendance was the largest single-day crowd to attend the program, now in its 26th year.

"We flew over tent city and the parking lots and got the most satisfying moment of the entire program as we watched the cars keep pouring in," Draves said. "They completely filled the main parking area, which accounted for 40,000 persons and then moved into an overflow lot where the cars brought another 15,000 visitors." he added.

Hungry crowd

Don Hawkins, Mineral Point, who is in charge of the food-stand operations, told Draves that the people not only were interested in the displays and demonstrations, but were hungrier than the planners had expected.

In two days, Hawkins said, visitors ate as much food as had been estimated would be consumed in three days.

At the food stands, weary-but-happy workers said the cool weather may have been the reason consumption took such a jump.

Hawkins had to put out an order to Madison for additional supplies to finish up the program today.

Hawkins wasn't the only one to order new supplies of food.

At the Women of Associated Milk Producers Inc. tent, the 25-cent ice cream cones sold out even on a cold day.

John Brokish, Route 2, Dodgeville, said 138 gallons of ice cream had been consumed by early afternoon and people were standing in line asking for more.

Harland Rue, Barneveld, also said that the visitors consumed 192 pounds of curd at 25 cents a cup brought in from a nearby cheese factory, forcing them to try to get more.

The longest lines, however, were not at the food tents, but at the two model homes — the more conventional Mueller home with solar-electric design — and the James' dome home, which gives people an idea of what it is like to live in a geodesic dome.

Visitors closely inspected the solar panels of the Mueller home, but many of them said the idea was too new and that they knew little about the efficiency and investment in solar to go with the heating system.

Enterprising salesmen used every means possible to attract the public. Irrigation people put together various sizes of hose to make a hose man, one firm hung a tractor from the roof peak to show the strength of its structure, and another stacked its smallest diesel tractor on the cab of its largest tractor.

Choppers and combines got a workout in the nearby corn fields, but field shelling operations were not started because the corn was still carrying 43 percent moisture.

At the Allis Chalmers lot in tent city, the huge 12-row corn head on the company's largest gleaner continued to pull a lot of interest from farmers.

$123,000 combine

The combine, with heads for grain and corn harvesting, is a $123,000 package and indicative of the investment some farmers must make to harvest their crops.

A 12-row picker is a rare sight in Wisconsin, but could be used on some prairie fields found in Dane and Rock counties, corn growers said.

Many dealers said they have sold half the equipment off their lots, with most of the transactions coming opening day.

They expect that the strong buyer pressure will come today as the program closes.

The 50-acre tent city is so large that visitors found they couldn't cover it all in one day.

Draves said the program has worked as planned because the volunteers from around Iowa County put forth so much effort.

"This brought the neighbors together and gave us a great show," he said.

This big four-wheel-drive tractor comes with a tent.

Oshkosh visitor dies at Farm Progress show

Fred Buehring, 76, Oshkosh, died Wednesday while visiting Farm Progress Days near Montfort.

Buehring was taken to Iowa County Hospital in Dodgeville where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Dr. Young Kim, a physician at the hospital, said the cause of Buehring's death is being withheld pending the receipt of a medical history.

Farm Progress homes add dates

MONTFORT — Public inspection of the two new homes at the Wisconsin Farm Progress Days program has been so popular the homes will remain open for three days after Farm Progress Days close.

The two homes will be open Friday and Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and on Sunday from noon to 4 p.m. The arrangement was made with the co-host families to allow persons who work during the day a chance to visit the homes.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, the first two days of the Farm Progress Days, hundreds of persons stood in lines waiting to see the homes, which are on adjoining farms on County Highway B, south of Highway 18 between Montfort and Cobb.

On the Charles and Evelyn Mueller farm, people are visiting a solar-electric home that features many energy savings ideas and solar heating panels.

At the neighboring farm of Roger and Sharyn James the home is a "geodesic dome," which incorporates an energy efficient design.

Electric co-ops hurting small farmer, study says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rural electric cooperatives, formed to provide farmers with electricity, are ignoring their primary customers to provide electricity for some of the nation's most energy-intensive industries, an Environmental Policy Institute study concludes.

"Having long ago completed the task of electrifying the nation's farms, rural electric cooperatives are now supplying electricity to some of the most energy-intensive activities in the national economy," the report stated.

"To be sure, the farmer is still served, perhaps too well," it said. But it added that the cooperatives are promoting "all-electric agriculture," which involves using electricity for such things as irrigation pumps and automatic feed-lot feeding operations.

"All-electric farming is not small-business agriculture," it said.

The cooperatives' promotion of all-electric farming is "helping to price the little guy in agriculture out of the market" by contributing to the cost of production, the report said.

The cooperatives began in 1935 with the creation of the Rural Electrification Administration, which provided low-interest rate loans to enable rural cooperatives to string wires to rural areas to provide electricity.

Today, an estimated 20 percent of rural electric customers are in developing suburban areas near major metropolitan areas, the study said.

In addition, electricity sold by rural electrics to commercial and industrial users increased 230 percent between 1966 and 1976, it added.

The result, the center said, is a dramatic shift from "local electric power distribution for family farmers to regional electric generation, transmission and fuel supply activities geared to industrial, suburban and recreation users."

Joni Jackson elected to panel of GOP women

Joni Jackson, a Madison Republican and president of Wisconsin's GOP women's group, was recently elected to the 11-member executive committee of the National Federation of Republican Women.

Mrs. Jackson was a key volunteer during the 1978 campaign of Gov. Lee Dreyfus.

She led a delegation of 55 Wisconsin women to the three-day conference in Indianapolis, Ind., where 2,500 delegates and guests heard presentations for all 11 announced candidates for the party's 1980 president nomination.

Besides Mrs. Jackson, the wife of State Transportation Secretary Lowell Jackson, the Wisconsin delegation included 16 Madison-area and southern Wisconsin women.

During the Sept. 27-29 convention, the Dane County Republican Women's group was honored with a "diamond award" for top achievement among local organizations.

Man pleads innocent to arson deaths

JANESVILLE (AP) — A Janesville man pleaded innocent Tuesday in Circuit Court to charges stemming from an Aug. 11 fire which claimed the lives of three occupants of a downtown apartment building.

A hearing on a motion for change of venue was scheduled for Nov. 15 after Russell Dibble, 32, pleaded innocent to arson and three counts of second-degree murder.

Judge Mark Farnum said he would appoint psychiatrists to examine Dibble, who was being held in Rock County Jail.

Cheryl Kiemann, 21, who was pregnant, and Mary McGowan, 19, of Sioux Falls, S.D., died in the fire. William Lyons, 35, died later in a Madison hospital.

Student's death to be investigated

WAUPUN (AP) — The state Justice Department intends to investigate the unexplained death of a Waupun High School student, Fond du Lac County Coroner Frank Decker says.

James Vermeer, 15, died Sept. 27 in a hospital after collapsing in a school corridor, and an autopsy was unable to show a cause of death, Decker said.

Soldiers Grove received one grant

A story in the October 5 Wisconsin State Journal incorrectly reported that Soldiers Grove has received two grants, one for $1 million and another for $573,200, from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development for work on the village's relocation project.

Tom Hirsch, coordinator of the relocation project, said the $1 million grant is a two-year grant and the $573,200 received two weeks ago is actually the first-year's payment.

Also, Hirsch said the amount of government money being requested to complete the project is $1,519,813 not $1 million as was reported in the story.

Manslaughter hearing waived

KENOSHA (AP) — A paraplegic accused of killing another man during a birthday party waived a preliminary hearing Wednesday.

Richard Jon Maxwell, 26, confined to a wheelchair as a result of auto accident injuries, is charged with manslaughter and excessive use of force in defending himself in the Sept. 17 shooting of Craig M. Brown, of Zion, Ill.

Circuit Judge Michael Fisher bound Maxwell over for trial. No arraignment date was set for Maxwell, who remains free on $10,000 bond.

Brown was shot while he and several other persons were at Maxwell's home for Maxwell's 26th birthday party. Witnesses said both men pulled out guns during a quarrel.

Maxwell told authorities that Brown approached him from behind and put a gun to the back of his head. He said he swung around, drew a gun from a holster on his leg and shot Brown in the chest, grabbing Brown's gun as the shot was fired.

DNR sued over listening devices

MERRILL (AP) — Nine employees of the Tomahawk office of the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources filed suit Wednesday seeking $315,000 in damages in connection with the alleged installation of listening devices at the office lunchroom.

The suit named DNR supervisors Phillip Paske and Gordon Landphier, and Anthony Earl, the agency's secretary.

It alleged that one of the employees discovered the devices in December, 1978, and Tom King, head of the Wisconsin State Employees Union, informed Earl of the situation in a letter the following month but the DNR secretary failed to take appropriate action.

The civil suit asks for the issuance of a permanent injunction against installation of any such devices in the future.

It said state Attorney General Bronson La Follette told state agencies in April that installation of such eavesdropping devices is prohibited under Wisconsin law.

Steffen gets human resources job

MONROE — Kerwin W. Steffen, former radio announcer, language teacher, musician and New Glarus Village Board member, has been named vice president for human resources at St. Clare Hospital.

Steffen, who joined the hospital in February, 1975, as associate coordinator of continuing education, will head the personnel department.

Steffen and his wife, Marilee, a registered nurse, have two daughters and live in New Glarus.

Fire chief charged with misconduct

STURGEON BAY (UPI) — Sturgeon Bay Fire Department Chief Glen Anderson has been charged with misconduct in a public office for allegedly buying a table and chair set for his home with city money.

From Aug. 18 to Sept. 7, Anderson received approval from the City Council to buy a table and chair set, bought the set and had it delivered to his home, and had his own older table and chair set delivered to the Fire Department, the complaint said.

Anderson allegedly sold the table and chair originally at the Fire Department to a fireman for $25 and kept the money himself, the complaint said.

DA to investigate infant's death

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The District Attorney's office Tuesday was investigating the death of a 22-month-old boy who died at a local hospital, an apparent victim of child abuse.

A spokesman said the boy had suffered second-degree burns over 20 percent of his body after being placed in hot water at his home Sept. 26. His mother, 21, is being questioned and is due in the District Attorney's office this week.

The mother, authorities said, told police the death was accidental. But police said the woman had a record of child abuse and had said she did not want the baby.

Foreigners' purchase of U.S. land not very extensive, study says

By Seth S. King
©N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Foreign buying of American farm, range and forest land, which has caused legislators and farm organizations to express deep concern, is far less extensive than these groups had feared.

Preliminary studies by the Agriculture Department indicate that foreign investors hold interests in about four million acres of land classified as agricultural. That is less than one-half of 1 percent of the 1.2 billion acres of such land in the United States.

Nearly one-third of these foreign holdings are in Georgia, South Carolina and Tennessee, a majority of which are believed to be in pulp and saw wood forest land, an Agriculture Department official said. There are also sizable foreign holdings in Massachusetts and several Western states, including California and Texas.

Contrary to persistent rumors that oil-rich Arabs have been pouring money into farm purchases in the South and West and inflating land prices, less than 1,500 acres is shown to be Arab-owned, according to the department.

Nearly two-thirds of all foreign-owned land examined by the Agriculture Department by the end of August was held by investors from four countries — Britain, Luxembourg, West Germany and Canada.

Last year, Congress approved the Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act, which requires all foreign owners of American farm, range or forest land to report these holdings to the department. All American corporations in which foreigners have interests of 5 percent or more must also report their agricultural holdings.

The requirements apply to all foreign-held land in agricultural use at the time of purchase, as well as to land later converted to agricultural use.

At the beginning of September, the Agriculture Department had received more than 5,000 reports of foreign ownership. Two-thirds of these, accounting for more than 2.6 million acres, have been analyzed.

Earlier, at the request of the Senate Agriculture Committee, the General Accounting Office, the auditing agency of Congress, surveyed foreign land ownership in parts of 10 states.

The agency found that foreign investors owned more than 8 percent, or 248,146 acres, in the areas studied, with most of that land concentrated in California, Georgia and Montana. Most of this land was held by Western European investors who had generally not paid more than American buyers had for similar land, the agency. said. Most of the holdings studied were in crop land.

The agency warned should this trend continue over a long period, the current pattern of family ownership of farms could be altered.

While the preliminary findings of the Agriculture Department could change when the rest of the ownership reports are analyzed, they tended to diminish the Congressional auditors' concern.

Foreign investors own some agricultural land in all 50 states. But with the exception of several states in the South and West, scattered holdings totaled less than 100,000 acres in any one state and in many states were less than 25,000 acres.

These investors were shown to own nearly 96,000 acres in New York and more than 134,000 in Massachusetts. They own more than 200,000 acres in each of the states of Georgia, South Carolina and Tennessee. They hold more than 100,000 acres in such Western states as California, Colorado, Montana, Nevada, Oregon and Texas.

But they hold less than 30,000 acres in such rich family-farm states as Iowa, Illinois, Kansas and Nebraska.

British investors own by far the largest total of agricultural land among the 50 states, holding more than 907,000 acres. West Germans own more than 350,000 acres and Canadians more than 265,000.

Investors from Luxembourg own more than 398,000 acres of American agricultural land, with 150,000 acres in one holding in Oregon.

Seafood lovers can rejoice again

SEATTLE (AP) — It's bad news for crab fishermen and good news for seafood lovers, but the price of Alaska king crab has dropped.

In recent years, demand in Japan for king crab boosted wholesale prices to more than $10 a pound, said John Matthys, marketing manager for Pacific Pearl Seafoods.

But the demand has slackened in Japan, Matthys said, and the price paid for live king crab at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, has fallen 30 percent in the last year.

But now, during the Happy Sleeper Better-Than-Everyday Sale, you can do even better! We're discontinuing the cover patterns on two of our extra firm lines. So if you don't have guests who tear up your bedsheets checking for this year's mattress cover style, you can save an extra $40.00 on any size mattress/box spring set in these two fine lines.

October's the time—our prices are falling! Hurry to the Happy Sleeper Better-Than-Everyday Sale. And have a good night...after night...after night... after night....

Crash Kills U. W. Grad, Two From Dodgeville

A Dodgeville mother and son and a former University of Wisconsin instructor were among the 47 persons who perished Sunday night in the crash of a Capital Airlines Viscount airliner near Midland, Mich.

The Dodgeville residents were Mrs. Lavina Jenks, 54, and her son, Herbert G. Jenks, 21, a student at Platteville State College.

On Way To Visit

Mrs. Jenks also was the mother of B. Lee Jenks, 516 E. Lakeview ave., Madison, who said his brother and mother were on their way to visit a relative in the town of Clio, Mich., when the crash occurred.

Also killed was Curtis Warren, 31, Orange, Conn., who taught at the university's College of Engineering from 1947 to 1951. He received his B. A. degree here in 1948 and his M. A. in 1950. He also was a research assistant while a graduate student here.

MRS. JENKS

HERBERT G. JENKS

Other State Victims

Other Wisconsin victims were Mrs. Helen Q. Russell, 54, Racine, and two engineers recently transferred to the A-C Sparkplug plant at Milwaukee, Joseph H. Carah, 50, and Alexander F. Kleinert, 25, both formerly of Flint, Mich.

The bodies of the Dodgeville victims were to be taken to the Lulloff funeral home, Dodgeville.

Also surviving Mrs. Jenks are two daughters, Mrs. Melvin Lindauer, Mineral Point, and Mrs Harlan Watrud, Blanchardville; three sisters, Mrs. Marvin Edmunds, Mrs. Raymond Severson, and Mrs. Melvin Husom, all of Dodgeville; and a brother, Milton Peterson, rural Dodgeville.

First Plane Trip

Mrs. Jenks, who was taking her first airplane trip, was employed as a clerk at the Ladd's Ben Franklin store in Dodgeville for about 12 years. She was on her way to visit a sister, Mrs. Dwight Curtiss, Clio, Mich.

Herbert was discharged from the Army last fall and was one of 10 top pre-engineering students at the Platteville college. He had served in the guided missile branch of the Army.

The other son, B. Lee Jenks of Madison, said Monday he also was listed as a passenger by the airline before authorities were advised that his mother and brother were the actual victims.

On Business Trip

Warren, father of four, was superintendent of construction and expansion for the Olin Mathieson Corp. He was on a business trip to Bay City, Mich., after visiting his parents at Minford, O., Sunday.

The two Milwaukee men were General Motor employes. Carah was work standards director for GM's A-C plants in Milwaukee and had been there since last July. Kleinert, project engineer for the A-C Thor guided missile program, was transferred to Milwaukee only last Tuesday. Both had returned to Michigan to spend Easter with their families.

Mrs. Russell, a clerk in the Racine city building inspectors office, had been visiting a nephew in Flint.

Rites Set Friday for Plane Victims

DODGEVILLE— Funeral services for Mrs. Lavina Jenks, 56, Dodgeville, and her son, Herbert G. Jenks, 21, who were killed Sunday night in an airliner crash in Michigan, have been set for Friday afternoon in Dodgeville.

Double services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in the Dodgeville Congregational Church.

Friends may call at the Lulloff funeral home after 7 tonight.

Mrs. Jenks and her son were among 47 who died in the crash of a Capital Airlines Viscount plane near Midland, Mich.

They were on their way to visit Mrs. Jenks' daughter, Mrs. Dwight Curtis, Clio, Mich.

MRS. LOVINA JENKS

Mrs. Grace Lovina Jenks, daughter of Rudolph and Jane Lee Peterson, was born Nov. 13, 1901 in Highland Township. She was baptized and confirmed in the Otter Creek Lutheran church.

On Nov. 22, 1923, she married Bernard A. Jenks in Highland Township. To this union were born five children: Lee, Marie, Norma, Oneida and Herbert.

Mrs. Jenks was preceded in death by her husband, her parents and two brothers. Her son, Herbert, was with her on the plane that crashed taking both of their lives on Easter Sunday, April 6, 1958.

Surviving are one son, Lee Jenks of Madison; three daughters, Mrs. Harland Watrud, Blanchardville; Mrs. Dwight Curtis of Clio, Michigan, and Mrs. Melvin Lindauer of Mineral Point; three sisters, Mrs. Melvin Husom, Mrs. Marvin Edmunds and Mrs. Raymond Severson, all of Dodgeville; one brother, Milton Peterson of Dodgeville; 13 grandchildren; five aunts and two uncles.

Mrs. Jenks was a member of Plymouth Congregational church, Dodgeville, and the Royal Neighbors of America. She was employed at Ladd's Store for 12 years.

Services were held for her and Herbert on Friday, April 11, 1958 from the Congregational church with the Rev. Noel Orcutt officiating. Burial was in the East Side cemetery. Lulloff's funeral home was in charge of arrangements. 1c

TWO DODGEVILLE RESIDENTS DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Mrs. L. Jenks and Son Are Victims of Tragic Sunday Accident

A pleasant week end visiting those near and dear to them ended in tragedy and death for Mrs. Lovina Jenks and her son, Herbert, when the Capital Airlines Viscount plane in which they were riding, crashed and burned in a spring snowfall Easter Sunday night near Midland, Michigan.

Mrs. Jenks, 54, and her son, 21, had flown to Flint, Mich., Saturday morning to visit Mrs. Dwight Curtiss who lived in a suburban community of Clio. Mrs. Curtiss is the daughter and the sister of the victims. Mrs. Jenks also was the mother of B. Lee Jenks, Madison; Mrs. Melvin Lindauer, Mineral Point, and Mrs. Harland Watrud Blanchardville. Among other survivors are three sisters, Mrs. Marvin Edmunds, Mrs. Melvin Husom and Mrs. Raymond Severson; and a brother, Milton Peterson, all of Dodgeville.

Mrs. Jenks' husband, Bernard, who was a retired mail carrier, passed away in 1953.

Mrs. Jenks was well known in the Dodgeville area and had been employed at Ladd's Ben Franklin Store for many years where her congenial and friendly manner earned her many friends. This was her first airplane trip.

Her son, Herbert was discharged from the Army last fall and was one of 10 top pre-engineering students at Platteville State College. He had served in the guided missile branch of the Army.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jenks and her son, Herbert will be held at 2:00 on Friday afternoon at the Congregational church in Dodgeville with the Rev. Noel P. Orcutt in charge.

HERBERT GOODSELL JENKS

Herbert Goodsell Jenks was born Dec. 12, 1936 in Dodgeville, the son of Bernard A. and Lovina Jenks.

He graduated from Dodgeville high school in June, 1954. From there he entered the U.S. Army where he was stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., and Ft. Bliss, Texas. At Ft. Bliss he was a guided missile instructor and attended Western Texas State College. Aftter an honorable discharge in August 1957, he entered Wisconsin State College at Platteville where he was an honor student. He was a pre-engineering student.

Herbert was a member of Plymouth Congregational church where he taught in the Sunday school and sang in the choir.

Surviving are one brother, Lee Jenks of Madison; three sisters, Marie Watrud, Blanchardville, Norma Curtis, Clio, Mich., and Oneida Lindauer, Mineral Point; four aunts and three uncles; seven nices and six nephews. 1c

Owens' Will Benefits Others As Well As the Local Methodist Church

A will left by Miss Anzonetta Owens, Dodgeville, who passed away on February 13 at the age of 87, bequeathes the balance of a sizeable estate to the Dodgeville Methodist church. Filed in Iowa County Probate Court early last week, the document stipulates amounts of $1,000 each to go to the Dodgeville General hospital, the Dodgeville Public Library and the American Bible Institute and a piece of property to the city of Dodgeville. The balance of the estate after these are taken care of, goes to the church. It is estimated that this will amount to about $40,000.

Personal property in the estate amounts to $30,000 and real estate to $15,000.

Miss Owens was the last of five children of a pioneer Iowa county family. Two of her brothers and a sister operated a grocery store opposite Strongs bank for many years. The store building was bought recently by Ernest Johnson who has operated his Gamble store there for many years.

Another sister remained at home and kept house. Miss Anzonetta taught in Milwaukee for many years before retiring to Dodgeville.

A small house on South Iowa street was sold to Bertyn Davis, but the large family home and building lots across from the Dodgeville Monument Co. still remain in the estate. The legacy left by Miss Owens is believed to be the most generous ever given to a church in Dodgeville.

MRS. LULU M. HARROP

Lulu May Dawson, daughter of Stephen and Mary Dawson was born Oct. 12, 1874 in the Town of Arena. With the exception of one year in California she had lived all of her life in the Town and Village of Arena. She was united in marriage in 1899 to David T. Harrop and lived on their farm in Mill Creek until 1929 when she moved to the Village of Arena and kept a home for her father and two brothers. She departed this life on Oct 17, 1958, at the Sauk-Prairie Memorial hospital after an extended illness of seven months, having attained the age of 84 years and five days.

She is survived by three sons, Clayton of Kenosha, Donald and Merton of Arena; six grandchildren, Mrs. June Irving of Muncie, Ind., Mrs. Linette Blauvelt of Chelsea, Mich., Mary Harrop of Richland Center, David Harrop of Kenosha, Gary and Marcia Harrop of Arena; one great-grandchild Laurelyn Irving of Muncie, Ind.; three sisters, Mrs. Agnes Pinkerton of Batavia, Ill., Mrs. Belle Mitchell of Maywood, Ill., and Mrs. Bessie Anderson of Austin, Minn. She was preceded in death by her husband in 1927 and by her daughter. Velma in 1940.

She was taught of God's love from early childhood and accepted Christ as her Saviour early in life, doing her part in the church in a quiet and unassuming manner, and serving in her community when she was physically able. In the dread influenza epidemic of 1919 she acted as nurse and helper in many homes in the Mill Creek Valley area and for her parents in Arena and in her own home. It was God's will that she should be spared from this illness herself in order that she might care for others. In the Depression following 1930 her home was marked as a haven for the hungry and she fed from two to six unemployed each day, as did many others, while the Village provided shelter. She worked faithfully the Mill Creek Congregation church while she lived on t farm, and was a member of t Arena Congregational church a the Missionary society at the tin fo her death.

She will be sadly missed by h family, but through God's mer and faith in Christ we shall with her again in a "Land That Fairer Than This."

DR. H. M. WALKER TAKEN IN DEATH

City Mourns Loss of Fine Professional Man and Civic Leader

Death has claimed one of Dodgeville's foremost professional men and honored citizens in the person of Dr. H. M. Walker, aged 57, who passed away Friday noon, Nov. 21, at the General hospital after a long illness.

Kind hearted, friendly and considerate, Dr. Walker was well loved by a host of friends and patients who count his death as a deep loss. He was a fine surgeon and physician and was highly regarded in medical circles. In spite of his busy office and hospital routine he found time to participate actively in civic and fraternal affairs. At the time of his death he was the city health officer in Dodgeville and clerk of the Board of Education.

A member of the Congregational church, he was past master of the Dodgeville Masonic lodge, past high priest of the Royal Arch chapter, a member of the Mineral Point Commandery, the Madison Consistory, the Zor Shrine and the Eastern Star. At the time of his passing, he was grand king of the Grand Chapter of the Royal Arch Masons of Wisconsin.

Dr. Walker established his medical offices in Dodgeville on Sept. 17, 1927. Though he handled all kinds of cases, he favored those which brought new life into the world and had delivered 2,481 babies in his 31 years of practice in Dodgeville.

Funeral services, followed by Masonic services were held on Monday afternoon from the Congregational church with the Rev. Noel Orcutt in charge. Burial was made in the East Side cemetery. Arrangements were handled by the Lulloff funeral home.

Survivors include his wife, the former Gladys Henderson of Verona; one daughter, Eleanor, Mrs. James Maxwell, Dodgeville; one son, Robert, Madison; a granddaughter, Jennifer Maxwell, Dodgeville; one sister, Mrs. J. O. Mason, San Marcos, Calif., and a brother, Ray of Argyle.

THIS MOSAIC, 48x36½ inches, was a recent group project of fourth graders in Miss Lillian Maahs' class at the Underwood School in Wauwatosa. It was created of scraps of glass from a local stained glass factory and uses motifs borrowed from sea life: a starfish, plain fish, turtle, sea horse, snail and a crab. Mrs. Frederica Glass is the art instructor at the school. The work was correlated with social studies.

Determined Boy Gets Girl

William Arndt Jr., Barneveld, and Patricia Kay Jones, Blue Mounds, were married Friday despite a broken leg suffered by Arndt in an automobile accident a week before the wedding.

He was struck by a car while on his way to practice for the ceremony. Friday, he was taken to the Barneveld Congregational Church in a wheelchair for the wedding.

FRANK O. RAND, CITY MERCHANT DIES MONDAY

Conducted Shoe Business In Dodgeville For 38 Years

Frank O. Rand, 67, one of Dodgeville's best known merchants for more than 38 years, passed away Monday, Aug. 3, in a local hospital after a long illness.

Proprietor of the former Rand Shoe store, the deceased was well known throughout the county for there were few if any in the area who had not at one time or another purchased footwear at his establishment. A native of Prairie du Chien, Frank Rand first set up his business in the building now occupied by the Bob-Inn tavern. Ten months later, the business was moved to the quarters now occupied by the Collins and Hying Plumbing and Heating concern. A third move was eventually made to the Kelly building adjacent to the courthouse. The business remained there until May of this year when it was closed out due to the ill health of Mr. Rand and his wife. For many years a shoe repair department was part of the concern and the deceased, who was especially clever with his hands and the tools of the trade, also did excellent repair work.

Mr. Rand was a veteran of World War I. During his years in service he played a trombone with the Navy band. After leaving the service his interest in music, which was always his favorite hobby, was continued and he played for many years in the Dodgeville City band. His talent as a fine musician was common knowledge to all who knew him and though he usually played only the trombone, he was also adept at performing on the cello.

Mr. Rand is survived by his wife Regina; three sons, Joseph, Dubuque, Iowa; Frank, Milwaukee; and Fred, Wisconsin Rapids; two brothers, Monte, Muscatine, Iowa; and Fred, Gays Mills; and five grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 9:30 on Wednesday morning in St. Joseph's Catholic church, Dodgeville, with Fr. John E. Doran in charge. Burial was made in St. Joseph's cemetery. All arrangements were handled by the Roach funeral home.

JOE. C. SMITH IS VICTIM OF A HEART ATTACK

Sudden Death Takes Well Known Senior Member of Local Business Firm

Dodgeville streets will not seem the same without the genial, dapper figure of Joseph C. Smith, senior partner of the firm of Smith and Johanning, Inc., realty and insurance, who passed away unexpectedly of a heart attack at his home in this city on Saturday, July 25. He was 82 years of age at the time of his death.

Born and raised on a century

Joseph C. Smith

farm in the town of Dodgeville, "Joe" Smith spent his entire life in this area except for a 12-year span of business years in Clear Lake, South Dakota. Prior to moving to Dodgeville in 1940, he ran the home farm. For many years, though still on the farm, he was secretary of the Dodgeville Town Ins. Co., and at the time of his death was secretary and treasurer of the firm which had grown from less than 2¼ million of insurance in force to over 14 million dollars. In earlier years while still on the farm, Mr. Smith working with the late Edw. Berryman founded the first cow testing association in the county. He was also a pioneer in the breeding and raising of better livestock.

Mr. Smith is survived by his second wife, the former Jean Marr Price; two sons, Marvin, Mt. Pleasant, Ill.; and Keith at Lancaster; and three grandsons. His first wife, the former Eva Ronald of Clear Lake, S. Dak., passed away in 1954.

Funeral services were held at 1:30 on Tuesday afternoon at the Lulloff funeral home with the Rev. John Wreford in charge. Burial was made at the East Side cemetery.

LAVERE LEWIS DEATH CAUSED BY A BEE STING

One of County's Finest Conservationists Taken In Untimely Death

Iowa county lost one of its leadnig conservationsts on Saturday evening of last week with the untimely passing of LaVere Lewis, aged 63, of rural Dodgeville. His death was the result of an acute allergic reaction to a honey bee sting sustained while removing honey from hives on his farm earlier that evening. With him at the accident was a son who reported that his father complained of great pain immediately following the sting after which he lapsed into unconsciousness. He died before he could be taken to a hospital.

Mr. Lewis was a native of the town of Ridgeway and had farmed in that area for many years. In fact his entire life had been spent in the region with the exception of three years when he was employed by the Madison Gas and Electric Co. He was well-known for his conservation activities in the county and was one of the first conservationists in the area to propose and promote Gov. Dodge State park. He was tireless in his efforts to bring the project into being, making countless trips and attending many conferences with unflagging zeal to aid in its progress.

Other activities of Mr. Lewis included service on the town board, presidency of the Wakefield Cheese Co. and memberships in the Farm Home Administration and on the County Conservation committee. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and served capably as master in 1946.

Survivors of the deceased include his wife, the former Ella Moon, Ridgeway, two sons, Donald and Glenn, both of Dodgeville; a brother, Warren, also of Dodgeville; and a sister, Mrs. Morris Guest, Long Beach, Calif. One son, Billy, preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held at 1:00 on Wednesday afternoon in the Lulloff funeral home with the Rev. John Grenfell in charge. Masonic services were also held. Burial was made in the Eastside cemetery at Ridgeway.

Funeral Services for Arena Drowning Victims Are Set

ARENA — Funeral services for the three Arena boys who drowned Thursday night in the Wisconsin river have been set for Monday and Tuesday.

The bodies of the three will lie in state at the Arena High school gymnasium from 3 p.m. Sunday until time of services.

MEISE

FORSETH

Services for Richard Forseth, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Forseth, will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in the Christ Lutheran Church, Spring Green.

Funeral services for Ronald Meise, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Meise, and James Douglas Harrington, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harrington, will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday in St. Barnabas Catholic Church, Mazomanie.

The rosary will be recited at the Arena High school gymnasium at 8:30 p.m. Monday.

The bodies were recovered early Friday morning near a sand bar in the river where the boys, along with five others, had gone wading Thursday night.

The three boys had been in Spring Green earlier in the evening for dental examinations for the coming football season. The others were Richard Harrington, 15, a brother of the boy who drowned; Richard Baker, 19; Larry Anding, 15; Danny Roberts, 19; and Thomas LaBounty, 16.

The boys waded out to a sand bar at the end of River road and tumbled into deep water. Forseth, the only one of the trio who could swim, nearly made it back to the sand bar but drowned trying to save the other two.

Harrington was king of the high school prom in April and Forseth was the Badger Boys State representative.

Survivors Named

Forseth is survived by his mother; three sisters, Karen, Kristine, and Sonya, all at home; two brothers, William and Thomas, both at home; his paternal grandfather, Ludwig Forseth, Ridgeway; and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Elmer Kelly, Dodgeville.

Meise is survived by his parents; five sisters, Joan, Karen, Mary, Elaine, and Evelyn, all at home; and four brothers, Leslie, Richard, Terry, and Daniel, all at home.

Harrington is survived by his parents; two sisters, Phyllis and Helen Ann, both at home; and two brothers, Richard and Dennis, both at home.

The bodies were taken to the Roberts funeral home, Arena.

Remodel Dodgeville Sanctuary

DODGEVILLE — A dedication service of the newly remodeled sanctuary of Plymouth Congregational Church in Dodgeville is planned for Sunday at 2, also commemorating the 53d anniversary of the Church.

A new pastor, the Rev. Philip Yaeger, has recently accepted a call to the church to succeed the Rev. Noel Orcutt, who went to Davenport.

The interior of the church sanctuary has been completely remodeled. It formerly had two aisles and is now converted to a center aisle making it ideal for weddings. There is new pulpit furniture, altar, communion table, lecturn carpeting. An outside Bulletin Board will also be dedicated. All has come from gifts from individuals and organizations of the church.

At Dedication sevices the guest speaker will be Rev. Richard Wichlei, Madison, associate minister of the Wisconsin Congregational Conference. He will be assisted by Rev. R. H. Evans, Mazomanie. A guest organist, Mrs. George Larkin, Dodgeville, will present a recital prior to the services. Mervin Perry, Montfort, music teacher at Iowa-Grant School, will be guest soloist.

VICTORY MARGIN IS 13

DODGEVILLE — Third ward Ald. Bertyn Davis was defeated by Dean Kobbervig by a vote of 84 to 71, not 84 to 17; and in the Second Ward Nick Ley who lost to Maurice J. Althaus received 47 votes, not 74 as reported in Wednesday's newspaper.

Julian Swan, Our Type Setter for 44 Years, Retires Monday

By RAYMOND MOUCHA
(State Journal Staff Writer)

Julian Swan came to work for The Wisconsin State Journal the same year the League of Nations was organized.

The league didn't work out, but Swan did.

He stayed at his linotype machine for 44 years, watching the Depression come and go and World War II begin and end.

Has No Regrets

Swan, 66, will punch the period key on his type-setting machine at 4 p.m. Monday and will walk out of the newspaper building he first entered in December, 1920.

He'll probably come back many times, but it won't be as a full-time employe.

Swan, of 3918 Yuma dr., is retiring.

He says he has no regrets, commenting that the newspaper business has been good to him.

"I never missed a paycheck," he said.

Needed Money

This steady income put him among the more fortunate during the Depression. He recalled that he needed the money at the time, too, for he got married shortly after the 1929 stock market crash. His wife, Catherine, works at Manchester's. They have no children.

Swan sort of evolved into the newspaper business. His father used to publish the Mazomanie Sickle, where Swam learned to operate a Linotype as a boy.

When he came to Madison to work, he did just that.

Throughout his career he earned a reputation as a hard, dependable worker. He was the man to call on when you needed a headline or a story set in type in a hurry.

Nine-Hour Day

Swan remembers in the early years he didn't work a seven and one-half hour day that Linotype operators and printers have now.

He said he used to work nine hours a day, five days a week, and then put in a double shift on Saturday.

"You got done, when you got out," he recalled.

His Saturday work day then would start at 7 a.m. and would end as late as 4 a.m. the next day.

Swan observes that during his 44 years The State Journal itself stayed pretty much the same.

"The State Journal looks like The State Journal," he said. "It's fancier, but basically the same."

Paper Costs More

He noted that today's paper has more pictures and costs more. The paper sold for 3 cents when he started.

"It's also bigger. You don't know everybody like you used to. We used to have some good times, some good parties," he recalls.

Swan looks ahead to changes in the industry. He sees automation coming, but he's not afraid of it.

"People will have to retrain is all," he said.

He has no advice for young Linotype operators or printers.

Plans To Putter

"They'll have to learn by themselves," he observed.

Swan also will have to learn. He must learn to adjust to retirement. He plans to putter around the house with his dog for company while his wife is working.

He has a workshop in the basement that he hasn't used much in the past five years. "I'll have to get back to that," he said.

Swan also looks forward to watching baseball and football games and he collects a few stamps.

He plans to stay in Madison.

"It was a good town when I came here, and it still is a nice town," he said.

In Remembrance

THE Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

A FRIEND'S TRIBUTE TO EMERSON L. PRICE

The community was saddened by the news of the death of Emerson Price May 19, 1961. He was born in Clyde township Feb. 28, 1912. When a small child his parents moved to the farm home in Wyoming Valley. Here he attended school. Later he finished high school in Spring Green and was confirmed in the Clyde Lutheran church. He grew to young manhood; having lost his father at the age of 11 years, he already cherished the thought of assuming responsibility of caring for his mother and younger brother.

After graduating from the Short Course at the UW, he and his mother moved to the home in Dodgeville where he started work with the Dairy Herd Improvement association, covering a large territory. His efforts to become efficient in his chosen profession won for him the confidence and affection of his many patrons.

Only those who knew and loved him best realized the many fine qualities Emerson personified during his life. Courage, patience, unselfishness were a few of the virtues he possessed and practiced. He was partial to the better things in life, good music, especially the sacred kind, all nature and good literature. His knowledge and understanding of the Bible was outstanding and his church was as familiar to him as was the home he loved and enjoyed so much. A devoted son, his first thought was for the happiness and welfare of his mother. His daily life was one of service and thoughtfulness for others and endeared him to old and young.

Derailment Kills Myron Gotham, Train Conductor

STOUGHTON — A 59-year-old Milwaukee Road conductor was killed instantly shortly afternoon Tuesday when he was crushed between two railroad cars at a siding here. Mar 6 - 62

Myron Walter Gotham, 108 S. Broom st., Madison, an employe of the Milwaukee Road for 42 years, was pinned against a standing freight car when the car on which he was riding jumped the track and derailed.

Deputy Coroner Clyde Chamberlain said Mr. Gotham was riding on the side of a car being pushed by an engine to another location to be unloaded.

The engineer saw the car slowly derailing, Chamberlain said, and immediately applied the brakes, but the car tipped over against a car on an adjacent siding. He said ice and snow which had built up in front of the car caused it to derail.

Chamberlain said Mr. Gotham died of internal injuries. He ruled the death accidental.

Born in Gotham, Mr. Gotham lived in Madison since 1928. He married the former Helen Pinkerton in 1928.

He was a member of the First Congregational Church and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Surviving are his wife and his mother, Mrs. Edna Gotham, 108 S. Broom st., Madison.

KERMIT CHARLES CARDEN

Kermit Charles Carden was born on October 15, 1906, near the village of Barneveld in the town of Brigham. During his childhood, Kermit attended the Fairbanks country school, later graduated from the Barneveld high school and also attended Platteville state college.

He was baptized and confirmed in the Barneveld Lutheran church where he maintained lifelong membership.

He was married to Alice Rue on December 15 in the year 1935, by the Rev. E. R. Anderson. They settled in Barneveld and remained there throughout their married life together. To this marriage was blessed two children, a son, Douglas and a daughter Bonnie.

As a resident of Barneveld, Kermit served on the school board for 15 years, was an active member in the fire department and worked through the years as mechanic in Barneveld and later at Badger Ordnance. He began his own electrical business in Barneveld in February, 1953. This and his mechanical talents lent unending service to his community.

Thursday morning at the age of 56, Kermit passed away in his home as a result of a heart attack. Besides leaving many friends and acquaintances, he also left his wife, Alice Carden, a son Douglas Carden and his wife Ruth, and a daughter, Bonnie. He was preceded in death by his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carden and two brothers, Donald and Delbert.

DR. C. SCHMITT TAKEN IN DEATH ON WEDNESDAY

Long and Colorful Career Included History Making Events

Dr. Charles Schmitt, well known retired veterinarian and one of Iowa county's most colorful personalities, passed away at his home in this city on Wednesday morning, July 30, at the age of 90 years after suffering a brief illness.

A native of the town of Pulaski, Dr. Schmitt learned at an early age what it was to work for a living and when only 15 labored on farms in the neighboring areas to earn his keep. His boyhood desire was to become a veterinarian and with some savings he had managed to tuck away he entered the Chicago Veterinary school in 1890 and graduated in 1892 from a course that had kept him attending school six days a week, 12 to 14 hours a day. Upon his graduation he immediately opened an office in Highland, but five months later transferred it to Dodgeville where he remained until the time of his retirement, except for three years from 1904 to 1907, which he spent as a government meat inspector in Chicago.

Dr. Charles Schmitt

Possessed of a true pioneering spirit, Dr. Schmitt, over a half century ago, advocated compulsory vaccination for the control of bruccelosis and stuck to his beliefs in spite of strong opposition from others and considerable trouble with officials. He proved his point by experimentation, injecting a crippled pony with blood from a diseased cow, later drawing blood from the horse to inject into another diseased cow which gave birth to a healthy calf the following spring. As far as is known he is believed to be the first person in America to perform the feat successfully. In following years he treated cattle in the area freely with amazing results, defying state authorities who would not allow adult cattle to be treated even with the vaccine which had been perfected. Time proved him right and he lived to see his theories developed into standard practice.

Dr. Schmitt also served as justice of peace in Dodgeville for 40 years and carried out his duties with the same professional zeal scoffing at often threatened retribution of fines levied.

He was a member of the Dodgeville Congregational church, the Masonic lodge and the Scottish Rite Bodies, the Zor Shrine and the Eastern Star. He was married in 1893 to the former Jessie Laun who passed away many years ago. In 1937 he took a second wife, the former Lulu Cornish, who survives him.

Other survivors include: a son, Homer C., San Francisco, Calif.; two daughters, Mrs. Phil Trentzsch and Lorraine, both in Colorado; six stepdaughters, Mrs. Agnes Carson, Cold Valley, Ill.; Mrs. Adam Hefty, Jr. and Mrs. Kenneth Zespy, both of Black Earth; Mrs. Richard Olson, Las Vegas, Nev.; Mrs. Reuben Dyzek, Stoughton; and Mrs. Robert Bohm, Beloit; three sisters, Mrs. Sherman Gillette, Muscoda; and Mrs. Robert Burge and Clara, Chicago, Ill.; a brother, Otto, Brookings, Ore., and 12 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. on Saturday in the Dodgeville Masonic Temple with the Rev. D. H. Fleet presiding. Burial was made in the East Side cemetery with all arrangements handled by the Roach funeral home.

HEFFERNAN-RUNDLE WEDDING AT WHITEWATER

The First Methodist church of Whitewater was the setting for the wedding of Miss Judith Ann Heffernan and Jim Rundle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Rundle of Dodgeville on Saturday at 2:00 p.m. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heffernan of Whitewater, was attended by her sister, Mary Jean Heffernan, as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Nancy Lou Smidle, sister of the bride, DeeAnn VanEpps, sister of the groom, Mary Lou Ruppert, friend of the bride.

Flower girls were Roberta Smidle, niece of the bride, Dawn VanEpps, niece of the groom, Ann Rundle, niece of the groom. The ring bearer was Brad VanEpps, nephew of the groom.

The best man was Richard Rundle, brother of the groom. The groomsmen were Bruce Rundle, brother of the groom, Hank VanEpps, brother-in-law of the groom and Sheldon Sabinson, cousin of the groom. Ushers were David Smidle, David Davis, Carlos Sabinson and Bill Anderson.

A lawn reception was held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Rt. 1, Whitewater. Following a honeymoon in northeastern Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Rundle will return to the east coast where he is in U. S. Navy service.

Best wishes were received on the day of the wedding from Jerry Rundle with the Navy at Kingston, Jamaica, who was unable to attend the ceremony.

DODGEVILLE HAS LOST A VETERAN BUSINESSMAN

EVERETTE R. DAVIES

Death, which came peacefully to Everette R. Davies at noon on Saturday, July 28, removed one of Dodgeville's veteran business-merchants from our business section. For more than 52 years he conducted a men's clothing store where friendly service and sound values were assured. Only last April, Mr. Davies was one of three men to be honored at a banquet, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce for a half century of business service in the community.

Everette, born September 4, 1887, was the second youngest of six sons born to a pioneer Welsh farmer and miner, David B. Davies and wife. Five of them, Thomas, David, Arthur, Everette and Bennie grew to manhood, and only the youngest, Bennie had any children. All of the brothers preceded Everette in death. Reared in this city, he attended the local schools, playing on the high school football team and graduating with the class of 1906. That same year he went to Chicago where he was employed with Marshall Field & Company. In May of 1910 he returned to Dodgeville to open a men's clothing store in partnership with C. E. Ellingen. Since the death of the latter many years ago, Mr. Davies has been sole owner. Always attentive to business, he seldom took a vacation. The store has been in the same location all these 52 years.

On December 31, 1912 he was united in marriage with Miss Mildred Reese, the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Reese, by the Rev. Albert H. Schoenfeld of the Congregational church. Mr. Davies has always been a liberal supporter of this, his mother's church. The marriage, which has always been a happy one, ended but a few months before they could celebrate their golden anniversary. Few couples have taken more pleasure out of the creation of Gov. Dodge State Park, which they visited nearly every day, together.

Last June 15 Mr. Davies suffered a slight stroke at the store and has since been confined in hospitals most of the time. His death last Saturday is a loss for the community and a sad blow for the family. Besides the wife, surviving are three nephews, William and Robert Davies, Dodgeville and Thomas Davies of Madison; three nieces, Mrs. Marvin Port, Wheaton, Ill.; Mrs. Arthur Olson, South Wayne, and Mrs. Donald Price of Monroe, also a host of friends.

Services, largely attended, were held Tuesday afternoon at the Lulloff funeral home with the Rev. Philip Yeager of Plymouth church officiating. Casket bearers were old friends and business associates, Ray M. Reese, C. J. Holman, Clifford Olson; Waldo C. Jones, Burnell Schroeder and John Moore. Burial was in East Side cemetery.

Older citizens especially will miss the punctual and neat appearance of this successful businessman.

John Voss, 47, President of Asphalt Company, Dies

JOHN V. VOSS

John V. Voss, 47, of 4118 Euclid ave., president of the Voss Asphalt Co. Inc., 1905 Monroe st., died Sunday (Sept. 16, 1962) in a Madison hospital where he was taken after becoming ill at his home.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in Our Lady Queen of Peace Catholic Church, 401 S. Owen dr. with Msgr. F. L. McDonnell officiating.

The rosary will be recited at 8 tonight in the Joyce funeral home, 540 E. Washington ave., where friends may call after 2 p.m. today. Burial will be in Resurrection cemetery.

Mr. Voss was formerly associated with the Scotch Oil Co. and the Farley Oil Co., both of Madison. From 1943 to 1945 he served as an aerographer with the U.S. Department of the Navy.

A native of Bloomington, Grant county, Mr. Voss was a resident of Madison since 1934.

He was a member of the church, a past president of its Holy Name society, and past faithful admiral of the Bishop William O'Connor Assembly Knights of Columbus.

He was also a member of the Nakoma Counrty club and the Wisconsin Bituminous Paving Assn.

Surviving are his wife; a son, John H., a student at Holy Cross seminary, La Crosse; a daughter, Lynn, at home; his mother, Mrs. Violet Voss, Lake Geneva; and two sisters, Mrs. Edward McCullough, Lake Geneva, and Mrfs. John F. Kunz, 17 Frederick circle.

MILTON FISCHER BURIED TUESDAY

Funeral services for Milton A. Fischer, 70, retired Superintendent of the Dodgeville Public Schools, who died Friday, were held at 2:00 p.m. Monday in the Plymouth Congregational Church.

Graveside services were conducted at 2:00 p.m. Tuesday in the city cemetery at Merrill. Masonic services for Mr. Fischer were held Sunday at 8:00 p.m. in the Lulloff Funeral Home.

Survivors include his wife, the former Grace Wisner; one son, Commander David W. Fischer, Charleston, South Carolina; one daughter, Mrs. Frank Bencriscutto of St. Paul, Minn., and five grandchildren.

Other survivors are two brothers, Herman of Medford; Harry, West Salem, and a sister, Mrs. Lillian Hickey, LaCrosse.

Faculty and students have established a Memorial Fund which will be used to create a Memorial Library in the new high school.

Milton A. Fischer was born 70 years ago on a farm in LaCrosse county where he attended rural school and later graduated from West Salem high school and LaCrosse Normal. His first teaching job was in the Sparta upper grades for one year, after which he went to Merrill where he was elementary principal for four years and assistant high school principal for two years. He then attended the University of Wisconsin one year where he afterwards secured his Bachelor of Arts and Masters of Arts degrees. He had also done further advanced graduate study in summer sessions. Mr. Fischer was a veteran of World War I, having served overseas with the infantry for nearly a year.

While in Merrill he married a kindergarten teacher, Miss Grace Wisner and brought her to Dodgeville with him in the fall of 1922. Here their two children were born and reared.

Has Seen Many Changes

Many changes have taken place since Milton A. Fischer took over supervision of the Dodgeville public schools. When he strated here in September of 1922, the school census showed 391 children in the district which had increased to 896 last year. In 1922 there were 189 students in high school and 22 teachers in the entire system. Today there are 1300 students in high school and 59 teachers employed in the system. The curriculum has been greatly expanded, and school lunches and transportation provided.

In 1939 the old graded school was razed, the old high school renovated and a large gymnasium and many classrooms added. In 1955 an annex was added to provide rooms for industrial arts, agriculture and band instruction. During the WPA years an athletic field was also provided. Mr. Fischer has seen nearly 2,000 seniors receive their diplomas here, many of whom were second generation and even third generation students. A man of integrity he had been an outstanding administrator who kept a close watch on all school affairs as well as financial expenditures. Few leaders were as devoted and exacting in their responsibilities.

Was Civic Leader

The burden of school leadership would be more than enough for most men, but Mr. Fischer gave of his time and talents for community betterment. He had long been a member of the Kiwanis club where he served as secretary and district lieutenant governor. A faithful member of Plymouth Congregational church, he served as Sunday school superintendent and teacher, sang in the choir and served on the boards of trustees and deacons. He was also a member of the Masonic Lodge, Order of Eastern Star and American Legion.

Milton A. Fischer rightly earned the respect and gratitude of every Dodgeville citizen.

THIS ONE DIDN'T GET AWAY

David Davis, Dodgeville, holding his 4 lb., 3 oz. German brown trout which was 23 inches long. After this exciting catch he went out again that evening and caught another 4 lbs., 24 inches long.

The fish were caught on a spoon and spinner, but beyond that David would not tell the papers where the fish were caught as he claims there are more like this in the same hole.

ELEANOR ALICE FIELDHOUSE WEDS ROBERT REYNOLDS

The marriage of Miss Eleanor Alice Fieldhouse and Robert Ray Reynolds took place at a candlelight ceremony Saturday evening, June 30, in the Dodgeville Methodist church. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Fieldhouse, Dodgeville, was presented at the altar by her brother, Gerald Fieldhouse, the Rev. John Wreford, officiating.

The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Reynolds, Sr., of Hollandale.

Mrs. John Reynolds, Jr., was her sister's Matron of Honor, and Mrs. David Fieldhouse, Williams Bay; and Mrs. Donald Fieldhouse, Newark, Delaware, were bridesmaids.

Pamela and Jeffery Reynolds, Hollandale, were miniature bride and groom.

Walter Reynolds, Hollandale, was his brother's best man. John Reynolds, Jr., and Merton Reynolds, Hollandale, also brothers of the groom, were groomsmen. Willard Reynolds, Mukwonago; Frank Hrovat, McFarland; David Fieldhouse, Williams Bay; and Donald Fieldhouse, Newark, Delaware, were ushers.

Miss Sue Fitzsimmons, Mineral Point and Paul Van Sickle, Rockford, Ill., were soloists, accompanied by Mrs. Jess Cullen at the organ.

After a reception held in the church parlors, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds left for the wedding trip to northern Wisconsin. They will live at 1008 N. Main, Dodgeville after July 8.

The new Mrs. Reynolds is a graduate of Wisconsin State College, Whitewater. She has been teaching in Hollandale and will teach at Dodgeville High School next fall.

Mr. Reynolds is employed by by Erdman Construction Co. in Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Fieldhouse, Dodgeville, announce the engagement and aprpoaching marriage of their daughter, Eleanor Alice to Robert R. Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Reynolds Sr., Hollandale.

BAKER-GILBERTSON WEDDING

On Saturday, June 13, at two o'clock in the afternoon at Grace Lutheran church, wedding vows were said by Miss Alice Baker, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Baker of Dodgeville and Palmer N. Gilbertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gilbertson of Avoca, the Rev. Robert Witte officiating. The bride's uncle, Peter K. Baker of Madison, gave her in marriage. Mrs. Julian Instefjord attended her sister as matron of honor and Milo Olson of Reedsburg, cousin of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Julian Instefjord, brother-in-law of the bride and Don Clark of Madison, cousin of the groom.

The wedding reception for 200 guests was held in the church parlors following the ceremony.

A short wedding trip was taken to the northern part of Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbertson will make their home at 321 North Main street, Dodgeville.

SARA ELLIOTT

Their Engc

Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Elliott, Dodgeville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sara, to Thomas F. Witzel. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Witzel, Oshkosh.

Miss Elliott is a junior at the Madison General Hospital School of Nursing. Mr. Witzel is majoring in physics at the University of Wisconsin, where he is a junior.

No wedding plans have been made.

MRS. J. A. TRINE

J. A. Trines To Live in Illinois

SEWARD, ILL. — Mr. and Mrs. J. Arden Trine, who were married June 10 at 8 p.m. in the Congregational Church, Seward, Ill., are living in Urbana, Ill.

Mrs. Trine is the former Miss Jean Loretta Whitney. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Whitney, Winnebago, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Trine, Dodgeville.

Appliques of Alencon lace, pearls, and crystals trimmed the bride's white organza gown, which had a portrait neckline and chapel train. A jeweled crown held her fingertip veil, and she carried white orchids, stephanotis, and ivy.

Mrs. Richard Liston, Champaign, Ill., was matron of honor, and Mrs. D. B. Clymore, New Castle, Ind., bridesmaid. They wore azalea organza sheaths with scoop necklines and bell overskirts with self-bows. They had wreaths of pink roses in their hair.

John Larsen, Mineral Point, was best man, and Ronald Hartley, Champaign, groomsman. Richard Liston, Champaign, and Frank Whitney, Winnebago, Ill. ushered.

The bride, a speech therapist at Urbana, Ill., received her B. S. degree in speech therapy at Illinois State Normal University. The bridegroom, who received his B. B. A. degree with honors and M. A. degree from the University of Wisconsin, is working toward a Ph. D. degree in accounting and is an instructor at the University of Illinois.

JoAnn Erbe, William Carden Exchange Vows

The first wedding in the new Mt. Horeb Evangelical Lutheran Church was solemnized Saturday, May 26, when Miss JoAnn Frances Erbe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Erbe, Mt. Horeb, became the bride of William James Carden, son of Mrs. Delbert Carden, Barneveld, and the late Mr. Carden.

The Rev. Ruben Mostrom officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony. Baskets of yellow gladioli and white dahlias decorated the church.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace. The gown was styled with long tapered sleeves, a round neckline trimmed with pearls and sequins, and a full skirt with a tunic front. A pearl crown secured her fingertip veil and she carried yellow roses.

Miss Cheryl Greve, Mt. Horeb, was her cousin's maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. James Thompson, Miss Sue Williams, and Mrs. Lawrence Myers, Mt. Horeb, friends of the bride. The attendants wore yellow sheath frocks with overskirts and carried yellow daises and carnations.

Deborah Lynn Erbe, Blue Mounds, niece of the bride, was flower girl and Terry Frame, cousin of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Dennis Carden, Barneveld, was his brother's best man. The groomsmen were James Thompson, Mt. Horeb; Lane Theobald, Barneveld; and Lawrence Myers, Mt. Horeb. James Erbe, brother of the bride, and Douglas Carden, cousin of the bridegroom, seated the guests.

Miss Alberta Sayen, Madison, sang "Because" and Enoch Sherman, Madison, sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony. They were accompanied by Mrs. Frederick Hanneman at the church organ.

A reception for 200 guests was held in fellowship hall of the church.

A 6:30 dinner was served to the bridal party and immediate families at the Golf Bowl.

The rehearsal dinner was served at the Glen Erbe home by Mrs. Carden on Friday night.

After a western wedding trip, the newlyweds will live in Mt. Horeb. The bride is employed by the State Motor Vehicle Department and her husband is an employe of Rodney Hart Painting and Decorating, Madison.

Baseball's classic week in the sun, the World Series, will brighten the tube this week for sports fans and add immeasurable problems to committee chairmen attempting to arrange night meetings, clergymen getting a quorum at choir practice, restaurant owners keeping tabs on busboys and waitresses, and TV repairmen who don't have PDQ repair service.

And if you think that this is only a small problem, let me recite for you a few figures passed on to me by the vaunted research division at NBC-TV:

"The 1978 World Series, should it go to the full seven games, will be watched by more than 110,000,000 different viewers."

Of course, this is a "projected estimate" but NBC has been handling the televised World Series for 31 years and should be in the ball park with any estimate — especially since the figure is based on Nielsen TV Index data.)

And that figure is for "different" viewers. NBC even gives a breakdown of each game and totalling those figures gives a staggering number of viewer hours tied up with baseball.

The prime-time opener, at 7 p.m. Tuesday (Channel 15) in the stadium of the National League champions, is expected to attract an audience of 57,670,000 viewers.

Game Two, on Wednesday night, and Game Three, which is Friday night but shifts to the American League park, also have a projected audience of 57,670,000.

On Saturday and Sunday, the daytime coverage nicks a few thousand off the estimates — Game Four on Saturday, 51,950,000, and Game Five (if necessary) on Sunday, 50,940,000.

But the real biggies in viewing sweepstakes arrive in the final two games, if they become necessary. Again, television moves back to prime time at 7 p.m. and estimates predict that Game Six will be witnessed by 65,250,000 and Game Seven by 72,000,000.

You can imagine why certain NBC-TV executives upchuck in unison on their corporate desks when any World Series team sweeps the first four games and leaves an estimated 188,190,000 viewers free to twist those little dials to other programs on those final three days.

The first series game was televised in prime time in 1971 (fourth game between Pirates and Orioles), and the popularity now dictates, according to NBC officials, scheduling all five possible weeknight games in prime hours.

THANK YOU!

After 67 years of operation in Iowa County, Campbell's Store is closing its doors. Since 1911 when A. R. Campbell opened his general store in Barneveld to the time of his move to Dodgeville in 1935 and up to the present day the Campbell name has been synonymous with the dry goods business in this area. We trust that during these many years we have been of service to the community. Such was our aim.

While we will miss being actively engaged in business, our main loss will be in the lack of contact with our many friends. We have been fortunate to have had many loyal employees who seem like part of the Campbell family; so many of our patrons whether they stopped in to purchase or just to chat we consider our very good friends; our associations with fellow businesses up and down the street; this is what we will miss most. We consider ourselves blessed to have had you all enrich our lives.

We hope you will stop in and meet the Kozelkas who will soon be opening a men's store at this location. Theirs is a family operation such as ours. The third generation of that family to be in the merchandising business will be operating the Dodgeville store.

A most sincere and heartfelt THANK YOU to you all.

RHODA and BOB CAMPBELL

CAMPBELL'S DEPARTMENT STORE

DODGEVILLE, WISCONSIN

Best Wishes For An Old Friend

Robert G. Campbell, Sr., Dodgeville businessman, retires today after 34 years of work in the dry goods business in this city.

Campbell and his family have been in the business throughout the county for nearly 80 years, with more than half of the time spent at the two locations in Dodgeville.

It will take some getting used to for people to walk into the store at 133 N. Iowa and see someone other than Bob. He has been a good businessman, a good neighbor, a community builder, and a good friend for as long as most people can remember.

At age 65, he deserves to take a break; to enjoy himself and the fruits of his labor. We wish him well in whatever endeavor he decides to take up.

Best of luck — we'll miss you!

Campbell's Department Store Closes After 43 Years in Dodgeville

Campbell's Department Store in Dodgeville will discontinue business this week after about 80 years of serving Iowa Countians at five locations.

Robert G. Campbell has sold the building at 133 N. Iowa St., where his business has been in existence for the past seven years, to Kozelka's Mens Wear, a Prairie du Chien firm. Kozelka's is scheduled to open in Dodgeville on Thursday, September 7. Campbell, 65, is retiring after 34 years in the dry goods business in Dodgeville.

"This isn't the way that we wanted it to work out, but when Robert Jr. passed away last year, the decision was made immediately to sell out," Campbell said. Plans had called for Robert Jr. to operate the store, and Robert Sr. had planned to go into semi-retirement, occassionally returning to the store to help his son.

The business began in the Campbell name in the late 1800's, when Bob Sr.'s grandfather, George, started a store in Adamsville. "There was a store, a cheese factory, a church and a school in Adamsville at the time, and if the railroad hadn't gone through Hollandale, Adamsville would have been the town to grow," Campbell notes. When Hollandale began to prosper with the railroad, the store was moved to Hollandale, where A.R. Campbell, Bob Sr.'s father, joined him.

In 1906, A.R. Campbell went to work for Bishop's Department Store in Platteville, before returning to join in a partnership in Barneveld in 1911. Campbell joined John Minix, to operate a store known as Minix & Campbell. In 1917, Campbell took over sole ownership of the store, and it was known as A.R. Campbell & Company.

In 1929, Campbell sold out his business to John Minix and his son Wilbur, and A.R. then went to Madison and bought and operated the Hillington Grocery Store. After five years in Madison, Campbell bought the Will Parry Dry Goods Store in Dodgeville, and in 1935, the A.R. Campbell Dry Goods Store was opened for the first time in Dodgeville.

In 1944, A.R. Campbell was joined by his son Robert, and a partnership of "Campbell's" resulted. Nine years later, Bob purchased the busines from his father, and continued to operate the store at that location until 1971. In 1969, Campbell was joined by his son Robert Jr., and the two men moved the business to the Oral (Kelly) Moen building in 1971, the business' present location. A department store known as Robert G. Campbell's, Inc., was then operated under the name of Campbell's. Additional space on the lower level was rented to allow for a wider variety of items.

Campbell has fond recollections of the past years, and has seen many changes take place. "We started out with two employees plus my dad and myself, and when we close we will have had nine at our peak," Campbell said.

Campbell worked for his father in the store in Barneveld at age eight, and he remembers how it used to be. "Saturday night used to be a big deal, when everybody would get all dolled up and come into town by horse to do the shopping," he said. "That's when there really used to be peak shopping hours. Now, there's business every hour of every day, and the family doesn't necessarily come into town shopping together."

The Campbells used to take eggs, poultry, butter and other goods in trade for goods from their store. "If they'd bring in $20 worth or produce, they could take home $20 worth of goods," he said. "Of course, you could get a lot of merchandise for $20 in those days."

In those days, the store used to have the same customers all the time, but that, too, has changed, according to Campbell. "With the influx of tourists to Governor Dodge State Park, we have customers from all over," he said. "One Saturday, I had checks from customers in four different states, and it's not unusual to see a lot of new faces in here each day."

Although Campbell's has gained a lot of new customers, a lot of old ones still patronize the store, he said. "In some cases, I still have the same customers I had 30 years ago, and I'm definitely going to miss them. I'm going to miss all the people that I've met in the business, and I've met a lot of them."

Campbell hasn't made any definite plans for the future, but he is looking forward to taking a a few Alabama football games. A 1936 graduate of the University of Alabama, Campbell is looking ahead to the Alabama-Notre Dame football game, which he plans to attend with Frank Hamilton, Dodgeville, a Notre Dame alumnus. "And I can always go out to the farm (the Campbell farm west of Dodgeville) and help milk and cut weeds," he said, noting that there would always be something to do there. He said he has had job offers, but he won't accept anything until after the first of the year when his business obligations are cleared up.

MISS JEANETTE GLESSNER IS BRIDE OF D. E. FRAME

Our Saviour's Lutheran church at Black Earth was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, June 25. At that time Miss Jeanette Glessner became the bride of David E. Frame, Blue Mounds. The bride is the daughter of the Homer Glessners of Arena. The Rev. Lloyd Gunderson officiated at the services.

The bride's twin sister served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were the Misses Lorraine Amble and Judy Joyce.

Best man was the bridegroom's cousin, Kenneth Frame and groomsmen were Roger Brown, Arena, and Laurence Berge, Blue Mounds. Ronald Foye was usher.

Ruthann Kirch as soloist sang I Love You Truly and the Lord's Prayer and Carol Ann McCutchin served as organist.

A reception for 200 guests was held in the church basement and a buffet supper for immediate relatives and friends was served at the bride's home. The couple honeymooned in northern Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white lace over satin. Her fingertip veil was held by a pearl and crystal crown, and she carried red roses.

Miss Linda Wirth, Mt. Horeb, was maid of honor. Mrs. Robert Frame, Miss Carol Anderson, and Miss Helen Knudtson, Mt. Horeb, were bridesmaids. They wore headdresses and sheath gowns of aqua embroidered silk organza and carried aqua and white carnations.

Robert Frame, Mt. Horeb, was best man. Royle Bieri, Blue Mounds, and Galan Sies, and Roland Knudtson, Mt. Horeb, were groomsmen. Robert Sies and Phillip Solchenberger, Mt. Horeb, ushered.

After a southeastern trip, the couple will live in Blue Mounds. Mrs. Frame is employed at Olson's restaurant, and her husband, at the Holmes Tire and Supply Co.

WHAT DAY IS IT?

"Dear Mr. Light:

"What has happened to calendars?

"Remember a few years ago we used to be given several calendars with beautiful scenes in color, or floral arrangements?

"By the time one was tired of looking at one picture, it was time to flip the page over to a new month.

"A year ago I noticed we were only given one rather ugly one with no pictures—only advertisements.

"The only calendar we have so far this year is a tiny desk one on which it is impossible to find space for a social engagement or an appointment.

"We pay our bills. Honest!

1489 W. Iowa ave."

"P. S. Perhaps one buys calendars at book stores now."

I know what you mean, ma'am. I did pretty well at the office, but the only ones we have at home are the tiny desk ones, for tiny desks.

All sorts of business places used to send out calendars. Maybe they don't any more, or maybe we patronize the wrong business places.

I remember those calendars with beautiful scenes in color. You used to see them at the neighborhood garage and other places where men worked.

But those may not be the beautiful scenes in color you had in mind. They certainly weren't floral arrangements.

One of the calendars here in the office is distributed by an airline. It has beautiful pictures of warm tropical places like Hawaii and New Orleans for the winter months.

The calendars they distribute in Hawaii and New Orleans presumably have pictures of fun in the snow.

Clever people, those airlines.

DATED

In last Friday's column Mrs. Roger Bawden, of 1489 W. Iowa ave., and I were concerned that there might not be as many calendars around as there used to be.

We seem to have been wrong. There are lots of calendars around.

And if you have trouble finding them, it's because Mrs. Bawden and I have cornered the market.

Boy, do we have calendars!

The Brown & Bigelow people, to start with, waded through the snow to deliver a splendid assortment to her home and my office during the week-end storm.

They even delivered a large one Friday to tide her over until the others arrived.

And then came Monday's mail.

Mrs. Bawden says she received about 30 calendars, from International Falls, Sleepy Eye, Albert Lea; from Ladysmith, Webster, Hammond and Cumberland, Wis., from Newport and South St. Paul, and several from White Bear Lake and Stillwater. And lots from St. Paul.

"They sent such nice notes with them," she said. "I can't write them all, so will you thank them for me?"

I got them from Larson's Floor Covering in Ladysmith, from Day Bros. G eenhouses in St. Paul, and from Glassing Florists in South St. Paul.

The latter two are floral in design. The former is flooral, showing Armstrong floors.

So there doesn't seem to be any real shortage of calendars in the area.

Fritz Wanlund of Brown & Bigelow, in fact, says the company sold more this year than ever before.

Perhaps people are patronizing fewer, and more impersonal, business places these days. The supermarket and the department store answer most needs, and if they don't give calendars . . .

Lots of places do, though. And if your store or gas station or whatever does not, tell them they ought to.

And if you're lucky they'll pick a good one. There were a couple of beauties in that Brown & Bigelow assortment, including a Birds of America calendar.

Don't ask B & B for one, though. They don't retail them.

"Besides," said Wanlund, "we're working on 1969 and 1970 around here now. I don't know where we'd find a 1967."

He Only Asks for Mail

Tommy Pitt, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pitt, Dodgeville, isn't asking for much this Christmas.

But he would like to hear from as many friends as could possibly send him a card or greeting. Tommy is ill with incurable cancer. He started kindergarten last fall but had to drop out recently.

The cards and letters will help him pass the time at his home.

THOMAS RAYMOND PITT

Thomas Raymond Pitt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Pitt, was born April 29, 1952 in the city of Dodgeville, Iowa Co., and passed away at his home in Dodgeville on Dec. 21, 1957, at the age of five years.

For the past year he had been failing in health with an incurable cancer. He attended kindergarten last fall but had to drop out shortly afterwards.

He will be sadly missed by his family and all who knew him.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at 1:30 at the Lulloff funeral home with the Rev. James Lumsden, pastor of the P. M. church at Ridgeway officiating. Burial was made in the East Side cemetery.

The pallbearers were Lyle Hunter, Paul Metcalf, Bertyn Davis and Eugene Rule. The songs were sung by Miss Gloria Retrum and Mrs. Martin Gilbertson, Jr., and Rev. and Mrs. Lumsden.

He Is Just Away

I cannot say, and I will not say
That he is dead,—He is just away!
With a cherry smile, and a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into an unknown land;
And left us dreaming how very fair,
It needs must be, since he lingers
there.

And you—Oh you! who the wildest yearn
For the old time step and the glad return,
Think of him faring on, as dear;
In the love of There as the love of Here;
Think of him still as the same, I say;
He is not dead,—He is just away!

CARD OF THANKS

Our grateful thanks go out to everyone who were so kind in remembering our little Tommie during his illness. To all of you who responded to the request of sending him cards for Christmas and for all the lovely gifts and calls and prayers. A special thanks to the local post office for handling all of the mail for him, as he received over 2000 cards. To Rev. Lumsden for his faithful calls and words of comfort, to the Iowa County Employees Union. Thanks to Dr. Marshall and the nurses at the General hospital. And then our thanks go out to all who assisted at the time of the death of our loved one. For the lovely floral and memorial tributes presented at his funeral, and for all the food brought in. We will always remember these acts of kindness. — Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pitt. 1c

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our son, Tommie Ray Pitt, who passed away one year ago, December 21, 1957.

You have left a beautiful memory
And a sorrow too great to be told
But to we who loved you and lost
you,
Your memory will never grow old.
Always a silent heartache.
Many a silent tear
But always a beautiful memory
Of the one we loved so dear.
God gave us strength to bear it
And courage to face the blow.
But what it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.

DEATH CLAIMS SENIOR MEMBER OF BANK FIRM

April 1960

Throop M. Strong Was Respected Citizen and Civic Leader

Throop M. Strong, retired banker, well known civic leader and citizen, passed away early Sunday morning of this week at a local hospital. He had been ill for some time and was a semi-invalid for the past five years. He was 80 years of age at the time of his death.

Oldest son of the family that established Strongs bank nearly 80 years ago, T. M. Strong gave over 62 years of his life to the interests of the business, serving for many years as cashier, and later as president. At the time of his death he was honorary president of the bank. He was widely respected for his advice and ability in financial matters.

For years Mr. Strong was a leader in Masonic circles, serving as Master of the Dodgeville Lodge in 1923-24, High Priest of the Royal Arch chapter in 1939-40 and lodge treasurer from 1934-47. He was a member of the Order of Eastern Star and one of the building committee which erected the Masonic Temple in Dodgeville.

In his younger years, T. M. Strong represented his fellow citizens as supervisor on the county board. He was also one of the founders of the Dodgeville Centennial park.

He is survived by his bereaved wife, the former Lucy Morcom to whom he was married in 1913; two brothers, Harry C. and Arthur, both lifelong associates in the family bank and both residents of Dodgeville; two sisters, Mrs. Emily Williams of Dodgeville and Mrs. Marjorie Waters of St. Paul, Minn.; six nieces and one nephew and several grand nieces and nephews and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held from the Roach funeral home in Dodgeville at 2:30 on Tuesday afternoon with the Rev. John F. Wreford officiating. Burial was made at the East Side cemetery.

EDMUND BAKER IS TAKEN IN DEATH

Had Given 22 Years of Service To the Iowa County Welfare Department

Edmund Baker, former director of the Iowa county welfare department, passed away Saturday, July 16, in Milwaukee where he had been visiting relatives. His death was the result of a heart attack.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Dodgeville. Arrangements were handled by the Roach funeral home.

Mr. Baker, who was 68 years of age, was well known throughout the county. He had farmed in the Edmund area for many years after which he took employment as a case worker in the county welfare department in 1935. He later became director and served in that capacity until his retirement in February, 1957. He was a member of the Holy Name society of St. Joseph's Catholic church. Those who knew him will recall his ardent interest in fishing and ball games. He was a staunch Braves fan.

Survivors include his wife, the former Anne Keyes; two sisters, Mrs. Jane Kolb, Dodgeville; and Mrs. Walter Mahler, Milwaukee; a brother, Gilbert, Edmund; and five grandchildren.

MISS CRETNEY CRASHES WITH FLAMING PLANE

Dodgeville Aviatrix Meets Death Tuesday Morning, Milwaukee Airport

The family and friends here were horrified Tuesday noon by news that Miss Dorothy Cretney, had met sudden death when her flaming plane crashed in a field at Milwaukee. The news was broadcast over radio station WTMJ and among the many listeners was an aunt of the victim, Mrs. E. A. Crane of Milwaukee. She verified the truth of the message and then relayed the shocking news to Miss Cretney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cretney, east of this city.

Miss Cretney had flown a Aeronca Chief plane from Sturgeon Bay to Milwaukee where she was making a test flight for a commercial pilot's license, under the direction of a civil aeronautics inspector. A careful and experienced flyer, it was through no fault of her own that the crash occurred.

An eye-witness said there was a terrific explosion and then the whole plane was in flames. It dived straight down 600 feet into a farmer's field leaving a trail of smoke and flames behind it. The machine landed upside down and burned fiercely for some time. The crash occurred at 10:30 a. m. and it was 2:40 in the afternoon before the remains were removed and later brought to this city. On Wednesday they were returned to Milwaukee for cremation.

Miss Cretney was born June 12, 1916 at Ridgeway and spent the early years of her life there and on the farm east of this city. An active, ambitious girl she was enthusiastic over 4H work and participated in its branches. After graduating from Dodgeville high school in 1933 she entered the University of Wisconsin where she majored in Home Economics teaching and minored in Agricultural Journalism.

In 1937, Miss Cretney went to Minnesota where she was county 4H club leader in East Polk and Sibley counties, for three years. Returning to Wisconsin, she then spent a year employed with the Western Iron Stores in Milwaukee.

While in Milwaukee, Miss Cretney qualified for the Civil Pilot Training program and earned a Private Pilot's license at Midwest Airways at the General Mitchell Field in Milwaukee.

During the winter of 1940-41 she completed studies at the University of Wisconsin and took up secondary flight training and ground work. She graduated from the University in June of 1941 and received her certificate of ground school instructor.

It was during the summer of 1941 that Dorothy became a member of the Chronicle staff, writing special features and spending several hours each day in the air. One year ago she accepted the position of domestic science teacher in the high school at Sturgeon Bay and taught there until last June.

A member of the 99's, an organization of licensed women pilots, Miss Cretney's chief interest was aviation so when school closed last June she realized her life's ambition of becoming manager of an airport and took over the reins at Cherryland airport owned by Dr. Dan Dorchester. Activities have greatly increased there under her supervision.

Dorothy is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cretney; two brothers, Robert, who enlisted in the United States Air Corps, and Ernest, Jr., at home, also her grandfather, Alderman Jesse Lewis and many other relatives.

They have the sympathies of the entire community in the tragic ending of such a promising and wholesome young life.

Funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon from the Cretney farm home at 1:30 o'clock and the Congregational church in this city at 2 o'clock with Rev. A. R. Henry of Sparta and Rev. Arthur E. Westenberg officiating. Burial will be made in the Ridgeway cemetery.

Ridgeway Farmer Killed by Tractor

RIDGEWAY—J. Gauis Davis, 61, was killed late Friday afternoon in a tractor accident on his farm near Ridgeway.

Iowa county coroner Wendell D. Hamlin said that Davis was backing his tractor into a shed when the accident happened. The shed had a low doorway and Davis apparently didn't duck enough and was crushed between the top of the doorway and his tractor.

He was found by his wife at 5:15 p.m. The farm is located on Highway H about 6 miles northeast of here.

'Whole Town' Greets Victors

Basketball Fever Hits Dodgeville as Team Gains Tourney Berth

By A. LEE BEIER
(State Journal Staff Writer)

DODGEVILLE—"The feeling is all basketball" described Dodgeville to a T Sunday.

The city of 2,991 people went basketball crazy Saturday night when the high school basketball team won its first state tournament berth.

WILSON

The game which skyrocketed Dodgeville into the state tourney by beating Monroe 64-50 Saturday night, also skyrocketed the basketball craze in the town.

"The whole town" gathered spontaneously after midnight Saturday to welcome the victorious Dodgers, possibly the first Iowa county team ever to play in the state tournament.

Fire engines, police cars, and ambulances set off their sirens; busloads of students and cheerleaders cheered and the school pep band played rousing marches. Cars full of townspeople honked blatant cries of triumph.

Victory was proclaimed the order of the day, and stock and semi-trailer trucks chimed in with air horns to let the world know Dodgeville has a team in the state tournament.

When the team arrived about 12:30 a.m., the cheering was ferocious, and blocks of cars and buses held a motorcade through the business section to the high school for an old fashioned pep rally. And there was more cheering there, though not all the crowd, numbering over 1,000 could get inside.

Team Shows Skeptics, Story, Sports Peach

"It seemed like the whole town was there," Mayor J. C. Olson said Sunday.

Partisan View

"It was great for the kids and great for the town," basketball coach John (Weenie) Wilson said Sunday.

Wilson said it is "wonderful for Dodgeville to go to the state tournament for the first time." He received about 150 telegrams and calls of congratulations Sunday from throughout the country.

"If you want to see a real good ball club play, you see that one," Olson said Sunday with some partisanship.

"It's a real good basketball town," he said about Saturday's victory and celebration.

Ticket Demand

Mixed with cries of victory were cries for tournament tickets, and the high school was mobbed Sunday morning when tickets were put on sale. So far 225 student and 125 adult tickets have been made available, officials said.

"We'll probably have a vacant town if we get tickets," Richard Heimerl, a city policeman, said Sunday.

"The feeling is all basketball here now; the enthusiasm has really gone around the town," Heimerl said, himself a former Dodgeville player, who played "about 10 quarters" of basketball Sunday he was so excited.

Spontaneous Rally

Dodgeville high school's top ranking basketball team. Rated in fifth place in the top ten teams of the state, they will play Lodi, February 15, in a dedication game in the new Dodgeville high school gymnasium. Dedication ceremonies for the gym will be held at half time.

Ruby Nichols Softball Star for 25 Years

DODGEVILLE—You might call her the "Pitching Grandmother." Her Dodgeville Wildcat teammates respectfully call her "Ma."

Either title would be appropriate for Ruby Nichols, who just completed her 25th year of softball competition by pitching the Dodgeville Wildcats to their third straight Southwestern Wisconsin Girls Softball League championship.

MRS. NICHOLS

Ruby, who in private life the past 25 years has been the wife of Charlie Nichols, started playing the game in 1936, and found it a perfect past-time to raising her family of seven children. She has four grandchildren, and two of her daughters played on the Dodgeville team with her this past season.

Her teammates honored her Aug. 19 with a dinner in recognition of her contributions as a sportswoman to softball for the past quarter-century. She was presented with a trophy for her achievements.

'Little Bit of Ireland' Adjusting to Life on Farm Near Dodgeville

DODGEVILLE—Alyce Lynch, Bushmills, Northern Ireland, is attending Dodgeville High school as Dodgeville's second American Field Service (AFS) student.

Alyce's home town is Bushmills (population: 935) situated on the River Bush only a few miles from the famed Giant's Causeway and the lovely resort of Portballintrae.

The river is noted for early salmon and also provides good brown trout angling. The Bushmills Distillery has been making whiskey for more than 350 years.

Alyce left Southampton Sept. 1 and expected to dock Sept. 10, but her ship ran into Hurricane Faith, which delayed their arrival until Sept. 12.

The ship carried 200 European students and 600 American students.

Alyce's Dodgeville home is with the Halvor Brue family on Route 3. Her American sister, Sandra Brue, is also a senior this year. She is right at home on the farm for her father is a farmer and it is very much like here—a dairy farm.

But she had never seen corn before like they have in America. What the Irish call corn is termed "milo" in America. She has never eaten corn on the cob, so Mrs. Brue is going to surprise her with some soon.

Alyce attended Bushmills grammar school which has fewer than 300 students.

Alyce said "Our schools are quite different from those in Dodgeville. There is no typing, bookkeeping, sociology or mechanics in Irish high schools. You have to go to Technical school to get those.

"They don't start school until 9 o'clock and have a 15 minute break at 11 o'clock and a 50-minute lunch hour from 12:55 to 2:45. All students go to lunch at the same time and in Dodgeville they have three shifts."

Alyce has a sister, Joan, married and living in Australia, a sister, Frances, 22, who is presently in Alexandria, Va., having come to the U.S. about a month ago on a visiting permit. She also has a brother, Shaun, 20, in Ireland.

GOLD WEDDING OF PIONEERS GRANDCHILDREN

Mr. and Mrs. R. Ernest Cretney of this city, will observe their Golden Wedding anniversary next Sunday, Sept. 12, with open house for relatives and friends from 2 to 4 p.m., in the parlors of Plymouth Church. This will be the first social event held in the ground floor of the church which was recently completely remodeled at a cost of over $35,000, and a fitting housewarming. Ladies of Miriam Circle, of which Mrs. Cretney is a member, will serve refreshments. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cretney are grandchildren of pioneer settlers who immigrated from Wales and the Isle of Man to Iowa county well over a century ago.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Ernest Cretney

Mr. Cretney was born July 18, 1891 on the parental Robert Cretney, Sr., farm southeast of Ridgeway. Mrs. Cretney, the former Gladys Lewis, was born May 8, 1891 on the family farm two miles east of Dodgeville where Simpson Methodist church, one of the smallest in America, still stands. When only 16 years old she was the eldest of nine children left motherless by the death of Mrs. Lewis. Miss Gladys, with the help of her father, Jesse Lewis, neighbors and relatives, somehow managed to rear the family. The oldest brother, Gomer, was killed in World War I, and the local American Legion Post bears his name. Another brother, Gerald, was permanently disabled in World War II. Mr. Lewis later retired to this city where he long served as Deacon of Plymouth church and also on the city council. The other Lewis children are Mrs. Elmer Johnson of Madison; Miss Beth Lewis and Mrs. Harvey Jones of Ridgeway; Carmond of Dodgeville; Garfield of West Allis; and Mrs. E. A. Crane of Milwaukee.

Ernest Cretney and Gladys Lewis were married Sept. 15, 1915 in the parsonage of Plymouth church, Dodgeville, by the Rev. Albert H. Schoenfeld, one of the most popular and effective spiritual leaders in Southwestern Wisconsin. The attendants were his sister, Mrs. Gladys Lynch and her brother, Gomer Lewis. They first resided in a new home, erected by the groom, in Ridgeway. Later they resided on the parental Cretney farm and the Jesse Lewis farm, four miles east of this city, which they later purchased in 1945. In 1951 they moved to a farm in Bloomfield community, which they also purchased and still own. They reared many turkeys on both farms and were the largest turkey raisers in this section of the state. Two years ago they erected a modern home on West Division street in this city, where they retired for a well-earned rest.

Mr. Cretney, like both of his sons, is a member of the Masonic fraternity and Mrs. Cretney is a member of the Eastern Star, Rebekah lodge and Legion Auxiliary. Both are strong supporter of Plymouth church.

Mr. and Mrs. Cretney have two sons, Robert of Madison, now employed with the A. O. Smith Corp., and Ernest of Lake Mills, a pole building contractor. Robert owns a farm near the Iowa County Hospital and Home where he and his wife served several years as Superintendent and Matron. An only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cretney, Miss Dorothy, was a first woman aviatrix in Iowa county and was killed in a tragic plane crash in 1942 at the age of 26. There are four grandchildren, Robert Jr., and Tim of Madison; Nancy and Jane of Lake Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cretney have been hard working, clean living citizens who richly deserve the blessings which have come their way. They have done much to make this a better community.

Deaths of Two Run Over by Car in Tall Weeds Ruled Accidental

The deaths of Dale Laufenberg, 21, Rt. 1, Cross Plains, and Marilyn Frame, 15, Blue Mounds, who were run over by a friend's car about 2:30 a.m. Friday at a teen-aged beer drinking party on a Blue Mounds farm, were ruled "accidental" by Coroner Clyde Chamberlain Jr.

The young couple was run over by Kim Jenkins, 16, Mt. Horeb, when he failed to see them on a blanket in tall weeds as he was parking his car upon rejoining the party after taking home two other youths, aged 15 and 16.

Laufenberg

Six other youths — three girls aged 13, 15, and 18, and three boys, two aged 16 and one 18 — witnessed the accident.

Sheriff Vernon (Jack) Leslie said the two 18-year-olds will be charged today with possessing beer off licensed premises. The others have been referred to Juvenile Court authorities.

Chamberlain said young Jenkins had not been drinking and that no charge will be filed against him.

Others Help

Laufenberg supplied two cases of beer for the party and had invited Jenkins who arrived late to the party after completing work as an attendant at the Texaco service station in Mt. Horeb, Leslie and Chamberlain said.

With the help of the others, Jenkins jacked his car off the injured couple's chests and drove them to the home of Mt. Horeb Police Chief George Kahl who called for county traffic police ambulances. Laufenberg was pronounced dead upon arrival at a Madison hospital and Miss Frame died about 7:30 a.m.

Their deaths are not counted as traffic fatalities because they occurred on private property.

Chamberlain said the car lodged on a terrain "drop off" which left it pinning the two victims underneath.

32nd Member

The party and fatal accident was on an unoccupied farm owned by the father of one of the girls near Blue Mounds State park.

Laufenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allie Laufenberg, Rt. 1, Cross Plains, was a member of the 32nd division Wisconsin National Guard and St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church parish, Cross Plains.

Surviving besides his parents are three brothers, Richard, Daniel, and Donavain, and a sister, Mary Therese, all at home; and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Peter Laufenberg, Ashton.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Monday in the Gruber-Cross Plains funeral home and at 10:30 in St. Francis Xavier Church. Friends may call at the funeral home after 2 p.m. Sunday. The Rosary will be recited there at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Mt. Horeb Student

Miss Frame, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Frame, was a student at Mt. Horeb High school and member of St. James Catholic Church parish, Vermont.

Survivors, besides parents, are a brother James, and two sisters, Kathy and Lori, at home; another sister, Caryl, Waunakee; and her grandparents, Mrs. Rhoda Burns, Blue Mounds, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frame, Mt. Horeb.

Her services will be at 9:30 a.m. Monday in St. James Church. The rosary will be recited at 8:30 p.m. Sunday at the Gesme-Ellestad funeral home, Mt. Horeb, and friends may call there after 3 p.m. Sunday.

Emerson was an upright and God fearing man and a sober, industrious citizen, loved by many friends and respected by all who knew him. He will be greatly missed both in home and community, where are deeply mourned his unexpected and untimely passing. God's will be done.

Not till the loom is silent
And the shutters cease to fly
Shall God unroll the canvass
And explain the reason why
The dark threads are as needful
In the weavers skillful hand
As the threads of gold and silver
In the pattern He has planned.

Frederick M. Ties, Predictor of Snowfalls, Dies in His Car

BRODHEAD — Frederick M. Ties, 46, Brodhead's semi-official predictor of snowfalls, was found dead in his car Wednesday (May 3, 1967) on Highway I-90 near Racine.

Authorities said his car left the road and crashed into a house. An investigation was begun to determine if he had suffered a fatal heart attack just before the accident.

Frederick M. Ties

Mr. Ties was the third generation of his family to carry on the 69 year tradition of predicting the number of snowfalls this area would receive in a winter.

The formula he used was one given to his grandfather by an Indian and passed down to him through his father. It involved adding the age of the month to the age of the moon at the time of the first snowfall.

The accuracy of Mr. Ties' weather predictions attracted national attention. He took over the job when his father died in 1959.

Mr. Ties, a Chrysler auto dealer here, married Arlene Mae Tollefson in 1941. He was a Navy veteran of World War II in the European Theater and was a member of Bethlehem Lutheran Church, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, the Masons, Zor Shrine, Consistory, state and national auto dealer associations, and the Decatur Country Club.

Survivors include his wife; a son, Frederick Mac, Brodhead; two daughters, Mrs. James Iverson, Brodhead, and Jane, at home; his mother, Mrs. Fannie Ties, and two grandchildren.

The funeral will be at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Bethlehem Lutheran Church. There will be no visitation. Memorials may be left at the Newcomer Funeral Home.

Frederick M. Ties, Predictor of Snowfalls, Dies in His Car

BRODHEAD — Frederick M. Ties, 46, Brodhead's semi-official predictor of snowfalls, was found dead in his car Wednesday (May 3, 1967) on Highway I-90 near Racine.

Authorities said his car left the road and crashed into a house. An investigation was begun to determine if he had suffered a fatal heart attack just before the accident.

Mr. Ties was the third generation of his family to carry on the 69 year tradition of predicting the number of snowfalls this area would receive in a winter, given to his grandfather by an Indian and passed down to him through his father. It involved adding the age of the month to the age of the moon at the time of the first snowfall.

The accuracy of Mr. Ties' weather predictions attracted national attention. He took over the job when his father died in 1959.

Mr. Ties, a Chrysler auto dealer here, married Arlene Mae Tollefson in 1941. He was a Navy veteran of World War II in the European Theater and was a member of Bethlehem Lutheran Church, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, the Masons, Zor Shrine, Consistory, state and national auto dealer associations, and the Decatur Country Club.

Survivors include his wife; a son, Frederick Mac, Brodhead; two daughters, Mrs. James Iverson, Brodhead, and Jane, at home; his mother, Mrs. Fannie Ties, and two grandchildren.

The funeral will be at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Bethlehem Lutheran Church. There will be no visitation. Memorials may be left at the Newcomer Fu-al Home.

What Exactly Is Saffron?

Long ago on the sunny islands of Greece, the kings wore robes of bright, golden yellow. Their royal robes were dyed with saffron. The Romans perfumed their homes and baths with sweet scented saffron.

In far away India and China the cooks used powdery yellow saffron to add a tangy taste to cakes and rice and flavorsome stews. And for ages saffron was used to make all kinds of soothing medicine. Our yellow cloth is dyed with chemicals and other drugs are used to make our medicines. But we still use saffron to flavor certain foods.

Saffron comes from the autumn crocus. This little flower opens its purple-blue flowers in the fall and shows off its spiky, orange-yellow center. The center is dried and dressed into powdery cakes. It takes the centers from about 1,000 autumn crocus flowers to make enough powdery yellow saffron to fill a thimble.

GOD'S LOAN TO ALL PARENTS

"I'll lend you for a little time,
A child of mine," He said,
For you to love the while he lives and mourn when he is dead.
It may be six or seven years,
or twenty-two or three,
But will you 'til I call him back,
take care of him for me?
He'll bring his charms to gladden you,
and should his stay be brief,
You'll have his lovely memories to solace for your grief.
I can not promise he will stay,
since all from earth return,
But there are lessons taught down there,
I want this child to learn.
I've looked the wide world over in my search for teachers true, and from the throngs that crowd life's lanes,
I have selected you.
Now will you give him all your love,
Nor think the labor vain,
Nor hate me when I come to call him back again?
I fancied that I heard them say,
"Dear Lord, Thy will be done!
For all the joy Thy child shall bring,
the risk of grief we'll run.
We'll shelter him with tenderness,
We'll love him while we may,
and for the blessings we have known,
forever grateful stay;
and should the angels call for him, much sooner than we've planned
We'll brave the bitter grief that comes, and try to understand.

IN MEMORY OF OUR BELOVED SON TOM

Near a garden wall a rose once grew,
Budded and twined in God's free light,
Watered and fed by morning dew,
Shedding its greenness day and night.

As it grew and matured straight and tall,
Slowly rising to loftier heights,
It came to a crevice in the wall,
Through which there shown a beam of light.

Onward it crept with added strength,
With never a thought of fear or pride;
It followed the light through the crevice length
And unfolded itself on the other side.

The light, the dew, the broadening view,
Were found the same, as they were before,
And it lost itself in beauties new Breathing its fairness more and more.

Scattering beauty far and wide,
Just as it did in days of yore,
Just as it did on the other side,
Just as it will forevermore.

Shall claim of death cause us to grieve
And make our courage faint or fail?
Nay, let us faith and hope receive;
Our Rose still grows, Beyond the Wall.

The Fellowship of Friends

The fairest rose in the garden of life
Is the fellowship of friends;
Time but glorifies its beauty
With a fragrance that never ends.
No cloud can shade its loveliness,
No storm its petals part
For the flower of friendship dwells forever
In the shrine of the human heart.

The Christmas Story

According to St. Luke

AND it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus that all the world should be taxed.

(And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city. And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazereth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem: (Because he was of the house and lineage of David:)

To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shown round about them: and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly hosts praising God, and saying,

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

AND they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

This 108-year-old courthouse, the oldest in the state, is expected to undergo some modernization when Iowa County officials at Dodgeville come to agreement on the type and cost. Board members favor retaining the historical dignity of the building inside and out. Attorneys and judges favor contemporary remodeling of the venerable old courtroom while keeping the interior historical. The building, which dates back to 1859, with its Doric columns, portico and octagonal cupola, is an excellent example of classic Greek revival architecture. (Staff photos by Skip Hiene)

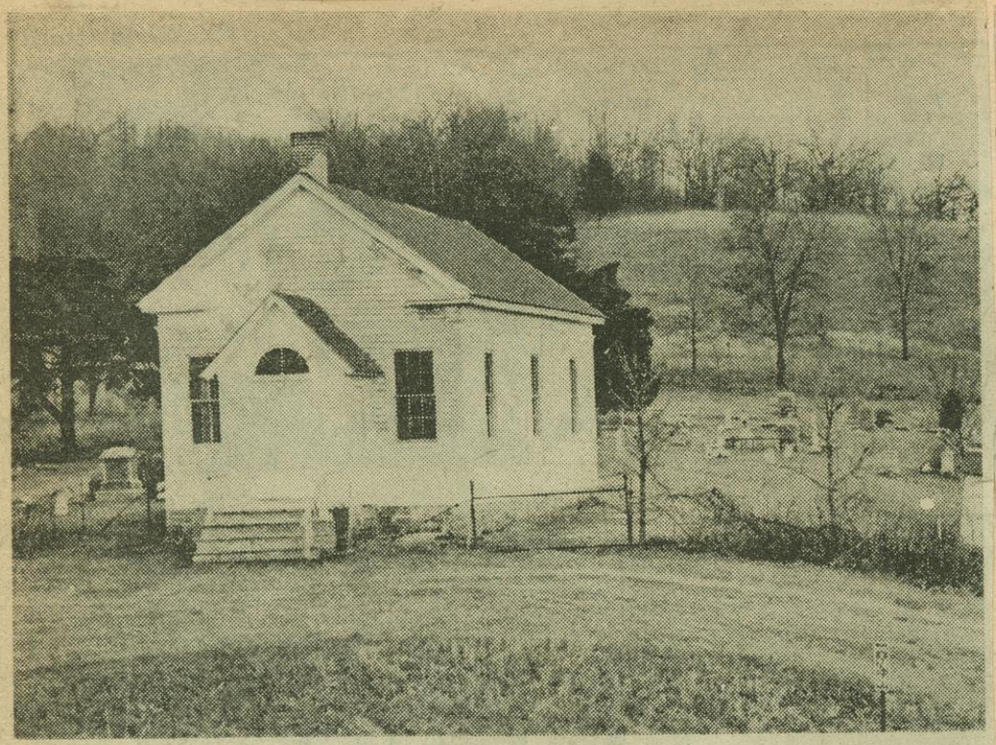
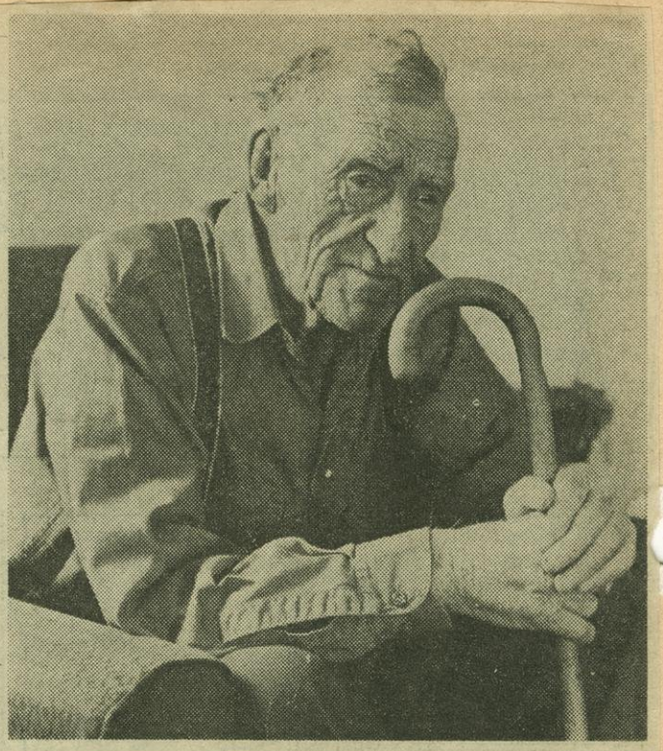
Funeral services were held on Monday at the United Church of Christ, Barneveld.



Hyde Chapel, once Hyde Congregational Church but long unused, is being restored by the new Hyde Community Association as a simple landmark and the focus for a community of city and rural neighbors.



The late Lance Dodge, Blue Mounds, was at 86 the oldest member of the Hyde Community Association. He attended the Dec. 18 meeting and reminisced about old days at Hyde's Mill, when the church was functioning. Mr. Dodge was the man who, while drilling blast holes, discovered Cave of the Mounds.

There's nothing fancy about Hyde church. When it was an unused church, members of the congregation took home various furnishings for safekeeping. Now with its restoration they are bringing them back. The old organ will be restored, and two original kerosene lamps in place. Restoration is only.

One day, as Bob McCabe stood on his bridge watching the water swirl, Tom McCutchin, a Hyde resident and president of the Hyde Cemetery Association, stopped by with news — "The church is being sold." The Wisconsin Conference of United Church of Christ has a policy of selling and having removed its unused small churches. Hyde church was on the block.

Bob and Clay called together informally some local people to see how they felt toward the church. Several had relatives in the quiet cemetery, and they liked the idea of preserving the building. There was never thought of resuming any kind of church service.

So Schoenfeld and McCabe bought Hyde church, and with McCutchin's practical help organized a meeting of city and rural families to form a Hyde Community Association which would legally possess the building. Atty. Robert Brigham, Madison, whose family name is deeply associated with the area, contributed his legal services to the cause.

One condition of purchase was the official change to Hyde Chapel.

There was from earliest times a burial ground, and in 1869 Hyde Congregational Church was built beside it. Ministers from neighboring towns served it.

Among them were the Revs. A. H., and Fred and Benjamin Schoenfeld, father and uncles of U. W. Director of Summer Sessions Clarence Schoenfeld. Clay Schoenfeld is a conservation journalist, author of the recent "Wisconsin Sideroads to Somewhere," and has a deep affection for the land. Especially for the Hyde country.

"You have to own a lot of hills to get enough land to farm," one Hyde resident puts it, but city folks who hanker for the outdoors have been buying the wooded bluffs for recreational purposes. Profs. Schoenfeld and Robert A. McCabe of the Wildlife Ecology Department are among these. They liked the solidity of the small Hyde church with its pine shaded graveyard.

Reminiscing was in order. The Price sisters, whose father was a pillar of Hdye church, remembered who sat where and who prayed the loudest.

Lance Dodge, Blue Mounds, who died this March, was then at 86 the oldest member of the HCA. He told how the church once had two stoves, one on each side. Men sat on one side and women on the other. Lance had lived a mile above Hyde on a 200-acre farm which his grandfather, working for 50 cents a day had bought for 50 cents an acre.

Hyde Chapel, once Hyde Co
Church but long unused, is being the new Hyde Community Asso

k and the focus for a com-and rural neighbors.

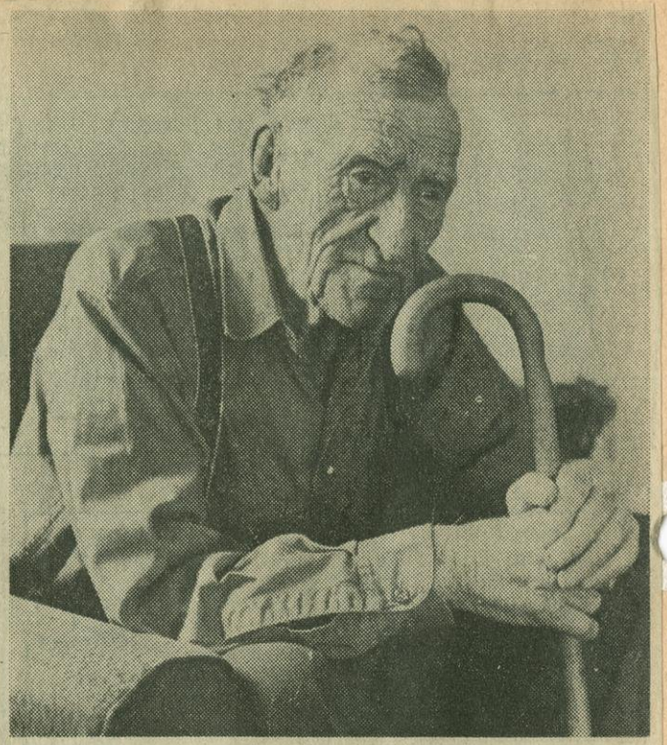
There's nothing fancy about Hyde Chapel. When it was an unused church, members of the congregation took home various furnishings for safekeeping. Now with its restoration they are bringing them back. The Bible is back on the pulpit, the old organ will be returned in the spring, and two original kerosene lamps will be in place. Restoration is for historic interest only.



The late Lance Dodge, Blue Mounds, was at 86 the oldest member of the Hyde Community Association. He attended the Dec. 18 meeting and reminisced about old days at Hyde's Mill, when the church was functioning. Mr. Dodge was the man who, while drilling blast holes, discovered Cave of the Mounds.

There was from earliest times a burial ground, and in 1869 Hyde Congregational Church was built beside it. Ministers from neighboring towns served it.

Among them were the Revs. A. H., and Fred and Benjamin Schoenfeld, father and uncles of U. W. Director of Summer Sessions Clarence Schoenfeld. Clay Schoenfeld is a conservation journalist, author of the recent "Wisconsin Sideroads to Somewhere," and has a deep affection for the land. Especially for the Hyde country.

"You have to own a lot of hills to get enough land to farm," one Hyde resident puts it, but city folks who hanker for the outdoors have been buying the wooded bluffs for recreational purposes. Profs. Schoenfeld and Robert A. McCabe of the Wildlife Ecology Department are among these. They liked the solidity of the small Hyde church with its pine shaded graveyard.

Reminiscing was in order. The Price sisters, whose father was a pillar of Hdye church, remembered who sat where and who prayed the loudest.

Lance Dodge, Blue Mounds, who died this March, was then at 86 the oldest member of the HCA. He told how the church once had two stoves, one on each side. Men sat on one side and women on the other. Lance had lived a mile above Hyde on a 200-acre farm which his grandfather, working for 50 cents a day had bought for 50 cents an acre.

WHEN IS A church not a church? When, having served its day, it becomes a simple landmark, the focus for a community of city and rural neighbors.

This is the story of recent happenings at the one-room white clapboard structure, long unused, formerly Hyde Congregational Church.

Mr. & Mrs. John Koenig

THANK YOU

This is only a tiny message,
But it's written just for you,
our relatives and friends,
Who have come to help us celebrate our Golden Wedding Day.
Now when this day is over and our guests are on their way,
The memory of this joyous time will ever with us stay.

TO BE ORDAINED TO PRIESTHOOD

Rev. Perry McDonald, O. F. M. Capuchin, will be ordained to the priesthood by the Most Reverend Frederick W. Freking, Bishop of La Crosse, on Oct. 19. He is the son of Mrs. Francis McDonald of Dodgeville, and the late Francis McDonald. Mrs. McDonald will attend the ordination ceremony which will take place in St. Mary's church, Marathon, Wis., at 9:00 a.m.

Father McDonald graduated from St. Joseph's Parochial school in 1955. He received his high school education from St. Lawrence Seminary, Mt. Calvary, Wis. He entered the Capuchin Order in 1959.

He studied philosophy at the Capuchin Seminary of St. Mary, Crown Point, Indiana and theology at the Capuchin Seminary of St. Anthony, Marathon, Wis.

Father McDonald will offer his first solemn Mass of Thanksgiving on Sun., Oct. 22, at 1:00 p.m. in St. Joseph's church, Dodgeville. He has asked his pastor, Father Albert Schubiger, and his uncle. Father Donald Wiest, O.F.M. Capuchin, to concelebrate with him. Very Reverend Gerard Hesse, O. F. M. Capuchin, will preach the sermon.

"I want my first Mass to be a concelebration to emphasize that all priests share the one sacrifice of Christ," he explained. "I feel a concelebrated Mass points up the fact that all priests are brothers," he added.

Following the Mass a dinner will be served for relatives and friends in the school hall. Reception for the public will also be held in the school hall from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Following a short visit with his family, Father McDonald will return to the Capuchin Seminary of St. Anthony to finish his last year of theology. After completing his studies, he will spend one year in special pastoral training before receiving his first assignment.

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil:
for thou art with me; Thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head
with oil, my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me
all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

On Monday, Jan. 16, the county was hit by high winds and snow, tying up traffic and causing many accidents. Although only two inches of snow fell the winds caused much drifting. Tuesday night, Jan. 25, a freak thunder and rain storm hit the city, flooding basements and causing power outages to nearly half the city. Tornado warnings were out for parts of the county. The newly formed Junior Chamber of Commerce received their charter at a dinner on January 21.

February

A county plow in charge of Bud Heibel and Jack Jones left for Chicago to help that city fight one of the worst snow storms to hit in its history. The city was snowbound for nearly two weeks. A 3-inch snowstorm accomanied by high winds caused bad driving conditions and resulted in numerous auto collisions on Sunday, the 5th.

Good food, good ideas at fair

By Robert C. Bjorklund
State Journal Farm Editor

DODGEVILLE — The Iowa County holiday season opened over the weekend with good food and good ideas — and an array of original crafts, which were pounced on like treasures.

More than 400 Iowa County women, and a few understanding husbands, attended the annual Extension Homemakers Holiday Fair at the Dodgeville High School.

The fair has become a tradition in Iowa County and demand for the homemakers' creations from the kitchen and the craft bench has become so great that those who arrived early had their pick of the best of the 1978 offerings.

Some sales tables were cleared within an hour. Money from the sales go to the treasuries of participating homemaker clubs to underwrite programs the clubs plan for 1979.

Mrs. James Orcutt, Route 1, Arena, said she came for ideas on what decorations for Christmas can be added to her home.

She made a selection of Christmas tree and home decorations, some of which she will use to pattern craft items she will offer at the silent auction of the Christ Lutheran Church in Spring Green.

And Mrs. Emmett Dolan and her friend, Mrs. Frances Nooyen, Avoca, laughed about going from table to table and quickly getting some of their Christmas season baking finished — pies, cakes, cookies.

The nest of tables near the gymnasium entrance had clusters of women as homemakers demonstrated the arts of the season and 18 clubs had sales tables around the sides of the gym.

Mrs. Ann Pustina, Dodgeville, was joined by her niece, Mrs. Roselyn Callin, Route 3, Mineral Point, to demonstrate how to make the Bohemian delicacy, kolaches.

Hungry visitors eagerly took the kolaches as they were brought in hot from the oven and just tossed their money in a pile to get a chance to taste-test one of the special prune and poppy seed-filled sweet dough pastries — for only 15 cents, yet.

Making candy canes from wire and fabric was demonstrated by Mary Ann Antonson.

— State Journal photos by A. Craig Benson

Both women are of Bohemian descent and they wore the exact replicas of the aprons and kitchen caps their mothers wore when they did the baking. Their lace collars were delicate, 100-year-old Bohemian lace.

Mrs. Edith Lindokken, rural Mount Horeb, president of the River Forks club, said the participation in Extension Homemakers clubs is growing and new clubs are being formed regularly, especially with large groups of younger women.

Mrs. Thelma McKenzie, Hollandale, said that crafts have had such an impact on women that they always are looking for new ideas and the concept of the holiday fair is to provide new ideas for visitors.

And there is much satisfaction with the rapid sales.

Mrs. Cora Olson, Route 2, Hollandale, brought lefse, and it was quickly sold out before anything else.

She makes the large, 20- to 24-inch pieces of lefse, just as she has for more than 50 years. She learned the art from her mother.

"Everyone eats lefse in their own way. As for me, I prefer butter on it and then just roll them up and enjoy them," she said.

Mrs. Olson, who came to southwest Wisconsin from Minnesota, laughs about the many experiences she had with her lefse. She tells of the supper at the Hollandale Lutheran Church where her lefse was served and one man thought they were napkins.

Mrs. Tina Breier, Montfort, who came from Amsterdam, Holland, with her physician husband 20 years ago, put on an elegant Dutch custome and demonstrated how to make marzipan, an almond paste candy.

"You don't make this in Holland," she said. "You buy it."

This was a special day for Mrs. Breier because it was the first time in her life she ever wore a Dutch costume.

"Just think, I have to come to the U.S. to be a Dutch girl," she laughed.

Ann Pustina, Dodgeville, told visitors how to make — and enjoy — kolaches.

'Seedies' isn't just baby talk for baker who likes children

By Irene Johns
Written for The State Journal

DODGEVILLE — Mention the word "seedies" in Dodgeville and everyone knows it isn't baby talk about the garden you've just planted.

Instinctively, the Quality Bakery comes to mind where Seedie Buns, an old Cornish favorite, have been made and sold for 50 years this month, the golden anniversary of the Crubaugh family business.

Mike Crubaugh has operated the bakery since his father, LaVerne, died when Mike was a sophomore in high school. The oldest of six children, he became the family breadwinner at the age of 15.

Fortunately, Mike had been helping his father since he was 9, so he was no stranger to work, or long hours. Two apprentice workers were hired under the GI Bill. Mike worked from 4 a.m. to school time, was given permission to deliver bread during the noon hour, and worked after school when he wasn't participating in sports.

He was an outstanding athlete, was valedictorian of his class, and a year after graduating from high school, bought the business from his mother.

This month Mike and his wife Florence will mark two anniversaries, their silver wedding and his 25th year in his own business.

The bakery on Dodgeville's main thoroughfare is a vital part of the daily drama enacted in this little city. The tinkling bell on the door has announced customers ranging from starry eyed youngsters buying sweets, to adults requesting buns and decorated cakes for birthdays, weddings, anniversaries and funerals.

Mike, ecumenical long before the word became popular, provides buns for every funeral in town and donates cakes for community-oriented banquets. His classic remark when he delivers donations to a Protestant Church is, "Don't tell the Pope."

The old building housing the bakery, built in 1895, was originally a bank. Various businesses located there. Stories that a baker who came from Galena, Ill., was involved with the Ku Klux Klan were substantiated recently when old wall paper was removed, revealing three large K's on one wall.

The paper came down when the Crubaughs redecorated the bakery in Early American decor, hanging attractive collectibles on the walls.

Mike works long hours. His day starts at 2 a.m. "Fortunately I don't need much sleep," he says. He's rarely lonely. Early rising businessmen are apt to stop in on their way to work to swap stories. "By the time the shop opens, I know all the news," he says.

With the exception of a clerk half days, Mike has had no outside help for about 15 years. Florence has worked part-time for five years, and seven of their eight children started helping when they reached the age of 9, as their father had. Sheri, 8, a third grader, will be no exception.

The other children are Dave, a student at the University of Wisconsin-Madison and an assistant coach at Edgewood High School; Mark, who works at Dick's here; Brian, who will soon manage a bakery in a supermarket at Sparta; Theresa, Dodgeville, recently married; Mary, a May high school graduate; Joe, a sophomore in high school; and Chris, in fourth grade.

Devoted parents, the Crubaughs have a loving concern for all children. They implemented Project Understanding here and actively participated. They've been involved in numerous charity projects, and in 1974, Florence received the Jaycettes Carol Award for outstanding community service.

The bakery business has changed over the years. "We don't have as big a seedie business now. Most of the old Cornish people are gone," Mike said. "One Cornishman who liked them toasted, would order two dozen every Saturday. Our bread business isn't much anymore. Dad used to sell about a thousand loaves on Saturdays, shipping some to Hollandale by train on the old Illinois Central."

Summer business has picked up, however. "Summers used to be a slow time," Florence observed. "Now with Governor Dodge State Park attracting so many, we have people come in here we don't know."

Although Mike is a great baker and an expert cake decorator, Florence claims to limit her baking to one annual treat. "Mike likes Rice Krispie bars, so I make a pan of them for his birthday and stick a candle in the middle of it."

Mike has a fantasy. He hopes to eventually buy a bakery in Florida, keep the one in Dodgeville, and let the kids operate both. He and Florence will hop from one state to the other, "baby sitting" the bakeries when they feel like it.

For now, he and Florence are content with their hobbies of cross country skiing, antiquing and traveling. Sixteen years ago, they bought a lovely old English Tudor style house, and have been redecorating, remodeling and furnishing it with beautiful antiques. They've done all the work in Mike's "spare time," stripping the oak woodwork in the living room, large entry and stairway.

Here is a family size recipe for Seedie Buns:

Seedie Buns

Two cakes yeast
One cup lukewarm water
Two-thirds cup sugar
One-half cup lard
Three teaspoons salt
One cup milk
One-half cup whole caraway seeds
Seven cups flour (approximately)

Dissolve yeast in water. Mix together sugar, lard and salt. Add milk and yeast and water mixture. Stir in caraway seeds and enough flour to make a smooth dough.

Let rise for 1½ hours, or until double in bulk. Punch down and let set for 30 minutes. Roll out to ½ inch thickness and cut with a 4 inch round cutter. Let rise again and bake in a 390 ° F oven for 15 minutes.

Yield: 3 dozen.

CELEBRATES DIAMOND JUBILEE

Dodgeville, Wis. - April 28 marked an important milestone in the history of Dodgeville Chapter No. 39, Order of Eastern Star, as members and friends gathered to celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the chapter. Two hundred and seventy-five Eastern Stars representing forty-one chapters gathered with their friends at the Masonic Temple to enjoy the happy occasion. The chapter received its charter on January 23, 1893, with thirty-one names on the charter list. Present membership is two hundred and thirteen.

The anniversary program opened with the Pledge to the Flag, led by the Worthy Matron, Utha Hutton. C.F. La Pointe, Past Grand Patron of the Order in Wisconsin, sang "Let There Be Peace." The Worthy Patron then welcomed those present, after which Franklin Trine, Past Patron of Dodgeville Chapter, introduced the distinguished guests: Worthy Grand Matron, Roberta Limberg; Past Grand Matrons Era Keil, Dorothy Sowls, and Barbara Chapman; Past Grand Patrons Howard Tyrer, C.F. La Pointe and Carroll Hill; three present appointive Grand Officers, Fern Gilbertson, Grand Ruth; Margaret Sime, Grand Martha; and Helen Low, Grand Electa; and Ina J. Reid, Grand Treasurer Emeritus.

The five Grand Representatives and the six District Deputies present and the many visiting Worthy Matrons and Patrons and the Past Matrons and Patrons of Dodgeville Chapter were heartily welcomed.

Special recognition was given the six Life Members of the Chapter who were present: Mayme Campbell, Frances Comstock, Winifred Berryman, Sarah Jones and Helen Pile, and Ernest H. Hoyer.

Officers of Dodgeville Chapter dressed in period costumes, were introduced by the Associate Matron Elise Lindeman, who gave some pertinent fact about each costume. Parts of one costume were over one hundred years old, while some dressed were of the 1968 vintage.

The history of the Chapter was read by Jodean Grunow. During breaks in the reading of the history, appropriate songs were sung by the choir. The Rainbow song was sung by the Rainbow Girls and one number, "After The Ball Is Over," was an organ solo by Leola Cullen, Chapter Organist.

A social hour in the dining hall followed the program. Blue and silver predominated in the color scheme, gay, diamond shaped mobiles hanging from the ceiling and white candles on blue stars brightening the small tables. The anniversary cake graced the serving table.

In keeping with the diamond anniversary theme the "Hope Diamond" was displayed on blue velvet on the table in the lobby.

General Chairman of the day was Jeanne McCutchin, who was abley assisted by several committees.

DODGEVILLE — John (Weenie) Wilson, 54, who brought basketball championships and fame to Dodgeville, died Wednesday (Oct. 30, 1968) after collapsing at Dodgeville High School.

Mr. Wilson, a highly respected athlete and a coach and physical education instructor here for almost 24 years, took his Dodgeville basketball team to the WIAA finals in 1963 and 1964, winning the state championship the latter year.

He had just swept off the high school gymnasium floor and was reaching for a basketball for a physical education class when he collapsed from a heart attack at 11:30 a.m.

MR. WILSON had suffered a severe heart attack in 1962, but recovered and led his Dodgeville teams to the school's greatest basketball glories the following two seasons.

A native of Richland Center, Mr. Wilson himself had state high school basketball tournament experience, having played in the 1932 meet.

He also won a football letter at the University of Wisconsin in 1935 under the late Dr. Clarence W. Spears, who spotted the 5-foot-7, 150-pound halfback punting in an intramural game and urged him to join the varsity.

MR. WILSON eventually received his degree from Dubuque University in 1940 and then served 4½ years in the Navy during World War II.

At Dodgeville Mr. Wilson had coached football, basketball, and baseball, attaining his greatest fame with the two state tournment basketball teams.

The Dodgers lost to Manitowoc in the 1963 finals, but returned the following March to whip Milwaukee North, 59-45, for the championship, capping a perfect 26-0 season.

His overall basketball record was 359 victories, 141 defeats and seven Southwestern Wisconsin Conference championships. Dodger football teams under his coaching compiled a 47-43-6 record and won four conference titles.

IN BASEBALL he wound up with a 166-42 record, and won four championships. Four of his teams advanced to the state tournament.

Mr. Wilson was beloved by Dodgeville youngsters, whom he used to coach in athletics during the summer without compensation. He kept the Dodgeville High School gymnasium open several nights a week during the summer for recreation.

Mr. Wilson also served as athletic director at the high school and retained that title even after giving up the football reins. At the time of his death he was athletic director and basketball coach.

MR. WILSON was especially excited about this season's basketball prospects. Although he lost four regulars from the team which bowed to Iowa-Grant in the regionals last season, the returnees have considerable experience and size.

Turn to Page 3, Sports

Among the many awards won by Mr. Wilson were conference coach of the year honors 10 times.

He also was named Area Sportsman of the Year in both 1963 and 1964 by the Madison Pen and Mike Club.

Mr. Wilson was instrumental in securing more than 50 college scholarships for Dodgeville athletes.

HE WAS a member of the Congregational United Church of Christ and the Masonic Lodge, served on the Rainbow advisory board, and was chairman of the Heart Fund drive for 17 years.

He is survived by his wife, the former Blanche Smith, a native of Kenosha. They had no children.

Also surviving are his mother, Mrs. Ethelyn Wilson of Richland Center; three sisters, Mrs. Floyd Johnson of Clearwater, Fla., Mrs. C. W. Kruger of Lake Mills, and Mrs. William Robinson of Richland Center; and two brothers, William and Richard, both of Richland Center.

FRIENDS MAY call after noon Friday at the Lulloff Funeral Home, where Masonic Services will be conducted Friday at 8 p.m.

The body will be taken to the high school gymnasium at 10 a.m. Saturday and services will be conducted there at 1 p.m. with The Rev. Phillip Yeager officiating. Burial will be at Richland Center with military services at gravesde.

A scholarship fund in his name is being established as a memorial.

Love Shines Through on 'Very Special Day'

By MRS. JULES LEDERER (Ann Landers)

DEAR READERS: This may be just another day to you, but it is a very special day in my life. Thirty years ago, on a sweltering Sunday afternoon in Sioux City, Ia., Jules Lederer slipped a plain gold band on my finger and I became his wife.

Honesty forbids me describing myself as a student at Morningside College, so I'll simply say I was enrolled there. Jules had had one year at Northwestern — High School, that is. He was a product of Detroit, handsome, energetic, imaginative, a born optimist and eager to take on the world. He had a good job and a promising future. He was also broke.

I was an effervescent, fun-loving girl, hopelessly square, driven by a crusading spirit to save the world — sort of a Jewish Joan of Arc. I was also engaged to marry a law student in California. But Jules, never one to be discouraged by small obstacles, asked me to marry him anyway. I said "yes" and the wedding took place three months later.

WE WERE blessed the following year with a baby girl, Margo. From then on, I saw more of the moving van than I saw of Jules. When an opportunity for advancement arose, he took it. And it seemed always to be in another city. We moved from Sioux City to St. Louis, from St. Louis to New Orleans, from New Orleans to Milwaukee. Then came World War II and Jules served in the Infantry. In 1945 we moved from Little Rock to Los Angeles, from Los Angeles to Eau Claire, Wisconsin, and from Eau Claire to Chicago.

Time, that subtle thief of youth, is often cursed by those who long to stop the clock, or turn it back, but we want none of that. Each year has been better than the last because we have grown together. A good marriage, it is said, is made in heaven. This might be true, but the maintenance work must be done right down here.

A successful marriage is not a gift, it is an achievement. No real marriage can exist without differences in opinion and the ensuing battles. But battles can be healthy. They bring to marriage the vital principle of equal partnership. If there is a secret to making marriage work, it is "Never go to bed mad."

OUR 30 YEARS together have been blessed with good health, good fortune, good friends, good times and success. Jules says he could not have made it without me. I am not sure he is right. But I could not have made it without him, and of this I am certain. He taught me how to be alone without feeling sorry for myself. He taught me never to back away from a challenge — that it is better to try and fail and then to try again. He taught me how to use my time productively. His work habits are impeccable. I learned mine from him.

Mr. and Mrs. Jules Lederer

Mrs. Evelyn S. Hanson

Mrs. Evelyn S. Hanson, age 72, Ridgeway, died on Monday, February 25, 1974 at a Madison hospital after a long illness. She was the former Evelyn Meigs and spent most of her life in the Ridgeway area. She was married to Herman Hanson on November 15, 1921. He died in 1970. Mrs. Hanson was a member of the Barneveld Lutheran Church, and the Ridgeway American Legion Auxiliary.

Survivors include four daughters, Mrs. Milo Tremelling, Arena, Mrs. Orvin Severson, Hillpoint, Mrs. William Recob, Spring Green, and Mrs. Lawrence Rickey, Ridgeway; three sons, LaVerne, Ridgeway, William and Richard, both of

Richards, E. E. (Gene)

DODGEVILLE—Mr. E. E. Richards, age 77, died on Thursday, March 7, 1974, at a Dodgeville hospital after a brief illness. Born in Linden, Wisconsin, he was married to the former Ruth Higginbotham of Lancaster in 1928. He was a retired engineer for the Wisconsin State Highway Department, and a veteran of World War I. Mr. Richards was a member of Plymouth Congregational Church, Dodgeville Masonic Lodge, the Eastern Star, Royal Arch, and the Registered Professional Engineers of the State of Wisconsin. Survivors include his wife, Ruth; a daughter, Mrs. Donald Johnson, Brown Deer; two sons, William, Sun Prairie, and Robert, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; two sisters, Greta Richards, Cobb, and Mrs. Joe Riley, Portland, Oregon; two brothers, Clyde N. and Orville S., both of Madison; and seven grandchildren. Funeral services will be held at LULLOFF-PETER

A Very Sad and Personal Mess

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR READERS: In my 20 years as Ann Landers this is the most difficult column I have ever tried to put together.

I do so after many hours of soul-searching. Should it be written at all? Would it be appropriate? Would it be fair? I have decided yes — because you, my readers, are also my friends. I owe it to you to say something. There should be some word directly from me.

The sad, incredible fact is that after 36 years of marriage Jules and I are being divorced. As I write these words, it is as if I am referring to a letter from a reader. It seems unreal that I am writing about my own marriage.

Many of you may remember the column that appeared in 1969. It was in honor of our 30th wedding anniversary. You may also recall the column I wrote when my beloved mother-in-law, Gustie Lederer, passed away

ann landers

On both occasions I gave you some intimate glimpses of our life together. Thousands of readers were kind enough to write and say they considered those columns my best.

Every word that appeared in those columns was true when I wrote them, and very little that was said then could not be said today — in complete honesty.

Jules is an extraordinary man. His nickname for me was "The Queen." He was loving, supportive and generous. He is still all those things — and I will always cherish our wonderful years together.

A Very Sad and Personal Message

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR READERS: In my 20 years as Ann Landers this is the most difficult column I have ever tried to put together.

I do so after many hours of soul-searching. Should it be written at all? Would it be appropriate? Would it be fair? I have decided yes — because you, my readers, are also my friends. I owe it to you to say something. There should be some word directly from me.

The sad, incredible fact is that after 36 years of marriage Jules and I are being divorced. As I write these words, it is as if I am referring to a letter from a reader. It seems unreal that I am writing about my own marriage.

Many of you may remember the column that appeared in 1969. It was in honor of our 30th wedding anniversary. You may also recall the column I wrote when my beloved mother-in-law, Gustie Lederer, passed away

On both occasions I gave you some intimate glimpses of our life together. Thousands of readers were kind enough to write and say they considered those columns my best.

Every word that appeared in those columns was true when I wrote them, and very little that was said then could not be said today — in complete honesty.

Jules is an extraordinary man. His nickname for me was "The Queen." He was loving, supportive and generous. He is still all those things — and I will always cherish our wonderful years together.

That we are going our separate ways is one of life's strangest ironies. How did it happen that something so good for so long didn't last forever? The lady with all the answers does not know the answer to this one.

Perhaps there is a lesson there for all of us. At least, it is there for me. "Never say, 'It couldn't happen to us!' "

Please, don't write or call and ask for details. The response would be, "Sorry, this is a personal matter . . ." Just wish us both well.

Being Mrs. Jules Lederer has been superb training for Ann Landers. Thirty years with this unselfish, supportive, responsive man has enabled me to live life as few people have the opportunity to live it.

Being Ann Landers' husband could pose a terrible problem, but Jules has met the challenge with dignity and incredible good humor. My husband is my best friend, and I am his. I consider it a privilege to be the wife of this beautiful guy who took on the world with a ninth-grade education and a hole in his sock.

The Rest of the Way Alone

It isnt' given to any of us
To go all the way together,
However closely bound the flock
The years must one day sever.
The ties that bind the loving group
One goes then another,
And grieving doesn't help too much
Be it husband, wife or brother.
It isn't given to any of us
To be always with those most dear,
We, one day reach the fork in the road
One goes while one stays here.
In our loneliness for those who are gone,
Don't forget the joys we have known
The memory of them should light up the road
Though the rest of the way is —alone. 1p

Berrymans Observe 40 Wedded Years

It was a very happy occasion as friends and relatives met in the Fellowship Hall at the Dodgeville United Methodist Church on Sunday afternoon, December 30 to celebrate the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton V. Berryman.

Carlton and Jane Perkins were married at 2 p.m. on Sunday, December 31, 1933 at the Methodist parsonage in Dodgeville by Rev. A.R. Klein and attended by Herbert Harris and Miss Mildred Lee. At the open house on Sunday Carlton wore his wedding suit of oxford gray all wool with cuffed trousers, and Jane wore the navy blue velvet dress and coat which she wore on their wedding day.

A most sincere thank you to our family and friends for making our 40th wedding anniversary such a happy occasion. A special note of thanks to the Rebecca Circle for serving at the church, and to our family for the anniversary dinner at Hideaway Acres.

Our deep appreciation for all the prayers, and the cards sent to Carlton while he is undergoing treatments.

Harley I. Hicks Dies Sunday

Harley I. Hicks was born in Linden, Wis. September 21, 1897, and attended school there, graduating from Linden high school in 1916. After attending the University of Valpariso, Indiana, one year, he enlisted in the U.S. Army August 14, 1918 and went overseas in October. He was discharged June 2, 1919.

On Nov. 26, 1920, Mr. Hicks married Miss Vera Fish of Medford and they came to Dodgeville where he was associated with the late John I. Hahn, a wholesale distributor. In later years the business was taken over by Mr. Hicks and Harold J. Rieff and was one of the most successful business enterprises in the community.

Mr. Hicks was an untiring community leader and active in many fields. He helped organize the Kiwanis club in 1927 and served as its president. He was a long time member of the Governor Dodge state park committee and an effective promoter of this popular recreation project. He served on the city park board five years and on the Iowa County board for over ten years where he was chairman in 1957-58. A leader in the Republican party, he was secretary for 18 years and also served as county chairman.

In 1951 Mr. Hicks helped organize the Dodgeville State Bank of which he served as president and director since its organization.

Mr. Hicks, a fifty year war veteran, was always active in Legion affairs. At the time of his death he was chairman of the Board of Trustees of Camp American Legion. He was past chairman of the Department Finance Committee, past commander of the Dodgeville post, past county commander, past commander of the Third District, past Department vice commander. He also served as chairman on the National Conservation and Agriculture Committee and was also a member of the National Resolution Assignment Committee. During World War II he was chairman of the Wisconsin American Legion War Bond Drive Committee.

He was serving as a member of the State of Wisconsin Board of Veterans Affairs, having been appointed in the spring of 1967 by Governor Warren Knowles. He also served on the veterans advisory committee to the Wisconsin Board of Veterans Affairs in 1953 as the representative of the Legion.

Mr. Hicks joined the Masonic Lodge on January 13, 1920. He was a member of Dodgeville Lodge, Dodgeville Eastern Star, Dodgeville Century Club, Madison Consistory and Zor Shrine.

He was a member of the Dodgeville Methodist Church and for many years served on the finance committee and governing board.

Mr. Hicks passed away Sunday, August 31st., 1969, after a lingering illness at the Dodgeville General Hospital. Memorial services were arranged by the Lulloff Funeral Home and interment will be in the Dodgeville East Side Cemetery.

Mr. Hicks was a valuable citizen and a much needed leader. He will be greatly missed by the community.

Smiths End 55 Years on Hwy.

For 55 years the Smiths have taken care of Hwy. 18-151. They have seen it grow from a dirt road to a fast-paced federal highway.

But Kermit Smith, long-time resident of Blue Mounds, retired from the Dane County Highway Department Jan. 1, making 1969 the first year that Kermit or his father, Volney Smith, both Dane County highway patrolmen, have not been keeping Hwy. 18-151 open in the winter and patched in the summer.

Kermit Smith retired at age 65 with 39 years and 11 months of employment with the county.

When Kermit started in 1928 he worked on County Trunk F, where he graded with a team of horses he bought from Tom Ayen.

Then he worked with his dad on Highway 18 between Blue Mounds and Madison. In the early years they also worked beyond the Madison city limits.

Before he retired, Kermit worked from the Iowa County line to Verona on Hwy. 18 and south on Hwy. 78 to Daleyville, two of the most dangerous roads in the county for patrolmen.

Kermit admits he has had some "close calls" while he has been working on the roads, but he never has been hit by a passing car.

He has taken to the ditch many times, though, and jumped out of the way of cars, but during his 40 years he has learned never to take chances.

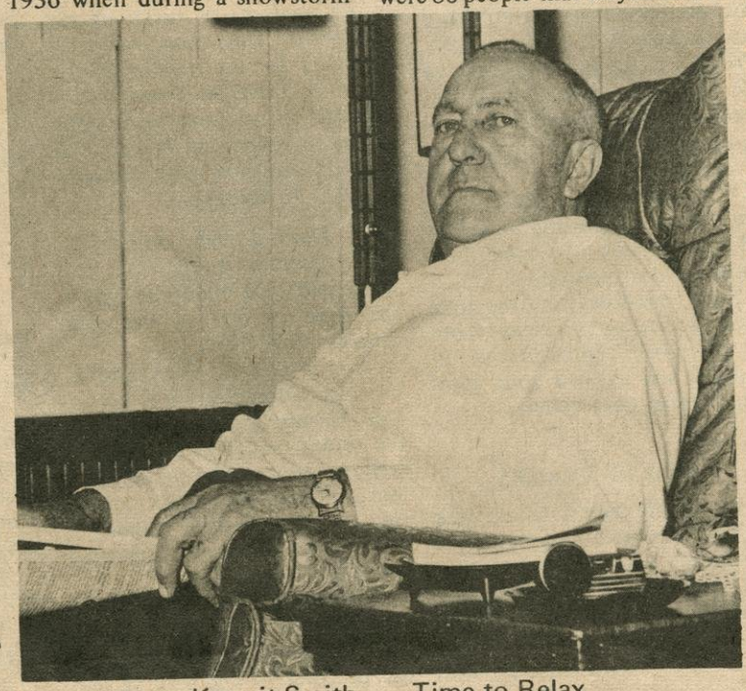
Kermit remembers his years on the highway well, especially the winters.

"All the winters were bad as far as I'm concerned," said Kermit, but he recalls the winter of 1936 when during a snowstorm there were three buses and several cars stuck and abandoned on County Trunk F.

Kermit said that the highway men worked from Sunday night to Tuesday night to get the vehicles out of the snow.

It took some of the time to find the cars, which were completely buried by the snow.

He also remembers that there were 80 people that stayed at the Swenson farm while the cars and buses were covered with snow.



Kermit Smith . . . Time to Relax

Smith recalls that in 1934 his wages were 32 cents an hour, but in 1935 he got a raise to 42 cents. "And those were good wages," he laughed.

He remembers the first truck that he and his father had, instead of horses, and how it didn't have a heater in it. It was also built so that from time to time they would have to stop and brush the snow off each other.

And he remembers how the trucks didn't have unloaders, so they would have to stand on the endgate and shovel off the gravel.

Kermit said that the "younger fellows holler," but "they don't know what work is."

Kermit's father retired in 1947 and died ten years later at age 86.

After 40 years Kermit believes he has opened the highway enough times in the middle of a bad storm, and is taking advantage of his opportunity to retire.

"I'm not going to tie myself down," he said, but also added that he isn't "going to do more than I have to."

He has dodged enough passing cars to know how to enjoy life.

Martin L. Haglund

Martin L. Haglund, 78, Mt. Horeb, died Thursday (Aug. 31, 1972) in a Dodgeville hospital after a long illness.

He was born in Norway and came to this country in 1913. He married the former Mabel Owens in 1920.

Mr. Haglund was a patrolman for the Iowa County Highway Dept. and for the Town of Brigham.

He was a member of the Barneveld Lutheran Church.

Surviving are his wife; four sons, Norman, Marlen, and Gerald, all of Mt. Horeb; and Leland, Verona; two daughters, Mrs. Paul Jones, Barneveld; and Mrs. Charles Goke, Mt. Horeb; two brothers, Gustava, Cambridge, Md.; and Peter, Portland, Ore.; a sister, Mrs. Winka Christianson, Norway; 28 grandchildren; and nine great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held at 2 p.m. Monday in the church.

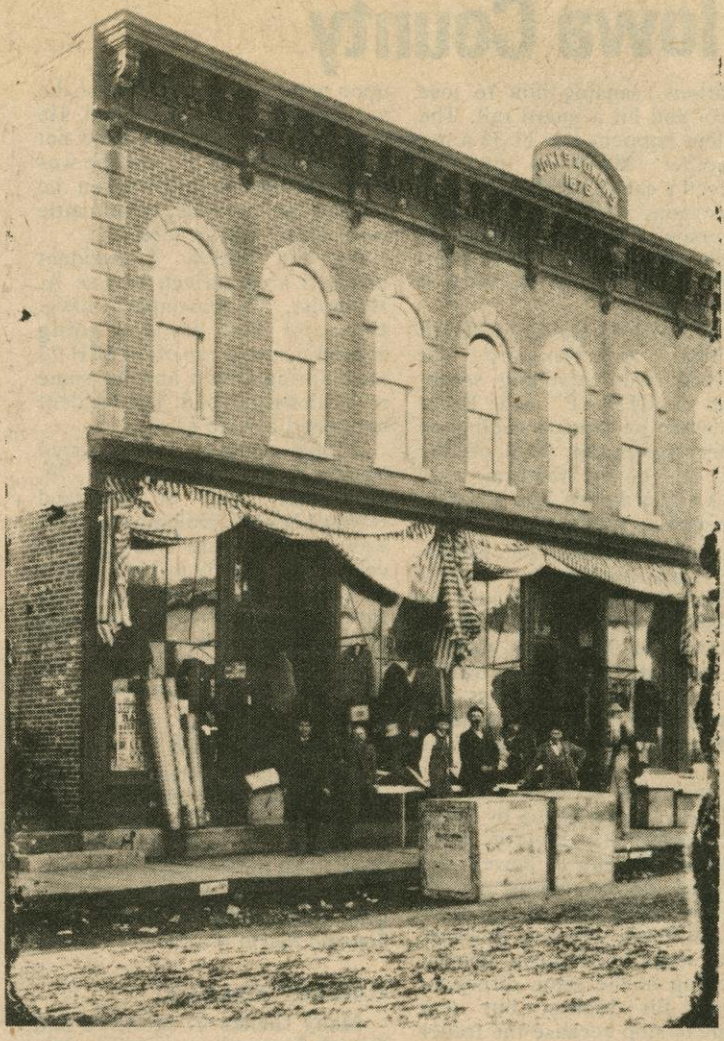
Davies Going Out of Business



Davies Clothing Store of old.

After more than 65 years in business in Dodgeville, Davies Clothing Store is going out of business.

Following the recent death of owner Bill Davis, his wife, Joan, decided not to continue the clothing business. Thus, a going-out-of-business sale, and soon, the close of the store.

The business began in the Davies name in 1910, when Everette Reese Davies started the business. He operated the store for 42 years, before his nephew Bill took over in 1962.

Bill, always an ardent sports fan, attended the University of Wisconsin - Madison, where he played football for three years. He then coached the freshman football team for a year at the UW, before taking a position as coach at Dodgeville High School in 1944. He coached here a year, before going to farm near Dodgeville.

He served in the Navy during World War II, but was called back to work on the farm when his father died.

The clothing business began in the present store long before Everette Davies even started in 1910. Chris Ellingen came to Dodgeville on July 17, 1876 to accept a position in the Jones and Owens mercantile establishment, which had started business earlier that year. In 1909 the business was sold to Elliott and Clark, who the following March moved the stock to Richland Center. In 1910, Ellingen and E.R. Davies opened a clothing store in the same building, thus beginning the Davies reign.

Mrs. Davies has three children at home, Katherine 12, David 10, and Evan 7. Plans call for the store to close on March 15.

THREE GENERATIONS of Cretney's were present at Dodgeville Lodge No. 119 when Senior Grand Warden A. Duane Anderson was the guest speaker.

Ex-Dodgeville Man Is Slaying Victim

DODGEVILLE—A former Dodgeville man, 52-year-old Robert Cretney, was found dead on a Carroll County, Ill. farm Thursday morning by state police officers.

According to police sources, he had been killed with a hatchet.

Officers were led to his body by William Henne, 23, who had been arrested Wednesday night on a charge of drunken driving and was found to be carrying Cretney's driver's license. He was driving Cretney's car at the time of the arrest.

State police subsequently have learned that Henne is an escapee from the Carroll County Jail in Mt. Carroll, where he had sawed the bars of the 118-year-old facility.

Henne was being held on charges of burglary and theft when he escaped.

Cretney, a distributor and salesman for Wick Homes, is survived by his wife, Lorraine, and children. Funeral arrangements are being made by the McGinley Funeral Home in Dodgeville.

Henne is being held by Illinois officials pending further investigation of Cretney's death.

Mr. and Mrs. Cretney were living in Cedarville, Ill. at the time of his death.

Former Iowa County Home Chief Slain; Suspect Held in Illinois

DODGEVILLE — A Chicago man is being held in the Stephenson County, Ill., jail for auto theft and questioning in connection with the death of Robert G. Cretney, 52, Cedarville, Ill., former superintendent of the Iowa County Hospital and Home.

Willie C. Henne, 23, was arrested at about 11 p.m. Wednesday by an Illinois state trooper on Highway 20 east of Freeport. He was driving Cretney's car when he was arrested, the Illinois State Patrol said.

WITH INFORMATION received from Henne, the body of Cretney was found in a corn field on the James Woessner farm near Shannon, Ill., early Thursday morning.

The State Patrol reported that the body was found with "several blows from a heavy instrument." A coroner's inquest is planned for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Shannon.

Henne escaped early Wednesday from the Carroll County Jail in Mt. Carroll.

Mr. Cretney had lived in the Dodgeville area most of his life where he had farmed until 1964 and was a former superintendent of the Iowa County Hospital and Home.

AT THE TIME of his death, he was employed as a dealer for Wick Building Systems, Inc., Mazomanie. He was formerly a representative for A. O. Smith Harvester Corp. and was for a time on the company's president's council.

Mr. Cretney was a 1965 graduate of the University of Wisconsin and was a member of the Dodgeville Masonic Lodge, the Royal Arch Masons, Dodgeville, the Madison Zor Shrine and Consistory, and the First United Methodist Church, Madison.

He was a veteran of World War II.

SURVIVING are his wife, Lorraine, two sons, Robert Jr., and Tim, both of Dodgeville; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cretney, Dodgeville; and a brother, Ernest, Lake Mills.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Dodgeville Masonic Temple. Friends may call after 4 p.m. today at the Mindermann-McGinley Funeral Home where Masonic services will be held at 8 tonight.

Memorials may be made to the Shriner's Crippled Children's Hospital.

Murder Victim Described as "Kind You Don't Want to Lose"

"He's the kind of guy you don't want to lose out of the community, but you do (lose him) through some kook."

Kenneth Palmer, a close friend of murder victim Robert Cretney, 52, made this observation last Thursday night at his home in Cedarville, Ill., also the community where the late Mr. Cretney lived. Mr. Cretney was a former Dodgeville area resident and was a former superintendent of the Iowa County Hospital and Home here.

He was murdered late Wednesday night or early Thursday morning. His body was found in a corn field on the James Woessner farm near Shannon, Ill. early Thursday.

Authorities said the murder weapon was a hatchet and that he had been hacked in the head, neck and back. Held in the Stephenson County, Ill. jail for auto theft and for questioning in connection with the death is William C. Henne, 23, an escapee from Carroll Co. Jail.

Henne was picked up for drunken driving with Cretney's car and presented his drivers license Thursday morning. He was going the wrong way on a one-way lane on U.S. 20 near Ridott.

Henne had escaped from jail by cutting through the bars with a small hacksaw blade. He had rolled up his blankets and left them in his bed to avert detection through the night at bed checks. It was not known if Mr. Cretney picked him up as a hitchhiker or if he had hidden in his car.

Cretney had lived in Cedarville for the past two years and had gained the respect and admiration of many. His friend, Palmer, said "He was always a good-natured fellow. In business he had a lot of initiative and a lot of push."

Palmer and another friend, Quintin Howarth, drove to Madison to pick up Cretney's wife and bring her back to the small community where she learned of his death. She had taken an apartment in Madison two weeks ago rather than commute daily to her job with the state when her working hours were changed. Her job is scheduled to end in February as it is part of a federally funded program. She had been returning to Cedarville on weekends.

Howarth described Cretney as a super-salesman and as an individual who "sold himself on you and it was easy to get along with him. You'd almost have to make him dislike you in order for him to do so."

Palmer said Cretney was exceptionally fond of children and had just recently taken Howarth's son fishing. "As an example he's the kind of guy who took our families to the Shrine Circus in Madison. Once, he gave us the tickets when he couldn't go along himself.'

Mr. Cretney was employed as a dealer for Wick Building Systems, Inc. of Mazomanie and had a great deal of territory to cover in the northern Illinois area. Palmer said, "He covered a lot of territory in his business but he was home every night."

He was also formerly a representative for A.O. Smith Harvestor Corp. and had served on the company's president's council.

Cretney was a 1965 graduate of the University of Wisconsin, a member of the Dodgeville Masonic Lodge, The Royal Arch Masons, Dodgeville, the Madison Zor Shrine and Consistory, and the first United Methodist Church, Madison. He was a veteran of WW II.

Surviving are his wife, Lorraine, two sons, Robert Jr. and Tim who operate the family farm in Dodgeville; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R.E. Cretney, Dodgeville; and a brother, Ernest, Lake Mills.

The funeral was Sunday at the Masonic Temple, Dodgeville. Memorials may be made to the Shriner's Crippled Children's Hospital.

Sentenced For Illinois Burglary

Willie Henne, 23, who is a suspect in the hand ax murder of Robert Cretney, former Dodgeville man, was sentenced to a term of not less than seven or more than 21 years in the Illinois State Penitentiary last week for burglarizing the nature center at Palasaides Park.

The offense occurred in May near Savanna, Ill. Henne was one of three men found guilty by Circuit Judge John Rapp at Mt. Carroll, Ill. last Wednesday.

James DePaolo, 19, and John Wisz, 20, were given 30 months probation after 120 days in the Vandalis State Farm and the Carroll County Jail, respectively. Wisz was given credit for the 53 days he has already served.

Campbell's Grand Opening

The transition from an old location to a new, modern location will be climaxed this week by Campbell's Department Store as it holds its grand opening.

The clothing and dry goods store, which has been a pillar of the Dodgeville business community since 1935, will be unveiling a new, two-story department store in the building formerly operated as Kelly's Billiards. The business is owned by Robert G. Campbell and he is assisted by his son, Robert Jr., and several sales people.

The new facility features two floors of merchandise and five fitting rooms. Upstairs goods include men's and women's wear and accessories while the downstairs houses children's wear, fabrics, and domestics. For a complete view of the facility inside and out, and an introduction to the staff, please turn to the full-page advertisement in this week's Dodgeville Chronicle.

The plan for the new facility was put in motion in July when Mr. Campbell purchased the former poolroom building from Oral (Kelly) Moen. Then, Robert and his son began a joint effort in the refinishing and redecorating of the new facility.

Construction work was handled by Singer Lumber Co. and Gibbon Electric did the electrical work. The carpeting was purchased from Home Furniture and the decorating was done by Keith Bray. Leffler Plumbing and Heating did the plumbing and heating work. Remodeling started the day after Labor Day, the move from the old store to the new began the first part of November, and as progress continued the grand opening was set for this coming week end.

Grand opening activities will continue both Friday and Saturday, Dec. 3 and 4, during regular store hours. The first 500 ladies will receive fresh orchids from Hawaii and the first 500 men will also receive gifts.

Ten dollars in trade will be given to any person bringing in a plate, platter, or cream pitcher given by the A.R. Campbell and Company of Barneveld, 50 years ago.

Door prizes will be awarded and the drawing for those will be held at 4 p.m. Saturday. Several items have been put on "special" for the occasion.

The Campbell clothing and dry goods business began in Dodgeville in 1935 and was started by the late A.R. Campbell. It was purchased in 1953 by his son, Robert G., who has operated it ever since.

Robert G. is a Madison Central high school graduate of 1930 and he graduated from the University of Alabama in 1936. He spent several months in service with the U.S. marines.

Robert Jr. graduated from Dodgeville high school in 1964 and later attended UW-Whitewater and Milton College from where he graduated.

The Campbell's are members of the Plymouth Congregational Church. Robert G. is a member of Kiwanis and Masonic Lodge. Robert Jr. is a member of the Dodgeville Jaycees.

The Campbells invite everyone to celebrate the grand opening.

The Kiwanis International Distinguished Service Award was presented to Mrs. Warren K. Grebe for her years of dedicated library service to the citizens of the Fox Lake area. Mrs. Grebe is the former Ruby McCutchin and a former Arena resident.

The Fox Lake Kiwanis Club presented the award to Mrs. Grebe at a testimonial dinner at the Lorelei Supper Club on Jan. 25. Mrs. Grebe retired Dec. 31, 1971 after serving as librarian of the Fox Lake Public Library for 15 years. Mrs. Grebe is a sister of Curtis McCutchin, Arena and Mrs. Pearl M. Hughes, Dodgeville.

Bertyn Davis, Dodgeville, retired March 14, after 40 years of service on the Iowa County Highway Department. He began working for the Department at Arena as a partolman. Thirteen years later he moved to Dodgeville and became foreman of blacktop.

At a social hour at the County Shop in his honor, county employees presented him with a gold watch which will have engraved on it, Bertyn Davis, from the Iowa County Employees.

He and his wife hope to travel to Prince Edward Island off Canada in the near future. They have one son, David, and a grandchild. David is head of the Industrial Arts Department in Ferdonia High School.

Ore Appointed to Succeed Anderson as DHS Supt.

Stan Ore

Stan Anderson

At their regular meeting Thursday night, the Dodgeville School Board voted to appoint Stan Ore as district superintendent, to succeed S.C. Anderson, who will be retiring at the end of this school year.

A roll call vote was taken with Eleanor Lauffer abstaining until she was informed by Secretary Max Oleson that she would either have to vote yes or no since she represented 1/7 of the district. She voted yes, making Ore's appointment unanimous.

Stan Ore has been principal at Dodgeville High School since 1964, but has had many years of teaching and administrative experience before coming to Dodgeville.

He began his career in 1937 at Marenisco, Michigan as a principal after graduating from Platteville State Teachers College. In 1938, he came to Mineral Point to teach agriculture for eight years. He was also district administrator for five years.

For about a year and a half, he became a businessman in Dodgeville, as a dealer for Surge milking machines but found that he wanted to go back to the classroom and so became an agriculture instructor at Edgerton High School. He was also assistant principal at Edgerton for six years before coming to Dodgeville in 1964.

He is originally from Cobb and went to school there through the eighth grade until his family moved to Lancaster, where he attended high school. He received his Bachelors Degree from Platteville State Teachers College and a Masters from the University of Wisconsin, Madison. In addition, he has attended several summer sessions at the University in Madison as well as a summer at the University of Colorado.

Throughout his career he has served on State Vocational Committees for vocational agriculture, and on the State Advisory Committee for North Central, the Association of Accreditation in the State of Wisconsin. He was also elected Wisconsin Farmer by the Wisconsin Association of Future Farmers.

After his appointment was voted upon at the board meeting, Ore expressed his appreciation to the board and said that he had enjoyed working with Stan Anderson and will still lean on him a bit. They will be working together quite closely in the coming months before Anderson's retirement. Anderson said, "I wouldn't want to make decisions alone which Stan will have to be concerned with.'

Anderson is retiring after 44 years in the field of education. He has been at Dodgeville since 1941 and has been superintendent since 1961. He presently belongs to the Dodgeville Education Association and the Southern Wisconsin Education Association, the Wisconsin Association of School District Administrators and the American Association of School District Administrators.

Since he has been at Dodgeville, he has been influential in effecting many changes. A high school and elementary school has been built as well as an addition to the Ridgeway Elementary School; all rural schools in the district have been integrated: special education has been established in elementary and secondary units; speech therapy, and guidance and counseling have been incorporated; a new track and practice field have been constructed. In addition he has been instrumental in developing the new Southern 8 conference, and has helped to revise and upgrade the district's curriculum.

Anderson began his teaching career in a rural school north of Ridgeway and then moved to Edmund where he taught in the state graded school for four years. He then moved to Arena where he taught grades 5-8 and was principal of the grade school. In 1941 when he came to Dodgeville he taught two years in the grade school and 18 years in the high school before becoming district superintendent in the fall of 1961.

Anderson's home is Edmund but he attended high school in Cobb. He did his undergraduate work at Platteville State University and the University of Minnesota and his graduate work at the University of Wisconsin.

Both Stan Ore and Stan Anderson agreed that one of the biggest changes they had seen in the school system was the change from authoritarian attitudes to a system more in tune with the times. "We have become a more innovating school," Ore said, "with the initiation of independent study and credit for work experience on the job."

They both agreed that one of the biggest changes in education is the individualization of study. Also, the trend toward putting more emphasis on vocational and technical education is a big change in education and is already taking place in the high schools.

Anderson intends to travel after he retires. Stan Ore told him he should go to Norway since he's Norwegian and if he didn't go he'd have to send him.

IN MEMORIAN

In memory of Joyce Lynn Narveson, born November 2, 1963, died February 4, 1972.

A child gave way to sleep one eve,
To all bade well goodnight;
But did not hear the morning call,
To greet the bright daylight.
The Shepherd call her home to him, And she has gone to rest;
Where play is found in Golden Sand. In the playground of the blest.
And none of us need weep for one,
Whose passing on before,
Will well prepare a place for us,
Upon that Golden Shore.

IN MEMORIAM

FOR O. F. NELSON

His presence lingers on about the room,
His footsteps echo still upon the floor
The brightness of his smile dispels the gloom
Though he has slipped away, and closed the door;
So, biding here today, we feel and know
Whichever way his fading footsteps trend,
A little time, then that way we shall go,
He was "our friend."

Blue Mound home comes to rest

Ninety-one year-old Dan Frame took advantage of the spring-like weather Monday to visit the site on which the house he built a half-century ago has been placed. Mr. Frame built the house and all the buildings that sat until this month at the foot of the Blue Mounds State Park. The State purchased the farm last year for park expansion and sold the house to Mat Solschenberger who had the building removed to the edge of the Village of Blue Mounds within sight of Dan Frame's present home. Both Frame and Solschenberger seem pleased with the move, Dan agreeing with Solschenberger that "it is still a good strong house, too good to be burned." It should be; all the solid oak that went into the house was cut on the Dave Frame farm by Dan Frame who put up all the buildings on the land. It is now being renovated to provide two apartments.

Mrs. Edith Pearce, 75, formerly of Madison, died unexpectedly Monday (Apr. 2, 1973) at her home in Hurley.

The former Edith Heilmenstine was born in Blue Mounds and was married to Gerald Pearce. He died in 1971.

While in Madison, she was employed by the Kroger Co. for over 17 years. Her husband was a longtime Madison real estate broker.

From Madison, Mrs. Pearce moved to Ironwood, Mich. and later to Hurley.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. William Kennedy, Ironwood, Mich.; three sisters, Mrs. Cyril Langer and Mrs. Georgia Harvey, both of Sun Prairie; and Mrs. Elmer Richlitz, Manhattan Beach, Calif.; and two grandchildren.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Ellestad Funeral Home, Mt. Horeb, where friends may call after 7 tonight.

David A. Hamilton, Businessman, Dies

David A. Hamilton, 70, of 2831 Kingston Dr., died Sunday (Aug. 19, 1973) in a nursing home after a long illness.

Ernest "Red" Evans, 70, died Tuesday (Dec. 11) after a brief illness.

"Red" was perhaps one of Dodgeville's best known citizens. He has been called a leading sports figure, a community booster, a good friend, and a good neighbor by many.

"Red", who was crippled in his later years, met the affliction head-on and would not let it get him down. He attended every athletic event he could and perhaps had the longest string of consecutive State Basketball Tournaments attended throughout the state.

He was a baseball pitcher in his younger years and acclaimed by many as one of the game's best. The late "Roundy" Coughlin frequently termed him "the best" in his column in the Wisconsin State Journal.

"Red" always had a story to tell. He delighted many with his wit and also with his sincerity. He was also an avid hunter and rarely missed a deer season.

He is survived by his wife, Dixie, and son, Tom. The funeral will be 1:30 p.m. Friday at the Lulloff-Peterson Funeral Home. Burial will be at East Side Cemetery.

Friends may call after 2 p.m. Thursday at the funeral home.

Ed Sullivan Dies at 73

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Sullivan, 73, whose "really big show" reigned on Sunday night television for more than two decades, died Sunday night at Lenox Hill hospital, officials said.

ED SULLIVAN

Sullivan, who brought the variety program to the air in 1948 and who introduced such entertainers as Dean Martin, Jerry Lewis, and Jackie Gleason, also was a Broadway gossip columnist for the New York Daily News.

His stiff manner, his halting delivery, and his habit of pronouncing show as 'shew' made Sullivan, as master of ceremonies, as much a personality as the guest entertainers and variety acts themselves.

Harry C. Strong

Harry C. Strong, age 93, died Saturday, October 26, 1974. The son of Orville and Minnie Strong, he graduated from Dodgeville public schools, and Chicago business college. While in Chicago he worked for Marshall Fields. In 1901 he began working at Srong's Bank in Dodgeville. On November 21, 1912, he married Katherine Kirkpatrick in Dodgeville, where they lived until moving to Stoughton in 1965. In 1951 he was recognized for 50 years of service by the Wisconsin State Banking Association. He served as bank president and retired in 1956 after 55 years. Up until his death he served as honorary vice-president. He was a member of the United Methodist Church of Dodgeville.

Survivors include his wife, Kathryn; a son, Kirk, Stoughton; two daughters, Mrs. I.C. Collins of Stoughton and Mrs. Carl Felly of Madison; six grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the McGinley Funeral Home, Dodgeville, at 1:30 p.m. on Monday, October 28. The Rev. Billy Bross officiated. Burial was in Eastside Cemetery, Dodgeville.

Arthur Strong, 90, Dodgeville Banker, Dies

Jack Wirth has served Blue Mounds well

by Drew Lawrence

"It was the darnedest surprise of my life," said the small Swiss man. Jack Wirth of Blue Mounds celebrated his second year of passing retirement age last week. And many members of the community gathered to mark his birthday.

Jack has spent nearly 40 of his 66 years running a service station in Blue Mounds. But his contribution to the community in many other ways was what led to the surprise party.

"If I get paid for information, I'd be a millionaire now," he commented, after directing a young lady to a nearby farm. He's been a substitute rural mail carrier as long as he's run the station. "I know where everyone lives around here," he said, but admitted that he doesn't know everyone like he used to.

Running the service station was a seven-day-a-week job for Jack. "Last year when they said I'd have to close on Sundays, I didn't know what to do with myself." Since then, he's started to use his spare time and continues to close the station on Sundays. He's gotten a new pair of ski boots and hopes to get back to enjoying his old sport.

"Jack is willing to help anybody at any time," commented Don White, former president of the village. "Every kid in town grew up with him," said White. Jack added that he always happy when someone stops in to say hello. But many people don't know his given name is John, not Jack.

Plowing the streets with his Jeep is another job Jack has handled for over 20 years. "He'll close the station and help out with anything," said White. Jack said that he's running the station all by himself now. "I avoid problems that way."

Jack is also the repairman for the village. When World War II came along, the draft board felt that Jack's repair work was more important to the war effort than his serving in the armed forces.

"When people brought something in, I had to fix it. I had more work than I could do." Jack recalled that tire repairs were the toughest job during the war. "I'd fix tires that you wouldn's believe. I hope it never gets back to that again.

"I bought a couple of tires," Jack said of the WWII days, "I went to get them at night and put them on in the dark." He added that everyone noticed that he had new tires when they were impossible to buy. "I still don't see why we couldn't get them."

Gas rationing was a part of his work in those days. "They would check me all the time," said Jack.

"I'd hate to go back to this rationing, but I believe it would be the only fair way," he added. "I sure can't see them raising the tax again. I don't see how the working class of people could afford it.

"They should be able to build better motors, said Jack. "They can, but they never will."

Jack's mechanical skills and good nature brought him the friendship of Dr. Sverre Quisling. "He'd give me the darnedest jobs," said Jack. He built a ski tow for Dr. Quisling's Pleasure Valley in 1947. The attraction in the Blue Mounds was quite an entertainment center in the late Forties. "He helped me every way he could," said Dr. Quisling, "We did a lot of crazy stuff." The projects included auto and motorcycle races, outdoor movies, plays and church, ski jumping and downhill skiing. "It wasn't a success because it was ahead of the times," said Dr. Quisling. He commented, "Jack never skinned anybody and he was a great help to me."

In 1958, one of Jack's childhood dreams came true. "I wanted to learn how to fly when I was a kid but I couldn't afford it," Jack said. "Eleven of us put in $100 each on an old Piper Cub in 1958 and we learned to fly it. Even though I couldn't afford it then either." Jack retired from flying two years ago but his station is decorated with model airplanes and old propellers. "I don't like snowmobiles but I'd like to have a Cub with skiis again, that was lots of fun."

Jack also served the village as chief of the volunteer fire department for many years. Jack and his wife, Mabel, have one daughter, Mrs. Ray (Judy) Norris of rural Blue Mounds.

Retirement isn't in Jack's immediate future. "I'd go nuts if I didn't have anything to do. I like what I'm doing." The community also likes what Jack is doing, and everything he has done in the past.

Since 1935, Robert G. Campbell, who recently incorporated his store to Robert G. Campbells, Inc., has served the Dodgeville area with fine clothing and fabrics. In December of 1971, just a few years after his son, Bob, had joined him full-time in business, the store changed locations and modernized to a 2 level department store. They feature fabrics, notions, maternity wear, infant wear, home furnishings, uniforms, work clothing and house dresses on the lower level and ready-to-wear for the whole family on the upper level. Campbell's features all nationally advertised brands.

Spontaneous celebration

All over the state, communities and civic groups held activities of every description to honor the nation's 200th birthday, nearly all of them planned locally and spontaneously.

Dodgeville's ecumenical service on the Iowa County Courthouse steps — the oldest active courthouse in the state — started the day for that community.

After the brief service, titled "His Truth Is Marching On," many people strolled up and down Iowa St. to inspect the historical exhibits in store windows with each type of store or business putting out displays dealing with their trade.

Edgar L. Obma, a member of Plymouth Church since March 29, 1945 died on January 31, 1976. Ed served the church as a Trustee from 1956 to 1962, served on a pulpit committee, and as Chairman of the Memorial Committee for many years. The Sympathy of the church is extended to Betty and the family.

Sympathy is extended to Ethel Davis and her family at the death of her father, Fred Maahs on January 27, 1976. He was a member of the Congregational UCC of Barneveld.

A TRIBUTE TO MY GRANDFATHER

The old man lay upon his bed.
And death was hovering near.
His cheeks were sunken deep and hollow,
His ears, they did not hear.

For Eighty long years he'd walked this earth,
A full life it had been.
He'd served his country in the war
Where dying friends he'd seen.

He worked for his father hauling coal,
And running the hardware store.
In the thirties the depression hit them hard
He struggled and worked for more.

He'd brought his children up in times
The people labeled "hard".
Any food and money were treasured things,
No extras to discard.

Those children grew to fine young folk
The man was very proud.
They went to school and married well.
He spoke his praise aloud:
"My children, you have done me proud.
Your achievements are very fine.
Your children are so beautiful,
I'm glad to call them mine."

He entertained them with his tales,
They hunted and they fished.
And for their future, when they grew,
Their happiness he wished.

And as he lay upon his bed,
A Tiredness swept over.
His sore old body felt a chill,
So He pulled up his cover.

Since his long life had been quite good,
His dreams were satisfied,
And as the sun crept o'er the hill,
His body quit, he died.

IN MEMORY
"JOE"

Soft spoken and gentle, yet forceful and strong,
The list of his accomplishments is impressive and long.

A husband and daddy, a son and a brother,
A businessman, a legionnaire, and friend like none other.

We remember him most for others he cared,
At home with his family, or Memorial Days shared.

At church as he read, or the fires he fought,
For furnaces fixed, or the oil he brought.

The legion and station are also on the list,
For some of the reasons he'll be greatly missed.

To go north hunting or fishing with a son,
Were some of his ideas on how to have fun.

When sickness came, as usual he fought hard and long,
Without complaining he tried to be strong.

But with a certain calm and dignity, he accepted his cross,
For as a veteran with faith, he knew who was boss.

A small man, yet a big man who never said no,
Always involved and always on the go.

To all of us who loved him it should be no surprise,
That he'd finish life first, then be on to paradise! 1c

Iowa County man faces killing count

DODGEVILLE — A charge of first-degree murder will be filed this morning against a young Iowa County man in the death Saturday of Marcia K. Carden, 20, Rt. 1, Ridgeway, Iowa County Sheriff William Whitford said Sunday.

Whitford said the man, about 25, apparently lived with Miss Carden in the farm house on Brotherhood Lane about 5 miles north of Ridgeway where the body was found.

He said assault charges would be filed today against two other Iowa County men, aged about 25 and 40. He would not identify the suspects, who are in custody at the Iowa County jail.

Miss Carden's body was found about 3:30 a.m. Saturday after one of the suspects called the Sheriff's Dept. from the farm house requesting an ambulance, Whitford said. He said Miss Carden died about 2:30 a.m. of a severe blow to the head, but it had not been determined what object, if any, was used.

Funeral services for Miss Carden will be at 1 p.m. today in Barneveld Lutheran Church. The Ellestad Funeral Home, Mt. Horeb, is in charge of arrangements.

Miss Carden was an employe of Stauffer and Sons, Inc., a Blue Mounds cheese firm.

Woman Slain

RIDGEWAY — The Iowa County Sheriff's Dept. was questioning three suspects late Saturday in the murder of Marcia K. Carden, 20, of Rt. 1, Ridgeway.

Her body was found about 3:30 a.m. Saturday after the Sheriff's Dept. received a telephone call requesting an ambulance be sent to a farm house on Brotherhood Lane, about 5 miles north of here.

Iowa County Sheriff Bill Whitford said Miss Carden died of a severe blow to the head, but it had not been determined what object, if any, was used.

Five suspects were questioned during the day, Whitford said, but two were released. No charges were filed late Saturday.

Whitford said that the time of death was about 2:30 a.m. and that Miss Carden died on the scene.

He said a party had taken place at the farm house earlier in the evening and that the request for the ambulance came from there. He did not identify the person who made the call.

When the ambulance attendants arrived at the house, they found Miss Carden lying on the floor, and they summoned the sheriff.

She was an employe of Stauffer and Sons, Inc., a Blue Mounds cheese firm. Her mother, Mrs. Viola Berge, lives in Blue Mounds.

Man dies in farm mishap

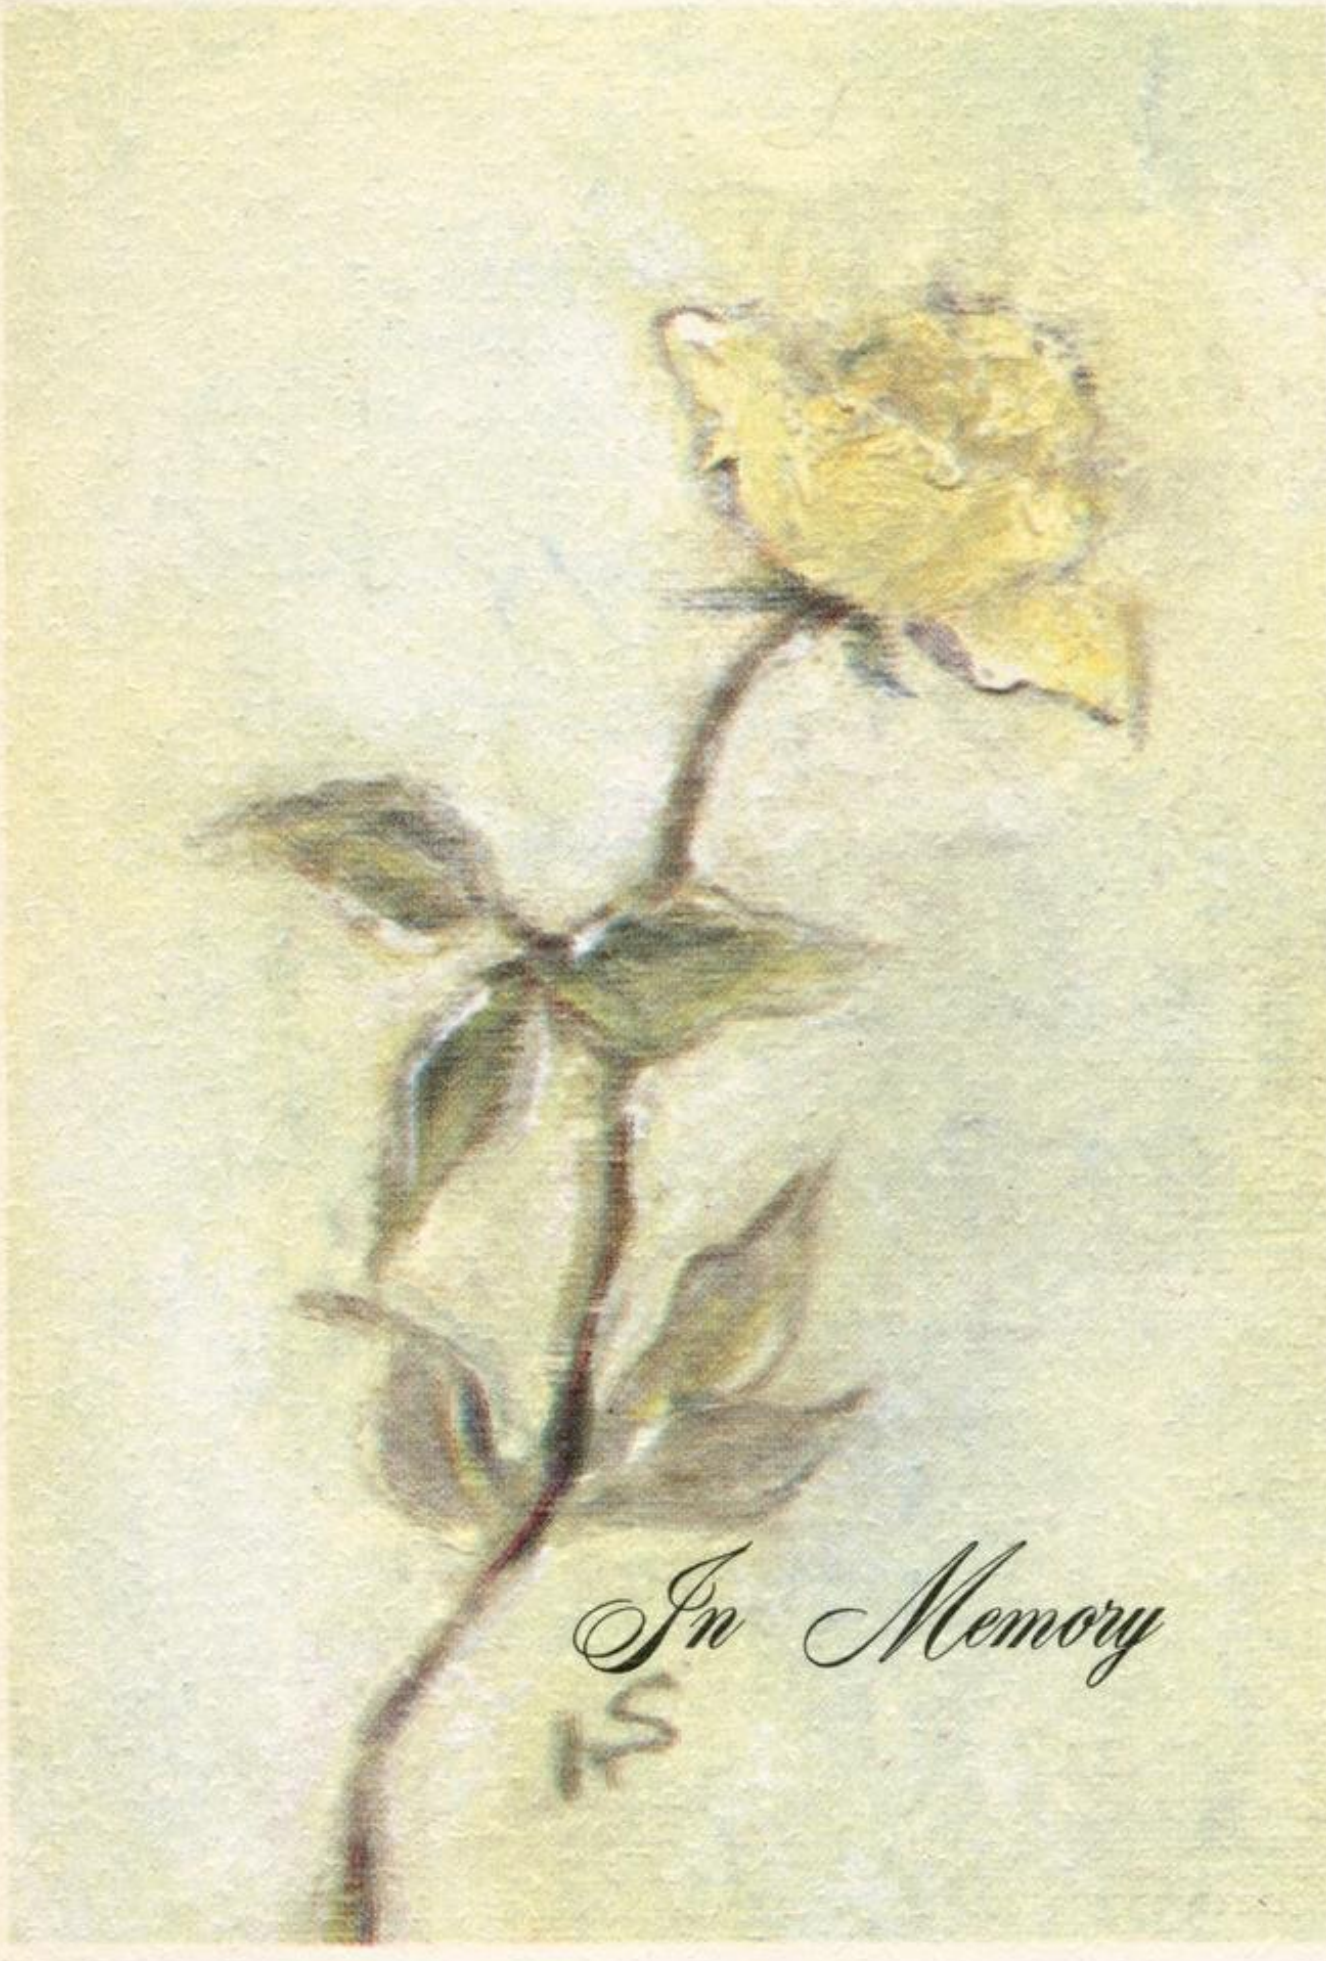
DODGEVILLE — An 18-year-old rural Mineral Point man died Saturday afternoon when he became entangled in auger inside a silo on a farm near here.

Joseph Odell, of rural Mineral Point, was pronounced dead at the scene of the 4 p.m. accident by Iowa County Coroner T.A. Correll. The accident occurred on the Robert Callin farm, where Odell was employed as a farm laborer.

Correll said Odell died of "massive head injuries" when his left arm, left shoulder and head became entangled in a feeder auger as he attempted to back out of the silo's entry-exit hatch. Correll said it appeared Odell's loose outer clothing first became entangled in the auger.

Odell and James Callin, the farm owner's son, had been cleaning out the inside of the silo. Callin had left the silo momemtarily, and Odell was alone at the time the accident occurred.



In Memory

As for man, his days are as grass:
as a flower of the field,
so he flourisheth.
For the wind passeth over it, and it is gone,
But the mercy of the Lord is from Everlasting to Everlasting.

Dodgeville couple dies in blaze

DODGEVILLE — The state Fire Marshal's office said careless use of smoking materials caused a Monday night fire in which an elderly couple were killed.

Dead from smoke inhalation and burns are Thurmond "Sen" King, 96, and his wife, Anna, 84.

Fire Chief Francis Lynch said his crews fought the blaze for about two hours before bringing it under control. They arrived at the scene about 11 p.m.

They returned briefly early Tuesday when the fire restarted. There was extensive damage to the interior of the home.

King had operated the King Lumber Co. in Dodgeville for many years before retiring. The couple lived most of their lives in Dodgeville.

They are survived by a son, Joseph and seven grandchildren.

Gladys Price, well known, and long time resident of Lone Rock, was guest of honor when members of the Helping Hand Society and of the Service Guild of the Lone Rock Congregational Church held a surprise party for her.

Gladys, who was 90 years old that day, was indeed surprised but enjoyed the occasion with approximately 30 of her friends in the church hall.

A potluck lunch was served and a birthday cake, baked and decorated for the occasion by Lorna Carswell, provided the dessert. Gladys received a copy of the "Living Bible" from her friends.

A former Sunday School Superintendent of the church, Gladys also sang in the choir and continues to be active in its many activities. She was born in Arena, later moving with the family to the Clyde community; and for many years has resided in the same home here in Lone Rock. In earlier years she worked at the post office and was also a correspondent for the "Richland County Democrat."

A Memorial Tribute

The Twenty-Third Psalm

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His names sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil:
for thou art with me; thy rod and
thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies:
thou anointest my head with oil;
my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life:
and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

She has a corner on Cornish cooking

By Irene Johns
Written for the State Journal

DODGEVILLE — Her first reaction to an invitation to demonstrate Cornish cooking in Washington, D.C., for a week was "I'm not qualified," said Eunice Jewell, Dodgeville.

Not much time was lost, though, in the process of regaining her usual confidence before notifying the Smithsonian staff of her "yes" decision.

The Festival of American Folklife has been presented for the past decade there, and scouts who are constantly on the alert for folk talent asked Mrs. Jewell to participate in July in the British program "Old Ways in the New World." Craftsmen from 25 American ethnic groups and their parent nations share their skills with visitors from across the United States and around the world.

After raising a family of seven children, Mrs. Jewell doesn't fall apart easily and was up to the challenge. In fact, she thrives on challenges.

She's been the mother of two America Field Service (AFS) students and is serving her third year as president of the AFS chapter. She's a past president of the Bloomfield Homemakers, served two terms as health chairman of Iowa County Homemakers, has taught Sunday School, was president of her church circle, a 4-H general leader and project leader in cooking and a room mother and was instrumental in establishing the Joan Hohler Nursing Scholarship.

She grew up on a farm, and early dreams to be a nurse and the wife of a farmer came true. A graduate of the University of Wisconsin-Madison, she has worked part-time at a hospital here since her marriage.

Her husband, Ed Jr., who, with his son, Alan, is involved in large scale hog-grain type farming, has a conclusive way of convincing her she is invaluable to him during the busiest season when she helps him outside. She operates the gigantic combine picking corn. He has figured her to be worth $100 a day. Marcia, her daughter-in-law, shared combining duties last season.

When she was at the festival, it annoyed Mrs. Jewell a bit when visitors asked, "What is leaf lard?" or even "What is lard?" This hurts the wife of a hog farmer, she lamented.

Six years ago, the Jewells moved to the farm where they are now living. Before moving into the house, "we completely renovated it doing the basic construction ourselves, or Ed did," Mrs. Jewell reported. "Ever[illegible]dow and wall was taken out us about two years."

More thought went into planning the kitchen than any other room, and carpenters were hired to build the cabinets and work areas the Jewells designed. Her convenient, serviceable food preparation center and a built-in desk are plusses for ease in good kitchen management.

"On one end of the scale, I prefer not to use convenience mixes and cook from scratch, but on the other hand, I love my time saving micro-wave oven," she said.

Four years ago, she and two of her daughters, Susan and Nancy, visited their AFS friend Cecilia and her family in Santiago, Chile. Cecilia asked Mrs. Jewell to cook an American meal, requesting lemon pie and homemade bread. Miguel, Cecilia's brother, watching their guest knead the dough, said, "Oh you have golden hands."

Patricio, about 5, took his lemon pie outside to eat. He came back in the house shortly asking for "more for a friend."

Mrs. Jewell attended the high school Spanish class last year and is taking the course again this year so she can converse directly with Cecilia's mother on their next visit.

She loves to sew but doesn't find enough hours in a day.

"Any sewing talent I might have is used mostly in patching overalls," she said. Daughters Mary, 13, and Laura, 11, and daughter-in-law Marcia accompanied her to Washington, helping her with food demonstrations. Before leaving, she made appropriate aprons for them all.

"Visitors at the institute impressed me because they seemed to be searching for a heritage and tradition to hold onto and many really envied those who were so aware of their heritage, which some of us have lost," she said.

She demonstrated pasties, saffron cake, tea biscuits and thimble tarts.

One of the most relaxing organizations she belongs to is the Bloomfield Community Club, where about 25 women meet in homes once a month.

"It's more of a social thing. It's really nice. There's no work involved except when we are the hostess, then we serve one thing. Sometimes we have a program, but it's mostly just neighbors getting together for fun. Several times a year, we have a potluck evening meeting and invite our husbands."

Happy as the wife of a farmer, Mrs. Jewell said she loves the out-of-doors and rocks.

"I have a new ambition," she confides. "I want to get a rock from every state and build a rock garden." The huge expanse of lawn surrounding their home on a slight knoll would be a perfect place for one.

Look What's Cooking

Tea Biscuits

One cup lard or other shortening
Three cups flour
One cup sugar
Four teaspoons baking powder
One cup raisins
One egg (beaten and added to milk)
Milk (Put egg in one cup measure. Add milk to equal almost one cup.)

Cut shortening into sifted dry ingredients. Add raisins and milk-egg mixture. Dough should be very soft. Place on floured board. Knead gently three to four times.

Roll to ⅜-inch thickness. Cut with round cookie cutter. Sprinkle top with sugar.

Bake at 350F. for about 10 minutes on lightly greased cookie sheet.

Makes about two dozen, depending upon size of cookie cutter.

Thimble Tarts

One egg
Five tablespoons water
Two cups flour
One teaspoon salt
Three-fourths cup lard or other shortening

Beat egg into water. Sift flour and salt and cut in shortening. Mix egg, water mixture into dry ingredients. Roll out on floured board to about ¼-inch thickness. Cut into circles with a cookie cutter. (Old Cornish recipes called for a large cookie cutter and three holes were made in top half of tart)

Divide circles into two groups. Spread one group with softened butter. With sewing thimble, cut one hole (or more) in the center of the other group. Stack circles so each buttered circle has a round with an opening on the top.

Bake in 350F. until golden brown. Remove from oven — separate tarts and spread lower half with jam or jelly of your choice. Place top half on. Serve warm or cold.

Note: Above pie crust recipe may be used or your own favorite.

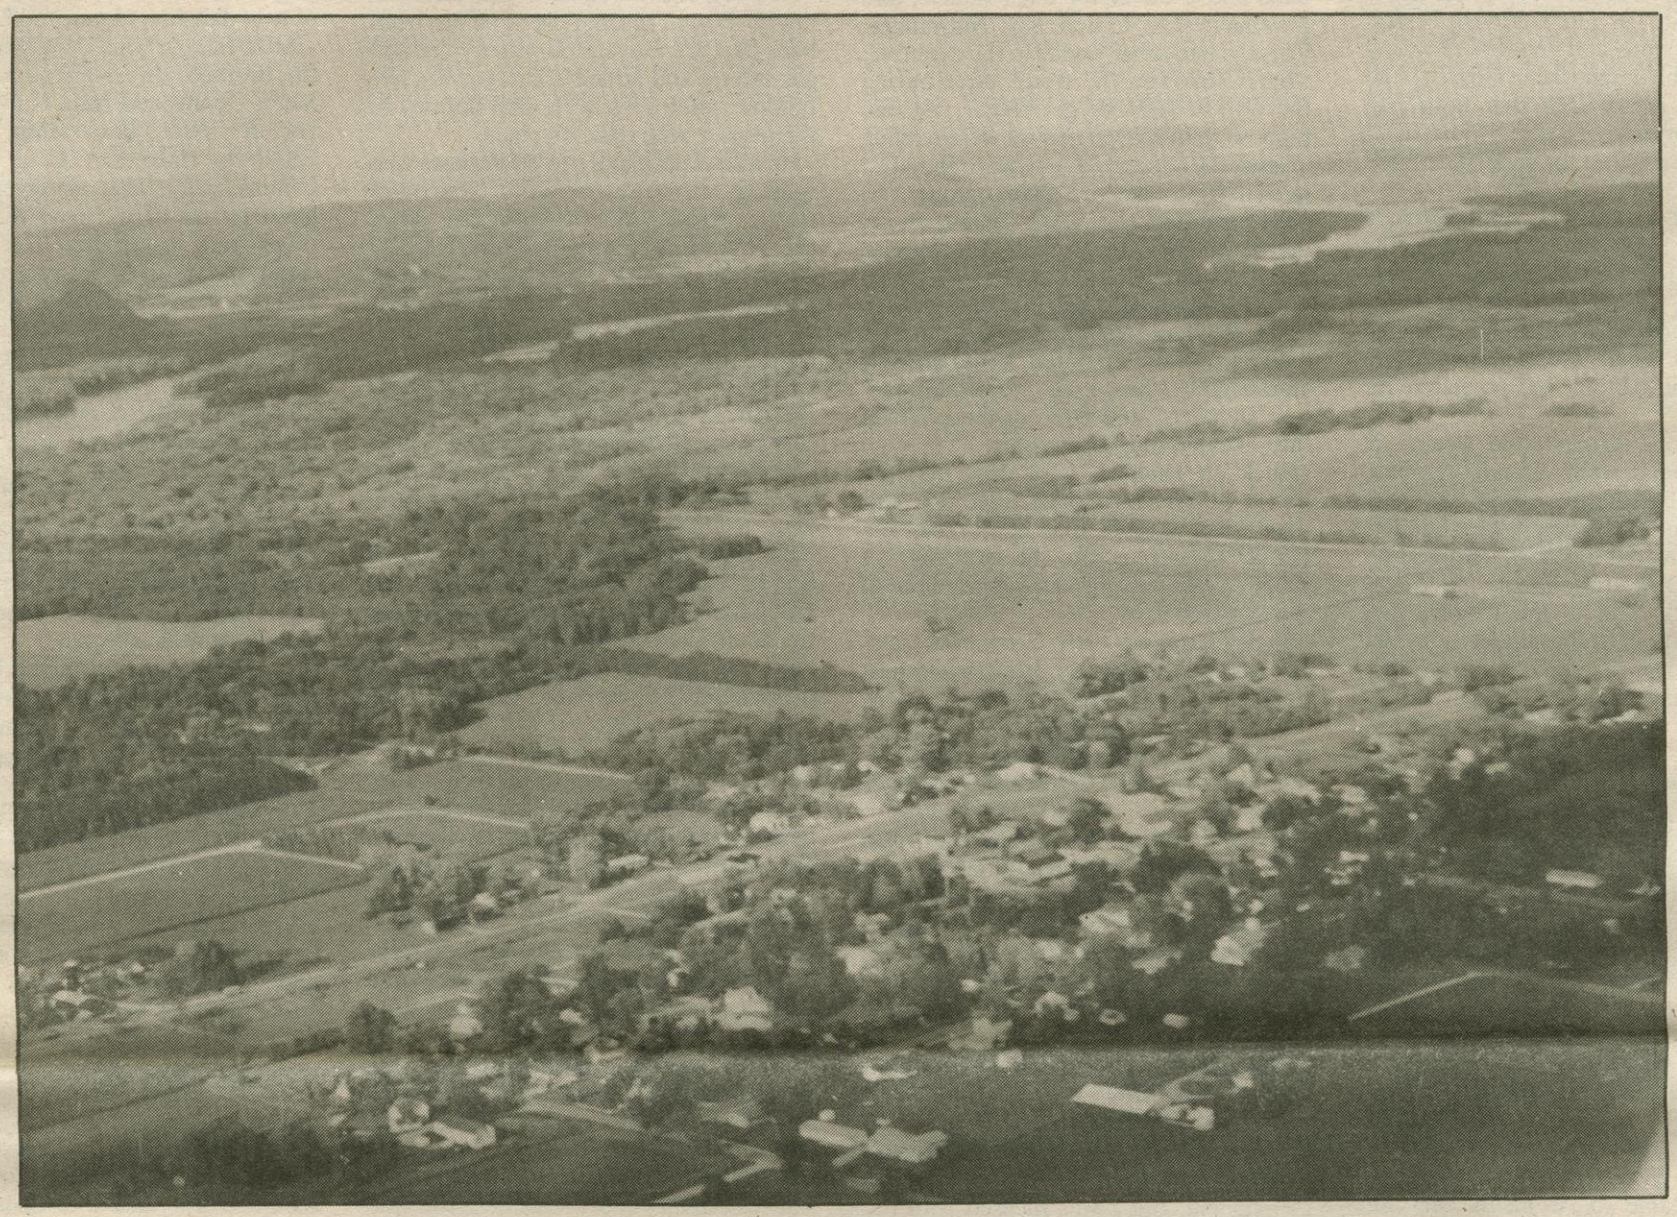
Arena



Flying over Arena one can see the boundaries of old Arena (near the river), new Arena (north of the tracks), Arena after the fire (south of the tracks) and as it is today, with many of the businesses located along Highway 14.

Arena houses their own emergency fire and ambulance service, they have senior citizen apartments and a host of friendly people.--Aerial service provided by Jim Middagh, photo by Jeanie Lewis.

by Jeanie Lewis

Editors note: Some people have asked me why Arena was our "testing ground" for a possible series called--"Getting to know our neighbors."

As many of you know, I'm orginally from the area, having lived in Coon Rock Valley and Ray Hollow for most of my childhood. It was fun taking Tami Schroeder, our summer intern, on this little stroll down memory lane.

First, let us go back to the first business in the Arena Township, it was a farm, started by a "first settler," John T. Jones in 1843.

According to historians the Village of Arena began on the bank of the Wisconsin River, getting its name because of its sandy soil. It was noted as "a sort of trading rendezvous for the Indians for a good many years before it became a village."

The land was purchased from the government by Ebenezer Brigham, and by 1845 or 1846 the first village was plotted by George Ashmore, who had "bought out Bronson's interest."

Businesses included the Reeves Hotel and Gardner Meigs big general store, the Bernard House, mechanic shops, a tavern and Indian trading posts.

About 1850, news of the railroad passing through Mazomanie and bypassing Arena, gave birth to "a new Arena" as people moved their buildings to a new location nearer to the railroad. This land was first claimed from the state by G.M. Ashmore, later was sold to Peter Louis Moore.

At the time new Arena was called "one of the liveliest villages on this branch of the Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad."

When most of the buildings north of the tracks burned, business was rebuilt on the south side of the tracks. According to legend the fire started in the oil room of McCutchin's general store, under the public hall and was soon beyond control. In the same building, which was a large double one, were the bank of W.H. Jones, and the drug store of D.D. Shea, in which was the post office. Other losses-Shea's drug store, J.M. King's general store, Butcher's shop, King's drug store, stock and household goods.

(In 1932 "the sandy trail across the prairie became paved U.S. 14" and the Arena business district seems to have followed the trend of early pioneers, building close to the highway to accommodate their customers and for visibility.)

In 1904 Jones' bank failed, and according to Arena's oldest resident, Winnie Sawle, 98, her grandmother, Mrs. Jonathan Hodgson lost $4,000. "When the bank failed, it was quite a blow," she added. Her mother and father were early pioneer families-Hodg-sons and Sawles.

A relative of the Hodgsons, John Dawson left his farm in Mill Creek valley and started a bank in Arena in 1910. It was known as the Arena State Bank.

In 1938 it merged with the Peoples State Bank of Mazomanie with Merton S. Harrop as manager.

Gary Harrop, great-grandson of Dawson now president of the bank, started in the business as a teller at age 16.

After college and a stint at a Madison bank, and a CPA firm, he return to Arena and became branch manager in 1976. Although, most of his time is now spent at Mazomanie, he returns to the Arena branch "at least once a week." Since the merger the bank has enjoyed a continual growth--today its assets are at $20-million.

Since July of this year, a 10-year veteran at the Mazomanie bank, Sally Lucey became branch manager at Arena. She took over the position from Norma Sneath who retired after serving 24 years.

Across the street is Robert's Store, now only open a short time each day, apparently giving way to todays "big supermarkets." I recall its owners--Lee Roberts and son John. They always had a friendly smile and a kind word for all who entered. The Roberts name is well known in this community.

While 'downtown' I notice the Arena Laundromat, owned by Mark Cotter. The building was purchased as "an investment" and with "a lot of help from the Arena Village Board" turned into a business--it also includes two apartments. Although, he has lots of praise for this small village--he's selling out. "I just don't have the time," he explains, telling me how he and his wife are both going to school-him for law, and she for nursing.

Driving down South Street, you see the flowering hanging plants, bird feeders, and smell the aroma of good food at Porter's Restaurant-a name that stems from "Grand-pa Dick Porter," a mid 1900's vintage businessman in Arena. Marion (Carpenter) and Clarence (Sonny) Porter serve, as the menu suggests "real" home cooking. Their specialty is pancakes, the size of a platter and made from 'scratch' with buttermilk.

Just inside the door is a "round table" where several men have gathered for afternoon pie and coffee. "This is where all the world's problems are solved, Jeanie," Paul Swenson said as his cronies added, "And local ones, too."

Seeing Paul reminded me of his sister Lois, my first 4-H junior sewing leader. Although, nobody had heard of recycling at the time, my mom (Irene Cowley) had given me a pretty sack that flour had come in for making my skirt. "Flour sacks were just the greatest for making clothes," Marion added.

When life-long area residents Gertrude and Allen Hodgson moved into the Arena Senior Citizen apartments, Marion always fixed their Sunday dinner. Sonny said, "Somehow, there was always enough left over for their evening meal, too." Marion admitted their was no charge for "extras."

In "strolling through the years" of Arena's history, we've found fires have caused the demise of several buildings. That includes the Porter's first building located "along the highway. I worked for Grandpa Dick for about 20 years," Marion said. And if you wonder how people find their establishment today, she says: "The same people who stopped when we were along the highway still do today. They come from Chicago and all over."

When I told her I'd stopped to see Winnie and Sam Sawle, she related that Winnie had eye surgery last year. On the way home from the hospital Winnie had said to her brother Sam, "Perhaps we should go and ask Marion to fix our supper, I don't feel up to fixing supper tonight." Marion like most people in this community is amazed by these long-time Arena residents. Winnie is 98 and Sam is a youngster--he's only 80. (see story).

The Brown Manor reminds me of 'my' Doctor Brown. Manager, John Tessendorf agrees that a lot of people say the same thing. He doctored here for fifty years. He came to Arena in 1905 and married "a local girl, Gertrude Whitt."

Brown Manor is a Community Based Residential Facility or group home, a place for "the elderly who would have a hard time living on their own," John adds. The funding for this home was a gift from the Brown's estate. It's only about a year old, making it one of the newest business places in Arena. I wonder if anyone else recalls the little black pills Dr. Brown dispensed--it seems to me they cured all childhood ailments.

Driving down toward the river, I turn left on Helena Road to Anding's Transit Inc. Its owner, Larry Anding has been in this trucking business all of his life, learning the trade from his father, A.E. Anding. Larry's mother helped his father in business, keeping the books. Larry's wife, Mary Lee is the bookkeeper today.

His father started the business with a Model T Ford in 1927, hauling produce in Iowa County. By May of 1952 the business had grown to seven White tractor-trailer units and a driver for each vehicle, and they hauled to Green Bay, Milwaukee, Chicago and other points in the country.

Larry followed the trend, after buying the firm in 1970, he got bigger. "At one point we had 25 rigs, and we were hauling all over the country," Larry said. They also moved from "the old shop uptown." In 1984 insurance premiums soared, an increase of 700 percent. Larry told the insurance agent, "I'm not working that hard to pay you people." He began easing back, and today has gone back to short distant hauling. He also operates a "cold and dry storage unit--cheese, butter, salt and factory supplies," and delivers the produce "just like dad did," Larry adds.

Back on Highway 14 I drive to CJ's Trash to Treasure--once Lilac Gardens dance hall. Before that it was "the old depot," dating back to the late 1800's. I seem to remember roller skating here in the late 1950's.

Today's owner, Curt Greenheck said, "At one time it was the biggest and best dance hall in the area." Now it's a place where you can "find just about anything." From rare antiques to reproductions--and he tells you the difference. You'll like his prices.

A couple of years ago I found my 'dream china cupboard' and when I looked at the low price on it I thought there must be a mistake. Asking if it was the right price, Greenheck admitted, "No, I can let it go a little lower!"

I can see why they say tourists coming into an area spend money. While waiting to get an ad, and to interview him, I browsed and found books, old cards, a flour sifter (I collect them), and I can't recall what else. I do know I spent more money there than he did for the ad for this supplement...but I was pleased with my treasures.

Greenheck buys by the houseful...and after going through recently purchased items found he'd bought some Picasso paintings--he was happy with his treasures, too.

From a lot with a vegetable stand, the Oasis Drive Inn is now a full-course diner. Inbetween it was a "a drive-in root beer stand." Owners Chuck and Mary Spears relate: "We just kept adding rooms...for our regular customers." Near the ordering counter a blackboard tells the daily specials. Chuck comes over to our booth to have a little chat about my brothers-Duane, Douglas, Dennis and their "nice families."

Tami and I each ordered something different from the 'specials.' We agree the food was delicious and the service from Jane Johnson was excellent.

Here also we heard "the men settling local and national problems." Don't women gather for coffee anymore?

Heading east we come to the Sandbar. Owner Dave Forseth tells us he has been here 13 years. He started with a store and gas station and added a bar. He has five fulltime employees, with Gail Spurley as the person "who runs the place."

He also rents canoes to enthusiasts who want to "canoe the beautiful Wisconsin River." Sounds interesting, a trip down the river in a canoe--and don't worry about getting back, Dave assured me he has several pick up points along the river. He also monitors your progress for a trouble-free ride.

Next door is the Farmer's Pride Cheese, Inc., the largest family owned cheese factory in the state. Between Harold Peterson, Joseph Burke and Doug Peterson they combine 75 years in the dairy business, Doug said. "We're also one of the most innovative factories in the United States." They've updated their facility with equipment designed and manufactured by them. They make Colby, Pepper-Jack and Co-Jack--the latter two have their own patented trademark. "Co-Jack is the biggie," Doug adds.

Because of its growth--from 60,000 pounds of milk a day to 230,000 a day, Farmer's Pride recently became affiliated with "a large milk cooperative--Morning Glory Farms, AMPI. "It was to our advantage," Doug said.

The factory also houses a cheese store that is "very tourist oriented," according to Doug. I did buy some Co-Jack cheese, and its taste is unique. I might add it keeps my friend Hilda White busy. She said "a lot of out-of-state people take lots of good Wisconsin cheese home with them." They also have lots of other "Wisconsin" souvenir items.

Down the road, we switch over to the left side where we find 4-businesses in one building. Because he was the easiest to find we'll start with TR's Service. Tom Richter is usually 'up to his elbows in grease' and as Dennis Halverson said, "Loves every minute of it, especially if he's working on a big diesel." As Tom said, "If you're going to work on them you can expect to get dirty." He told us this as he climbed out from under a big truck, and, yes he was grease up to the elbows. I appreciated Tom taking the time to wash up and talk with us about this special. Later, we heard "Tom can fix anything."

I can attest to this myself. After attending a meeting at Arena one night several months ago, I returned to my vehicle and discovered I had no lights. As fate would have it, Tom was the one person left for me to ask for help. After following me up the road to his shop, he fixed it and I was soon on my way.

Tom admits that he's older than he looks, and has been at this business for several years. He is orginally from the Highland/Muscoda area. He's also proud of twin daughters Lynn and Lisa.

After talking with Tom, we go on in to the brothers three--my name for them--Vern, Dennis and John Halverson. (Halverson Vern Excavating, Halverson Builders, Halverson Land Surveying). Dennis said, "This arrangement works good for all of us." The three brothers often work in the same territory, but in different fields of the construction trade. John is the Iowa County Surveyor, and also has his own private business. "There is so much property changing hands nowa-days, John is going all the time," Dennis adds. Vern does the digging for septic systems, basements and some road work. Dennis is the builder--and can point in any direction and tell you a house that's been built by this family who all delve in the construction business from speculation, development, construction and selling. They "work a lot in Sauk and Dane County as well as Iowa."

Dennis started digging with his father, Marvin, and kept at it for a few years. But after building three or four houses he decided "I was tired of being greasy."

The Halversons also buy land, develop it and sell--Dennis noted, "We help each other, yet we have our own separate business."

Dennis also likes the challenge of "gutting" an old house, and remodeling it. He admits though, "What a mess. But you run into challenges as well as surprises every day when remodeling an old home."

Leaving the village we drive west as far as we're going...to Heck's Marketplace. If you get bad produce here, just return it and it's replaced. When complimented on this owners Eldon and Colleen Heck, their son Gary and wife Cheryl just comment: "it's expected around here." (In a weeks time their yard had been transformed to a jack-o-lantern heaven with hundreds of pumpkins just waiting to be carved).

Eldons says it was his wife's idea to get into the produce business. "I was in dairy," he said, admitting he misses milking the cows. "Farming wasn't so confining." Hecks is open seven days a week, and 12 hour days are not unusual.

Every day, and its been many, that I've been in the Arena area lately I've purchased potatoes, tomatoes, squash and melons. All the produce that can be grown in the area is either at the Hecks or on nearby farms.

Did you know that big machinery moves slowly over the potato fields and loads them onto a wagon. Somehow, I always imagined lots of people with forks, digging them. They taste so good...I think it's because they still have "real" dirt on them, instead of some wax or something to make them look nice.

Noticing my gas gauge is on empty, I head for Wally's Service Station, about a half-a-mile east. Its owner, Wally Kaiser, tells me he misses my dad (Les Cowley) who died three years ago. So do I...and we reminisce about the "good old days." At one time Wally had a 24-hour service station, but the opening of I-90 sent traffic on another route. He's been in business here for 34 years. He also delivered fuel oil and gas to the farmers in the area.

The grind of the years took its toll, and four years ago he suffered a stroke. "I don't have the strength I once did," Wally noted. He still has his good humor. "I can still pump gas, push a pencil and take the money," he adds smiling as I hand him my money.

Right next door is White's Snowmobile Sales and Service. Every time I see owners Jerry and Linda White I'm reminded that Jerry gave us Cowley children a ride to school (Coon Rock), almost every day for years. He drove the milk truck for his father who operated White's Cheese Factory. He started driving when he was 13. "I wish I had a nickel for every can of milk I picked up," he said.

The Whites got into the snowmobile business because "we wanted someone to go snowmobiling with us," Linda recalls. Jerry, who can and does "work on just about anything" built his first owned snowmobile himself--a far cry from today's recreational vehicles, some costing several thousands of dollars.

While still making cheese, the Whites started selling and repairing recreational vehicles on a part-time basis. They sold the factory in 1984.

This spring they built a new building on the corner of Highway 14 and Country Trunk H. They've added a marine line. "Everyone was bringing me the boats to fix, so we decided to get into the business." Jerry continued, "We've haven't been sorry with our decision to build here."

Heading up County Trunk H we stopped at the Millcreek Cheese Factory. Its owners are John and Mary Pittman, who often put in 13-14 hours days, manufacturing their semi-soft, mild Muenster cheese.

Since purchasing this factory from Jerry White in 1984, they've grown to five times the size it was at that time. "We're still only at half the size we want to be," John adds. "I'd like to be bringing in 100,000 pounds of milk a day."

They have two milk trucks running daily, with three fulltime employees and two part-time. They have 44 producers--scattered all through the valleys, and hills that make up the Arena, Township.

The Township is located in the northeast corner of Iowa County on a "long sandy plain," according to scrapbooks kept by Iowa County historian Melva Phillips, Ridgeway.

Mounds Creek, Ray Hollow, Mill Creek and Coon Rock make up the more wooded and rough portions of the township to the south and the Wisconsin River bounds it on the north.

Tami and I have enjoyed our short visit with each of you. Thanks for letting us get to know a little bit about your business.

Feel free to call The Dodgeville Chronicle for your advertising needs or story tips and ideas, we appreciate it.

The amazing Dr. Brisbane

by Jeanie Lewis

Of all the 'stories' we've read on Arena it would seem that Dr. William H. Brisbane may of been the most famous of its early citizens. Through his diaries, uncovered in 1963 by famed radio and newspaper personality Betty Cass, "slavery, the Civil War, and the early days of Wisconsin are vividly, and sometimes humorously mirrored."

Brisbane was a medical doctor, a Baptist minister, a farmer, a legislative reporter, writer of both fiction and non-fiction, editor, politician, land-speculator, opportunist, ferry-boat operator, friend of the famous, and, first slave-holder, then active abolitionist.

He was a "zealous prohibitionist and a national leader in the 19th century temperance movement. He also wore a shawl similar to Lincoln's, was interested at various times in mesmerism, phrenology, and other off-beat subjects."

He held national offices of various kinds. He shuttled between Wisconsin and South Carolina several times a year between 1853 and 1878, and had more than one residence in both states.

In 1853 he wrote in his diary: "Madison...is on a site of remarkable beauty, being between two beautiful lakes. I should judge from the appearance of things as we walked out this evening that there is much gambling and dissipation going on in the place. It is a strange thing that wheresoever the government is located, there immorality and vice abounds. Lawmakers are for the most part men of immoral character. Why will the people have it so?"

Because of these conditions it would seem, on Sept. 20, 1853 he tells of going to Arena to "examine the site for a town..." They went on to call on "Ebenezer Briggs of Blue Mounds and Moses Strong of Mineral Point." On Dec. 6, 1853 he says: "I bought of E. Brigham of Blue Mounds his interest in Arena, amounting to about 7 acres. I paid him $400..." On Dec 29 he notes: "Madison: bought Moses Strong's interest in Arena for $2,200 for 179 acres. A January entry: "Rec'd. letter from Moses Strong offering to sell his Arena lands, 415 acres, for $4,000."

One of his homes (still standing) near Arena is constructed of solid, hand-cut stone with walls two-and-a-half feet thick. The building is perpendicular in design with five floors counting the basement and attic rooms--but there is only two rooms to each floor. The roof forms a 60-degree angle, and the "intriguing windows of the first floor are triple-hung."

Although, folklore has it that the place was used as an "underground railroad for slavery," his diary tells us that it wasn't as the house was built in 1868 or 1869, and the Civil War had ended and the slaves were free. A newspaper item says that Brisbane read "President Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation," and that he was "a South Carolina plantation owner who long ago freed his slaves."

Mention of the "Stone House Farm" at Arena was first known in May of 1869 when he wrote: "We have got into our Stone House although not yet all plastered and are keeping house--wife, our daughter Addie, and her Bertie and myself with Noble Green to wait on us. Noble Green's parents gave him to us until he gets of age with the full understanding that I am not to take him back to South Carolina. I am to furnish him with board and clothing for his work."

About 1870, Brisbane and his wife spent more and more time in Arena. Although he devoted himself to farming, preaching, writing, and working for the betterment of Arena, his financial situation slowly worsened. Isolation and near-poverty did not diminish his popularity, however, and in 1876 he was chosen as a delegate to the natioanl GOP convention.

On April 4, 1877 he writes from Stone House Farm: " Addie (now widowed) got job to take charge of telegraph office in Arena at $30 a month."

He also writes of moving furniture to a house in the village where they will reside as he says "my wife and I are too old and infirm to live by ourselves and I am getting too feeble to attend to business. (He was 71).

He continued to work "toward improving life in Arena, and less than three weeks before he died he wrote in his diary, "March 15, 1878: My attention has been given today to prepare the necessary notices in relation to getting a high school for Arena."

The mystery concerning why Brisbane built his houses tall and narrow is explained in this way: "Because houses at that time were taxed on the number of square feet of ground they covered, but Laws of Wisconsin, 1865, page 657, says: "Each parcel of real property shall be valued at its true value in money." Yet another theory is that "old houses in South Carolina, where Brisbane spent at least half of his life, were often built very tall and narrow to escape heat and mosquitoes; and they were called 'single houses' because they were only one room wide.

Many of the legends of Brisbane were most likely penned by him as on January 5, 1858 he wrote: "I spent the day writing a tale for the amusement of the family."

Strolling through the years

by Tami Schroeder

Trying to decide what makes interesting copy isn't easy when it comes to something we 'think' happened way back when. For sure, there's nobody in the area old enough to dispute or to agree that this is what actually happened, but it's fun reading as we stroll back through the pages of history.

1839: The first school house was built and opened by a Miss Hollister. A short time later a prairie fire destroyed it.

1840: Arena's first marriage came about when a miller by the name of Walker, having imbibed pretty freely one day, called at the Carter Hotel to see the servant girl, Mary J. Haythorn. Upon his arrival, Mary was up to her elbows in a large washing, but nothing daunted Mr. Walker. He proposed, and Mary quickly consented. D. M. Jones, the minister was sent for, and the knot was tied. Jones was the first minister in the village, and was recognized as "chiefly influential in establishing more societies and building more churches than any other man, or five men, in the county.

1845: There was a saloon to accommodate the river men floating logs and food down the river.

1849: "Westward Ho!" The Forty-niners dared every hardship to reach the gold fields. Many took the boat from Old Arena and Helena and were never heard from again. This was also the year that the disease, chlorea was rampant.

1856: The first train went through Arena on June 7, with Ed Wright, an uncle of Lee Roberts, as engineer.

1857: The Farmers' Hotel was built by William Brody. Travel to Mineral Point and other places was so great that several four-horse Concord coaches left each day loaded down with emigrants and prospectors. Drivers were Jeff Gray and Evan Lloyd. They made regular stops at Ruggles Manor near Hyde's Mill on the way to Dodgeville.

1857: In the spring of this year a portion of the Carter House was moved from old Arena to become a popular hotel in new Arena. Mrs. Carter, later Mrs. Reeves was said to be the first woman in the village.

1876: John Appleby perfected the knotter on the twine binder and used it on a field of wheat in Dover. His invention revolutionized the world of agriculture.

Yet another inventor was Dan Holcome who made a device so that a cow would pump the water she drank. He also made a horseless carriage propelled by wind, that actually ran up and down the streets of Arena.

1879: The population was about 500. The principal shipments were hogs, cattle, grain, and hops.

Businessmen: Garret Adams, confectionery; Arena Starr, weekly; L. R. Bentley, flour and feed; B. C. Billington, blacksmith; R. A. Carden, millinery; D. J. Davis, hardware; B. Dodge, machine agent; E.J. Edwards, druggist; Edwards and Williams, wagonmakers; Grisinger and Benoy, blacksmiths; Hagermann's ex. agt.; Thomas Hamilton, boots and shoes; J. D. Hildebrandt, furniture; Hughes and Dodge, farm implements; William Jones, general store; A. McCutchin, hotel; W. C. Meffert, harnessmaker; B. N. Meigs, minister of the Adventist church; G. C. Meigs, general store; Benjamin Peavy, wagonmaker; P. W. Perry, wagonmaker; A. Pinkerton, minister of the Congregational church; M. A. Reeves, millinery; J. W. Roberts, produce and corn; W. E. Rowe, flour mills; Patrick Smith, hotel; Smith and Murphy, general store; Geo. W. Standard, hotel; Smith and Murphy, general store; F. G. Vilemont, boots and shoes; D. H. Williams, lumber; R. T. Williams, physician; and S. J. Yorker, lumber dealer.

1884:: Nearly 700 settlers of the British Temperance & Emigration Society came to this area.

1885:: Conrad Remley was cruelly murdered by his son, Charles, who was twenty-one years of age.

It seems Mr. Remley had retired early and when Mrs. Remley entered the bedroom, she found Remley sitting up in bed, holding in his hand a pistol. Remley said, "You and the rest of them will soon see hell," she screamed and called to her two sons, Charles and Frank, to come quick as "father is going to kill us." Charles grabbed up a gambrel and struck his father twice over the head, killing him. On January 12, "the examination took place at Dodgeville and both were found guilty. Both were sentence to spend their "natural life" at the State prison at Waupun.

1887: Tuition to attend school was $1.00 a month.

1888: According to the Rural Eye, in at this time Arena had as many business women as any village of its size in the state. They were Mrs. Alois Hutter, Miss Jennie Smith, Miss Minnie King, Mrs. Reeves, Miss Lettie Williams and Miss Girtie Meigs, Mrs. S.J. Yorker, Mrs. Carrie Taylor (an expert in life insurance who sells more policies than all the men put together), Miss Flora Peavy and Miss Mina Billington, Mrs. W.H. Jones (the possessor of more property than any other women in the area).

The Rural Eye goes on to say: "The women have also invaded politics, and manipulate school affairs to their own liking; and the first year of woman's rule in this direction is a goodly number of dollars less than any years record presents since the district was organized--while in our churches woman's hand and woman's brain is fully recognized, and her rights conceded.

1888-89: Businesses at this time, according to the Wisconsin State Gazetter, were: Edgar and Albert Billington, wagonmakers; Herbert Bird, physician; Andrew McCutchin, proprietor of the Farmer's Hotel; O. Gunderson, carpenter; Robert Hamilton, carpenter; William H. Jones, banker and druggist; James M. King, hardware; Thomas Knipe, shoemaker; Hugh McCutchin, general store; William Meffert, harness; Rev. B. N. Meigs, Adventist; George C. Meigs, justice of peace; E. D. Murphy, proprietors of the Wisconsin House; Larry O'Brien, billiards; Newell C. Parker, railroad agent; William U. Price, carpenter; Samuel D. Roach, hardware; William J. Roberts, produce and livestock; Charles H. Taylor, insurance; Thomas and Peavy, proprietors of the Rural Eye; Julian M. and George Tupper, proprietors of the Arena Cheese Factory; Rev. John Willen, Congregational; Williams and Meigs, dressmakers; Williams and Nelson, wagonmakers; Henry York, carpenter; Sylvester J. Yorker, lumber.

1890's: Temperance forces brought the liquor question to an end by prohibiting the use of it. There wasn't a licensed saloon in the village again until well after the middle 1950's.

1896: Everett and William McCutchin built a large store which burned in 1898 and was rebuilt the same year. Down through the years it has been owned by the following: Orht and Salzmann; Salzmann and Hamilton, Salzmann, Reinmann and Hamilton, Hamilton and Roberts, and later R.L. Roberts and Son.

1901: The teachers were Prof. Gilmore, Miss Laura Davies and Kate Billington Pfanku. Prof. Elmer Billington followed in 1903, serving several years.

1909: On January 7, the new Arena school building was destroyed by fire. The blame was placed on a defective furnace. The loss was totaled at $5,000 and insured for $3,500.

1920: The village mayor, William Orht, had to struggle to get electricity for the Arena area. There were many meetings and numerous hot debates. One evening two men who were against receiving electricity fell in a ditch on their way home. Street lights then became a reality in 1924.

1948: Daniel Webster's name was found on a deed of Percy Hattfield when he sold a cheese factory to Earl Culver in 1948. In making the abstract necessary to describe the transaction it was discovered that an important statesman once owned the property. The third transfer of the farm was made by Mr. and Mrs. George Jones to Daniel Webster on August,14 1839. The price paid was $2,750.

Mr. Webster owned the farm for almost three years. Daniel Webster and wife, Caroline Le Roy, deeded the farm to Herman Cope and Thomas S. Taylor. Mr. Webster may not have been as good a businessman as he was an orator, for he sold the land for only $2000.

Proof was found that it was in fact Daniel Webster the famous statesman by the mention of the wife's name on the deed. Mr. Webster was twice married and the maiden name of his second wife was Carolyn Bayard Le Roy.

1956: Living in Arena is William Hottman, 96, and Stella Thudium, 90, Arena's oldest residents.

1940-1988: A few of the Arena names that can be seen via a slide presentation by the Iowa County Historical Society-The chapel in the Pines, Bill Atkins, Tom Johnson, Connie Lannigan, Vernon Pitt, Kings Store, Al's Shop, John Demby, Al Anding, Cecil Anding, Roy Anding, Frank Allen's Garage, Roy Salzman's lumber yard, James Store, Bob Southard delivered mail, Merton Harrop, Lee and John Roberts, Nett Demby, Susie's Station (Susy Slauson (Highway 14 east), Charlie Robb's grocery truck, Ted Hankerson's, Marv Everson, George Linley, Algie Schlough, Frank Schlough.

1981: The murder of Jim Paul in the Mill Creek community was a tragedy understood by nobody. He lived alone, was a friend to everyone he met, and wanted to live to be 100. He was 96 when someone took his life--the case has never been solved.

1989: Woodrow Roberts of rural Arena, a long time rattlesnake hunter was bitten by one, and had to be hospitalized for a short time. Knowing "Woodie," as everyone calls him-this will not daunt his love for this sport. "I just love hunting rattlesnakes," he has said on many occasion. (Dodgeville Chronicle reporter Jeanie Lewis has gone hunting with Roberts two or three times, and can attest to the fact that what Roberts likes best is hunting the snakes. "Considering the number of years he's hunted and handled the snakes--he has been very lucky, that only one has gotten him)," she said.

Ferry crossing

An early pioneer family, the William Dawsons settled in Mill Creek Valley about two miles north of the Hyde store. They ran an inn and feed stable for the wagon train hauling lead to shot tower from Mineral Point.

"A ferry crossed the river from Castle Prairie which was only a couple miles from Arena. At one time in my recollection, G.W. Davis was town chairman of Arena and he tried very hard to get a bridge across the Wisconsin River at Castle Prairie, primarily to help the village of Arena. It came to a vote and failed by just a few votes. I can remember in the winter several people from Castle Prairie would walk across the river on the ice to do their trading.

"When the Civil War broke out, my grandfather, William Dawson, volunteered as a bugler, leaving his family when he went off to war. He was captured and imprisoned in Libby Prison, where he died in 1865."--From recollections of Ben M. Hodgson, born in 1894.

Railroad pushing westward in1856

The railroad from Milwaukee was being gradually pushed westward and when it crossed the river the old towns of Hayworth, Dover, Old Arena, Helena, Jonesdale, Richland City and Independence, and many others still farther west, vanished like the dew before the sun, and in their stead arose Mazomanie, Arena, Spring Green, Lone Rock, Avoca..." is just one of many "stories" Bob and Lois Demby have collected as they attempt to put together a book about Arena."

Coon Rock legend

An old legend has it that in the early eighties a boat containing bars of government gold came up the Mississippi and Wisconsin rivers and landed near Coon Rock. Two Indians robbed the boat of it's treasure which they carried into the cave on the bluff. The cave branches off into various rooms and it is supposed the gold was hidden in one of these rooms and the opening sealed with clay. It is said that the fingerprints are still visible. The Indians departed and never returned, it being supposed they were killed.

Many have explored the cave--in some places it was necessary to crawl on one's stomach from room to room and although considerable searching has been done in the past, no gold was found. (Excerpt from "Pick-ups" written in 1939 by the famed Dodgeville Chronicle editor, Ed Mundy.)

Arena schools

1862: Arena's schools included: Coon Rock,-near Roy Andings. Ray Hollow School 1862-1860, Hogan School, located on John Hogan farm-1897-1960. Old Helena School-no records, but Gertrude McCutchin taught there in 1915-1956. The school closed in 1959. Kritz school 1869-1954--and there were more.

Rivalry between towns

This poen by Ed Currie appeared in the Star in the 1880s, and it was thought the beginning of rivalry between Arena and Mazomanie.

"Arena is a town, a sand burr city of renown.
Where they can't raise enough to feed a hound'.
The people are so very neat.
But sand burrs grow along the street.
They print a paper called 'The Star'--
They say it beats the 'Sickle' now by far;
But with me you'll all agree
The 'Sickle' beats The 'Star'
As three times three does three."

World War II

1941: On Dec. 7 the bombing of Pearl Harbor brought on World War II. Those from this area who gave their lives to this strife were Neal Lanigan, Glen Hottmann, Henry N. Rue, Roy W. Turnell, Orvin Walters, Marvin Litschauer and Lavern Hughes.

Saloons are abolished

The 1890s brought the liquor question into focus. The Women's Christian Temperance Union (WCTU) was organized and in 1906 the Temple was built. That year the temperance forces won and honor went to Mrs. Anna Bovee, Mrs. Jonathan Hodgson and Mrs. Ole Gunderson who were the prime movers in the effort. Also Mrs. and Mrs. Robert McCutchin, Sr., who paid the final debt on the Temple. (From that time on Arena village didn't have a tavern until the 1950s.)

By Stagecoach

Another means of travel was by stage. Jeff Gray and Evan Lloyd were drivers. They made regular stops at Ruggles Manor near Hyde's Mill on the way to Dodgeville.

Winnie and Sam Sawle, early pioneer family

Winnie and Sam Sawle, rural Arena, enjoy the warm, sunny days of autumn.

Just two years off from being a 100 years old, Winnie Sawle, Arena, can relate to "taking the horses and lumber wagon" to Arena as a six or seven-year-old child"--and "flying over it by jet, today," as she nears the century mark.

Her parents, Jeannette (Hodgson) and William Steven Sawle were among the early day pioneer families who came to Arena in the mid-1800s from England. Her father came "as a youth of 17 across the Pacific by sailboat," with his father who was a retired sea captain. They came to Arena because of a cousin, "a Mr. Rowe" who owned a farm east of Arena.

Winnie notes that Mr. Rowe was a strong democrat and favored Harrison for president of the U.S. When Rowe heard the news--by going to Milwaukee--that Harrison had lost, he came home and died the next day.

"By this time my father and mother were courting. Father was teaching at the Ruggles School. The wedding was hastened. When the term of school ended, March 9, 1889, they were married." At the Rowe estate sale, her parents purchased the cows and some household furnishings.

As Sawle built his estate he recognized the need for saving the trees already there, but also planting more on the soil where "he knew if trees didn't grow, nothing would." It was designed to prevent wind erosion on his farm. An excerpt from a radio talk show in 1939 notes: "to date, over 50,000 trees have been planted."

He summed up his thoughts concerning trees in this manner: "Those who hope for bronze or stone memorials don't deserve them; those who plant trees don't need them." Today, the farm is rich in plant life. Perhaps Winnie and Sam, her 80-year-old brother who lives with her, have inherited his conservational traits.

Winnie, giving her own history lesson, tells of an Arena that was "thriving with traveling men who came and stayed overnight at hotels. The next day they'd show their wares to the local tradesmen." She said, "William Roberts had a stockyard where lots of cattle and hogs were shipped from Arena.

She recalls how the farmers stacked cordwood along the railroad tracks. And she reflects on "driving a gentle old team, a bay and a roan to Arena." The lumber wagon filled with flour from her father's mill was delivered to the store.

"One day we started out, and because it looked like rain, we got out our parasols; a red one for my sister and a blue one for me.

"Before we got to the cheese factory a rainstorm came up. It rained very hard and the dye from our parasols dripped on us. As we entered the store people said 'come see the Sawle girls. They're painted like Indians.' She also recalls what historians call "the sandy roads leading into Arena."

She said, "At that time I never dreamed one day we'd fly. I do recall climbing on the roofs and running over them. That was the closest to flying in those days," she smiles. "I like flying alright. It's the way to go."

Winnie contributes her good health and agileness to "plenty of good food, fresh air and plenty of work." Sam adds, "Go easy on the work." As a youngster Sam liked sports--much better than work.

She recalls that her father had his own creamery, and was "a great Jersey man. The rich milk was made into delicious butter." Her father won a contract to provide butter for a fancy restaurant owner in Milwaukee, beating out several other farmers, including Governor Hoard who had sent samples to the lady owner. The butter was made up in "60 pound farkins, butter tubs. It was sent by passenger train from Arena. The butter was delicious made from our Jersey herd," she adds.

Years ago, there was more neighboring; she recalls oyster suppers, songfests, ice cream socials and more. She recalls her father singing the "Civil War patriotic songs."

About smoking and drug abuse--Winnie never heard of cigarettes until she went to high school. She recalls a boy smoking who "was drummed out of school." She also recalls that the government "gave our boys cigarettes during World War I." Movie actresses started smoking, and it seemed "glamorous."

Arena was always "quite a temperance town," Winnie said. "Drinking was looked down on."

Like the rest of the segment on Arena, we can only 'touch' on Winnie and Sam Sawle. Listening to Winnie as she tells of the early days in Arena it makes us realize change is on-going. And how a community must work to keep growing; otherwise it would fade away and be only a memory. Fortunately, Arena is filled with progressive and optimistic people.

Congratulations "Prairie Bill"

Iowa county salutes another one of its remarkable oldsters in the person of William D. Hottmann, more familiarly known as "Prairie Bill," who will observe his 100th birthday on Friday, December 18, (1959).

Born and raised in Arena and a resident of the area for nearly all of his 100 years, Mr. Hottmann now resides at the Iowa County Home (Bloomfield Manor) near Edmund where members of his immediate family are planning to gather for a small birthday celebration. He has two daughters, Mrs. John Olson, Rt. 1, Verona, and Mrs. Gilbert Harrop, Mazomanie; one son, Roy, Arena; a brother, Theodore, Mazomanie, seven grandchildren; 21 great-grandchildren; and three great-great-grandchildren.

"Prairie Bill" gained his title because at one time he owned as much as 1,000 acres of land near Arena. There was another Wm. Hottmann living in the area and friends distinguished between the two by use of the familiar title. He was active and able to care for his own garden until five years ago and throughout his many years of life has always been known for his honesty, his great strength, helpfulness and fine ability as a woodchopper.

Looking down on Arena today, it's hard to imagine hotels, stage coaches and lots of activity on the river of another era.

Arena Township begins

In the early to mid-1800s, stories were being written back to England about Wisconsin's "mineral wealth and rich farm lands." Dissatisfied in England, trade people ventured off via the British Temperance and Emigration Society, to come and settle in Iowa County. By paying a weekly fee they could buy 80 acres of land.

Lawrence Hayworth, a gentleman of wealth and leisure, was chosen president of the society and in 1846, Charles Reeves and Charles Wilson, helped him to choose a site along the banks of the Wisconsin River, which was called Hayworth.

Not long after Hayworth was platted, John Barnard came here and erected a store and tavern and started a ferry service. Within a few years a steam saw mill was built by Cole & Everette. The oldest cemetery in the township is located here, the tombstones obliterated by the sands of the river.

In 1845, citizens laid out the village of Dover, first called Reeveville--Excerpts from Iowa County Historian Melva Phillips.

Whistle blows

With the railroad came the telegraph. Arena later furnished many engineers, brakemen and telegraphers to the Milwaukee Road. Young and old never tired of the thrill they got from the snorting, puffing locomotives on their way east or west.

Picture theater

1927-'28: The population at this time was 360. Arena has a moving picture theater.

Arena's business prospect-1887

"The following synopsis of Arena's business outlook, will give a full confirmation to the statement that all the railroads and new towns that are now or may hereafter be built, cannot destroy our trade; though with all river towns south of the Wisconsin, we must concede that the new line of the North Western, from Madison to Montfort, drew heavily upon our patronage." Following is a brief account of the businesses:

W.H Jones: "conducts a substantial banking business."

Alois Hutter: "stands at the head of our dry goods and grocery trade..."

C.E. Whitt: "follows with a good line of groceries and dry goods..."

John E. Smith: "is Uncle Sam's boy at the Post Office, also carries a line of groceries, notions, etc..."

S. D. Roach: "a very full and complete hardware and grocery business...His motto is, sell cheap, give good quality of goods, be satisfied with small profits and get rich..."

W.C. Meffert: "makes the neatest harness..."

Thomas & Peavy: "has an office on main street where they print and issue the Rural Eye..."

Benoy & Nelson: "the largest blacksmith and wagon business in this section....Having in their shop a large steam turning lathe both for iron and wood..."

Billington Bros.: (also blacksmiths) "shops are about 80 feet in length and of good width. Both of the above firms conduct the agricultural machinery business..."

Meigs & Williams: "have a full and complete milliner establishment..."

T.J. Hughes: "conducts the largest agricultural agency within a radius of twenty miles."

W. J. Roberts: "deals in stock, and produce...He is master of a large patronage, and has won that position by fair and square dealing and 25 years of close attention to business, both here and in the cities."

Tupper Bros.: "have a successful cheese factory on Washington Street..."

S.J. Yorker: "holds the fort at the lumber yard...had been there for more than 20 years..."

W&W Yorker: "manufactures of fine grades of cigars..."

John Hogan: "conducts the Wisconsin House, a large and commodious hotel...a bar where liquors are sold is kept in this hotel."

A. McCutchin: "conducts the Farmers Hotel...in this hotel there is no liquor sold."

Thomas Knipe: "is the village shoemaker..."

Leary O'Brian: "runs the only saloon in the township..."

S. D. Roach: "has a full line of coffins and caskets for the dead; and will soon add a hearse..."

M.D. Peavy: "is surveyor for the Time Tried and Fire Tested Phoenix of Hartford."

G. C. Meigs: "is the leading justice of the peace and legal counselor."

"A. Hutter, T. Thomas and W.H. Jones are each Notary Publics."

"We have a good school with competent teachers, one being a full term graduate." Tuition $1.00 a month.

"We have three churches in the village, and eight in the township. Namely, Congregational, Adventist, German Methodist, Catholic, Second Congregational, M. E. Methodist and Third Congregational and Primitive Methodist."

In the lead of societies "stands the Prohibition society with a very large membership."

The G.A.R. Post, The Woman's Missionary Society, and the Young Peoples Society called the Willing Workers, also have a firm standing in our midst.

"From the above synopsis, all will see that any attempt to kill old Arena with new railroads or otherwise, is only the flash of powder in the pan.

An ad reads: "Dr. H.R. Bird. Physician and Surgeon, Arena, Wis.--excerpts from the Rural Eye, Oct. 7, 1887.

McCutchin store sold

1900: Wm. Orht and August Salzmann bought the McCutchin Store business. The building also housed the post office, the bank and a public hall upstairs. J.M. King had a general store. Frank Allen a barber shop and machinery business. Edgar Billington a wagon shop, J.C. Nelson a blacksmith shop, Frank Vilemonte and Smith and Hamilton had general stores north of the track and Wm. C. Meffert had a harness shop. Will Roach had a drug store and Dr. Grimes was the doctor. Jim Doran and James Healy ran hotels.

"Today, Arena boasts of the following places of business: Roberts and Sons Store, Anding transfer Co., Johnson's Garage, The Farm Bureau Coop., Roy Salzmann's Lumber and Feed business, Frank Allen's Garage, Vernon Pitt's Trucking Fleet, The Walters Mink Ranch, Hankerson's Blacksmith Shop, Roberts Filling Station, Whitt Filling Station, Stanley's Repair Shop and the Arena Cheese Coop. Merton Harrop is the bank cashier. Dean Pope is the postmaster and George Hamilton is a recently retired storekeeper.

Arena's rural mail carriers deserve mention. The late John Harrop carried mail for 27 years on Route 1 and the late Edward Pfanku served Route 2 until his retirement. Now, Robert Southard with a car has taken over the two routes and does it in half the time required in the horse and buggy days.--excerpts taken from Pure Americana: Arena through the Centuries by Mrs. Elizabeth Sawle Jones.

Thanks

We'd also like to mention that our material has been gleaned from the Iowa County Historical Society, the Dodgeville Library and the Dembys.

We'd like to thank the business people who've participated in this segment on Arena. Like Dennis Halverson said, "It's booming in Arena." And, as Doug Peterson said, "We're doing long-range planning now...anticipating more business with the Spring Green Five Star resort that is being built only a short drive down the road. That has to help Arena," Peterson and others noted.

We know we've missed some businesses, we've missed names, and we're sorry. Perhaps we'll catch you next time.

We've heard of many good stories as we've traveled the roads of Arena, you'll hear about them in upcoming issues as we broaden our scope.

If you have suggestions to make on upcoming segments, please let us know. Write to Jeanie Lewis, % Dodgeville Chronicle, 106 West Merrimac Street, Dodgeville, WI 53533.

Iowa County begins

Iowa County derives its name from the powerful tribe of Sioux Indians known as the Iowa's whose hunting grounds not only covered the territory now known as Iowa County but embraced that of several states.

When organized as a county, under the Territorial Government of Michigan in 1829, Iowa County contained within its jurisdiction, the present counties of Dane, Green, Grant, LaFayette, and a part of Rock. As the country grew in population the demand for more complete centralization induced the legislature at various sessions to divide Iowa by setting off at different times the adjoining counties, until finally, on the secession of LaFayette, Iowa county was reduced to its present proportions.

The arrival of the first white man is conflicting; historians say about 1827.

Because this is the Dodgeville Chronicle's 'first' attempt in getting to know all about the communities and its people in Iowa County the following facts are offered: (And they are facts according to old articles we found in an assortment of books).

The first Census was taken in 1834 by Tim Sterling. There were 5400 white people living in the state of Wisconsin, 2633 of them were living in Iowa county.

The first election was in 1838, the first Territorial Government, April 30, 1836, and included three counties-Brown, Iowa, and Crawford.

Give us a call

The Dodgeville Chronicle staff wants to know if you'd like to know more about Iowa County--through a series we've decided to call "Getting to know our neighbors." Arena is our testing ground. Yet to come is every village and town in Iowa County.

Strolling through the years has made us realize that there is a need for 'history' to be written today--we leave this to Bob and Lois Demby as they work on their book. We'd also like to mention that our material has been gleaned from the Iowa County Historical Society, the Dodgeville Library and the Dembys.

Mabel Wirth retires from 26-year postal career

Mrs. Mabel Wirth received a certificate of appreciation from the U.S. Postal Service upon her retirement after 26 years with the Blue Mounds office. She has been postmaster for the past nine years and was clerk for 17 years.

John Whitmore, right, Madison postmaster and sectional manager, made the presentation and Curt Lindholm, village president, also expressed the community's appreciation to Mrs. Wirth. The certificate reads, "To Mabel Wirth in grateful appreciation for dedicated service during an honorable career of 26 years serving the Government of the United States given by the U.S. Postal Service on retirement April 7.

Whitmore said five candidates are being interviewed to fill the full-time vacancy at the Blue Mounds office and a new postmaster will be named in the next few months. Dennis Wood of Black Earth is serving as interim officer.

The crowd grew early Wednesday morning at Dodgeville's Maxwell Street Day, as here at 8:00 the racks were busy in front of Campbell's. Aug. 4, 1976

Up a pole in a storm — business as usual

By Peter Fox
Of The State Journal 1976

When Jack Dolohanty and his 11-man Wisconsin Power and Light Co. (WPL) line crew from the Janesville area first started repairing downed electric lines near Mineral Point on Mar. 1, they didn't know it would be 13 days before it was all over.

And when John Soderholm, Middleton, a Madison Gas and Electric Co. (MGE) line crew foreman with 25 years experience, saw utility lines falling faster than crews could restring them, he worried about what was in store.

The March ice storm, which dealt its strongest blow Mar. 4 and held on until Mar. 10, has become a fading memory in southern Wisconsin except for piles of brush waiting for pickup or burning and the open wounds on countless trees.

The electricity is on again, homes are heated and telephones are in service.

Dolohanty and Soderholm are typical of the WPL and MGE line crews who battled Mother Nature to restore service to more than 80,000 WPL and 10,000 MGE customers during and after the storm.

But neither man thinks he did anything out of the ordinary.

"Sure, there may have been a lot more damage and a longer stretch of work," Soderholm said as his crew prepared to tighten sagging wire near Cottage Grove. "But other than that, there was no undue hardship."

That's the typical first response from about two dozen linemen interviewed recently. Get them talking a bit more and they may begin to mention the brushes with danger and terrifying way March rolled into Wisconsin.

"You can just imagine the frustration the first two days (of the storm) when they put up one section of line and down would come another. How they could take 30 or 35 hours of that is tough to imagine," Bill Stroess, an MGE engineer, pointed out.

When the storm began to make itself felt, utility crews were managing to keep with the downed lines by working 24-hour days. When the heavy rain of Mar. 4 fell, crews went to 16-hour shifts to conserve strength because they knew the going was getting tougher.

Soderholm said linemen's senses sharpen during an emergency, accounting for the absence of major accidents during the 10-day storm.

"It was second wind after the first 12 or 14 hours," he said.

"It was the adrenaline that kept you going," Mick Koehler, Portage, a member of Dolohanty's Janesville crew, said.

Something had to keep the utility linemen going because the storm didn't allow much relaxation.

Rick Taafe, Beloit, another of Dolohanty's crew, said at times the winds were so strong linemen almost didn't need their "scare straps" to hold them to the poles.

Howard Johnson, another member of the WPL Janesville crew, said he and David Farnum, Footville, were considering working on a section of line when before their eyes four poles snapped like toothpicks sending the whole section crashing to the ground.

"There could have been a lineman up there," Johnson said softly.

Most of the Janesville crew were struck by falling ice and tree limbs. It was the most dangerous part of their work, they said.

Some of the ice coating the utility wires was as thick as a man's forearm.

"Multiply 3 pounds of ice per foot times a 200 to 300 foot span and then multiply that by three or four wires on a pole and you've got a lot of ice," Stroess said.

The linemen worked in pairs, providing a sort of safety backup for each other.

"That's when it really was your turn to be your brother's keeper," said Dan Walters, a WPL lineman from Janesville.

The linemen agreed their work was made a little easier by understanding utility customers. Plates of cookies and cups of steaming coffee were plentiful and made them feel apreciated, the men said.

One of Soderholm's crew, who asked not to be named, said he heard of an incident where people volunteered to hold lights and run errands for another MGE crew from 7 p.m. to 4 a.m.

Jon Staff, Edgerton, a WPL lineman, explained how one farmer helped his crew by hauling poles and heavy equipment in a manure spreader when trucks could not make the cross-country trip.

The linemen reacted by trying to help out in emergencies like restoring power for a young mother with two children in Martinsville, a hamlet north of Middleton.

"We hooked her up after she flagged down the truck and then we continued on our merry way," Soderholm said.

Farnum said the WPL crew received a letter of appreciation for saving $29,000 worth of ice cream in Montfort.

All the MGE and WPL linemen had high praise and admiration for the "foreign" crews brought into the area from other parts of the state and Midwest.

Guided by a "birddog" from either WPL or MGE, the outside crews cut the recovery time in half, Soderholm said.

The WPL crew praised another group for supporting them during the long days of the ice storm — their wives. The women kept things going at home — like Jon Staff's wood stove — and made special trips to the Mineral Point area to keep their husbands in clean clothes and supplies.

Did the linemen's paychecks after it was over make up for all the work?

For Jack Dolohanty it didn't. He converted from an hourly pay check to straight salary just before the storm hit.

For the other men the money wasn't that much either — not after the government got through taking out 40 percent for taxes.

Bob Newman, an MGE lineman and president of the Madison local of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said there was a different sort of recompense involved.

"A lineman is a different breed of cat," he said. "It takes a little bit of guts and a little bit of whatever you want to call it.

"But these guys are really professionals. They do their job because they're loyal to their customers and they're proud of their work."

Memorial Dedicated at Hyde Congregational Church Chapel

by Pearl M. Hughes

The Hyde Chapel, formerly the Hyde Congregational Church, was the scene recently of the dedication of a memorial with the caption, "In Loving Memory of the Pioneers Who Provided a Place of Worship and of Rest, 1862," the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bennett, Evansville, Wisconsin.

Bennett's great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamilton, were among the founding families. Bennett was a former resident of McCutchin Hollow.

This church was instituted in 1862 and re-dedicated in 1878. Among the founders, many names stand out whose descendents continued to support the church, namely - Hamilton, McCutchin, Price, Hubbard and Evans. Families who joined later and served faithfully were Johnson, Davis, Duesler and Olson. Lena Olson, cousin of Mrs. Harland Forseth, served as church organist and Mrs. Evan Davis, mother of Bertyn Davis, prepared the sacraments many years. My father, John McCutchin, served as church clerk for a period of 49 years, from 1908-1944.

Services were held on Sunday afternoons with an occasional evening service. The seating arrangements was unique -- the women and children sat on the right and the men on the left. This was segregation, but no one objected. Ministers from Arena, Adamsville, Ridgeway and Barneveld served the church many years.

On June 9, 1952, this church celebrated its 90th anniversary with a country style picnic dinner, a birthday cake and an appropriate program. The oldest, living former minister, Rev. B.F. Schoenfeld, who served from 1908-1916, was the guest speaker.

When membership dwindled, the church doors were closed by vote at the annual meeting in 1957 and remained closed except for an occasional funeral. In 1966, a non-profit corporation, the Hyde Community Association was formed to preserve and maintain this church as a historical landmark and a memorial to the pioneers.

The church was always open to people of various faiths and here they worshiped together. In the cemetery, nestling behind the chapel, lay buried not only Congregationalists, but also Lutherans, Baptists, Methodists, Catholics and many with no church affiliation.

The dedication service included a brief historical sketch by Pearl M. Hughes, the words of dedication by Mrs. Marjorie Rickey, a prayer by Esther Bawden and a recording, "How Great Thou Art".

Ralph Bennett stands beside the granite memorial, his gift to the Hyde Chapel, now preserved by the Hyde Community Assoc.

THE BATTLE HYMN OF THE REPUBLIC

Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord; He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored; He hath loosed the fateful lightning of his terrible swift sword; His truth is marching on.

CHORUS
Glory! glory! Halelujah!
Glory! glory! Halelujah!
Glory! glory! Halelujah! His Truth is marching on.

I have seen him in the watch-fires of a hundred circling camps; They have builded him an altar in the evening dews and damps; I can read his righteous sentence by the dim and flaring lamps, His day is marching on. CHORUS

He has sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat; He is sifting out the hearts of men before his judgement seat; O be swift, my soul, to answer him; be jubilant, my feet! Our God is marching on. CHORUS

In the beauty of the lilies Christ was born across the sea, With a glory in his bosom that transfigures you and me; As he died to make men holy, let us die to make men free! While God is marching on. CHORUS

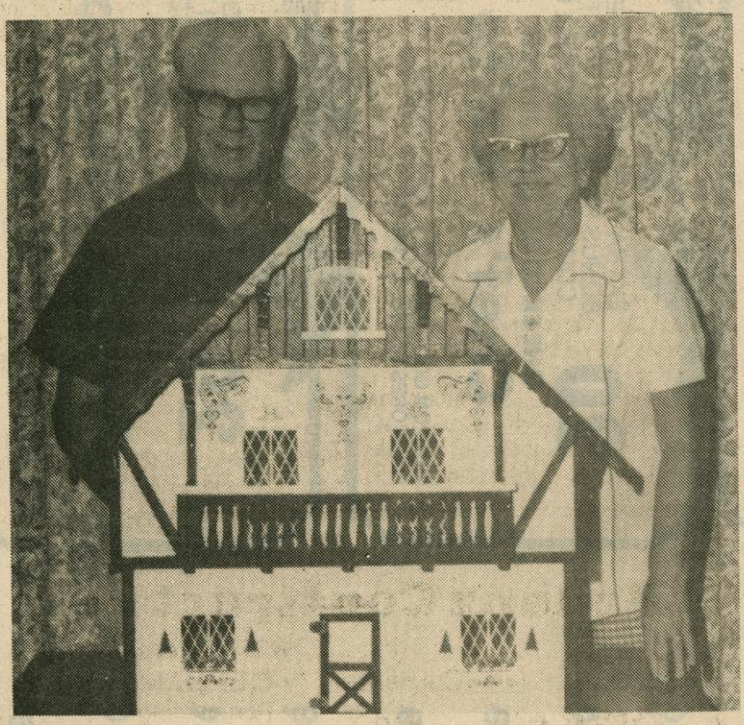
Grandparents Build Dollhouse, Deliver It To Gina, With Love



This is a story of the dollhouse Stan Anderson, 605 W. Merrimac St., Dodgeville made for his granddaughter, Gina. She is the daughter of Bob and Penney Anderson, San Diego, California. Bob is an ensign in the Navy there. Stan is a retired teacher, principal and administrator. He and Mary are in California, now, delivering the dollhouse in person.

Dear Gina,

There were five boys in my family. I had no sisters. I am the father of two sons -- Bill and your daddy, Bob. Your two cousins are boys. So you can understand that your grandmother, Mary, and you are two very special girls in my life.

You are six years old and your grandma and I know that the dream of every little girl your age is to own a dollhouse. Your dream became ours.

You know, of course, I am 71 years old. I've been retired since you were born. My hobby has been working with wood for years but when I began formulating ideas for your dollhouse, it was as though anything I'd made in the past served as an apprentice piece for the building extraordinaire I was about to create. Suddenly, I was the master craftsman ready to undertake the step that would elevate me to new heights.

And that's just what happened. In July, I sent for a plan and spent the rest of the summer putting together a little house with bits 'n pieces of wood, quantities of glue but mostly LOVE.

Your British mother was born in London, I am of Norwegian ancestry and your grandma is English and German so I decided to expand on the international flavor and build a Swiss Chalet style home for you.

I used scrap materials because saving our resources is very important to me. The outside walls are made from plywood a quarter inch thick; the plywood floors are ¾ inch. I measured, drew, and sawed and sawed and sawed -- about 150 pieces.

Because everything was of minute detail, I had to think small through the entire project. Challenges were many. The balcony sections, for instance. My jig wasn't adequate for cutting dimunitive pieces so the material and I went to Lodi to the home of a retired elementary principal where I used his jig that could accommodate fine sawing.

As your dollhouse grew, it began to attract attention. I received both praise and suggestions. An interior decorator friend looked critically at it one day and said, "Stan, I don't like your downstairs floor plan." She offered an idea. I made the change and liked it better.

I finished off the doorways and windows with nearly matchstick-size framework even though the plan didn't call for it. This required painstaking concentration - the measuring, sawing and gluing but the difference it made in appearance made it worthwhile.

When the exterior was completed -- the rafters, brackets, balcony, etc., glued on, your grandma painted it yellow with dark brown trim. Window boxes add the homey look. She painted the top black to resemble soil. Decals that came with the plan were the last touch added. We did about everything for authenticity except to shingle the roof and electrify the house but I was afraid I didn't know enough about installing electricity to attempt it.

Came the time to decorate the interior. This is where your grandma and her friends, relatives and neighbors traveled down that yellow brick road of paradise. One friend brought several pieces of doll furniture her children had outgrown; another crocheted a rug; someone brought carpeting and the list goes on.

But most of your furniture was made by your grandpa. The three story house has two bedrooms, dining room, living room, bath, playroom and kitchen. Furnishing these rooms gave me my greatest sense of fulfillment.

Each miniature piece was a delight to make -- the fireplace, television set, davenports, living room chairs and tables with matching chairs, cupboards, foot stools, picture frames, etc. We accepted instructions for the proper method of laying formica, help in upholstering davenports and chairs and assistance in selecting tiny figured wallpaper from people who knew the joy of giving and sharing.

Her is your Special Gift, Gina. We hope in playing with it these same joys will be transmitted to you and that during your lifetime you will pass them on and on....

Love,
Your grandpa, Stan

Gratz-Rowe Wedding

Miss Jean Lorraine Gratz became the bride of Mr. Thomas R. Rowe on Jan. 17, 1970 at 2 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church, Mineral Point.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gratz, Mineral Point, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rowe, Dodgeville.

The Rev. Donald L. Frank performed the ceremony while Mrs. Ray Van Matre, as organist and Mrs. George Kjelland, as soloist, provided the music.

Miss Betty Gratz, Mineral Point, was her sister's maid of honor, Miss Mary Rowe, sister of the groom and Miss Jo Ellen Spani were the bridesmaids.

The groom's attendants were: Robert A. Boldt, Dodgeville, as best man; Dennis Olson, Highland, and James Gratz, Mineral Point, as groomsmen. Ushers were Dennis Schaack, Dodgeville, David Thomas and Thomas Lieder, both of Mineral Point.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors for 250 guests.

After a honeymoon in Door County, the newlyweds are residing in Milwaukee where the groom will be employed for the City in the Water Engineering Division.

TO THOSE AT OUR MARRIAGE

The bride and groom are honored to have you as a guest at their wedding. They invite you to share in this, one of the happiest and holiest days of their lives.

"'God made them male and female.' For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and the two shall become one. So they are no longer two but one. What therefore God has joined together, let not man put asunder." — Mark 10:6b-9 RSV

Will you also offer a prayer that the blessings of the Lord may rest upon this couple today and in the years ahead?

OUR WEDDING PRAYER

O God, who art our dwelling-place in all generations; Look with favor upon the homes of our land; enfold husbands and wives, parents and children, in the bonds of thy pure love; and so bless our homes, that they may be a shelter for the defenceless, a bulwark for the tempted, a resting-place for the weary, and a foretaste of our eternal home in thee; through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Amen

The Lord bless thee and keep thee. The Lord make his face shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee. The Lord lift up his countenance upon thee, and give thee peace.

Amen.

THE MARRIAGE SYMBOL

The Cross is a reminder of the covenant which our God has made with us. This covenant is one of love for one another. The linked rings are symbolic of the love of man and wife united in marriage. Upon this covenant, marriage is ordained of God.

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil:
for thou art with me; Thy rod and
thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence
of mine enemies: thou anointest my head
with oil, my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me
all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

OLD THINGS

I like old things that time has tried
And proven strong and good and fine;
Rose-petal softness of old sheets;
Old pottery of quaint design;
Old trees that stand against the wind,
However gnarled their branches are,
Symbolic of a soul grown strong,
Communing years with storm and star;
Old houses marked by hours
Of love and living through the years,
That proudly bears their stamp of worth
In spite of strife and stress and tears;
Old faces time has etched with lines
Of love and laughter, sorrow, too,
I like old things—they have a depth
Unknown by anything that's new.

MANY THANKS

We would like to take this means of thanking the various Chairmen and their Committees, the WSCS for serving the delicious dinner, those who took part in the program, and those who helped in any way to make this evening a success. We appreciate your splendid work and cooperation.
