BADGERS GOING SLOWLY, REPORT SELLING TEAMS

Only Half of $5,000 Quota Has Been Subscribed For to Date

An appeal to the student body to subscribe to the 1924 Badger in numbers great enough to permit the production of a book on the basis of the original plans was made by Howard Lyman, business manager, last night following the reports of team captains which showed that the half-way mark had not been reached.

The campaign to get 5,000 subscriptions was half completed last night. Returns showed that this year's campaign was running far behind the pace set last year at the half-way mark.

Need 4,500 Names

"If the returns continue to come in at the present rate, we will get only 3,250 subscriptions," Lyman said last night. "We need at least 4,500 to produce a book such as we had planned. I want to make an appeal for co-operation. Everyone wants to subscribe. They say so, but the solicitors can't get to them as easily this year with arrangements as they are. If we can get folks to co-operate a little, we won't run short like this."

The fact that persons are not being approached as soon and as often by solicitors this year is due to the ban on women's solicitation among the men, Lyman said. Men solicitors show more reluctance to approach persons on the hill and about the campus, according to Lyman.

Koyis Leads

F. J. Koyis held the highest individual score last night. Over 175 subscriptions were turned in by him. Catherine Davis held high score among the women with 40 subscriptions. Edward Tebord held second high with 50. Betty Stolte with 36 and Jeannette Wall, with 25, held second and third places. Winners of highest scores and members of the highest team will be awarded fountain pens. A pocket camera, donated by the Photoart House, also goes to the highest scorers.

"Anybody can get subscriptions like Koyis can if he will go after them," Willard Kirchner, circulation manager, said. "People are waiting for someone to visit them. Everyone will subscribe because they want the 1924 Badger as good or better than the 1923 Badger. The only way the increase in size and quality planned can be carried out is by obtaining many subscriptions. The drive ends Saturday night and we must have between 4,500 and 5,000."

Selling Teams

Sixteen women teams and 12 men teams are going from house to house in the fraternity, sorority and rooming house districts. An average of 250 subscriptions, which is comparatively low, according to Lyman, was turned in last night. An additional supply of 2,000 subscription blanks and buttons were received at the Badger office yesterday and will be passed out to the teams.

The Badger is going from coast to coast among friends of Wisconsin," Lyman said. "We are obliged and bound to make it as good or better than ever. Jerome Bjerke, foreign advertising manager, reports early returns are exceptionally good, but advertising won't finance us. We must have subscriptions. Let's get 5,000."

Deutscher Verein Holds First Meeting of Year

The German Club, Deutscher Verein, held its first meeting in Lathrop hall parlors last night. A brief program of entertainment was followed by a mixer. Prof. A. R. Hohfeld of the German department gave an informal talk on the purpose and aims of the club as a social and cultural force.

Orient Will Move Into Gym With Ballet Booth

Dancers at the Ballet Booth tomorrow night at Lathrop hall gymnasium will move in an oriental atmosphere created by softened lights, perfumed air, weird music, and purple hangings, that will differ considerably from the usual treatment of the gymnasium for special affairs, according to Richard McCaffery '24, chairman.

An amber glow which will flood the dancing floor will be the dominant color effect, McCaffery said, and purple hangings will be used as a background for the orchestra and special features.

Thompson's eight piece orchestra headed by Al Hiat and Herman Sainko will add to the oriental effect with the exotic type of music, subdued, with occasional contrasts, which is popular this season.

Prof. Carl Russell Fish yesterday presented The Cardinal with the 1920-1921 Who's Who of America. This is the last edition. "It's useful, you know," said Professor Fish—and so for the past few years, he has made it his custom to give The Cardinal the latest issue as soon as he received his own.

COMMITTEEMEN PLAN WELCOME

Discuss Homecoming Plans At Meeting Last Evening

"We have just one month to complete the arrangements for what is going to be the biggest Homecoming celebration ever attempted at Wisconsin," was the text of the talk given by Worth E. Shoultz, general chairman of the 1922 affair, to an assemblage of all the committeemen who met at the Y. M. C. A. parlors last night.

While nothing definite could be accomplished at meeting so early, the idea was strongly emphasized that every committee should be settled down and getting results by the end of this week.

Shoultz mentioned the fact that Prof. N. Gardner, who has been in various parts of the state in the interests of the Union Memorial Drive, brought back word that enthusiasm among the Wisconsin alumni is greater this year than it has ever been before. He said that thousands are not only thinking and talking Homecoming, but they are really planning to attend.

"In all of our plans we must keep paramount the idea that the whole Homecoming weekend is just one big holiday for Wisconsin alumni. The doors of Madison and the university will be thrown open and it is our duty to make them feel as at home as they did in the same surroundings. The spirit here at Wisconsin is better than it has been in years, and there is no reason why we cannot accomplish our purpose," Shoultz went on to say.

The favorable progress which most of the committee chairmen reported indicated that the aim to make this Homecoming "bigger and better than ever" will be realized. Practically every group has its plans completed and is now working hard to carry them out.

The Homecoming letter, which was sent out under the direction of Chairman Tom McCandless, was declared to have been the best ever put out, and its influence in attracting alumni back is bound to be inestimable.

The Homecoming button, which carries the official seal, and which is the official tag of the day, has been selected and ordered, and plans for its distribution are being pushed ahead by Chairman Ralph Balliette.

Set Last Party Dates Before Semester Tests

The latest dates for parties preceding the semester examinations will be January 12 and 13, according to a decision reached this week by the Student Life and Interest Committee.

The ordinary rules of the committee demand two week ends free from parties before examinations, but this year there will be but three weeks between the end of the holidays and exams. In order to give students two week ends for parties the old ruling was overruled.

Organizations giving parties must register the affairs in the office of the dean of men four days before the party is to be given.

Plan Dormitory for Men And Completion of Stadium

A prom in the university gymnasium was advocated by the board of regents at their meeting yesterday when they passed a resolution expressing a wish that the big social event of the year be kept on the campus.

The resolution to bring the prom to a saner basis and back to the campus was passed by the faculty June 5, and is supported by the action of the regents. The final decision upon the matter is left with the students' life and interest committee.

No Time Limit

A possible modification of prom traditions was avoided recently by the announcement of Attorney General William J. Morgan that the prom and military ball would not be effected by the Madison ordinance prohibiting dancing after 12 o'clock at night.

The board also urges the legislature to give their approval to the building, on university grounds, of the much needed and much discussed dormitory for men.

The legislature's approval is necessary before the construction of the proposed dormitory by private capital will be legal. The plan for construction was made recently by Attorney General William J. Morgan.

Power to enlist private capital to complete the huge concrete stadium at Camp Randall was also urged. The only funds which have been available so far for the work have been supplied by the athletic department.

New Building Program

A program covering the building needs of the university will be prepared by a committee of five which will be appointed soon. The committee will investigate the questions of the men's dormitory and the stadium. Pres. W. J. Kohler of the board of regents, President Birge, and Business Manager J. D. Phillips will constitute three members of the committee, while the other two will be chosen from the members of the board.

Not a dark spot on the campus or on Linden drive will remain when the regents' plan for the lighting system has been carried out. Some work along these lines has been done during the summer.

Legislative scholarships were granted to Carl R. Hansen '25, Estelle Lacy '26, Lola Dynes '24, and Earl R. Cornwell '24. Edward G. O'General, B. A. Lawrence college, was given a scholarship in econ-

MOWRY SPEAKER AT AD CLUB MEETING

The Ad Club opened its activities for the year with a banquet at the city Y. M. C. A. last night.

Mr. Mowry, secretary of the Madison Association of Commerce, was the speaker of the evening. He emphasized the importance not only of advertising but of using the right kind of advertising.

He suggested that the territory in Dane County be divided into sections and that the Ad Club send out questionnaires to all the merchants, both in the city and country, inquiring about the papers in which they advertise and the type of copy which they use. A tabulated summary of the survey would bring many new facts to light, it is expected.

Lester Schenkenberg '23, was elected secretary to succeed Russel Frawley '23 who has resigned. Douglas Newell '23, business manager of the Daily Cardinal, is president.

Membership in the organization is open to all Commerce students taking advertising and to all students working on campus publications who are interested in promoting the work.

The following applicants were voted into membership: Paul Robertson '24; Hugo L. Rusch '23; Herbert C. Schaefer '25; George B. Hagen '23; Edward Blair '25; Allan Walters '24; Robert Salsbury '25; Marion Moehlern '23; Lee Hanson '24; and Howard B. Lyman '24. The membership of the organization is limited to thirty-five.

The next regular meeting of the Ad Club will be in conjunction with the Madison Advertising club on October 20. C. L. Speed, advertising manager of the Hart, Schaeffner, and Marx clothing house, will talk on present day problems in advertising.

To Raise Fund to Send Band to Minnesota Game

To send the band to Minnesota student organizations and business men of the city will contribute definite amounts. Gus Tuckerman '23, is in charge of the campaign to raise the $775 that will make the trip possible, and he has planned the work so as to do away with an unnecessary tax day.

Special rates on the St. Paul railway will make it possible for students to take the train for $13.32. The special rates on berths are: upper, $1.50; lower, $1.88.

Thousands of students are expected to attend the game with these advantages. The train will leave Madison Friday, November 3, at 11 o'clock at night and will make only two stops on the way to Minneapolis. Sometime before midnight on Saturday the special will start for Madison.

Leviton Praises Parents In Address to Students

That students of the university owe a big debt to their parents and the state for the privilege of attending the institution, was the declaration of Solomon Levitan, Republican nominee for state treasurer, before the student's Progressive club meeting in the capitol yesterday.

"At no time in your life will there rest upon you greater moral responsibilities, than during your life as a student," said Mr. Levitan. "When you have finished your career as a student, you go out into the world to make your way. No longer will you be dependent upon home. But just now the situation is different.

"Many of you have been sent here by fathers and mothers who must make sacrifices to send you to school. The strictest economy must be exercised by your parents that you may be given an education. And they make that sacrifice so willingly and with so many fond hopes for your future.

"What do you give in return? Above all else these parents are entitled that you so deport yourself while attending the institution that you shall reflect credit upon them. You should so conduct yourself that not one shaft of criticism will ever be uttered against you. You should so toil at your studies that the sacrifices the parents have made will shine in a reflected glory in your improvement."

Soft Coal Comes In Good Quantity

Soft coal continues to arrive in large amounts to meet the needs of Northwest states, R. H. Presentin, secretary of the state coal committee, announced today. For the past weeks shipments by water totalled 1,200,000 tons in spite of the seaman's strike.

The soft coal needs of the state can be met adequately during the year, but it continues to look like a shortage of hard coal, M. Presentin said. Hold-over supplies will take care of some cities, but in others the amount of anthracite on hand is very limited, with little in sight.

Conservation of hard coal supplies is necessary by householders.

Capital Secretaries Hold Special Meeting

HOARD MEMORIAL PLAN IS DELAYED

A few legal difficulties still delay the completion of the Hoard Memorial plan, on the Agricultural campus. Work will be resumed as soon as these obstacles are cleared away.

The work has been held up because of a small plot of privately owned land which lies in the center of the proposed improvement and which is being held for speculation. Attempts to buy this property were made several years ago, but without success. Because the old buildings and sheds on the land were an eyesore, a shield of willow trees was planted, and the spot has for six

ORPHEUM CELEBRATING ANNIVERSARY WEEK

The Orpheum circuit is about to celebrate its Third-of-a-Century anniversary, and every city in the region encompassed by this chain of vaudeville theaters is co-operating to make it a notable event. The week of October 22 has been designated, and it will be a big thing in each city that is figured in the Orpheum Circuit's history.

From two houses, one in San Francisco and the other in Los Angeles, the Orpheum Circuit grew to its present gigantic proportions by first lifting the standard of attractions from the plane represented by the old form of variety to its present wholesome and artistic heights.

In the evolution of vaudeville in this country the Orpheum Circuit has played an important part. Its pioneers began "house-cleaning" and this renovation continued until they had eliminated all objectionable features from programs as well as the theaters and their clientele. They established a new standard.

Several years after the Orpheum Circuit had established its prestige and won the confidence and good will of its millions of patrons, it decided to the same territory could also support a circuit of popular priced theaters. The Junior Orpheum Circuit was established to furnish vaudeville in continuous performances at popular prices. The great State-Lake theatre, Chicago, was the forerunner of this circuit, and the fame of this institution has spread to the four corners of the globe.

The Orpheum Circuit does its own booking. It maintains a large organization in New York, with offices in the Palace Theatre Building, where is also the office of Martin Beck, its president, who has been associated with the Circuit since its infancy. There is another booking office in the State-Lake Theatre Building, Chicago, where also are located the offices of the executives and various operating departments.

William D. Hoard, ex-governor of Wisconsin, was active in the interests of the dairy business throughout his entire career as farmer, editor, governor, and citizen, and the monument is being erected to his memory by grateful farmers and dairymen from all parts of the state.

The plan includes an agricultural mall to extend from University avenue to the foot of Agricultural hall. Two drives will extend up either side of a central plot of grass and shrubbery as far as Linden drive, and the Hoard statue, which has already been completed, will command the mall from the upper end.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

CROSS COUNTRY TEAM TRAINING FOR FIRST RUN

New Men Will Be Prominent in Conference Meet With Michigan

The Varsity cross country squad is at present training strenuously over the three and one half mile course in preparation for the first conference meet of the season which will be held October 21 at Madison against the Michigan harriers.

In a trial run held last Saturday over the short course the prediction, made early in the season, that the new men would give the veterans of the squad a hard fight for their positions was verified.

New Men First

The first four men to cross the tape in the trial run were Tschudy, Sherman, Valley, and Perry, all new men on the squad this year. Sherman, however, is ineligible.

Moorhead, Ramsay, and Wade, three veteran runners, finished directly behind the first group named. Coach Mead Burke had several other good men, who may be used against the Wolverines, that finished after Wade or dropped out of the race Saturday. Schneider is an exceptionally speedy runner included in the latter group.

Michigan Strong

Reports from the Michigan camp show that Coach Steve Farrell had a squad of 35 men working under him. The candidates for the team include four experienced athletes. Captain Bowen, Arndt, Visse, and Davis; and with these men and a number of fast runners from last year's freshman, Coach Farrell expects to put a strong team into the field to invade the Badgers provided that the menace of ineligibility hanging over the Maize and Blue camp is removed.

The Badger cross country schedule now includes dual races with Michigan, Minnesota, and Chicago and the conference meet at Purdue. The meet with Michigan which was just recently arranged will set a new precedent in the history of cross country at Wisconsin. This will be the first year that the two schools have met in a dual contest in this sport, as well as the first year that the Badgers have had more than two dual matches on their schedule.

GREATEST HERO OF ALL WORLD SERIES SEES 1922 CLASH

Christy Mathewson, seen in the press box at the world's series.

"Big Six" Mathewson, greatest pitcher of all time and the superstar of world's series history, is watching this year's games in New York as a spectator and scribe—his first glimpse of a real game in three years. He retired from the game in 1919 to fight a bad case of tuberculosis. He won out.

Henika and Campbell Win In Tennis Tryout Matches

Sinclair Henika, ineligible for Varsity tennis last year, has manifested again his net ability by winning yesterday his match with Arthur Moulding, in the Varsity Tryout tournament. Henika now is rated among the four best Varsity men.

Charles Campbell won his match with Gault, 6-3, 6-3. The victory places Campbell in the semi-finals. Bennett easily won from Gilmore, 6-4, 6-0. The semi-finals will be played this afternoon, weather permitting.

With the contestants reduced to three, interest in the tourney has reached a high point.

SQUAD IS CUT BY DR. HARPER

Forty Freshman Basketball Candidates Dropped at Practice

The Frosh basketball squad, under the coaching of Dr. Carl Harper, will soon be ready for intensive work. The original number of candidates, which numbered over 80 men, has been decreased until only eight teams were on the floor Tuesday night. A few more will probably be weeded out before the week is over.

Another practice was gone through with yesterday afternoon while another division of the squad will take the floor this afternoon at 4:30. Practice consists mainly of passing, goal shooting, and some short but hard scrimmages.

Little can be said yet of the relative merits of the players, but it can easily be seen that there are many number of real players on the squad who will give the varsity plenty of opposition later on.

The men on the squad at present are: C. V. Albricht, K. Bick, W. B. Carter, L. Christenson, F. J. Christopher, E. C. Debolt, Levi Echardt, H. F. Frienden, Harley Gates, J. K. Gill, R. E. Goult, Don Hatmaker, F. S. Harmon, A. J. Horst, C. I. Hoff, Roger Inda, J. H. Kellogg, R. Kenison, W. J. Kilpatrick, R. A. Larson, John Marshall, J. D. McCarthy, C. S. Martinez, R. E. Merkel, F. W. Meyer, Orin North, Mari Odgen, H. Olson, O. Riegel, O. H. Rippe, A. F. Scheer, S. W. Spencer, Sid Tallard, Ruben Tousand, Horace Tudor, Don Wheeler, H. Wieland, and O. W. Wold. A. H. Hiat is a visiting Coach Harper at present and is acting as manager.

Harper, Woods, Hitchcock Named as New Coaches

Of the three men appointed by the Board of Regents as coaches in football and wrestling, two, Dr. Carl H. Harper and James P. Woods, are graduates of the university. The other, George Hitchcock, has been coach of wrestling here for the past two years.

While Dr. Harper was in the university he starred for three years on Wisconsin championship teams. After graduating in 1914 he entered the University of Pennsylvania. While there he coached football in addition to his study of medicine.

Mr. Woods graduated last June from the School of Engineering, and is now taking some post graduate work in engineering, besides being an assistant instructor. His experience during the two seasons he played halfback and end on the football team fit him for the position as assistant coach this year.

Mr. Hitchcock, an instructor in engineering, has wide experience in athletics before coming here. This is his third year as coach of wrestling.

Mark of 80 Standard For College Entrance

No student at the Madison high school will be recommended for entrance into college unless he has attained an average scholastic standing of 80 in all studies, Principal Volney G. Barnes stated today. A student may, however, be admitted into the university on probation, with a standing lower than 80.

INDIANA STARTS BIG TEN SERIES THIS SATURDAY

Play Minnesota Saturday at Indianapolis; Are Evenly Matched

(Special to Daily Cardinal)

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 11—The deciding game in a three-game Big Ten Conference series between Indiana and Minnesota will be played next Saturday at Indianapolis, with the two teams apparently about evenly matched and with prospects for a close and hard-fought game.

After Indiana and Minnesota closed a contract in 1919 for a three-game series, the Hoosiers journeyed to Minneapolis in 1920 and administered a 21-7 drubbing to the Gophers. Last year Indiana went back and, although given credit for better play and after threatening the Gopher's goal, returned the loser by the close score of 6-0. Minnesota comes to Indianapolis Saturday for the remaining contest.

Both Lines Weak

Bill Spaulding, now coach at Minnesota, is a known stickler for nappy play. He has a fast backfield, but aside from Captain Aas at center his line is said to be rather weak. The same trouble exists at Indiana, with Captain Hanny, at end the most dependable element in the team and Crimson line.

In the DePauw game Hanny on two different occasions after punting tackled the opponent returning the punt. In every way he proved the giant of the Indiana defense and offense. Both Aas and Hanny are looked upon by football critics as possible all-Western material.

Has Good Backfield

The Indiana backfield has been rated high by sport writers and is probably equal or superior to the Minnesota line plungers. In punting Hanny is expected to prove himself the equal to Martineau, Eklund, Turst or Gilstadt, of Minnesota. Eklund's drop and place kick artist, while quarterback Wilkins is Indiana's most likely candidate for this work.

After outplaying DePauw in every department, Indiana failed to score last Saturday, but DePauw is regarded as exceptionally strong and Coach Pat Herron is remedying the defects which showed up in the tie game. Behind closed gates he's perfecting his team in the famous Glen Warner system of play and is leaving nothing undone to make his opening Big Ten Conference game a victory for Indiana.

BARR'S OPPONENT IN DAKOTA

Welch, 161 pounds, is field general for South Dakota. He is a clever forward passer and his throwing in the St. Thomas game was partly responsible for the Dakotans' victory. Welch also is a good open field runner and should break away in the Wisconsin contest, South Dakota will hang up the record of having scored on the Badgers in two consecutive years. A field goal gave it three points last year.

Will Hold Hockey Spread For Sophomore Women

A hockey spread will be held at the field house at 5:30 o'clock tonight for all second year women who are enrolled in hockey or who are interested in it.

A song contest will be held to develop songs to use at the different class contests during the year and a prize has been announced for the winner. All of the songs and yells will be practiced after the spread.

"We want all of the sophomores to get together and work up a real class spirit that will be worthy of the class and that will help us to go through the hockey tournament to win," Esther Fifield '25, class manager of hockey, said.

WEST VS. EAST IN GRID PLAY

Five international Games Are Scheduled This Fall

Five big intersectional games are on the collegiate football schedule for this year. While games of this nature are of comparatively recent history, they are occasion for much popularity and interest among followers of football.

In intersectional games last year the West triumphed. Notre Dame defeated the Army, Nebraska defeated Pittsburgh and Chicago defeated Princeton. Last season was not a representative season, however, and there may be a change in the outcome this year.

The East started with a win over the West last Saturday when the Army team emerged on the long end of a 13-0 score in its game with Kansas. Kansas has a mediocre team this year, so the strength of the eastern team cannot well be decided on yet.

Army Meets Notre Dame

The real test for the Army will come November 11 when Notre Dame journeys to West Point. Army will be out to avenge the defeat which it suffered at the hands of the Catholics last year, and a real battle is expected.

Notre Dame has a team this year which, though not as experienced as those of the last few years, is fast, heavy, and determined to win. Besides the game with the Army, it will play two other intersectional games this year. With its past history of putting out undefeated teams and with an outlook for an exceptionally strong Army team the November 11 game between the two teams should be one of the greatest intersectional games in the history of football.

Iowa Plays Yale

This Saturday will see Iowa pit ted against Yale. The game, while it will be interesting, will not see either team in its best form. Almost the entire Iowa backfield will be on the sidelines and substitutes will be used. Injuries have plagued havoc with the Eastern team.

Iowa, while it showed great strength in the game with Knoy last Saturday, has met with several setbacks during this week's practice. Locke, wonder fullback of last year, wrenched his back and will not be in the game against Yale. Several other men on the Iowa team have met with injuries which may keep them out of the lineup.

Chicago will meet Princeton again this year. By virtue of its decisive defeat over the strong Georgia team last Saturday, Chicago showed that it has a formidable football team. By the time the maroons have played two Conference games besides having two more weeks practice, they should be able to duplicate last year's performance against Princeton.

Georgia Tech and Carnegie Tech, are the other two teams which Notre Dame will meet in intersectional battles. The former team went through last season with only one defeat and may cause Notre Dame no little trouble.

Falling Sparks Cause Roof Fire; Small Loss

A fire started by falling sparks partially destroyed the roof of the Wisconsin Wagon Works store room, Railroad st., near the Northwestern yards, at 3:15 yesterday afternoon. The blaze was extinguished by firemen of Central station.

RICHARDS BANS VISITORS FROM GRID PRACTICE

Varsity Prepares For S. Dakota Game Behind Closed Doors

With secret practice installed as a permanent feature of its schedule the Wisconsin football squad went through a stiff defensive scrimmage at Camp Randall last night.

"Closed gates" was the order given by Coach John R. Richards and it is likely that open practice will be banned for the remainder of the season.

Two Varsity elevens ran through a long signal drill on the regular gridiron before the Badger coach directed scrimmage yesterday. Coach Guy Lowman's All-Americans were sent against a tentative first team.

Subs Hold Ball

The third-stringers held the ball during the entire skirmish and Richards confined his efforts to developing a line which will be powerful enough to cope with the heavy South Dakota State aggregation which plays here next Saturday afternoon.

Although satisfied with the work of the forward wall on defense, the Wisconsin mentor is trying to overcome its lack of "carry through" on attack. The line has failed to exert enough pressure after the first charge and it is this defect that is drawing a great deal of his attention.

West Determined

By dint of his accurate passing, and his consistent work against Carleton college, "Tom" Nichols is more than holding his own in the fight for the center position. Besides Nichols, Pearse and Alton were given an opportunity to work at the pivot job last Saturday. Alton was somewhat unsteady.

"If hard tackling, fierce charging, and vicious blocking will help defeat Wisconsin this week, we are determined to turn the trick," is the substance of a letter received here from Coach C. A. West, of the South Dakota Agric. eleven. West feels that South Dakota can upset the Badgers in the same manner that Oberlin beat Ohio State last year, Carleton defeated Chicago several years ago, and Beloit beat Northwestern in 1921.

Arrive Tomorrow

Although his team held only a 12 point margin over St. Thomas college last week, West declared that he slight edge resulted from shortened quarters and the fact that two of his regular players were on the sidelines.

The periods were cut to enable St. Thomas to make its train. Sundet, right end, and Thompson, left end, were withheld from the contest to prevent any possible injuries they might have incurred.

Twenty-five South Dakota players will leave Brookings at 12:40 this morning and will arrive into Madison at 4:30 tomorrow morning. They are slated to take a light workout at Camp Randall on Friday afternoon.

100 Men Get Instruction On Handling of a Canoe

Capt. Isabell reports that about 100 university men are getting daily instruction, weather permitting, in the art of handling a canoe.

"Of course they don't go out in a gale," Capt. Isabell said, "but they do go out pretty regularly and they surely look good to me."

Regular crews have been formed in coach G. E. Linden's class in corrective gym, and almost any day they may be seen on the lake from 11:30 to 5 o'clock, paddling away for dear life in the big, red war canoes. Competition runs keen and it is hoped that first class crews will be in shape by the end of the month.

AT Milton college, a few days ago, a sophomore was killed in the class rush.

He was killed, not because the contest was especially savage, but because he was foolish enough to participate while in unfit physical condition. One of his ribs had been splintered in football practice, and in the rough and tumble of the rush the broken bone pierced a vital organ.

Tomorrow, in another column of The Cardinal, there will be a list of underclassmen whom the clinic advises to stay out of the rush. Those who are mentioned in that list should stay out of the rush. If the value they place on their lives and anatomies is not sufficient to deter them, they should stay out to preserve the university's reputation and peace of mind.

Others, who are not on the list, are not in condition to participate. That Milton college sophomore would not have been on a list similar to that published today. It is up to each underclassman to think over his own physical condition and use good judgement.

CUSSING THE CO-OP

THIS year, as usual, the Co-op has come in for an immense volume of uncomplimentary criticism from student patrons. Prices are high and are resented by those who have to pay, whether they are just prices or not.

Such a condition should not continue. If the prices are too high, they should be reduced. If they are just, students should pay them and shut up.

The Co-op is a university organization. Its directors are faculty men. One director is supposed to be a student. The senate has appointed no student director this year. We believe that none has been appointed for the last three years. It might be well to appoint one.

The Co-op is no predatory monster. It is an organization primarily for the convenience of students and it would probably welcome a student senate investigation to remove ill feelings.

Here is a real piece of work for the Student senate, a chance for it to be of valuable service to its constituents.

May we expect the senate to take up the matter as soon as possible?

The Cardinal will be glad to print its findings.

DO YOU PREFER CLOVES

AST year the Commerce Magazine won undying fame in socio-economics research. It told a knowledge thirsty world how many cigarettes were consumed each year by freshmen in comparison with seniors; it figured to a decimal point the amount of money spent by co-eds on cosmetics. It even announced to a gasping universe that most women intend to marry, and that they prefer a husband with an income to one with merely prospects. It was a noble work.

Ever persistent to win itself a place in the Hall of Fame the Mag this year is keeping doggedly at it. Its theme is that all important, thought embracing, continent shaking question—prohibition.

"Do you prefer a partner with a breath, or one who uses cloves at a dance?" "Are you a teetotaller, or are you willing to imbibe if some one else furnishes the forbidden juice?" these are but samples of the all inclusive questionnaire on the collegiate reaction to the eighteenth amendment.

Undoubtedly the result will be astounding. We wrinkle our brows in a puzzled frown, however, wondering what the object of this questionnaire is. Perhaps, after delving into the mysteries of the student conscience, the Commerce Magazine will write a learned book on contemporary morals, or draw conclusions concerning the relations of alcohol to Phi Beta Kappa.

Perhaps, and it is very likely, after tabulating the results of the questions asked, the editors will be able to solve the vital question of whether or not the attorney-general has a right to forbid liquor on passenger ships.

The Commerce Magazine has ascertained the best looking man in school. It is now trying to discover the most popular drink. What will be the result? We have not the temerity to prophesy. It would be tragic, indeed, if the next issue of the Magazine had as its cover design a Coco Cola advertisement.

Chamlee Fulfils Expectations of Large Audience

By L. C.

Mario Chamlee, Metropolitan opera tenor and popular concert singer, appeared before a large audience at Christ Presbyterian church last night in a recital of unusual quality and interest. He was accompanied by Mr. Conal O'C. Quirke.

Mr. Chamlee's interpretation of the several numbers of his program, his personality and distinguished appearance, fulfilled the expectation of his hearers, which had been keyed up to the highest point in the past few weeks.

With a voice of wide range, strong but sweet, Mr. Chamlee combines almost perfect vocal command and very good enunciation. He possesses remarkable dramatic ability, and a voice with a charm that is not only the evidence of admirable technique but of intense feeling and artistic appreciation of the meaning of his songs.

Mr. Chamlee's program included "Che gelida Manina", Puccini, Toschi's "L'Alba separa dalla luce l'ombra", and "Parted", The "Flower Song" from Carmen by Bizet, "Una Furtiva Lagrima", Donizetti, and a short song "Your Voice", composed by Conal O'C. Quirke. Among several shorter numbers were "Mamma Mia", Nutile, "The Last Hour", Walter Kramer, "O Quand je dors", Liszt, and Cardillo's "Corngrato".

Mario Chamlee has been called the "young Caruso" by New York critics, and since the death of that musician he has shown promise of hearts of American audiences left by Caruso.

The Mozart club, under whose auspices Chamlee came to Madison, is a musical organization whose purpose is service and good fellowship. Each year the club brings an artist to Madison.

Communications

SENIOR POLITICS

Editor The Cardinal:

It was encouraging to note from Tuesday's communication that at least one student on the campus has the courage to voice his opinions even though they be on the unpopular side. Probably the writer was defiant and tactless in his methods; nevertheless, he spoke the convictions of many others in his communication.

The senior class officers have important duties to perform. They should represent as near as possible the interests and ideals of the entire class. For this reason, friends of democratic principles revolt at the idea of secret caucuses for ticket "frame-ups".

Rather than have a few good fellows get together and select candidates on the basis of social prestige or athletic ability, we should demand an open caucus, honestly conducted, where non-fraternity men and non-sorority women as well as all others may participate in the selection of candidates on the basis of ability and qualifications for the office. The initiation, this year, of such a policy in class elections would be a good thing, even if it failed in getting its ticket elected.

Stondall Co. Sells Big Tract

Stumpage in Oregon Is Purchased by Company
In Portland, Ore.

A $600,000 deal in western timber owned largely by 100 people in Madison has just been concluded.

The timber sale was consummated in Madison yesterday when the Standall Land and Timber company, of Madison, of which A. M. Stondall is president, sold to the Multnomah Box and Lumber Co., of Portland, Oregon, a tract of 3,500 acres of standing spruce and fir, for a consideration of $600,000. This timber land is located in the Siletz Valley, near Toledo, Lincoln County, Oregon.

The Standall Timber company was organized in 1908, and is made up largely of Madison business and professional men. The company still owns some 5,500 acres, valued at $2,000,000, adjacent to the tract which has been sold. The sale was made by the firm of Pendleton & Gilkey, of Everett, Washington, who are leading lumber and timber dealers in Oregon.

Mr. Pendleton is in the city today, and stated that the lumber and timber industry is becoming increasingly active on the Coast.

Both Mr. Pendleton and Mr. Gilkey are former Wisconsin men, having been in the lumber and timber business 20 years ago in Oconto. Mr. Pendleton had charge of the spruce production on the western coast for the Canadian government during the war.

Nocturnal Gallons Added To Sport List For Co-eds

Nocturnal gallops—that's the newest sport for women endorsed by the Physical Education department.

Four evening a week co-eds balance precariously on the rapidly shifting and scintillating backs of horses, getting skill with horses and credits to fill the gym section of their transcripts. Four nights a week they trapse gingerly home—sore, stiff, miserably conscious in every joint of their recent participation in the sport.

Approximately 50 women have enrolled to take horseback riding as their regular gym work for this year. This is a marked increase over the enrollment of last year, when it was offered for the first time.

The large number requires that certain of the women take their classes in the evening. The advance classes meet on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

Barbers Change "Bum" to Dapper Beau Brummel

CHICAGO — A wandering, jobless, ragged, "bum" yesterday; a neat immaculate model of luxury with an income today, is the story of the transfiguration of "Little Bill" Hayes. The little "bo" became a "beau Brummel" in a few hours all because the Barbers Supply Dealers' Association of America wanted to demonstrate how quickly face creams, shampoo, toilet waters and nail polish can change appearances.

Emissaries were sent out to raze the flats of the "Flop" houses for the worst looking specimen of humanity. They came back with "Little Bill."

In the convention rooms "Bill" was turned over to barbers and manicurists and while they performed their magic, new clothes and shoes were substituted for Bill's rags.

Two hours later William Hayes stepped into the bright lights of a downtown restaurant the honored banquet guest of the men whose fortunes are in cosmetics and perfumes. Hayes handled himself and his knife and fork so well that Frank Bering, manager of the restaurant thought Bill would be a pretty good man to keep around the place.

Y. W. C. A. SENDS LETTERS TO GIRLS

Approximately 800 personally written letters are being mailed to freshmen women this morning by Y. W. C. A. explaining the work of that organization and the opportunities that it opens to new women who are interested in that kind of work.

A personal drive for members will be conducted starting this morning and prospective members will be seen by members who will go around and explain thoroughly the principles of the local branch of the Y. W. C. A.

The membership banquet will be held next Thursday at the Women's building to mark the end of the drive. All of the members, new and old, will get together and work up interest and enthusiasm for the coming year's work. The banquet this year will be run on a more elaborate and carefully planned system.

Place cards and personal favors for every woman attending are two new features. Freshmen commission will be announced at the banquet. Mr. Tittle, of Evanston, Ill., has been secured for the speaker again this year.

"The membership drive this year is not so much for the largest possible number of new members and the greatest financial advancement, but instead for a marked increase of closer co-operation and direct feeling among the members. We want the membership to be made up more of women who are really interested in our organization and who will be anxious to further its interests," said Miss Mary Anderson, secretary of the university Y. W. C. A.

City Planning Courses Offered By Prof. Smith

Believing that city planning offers the remedy for slums and bad housing conditions, Prof. L. S. Smith, of the College of Engineering, several years ago instituted courses in city planning and industrial housing to present this viewpoint to students interested in the labor problem.

In a series of 36 lectures, illustrated with 5,000 slides, Professor Smith shows how bad living conditions arise as the result of illogical division of land and what industrial concerns have done toward bettering them.

"America is the only country which has not met the situation by official action. All other important countries are building houses out of public money to alleviate living conditions of the laborer. In the absence of governmental action, industry has launched many building enterprises, such as the industrial village at Kohler, Wis., and industrial housing at Eclipse Park, Beloit, and at Morgan Park, Duluth, Minn.," said Prof. Smith.

Enrollment This Summer Equal to Canadian Army

Almost as many students were enrolled in the 1922 summer session of the university as there are soldiers in the standing army of Canada.

The registration in the College of Letters and Science alone totaled 3861, and more than half of the students were women. The entire enrollment, 4724, exceeded that of last year by 202, and surpassed that of all mid-western colleges. The nearest competitor of Wisconsin was the University of Minnesota with a registration of 3174 students.

Exactly 17 more women than men were enrolled in the College of Agriculture and no men received library training at Wisconsin. Three women studied law and none studied engineering.

The largest number of students enrolled was 5212 at the University of California and the smallest number, 832, at the University of Oregon.

Campaign In Ninth District To Be Warm

Contest Between Graass
And Schneider Will Be
One of Speakers

Many progressive speakers will take part in the campaign in the ninth congressional district where the only fight against a congressional candidate nominated in the primary was precipitated by the independent race of Circuit Judge Henry Graass against George Schneider, Appleton labor leader.

Robert M. La Follette, Jr., chairman of the state central republican committee, declared today that his father, Gov. Blaine and Lieut. Gov. Comings would take part in the campaign there.

Comings and Schneider start a speaking campaign tonight at Denmark, in Brown county, appearing jointly on a program. The two will speak Thursday at Stangelville, Tisch Mills and Kewaunee; Friday at Algoma and Sturgeon Bay, and Saturday at Brussels and New Franken.

Governor Blaine will open his campaign after his trip to the St. Paul national dairy show and a tour through the northern part of the state with a speech at Fountain City, Buffalo county, Friday, Oct. 20.

Officials Plan Tour Through North of State

Civic Body Sponsors Trip to Acquaint Legislators With Problems

Upper Wisconsin is to be opened to state officers, legislators and nominees on Oct. when a swing by automobile through the central and northern counties starts from Green Bay.

The Associated Communities of Upper Wisconsin, a civic organization, is sponsoring the tour which it hopes will impress the officers with the promise and the problems of this newly developing section. Towns along the route are preparing to acquaint the legislators with their needs so that they may be more intelligently met when brought before the next legislature.

Gov. J. J. Blaine will head the delegation of state officers. He is expected to speak at Eau Claire Thursday night where the tour ends. Henry Johnson, state treasurer; Elmer S. Hall, secretary of state, and George F. Comings, lieutenant governor, all plan to make the trip.

Starting from Green Bay Monday, the party will go to Eagle River, Shawano, Antigo, Pelican, Tomahawk, Rhinelander, Minocqua, Woodruff, Park Falls, Radison, Ladysmith, Barron, Rice Lake and Eau Claire.

Masonic-Eastern Star Dance Saturday Night

Committees of the Masonic-Eastern Star dance met last night at the St. Francis club house to discuss final plans and arrangements for the party to be held in Lathrop hall Saturday night.

Daughters and sisters of Masons are to be guests of the Eastern Stars at the party, according to members of that organization who are serving on the committee. Masons and De Molays are entertained at a smoker each year by the members of the Square and Compass and the Eastern Stars intend to make the annual party a welcome for sisters and daughters of Masons as well as for their own members.

"The party Saturday night is anything but a couple affair," Edward S. Dodge, '24, general chairman of the party said. "A good many have asked whether it will be a program dance. It certainly will not. We want it to be a big welcome and good time for every Mason and Eastern Star in the university."

Hobo Hike-Weenies And Genuine Cider

Who doesn't like to sit around a big bonfire in the evening, especially after the weather has the autumn snap?

And who doesn't like to rig up in a costume with articles and combinations that would make State street sit back with mouth open and ears ajar? And who doesn't like to watch stunts that would get the glad hand even from folks calloused to ordinary humor by thorough Orph training? And who doesn't like sizzling weenies, and genuine cider, and juicy apples, and sugared doughnuts?

Well—all of these things combined make up the Hobo Hike that Outing club is having today. Two groups will leave Lathrop, the first at 4:30 and the other at 5 o'clock under the direction of women who know where the picnic will be held—for the true destination of the Hobo Hike is always kept a secret.

A prize will be given to the Hobo who comes in the best costume, and the committee want all who can to come in costume.

"The picnic is being run by the members of Outing club, and is for all of the members, but it is also very much for all of the new women who are interested in outdoor sports, activities, and regular good times. We want them to come and get acquainted with us, with each other, and with Outing club as an organization," said Romayne Barryman '23, president.

DECKS JEWELRY WITH EMBLEMS OF MANY FRATS

"Dad" Mark Paints Crests and Coats of Arms on Jewelry

Because fraternity members at colleges all over the United States like to show their loyalty to their chapters by way of watches and cigarette cases, another occupation has been added to the list of those peculiar to college towns.

Since 1908 "Dad" A. S. Mark has traveled from place to place, painting coats of arms on the few pieces of jewelry which good taste allows men. He has made emblems for nearly all of the athletes who since that time have fought for these colleges to which "Dad" goes.

Decorate Watch Dials

The designs have been etched on steel plates, using first hand work and then a compound. They are filled with air hardening enamel and pressed onto the metal or glass for sometimes the dials of watches are decorated.

Black and white are the enamels most used, black chiefly for outlines and white for mixing with the basic colors to produce various shades and intensities. Blue and red are the colors used in largest quantities.

Carves In Wood

boards as a record of the chapter from year to year. "Dad" prophesies that the practice will become common, especially in the eastern colleges.

Before taking up this work in 1908, "Dad" worked at various watch factories. He was with the Hamilton company for 25 years.

Only two schools in Wisconsin, university and Beloit college, are in "Dad's" itinerary. He spends some time every year at each of a great many colleges. The fact that four schools in Indiana, seven in Ohio, eight in Pennsylvania, and a great many in other states offer fields for this type of work shows that the custom is popular.

DIVISION FLAGS ARE PRESENTED HISTORICAL LIB

Are Not Battlescared and Faded Like Those of "Iron Brigade"

No battlescared like those on the battleflags of the "Old Iron Brigade" of the Civil war can be found on the eight regimental colors of the 32nd division which were recently presented to the Wisconsin Historical museum.

Each flag, although it has been carried by its regiment for 14 months in France, still retains its brightness. They are all immaculately dressed for parade, and each sports the Croix de Guerre of France.

Modern warfare prevented the colors from going through the heat of battle which its grandfathers had done. The modern flags repose peacefully and comfortably at regimental headquarters while the boys were fighting on the front lines. Only on parade did they make their appearance.

Flags of the 64th brigade and the 119th machine gun battalion received citations signed by Henri-Philippi Petain, marshal of France in 1918. The citation of the 64th brigade makes this statement on the valor of the brigade:

"At the village of Juvigny, on August 31 to September 1, the 'Brigade des Terribles' fought valiantly holding off the enemy in spite of heavy losses, notwithstanding without feebleness the most violent counter-attacks of the enemy, and combatting for three days without stopping, without repose, and almost without nourishment."

A letter from Major General William G. Hahn, commander of the division, to Governor E. L. Phillips on the presentation of the citations, accompanies the collection of battleflags.

The eight regimental flags in the collection are: 127th and 128th infantry, 120th and 121st field artillery, 119th and 121st machine gun battalions, 107th engineers, and the headquarters flags.

General Mangin, commander of the 10th French army, decorated the flags belonging to the 127th and 128th infantry, and the 119th and 121st machine gun battalions.

De Longe Studio Equipped For Efficient Photo Work

De Longe's studio, which in 1921 became the property of L. C. Robinson without a change in name, and which appears to be a two room studio, consists of three floors, and employs from 18 to 20 people.

Downstairs the studio has been remodeled in a warm tiffany with taupe carpets. Three complete dressing rooms have been added and a private office. A 20,000 to 50,000 candle power arc light, of sufficient strength for moving pictures, is a part of the new equipment.

From 35,000 to 40,000 negatives are filed and numbered in the morgue in the basement. In the studio proper, the proofs of these negatives are filed. On the third floor are the drying and retouching rooms where the 200 exposures taken during the day are finished.

Lay Cadillac Theft to Work of U. S. Ring

Arrest of Columbus Man May End Nationwide Activities

In the belief that the daring theft of a $3,500 Cadillac automobile from the showrooms of the O. S. Jacobson Co., E. Washington ave., was the last "job" of a branch of a nation-wide ring of auto thieves, with headquarters in Columbus, Wis., police here and Columbia county authorities today were seeking a man named in a warrant issued by Dist. Atty. T. G. Lewis yesterday.

The Columbus gang was broken up, it is alleged, with the arrest of Fred Jones, charged with being one of the "higher-ups" of the ring, on a farm near Columbus yesterday by Columbia county officials and Milwaukee police. He was taken to Milwaukee.

Jones admitted to Harry McCrory, captain of Milwaukee detectives, it is alleged, that he served 15 years of a 25 year sentence in Joliet, Ill., state penitentiary for the murder of a Chicago policeman. Milwaukee police say that Jones is believed to be an assumed name.

Fifteen automobiles stolen from various cities in the United States which passed through the Jones farm have been recovered, according to Milwaukee police. Agents of the ring operated a virtual "underground railroad," bringing in cars under cover of darkness for alterations and moving out before dawn.

Most of the cars were disposed of in cities in town within a radius of 100 miles of Columbus, including Madison, it is said. Cleverly executed bills of sale and unique selling methods were used to dispose of the cars.

The man sought on the warrant issued here is also being sought in Chicago. A Cadillac automobile that may have been the one stolen here was seen in Columbus yesterday, according to officials.

Begin Monona Park Improvements Soon

Filling in of the low section around the old dining hall at Monona park will be begun in a few days, according to E. E. Parker, city engineer. A dredge was towed to the park Tuesday from the Fauerbach pier where repairs have been in progress for the past few weeks. Connection of pipes and building of the retaining wall will occupy the remainder of this week. The contract was let last year but due to the lack of funds the work was postponed. The Harker-Johnson Dredging Co. of Madison has the contract.

PUBLIC OWNED CAPITAL-ROSS

Will Prevent Private Capital
From Dominating World
Industries

"Permanent private capital should be bought up by public capital to prevent the former from dominating the industries of the world, to insure the preservation of democracy, and to maintain a safe balance between the elements of society," said Prof. E. A. Ross of the Sociology department in the keynote address given at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the state conference of social work, in the assembly chamber of the state capitol.

"Large industries owned by public capital would eliminate the paying of a high rate of interest for the use of private capital," said Prof. Ross, "and would prevent private capital from controlling every avenue of public welfare."

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon Julia Lathrop, chief of the United States Childrens bureau, will deliver an address on "The Modern Child Welfare Movement." Other speakers of note will be F. M. Wilcox, chairman of the State Industrial commission, who will speak on "Industrial and Social Work," at 2 o'clock.

"The university and school and their relation to a Community Problem," will be the subject of the talk by Prof. E. R. Gordon, University Extension division. Dr. J. L. Gillin, National Director of education work for the American Red Cross.

Tomorrow noon a general luncheon will be held at the Congregational church and moving pictures by the State Board of Health will be shown in the evening at the assembly chamber.

The part of the university in the social welfare of the state is visualized by means of College of Agriculture and Extension division exhibits.

Maps showing that Wisconsin has county agents in three-fourths of the counties of the state who aid the rural communities with social problems were on display. By means of bulletins and circulars information is being constantly disseminated by the university to all parts of the state.

One of the most recent social studies conducted by the Rural Life department of the university is illustrated by a map of Dane county showing the social crossings as to trade, community centers, towns, and other social areas.

The magnitude of the Extension division's influence on the social life of Wisconsin is depicted by charts.

SHAVINGS, SAWDUST MAKE BEST WOOD

A new reconstructed wood material that has many advantages over ordinary wood is now being made from compressed mixtures of shavings and sawdust with suitable binders, and is the result of research made by Prof. George Kemmerer, of the chemistry department.

Professor Kemmerer's new process has been used commercially since last summer and has been found better for several purposes than wood.

The sawdust or shavings are mixed with the binding material, which Professor Kemmerer discovered and perfected, and put in a mould where the mixture is subjected to a pressure of from 500 to 1,000 pounds per square inch. The resulting product is much tougher and harder than wood, less impervious to water, and harder to split. The reconstructed material takes any finish, such as varnish and enamel, well.

The chief use of the new material is in the manufacture of irregular shaped articles, as radio dials and variometer rotors. The latest use was in making rims for automobile steering wheels, and although none have yet been sent out from the factory, many of the other articles made from the new material are in use in Madison.

A great deal of hand labor is required in making each of such articles out of wood, but in the new process only the mould is hard to make, and one mold will last indefinitely. The material is hard, elastic, grainless, and jointless and can be produced quickly and cheaply.

Tiemann Gives Lecture On His Australian Trip

"A Trip Through Australia" is the title of an illustrated lecture which will be given in Music hall auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight, by Harry D. Tiemann, of the Forest Products laboratory.

Mr. Tiemann has just returned from an eight month trip to Australia, and has many interesting experiences to relate. He traveled from one end of Australia to the other, helping the Australian officials in a campaign for fire prevention.

In speaking of the customs of the country, Mr. Tiemann said: "I was greatly impressed by the hospitality of the Australians. They are as courteous to strangers as our own Southerners. Everywhere I went I was invited to eat and dine with them. They seem to think a great deal of anyone from the United States."

Because of the high price of gasoline, Australians do not own as many automobiles as Americans. There is no oil in that country, and all petroleum products must be imported. Mr. Tiemann thinks that Australian students may have better chances to learn at their schools because they are not greatly distracted by having their own cars to run.
