SENIOR LAWS WIN.

Against the Juniors—The Score was 10 to 6.

The football game between the junior and senior law class teams was won by the latter by a score of 10 to 6. The game was closely contested.

TO PLAY C. A. A. AGAIN.

Manager Myers has made arrangements with the Chicago Athletic team to play on their ground at Chicago on next Saturday. They believe they can secure a team that can defeat U. W. and will endeavor to get the very best players that can be gotten throughout the city. This will be the last game the Chicago team will play before going east and the U. W. team will be able by its results to compare their strength with the eastern teams which the Chicagoes will meet. It will no doubt be the greatest game of football that Chicago will see this year and will be witnessed by thousands of people with great interest.

The athletic association will probably gain a great deal financially by the game although no arrangements as yet have been made on this point.

EXCURSION TO BELOIT.

A week from Saturday, November 3, the football team plays Beloit. If 150 students will accompany the team the fare for the round trip will be only $1.45. Wisconsin and Beloit are old rivals and a great deal of interest is added to the game if a crowd goes along with the team. Beloit has a strong eleven this fall and the game should be close and interesting. The tickets will be good returning four days after date of sale.

CROSS COUNTRY RUN.

If the weather permits, there will be a cross-country run on Friday next. The participants will start from the Gymnasium at 3 p. m., and the course will be up and down the hills, over by the Observatory, and back. The first run will be short, and the leaders will go slowly. Dr. Elsom has made arrangements to have the men sponged off, and rubbed down on their return.

It is expected that a good many will participate in this very beneficial form of out-door exercise. The regular gymnasium suit, sweaters, etc., will be worn. All who intend to join the runners will hand their names to the Director at once.

FENCING CLUB.

The U. W. Fencing club will meet in room 2, Main hall, Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

F. E. Carl Heim, Instructor.

JUNIORS ARE CHAMPIONS

THEY DEFEATED THE SOPHOMORES YESTERDAY.

BY A SCORE OF EIGHTEEN TO TWO.

Sophomores Have Secured Second Place—Standing of the Other Classes.

The last of the series of class baseball games was played yesterday at Rardall field between the juniors and sophomores for the class championship. The game ended in a decisive victory for '96, and afforded considerable amusement for the juniors and other spectators but very little for the sophomores, who spent most of their time chasing the ball. At the end of the third inning the score stood 16 to 0, and the juniors wanted to stop, but the sophomores still had hope and refused to give up the game. So the '96 men did what they could to put themselves out, either striking out intentionally or failing to run when they hit the ball. Had it not been for a wild throw of McCully's in the fourth inning, the sophs would have been shut out completely.

The juniors had no trouble in hitting Perkins as is shown by the record of three three-base hits, five two-baggers, and eleven singles, and nine men sent to bases on balls. Hayden's work was effective, striking out nine men in the six innings, and holding the opponents down to only six singles.

The men played in the following positions:

Juniors	Sophomores
Runkle	c Gregg
Hayden	p Perkins
Scott	s s Butte
Falk	1 b Libbey
McCully	2 b Brewer
Kennedy	3 b I. H. Fowle
Roberts	c f Manson
Thompson	1 f A. N. Fowle
Beebe	r f Hagerman

Score by Innings:

Juniors 11 3 2 2 0 0—18

Sophomores 0 0 0 2 0 0—2

Following is the standing by percentages:

Juniors	.750
Sophomores	.666
Seniors	.333
Freshmen	.000

This gives the juniors the class championship.

M. J. W. Bewman, 89, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Rose M. Bowman.

Mr. Henry Vilas, '94, will deliver his first campaign speech at Mt. Horeb, Thursday evening.

George W. Mead '94 was in the city yesterday on a business trip and visit to U. W. friends.

G. Laurence '94 holds a professorship in Latin, Norse, and history in Augustana college, Canton, South Dakota.

Mr. W. F. Dockery, will speak in the interests of the Democratic party during the remainder of the campaign, his field being in Wood and Columbia counties.

EMPIRE OF CHARLEMAGNE.

The subject of Prof. Haskin's lecture yesterday afternoon was "The Empire of Charlemagne." He showed how he came into great power, his personal traits, his great activity in protecting and extending his kingdom, his defence of Rome, and his alliance with the pope.

The two kings of France who preceded him were Charles Martel and Pippin. Martel was not a ruler of great power, but he succeeded in uniting the Franks with the people of the north against the Saracens.

His successor was Pippin, the greatest man of that house. He was active and vigorous. He put down invasions and revolts, and when Charlemagne, his son, inherited the kingdom, he also inherited the willing obedience and trust of a great people.

During the first four years of Charlemagne's reign, which lasted from 768 to 814, his brother ruled jointly with him.

The lasting impression made by Charlemagne's rule, is seen in the songs of the later days, the crude historical accounts, and the chronicles. These also give a good picture of Charles himself. His body was large and strong and his temper was as agreeable as his personal appearance. His health was always good. His dress was plain, and he could hardly be distinguished, by his appearance, from his subjects. He was of a social nature, yet rarely gave entertainments or appeared in public ceremonies. In love of books and learning, Charles resembled Alfred the Great. He was especially fond of stories and the books of Augustine. It was as easy for the king to speak Latin as the language of his own country and he was also a good Greek scholar. He even tried to write himself.

The effort of Charles during his whole life was to improve and better the condition of the Franks. The main outlet of his energy was war. He carried on more than 60 expeditions and led 30 of them himself. They were not organized for spoil or conquest but to protect his people by driving the barbaric Saxons, Bavarians, Slavs, Saracens, Lombards, and Frisians from his borders, and by leaving a conquered land between himself and the uncivilized hordes of the interior. It was the Lombards he encountered first, but his main danger lay in the tribes of the northeast. His Saxon campaign was a typical one. In contrast with the Franks, who had yielded to the civilizing influence of Rome, they showed that they had advanced but little since the time of Tacitus' portrayal of them. Charlemagne struggled with these Tuetons 30 years before they were subdued. The conquest was harsh, but was immediately followed by the introduction of Christianity, against which they had fought, and by all the means to civilization at Charlemagne's command. The centers of church life became the centers of civilization and the building of roads fostered trade. To these things the old cities of northeastern Europe owe their birth. In the same way he conquered Bavaria and used it as a buffer against the Slavs. Charles the Great's crusade against the Germans started the great eastern rush which drove back the Slavs.

Any failure to receive the Daily Cardinal promptly should be reported to the Business Manager.

We wish to announce the election of E. H. Kronsage, '97, as university editor and of C. A. Phelps, '96, as a general editor of the Cardinal.

Friday will occur the first cross-country run of the season. The pace will be easy and Dr. Elsom has made arrangements to have the contestants rubbed down after the finish. This sport is one of the best means for outdoor exercise in the fall that can be devised and so there should be a large number of entries.

The small proportion of upper classmen who take advantage of the facilities for exercise offered by the new gymnasium has been a matter of considerable comment during the past few days. That the complaint is well founded, no one who visits the gym with any degree of regularity, can doubt. Almost every afternoon in the week sees scores of freshmen and sophomores at work but the number of upper classmen is in comparison with them very insignificant, indeed. Surely such exercise is to the seniors and juniors as much if not more of a necessity than to the under-classmen, and the excuse so often given that work is already pressing, points all the more surely to the demand on the body for gymnastic exercise.

Our friend, the editor of the Ariel, evidently thinks he says something in the last number of his excellent paper. If we had stopped to think it over a little we might have known that the editorial of his referred to was all bluff, that quality for which Minnesota is so justly famous. And laying all this aside we really didn't think them capable of such a brilliant trick. But what we object to most decidedly and what we wish to call on the Ariel for a retraction of is the statement in the same editorial that Purdue defeated Wisconsin by a score of 10 to 6. Now we claim in all fairness to us that the Ariel should correct this flagrant falsehood in its columns. Last Monday our eleven met Purdue on their own grounds and after scoring six points to their nothing, left the field because of the unfair decisions of Umpire Balliett. The game was not awarded at all and goes on record as an unfinished game with a score of six to nothing in Wisconsin's favor. Even Purdue is not so foolish as to claim that they scored. Another little mistake in the same paper attracts our attention which is as false as the preceding one. It is in the editorial which speaks of the "contest between the two teams which for the past few years have never met defeat," meaning Minnesota and Purdue.

We should like to ask if the victories of Wisconsin and Michigan over Purdue last year, are to be overlooked. A year ago we defeated them, 36 to 30. Perhaps this too is another little scheme for drawing a big crowd at next Saturday's game by making the Minnesota undergraduates think they will see a game with a hitherto invincible foe. If this is so we will let it pass simply reminding our esteemed contemporary that a college journal should try to be a little bit exact in its editorials and should tell the truth once in a while.

THE WAY IT WAS DONE.

The football players of Wisconsin University trounced the University of Chicago club in a most delightful thorough fashion last Saturday.—Milwaukee Exchange.

This is correct, except that the trouncing was done in a most mortifyingly thorough fashion.—Chicago Tribune.

RESOLUTIONS.

At a special meeting of the Harlan chapter of the Phi Delta Phi Fraternity, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to call from our midst our true and well beloved brother, Robert John Wright, of the class of 1894; and

Whereas, by his death we have lost a friend of pure and upright character, whose ability gave promise of a brilliant career in his profession, be it

Resolved, that we mourn the loss of a loyal brother whose courageous and manly character has endeared him to this Fraternity.

Resolved, that we extend to his bereaved parents our heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved, that these resolutions be published in the Madison papers and in the university Cardinal, and that copies be sent to the family of the deceased and to the several chapters of the Fraternity.

EMPIRE OF CHARLEMAGNE.

At Charle's accession to the throne, the kingdom of the Franks covered about three-fourths of its present territory; at the end of his reign his empire was bounded on the north and south by the Elbe, and the Elbe river, on the west by the Atlantic and on the south and east by the Bay of Naples and Hungary. The power, thus concentrated in one man, brought to the people's minds the idea of an empire. The church of Rome and Rome's civil power and its traditions, strengthened this conception, and the Pope himself saw that a union of Charlemagne's power with his own, would greatly strengthen the church.

If there had not been two popes, such an empire would have been impossible. Rome was nothing. The weakness of the pope in the east had been more marked since he had been cut off from that district by the Lombards before they became christianized. And finally the friendly kings were powerless to protect him. Then, the relations between the kings of the Franks and the Pope were close. Pippin, under obligation to the Pope, went to Italy and drove the Lombards out of Rome.

Charlemagne had restored his lands to the Pope and so, it is natural, as a result of all these things, that, as he knelt in the year 800, before the Pope in Rome, Charlemagne was crowned emperor of the Holy Roman Empire. Charlemagne looked upon this as a sacred trust, and aided the church in every way.

Through Charle's reign, his government of his people was admirable. The districts in his realm were divided among his counts, but as these became corrupt and powerful, he sent regularly lord messengers, as they were called, to inquire into the conduct of the counts and to hear complaints from the people. At periods his subjects came to his palace at Aix la Chapelle. There they heard the laws read and were instructed in all ways of improvement.

Charlemagne also gave an impetus to architecture. Two very fine churches were built near his palace. He sought the society of learned men and tried in every way to improve the condition of his people. In a brief summary it can be said that he was the greatest conqueror since the Roman emperors; that his was the greatest faith since Constantine.
