Mail a Check

When a bill comes in, mail a check. It is better than cash because it is safer, because it comes back to you as a record and receipt, and because no change is needed. Also a checking account enables you to keep your cash in a much safer place than your house or pocket—this bank for example.

MORE than five hundred fathers of students now attending the University met with members of the faculty at an informal dinner in the men's gymnasium on Saturday evening, October 18. President Birge incorporated in a cordial address of welcome the true situation at our University in the matter of necessary additional buildings. Dr. Spencer Beebe, ex '97, who responded for the parents in a happy vein, concluded with words of sincere affection for Alma Mater. The Glee Club quartette entertained with several numbers, and Professor Gordon led the assemblage in some typical Badger songs.

Neither outline of the program nor details of the speeches would give an idea of the element of greatest value, namely, the human interest contacts thus made outside the class room by fathers and teachers which promote a feeling for and an understanding of University matters unattainable in any other way. Incidentally, these five hundred fathers represented many Wisconsin hamlets, towns, and villages, as well as larger communities. Several came from other states and a few came long distances.

Dormitories for men are again receiving serious consideration at Wisconsin. Plans for financing have been sanctioned, and the state architect has prepared preliminary sketches. Size, location, and organization are all questions for careful consideration, particularly if radical changes are to be made in those plans formulated a couple of decades ago, which secured the support of a majority of regents, faculty, alumni, and students during the period from about 1908 to 1913. Sincere solicitation of frank opinion on all these questions in advance of final action, together with complete openness of procedure on the part of all committees handling the dormitory question, should prove of great assistance in securing powerful united support from students, alumni, faculty, and public for the "greatest need of the University." To moderate cost of rational student living, to broaden fellowship, to foster democracy,—are the three principal needs to be served by men's dormitories. Great care must of course be exercised to fulfill this trinity of major needs. Wise planners will not overlook the elemental proposition of popularizing any good plan through educating a strong majority to champion it rather than trying the always unsatisfactory and usually unsuccessful method of forcing the oligarchic conclusions of a wise few upon an uninformed many.

Over half a million dollars has now come into the hands of the regents as the share of the University from the estate of J. Stephens Tripp. Details regarding this munificent gift were published in the $550,000 ALUMNI MAGAZINE of November, 1915. Members not already familiar with the generous bequest will be interested in knowing that Mr. Tripp, who died in 1915 at Prairie du Sac, where he had resided for nearly six decades, received his education in the state of New York. Despite the fact that he never attended our University, he left most of his estate to it. The strength of his faith in our Alma Mater is shown in the fact that he neither prescribed nor suggested how this bequest should be used.

Last summer eighty-five rural clergymen, representing nine different constituent bodies, attended the rural church conferences held at this University for two weeks. Sessions lead by representatives of the College of Agriculture were given to a discussion of rural, social, and economic problems. This was based upon research material. For a discussion of the more strictly church phases of the work, the various constituent groups met separately under their own authorized official leadership.—Prof. J. H. KOLB.

Minnesota came here on October 18, a much over-rated team. Stories had come from Minneapolis with regard to the fine team that was being developed there this year. The fact is the Minnesota team presented a poor exhibition in all departments except in straight line plunging. Their forward pass game was pitiful. Wisconsin started the game with a spirit that has not been evident in games this year. They rushed Minnesota from the start and a forward pass play to Leo Harmon resulted in a touchdown after a run of about thirty yards. Leo Harmon was easily the star of the game. He punted well, grabbed forward passes out of the air in master fashion and backed up the line in great style. Wisconsin having greatly outplayed Minnesota during the entire first half, it looked to even a novice that Wisconsin should win the game easily. Something, however, happened between halves and instead of coming out with more fighting spirit the team acted as though it were dead. Wisconsin was

The Gopher Game Minnesota presented a poor exhibition in all departments except in straight line plunging. Their forward pass game was pitiful. Wisconsin started the game with a spirit that has not been evident in games this year. They rushed Minnesota from the start and a forward pass play to Leo Harmon resulted in a touchdown after a run of about thirty yards. Leo Harmon was easily the star of the game. He punted well, grabbed forward passes out of the air in master fashion and backed up the line in great style. Wisconsin having greatly outplayed Minnesota during the entire first half, it looked to even a novice that Wisconsin should win the game easily. Something, however, happened between halves and instead of coming out with more fighting spirit the team acted as though it were dead. Wisconsin was completely outplayed during the second half. A bad pass by the Wisconsin Center gave the ball on a fumble to Minnesota on the twenty-yard line. They carried the ball from there to within one foot of the goal line where Wisconsin held them. After that Minnesota carried the ball at will on straight foot ball and a touchdown was the result after carrying the ball approximately sixty yards without losing possession of it. The right side of the Wisconsin line was woefully weak and the Minnesota quarterback knew where to direct his plays. Wisconsin lost several opportunities to score; at one time a drop kick hit the cross bar and bounded back. At another time when the ball was within the ten yard line, Wisconsin was penalized five yards twice for being off side. These penalties killed all chances of scoring. Minnesota likewise lost an opportunity to score when a few seconds before the game was called a place kick went a few feet wide of the goal post. Wisconsin should have won this game but the result was due, in my estimation, to a lack of the Wisconsin fighting spirit, which has characterized Wisconsin teams during the past few years. The Wisconsin line play was ragged; there is not the alert charge which characterized former Wisconsin lines. Encroachments upon the neutral zone, resulting in penalties when the team was in a position to score, are inexcusable, indicating a lack of fundamentals. This prevented us from winning the Minnesota game. Such fundamental things as interfering, blocking, catching of punts, charging in the line, etc., will have to be improved if we expect to make a good showing against Notre Dame, Michigan, Iowa, and Chicago.—By E. J. SAMP, '13, in "W" Men's Bulletin.

Students no longer go to college from the pure love of learning. In fact, as Erin might put it, they never did. Other motives have always been at work. Students of this year of The Fun of Scholarship grace who come to get the all-round furbishing which results from living with other young folk busied with studies and what-not, or to make friendships that will be helpful in later years, or to pick a likely life-partner from a large high-class assortment, or to enjoy the echoing adoration which physical prowess has earned its possessor ever since the days of tooth and claw, when it alone guaranteed survival, or to get business or professional training for a better and more useful livelihood—our students, I mean to say, who come with any or all of these motives belong to the unnumbered hosts who have flocked to the universities since Bologna and Paris first won their fame eight centuries ago. They are not aliens or intruders at the academic shrine. They belong.

And yet veracity and frankness compel the admission that the proportion of those who enjoy the studies of their college course has fallen off since "everyone has gone to college." Time was when the pleasures of unfolding knowledge were the chief joys of the undergraduate. Nowadays they have many, potent, and too successful rivals. Consider for a moment the present significance of the word eligibility. It requires a certain minimum of respectable scholarship. And for many this is the maximum of aspiration, as if to say: "What more can you ask? Am I not eligible?" I am not complaining. The world needs these students. But they ought really to give the charms of learning a trial. I have known several seniors, finishing their year with a Badger summary three inches deep, to say at the end: "Now I am going East (or to Europe) for a couple of years of nothing but study. I wish I had chosen only one good outside activity." I have known others who in their junior or senior years discovered the joys of learning. "I never knew it was such fun." I had, the other day, a bright student who decided, rather reluctantly, not to take advantage of his exemption, as a joint debater, from the thesis. He wrote a high-grade honor thesis and had an experience and a happiness in discovering his capacity which will back him up throughout his professional course. Give the curriculum a chance to show you the joys of learning. If you have the makings of a scholar in you, find it out early in your college career. For scholarship has greater and more enduring satisfactions than any other activity affords. It is the original, the fundamental activity of every campus.—By Dean G. C. SELLERY, in The Daily Cardinal.

All colleges of this University have been materially aided because our College of Agriculture was developed here as an integral part of the University instead of starting as a separate land grant institution. The plan has produced stronger colleges and a broader University. Mutual interests have been recognized. High standards have been adopted. Better understanding has developed. Recognition of close inter-relationship with other colleges, particularly the College of Letters and Science, has never been questioned. An outline, therefore, of the history of this Wisconsin plan of agricultural education supplies information of broad interest to alumni generally. The outline was prepared by Dean H. L. RUSSELL, '88. The first installment dealing with our College of Agriculture follows. In succeeding issues we shall have other installments dealing with The Short Course, Experiment Association, Dairy School, Experiment Station, Farmers' Institutes, Long Course, Extension Service, and Graduate Instruction.

WISCONSIN COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

By Dean H. L. RUSSELL, '88

Agricultural education in Wisconsin, as in most states, had its origin primarily in federal legislation. During the stress of the Civil War in 1862, President Lincoln signed the Morrill bill which provided for the giving of instruction in agriculture and mechanic arts. This was the foundation of the so-called Land Grant College development, which in most states took the form of development of strong engineering colleges. There was little demand for agricultural education in those times.

Wisconsin fortunately applied the avails of the Morrill grant to the development of work at the State University, instead of starting a separate land grant institution. In many of the states the separatist movement controlled the situation, led by local interests to divide up the state institutions on a pork barrel basis, augmented by the desire of the farmers to have their own institution separate from the high-brow university.

Wisconsin was most fortunate in taking the wiser and more economical course of consolidating her institutions for higher education. University work in agriculture was offered in the seventies but only one student received his B.S. degree prior to 1880. From then until 1900 only thirteen more completed the Long Course (or four-year course) in agriculture. Farmers did not then believe in the necessity of education for the farm. What was good enough for their fathers was good enough for them. The few who took this course readily found employment in the then rapidly developing agricultural colleges that were being subsidized under the terms of the Morrill bill.

The regular academic course of instruction in agriculture did not make headway until late in the nineties. (To be continued.)

A PROTEST

As representatives of the committee of seventeen alumni of the University of Wisconsin, and in accordance with instructions of this committee, we herewith transmit resolution unanimously adopted and signed by members of the committee, and request you to give proper publicity in the ALUMNI MAGAZINE.—J. S. THOMPSON, '10, and H. E. BILKEY, '12.—10-23-24.

Whereas: The LaFollette-Wheeler Campaign Committee through its Finance Director, Herman L. Ekern, has made an appeal in the name of the University of Wisconsin to the Alumni of the University for funds to assist in financing the LaFollette Campaign, and

Whereas: The University of Wisconsin is an institution which has always stood for the highest ideals in citizenship and patriotism, and

Whereas: The LaFollette-Wheeler appeal for funds seeks to align the University and its Alumni with the LaFollette Campaign, and

Whereas: Such an alignment would make it appear to the people of the country that the University of Wisconsin is a partisan institution affiliating itself and its alumni with a particular political faction or party, therefore,

Be it Resolved:—

That: We, the undersigned graduates of the University of Wisconsin, resent the linking of the name of the University and its Alumni with the LaFollette-Wheeler Campaign and the implication that the Alumni of the University are definitely allied with the LaFollette Campaign or with that of any other political party,

That: LaFollette has transgressed both custom and tradition in thus misusing the name of the University in the interest of his personal ambitions,

That: The tactics used in raising funds through an appeal in the name of the University are malicious in that they make the University appear a partisan institution,

That: The Alumni generally resent the attempt of any political group to capitalize the name of the University,

That: Steps be taken to combat such misuse of the name of the University,

*That:—*The secretary of the University of Wisconsin clubs throughout the country be informed of the attitude taken by the group named below and the request made that members of their associations be invited to join in the nation-wide protest of Alumni against the ill-advised use of the name of our Alma Mater,

*That:—*Senator LaFollette be sent a copy of these resolutions with the demand that the solicitation of funds in the name of the University in the interest of his campaign be immediately discontinued.—Harry E. MUSIC BY RADIO Station WHA, University of Wisconsin, has just passed a satisfactory examination for Class A license. Until this goes into effect it is using a 275 m. wave length. The University School of Music is broadcasting every Monday and Wednesday evening at 7:45.

The following is the schedule up to the holidays:

Dec. 1—Chamber Music: Ruth Perssion, violin; Frances Landon, piano; John Bach, cello.

Dec. 3—Arthur Kay, violin.

Dec. 8—Usona Hoffman, piano; Betty Hannum, soprano.

Dec. 10—U. W. Orchestra.

Dec. 15—Choral Union Christmas Concert.

These are all undergraduates with the exception of Francis Landon, '23, member of the Music School Faculty, and Marie McKittrick, '20.

After the holidays there will also be programs by the Music School Faculty and various organizations.

BOOK NOTES

Newspaper Make-Up and Headlines, (McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc., New York, price $2.50) by Norman J. RADDER, '17.

This is a book intended as a practical guide and reference work for newspaper men as well as a text for journalism students and covers the entire field of small and large papers. Mr. Radder has drawn on his experience in the newspaper field as a copy-reader on the New York Times and the Philadelphia Public Ledger, on weekly and daily papers in Wisconsin, and now as associate professor of journalism in Indiana University. All phases of newspaper typography including the choice of headline schedules, jump heads, editorial page make-up, etc., are considered. The book is also a comprehensive manual for the proof-reader. There are chapters on Reading Copy, The Law of Libel, How the Headline is Built, Essential Elements of the Headline, Types of News and Feature Headlines, and Ethics of the Headline. More than twenty reproductions of especially good front pages are included—most of them winners of prizes in contests conducted by state press associations.

U. W. CLUBS

"Sit together, listen together, sing together, eat together, and you'll work together."

TO STRENGTHEN A LOCAL U. W. CLUB

"Make the first requirement of membership in a local U. W. Club membership in the General Alumni Association.

"The alumni, through their local organizations, can and should do things. The central association can not infuse life into local branches by some hypodermic method or other. Rather, it is the central organization which thrives only when alumni everywhere are alert for their opportunity for service.

"But whatever is done, emphasize that fact that the Wisconsin Alumni Association comes first, the local organization second. Why not put such provisions into the constitution?"

BARABOO

H. M. LANGER, '17

THE U. W. Club of Baraboo thoroughly enjoyed a supper served in the Steckl cottage at Devils Lake recently. Forty-five were present. The new members of the local high school faculty attended as guests of the club. After the meal a huge fire was built. The male members of the club succeeded in scaling the bluff and returning with sufficient fuel for the evening. A general discussion followed.—11-9-24.

CHICAGO ALUMNAE

MARIE BODDEN, '21

1215 Astor St., Chicago, Ill.

The story of how the University of Chicago, which has become famed at home and abroad for its graduate work, takes special interest in the undergraduate, and especially the freshmen, was told by dean E. H. Wilkins at the November meeting of the Wisconsin Alumnae Club of Chicago. Dean Wilkins is the dean of "deans" at the University of Chicago, and in outlining the special care of the freshmen during their first weeks at school gave an interesting comparative picture for those from other universities of the Middle West.

Margaret Callsen, '24, as chairman of the recently organized Outlook Committee of the club, cited interesting comparative statistics of enrollment and other features at Wisconsin which have developed during the past year.

Pen Shelton Burke as chairman of the membership committee announced the division of the city into districts and an attempt on the part of the committee to encourage memberships through smaller social groups, in the various suburban districts especially.

Although during the football season the attendance is apt to be cut into, the first Saturday of each month continues to be set aside for these luncheons by a goodly number, and the association is especially encouraged by the appearance of the large number of recent graduates. The December meeting will be held December 6 at Mandel's, and we are hoping Miss Blanche Trilling will be the guest of honor.—11-11-24.

COLUMBUS, O.

GLADYS PALMER, '18

Ohio State University, Columbus, O.

We have about forty graduates in this immediate vicinity. We are planning our first meeting for December 3. At that time we will have dinner at the Faculty Club, some good Wisconsin speeches, and our election of officers for the coming year.—11-9-24.

FOND DU LAC

DOROTHY AHERN, '22

114 E. Second St., Fond du Lac

A meeting of the U. W. Club of Fond du Lac was held at a 6:30 dinner at the Hotel Retlaw on November 13. Guests from Ripon, Brandon, and Waupun were also in attendance. Professor Pyre, '92, was the speaker of the evening, and he took as his subject "The Athletic Situation of the University," and said in part: "The alumni everywhere have a supreme interest in athletics, and they should have, for college athletics is the sport of college men; it is the sport of gentlemen, and it is the sport of the amateur, which means that it is a sideline and not a business, for the players must be college men first and athletes incidentally. Periods of winning and losing come and go, but the loyalty of the alumni can always be depended upon, for the guiding spirit of every Wisconsin graduate regarding the various athletic teams is 'they're giving the best they've got—and they're ours!'"

Clayton Van Pelt, '22, president, acted as toastmaster and called on Elizabeth Waters, '85, who responded with a reading. T. L. Doyle, '97, Mary Gillen Higby, '04, Judge Fowler, '89, and L. J. Fellenz, '07, also responded to toasts. Earl Brown, '21, led the singing of Varsity songs, and after the meeting an informal football discussion was held.—11-13-24.

HIBBING, MINN.

MONA PENFOUND, '14

On October 9, 10, and 11 several prominent people were here to address the north-eastern section of the Minnesota Education Association. Dr. Louis Kahlenberg, '92, Dr. Smiley Blanton, and Prof. Sterling Leonard spoke at large general and sectional meetings. We were sorry that E. G. Doudna, '17, was not able to come owing to the injury sustained in an accident. The local Wisconsin Club hastened to make the most of the opportunity and arranged a dinner in honor of their distinguished guests. All former Wisconsin students who are up in this neck of the woods were invited and the party was a great success. Dr. Walter Thompson, '21, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of the new high school building here, was the toastmaster. Two years ago Dr. Thompson was professor of political science at Wisconsin.

Following is a list of our club membership: President, Walter Thompson, '21; Vice President, Margaret Remington, '23; John Dohm, '11, and Irma Clark Dohm, '16; Dr. R. L. Bowen, '12, and Mrs. Bowen; Roy Martin, '11, and Mrs. Martin; Mr. Aurie Cahoe, Mary Porter Cahoe, '18; Addie Loeper Beran, '98; Esther Heisig Olien, '18; Olive Berry O'Hanrahan, '19; Hazel Rawson Collins, '12; Judge Martin Hughes, ex '23; Charlotte Schustedt, '18; Esther Collins, '18; Margaret McHardy, '24; Charlotte Clark, '17; Emma Dumke, '23; Rose Hargrave, '16; Dora Walsler, '18; Evelyn Frish, '19; Hazel Laing, '17; Grace Desimval, ex '21; Mona Penfound, '14; Henry Drescher, '12; Victor Forseth, '18; Louis Anderson, '06; A. S. Diehl, '07; Dr. T. A. Estrem, '16; Ed. Hawley, '08; Ray Moore, ex '12; Murray Mathews, '22; Welby Cahoe, Gordon Brink, and Mrs. MacKillican.

We are following the fortunes of the University with interest, and at present, of course, the football team. It was too bad that Michigan trounced us, but thank goodness Minnesota was held to a tie so the native sons and daughters up here weren't able to crow over us!—11-1-24.

LAFAYETTE

JENNIE KOEHLER COOLEY, '14
817 N. Salisbury St.

The Wisconsin Club and their families held their annual hamburger fry at the Tecumseh Trail, October 15, with forty-five members present. After enjoying sizzling sandwiches (with or without), fresh cider, and doughnuts, we sat around the fire on the banks of the Wabash with our thoughts far away on Mendota. Several matters of business were brought up by our new president, Dr. R. H. Carr, '13. A discussion of the LaFollette National Committee in using the name of our University in soliciting funds for their campaign resulted in the passing of a resolution requesting President Birge to keep the University out of partisan politics. There was also a discussion of the absurd way in which tickets for the Wisconsin Homecoming game were being handled. A committee of A. L. Gabler, '15, C. R. Cleveland, '12, and L. D. Rowell, '01, was appointed to establish athletic relations between Wisconsin and Purdue with a view mainly to encouraging football games between them.

After the business the old Wisconsin spirit was renewed by singing the songs of our Alma Mater.—10-26-24.

MINNEAPOLIS ALUMNAE

IRMA ALEXANDER BULLIS, '15
1344 2nd Ave., S., Minneapolis, Minn.

The regular monthly meeting of the U. W. Alumnae Club of Minneapolis was held at the Hotel Leamington on Saturday, November 8. Despite the several counter-attractions that vied with us that day, a goodly number were in attendance. Ruth Kentzler, '17, of the dramatic department of Carleton College, gave a delightful reading. Bridge was played during the afternoon. In December all the University of Wisconsin alumnae and alumni of St. Paul, Hudson, Wis., Minneapolis, and surrounding territory are going to have a big meeting. Cards will be sent out and notices will be given in the daily papers. Watch for the date and send your reservations in early.—11-9-24.

MINNEAPOLIS ALUMNI

3120 Bryant Ave., South, Minneapolis.

Wisconsin alumni who are visiting Minneapolis will find classmates at the noon luncheons held at the Minneapolis Athletic Club on the second Friday of each month. At the October meeting Clark Robinson FLETCHER, Law, '11, narrated some of his experiences in France and England where he attended the meeting of the Bar Association held last summer. After favoring the association with this talk, many questions were asked and answered. One would have thought that all present were contemplating an immediate trip to Europe.

The December luncheon will be supplanted by a dinner to be given jointly with the Minneapolis Alumnae, on Friday December 12, at the Leamington Hotel. The dinner will be followed by an old fashioned mixer, such as we used to enjoy at U. W. A live-wire speaker, movies, dancing, and stunts are contemplated. Notices will be sent out about December 1 to all on the mailing lists. Any Wisconsin alumni or former students located in the Twin Cities and surrounding territory, who are not on the mailing lists of either the alumni or alumnae are urged to communicate with the secretary if they don't want to miss a good time.—11-8-24.

U. W. TEACHERS' CLUB

PEARL LICHTFELDT, '22
Wauwatosa High School, Wauwatosa.

The annual meeting of the U. W. Teachers' Club was held during the Wisconsin Teachers' Convention, Friday noon, November 7, in the Gold Room of the Hotel Wisconsin.

Superintendent H. E. Smith, '20, Oconto, the president of the group, was toastmaster. President Edward Birge gave a talk on the past years' activities at the University and discussed the problems of its future. President Robert McMynn, '94, of the Alumni Association, also spoke and urged the alumni to assume more personal responsibility in the furtherance of the welfare of the University. The Nahrath twins, age eight, entertained. Principal Philip Kolb, '01, Milwaukee, led the singing in place of Asa Royce, '04, president of Platteville Normal, who was unable to come because of severe injury sustained in an auto accident some days before the meeting.

At the close of the banquet the following officers were elected for next year: President-Superintendent Wm. T. Darling, and Secretary—Pearl Lichtfeldt, '22, both of Wauwatosa.—11-9-24.

ATHLETICS

KENNETH BUTLER, '25

HOPES for a successful football season at Wisconsin, after overwhelming defeats at the hands of Michigan and Notre Dame and a tie with Minnesota, seem extremely gloomy. Added to this the prospects of victory over Iowa and Chicago in the two last games of the season are not high, in the face of the fact that Iowa has defeated Minnesota and has a strong team in spite of her defeat by the powerful Illini, and in the face of Chicago's sensational drive against Illinois which ended in a 21 to 21 tie.

After a preliminary schedule that presaged little strength for the Badgers, Coach Ryan's eleven came back and tied Minnesota in a 7 to 7 struggle. Wisconsin outfought Minnesota the entire first half of the game, gaining one counter on a pass to Leo Harmon who ran 25 yards for a touchdown. Minnesota came back in the second half as a new team; their veteran line began to function, and Carl Lidberg, ace of Gopher ground-gainers this year, plunged over the Wisconsin line for a tying touchdown.

Wisconsin emerged the moral victor and hopes rose as the team prepared to meet the demoralized Wolverines, who had suffered a 34 to 14 defeat at the hands of Red Grange and his teammates. Ryan made shifts in line and backfield so that a stronger defense might be presented. During the week Ed. Williams, fleet half back and accurate forward passer, was declared ineligible because he had completed three years of college competition.

The Wisconsin team, accompanied by 600 students and backed by 2,000 alumni who attended the game, left Madison the recipient of one of the most rousing send-offs ever accorded a Wisconsin team, in which the traditional red wagon figured prominently.

Tragedy saddened the week-end. Herbert Opitz, substitute quarterback and a certain starter for the Michigan game, was electrocuted in the hydraulics laboratory a few hours before the team left.

On Saturday, October 26, the Badgers fell before the fighting Wolverines at Ann Arbor in a 21 to 0 stampede and failed to break a jinx of 25 years' standing. Wisconsin was unable to gain either around the ends or through the line. Pass attempts were broken up. Leo Harmon outpunted Herb Steger of the Wolverines; this was the only department in which Wisconsin excelled.

Michigan made two touchdowns on passes and one on a fake play through the line. Friedman, a new find on the Michigan team, was the star of the game. Polaski, star of the Michigan game two years ago, fought his way to glory in spite of defeat.

After this defeat Coach Ryan began making shifts in his line and backfield in preparation for the Notre Dame game, the most notable of which was the changing of Captain Jack Harris from half-back to the right tackle position in the line. Various experiments were conducted with new men. When the team lined up for the Notre Dame contest November 8, several changes were noted. Harris played at tackle, Doyle Harmon replaced Larson as quarterback, McGiveran and Barnum played at the halfback position, and Leo Harmon played fullback and did the punting.

Relentless, crushing power was let loose by the famed Notre Dame machine after the Badgers had sparred to a 3 to 3 tie after the first five minutes of play. Coach Knute Rockne sent in his entire first team and the onslaught began, ending in a 38 to 3 score. Notre Dame had perfect teamwork in line and backfield, a clip-clip interference, good blocking and tackling, combined with speed and fight. The Irish shift was fast and puzzling. Notre Dame paved the way for a field goal at the outset of the first quarter when they recovered a fumble. Wisconsin came back and pushed the ball down to the Notre Dame 4-yard line, where plunges failed and Doyle Harmon kicked a tying field goal from the 18-yard line. Rockne's first team, injected just before the field goal started a furious attack. The five ensuing touchdowns were made by passes, line plunges, and end runs. During the final quarter Notre Dame permitted a host of substitutes to participate in the fray.

Wisconsin's cross country squad, under Coach Mead Burke, has gone through the season with four straight victories, over Marquette, Michigan, Minnesota, and Chicago. The morning of the Michigan game at Ann Arbor the Badger harriers won a great race by a score of 23-32. The Saturday previous they had defeated the Gopher hill and dale men by a 17-38 score. Saturday, November 8, minus the services of Petaja who was injured at Ann Arbor, they ran over the fast Maroon team 20-35 and established a course record of 25:25. The men who have been showing up best for Wisconsin are Kuby, Perry, Piper, Bergstresser, Cohen, Link, and Petaja. Burke's men are favored to win the conference meet to be held soon.

Coach Joseph Steinauer of the swimming team has been holding consistent practices and trial swims with the frosh, getting his men in shape for the preliminary meets which will begin sometime in December.

Baseball practice awaits the completion of the football season. Coach Guy Lowman is busy coaching the ends on the varsity football team, but expects to call out his diamond men about the first of December.

Coach Walter Meanwell has continued nightly basket ball practices for his court squad, and Tuesday, November 11, began scrimmage with the freshman team. The probable strength of this year's team cannot now be determined, but Meanwell is rapidly teaching the men his system.

The shells will be put up for the winter about December 1, according to Coach Harry Vail, but the crew men will work out on the machines in the gymnasium annex until the lake opens up in the Spring.

DEATHS

MARGARET SPEARS GILL, '66, passed away at her summer home in Ocean Beach, N. Y., on June 24.

FRANK G. RODOLF, ex'67, passed away in Los Angeles, Calif., in October. Mr. Rodolf was widely known throughout Wisconsin as a pioneer in the milling and lumber industries. His former home was in Balmoral, Wis. Mrs. Rodolf, three sons, and three daughters survive.

HIRAM N. SAGER, ex'81, died suddenly at the Presbyterian hospital in Chicago on October 29, after an illness of two weeks. Mr. Sager was for forty years a member of the Chicago Board of Trade and its president in 1907 and 1908. He was regarded as one of the leaders in the grain trade. Mrs. Sager and three daughters survive.

ELMER E. McDONALD, '83, died on May 30, 1924.

BERTRAM WELTON SIPPY, ex'88, well known for his work on diseases of the stomach and gastro-intestinal tract and as a clinical teacher of marked ability, died suddenly of heart disease, complicating diabetes, at his summer home near Ludington, Mich., August 15. Dr. Sippy was born in Neptune, Wis., October 30, 1866. He attended the University of Wisconsin, 1884-1887, and then went to Rush Medical College, where he received his medical degree in 1890. He served for two years as an intern in the Cook County Hospital, and then was for three years assistant professor of medicine in Rush Medical College. Since 1906, he has been Professor of Medicine in Rush Medical College and the University of Chicago. He was a member of the Association of American Physicians and the American Gastro-Enterological Association, and attending physician at the Presbyterian Hospital and other Chicago institutions. Dr. Sippy was especially well known for his system of treatment of gastric and duodenal ulcers, a method elaborated on the basis of physiologic and chemical studies. He contributed special articles on this condition to periodical literature and to such works as the Oxford and Nelson Systems of Medicine. He was an indefatigable worker, attending a large clientele and giving instruction to numerous students, assistants, and practitioners. During recent years he had devoted much time also to the care of his country estate near Ludington.—From The Journal of the American Medical Association, August 23, 1924.

HARRY W. GOODWIN, '89, Hartland, passed away at Columbia hospital, Milwaukee, on October 13, following a severe illness. Mr. Goodwin has practiced law in Hartland since 1895 and was well known both as attorney and banker. The public library of Hartland was established through his generosity. He is survived by his wife and three children.

NELSON H. FALK, '96, Lake Mills, died on October 31, after a month's illness. Mr. Falk leaves his wife and three children, Philip, '20, Ola, '26, and Adele, '20.

MARY THORP OFFUTT, '96, died on October 4 at Ellwood City, Pa. She is survived by her husband and three children.

ADOLPH PERSHBACHER, ex'00, passed away on October 27, following an illness lasting six months. He leaves his widow and five children.

HARRY E. G. KEMP, '02, Boscobel attorney and former law partner of John J. Blaine, Governor of Wisconsin, passed away at a Madison hospital on November 11. Death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage. Mr. Kemp is survived by his widow and three children.

RICHARD F. SCHOLZ, '02, president of Reed College, died at Portland, Ore., last July, after having undergone three operations. Mr. Scholz held a fine record for scholarship. He completed the ancient classical course in 1902. As a member of Philomatheia he was prominent in debating. He secured his M. A. degree in 1903. After his period at Oxford as Wisconsin's first Rhodes scholar, he received the Ph. D. degree in 1911. He then served as a member of the history faculty; later he joined the history department of the University of California; from there he took the chair of history at the University of Washington, going to Reed College as president in 1921.

In an article entitled "Scholz of Oregon," C. E. Averys says in the October 22 issue of the New Republic: "His death darkened the city. People of all ages and all shades of opinion gathered in memorial services to honor this dear friend. Editors . . . poured out their choicest obituary compliments. The whole atmosphere breathed the passing of a hero. Justly so."

BRUNO NORDBERG, '07, died at his home in Milwaukee on October 30, after an illness of two years' standing. Mr. Nordberg was recognized in the engineering world as one of the foremost inventive geniuses of his time. To his credit there stands a long list of mechanical achievements, prominent among which is the air pressure power system which he devised and installed for the Montana Mines of the Anaconda Copper Company. He was the holder of more than thirty patents for mechanical devices and chemical processes, many of which have proved of great industrial value. The degree of doctor of engineering was conferred upon him in 1923 by the University of Michigan in recognition of his achievements in the field of mechanics.

Mr. Nordberg is survived by his wife and one son.

EDWARD CHARLES, '10, died on February 23, 1923, at his home, 11401 Lothair Ave., Chicago.

LINTON COX JR., '20, met his death in an automobile accident near Indianapolis, Ind., on October 4. Mr. Cox was one of the two students in the history of the University to be awarded an honorary "W" which he had received for four years of earnest work in track. Since his graduation he had been secretary to Congressman Merrill Moores of Indianapolis and was a first lieutenant in the army aviation corps.

RUTH KOPPKE DARNSTAEDT, '22, passed away at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., on October 10. Funeral services were held in Madison. Mrs. Darnstaedt is survived by her husband and her parents.

RUSSELL A. CASTNER, ex'24, died at the Walworth county hospital at Elkhorn on October 13 from internal injuries received when he fell from the top of a tree on an estate near Delavan, where he was doing landscape work. Burial was in Loyal.

ROBERT STEDMAN, ex'25, Sturgeon Bay, lost his life when the lake freighter on which he was making his first trip foundered in a gale on Lake Huron on September 22. The body was not recovered until several weeks after the disaster. Mr. Stedman is survived by his parents and by a sister, Margaret, and brother, John, both freshmen in the University. Burial was at Berlin on October 20.

HERBERT OPITZ, ex'25, Elkhorn, died at the University Infirmary on October 23 following an electric shock received in the engineering laboratory. During an experiment he grasped a knife switch with both hands and the current passed through his body. Mr. Opitz played quarterback and other positions on the team, and was to have left with his teammates for Ann Arbor, Mich., the afternoon of his death.

Reune June 19–22!

"Mrs Powers and I have just returned from a six weeks' absence in the East, and while there, I told our friends to look for us next June, as I had a 'date' with my Alma Mater at that time. Now comes the November number of the ALUMNI MAGAZINE with a call, Reune in June, under every class ending in 0 or 5 except the one of 1860.

"I wonder if any one thought we could be headed off by this! If they did they have another 'think' coming. Our class will be there one hundred per cent strong—just two of us, Parkinson and myself, provided we are alive at that time. Our class may be the smallest but in age it will outrank all the rest.

"It is a long way from Los Angeles to Madison, but the distance will not prevent my attendance.

"Hoping to meet there many 'Reuners,' I am, with personal regards,

Yours very truly,
W. P. POWERS"

"Were I within a few miles of Madison I should certainly have attended the Wisconsin Alumni Association meeting on November 15," writes J. G. TAYLOR from Arlington, Mass. "But the fates are against me, and instead I must inquire what the wild waves are saying. You were wiser in counsel than I could possibly be. During most of my life I have been too far away to drink ambrosia, or, more accurately, nectar with my classmates or my school friends. Alas! they are becoming few—and even the few would be almost as much at home among the Martians. However, we are proud of our University and the push and rush of the younger men who unfurl the sails and hold the tiller.

"Good luck to you all!"

Chapter II—European Travel
Fellow Classmates:

I am reserving most of my lecture on my European experiences for our forty-fifth anniversary reunion in June, 1926. I thought, however, I would tell you of the most important episode that occurred on our trip. Perhaps some of you are financially interested in the same wonderful corporation I am. It is called "The Fatherless Children of France," duly organized under the laws of U. S. A. It was incorporated in 1919. As its name signifies, its purpose is to look after the children of deceased French soldiers. Anything one contributes to the cause is subject to deduction from one's income tax. The resulting cash deduction was not a great boon to this subscriber, but the great mental and moral satisfaction, on seeing the worthy recipients of his bounty, and realizing the vast good that he had done and is still doing, was ample compensation for his generosity.

Payments are made semi-annually, always in francs, and owing to the franc's depreciation the allowance is multiplied four-fold to the orphan. A franc is still a franc to them, and goes as far locally, to pay rent and make purchases, as it ever did. Now comes the episode!

We had never seen our orphan to whom we had acted as foster father for five years, but we had seen her picture, sent us early in the game. Her name was Marcelle Pavie, and she was nine years old when the picture was taken. She lives in Cherbourg. We wrote her we were to land there on August 2, enroute to Paris, that if she would meet us at the boat with her mother we would like to see her. There were six hundred first-class and three hundred second-class passengers who disembarked there. How was she to pick us out? Very easy indeed. I told her to look for a gray-haired man, wearing a brown derby hat, with a white handkerchief tied around his left arm. We were about the last off the boat, owing to misplaced luggage, but Marcelle was there. So was her grandmother, mother, aunt, little brother, and a grandchild, for good measure! They spied us instanter, and were voluble in thanks, in French, mind you, all of which was easy of comprehension by one who could read "Le roman d'un jeune homme pauvre" in 1881.

It was worth the voyage to see how worthy they were and how grateful they seemed. Their mother is a charwoman, meaning, over there, the equivalent of a scrubwoman. She works at odd jobs for the paltry sum of two francs per day, equivalent to eleven cents in our money. The government makes her a small pension allowance. Isn't that a good investment for some money that you would otherwise have to pay for income tax? While our interview was cordial and exciting, I presume the thing that will remain longest in the memory of Marcelle and her little brother was the remnant of twenty-seven pounds of candy, and much fruit besides, sent to us as a bon-voyage by many friends. Months after our seeing her Marcelle wrote that her mother was still dealing out candy to them daily, in small doses, I presume. So that's that!

delegate from the regents at a meeting of the Association of Governing Boards of State Universities and Allied Institutions, held in Chicago on November 10 and 11. Mr. Kronshage spoke at a luncheon meeting of Milwaukee alumnae in October and in his address deplored the lack of interest on the part of the University of Wisconsin alumni in legislative measures affecting the University. "Whenever there are measures affecting the universities of Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, and Minnesota," Mr. Kronshage said, "every one, including former students, farmers, and business men, flock to the legislature. Last year there were only three of us at our state legislature in the interest of appropriations for the University. There's the college of engineering, for instance, awaiting appropriations to build a place for its $100,000 research equipment. Since 1921 it has been trying to get through an adequate appropriation. Pressure from alumni might help, but it never has been brought to bear."

In an article appearing in the Wisconsin State Journal (Madison) of June 1, on the "Bible as a Treasure Mine for the Devoted Reader," Charles Whelan wrote in part as follows:

"No man can thus study this great body of classical literature, builded though it be for religious purposes, without finding a compensation in mental development and cultural reaction which lifts him into a new place among his fellows. If he be already what is termed educated in the common acceptance of that term he will be enriched and refined by the contact. If his opportunities for the attainment of knowledge have been withheld it cannot fail to afford that basis, stimulation, and continued influence which shall best serve to train the mind and thought, quicken the perception and clarify the expression. Gradually through this contact he emerges into a new path, glorified by the light of understanding, perfumed by the flowers of new thoughts, watered by the springs of a new and perfect language.

This book no longer is viewed simply as a citadel of sanctity only to be touched with awe and reverence and held at a distance as having no present day value except from the standpoint of the religious devotee. It becomes a mine into which the mind can dig and bring to itself rich treasures which cannot be stolen or destroyed. It takes shape as a philosopher's stone and, touching the quick of human ills, helps to ameliorate them. It is the sheltered harbor from which the ships of hope for humanity can be sent to all the world and to which they can return to be again freighted with the wondrous message of love, by which alone the world can obtain peace.

Whatever the motive that prompts its careful, sincere, and earnest reading, it stands as the greatest single force in the world for enlightenment, influence, development, and uplift. Whoever reads it with an understanding of the environment of those men who wrote the original words, even as revealed by its own pages, must grow mentally and be influenced in conduct. That man who is thereby saturated by its content and impelled to give expression to its thought finds himself standing among those who are held in the world as educated."

An interesting sketch of Dr. Herbert BOLTON, head of the history department at the University of California, and internationally known as an authority on Spanish American and Western history, appeared in the May California Monthly. The article details the growth of the thought that America's story is more than the unfolding of thirteen English colonies, and rather a story of European—not merely English—expansion in the entire western hemisphere. Intelligent research on Dr. Bolton's part has ended oftentimes in valuable discoveries, which have formed the subject matter of much historical writing. "More prized by Dr. Bolton than any of his discoveries, researches, or writings," concludes the article, "are the men and women whom he has taught in his graduate seminars. These students have been a productive group, and one of Bolton's activities has been that of editor of the university's Publications in History, devoted largely to the writings of his graduate students. . . . He has led a busy life, one full of the enjoyment that comes from constructive scholarship and teaching."

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. IVERSON visited the campus in July en route from a tour through the West. After spending two months among mountains, parks, and canyons they still agreed that they had "failed to find a beauty spot as dear as Madison after all."

Hugh PERKINS, consulting engineer, 2100 1st Ave., Birmingham, Ala., writes: "I wish to make payment in full for my Life Membership in the Alumni Association."

"There is nothing that Americans need to incorporate into their schools as much as character building," said Judge August Hoppmann, speaking before the Eastern Dane County Teachers' Institute in Madison recently. "Teachers . . . have the greatest opportunity and responsibility of instilling into the minds of children the principles for a good, clean, wholesome life. Truthfulness, usefulness, honesty, cleanliness, gentleness, manliness — all these elements of character must be borne in upon the mind of the child during the eight to twelve years that he is in school."

A very interesting article from the pen of Prof. Grant SHOWERMAN appears in the July University of California Chronicle. After a short resumé of his impressions of each of the various countries visited, Dr. Showerman sums up in general as follows: "It is apparent to me . . . that European civilization is much less in confusion than the reading of many reports has made us ready to believe. In spite of the shifting of boundaries after the war, in spite of international suspicion and strife, in spite of disorder in politics, finance, and administration, in spite of actual violence, in spite of all the uncertainties of a Europe still really at war, the actual people seemed to be eating, drinking, smoking, dressing, and amusing themselves much in the same manner and extent as in former years. It is governmental poverty and governmental troubles that are heard from most loudly.

On the whole, I found myself deeply impressed by the essential permanence of the affairs of mankind."

Dr. Showerman then goes on to comment on the darker side of Old World conditions, emphasizing the fact that poverty, ignorance, and the militaristic spirit have become permanent factors in that civilization and as permanent factors America must deal with them: "If America is to help, no manner of aid not permanent will be worthy of the name. . . . If means cannot be contributed without waste, and if men cannot be contributed without assurance that men will not be eternally called for, then other means of helping must be devised. There surely is something that America can do that is neither immediately nor ultimately wasteful. If recent studies are to be trusted, the greatest need at present is aid in the solution of a problem which already confronts all the world but America and at no distant day will rise up before the western world also—the problem of accommodating the increasing needs of the world's increasing population to the world's much more slowly increasing means of support. If America, too, is not to become overpopulated and underfed, and by consequence, selfish, quarrelsome, cynical, pessimistic, and militaristic, like the Old World, it will be through the successful attack of this problem."

Dr. Showerman concludes with a portrayal of a brighter side to Old World conditions. "There are not only the unchanging racial and political animosities, and the unchanging national and individual selfishness; there is also an unchanging devotion to learning, to art, and to religion. . . . The spectator of all this effort and expense for the creation of the new and the preservation of the old, as he listens to music and the drama, as he views the treasures of museum and gallery and church and palace, as he halts before pyramid, temple, and cathedral, as he visits the vast collections of learning in libraries, and witnesses the intellectual effort of great scholastic centers, must conclude that art and the intellectual interest also are among permanent things, that they represent an energy inherent in human nature. In the persistence and permanence of religion, art, and learning, he sees three great stabilizing and preservative influences, and feels a greater hope."

J. H. PERKINS, consulting engineer, 2100 First Avenue, Birmingham, Ala., sent the following for publication:

I am in receipt of a letter—I presume circular in form—from Herman L. Ekern, Director of Finance Committee of the LaFollette-Wheeler National Committee with headquarters at the Morrison Hotel, Chicago, Ill., asking for contributions to the Campaign Fund of that party. The letter not only states that "Wisconsin gains immeasurably in prestige by the Candidacy of LaFollette" but on the bottom of the blank draft enclosed, prints the words "For Old U. W." This literature at least infers that LaFollette has the backing of the U. W. Had such a letter been addressed to me as an individual and without reference to the U. W. I should have consigned it to the waste basket without further comment. I do not deny to any individual, any particular political belief, nor do I care to here air my own political views, but as a graduate of U. W. I do strenuously object to any particular Party sending out Campaign Literature which even infers that such Party has the backing of the U. W. I cannot believe that the Alumni Association or the University authorities have or will sanction such a policy. Do you not agree that the Association should go on record as objecting to this character of Campaign. I am proud of U. W. and being one of its graduates and proud of my native state, but in any discussion connecting LaFollette with the state or the U. W. I must confess I am compelled to remain silent lest my shame become known. Yours for a University—clean from politics.

J. P. RIORDAN, famous guard on Wisconsin's elevens of 1895, 1896, 1897, and 1900, is now in Madison as director of the Agricultural bureau of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' Association. Mr. Riordan recently spoke before the Madison Gyro Club. "The big difference I notice in the crowds these days and in the days when I played football," Mr. Riordan said, "is that there was more enthusiasm then, principally because there were fewer students and smaller crowds. In 1897, when I was captain and Wisconsin had its undefeated and undisputed championship team, there were about 3,500 students enrolled at the University. More than 1,500 went to the Chicago game and most of them had barely enough money for a railroad ticket. They just trusted to the fortunes of war for the rest."—Earl Chapin MAY, who organized the University's first official band, had an article in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post entitled "The Silver Cornet Band." As a result of the special recognition given Wisconsin's organization, Major Morphy has received many inquiries from every section of the country requesting information concerning the band, its methods of administration, formation, and instrumentation.—"Factory methods" of instruction, resulting only in "quantity production" of graduates were deplored by Prof. Max MASON before a group of Wisconsin alumnae in Milwaukee recently. "It seems to me we are doing very little with the four years of the lives of the boys and girls who come to us," he said. "Yet this isn't a problem for the faculty alone to solve, but for all interested in the welfare of education. Under the present system, a youth goes from school into the world with his mind groping in a maze of fantastic theory, absorbed through the mechanical lectures and examinations of his school. If lucky, he will bump into actual experiences and gradually acclimate himself to actual life. If not, he will probably drift back into the pedagogical profession to carry on the futile work of his teachers." Helen WEST Chamberlain, '91, presided at the meeting.

Among those who played an important part in the relief work following the Castle Gate, Utah, mine disaster, in which 171 men were killed, was H. T. PLUMB. He established communication with those who were risking their lives in the wrecked mine and kept a sort of general store where the rescue workers were supplied with dry clothing, lamps, and necessary supplies. His work did much toward keeping up the morale of the men. Mr. Plumb had much praise for the work of all who assisted in the rescue work. "I witnessed many acts of unselfish bravery and courage, but mostly a vast blur of fortitude and grief borne in patient silence," he said.—Clinton PRICE, Mauston, was elected by unanimous vote commander of the United Spanish War Veterans for the department of Wisconsin for the ensuing year at a recent meeting of the organization.

Herman SACTJEN, candidate for member of the assembly from the city of Madison and candidate for speaker of the next assembly, defeated his opponent by nearly 5,000 votes on November 4.

Frederick Walter Ives—The Man of Vision

The altogether unnecessary wreck which occurred on the Burlington Railroad in Buda, Illinois, on June 30, 1924, was a disastrous one for educational circles. Several outstanding men in engineering education lost their lives at that time. Among them was Frederick Walter Ives, a brilliant and successful alumnus of the University of Wisconsin. The University has every reason to feel proud of the record made by Professor Ives since his graduation in 1909, for it is such men as he that have brought to the University the prestige that it so richly enjoys.

It seems fitting at this time that there should be presented to the readers of this MAGAZINE the following minutes of the faculty of the College of Agriculture of the Ohio State University, with which Professor Ives was so long connected and where he was so greatly loved and appreciated.

Professor Frederick W. Ives was born in Wisconsin in 1884. Deprived at an early age of the love and guidance of his mother, he was reared to young manhood by an aunt. Though handicapped by such a start in life, and though thrown largely on his own resources, his ambition, persistence and great courage carried him through graduation from the University of Wisconsin in 1909. He served there as a student assistant and instructor for one year in the Department of Mechanical Engineering.

In 1919 he was brought to the Ohio State University as an instructor in Engineering Drawing. While serving in that capacity his work and worth came to the attention of the College of Agriculture, and in 1914 he was made Assistant Professor of Agricultural Engineering in charge of Farm Structures. He entered into his new work with enthusiasm and understanding. He was very soon recognized as an authority and a leader in his field. In 1920 he was made head of the department, in which position he served five years.

His thorough fundamental training in the science of engineering, combined with his knowledge and appreciation of rural problems soon brought him national recognition. In collaboration with Prof. Thomas E. French he wrote a textbook on "Agricultural Drafting and the Design of Farm Structures," the first of its kind, which has found wide use in many institutions.

For several years he served as contributing editor for the Ohio Farmer. He was also corresponding editor on the staff of Farm and Fireside. He made frequent and valuable contributions to these farm journals. In addition he supplied various technical articles to the Journal of American Society of Agricultural Engineers. In June of this year he was made President of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers at their annual meeting in Lincoln, Nebraska. This honor was national recognition of leadership in his profession. He was a member of the American Society for the promotion of Engineering Education. It was while returning from the annual meeting of this society that the accident which resulted in his death befell him. He was also a member of the Engineers' Club of Columbus and of the Society of Sigma Xi.

At the time of his death he was architect for the Presbyterian home at Sidney, Ohio. He had developed extensive plans for this home, a part of which under his immediate supervision is now under construction. He had also about completed the manuscript for a 400-page textbook on Farm Buildings.

As a teacher he was devoted to his work. His obligations to his students he considered sacred and nothing kept him from keeping his appointments with them. A strict disciplinarian in classroom and laboratory, his students loved and respected him for the ideals and standards which he impressed upon them. In the face of impaired health during the last few years he maintained a capacity for work surprising even those who knew him best. He never refused a task in the line of duty, and once undertaken, his obligations were met with promptness and efficiency.

His interests extended beyond the field of professional duty. He was staunch in his support of athletics at the University. He was chairman of the Board of Advisors of the University Y. M. C. A. He was a member of University Lodge No. 631, F. & A. M., and York Chapter and Council. He was also a member of the University Grange No. 1620, Patrons of Husbandry. He designed and built with his own hands the home in which he lived. The group of new barns on the University farm will stand as a lasting memorial to him and to his genius in designing farm buildings. He was a devoted husband and father, and a companion to his wife and children. His home life was ideal.

His passing leaves a vacancy which none can fill. The profession of Agricultural Engineering has lost a champion and an undisputed leader. He had not a superior in his profession. The college has lost a teacher, and his students and associates a friend of more than common worth. His broad, ambitious plans for the development of his department have been cut short just on the eve of realization. Clouds which have hovered over his life from time to time were just lifting, and before him spread a field of utmost usefulness, his lifework really just begun.—By Alfred VIVIAN, '94, Dean O. S. C. of A.

Well, it was a long ripvanwinkalian sleep for ye ed.—so long and profound that he didn't wake up to the fact that the November edition of this here MAGAZINE was going to press. And consequently you saved yourself the reading of the Nynteen-ten gore sheet and what's still more good is that we didn't have to write nothing. And that being that, we now proceed to fill space—and may the good angels be with us to guide a faltering and unpracticed hand.

'Tis of course known by all who live on this earthly sphere that we, the Grand and Glorious Class of Nynteen-ten—the which hath no equal sith time began—will accumulate ourselves in reunion next June. And may it be said when history is writ that not a single Nynteen-tenner was absent—nor any married one either. Great things are brewing for this greatest of all affairs. We aren't going to be satisfied with just an ordinary reunion. It must be the best that ever happened at Wisconsin, and that's going some when you consider the other two Nynnteenen get-togethers. So make the allowance in your 1925 budget. More will be said next time, but all can never be told for words are too weak.

Clara TAYLOR, who is director of Bryn Mawr summer school for industrial girls, gave a talk at the Madison Y. W. C. A. recently. One hundred working girls from all parts of the country and representing twenty-two trades received education in fundamental and economic problems and higher culture. That's doing your stuff, Clara! You've got us doing it here at Wisconsin now. Eight Madison working girls were given scholarships to attend the session here this summer.—John CURTIS, that beau brummel of undergrad days, is handling the advertising work of the J. N. Collins Company, candy manufacturers at 514 Third St., N., Minneapolis, Minn. We know he's doing a good job of it. He promises a five-pound box of his candy free to every Nynnteenen girl attending the reunion in June.

Yes, we have another recruit to the Alumni Association. None other than M. CHAO—and how he could have kept away so long, well, we just don't know. But now he's in the fold and he's going to ricochet himself to the great reunion in June. He's sticking around at 2312-19th St., N. W., Washington, D.C.—R. W. ELLIS now lives at 904 W. Silver Ave., Albuquerque, N. Mexico. Yes, they voted for Coolidge down there also.—A. J. KING, all of you remember him—well, he is with the Nitrate Agencies Company, P. O. Box 2189, Havana, Cuba. Cuba is that moist Island to the south where they raise sugar, take a drink and then raise cane. That's a nice new joke now being released for the first time, A. J. Punsters, please copy.

We've got another joke told by one of the gang, but it'll have to wait until next issue. Can't have our little pun competed with, you know, and besides that we've forgotten the joke—so there. And then again, we have to be careful about mentioning the same names too often. One guy actually had the affrontery to ask us not to mention his name again until he's elected president. If he fails to send in a contribution for next month he's going to have his name splattered quite over the page and all the gods and buddhas can't stop it.

This is Nynnteenen broadcasting from Station WHAM (skizzle). Signing off at 10:30. Happy dreams to you all.

Feger, '19, in the August, 1924, issue of the ALUMNI MAGAZINE. Mr. Feger seems surprised that I should try to correct an error of Miss Kelman through the pages of our magazine. I can quite see that the journal is not a suitable place to debate at length questions of social and religious changes in India, but is surely fair that as much space should be given to one side as the other, and permitting me to write as I did in the May issue but exhibits fair play.

"I shall not enter into any controversial points, but as Mr. Ferger wants to know more of my experience in India, I may tell him that my acquaintance with India, Burma, and Ceylon dates back twenty years, and includes years of intimate life with the most cultured Hindus and Buddhists. I have lived in the household of caste Brahmins, and have many facilities of knowing what the Indian people feel about Christianity in relation to Hinduism. All this gives me some insight into the matter and enables me to know very definitely that Hinduism will absorb the idea of the Christ as an incarnation of God, as it has previously absorbed the Buddha under the same concept. Ordinary orthodox missionary Christianity will never be more than a tiny ripple on the sea of Indian philosophy, touching its bottomless depths with a beautiful but momentary light.

"Perhaps you can give me space to say that much, and to assure Mr. Ferger that I appreciate fully the spirit of service and self-sacrifice that animates himself and his colleagues, though I know perfectly what small result that will have when the story is finally told."

President Birge Invites His Classmates of 1915 to 10th Reunion

OCTOBER 29, 1924.

MY DEAR MR. FOSTER:

YOUR LETTER REMINDS ME OF MY MEMBERSHIP WITH THE CLASS OF 1915—QUITE UNNECESSARILY, SINCE I SHALL NEVER FORGET THE COMMENCEMENT OF THAT YEAR OR THE HONOR WHICH THE UNIVERSITY GAVE ME.

I SHALL BE VERY GLAD TO MEET THE MEMBERS AND TO CELEBRATE WITH THEM OUR TENTH ANNIVERSARY. SO I SHALL HOPE TO GREET THEM ALL AT COMMENCEMENT NOT ONLY AS ALUMNI FROM THE DECENNIAL CLASS, BUT ALSO AS, IN A PECULIAR SENSE, MY OWN CLASSMATES.

VERY CORDIALLY YOURS,
(SIGNED) E. A. BIRGE, PRES.

Who can resist this invitation from President Birge to his own classmates?

The five-year reunion in 1920 broke all records. Ask those who were back then about the good time they had. They'll all tell you why you should be back next June.

You as a Fiftener have the unusual opportunity of being welcomed as a classmate by the President of the University, because President Birge received his LL.D. in 1915.

The only platform we issue for next June is: "And a good time was had by all."

And right now when Santa Claus is creeping upon so many happy '15 homes, take your 1925 calendar, turn to the page for the month of June, and write there in a bold legible hand the words:

"10th Reunion—June 19-22."

Thanks, I knew you would do it.

Sincerely yours,
Bill FOSTER.

A portrait of the late Lieut. Paton MACGILVARY, adjutant of the combat division, American air service in Italy, is on exhibition in the World War history room of the State Historical Library. The portrait was painted by Paton MacGilvary's uncle, Norwood MacGilvary, professor of art in the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa. It represents Paton MacGilvary as just returning from an air raid on the Italian front; behind him is his Caproni, and in the distance are seen the outlines of the foothills of the Italian Alps. A group of aviators, Italian and American, stand in the foreground, ready to get his account of the flight. Mr. MacGilvary served in Italy from the fall of 1917, being a flying officer in the aviation training camp at Foggia, and then commandant of the American contingent in that camp. He went to the front in June, 1918, where he remained until the armistice, taking part in thirty or forty bombing raids, and receiving three medals and many citations from the Italian government. The portrait is intended by his parents as a donation to the Wisconsin Memorial building, where it is hoped that it will be permanently hung when the building is erected.—Irving JONES is assistant professor of music in the general extension division of the University of Minnesota.

FACULTY NOTES

Laurence POWELL, English writer and composer, has been engaged by the University of Wisconsin School of Music. He will teach courses in harmony, counterpoint, and history of music. Formerly a music critic of the Boston Transcript, Mr. Powell's writings have appeared in both English and American newspapers and magazines. He was also engaged as lecturer during the past year by the Boston Public Library and Wellesley college. In England Mr. Powell has won a number of distinctions as a song and pianoforte composer. He won first prize for pianoforte composition at the Midland Competition Festival of 1920. In the same competition he also won three honors for theory and at a later festival first prize for orchestral conducting. Mr. Powell began his career as a composer almost as soon as he entered school. After attending the University of Birmingham as pupil of Granville Bantock, the noted British composer, he received the degree of Bachelor of Music in 1922. He also was graduated from the Birmingham School of Music, and was the winner of the Martineau medal as the best student of theory. During the war he was a member of the Honorable Artillery company, which is the oldest regiment in the British army, and of the Royal Flying corps.

"The Ride of the Night Clouds" is Mr. Powell's best known composition for the piano. "Phacelia" is another. He has also written a number of orchestral compositions, including "The Orge of the Northern Fastness," a three movement orchestral suite, and "The Celtic Legend." Two of his cantatas for children have become popular in England, "Jack the Giant Killer" and "Lochinvar."

Dr. and Mrs. Smiley BLANTON left for Minneapolis on September 25, where Dr. Blanton is head of the Child Guidance Clinic. He will also be associated with the University of Minnesota. Dr. Blanton has been granted a leave of absence from Wisconsin.

"Criminology and Penology" is the title of a new book being written by Prof. J. L. GILLIN of the department of sociology. It will be published as part of the Social Science series of the Century Publishing Company and will appear early in 1925. It is designed for use in the classroom.

A new portrait of President BIRGE by Merton Grenhagen of Milwaukee has just been completed and will soon be hung in Bascom Hall. The picture, showing him in a characteristic pose in his doctor's robe with glasses in hand, was painted from real life. The sittings were taken in Lathrop Hall. Mr. Grenhagen has likewise just completed a portrait of Prof. L. R. JONES of the College of Agriculture which will be hung in Agricultural Hall. Among other portraits of eminent college professors which Mr. Greenhagen has painted is that of the late Prof. J. G. D. MACK, state engineer and former faculty member.

Leon J. COLE, head of the genetics department of the College of Agriculture, has returned after a year's leave of absence. Mr. Cole, as chief of the animal husbandry division of the U. S. department of agriculture, directed work that was being undertaken in all parts of the country to develop and improve American live stock production.

Prof. A. H. EDGERTON, Columbia University, has been appointed professor of industrial education to succeed Professor Ira S. GRIFFITHS, who died last spring. Professor Edgerton is the author of several texts and magazine articles in his field and has had twelve years' experience in the various industries.

"Changes in the Size of American Families in One Generation" is the title of a monograph just issued as No. 10 in the series of University of Wisconsin Studies. It is the work of Prof. Ray E. Baber, of the University of Illinois, and Prof. E. A. Ross, of this University, assisted by Jeanette HALVERSON, '23, also of the sociology department.

Robert WEST, of the speech department, is the author of a book just published by the MacMillan Company, New York, entitled "Purposive Speaking." Professor WEST, '20, has been appointed successor to Prof. Smiley BLANTON, associate professor of speech hygiene, who accepted a position with the University of Minnesota at the opening of the present school term. Professor West will have charge of the speech correction clinic.

Prof. Arnold B. HALL of the department of political science has been re-elected president, for a third year, of the National conference on the Science of Politics.

A chronological record of the scientific contributions of Prof. Frederick Belding POWER, first professor of pharmacy at the University, under the title "A Half Century of Research in Plant Chemistry," has been received by Prof. Edward KREMERS, director of the course in pharmacy at the present time.

A new edition of the case book on "Law of Private Corporations" has just been completed by Prof. H. S. RICHARDS, dean of the law school. It is published by the West Publishing Co. of St. Paul in the American Case Book series.

Herbert P. STOTHART, formerly of the Music School faculty, is joint composer of the music of "Rose Marie," leading musical comedy success of the season in New York.

Prof. E. A. ROSS of the sociology department has spent several months in Portuguese, West Africa, studying conditions there. He left Cape Town on October 3 for India, where he will study the question of Indian nationalism. In Portuguese Professor Ross was interested in the systems of compulsory labor among the natives.

OTHER UNIVERSITIES

By action of the board of directors of the Ohio State University Association, Ohio State men and women the country over are summoned to meet together for the fourteenth annual observance of "Ohio State Day," to be celebrated this year on Friday, December 5, 1924.—O. S. U. Monthly.

Those who revel in criticising the University and its policies are frequently more steeped in gossip than in facts, and their criticism is chiefly destructive. Criticism, we are often told, is valueless without its constructive aspects.—Minnesota A. W.

The Alumni Association of Michigan now owns and operates the Alumni Press.

CAMPUS NOTES

The University Club will soon be ready to accommodate additional guests. Construction has been under way since the middle of the summer. The club is modeled on the English style; the porch of the second story is a replica of the porch of a famous English country home. Thirty-five new guest rooms have been added, most of which have private baths and some have fireplaces. There is a rest room for women and retiring room, special committee rooms, and dining rooms for special occasions.

Seven law clubs have been organized in the law school. Each club has taken the name of a faculty member and consists of eight first-year law students and one junior or senior, who will act as chief justice of the club.

Engineering is the most popular study among the 80 prisoners in Waupun penitentiary who studied under the University extension division this year.

The W. A. A. Cottage is now assured, because of an additional $600 voted to the building fund by the Women's Athletic Association recently. Ground will soon be broken. H. C. Huart, architect, will supervise the entire work of building. The cottage is to be a fairly large structure with a large porch. The living room with its big stone fireplace, its comfortable window seats, bookcases, and candle light will be furnished in English style.

The new concrete stadium now has a seating capacity of 35,000. At completion it will hold 72,000. Some twenty-four additional rows and an upper deck of seats are still to be added before it is finished, according to Coach T. E. Jones.

The names of 121 professors and administrative officers of the University appear in the new "Who's Who in America" for 1924-1925.

The loan funds available in the University were made use of by 450 students during the past year. More than $25,000 is included in the various funds, which consist of the university trust funds, only the income of which is loaned, and of smaller funds which are loaned in toto.

No new concrete stands will be added to the stadium this year, according to Prof. T. E. Jones, director of physical education. The only improvement that will be made is the grading of the field south of the varsity field. The ornamental iron fence that is to run along Breeze Terrace and Monroe Street will not be put up until next year.

Industrial firms in seventeen states sent forty-one students to enroll in the fall group of instructional courses which started at the Forest Products laboratory in September.

Clarence Darrow, Chicago criminal lawyer and defense attorney in the Leopold-Loeb trial, spoke in Madison on November 13 on "Crime, Its Causes and Treatment."

Artificial sunlight in the form of ultraviolet rays, as an aid in the cure of tuberculosis, pyorrhea, sinus trouble, skin diseases, is being administered at Bradley Hospital by Dr. J. C. Elsom of the physical education department, who is in charge of the heliotherapy work. From four to six o'clock every day the clinic provides artificial sunlight for the benefit of university students.

The naval aviation class, a new course given in conjunction with the local naval reserve unit, has accepted fifteen students. The course will lead to commission as ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve force, Class 5 (aviation). Among fifty-five applicants only fifteen were pronounced capable of entering the course. The successful completion of the course entitles the students to forty-five days' training at the naval air station at Great Lakes, Ill.

Two new graduate scholarships of $500 each for study in urban land economics at the University have been assigned for the first time this year from the Henry Strong Education fund. Marcus Whitman, '24, and Rosalind Tough, '24, the recipients of the scholarships, will spend part of their time in research and the rest in further university courses in land economics.

Preliminary sketches for the first unit of the proposed men's dormitories, to be constructed along the shore of Lake Mendota, are now being made by the state architect's office. From 200 to 300 men are to be accommodated in this unit. A means of financing these buildings by non-profit corporation was provided for by the last legislature, and the buildings may be started within the next year, according to Arthur Peabody, state architect. "The plan most favored at present is a three story building with the wings of four stories in the shape of a letter U," said Mr. Peabody. Two kinds of bonds will be issued by the corporation, "A" bonds, bearing interest, will be sold to private investors; "B" bonds will be purchased by the university out of surpluses from the operation of the university. When completed the buildings will be rented to the university and operated by it. Any profits realized will be used to retire "A" bonds, so that eventually the buildings will pass to the possession of the University.

Jason Rogers, former publisher of the New York Globe, spoke to students of the course in Journalism in October during a two-day visit to the University. During his forty-six years of newspaper work, Mr. Rogers has become widely known among newspaper and advertising men because of his many addresses before various associations, his books on newspaper publishing, and the many ideas that he has initiated.
