Governor Talks to High School Stock Judges

Zimmerman Tells Students to Develop Both Mind and Body

"So live that you may develop strong bodies, and strong minds, that will be able to carry on the work of the world," Governor Fred E. Zimmerman admonished a building full of high school boys and girls at the banquet of the annual High School Stock Judging teams held in the gymnasium annex last evening.

The annex was full. More than 800 prospective Wisconsin students were present at the banquet—the largest of all their large annual events.

Cheer Speakers

They were all enthusiastic. They cheered the speakers; they cheered the singers; they gave skyrockets with a skill that belied the fact that they were not Wisconsin students.

Proceeding Governor Zimmerman, Dean H. L. Russell, of the College of Agriculture, gave a short talk. Arlie Mucks, secretary of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association, and former "big man" of the university, compared athletics and life in general.

Winners Announced

Other speakers were George Hambricht, state director of vocational education, W. A. Duffy, commissioner of agriculture, and Prof. J. G. Fuller of the animal husbandry department of the College of Agriculture.

Winners of the singing contests held yesterday afternoon were announced by Dean J. A. James, of the Agricultural college, who presided.

Oshkosh First

Oshkosh won first, Omro second, Sevestopol third, and River Falls fourth. The Oshkosh team was presented with a silver cup, to be known as the Walter Pocock Park Hotel trophy, donated by Mr. Pocock, manager of the hotel.

Governor Zimmerman in his talk sketched the improvements in agriculture, the improvement in grains and vegetables, and the improvements in live stock. He warned that we should not be content with improving grains and live stock, but that we should improve ourselves.

Lauds Wisconsin

"You must build a strong manhood, and a strong womanhood, that will be able to carry the burdens of the future."

The program for today calls for the announcement of the winners of the judging contests in an assembly at Agriculture hall at 11 o'clock. In the afternoon, the entire group will lend their enthusiasm to the other thousands who will be shouting for Wisconsin against Purdue.

Gillen Talks on Color Wood-Cuts

Actual Work of Walter Phillips in Museum Gallery Used as Illustrations

The technique of the color wood-cut with special reference to the work of Walter J. Phillips was the subject of a talk given by Prof. C. F. Gillen at the museum gallery, library building, Thursday afternoon. The talk was illustrated by the exhibition of Mr. Phillips' work which is being shown by the Madison Art association.

"Mr. Phillips' work is among the best in the world today," said Prof. Gillen, who was present at Phillips' first experiments in this delicate art. He explained the method of preparing the cartoon of the picture, the tracing for the key-block, the transfer of the tracing, and the successive impressions in line taken from the key-block for the various color-blocks.

The method of cutting, shading, and softening of line and dissemination of color were explained, and the set of blocks carved from cherry-wood from which Phillips printed his "The Fisherman" were shown to supplement the remarks of the speaker.

Prof. Gillen dwelt upon the kinds of wood used by the chromoxylographist and the specific results in texture resulting from each. The very important matter of "registration" and the schemes devised by Phillips to obtain technical accuracy were pointed out.

Memorial Union Benefit Dance Is Attended by More Than 600

Several thousand bricks were added to the Wisconsin Memorial Union building last night as Joe Shoer's Parkway theater orchestra played for more than 300 couples who danced in the Crystall ballroom at the Loraine hotel. It was the first all university function of the year, and the second annual Memorial Union benefit dance.

The dance was off to a brilliant start at 9:30 o'clock when smiling Joe and his band arrived after playing at the second show at the Parkway theater.

Many couples drifted into the ballroom after the official count was made and as the crowd grew larger Shore's music became more persuasive. The huge crystal chandeliers of the new ballroom shed a luxurious glow on the couples dancing beneath. The Italian marble floors, the pillared walls and the octagonal mosaic effect on the ceiling lent dignity and impressiveness to the occasion.

Through the co-operation of many local concerns every cent taken in at the dance went directly into the building fund of the Memorial Union. The beautiful ballroom of the Loraine hotel was secured free of charge through the courtesy of the management. Appreciation is also due the Democrat Printing company and the Daily Cardinal.

The dance was stopped for a few moments at 11 o'clock when a "beat Purdue" rally was held. The ballroom echoed to "On Wisconsin" and the old skyrocket for minutes after the noise had been made.

Chaperones for the Memorial Union dance which closed at 1 o'clock were: Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Holt, and Mr. and Mrs. Bart E. McCormick.

The octagonal mosaic effect on the ceiling lent dignity and impressiveness to the occasion.

As the last of the petitions for student elections appeared at Dean Goodnight's office, it developed that Willard Momsen was elected to the coveted office of prom chairman by default as no other petitions for this office were filed, and Momsen has been declared eligible.

The last minute rush of petitions brought to light a possible race in the freshman class for the positions of president and treasurer. A new candidate also appeared on the senior ticket as a nominee for secretary; all three are independents.

Two Freshmen, One Senior Enter Race on Last Day

BY R. F. G.

As the last of the petitions for student elections appeared at Dean Goodnight's office, it developed that Willard Momsen was elected to the coveted office of prom chairman by default as no other petitions for this office were filed, and Momsen has been declared eligible.

The last minute rush of petitions brought to light a possible race in the freshman class for the positions of president and treasurer. A new candidate also appeared on the senior ticket as a nominee for secretary; all three are independents.

Eligibility Unchecked

This same last minute rush has slowed up the work of the dean's office in checking up on the eligibility of the candidates.

The rest of the nominees for student offices are practically the same as announced in previous editions of the Daily Cardinal but they will not be official until the eligibility of all the candidates is checked up in Dean Goodnight's office.

Senior Nominees

The petitions filed for the senior class offices include:

Two Soph Parties

The sophomore petitions bear the names of:

Joseph Lucas and Addison Mueller, president; Dorothy Holt and Emily Hurd, vice-president; Janet Smith and Doris Zimmerman, secretary; Pat Lee Mohardt and Monroe Putnam, treasurer; and Robert Kaudy and Edgar Ziese, sergeant at arms.

The list of freshman candidates is:

Arthur Brandt and Ted Berner, president; Alice Rockwood, vice-president; Harriet Hobbins, secretary; Robert Levin and William Newman, treasurer; and Walter Karsten, sergeant at arms.

A surprisingly large number of offices went by default, for fully a third of the class officers were uncontested, and unless these lone candidates are found ineligible they will assume the positions without the worry or a campaign.

DAILY CARDINAL STAFF

There will be a meeting of all reporters at 4:30 o'clock Monday in the Daily Cardinal office. Those unable to attend phone Idabel Sine, woman's editor. The meeting will be short.

FOREIGN STUDENTS PLAN YEAR'S WORK

About 75 foreign students, members of the International club, gathered in the Cabinet room of the University Y. M. C. A. last night to elect officers for the ensuing year, to lay plans for a Hallowe'en party, and to drink cider and eat doughnuts.

Norman P. Neale, a graduate student from New Zealand was chosen president, and Todor Dobrovsky '27, Bulgaria, vice president. Mary Hoebel '30 will continue as secretary.

An invitation was extended to the International club by Mr. John Donald, Madison, in behalf of the Friends of Our Native Landscape club to participate in a trip Oct. 29 to Gibraltor Rock, 30 miles north of Madison on the Wisconsin river.

A Hallowe'en party for Oct. 28 was announced.

Guinea Pig, Dorm Mascot, Foils Champion Hog-caller

It was at a touch football game at Intramural field, and our correspondent, while passing by, noticed Lymie More and Fritz Gutheim, whom he happens to know. Our correspondent walked over to them.

"Hello," said our correspondent, meaning that he wished to say hello to them.

"Hello," said Mr. More quickly. Mr. More is the famous assurer of fresh political meetings and can think up things like that on the spur of the minute.

"Do you see what we have here?" asked Mr. Gutheim, and the correspondent looked and saw what they had there, and it was a guinea pig.

"A guinea pig?" exclaimed our correspondent. "I love animals. So bossy!"

The guinea paid not the slightest attention, being much more engrossed in being a guinea pig.

"I won a hog calling contest once," said our correspondent, "But this pig doesn't seem to know the language." And he kicked the pig with his left foot.

"I bet you can't guess what this is the mascot of," said Mr. More.

"These here guinea pigs," started Mr. Gutheim.

"This here," corrected Mr. More.

"This here guinea pig," said Mr. Gutheim, "is the mascot of Section C of the Experimental college of the University of Wisconsin. We were going to get two and call one of them Damon and the other Dame two, but we could only get one so we didn't and his name is Michael but we call him Fred. He is going to attend all our games as our mascot and we have a bodyguard organized so no other section can get near him and hold him up by the tail so his eyes will drop out. And if you don't like it you know what you can do."

Our correspondent was about to ask for further details about what he could do, but just then somebody came up and offered the guinea pig a subscription to Lit. The pig fainted, and Mr. More & Mr. Gutheim attempted to revive him, leaving the correspondent to follow his own thoughts, which was an easy job.

Air Attack is Purdue Plan to Down Cardinal

Thistlethwaite's Men Will Also Resort to Overhead Tactics Today

BY DAN ALBRECHT

Wisconsin's football team awoke from peaceful dreams this morning to discover that somebody back there had arranged a very pressing blind date which it must fill this afternoon. The lady in question is Miss Lulu Purdue, a vampish young belle from the banks of the Wabash, whose sinuous wiles have already lured two athletic gents, little Don Depauw and big Harley Harvard, to an early grave.

Despite the known disadvantage of all blind dates, Capt. Edwin Crofoot announced very firmly last evening that Wisconsin positively would go through with it.

Look for Fireworks

Considered from the angle of what might happen, today's engagement, scheduled for 2 o'clock at Camp Randall stadium, has numerous and quite unlimited possibilities. The hardy young Hoosiers who represent Purdue athletically arrived in Madison early yesterday morning, little the worse for a grueling all-night battle with Mr. Northwestern's railway line. They indulged in the customary get-acquainted program at Randall last evening and announced a very willing willingness afterward to come forth and show Wisconsin how lucky Chicago was last week.

Squads Healthy

Except for the continued incapacity of Chester "Cotton" Wilcox, Leon Hutton, and Tony Leichtle, the Boermaker squad is in good condition for the game today. The same may be said even more truthfully of Wisconsin's squad, for the Badgers have been taking no chances this week and every man is ready for action.

While most of the wholesale dealers in sporting rhetoric are directing their attention to the Michigan-Ohio State, Northwestern-Illinois and Minnesota-Iowa imbroglios, they are keeping a wary eye cocked toward Madison, for both Purdue and Wisconsin remain almost unmeasured with regard to the rest of the Big Ten elevens.

Seek Reserve Strength

Wisconsin practice sessions this week have been given over to the development of fresh talent, some of which may have its big chance in today's game. Though the starting line-up is expected to be almost what it was last week, many substitutions (Continued on Page Three)

Homecoming Button Competition to Close Wednesday, October 26

A contest for design for Homecoming buttons will begin Monday morning according to an announcement made yesterday by Jean Dropers '29, and Theron Pray '29, co-chairmen of the button committee, and will close at 6 o'clock Wednesday, Oct. 26. All those desiring to enter designs must have them in by that time.

A prize of $3 will be given the design which is accepted for the buttons. All designs are to be judged by the two chairmen, Don Abert '28, John Bergstresser '25, and an instructor in the art department. There will be a drawing in case of a tie in the decision.

The drawings may be left in any of the Octopus boxes which can be found in the buildings on the campus. Designs in more than two colors, white not being considered a color, will not be accepted. All the contestants must be sure that their names are placed on the copy. Several good designs have been submitted already, but the committee in charge wishes as large assortments as possible to choose from.

Every year a new original design is placed on the buttons which are sold everywhere on the campus and in the organized houses for a small sum. The selling of these buttons is one of the most important ways of raising money for the financing of the entire Homecoming project. The wearer of the Homecoming button reveals the fact that he has given his support in making this important event a success.

GILLEN, VASILIEV GIVE MILWAUKEE CONCERT

Prof. C. F. Gillen and Prof. A. A. Vasiliiev will go to Milwaukee this week-end to present before the American Association of College Women the same program they gave here a week ago. The main number of the program will be "Leaves from the Diary of a Dead Artist," a poem by Turgenev with a musical setting by Prof. Vasiliiev.

NEW MEMBERS ADDED TO PRODUCTION STAFF

Announcements of the members of the production staff of the Wisconsin players were made Thursday.

Jay H. Forrester, production manager; Herbert Schwann, stage manager; Harold Edwards, property manager; Mary D. Vary, assistant property manager; Dorothy Holt, assistant property manager; Harold Krause, stage carpenter; Don Easton, scenery manager, and George Adams, electrician, are the new members.

Aid Bureau Now in New Quarters

Business Outgrows old Administration Building Offices

The new offices of the student employment agency, which are now moved from the Administration building to the second floor of the Alumni building on State street, have many improvements which will facilitate the work of the agency. The offices consist of a large waiting room and office for Miss Alice V. King, who has been in charge of the office since its establishment Feb. 1, 1925.

The growing business could not be handled in the old quarters. Each year shows an increase in the number of students who apply for work, and in the number of employers who phone for student help. By Oct. 17, 1925, 615 men and 340 women had asked for work. The next year by the same date 750 men and 340 women had reported, and on Oct. 17 of this year it was found that 880 men and 325 women, or about 13 percent of the student body had applied.

Most of the employers who call ask for a student who has had experience, and whose work can be guaranteed. The student who does the work best is always sent for the place, and the office also tries to assist first those who most need help.

From February to August, 1925, 500 employers called asking for students to work for them; from September, 1925 to August, 1926, 2,450 employers called, and from September 1926 to August 1927, 2,800 employers called.

Many of the men wish to work for their meals, and the women wish to do office work and care for children. Miss King says that meal-job-seekers are the most plentiful, and that the office could fill 300 such positions immediately.

Student Worker's League Gains Universal Aspect

In order to learn of the purposes and organization of the Wisconsin Student Workers' league, Vox Studentium, an open forum magazine published in Geneva and circulated among 40 nations requested Prof. H. M. Groves of the economics department to prepare an article on this subject. "In view of the great activity in industrial undertakings on the part of European students, information about this union would be a most interesting contribution to this magazine", read the letter.

Countries like Austria, where labor groups strongly oppose student participation in industry, will be most interested to read of a definite claim being made upon industry by an organized student body."

No Matter How Much You Learn

You know only so much as you remember. Your mind will obey you just in proportion to the requirements you place upon it if you give it a chance. You can always remember if you train your mind to serve you when and as you want it to serve. You can think and talk better and clearer with training that will take but a few minutes of your time. Prof. M. V. Atwood, formerly of the N. Y. College of Agriculture at Ithaca, now Editor of Utica Herald-Dispatch wrote: "I have all memory courses and yours is best of 'em. You owe it to the public to publish it in book form." In response to this and other demands this course has been issued in a handy little volume to fit your pocket and the cost is but three dollars postpaid until December, when five dollars will be the price.

PROF. SHELDON CLAIMS PAPERS MISQUOTE HIM

Prof. William H. Sheldon Friday declared that he had been misrepresented by the newspapers which quoted him as urging girls to smoke, wear short skirts, and generally defy conventions.

"It would be just as anti-social for me to urge such things as that as it is for the horde of reformers to command them to do the opposite," Prof. Sheldon declared.

"I did say," he explained, "that students are justified in resenting the interference of reformers and that it is up to the students to direct their own courses. If this independence of mind takes the form of determining to smoke, that is the students' problem."

PROF. UHL WRITES EDUCATION BOOKS

Two new books by Prof. Willis L. Uhl of the School of Education are "Secondary School Curricula," and "The Uhl-Hatz Practice Lessons in English."

"Secondary School Education", published in July by the Macmillan company, was written for the purpose of providing a comprehensive and critical analysis of secondary school curricula. The book is divided into six parts, parts one and two presenting a general history and criticism of curricular practices, parts three, four and five dealing with the importance of the sociological approach to curricular making, and part six outlining the forms of curricula reconstruction as they are to-day.

"The Uhl-Hatz Practice Lessons in English", written in collaboration with L. E. Hatz of Milwaukee, includes a set of practice lessons in English for use in both grade school and junior high school classes. The lessons are based on the test-study-tests idea, and offer an opportunity for practice in all phases of English. This book, published also by the Macmillan company, is to be out within a week.

Phy-Eds Crush Frosh Gridders in Intramurals

Large Crowd Sees Future
Stars Battle in Pre-Varsity
League

BY HAROLD DUBINSKY

Wisconsin's fumbling Freshman football team was given a sound lesson in football by an alert Physical Education team by the score of 7-0 in the second game of the Pre-Varsity football league played yesterday on the Intramural field before 500 enthusiastic spectators.

The result was totally unexpected as the Freshman team were accorded greater strength than the freshman composing the Physical Education team. The green clad group seemed to have developed the knack of fumbling at the most undesirable times, while the opposing team displayed opportune alertness in taking advantage of the frosh fumbles. This was the second victory by the Phy Ed team in as many games.

The score was made during the third quarter when Derelith, Phy Ed right end, scooped up a frosh fumble on the freshman 15 yard line, and dashed speedily over the line for a touchdown. The extra point was not made from the kick, but was given to the Phy Ed team because the frosh line was offside when the effort was made to kick goal.

This fumble was by no means the only time that the Phy Ed team had the ball within scoring distance. During the first few minutes of play this team carried the ball to the frosh 20 yard line, and from thence to the frosh 5 yard line by virtue of a completed pass to Parkinson, husky Phy Ed halfback. Three successive line plunges by Parkinson failed to push the ball over the line, and things still looked bad for the Frosh team.

On the last down Parkinson hurled a pass over the goal and Oman, the Phy Ed quarter, easily caught it, only to drop it immediately thereafter.

During the first half the ball was constantly being rushed back and forth down the field with little result except for the near touchdown by the Phy Ed team. It is possible that the unfamiliarity with the Minnesota plays which the green clad team were using, was partially responsible for the fumbles.

The last half was marked with a more determined effort by both teams. After the Phy-Ed team had put across its touchdown, the Freshman team literally smashed the opponents line to pieces. Smith, star fullback of the frosh team, tore his way through the line constantly and it looked as if the frosh were to tie the score. Successive line plunges by Harris, elusive quarterback, of the frosh, and others of the frosh backfield, brought the ball to the Phy-Ed 5 yard line, from which place a pass was attempted only to be intercepted by Boll, alert fullback of the Phy Eds. With this the quarter ended, and immediately the fourth quarter was opened with a kick out of danger by the Phy-Eds. This, together with a fumble shortly thereafter, saved the freshman team from the possibility of a tie game.

The real reason why the Frosh were unable to penetrate the opponents' line. Schneider, right tackle, and Williams, left tackle of the Phy Ed team, were breaking up all the attempts to penetrate the line, and succeeded in stopping the battering Frosh.

The line plunging, and passing of Parkinson, heavyweight back of the Phy-Ed team, was another good reason why the Frosh were unable to win. The kicking of Oman, fullback, was still another feature of the game.

The line-ups are as follows: Phy-Ed's—Derelith, re; Schneider, rt; De Haven, rg; Karl, c; Rottman, Barr, Ig; Williams, lt; Blodgett, Lutz, le; Oman, qb; Parkinson, rh; Bullock, lh; Simonson, Boll, fb. Freshman—Frisch, Gantenbein, re; Kahn, Dauher, rt; Samuels, Bashaw, rg; Kowalski, c; Conway, Mamie, Ig; Tryn, Harvey, lt; Smith, Schmitz, le; Oberndorfer, Harris, qb; Halprin, Bartholomew, rh; Sullivan, Fentler, lh; Salsinski, Smith, fb, Miller, c.

CARDINAL-SPORTS Athletics in the Collegiate World

HERE'S the DOPE

Spouse you know there's a football game today, huh? Spouse you'd like to know who's going to win, huh? Well, try and find out.

Dear old Zopelka, the punthetical bard of Kansas, submits this following bit of iambic pentameter in a slightly prophetic vein:

We fear, Purdue,
That you will rue
Your gridiron fray today.
For Badger men,
With pants of tan,
Will win I'm sure, hurray!

Among the more readable fictions to be reeled off in various western stadia this afternoon should be the one about Minnesota and Iowa. Both teams appear on Wisconsin's schedule, and both have refused, to date, to follow any given line of action. If the Gophers ever intend to put in a championship claim, they'd better do it now.

Pennsylvania Sculls may cause another ruffle in the smooth surface of Chicago's football record today. For Ralph and Paul Scull, the one a halfback and the other an end, have been doing nice things for Pennsylvania this season. Penn, however, is not a top-heavy favorite to win from a Chicago team that looks better than Chicago teams have for several years.

As the second of Indiana's bigger and better gate attractions, Notre Dame appears at Bloomington today. Notre Dame, you may have heard, has a passable team this year and Indiana is making no extensive plans for celebrating a victory.

Over at Michigan, our dear friends, the Wolverines, are to have their cute little stadium dedicated by Ohio State. It would be just too bad, wouldn't it, if Ohio State didn't go right by Bennie? Just too bad.

One advantage of a game with

Purdue—we get to see what it feels like to sit on the side of the field.

IOWANS EXPECT STRENUOUS GAME

IOWA CITY, Iowa—"Minnesota will be set for Iowa after that surprise tie game with Indiana," is the warning being dinned in the ears of the University of Iowa football team by Coach Burton Ingwersen.

The Hawkeyes, who travel to Minneapolis to play the Gopher homecoming contest Saturday, emerged from the Wabash victory in good shape. Polishing of plays mapped out especially for Minnesota and tightening the links of a defense for Joesting, Almquist and their crew, is part of Iowa's work before Friday.

Willis Glassgow, the little halfback who is one of the leading ground-gainers, made 55 yards in twelve efforts against Wabash then retired after twenty minutes of play. Ingwersen also took good care of Don Smith, the senior back, who has made 202 yards in three games, although playing only portions of the contest. Smith nabbed a pass from Arnil for a 35-yard gain against Wabash.

Tri Delt and Phi Mu's Victorious as Horseshoe Play Nears End

The Tri Delt and the Phi Mu's, in very closely contested horseshoe matches, yesterday emerged victorious in their respective groups. In both instances, ties within the groups were being played off, there remaining now only one group in which the winner of first place is undecided. Alpha Gamma Delta, 929 University, and Gamma Phi Beta will play off a triple tie at 10 o'clock this morning on the Lathrop courts.

Some very fine playing was exhibited yesterday afternoon by all four of the teams, although the Tri Delt-Alpha Chi match was the more exciting. Bess Hayner '30 pitched for the Tri Delt, and Florence Swensen '30 for the Alpha Chi's. The Alpha Chi's took the first game, and then the Tri Delt turned around, and, with three ringers in the second game and another in the third, won the next two games and consequently the set with a 2 to 1 score.

The first match of the final elimination contest between the group winners will be at 4:30 o'clock Monday between Kappa Delta, winner of group 2, and Phi Mu, first place winner of group 3. This will undoubtedly be an extremely close match, both teams having shown up well in the preliminary games.

HOCKEY

Alpha Delta Pi defeated Alpha Gamma Delta with a score of 3 to 2 yesterday afternoon in a close and well played hockey match at Camp Randall. Carol Cole '29, Ruth Plumb '29, and Eunice Shank showed up especially well for the A. D. Pi's, while Sara Loomens '30, Helen Lee '30, and Madeline Eickhorst '30, of the Alpha Gamma Delta team did some noteworthy playing. Three matches will be played off this morning as follows:

Barnard vs. C. L. G. C., 10:00 o'clock; 248 Langdon vs. Beta Sigma Omicron, 10:45; Phi Omega Pi vs. Gamma Phi Beta, 11:30.

Several Teams May
Upset Dope in Today's Conference Battles

BY BERNARD DUFFY

By guess and by gosh! That seems to be the best way to pick the winning football teams for the season of 1927. Favorites in numerous cases have already fallen along the wayside, and many more are riding dark horses and due for a spill.

The Big Ten has no exception, and undoubtedly some elevens of high repute will be added to the growing list after today. Perhaps that first upset will occur in our own backyard when the Boilermakers of Purdue will attempt to rivet the fighting Badgers to the ground at Camp Randall this afternoon.

Wisconsin Up

The Badgers are favorites, at least in Madison, and the current football season has been tough on favorites. If that one point margin had been in favor of Purdue instead of Chicago last Saturday the feeling of confidence on the part of Wisconsin supporters might be less evident, but as it is—that just goes to show what a whale of a difference one point can make.

Michigan will tangle with the redoubtable Ohio State. Having seen Michigan display her usual crafty football our choice lies with Oosterbaan and company. Ohio, as the sport writers say, seems to have everything essential for a championship team except the art of winning games. Ohio's day will come and then beware.

Purple Strong

Northwestern of recent years is developing a reputation for something else besides pretty girls, and one of them is a football team. The Purple with the smashing Tiny Lewis has been going great this year and appears to be headed for another crack at a Big Ten championship. Northwestern meets Illinois at Evanston today. Zuppke will throw all of his craft and men into the game in the initial Big Ten game for the fighting Illini. Although tied by Ames last week, Illinois will give Northwestern a fight, and an upset is not improbable.

Wilcox May be Out of Lineup

Lineup Used Against Michigan

may be made after the opening kick-off.

Against Chicago last week, Purdue suffered the loss of one Western conference game, one good end, and one well-rounded supply of over-confidence. The game is gone and so is the self-confidence, but Sindelar has stepped into the place left vacant by Hutton, and if he does as well as Boilermaker substitutes have been doing, no one need worry about him.

In spite of Purdue's obvious ability to make things interesting, Wisconsin rests modestly on the thought that maybe Capt. Crofoot and Gene Rose won't be so bad either. Another week of practice has given even more smoothness to the smooth Badger running attack. Passing and pass defense have been worked on carefully. Reserves have been given a chance to work into the first-string line-up.

Hold That Line

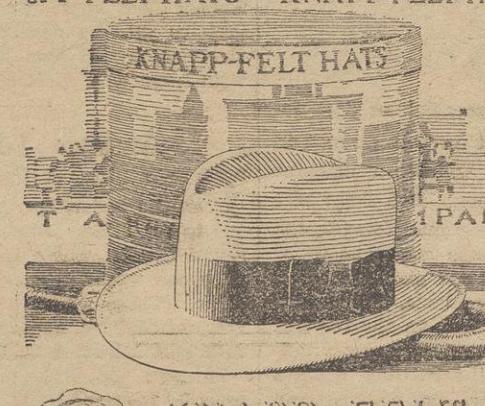

Wisconsin fans base their hope once more on the Cardinal line, the charging and blocking forwards who opened holes in Michigan's defense last Saturday and who piled up Michigan's offense at the line of scrimmage.

Both teams will undoubtedly resort to passing at one time or other. Purdue has Welch to throw 'em, Mackey, Sindelar and Harmeson to catch 'em, and a number of neat formations to try 'em from. Wisconsin has Rose for a passer and Cameron, Crofoot, and Davies for receivers. Ready, Captains?

Who? Purdue!

IT IS UNFORTUNATE that the name Purdue does not seem to inspire the fear of God on this campus in the same way that the mighty Michigan machine annually sets Badger fans a-trembling. But those who recall the drubbing the Boilermakers administered to the ancient Harvard will realize that here is a host to be reckoned with. The slim Chicago upset means nothing. Purdue is still strong; Purdue is formidable, and anyone who visits Camp Randall this afternoon in the hope of witnessing a Wisconsin walk-away will be sadly disappointed. Not that we don't wish the battling Badgers all the luck in the world; not that we don't want them to win—but there WILL be a football game this afternoon.

Seniors, Watch Your Step!

WITH THE NEWS that a third candidate has entered the race for the presidency of the senior class, it is well for the members of that body to stop, think, and consider for a moment. A very sound policy has been adopted in the taboo against campaigning. Every senior should be careful to promote that idea and let this be an election without ballyhoo. The candidates have expressed the desire to be judged on their own merits. All three are well known, and every senior should be able to make an intelligent choice.

Ardent supporters and friends of any particular candidate should resolve here and now to abstain from all campaigning, not only because the candidates have expressed themselves against it, but because the senior class should have more common sense than to make itself ridiculous by failing in its resolution. Both the class of 1928 and the individual concerned will be open to the thrusts of the local campus "political Pegiers," if the seniors do not live up to their intentions as announced.

It is commonly felt that the demise of the Student Senate is a step toward effective student self-government. The seniors can accomplish another advance by eliminating petty politics, ridiculous politics, and electing their president in a sane and fair fashion. It must also be remembered that a missstep by one group will immediately precipitate campaigning by others and the whole thing will become farcical. Hence, take heed now in order to avoid criticism and ridicule later.

Make Appointments

YESTERDAY the Cardinal printed a short account of the experience of a student who visited the clinic without first having made an appointment. The student found that he was not the only one who had failed to attend to this little detail. He also found that the clinic was doing a tremendous daily "business."

With the increase in enrollment this year, the facilities of the clinic have been taxed to the limit, according to a recent statement by members of the clinic staff. The clinic has always handled a large number of cases daily, but this year the situation is worse than ever before. It is indeed remarkable that the doctors are able to do the effective and efficient work by which they have won the confidence of the student body.

The clinic is open for appointments between 8 and 12 o'clock in the morning and 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Appointments are at ten minute intervals, and it is not often that a student is forced to wait because of a long consultation of the one ahead of him. Most of the waiting, especially under the present conditions, is caused by the failure of students to make an appointment in advance. They can help the administration of the clinical work immensely by following this simple procedure, and every student should make it a point to do so when he wishes to take advantage of the services which the clinic is more than willing to render.

A Field House for Wisconsin

GEORGE LITTLE, director of all-university athletics, yesterday announced that plans are being started for the building of a field house from funds supplied by the Athletic department. It was expected that the first unit will be erected at a cost of approximately $350,000, and will offer accommodations only for indoor track and baseball, and for basketball. A bill which was passed by the state legislature this summer would have appropriated $300,000 to this $350,000 for a building which would have been complete, but the measure was vetoed by Governor Zimmerman.

There is no doubt that an adequate field house is one of the most urgent needs of the university's athletic department. Wisconsin's facilities for swimming, basketball, and indoor track contests are very poor, the poorest, probably, of any in the Big Ten conference. When the gymnasium is packed, it will hold only 2,200 spectators about the basketball court. It is estimated by officials of the athletic staff that at least three times this many spectators would witness basketball games providing that there were sufficient accommodations. It is not unlikely that the number might go as high as the 10,000 mark. At least 5,000 who now wish to see the games are turned away every year.

Practically every university in the Big Ten is better equipped in this respect than is Wisconsin. A little over a year ago, Iowa made an addition to her armory, converting it into a mammoth field house at a cost approximating $650,000. This sum was taken from the Hawkeye ticket receipts, and the building was built in sections as the Badger playhouse probably will be.

Michigan, Northwestern, Illinois, Indiana, and Northwestern have either field houses or gymnasiums sufficiently large to accommodate a respectable basketball crowd. Minnesota, Purdue, and Ohio have poorer facilities, but the first two are much more ample than Wisconsin's. Chicago hasn't a field house, but it is understood that it will have one within a short time. So Wisconsin is apparently behind the times.

Although it is unfortunate that the state couldn't see fit to appropriate part of the sum toward building a Badger field house, we are fortunate in having a progressive athletic department. We hope plans now in the making will soon be complete and the dream of a field house will speedily become an actuality.

Answer Your Questionnaire

TO DATE, ten of the Daily Cardinal's questionnaires on the fraternity rushing system have been returned to our office. Almost half of these are from professional groups, whose methods are not similar to those of social organizations, and are consequently of less value. Those which have been returned, however, are very satisfactory, apparently having been filled out with care and attention to details.

In order that these questionnaires be efficacious, they must be answered by at least fifty per cent of the fraternities on the campus, and, of course, the desideratum is that all be returned. Knowing too well, however, the indifference displayed on matters of this nature, we are not hoping for that much, but merely that a sufficient number are returned to give statistics from which conclusions generally true may be drawn.

Some organizations may wish to take up certain of the questions, particularly those on deferred rushing, in their chapter meetings, and we hope that such care will be taken to learn the consensus of opinion whenever necessary. For that reason, it is expected that many of the lists will be received after Monday. But if the chapter opinion is sufficiently well known to remove this necessity, we earnestly urge that responsible members of each group see that the questionnaires are returned immediately.

Prompt action is necessary, because it is desired that final results may be tabulated before the first meeting of the Interfraternity council. Answers received on the questionnaires will determine to a large extent what action will be taken at that meeting. It is to each fraternity's best interests that these statistics be obtained within a week.

Casual Comment

Let us unite in prayer for plenty of punch, power, and pep on Randall field this afternoon. There will be a football game.

In order to keep students in touch with the more important and interesting events of extra-campus significance, the Cardinal has decided to rejuvenate its policy of world news every Sunday. The title may be continued as "The World's Window," or a new one may be adopted. At any rate, the column will appear tomorrow. Watch for it.

Pardon us all to hell, but between me and Ye Ed nothing came through in this space last Saturday. But then it was once said that no news is good news.

Quoting aformentioned, "Now I ain't no Lindbergh," but I can go into flights of poetry.

This little ditty was inspired many, many weeks ago, when newspaper headlines read: Federal Men to Clean Up Liquor in Madison This Week End. Ef ya feel you're getti' thirsty, drink some soda water pop, For the prohibition agents have a saturatin' mop. Ef ya got somethin' that's stronger, beyond a vestige of a doubt, Tha Federal men'll get ya, ef ya don't watch out.

Phil will have a darn bad day, ef tha things they state are true, We'll all start drinkin' water like the other people do. So ef you're not a teetotaler, an' ya like your beverage stout, Then tha Federal men'll get ya ef ya don't watch out.

Whittier may have been wittier than this, or was it this here Riley guy what started this business. (Note the sustained emmulation of our friend.)

In our continued eking out of wit, we must sometimes slip in a little of the drama element. (Poetry and drama; yea, such culture is seldom found in even the most enlightened columns.)

Readers' Say So

WELL, WELL!

To the Editor:

It is easy to criticize, and it is easy to make mistakes when criticism is not based on a thorough study of all factors involved. But it is not so easy to admit an error, especially when it has blazoned forth in print. Recently the Daily Cardinal criticized Judge Schein and then learned that a rather grave mistake had been made. Knowing this, the editors are to be commended for their readiness to correct that mistake by an open apology in their editorial column. It must have been somewhat of an embarrassing position, but they acquitted themselves without beating around the bush. Let us hope, however, that this will serve as a warning against future hasty judgments.

Sincerely,

California President
Says Other Planets
are Supporting Life

President W. W. Campbell of the University of California, claims the world is not the only planet of the solar system that supports life. President Campbell, in an address to an assembly of faculty and students, said:

"It is unthinkable that our world should be the only planet to support life."

"Our stellar system is probably but one of innumerable spiral nebulae, and it may be only as a drop in the ocean when compared to the other worlds wheeling through space."

President Campbell, who has achieved world fame as an astronomer, considers it very likely that living organisms of some sort exist on others of the countless spheres of the universe. Telescopes now in use are hopelessly inadequate to reveal any forms of life on other planets, he explained.

"Any living organism on Mars would have to be as large as the Woolworth building to be detected by our presentday telescope. No direct method has yet been devised of ascertaining whether life exists on the other planets."

The president gave as his reasons for belief in the probability of some form of life out in the universe the fact that oxygen and water have been found to exist on other planets. As these are two of the elements most vitally necessary to support life, it is to be presumed that where they have been found, life is possible.

Famed String Quartet to Appear in Madison; Concert November 22

What is regarded as one of the foremost musical experiences accorded Madison this season was announced this week by the School of Music in the engagement of the Flonzaley string quartet, to appear here on the evening of Nov. 22.

The Flonzaley organization last appeared in Madison during the season of 1924. The quartet was founded by the late Eduoard de Coppet and Alfred Pochon in 1903, for the personal enjoyment of de Coppet and his friends. The organization's name, which literally translated means "brooklet," was taken from Villa Flonzaley, the Swiss home of Mr. de Coppet.

It was not until the second year of its existence that the group began its concert tours, but since then has been in great demand both in American and abroad, presenting in that time nearly 2500 concerts.

“Yes, Willard Mack is right, Luckies are best,” says Paul Berlenbach

Popular pugilist tells his manager, Benedict Sterns, that Lucky Strikes are the finest cigarettes.

Willard Mack,
Noted Author, Producer and Actor, writes:

“We people of the theatre are, as a rule, extremists. This is the reflex action from overwrought nerves. When a man smokes forty cigarettes a day, as I do, he must be sure of his brand. I smoke Lucky Strikes because I have found they are soothing to the nerves and at the same time they cause no throat irritation. My voice is always in perfect condition and I am never troubled by any coughing which might be annoying to me in my work as an actor.”

Willard Mack

You, too, will find that LUCKY STRIKES give the greatest pleasure—Mild and Mellow, the finest cigarettes you ever smoked. Made of the choicest tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—“IT'S TOASTED”—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

“It's toasted”

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

Start Teachers' Training School

Prof. Uhl Heads Newly Established Institute at University

The University of Wisconsin division of the Institute for the Training of Teachers has recently been established under the direction of the School of Education, with Prof. Willis L. Uhl as its acting director.

The purpose of the new Institute as outlined by Prof. Uhl is "to bring about a coordination of the various agencies which contribute or which might contribute to the improvement of teaching." Those associated with the establishment of the institute realize that the professional schools no longer pretend to turn out a student who is thoroughly prepared to practice his art, and to apply a set of "methods" mastered in school to the practice of teaching.

Borrowing from the German method of "zwei Probejahre" or two "proving-up" years, America has gradually developed a definite teacher's program, Prof. Uhl says.

The institute comprises the department of education of the university represented by those professional courses that contribute toward the university teacher's certificate, the Wisconsin high school, the departmental teacher's courses needed for the university teacher's certificate, the junior placement and follow-up program, the state department, and the field, that is the schools in which new teachers work the first two years.

The prospective teacher becomes a member of the institute in his junior year, and his membership continues until two years after graduation.

In order to establish a central idea for the training of teachers in the university, "The Wisconsin Plan" has been adopted as a unifying ideal. This plan has been drawn up with the idea of making the work of the department of education, the individual students and the graduate students who are just entering the teaching career a co-operative work. Prof. Uhl has stated that "intelligent co-operation with the program of the 'Wisconsin Plan' would give the teacher a head start that would place Wisconsin in a position of enviable and productive leadership in the nation".

PROF. MARTEN GLAESER PUBLISHES NEW BOOK

Prof. Martin Glaeser of the Economics department has just published a book called "Outlines of Public Utility Economics". The book deals with public utility management and control, and is the outgrowth of the lectures and research work which Prof. Glaeser has conducted along these lines in his 10 years here. The book is intended for classwork. Prof. Glaeser is at present on leave of absence and is traveling in Europe.
