THIRD, LAST AND BEST

FINAL INDOOR MEET OF THE SEASON SATURDAY NIGHT.

Many Novel Events Arranged—Long Men vs. Short Men—Engineers vs. Law Students.

The third, last, best and biggest indoor meet of the season. This is what Saturday's contest will undoubtedly be. Coach Kilpatrick has made arrangements for this event to be a fitting climax to the successful indoor season. The races promise to be faster, the finishes closer and more exciting, while the specialties will be fully as unique and interesting as those at any of the preceding meets.

The fields in the regular events will doubtless be larger than formerly. New men, as well as former track men, are constantly coming out in anticipation of outdoor work now close at hand. This will insure stiffer competition and former point winners will have no walkaway in any of the events.

The distance runs will be especially interesting as the number of candidates is constantly increasing. This is especially true in the two mile run where Carpenter, Cowley and Smith will do their best to wrest second place from McEachron and to give Bredsteen as hard a rub as they are able. The half mile novice race has brought out numerous entries. The barring of Hahn, Burdick, McFarland and Keachie has caused many "unknowns" to spring up and make their initial trial for Varsity honors.

The relay race between the long and short men will be distinctly original not only for Wisconsin, but for any western meet. The team of the "lengthies" averages 6 feet, 4 inches and is composed of Bertke, Myer, Webster and Gibson. The "Tom Thumb's" size up but 5 feet 1 inch with these men in the line-up: Davis, Starke, More and Shower. Both teams are training conscientiously and it is a ludicrous though common sight on the track to see one of the "shorties" pitter-pattering behind a long man with a stride of the seven league boot variety.

The engineers will again meet the laws in a tug of war. This time competent referees will be appointed and the laws will not have the opportunity to anchor to the running track. The shop boys are fully aroused and declare they will be right on the ground when the laws work their much boasted "pull." The literary society and class relay races will be exciting. For the society event, Castalia has furnished a banner to decorate the hall of the winning society.

—To-morrow evening in the Assembly chamber Professor S. M. Babcock will be formally presented with a medal which the legislature voted him some time ago in recognition of his unselfishness in giving to the public his invention known as the Babcock Milk Test. Presentation speeches will be delivered by Governor La Follette, ex-Governor Hoard, Professor W. A. Henry, Ogden H. Fethers and others.

—T. J. Vea, '01, has been elected president of the Stoughton Wagon company which employs 300 men. He has left to take the position but will graduate with his class.

FEAR FOR 'VARSITY BILLS.

Railroad Lobby Arrayed Against Educational Appropriations.

Not a little anxiety over the fate of the University appropriation bills is being occasioned by the active opposition of the railroad lobby in the Assembly and Senate.

A great deal of lobbying is being done by the railroad faction in opposition to these bills for the reason that if the bills are passed it will be necessary for various corporation tax measures to go through in order that the state treasury may make both ends meet.

The appropriation asked for increases the University fund income by the sum of thirty-two thousand dollars, making a total of three hundred thousand dollars annually; also it gives sixty-five thousand dollars for the furnishing and equipment of the new engineering building, including machine shops, foundries and laboratories, and the founding of a commercial museum for the School of Commerce. Most important of all it appropriates the sum of one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars for the construction, furnishing and equipment of a new Agricultural building.

There are at present thirteen bills before the legislature, which concern the University. Nine of these bills are in the Senate and four in the Assembly. Some of them effect the University only indirectly.

—A. A. Chamberlain, law '01, has gone to St. Paul to attend the banquet of the Twin City Alumni Association.

TENNIS MATTERS.

Plans Already Being Laid for Coming Season.

Tennis enthusiasts all agree that the coming tennis season will be one of the best in years for the University Tennis Association. Already lists are being circulated to secure new members for the association and prospects point toward a large membership. As yet no arrangements have been made for meets with outside teams, but it is expected that there will be the usual tournaments with the addition of some others. No doubt Beloit will be played this year. Not the least important feature of the Inter-collegiate Contest this year will be the tennis meet. Mr. Beye who showed up so well in last year's Inter-collegiate games will be out again this year. Seaman and Helmholtz who won the state championship in doubles at Milwaukee are sure to take prominent parts in tennis tournaments this season.

As soon as weather permits the courts will be gotten into shape. It is probable that the Board of Regents will be petitioned to enlarge one of the courts. Players complain that the back nets are so close that they can't get a lobbed ball that lights near these nets. Manager Taylor says that one reason no arrangements have been made as yet with outside teams is because of the lack of funds. The Tennis Association has no regular means of support as most branches of athletics have, and will have to rely on membership fees and subscriptions entirely. It is thought, however, that there are enough students interested in tennis at the University who will help the association to make a successful season.

—The case of Ellwood vs. Remp, in which Ellwood sued Remp for damages on account of a fight arising over freshman politics was settled out of court this morning and the complaint withdrawn.

LIVELY INTEREST

BEING SHOWN IN FRIDAY'S FINAL CONTEST.

Cash Prizes of $100 and $20 will be Awarded—Frankenburger Banner Also at Stake.

Much interest is being shown in the Final Oratorical contest which is to take place Friday evening, in Library Hall. The competition in the preliminaries was very close, and the contestants have spared neither time nor labor in preparing their orations for public presentation.

The winner of first place will get the Capital City prize of $100, contributed by public spirited citizens of Madison. The winner of second place gets the Lewis prize, about $20, which is the income of a $200 fund established by ex-Governor Lewis about twenty years ago. There is also a banner at stake, which is presented by Professor Frankenburger to the literary society whose representatives make the best records. This banner must be won by a society three times before it becomes their permanent property.

The winner of the final contest represents Wisconsin in the Northern Oratorical League contest, which is to be held at Iowa City, Iowa, on May third.

The judges on thought and style are Professor H. L. Smith, Judge Bunn, and Hon. Burr W. Jones. The judges on delivery have not all been selected as yet, but Dean Johnson and Rev. Updike have consented to serve.

Prof. Frankenburger in St. Paul.

Prof. D. B. Frankenburger left last evening for St. Paul where tonight he will be given a reception at the Aberdeen hotel by the twin city alumni association of the University of Wisconsin. Prof. Frankenburger has risen from a sick bed just in time to attend the function in his honor. The program tonight will consist of short speeches, luncheon and dancing. Those who will respond to toasts are Professor Frankenburger, Senator Moses E. Clapp, Mrs. C. N. Akers, W. S. Dwinnell and A. H. Bright. There are about one hundred graduates of the University living in St. Paul and Minneapolis, besides many in the smaller cities and towns nearby, to whom invitations have been sent. It is expected that the event will be the most important in the history of the alumni association.

European Agriculture.

Dean W. A. Henry of the College of Agriculture will give an interesting talk before the Science club this evening. His subject will be "Some Observations on European Agriculture." Dean Henry is well qualified to speak on this subject. He will outline the methods of farming and stock-raising in England, Denmark, Holland and Switzerland, contrasting them with our own methods.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the Engineering building. All are invited.

—Professor Paul S. Reinsch returns from Michigan tonight and will meet his classes as usual tomorrow.

—W. K. Nattinger, '04, has been unable to attend classes for a few days owing to a slight attack of the grip.

High School Department.

Wauwatosa.

The annual declamatory contest of our High School was held Friday evening, March 15, before a large and apparently greatly pleased audience. There were nine contestants.

First place was won by Miss Helen L. Meyers, '04, who rendered "Our Fight; His Victory." Mr. Kershaw, with "Spartacus to the Gladiators," took second place and Miss Harriman who spoke "How I saw a Yale-Harvard Race," was awarded third place.

The judges were County Superintendent L. B. Stiles, Mr. Jack of the Milwaukee South Side High School and Miss Lusk of the Menomonee Falls High School.

The program was interspersed with music and opened with a number of five minutes extemporaneous speeches, the subject being handed each speaker as he stepped upon the platform.

This was our second attempt at extemporaneous speaking. A list of subjects had been previously given out for general reading with the understanding that there should be no written preparation. On the appointed day, the order in which the contestants were to appear, and the subjects upon which they were to speak were chosen by lot, so that the speaker might have nothing upon which to rely except his ready wit and information he had gained by his research. The call for participants was readily responded to by a number of the young men. Extemporaneous speaking will probably hold a prominent place in our future rhetorical work.

West Superior.

In view of the growing interest in dramatic work at the University and in many high schools of the state, a brief account of work done in that line at the Blaine High School of this city may not be out of order.

The class play has become an established annual event here since the production in '97, of Mrs. Burton Harrison's "Esmeralda." The play of the following year was an original "Twentieth Century Extravaganza" in four acts, entitled "The Syndicate," in which several of the present "Superior colony" at the University figured conspicuously as joint authors and actors. The class of '99, a majority of whose members were in the German course, presented as their class play their own translation of Freytag's "Die Journalisten" the first production in English, so far as the writer is aware, of this delightful comedy. Last year, a double bill was offered—Dickens' "Cricket on the Hearth" by the English section of the class, and Scribe and Legouve's "Bataille de Dames" by the French section. Although several excellent translations of the latter piece are extant, the class followed strictly and independently its own version as a practical illustration of its work in the study of the foreign language as well as in the writing of vernacular English.

Besides these more complete productions on regular occasions, various other classes and literary organizations of the school have presented on minor occasions such productions as Schiller's "Der Neffe als Onkel," Wilhelm's "Einer Muss Heiraten," (both by the classes in German and in their own translation) portions of the Merchant of Venice, "Cranford,"

The Coming Indoor Meet.

The indoor meet Saturday night will be the final one for the year, and Coach Kilpatrick promises that it shall surpass all its predecessors. The meets this year have been ably managed and conducted and have aroused a student interest in them never before experienced. The events have been varied enough to please everyone and the delays so common to entertainments of this kind have been practically obviated. The track and field events scheduled for Saturday's meet will all be warmly contested and the miscellaneous contests promise to be as interesting as those held at the former meets.

Coach Kilpatrick deserves a large attendance at this, the final meet. Such attendance means the resources for the coming season and for the trip to Buffalo in the summer. Everyone ought to turn out and make the last meet the best one, and that means an immense attendance.

A New Side to the Self-Government Association.

It seems to be the common belief among the students that the Self-Government Association exists primarily for the purpose of regulating the social functions of the University and authorizing the hours after which it will not be proper to dance. The Self-Government Association has come in for a good share of criticism which is entirely unwarranted and unnecessary.

Its purpose is not so much to attempt to regulate social affairs in the University but to bring together the young ladies of the University and give them an opportunity to feel that they are all fellow students, and that whatever promotes the welfare of the young ladies must necessarily affect the University as well. This purpose is well known to all, but not however the fact that the association extends social privileges to young women who otherwise would never learn of this side of University life. If the association did no more than this, it would still merit the praise and respect of all students, but with its other well known purposes, any upon.

Howell's "The Mouse Trap."

It may be seen from the character of the plays that this work is pervaded by a deeper purpose than a desire to display any supposed histrionic talents, or even the raising of money—although the proceeds have been devoted to good purpose in the purchase of pictures, statuary and other art decorations for the school. Indeed such work properly guided is considered an important part of the training in language and literature, and together with the rhetorical exercises and the contests in debate, declamation and oratory, a most practical and excellent training in expression. The very committing and rehearsal of the lines of a classic English play is in itself a most admirable discipline, and an interesting and effective method of study—for the only way to completely realize the true spirit, the life, of literature, is to live it. The translation and presentation of a foreign masterpiece affords the finest possible training in the comparative study of idiom and in the discriminative use of words. When it is remembered that the oldest and the noblest literature of every people is its dramatic literature, and that from its very nature it expresses more vividly and truly than any other form the real life of the people or the age that produces it, there needs no further argument as to its value for ethic and esthetic culture.

"Leland Stanford University has offered Professor A. C. McLaughlin of the University of Michigan $4,000 a year to go West and be gagged."—Detroit Free Press.

"Professor McLaughlin should remember that there are disadvantages about proprietary universities that four times $4,000 a year will not pay for."—Detroit Tribune.
