COACH SELECTS SPEAKERS FOR DEBATE TEAMS

Negative Will Go to Ann Arbor

Prof. J. M. O'Neill, coach of the Intercollegiate debating teams, has announced the tentative personnel of the Wisconsin teams for the debates this spring. Although the membership is not final, few changes are likely to be made, the announcement states.

The negative team, which will debate against Michigan at Ann Arbor on March 16, will be Ralph E. Axley L 1, Harold A. Seering '24, and Wayne Morse '23, closer. The affirmative squad, which will meet Illinois at Madison will be Wilber G. Katz '24, George J. Fiedler '25, and George E. McKinnis '23, closer.

Northwestern Comes Here
Wisconsin, Michigan, and Illinois comprise the Midwest Debating league, which, this year, holds its competition on March 16. The question involves legislation governing injunctions in labor disputes. As is customary, the affirmative teams always remains at home, while the negative debates at one of the other universities.

The second debating group consists of Northwestern, Minnesota, and Wisconsin. The affirmative squads which will meet Northwestern here is tentatively composed of Charles A. Rawson '23, Francis Karel '23, and Robert B. Stuart '23, closer. The negative team, which will journey to Minneapolis, consists of Arthur T. Thorson L 2, Henry W. Blake '24, and Arthur C. Inman '23, closer.

Speakers Are Experienced
Most of the team members have competed in former Intercollegiate debates, joint debates, sophomore semi-publics, or in other colleges and schools. Axley was an Intercollegiate and sophomore semi-public debater two years ago, and a member of Hesperia's joint debate team this year. Seering was second speaker of the team which defeated Washington university of St. Louis last year, and was closer of Philomathia's joint team this year. Morse debated against Minnesota last year, and also was closer of the winning joint team this year. Katz has had debating experience in Milwaukee and in Hesperia Literary society, while Fiedler also has been active. McKinnis has been a member of debating teams in a Baptist college at Shawnee, Okla. Rawson was a sophomore semi-public debater and was first speaker of Philomathia's joint debate team this year. Karel, also had experience in the second year debates and went against Michigan last year. Stewart competed against Michigan last year, and has entered many other forensic events. Thorson is an experienced speaker, while Blake debated against Illinois last year. Stewart competed against Wisconsin's negative squad which argued against Northwestern last year.

S. G. A. Drive to Extend Scholarship For Students

The object of the S. G. A. drive February 19 to 26 is to raise sufficient money to extend the scholarship period of Whei Lan Chang, a Chinese student of this university.

Whei Lan Chang is a junior, majoring in physical education. She was graduated from the Y. W. C. A. normal school of physical education in Shanghai, China, 1919, where she won a two years' scholarship in America. This scholarship was extended to three years by a similar drive launched on the campus last year.

Prior to her coming to Madison she studied in Mills college, Oakland, California. Whei Lan expects to teach her own people the importance of physical education when she returns to China this summer.

Dorothy Wilgus '24 is the general chairman of the campaign.

"DAD" WOLF TO DISCUSS REFORMATION AT Y. M.

The second of a series of lectures on the religious renaissance in Europe, known historically as the Reformation will be given at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the Y. M. C. A. by Frederick E. Wolf, general secretary. The lecture this week will be on "The Reformation in France."

"The lectures are not historical courses," said Mr. Wolf yesterday, but deal with the religious thinking of that day and illustrate its relation to conditions of the present day.

The lectures will be given weekly until April 1. The topics will be: "The Reformation in Holland," Feb. 25; "The Reformation in Scotland," March 4; "The Reformation in England," March 11. After each lecture a period is devoted to discussion of the various phases of the Reformation.

WET ISSUE IS DOUBT IN '24

Farmer-Labor Vote, However, Will Play Important Part in Election

This is the third of a series of articles on political problems presented for The Cardinal by a member of the department of political science.

BY INTERVIEWER
Beers and light wines, as advocated by "moist" politicians, will not play an important part in the 1924 presidential campaign of the two parties, in the opinion of Walter Thompson, political expert of the department of political science. Parties "straddle" controversial issues, he states, in order to attract and conciliate both factions. The wet and dry issue, although the public at present slightly favors the former, has not crystallized into an urgent popular demand. No emphatic stand is probable on this question next year for this reason.

Will Be Progressive
The farmer and laborer again will be important factors. This much is certain, Thompson avers. Progressive measures to satisfy the liberal voters will be adopted by both parties.

The nominees of the parties must reflect to a certain extent the labor and farmer principles of the platforms. For this reason Lowden and McAdoo have considerable strength among the voters of their parties, according to the university political expert.

Will the league be an important factor?

"American people will not stand for an unconditional League of Nations," Thompson declared. "The stand of the democratic party on the league is perplexing. I don't believe any attempt will be made to introduce the league into the 1924 campaign unless definite guarantees and limitations are made for American participation."

A bonus for the World war veterans is a "white elephant" to the republican leaders. As this measure is still a controversial one, both parties may dodge it. General promises to protect the soldiers will be made probably by both parties.

Public opinion is the determining ultimate factor. For this reason the attitude of citizens holds the key to party issues, and the presidential election is yet many months distant.

Blue Dragon to Entertain Senior Women in Meeting

All senior women have been invited to attend the meeting of Blue Dragon Tuesday afternoon in Lathrop hall. Tea will be served and plans for the last semester's work will be made. This will be the last opportunity for the senior women to get together for some time and officers of the club wish to make as much of a ceremony of selecting the rings as possible. Orders for rings will be taken tomorrow and Tuesday.

MATHER TO GIVE LECTURE ON ART

The first of a series of four lectures on modern art by Frank Mather, professor of art at Princeton university, will be given at 4:30 o'clock Monday in 165 Bascom hall. The subject will be "Romanticism and Its Sequels."

Professor Mather will lecture Tuesday on "The Great Traditionalities of the Nineteenth Century;" Wednesday on "The Probabilities of Landscape and Luminism;" Friday on "Expression, Cubism, etc." All the lectures will be held at 4:30 o'clock in 165 Bascom hall.

"I consider Professor Mather the foremost American authority on paintings and the history of painting," Prof. M. S. Slaughter of the classics department declared, in discussing the new lecturer.

Professor Mather received his B. A. degree at William in 1889 and his Ph. D. degree from Johns Hopkins in 1892. He is the author of a number of books on painting and the history of painting.

MARCH CONVOS BRING BIG MEN

1923 Conference is Seventh Annual Meet Held Here

This year's all-University conference which will be held March 2, 3, and 4 in Lathrop hall, is the seventh annual conference to be given at the university.

"The idea of bringing outstanding men in the religious world to Madison to work up interest among the students and to give them an opportunity to study religion as a phase of the truth had its beginning almost 20 years ago," Frederick E. Wolf, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. asserted yesterday.

During the first years of this enterprise outstanding religious leaders were brought occasionally and then only at irregular intervals. Later there was a regular conference held once during every student generation, every four years.

In 1917 the annual all-University conference was made a regular project, and was conducted by the Y. M. C. A. exclusively. Last year it was given over to the Campus Religious council to manage, but at the end of the year they gave it over again to the Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. took it over and asked the Y. W. C. A. to come in with them and help them manage it. Therefore this year for the first time there are joint committees working from the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A.

"The policy of bringing outstanding religious leaders of the country to speak at these conferences has always been closely adhered to, with the result that the meetings always have been marked by very prominent speakers and inspiring addresses," Mr. Wolf continued.

The chief speakers have been: 1917—John R. Mott; 1918—David Porter of New York City; 1919—Dr. McDonald of Toronto, Canada; 1920—Pres. M. P. Burton of the University of Michigan, Dean Shaller Mathews of Chicago; 1921—Sherwood Eddy; 1922—Charles Gilkey; and 1923—John R. Mott.

Other prominent men who have been here at different times in this connection have been: Raymond Robbins, Hugh Black, Bishop McDowell, and Dr. Charles R. Brown.

WEATHER: CLOUDY
Fair weather, probably followed by increasing cloudiness is predicted for today. Gradually rising temperature is expected tomorrow. The maximum temperature recorded yesterday was 9.1 at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and the minimum was 3.2 registered at 8 o'clock in the morning.

BEE EXHIBITS GIVEN BY APIS

Playlet and Displays Feature Novel Performance

The program given by the Apis club last night in the auditorium of Agricultural hall was opened at 7 o'clock with a talk by Ernst E. Ehrgott '25 on bees. Before the program began a number of exhibits were made by member of the club of the various processes and the work connected with bee-keeping.

A candy and sandwich booth, in one of the corridors was in charge of Malitta Fischer '26, and Mrs. Foster, whose husband is a graduate student in the agricultural college. The candy, of which there were four varieties, was made entirely of honey.

Show Work of Bee Colony
The organization of a colony of bees and a review of the work done by a colony in a year was given by Ehrgott in his talk. Harvey G. Ahrens, graduate student, followed with a general talk on beekeeping and its importance in Wisconsin. His talk was illustrated with lantern slides.

A playlet, "Did You Ever Get Stung?" furnished the lighter part of the program. Parts in the playlet were taken by Walter Kuenzli '24, George Marvin '23, Richard Butler '24, Elwyn Hamlyn '26, J. F. Crawford '23, and H. C. Durham, graduate student. The playlet was written by Marvin, Crawford, and Bronson Tolman '23.

Kuenzli furnished the thriller of the performance when he carried a comb of honey with some bees clinging to it down into audience. Some spectators were a little skeptical but nothing happened. Kuenzli had his sleeves rolled up and his collar off while carrying the bees.

Newell Ties Knollin's Record

By HARRY P. BARRANTEE
Three annex records were broken and two were tied in the seventeenth annual Relay Carnival which was held in the gym annex last night. A capacity crowd filled the annex during the meet.

New records were set for the special relay between Marquette and Wisconsin, for the high school relay and for the academy relay. The academy shot put record also went to smash. Newell, Wisconsin hurdler, tied the record made last year by Al Knollin in the high hurdles when he sailed over the hurdles in 5 2-5 seconds. The academy record for the 40-yard dash was also tied.

Hamann Scores High
Eagleburger lacked a tenth of a second of tying a ten-year-old record when he took the 40-yard dash in 4 5-10 seconds.

The superb work of several Wisconsin men featured throughout all events. In all open events, as well as in the special relay between Marquette university and Wisconsin, the Badgers worked so well that the smaller schools could not provide competition.

Hamann, Wisconsin all-around man, led the scoring with a first place and two seconds. He won the pole vault, took second place in the shot put, and placed behind Newell in the high hurdles.

The greatest record smashing event was the academy shot put. Schwarze, big St. John's boy, had the crowd all with him when he heaved the shot 47 feet, 4 1-2 inches to break the old record by over 5 feet. After the event he took a few trial heaves in an attempt to break his own record and when he quit he had heaved the pill over 50 feet.

Takes First Place

In the inter-fraternity relays there were no upsets. As they did in the time trials Friday, the Pi Kappa Alpha men came within 1-5 of a second of tying the old record but could not scrape up the necessary fraction to set a new mark.

The Alpha Gamma Rho team took second place but were three seconds behind the winners. The Kappa Sigma team took third place.

The closest and most interesting race of the evening was the inter-sorority relay. The Alpha Chi Omega and Kappa Delta teams were tied for first place but the coin decided in favor of the Kappa Deltas. The Alpha Xi Delta team placed third.

A summary of the carnival: Open 40-yard high hurdles—Newell, (Wisconsin) first; Hamann, (Wisconsin) second; Tuh-tar, (Wisconsin) third; time, 5 2-5 seconds.

Wisconsin-College 40-yard dash—Eagleburger, (Wisconsin) first; Addie, (Beloit) second; Ellison, (Wisconsin) third; time, 4 1-2 seconds.

Academy 40-yard dash—Graves,

University Station Will Broadcast Game Reports

Because of previous arrangements made between T. E. Jones, director of physical education, and the university broadcasting station, radio reports of the Michigan-Wisconsin game tomorrow evening will not be sent out by the Northwestern Radio company, M. P. Hanson, head of the station, said yesterday.

The university station has been connected with the gymnasium and will transmit a complete report of the game. The sound of the cheering will be sent out together with regular announcements of the progress of the contest.

The broadcasting of the game by the Northwestern company was to be an added feature of the daily service which The Cardinal will introduce next Tuesday.

Dancing Damsels of "McDougall's Alley"

From the four corners of the earth come 60 costumed damsels—ice maidens, dusky-eyed orientals from Turkish harems, Hula-land, and far-off Japan, gypsies, witches, and fairies—to dance in "McDougall's Alley" at the third annual Charity ball mixer next Friday night.

Tall, short or medium, blonde or brunette, slender or plump—take your choice, for they will dance with you for a dime.

Lathrop concert hall will be roped off and decorated for the affair, and girls not in costume will be permitted to dance there also. The floor will be super-waxed for the occasion, and will be limited to 60 couples.

"For two years the 'Alley' has been the main feature of the mixer, and its popularity increases each year," Harry F. Augustine '23 chairman of the dance, said today. "The committee has scoured the campus for good-looking girls who can dance, and indications point to even a more successful 'Alley' than last year."

The idea was introduced here two years ago by Dr. and Mrs. Smiley Blanton sponsors of the ball and is patterned after the McDougall's Alley of Greenwich Village fame.

FRATS AND SORORITIES CAUSE DAILY TO QUIT

Non-support by the fraternities and sororities was the chief cause which forced The Minnesota Daily to temporarily discontinue its publication for the second quarter, according to a report received from Minneapolis yesterday.

Many of the students found it impossible to pay for subscriptions because of the stadium drive payments which are due at this time and the other numerous campaigns which have lately over-run the University of Minnesota.

The fraternities and sororities of Minnesota university have taken recently only one copy each and this brought about a great decrease in circulation.

A blanket tax which each student is required to pay on registration is contemplated to guarantee the financial support of the university's activities. Such a tax will insure the regular issue of The Minnesota Daily and lower the subscription price from $3.50 to $1.50 a year.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH IS VERDICT OF CORONER

Evidence at the inquest of the death of John Minahan, University of Chicago student found dead at a fraternity house recently with a gun in his hand, warranted the verdict by the coroner's jury investigating the case Wednesday of accidental death. His father, Dr. John R. Minahan, physician of Green Bay, could throw no light on the case other than that his son was not despondent at the time. He said he believed his son's death was accidental and that he had no reason to commit suicide.

Illness of two veterans just before the crucial game with Michigan may wreck Wisconsin chances to land on top of the Big Ten heap in basketball this season.

Both Leslie Gage, forward, and Capt. Gus Tebell, guard have been confined to their beds as a result of severe colds. They were able to be out yesterday. The men became sick after the trip to Ann Arbor. Trains ran late and the squad went without sleep for the greater part of two nights.

Rollie Williams was unable to practice on Friday because an old leg injury bothered him. Coach Walter Meanwell sent him to the shower. Terrific chafing of Cappon, Wolverine guard, is thought to have caused return of the injury.

Break Sale Records

Although the Wisconsin team is in poor shape for its conflict on Monday, the regular five probably will start the game. Diebold and Elsom are held in reserve, and there is a possibility that some of the other substitutes may be used.

Despite the diminution of Badger chances for victory, student interest in the game has not lessened. All records for speedy ticket sale were broken yesterday morning when 2,250 ducats were disposed of in one hour and forty minutes, according to Paul F. Hunter, sales manager. The pasteboards went on sale at 9 o'clock and by 10:40 they were all gone. Three lines extended from the first floor of the armory to the gym and wound around the basketball court. Manager Hunter said that the last man in the long line wanted one seat, and by coincidence, only one ticket was left. Others who came later were unable to procure tickets.

A veteran Michigan team will stack up against the Badgers. Four members of the team which tied with Wisconsin for second place a year ago are still playing. Kipke, Cappon, Ely, and Paper are vets, with Haggerty, the only new man, taking Miller's place at forward. Wisconsin has two new men, Spooner and Gage. Les was a substitute last year. This is Spooner's first season of Big Ten competition.

The Wolverines have an edge in matter of experience and condition. They were handicapped by having to meet Northwestern last night while Wisconsin rested, but with two days of leisure should be in tip-top condition when they play here.

Football heroes oppose each other again when Tebell and Williams step onto the court against Cappon and Kipke. Captain Gus may get another opportunity to tackle Kipke, for the stocky Wolverine is playing a forward position. The meeting of these two teams is sure to be the occasion of one of the fiercest basketball battles ever played on the armory court.

The game starts at 7:30 o'clock.

OLSON WINNER IN SKI MEET

Stevens Point Man Secures 169 Points in State Tournament

With a total of 169 points, garnered in the face of a strong wind, Andrew Olson, Stevens Point, won the state ski tournament at Muir knoll yesterday afternoon over a field of twenty three entrants. Olson made the longest jump of 71 feet, standing.

Sverre Strom, star of the Badger Ski club, won fourth place with 165 points. One of the features of the meet was a double jump standing, made by Strom and Richard Gocznicht. Another hit of the afternoon was made when a girl rider made several jumps. The "girl" turned out to be a man in disguise.

A crowd of some 600 people endured the cold to witness the most successful meet held in Madison this winter. A high wind blowing directly into the faces of the riders the marks far below previous records.

The first ten places were awarded as follows:

Andrew Olson, Stevens Point, 169 points; Arvid Bakke, Chicago Norge club, 167 points; Earling Landwick, Stoughton, 166 points; Sverre Strom, Badger Ski club, 165 points; Dennis Murphy, Badger Ski club, 162 points; Ingols Sands, Stoughton, 159 points; Tromme Stuveth, Stoughton, 152 points; George Martin, Badger Ski club, 129 points; Irving Benson, Badger Ski club, 128 points; Richard Plummer, Badger Ski club, 115 points.

COUNCIL LIKES RYAN AS COACH

Jack Ryan's stock has taken a sudden upward movement recently and the former Marquette university mentor is in the front rank of candidates for the Wisconsin head football coach position. Several members of the athletic council are known to favor Ryan.

Others look with favor upon Pat Page, present Butler college coach who was here for a conference a few weeks ago. A newspaper report that Jack Henderson, University of Southern California, might be brought here for a conference was denied by Director Jones yesterday morning. He did not deny that Henderson was under consideration, but declared the council would not bring "Gloomy Gus" to Madison from the Pacific coast.

Choice of a coach will be made on March 7 when athletic council and a board of regents committee hold a joint meeting.

U. W. Economist In Talk At P. T. A. Meet

"There are sales and sales," said Miss Hazel Manning of the university home economics department, in her talk at the regular meeting of the Marquette P. T. A. She urged that the women buy fewer things and better things. She stressed the folly of buying useless "bargains."

A short business meeting of the association was also held in which plans for a Food and Gift Sale on March 15, were made. Mrs. D. R. Blenis and Mrs. Edward Reynolds served coffee and cake to the 30 guests at the meeting.

Tredwell and Blodgett Are Missed

In a spectacular last period rally, Wisconsin hockey team trimmed Marquette university, 3 to 1, on the Varsity rink yesterday afternoon. A handful of fans stood around the ice enclosure and shivered while the teams fought for supremacy.

Weakened by the loss of two regular players, Tredwell, goal, and Blodgett, defense, the Badgers were unable to get going in the first two periods. Lack of team play was noticeable, but in the last period, the Vinnermen stepped out and caged three goals in quick succession.

Johnson Scores Twice

Fiske slapped in a difficult shot and evened up the score. E. E. Johnson, who starred throughout, drove the puck to the net twice and clinched the game for Wisconsin. Marquette scored its lone tally in the first period when Callopy stood a short distance in front of the cage and pushed the puck past Kubusch, tending goal in place of Tredwell.

Willis Wood, speedy skater who was sent to Lake Placid, N. Y., to compete in races there, saw service with the Badgers. He played right defense.

Although it was only the eighth time the Marquette outfit had been on the rink as a regular team, the Hilltoppers put up an excellent game. They relied more upon individual play than did Wisconsin, but with Callopy and Carle working together they took many shots at the net.

Marquette had the puck in Wisconsin territory for a large part of the first period. After several failures, the Hilltoppers scored when Callopy took an easy shot after a dash down the rink. Neither team gained any advantage in the second period, but Wisconsin "did its stuff" in the third when Fiske and Johnson caged three goals. Johnson's strong offensive work kept Wisconsin in the lead.

Capt. Howard Combacker played a dependable game at center and was instrumental in many of the team rallies. He carried the puck down the rink several times, but was unable to drive it past the goal-tender.

In an effort to get his team started on the road to victory, Coach A. K. Viner made numerous substitutions.

REGIMENTAL BAND PLAYS SATURDAY

The First Regimental band, assisted by Prof. L. L. Townsend, pianist and Prof. E. Earl Swinney, baritone, will offer a complimentary concert at 4:30 o'clock next Saturday, in Music hall. The public is invited to attend. The concert has been planned because of the many visitors to be in Madison the coming week. It is primarily to entertain the Richland Center boy's band, the Madison High school band, the short course students, and the visitors of the Little International Stock show and their friends, but it is not limited to these groups. The band extends the courtesy to the public.

GAMBLES ON THE GAME

We have the idea along with the rest of the conference people that Wisconsin has learned a surprising way of delivering basketball knock-outs and so we're going along with the lucky few hundred tomorrow night to see exactly how it's done, —expecting a real battle in the bargain.

And on the side we're making a few bets.

We bet that there's going to be a howling crowd there just anxious enough to see Wisconsin stay in the championship running that they'll get suspicious of some decisions and not only howl but hoot.

And we bet also that if they do, there's going to be some fouls called on the hooters, because the same officials are going to be there that called two such fouls on Wisconsin in a championship game with Illinois back in 1919. And we're thinking that this game is going to be won by one or two points.

We bet that there won't be any entertainment between halves. We've asked it every game so far and it hasn't come yet. But we're hoping we're wrong.

We bet that the athletic department is feeling happy because they distributed the precious pasteboards in the record time of 1 hour 40 minutes. Bravo! But for the sake of those who waited an hour and more, why not break the record again and bring it down to about 45 minutes? Another distribution table ought to do it.

We bet that if a legislator attends that game, he'll go right down to the capitol and introduce a bill for a new gymnasium that'll be big enough to let the whole legislature see the games together with maybe half the student body that wants to go. Or if he's a real thoughtful legislator, and there's still some money in the state treasury, maybe he would introduce a bill for a gymnasium that would take care of about 12,000 spectators as Iowa's does.

And we bet that the legislature would pass the bill in a dozen years or so.

Then there's the game proper. We hesitate. But we're going to bet a nickel for and against with our newest nickel placed for Wisconsin.

FIRST IN THE WORLD

An ambitious statement it is, to be sure, but we investigated and as far as we can learn The Cardinal is the first college paper in the world to broadcast daily its news by radiophone.

There is a certain pride in knowing that you are first among all men to do a thing and in our particular case there is a large satisfaction in knowing that the service of distributing timely university news to alumni is a real and welcome service.

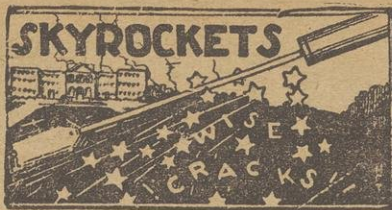

But there is more than local pride and alumni interest to be attached to the plan.

Supporters of athletics and Wisconsin have bewailed consistently the fact that Wisconsin's teams have not been allowed to emerge from their Big Ten seclusion to show the world what they can do, and ultimately to advertise Wisconsin.

Were Wisconsin being advertised by athletic teams, that advertising would reach the few who watched the games and the relatively few who watch sport pages. As it is, beginning next Tuesday with the Cardinal radio plan, not the relatively few with sport inclinations will be reading Wisconsin advertising but the relatively many, —millions,—with all varieties of inclinations, will be hearing Wisconsin advertising. And they will hear it not once in a sport season but every day.

We are assuming a direct benefit to Wisconsin, since advertising is as essential to the progress and welfare of an educational institution as it is to a banking or a business institution.

Advertising is the thing that attracts and brings big minded professors and high calibre students to an educational center. It's the thing that makes the stranger in after years say, "Oh, you're a Wisconsin man! I've heard a lot about Wisconsin,—a fine school it is."

Now days you've got to read thru Editorials, Movie Chats, Bygone Days,

With our Contemptible Editors, And the staff matshead, before Eliminating Those That Ain't and Those That Is SkYROCKETS!

We met the cheapest guy in the world yesterday. He beat a $1-a-year man out of his job by offering to do the same work for 98 cents.

DO YOU KNOW HER?

There's a nice little girl at our house—
Y'uh bet, she's awfully nice,
She only has one trouble,
She won't listen to advice.

We thought of a way to cure her

So she'd never fuss again,
Got a date with a Delt,
You can see how we felt,
Now she isn't so nice, she won't take advice,
And she's broken her pledge at our house.

(Sing the last line as if you were attending a church this morning.)

OUR DAILY EDITORIAL

Two hundred and twenty-two athletes ran after a little stick which they called a baton during the relay carnival last night. How many of these sterling young men, including Boning, Horace Taggart, O'Brien and Hilberts would ever think of running out to get their fraternity brothers a little—what is it, you Americans call it? Roman rouge! None, I answer, none. It is a damnable shame, and I will see that it is taken up at the next chapter meeting. The thing must stop. Too many of us are humanly weak and need something strong to bolster us up on Saturday night. Where can we get it? How can I tell when you can hardly tell? Nevertheless it must be done and the Stars and Stripes will wave forever over the Sigma Phi chapter house even though it is just outside the three mile limit.

The scene was on the Theta porch,
The night was dark and stormy,
And all of a sudden, a man walked
Up to the porch.
"That is my date," 126 Thetas cried from their respective rooms.
They were all right.
It was the milkman.

The shades of night were falling fast,
It was the will of Fate,
That I had to write these rockets
And break a brand new date.

"There's nothing in it," said the dry goods merchant as he foolishly wrapped up an empty shirtwaist box.

Show $1000,000 Horse Team Here

The $100,000 six horse team of Clydsdales owned by Wilson and company, Chicago packers, will arrive in a special express car at Madison, next Thursday, in order that the prize winning animals may be fitted for their exhibition performance at the Little International Live Stock show and Winter Farm Festival that is to be held at the College of Agriculture next Friday and Saturday.

For five consecutive years, this balanced sextette of clydes has won the world champion team honors at the International Live Stock show, Chicago. Each of these times, the team was matched with the best horses in both Europe and America, but the Wilson outfit has always emerged victorious.

Team Tours World

The prize winning aggregation has thrice toured the world, winning the popular applause even in Scotland, where the Clydes are more popular than any other breed of animals.

The horses travel in special car by the first class passage and their car is attached to the regular passenger train of the railroad that is selected to carry the animals. A retinue of grooms, a veterinarian, and a trainer accompany the horses.

Although the Clydes are ponderous in weight, they are gentle as kittens, and respond to the word of their trainer with amazing alacrity, according to the owners of the team.

Their driver and trainer, Frank Housely, knows their peculiarities, and is said to be able to handle them when harnessed in pairs.

Although the team has won many honors, they are required to perform daily work about the Wilson and company headquarters. The exercise furnishes them with the health and vigor that is essential to success in competition with other select teams. However only the best drivers are ever trusted with the spirited animals.

To Be Seen Saturday

Once every month the horses are given a thorough physical examination by a special veterinarian. Their teeth are carefully examined, and their diet regulated so that they will not become over weight. No special feeds are given the animals, according to their trainer, but they are fed regularly, and are shielded from severe weather that may impair their health.

The team will be driven into the arena of the University Stock pavilion during the Wisconsin Little International Live Stock show next Saturday night. The Richland Center champion high school band of the state is scheduled to furnish the music during the exhibition driving of the sextette.

Tickets are on sale by mail and may be procured from H. C. Schaefer, Agricultural hall. The price of the tickets is 75c and $1.00 each.

At Local Theaters This Week

By CHATTY

The performances which are to be shown at the Madison theaters this week have long been heralded by posters and anxiously awaited by students. This week seems to be a banner one all the way around.

Edith Clifford is returning to the Orpheum the first part of the week in her piano comedy act. Last season she was so good that the management kept her a whole week. "Yarmark" is the title of the Russian revue which is featuring at the vaudeville house the second half. This night at a carnival promises gay Russian costumes, dancing and singing.

At the Strand, "Ninety And Nine" will be shown the first four days of the week. Colleen Moore thriller. The picturization of F. Scott Fitzgerald's "The Beautiful And Damned" will follow at the Strand with Marie Prevost, Kenneth Harlan and Harry Meyers.

A William de Mille picture starring Bebe Daniels and Lewis Stone will be on at the Majestic all week. It is called "The World's Applause" and deals with the widespread passion for publicity that animates certain folks in public life and of the evil consequences that befall when scandal comes.

The idol of many a theater fan will be seen at the Parkway all of this week, except Saturday, in the screen version of her best play. Laurette Taylor in "Peg O' My Heart,"—it recommends itself.

John Bascom Had Training Of Scholar

Early Environment Had Much to Do With Later Life

Born at Genoa, N. Y., in 1827, John Bascom, the fifth president of the university, was destined to be brought up under the most rigid of religious supervision. Perhaps it was because of his early environment that he made one of the most beloved, most respected, most admired presidents the university has ever had.

At Williams, where he graduated in 1849, he was the outstanding figure among the undergraduates, according to his classmates. His masterful handling of mathematics was what astonished his comrades in particular.

Publishes Books

After graduating at the Andover Theological seminary he returned to his alma mater where, much to his dislike, he became professor of rhetoric. Mathematics, philosophy, theology, psychology were his favorite subjects and he would have preferred to teach them. Yet, in spite of his dislike for instructing a rhetoric class, he published a number of books pertaining to the subject.

During the 19 years in which he held this position at Williams he wrote a vast amount of material on philosophical, ethical, religious and psychological nature.

When, in 1874, the regents of the university were casting about for a man to succeed President Twombly, Doctor Chadbourne, who had preceded Twombly and who was then at Williams, recommended John Bascom for the office. He was forthwith chosen and left Williams immediately, coming to Wisconsin in the spring of 1874.

With the exception of President Van Hise, Doctor Bascom has held the chair of the university longer than any other man.

He left his duties here in 1887 and returned to Williams where he became professor of political science.

Praises His Ability

In the Wisconsin Alumni magazine for November, 1911, published shortly after Doctor Bascom's death, President Birge says this of him: "He brought to this place prompt and efficient executive powers; a leadership at once masterful and reasonable; a policy dominated by transparent sincerity and concern for the public good. The university found in him an unrivaled teacher."

"He waked with us and was of us. Student and teacher alike saw in him the life of every day, raised and glorified by forces which might be theirs as well as his."

Because of shyness which he lamented, Doctor Bascom was perhaps in not very close personal touch with most of the few students who attended Wisconsin in the eighties. To some he may have seemed curt, unsympathetic, dogmatic. But to those who understood him, these characteristics were hardly evident.

In those days when the institution was little more than a college, the students would all gather in Music hall and listen to a talk by Doctor Bascom. His will was their law. He did not drive; he simply asked, and some prank, which was perhaps harmful, was stopped.

Many there are still living who remember John Bascom with the greatest of feeling, awe and respect.

Native of Bombay Enters College of Agriculture

The recent enrollment of D. R. Da Boo, a native of Bombay, India, who arrived in this country recently further increases the university's international colony of students. Da Boo is enrolled as a graduate student in the College of Agriculture and intends to make a two-year study of intensive farming and of machinery for farm use. He received his B. A. degree from the University of Bombay in 1918 and his B. S. degree in 1919.

A musical comedy, "Tangerine," will play at the Parkway Saturday matinee and evening. Although Julia Sanderson, who made a success of the production in New York will not be in the cast, several members of the company coming here were in the original cast. The company plays in Chicago, beginning next week.

MARY AGNES DOYLE TO GIVE DRAMATIC READING

Madison play lovers will have a rare treat March 1 when Mary Agnes Doyle will read "The White-headed Boy" in 165 Bascom hall under the auspices of the Wisconsin University Players.

As a teacher, Miss Doyle was three years in charge of the department of voice and diction in the Cummo school of expression, Los Angeles, and for a year on the faculty of the Northwestern university school of oratory.

As an actress, she spent a season with the Donald Robertson Players of Chicago, two years with the New Theatre Company under the direction of Withrop Ames in New York, and an extended engagement as the lead in the modern morality play, "Happiness."

CASALS PLAYS AT MEN'S GYM NEXT TUESDAY

Pablo Casals will play before a Madison audience for the second time on Tuesday evening in the men's gymnasium under the auspices of the Union board.

Casals was on last winter's concert series, and proved such a favorite with Madison audiences that he was included in this winter's series.

Prof. Charles H. Mills, of the School of Music, in speaking of Pablo Casals, says that he is without doubt the greatest cellist in the world.

"His style is one of classic purity—he never over or underdoes; he seldom misses the mark," said Dr. Mills. "In the hands of Casals the cello becomes a charmed instrument. Its range of expression is equally only by that of the human voice."

"Casals proved one of the most popular artists on last year's program, and Union board certainly did well in choosing so popular and so artistic a musician. All those who heard him last year will be anxious to hear him again, and there will be many more wanting to hear him," said Dr. Mills.

Tickets for the concert are almost gone. The remaining ones can be purchased at the Albert E. Smith Music company for $1.50. There will be placed on sale Tuesday morning 100 seats at $1 each.

BLONDE SONGSTER WILL FEATURE ORPH BILL

A vision of blonde beauty with a wealth of wisdom in slang is Edith Clifford, coming to the Orpheum this afternoon. Miss Clifford has a series of special song numbers which are descriptive and up-to-date. Accompanying Miss Clifford will be Zella Ingraham, also a blonde of Miss Clifford's type.

Clyde Hager and Walter Goodwin, well known popular song writers, will appear in an act called "The Ballyboob."

The "Grouch Killers," Miller, Packer and Selz, will offer their cure for the blues. This trio will feature clever talk and smart songs.

Page, Hack and Mack in "Wait for the Finish" and one other act will complete the show for the first half.

Floating School Will Make Long Cruise Next Fall

A floating college with hobo students will make a 50,000 mile cruise touching on various ports throughout the world thereby combining travel experience with classroom study if the idea of Col. E. T. Winston, Atlanta, Ga., a retired army officer and millionaire, materializes.

"This is not a new idea at all, for we find evidence of travel for education in the literature of all epochs," Prof. V. A. C. Henmon, director of the School of Education said yesterday regarding this project.

World is Campus

"The Germans regarded their 'Vanderyahr', a year of travel, as the polishing up of their education. Goethe's 'Wilhelmmeister' tells of the travelogue of a German student."

"John Locke even advises a year of travel for the completion of a thorough education."

Picture for a moment, this ship college with the wide world for a campus, with a rocking, rolling library hall, with the waves dashing against the portholes of the classroom.

Picture, then, the students, educated hoboes, studying to the rhythm of the waves, gazing upon the passive, expressionless Sphinx of Egypt, riding in the ginrickshaws of Japan, dancing the tango in Buenos Ayres. Is it not a tempting education?

"The scheme does not seem very practical to me," Professor Henmon continued. "There are so many things which are likely to distract the student. A ship is the best place I know for one to do absolutely nothing."

Expenses are High

"Such a college would be greatly limited. Laboratory work would be well nigh impossible and that is the great advantage of the college education."

"Expenses for the upkeep of a corps of teachers, the facilities of the school and the maintenance of the vessel would be so great that only the wealthy students could afford such an education," Professor Henmon asserted.

"Travel and education, however, would work very well together in such studies as history, literature and sociology, but a ship could not accommodate the facilities necessary for scientific work."

"This project would be excellent training for high school students, for they are within the field of general knowledge whereas the college is usually the place of specialization," Professor Henmon concluded.

The ship college is to begin its cruise on September 15 and carry 400 students representing every state in the Union. High school and university courses will be offered on the nine months voyage.

"Something I can do for you?" A big athletic, two-fisted fellow had just spread himself out over the counter.

"If that 'Pen Specialist' you advertise so much means anything, maybe you can. Otherwise I guess not. No one else was ever able to do anything for me. See here?" And he bore down on his pen like a man trying to cut a tough steak.

"Well, no wonder your pen won't work. That pen is too flexible for your pressure. You spread the nib until you break the capillary every time. That pen never was suited to your hand. Try this one."

"There it is! That's the stuff! What kind of a point do you call that?"

"That is a Manifold point. It is made of especially heavy gold, and won't bend even when a person bears down as hard as you do."

"Well, that's what I want, anyway. (he liked the feeling of it so well that he kept right on writing.) 'I wonder why the fellow back home that sold me that pen didn't see what I wanted. (More writing) 'Maybe he wasn't a Pen Specialist,' and he smiled as he looked up. 'Here, put in a point like this one and it will be just the ticket.'

It is just this sort of thing that is going on all the time at four universities, in four Rider's Pen Shops. It is this intimate knowledge of pen users' needs, and the equipment for doing the work promptly that has made the Riders the

The Question Stated

A series of sermons, one every Sunday evening for five weeks, are to take up the question of the Relation of Religion to Scientific Thought. They are intended for those whose concepts of this relationship are not clearly defined; and they will prove beneficial to all who attend.

The interest which university men and women have shown in this field of philosophy has been so great that these sermons will be considered by many as a necessary supplement to the University course of study. The Rev. H. H. Lumpkin is to deliver the addresses at Grace Church every Sunday evening during Lent at 7:30, beginning tonight.

U. S. GARDENS SHOW ADVANCE

No Longer Necessary to Go to Italy For Landscape Art, Says Lecturer

"Landscape gardening has become so popular and has progressed so greatly in America during the last few years that it is no longer necessary to go to Italy in order to see beautiful gardens," Signora Olivia Rossette Agresti, who is from Rome, said Friday afternoon in an illustrated lecture "Italian Gardens and Fountains," given under the auspices of the university lecture committee in 165 Bascom hall.

"Like other arts, landscape gardening had its roots buried in the past. It first began in ancient Rome which is said to have had more than one-eighth of its territory devoted to public gardens. Roman gardens were very symmetrical and differed from those of modern times. The Roman gardeners created the gardens to suit the landscape and did not create landscapes as practiced today.

"During the middle ages the art was almost entirely forgotten and only preserved in the convents and monasteries. People lived in thick walled fortified castles and had no room for beautiful gardens. Even those in the monasteries were small and surrounded by walls which is shown in old illustrations.

"During the Renaissance period landscape gardening was revived and flourished in Florence, Genoa, Milan and other Italian city states, but particularly in Tuscany. The merchant princes of these cities built themselves homes instead of fortresses, with gardens and parks, many of which still exist in much the same form as then. However, to see the gardens in their greatest splendor, one must go to Rome, the 'garden city.'

"Water, stone, and evergreen trees are the principal attractions of the Italian gardens. Every garden has its ponds and artificial streams, and surrounding walls with stone jars on top containing flowers and small trees. Everywhere one sees statues, many of which are quite valuable and were unearthed when the foundations of the village were dug."

According to a recent ruling of the Women's Pan-Hellenic association, there will be no more promenading after 7:30 o'clock by co-eds at Indiana university unless accompanied by a male student.

Ever try eating Sunday evening supper at St. Francis Clubhouse? All Episcopal students (and their friends, too) who haven't yet acquired the delightful habit of dropping in for these chummy gatherings before the clubhouse fire are especially invited to do so now. The programs in connection are being given, this Lent, entirely by students interested in the work—of the students, by the students, for the students, you know. Tonight the program will be headed by an address, "Religion in Student Life," by H. S. Rubel; and W. W. Dunlap will conduct the service which follows.

WOFSY WRITES SPANISH PLAY

Instructor's Farce Will Be Presented By Club This Spring

"La Nuestro Diputado", in English, "Our Future Congressman" is the title of a new play written by S. A. Wofsy, instructor in Romance languages, which will be used as the vehicle for the Spanish club's dramatic production this year.

The play, which is a farce in three acts, will be off the press the first of next month, and is to be used as a reader in the 10a and 10b Spanish classes. It is being published by "El Instituto de Las Espanas" a Spanish-American society organized for literary purposes and the furtherance of Spanish in this country.

The farce, according to Mr. Wofsy, was written especially for the university Spanish club and takes in not only dramatic ability, but also musical and dancing talent. It deals with the escapades of Spanish students in Madrid and the interior of Spain.

"The play", he said "is not written with a high literary viewpoint, but is an effort to give the students an entertaining performance which they can understand and appreciate. It is in easy, fairly idiomatic Spanish and has an atmosphere with which students the world over are familiar."

Several one-act plays by Mr. Wofsy have been dramatized by the Spanish club, but this is his first big one and the first to be published.

The cast for the comedy includes:

LIT SOCIETIES DISCUSS TAXES, SHIPPING BILL

At their regular Friday meetings the Literary societies' principal topics for discussion were the ship subsidy bill, a proposed constitutional amendment affecting marriage and divorce laws, the first state highway tax bill, and the French invasion of the Ruhr valley.

The main feature of the program of Agricultural Literary society was a debate on the ship subsidy bill now before Congress. Songs, special talks, and other interesting bits of entertainment completed the evening.

In Hesperia Literary society, the principal feature was a debate on the question "Resolved, that an amendment to the Federal Constitution be adopted authorizing Congress to enact uniform marriage and divorce laws." A speech entitled "Does Money Talk?" and a parliamentary drill completed the program.

Philomathia's representation consisted of a talk on a new labor plan now being tried in San Francisco, and a representation of both the French and German views concerning the invasion of the Ruhr valley. A general society discussion followed. President Rawson then presented outlined details of parliamentary procedure. Two new members, Sam D. Thompson '24 and Norton V. Smith '26 were elected.

In Athena, the program consisted of a debate on the first state highway tax bill, a talk on Daniel Boone, and a discussion of recent aircraft developments. Newly elected officers were formally installed.

Miss R. E. Morgan '21, advertising manager of Manchester's, spoke to the Advertising club Thursday evening on the value of college education in advertising. The Advertising club has planned an extensive program for this semester. Many speakers from Madison and out of town have been invited to speak.

Band work is a regular course in the Richland Center high school, and credit is given toward graduation. This system has been in operation for five years, and musical talent has been developed at Richland Center to such an extent that a 150-piece combined city and high school band can be called together at one time.

The band is being sent under the auspices of the Richland Center Kiwanis club. The players will give a free concert in the stock pavilion at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The players will also furnish the music for the evening performance of the Little International.

Gillettes Unknown In House of David

Shaves and haircuts are cardinal sins.

This belief, one in the creed of the House of David, a religious colony at Benton Harbor, Mich., is due to the fanatic mind of Benjamin Purnell, according to the opinion of Prof. E. B. McGilvery of the philosophy department.

"Every age has its religious fanatics who are strong enough to convert other people to their ideas," Professor McGilvery declared yesterday.

"Benjamin Purnell, leader of the strange cult, is a man of this type. Often at the death of these influential leaders the colony is broken up. If it is sufficiently well established it may continue for a long period of time."

The first divorce in the annals of the cult was granted recently to Ross Smiley, alleged Israelite. His wife was Lucile Wheeler Smiley, who is believed to be in Portland, Ore. The marriage anti-climax came close on the heels of a damage suit for $800,000 against Purnell, leader.

A mystic garden containing "health wells" is maintained by the members of the House of David. Along with their unique religious rites, the members manage a amusement park, a bearded baseball team and a ladies' band.

"The effect of such an organization on society is negligible unless it develops to such proportions that large numbers of people embrace the doctrine. Usually, however, only the small group within the colony is affected."

Nakoma Bus Missed On Trip In Six Years

SCENE FROM "THE NINETY AND NINE"

He picked up the smoking revolver and assumed blame for a crime he never committed. He did it for a girl and expected her to follow him, but she was already engaged to another. He took the downward path after escaping on a locomotive and years later was recognized by driving an engine through miles of blazing forest to rescue the inhabitants of a village. The story is told in "The Ninety and Nine," with Warner Baxter as the boy and Gertrude Astor as the girl.
