A Trick

Long ago they say there was an old woman who had a daughter that these men all liked. One many showed up and as always the old woman just hated him. She made this one man angry so he sought a way to trick the old woman. Then he planned out a way. He went to the river she used for dipping and it must have been almopst the time that the old woman would go for water. He sat in the water and when she got there to get water, he spoke up and the old woman died. She hated them. All there was was a pail. So her daughter went home and they fattened her up and took her to where the young man lives. They say that is how he outwitted the old woman.
