WASHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

Oh, Book go forth To limit's end; To young and old Our greeting send.

To elder folk new life to bring
By telling them of younger ways;
To boys and girls, of hopes to sing
And bring in dreams of High School days.

Now Book, go forth O'er sea and land; Make known your worth Of High School brand.

Dismally over the roofs
The cold spring rain is sweeping.
Silently up from the boy
The mist is creeping, creeping.

Slowly over the town,
The wings of night are falling.
Mournfully out from the shores
The waves are calling, calling.

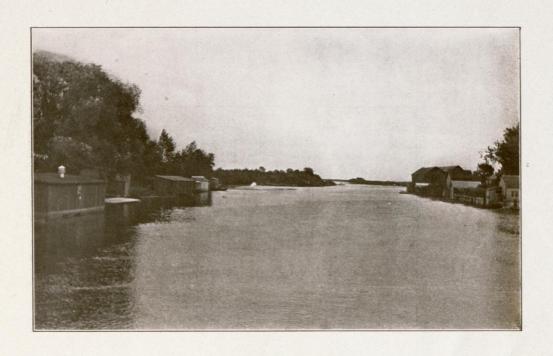

Going to Catch It
"Wish I had on my foot ball pants"

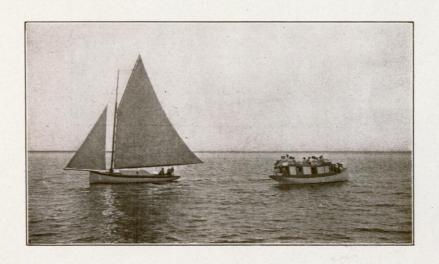

IN AFTER YEARS

If thou art worn and hard beset
With sorrow that thou wouldst forget;
If thou wouldst read a lesson that will keep
Thy cares from throbbing and put thy woes to sleep;
Just ope this book, and thou wilt find
Some joy within to soothe thy mind.

SUPERINTENDENT M. R. STANLEY

"You are large, Mr. Stanley," the young man said,

"And your hair is exceedingly curly.

But tell me, when you are out nights with the boys,

Are the hours you keep late or early?"

"In days long gone by," Mr. Stanley replied,

"I stayed out as late as I chose, But now I've a wife and if I'm in late, She meets me down stairs with the hose."

"You are wise, Mr. White," the young man said,

"And of brains you must have a good store.

But since you have married our pretty Miss Dietz,
Do you have a fat wad any more?"

"Let me tell you my friend," Mr. White made reply,

"You are talking to me through your hat.

For when you've a wife in a woman like her,
You don't know when your pocket book's flat."

"You are long Mr. Nussel," the young man said,

"Yet you chum with our short Mr. Meyer.

Now tell me if in all good friendship like this,
Equal height one don't need to acquire?"

"Nay, nay, my young man," Mr. Nussel replied,

"My friend may be short on his pegs, But when in a mob at a basket ball game, He can keep the kids off from my legs."

"You are coy, Miss Shuart," the young man said,

"And Miss Rasmussen's surely your mate.

But do you think it right to disturb all the hearts

Of the many young fellows who wait?"

"Have no fear my good friend," Miss Shuart replied,

"For the heart of the average young man.

For Allie and I have assailed it in vain,

And others may try if they can."

"You're sedate Miss LeTourneaux," the young man said,

"And are French beyond doubt, that we know. But would it not be if you sailed o'er the sea, That to Ireland first you would go?"

"Well I should say not," Miss LeTourneaux replied,

"I'll never be Ireland's guest,
But soon in an old prairie schooner afloat,
My course shall be north by northwest."

The Light Brigade

Eagerly, cheerfully, steadily onward Into the world of work marched the brave seniors. Forward their motto brave, Ours the Whole World to Save Noble old Seniors.

> Hard work in front of them, Good times behind them, Glory surrounding them, Saw the brave Seniors. Envied by students all, Prompt to each teacher's call, Into the favor of all, Rose the fair Seniors.

When can their glory fade?
O, the great plans they made!
All the school wondered.
Honor the Seniors dear,
How we shall miss them here,
When they have gone next year,
Nineteen twelve Seniors.

In Memorium

Cora Benrietta Boutotte

Class of 1912

She was born December 12th, 1891 in the City of Oconto and lived here until her demise May 26, 1910. She entered from the Washington School.

Cora was a bright and cheerful little body, and all who knew her appreciated her sterling worth and inmate goodness of character. Many of us remember her mischievous pranks and sunny disposition: but the memory that is lasting with us is, that Cora was a true womanly girl, whose departure was keenly felt by all her friends in the class of 1912.

school there was quite young and fair,
Even as you and I.
And its teacher force was on the square,
Even as you and I.
Its students were a jolly set,
Some were fools (not soon but yet)
But the safest way is not to bet,
Even as you and I.

At morning first the bell does ring,
Even as you and I.
The pupils cease to shout and sing,
Even as you and I.
From half past eight till five to ten,
They study steadily (now and then)
Some even use a fountain pen,
Even as you and I.

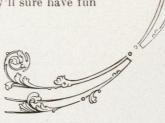

Then recess comes with joy divine,
Even as you and I.
And everyone is feeling fine,
Even as you and I.
But soon the bell it rings once more,
The kids flock back thru the open door
And wallow deep in history's gore
Even as you and I.

Even as you and I.

The students in their books do delve,
Even as you and I.

Then to their homes they shortly go
To fill that empty void below
And the way they fill it isn't slow
Even as you and I.

At quarter past one they're back once more,
Even as you and I.
To read Bill Snakespeare's ancient lore,
Even as you and I.
But soon their task at school is done,
At quarter past three they homeward run,
From then till morning they'll sure have fun
Even as you and I.

A PARODY

Somewhat back from the village street, Stands the old High School, trim and heat; Across its length of spacious hall, The steps of tardy students fall; The main-room clock bemoans their fate, "When will you cease to come in late?"

Forever—Never! Never—Forever!

Half way up the stairs they pause, Repeat again the High School laws; "Cloak rooms locked eight thirty-five, To come on time we'll surely strive;" But next day they will come in late, And then the old clock mourns their fate,

> Forever—Never! Never—Forever!

Never on time, Forever late, Shall be each tardy pupil's fate; And soon these laggards disappear, Forever there, but never here; The horologe of Eternity, Sayeth this incessantly,

Forever—Never! Never—Forever!

If Capt. Hall is given a military funeral when he dies, what will happen when general merchandise?

Say, can a cigar-box? No, but a tomato-can.

If Oconto is a harbor, is Delaport?

If Irving Breakstone would Hilda Bendrock?

If Jake lost would Ethelwyn?

If the Sophomores established a dray line, what should Agnes Hall?

If Miss Flirty Eyes should fall into the river, would Charley Caesar?

Say, should we bake bread if we don't knead it?

When Antonio paid Shylock did he use a Leon Bond?

"And Say, there wasn't one chance in a thousand!"

BEAR'S OIL CLUB

Our students are protected by the safest type of fire escape yet devised.

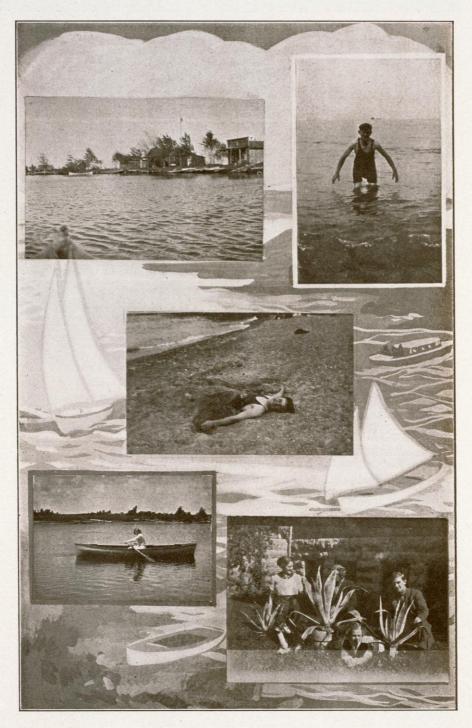

A typical Oconto Scene. Literally millions of feet of logs in one pile.

MORE HOUN DAWG

Whenever the principal goes out of town,
The pupils start kickin' us teachers aroun':
We scold them and fire them and do what we can,
But you might as well speak to a big piece of ham;
They turn a deaf ear to our sayings so bright,
Or else smile and listen 'til we think it's all right:
But as sure as the Principal goes out of town,
Those pupils start kickin' us teachers aroun'.

Once things got too wild to suit us just right,
So we made up our minds we'ed just shut them up tight:
We fired the people who wouldn't behave,
And vowed that we'd haunt them right down to the grave;
We said we'd have order or no school at all,
And sent the girls crying out into the hall;
For even if the Principal is out of town,
They've got to quit kickin' us teachers aroun'.

SPRING FEVER

The Travels of a Toy Monkey

Russell had a monkey toy, He played with it each day, And tho it would not wiggle much, He threw it not away.

He brot that toy to school one day, Which was against the rule; Mr. Nussel took it from him And enjoyed it after school.

And when he jigged it long and hard, He threw it on the floor; Then Mr. Meyer picked it up, And wiggled it some more.

He gave the toy to Mr. White, Who played to save his life; At night he took it home with him, And gave it to his wife.

She brot it back to school next day, To Miss LeTourneaux gave it; She lost it from the window sill, And Mr. Stanley saved it.

He wiggled it a little while, And then Miss Shuart got it; She kept it for a 1 ng, long time, Till all the others sought it.

She gave it to Miss Rasmussen, Who that it wiggled fine; She played with it a century, And passed it long the ilne.

Now if you see a teacher, Whose hands work in a hustle; The monkey that he's wiggling, One time belonged to Russell.

"Every pine and fir and hemlock wore ermine too dear for an earl."

Willis had a piece of gum, which was as white as snow, And everywhere that Willis went the gum was sure to go. He chewed the gum in school one day, which was against the rule, Teacher took the gum away and chewed it after school.

While yet in his youth, Erwin Bitters, Was given a plateful of fritters, He swallowed them all, And became a mile tall, Ne'er-the-less, he's so bright that he glitters.

Now we are jolly good Freshmen, We all get to school on time, And have our lessons one and all, Be the weather rough or fine. We study hard from morn 'til night, At Latin, books, and so, We leave the rest for the teachers true, To mark us high or low.

In the Hot Class Room

Now I sit me down to sleep, I hope my chum good notes will keep, If I should snore before I wake, Do pinch my arm for pity's sake.

An Ode To The Sextette

t happened in History class one bright morn, That dear Mr. Nussel did tell us in scorn, That the "Star Spangled Banner" we would soon have to learn, And failure to do it would cause us concern.

And out of that broad minded class, There were six of the boys who were brazen as brass, Who offered to sing it rather than read, And promised to bring the song in on "high speed!"

And to cap it all fine and to make it sound good, Big Bill up before the sextette then stood, And with his baton he did lead them so well, That it caused the broad breast of our teacher to swell.

There was "Mushy" and "Chesty" who always are there, And Tiegs and Pip Heller came on with the air, Then last but not least stood the "Chink" with Don Carr, Who certainly made a harmonious bar.

And when the sextette their singing began, Mr. Nussel the tutor, just like the proud man, Went up to the front and threw open the door, When in came the rest of the teachers galore.

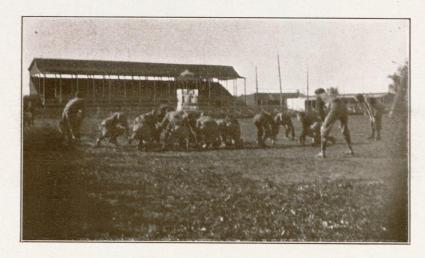

They stood and each looked at the next in surprise, And then all at once their eyes met in surmise, They spoke not a word till the singing was done, And then altogether they laughed as in fun.

The rest of the students applauded the song, And made a great clamor the fun to prolong, They clapped their hands hard so to get an encore, But after the "Mill Stream" they wished for no more.

Mr. Nussel ne'er called for a song after that, He knew that the boys of his class would stand pat, And from then until now he has had no more songs, For alas! The sextette has been hooked with the tongs.

Appleton-Oconto Game

Let me hear the football signals, On or near the ten yard line, Then I know they'll make a touchdown, For our boys can "sure" play fine.

There was a young man from Mountain came Ready to strike out on the road to fame, Imbued with socialist tendencies rare, He had dark grey eyes and jet black hair.

He hails from the ancient Norsemen stock, And with our High School he's cast his lot, The laborer's his friend and yet withal that, He despicably hates the rich plutocrat.

A lust for pleasure—assimilating of knowedge, With a much mooted desire for going to college; Noted for possessing executive agility, Renowned far and wide for stage managing ability.

Alas-adieu friend of calibre great, Hope they'll all vote the Socialist slate, And may you in future this assemblage astound, And dwell for long decades in pleasures profound.

Miss Ellen Peake, at one time a beloved teacher in this High School, now of Oshkosh State Normal School, whose official visit to us in January makes one of the harmonies of the year's memories.

The Janitor

When at last the school day is over, And the pupils have started to roam, When the last of the teachers have vanished, And all have sought shelter at home, Comes the Janitor, boss of the building. And with him are several brooms: And then for two long weary hours, He endeavors to sweep out the rooms. But after the sweeping is over, And the rooms are pretty near clean, He goes down into the basement, And tries to shut off all the steam: This is not a real hard proposition, It's the easiest one he has got, But the job that calls for hard thinking, Is trying to get the school hot. It is funny about these school buildings, That whenever you want the heat most, As a usual thing you won't get it. And when you don't want it, you roast. But we cannot express an opinion, And it's no use to raise a great cry: For should the Janitor really get angry, We'd come out with a black and blue eve. And no matter wherever you wander. Or no matter whenever you roam, You'll not find a Janitor's building, A place to be called home sweet home.

Poet Laureate

Now fickle Fame, I'm on your track, My Laura writes that she will meet me, And says to see her lover back Will make her glad enough to eat me.

Then I'll make haste! why longer roam? When honors just before me wait, For I have only to go home, To be the poet Laura ate.

The room was in a ferment, Had been since school began; For all had seen the advent Of Minerva Quimby's man.

Many uestions were propounded, Vague theories were astir; But no answer seemed well founded, When he came in with her.

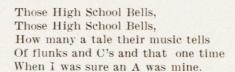

We have sought for a suggestion, A prize to him who can Answer quickly this hard question, Where Minerva got her man?

Why Teachers Go Crazy

From a Freshman Composition.

Her head is gracefully poised over her well rounded figure. She is dark complected, dark eyes, and eye brows, rosy lips and all crowned with her mass of dark hair.

Little deeds of kindness, To a teacher now and then, Raises oft our standings From a zero up to ten.

Donald and William were two youthful men, They lay in their beds till the clock struck ten, Then up jumped Donald and looked at the sun, Get up dear Sullivan, "School's almost done."

A real big man we have at school, Whose name is Mr. Stanley; He often comes here to visit us, And brings his wife and family.

A fellow by name of Bellow, With eyes of a delicate hue, Was so very shy That when the girls came nigh, He would turn around quick and skideo.

In school we have a fellow named White, They say that he is exceedingly bright, But in mathematics, He has his fanatics, Which last him from morning till night.

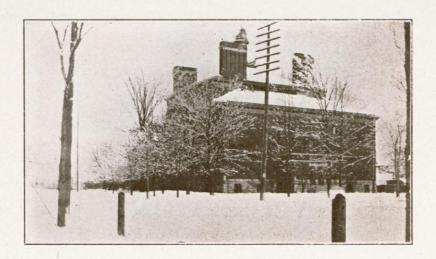

YESTERYEAR

The old house stands with porches wide, To beaten paths on either side, That lead beyond the garden gate, To where the swallow greets his mate, To where the lawn is fresh and green, Where lilacs bloom and roses gleam, The peonies dipped in pinks and reds, Above the side walks nod their heads. The dandelions fading ere the night, While morning dews bring hosts to sight, But Ah! those paths still onward lead, When bygone memories I read.

I see the shadows of repose,
Where clusteringly the locusts grow,
I hear the song the phoebe sung,
While on her way to feed her young.
The two keen eyes that sharp did dwell,
Upon the dangers of the spell,
While accompanying every jerky note,
His nervous tail would quickly dote,
That mudplied nest remains there still,
Above the weathered window-sill,
My thoughts are there where'er I roam,
About the pleasures of that home.

O thereon mild and balmy eves,
With perfumes dancing on the breeze,
When nature in her robes of green,
Decks hill and vale gaily serene,
How beautifully her hues unfold,
A crimson sky with red and gold,
The lingering rays of setting sun,
Heaven's benediction when day is done.
And still and dimmer grows the night,
As darkness steals away the light,
These are the visions brot back to me,
From out the pale of yesterday.

The Opening of the Chestnut Burr

Teacher: "What is it William that Shakespeare tells us becomes a monarch better than a crown?"

William: "Hair."

Teacher: "Now, Truman, suppose a man gave you a hundred dollars to keep for him and then died? Would you pray for him?"

"No, sir, but I would pray for another just like him."

Teacher (returning after vacation): "Well I see you are still at your old job, Mr. Hidde."

Mr. Hidde: "O, yes, and I expect to have this job in the next world."

Teacher: "Why, how is that?"

Mr. Hidde: "Regulating heat for the school teachers."

All is not scold that titters.

Freshman: "What color did Miss Dietz turn when the Algebra teacher proposed?"

Sophomore: "Give it up."

Freshman: "White, of course."

'Tis love that makes the arms go round.

Teacher: "It isn't proper for you to say, 'You can't learn me nothing."

Freshman: "Yes it is."

Teacher: "How do you make that out?"

Freshman: Cause you can't."

Senior: "I had an awful fright at the game last night."

Junior: "Yes, I saw you with her."

A tutor who tuted to flute, tutored two young tooters to toot, Said the two to the tutor, "Is it harder to toot, or

To tutor two tooters to toot?"

Freshman: "Why has a giraffe such a long neck?"

Smart Sophomore: "Because his head is so far from his body."

Little Ike Breakstone stood on the floor, Yelling and shouting till his throat was sore; He shouted and yelled for the Seniors to win, And he jumped and he danced till he looked almost thin.

He held in his hand a cute little horn, Whose sound in the hall to the Juniors was borne: 'Twas strange that our Ikie should make such a noise, While Billie and Donald were some of the boys.

Of course they were there, as all of us know, But Ikie's robusto sure was not slow; For with it he sent encouragement true, For the Seniors did just what he wished them to do.

"INVINCIBLE" WHITE

Two Senior boys desired a stroll, And thought to take it after the roll; But e'er their plans had time to fail, They had "W" "I" upon their trail.

He overtook them after class, And asked to see their lawful pass; They failed to make their bluff look good, And there the guilty rascals stood.

He raked them till their blood grew cold— Believe me now he sure can scold— This statement at the end made he, "You cannot slip one over me."

At that the Seniors 'gan to grin, And held their sides as they went in, For they have oft as truants gone, And if in doubt ask Bill and Don.

> A brilliant glow lit up the sky, I hurried toward the glare, But on arriving hot and dry, I saw 'twas W. I.'s hair.

High School Clock, High School Clock, Humming out your tick, tick, tock, Sometimes fast, sometimes slow, Always, always, on the go.

O, how slow you do go, When dismissal time seems late. O, how quick minutes click, When a Physics quiz we take.

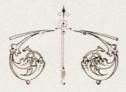

High School Clock, High School Clock, We'll remember your tick, tock When away. Yet all day We'll be guided by your sway.

There was a young fellow named Pfunder, Who never did make a big blunder, And when he was mad, the kids were all sad, Because Pfunder resounded like thunder.

"And the Alluring Piglet Flits from Flower to Flower,"

O, the silver sun was setting in the azure eastern sky, And the golden moon was shining bright as coal, The bull frog and the tree toad was twittering by the lake And the little mole was moling in his hole.

The basketball boys are the High School joys, Now the team they wanted to beat Was Oshkosh here, and Oshkosh there, But at each place they met defeat.

Five gallant players, five and no more, Tiegs was slaughtered by Oshkosh and then there were four.

Four brave players shouting full of glee, Reddy caught afire. Then there were three.

Three gallant players tried tactics new, Mushy missed a basket; then there were two.

Two brave players made a mighty run, Jake stubbed his toe. Then there was one.

One loyal player left all alone, Shawano smashed Pipo's eye. Then there were none.

Dying Gasps of the Faculty

Mr. Stanley-"Last spasm, same fit."

Mr. White-"I didn't aim to do that."

Mr. Meyer-"Me 'an Billy Wulk."

Mr. Nussel-"Hickam!"

Miss LeTourneaux-'Listen!"

Mrs. White-"Ach! Billie."

Miss Shuart-"I had the time of my young life."

Miss Rasmussen-"We didn't do that way at Waupaca."

Mr. Pfunder-"Prunes, preserves and prisms."

Miss Messenger-"One, two, ready sing."

"Wouldn't It Be Terrible?"

If-Minerva Quimby forgot to grin?

If—Irving Breakstone fell in love?

If-Anthony Martineau got excited?

If-Roland Deimer lost his Best?

If-Miss Shuart slandered Ripon?

If-Mr. Stanley had the mumps?

If-Mr. Nussel should grow stout?

If-Will Sullivan lost his voice?

If-Edward Scofield flunked?

If—Oconto turned out a championship team?

Pet Remarks of Great and Near Great

Mr. Stanley-"This is a good wagon."

Anthony Martineau-"Well for goodness' sake!"

Mr. Meyer-"U-u-mm man! Believe me! !"

James Urquhart-"Roll d'em bones."

Miss Rasmussen—"That reminds me."

Gertrude Picard-"Au g'uan."

Miss Shuart—"Oh the horse ran around with his foot on the ground."

Clyde LeClaire-"Honk! Honk!"

The First Football Team Oconto Ever Had

It was coached by W. A. Wescott, now a lawyer at Crandon, Wisconsin. It was he who, when Pierce of the University of Wisconsin, had been protested by Minnesota, went in with only three days of practice, and won that famous game for Wisconsin.

The Wearing of a Diamond is the badge of success. It denotes self respect, independence, solid worth. Diamonds are the only jewelry that increase in value with time; in fact there is no investment so sure or profitable. They double in value about every 5 years and advance more rapidly in hard times than at any other time.

The value of a diamond depends upon its quality, some are worth $90.00 a carat, others $250.00. Diamonds have a fixed standard value, they are as staple as gold. It is a simple matter for you to see that you have nothing to gain by buying away from home and the advantage of buying from some one you know to be reliable are at once apparent.

Which Shall It Be,

Manager or Employe?

Every young man or woman upon entering a business career dreams of the day when he can be the manager or president of the concern he is working for. He is ambitious and wants to win. That is right and as it should be. But have you ever thought of how much easier it would be for him to become manager or president of the corporation if he had a business training.

The Wausau Business College teaches all the principles that are necessary in any business. Office practice, commercial correspondence, commercial law, banking, principles of buying, selling or managing. When a student graduates he is prepared to enter upon a business career better equipped to earn more money, and will gain success, because he will know how business should be conducted. Many of our students are today occupying the highest positions any firm or corporation can offer anyone, some of them are in business for themselves.

Be among the First to Enroll for the Full Course

The Wausau Business College is open every month of the year. Now is the time to enter, We are taking particular pains to invite the Oconto High School graduates to correspond with us.

SEND FOR ILLUSTRATED BOOKLET—We will send upon request our illustrated booklet which will give you further information regarding classes, tuition fees, etc. Write for it today.
