Sidney Miller, Formerly Here, Made Bureau Head at Iowa

Wisconsin Man Appointed Director of Business Research Department

Dr. Sidney Lincoln Miller, professor of railway economics at the University of Iowa, and former assistant professor of economics at this university, has been made director of the newly created Bureau of Business Research at the Iowa institution. The appointment to this important post comes shortly after the starting of a brilliant career as an educator at two universities. Mr. Miller will continue to conduct classes at Iowa.

Mr. Miller, or "Sid", as he was popularly known on the Wisconsin campus, left here in 1925 to assume his duties at Iowa. Plans for the new bureau were made and consummated during his first year there. The establishment of the bureau had been under consideration for a long time. It is an immediate consequence of the interest in Iowa in the diversification of activity, the absence of which occasioned such hardship throughout the years 1921 to 1924 in the state. The director of the new bureau feels that Iowa has had too concentrated an interest in agriculture during past years.

Has Two Purposes

The bureau hopes to serve a dual purpose—serve the existing business interests of the state and aid in the development of further industrial and commercial activity. To these ends, work has been begun upon a study of the industrial growth and further opportunities of growth of Iowa, also upon certain accounting studies designed to aid Iowa retail groups.

Foundations are being laid, too, for a forecasting service designed to be of particular service to Iowa business interests, and concerned with the trend of trade activity within the state. Several marketing investigations are also under way as is a study of the influence of freight rates upon the further growth of business activity both within the state and the extension of Iowa business beyond state boundaries. Other studies planned in the field of labor, taxation, social conditions, etc., will be under way shortly.

Expect Strong Support

Influential interests within the Iowa university and throughout the state are giving support to the idea embodied in the new bureau, so generous aid is expected within a short time. As that support becomes stronger, the work of the bureau will be broadened and its personnel increased. Some ten full and part time workers are already on the staff, working directly under Mr. Miller.

During the time that Prof. Miller was connected with the local faculty, consideration was given to the establishment of a bureau similar to the Iowa bureau. Financial support (Continued on page two)

Coupon Book Sale for Year's Games Will End Today

What is said by Director of ticket sales George Levis to be the last day students can purchase coupon books for the year's athletic contests and season football games has been set for today.

The announcement from Mr. Levis' office, as given to the Daily Cardinal yesterday afternoon, states that the ticket office on Langdon street will be open from 8 until 5 o'clock and the approximately 400 coupon books with football tickets in section H of the stadium will be placed on sale. This number is said to be the last of the books which will be placed on sale for the school year.

Section H of the stadium runs from the 20 yard line to the five yard marker and the seats which are still available range in altitude from field side seats to the top of the stadium. The books are offered at the standard price of $7.50.

STRAND THEATER GETS UNIQUE CONTRIBUTION

Evidences of premature initiation stunts were found at the Strand theatre Monday night when an usher picked up a package containing three rose buds wrapped in white ribbon, a chicken's wish-bone, one cigarette, and two ten cent cigars. The strange collection was wrapped in Sunday's edition of The Cardinal. "Loser may have upon request."

REGENTS CONSIDER BID ACCEPTANCE

Decision Hoped for at Next Committee Meeting, Oct. 13

The Regents' executive committee met yesterday afternoon to consider the bid of $773,000 made by the Pfeffer construction company of Duluth for the construction of the two units of the Memorial Union building. Special attention was given to the fact that the low bid runs over the amount of cash now in the Union treasury by $100,000. Arthur Peabody, state architect, presented three plans which it was said would permit of the immediate starting of construction operations.

Each of the contracts offered for the erection of the first two units of the building was considered by the regents, but Mr. Phillips stated that it was thought necessary that more careful analysis be taken of the existing conditions before awarding the contract to any one company.

It is hoped that construction may begin in a short time, and Mr. Phillips stated that the board hopes to take a certain stand on the matter at its next meeting to be held on October 13.

Women's Glee Club Make Plans for Year, Hold Tryouts

The Women's Glee club is planning on a big program for the present school year, after their successful last year's work. Under the direction of Dr. C. H. Mills they presented a public concert and appeared before the Rotary and the Lion's clubs last winter.

In the spring a joint public concert with the Men's Glee Club was given. The club is planning to give some concerts this year outside of Madison, together with the regular Madison ones. This year the Glee Club has been very fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. E. P. Caster for its director.

Tryouts this week are open to all University women, except entering freshmen. Tryouts will be held from 3:30 to 5:30 on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons of this week in Room I, Music Hall.

SOPHS MEET TONIGHT TO PLAN FROSH DEFEAT

A meeting of all sophomores will be held at 8 o'clock this evening in the Gymnasium annex to draw plans for the annual bag rush. Care will be taken to bar all prying freshmen by requiring an identifying fee card.

CLOSED PERIOD DATES ANNOUNCED BY DEAN

The closed two weeks period between semesters according to the office of the dean of men, will begin for this semester on Jan. 7 and 8. These are the last days on which social functions may be given before exams. The dates are given out at this time so that social chairmen may know in time to map out their calendar for the year. The second semester's social functions will close May 20 and 21.

NEW STUDY PLAN GAINS FAVOR WITH UPPERCLASSMEN

Independent System Increases in Economics Department, Entrances on Merit

(This is the third of a series of three articles dealing with the new system of honor courses introduced at the university. The development of the courses in other departments will be explained in later issues as details are perfected.)

Independent studying of upperclassmen in the Economics department under the honors course ruling adopted last spring by the College of Letters and Science is increasing as details are perfected and explained to the students, W. H. Kiehofer, professor of economics, said yesterday.

The department of economics has decided to select candidates on the basis of merit previously shown in studies rather than on the merits of an examination. Students majoring in the department are advanced to special sections as early as the sophomore year. The grading is constant, and their proficiency in studies well understood by the time they have credits enough to enter the honors course.

No Entrance Examinations
"We do not believe the need of such an examination exists under the department system of grading," Professor Kiehofer said. "Their previous records and our personal knowledge of them makes such an examination unnecessary."

The final examination and awarding of honors is the same as in all departments of the College of Letters and Science. The work allowed and the aid at the disposal of the individual worker depends on the subject chosen. Few students select exactly the same field as do their class-mates.

Early Beginning Best
Individual work is best started as quickly as the fundamentals are learned. This allows more time to be spent on the subjects chosen, none of which are easily exhausted. However, as the opportunity was not given them sooner, several seniors are entering the honors course in their last year. Several juniors and seniors have changed their course to independent work after conferring with department heads. This shifting will be allowed early in the semester if the student's record justifies it, Professor Kiehofer promised. Next semester an even larger number will do their work as individuals as the system is better understood.

"Economics and sociology are two fields well adapted to this method of studying," Professor Kiehofer declared. "Conditions in these sciences are constantly undergoing a change. Students doing individual work enjoy the same advantages of research as students of comparative history."

Fifty Attend Men's Glee Club Tryouts

Fifty undergraduate men met last evening in Music hall and each demonstrated his vocal ability before Prof. E. Earl Swinney in the first of the annual Men's Glee club tryouts.

Following the individual tryouts, Prof. Swinney showed plainly that the results had pleased him. "We have uncovered some very good glee club material, and the quality of the voices have well satisfied me," said Prof. Swinney in expressing his satisfaction.

Prof. Swinney urges that the former glee club members be present at Music hall this evening from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock during the second evening of tryouts. Even though good voices have been found there is plenty of opportunity for more prospects. And men are urged to attend the tryouts regardless of previous training. Natural voice ability is given more consideration than the training.

OFFER PRIZE FOR REUNION SLOGAN

Homecoming Officials to Hold Contest for Selection of Best Phrase

A Homecoming slogan contest to select an appropriate catchword for this year's reunion on November 13, when Wisconsin engages Iowa, will be run for the rest of this week, according to Frank Worthington, '27 publicity chairman. The purpose of the slogan campaign is to formulate a short and snappy phrase which will be effective in inducing the old "grads" to return," declared Worthington.

The theme of the slogan must be the idea that all the undergraduates of Wisconsin urge the "grads" to return to the Homecoming of 1926.

The phrases entered into competition are to be six words or less in length, to be printed typed neatly, and sent in a sealed envelope with the contributor's name, address, and telephone number, to Frank Worthington, 140 Langdon street.

A contributor may enter any number of suggested slogans, but they must all be sent at the same time. All entries must be mailed on or before Saturday evening. A prize of five dollars will be awarded to the winner of this contest, who will be selected impartially by the seven general chairmen of Homecoming.

Class of '30 Tops Past Enrollment Records With 2,517

Registration of 2,517 freshmen so far this semester insures the class of 1930 the honor of being the largest class in point of enrollment in the history of the University of Wisconsin, C. A. Smith, secretary of the faculty, announced yesterday.

In establishing a new record at which future incoming classes may aim, the present frosh group bettered the total of the class of 1929 by nearly 500 students. The registration of the present sophomore class was 2,064.

Previous record for freshmen enrollment was established in 1919, the year after the World war, Mr. Smith said. In this class 2,316 students registered, a number 199 below the number of freshmen this team.

That this year's freshman class is a barometer for the whole university may be seen in the fact that the total registration for all classes this semester was greater than that of last year. Enrollment last autumn was 7,470 according to official figures, while this year it has reached 8,047.

GRIESSER ELECTED TO HEAD PROGRESSIVES

P. W. Griesser '28 was named president of the Madison chapter of the Young Men's Progressive Association at the first meeting of the year held in the state capitol last night. Ervin Weinke, '28 was elected vice-president. Earl Halverson, '27, is the secretary-treasurer. Regular meetings of the association will be held every second Tuesday night in the hearing room of the Railroad commission.

Noted Educator is Made Executive at Eastern Institution

Dr. Ralph Dorn Hetzel, a graduate of the university has been elected president of the Pennsylvania State college at a meeting of the board of trustees of that institution.

The new executive graduated from Wisconsin in 1906 and from the Law school in 1908. He began his career as an educator at the Oregon State college, where his accomplishments as an educator took the headship of the political science department to organization and direction of the agricultural extension service in 1913.

An Active Educator
Dr. Hetzel, until his recent election, was president of New Hampshire university. He is 43 years old and will assume his new duties early in January.

He is credited with great success in the improvement of college standards and with personnel of faculty and general recognition by educators and the public of the states where he has been active in educational circles, according to the statement of the trustees of Penn State announced with his election.

A Strong Athlete
After leaving the university, Dr. Hetzel took graduate work at the University of California. He received a LL.D. from Dartmouth college and later from the University of Maine. Under his leadership the University of New Hampshire was raised from a state college. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Delta Phi, Gamma Sigma Delta, and Delta Upsilon fraternities.

He attended Merrill high school and was president of his class for four years. He was captain of the freshman crew and a member of the football team during his first year at Wisconsin. He was forced to withdraw from participation in athletics in order to earn the necessary funds for his education and also support his widowed mother.

Acted as Lobbyist
He was an intercollegiate debater, manager of the University magazine for two years, editor-in-chief of The Cardinal for two years, president of the junior class, and commencement orator.

BUSINESS JOBS OPEN ON CARDINAL STAFF

Anyone wishing to tryout for a position on the Business staff of the Daily Cardinal may sign up at the business office 772 Langdon street from 3:30 to 6 o'clock any afternoon.

Meiklejohn Finds Stimulus Here; Bans Notebooks

"I have found on coming to Wisconsin a very stimulating thing for my thinking," declared Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn yesterday before his class in "Philosophy and the Modern World." "The very atmosphere here seems to be conducive for fresh thinking."

A crowd of students packed into the lecture room of Biology building to hear the second lecture by this eminent philosopher. Many were standing about the room, but Dr. Meiklejohn insisted that all find seats before he started his lecture. Inviting students to sit in the aisles, he also offered the lecturer's chair to a junior.

A pleasant surprise was in store for members of the class when Dr. Meiklejohn said that he thought note books unnecessary for the course except on special occasions when he would ask that a notation be made. "There is nothing quite so terrifying to me as to see a student taking down notes of what I am saying," he explained. "Imagine what would happen if you were talking to me and I should start—" but the class understood the point without further explanation and all note books were closed.

OFFER PRIZE FOR BUSINESS PLAN

Will Award $1,000 to Student or Professor Suggesting Best Solution

The extent to which college courses in economics and business administration enable students to solve practical problems is to be measured this fall by Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, and a group of business experts.

Senator Capper, author of a bill to end destructive price wars, heads a committee seeking the best solution of the price-cutting evil. Suggestions have been sought from students and professors of colleges in all parts of the United States. The student or professor who presents the suggestion of most practical value will not only receive a money prize of $1,000 for his ideas but will have the satisfaction of seeing them adopted as the basis of action by business men and legislators.

The special prize of $1,000 has been offered by Dr. Edward Plaut, New York manufacturer, specifically for the best college plan for the maintenance of standard retail prices.

"What we are after," said Dr. Plaut, in sponsoring the competition, "is a real solution to this trade problem. The answer is vital to the future success of American industry. The method of presenting the plan is unimportant. We are seeking ideas, not rhetoric. A large number of men in wholesale and retail trade have already submitted plans. They are thinking clearly and constructively on this important question and show good business judgment. I am interested to see how the winning college plan compares with best suggestion from business men."

Dr. Plaut is a graduate of Princeton and received the doctor's degree from Columbia. As both a college and a business man, he is interested in seeing whether the better plans come from American colleges or from the ranks of trade itself.

Miller Here Soon

The School of Commerce is now carrying on certain research projects, but since no specific provisions have been made for research work, progress is slow and the scope of activity is distinctly circumscribed.

Prof. Miller, since his promotion to his new post, has jumped into the national spotlight as one of the leading economists of the United States. His presence is being demanded at banquets throughout Iowa, and he is hailed as an authority on business problems. He will be in Madison within the next two weeks to attend a meeting of the Midwest Shippers' advisory board. He is a member of one of the important committees of this board.

Just where do the styles come from, anyway?

In England, of course, the matter has been made very simple. The whole thing is left up to the Prince of Wales.

You can see at once how easy that makes the clothes question for the Britishers—

When the Prince takes a quiet stroll about London, accompanied by a regiment or two of cavalry and six military bands, all the villagers take careful note of the royal costume.

Then each loyal subject rushes over to Bond Street and buys one exactly like it.

Over here, we have no Prince worth putting in the saddle, and the movie heroes are too jealous of each other for any one of them to take the lead. There's nothing to do—when it comes to college clothes at least—but let the styles be decided by the men who are going to wear them. Sounds rather reasonable, at that. Our college men know clothes and they have their own ideas as to what they want to wear. We'd back their judgment against that of royalty any day!

P. S. We carry Society Brand college clothes because they are designed exactly as college men have said they should be. You'll not find any more distinctive clothes anywhere.

BIG PLANS MADE FOR INTRAMURAL SPORTS AT MEET

Managers Get Together in Session; Tough Football First

Now that the major portion of fraternity rushing is over plans are being made for the beginning of intramural athletics for the coming year. The first event of the season is touch football, according to Geo. Berg, director of intramural athletics. All managers of house teams are requested to have their entries in not later than Friday afternoon, Oct. 1. A letter will be sent out to each fraternity.

Body checking will be permitted this year instead of body blocking. This will encourage the running of the backs and also gives better protection to the kicker. This is the only important change from last year's rules.

The game this year will be played with seven men. The kicker must be four yards back of the line of scrimmage and body checking must occur outside of the three backs, not through the middle of the line. Regular football rules will be enforced this year.

The success of last year was remarkable. Numerous fraternities, participated and throughout the whole schedule not an injury was accounted for. Entries from the churches and dorms should be in not later than Oct. 5.

Intramural cross-country competition has a bigger program outlined this year. It will consist of three meets; a one mile meet, a one and a half mile meet, and a two mile meet. These meets will not be held on the same day, but on three different days.

A round Table, composed of fraternity intramural managers, went into conference at 9 o'clock on Monday night at Lawrence's. It was a real get-together. Talks were made by George Berg, director of intramural athletics, by a member of the Beta's, who were the winners of the Badger Bowl this year, by a member of the Sigmas, who were runners up for the cup this year, and a member of the Teke's who won the cup the first year it was given. The Badger Bowl is a traveling cup and each year the different fraternities compete for it.

The spirit stirred up throughout the fraternities over the possibilities of winning the cup for their house is the main purpose of intramural competition. This was the subject of several of the speakers. After everything was thought of, talked of, and decided on, food was had by all.

LITTLE'S LINE COACH, TOM LIEB, WILL MOLD GREAT BADGER WALL

One of the achievements accomplished by George Little, director of athletics, is the bringing of Tom Lieb here as head line coach of the football team. Lieb has long been recognized as one of the most successful line coaches in the entire country and the success he has had with lines in the past is a credit.

Lieb first attended college at St. Paul, Minnesota and there distinguished himself as a fullback. In his junior year he left that school for Notre Dame. Rockne discovered that Lieb wasn't a fullback after all but instead a natural line-

Ann Arbor, Mich. Coach Yost put his Wolverines through two hard practice sessions yesterday in preparation for his first game, now but five days off. The first eleven went through an extensive signal practice after being given several new plays.

MINNESOTA

Minneapolis, Minn. Minnesota's gridiron warriors were again without their head coach, Dr. Spears, yesterday. His forced absence seems to cast a curtain of gloom over the outlook for the present season.

INDIANA

Bloomington, Ind. Cusack, Caterton, Winston, and Bishop showed up well in the defensive work that took up yesterday's entire practice session. The first stringers displayed marked improvement, and the ends and tackles looked especially good.

IOWA

Iowa City, Ia. Rain and mud seems to cling to Iowa like mustard plaster as Coach Ingwersen's gridders yesterday staged their fifth consecutive practice under Pluvius' reign. Ingwersen inaugurated the team that is likely to go into action next Saturday. Brown at center, Hines and Chatterton at guards, Jensen and Nelson or Voltmer at tackles, and Rice and Moore at ends, Kutsch, Schmidt, Grimm, and Skelly will likely form the backfield combination.

FROSH TENNIS MEN HOLD TOURNAMENT

CARDINALS FACE HEAVY BIG TEN CAGE SCHEDULE

One glance at the below slate will convince all basketball fans that Coach Walter Meanwell's Badger five has an unusually stiff grind ahead. In arranging what is easily the hardest schedule ever played by a Wisconsin quintette, Coach Meanwell has in mind the possibility of making a bid for National honors.

In addition to twelve Big Ten engagements, the Cardinal Basketball team will meet Syracuse University, 1925-26 Eastern champs, and Notre Dame, who were bidders for the western title, with victories to their credit over many conference teams.

The other three non-conference tilts may not be classed as practice games. Wabash, Franklin, and Marquette are of the calibre of many western conference fives, and will force the Badger combination to the limit.

Last season's experience in the Big Ten has proven that the days of easy games have passed forever. Any of the six outfits on Wisconsin chart may be title contenders, and with such a line-up of contests ahead the Badgers must be keyed up and going at top speed for every encounter of the season.

No Play by Play Radio Reports on Grid Games Listed

Football fans who hope to learn through local radio stations the progress of a Wisconsin game play-by-play are to find themselves in an embarrassing situation, since no Madison station intends to broadcast the information, according to present indications.

WHA, the university broadcasting station, will not be able to furnish the results due to the fact that station KYW, Chicago, operates on the same wave length, and will broadcast the results of the University of Chicago contests.

Station WIBA, also of Madison, will not be on the air with field reports since its power runs to only 250 watts. However, unless other high-powered stations in this region are broadcasting the results, WIBA will send out telegraphic reports.

BASEBALL SQUAD IN FALL WORKOUT

All Candidates Asked to Report to Coach Aschbrenner Today

Wisconsin is to have four weeks of fall baseball practice this year under the direction of Coach Aschbrenner, captain of the varsity team two years ago. It will be held outside on the lower campus as the university is without any suitable indoor practice field.

All conference schools have adopted this plan of fall practice so Wisconsin must follow in order to keep up with the rest and keep up in the first divisions in future seasons. Coach Lowman is engaged in football so Aschbrenner will have full charge. Asking for all candidates for the varsity team including those members who are back and the last year frosh team who are not participating in other athletic sports at the present time.

Candidates will meet in the trophy room of the gym on Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock with Lowman and Aschbrenner regarding plans for work. The purpose is to get 'last years' men and frosh members together for three or four weeks of preliminary work in order that coach Lowman may get some idea of his material before the actual southern tour begins in the spring.

DOPE SCRIMMAGE FOR TONIGHT AT CAMP RANDALL

Rose and Kasiska Both Pass "Con" Exams; Eligible for Play

Football practice at Camp Randall last night was as secret as a small army of frosh managers could make it, which is the same as saying that it was secret. Head Coach George Little has, however, announced that tonight's practice will be open and it is declared that there will be some sort of a scrimmage.

The Badgers appeared for the first time in numbered Cardinal jerseys and new yellow headgears.

Both Rose and Kasiska passed their con exams, it was announced by their instructors yesterday afternoon, and the last objection to their participation in inter-collegiate football has been erased.

Practically every man on the squad was issued a new outfit, though a few still wore black jerseys.

While some of the backs, including Capt. Harmon, Crofoot, Barr, Orcutt, and Muegge, were "running the gauntlet" through a line of four tacklers, Coach Little formed another backfield and worked it on a few of his pet Cornell puzzlers.

Though he quite obviously has one eye on the Kansas game a week from Saturday, he isn't planning on having Wisconsin brow-beaten by Cornell this weekend.

Toward the end of the session, Coach Little put eleven of the Badgers through a strategic scrimmage against a team of All-Americans. Here he could watch every man closely and he was quick to criticize faults in charging and blocking.

Unless Cornell college proves about three times as strong as anyone here thinks she is, most of the men on the Wisconsin squad will probably get into the game this Saturday. For that reason, the battle should be an unlettered index to the men who seem best fitted to carry the Cardinal against the high and mighty colors of some half dozen Western Conference teams which will be camping along the Badger trail this fall.

Prohibition, and Injustice to College Youth

The more we see of the workings of the Prohibition experiment, the more we become convinced of its futility in dealing with a moral problem—that of temperance. Literature comes to our office from the Women's Christian Temperance union and from the offices of the Anti-Saloon league, telling about how the Eighteenth amendment, as it exists today, is bringing a rising tide of prosperity. The Christian Science Monitor and other worthy papers, chiefly those of the country districts send us glad tidings of the increasing morality of our youth, the prosperity of the nation's business, and the general increase in national health, all of which are supposed to be directly the result of the Volstead law. The main sources of this bone dry propaganda are the country districts, and we find as champions of Volsteadism the country clergy and the small town press.

These reformers who tell us that Prohibition is a total success are hiding their heads in the sand, like the ostrich. If they cannot see what is going on around them, in respect to dry law violation, they must be blind.

The extreme Volstead law has proved a failure. There should be no stigma attached to the publication of this fact. Not only has it been a failure, but it has wrought evils which cannot be undone. These evils are felt most painfully by the youth of the country, and especially the college youths.

The finger of shame has been pointed to the college students for their violation of the Prohibition law. We who are members of the student body of a great university don't propose to draft a defense of the accusation by saying that there is no violation. We know that there is. Whether drinking at the university is on the increase or decrease is not for us to say. We should say that it is probably lessening, but that is beside the point. Even though drinking is on the decrease, it is becoming more and more demoralizing in effect. To us, it would seem much more preferable to have each of 100 students drink legally a glass of good beer than to have one incapacitate himself with a bottle of rot-gut alcohol.

Without doubt, Prohibition has been an incentive for to desire that which is forbidden. Students drink in young folks to learn to drink. It is human nature the spirit of braggadocio. It is the natural reaction of youth to rules and regulations.

It is not difficult for students to secure liquor to commemorate the passing of exams, football victories, and other special occasions. One local bootlegger guarantees ten minute delivery to student rooming and fraternity houses. All the student has to do is to call a certain telephone number, ask for Jim, and give him an address. And the kind of stuff that Jim brings isn't fit for human consumption. The gin, rot-gut, white mule, and ether-spiked beer that students drink is certainly not conducive to good health.

As students, we do not believe we deserve the censure that has been heaped upon our heads by militant reformers on the outside. We lay the blame for whatever law violations there happens to be in our midst on the professional protectors of our morals who have foisted this unjust, radical, and unreasonable law upon us.

Youth hasn't been given a square deal. The expense of the Volstead experiment has been an exploitation of youth, and a general breaking down of respect for national law in the minds of people who are law abiding citizens at heart. Briefly, we feel that the Eighteenth amendment has accomplished nothing but the ruination of our gastronomic organs, our taste, and our one-time respect for federal law.

The Volstead law has been an ineffective weapon to stop drinking. Its failure shows that it is impossible to legislate morals, and that abrupt changes wreak much havoc with the youth of the land.

The Cardinal believes in temperance, and it believes that by modification of the present law the cause of the proponents of temperance could be ultimately achieved.

Don't be an Activities Drone

The activities jumble again presents itself as a serious problem. Students in shaping their schedules for the year wonder how much of their time should be allotted to activities.

One sophomore came to us and said he was going to carry four activities, one of which would develop him physically, and three of which were clerical in nature. He was actually serious when he said that he was going to carry those four activities besides his regular curricular activity. That young fellow is signing a contract with drudgery for the entire semester, and the result of his labors will be a complete loss of leisure, loss of sleep, an attitude of cynicism perhaps toward university activity, and probably a nervous breakdown. Students have been known to plow their way through four years of hectic scrambling in activities and emerge in a state of mental disorder. They look back on their years of aimless rushing around from activity to activity and wonder whether or not it was worth while. They feel sadly disillusioned and empty of spirit.

The Cardinal would like to see each student do work in the activity that would do him the most good. A concentration on this activity would bring greater benefits to the individual and to the activity than would an attempt at concentration on several jobs.

Some students have unusual ability. They are the ones who can handle more than one activity. There are no hard and fast lines that one can lay down in regard to the time that should be spent in outside activities. Above everything else, though, the student should reserve enough time for the development of himself—of his tastes and his hobbies. Perhaps that can be done in an activity. If not, the student should be selfish enough to consider himself and take upon himself only a reasonable amount of outside work.

Nothing is more pathetic in collegiate life than the student harassed by outside activities to a point where he hasn't time for the development of himself.

The Cardinal should like to see a marriage of activities and curricular work. There should not be a sharp cleavage between the two, but rather a co-operation which would benefit both. A friendship between studies and outside activities will do more good for the university than dramatic pleas for a display of school spirit.

We're All Humorists—Let's Contribute

Collegiate humor is in a class by itself. It is unique. Only one class of people in our social organization is capable of producing real college humor, and that is the college student body itself, made up as it is of a heterogeneous group of undergraduates.

People living outside of the academic grooves are prone to criticize college humor, and brand its authors as morons. They cannot appreciate some of the stuff that students themselves appreciate. They do not realize that the student body is living in a sphere of anarchy, where different standards prevail.

College humor is supposed to reflect campus life—campus conversations, activities, etc. Judged according to this standard, the humor produced on this campus is successful in presenting as it does a cross section of college life. The chief sources of the jokes and treatises in local campus humorous publications, the Skyrockets column and the Wisconsin Octopus, are classes, professors, campus characters, wine, song, and women with the emphasis perhaps on the latter.

Wisconsin is producing college humor which is just as good as any published in the collegiate world. The Wisconsin Octopus rates very well nationally, and the Skyrockets column has an enviable reputation in college circles, mainly because of its personality and human interest. The folks who direct these publications are selected from the best humorous writers on the campus, but that doesn't mean they should do all the writing.

What we're trying to get at is that contributions are wanted, both for the column parked next to these editorial columns, and for the Octopus. Every student in this university is capable of producing some bright quip at least once a month. If he sends them in as contributions he is helping to make his campus publications what they really should be—a complete cross section of student thought.

THE BIG PARADE

When they didn't get the right girls last Sunday night, they sang "Sally's Missing From Our Alley."

But the Hartsfoot boys who went sorority pledging had a good time, says the Prince of Orange. . . . A smacking good time.

Gilda Gray is at the Parkway. . . the hottest thing since the fire they had there last year.

POOR GIRL

Then there's the Black Pirate—but yesterday's deet review used one "s" too many:

"Although Miss Dove appears rather insane and helpless, the type of picture does not allow her to be much else, for it calls for the frail "smelling-salt" variety of heoine."

Ye Ed wishes to graciously announce that we can always use contributors in this dept. We need men like Bud B. who tells us of the following ad on the Sterling hall bulletin board:

GIRLS: Large, comfortable, reasonable. Come and see them. (Two blocks South of Chemistry building on corner of Dayton and Charter.)

Swift is another good man. He tells us that "she didn't walk home but was only visiting her brother at the dorms."

But the dumbest frosh we have met yet is the one who thought the cubicles in the gym were rat traps. . . . And Gen is not a frosh either, but a soph.

He is the boy who almost went to the University of Florida but changed his mind and came to Wisconsin because he had a fur coat.

According to the papers, the dorms must be something like the Vilas park zoo.

Apropos to the subject of animals, Editor Emeritus Macbeth says that one of the dorm frosh felt sheepish when they had him say "bah" at the infirmary.

Yeah, the frosh may be wild and all that, but they haven't as yet decorated any sorority with the GET GYM SUITS HERE sign that we noticed on a State street store.

"Now we'll have it settled once and for all," said Dick Lauson in journalism yesterday when the prof announced he would read a sample editorial entitled "Is There a Santa Claus."

The motif for the song, "I can't get over a girl like you loving a boy like me" must have been furnished by the 89 year old man who married the 16 year old girl last week.

. . . Or was it one of Mr. Brown's ideas?

Some way we can't help thinking of the mixed nationalities of Ellis island when we read the building sign around the corner on Langdon street, "ZETA BETA OF PHI MU."

Little Boy Blew is another of the contributors who is lifting the incubus and vicissitudes of joke writing from the shoulders of the Ed. He tells us that a prof stopped him while he was registering and said, "No smoking aloud in this building."

Estelle Taylor (he further remarks) declares that something was given Jack before he entered the ring. . . . He got plenty after he got in the ring, too, says L. B. B.

OUT '30!

Tonight the frosh meet in Ag hall to learn which part of shirts and pants are the easiest to rip. A sample sophomore may be on demonstration.

GURGLE!

Personally, we'd like to see the sophs buy a few ear loads of water wings. . . . We never like to see more than 67 drown in these pre-rush affairs.

But after all the frosh will wish they stayed home before it's over. (I mention this so that the sophs won't make Ye Ed an honorary member of the class of '30 for the next few days.)

POEM

Horatio, a man with much sand
Was at bridge the best man in the land
To him credit goes
For History shows
That he won his bridge game with one hand.

Here's the way we'd sing that song:
Ten and twenty blackbirds baked in a pie—Bye, Bye, Blackbird.

Gotta make the Hill—it's 20 after . . .

WORLD OF SOCIETY

Elsa Bohmrich '28 Chosen President of French House

Although styles in coed's clothes may attempt to do so, the French house is the one factor which officially brings Paris to the campus. "Parle français" is the rule at all meals.

"Le Maison Francais" held a meeting last evening at which it organized and made its social plans for the coming year. The members chose Elsa Bohmrich '28 as president of the house, Harriet Smith '27, secretary and treasurer, and Ella La Perriere '28, social chairman.

Among the outstanding social events for the year will be a dance after Homecoming and a faculty reception.

The president of the group has extended an invitation to all who are interested in the speaking of French to arrange to take their meals at the club house which is located at 1105 University avenue.

Pick a Good One

"Rufus," said the wise old senior to the giddy young frosh, "I see you being rushed around a lot. Watch your step and take your time. Pick a good one!"

That's smart "crackin'," whether you're picking a "bunch" or a fountain pen. You want both of them to live with you a long, long time. So it's best to step up to the Wahl Pen counter right now and choose yourself a fine Wahl Pen.

Pick the style you like (Wahls come thin and Wahls come fat); the material you want (Wahls come in solid gold, sterling silver, gold-filled and silver-filled, red, black or mottled rubber); the point that suits your hand—stiff or flexible, fine, medium, stub, oblique or Wahl Standard Signature.

Pick any Wahl Pen, and you get not only the smoothest, best-looking writing tool that ever graced your hand, but also one that from cap to nib is practically indestructible. You could carry a Wahl in your hip pocket through three initiations, and still have the best fountain pen in the world.
