GIVE MEDALS TO VETERANS AT EXPOSITION

War Department Grants
Authority to Issue
Awards

Special authority has been granted the university by the War Department at Washington, to issue victory medals to all ex-service men, whether students or not.

The medals will be issued at the administration booth in the University Exposition, according to George Chandler, assistant to the secretary of the faculty, who is in charge of the administration exhibit. Power to do this was granted to the university as the result of a request made by the American Legion.

In order to obtain their medals, ex-service men will be required merely to present their discharges at the administration booth. Lieutenant J. A. Ballard of the military department in the university will issue the awards.

Will Save Red Tape
"This will save the men much red tape, which they would otherwise have to go through to get their medals," said Mr. Chandler in explaining the system. "A simple method like this makes it an easy thing for them to do."

The administration booth will also be an information bureau for all prospective students. Attendees will be present to answer questions during the entire exposition. Matters of registration, advanced standing, war credits, soldier's bonus, and rooming facilities can be taken up with them. This section will be of special interest to high school students.

To Show Building Needs
Where the taxpayer's and student's money goes in the university will be shown by a large chart. "Why new buildings are needed will be the subject of another chart, graphically presenting the crowded condition of the university buildings. Other charts will show the plan of organization and the geographical distribution of the students."

"Y" OFFICERS TO BE PICKED AT BANQUET

The annual election banquet of the university Y. M. C. A., at which the president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, general secretary, and members of the board of directors and of the board of trustees will be elected for the ensuing year, is to be held Thursday, April 7, in the "Y" parlors.

All members of the Y. M. C. A. are entitled to attend the meeting and vote. Tickets will be on sale at the "Y" office until Thursday noon.

Leo Kohl '22 has already been nominated for president and Fred Brewer '22 for vice-president. Further nominations will be in order at the banquet.

Frank Weston, retiring president, and Profs. A. B. Hall and W. A. Scott will speak.

The supper will cost 50 cents.

IS IN CHARGE OF CHARITY MIXER

ADRIAN SCHOLTEN

Adrian Scholten '23 is general chairman of the Charity Ball mixer, all-university dance to be held tonight in the men's gymnasium. Scholten is a member of the executive committee of the Gun and Blade, of the Cardinal board of control, is secretary of the South Dakota club, and is in charge of publicity for the music memory contest.

The spirit of revelry will reign on a slick gym floor tonight from the moment the jazz sounds of Boyd's Favorite Six orchestra begin at 8:30 o'clock till the last dancer has left at midnight. The first 800 people who arrive will be given favors—pasteboard caps for the men and many-colored balloons for the women.

Costumes will be worn by the 6 members of the general committee who will act as an energetic reception squad to make introductions and lively inroads on the side-lines. According to the mixing committee proper, there won't be any side-lines

HARESFOOT HERO FINDS CHICAGO TOO DRY; MIGRATES TO MEXICO

When Ralph Waldo Emerson Smith of Chicago finds the United States too dry under the reign of the eighteenth amendment and migrates south of the Rio Grande, the plot of "Miss Guita," this year's production of the Haresfoot club, begins. This musical comedy will be presented in Madison on Friday and Saturday, April 22 and 23, with the annual formal show Friday night.

Waldo, played by Reginald Gars-tang '22 arrives in Mexico with his pal, Larry Drake, Earl Carpenter '21, just on the eve of a series of revolutions directed against the president, Senor El Ropo, played by Samuel Becker '22. Smith falls in with one of the rebel bands of con-dottiere led by Mord M. Bogie '22, in the role of Ferdinand, and plans with him the capture of the president's daughter, Miss Quita, the ingenue played by Phillip Reed '21.

All might have done well, and the general might have married the girl of his choice, Miss Quita, had not Larry Drake fallen in love with her. Waldo's allegiance to his pal necessitates his saving the lady

THREE SOPHS ARE RUNNING FOR UNION

Three sophomores thus far have entered the campaign for the two sophomore positions open on Union board. They are Leslie R. Gage, L. Gerald Koch, and Albert W. Weeks.

He is assistant athletic editor of The Daily Cardinal and associate editor of The Athletic Review, and is a member of the sophomore traditions committee. He was elected to the freshman honorary athletic association last year. He is a member of Alpha Delta Phi fraternity and of Inner Gate.

Weeks was in the University Circus last year and was a member of the freshman wrestling team. He is a member of the Geology club.

ELLEN CORRELL TO HEAD S. G. A.

New Officers to be Installed Next Thursday Night

Ellen Correll was elected president of S. G. A. for the coming year at the annual election at Lathrop yesterday. Other officers elected were: Frances Beecher, vice-president; Dorothy Ware, secretary; Katharine Ely, treasurer; Isabelle Capps, census chairman.

About 600 votes were cast at the polls, which were open from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m. The rule of "no canvassing" was strictly enforced by S. G. A. members who policed the polls.

PYTHIA TRIMS CASTALIA IN JOINT DEBATE

Negative Gets 2 to 1 Decision on Question of Philippines

By a 2 to 1 decision Pythia Literary Society won over Castalia last night in the second annual open joint debate between the women's societies. The debate was held in Music hall. With a show of pep unequalled in women's debating circles the Pythia team forged ahead to a well earned victory.

Pythia upheld the negative of the question, "Resolved, that the Philippines be given an independence equal to that of Cuba." The judges were H. McCracken, P. M. Cuncannon, and Paul Knaplund, all of the faculty of the university.

Siebecker Presides

Chief Justice R. G. Siebecker of the Wisconsin Supreme Court was the presiding officer. In his opening remarks he congratulated the literary societies on the progress of forensics on the campus. An old Athenaeum joint debater himself, the Chief Justice told of the days when forensics stood second to no other in the university.

Hesperia was out in full force last night and cheered lustily for Castalia. Philomathia turned out to cheer Pythia. A big delegation from Athena was present and distributed

BALL TEAM WILL PRACTICE TODAY AT CAMP RANDALL

An open baseball practice at Camp Randall will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The men will be divided into two teams and various combinations will be tried.

The weather has continued to be so cold during the past week that yesterday, the practice was limited to batting. The practice today will be the heaviest held before the game against Northwestern college, which will be played here next Wednesday. The practice will also, in a great measure, determine what men will start the game on Wednesday.

VARSITY CREW TO LAUNCH SHELLS ON MENDOTA MONDAY

The varsity rowing crew will workout on Lake Mendota next Monday afternoon for the first time this season, according to "Dad" Vail, varsity coach.

Because of the large number of candidates, the men have been divided into two varsity crews, two freshmen crews, and four college crews, one for each college. In addition, two barge crews will row.

As the Cardinal, university life saving boat, is ready for use, the work can be carried on with safety.

Now that spring has penetrated even the Mahoney tenements a poem about "breezes" and "Robins" and "Knees" and similar attractions of spring might not be amiss.

There I sat in that long, long row,
Watching the dishes come and go,

FIRE BREAKS OUT
IN BUILDING WITH
DAILY CARDINAL

Firm Papers Are Destroyed at Standard Fur Company

Firm records kept in a metal gling cabinet were practically destroyed in a fire which broke out in the Standard Fur company, in the Capital Times building, where The Daily Cardinal is published, at 2:40 this morning. No furs were damaged by fire, but the dense smoke may have caused some loss.

The fire was discovered by two women, who brought the alarm to the Cardinal office. The fire department was summoned and arrived in time to prevent the blaze from gaining headway.

Defective wiring in the sewing machinery is supposed to have caused the fire.

PHYTHIA TRIMS

Traces History.
Opening the constructive affirmative case for Castalia, Florence Koltes, '23, traced the historical background to serve as the foundation of the affirmative attack. Fern Busby, '21, speaking first for Pythia aggressively attacked the interpretation of the question as presented by Castalia. She maintained that the affirmative offered only partial independence while the negative, taking a surprise position, argued for complete independence.

Mildred Throne, '23, and Gladys Haskins, '22, completing the constructive case for Castalia, contended that the Philippines were economically, morally, and politically capable of independence. Carol Conlee, '22, with Eleanor Shearer, '22, continuing the negative attack clinched the debate by showing that the Platt amendment applying to Cuba, if adopted with regard to the Philippines, would effect a limited sovereignty and would involve the United States in serious international complications.

Each speaker gave a three minute rebuttal.

Before the decision was announced Judge Siebecker presented each debater with a medal.

HURRAY!

The Cardinal is in the Water;
Let's Go Canoeing To-

"Cap" Isabel is happy again, and today 7,000 students will be ready to share his feeling. The Cardinal, university life boat, is afloat once more on Lake Mendota; and the boating season is formally opened.

Yesterday, after much tugging, pushing, and verbal aid from bystanders, the newly-painted Cardinal was pulled from its resting place in the boat house out into open water to receive finishing touches on its engine.

This afternoon 200 canoes, "all slicked up," will be at the disposal of those students not too seriously concerned with midsemesters.

"One thing, though," said "Cap," "They've got to be careful. The city ordinance reads 'two life-preservers in each canoe,' and the city is going to enforce its ruling this year."

AGRIC COMPETE FOR PLACES ON
LIVE-STOCK TEAM

Sixty-seven students of the College of Agriculture will compete this afternoon for a place in the livestock judging team that will represent Wisconsin at the International Stock show at Chicago next fall. The preliminary contest will be held at 1:30 p. m. in the stock pavilion.

Five classes of livestock, including beef and dairy cattle, horses, sheep, and swine, will be placed by each contestant according to regulations and rules similar to those required at the International.

"Judges of the various classes anticipate keen competition to weed out men capable of representing the college this year," said J. G. Fuller of the animal husbandry department, who is co-operating with the students on the project.

The judges of the various classes will be G. C. Humphrey, F. D. Harris, and G. H. Clapp, dairy cattle; E. E. McQuillem, J. L. Tormey, and A. M. Carmody, beef cattle; G. Hutton, J. J. Yoke and J. R. Ballentine, horses; F. Kleinheinz, J. M. Fargo, and P. W. Gates, sheep; and G. Bohstedt, G. B. Mortimer, and H. J. Brant, swine.

WASHINGTON—Hostile public sentiment, bootlegging on the borders and lack of co-operation by the state are the chief difficulties in enforcing prohibition, Director Kramer said.

after the first two dances. They have adopted as their motto "No snobs admitted."

Popularity of MacDougall's Alley is assuming such proportions that provision is being made for committee policemen to rule the waiting line. The "Alley" will be roped off for the exclusive use of a dozen couples to dance in at a time. And if the floor of the gym is slick, that of the alley will be glassy.

Other features will be held in some of the office rooms of the building. Fortune-telling booths, freaks and monstrosities, and miniature minstrel are part of the program. A charge of 10 cents will be made for these, and they will be run continuously through the evening. Stick candy will be sold by a corps of "clownettes" in costume.

The proceeds of the Charity Ball mixer will go to the Wisconsin State Conference for Social Work. Tickets may be bought at Morgan's, the University pharmacy and at the door for 50 cents apiece.

Gun and Blade Men Are Assisted by University
Women

By R. C. W.

Whoever the fellow was who said that after a man has been a soldier he's no good for anything else only had to see the Maid and Middy at the Fuller last night and hear the mad applause to know that lots of John Barrymores and Al Jolson's a little the worse for wear perhaps, came back from the wrestle across the pond and settled right in our midst.

Assisted by 24 university girls, a troop of Boy Scouts, the Mozart club, and dancing girls from Kahl's academy, more than 40 disabled ex-service men, all members of Gun and Blade club, accomplished a big undertaking under the able direction of Miss Alice Kiehl '16.

Even my cynical friend to the left whose supreme pleasure at a performance is to point out imperfections grudgingly admitted that the Gun and Blade production excelled the usual amateur play in every way.

Stars Please

As would be expected, the Maid, Miss Ruth Laylin '21, and the Middy, Dewey Edson '21, were the stars. Miss Laylin was an altogether sweet Maid with plenty of dash, nimble feet, and a charming voice. She made a delightful ingenue. With a rich baritone voice, an air of east and cocky assurance, and a fine physical appearance, Dewey Edson distinguished himself as the the Middy, a young ensign on shore leave. Particulary pleasing was his duet with Valerie, Blow Winds, blow.

Firey and effusive, John E. Sheldon '22, took the part of the Count, a nuisance from Spain who caused much consternation in his quest for Anita whom he says, Billy, the Middy, has taken from him. He did a comedy role well.

Hughes Makes Mirth

I. O. Hughes '21 also supplied much mirth with a comical interpretation of a retired farmer and later Beer Dill. His monologue, a letter written to Mabel on a blue book which a professor gave him and for which he had no use, had as much kick as the original Mabel letters.

Other comedy parts were played by Paul Tobey '23, a rotund oarsman, and V. Van Steenberg '23 quite the opposite.

To Miss Olivia Fentress '23, who has won considerable praise for her work in campus dramatics, much praise is due for her skillful handling of the part of Mrs. Gaily, an attractive widow. Besides singing well, she also danced well with Lieut. Desher played by E. H. Myrlan '21. His part was well done.

The cast of characters is as follows:

Billy, the Middy, attached to the "Dreadnaught" — Dewey Edson '21 Gun and Blade.

Dawson, a retired farmer — I. O. Hughes '21 Gun and Blade.

The Count, a Spanish gentleman — John E. Sheldon '22 Gun and Blade.

Evans, Master of Ceremonies, the Lakeville Boat club — R. J. Koelsch Gun and Blade.

Fitz, of the House Committee — Boyd Ladd, Gun and Blade.

Lieut. Dasher, A. E. F. U. S. A. — E. H. Myrlan '21 Gun and Blade.

Bounder, Champion Oarsman — Paul Tobey '23 Gun and Blade.

Young Slimson, "The Great Unknown" — V. Van Steenberg '23 Gun and Blade.

Valerie Vane, the Maid — Ruth Laylin '21.

Mrs. Gaily, an attractive widow — Olivia Fentress '23.

Attendant Lakeville Boat Club — E. L. Peterson '23 Gun and Blade.

Friends of Valerie — Alice, Helen Keith '21; Maud, Avis Labiskie '23.

BRAVO!

YESTERDAY'S edition of The Daily Cardinal was published entirely by Wisconsin women, members of Theta Sigma Phi, women's honorary journalistic fraternity. Every detail of the work from the careful and painstaking task of reading proof to the dignified job of grinding off the editorials, to say nothing about the trial and error process of writing headlines and snappy captions, was done by co-eds.

The young women journalists attacked the work of getting out the paper with a spirit and purpose that thrills and delights those who are acquainted with the absorbing work involved in the publication of a daily newspaper. Yesterday's Cardinal was a mighty fine looking specimen of college journalism.

The general make-up of the paper was excellent; the content was all well written; and the headlines were unique and extremely well done. The cartoon—well, technically it was O. K. we think—and the Skyrockets were rather better than the sort of stuff that we've been afflicted with since the glorious days of Ralph Nuzum and Louis Pradt. It is refreshing to note that it is possible to inject a bit of humor and good fun into the column without attempting light verse on the subject of hosiery or the like.

The university may well be proud of its enterprising women journalists. They deserve much credit for the splendid achievement in the publication of the Cardinal yesterday.

COLLEGE TRADITIONS

A NUMBER of handsome yearlings on the campus have completely failed to catch the spirit of the traditions that prevail at Wisconsin. Here, a freshman wears his green cap perched on the top of his head in an out-of-the-ordinary manner to attract the attention of all who may be interested in his peculiar type of cleverness. There, a freshman pulls up the grade in his mighty Pierce-Arrow loaded to the brim with smiling co-eds. He has a cigarette sticking out of his face, and is entirely oblivious to traditions that govern such matters as cigarette smoking on the hill.

These petty offenses in themselves are of little moment after all, but the spirit manifested by the violator of traditions is reprehensible. It is this sort of non-compliance with the rules of the game that will eventually make it a rocky road to Dublin for violators.

"A word to the wise is unnecessary," said Abe Martin. The smart-aleck, tradition-smashing frosh is not as wise as he thinks he is unless he "snaps out of it" pretty soon.

ABOUT CO-EDS

OUR American Co-eds, Who Are They? What Are They?—a special feature article written by a former dean of women for the April issue of the Collegiate World—combines a whole volume of opinion that challenges thought. None but a woman who knows her business, who has enjoyed intimate relationship with vast numbers of college women, who is acquainted with the ideals and aspirations of college women, and has watched them closely through four interesting years of college could speak of them so intimately and exactly.

Those who have read the article on college life in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post will find this article in the Collegiate World an exceedingly illuminating sequel. By all means, read it.

SOUTHERN WILL TELL NEGRO TALES

Colored Mammy Told Stories of Old South to Miss Finch

The entire program given by Miss Lucine Finch Tuesday night, April 5, in Music hall will consist of negro stories and songs. These folk tales of the Old South were told to Miss Finch in her childhood by her colored mammy, who claimed that she had been an "Alabaster Princess" in Africa.

Miss Finch has been giving this sort of program for ten years, and wherever she has appeared, her work has excited favorable comment. W. D. Howells wrote to her as follows:

"I am increasingly amazed at the inventiveness and wealth of characterization in your 'Wonder Mammy Stories.' It is the work of a child and a poet, and a tremendously mixed moralist and a bewildered devotee.

"Of course your recitation added immensely to them. It was mighty rich and glowing and full of historician passion."

Red Domino and Twelfth Night dramatic clubs are responsible for bringing Miss Finch to Madison. Tickets can be purchased from members of either club, and will be on sale Monday and Tuesday in Bascom hall. The proceeds will be given to the Wisconsin Welfare association.

AG ESSAY CONTEST TO CLOSE APRIL 15

The essay contest to promote greater interest in current agricultural topics which is being conducted at the College of Agriculture by the Alpha Zeta honorary agricultural fraternity, will close April 15. It opened in January. The prize for the contest is a gold charm in the form of an ear of corn with the husks partly turned back.

The subjects of the contest, as announced by the fraternity, include the following topics: What I expect from my agricultural education; An undeveloped opportunity in Wisconsin agriculture; Possibilities of Wisconsin cut-over land; America's forest problem; The mechanical age in farming, co-operation and community spirit; and how the proposed Great Lakes to Ocean waterway would affect agriculture in the United States.

An undergraduate in the College of Agriculture, who is not a member of Alpha Zeta, may enter the contest. The length of the essay may be from 2,000 to 5,000 words.

Although the definite date and the place have not yet been determined by the federation, it is expected that the same place will again be the scene of the springtime event.

Music Memory Selection

Fifteenth of 28 Daily Selections for Saturday, April 2
Andante Cantabile (from String Quartet, Op. 11), by Tchaikovsky (1840-93)

The string quartet is the most refined form of all musical expression. To learn to enjoy it is to reach the height of musical appreciation. In it the effects produced are so delicate that the keenest attention is required for complete hearing. Careful study of this number played here recently by the Letz quartet will bring anyone nearer the rarer treasures of music. One must expect no program or story here; it is pure or absolute music.

Peter Llyitch Tchaikovsky (the German spelling Tchaikowski is also used) is the greatest name in Russian music. His compositions, like those of all the great composers, make frequent use of the folk music of his country. The plaintive melody of this Andante is taken from a folk song which a plasterer working in Tchaikovsky's house sang so constantly that the composer could not get it out of his head. "To regret the past, to hope in the future, and never to be satisfied with the present—this is my life." This saying of Tchaikovsky is the keynote of his attitude toward life, which tinged his works with a haunting and melancholy sadness.

The Andante Cantabile (meaning a slow song like composition) is perhaps the best known of any of his compositions. While this movement is written in major keys there is a plaintive wistfulness about it, suggestive of a minor mood. The two opening measures are in 2-4 metre changing to 3-4 for one measure and then back to 2-4 for five measures, after which the entire eight measures are repeated. Then the opening two measure figure is used as a pattern or text and is expanded by the addition of a graceful little musical turn of 64th notes which are passed back and forth from one instrument to another. After 16 measures of this contrasting material the first theme returns and closes the first section. The next or middle section is different in key, melody, rhythm and general structure. It employs an interesting musical device called a reiterated or obstinate bass or basso ostinato. In other words, the melody, which seems so free and spontaneous, is so constructed that it fits perfectly with a bass which remains the same for 32 measures or more. After this middle section has dwindled to a tiny thread of melody, which the basso ostinato persists, although softly, the original opening melody returns. It is now treated in a variety of highly interesting ways—now lengthened, now shortened; now in that; now very loudly, now as softly as possible. It closes with a dying strain in a single instrument only to be joined by all the instruments, at the very last, in two ethereal chords.

The fifteenth composition in last year's music memory contest was Tchaikovsky's Adagio from 6th (Pathétique) symphony.

The highest temperature during the past 24 hours was 88 at 4 p. m. and the lowest was 28 at 5 a. m. Sunsets at 6:24.

At The Theaters

AT THE STRAND

Douglas Fairbanks in "The Nut" will be the attraction at the Strand theater for the last times today. Queer folk are always getting into Greenwich Village—but the queerest was Charlie Jackson, "The Nut." He dressed by machinery—made love with fireworks and waxworks—and dauntlessly followed wherever his sweetheart's hobby led. Her hobby was perfectly innocent and Charlie's intentions were of the highest yet, in his efforts, he nearly asphyxiated some perfectly harmless people, set himself on fire, traveled through the streets in his underwear and with the scanty protection of a billboard suit. Then, still with the highest motives, he tricked his sweetheart. She was resentful and—in the rebound—was caught in the web of a human sizer. Then our hero's luck turned—and it was high time. You'll want to find out for yourself how he rescued the girl and punished the villain.

Booth Tarkington's "Get Rich Quick Edgar" will also be shown. Wanda Hawley in "The Snob," will be shown at the Strand Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

AT THE GRAND

After breaking all attendance records in the history of the Grand, "The Kid" featuring Charles Chaplin and Jack Coogan, will today terminate a week's engagement at the State street theater.

A picture of an entirely different type is announced for the coming week when "Passion," an elaborate ten reel production starring the continental favorite Pola Negri will be the attraction. "Passion" is an historical drama depicting the rise and fall of the little French milliner who was known to the world as Du Barry.

AT THE FULLER

"Extravagance," starring the blonde screen beauty, May Allison, comes to the Fuller Sunday for a three day engagement, starting Sunday.

This Metro Special was adapted from the story by Ben Ames Williams, "More Stately Mansions," which appeared in Good Housekeeping Magazine, and created a sensation by its astounding portrayal of a current social malady. Those who have read the story will want to behold the talented Metro star personate the extravagant society girl, while everybody else will wish to see the unusual picture.

Miss Allison has the role of Nancy Brown, daughter of a wealthy man, who marries Dick Vane, a young lawyer. Her society ambitions necessitate a severe dent into the husband's income, and in a mad desire to hold his wife's love, Dick forges a check on his father. It is when jail faces him, and his wife is given the chance to save her husband by leaving him forever, that the great understanding leading to the new life comes.

The supporting cast includes Robert Edeson, Theodor von Eltz, William Courtwright, Lawrence Grant and Grace Pike.

AT THE ORPHEUM

One of the best all-round bills of vaudeville which has played the Orpheum theater for many weeks is that which is on view for the last half of this week. The headline attraction is Miss Leona La Mar, the girl with the 1,000 eyes, held over from the first of the week, due to her popularity and that she mystifies and entertains local theatergoers with her wonderful mind-reading goes without saying. Next on the list of fun makers is seen William Mandel and company who "do things all wrong," offering one of the cleverest of gymnast and tumbling acts. While pretending to be inexperienced their work show wonderful class. Miss Balle Montrose, with her act "Her Only Chance," stopped the show at each and every performance so far this week and Mr. Valentine Vox in his classic "The Clubman" delights. Jewell and Raymond in an offering called "Just Kids" present a singing and dancing act of interest, and Gillett, in the opening act of the bill has a laughable comedy novelty act. The kinogram pictures are interesting and the orchestral offerings up to the Orpheum standards.

There will be three performances today and tomorrow and at the matinee today Miss La Mar will answer questions for the ladies only, and at the Sunday matinee patrons can write their questions at home, bring them to the theater, keep them in their possession and Miss La Mar will call them out and answer them.

BRITISH LABOR WANTS WORK

—WILLIAMS

People Want Jobs More Than Anything Else

"The reason that there is less Bolshevism and radicalism in the United States than in England is that in England the job is chronically, perennially and acutely scarce. Great Britain is a crowded country and that is a key to its serious labor difficulties. The big thing people want is not wealth, stocks, bonds, or bricks and mortar, but just jobs. As one of my fellow workers said, 'It would seem to be the finest kind of a world to me if a man could go to bed at night knowin' he had a job to go to in the morning.'

These statements given by Whiting Williams, one of the country's best known social experts in his lecture in 165 Bascom hall yesterday afternoon, indicate his opinion of the cause of labor difficulties.

Worked with Laborers

Mr. Williams desired to learn the working man's point of view, to get at his feelings. In order to accomplish this he donned overalls and worked as a member of the labor gangs in various steel yards and mines both in this country and in Scotland and England. He was in England last summer, said to be the gravest and most important period in all the history of England labor.

Mr. Williams stated that the four fundamental causes of labor disturbances are tiredness and temper caused by too much work under unfavorable conditions, bad living conditions, low wages, and instability of jobs.

"Millions of men in Great Britain today are plain, downright, ordinary tired—"fed up." They have come back from war tired out, come to find no jobs, come to find great problems ahead of them. The United States doesn't have this difficulty, but in Europe today this tiredness plays a real part in labor troubles.

Mr. Williams made the audience understand the laboring man's point of view, not so much by his own words but by stories which he quoted from the men with whom he worked in the mines and in the steel mills. His humor, his ability to interpret sympathetically the philosophy and the longings of these illiterate, rough workers, and his use of dialect of the Scotchmen and the English working man gave his hearers a vivid and striking picture of the workingman's aspirations.

After presenting the difficulties of the labor situation in England and emphasizing the greater degree of radicalism in that country caused by poorer living conditions and fewer jobs than are available in the United States, Mr. Williams indicated the danger of this unrest to the rest of the world.

He showed that the Atlantic ocean is no longer a barrier between the United States and Europe and that their difficulties will become ours. Mr. Williams declared he was for any way out of the difficulty except fighting, and that we can not hope to crawl out of our difficulties alone, but must co-operate and act with Europe in solving their problem.

CHURCH STUDENTS TO HOLD BANQUET

FEET

Department of Physical Education to Interpret Pedal Bumps at Expo

Do you know that there is a fortune in your feet? The department of physical education can tell you more about the dark secrets of your past and present habits and character than you ever dreamed would leak out.

That prominent bump on your pet phalange has a definite relation to a character bump on the top of your anatomy. Foot steps on the sands of time, and the University Drive in spring, leave prints which the therapeutic mystics will interpret for you.

If you have an honest inclination to repress or hide the sore and weary skeleton in your daily uphill life the Exposition's Better Shoe Campaign will be just the thing to put you on a firmer, easier, and more harmonious foundation.

LAST TWILIGHT TO BE HELD TONIGHT

The last meeting of Firelight will be held tonight at 7:30 in Lathrop parlors. Frances Ellen Tucker will read "An Adventure in Africa," and "A Happy Medium." She will be accompanied at the piano by Marion Mosel '23. Wilhelmina Ehrman is in charge of the meeting.

Firelight meetings, which have proved very successful as weekly gatherings about the hearth fire, will be discontinued during the spring. They will be resumed again in the fall under the direction of Crucible.

AFFIRMATIVE WINS IN AGRIC DEBATE

The affirmative won a debate at a meeting of Agricultural Literary society last night on the advisability of creating a new cabinet position. Jay L. Lush of the genetics department was critic and
