ATHLETIC AND MILITARY RULES

AS REVISED BY THE ATHLETIC COUNCIL.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE WORK IN GYMNASTICS.

Reasons for Granting Excuses—Credit for Military and Gymnastic Work.

REGULATIONS OF THE COUNCIL ON MILITARY AND ATHLETIC AFFAIRS.

I General Powers of Council.

1. The council is empowered to control the use by students of all grounds and buildings for athletic purposes.
2. The council is empowered to grant permission for absences from university exercises on account of athletic matters.
3. The council is empowered to exempt students from military drill and the required physical culture.

II Regulations Governing Military Drill.

1. Military drill is required on two days of the week of all male members of the freshman and sophomore classes and of special students ranking with those classes.

2. Exemption on account of physical disability, the necessity for labor in order to support the student in the university, training for athletic teams, etc., may be given by the council in its discretion.

Physical disability must be shown by a medical examination by the director of the gymnasium of the person claiming exemption. In case of such exemption no credit for military drill will be given, and the credit required for graduation must be made up by other work, except in case of engineering students.

3. Candidates for positions on university teams or university crew, will be exempted by the council from military drill while actually in training. If such students are absent from drill so long that the commandant cannot readmit them to the battalion for the remainder of the year, the equivalent of the amount of drill must be made good by other work.

4. First year students who have had, before entering the university, the equivalent of one full year's drill or more in the university battalion, may be required to drill during their first year only; providing that such student present certificate from former commandants of the military duty performed, that they take the course in drill regulations required of non-commissioned officers, maintaining a satisfactory standing.

5. Adult special students twenty-two years old or more at the opening of the college year will be excused from military drill upon filing with the council a statement of their classification and age. Adult special students required to drill will continue drill throughout the year.

6. Military drill ranks as required work in the university, and at the end of the semester reports in regard to the same will be presented to the class officers, in the same manner as reports of other work.

Students reported as satisfying the requirements will be credited for the same towards graduation at the rate of one hour per semester for each two hours per semester of drill; but no credit for drill will be given for less than the work of a semester or in case of more than 20 per cent. of absences during the semester except on the recommendation of the council. For unexcused absences as well as for inattention or other neglect of duty students may be conditioned or reported as not passed. Students so reported will receive no credit for the military work of the semester. Engineering students so failing must repeat the work; whether other students shall repeat the work shall be determined by the council; but if not repeated the credit required for graduation must be made good by other work.

7. All commissioned officers and first sergeants performing their duties in a satisfactory manner will receive credit at the rate of one hour for each hour of drill.

8. Members of the Military band practicing regularly with the same not less than two hours a week, will be excused from military drill and will receive the same credits as other members of the cadet corps. The bandmaster will receive the same credit as commissioned officers. Members of the band, like other members of the corps, are required to provide themselves with uniforms, and are under the control of the professor of military science.

III. Requirements in Regard to Physical Culture.

1. Class work in the gymnasium is required of freshmen, sophomores, and special students ranking with these classes on two days of the week, one hour each day. At the end of each semester the work of the students will be reported to class officers.

Students reported as satisfying the requirements will be credited for the same towards graduation at the rate of one hour per semester for each two hours per semester of gymnastic work; but no credit for gymnastic work will be given for less than the work of a semester, or, in case of more than 20 per cent. of absences during the semester, except on the recommendation of the council.

Squad leaders performing their duties in a satisfactory manner will receive credit at the rate of one hour per week for each hour of gymnastic work.

For unexcused absences as well as for inattention, or other neglect of duty students may be conditioned or reported as not passed.

2. Exemptions from the required gymnastic work on account of physical disability, the necessity for labor in order to support the student in the university, training for athletic teams, etc., may be granted by the council at its discretion.

3. Students may be excused from class gymnasium work by the council on the request of the captain of any university athletic team, and on the recommendation of the director of the gymnasium, whenever in the opinion of the council the applicant is taking an amount of other athletic work that is a full equivalent for the prescribed class work. Any such substitution

CHORAL CONCERT NEXT WEEK

EXCELLENT WORK AT THE REHEARSAL LAST EVENING.

LIST OF THE SOLOISTS ENGAGED FOR THE CONCERT.

Last Rehearsal Next Monday—The Orchestra Engaged.

Prof Parker expressed himself as highly pleased with the excellent showing made by the Choral Union at its rehearsal last evening. There was a full attendance of the one hundred sixty members, and for the first time the whole chorus of the "Creation" was sung.

Circulars advertising the concert were distributed. It may be noted that the combined orchestras of Madison and large additions from Bach's orchestra, of Milwaukee, will take part in the program, and also the following distinguished artists: Mrs. Geneva Johnstone-Bishop, Mr. Charles A. Knorr, and Mr. Charles W. Clark, all of Chicago.

Next Monday evening the chorus will meet at 7:15 for its final rehearsal, when the orchestras will be present.

THE ENGLISH CONSTITUTION.

Its Growth Under the Tudors and First Stuarts.

Prof. Parkinson continued his course of synoptical lectures on The English Constitution yesterday, speaking upon the Constitution under the Tudors and first Stuarts.

In reviewing the last lecture the speaker mentioned the chief clauses of the Magna Charta and its effect upon English nation. During the reign of Edward III., the conditions were favorable for great development in the constitutional rights of the people. Edward III. was an able king although he had some evil tendencies. His struggle against the liberties of the Jews and his bitter crusade against the freedom of Scotland are but too well known. At this time the kings council was composed of barons of several different classes, but it was expensive to remain in the council, so the lesser barons were forced to withdraw until finally the council was entirely made up of the rich or upper barons.

In 1265 the cities were for the first time allowed a representative in parliament. The numerous wars and expeditions caused a great need of money and the king in order to obtain money to carry on these operations was compelled to give the people promises of additional freedom and rights. In this way the people gained many valuable acquisitions to the original charter and thereby their power was extended.

The reign of Richard II. was very favorable to the increase of parliamentary power. The king came to the throne when young, so in the early part of his reign the county was governed by a regency. In disposition Richard II. was violent, reckless and very extravagant and by making use of the king's failings, the commons were able to gain considerable power at this time. The original enacting power of the crown became merely the right to veto, while at the same time the power of the commons increased from right to petition to the power of enacting.

In continuation the lecturer said that Henry VII., the first of the Tudors came to the throne with a defective title. He married Elizabeth, and thus the claims of both the houses of Lancaster and York were united by this marriage. Henry VII was accustomed to favor the commons. Henry IIX. was the first king for over a century, who came to the throne with a perfect title. During the reign of this king the power of the upper house decreased at the same time the lower house gained power, although the power of the king was almost absolute. Edward VI. and Mary followed Henry VIII. but they could not maintain the power which their father had over the barons.

The accession of Elizabeth to the throne was the cause of the reformation. The House of Commons became organized and were very active under her reign. This rapid increase of wealth and power helped to strengthen the commons. The reigns of the Tudors, as a whole, was pacific.

James I. was the first of the Stuarts. He was a learned man but had no judgment. He came to the throne with a practically unquestioned title. He displeased his subjects with many uncalled for acts and incurred their dislike. In practice he was a coward, in theory a despot.

SECOND PHYSICAL EXAMINATIONS.

To Be Made by Dr. Elsom—Few Use the Gymnasium Evenings.

Prof. Elsom will begin the second series of physical examinations about the middle of February. It will be remembered that at the time of the first examination he offered a medal to the student showing the greatest all-round development. This was offered as an incentive to earnest and thorough work in the gymnasium. Many have been doing regular work every day and have been thorough in it; whether they have had the thought of the medal in mind it is not known; at any rate they will stand a good chance of getting it, for it goes to the student who shows the best development in all points.

The fact that the gymnasium is open four evenings in the week may not be known by all the students, but such is the case and if it is not better patronized the Board of Regents will probably close it again soon. There is great expense incurred in opening it and it seems hardly worth going to such expense for the few who have already used it. Since it was open, about two weeks ago, there has been only twelve or fifteen, at the most on any one night. If the students want to keep it open they will have to turn out and use it more. The evenings are Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday from 7 to 9:30.

The prospect of securing a new shell for our aquatic department is one that ought to be kept before the public continually for the next four or five months. This branch of athletics is young comparatively to those of other institutions, but with excellent facilities both in summer and winter, the association cannot afford to be handicapped by lack of proper apparatus. Citizens and alumni in the past have been fairly liberal in this respect. However, in a growing university like our own accommodations must be provided, that we may successfully compete with our probable neighboring rivals. There is no doubt but that the athletic association will employ all means to make the new shell a reality, and we call upon the friends of the university to respond in due season. Here is the opportunity for the prime movers to do some expert hustling before the season opens.

With all due respect to the young ladies who are so zealous in their efforts to secure a regular use of the Gymnasium if not an enlarged one their own, we would remind them that the young men waited ten years before their hopes were in any degree realized. They were either content with an old barn or none at all, while the ladies were enjoying their present quarters exclusively. The Gymnasium is now used nearly every hour in the day, for class work or training of such a nature that can not be interfered with.

The appropriation for the building was secured, because of the need of an armory inevitable for the instruction in military science. The Gymnasium would not have been built for athletic purposes only. While we do believe that the young ladies are entitled to a suitable Gymnasium of their own, we cannot under the circumstances see how it is consistent with the policy of our board of regents, unless they see fit to erect an addition to Ladies Hall, so as to provide for more accommodations apartments for the training in physical culture.

PRINCETON'S NAME.

The name of "College of New Jersey," which officially belongs to Princeton, has so utterly fallen into disuse, that it is hoped to get it dropped even officially. The feeling on this subject is suggested in a recent Princetonian editorial:

"The name 'College of New Jersey' has become obsolete. To be sure this title is on official documents, is on the seal, and is the proper name of the institution. But it means little today. A great many people who are deeply interested in the welfare of Princeton would have to think twice to understand a reference to the 'College of New Jersey.' So far as we are aware the state gives the college no material help and it is a question whether any lustre is added to our fame by having the name of a state linked to the title. Certainly it suggests contraction, limitation. So far as the deeper consideration is concerned, is Princeton a true university?—we believe there is no hard and fast definition of a university and the conclusion must be left to individual decision. But the president and many who know most intimately our animating spirit as well as our history and present capacity are fond of talking of 'Princeton University.' Next year the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary will be celebrated. We hope that at that occasion in addition to the signs of prosperity and usefulness which will probably be shown, and in addition to changes that may be inaugurated looking to a widening of our sphere of influence, it may seem best to start the new era by adopting as official, what is already the real name—Princeton University."

YALE FRESHMEN SPORTS FORBIDDEN.

It is reported from Yale that all the freshmen sporting events for this year will probably be forbidden by the faculty as a punishment for the conduct of members of that class at the Glee and Banjo Club concert. In spite of the earnest appeals of the upper class men, the freshmen persisted in disturbing the performance by showering handbills recounting the glories of the class upon the audience, and by frequent cheers. The faculty and upper class men are incensed over the affair, and punishment is said to be certain.

LECTURE ON CHARITY.

By Professor Charles R. Henderson of the University of Chicago.

An address of very large public interest must be that to be given in the Presbyterian church next Friday evening by Prof. Charles R. Henderson, professor of social science in the University of Chicago. The theme is to be the Partnership of Modern Samaritans, and the address is under the auspices of the Madison Benevolent society. The only object in view in having Prof. Henderson speak here is to further instruct our people on charitable subjects.

Prof. Henderson was for many years the pastor of a Detroit church, and has long taken a keen interest in and been a hard student of the varied problems relating to charitable, reformatory and penal matters. He is the author of a well-known work entitled Dependents, Defectives, Delinquents, and it was he who organized the Charity Organization society of Terre Haute. He was for ten years a member of the executive committee of the charity society of Detroit and is now a member of the central committee on charities in Chicago.

He is an earnest and entertaining speaker and has a wide personal experience on which to draw for his illustrations.

The address will be given at 8 o'clock and will be as free as the work is noble which he and the benevolent society seek to advance. Neither admittance fee nor contribution will be taken.

DATE OF THE MOTT HAVEN GAMES.

The intercollegiate constitution provides that the champion athletic events shall occur the last Saturday in May. This year such a provision makes the date May 25, whereas the first Saturday in June comes upon the first of the month. It has been the custom for Yale and Harvard to hold their dual contest before all the colleges met; such an arrangement followed out this year would bring them together upon the track May 11.

In consequence of this tendency to bring the games at a comparatively early date, it is said that Yale would be glad to vote for a change of the constitution so as to make the Mott Haven games occur on the first Saturday in June. The Yale management have not said officially that they would move such a change, but it is understood that they think it would be advantageous to all the colleges.—Harvard Crimson.

—The following question has been chosen for the Harvard-Princeton debate: "Resolved, That if it were possible, a reasonable property qualification for the exercise of municipal franchise in the United States would be desirable." Princeton has the affirmative.

—The manager of the Co-op will send another order to A. G. Spalding & Co., next Saturday.
