BIG FESTIVAL OF SONG AND LIGHT FRIDAY

Series Of Tableaux And Dances To Show Essen- tials Of Life

"A Day in America," is the name of the pageant to be presented in the Open Air theater on Friday under the direction of Prof. E. B. Gordon's classes in Community Music and Prof. P. W. Dykema's classes in Festivals and Pageantry.

Francis P. Frazier, attired as an Indian seer, will present the prologue and epilogue, the music for the former being "The Sun Worshiper's Song." There will be four episodes in the pageant, representing the four essentials of human life: Work, Love, Play and Worship. The entire festival will be made up of tableaux, dances, processions, and pantomime.

The first episode, Work, will be presented by a series of tableaux, showing a soldier, with the music, "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Ahe Marching;" a sailor, with the music, "Blow the Man Down;" a blacksmith, with the "Anvil Chorus;" and a negro cotton picker, with "Levee Song." Following the tableaux there will be a processional of all kinds of workers, with the music, "On, O Thou Soul," Tchaikowski.

The second episode, Love, will be a series of tableaux showing friendship, romantic love, parental love, and love of country. The music for this episode will be "Auld Lang Syne," "My Sunshine," "Sweet and Low," and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Play, the third episode, will be a series of folk dances by various nationalities and an exhibit of supervised play of children, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, etc. The music for the finale of this episode will be "A Merry Life."

The artistic lighting effects of the pageant will be brought out especially in the fourth episode, Worship. The episode beings in darkness, the chorus singing softly, "The Little Brown Church in the Vale." This will be followed by a processional of all who appear in the pageant.

Observation and Comment By MacCARROLL PATTISON

The recent expose of conditions relative to the ice cream industry in Madison bring out facts that are of quite as much interest to university students as to permanent residents. A good share of the ice cream trade of the city is transacted through university students, particularly in certain sections of town. The variation in prices has not passed unnoticed with them, and they welcome whatever investigation is seen fit to determine why a more standard scale of prices does not exist. The frozen product is not the only thing that is inclined to fluctuate so, it is also the usual run of fountain goods. But why stop here, let's look at food prices too. The kindly attentions of any board set out to probe into the matter would not do amiss to consider a few cafeterias and restaurants while so engaged.

Mermaids Eagerly Awaiting Big Pier and Water Contest; Seek Prizes and Honors

Twenty-four hours hence all the world (who are interested) will know what summer student co-ed is the best swimmer frequentee of Lake Mendota. They will also be informed as to which maiden possesses the most attractive bathing costume on the beach.

At 4 p. m. tomorrow the contestants in the Cardinal's famous "derby" will assemble at the boat house ready to demonstrate their various abilities in the water or to line up for the judges' inspection of their swimming apparel. Entries are not compelled to sign up in advance, but should be on hand at the proper hour, ready for the contest.

Besides the honors of winning such events, from a potential field of 3,000, the prizes are well worth while. A few girls have expressed the fear that the contest is only a farce, but the Cardinal wishes to assure all prospective candidates for aquatic honors that the events are bona fide ones, and that a large number of contestants will compete.

The entire student body is invited to the contest. No collection will be taken. Don't forget the date and hour—tomorrow, July 19, at 4 p. m., and the place is the University boat house pier!

FINALS IN TENNIS SINGLES TOMORROW

If the weather permits, the finals of the singles of the summer session tournament will be played off tomorrow. The tournament has practically resolved itself into a contest between B. H. Robinson of Indianapolis, Ind., Graham Battles of Peoria, and R. T. Phillips of Boston, Mass. Phillips, because of his long string of victories, is given the edge over the others. If he loses out in the race for the handsome gold filled medal to be given for first place, he is almost sure to cop the bronze medal which the Gym authorities offer as second prize. Both prizes are fitting rewards for those who emerged at the head of the 46 students who started in the tournament.

The doubles should begin today. If the weather interferes the matches will be played as soon as the courts are again fit for use. Mr. Hagen states that there are 16 entrants. He also states that some of these entrants have failed to pay small fee which is taken in order to pay the charges for prizes. The prizes for this year are handsome silver medals for each member of the team which wins first place, and bronze medals for those who win second honors. The medals are being made by Childs and company of Chicago, and will soon be on display in the windows of Sumner and Cramton, 636 State st.

The entry list for the tournament has closed, but those who have been lax in the payment of their fees still have a chance to pay up. Payment, however, must be made before play starts, which will be on the first day on which the courts are open. Each round should be played within two days, so that semi-finals and finals will be completed before the summer term closes.

DOROTHY BEECHER TO PLAY TONIGHT

The first part of the musical program to be given at 7 o'clock this evening in the Open Air Theater will be presented by Miss Dorothy Beecher, instructor in the School of Music. This is Miss Beecher's last appearance in concert work at the university as she is leaving at the close of the summer session.

Three selections for the piano will be given: The Spinning Song from the Flying Dutchman by Wagner, transcribed by Liszt, Liebstraum number three by Liszt and Concert Etude by MacDowell.

The rest of the evening will be devoted to the singing of songs by the entire group. All the material used is taken from the "Fest of Sun, Light and Pictures" to be given in the Open Air Theatre next Friday night at 8 o'clock, in addition to some of the familiar folk songs such as "Sweet and Low," "I've been workin' on the Railroad," "Perfect Day" and some ambitious choruses.

QUEER QUESTIONS ARE PROPOUNDED AT CLUB MEETING

International Members Trade Knowledge on Many Things Through Question Box

"Do Chinese sleep on wooden pillows?" "How many yards of cloth in an Indian turban?" and "Why do Americans chew gum?" were only a few of the queries propounded in the game of "Cosmopolitan Question Box" played at the meeting of the International club Friday night. This clearing house of ideas is to give members of the club a chance to find out first-hand some of the everyday things about life in other countries. Foreigners find as much to ask about America as the American students want to ask about foreign countries.

Other features of the program included a talk by F. P. Frazier, a Sioux Indian, on the legends of his tribe. He explained how the folk lore of the Indian is handed down from generation to generation just as are the fairy tales of European races.

"Caste Systems of India" was discussed by S. S. Aiyar of Mysore State India. A talk on Chinese philosophy by W. Chiao, a violin solo by I. Marrero of Porto Rico, and music by C. X. Burgos, L. V. Linsangan and C. M. Paras concluded the program.

It was also decided at the meeting to hold a picnic at Bernard's park Saturday, July 16 in the afternoon and evening.

BRITTINGHAM GARDEN FETE ON TOMORROW

Scores of Autos Will Take All Out to Large Coun- try Estate

Imagine eating supper tomorrow night on a beautiful terrace overlooking a broad stretch of grassy lawn sloping down to the lake, the white dome of the capitol gleaming against the sunset sky; and then after supper strolling down to the pavillion that has been erected and dancing under a summer moon to the music of an orchestra made up of the following men:

Chuck Carpenter, Ken Elsom, Jean Juster, Bill Olds, Tom Caldwell, Torrey Foy, Bud Buell, Bill Maroney, Steve Horton, John Moroney, Elbert Carpenter, George Johnson, Charles Englehardt, Bill Englehardt, Bill Ferguson, Norman Willis, Herb Brackhausen, Bill Pfister, and Cecil Brandt.

The garden fete being given at the Brittingham home Dunmuven promises this and much more to students and townspeople who are planning to take advantage of the unusual combination of delightful pleasures offered for their enjoyment between 2 and 8 p. m. tomorrow afternoon and evening.

Free Transportation

A free ride out there and back in private cars over five miles of concrete road is one of the incidental attractions. Cars will leave Lathrop every half hour between 2 and 7 o'clock and the last loads back will leave Dunmuven at 8.

The Sunset Dancers, a group of Madison girls most of whom have studied with Miss Margaret H'Doubler will give a group of dances between 7 and 8. Between 4 and 5 o'clock fifty girls from Professor Kehl's dancing academy will entertain with another series of dances. The Sunset dancers include Julia Hanks, Eleanor Riley, Agnes Samuels, Carol Goodyear, Edwina Dexter.

"Come see the human shoe string" and all the other freaks that charm as they repel the ever curious and eager throng. Side shows under the direction of Billely Huel promise all that side shows do and can promise.

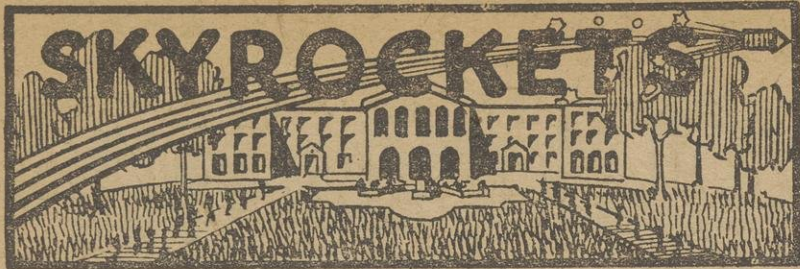

Balloon girls, ice cream vendors, flower sellers all will contribute to the festive and gala effect of the fete. Walks about the gardens through well kept paths, under shady arbors by brilliant flower beds will be one of the pleasures that will refresh many a pavement weary foot and rest the student tired of seeing nothing more beautiful than organdy dresses on hot humanity standing in a cafeteria line.

EASTERNERS PICNIC AT POINT; HOLD DANCE AND FEED THURSDAY

Members of the Eastern club held their second picnic at Sunset Point last Thursday evening. Eats were followed by a short business meeting and then by games in which all participated and enjoyed themselves fully.

It was decided to hold a convention picnic and dance next Thursday, July 21, at Bernard's park. A special boat will be chartered which will leave the Park street pier at 5 o'clock. Those who desire to go are asked to call C. P. Purdy at B. 7762.

WOMEN STUDENTS AT IOWA TO HELP FIRST YEAR GIRLS

Freshman women who enter the University of Iowa next year will not come to Iowa City without the friendship and acquaintance of some woman student at the university.

Women at Iowa are planning to make the sponsor system more than usually effective next year. As soon as the dean of women at the university receives word from prospective freshman girls indicating that they will register in the university next September, she will inform some upper class woman student, who will write the girl whose name is assigned her and arrange to meet her at the train when she arrives in Iowa City. These upper class women will aid the freshmen in registering and will help them get acquainted during the first weeks at the university.

THE TRUTH OF THE MATTER

R EPORTS of intoxication among the students of the university have been somewhat exaggerated. That a few cases may have occurred is no doubt true. It would be impossible to assemble 4,500 students without having in that number some of the wilder and more irresponsible class.

During the past week reports have been current that several cases of intoxication were reported to Judge Hoppmann of the Superior Court and that he had called the violators into conference. Reports have been circulated that fraternity men are the principal offenders. In order to ascertain the truth of these reports the Cardinal has investigated the matter.

Judge Hoppmann declares that no direct allegations of intoxication have been made against students or group of students. The reports as brought to his attention were to the effect that a few students had been especially exuberant during the early hours in the morning. No charges of intoxication were made, nor have any further mention of exuberance of spirits been mentioned. The reports made were turned in by residents of the neighborhood in which the noise occurred.

Only a few students were involved. It does not appear that fraternity men were greater offenders than others. The situation however merited some measures which would check further affairs. Judge Hoppmann wisely felt that an appeal made to the student body would be the best means of prevention.

For that purpose he issued an invitation to representative members of the student body and one from each of the fraternities to meet him in his chamber. To these men he stated the situation and appealed to those present to do what was possible to curb further actions of the nature. If there were further violations the entire matter would be turned over to the Federal Authorities.

Apparently the situation was not alarming enough to warrant more than preventative and advisory measures. No definite accusations have been made against any student. That the disturbers were intoxicated can only be surmised. Accounts in some of the papers and on the campus have been somewhat distorted.

The question however is not one to be easily passed over. The name of the university and the student body suffers each time that anything of the nature occurs. It is unfortunate that a comparatively few students can, by their unconsidered actions, injure the name of the entire university.

The appeal of Judge Hoppmann should prevent further occurrences, which even though they may be innocent of any real wrong, become grossly exaggerated in the telling. The representatives at Judge Hoppmann's meeting should not fail to answer a manly appeal in a manly manner.

Their answer can best be made by using their influence to prevent in the future any actions which may give careless gossip an opportunity to injure the name of the university or any of its students. Such an answer would show that they are worthy of the trust given them by Judge Hoppmann.

It is hoped that the entire question is now thoroughly understood and that innocent parties will no longer be blamed for carousals that had only imaginary existence

Says Amounts Given Are What Varsity Officers Estimated As Needed; No Salary Increases, He Says

President Birge of the university is highly pleased with the appropriations received from the legislature. In a statement issued today President Birge says that the appropriations made "are substantially equal to the sums estimated by the university officers and the state board of education as needed to maintain the institution."

By E. A. BIRGE

(President of University of Wisconsin)

The University of Wisconsin will be able to carry on its work with full vigor during the next two years as a result of the legislature's appropriation of approximately $5,000,000 annually.

One of the encouraging signs of the times is the large way in which each of the north central states has met the great needs of its university. It is a pleasure to know that Wisconsin, which has for a generation been among the foremost states in relation to higher education, stands in line this year with her sister states in providing for its maintenance.

The appropriation made by the legislature of 1921 for the operation and other ordinary expenses are substantially equal to the sums estimated by the university officers and the state board of education as needed to maintain the institution.

The university did not present to the state plans for expansion and the appropriations do not include money for such purposes. Small additions to the faculty are always necessary as work develops in the several departments, and such must be made in the coming biennium as they have been in the past.

But there is no large or comprehensive plan for expansion during the coming two years. We hope that they will see the completion of the process of adjustment of the university to post war conditions of numbers and of demand for teaching along established lines.

Thus the appropriations for operating the university are adequate, but the appropriations for buildings represent only a fraction of the needs, and the condition of the institution is rapidly getting worse in regard to space and in regard to those aspects of education that depend on space.

But the financial conditions that prevented the legislature from entering on large building projects for any department are well known, and the university has gone so many years without adequate additions to buildings that only large projects could meet its needs.

The appropriation bill for the university carries about $5,000,000 for each year of the coming biennium. Of this sum, something more than $3,600,000 comes from the state at large for 1921-22 and a somewhat smaller sum for 1922-23. The remainder nearly $1,500,000 comes from student fees, sales of farm products, the U. S. Government and other agencies.

During the past three years the university has increased greatly in its size rising from 4,500 students in 1917 to 7,100 in 1920. It is not expected, however, that this marked rise will be repeated, but rather that there will be a steady growth due to the increase in the number of graduates from high schools of the state.

The university is also fortunate in having been able to retain practically all of its leading professors, men whose names and accomplishments have added much to the fame of the institution. An appropriation sufficient for immediate needs will permit continued broad activity which is an inducement to the faculty members.

Scarcely any salary increases were included in the budget accepted by the legislature. The increase granted in 1918 brought the general level up to that of other universities and is being maintained.

BULLETIN BOARD

The Bulletin Board is run as a regular department of the summer session Cardinal. It is open for use by all organizations to announce their activities. Material should be left at the Union building office not later than 3:00 p. m. on the date of issue. Phone messages cannot be guaranteed.

FULL HOUSE SEES IBSEN'S "GHOSTS"

The second of the Clifford Devereux productions, "Ghosts" by Henrik Ibsen, was given at the outdoor theatre Friday evening. A capacity house greeted the players, the magic name of Ibsen seeming to be the impelling factor in the crowd's interest.

The play suffered somewhat from lack of the proper scenic effects, and the actors seemed to fail to realize the difficulty of their lines being heard in the rear of the theatre. For those in the last few rows, the play became almost a pantomime, with the exception of the lines of Walter Pilson as Jacob Engstrand, the carpenter.

Pilson handled his part, which though a minor one was of rather difficult interpretation, in a masterful way. Zinita Graff bore the burden of the entire play, and at times her portrayal of the character was of the highest order. On other occasions her work was quite mediocre. Clifford Devereux was not the actor he showed himself to be in "Cardinal Richelieu."

The character of Pastor Manders was well taken care of by Edmond Ford.

"Monna Vanna" by Maurice Maeterlinck, the last of the four great dramas presented by the Devereux Players during their three days' in Madison, was given before a large audience at the open air theater Saturday night.

Zinita Graff assumed the title role and gave a powerful portrayal of the heroic woman who sacrifices her personal happiness for the sake of her starving countrymen. Miss Graff is great in tense moments but there are times, when the action is not so tense, that the listener almost desires a sprightlier voice.

THE STRAND

"The Last Door," Eugene O'Brien's latest picture which is now being shown at the Strand Theatre, is a crook play of the type made famous by "Jimmy Valentine," "DeLuxe Annie," "Kick In" and others that boast a gentle fibre, although the plot and story are along decidedly original lines.

The picture tells a story of the "Magnet," a notorious thief whom the police have constantly pursued, but never caught. The "Magnet" is a thorough gentleman, famous for his chivalry, and operates entirely for the sake of adventure. He continues his pernicious practices until suddenly the gravity of his offenses is forced upon him by the girl he loves and he realizes that no enemy of the law can ever hope to be permanently happy.

There are surprises and adventure galore in "The Last Door" which is heralded as O'Brien's best production. Martha Mansfield is at the
