

Index to the executive documents of the House of Representatives for the second session of the fiftieth Congress, 1888-'90. Vol. 1, Part 1 1888/1889

United States Department of State
Washington, D.C.: U.S. Government Printing Office, 1888/1889

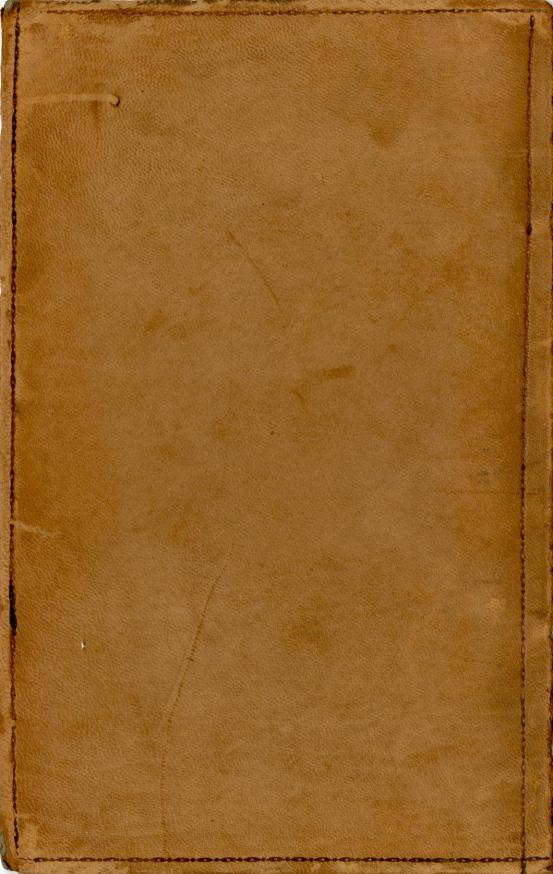

https://digital.library.wisc.edu/1711.dl/G5OAT7XT7HRHX84

As a work of the United States government, this material is in the public domain.

For information on re-use see: http://digital.library.wisc.edu/1711.dl/Copyright

The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

Scientia vera cum fide pura.

BELOIT COLLEGE LIBRARY.

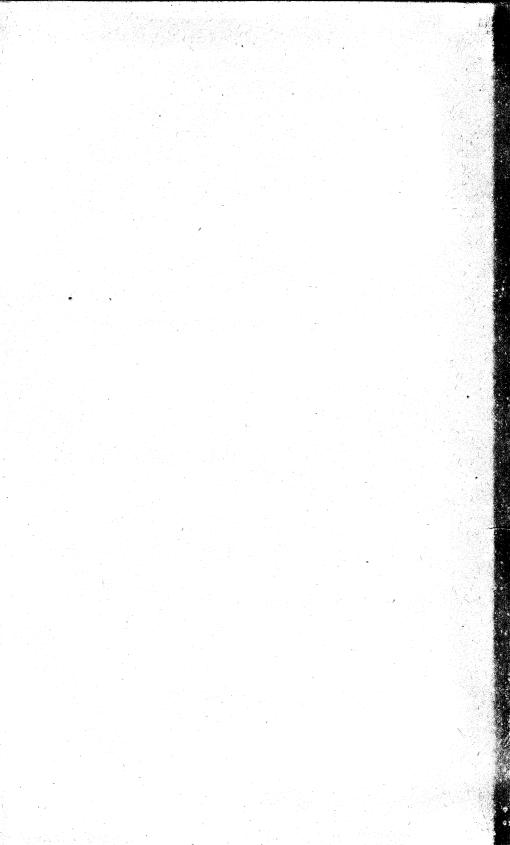

DONOR-U. S. GOV'T.

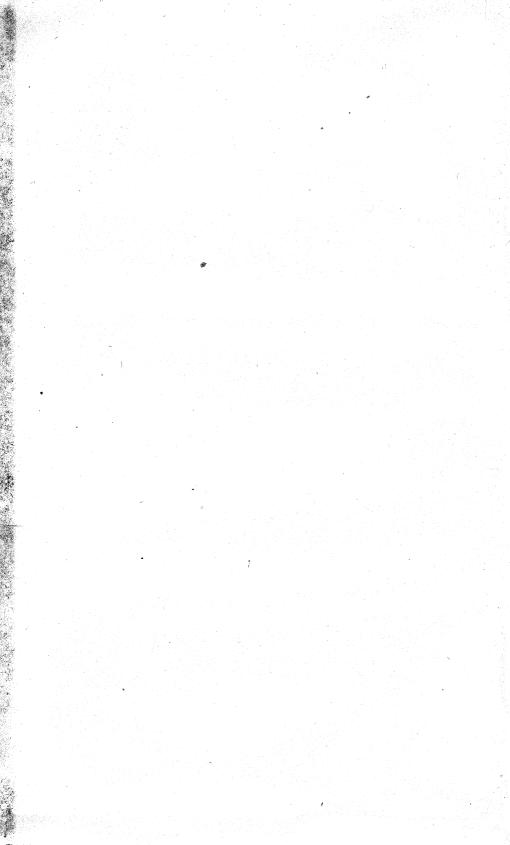

Case

No. 16252

INDEX

TO THE

EXECUTIVE DOCUMENTS

OF THE

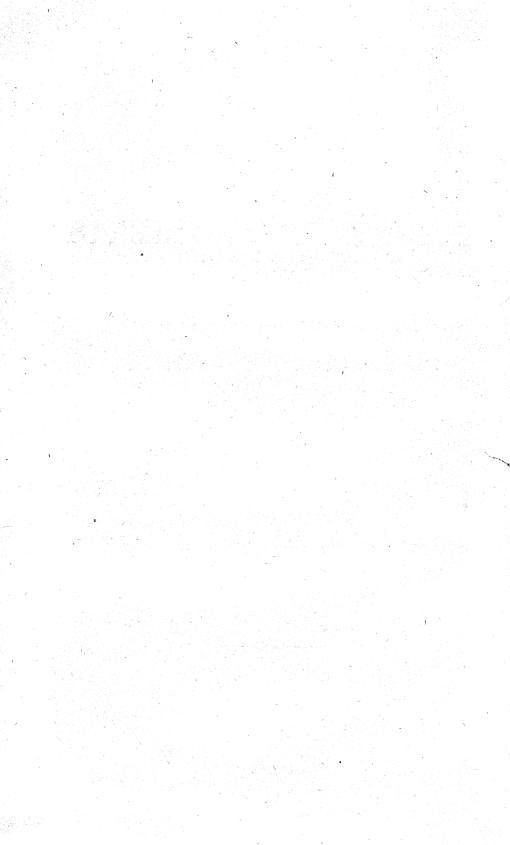

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

FOR THE

SECOND SESSION OF THE FIFTIETH CONGRESS,

1888-'89.

WASHINGTON:
GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.
1889.

INDEX TO EXECUTIVE DOCUMENTS OF HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

CONTENTS OF THE VOLUMES.

~~		· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
VOL.	1FOREIGN RELATIONS.	Vol. 14INTERIOR: No. 1, pt. 5, v. 5.
Vol.	2WAR: No. 1, pt. 2, v. 1 and 3.	Vol. 15 No. 1, pt. 5, v. 6.
Vol.		Vol. 16DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA: No. 1, pt. 6.
Vol.
VOL.		Vol. 18No. 3, pts. 1 and 2.
Vol.	6 ENGINEERS: No. 1, pt. 2, v. 2, pt. 4,	Vol. 19Nos. 4 to 30, except 5, 6, and 22.
Vol.	7 SIGNAL: No.1, pt. 2, v. 4,	Vol. 20 Nos. 5 and 71.
Vol.	8NAVY: No.1, pt.3.	Vol. 21No. 6.
Vol.	9POSTMASTER-GENERAL: No. 1, pt. 4.	Vol. 22No. 22.
Vol. 1	10INTERIOR: No. 1, pt. 5, v. 1,	Vol. 23No. 31, part 1.
Vol.		Vol. 24 No. 31, part 2.
	12 No. 1, pt. 5, v. 3.	Vol., 25Nos. 32 to 119, except 71.
Vol.	13 No. 1, pt. 5, v. 4.	Vol. 26Nos. 120 to 169.

INDEX TO THE DOCUMENTS.

Subject.	No.	Vol.
A.
Agricultural Department, estimate of deficiency appropriation for printing and binding	129	26
Albuquerque, N. Mex., estimate to pay for improvements on Indian school buildings at Amanda Tompkins (schooner), estimate to pay claim of	33	25
Appraisers (See Customs officers.)	75	25
Appropriations, estimate of	5	20
Arid lands. (See Irrigation.)
Attorney-General, communications from:
Annual report	7	19
Appropriations, estimate of deficiencies in	127	26
Boileau, Paul, relative to claim of. Department of Justice, annual report on employés in	120	26
	1	26 25
Marshals, relative to accounts of	47	25 25
Sentenne, S. H., relative to claim of	120	26
Auditor of Post-Office Department, annual report of	1	9
B .
Barberick, Catherine	86	25
Barcelona Exposition, report of Secretary of State relative to	163	26
		26
Barrhes, William Bartholdi Statue of Liberty, estimate for lighting	26	19
Bass, Henry V	155	26
Boileau, Paul, letter of Attorney-General relative to claim of	120	26
Bridges, Ohio River, report on proposed bridge at Louisville across	29	19
Brussels Exposition, letter of Secretary of State relative to	162	26

İİİ

Subject.	No.	Vol.
Bureau of— Construction and Repair	1	8
Fauinment and Recruiting	ī	8
Medicine and Surgery	ī	8
Navigation	1	8
Ordnance	, 1	. 8
Provisions and Clothing	1	8
Steam-Engineering	1	8
Vards and Docks	1	8
Statistics, report on foreign commerce and navigation.	6	21
Bywater, Tanqueray & Co., estimate to pay claim of	142	26
.		0.5
Cape Canaveral, Florida, estimate for removing light-house station at	98	25
Capitol, estimate of deficiency appropriation for lighting	101	25
Carroll, Bridget	88	25
Cayce, W. H., papers in case of	20	25
Cherokees. (See Indians.)
Cheyennes. (See Indians.)
Chippewas. (See Indians.)	18 Th 18	light fact Claims: Report by Secretary of Treasury of claims allowed under exhausted appropriations	59	25
Report by Secretary of Treasury of war claims allowed	84	25
Coast Survey:		2
Annual report	22	25
Annual report on expenditures of	53	2
Estimate for expenses of sending steamer Gedney to San Francisco	131	20
Collins, T. J	83	1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1
Columbia Institution for Deaf and Dumb, estimate of appropriation for	49 73	25
Columbia River, report of Secretary of War on improvement of	6	2
Commerce and navigation, report of Chief of Bureau of Statistics on foreign Commissioners of District of Columbia, annual report of		18
Commissioners of District of Columbia, annual report of		1
Comptroller of the Currency, annual report of		1
Contracts, letter of Secretary of War relative to amendment of law re-		j (*)
quiring purchases to be made by	108	2
Court of Claims, estimates of appropriations to pay judgments of	126	2
Courts of the United States, appropriations for; estimate of deficiencies	127	2
Cumberland River, letter of Secretary of War on improvement of	_ 30	1
Custom duties (see also Import duties), annual report of refunds of	_ 10	1
Customs officers:
Annual report of emoluments of Letter of Secretary of Treasury relative to term of office of ap-	159	2
Letter of Secretary of Treasury relative to term of office of ap-	4
praisers	- 77	2
Customs revenue, estimate of appropriation for collecting	_ 113
Customs service, report of Secretary of Treasury on expenses of	- 115	2
보기 (1) 이 보고하는 본 교보 D H (1)(1) (1) (1) (1)
Deficiencies:	_ 12	1
Estimate for public printing Estimates for courts of United States Estimate of appropriations for
		_
Estimates for lighting Capitol	(111	1
Estimates for District of Columbia	$- _{146}^{111}$
Estimates for printing and binding for Navy Department
Estimate for adjusting balances on books of New York sub-treasury	124	1
Estimates for payment of witnesses and jurors		1 / /
Estimates for pensions		1.
Estimate for printing and binding for Agricultural Department	130	1 -
Estimate for internal-revenue service	132
Estimates for printing and binding for Navy Department	_ 133
Estimate for diplomatic and consular service	. 139

Subject.	No.	Vol.
Department of Justice (see also Attorney-General) annual report on em-		1 1
Des Moines River lands, message from President on bill (H. R. 1368) to	157	26
quiet titles of settlers on	151	26
Estimates to purchase historical register of	25	19
Estimate of deficiency appropriation for District of Columbia militia, estimate for renting buildings for District of Columbia:	139 94	26 25
Annual report of Commissioners of	1 1 1	16
Deficiencies for, estimate of deficiencies	146 111	$\frac{26}{25}$
	114	25
Dog Island, estimate for light-house at	60	25
Drake, Mary J	84	25
E.
E. C. Allen (schooner), estimate to pay claim of	67	25
Education, estimate of appropriation to observe total eclipse of sunEducation, estimate for publishing consular reports on technical educa-	95	25
Electoral votes. (See President of the United States.) Engineers, annual report of Chief of in four parts.	35	25
Volume 2 part 1	1	3
Volume 2, part 2	î	4
Volume 2, part 3	1	5
volume 2, part 4	1	6
Fish Commission, estimate for maintaining vessels of	110	25
Florida, estimate to pay special messenger sent for electoral vote of	130	26
Foreign mail service, annual report of superintendent of	1	9
Foreign relations of United States, papers relating to	1	1
Fort Leavenworth Kons	125 106	26 25
Estimate for additional buildings at	40	25
Estimate for forage and wagon master at	91	25
Fort Smith, Ark., estimate for fence and elevator for public buildings at-	93	25 게임 : 1 : 1 : 1 : 1 : 1 : 1 : 1 : 1 : 1 :
Garrett, Eli	134	26
Geddes, Unaries W	87	25
Geaney (Steamer), estimate for expenses of sending to Son Francisco	,131	26
Genoa, Nebr., estimate of appropriation for Indian industrial school at.	65	25
Import duties, letter from Secretary of Treasury transmitting statement of refunds of customs duties for 1888	$\begin{array}{c c} 10 \\ 148 \end{array}$	19 26
ending June 30 1888	8	19
Indian depredation claims, report of Secretary of Interior on	103	25
Estimate of appropriation for school at Genoa, Nebr	65	25
Estimate for buildings for school at Lawrence, Kans Estimate to pay for improvements on school buildings at Afbuquerque, N. Mex.	32 33	25 25
mulan trust bonds, letter of Secretary of Treasury relative to everyone	99	20
ment of interest on	13	19

Subject.	No.	Vol.
ndians:	36	2
Cherokee, estimate to pay for legal proceedings in behalf of	62	2
Cheyenne, estimate to purchase stallions for	63	$\tilde{2}$
Chippewas, estimate to purchase seeds for	61	2
	132	$\tilde{2}$
Literal marronno corvico Actimate of Genclency Appropriation ivi	25	4
rigration, estimate for survey of said lands for	54	2
		^
ones Aquilla	121	, 2
ones, Aquilla
그리고 맞는다는 교육을 하는데 이번 중에는 그 저는 데 한 사람이 되는 사용적으로 모르는데 다음이다.	00	_
7 L-111 N/18	90	2
Ley West, Fla., report of Secretary of War on improvement of harbor of	145	2
L.
To Jim nobes 1 -4	32	2
awrence, Kans., estimate for buildings at Indian school atabrary of Congress, estimate of appropriation for service of	24	ĵ ichta: de la la la la la la la la la la la la la	58	* 5
Estimate for a light-house tender for 9th and 11th districts.
Fetimete for light-house at Dog Island	60 97	5
Fetimete for light-house steamer for use in North Carolina
Fetimate for removing light-house station at Cape Canaveral, Fia	98	2
Testimente for lighting Ravitan River	99	2
Testimate for tolograph line for light-house service in Uregon	100
ock, rv. John J	152	, ,
ockery, John J	13
ouisville, Ky., letter of Secretary of War relative to proposed bridge across Ohio River at	29	7.7
M. AcCool, John
TaCool John	153	,
IcGill, John, estimate to pay claim of	141	1
	r 164
Iadagascar, reports of Secretary of State on affairs in	166
Mail contracts. (See Postal Service.) Marine-Hospital Service, estimate for electric lighting at New Orleans hospital	27
	1 34
Marshals, letter of Attorney-General relative to accounts of	1 47
Maumee Valley, report of Secretary of War on historic grounds in	28
tional land at-	104
Military and Naval Museum:		1
THE PROPERTY WAS A TREE OF THE PROPERTY OF THE	(11
Report of Secretary of Navy relative to establishing	21
그 생님, 현실에 가는 것이 되지만 하는 것이 되는 것이 되는데 되는 이렇게 된 그렇게 하다. 그는 한 점점	(39
Report of Secretary of War on exhibits for	102	-
Mississippi River, report of Secretary of War on survey of channel at	123
Rock Island		1
Mississippi River Commission, supplemental report of Money-order system, annual report of superintendent of	64
25 등에 하고 하다 동일은 한 없이 말했다면서 시간 나는 아니는 아니는 이번 이번 때문에 다른 사람들이 함께 생각하는 것이다.
[전문] [25] 16 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14 14	1 15
사람, 하다 생활하다 방문을 되는 것이 되었다. 그는 사람들은 사람들은 사람들은 사람들은 사람들은 사람들은 사람들은 사람들은	1 38	1
National Museum, estimate for postage-stamps for 이 것, 하면 생활하다 한 생님이 되는 것 같아. 그는 사람들은 사람들이 가장 하는 것이 되었다.

Subject.	No.	Vol.
Navy:		-
Annual report of Surgeon-General of	1
Tabular statement showing the personnel of Annual report of Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.	1
Navy Department:
Annual report of contingent expenditures for	43	25
Annual report on employés in	76	25
Estimates of deliciency appropriation for printing and binding for	{ 112	25
Navy-yards, tabular statement of officers, marines, and civil employés at	133	26
the different	1
New Mexico, report on claim No. 131, the Polvaredo grant in	66	2
New Orleans, estimate for electric lighting of marine hospital at	27	19
New York City, estimates of appropriation for adjusting balances on	104	_ books of subtreasury at	124	20
New York Harbor:	69	2
Estimate of appropriation to prevent deposits inReport of Secretary of Treasury relative to foreign vessel used in im-	92	2
provement of	105	2
Report on survey for ship-channel in	107	2
North Carolina, estimates for light-house steamer for use in	97	2
North Landing River, North Carolina, report of Secretary of War on obstructions in	160	26
0.
Ohio River:
Letter from Secretary of War relative to proposed bridge at Louisville across	29	19
Report of improvement on	96	25
Dleomargarine, letter of Secretary of Treasury relative to law taxing	70	28
Oregon, estimate for telegraph line for light-house service in	100	25
Owen, Clara	136	26
10 m = 1 m /
Posific milrords monort of Correigns of Transmiss on alaims allerted to	122	20
Pacific railroads, report of Secretary of Treasury on claims allowed to Panama Canal, report of Secretary of State relative to	82	2
Pension Bureau, report of Secretary of Interior on appointments and dis-	0.2
charges of special pension examiners	161	20
Pensions, appropriations for, estimate of deficiency in	128	- 26
Pivott Michael	78	2
Pinney, W. L., estimate to pay	16	- 19
Palvaredo land grant, report of surveyor-general for New Mexico on pri-		0.5
vate land claim No. 131	66	25
Postago stamps, estimate for stamps for use of National Museum	14	19 23
Postal service, report of Postmaster-General relative to offers Part 1 and contracts for carrying mails etc Part 2	31 31	24
Postmaster-General:	31
Annual report of contingent expenditures of Post-Office Department	23	19
· Annual report, embracing reports of—		400
The Postmaster-General	- 1
Auditor of the Treasury for the Post-Office Department	1
First Assistant Postmaster-General	1
Second Assistant Postmaster-General	1	Ş
Superintendent of Foreign Mails	1
Superintendent of Meney-Order System	1	1.1
Superintendent of Railway Mail Service Third Assistant Postmaster-General	1
Third Assistant Postmaster-General Topographer of the Post-Office Department
Topographot of the topographotoment.	114	2
Washington post-office, claim for rent of
Washington post-office, claim for rent of	121	2
Washington post-office, claim for rent of Communications from—Jones, Aquilla, papers in claim of Mail contracts, annual report on Part 1.	121	2

Subject.	No.	Vol.
Post-Office Department, annual report of contingent expenditures of	23	19
Precious metals, annual report on production ofPresident of the United States:	158	26
Annual message and accompanying documents, second session, Fif-	1	1
tieth CongressCertificates of electoral votes for, from—	20
Alabama Georgia	20	19 19
Kansas	20	19
Louisiana	20	19
Maryland	20	19
Missouri	20 20	19 19
New Jersey North Carolina	20	19
Estimate for printing electoral vote of	109	25
Estimate to pay special messenger sent for electoral vote of Florida Communications from—	130	26
Barcelona Exposition, relative to	163	26
Brussels Exposition, transmitting report relative to	162 164	26 26
Madagascar, transmitting report on affairs in	166	26
	1118	25
Samoa, messages relative to affairs in	119	25
Tonnage duties, transmitting report relative to	74	25
Vetoes:	44	0.5
On bill (H. R. 5080) for relief of C. B. Wilson	41 78	25 25
On bill (H. R. 8469) for relief of Michael Pigott On bill (H. R. 7) to pension Thomas B. Walsh	79	25
On bill (H. R. 4887) to pension Charles E. Scott		25
On bill (H. R. 2236) to pension Eli J. Yamgheim	81	25
On bill (H. R. 9173) to pension Mary J. Drake	84	25
On bill (H. R. 9252) to pension Catherine Barberick	86	25
On bill (H. R. 9791) for relief of Charles W. Geddes	87	25
On bill (H. R. 9296) to pension Bridget Carroll	88	25 25
On bill (H. R. 9175) to pension George Wallen On bill (H. R. 7877) to pension Mary Karstetter	90	25
On bill (H. R. 9163) to pension Eli Garrett	134	26
On bill (H. R. 5752) for relief of Julia Triggs	135	26
On bill (H. R. 11052) to pension Clara M. Owen	136	26
On bill (H. R. 1368) to quiet titles of settlers on Des Moines
River lands	151	26
On bill (H. R. 220) to pension J. J. Lockery	152 153	26 26
On bill (H. R. 5807) to pension John McCoolOn bill (H. R. 11999) to pension William Barnes		26
On bill (H. R. 11803) to pension Henry V. Bass.	155	26
On bill (H. R. 10448) to pension Squire Walter		26
On bill (H. R. 10791) to pension Marinda W. Reed	168	26
On bill (H. R. 11466) to pension Mary A. Selbach	169	26
grant, New Mexico	66	25
Public buildings:	10	10
Estimate for furniture forReport of Secretary of Treasury on expenditure for repairs	18 165	19 26
Public lands, suspended entries, annual report of Secretary of Interior	100	20
On	147	26
Public printing, estimate of appropriation for	12	19
젊은 마하루를 살을하는 그는 그 그 수 이 사람들은 이 모든 모든 하다 모든
사용 사용을 받았다면 하는 $\mathbf{R}_{m{e}}$ 는 지원 중요 나타가는 모든 다음		l v
Railway Mail Service, annual report of Superintendent of	1	9
Raritan River, estimate for lighting	99	25
Reed, Marinda W	168	26

Subject.	No.	Vol.
Revenue marine service, annual report of expenditures	17	19 Rivers and harbors. (See under names of respective streams and localities.) Report of Secretary of War on civilian engineers employed on-	144	26
Rock Island Arsenal, relative to viaduct at	116	25
S.
Sackville, Lord, report of Secretary of State on case of	150	00
Saint Augustine, Fla., report of Secretary of War on improving harbor of- Saint Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad, papers in case of W. H. Cavee	150 138	26 26
against.	51	25
Samoa, messages of President relative to affairs in	$\begin{cases} 118 \\ 119 \end{cases}$	25 25
Scott, Charles E	80	$\frac{25}{25}$
Second Assistant Postmaster-General, annual report of	1	~9
Secretary of Interior, annual report of, in 6 volumes:
Volume 1	1	10
Volume 2	1	11
Volume 3Volume 4	1 1	12 13
Volume 5	1	14
Volume 6	ī	15
Communications from—	_
Cayce, W. H., papers in case of	51	25
Indian Department, tabular statement of disbursements made for year ending June 30, 1888	$\frac{8}{103}$	19 25
Pension examiners, report of appointments and discharges of	161	26
Private land claims, report on Polvaredo grant No. 131, in New	. 101	20
Mexico	66	25
Suspended land entries, annual report on	147	26
Secretary of the Navy: Annual report embracing reports from—
The Secretary (part 3)	1	8
Admiral of the Navy	1	8
Advisory board	î	8
Bureau of Construction and Repair	1	8
Equipment and Recruiting	1	8
Medicine and Surgery Navigation	1	8
Ordnance	1	8
Provisions and Clothing	1	8
Steam Engineering	1	8
Yards and Docks	1	8
Estimates of the Secretary's office and pay of the Navy	1	8
Marine Corps Naval Academy	1 1	8
Communications from—	-	8
Navy Department, annual report on employés in	76	25
Navy Department, annual report of contingent expenditures	43	25
Military and Naval Museum, relative to establishing	11	19
Signal Office, report relative to (part 2, vol. 4)	1	7
Annual report upon foreign relationsCommunications from—	1	1
COMMUNICATION OF THE PROPERTY	109	oc
Barcelona Exposition, relative to	163	$\begin{array}{c} 26 \\ 26 \end{array}$
Barcelona Exposition, relative to	169	40
Barcelona Exposition, relative to Brussels Exposition, relative to Electoral vote:	162
Barcelona Exposition, relative to Grussels Exposition, relative to Electoral vote: Alabama	162	19
Barcelona Exposition, relative to Erussels Exposition, relative to Electoral vote: Alabama Georgia	1	19 19
Barcelona Exposition, relative to Grussels Exposition, relative to Electoral vote: Alabama	20

Subject.	No.	Vol.
Secretary of State—Continued.
Electoral vota Continued		1
Missouri	20	19
New Jersey	20	19
North Carolina	20	19
	§ 164	26
	166	26
Panama Canal, report relative to	82	25
Sackville Lord relative to case of	150	26 26
State Department, annual report on employés in Technical education in Europe, estimate for publishing consular re-	140
ports on	35	25 25
Tonnage duties, relative to	74	19
War of Revolution, relative to diplomatic correspondence during.	15	10
ecretary of the Treasury:
Annual report, embracing reports of—	2	17
The Secretary, with tables	2	17
Annual report on the state of finances Commissioner of the Currency	3	18
Commissioner of Internal Revenue	3	18
	Ů	1
Communications from— Appropriations, estimate of————————————————————————————————————	5	20
Agricultural Department, estimate of deficiency appropriation for printing and binding for	129	26
Albuquerque, N. Mex., estimate to pay for improvements on In-	- 4	No. 3
dian school buildings at	33	25
Amanda Tompkins (schooner) estimate to pay claim of	75	25
Appraisers, relative to term of office of	77	25
Bartholdi Statue of Liberty, estimate for lighting	26	19
Bywater, Tanqueray & Co., estimate to pay claim of	142	26
Capitol: estimate of deficiency appropriation for lighting	101	25
Cherokee Indians, estimate to pay for legal proceedings in behalf of	36	25
Cheyenne Indians, estimate for purchase of stallions for	62	25
Chippewa Indians, estimate to purchase seeds forClaims—	63	25
List allowed under exhausted appropriations	59	25
List of war claims allowedCoast Survey—	84	25
Annual report	22	22
Appual report on expenditures of	53	25
Collins, T. J., report on claim of	83
for	49	25
Court of Claims, estimates to pay judgment of	126
Customs duties, statement of refund for year ending June 30, 1888	10
Customs officers, annual report on emoluments of	159
Customs revenue, estimates of appropriation for collecting	113
Customs service, report on expenses of	115
Estimate of appropriations for	71
Estimates for appropriations for United States courts	90
Estimate to purchase historical register of	25	3 .
Estimate of deficiency appropriation for	139
District of Columbia, estimate of deficiencies for	111
EASTERNOO OF COLUMNIAN CONTINUES OF CONTINUES OF THE PARTY OF THE PART	146
District of Columbia militia, estimate for renting buildings for	94
Dog Island, estimate for light-house at
E. E. Allen (schooner), estimate to pay claim of	1 01	2
	109	25
Estimate for printing Estimate to pay special messenger sent for electoral vote of	103	-
Florida Florida	130	26

Subject.	No.	Vol.
ecretary of Treasury—Continued.		``. *
Fish Commission, estimate for maintaining vessels of	110	25
Fort D. A. Russell, estimate for completing water supply at	125	26
Fort Elliott, estimate to purchase site for	106	25
Fort Leavenworth, estimate for additional buildings at	40	25
Fort Smith, Ark., estimate for fence and elevator for public building at	93	25
Gedney (steamer), estimate for expenses of sending, to San Francisco.	131	26
Inauguration, estimate decorating public buildings during.	148	26
Indian trust bonds, relative to overpayments of interest on	13	19
Internal-revenue service, estimate of deficiency appropriation for	132	26
Irrigation, estimate for survey of arid lands for	54	25
Lawrence Indian school, estimate for buildings at	32	25
Library of Congress, estimate of appropriation for service of	24	19
Light-house tender, estimate for	58	25
Lights—
Estimate for light-house steamer for use in North Carolina	97	25
Estimate for removing light-house station at Cape Carnaveral		100
Fla	98	25
Estimate for lighting Raritan RiverEstimate for telegraph line for light-house service in Oregon	99	25
Estimate for telegraph line for light-house service in Oregon	100	25
McGill, John, estimate to pay claim of	141	26
Marine hospital, New Orleans, estimate for electric lighting	27	19
National Museum, estimate for postage stamps for	14	19
Naval Academy, estimate for officers' houses at	42	25
Navy Department, estimate of deficiency appropriation for printing	ſ 112	25
and binding for	₹ 133	26
New York Harbor:
Estimate of appropriations to prevent deposits in	69	25
Relative to use of foreign vessels in improvement of	5 92	25
Relative to use of foreign vessels in improvement of	₹ 105	25
New York sub-treasury, estimate for adjusting balance on books of	124	26
Oleomargarine, relative to law taxing	70	25
Pacific Railroads, schedule of claims allowed to	122	26
Pensions, estimate of deficiency appropriation for	128	26
Pinney, W. L., estimate to pay	16	19
Precious metals, annual report on production of	158	26
Printing, estimates of deficiency for public	12	19
Public buildings:	18	19
Estimates for furniture for	165	26
Report on expenditures for repairs of	17	19
Revenue-marine service, annual report of expenditures in	61	25
Sioux Indeans, estimate for support of	137	$\tilde{2}6$
Sky, estimate for making chart of	46	$\tilde{25}$
	10	~
State Department: Estimate of printing for	44	25
Estimates for binding certain manuscript letters in	72	$\frac{25}{25}$
Statistical Abstract:	12	. 20
Annual report	26	167
	50	25
Relative to printing of	95	25
Sun, estimates to observe total eclipse of Treasury Department, report of the contingent expenses for year	30	20
	9	19
war Department, estimates for public works under	40	20
Washington Monument, estimates for maintaining lodge at	149	26 26
Whaling vessels, relative to relief in Arctic Ocean of	48	25
Wilson, A. A., estimate to pay costs adjudged against	19	19
		25
	68	20
Zeria, Pierre, estimate to pay claim of	l .
scretary of War:		i .
ecretary of War: Annual report, embracing reports of—	1	6
scretary of War:	1 1	2

Subject.	No.	Vol.
Secretary of War—Continued.
Annual report, embracing reports of—
Chief of Engineers (volume 2, part 3)	1	5
Chief of Engineers (volume 2, part 4)	1	6
Chief Signal Officer (volume 4, part 2)	1	7
Communications from—
Civil engineers, report on those employed in river and harbor	144	26
Columbia River, report on improvement of	73	25
Contracts, relative to amending law requiring purchases to be made by	108	25
Cumberland River, report on improvement of	, 30	19
Fort Leavenworth, estimate for forage and wagon master at 2	91	25
Iron and steel, annual report on tests of	25	45
Key West, Fla., report on improving harbor of	145	26 19
Maumee Valley, relative to historic grounds in	28	25
Military Academy, relative to purchase of additional land at	$\frac{104}{21}$	19
Military and Naval Museum, relative to establishing	38	25
Do	39	25
DoMilitary and Naval Museum, list of exhibits for	39	25
Do	102	$\frac{\tilde{25}}{25}$
Mississippi River, report on survey of channel at Rock Island	123	26
Mississippi River, report on survey of channel at Rock Island 2- Mississippi River Commission, supplemental report of	64	25
New York Harbor, report on survey for ship-channel in	107	25
New York Harbor, report on employment of a foreign vessel in improvement of	105	25
North Landing River, report on obstructions in	160	26
Ohio River, report on improvement of	96	25
Ohio River, relative to proposed bridge at Louisville across	29	19
Rock Island Arsenal, relative to viaduct at	116	25
SaintAugustine, Fla., report on improving harbor of	138	26
Signal Corps, relative to inefficiency of	143	26
War Department, annual report on employés in	37	25
Winyaw Bay, report on improvement of	117	$\begin{array}{c c} 25 \\ 25 \end{array}$
Seeds, estimate of purchase for Chippewa Indians	63 169	$\frac{23}{26}$
Selbach, Mary A	120	26
Sentenne, S. H., letter of Attorney-General relative to claim of	143	26
Signal Service, report of Secretary of War on inefficiency of Signal Corps. Sioux. (See Indians.)	y 24 (24)	26
Sixth Auditor's office, petition of clerks for pay for extra services	137 46	25
Sky, estimate for making chart ofStallions, estimate to purchase, for Cheyenne Indians	62	25
Stations, estimate to purchase, for Cheyenne Indians	0.2	~0
Annual report on employés in	140	26
Annual report on employés in Estimate of printing for	44	25
Estimate for hinding certain manuscript letters in	72	25
Statistical Abstract:	9 9	1000
Annual report of	26	167
Letter of Secretary of Treasury relative to printing of	50	25
Statue of Liberty. (See Bartholdi.)	0-	0-
Sun, estimates of appropriation to observe total eclipse of	95	25
T.
Technical education. (See Education.)	1.7
Tests, annual report on tests of iron and steel	25	45
Third Assistant Postmaster-General, annual report	1	9
Tonnage duties, report of Secretary of State relative to	74	25
Topographer of Post-Office Department, annual report	1	9
Treasury Department, report of the Secretary on the contingent expenses	0	19
for the year ending June 30, 1888Triggs, Julia	9 135	26
Trippy of the transfer and the second of the

Subject.	No.	Vol.
v .
Vetoes. (See President of United States.)	7
w.	, .	·
Wallen, GeorgeWalker, SquireWalsh, Thomas B	89	25
Walker, Squire	156	26
Walsh, Thomas B	79	25
War Department:
Annual report on employés in	37	25
Estimates for public works under	40	20
War of Revolution, letter of Secretary of State relative to diplomatic corre-	15	19
spondence during	149	26
Washington Monument, estimate for maintaining lodge at	143	20
ing vessels in Arctic Ocean.	48	25
Wilson, A. A., estimate to pay costs adjudged against	19	19
Wilson, C. B., veto on bill (H. R. 5080) for relief of	41	25
Winyaw Bay, report of Secretary of War on improvement of	117	25
Witnesses. (See Courts of United States.)
Υ.
Yangheim, Eli J	81	25
Tanguom, mi vananananananananananananananananananan	01	~~
Z.
Zeria, Pierre, estimate to pay claim of	68	25

PAPERS

RELATING TO THE

FOREIGN RELATIONS

OF

THE UNITED STATES,

TRANSMITTED TO CONGRESS,

WITH THE ANNUAL MESSAGE OF THE PRESIDENT,

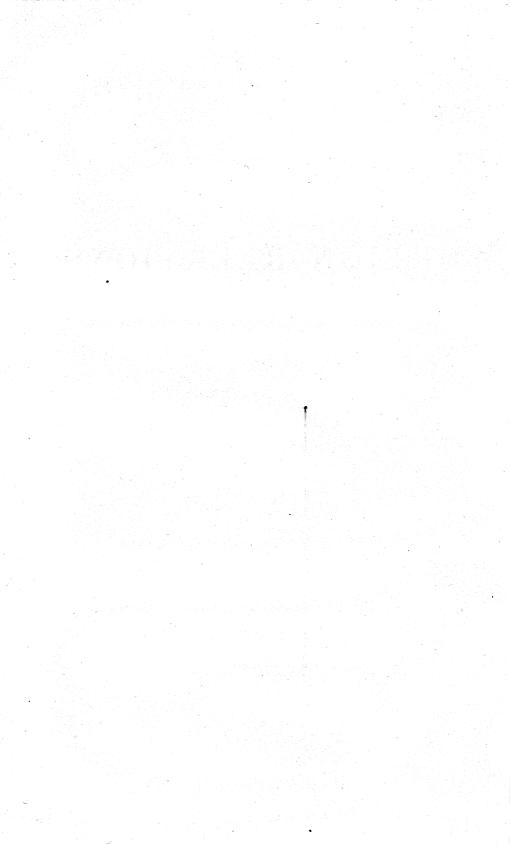

DECEMBER 3, 1888,

PRECEDED BY A

LIST OF PAPERS, WITH SYNOPSES OF THEIR CONTENTS, AND FOLLOWED BY AN ALPHABETICAL INDEX OF SUBJECTS.

PART I.

WASHINGTON: GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE, 1889.

MESSAGE.

To the Congress of the United States:

As you assemble for the discharge of the duties you have assumed as the representatives of a free and generous people, your meeting is marked by an interesting and impressive incident. With the expiration of the present session of the Congress, the first century of our constitutional existence as a nation will be completed.

Our survival for one hundred years is not sufficient to assure us that we no longer have dangers to fear in the maintenance, with all its promised blessings, of a government founded upon the freedom of the people. The time rather admonishes us to soberly inquire whether in the past we have always closely kept in the course of safety, and whether we have before us a way plain and clear which leads to happiness and perpetuity.

When the experiment of our Government was undertaken, the chart adopted for our guidance was the Constitution. Departure from the lines there laid down is failure. It is only by a strict adherence to the direction they indicate and by restraint within the limitations they fix, that we can furnish proof to the world of the fitness of the American people for self-government.

The equal and exact justice of which we boast as the underlying principle of our institutions, should not be confined to the relations of our citizens to each other. The Government itself is under bond to the American people, that in the exercise of its functions and powers it will deal with the body of our citizens in a manner scrupulously honest and fair and absolutely just. It has agreed that American citizenship shall be the only credential necessary to justify the claim of equality before the law, and that no condition in life shall give rise to discrimination in the treatment of the people by their Government.

The citizen of our Republic in its early days rigidly insisted upon full compliance with the letter of this bond, and saw stretching out before him a clear field for individual endeavor. His tribute to the support of his Government was measured by the cost of its economical maintenance, and he was secure in the enjoyment of the remaining recompense of his steady and contented toil. In those days the frugality of the people was stamped upon their Government, and was enforced by the free, thoughtful, and intelligent suffrage of the citizen. Combinations, monopolies, and aggregations of capital were either avoided or sternly regulated and restrained. The pomp and glitter of Governments less free, offered no temptation and presented no delusion to the plain people who, side by side, in friendly competition wrought for the ennoblement and dignity of man, for the solution of the problem of free government, and for the achievement of the grand destiny awaiting the land which God had given them.

A century has passed. Our cities are the abiding-places of wealth and luxury; our manufactories yield fortunes never dreamed of by the fathers of the Republic; our business men are madly striving in the race for riches, and immense aggregations of capital outrun the imagination in the magnitude of their undertakings.

We view with pride and satisfaction this bright picture of our country's growth and prosperity, while only a closer scrutiny develops a somber shading. Upon more careful inspection we find the wealth and luxury of our cities mingled with poverty and wretchedness and unremunerative toil. A crowded and constantly increasing urban population suggests the impoverishment of rural sections, and discontent with agricultural pursuits. The farmer's son, not satisfied with his father's simple and laborious life, joins the eager chase for easily-acquired wealth.

We discover that the fortunes realized by our manufacturers are no longer solely the reward of sturdy industry and enlightened foresight, but that they result from the discriminating favor of the Government, and are largely built upon undue exactions from the masses of our people. The gulf between employers and the employed is constantly widening and classes are rapidly forming, one comprising the very rich and powerful, while in another are found the toiling poor.

As we view the achievements of aggregated capital, we discover the existence of trusts, combinations, and monopolies, while the citizen is struggling far in the rear or is trampled to death beneath an iron heel. Corporations, which should be the carefully-restrained creatures of the law and the servants of the people, are fast becoming the people's masters.

Still congratulating ourselves upon the wealth and prosperity of our country, and complacently contemplating every incident of change inseparable from these conditions, it is our duty as patriotic citizens to inquire, at the present stage of our progress, how the bond of the Government made with the people has been kept and performed.

Instead of limiting the tribute drawn from our citizens, to the necessities of its economical administration, the Government persists in exacting, from the substance of the people, millions which unapplied and useless lie dormant in its Treasury. This flagrant injustice and this breach of faith and obligation add to extortion the danger attending the diversion of the currency of the country from the legitimate channels of business.

Under the same laws by which these results are produced, the Government permits many millions more to be added to the cost of the living of our people and to be taken from our consumers, which unreasonably swell the profits of a small but powerful minority.

The people must still be taxed for the support of the Government under the operation of tariff laws. But to the extent that the mass of our citizens are inordinately burdened beyond any useful public purpose, and for the benefit of a favored few, the Government, under pretext of an exercise of its taxing power, enters gratuitously into partnership with these favorites, to their advantage and to the injury of a vast majority of our people.

This is not equality before the law.

The existing situation is injurious to the health of our entire body-politic. It stifles, in those for whose benefit it is permitted, all patriotic love of country, and substitutes in its place selfish greed and grasping avarice. Devotion to American citizenship for its own sake and for what it should accomplish as a motive to our nation's advancement and the happiness of all our people, is displaced by the assumption that the Government, instead of being the embodiment of equality, is but an instrumentality through which especial and individual advantages are to be gained.

The arrogance of this assumption is unconcealed. It appears in the sordid disregard of all but personal interests, in the refusal to abate for the benefit of others one iota of selfish advantage, and in combinations to perpetuate such advantages through efforts to control legislation and improperly influence the suffrages of the people.

The grievances of those not included within the circle of these beneficiaries, when fully realized, will surely arouse irritation and discontent. Our farmers, long-suffering and patient, struggling in the race of life with the hardest and most unremitting toil, will not fail to see, in spite of misrepresentations and misleading fallacies, that they are obliged to accept such prices for their products as are fixed in foreign markets where they compete with the farmers of the world; that their lands are declining in value while their debts increase; and that without compensating favor they are forced by the action of the Government to pay, for the benefit of others, such enhanced prices for the things they need, that the scanty returns of their labor fail to furnish their support or leave no margin for accumulation.

Our workingmen, enfranchised from all delusions and no longer frightened by the cry that their wages are endangered by a just revision of our tariff laws, will reasonably demand through such revision steadier employment, cheaper means of living in their homes, freedom for themselves and their children from the doom of perpetual servitude, and an open door to their advancement beyond the limits of a laboring class. Others of our citizens whose comforts and expenditures are measured by moderate salaries and fixed incomes, will insist upon the fairness and justice of cheapening the cost of necessaries for themselves and their families.

When to the selfishness of the beneficiaries of unjust discrimination under our laws there shall be added the discontent of those who suffer from such discrimination, we will realize the fact that the beneficent purposes of our Government, dependent upon the patriotism and contentment of our people, are endangered.

Communism is a hateful thing, and a menace to peace and organized government. But the communism of combined wealth and capital, the outgrowth of overweening cupidity and selfishness, which insidiously undermines the justice and integrity of free institutions, is not less dangerous than the communism of oppressed poverty and toil which, exasperated by injustice and discontent, attacks with wild disorder the citadel of rule.

He mocks the people who proposes that the Government shall protect the rich and that they in turn will care for the laboring poor. Any intermediary between the people and their Government, or the least delegation of the care and protection the Government owes to the humblest citizen in the land, makes the boast of free institutions a glittering delusion and the pretended boon of American citizenship a shameless imposition.

A just and sensible revision of our tariff laws should be made for the relief of those of our countrymen who suffer under present conditions. Such a revision should receive the support of all who love that justice and equality due to American citizenship, of all who realize that in this justice and equality our Government finds its strength and its power to protect the citizen and his property, of all who believe that the contented competence and comfort of many accord better with the spirit of our institutions than colossal fortunes unfairly gathered in the hands of a few, of all who appreciate that the forbearance and fraternity among our people, which recognize the value of every American interest, are the surest guaranty of our national progress, and of all who desire to see the products of American skill and ingenuity in every market of the world with a resulting restoration of American commerce.

The necessity of the reduction of our revenue is so apparent as to be generally conceded. But the means by which this end shall be accomplished and the sum of direct benefit which shall result to our citizens, present a controversy of the utmost importance. should be no scheme accepted as satisfactory by which the burdens of the people are only apparently removed. Extravagant appropriations of public money, with all their demoralizing consequences, should not be tolerated, either as a means of relieving the Treasury of its present surplus, or as furnishing pretext for resisting a proper reduction in tariff rates. Existing evils and injustice should be honestly recognized, boldly met, and effectively remedied. There should be no cessation of the struggle until a plan is perfected, fair and conservative toward existing industries, but which will reduce the cost to consumers of the necessaries of life, while it provides for our manufacturers the advantage of freer raw materials and permits no injury to the interests of American labor.

The cause for which the battle is waged is comprised within lines clearly and distinctly defined. It should never be compromised. It is the people's cause.

It can not be denied that the selfish and private interests which are so persistently heard, when efforts are made to deal in a just and comprehensive manner with our tariff laws, are related to, if they are not responsible for, the sentiment largely prevailing among the people, that the General Government is the fountain of individual and private aid; that it may be expected to relieve with paternal care the distress of citizens and communities, and that from the fullness of its Treasury it should, upon the slightest possible pretext of promoting the general good, apply public funds to the benefit of localities and individuals. Nor can it be denied that there is a growing assumption that, as against the Government and in favor of private claims and interests, the usual rules and limitations of business principles and just dealing should be waived.

These ideas have been unhappily much encouraged by legislative acquiescence. Relief from contracts made with the Government is too easily accorded in favor of the citizen; the failure to support claims against the Government by proof, is often supplied by no better consideration than the wealth of the Government and the poverty of the claimant; gratuities in the form of pensions are granted upon no other real ground than the needy condition of the applicant, or for reasons less valid; and large sums are expended for public buildings and other improvements upon representations scarcely claimed to be related to public needs and necessities.

The extent to which the consideration of such matters subordinate and postpone action upon subjects of great public importance, but involving no special, private, or partisan interest, should arrest attention and lead to reformation.

A few of the numerous illustrations of this condition may be stated. The crowded condition of the calendar of the Supreme Court, and the delay to suitors and denial of justice resulting therefrom, has been strongly urged upon the attention of the Congress, with a plan for the relief of the situation approved by those well able to judge of its merits. While this subject remains without effective consideration many laws have been passed providing for the holding of terms of inferior courts at places to suit the convenience of localities, or to lay the foundation of an application for the erection of a new public building.

Repeated recommendations have been submitted for the amendment and change of the laws relating to our public lands so that their spoliation and diversion to other uses than as homes for honest settlers might be prevented. While a measure to meet this conceded necessity of reform remains awaiting the action of the Congress, many claims to the public lands and applications for their donation, in favor of States and individuals, have been allowed.

A plan in aid of Indian management, recommended by those well informed, as containing valuable features in furtherance of the solution of the Indian problem, has thus far failed of legislative sanction, while grants of doubtful expediency to railroad corporations, permitting them to pass through Indian reservations, have greatly multiplied.

The propriety and necessity of the erection of one or more prisons for the confinement of United States convicts, and a post-office building in the national capital, are not disputed. But these needs yet remain unanswered, while scores of public buildings have been erected where their necessity for public purposes is not apparent.

A revision of our pension laws could easily be made, which would rest upon just principles and provide for every worthy applicant. But while our general pension laws remain confused and imperfect, hundreds of private pension laws are annually passed, which are the sources of unjust discrimination and popular demoralization. Appropriation bills for the support of the Government are defaced by items and provisions to meet private ends, and it is freely asserted by responsible and experienced parties that a bill appropriating money for public internal improvement would fail to meet with favor, unless it contained items more for local and private advantage than for public benefit.

These statements can be much emphasized by an ascertainment of the proportion of Federal legislation, which either bears upon its face its private character or which, upon examination, develops such a motive power.

And yet the people wait and expect from their chosen representatives such patriotic action as will advance the welfare of the entire country; and this expectation can only be answered by the performance of public duty with unselfish purpose. Our mission among the nations of the earth, and our success in accomplishing the work God has given the American people to do, require of those intrusted with the making and execution of our laws perfect devotion, above all other things, to the public good.

This devotion will lead us to strongly resist all impatience of constitutional limitations of Federal power, and to persistently check the increasing tendency to extend the scope of Federal legislation into the domain of State and local jurisdiction, upon the plea of subserving the public welfare. The preservation of the partitions between proper subjects of Federal and local care and regulation, is of such importance under the Constitution, which is the law of our very existence, that no consideration of expediency or sentiment should tempt us to enter upon doubtful ground. We have undertaken to discover and proclaim the richest blessings of a free Government, with the Constitution as our guide. Let us follow the way it points out. It will not mislead us. And surely no one who has taken upon himself the solemn obligation to support and preserve the Constitution can find justification or solace for disloyalty in the excuse that he wandered and disobeyed in search of a better way to reach the public welfare than the Constitution offers.

What has been said is deemed not inappropriate at a time when, from a century's height, we view the way already trod by the American people, and attempt to discover their future path.

The seventh President of the United States—the soldier and statesman, and at all times the firm and brave friend of the people—in vindication of his course as the protector of popular rights and the champion of true American citizenship, declared:

"The ambition which leads me on is an anxious desire and a fixed determination to restore to the people, unimpaired, the sacred trust they have confided to my charge; to heal the wounds of the Constitution and to preserve it from further violation; to persuade my countrymen, so far as I may, that it is not in a splendid government supported by powerful monopolies and aristocratical establishments that they will find happiness, or their liberties protection, but in a plain system, void of pomp—protecting all and granting favors to none—dispensing its blessings like the dews of heaven, unseen and unfelt save in the freshness and beauty they contribute to produce. It is such a government that the genius of our people requires—such an one only under which our States may remain, for ages to come, united, prosperous, and free."

In pursuance of a constitutional provision requiring the President, from time to time, to give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, I have the satisfaction to announce that the close of the year finds the United States in the enjoyment of domestic tranquillity and at peace with all the nations.

Since my last annual message our foreign relations have been strengthened and improved by performance of international good offices and by new and renewed treaties of amity, commerce, and reciprocal extradition of criminals.

Those international questions which still await settlement are all reasonably within the domain of amicable negotiation, and there is no existing subject of dispute between the United States and any foreign power that is not susceptible of satisfactory adjustment by frank diplomatic treatment.

The questions between Great Britain and the United States relating to the rights of American fishermen, under treaty and international comity, in the territorial waters of Canada and Newfoundland, I regret to say are not yet satisfactorily adjusted.

These matters were fully treated in my message to the Senate of February 20, 1888, together with which a convention, concluded under my authority with Her Majesty's Government on the 15th of February last, for the removal of all causes of misunderstanding, was submitted by me for the approval of the Senate.

This treaty having been rejected by the Senate, I transmitted a message to the Congress, on the 23d of August last, reviewing the transactions and submitting for consideration certain recommendations for legislation concerning the important questions involved.

Afterwards, on the 12th of September, in response to a resolution of the Senate, I again communicated fully all the information in my possession as to the action of the Government of Canada affecting the commercial relations between the Dominion and the United States, including the treatment of American fishing vessels in the ports and waters of British North America.

These communications have all been published, and therefore opened to the knowledge of both Houses of Congress, although two were addressed to the Senate alone.

Comment upon or repetition of their contents would be superfluous, and I am not aware that anything has since occurred which should be added to the facts therein stated. Therefore, I merely repeat, as applicable to the present time, the statement which will be found in my message to the Senate of September 12th last, "that since March 3, 1887, no case has been reported to the Department of State wherein complaint has been made of unfriendly or unlawful treatment of American fishing vessels on the part of the Canadian authorities, in which reparation was not promptly and satisfactorily obtained by the United States Consul-General at Halifax."

Having essayed, in the discharge of my duty, to procure by negotiation the settlement of a long-standing cause of dispute, and to remove a constant menace to the good relations of the two countries, and continuing to be of opinion that the treaty of February last, which failed to receive the approval of the Senate, did supply "a satisfactory, practical, and final adjustment upon a basis honorable and just to both parties of the difficult and vexed question to which it related," and having subsequently and unavailingly recommended other legislation to Congress which I hoped would suffice to meet the exigency created by the rejection of the treaty, I now again invoke the earnest and immediate attention of the Congress to the condition of this important question, as it now stands before them and the country, and for the settlement of which I am deeply solicitous.

Near the close of the month of October last, occurrences of a deeply regrettable nature were brought to my knowledge, which made it my painful but imperative duty to obtain, with as little delay as possible, a new personal channel of diplomatic intercourse in this country with the Government of Great Britain.

The correspondence in relation to this incident will in due course be laid before you, and will disclose the unpardonable conduct of the official referred to in his interference by advice and counsel with the suffrages of American citizens in the very crisis of the Presidential election then near at hand, and also in his subsequent public declarations to justify his action, superadding impugnment of the Executive and Senate of the United States, in connection with important questions now pending in controversy between the two Governments.

The offense thus committed was most grave, involving disastrous possibilities to the good relations of the United States and Great Britain, constituting a gross breach of diplomatic privilege and an invasion of the purely domestic affairs and essential sovereignty of the Government to which the envoy was accredited.

Having first fulfilled the just demands of international comity, by affording full opportunity for Her Majesty's Government to act in relief of the situation, I considered prolongation of discussion to be unwarranted and thereupon declined to further recognize the diplomatic character of the person, whose continuance in such function would destroy that mutual confidence which is essential to the good understanding of the two Governments, and was inconsistent with the welfare and self-respect of the Government of the United States.

The usual interchange of communication has since continued through Her Majesty's legation in this city.

My endeavors to establish by international co-operation measures for the prevention of the extermination of fur-seals in Behring Sea have not been relaxed, and I have hopes of being enabled shortly to submit an effective and satisfactory conventional projet with the maritime powers for the approval of the Senate.

The coastal boundary between our Alaskan possessions and British Columbia, I regret to say, has not received the attention demanded by its importance, and which on several occasions heretofore I have had the honor to recommend to the Congress.

The admitted impracticability, if not impossibility, of making an accurate and precise survey and demarkation of the boundary-line, as it is recited in the treaty with Russia under which Alaska was ceded to the United States, renders it absolutely requisite, for the prevention of international jurisdictional complications, that adequate appropriation for a reconnoisance and survey to obtain proper knowledge of the locality and the geographical features of the boundary should be authorized by Congress with as little delay as possible.

Knowledge to be only thus obtained is an essential prerequisite for negotiation for ascertaining a common boundary, or as preliminary to any other mode of settlement.

It is much to be desired that some agreement should be reached with Her Majesty's Government by which the damages to life and property on the Great Lakes may be alleviated by removing or humanely regulating the obstacles to reciprocal assistance to wrecked or stranded vessels.

The act of June 19, 1878, which offers to Canadian vessels free access to our inland waters in aid of wrecked or disabled vessels, has not yet become effective through concurrent action by Canada.

The due protection of our citizens of French origin or descent, from claim of military service in the event of their returning to or visiting France, has called forth correspondence which was laid before you at the last session.

In the absence of conventional agreement as to naturalization, which is greatly to be desired, this Government sees no occasion to recede from the sound position it has maintained not only with regard to France but as to all countries with which the United States have not concluded special treaties.

Twice within the last year has the Imperial household of Germany been visited by death; and I have hastened to express the sorrow of this people, and their appreciation of the lofty character of the late aged Emperor William, and their sympathy with the heroism under suffering of his son the late Emperor Frederick.

I renew my recommendation of two years ago for the passage of a bill for the refunding to certain German steamship lines of the interest upon tonnage dues illegally exacted.

On the 12th of April last, I laid before the House of Representatives full information respecting our interests in Samoa; and in the subsequent correspondence on the same subject, which will be laid before you in due course, the history of events in those islands will be found.

In a message accompanying my approval, on the 1st day of October last, of a bill for the exclusion of Chinese laborers, I laid before Congress full information and all correspondence touching the negotiation of the treaty with China, concluded at this Capital on the 12th day of March, 1888, and which, having been confirmed by the Senate with certain amendments, was rejected by the Chinese Government. This message contained a recommendation that a sum of money be appropriated as compensation to Chinese subjects who had suffered injuries at the hands of lawless men within our jurisdiction. Such appropriation having been duly made, the fund awaits reception by the Chinese Government.

It is sincerely hoped that by the cessation of the influx of this class of Chinese subjects, in accordance with the expressed wish of both Governments, a cause of unkind feeling, has been permanently removed.

On the 9th of August, 1887, notification was given by the Japanese minister at this Capital of the adjournment of the conference for the revision of the treaties of Japan with foreign powers, owing to the objection of his Government to the provision in the draft jurisdictional convention which required the submission of the criminal code of the Empire to the powers in advance of its becoming operative. This notification was, however, accompanied with an assurance of Japan's intention to continue the work of revision.

Notwithstanding this temporary interruption of negotiations, it is hoped that improvements may soon be secured in the jurisdictional system as respects foreigners in Japan, and relief afforded to that country from the present undue and oppressive foreign control in matters of commerce.

I earnestly recommend that relief be provided for the injuries accidentally caused to Japanese subjects in the Island Ikisima by the target practice of one of our vessels.

A diplomatic mission from Corea has been received, and the formal intercourse between the two countries contemplated by the treaty of 1882, is now established.

Legislative provision is hereby recommended to organize and equip consular courts in Corea.

Persia has established diplomatic representation at this capital and has evinced very great interest in the enterprise and achievements of our citizens. I am, therefore, hopeful that beneficial commercial relations between the two countries may be brought about.

I announce with sincere regret that Hayti has again become the theater of insurrection, disorder, and bloodshed. The titular Government of President Saloman has been forcibly overthrown, and he driven out of the country-to France, where he has since died.

The tenure of power has been so unstable amid the war of factions that has ensued since the expulsion of President Saloman, that no Government constituted by the will of the Haytien people has been recognized as administering responsibly the affairs of that country. Our representative has been instructed to abstain from interference between the warring factions, and a vessel of our Navy has been sent to Haytien waters to sustain our minister and for the protection of the persons and property of American citizens.

Due precautions have been taken to enforce our neutrality laws and prevent our territory from becoming the base of military supplies for either of the warring factions.

Under color of a blockade, of which no reasonable notice had been given, and which does not appear to have been efficiently maintained, a seizure of vessels under the American flag has been reported, and, in consequence, measures to prevent and redress any molestation of our innocent merchantmen have been adopted.

Proclamation was duly made on the 9th day of November, 1887, of the conventional extensions of the treaty of June 3, 1875, with Hawaii, under which relations of such special and beneficent intercourse have been created.

In the vast field of Oriental commerce now unfolded from our Pacific borders, no feature presents stronger recommendations for Congressional action than the establishment of communication by submarine telegraph with Honolulu.

The geographical position of the Hawaiian group, in relation to our Pacific States, creates a natural interdependency and mutuality of interest which our present treaties were intended to foster, and which make close communication a logical and commercial necessity.

The wisdom of concluding a treaty of commercial reciprocity with Mexico has been heretofore stated in my messages to Congress, and the lapse of time and growth of commerce with that close neighbor and sister Republic confirm the judgment so expressed.

The precise re-location of our boundary line is needful, and adequate appropriation is now recommended.

It is with sincere satisfaction that I am enabled to advert to the spirit of good neighborhood and friendly co-operation and conciliation that has marked the correspondence and action of the Mexican authorities in their share of the task of maintaining law and order about the line of our common boundary.

The long-pending boundary dispute between Costa Rica and Nicaragua was referred to my arbitration; and by an award made on the 22d of March last, the question has been finally settled to the expressed satisfaction of both of the parties in interest.

The Empire of Brazil, in abolishing the last vestige of slavery among Christian nations, called forth the earnest congratulations of this Government in expression of the cordial sympathies of our people.

The claims of nearly all other countries against Chile, growing out of her late war with Bolivia and Peru, have been disposed of, either by arbitration or by a lump settlement. Similar claims of our citizens will continue to be urged upon the Chilean Government, and it is hoped will not be subject to further delays,

A comprehensive treaty of amity and commerce with Peru was proclaimed on November 7th, last; and it is expected that under its operation mutual prosperity and good understanding will be promoted.

In pursuance of the policy of arbitration, a treaty to settle the claim of Santos, an American citizen, against Ecuador has been concluded under my authority, and will be duly submitted for the approval of the Senate.

Like disposition of the claim of Carlos Butterfield against Denmark, and of Van Bokelen against Hayti, will probably be made, and I trust the principle of such settlements may be extended in practice under the approval of the Senate.

Through unforeseen causes, foreign to the will of both Governments, the ratification of the convention of December 5, 1885, with Venezuela, for the rehearing of claims of citizens of the United States under the treaty of 1866, failed of exchange within the term provided, and a supplementary convention, further extending the time for exchange of ratifications and explanatory of an ambiguous provision of the prior convention, now awaits the advice and consent of the Senate.

Although this matter, in the stage referred to, concerns only the concurrent treaty-making power of one branch of Congress, I advert to it in view of the interest repeatedly and conspicuously shown by you, in your legislative capacity, in favor of a speedy and equitable adjustment of the questions growing out of the discredited judgments of the previous mixed commission of Caracas. With every desire to do justice to the representations of Venezuela in this regard, the time seems to have come to end this matter, and I trust the prompt confirmation by both parties of the supplementary action referred to, will avert the need of legislative or other action to prevent the longer withholding of such rights of actual claimants as may be shown to exist.

As authorized by the Congress, preliminary steps have been taken for the assemblage at this Capital, during the coming year, of the representatives of South and Central American States, together with those of Mexico, Hayti, and San Domingo, to discuss sundry important monetary and commercial topics.

Excepting in those cases where, from reasons of contiguity of territory and the existence of a common border line incapable of being guarded, reciprocal commercial treaties may be found expedient, it is believed that commercial policies inducing freer mutual exchange of products can be most advantageously arranged by independent but co-operative legislation.

In the mode last mentioned the control of our taxation for revenue will be always retained in our own hands unrestricted by conventional agreements with other governments.

In conformity also with Congressional authority the maritime powers have been invited to confer, in Washington, in April next, upon the practicability of devising uniform rules and measures for the greater security of life and property at sea. A disposition to accept on the part of a number of the powers has already been manifested, and if the co-operation of the nations chiefly interested shall be secured important results may be confidently anticipated.

The act of June 26, 1884, and the acts amendatory thereof, in relation to tonnage duties, have given rise to extended correspondence with foreign nations, with whom we have existing treaties of navigation and commerce, and have caused wide and regrettable divergence of opinion in relation to the imposition of the duties referred to. These questions are important, and I shall make them the subject of a special and more detailed communication at the present session.

With the rapid increase of immigration to our shores and the facilities of modern travel, abuses of the generous privileges afforded by our naturalization laws call for their careful revision.

The easy and unguarded manner in which certificates of American citizenship can now be obtained has induced a class, unfortunately large, to avail themselves of the opportunity to become absolved from allegiance to their native land and yet by a foreign residence to escape any just duty and contribution of service to the country of their proposed adoption. Thus while evading the duties of citizenship to the United States they may make prompt claim for its national protection and demand its intervention in their behalf.

International complications of a serious nature arise, and the correspondence of the State Department discloses the great number and complexity of the questions which have been raised.

Our laws regulating the issue of passports should be carefully revised, and the institution of a central bureau of registration at the Capital is again strongly recommended. By this means full particulars of each case of naturalization in the United States would be spurious citizenship would be detected and unjust responsibilities would be avoided.

The reorganization of the consular service is a matter of serious importance to our national interests. The number of existing principal consular offices is believed to be greater than is at all necessary for the conduct of the public business. It need not be our policy to maintain more than a moderate number of principal offices, each supported by a salary sufficient to enable the incumbent to live in comfort, and so distributed as to secure the convenient supervision, through subordinate agencies, of affairs over a considerable district.

I repeat the recommendations heretofore made by me, that the appropriations for the maintenance of our diplomatic and consular service should be recast; that the so-called notarial or unofficial fees, which our representatives abroad are now permitted to treat as personal perquisites, should be forbidden; that a system of consular inspection should be instituted; and that a limited number of secretaries of legation at large should be authorized.

Preparations for the centennial celebration, on April 30, 1889, of the inauguration of George Washington as President of the United States, at the city of New York, have been made by a voluntary organization of the citizens of that locality, and believing that an opportunity should be afforded for the expression of the interest felt throughout the country in this event, I respectfully recommend fitting and co-operative action by Congress on behalf of the people of the United States.

The report of the Secretary of the Treasury exhibits in detail the condition of our national finances and the operations of the several branches of the Government related to his Department.

The total ordinary revenues of the Government for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1888, amounted to $379,266,074.76, of which $219,091,173.63 was received from customs duties and $124,296,871.98 from internal-revenue taxes.

The total receipts from all sources exceeded those for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1887, by $7,862,797.10.

The ordinary expenditures of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1888, were $259,653,958.67, leaving a surplus of $119,612,116.09.

The decrease in these expenditures as compared with the fiscal year ended June 30, 1887, was $8,278,221.30, notwithstanding the payment of more than $5,000,000 for pensions in excess of what was paid for that purpose in the latter-mentioned year.

The revenues of the Government for the year ending June 30, 1889, ascertained for the quarter ended September 30, 1888, and estimated for the remainder of the time, amount to $377,000,000; and the actual and estimated ordinary expenditures for the same year are $273,000,000, leaving an estimated surplus of $104,000,000.

The estimated receipts for the year ending June 30, 1890, are $377,000,000, and the estimated ordinary expenditures for the same time are $275,767,488.34, showing a surplus of $101,232,511.66.

The foregoing statements of surplus do not take into account the sum necessary to be expended to meet the requirements of the sinking-fund act, amounting to more than $47,000,000 annually.

The cost of collecting the customs revenues for the last fiscal year was 2.44 per cent.; for the year 1885 it was 3.77 per cent.

The excess of internal-revenue taxes collected during the last fiscal year over those collected for the year ended June 30, 1887, was $5,489,174.26, and the cost of collecting this revenue decreased from 3.4 per cent. in 1887 to less than 3.2 per cent. for the last year. The tax collected on oleomargarine was $723,948.04 for the year ending June 30, 1887, and $864,139.88 for the following year.

The requirements of the sinking-fund act have been met for the year ended June 30, 1888, and for the current year also, by the purchase of bonds. After complying with this law as positively required, and bonds sufficient for that purpose had been bought at a premium, it was not deemed prudent to further expend the surplus in such purchases until the authority to do so should be more explicit. A resolution, however, having been passed by both Houses of Congress removing all doubt as to Executive authority, daily purchases of bonds were commenced on the 23d day of April, 1888, and have continued until the present time. By this plan bonds of the Government not yet due have been purchased up to and including the 30th day of November, 1888, amounting to $94,700,400, the premium paid thereon amounting to $17,508,613.08.

The premium added to the principal of these bonds represents an investment yielding about 2 per cent. interest for the time they still had to run; and the saving to the Government represented by the difference between the amount of interest at 2 per cent. upon the sum paid for principal and premium and what it would have paid for interest at the rate specified in the bonds if they had run to their maturity, is about $27,165,000.

At first sight this would seem to be a profitable and sensible transaction on the part of the Government. But, as suggested by the Secretary of the Treasury, the surplus thus expended for the purchase of bolds was money drawn from the people in excess of any actual need of the Government, and was so expended rather than allow it to remain idle in the Treasury. If this surplus under the operation of just and equitable laws had been left in the hands of the people, it would have been worth in their business at least six per cent. per annum. Deducting from the amount of interest upon the principal and premium of these bonds for the time they had to run at the rate of six per cent. the saving of two per cent. made for the people by the purchase of such bonds, the loss will appear to be $55,760,000.

This calculation would seem to demonstrate that if excessive and unnecessary taxation is continued and the Government is forced to pursue this policy of purchasing its own bonds at the premiums which it will be necessary to pay, the loss to the people will be hundreds of millions of dollars.

Since the purchase of bonds was undertaken as mentioned, nearly all that have been offered were at last accepted. It has been made quite apparent that the Government was in danger of being subjected to combinations to raise their price; as appears by the instance cited by the Secretary of the offering of bonds of the par value of only $326,000 so often that the aggregate of the sums demanded for their purchase amounted to more than $19,700,000.

Notwithstanding the large sums paid out in the purchase of bonds, the surplus in the Treasury on the 30th day of November, 1888, was $52,234,610.01, after deducting about $20,000,000 just drawn out for the payment of pensions.

At the close of the fiscal year ended June 30, 1887, there had been coined under the compulsory-silver-coinage act $266,988,280 in silver dollars, $55,504,310 of which were in the hands of the people.

On the 30th day of June, 1888, there had been coined $299,708,790; and of this $55,829,303 was in circulation in coin, and $200,387,376 in silver certificates, for the redemption of which silver dollars to that amount were held by the Government.

On the 30th day of November, 1888, $312,570,990 had been coined, $60,970,990 of the silver dollars were actually in circulation, and $237,418,346 in certificates.

The Secretary recommends the suspension of the further coinage of silver, and in such recommendation I earnestly concur.

For further valuable information and timely recommendations I ask the careful attention of the Congress to the Secretary's report.

The Secretary of War reports that the Army at the date of the last consolidated returns consisted of 2,189 officers and 24,549 enlisted men.

The actual expenditures of the War Department for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1888, amounted to $41,165,107.07, of which sum $9,158,516.63 was expended for public works, including river and harbor improvements.

"The Board of Ordnance and Fortifications," provided for under the act approved September 22, last, was convened October 30, 1888, and plans and specifications for procuring forgings for 8, 10, and 12 inch guns, under provisions of section 4, and also for procuring 12inch breech-loading mortars, cast-iron, hooped with steel, under the provisions of section 5 of the said act, were submitted to the Secretary of War for reference to the Board, by the Ordnance Department on the same date.

These plans and specifications having been promptly approved by the Board and the Secretary of War, the necessary authority to publish advertisements, inviting proposals, in the newspapers throughout the country, was granted by the Secretary on November 12, and on November 13 the advertisements were sent out to the different newspapers designated. The bids for the steel forgings are to be opened on December 20, 1888, and for the mortars on December 15, 1888.

A Board of Ordnance Officers was convened at the Watervliet Arsenal on October 4, 1888, to prepare the necessary plans and specifications for the establishment of an Army Gun Factory at that point. The preliminary report of this Board, with estimates for shop buildings and officers' quarters, was approved by the Board of Ordnance and Fortifications, November 6 and 8. The specifications and form of advertisement and instructions to bidders have been prepared, and advertisements inviting proposals for the excavations for the shop building and for erecting the two sets of officers' quarters have been published. The detailed drawings and specifications for the Gun Factory building are well in hand, and will be finished within three or four months, when bids will be invited for the erection of the building. The list of machines, etc., is made out, and it is expected that the plans for the large lathes, etc., will be completed within about four months, and after approval by the Board of Ordnance and Fortification, bids for furnishing the same will be invited. The machines and other fixtures will be completed as soon as the shop is in readiness to receive them, probably about July, 1890.

as the shop is in readiness to receive them, probably about July, 1890. Under the provisions of the Army bill, for the procurement of pneumatic dynamite guns, the necessary specifications are now being prepared and advertisements for proposals will issue early in December. The guns will probably be of 15 inches caliber and fire a projectile that will carry a charge, each, of about five hundred pounds of explosive gelatine with full-caliber projectiles. The guns will probably be delivered in from six to ten months from the date of the contract, so that all the guns of this class that can be procured under the provisions of the law will be purchased during the year 1889.

I earnestly request that the recommendations contained in the Secretary's report, all of which are, in my opinion, calculated to increase the usefulness and discipline of the Army, may receive the consideration of the Congress. Among these the proposal that there should be provided a plan for the examination of officers to test their fitness for promotion is of the utmost importance. This reform has been before recommended in the reports of the Secretary, and its expediency is so fully demonstrated by the argument he presents in its favor that its adoption should no longer be neglected.

The death of General Sheridan in August last was a national affliction. The Army then lost the grandest of its chiefs. The country lost a brave and experienced soldier, a wise and discreet counselor, and a modest and sensible man. Those who in any manner came within the range of his personal association will never fail to pay deserved and willing homage to his greatness and the glory of his career; but they will cherish with more tender sensibility the loving memory of his simple, generous, and considerate nature.

The Apache Indians, whose removal from their reservation in Arizona followed the capture of those of their number who engaged in a bloody and murderous raid during a part of the years 1885 and 1886, are now held as prisoners of war at Mount Vernon barracks, in the State of Alabama. They numbered, on the 31st day of October, the date of the last report, 83 men, 170 women, 70 boys, and 59 girls, in all 382 persons. The commanding officer states that they are in good health and contented, and that they are kept employed as fully as is possible in the circumstances. The children as they arrive at a suitable age are sent to the Indian schools at Carlisle and Hampton. Last summer some charitable and kind people asked permission to send two teachers to these Indians for the purpose of instructing the adults as well as such children as should be found there. Such permission was readily granted, accommodations were provided for the teachers, and some portions of the buildings at the barracks were made available for school purposes. The good work contemplated has been commenced, and the teachers engaged are paid by the ladies with whom the plan originated.

I am not at all in sympathy with those benevolent but injudicious people who are constantly insisting that these Indians should be returned to their reservation. Their removal was an absolute necessity if the lives and property of citizens upon the frontier are to be at all regarded by the Government. Their continued restraint at a distance from the scene of their repeated and cruel murders and outrages is still necessary. It is a mistaken philanthropy, every way injurious, which prompts the desire to see these savages returned to their old haunts. They are in their present location as the result of the best judgment of those having official responsibility in the matter, and who are by no means lacking in kind consideration for the Indians. A number of these prisoners have forfeited their lives to outraged law and humanity. Experience has proved that they are dangerous and can not be trusted. This is true not only of those who on the war-path have heretofore actually been guilty of atrocious murder, but of their kindred and friends, who, while they remained upon their reservation, furnished aid and comfort to those absent with bloody intent.

These prisoners should be treated kindly and kept in restraint far from the locality of their former reservation; they should be subjected to efforts calculated to lead to their improvement and the softening of their savage and cruel instincts, but their return to their old home should be persistently resisted.

The Secretary in his report gives a graphic history of these Indians, and recites with painful vividness their bloody deeds and the unhappy failure of the Government to manage them by peaceful means. It will be amazing if a perusal of this history will allow the survival of a desire for the return of these prisoners to their reservation upon sentimental or any other grounds.

The report of the Secretary of the Navy demonstrates very intelligent management in that important Department, and discloses the most satisfactory progress in the work of reconstructing the Navy made during the past year. Of the ships in course of construction, five, viz, the Charleston, Baltimore, Yorktown, Vesuvius, and the Petrel, have in that time been launched and are rapidly approaching completion; and in addition to the above, the Philadelphia, the San Francisco, the Newark, the Bennington, the Concord, and the Herreshoff torpedo-boat are all under contract for delivery to the Department during the next year. The progress already made and being made gives good ground for the expectation that these eleven vessels will be incorporated as part of the American Navy within the next twelve months.

The report shows that notwithstanding the large expenditures for new construction, and the additional labor they involve, the total ordinary or current expenditures of the Department for the three years ending June 30, 1888, are less by more than 20 per cent. than such expenditures for the three years ending June 30, 1884.

The various steps which have been taken to improve the business methods of the Department are reviewed by the Secretary. The purchasing of supplies has been consolidated and placed under a responsible Bureau head. This has resulted in the curtailment of open purchases, which in the years 1884 and 1885 amounted to over 50 per cent. of all the purchases of the Department, to less than 11 per cent.; so that at the present time about 90 per cent. of the total Departmental purchases are made by contract and after competition. As the expenditures on this account exceed an average of $2,000,000 annually, it is evident that an important improvement in the system has been inaugurated and substantial economies introduced.

The report of the Postmaster-General shows a marked increase of business in every branch of the postal service.

The number of post-offices on July 1, 1888, was 57,376, an increase of 6,124 in three years and of 2,219 for the last fiscal year. The latter-mentioned increase is classified as follows:

New England States	5
Middle States	181
Southern States and Indian Territory (41)
The States and Territories of the Pacific coast
The ten States and Territories of the West and Northwest	435
District of Columbia	2

Total 2,219

Free-delivery offices have increased from 189 in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1887, to 358 in the year ended June 30, 1888.

In the Railway Mail Service there has been an increase in one year of 168 routes, and in the number of miles traveled per annum an increase of 15,795,917.48. The estimated increase of railroad service for the year was 6,000 miles, but the amount of new railroad service actually put on was 12,764.50 miles.

The volume of business in the Money-Order Division, including transactions in postal notes, reached the sum of upwards of $143,000,000 for the year.

During the past year Parcel Post Conventions have been concluded with Barbadoes, the Bahamas, British Honduras, and Mexico, and are now under negotiation with all the Central and South American States. The increase of correspondence with foreign countries during the past three years is gratifying, and is especially notable and exceptional with the Central and South American States, and with Mexico. As the greater part of mail matter exchanged with these countries is commercial in its character, this increase is evidence of the improved business relations with them. The practical operation of the Parcel Post Conventions, so far as negotiated, has served to fulfill the most favorable predictions as to their benefits. In January last a General Postal Convention was negotiated with the Dominion of Canada, which went into operation on March 1st, and which practically makes one postal territory of the United States and Canada. Under it merchandise parcels may now be transmitted through the mails at fourth-class rates of postage.

It is not possible here to touch even the leading heads of the great postal establishment, to illustrate the enormous and rapid growth of its business and the needs for legislative re-adjustment of much of its machinery that it has outgrown. For these and valuable recommendations of the Postmaster-General, attention is earnestly invited to his report.

A Department whose revenues have increased from $19,772,000 in 1870 to $52,700,000 in 1888, despite reductions of postage which have enormously reduced rates of revenue while greatly increasing its business, demands the careful consideration of the Congress as to all matters suggested by those familiar with its operations, and which are calculated to increase its efficiency and usefulness.

A bill, proposed by the Postmaster-General, was introduced at the last session of the Congress, by which a uniform standard in the amount of gross receipts would fix the right of a community to a public building to be erected by the Government for post-office purposes. It was demonstrated that, aside from the public convenience and the promotion of harmony among citizens—invariably disturbed by change of leasings and of site—it was a measure of the highest economy and of sound business judgment. It was found that the Government was paying in rents at the rate of from seven to ten per cent. per annum on what the cost of such public buildings would be. A very great advantage resulting from such a law would be the prevention of a large number of bills, constantly introduced for the erection of public buildings at places, and involving expenditures, not justified by public necessity. I trust that this measure will become a law at the present session of Congress.

Of the total number of postmasters, 54,874 are of the fourth class. These, of course, receive no allowances whatever for expenses in the service, and their compensation is fixed by percentages on receipts at their respective offices. This rate of compensation may have been, and probably was, at some time, just, but the standard has remained unchanged through the several reductions in the rates of postage. Such reductions have necessarily cut down the compensation of these officials, while it undoubtedly increased the business performed by them. Simple justice requires attention to this subject, to the end that fourth-class postmasters may receive at least an equivalent to that which the law itself, fixing the rate, intended for them.

Another class of postal employés whose condition seems to demand legislation is that of clerks in post-offices; and I call especial attention to the repeated recommendations of the Postmaster-General for their classification. Proper legislation of this character for the relief of carriers in the Free-Delivery Service has been frequent. Provision is made for their promotion; for substitutes for them on vacation; for substitutes for holidays, and limiting their hours of labor. Seven million dollars has been appropriated for the current year to provide for them, though the total number of offices where they are employed is but 358 for the past fiscal year, with an estimated increase for the current year of but 40, while the total appropriation for all clerks in offices throughout the United States is $5,950,000.

The legislation affecting the relations of the Government with railroads is in need of revision. While, for the most part, the railroad companies throughout the country have cordially co-operated with the Post-Office Department in rendering excellent service, yet under the law as it stands, while the compensation to them for carrying the mail is limited and regulated, and although railroads are made post-roads by law, there is no authority reposed anywhere to compel the owner of a railroad to take and carry the United States mails. The only alternative provided by act of Congress in case of refusal is for the Postmaster-General to send mail forward by pony express. This is but an illustration of ill-fitting legislation, reasonable and proper at the time of its enactment, but long since outgrown and requiring readjustment.

It is gratifying to note from the carefully prepared statistics accompanying the Postmaster-General's report that, notwithstanding the great expansion of the service, the rate of expenditure has been lessened, and efficiency has been improved in every branch; that fraud and crime have decreased; that losses from the mails have been reduced, and that the number of complaints of the service made to postmasters and to the Department are far less than ever before.

The transactions of the Department of Justice for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1888, are contained in the report of the Attorney-General, as well as a number of valuable recommendations, the most of which are repetitions of those previously made, and ought to receive consideration.

It is stated in this report that though judgments in civil suits amounting to $552,021.08 were recovered in favor of the Government during the year, only the sum of $132,934 was collected thereon; and that though fines, penalties, and forfeitures were imposed amounting to $541,808.43, only $109,648.42 of that sum was paid on account thereof. These facts may furnish an illustration of the sentiment which extensively prevails, that a debt due the Government should cause no inconvenience to the citizen.

It also appears from this report that though prior to March, 1885, there had been but six convictions in the Territories of Utah and Idaho under the laws of 1862 and 1882, punishing polygamy and unlawful cohabitation as crimes, there have been since that date nearly six hundred convictions under these laws and the statutes of 1887; and the opinion is expressed that under such a firm and vigilant execution of these laws, and the advance of ideas opposed to the forbidden practices, polygamy within the United States is virtually at an end.

Suits instituted by the Government under the provisions of the act of March 3, 1887, for the termination of the corporations known as the Perpetual Emigrating Fund Company and the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints have resulted in a decree favorable to the Government, declaring the charters of these corporations forfeited and escheating their property. Such property, amounting in value to more than $800,000, is in the hands of a receiver pending further proceedings, an appeal having been taken to the Supreme Court of the United States.

In the report of the Secretary of the Interior, which will be laid before you, the condition of the various branches of our domestic affairs connected with that Department and its operations during the past year, are fully exhibited. But a brief reference to some or the subjects discussed in this able and interesting report can here be made; but I commend the entire report to the attention of the Congress, and trust that the sensible and valuable recommendations it contains will secure careful consideration.

I can not too strenuously insist upon the importance of proper measures to insure a right disposition of our public lands, not only as a matter of present justice, but in forecast of the consequences to future generations. The broad, rich acres of our agricultural plains have been long preserved by nature to become her untrammeled gift to a people civilized and free, upon which should rest, in well-distributed ownership, the numerous homes of enlightened, equal, and fraternal citizens. They came to national possession with the warning example in our eyes of the entail of iniquities in landed proprietorship which other countries have permitted and still suffer. We have no excuse for the violation of principles, cogently taught by reason and example, nor for the allowance of pretexts which have sometimes exposed our lands to colossal greed. Laws which open a door to fraudulent acquisition, or administration which permits favor to rapacious seizure by a favored few of expanded areas that many should enjoy, are accessory to offenses against our national welfare and humanity, not to be too severely condemned or punished.

It is gratifying to know that something has been done at last to redress the injuries to our people and check the perilous tendency of the reckless waste of the national domain. That over eighty million acres have been arrested from illegal usurpation, improvident grants, and fraudulent entries and claims, to be taken for the homesteads of honest industry—although less than the greater areas thus unjustly lost—must afford a profound gratification to right-feeling citizens as it is a recompense for the labors and struggles of the recovery. Our dear experience ought sufficiently to urge the speedy enactment of measures of legislation which will confine the future disposition of our remaining agricultural lands to the uses of actual husbandry and genuine homes.

Nor should our vast tracts of so-called desert lands be yielded up to the monopoly of corporations or grasping individuals, as appears to be much the tendency under the existing statute. These lands require but the supply of water to become fertile and productive. It is a problem of great moment how most wisely for the public good that factor shall be furnished. I can not but think it perilous to suffer either these lands or the sources of their irrigation to fall into the hands of monopolies, which by such means may exercise lordship over the areas dependent on their treatment for productiveness. Already steps have been taken to secure accurate and scientific information of the conditions, which is the prime basis of intelligent action. Until this shall be gained, the course of wisdom appears clearly to lie in a suspension of further disposal, which only promises to create rights antagonistic to the common interest. No harm can follow this cautionary conduct. The land will remain, and the public good presents no demand for hasty dispossession of national ownership and control.

I commend also the recommendations that appropriate measures be taken to complete the adjustment of the various grants made to the States for internal improvements and of swamp and overflowed lands, as well as to adjudicate and finally determine the validity and extent of the numerous private land claims. All these are elements of great injustice and peril to the settlers upon the localities affected; and now that their existence can not be avoided, no duty is more pressing than to fix as soon as possible their bounds and terminate the threats of trouble which arise from uncertainty.

The condition of our Indian population continues to improve and the proofs multiply that the transforming change, so much to be desired, which shall substitute for barbarism enlightenment and civilizing education, is in favorable progress. Our relations with these people during the year have been disturbed by no serious disorders, but rather marked by a better realization of their true interests, and increasing confidence and good-will. These conditions testify to the value of the higher tone of consideration and humanity which has governed the later methods of dealing with them, and commend its continued observance.

Allotments in severalty have been made on some reservations until all those entitled to land thereon have had their shares assigned, all the work is still continued. In directing the execution of this duty I have not aimed so much at rapid dispatch as to secure just and fair arrangements which shall best conduce to the objects of the law, by producing satisfaction with the results of the allotments made. No measure of general effect has ever been entered on from which more may be fairly hoped, if it shall be discreetly administered. It proffers opportunity and inducement to that independence of spirit and life which the Indian peculiarly needs, while at the same time the inalienability of title affords security against the risks his inexperience of affairs or weakness of character may expose him to in dealing with others. Whenever begun upon any reservation it should be made complete, so that all are brought to the same condition, and, as soon as possible, community in lands should cease by opening such as remain unallotted to settlement. Contact with the ways of industrious and successful farmers will perhaps add a healthy emulation which will both instruct and stimulate.

But no agency for the amelioration of this people appears to me so promising as the extension, urged by the Secretary, of such complete facilities of education as shall, at the earliest possible day, embrace all teachable Indian youth, of both sexes, and retain them with a kindly and beneficent hold until their characters are formed and their faculties and dispositions trained to the sure pursuit of some form of useful industry. Capacity of the Indian no longer needs demonstration. It is established. It remains to make the most of it, and when that shall be done the curse will be lifted, the Indian race saved, and the sin of their oppression redeemed. The time of its accomplishment depends upon the spirit and justice with which it shall be prosecuted. It cannot be too soon for the Indian, nor for the interests and good name of the nation.

The average attendance of Indian pupils on the schools increased by over 900 during the year, and the total enrollment reached 15,212. The cost of maintenance was not materially raised. The number of teachable Indian youth is now estimated at 40,000, or nearly three times the enrollment of the schools. It is believed the obstacles in the way of instructing are all surmountable, and that the necessary expenditure would be a measure of economy.

The Sioux tribes on the great reservation of Dakota refused to assent to the act passed by the Congress at its last session for opening a portion of their lands to settlement, notwithstanding modification of the terms was suggested which met most of their objections. Their demand is for immediate payment of the full price of $1.25 per acre for the entire body of land the occupancy of which they are asked to relinquish.

The manner of submission insured their fair understanding of the law, and their action was undoubtedly as thoroughly intelligent as their capacity admitted. It is at least gratifying that no reproach of over-reaching can in any manner lie against the Government, however advisable the favorable completion of the negotiation may have been esteemed.

I concur in the suggestions of the Secretary regarding the Turtle Mountain Indians, the two reservations in California, and the Crees. They should in my opinion receive immediate attention.

The number of pensioners added to the rolls during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1888, is 60,252; and increase of pensions was granted in 45,716 cases. The names of 15,730 pensioners were dropped from the rolls during the year for various causes, and at the close of the year the number of persons of all classes receiving pensions was 452,557. Of these there were 806 survivors of the war of 1812, 10,787 widows of those who served in that war, 16,060 soldiers of the Mexican war, and 5,104 widows of said soldiers.

One hundred and two different rates of pensions are paid to these beneficiaries, ranging from $2 to $416.66 per month.

The amount paid for pensions during the fiscal year was $78,775,-861.92, being an increase over the preceding year of $5,308,280.22.

The expenses attending the maintenance and operation of the Pension Bureau during that period was $3,262,524.67, making the entire expenditures of the Bureau $82,038,386.57, being 21½ per cent. of the gross income and nearly 31 per cent. of the total expenditures of the Government during the year.

I am thoroughly convinced that our general pension laws should be revised and adjusted to meet, as far as possible in the light of our experience, all meritorious cases. The fact that one hundred and two different rates of pensions are paid can not, in my opinion, be made consistent with justice to the pensioners or to the Government; and the numerous private pension bills that are passed, predicated upon the imperfection of general laws, while they increase in many cases existing inequality and injustice, lend additional force to the recommendation for a revision of the general laws on this subject.

The laxity of ideas prevailing among a large number of our people regarding pensions is becoming every day more marked. The principles upon which they should be granted are in danger of being altogether ignored, and already pensions are often claimed because the applicants are as much entitled as other successful applicants rather than upon any disability reasonably attributable to military service. If the establishment of vicious precedents be continued, if the granting of pensions be not divorced from partisan and other unworthy and irrelevant considerations, and if the honorable name of veteran unfairly becomes by these means but another term for one who constantly clamors for the aid of the Government, there is danger that injury will be done to the fame and patriotism of many whom our citizens all delight to honor, and that a prejudice will be aroused unjust to meritorious applicants for pensions.

The Department of Agriculture has continued, with a good measure of success, its efforts to develop the processes, enlarge the results, and augment the profits of American husbandry. It has collected and distributed practical information, introduced and tested new plants, checked the spread of contagious disease of farm animals, resisted the advance of noxious insects and destructive fungus growths, and sought to secure to agricultural labor the highest reward of effort and the fullest immunity from loss. Its records of the year show that the season of 1888 has been one of medium production. A generous supply of the demands of consumption has been assured, and a surplus for exportation, moderate in certain products and bountiful in others, will prove a benefaction alike to buyer and grower.

Four years ago it was found that the great cattle industry of the country was endangered, and those engaged in it were alarmed at the rapid extension of the European lung plague of pleuro-pneumonia. Serious outbreaks existed in Illinois, Missouri, and Kentucky, and in Tennessee unimals affected were held in quarantine. Five counties in New York and from one to four counties in each of the States of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and Maryland were almost equally affected.

With this great danger upon us, and with the contagion already in the channels of commerce, with the enormous direct and indirect losses already being caused by it, and when only prompt and energetic action could be successful, there were in none of these States any laws authorizing this Department to eradicate the malady or giving the State officials power to co-operate with it for this purpose. The Department even lacked both the requisite appropriation and authority.

By securing State co-operation in connection with authority from Congress, the work of eradication has been pressed successfully, and this dreaded disease has been extirpated from the Western States and also from the Eastern States, with the exception of a few restricted areas, which are still under supervision. The danger has thus been removed, and trade and commerce have been freed from the vexatious State restrictions which were deemed necessary for a time.

During the past four years the process of diffusion, as applied to the manufacture of sugar from sorghum and sugar-cane, has been introduced into this country and fully perfected by the experiments carried on by the Department of Agriculture. This process is now universally considered to be the most economical one, and it is through it that the sorghum-sugar industry has been established upon a firm basis and the road to its future success opened. The adoption of this diffusion process is also extending in Louisiana and other sugar-producing parts of the country, and will doubtless soon be the only method employed for the extraction of sugar from the cane.

An exhaustive study has also, within the same period, been undertaken of the subject of food adulteration and the best analytical methods for detecting it. A part of the results of this work has already been published by the Department, which, with the matter in course of preparation, will make the most complete treatise on that subject that has ever been published in any country.

The Department seeks a progressive development. It would combine the discoveries of science with the economics and amelioration of rural practice. A supervision of the endowed experimental station system recently provided for, is a proper function of the Department, and is now in operation. This supervision is very important, and should be wisely and vigilantly directed, to the end that the pecuniary aid of the Government in favor of intelligent agriculture should be so applied as to result in the general good and to the benefit of all our people, thus justifying the appropriations made from the public Treasury.

The adjustment of the relations between the Government and the railroad companies which have received land grants and the guaranty of the public credit in aid of the construction of their roads should receive early attention. The report of a majority of the commissioners appointed to examine the affairs and indebtedness of these roads, in which they favor an extension of the time for the payment of such indebtedness in at least one case where the corporation appears to be able to comply with well-guarded and exact terms of such extension, and the reinforcement of their opinion by gentlemen of undoubted business judgment and experience, appointed to protect the interests of the Government as directors of said corporation, may well lead to the belief that such an extension would be to the advantage of the Government.

The subject should be treated as a business proposition with a view to a final realization of its indebtedness by the Government, rather than as a question to be decided upon prejudice or by way of punishment for previous wrong-doing.

The report of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, with its accompanying documents, gives in detail the operations of the several departments of the District government, and furnishes evidence that the financial affairs of the District are at present in such satisfactory condition as to justify the Commissioners in submitting to the Congress estimates for desirable and needed improvements.

The Commissioners recommend certain legislation which in their opinion is necessary to advance the interests of the District.

I invite your special attention to their request for such legislation as will enable the Commissioners, without delay, to collect, digest, and properly arrange the laws by which the District is governed, and which are now embraced in several collections, making them available only with great difficulty and labor. The suggestions they make touching desirable amendments to the laws relating to licenses granted for carrying on the retail traffic in spirituous liquors, to the observance of Sunday, to the proper assessment and collection of taxes, to the speedy punishment of minor offenders, and to the management and control of the reformatory and charitable institutions supported by Congressional appropriations, are commended to careful consideration.

I again call attention to the present inconvenience and the danger to life and property attending the operation of steam railroads through and across the public streets and roads of the District. The propriety of such legislation as will properly guard the use of these railroads and better secure the convenience and safety of citizens is manifest.

The consciousness that I have presented but an imperfect statement of the condition of our country and its wants, occasions no fear that anything omitted is not known and appreciated by the Congress, upon whom rests the responsibility of intelligent legislation in behalf of a great nation and a confiding people.

As public servants we shall do our duty well if we constantly guard the rectitude of our intentions, maintain unsullied our love of country, and with unselfish purpose strive for the public good.

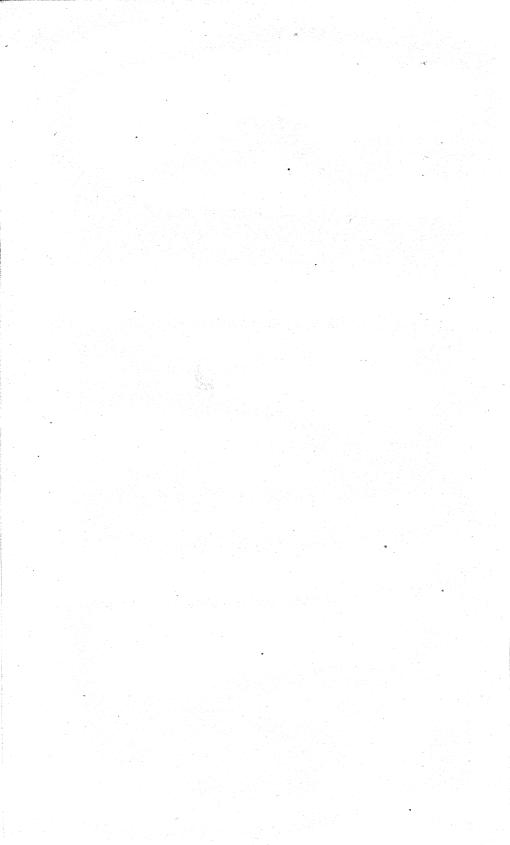

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Washington,

December 3, 1888.

FOREIGN RELATIONS.

xxxv

LIST OF PAPERS WITH SYNOPSES OF THEIR CONTENTS.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
1	Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard (No. 93).	1887. Nov. 19	Export duties of every kind removed by the Argentine Government: Discrimination by the	1
			United States import duty against Argentine unwashed wool and in favor of Australian.
2	Same to same (No. 94)	Nov. 20	Steam-ship line: Basis of a contract with R. P. Houston, representing English capital, for steam-ship lines to New York and the north of Europe, guaranteeing 5 per cent. interest for fifteen years, bassed by the Argentine Con-	2
3	Same to same (No. 98)	Nov. 29	gress. Translation of the agreement inclosed. Railroad guaranties increased to $276,000,000 by the Argentine Government: Five per cent. on	4
4	Same to same (No. 100)	Dec. 9	cost of construction and operating the basis. The President of the Argentine Republic invites the diplomatic corps to join him at Cordova:	5
			Attends the President on a trip up the Uruguay River; the Salerderos; the cities of Uruguay and Parana.
5	Same to same (No. 102)	Dec. 12	Steam-ship lines: Baring Bros., of London, become large stockholders in the Italian line to southern Europe; four ships added to the fleet, and the trips to be nearly weekly; monthly line to New York soon to be begun.	6
6	Same to same (No. 103)	Dec. 12	Quarantine: Convention regulating, signed by the Argentine, Brazilian, and Uruguayan com-	7 missioners; mail service and trade hitherto much embarrassed by quarantine regulations along the coast of Brazil, Uruguay, and the Ar-1000	gentine Republic; translation of convention in-
7	Same to same (No. 121)	1888. Jan. 20	closed. Passport issued to W. E. Bartel, by birth a German,	9 who had lost his naturalization papers, but supported his claim to citizenship by the affida- vits of two well-known sea captains; Depart- ment's opinion asked.
8,	Same to same (No. 143)	Mar. 22	Commercial: Argentine Republic a formidable rival to the United States in the production of cereals; encouraged and compelled to this by the refusal of the United States to take its wool; it will only trade by exchange; the same true of Uruguay and Paraguay; tables of export of wheat, flour, maize, and linseed for	10
9	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hanna (No. 61).	Mar. 27	nine years past inclosed. Passport of Mr. Bartel, a German by birth, who claimed to have lost his naturalization papers, improvidently granted upon the affidavits of	11
10	Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard (No. 150).	Мау 3	two sea captains; a full report awaited. Steam-ship lines: The Houston line of steam-ships nearly ready to begin trips; it will fly the Argentine flag and carry mails; a member of the Canadian Parliament examining the Argentine and Uruguayan trade to see what Canada can furnish in return, with a view to establishing a	12
11	Same to same (No. 154)	70° 10	line between the countries; a subsidy voted to the line by the Canadian Parliament; the United States unrepresented, but by a small effort could secure South American markets for its manu- factures.
	Same to same (No. 154)	may 19	Slavery, abolition of, in Brazil celebrated in the Argentine Republic.	12

LIST OF PAPERS.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
12	Same to same (No. 166)	July 25	Immigration continues: Argentine Republic ahead of all American countries south of the United States; European rivalry for its trade; indifference of the United States; imitation of American goods; American ships needed.	13
13	Same to same (No. 167)	July 26	Colonization of negroes from United States ru- mored: Inquiries made by a manager of an English land company, who offers them a town- ship: German colony expected; comments of	14
14	Same to same (No. 168)	July 29	the Buenos Ayres Standard inclosed. Railroads: Complications developed by guaran-	15
	(100,100,000)		tied railroads: most of the concessions to En-	1 glish companies, with directors in London; roads not kept in condition; attention called to the fact by the president of Congress; the message right (1984년 1일 2014년 - 1984년)	114 100	communicated by the British chargé d'affaires	1
			to the home office, and notice has been given by	l
		11 - 4 P Sept.	Lord Salisbury to the secretaries of the various
1			companies to put themselves right; the guarantied roads are required to increase their re-	1.
			ceipts to the fullest standard, or the guaranties
1			may be withdrawn or applied to betterments;
			the English Government disposed to make its	1 subjects keep faith; extracts from the message of the President of the Argentine Republic 없는데 그 이렇게 그런 함께 바라고	ren torus or a c	and the letter of Lord Salisbury inclosed.
15	Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard (No. 182).	Oct. 3	Political: Extra session of Argentine Congress called by President Celman, October 1, to consider important railroad and other legislation; adjournment expected latter part of November.

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

16	Mr. Porter to Mr. Lawton (No. 5).	1887. Sept. 8	Right to sue in forma pauperis under the United States Constitution determined by the lex fori: No power in the Federal Government to pass a general law; alien, as such, allowed to sue in forma pauperis in all the States; how far the privilege is extended to American citizens in Austria to be ascertained; copy of dispatch of United States vice-consul at Berlin in regard to treaty between Germany and Austria, as to the right to sue in forma pauperis, and Department's instruction to Mr. Pendleton, inclosed.	18
17	Mr. Lawton to Mr. Bayard (No. 14).	Nov. 4	Passport applied for by Sigismund Löwinsohn: He remained in the United States just long enough to be naturalized, and then returned to Austria, where he has resided ever since; asks the instruction of the Department; his appli- cation, naturalization papers, and a passport given him by this legation in 1883 inclosed.	19
18	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Lawton (No. 14).	Dec. 5	Passport of Mr. Löwinsohn; refusal of approved: He has settled in Vienna, and evidently intends permanently to reside there.	20
19	Mr. Lawton to Mr. Bayard (No. 19).	Dec. 10	Right to sue in forma pauperis: Note from the Austrian ministry of foreign affairs in answer to Mr. Lawton's inquiry as to the right of foreigners to sue in forma pauperis inclosed.	20
20	Same to same (No. 21)	Dec. 17	Right to sue in forma pauperis: Note from the Austrian ministry in regard to the right of foreigners to sue in forma pauperis in Hungary inclosed.	21
21	Same to same (No. 25)	Jan. 6	The Baron and Baroness Rothschild admitted to the court balls at Vienna: The first time such a distinction has been conferred on persons of Jewish origin.	22

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF AUSTRIA-HUNGARY AT WASHINGTON.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
22	Chevalier de Tavera to Mr. Bayard.	1887. Dec. 23	Reward to the life-saving crew for aid to the Kraljevica: Forty dollars each for four seamen for their bravery in rescuing the crew of the Austrian bark Kraljevica and $100 for each family of three who were lost in the attempt,	23
23	Mr. Bayard to the Chevalier de Tavera.	Dec. 28	inclosed. Reward to life-saving crew for aiding the Kraljevica. Acknowledging the receipt of $400 sent by the Austrian Government to four men and the families of three who were lost in the attempt to rescue the crew of the Austrian bark Kraljevica.	23

BELGIUM.

			DELCTOM.
24	Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard (No. 278).	1887. Nov. 30	Flags on the Congo: Article 2 of the decree of the soverign of the Independent State of the	24
			Congo, which requires that private vessels navigating the waters of that state beyond the falls of Leopoldville shall hoist at the stern the Congo flag, but permits the hoisting of the flag of her own country, if she possesses papers establishing her nationality, is called to the attention of the Secretary; article 3 fixes penalty for non-observance of article 2; these articles a strange departure, in view of article 2 of the Berlin conference, stipulating for the free navigation of the Congo and of the universal custom according to which all vessels fly the flag
25	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Tree (No. 90).	Dec. 7	of their own country in the waters of another. Seizure of the Henry Reed, a steamer belonging to the American Baptist Missionary Union, by the Congo authorities; complaint of Rev. A. Billington that Mr. H. M. Stanley attempted to seize the steamer by force, but was prevented by the chief of the Congo station at Stanley Pool, who subsequently caused her to be handed over to Mr. Stanley for forty-five days; that when the steamer was being returned after be-	24
			ing kept more than forty-five days it was seized at Bengola by armed soldiers of the Congo State and up to August 3 last was still held; Mr. Tree to remonstrate, to ask the restoration of the steamer, and that an investigation be made; praise of the missionaries; dispatch from Mr. Newton to Mr. Rives and letter of Mr. Billington ton to Mr. Newton inclosed.
26	Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard (No. 282).	Dec. 15	Debate on the subject of orders given Krupp for cannon: Resolution offered that trial should be first made of cannon made at Liege, but the Government sustained by vote of 65 to 35; size of the army and war budget; work on the fortification of the Meuse progressing.	26
27	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Tree (No. 92).	Dec. 19	Flags on the Congo: By the Congo convention signed at Berlin all nations have the right peace fully to enjoy the trade and navigation of the Congo River and its tributaries; a settled principle of international law that vessels are entitled, and, as a rule, that it is their duty, to carry the flag of their country; a plurality or	27 flags renders a vessel liable to suspicion; quarantine and pilot ensigns not in conflict with the rule, but carrying the flag of another country is; article 2 substitutes the Congo flag for the vessel's national flag, and implies the right of the Congo authorities to determine the vessel's right to fly her national flag; it is the right of each nation to determine the conditions under which a vessel may fly its flag; the rule of the United States is that vessels bona fide owned by its citizens are entitled when abroad to fly the United States flag without regard to the papers they may have; Mr. Tree to protest against the application of the regulations to American vessels.

LIST OF PAPERS.

BELGIUM—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1887
28	Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard (No. 283).	Dec. 19	Political: The red flag forbidden to be hoisted in a number of communes as seditious and anti-	28 national; this has been made necessary by its free use by persons hostile to all government; their number is small, but they are a source of irritation to law-abiding people.
29	Co to (NTo 990)	1888	Colores of the House Bood by the Comes State	2
29	Same to same (No. 289)	Jan. 6	Seizure of the Henry Reed by the Congo State authorities seems to be satisfactorily explained:	2
			The Congo Government disapproved of Mr.
			Stanley's action, and claims that its agent did not favor Stanley; the seizure of the steamer
	edisər əsələ ərəfə (1)	- F	through mistake, and reparation speedily made;
			Captain van Gele believed the boat belonged to the Government, and he had authority to make use of her; the boat returned and full indemni- fication made; Mr. Tree to the general administrator, etc., of the Independent State of the	1
			Congo; Mr. Billington to Lieutenant Lieb-]
			neation made; Mr. Tree to the general adminis- trator, etc., of the Independent State of the Congo; Mr. Billington to Lieutenant Lieb- rechts; Mr. van Ectvelde to Mr. Tree, and Mr. Tree to the general administrator, etc., of the Independent State of the Congo, inclosed. Flags on the Congo. Protest made in record to	1
			Independent State of the Congo inclosed
30	Same to same (No. 294)	Jan. 16	Flags on the Congo: Protest made in regard to	1
100	[화] 그림 나 그렇게 한 생생하다	4.7	the decree of the Congo State concerning the	1
	선생님이 모르면 그 그 게 가는 모양을	Marin I	flying of flags; the case of the Henry Reed, being covered by the general principles not al-
	The Company of the Co		ing covered by the general principles, not alluded to; copy of note to Mr. van Eetvelde, inclosed.
31	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Tree (No. 96).	Jan. 26	Seizure of the Henry Reed: Satisfaction of the	1
	90).		Department at the restitution of the vessel and	1
32	Same to same (No. 97)	Jan. 30	payment of indemnity to her owners. Spielmarken: Importation from Belgium of Dieces of metal closely resembling the several gold coins of the United States, and known as "spielmarken," and of imitations of coins, postage-stamps, and other obligations of foreign tage-stamps, and other obligations of foreign and our Governments, for fraudulent use; in- quiry to be made whether their manufacture is prohibited by the laws of Belgium, and report 시간 그들은 아이들이 되었다고 있다.		quiry to be made whether their manufacture is to the Department, letter to Mr Reverd from to the Department; letter to Mr. Bayard from Mr. Fairchild, covering letter to Mr. Fairchild from Mr. Brooks, inclosed.
33	Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard (No. 305).	Feb. 11	Flags on the Congo: Attention called to the fact that Mr. van Eetvelde discusses the Congo as
	2007.		though it were territorial water; Mr. van Eet-	100
			velde to Mr. Tree, and Mr. Tree's answer in-	Pro-
34	Same to same (No. 318)	Mar. 17	closed.	4
J-1	Dame to same (110. 910)	a 11	Bonds of the Independent State of the Congo: 100,000 bonds of 100 francs, the first of a loan of	•
	: 시민은 빨리 다른 보다 그는 것 : [150,000,000 francs authorized to be borrowed.
			offered, and 118,000 subscribed for in three days:	1
			The secret of success due to its lottery feature;
			price, 83 francs; they bear no regular interest, but there will be six drawings annually, and prizes given to those bearing certain numbers;
			prizes given to those bearing certain numbers;
			by the plan of redemption a certain number of the bonds are to be redeemed the first year at
- 1			105, 5 francs being added thereto for each year,
	보스된 시청하다 하는 이번		and the whole is to be redeemed by the end of
35	Same to same (No. 321)	Man 20	a century.	l .
00	Dame to same (No. 521)	ши. 90	Spielmarken: The question whether or not the laws of Belgium prohibit their manufacture not	4 answered but Mr Tree informed from other sources that they do not; Mr. Tree to Prince de 36	Same to same (No. 331)	May 11	sources that they do not; Mr. Tree to Prince de Chimay, and the reply of the prince inclosed. Spielmarken: A law proposed to prohibit their manufacture; its passage expected at this or the next session of Parliament; no prohibitory	4
	(110.002)		manufacture; its passage expected at this or	"
		8.5	the next session of Parliament; no prohibitory
37	Same to same (Ma 250)	June 30	law at present existing.	100
91	Same to same (No. 359)	о пие зо	Specimens of the first moneys coined by the In- dependent State of the Congo sent by post.	4
38	Same to same (No. 387)	Sept. 25	dependent State of the Congo sent by post. Reception by the King: Remarks on presenting his letter of credence, and reply of the King;	4 his letter of credence, and reply of the King; has with him a long conversation; the King re- turned to Brussels.
	[이 조건함] 작용하는 사람들로 모양되		outhou to Drusson.	100

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF BELGIUM AT WASHINGTON.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1887.
39	Count d'Arschot to Mr.	July 12	International exhibition of sciences and industry	44
	Bayard.		to be held at Brussels in 1888: Its object to	3.7
			better and cheapen production; Mr. Bayard's better and cheapen production; Mr. Bayard's attention called to it, with the request that he 40	Mr. Bayard to Count d'Ar-	July 29	will make it known in the United States.
40	schot.	July 29	International exhibition to be held at Brussels:	45
	Soliot.		Publicity given to it through the press; a com- mission can not be sent except by an act of Congress, and that can only be requested upon	l
		N 40 A	Congress, and that can only be requested upon receiving a formal invitation to this Government to participate.	l
41	Mr. de Melsbroeck to Mr.	1888. Feb. 3	International E-weiting (C.)	45
*1	Bayard.	F60. 5	International Exposition of Sciences and Indus- tries: The United States invited to take part	l
	2 July da Lat.		I III the international exposition to take place at Belgium in May, 1889: the executive committee
		-	Belgium in May, 1889; the executive committee of American exhibitors have appointed Mr. John Bigelow their delegate.	1.00
42	Same to see	T7-1- 00	John Bigelow their delegate.	46
+4	Same to same	Feb. 29	Peddling: Requests to know the law of the United States on peddling, as it is the custom of Belgian manufacturers to send peddlers	bi saii
			aproad.	1355
43	Same to same	Feb. 29	Annual prize of 25,000 francs by King of Belgium	46 to encourage intellectual effort: To be awarded	1 for the year 1893 to the best work on supplying cities with potable water; Americans invited to compete; the notice inclosed. Peddling: Uncertain whether Mr. de Mels-44	Mr. Bayard to Mr. de Mels-	Mar. 5	Peddling: Uncertain whether Mr. de Mels-	47
	broeck.		brock's note of the 29th February referred to	*1
		1.00	pedulers or commercial travelers. The laws governing both are made by the States, are dis
		4 (1.4)	similar, and frequently changed, and it would be impossible to give all. Will send the laws of
		* - 1	any States, if informed what manner of peddling
		*	is meant.
45	Mr. de Melsbroeck to Mr.	Mar. 27	Citizenship of American-born children: Requests	48
	Bayard.		copy of circular of the United States Depart. ment of State, issued 1856 or 1857, declaring that
- 1			every child born in the United States, whether its parents are naturalized or not, can claim the quality of American citizenship, and asks to	4 5 know if this is still the law.
46	Mr. Bayard to Mr. de Mels-	Apr. 2	Citizenship of American-horn children. Nothing	48
	broeck.		known of the circular requested by Mr. de Melsknown of the circular requested by Mr. de Mels- broeck's note of March 27. The existing pro- visions are found in section 1992, United States
			Revised Statutes, and section 1 of the XIV Revised Statutes, and section 1 of the XIV amendment to the Constitution. In an instruction to Mr. Mason, then minister to France, in 1854, it is stated that, according to common law, any person born in the United States, not in a foreign legation therein may be considered a foreign legation therein, may be considered a citizen thereof until he formally renounces it;
	ere walangia (militari kanana ang militari kanana ang militari kanana ang militari kanana ang militari kanana		out the bad hot been at that time a statute or indicial decision. The United States Attorney General in 1859 gave an opinion that a free white person born of foreign parents in the United States is a citizen thereof. Constitutional pro-
			States is a citizen thereof Constitutional
- 1			visions and statutes subsequent to these will control: the general rule that the individual has
,	Mr. 4. M.1.1. 2	T	the right of election on becoming and comin
7	Mr. de Melsbroeck to Mr.	June 30	Census of foreign residents: Advantages of gov-	49
	Bayard.	I	ernments exchanging with each other the cen-
- 1	taga g	1	Census of foreign residents: Advantages of governments exchanging with each other the census of foreigners residing in their territory; asks if the United States will enter into a convention to that effect with Berinter 18
	District in	ļ
			sus card used in Belgium, and requests infor-sus card used in Belgium, and requests information as to manner of taking census in the 8	Same to same	Aug. 29	United States.
٦	Same to same	ug. 29	The Belgian Government is gratified that the rank of the United States representative to that	50
1	그 생물을 가고 흔들어 하다 하니!		country has been raised to envoy extraordinary
-	그는 절차하다 그 하다 보고한다 계		and minister pleninotentiary
9	Mr. Bayard to Mr. de Mels-	Aug. 31	Is pleased to learn that the advancement in rank	50
	broeck.		of the United States mission to Belgium has
- F		i	given that Government gratification.

LIST OF PAPERS.

BOLIVIA.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
50	Mr. Carlisle to Mr. Bayard (No. 36).	Sept. 10	Political: Aniceto Arce elected President and José Manuel del Carpio Vice-President of Bo- livia; members of cabinet continued by 1st	51
			exec. decree; revolutionary party overwhelm- ingly defeated; the President's inaugural ad- dress inclosed.
51	Same to same (No. 41)	Oct. 6	Political: Military insurrection at Sucre serious; murders and crimes committed; provisional government set up by insurgents under Belisa- rio Salinas; flight of President Arce; the coun- try proclaimed in a state of siege and arrest of	52 suspected persons ordered; arrest of General Camacho and friends; southern army insur- gent, northern loyal; preparations for battle; defection among state troops feared; desertion of the Chorolque battalion; decisive events expected.
52	Same to same (No. 44)	Oct. 22	Political: Military insurrection at Sucre sup pressed; insurgents routed; proclamation is sued re-assembling Congress; discontent in the nerth that Sucre remains the seat of govern- ment.	53
53	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Carlisle (No. 27).	Nov. 30	Political: Gratification of the Department at the suppression of the military insurrection and hope for peace and prosperity of Bolivia.	54

BRAZIL.

		1887.
54	Mr. Jarvis to Mr. Bayard (No. 112).	Oct. 26	Telegraph lines: Application of the Pedro Segundo Telegraph and Cable Company for an extension of one year of the time in which the line was to be completed; six months granted, and six more promised if it be shown that the company is not to blame for its non-completion in that time. Note of the Brazilian minister of foreign affairs on the subject inclosed.	55
55	Same to same (No. 114)	Nov. 10	Quarantine Convention with the Argentine Republic and Uruguay: Better relations established between Brazil and the Argentine Republic by the settlement of disputed boundary and by a sanitary convention (not yet signed) regulating quarantine in the two countries, owing to the different regulations of which previously much injury had been done to the commerce of both countries and irrita-	55
		#000	tion produced.
56	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Jarvis (No. 78).	1888. Feb. 10	Emigration of negroes to Brazil from the United States: The Department has no knowledge on the subject; letter from Mr. S. W. Hill inclosed.	56
57	Mr. Jarvis to Mr. Bayard (No. 122).	Mar. 12	Political: Fall of the Cortegipe ministry; its immediate cause a conflict with the navy. It had been previously weakened by its attitude in opposition to the abolition of slavery and by a dis-	57
		194	pute with the army on account of a newspaper article written by an army officer criticising government officials. The conflict with the navy started by the arrest of a naval officer in citizen's dress for disorderly conduct. A conflict ensued between his fellow officers and the police when the ministry tendered their resignation,
58	Same to same (No. 123)	Mar. 27	which was accepted; the new ministry. Emigratio. of negroes from the United States to Brazil: No information of attempt to induce the negroes from the Southern States to emi- grate to Brazil. There are immigration societies, but they have only looked to Europe. Thinks the report without foundatio Article from the Rio Daily News inclosed.	59
5 9	Same to same (No. 128)	May 12	Traue-marks: Law of Brazil concerning trade- marks inclosed.	62
6 0	Same to same (No. 129)	May 14	Slavery abolished in Brazil. No labor complica- tions anticipated. Translation of law inclosed.	72

LIST OF PAPERS.

BRAZIL-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
61	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Jarvis (No. 90).	1888. June 13	Abolition of slavery in Brazil communicated in a telegram by Mr. Silva. The President telegraphs his congratulations. Sympathy of all with Brazil. Gratified to learn that the public mind and labor system are prepared for the	73
62	Mr. Jarvis to Mr. Bayard (No. 145).	Aug. 31	change. Political: Arrival of the Emperor; joy and demonstrations of the people. Bitterness of ex-slaveowners against the Princess. They organize a "Republican party" and agitate for a republic.	74
	CORRESPONDENCE WIT	H THE	LEGATION OF BRAZIL, AT WASHINGTON.
		1888.
63	Mr. da Costa to Mr. Bayard.	July 31	Abolition of slavery: Conveys the thanks of the Brazilian Government for the congratulations of the President.	75
64	Mr. Bayard to Mr. da Costa.	Aug. 9	Abolition of slavery: The President is gratified that his remarks, which proceeded from a feeling of amity and an appreciation of the magnitude of the reform, should have been pleasing to the Brazilian Government.	75
		CENT	RAL AMERICA.
		1887.
5	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 698).	Aug. 22	Claim of Italy against Salvador on account of the decision of the Salvadorian courts that the sale of the national printing press by the President to an Italian was illegal. Mr. Hall consulted by the Italian representative. The minister	77 by the Italian representative. The minister of Salvador at Paris directed to settle the claim with the Italian minister there. Salvador asks the United States to mediate, claim, 2,000,000 francs. Telegram from Mr. Delga'o and from Mr. Hall to the Department inclosed.
66	Same to same (No. 709)	Sept. 27	Claim of Italy against Salvador: The reply that without further information the United States Government hesitates to offer mediation com- municated to the Salvadorian minister. Offer	78
			by Salvadorian minister of a sum certain to set- tle claim can not be authorized, as the account has not been adjusted. New Italian minister with instructions expected. The claimant gone to Italy. Telegrams, Mr. Hall to Mr. Delgado 67	Same to same (No. 712)	Sept. 28	and Mr. Deigado to Mr. Hall, inclosed. Boundary dispute between Nicaragua and Costa Rica: The President of Nicaragua telegraphs	79
			the rejection by Nicaragua of the boundary convention of 1887 with Costa Rica, and that arbitration by the President of the United States remains, according to the convention of 68	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall (No. 505).	Oct. 7	1886, between the two States. Boundary dispute between Nicaragua and Costa Rica: The telegram stating that Nicaragua had	79 rejected the boundary convention with Costa Rica received. Already informed by the min- isters of those Governments. Regret expressed in answering the note of the Costa Rican minis-
69	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 716).	Oct. 7	ter. Political: The message of the President of Guate- mala opens with the enunciation of propular sov-	80 ereignty; that legislation for two years past had been against the interests of the people; that it was impossible to save the national credit except by assuming the supreme executive power, which had been approved by the people; that Mexico at first refused, but now all foreign powers recognized the new order of things. The remainder of the message relates to domestic affairs. Perfect accord between the namestic affairs. Perfect accord between the national administration and legislative assembly. Synopsis of the message inclosed.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1887.
70	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard	Oct. 7	Representation of Guatemala by United States representatives: Request from Senor Montufar, that where Guatemala has no representa-	8
	(No. 717.)		representatives: Request from Senor Montu-	1
1.0		and the state	far, that where Guatemala has no representatives, those of the United States shall represent	1 . 7
	병원들에 가는 사람들은 함께 하다.		Guatemala, made under the mistaken impression that United States representatives represent Switzerland as they do the United States sent Switzerland as they do the United States. This explained to Señor Montufar, with a prom-	1
			ise to communicate his request. Translation	1
	G 4 GT -40		of Senor Montufar's note inclosed.
71	Same to same (No. 718)	Oct, 12	Discrimination against United States vessels in	8
- 1		100	favor of the Spanish Central American line: Contract between the Government of Costa Rica
		. '	and the Spanish Central American line of steamships gives a rebate of 5 per cent. on goods imported by that line. Communication with the Costa Rican Covernment deferred because of the report that the rebate would be extended to all lines. This has not been done, and the Spanish line has begun its trips. Copy of the contract and of note to Costa Rican minister	1
			inclosed.	1 -
72	Same to same (No. 729)	Oct. 31	Polit cal: Attempt of Don Vicente Castanedo to	87
	Port grow to Added to a		capture the town of Huehuetenango. His re-	-
		76 8	pulse, capture, and execution, together with four of his officers. Four insurrectionary leaders near the frontier of Salvador captured and Shot The revolutionery attempts to have been	1 made two months ago. The affair at La Libertad a part of the plan. The insurgent organizations	1 a part of the plan. The insurgent organizations
			i broken up. No popular sympathy given them.
			Official and unofficial reports published by the	100
73	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall (No.	Nov. 2	Government of Guatemala inclosed. Discrimination against United States vess ls: De-	00
.	516).	7	nartment has received letters from the Decific	90
			Mail Steam-ship Company with regard to the discrimination in favor of the Spanish Central 1			Mail Steam-ship Company with regard to the discrimination in favor of the Spanish Central American Line, and all correspondence was sub-
	그 그는 그는 그들은 말을 받았다.		mitted to the Secretary of the Treasury with a view to the application of section 2502, Third State Period States United States Revised Statutes. Pending his
- 1			decision a letter was received from the Dacida	100
- 1			Mail Company, saying they were informed
I	그는 그리는 말이 함께다. 그렇게		Mail Company, saying they were informed that Guatemala would soon withdraw her discriminating duties and they believed the
- 1
			other States would do the same. In consequence	1200
- 1			other States would do the same. In consequence the Secretary of the Treasury will take no action at present. This is indicative of the good-will of the United States and their unwill- ingness to retaliate. Hopes the discrimination will seem be removed.
- 1	그 이 교육하는 휴산 시 그 경기 :		good-will of the United States and their unwill.
- 1			ingness to retaliate. Hopes the discrimination
			will soon be removed,	91
74	Same to same (No. 517)	Nov. 5	Discrimination against United States vessels:
1			Copy of Mr. Hall's dispatch No. 718, in regard to the rebate of 5 per cent. granted to the Spanish Central American Line by the Govern-
- 1	1		ment of Costa Rica, sent to the Secretary of the	1 1 1
		402.91	Treasury.
75	Same to same (No. 523)	Dec. 6	Seizure of the William S. Moore: Affidavit of	91
			Henry Nelson, master of the William S. Moore, stating that on November 20, 1887, while at anchor in Rama River, Musquito Reservation, his vessel was forcibly seized by an armed	1
- 1	불해했다.		body of men wearing the Nicaraguan uniform.
			Directs that the complaint be presented to the	1 Nicaraguan Government with a view to an investigation and explanation or reparation. Affidavit inclosed.	l
76	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard	Dec. 8	Contract made by the Guatemalan Government	92
	(No. 749.)		with J. T. Anderson, United States vice-con-	32 sul at Livingston, to build a railroad from the
- 1			capital to the Atlantic: Former contract with
- 1			Martin Roberts. Attention called to Article
- 1			IX, pledging the Government to use its power
- 1			to enforce contracts made with laborers, which probably means imprisonment and other arbitary treatment of laborers. The road un-
- 1			dertaken by the Government in 1883 and aban. doned in 1885, and the contract for the first 60 miles with Messrs. Shea, Cormick & Co. broken, who assigned to creditors. Several adjustments repudiated, and the claim a subject of

	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1887.
76	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 749)—Continued.	Dec. 8	diplomatic correspondence for a year. Death
	743)—Continued.		and destitution among the laborers until re- lieved by the United States steamer Swatara.	1
			Government inclined to keep the present con-	l
77	Same to same (No. 750)	Dec. 8	tract. Article IX of the contract inclosed. Discriminatory duties against United States yes-
	2000 to Same (1(0,100))	1000. 8	sels, in favor of those of Pedro Terres: Con-	93 tract of the Government of Costa Rica, of July 5, 1887, with its citizen, Pedro Terres, granting exemption from light and tonnage dues to the vessels of his line from Port Limon to Europe and a relate of 5 per cent for duties on goods imported in them, subsequently extended to his vessels on the Pacific, seems to be in conflict with Articles IV and V of the treaty of 1851 with the United States, which placed the	l flict with Articles IV and V of the treaty of
	-		1851 with the United States, which placed the vessels of both nations on an equality. Translation of contract inclosed.
78	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall	Dec. 9	Discrimination against United States vessels:	95
	(No. 525.)		The Acting Secretary of the Treasury advises	1 that, in view of the statement of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company that the Central .			American Government are expected shortly to	1
.			withdraw their discrimination against American vessels, it is not deemed expedient to act in the matter, and requests to be advised by 79	Mr. Hell to Mr. D	Dec. 10	Lills Denartment of any further developments
19	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 752.)	Dec. 10	Discrimination against United States vessels: No reply received to note to the minister of Costa	95
	(,		Rica on the 5 per cent. rebate granted the Spanish line. Four of that company's vessels running. The rebate sufficient to exclude American vessels. One of the company's vessels ·		can vessels. One of the company's vessels flies the Costa Rica flag. The contention that i Agranda		it is no violation of treaty obligations to grant rebate to vessels of other nationality not ap- plicable to vessels sailing under Costa Rica's flag. The treaty of 1851 provides for the same	1987
- 1			duties upon importations in United States and Costa Rican vessels. Similar discrimination by the United States justifiable. Letter of the	A Service
	l		the United States justifiable. Letter of the Costa Rican consul at Panama to the minister
- 1	i		for foreign affairs; reply of the United States consul at San José to Mr. Hall and two letters
00	Samuel and St. Tro.		from Mr. Leverich inclosed.
80	Same to same (No. 752)	Dec. 10	Discrimination against United States vessels:	98
		2 .	Discrimination against United States vessels: The Guatemalan Government has not withdrawn the discriminating duty of \(\frac{1}{10} \) of 1 per cent, against American vessels, and probably will not until the contract is abrogated; the Nica- raguan Government has withdrawn its re- bate of 2 per cent.; the Government of Hondu- ras has not withdrawn its rebate of 2 per cent.; the Guatemalan Government imposes a discrim-against American vessels, and probably will not until the contract is abrogated; the Nica-	24 5 6
		- 11-11-11	bate of 2 per cent.; the Government of Honduras has not withdrawn its rebate of 2 per cent.;
- 1
			inating duty of $_{10}^{1}$ of 1 per cent. on regular American lines, and 3 per cent. on all other vessels, UOSTA KICA IMPOSES a 5 per cent duty on all 1
			American vessels on the Pacific coast; Honduras imposes a discriminating duty of 2 per 1	į.		cent on American vessels; Salvador concedes a rebate of 3 per cent. to all regular lines; Nicaragua has no rebate or discriminating duty.
81	Same to same (No. 753)	Dec. 12	Seizure of the Merida and W. S. Moore. The	98
	N. P.		Merida appears under the name of John H. Patterson, of Red Bank, N. J., in the annual report of merchant vessels 1876-77. come to report of merchant vessels, 1876-77; came to Nicaragua in 1876, was sold to Nicaraguans in 1882, sold in 1886 to an American who has since 64 - L. M. 13. (25. 4		displayed the United States flag; will ask the Nicaraguan Government to investigate; expects they will be returned by the commissioner
- 1			now in the reservation, if facts are as stated. Letter of United States consul at San Juan
٠ إ			del Norte, Nicaragua, and from Mr. Allen to 기 다 집중에 가는 맛이 나니	-	United States consular agent at Bluefields, in .
82	Same to same (No. 754)	Dec. 15	closed. Nicaraguan canal: The Costa Rican Government	100
			interdicts surveying on its territory for the	700 purpose of locating the canal without its ex- press permission. Telegram from the President proper Deciliasion. Telegram from the President

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1887.
83	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 755).	Dec. 21	Nicaraguan Canal: Costa Rica grants permission for surveying the canal routes on her territory; foreign minister of Costa Rica protests against	10 the present canal concessions as against the treaty of 1858, Costa Rica not having been consulted; he states, that treaty is inforce till de- clared null by the arbitrator; that the rights
10.4			of Costa Rica to the San Juan River and Bay
14.5			are attacked; that Costa Rican river trade will be injured, its river courses changed, etc.;
	화수를 하는 항상 기술을 가게 다시		that there is no desire to obstruct the canal,
-			which is much desired. These complaints un-unfounded. Raising the level of the San Juan will make navigable Costa Rican streams, before unnavigable; the canal willmake va uable the land near it, now of little value, as is shown by President Soto, ex-President Fernandez, and others buying large tracts. The minister of Nicaragua replies that the treaty of 1858 was 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	Nicaragua replies that the treaty of 1858 was beyond discussion while under arbitration;
			that the action of Costa Rica seemed merely to	1.
			beyond discussion while under arbitration; that the action of Costa Rica seemed merely to obstruct the canal, and was in opposition to previous conduct; that this concession was the same as that of 1880, in regard to which Costa Rica had not been consulted, but had approved. The rejection of the treaty of July has aroused the resentment of Costa Rica. Mr. Esquivel to Mr. Zavala and Mr. Zavala's reply inclosed. Seizure of the Merida and W. S. Moore: The Merida restored; confident the W. S. Moore will be returned also; Mr. Brown to Mr. Hall inclosed.
	THE STATE OF THE S		same as that of 1880, in regard to which Costa
	뭐다. 나를 가게 하는 하게 모르는		Rica had not been consulted, but had approved.
			The rejection of the treaty of July has aroused the resentment of Costs, Rica Mr. Esquivel to Mr. Zavala and Mr. Zavala's reply inclosed.
84	Same to same (No. 756)	Dec. 21	Seizure of the Merida and W. S. Moore: The Merida
•			turned also; Mr. Brown to Mr. Hall inclosed.	1
٥٤	Same to same (No 500)	1888.
85	Same to same (No. 763)	Jan. 6	Claim of Italy against Salvador: Italian Government directed its charge d'affaires to effect a	1 ment directed its chargé d'affaires to effect a settlement with Salvador, and he has requested Mr. Hall's good offices; Department's instruc-
			Mr. Hall's good offices; Department's instruc- tion in the matter received; the Italian chargé 는 보지는 하는데 하나를 모양되었다.		will proceed to Salvador the 18th instant; Mr.
			Hall has offered his good offices to the Salva-	1
	그 - 이번에는 네티를 찾아보다		dorian Government, and, if accepted, he will go there about the same time.
86	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall (No.	Jan. 7	Contract between the Guatemalan Government	1
	533).		and Mr. J. T. Anderson (Article IX), relating to the right of the contractor to import laborers, other than Chinese, and the obligation of that	150 Government to enforce contracts with such laborers made abroad, has been received and examined, but the question is too general for 87	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No.	Jan. 11	instructions. Champerico and Northern Transportation Com-	1
	766).	0	pany: Grant by the Government of Guatemala	1 in 1881 to Messrs. Lyman, Bunting & Fenner, American citizens, of a concession for the construction and operation of a railroad from	1
			Champerico to Retalhuleu, with the stipulation that no other road should be built within 15
	•		leagues on either side; the concession subsequently transferred to the Champerico and	1.2.2
			Northern Transportation Company of Guate- mala, organized under the laws of California;
			the road completed and accepted by the Gov-rata i		ernment in 1884; a concession recently given Messrs. J. S. Bueron & Co. to build a road from Ocos to Quesaltenango, within that distance, in Ocos to Quesaltenango, within that distance, in spite of the Champerico Company's protest; no official correspondence on the subject, except l	l	information to the minister of foreign affairs of land in the state of the state	1	ning of protest at the legation; the question	1 .
	Whater is a second	10000	submitted by the minister to Mr. Rockstroh, who reports the concession an infringement of the Champerico Company's rights: the [11:55점 - 기원 4명 전] 기원		Ucos contract held under advisement for a 15, 1887; does not deem it necessary to send
-	[2011] 회사 중요한 경우 시간 경기		copy; Mr. Robinson to Mr. Hall, November 15,
		1 1 To 10	15, 1887; does not deem it necessary to send copy; Mr. Robinson to Mr. Hall, November 15, 1887, inclosing his protest to the Guatemalan Government; report of Mr. Rockstroh upon Article II of the contract of the Champerico
			Article II of the contract of the Champerico	1
			Railway Company with the Government of Guatemala, and the translation of the Cham-	1 1 1 1 1
	• Company of the Comp	1          *	i Guardinala, and the translation of the Cham-	4 1 1 1

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
88	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall (No. 538).	Jan. 23	Discrimination against United States vessels: Transmits a copy of a letter from the Pacific Steam-ship Company in regard to the continued discrimination of 5 per cent. against American vessels in favor of the Spanish Central American Line; copy of correspondence has been laid before the Secretary of the Treasury; Mr. Lane's letter inclosed.	116
89 2 2 2 2 3 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4	Same to same (No. 540)	Jan. 25	Claim of Julius R. Schultz, under Title LXXII of the United States Revised Statutes, as discoverer of guano deposits on Vivorilla Key, off the coast of Honduras: Mr. J. G. Moale informed that Department's decision is deferred, owing to a question of sovereignty over the island; directs that it be ascertained whether Honduras, or other nation, has dominion over Vivorilla Key; refers to Mr. Hall's No. 41, December 14, 1882; affidavit of Mr. Schultz inclosed.	119
90	Same to same (No. 543)	Jan. 28	claim of Italy against Salvador: Gratification at the settlement of the Italian claim, especially in view of its resulting from Mr. Hall's good offices.	120
91	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 789).	Jan. 30	Claim of Italy against Salvador: Finding the Italian charge d'affaires and Salvadorian Government unable to agree. he suggests the offer of a specific sum, which was done, and $270,000 agreed upon in full payment of the Italian claim; his offer of good offices and telegram accepting it by Salvadorian Government inclosed.	120
92	Same to same (No. 770)	Jan. 30	Discrimination against United States vessels in favor of the Spanish Central American Line still maintained: Trip made by the Costa Rica of that line; information sent Department by telegram.	121
93	Same to same (No. 771)	Feb. 4	Seizure of the Merida: The facts misstated; after carrying the Nicaraguan flag she was sold to N. P. Allen, a United States citizen, who turned her into a liquor shop and gambling house, outside the reservation, raised the United States flag and claimed exterritoriality; General Urtecho's letter to the consular agent at Blueflelds, probably a true account; note from the Nicaraguan minister and accompanying correspondence on the seizure of the two vessels	122
94	Mr. Bayard to Mr Hall (No. 549).	Feb. 6	carrying the United States flag inclosed. Discrimination against United States vessels: Copy of letter of the Secretary of the Treasury, relative to imposition of retaliatory discrimina- tory duties on goods imported by the Spanish Central American Line inclosed.	124
95	Same to same (No. 550)	Feb. 7	The Champerico and Northern Transportation Company, which complains that the Gruatemalan Government has violated the contract with it by the concession to Messrs. Bueron & Co. to build a road from Ocos to Quesaltenango, must present a memorial properly sworn to and supported by affidavits for this Department to act	126
96	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 773).	Feb. 10	in the matter. Discrimination against United States vessels: Decree of Salvadorian Government extending rebate of 3 per cent. to all regular lines of vessels revoked January 28, 1888, as the Marquis de Campo failed to fulfill his agreement; his steamers running, but not with regularity; nothing said of the contracts of May 6, 1886, and June 14, 1887, but supposes they have lapsed; copy	126
97	Same to same (No. 775)	Feb. 16	of decree of January 28, 1888, inclosed. Discrimination against United States vessels: Note received from the minister for foreign affairs of Costa Rica in answer to one written three months before on the subject of the discriminating duty of 5 per cent.: the minister refers to similar contracts with British and German lines on the Atlantic coast; the minister's note and a reply thereto inclosed.	127

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1888.
98	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall (No. 554).	Feb. 27	Union of the Central American Republics: Hopes that there is no ground for apprehension of renewal of enforced union of the Central American Americ	13 can States by Guard which would be injured in the second of		States in the canal which would be injured;
			military movements injurious to peaceful opera- tions; directs that it be ascertained whether 그리고 마양하는 이 경우 이 사이지		there is any ground for such apprehension, and that the sentiments of the United States Gov-보다 하는 사람들은 선생님의	200 West 1	ernment on the subject be conveyed to that of
	N. 35 D 3 OY-	Mon 16	Guatemala. Claim of J. R. Schultz for discovery of guano de-	13
9	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 779).	Mar. 16	posits: Vivorilla Key is within the jurisdiction
	110).		of Honduras; is 33 miles north of Coratzca La-figure and a second		goon; copy of telegrams to this effect to the De-하다 그 아이들은 아이들이 되었다.		partment; telegrams exchanged between Mr. Hall and Señor Zelaya upon the subject inclosed.
.00	Same to same (No. 788)	Mar. 16	Union of Central American Republic: Thinks the	13
	Dame to same (1/6/ /cc/		rumors of Central American consolidation with-	1 out foundation, but will obtain authoritative
01	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall (No.	Mar. 23	statement. Claim of Italy against Salvador: Letter from the	13
O.L	560).		minister of Italy here, giving the thanks of his Government for Mr. Hall's good offices in the set-	1
			Government for Mr. Hall's good offices in the set-	1 .
		1 to 1 to 1	tlement of the Italian claim against Salvador, inclosed.
.02	Same to same (No. 562)	Mar. 27	Boundary dispute between Nicaragua and Costa	1
-	(2.0.002)		Boundary dispute between Nicaragua and Costa Rica: Report of Mr. Rives to the President, and the President's decision as arbitrator between Nicaragua and Costa Rica, concerning the validity of the treaty of limits of 1858 between those Republics; one copy to be filed in the legation, the others at his disposal; originals were given to the ministers of Nicaragua and Costa Rica, and copies sent to consuls at Nicaragua, San José de Costa Rica, and San Juan del Norte; report and decisions as above inclosed.
			the validity of the treaty of limits of 1858 be-	10 tween those Republics; one copy to be filed in the legation, the others at his disposal; originals were given to the ministers of Nicaragua Nicaragua San José de Costa Rica and San Juan del Norte; report and decisions as above 35 00
103	Same to same (No. 563)	Mar. 27	Champerico and Northern Transportation Com-	1
			pany: Mr. Sanford Robinson's memorial re- ceived; résumé of it; directs an unofficial	1
	[- L		presentation of the complaint to be made to the	1
		l	Government of Guatemala, to urge the im-
	나 돼지 않는데 하는데 이 점을 다른	514 8 480	portance of good faith on the part of that Gov- ernment in its contracts; the question can not	1 be disposed of by arbitration: the contract did be disposed of by arbitration; the contract did not deprive United States citizens of the right to resort to their Government; instances in [[] 공항 경기를 되기 있습니다. 그		which this position has been held in other similar cases; memorial of Mr. Robinson in-
		12214434	closed.
104		Mar. 27	Discrimination against United States vessels:	:
	793).		Guatemalan decree, extending the rebate in du- ties to all regular lines previously transmitted;	1
		1	the Spanish lines have had a rebate of 3
	1		per cent., the regular American lines 2 ; the
		1	the Spanish lines have had a rebate of 3 per cent., the legular American lines 27; the Spanish steamers are to be withdrawn from Guatemalan waters, and adecree has removed all
	The state of the s	1	Guatemalan waters, and a decree has removed all rebates; rebates already removed by Salvador; decree of the Government of Guatemala
	Part I		removing rebates inclosed.	i
105	Same to same (No. 798)	Apr. 3
			Guatemalan courts of law: Mr. Concepcion Pinto asks if the peace and friendship part of the
	. †45		treaty of 1849 between Guatemala and the) United States is not in force, and therefore Arti-	. cle XII, which gives the right of free resort to courts of law; Mr. Pinto has brought suit against the International Bank of Guatemala,	. 1 and it has been netitioned that he be made to) give security, which is not done with natives Mr. Pinto's letter inclosed.	; .
100	(Same 4- same (STo 900)	A	Mr. Pinto's letter inclosed.	.
106	Same to same (No. 800)	. Apr. 4	tling the claim approved conditionally upon a rebate of one-third, which belongs to ex-Presi-	- Claim of Italy against Salvador: The protocol set tling the claim approved conditionally upon a rebate of one-third, which belongs to ex-Presi dent Zaldivar; this has been agreed to by the)
		1.500	chargé d'affaires of Italy. Calls attention to expression of appreciation of Mr. Hall's services
		100	copy of note inclosed,	9

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
107	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 801).	1888. Apr. 5	Union of Central American Republics: The min-	14
	, sory.		lent in Nicaragua of an intention on the ·	1180041	Guatemala to force a union of the Central American States groundless; that only lawful means are contemplated, and refers to the treaty of 1887 as having been concluded for the same purpose; "Lawful means" somewhat ambiguous; note requesting disciaimer of any other means than those provided in the treaty of 1887 answered as indefinitely as the former one; no resort to coercive methods likely; Mr. Hall to Mr. Barrutia of March 17, and 29 1888 and re-108	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hosmer	Apr. 27	1888, inclosed.
	(No. 571).	дрг. 21	Discrimination against United States vessels: Letter of the Secretary of the Treasury explain- ing that the withdrawal of the Spanish steamers related exclusively to Guatemala, and Mr. Bay-	14
109	Same to . ame (No. 574)	Apr. 30	related exclusively to Guatemala, and Mr. Bayard's reply thereto inclosed. Right of citizens of the United States to sue in Guatemalan courts of law, Notice was given in	14
			Guatemalan Government and the treaty of 1849, terminated in November, 1874, but that part under which come the right to resort freely to courts of law, to security of conscience, and to Christian burial: directs the Guetamelen Goy was not terminable and was not terminated by 10	Same to same (No. 575)	May 1		15
			Discrimination against United States vessels: Directs that it be ascertained whether the Spanish steamers have been withdrawn and whether the discrimination continues; letter from the Pacific Company to the Secretary of the 11	Mr. Hosmer to Mr. Bayard (No. 809).	May 9	from the Pacific Company to the Secretary of the Treasury and that Secretary's reply inclosed. Champerico and Northern Transportation Company: The attention of the Guatemalan Government called to the alleged violations of its con-	15 portation Company by its contract with J.L. Bueron et al., and the mistake made in the dis-quests that the latter contract he received
	r Algani An aireaga - Turk Vita		reply received; wishes to allow time for any mistake to be corrected; is fully instructed what to do; the note to the Guatemalan minister inclosed.
12	Same to same (No. 817)	June 5	Discrimination against United States wassels in	15
.			favor of the Spanish line of steamers has been revoked by the Costa Rican Government; note of the Guatemalan minister for foreign affairs and deeree of revocation inclosed.
13	Mr. Hosmer to Mr. Bayard (No. 818).	June 9	Right of citizens of the United States to and in	155
			Guatemalan courts of law: Instructions received giving reasons why the clause relating to peace and friendship in the annulled treaty between Guatemala and the United States should be still in force; note to the Guatemalan minister for foreign affairs inclosed.
14	Same to same (No. 819)	June 9	foreign affairs inclosed. Champerico and Northern Transportation Company: The reply of Minister Barrutia to note in behalf of the Champerico and Northern	156
			Transportation Company, and rejoinder thereto, inclosed.
.5	Same to same (No. 823)	June 21	Right of citizens of the United States to sue in Guatemalan courts of law: Minister Barrutia concurs in the views expressed in a note to him	158
	4 1		and friendship in the annulled treaty between Guatemala and the United States: Mr. Barru-
16	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall (No. 596).	July 11	tia's note inclosed. Contracts of German and English steam-ship lines with the Costa Rican Government: Full infor- mation in regard to, desired.	159

H. Ex. 1, pt. 1 ———— IV

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
117	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 835).	July 21	Free port of Livingston and free zone abolished and the custom-house removed to Yzabal. In- terests of foreign residents in the free zone threatened; the Guatemalan Government noti-	159 fied of this and postponement of the enforce- ment of the decree suggested; Department's attention invited to a similar case which occurred in Costa Rica in 1884; decree of 1883 making Livingston a free port, and providing for a free zone, decree of 1888 revoking the above, note of Mr. Hall to Minister Sobral in reference to reply inclosed.
118	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall (No. 608).	Aug. 14	Free port of Livingston and free zone: Mr. Hall's protest against the decree of the Guatemalan Government revoking its decree of 1882, which established the free port of Livingston and its	16 surrounding free zone, approved; the instruc- tions given in 1884 as to a similar case in Costa Rica will be his guide.
119	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 844).	Aug. 14	Free port of Livingston and free zone: The Guatemalan Government has temporarily suspended that part of the decree which abolishes the free zone; the custom-house removed to	165
			Vzabal: Executive order suspending the article	1
120	Same to same (No. 857)	Sept. 4	abolishing the free zone inclosed. Champerico and Northern Transportation Company: Two notes written by Mr. Hosmer while chargé to the Guatemalan minister with regard to the complaint of the Champerico and North- ern Transportation Company, the last unan- swered; many interviews had with Se Sobral, who agreed that the concession to	1000 Messrs. Bueron & Co. should be revoked or and Mr. Hall informed that the concession would be canceled, but it is not; Mr. Bueron merely files a memorial asking modification of contract; Mr. Robinson states that the compary at the time of the Bueron concession was negotiating sale of its property; on 1st instant addressed a note to Mr. Sobral requesting an answer to Mr. Hosmer's of June 9; is shown in the evening draught of a document to be sent to Mr. Bueron to sign, in consonance with the promises made; note of 1st instant to Señon Sobral inclosed.
121	Same to same (No. 863)	Sept. 10	of the treaty between the Central American	1 1
			Republics provides for a congress to meet every two years at the different capitals, first meeting to be September 15, 1888, at that of Costa Rica Salvador has signed the treaty with some amend ments; Nicaragua has taken no action upon it	;
122	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall (No.	Sept. 11	the others have signed unconditionally; names of the delegates. Champerico and Northern Transportation Com- pany: Telegram stating that the Guatemalar	. 1
	017).		Government sustains the Bueron contract, and asking instructions received; the Governmen of the United States does not interfere, excep	t t
			unofficially, in the complaints of its citizen- against a foreign country, unless they are dis criminated against or refused redress in th- courts of that country; this is merely a breach of contract, and does not come under either o those two heads.	s e i f
12	Same to same (No. 621)	Sept. 17	Discrimination against U. S. vessels: In consequence of statements of Mr. Hall in regard to discriminatory duties applied to U. S. vessel	8 in Costa Rican ports, instructions would be given to United States customs officers to imposes discriminating duties on importations in the United States in Costa Rican vessels; Mr Fairchild to Mr. Bayard, September 12, 1888, in	0

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
124	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 868).	1888. Sept. 19	the Guatemalan Government to the prefects of the departments, and judicial, administrative, and military authorities, caused by the affair at Livingston, instructing them as to their con- duct towards foreigners, and to communicate	16
125	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall (No.	Sept. 27	by telegraph with the minister for foreign affairs in cases of difficulty, before taking action, inclosed. Champerico and Northern Transportation Com-	168
	624).		pany: Mr. Hall's diligence in pressing the com- plaint commended, and regret expressed at the delays and evasions of the Guatemalan Govern- ment.
126	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 871).	Sept. 29	Champerico and Northern Transportation Com- pany: The concession to Bueron & Co. to build a railroad from Ocos to Quezaltenango surren- dered to the Guatemalan Government.	169
127	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall (No. 633).	Oct. 26	Champerico and Northern Transportation Com- pany: Gratification at the settlement of the complaint of the company by the surrender of	169
128	Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard (No. 883).	Nov. 7	the concession to Bueron & Co. Champerico and Northern Transportation Com- pany: Mr. Hall's note to Señor Sobral, and the latter's reply confirming the cancellation of the concession to Messs. J. L. Bueron & Co., inclosed.	170
			CHILI.
		1887.
129	Mr. Roberts to Mr. Bayard (No. 162).	Oct. 7	Claims against Chili: The Anglo-Chilian tribunal adjourns sine die, and England accepts $100,000 in liquidation of twenty-one claims, amounting to $6,000,000; the Italian-Chilian tribunal has given no decisions; the French claims stand as before; thinks the French Government will accept Chili's offer; Spain awaiting the dissolution	172
130	Same to same (No. 164)	Oct. 28	of the tribunals to present her claims. Claims against Chili: The decision of the English tribunal in the claim of the Peruvian Guano Company, limited, for damages to the extent of £792,233.13.5 by reason of not being able to carry out its contract on account of war, declaring that tribunal incompetent to try the case, was pub-	172 lished after writing dispatch No. 162 and afters the figures therein given, which should read 131	Same to same (No. 166)	Nov. 11	that twenty claims amounting to $300,291 were settled for $100,000. Cholera has extended to the south of Chili; ex-
	Samo to Samo (110, 100)	HOV. 11	pectation that it will be very destructive to life; possibility of mails by way of Panama being stopped; Chilian vessels not allowed to enter	178
			but that country will probably close her ports; no reason for Colombia's action, on account of 132	Same to same (No. 168)	Nov. 30	the length of the voyage from Chili. Quarantine of Colombian Ecuadorian, and Peruvian ports against Chili; the exclusion unjustifiable; that cholera is likely to be an annual visitor an important consideration; thinks other than sanuary reasons caused the action of	13
			Cal.; may send hereafter by way of Europe; daily deaths from cholera in Santiago twenty, 30 per cent. infected die; disease has not in- creased, but more fatal to well-to-dease. no
33	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Roberts (No. 73).	Dec. 5	excitement or panie. Claims of American citizens against Chili: Complaints received from the citizens of the United States having claims against Chili of delay; has explained to them that the arbitration tribunals agreed upon by other governments having similar claims have proved unsatisfactory, and it has been deemed best to await some other settlement; it seems probable that there will be a compromise of the claims now before the arbi-	180

CHILI—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1887.
133	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Roberts	Dec. 5	to take into consideration the negotiation of a convention for the adjustment of claims of
	(No. 73)—Continued.		United States citizens: Mr. Kopertsauthorized to say that such a measure would be desirable to the United States.
	No. 20 4 4 No. 20	1888. Jan. 6	Claims of France against Chili: Incloses transla-	18
34	Mr. Roberts to Mr. Bayard (No. 171).	Jan. 0	Claims of France against Chili: Incloses translation of protocol for the settlement of French	10
	(110. 111).		claims upon Chill.
135	Mr. Siebert to Mr. Bayard	Feb. 15	Grace-Aranibar contract and Peruvian foreign debt: Correspondence between the Chilian min-	18
	(No. 180).		ister and British representative inclosed.
136	Same to same (No. 181)	Feb. 24	Claims of Italy against Chili: Protocol Detween	18
			Italy and Chili settling all remaining Italian claims for $297,000 approved by the Chilian a taka	Congress and the sum paid to the Italian rep-	F-1 laren i end; Spanish and United States claims alone end; Spanish and United States claims alone unsettled; protocol and decisions of the Italian- Chilian tribunal, and the message of President
	• 1		Balmeceda inclosed.	1
137	Mr. Roberts to Mr. Bayard	Mar. 22	Observations during thin through Chili: Hot hatha	19
_	(No. 184).		huana: the Bio-Bio River: Tomé: Chilian wine; woolen mill; Coronel; Lota; Señora	1,0 of Colina; a haciendo; Concepcion and Talca- huana; the Bio-Bio River; Tomé; Chilian wine; woolen mill; Coronel; Lota; Señora Cousiña; Sebu; Valdivia, its inhabitants, Clistic and bergarias, no merchandise on the Market Brade Brade		climate, and breweries; no merchandise on the steamer from the United States, except burning fluid the return cargo: wages of laborers; farms and farming products; quantity of meat consumed in Santiago.
			consumed in Santiago. Quarantine of Colombian ports against Chili: The	19
138	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Roberts	Apr. 17	Postmaster-General does not think the United	1.
	(No. 84).		States has cause to complain of the lotal excit.	- 1
			sion of mail from Chili, as a sanitary measure against cholera, by the Colombian Government, but this Department thinks the measure ex-but this Department thinks the measure extreme; no answer received from the Post-Office
	그는 이 그는 이 사고 없었다. 회사였다		Department to the request to have dispatches
		May 3	to Chili sent via England. Religious liberty and American claims: Special	19
139	Mr. Roberts to Mr. Bayard (No. 192).	May 5	Religious liberty and American claims: Special session of Congress called to ratify an amend-	1
	(10.102).		ment to the constitution permitting religious liberty, but the cabinet resigned and the	1
	k. 1185회 : 중계 : 121 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	977.7	amendment was abandoned; it is said that the aburch will in consequence reconsectate the [] 전경실 회사는 기가 보다 하는 데 모든		cemeteries and recognize the civil marriage law; interview with President Balmeceda in 시마스 전쟁 등에는 이번 이번 보다.	30	regard to the claims of American citizens against Chili
140	Mr. Siebert to Mr. Bayard	July 17	Delay in the mails: Date of receipt of dispatches	1
	(No. 201).	1	Delay in the mails: Date of receipt of dispatches 84, 85, 86; Nos. 81, 82, and 83 not received and supposed to be snowed up on the mountains;	1
			five mail-baos, containing dispatches Nos. 118	1
		1	and 119 which left Santiago at the breaking out
	1		of the cholera, thrown into the sea at Acojulta, Salvador; the account given in the Diario Ofil cial inclosed.
141	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Roberts	May 26	Claims of Italy against Chili. Is informed by Mr.	1
	(No. 77).		Siebert that a protocol has been signed between Ttaly and Chili, accepting a lump sum for
	1. N. S. C.		Italy and Chili, accepting a lump sum for Italian claims not acted upon, and that the in-	1
		· .	tornational triningly had coased to balst, lowing claims of the United States and Spain un-factory: complaints of delay by United States settled; the decisions of the tribunals unsatisfactory; complaints of delay by United States citizens on the part of the Government in pressions of the tribunals unsatisfactory; complaints of the Government in pressions and the contract of the contract o
		1	ing their claims; the first question is whether 10000 10000 1000 1000 1000 1000 1000 1		it is better to have a commission decide the ceptible of individual settlement, others by ar-	.
	[#스퀘트리아 전도 (B) 70 - 토어		claims, or accept a lump sum; many claims sus- ceptible of individual settlement, others by ar- bitration, others by payment of lump sum hopes Mr. Roberts will agree with the Chilian
	계약하다면서 그렇게 많아 하다.		dovernment upon a plan of settlement as	1
		The second of	speedily as possible.

CHINA.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
-		1887.		ļ
142	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby (No. 227).	Sept. 5	of the reduction of lekin on kerosene from $1.30	199 to $0.50 per case; expression of its gratification at his services in obtaining the reduction be sent to Mr. Seymour.
143	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No. 445).	Sept. 7	Ward claim: Its history reviewed; conclusion reached that there is not sufficient basis for a presentation of it. letters of Mr. Bernsteller	199
144	Same to same (No. 451)	Sept. 9	Burlingame, September 8, 1884, inclosed. Political: The effect of railway schemes of Pus	218
			Burlingame, September 8, 1884, inclosed. Political: The effect of railway schemes of Russia on China's policy. The trans-Uralian railway feasible; China most threatened by it. The trans-Siberian line completed to Tiumen;	210
		12.40	dependent on water communication and on Governmentaid. Railway cannot compete with steamers on the Amoor or with caravan to Ir-
			A long time necessary to develop the mining interests of Siberia. The road needed for military operations of Russia. By it she for military operations of Russia. By it she may become the power on the Pacific. China must build railways to move troops and protect her frontier, one to Monkden, with branches to the Amoor and Possiat to communicate with tect her frontier, one to Monkden, with branches Corea. Not known what influence these ideas have had in the late actions of China in regard to American capitalists. The subject being discussed in newspapers. Distance from St. discussed in newspapers. Distance from St.
			Petersburg to Tiumen, 1,816 miles; from Tiumen to Vladivostock, 4,796 miles, with divergences, 7,226 miles.
145	Same to same (No. 464)	Sept. 29	Illubility to American missionaries. Third in-	219 to the American missionaries roid to Pritich consular agent at Chung King, and placed in 140	W- P		consular agent at Chung King, and placed in the Hong-Kong and Shanghai Bank at Hankow to the credit of Dr. Clews.
146	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby (Telegram).	Oct. 6		220
			Chinese Government at the obstructions put gret of the United States to be expressed to the Chinese Government at the obstructions put by Chinese officials in the way of Corea's dip- lomatic representation, as stipulated for by treaty.
147	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard	Oct. 10	Missionary troubles: Attempt of Prochutorian	220
	(No. 478).		missionaries to re-establish their mission post at Kwai Ping, from which they were expelled in 1836. Pay A. A. Fulton biggitted	420
		1.0	Ulail, and two conferen driven sweet by a meh but not injured. Missiles thrown at the boat and abusive language used. Received kindly by some. Boat wrecked and robbed on the way 보기가 제 기가 송화 보호되었		Dack. Consul will bresent claim for damages i missionaries to be condemed. Has continuously announced that the right of permanent residence is not secured by treaty to missionaries, but that if other missionaries was onaries, but that if other missionaries were al-가는 사람들이 되었다. 그 사람들이 가능하다 (Heller) 설명 기계		lowed to locate in the interior, the right would be demanded for Americans and redress de aries, but that if other missionaries were allowed to locate in the interior, the right would be demanded for Americans, and redress demanded for injuries if residence was tolerated. Good accomplished by mission work.
	· · ·		law can not be overridden on that account or
148	Same to same (No. 480)	Oct. 11	Siberian railroad: Eleven Russian angineers and rived at Hong-Kong to survey the country from Vladivostock to Boussé on the Oussouri for the Sibarian Pailwar Mb On the Oussouri for	221
			the Siberian Railway. The Oussouri a tributary the Siberian Railway. The Oussouri a tributary of the Amoor. The design to extend the road to Lake Baikal, and thence to the Ural Mountains to connect with the Erroread
		-
			Contract to transport materials and staff and 149	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby	Oct. 13	to have been made. Great advantage will result to Vladivostock. Visit of Chinese officials: Information given to	00-
	(No. 242).		one decided to the treasure of the expected	221
.		-	arrival of the two Chinese officials, so that they may be admitted without hinderance. The De!		}	partment will render them what service it can.

CHINA—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1887.
L50	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No. 482).	Oct. 13	Suzerainty of China over surrounding countries a difficult question, as with Corea, Tonquin, Upper Burmah, and Thibet, and on account of	22
	(110.402).		Upper Burmah and Thibet and on account of it China shuts out trade. The suzerainty
	[[[[]] [[] [[] [] [] [] [] [] [] [] [] [over Upper Burmah dormant until occupation	1 of that country by England and then used to defeat Mr. Macauley's mission to open Thibet to 날아나 강물이 하는데 이 이 이 이다.		trade, to secure the Hong-Kong opium conven- tion, and the abandonment of Port Hamilton
4.4			by Great Britain. Perpetuated her claim by	- [[[[[[[[[[[[[[[[[[[[[obtaining a pledge that the decennial missions from Mandalay to Peking should continue.	150
			Corea granted a remission of contribution for the coming year because of poverty and from good-will. List of countries claimed as dependent states by China. Letter and pres-	1 dependent states by China. Letter and presents sent by the King of Nepaul to the Emperor of China, who claims authority over Nepaul. The claim in regard to Nepaul and other British possessions received by them with distrust, and serious complications feared.	1
			peror of China, who claims authority over	1 Nepaul. The claim in regard to Nepaul and with distrust and serious complications feared.	1 in the second of		relative to Chinese opposition to the Corean mission to the United States. Corea admits its Name of the second	mission to the United States. Corea admits its vassalage. China can not prohibit sending min- isters after allowing the treaties to be made 51	Same to same (No. 496)	Oct. 26	isters after allowing the treaties to be made. Yellow River overflow: The Yellow River has burst its banks. Particulars not received, but	22 burst its banks. Particulars not received, but	- great devastation feared. A decree appropriating 400 000 tools and all the tribute appropriating 400 000 tools and all the tribute appropriations.
			ing 400,000 taels and all the tribute grain sent by the Grand Canal from Kiang Sü to aid the sufferers indicative of the magnitude of the ca-KW TARREST	ferers indicative of the magnitude of the ca- lamity. A subprefect, major, lieutenant, and second sergeant degraded and punished for not	1 - taking precautions to repair the banks of the river, and the intendant at the capital of Hoonan to be handed over to the board for
	A 2.1		punishment.	1
52	Same to same (No. 500)	Oct. 27	Obstruction of navigation near Canton: The ap-	22
			pointment of a higher officer to attend to com- merce at Whampoa desirable, but the right of claim to obstruct the navigation in time of peace not admissible. Correspondence with 53	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby	Nov. 4	the Yamen on the subject inclosed.	١.
00	(No. 247).	1404. 4	Corean foreign mission: The essential thing in regard to Corea's foreign mission and China's	22 claim of sovereignty over that country is to fix 많은 그들의 사람이 하나는 이렇게 하는 것이		the responsibility for the execution of treaty stipulation. Not material if the act be obligatory or permissive if done in pursuance of treaty compact. Reciprocal sending of consular and diplomatic officers provided for by	1
-			Corean treaty with the United States. This a sovereign act and resulted from China's dis-
	*		sovereign act and resulted from China's dis-	1 claiming responsibility for Corea's acts towards foreigners. China seems now to claim this responsibility and the right to permit or refuse to let Corea have diplomatic relations. If the	1 treaties can not be executed without China's permission, they can not be violated without her responsibility. This instruction to the end
		2.7	that China's position may be ascertained. No
		1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	admission to be made of claim of control, with-	1
54	Same to same (No. 248)	Nov. 7	out responsibility, over Corea. Ward claim: Dispatch No. 445, being a review
-	Same to baine (1(0: 220):::::	1101.	of the Ward claim against China, received and	25
	ne n		approved.
55	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard	Nov. 11	Monetary system of China suitable to the people:
	(No. 509).		Mexican dollars or taels used; the tael equals no mint: the copper "chien" or "cash" and	1 lump silver ordinary money; division of silver	100
	[1] : 불편, 발범하고 있는 경기		Mexican dollars or taels used; the tael equals $1.40, Mexican; value of silver varies daily; no mint; the copper "chien" or "cash" and lump silver ordinary money; division of silver coins by weight; weight and value of cash; poverty of people requires small coin; "cash" exchanged for silver for distant payments; value of the tael; composition of the cash; equilibrium of moneys preserved, depreciation of	18
	[- 현기를 보고 있는 것이다. 사람이 되었다. 그 사람이 되었다. 그 사람이 되었다.		poverty of people requires small coin; "cash" value of the tael: composition of the cash again librium of moneys preserved: depreciation of librium of moneys preserved; depreciation of silver a serious evil; interest laws date from 그는 연극한 화고하다	4	1250 A. D.; rate of interest; silver cast in lumps of 10 and 50 taels, .95 pure; gold in bars of 10	100
		 A service of the service 	TO THE ARTOUR THE SERVICE OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE	1

CHINA-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1887.
155	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard	Nov. 11	from earliest antiquity, but stopped in 1455; a
	(No. 509)—Continued.		private bank in each province which receives taxes for the Government; banks of emission in Peking; not in favor with the Government;	İ
]	banks of deposit; discount necessary and pop-	1
			ular; their functions, etc.; interest at Peking
			ular; their functions, etc.; interest at Peking 12 per cent.; money brought from the interior	1
	4.4		in hollow logs; desire of coinage and a national bank among foreigners, but great rivalry among nationalities on the subject; many failures; want of confidence in Government officials;
	•		schemes to form a bank in which leading men in all commercial countries will be stockholders; not permissible by Chinese policy; the American bank system would succeed; needed by the Government: a great opportunity for a man the Government; a great opportunity for a man of reputation and ability; the legation will use 56	Same to same (No. 514)	M 00	its personal innuence to assist the undertaking.
.00	Same to same (No. 514)	Nov. 22	Yellow River overflow: Loss of life and prop-	23
			erty, etc.; the methods of raising revenue for repairing the banks proposed by the board of a di Jaraha	revenue, inclosed.
57	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby	Dec. 3	Missionary troubles at Kwai Ping: Approves	23
	(No. 263).		views in regard to mob violence against mission-
58	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard	Dec. 9	aries at Kwai Ping.	23
	(No. 521).	200. 0	Corean mission: The King of Corea acknowledges his vassalage in a memorial to the Emperor of	20
			China, requesting permission to send envoys
Ã.			China, requesting permission to send envoys abroad; Vattel has nothing applicable to the re- lation of the two countries; assumes that the lation of the two countries; assumes that the United States considers Corea an independent state; the question of expediency and possible	1 1 relations of Corea with Russia, etc., to be con-
3			sidered; the memorial of the King of Corea	12.34
59	Same to same (No. 529)	Dec. 20	inclosed.	23
	20000 00 20000 (1(0:020):::::	200. 20	Missionary troubles at Chi Nan Fu: Communication to the Tsung-li Yamên in regard to the	40 missionary troubles at Chi Nan Fu: the Pres-missionary troubles at Chi Nan Fu; the Pres- byterian missionaries claimed that they had peen promised a perpetual lease of land; the records showed they had not; a perpetual lease 4		obtained which the officials refused to confirm; possession taken by Mr. Reid for the mission of the premises; the treaty of 1858 requires that legal fees shall be paid, and confines renting to treaty ports; Mr. Reid ejected and injured by a mob; claims damages; endeavor to obtain for him another piece of land; the missionaries' 에 그 왕강왕왕화왕고 보이다		acts against the law; they claim under the French and English treaties the right to lease 등이 되면 하는 생태를 하는 생태		or buy land anywhere in China; the Department has not given its views on the right of missionaries in the interior of China; suggests this be done in an instruction as a guide to the legation; Americans have built and rented in the interior, while the treaty only gives the
- 1			right in open ports; what protection is to be given them? they are informed that the lega- tion does not construe the treaty to give rights
- 1			in the interior, but that where they have ef-
- 1			fected lodgment with the consent of the authorities they will be protected against subsequent a el Neu el		wrongs; this the rationale of the Chung King case; submits the question to the Department; communication to the Tsung-li Yamên inclosed.
0	Same to same (No. 531)	Dec. 26	Civil service in China: By the Chinese system of i	24 competitive examinations there are three grades; examinations for the first are held in grades; examinations for the first are held in the chief city of each district; for the second in the provincial capitals; for the third at Peking;
		94 g (64)	the successful students treated with great
-		1.52.51	honor; 2,000,000 attempt the first examination;
1	이 집 하겠다고요. 이지, 사람님		2 per cent. pass; these are eligible for the sec-
	그 집 전환했다고 하고 상태가		ond, and the successful again for the third,
		1	where those who pass are given offices; a fourth examination is necessary to become a member
1			of the Hanlin College, and from its members one is selected by competition who is the model scholar of the empire; no limit of age to appli-소. 항 교통 등 하게 되어 하다니다.		cants; the system creates a governmental class;
			the examination does not test the business ca-

CHINA—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1887.
160	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard	Dec. 26	pacity of the applicant, but is purely literary,
	(No. 531)—Continued.		and he becomes one of the literati, who oppose as a class foreign innovations; arguments in its	1 favor; it opens a road to the ambitious, is a 3.1			counterpoise to the power of an absolute monarch, and provides an educated gentry bound 17.5	교생 가장 하는 경험 등에 되는 것이 되었다.		to support the existing order; these reasons not	1
	[이번 왕도 기업 그 경기 교통하다면		needed in western countries; comparison be-and the system of China: the United States
		2.5	tween civil-service reform in the United States and the system of China; the United States civil service tests the capacity of an applicant
		A Table	for a particular office; Chinese system has the same general literary examination for all offices,	100 whether special knowledge be needed or not; the sciences introduced into their curriculum.
1.61	Same to same (No. 533)	Dec. 28	Missionary troubles at Chi Nan Fu: The reply	2 of the Yamen to a note on the subject stating	- that instructions had been given to the Shan-
- 1			tung authorities to investigate the missionary troubles, inclosed.	ĺ
		1888.	troubles, inclosed.
162	Same to same (No. 539)	Jan. 7	Opium traffic and Chinese treaties: Have sent to	24
			consuls a new circular on the opium traffic; can not procure a copy of "Treaties between the Empire of China and foreign powers, together	"
- 1		Maria de la constante de la constante de la constante de la constante de la constante de la constante de la co	not procure a copy of "Treaties between the Empire of China and foreign powers, together with regulations for the conduct of trade, etc., etc.;" the customs said to be preparing a book 그렇게 됐다고 그릇을 다 먹어요?		of all treaties, which will send the Department.
163	Same to same (No. 541)	Jan. 10	of all treaties, which will send the Department. Chinese coolies for Panama Canal: The agent of	24
- 1	마음 이 없이 있었다. 그리고		the Panama Canal Company refused permission by the Chinese Government to ship coolies to work on the Panama Canal; the Tsung-li Yamen
- 1			work on the Panama Canal; the Tsung-li Yamen has not answered the French minister on the subject; coolies being shipped from French ter-	1
- 1			ritory in Tongking, thus evading the necessity
			ritory in Tongking, thus evading the necessity of permission of the Chinese Government.
164	Same to same (No. 545)	Jan. 12	Bonded warehouses: The Shanghai General	24
			Chamber of Commerce has requested the inter-
- 1			vention of the diplomatic corps in regard to bonded warehouses; the chamber of commerce	14
- 1			resolved that any plan which does not allow the
.			resolved that any plan which does not allow the bonding of all wharves and warehouses is against public policy and an interference with 1	그 그 그래, 말이 그렇게 잘 안 하다.		against public policy and an interference with trade, and requested the ministers to induce 하시다. 학생들은 학생으로 회사하다		the Government to rescind its edict designating the China Merchant Navigation Company's warehouses as the sole bonded warehouses; the warehouses as the sole bonded warehouses; the 1			ministers have refused, with the promise to
1			bring the matter before the Chinese Govern-
.65	Same to same (No. 548)	Jan. 17	ment should general commerce require it. Bonded warehouses: Provisional regulations for	24
100	Dame to Same (110.040)	oan. 17	the bonding of goods, published by the Chinese	49
+	•		the bonding of goods, published by the Chinese maritime customs, inclosed.
66	Same to same (No 551)	Jan. 21	Corean foreign mission: The King of Corea writes	24 to the viceroy of China that he will recall his
- 1		200 et - 6	envoys as soon as they have offered congratula- tions, and leave charges d'affaires in their
-	그리고 하는 그는 그릇이를 살았다고요!		places and that they have been instructed to show greatest respect to the Chinese minister;
		. * .	show greatest respect to the Chinese minister; recites the imperial decree laying down subordinate position of Corea and consequent du ordinate position of Corea and consequent du-
		1	ties, assuring the viceroy they will be observed; translation of the letter inclosed.
67	Same to same (No. 553)	Jan. 26	Obstruction to navigation near Canton: Copy of	25
·	Cumo to Sumo (1,0,00)	oun. 20	communication to the Yamen on the subject of obstruction in the Canton River inclosed.	_
68	Same to same (No. 554)	Jan. 26	Drawbacks: The former rule that drawbacks	25
- 1			could be cashed or tendered for duties canceled because injurious to customs revenues; shippers
i	[백양시] : 교회 [1] - 교기 [1]		now compelled to insure the drawback. Loss
- 1			on hides in 1886, 1,700 taels. Serious effort will
- 1	도 발문하다고 있다면서 공연 모든 보다!		be made by the minister to restore the former
- 1			be made by the minister to restore the former rule. Communication to the Yamen on drawback certificates on the Yangtze inclosed.
169	Same to same (No. 555)	Jan. 26	Camphor monopoly in Formosa: Copy of com-	25 munication to the Yamen relating to the cam- phor monopoly in Formosa inclosed.

CHINA-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
170	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No. 556).	Jan. 26	Rights of foreigners and taxation of foreign goods in China: The ministerial body indebted to the dean of the diplomatic corps for his statement of the rights of foreigners and taxation on	254
*			of the rights of foreigners and taxation on foreign goods in China. These subjects presented before by Sir John Walsham, Mr. Von Brandt, and Mr. Denby, but this the first concerted action by the ministers, and favorable results are corrected.
			first concerted action by the ministers, and favorable results are expected. Communica- tion to the foreign office on lekin in Taiwan fu inclosed.
171	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby (No. 285).	Feb. 9	Corean foreign mission: The Department's con-	255 upon the letter published in a Chinese news- paper from the King of Corea to the Emperor of China, asking permission to send ministers to foreign countries; not necessary to pursue the question of the relativistic for the question of the relation of the two countries unless called upon to do so by an actual case. Notice of the reception of the Corean ministrana according to the corean ministrana according to the corean ministrana according to the corean ministrana according to the corean according to the core according t minister on an equal footing with other ministers previously sent. The claim of Chinagnever definitely stated. Translation of a letteragent by the King of Corea to the President of the United States, seserting a contraind conductor.
			upon China, but domestic and diplomatic inde- pendence. This the only official statement re- ceived in the matter. Admiral Shufeldt reports that the treaty was agreed to without any po-that the treaty was agreed to without any po- litical consideration and only on the promise that he would deliver the King's letter to the President. The United States merely require observance of treaty obligations and it is observance of treaty obligations, and it is not observance of treaty obligations, and it is not advisable to pursue the subject of the rela- tions between China and Corea further than is necessary for this. Protection to American citizens and commerce sought, not political interest.
172	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No. 567).	Feb. 9	Missionaries in China: Statistics of Protestant	257
173	Same to same (No. 569)	Feb. 13	Rendition of fugitives from justice: A proclamation on the rendition of fugitives from justice issued by the four high provincial authorities of Kung Tung, occasioned probably by the arrest at the Chinese fown year. Here World	258
			thorities of Kung Tung, occasioned probably by the arrest at the Chinese town near Hong Kong the arrest at the Chinese town near Hong-Kong of a member of the Triad Society. The man started to British Kowloonin a boat. The boat went to the Chinese town, the man jumped over-Duard, was captured and executed No com. 1 plicity of the boat's managers was shown, and no international law violated by the seizure. The proclamation is issued to guard against 174	Same to same (No. 572)	Feb. 15	The proclamation is issued to guard against similar occurrences. Copy inclosed. Lekin in Formosa: The yamen defends the lekin on goods bought at a treaty port in Formosa, for expert only the standard port in Formosa,	259
		Pylinia Pylinia	for export, on the ground that the foreign mer- chants failed to take out transit and so should pay lekin. Foreign ministers claim that lekin should be collected in the interior. Reply of the Years includes
175	Same to same (No. 574)	Feb. 20		260
			Diplomatic etiquette: Unpleasant correspondence on the subject of New Year's calls. Final agreement that the prince and ministers send cards to the foreign ministers and their secretaries. The question of interpreters waived.	200 information as to diplomatic etiquette in Wash.
176	Same to same (No. 577)	Feb. 21	ington requested. Camphor monopoly in Formosa: The reply of the yamen to his communication in regard to the Formosa camphor monopoly evasive and irresponsive. It states that foreign merchants may buy camphor pear the sea class replaced that the	262
		#J.114	Government control is only in the disturbed districts, while the proclamation made the trade in all the island a monopoly. The subject important as being an extension of the subject important as being an extension of the subject important as being an extension of the subject important as being an extension of the subject important as being an extension of the subject important as the subject i compel the Imperial Government to force the viceroys to comply with treaty stipulations. The Yamên's reply inclosed.

CHINA—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
177	Mr. Deals de R. D. 1	1888.
111	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No. 578).	Feb. 24	Slavery in China: Original slaves, first, felons, second, prisoners of war; third, poor who sought protection of the rich. Slaves treated with	26 protestion of the rich. Slaves treated with kindness; not numerous; prices of children; small number of slaves due to the competitive examination system and the patriarchal customs; law in respect to slaves; servitude in the mines for debt. Selling children during
178	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby (No. 292).	Mar. 6	Bonded warehouses: Well to watch the experi-	26
	(200, 202).		ment of the bonded warehouse system and if successful to press for its extension. The Ya- mén should be notified that the United States does not waive objection to any monopoly
179	Mr. Deuby to Mr. Bayard (No. 585).	Mar. 7	which may restrict commerce at free ports. Smuggling of fire-arms: Notice of the legation called by the foreign office to the smuggling of fire-arms by sailors at New Chwang; said to have been carried on for a long time and the arms sold to outlaws in the Eastern Manchu- rian provinces. Chinese Government suggests that the guilty sailors he sent to their own conn-	268
		Šijaru. L	tries and forbidden to come again on the Chinese coast. Has promised to co-operate in suppressing the smuggling and has instructed the consuls to that effect. Does not anticipate
180	Mr. Rayard to Mr. Denby (No. 293).	Mar. 7	any complaint against American sailors. Missionary troubles: Views in regard to missionary troubles at Chinan fu and elsewhere approved: A merican bare at the light of the sail of the sa	266 proved; Americans have not an unlimited right to buy or lease property in the interor of China and should be so told, but if they do so by per- mission they are to be protected. Necessary that the restricted limits allowed foreigners be
-			that the restricted limits allowed foreigners be extended, and where this is done by permission of local authorities, it is implied that they have assumed protection overforeign residents.
181	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No. 586).	Mar. 10	of the Vicercy of the two Kuangs and governor of Canton praying the prohibition of the importation of kerosene, stating that he put an excessive lekin on kerosene to diminish its importation of many parts the United States	266 evident; injuries done by kerosene said to be greater than those done by opium; attempt to show by treaty of 1881 that kerosene may be excluded. Ignorance displayed in the memorial; mistaken impression that a treaty with the United States will exclude kerosene; opium business not affected by probibition of United business not affected by prohibition on United States citizens; United States citizens not largely engaged in importation of kerosene, but Chinese, Germans, and Englishmen; kerosene comes from Batoum; does not intend to bring the memorial before the Yamén, as does not think notice will be taken of it; will discuss this and other subjects with the Viceroy in the spring; the memorial inclosed.
182	Same to same (No.590)	Mar. 7	Summer palace of the Emperor: The custom of the Chinese Emperors to spend the summer at their palace near Peking, which was destroyed by Lord Elgin. The palaces and grounds re- stored, and the court to spend the summer	268 stored, and the court to spend the summer
183	Same to same (No. 591)	Mar. 19	Drawbacks: The Tsung-li-Yamén has agreed to relieve the foreigners from drawbacks: extra	269
184	Same to same (No. 592)	Mar. 19	charges to be made not determined. Camphor monopoly in Formosa: The Tsung-li-Yamén desires further time and information before coming to a final determination in regard to the Formosa camphor monopoly; un-	269 force
185	Same to same (No. 593)	Mar. 19	Lekin on property of foreigners: The Yamén has agreed to instruct the governor of Formosa to cease the imposition of lekin on native produce, the property of foreigners, while in any free port or in transit from a free port to a port of shipment.	270

CHINA-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
-		1888.
186	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No.594).	Mar. 19	Obstruction to navigation at Canton: The Chinese Government has refused to order the removal of the obstructions in Pearl River, near Canton; foreign ministers do not accept the de-	270
187	Same to same (No. 595)	Mar. 19	cision as final. Land tenure of foreigners in China: The right to acquire land in the interior of China not given	270 by treaties to foreigners; its acquisition fre- quently permitted; instance of Peking; the Imperial Government leaves the question of residence of foreigners to the local authori- ties and people; residence being permitted, they have a right to protection; claim that rights of Americans are enlarged by custom and grants to other nations under the favored-nation clause; Americans lawfully residing in the interior to be assisted by minister and con- suls in obtaining land for business purposes; residence and business facilities to be acquired [: [[[[[[[[[[[[[[[[[[by individual effort; the Government will pro- tect person; copy of communication to the treasurer of the Central China Mission on land
	[발생하다 18] [[[[[[[[[[[[[[[[[[treasurer of the Central China Mission on land
100	Come to some (N- con)	Mar. 0-	tenure in China as affecting foreigners, inclosed.
188	Same to same (No. 600)	Mar. 21	Bonding of kerosene: Letter to one of the managers of the Pooting Wharf & Go-down Co.,	274 as explanatory of the action of the legation touching the bonding of kerosene in China, in-
189	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby (No. 299).	Mar. 22	closed. Kerosene: Dispatch from United States consulat Canton, covering a memorial to the Imperial	275
			Government of China from the Viceroy of the two Kuangs upon the loss of life from kerosene oil, and asking that its importation be forbidden,	100 and a letter from J. H. Flagg, representing large petroleum interests in the country, inclosed.
190	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No. 602).	Mar. 27	Drawbacks: The Yamén proposes that after July 1, 1888, drawback certificates will be re- ceived in payment of all kind of duties at the	278 custom-house where issued; this not to apply to outstanding drawbacks; drawbacks at present only receivable for coastwise duties; present only receivable for coastwise duties;
	1		their value greatly increased; would have preferred that bond to export these goods in one year should have been exacted instead of the drawback system; thinks foreign ministers and merchants will accede to the proposi- tion. Communication from the Yamen to Mr.
191	Same to same (No. 603)	Mar. 27	Denby, March 25, 1888, on drawbacks, inclosed.	0- 0
191	Same to same (No. 003)	Mar. 21	Gold mines: Memorial of the Tsung-li-Yamên and the boards of revenue and civil officer, reporting favorably on a memorial of Li Hung Chang for	279
	경우 환경 방향 사람이 되었다.		developing the gold mines near the Amur river.
			showing the protection to the frontier the por- ulation drawn there would be; six of the sixteen plans for developing the mines proposed by Li
	, 1		Hung Chang: First, formation of a joint stock
- 1			company; second, engagement of competent mining engineers; third, constructing steam-
ı			ers to havigate the Amur: fourth, nurchase i of mining machinery; fifth, refugees to be allowed to return to work in the mines; sixth, road, etc., from Tsitsihar to Moho to be built by soldiers; net profits to be divided, 30 per i	by soldiers; net profits to be divided, 30 per cent. to support soldiers, 20 per cent. to workmen, and 50 per cent to shareholders; possi-	i.
			bility of not finding purchasers for the stock of the company and previous ill-success of com- panies managed by the official class: the me-
192	Same to same (No. 604)	Mar. 28	morial inclosed. Chinese mint anticipated: Want of uniformity	283
. 1	그 : 하다셔요? 이 이 하시네요?		in size and value of coins conservation and	200
		and ex-	fear of the people prevent a remedy; proposi- tion to issue "standard cash" by the Government on payment of salaries in order to pro-이용 : 사무슨 회사회	7.	duce uniformity between the Pekin and the
- 1		8 g	provincial cash resulted in the depreciation in value of the Pekin cash from 10 to 21 stand-
- 1		(1.4°) (1.4°)	ard cash, and disturbance of money values in

CHINA—Continued.

No.	From and ro whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
	X 2 X	1888.
192	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No. 604)—Continued.	Mar. 28	Peking, owing to the report that the Pekin cash would be withdrawn; a decree, stating that the Pekin cash will not be withdrawn,
193	Same to same (No. 605)	Mar. 28	inclosed. Decree of the Emperor in regard to the future residences of the dowager Empress intended to quiet the popular mind which has grown rest-	284
94	Same to same (No. 606)	Mar. 29	less under recent expenditures, inclosed. Earthquake in the province of Yunnan on the 14th and 15th of January last: Houses destroyed and over four thousand, neonle killed and in-	288
			jured; much destitution; provision made by the Emperor and Viceroy for aiding those in need.	200
195	Same to same (No. 607)	Mar. 31	Internal taxes on imported goods: Instructed to protest against the levying of enormous internal taxes on imported goods in China, on the ground that such taxation is prohibitory of importation of goods, admitted by treaty; interpretation of treaties shall be favorable; importation by foreigners placed by treaty on the same footing as importations by Chinese;	286
			goods not taxed while in foreign hands, but in the hands of Chinese, subjected to special du- ties, not levied on native produce; claim that China can tax her own citizens erroneous;
		Nigora valig	the tax will make importation unprofitable, whether levied on foreign or native merchants; tax can be resisted; the true principle is that there should be no discrimination against im-
			there should be no discrimination against imported goods, else foreign trade can be annihilated; these considerations may become important if Chang Chi-tung continues his policy towards keposene; will see Chang Chi-tung in
96	M. D	A	Canton	28
.50	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No. 617).	Apr. 5	Annual visit of the Emperor to the temple of heaven; the Emperor worships for all the gods; no idols in the temple; Shangti the supreme ruler, who is conceived of as imperceptible to the senses; the temple, situated in the Chinese city, is a single tower with blue tiles; a bullock sacrificed once a year on a marble altar without the building; notices of all ceremonials in which the Emperor takes part sent to foreign ministers, with the request that none of their countrymen appear on the streets to be traversed; Chinese equally ex- cluded, and ministers make no objection to the
.97	Same to same (No. 618)	Apr. 7	request. Audience with the Emperor again agitated by foreign ministers; report that the Emperor will assume sole rule the 20th proxime; this considered a good time to make the demand; some think if it is refused that Chinese ministers in foreign countries should be refused audiences; does not ask that this be done at Washington; in favor of making the demand; thinks it may be refused until the Emperor's marriage.	29
98	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby (No. 304).	Apr. 10	Chinese for Panama Canal: No Chinese carried in French Government transport from China or Tonking to Panama; Mr. Anderson's No. 369 to the Department inclosed.	29
99	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No. 621).	Apr. 13	Missionary troubles at Chi-Nan Fu: Account of the affair; Mr. Reid's money returned and per- mission given to obtain a house elsewhere; in- structions requested; note of the Yamén and	2
200	Same to same (No. 628)	Apr. 17	Mr. Denby's reply inclosed. Smuggling of fire-arms: United States vice-consul at New Chwang informed that there is no	2 sul at New Chwang informed that there is no law to punish Americans who smuggle fire-arms and contraband of war into China, except the opium statute, and confiscation the only penalty, that the smuggler might be induced to leave the country; Chinaman, engaged on an American ship, caught smuggling on shore should be left to native authorities; attempted arrest on board ship a different case, and should

CHINA—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
201	Mr. Bayard to M. Denby	Apr. 23	Diplomatic etiquette: The precedence in the	296
	(No. 307).		diplomatic list of Chinese secretaries over trans- lators and attachés follows the list given by that legation: translators and secretaries that legation; translators and secretaries treated alike; the minister presents whom he pleases to the President New Year; in calls on cabinet officers the minister is usually attended by one on both translators and their cond-are pleases to the President New Year; in calls on cabinet officers the minister is usually attended by one or both translators, and their cards are returned as the secretaries'; regrets these questions should interrupt pleasant relations.
202	Same to same (No. 308)	Apr. 25	tions should interrupt pleasant relations. Smuggling of fire-arms, etc.: Approves action in promising the aid of the United States lega-	297
			promising the aid of the United States lega-	1
			tion to the Chinese Government in preventing smuggling by Americans.
203	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard	Apr. 27	Lekin in Formosa: The Vamên insists upon col.	297
	(No. 633).		lecting lekin in Formosa between Taiwaniu	20.
			1 9nd Amning, this construction of treatice not to be submitted to; Taiwanfu the treaty port,	4.52
			from Taiwanfu, and taxes on goods passing be-	Service 1
	[- ^ 교회 회사육 중하 [다 명하]]		to be submitted to; Taiwanfu the treaty port, but ships can only get to Auping, 3 miles from Taiwanfu, and taxes on goods passing between the two places would make Taiwanfu no longer a treaty port. The sight of Chira to
	그 그 나타병에 가지나지다		longer a treaty port; the right of China to levy lekin conceded, but it is denied in a free
	[- 기 - 기 - 기 - 기기 - 기 - 기 - 기 - 기		levy lekin conceded, but it is denied in a free port, or on goods in transit from a free port to point of shipment, else China could tax goods between Shanghai and Woosing, Canton and Whence of the China could tax goods between Shanghai and Woosing, Canton and Whence of the China could be shipment to the China could be shipment to the China could be shipment.	1
				l
			elsewhere no argument; goods should not be taxed after being bought by foreign merchant in Taiwanfu; note sent by the foreign minis-in Taiwanfu: note sent by the foreign minis-	i ters to the ramen, stating that consul had been 12.5			instructed to protest against the collection and that reclamations will be made; will report after visit to Formosa; two communications on the subject from the foreign ministers to the Yamen of April 28 inclosed.
204	Same to same (No. 634)	Apr. 27	Camphor monopoly in Formosa: The Yamen repudiates the interpretation put by the foreign	300
		-	pudlates the interpretation put by the foreign ministers upon the agreement in regard to the camphor monopoly and maintains the monoply;	1. 1. 1.
			the ministers insist that the rules adopted in 1869 in regard to the camphor trade are in the	1 10 10 1869 in regard to the camphor trade are in the nature of an agreement, and are still in force. They have informed the Yamen that consuls are instructed to claim compensation for all ~~=			are instructed to claim compensation for all violations of them.
205	Same to same (No. 639)	May 5	Diplomatic etiquette: The question of official	300
		100	etiquette satisfactorily settled. Proposition of
206	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby	May 9	the Tsung li Yamen on the subject inclosed. Land tenure in China: Dispatch No. 595, containing a thorough discussion of land tenure,	301
	(No. 315).		taining a thorough discussion of land tenure,	001
	[1], 일하는 아들의 아들의 아름 하는		will be of great assistance to the Department in its future considerations of this important subject.	1.5
207	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard	May 11	Imperial naval college established at Tientsin in	301
	(No. 640).		1881, for the purpose of educating Chinese for the navy. College has two departments—executive and engineering—of sixty students each; the executive department under Mr. Yen Fung Kwang, a graduate of the Royal College at-
			Kwang, a graduate of the Royal College at-	1
			Greenwich, England, the engineering department under two English professors of that college; curriculum; students selected by compet-
			ILIVe examination: a tornedo denartment added.	1
			DIGH SIGNGARD OF EXAMINATIONS - need of a pro-	I paratory school; the college maintained at 表现的信息(G) A		paratory school; the college maintained at Government expense; proclamation inviting competition at the entrance; examinations in-
			Closed.	1
208	Same to same (No. 644)	May 21	The San Pable . Mr. Wingste United States concel	303 at Foochow, reports that upon application to 도 명별 되는데 그 이 반사하다		at Foochow, reports that upon application to Mr. Chang, a Taotai at Foochow, a gun-boat was sent to the wreck of the steamer San Pablo,	1 mear Haitan Island; the local authorities did not protect the property from looters, and a claim will be presented; what was saved sold
			not protect the property from looters, and	a

CHINA-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1888.
209	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard	May 26	Exclusion of Chinese from Australia: Chinese	30
	(No. 646).		refused permission to land at Melbourne; Chi-given and the less will be heavy, telegram
			nese press indignant, and claims no notice was given, and the loss will be heavy; telegram from the governor of Victoria to the governor	ľ
	[발표장] . 그러지 아이라 중국 급급이 [1		of Hong-Kong, giving law and reason for exclu-	1 of Hong-Kong, giving law and reason for exclusion of Chinese, that they fraudulently trans-	ļ.
			ferred papers; anti-Chinese feeling in Aus-	l tralia; telegram taken from an Australian paper indicative of this sentiment; report that [제 왕은 하나보니 보호함으로 살으면 25개		Chinese in Australia request that diplomatic	h.,
	불하다 가는 사이 하는 것이 하는		action be taken by the viceroy at Canton not authenticated; letters from the Hong-Kong
	를 발생하는 것인 그는 그는 그를 다		chamber of commerce to the Hong-Kong Government and to the committee of the chamber of commerce by Chinese merchants of Australia in relation to refusal of permission to Chinese	10.60 to land in that colony inclosed.	1
10	Same to same (No. 647)	June 1	Imports and exports: Customs Gazette sent	30
			under different cover; collections at free ports,	1 under different cover; collections at free ports, $5,219,602 in 1888, $3,728,247 in 1887; showing not discouraging to American products; decrease in importation of kerosene at Shanghai;
			to other importations increased: increase of im-	1
	Mr. Damand 4- Mr. D. 3		portation of American goods into Corea. Audience of foreign ministers with the Emperor; the United States not to be committed
11	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby (No. 324).	June 6	Audience of foreign ministers with the Emperor, the United States not to be committed	30
	(410.023).		to any course of action in case audience is refused; difference of ceremonial, etc.; position
12	Same to same (No. 325)	June 6	Missionary troubles at Chinanfu: Approved action and decision of Mr. Denby in regard to	30 the Chinanfu missionary troubles; will not fetter him by instructions: would seem wiser fetter him by instructions; would seem wiser to accept another piece of land, if obtainable, and for Mr. Reid to waive claim for damages; and for Mr. Reid to waive claim for damages;	50.0
			hopes that missionaries may acquire rights by custom, but local and religious prejudices should be borne in mind and that arrange should be borne in mind, and that arrangements will be made which will avoid leading Chinese to insist on treaty stipulations; experience shows that the rights of foreigners will be extended beyond treaty ports if good will and conciliatory disposition be manifested.
213	Same to same (No. 327)	June 7	Smuggling of fire arms, etc., Configuration by	91
110	Dame to same (140, 521)	oune i	Smuggling of fire-arms, etc.: Confiscation by China of smuggled goods the only penalty for	31
			smuggling.	3:11:1
14	Same to same (No. 328)	June 7	Exclusion of Chinese from the United States:	31 Treaty with China submitted to the Senate, and sent to Mr. Denby with the President's messages to the Senate; confirmed by the Senate May 7, with two amendments; Chinese minister accepts the amendments; treaty with amendments transmitted to China for the im-	1
			perial assent; the Chinese minister gone to Peru for several months, being accredited as	1000 minister to that country; consequently legisla-
	Silver and a market strategy	de la laction	tion delayed until next session of Congress;
	[발표 : 방향하다 하나 하나 하나 하나 하다]		the treaty may be received, and ratifications
	The first of the second of the		exchanged, and the President proclaim its	150
	ensaña e		adoption in interim; copy of amended treaty and correspondence inclosed.
215	Same to same (No. 329)	June 15	Diplomatic etiquette: Satisfaction at the settle-	3
			ment of the question of diplomatic etiquette at	"
110	36- D-1- 4- 35- D	T 25	Peking on Near Year's day. Treaty between Portugal and China and con-
16	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard	June 25	Treaty between Portugal and China and con-	3
17	(No. 651). Same to same (No. 659)	Inly 9	vention appended thereto; translation inclosed. Status of Chinese women married to foreigners:	3
	Samo to Banto (110, 000)	oury o	The wife becomes of the nationality of the hus-	3
	British and the contract of		band by the agreement between the German	100
	[11] [15] [15] [15] [15] [15] [15]		minister and the Yamên, when a German marries a Chinese woman; this, by statute, can not be the case when an American marries one,	4 l og gamatingga hannang, intermediminasa with
	[1] - 경쟁됐다면서 어디 보이다 ㅋ		other nationalities common: nernlexing nosi-
		346 542	tion of a Chinese woman married to an American; the rule of international law making the [설립 : 10 : 10 : 10 : 10 : 10 : 10 : 10 : 1		as sometimes happens; internarriages with other nationalities common; perplexing position of a Chinese woman married to an American; the rule of international law making the wife subject to the jurisdiction to which the husband belongs is better than the United States statutes on the subject, though not in favor of i de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de	F 8 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	stanutes on the subject, though not in lavor of	1

CHINA—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
217	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No. 659)—Continued.	July 9	German minister and Chinese Government as to status of Chinese women married to Germans inclosed.
218	Same to same (No. 660)	July 9	Mines: Two American engineers, Mr. Ellsworth and Mr. Church, employed at Chinese mines;	321 the mine superintended by Mr. Church reported to promise well; two mines of argentiferous lead worked by foreign machinery; worked by natives for forty years, but stopped by water; Mr. Church, superintendent, Mr. Dawes, assayer, engineer, and two miners, all Americans, the foreign staff; 200native miners, guarded by soldiers from robbers; shafts sunk to get at the water, but good ore discovered to get at the water, but good ore discovered and better expected; 30,000 taels worth of Amercan machinery at the mines; the viceroy furnished the money for machinery and working to obtain lead; taking out ore expected to begin in two months; a joint-stock company to be formed by the viceroy.
219 220	Same to same (No. 667) Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby	July 14	Statistics of foreign trade	329 320
220	(No. 333).	July 17	Rights of missionaries in China: Rev. Gilbert Reid on the rights of American missionaries in China; he was informed that measures for their protection had been taken; Mr. Reid's	021
221	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard	July 20	letter and the reply thereto inclosed.	326
	(No. 670).	July 20	Tour of inspection through China; Kelung, Formosa; coal mines at Kelung; Formosan railroads. From Kelung to Twatutia; Taipeifu;	520
			Twatutia; interviews with the governor of Formosa; sulphur springs; trade of Tamsui in 1887; telegraph lines; general observations; the lekin question; map of northern Formosa; Macao; Canton; Foochow; Shanghai; the case of Arlington; necessity of legislation for pun- ishment of crimes committed by Americans in China, Corea, etc.; Tien-Tsin; concluding ob-	*
222	Same to same (No. 671)	July 20	servations. Railroads: Negotiations pending for the extension of the Chinese Railroad to Tung-Chow; the line to Tien-Tsin nearly completed; the	339 company anxious to extend operations to the capital; rumored opposition to the negotiation not credited; the line surveyed and only awaiting authority for work to begin.
223	Same to same (No. 672)	July 20	Mines: Mining interests beginning to be appreciated; frequent memorials for permission to open new mines; memorial from the director	. 339 of mines in Yunnan stating discovery of copper and lead mines, which were opened by a mercantile company and natives; native methods to be tried at first; comfort of miners provided
224	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby	July 25	Exclusion of Chinese from Australia: Dispatch	340
	(No. 338).		on the subject interesting as showing that the problem of their competition with domestic labor affects other countries as well as the United States.
225	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No. 678).	July 30	Edict of the Empress in relation to her retirement after the marriage of the Emperor in February next inclosed.	340
26	Same to same (No. 681)	Aug. 3	Exclusion of Chinese: Treaty with China approved; the answer to the question why Americans were not admitted to the interior of China by it, that it would be impossible to en-	341 force the laws: exclusion of the commercial houses from the interior by the Portuguese-Chinese treaty of 1887; Australia's action antagonistic to Chinese immigration commented upon in connection with the American treaty; the Chinese Government favors emigration of Chinese to Australia; disapproves of it to the 27	Same to same (No. 682)	Aug. 7	United States. Salvage in the province of Shantung: Memorial of the governor of Shantung concerning regula-	342
28	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard (No. 685).	Aug. 12	tions for salvage on the Shantung coast inclosed. Laws of China: Translation of the Chinese law in reference to descent, wills, probate courts, own- ership of lands, conveyances, marriages, major-	346
			ity, naturalization, courts of justice; the laws given apply only to Chinese: foreigners are 10-41 11-11-11	tried before the consuls of their country by the laws of their native land,

CHINA—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
229	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard	Aug. 16	Assumption of government by the Emperor:	347
	(No. 686).		The Imperial Board of Astronomy reports that March 4, 1889, is an auspicious day for the assumption of Government by the Emperor, and that day has been fixed for the ceremony by Imperial decree.
230	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby (No. 343).	Aug. 18	Marriages between Chinese and foreigners: Copy	347
	(110. 349).		of note to German minister at Washington in regard to the validity of marriages in China between subjects of that empire and foreigners, inclosed.
231	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard	Aug. 22	Yellow River overflow: The new embankment	348
	(No. 690).		Yellow River overflow: The new embankment on the Yellow River swept away; nearly every one connected with its building disgraced;
			The accident due to the ignorance of Chinese engineers; embankment of mud and millet stalks; breach made 60 feet deep and impossible to close by the former methods; foreign
	*	-	engineers say that owing to silt in the river its bed will be continually rising and there will always be danger of its breaking its banks; it is proposed to make make lakes and canals for the surplus; but no survey has been made; the province of Konan ruined; Anhin nearly submerged: fear that the waters of the Yellow River flowing intor the Yangtze may fill its channel; numerous plans offered for control- ling it.	100
232	Same to same (No. 691)	Aug. 24	Missionary troubles: The Chinan-fu troubles in	349 process of settlement; they have been topics for newspapers for a year; glad that his judg-
- 1			for newspapers for a year; glad that his judg- ment is vindicated and that Americans will get their reasonable desires; letter of the Rev. Gilbert Reid inclosed.
233	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby (No. 346).	Aug. 27	Marriages between Chinese and foreigners: Has received dispatch on the subject of status of	349
	(210.020).		Chinese women married to foreigners, and copy of the agreement of the Tsung-li Yamen and Mr. Von Brandt that Chinese women married •		to Germans shall be subject to German juris-
- 1			diction; this explains the inquiry of the German minister at this Department; instructions
	. Tali Kilibara Kina atau		given in No. 343; the German agreement not conflicting, and will probably assist in deter- mining the status of Chinese women married to
- 1			Americans. No special agreement with China necessary.	rya i su
234	Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard	Sept. 5	Exclusion of Chinese: Treaty believed to be re-	350
	(telegram).		jected; positive information demanded, none received.
235	Same to same (telegram)	Sept. 6	Exclusion of Chinese: The treaty postponed for further deliberation.	350
236	Same to same (No. 701)	Sept. 17	Exclusion of Chinese: Interview with five min-	350
			isters of the Yamên, who inquire if an exclusion bill has been passed by Congress: the action
ı	-		bill has been passed by Congress; the action of China in allowing the rejection of the treaty to be reported complained of; its rejection de-era i mografiya eta eta era eta e		nied; the insertion of new clauses asked, but 237	Same to same (No. 703)	Sept. 20	their substance not specified. Exclusion of Chinese: The passage by both	352
		r 3	Exclusion of Chinese: The passage by both houses of Congress of an exclusion bill com- municated to the Chinese Government with a request that its action in regard to the treaty l he communicated in forty-eight hours, noth-
000	G 4		ing further said in relation to now clauses in the treaty; copy of the above note inclosed. Exclusion of Chinese: The Chinese Government
238	Same to same (No. 704)	Sept. 21	Exclusion of Chinese: The Chinese Government refuses to ratify the treaty unless discussion be	354 allowed with a view to shortening the period of exclusion, unless the Chinese consul be empowered to grant certificates to those allowed by treaty to return, and further discussion be had as to the cases of those having less than $1,000 in property in the United States; the Yamên's propositions and correspondence with Mr.
239	Mr. Rives to Mr. Denby	Oct. 10	Exclusion of Chinese: Copies of the Chinese ex-	356
	(No. 357).		clusion act, the President's message on the sub-
			Senate Ex. Doc. No. 272, Fiftieth Congress, in-	1.
239		Oct. 10	propositions and correspondence with Denby on the subject inclosed. Exclusion of Chinese: Copies of the Chinelesian country is message on the ject, Senate Ex. Doc. O, Fiftieth Congre	ese ex- ne sub- ss, and

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF CHINA AT WASHINGTON.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Pag
		1887.		1
40	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang	Jan. 12	Exclusion of Chinese: The expediency of con-	3
	Yen Hoon.		cluding a treaty excluding Chinese laborers	1
		1	from the United States for a term of years al- ready informally discussed. Advices from China	l
			1680 to the belief that it will meet the approval	1
	•		of the Chinese Government, the proposed pro-
		14 × 14 ×	hibition applies to laborers only; the exempted classes comprise nearly all classes of Americans who resort to China, and the Chinese in Amer-
-			ica will not be restricted as are Americans in
.1	The Tsung-li Yamen to Mr.	Jan. 12	China; projet of a convention inclosed.
	Denby.	UALL. 12	Exclusion of Chinese: A note was addressed Mr. Denby regarding the outrages against Chinese	3
	•		in the United States; reply received that the United States Government was endeavoring to i			protect them; Chinese laborers in the United States entitled to go and come at pleasure, and	٠.
			receive return certificates by treaty outrages
.			receive return certificates by treaty; outrages committed recently and no redress; no protec-	100
-	그 사용을 하는 사람이 한 시간 요즘		tion afforded Chinese in the United States; China faithful to treaty; China proposes that laborers who have never been to, or have returned from,
		Jan 45.	and have no property or family there, shall not
1	물병하다 하는 사람이 되었다.		and have no property or family there, shall not be permitted to go to the United States; those laborers in the United States and the classes
		-	entitled to go and some at aller
1		_	entitled to go and come at pleasure to be treated according to treaty; details to be de-
١	:		i Ciucu upon with the sin of the Lininese minister i
1			in Washington: Chinese merchants coming to
1			the United States must have certificates; mode of obtaining it; Chinese to be allowed to pass through United States in transitu; will request
.			British minister at Peking to co-operate in the
2	Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr.	Jan. 15	prohibition of emigration.
	Bayard.	0 an. 10	Exclusion of Chinese: Awaits settlement of pending cases to communicate several propositions	3
	•		as to proposed treaty prohibiting Chinese im- migration; in an embarrassing position, ow- ing to repeated assurances that the indemnity
-			migration; in an embarrassing position, ow-
-		1.5	cases would be settled in a certain time; treaty
- 1	_ <	100	premature: will have personal interviews
3	Same to same	Feb. 25	Ullilayes on tininese at lineau. One hundred	36
	the second secon		Chinese driven by force from Juneau, Alaska;
			allusion of the President to it; information of amount of loss not yet received; incloses petition of some of the received;	1
		-
-			cate further particulars; requests the wrong- doers be brought to justice; account pub- lished in the Chicago Tribune, and the petition
			lished in the Chicago Tribune and the netition auditivolus de la	35 40	referred to inclosed.
	Same to same	Mar. 18	Exclusion of Chinese: Chinese entit ed to pro-	36 tection in the United States by article 3 of treaty of 1880; Chinese murdered and robbed in the United States; indemnity bill passed, in the United States; indemnity bill passed.
1
-			to prevent laborers emigrating to the United States: three propositions first no laborer
			States; three propositions, first, no laborer who has never been shall go to the United	9
1			Diales: second, those is noters who have returned t to China, and have no property or family in the United States, shall not go back; third, the Chinaco in the United States.
1
1		,	details to be discussed and decided upon by the IIIIIIIIIIIIII nere with Mr. Rayard Rritish Con I assist in carrying out the prohibition, fifteen
		.	the restriction of emigration, protection of Chinese in the United States, payment of indemnity for past outrages, and the reduction of
1			demnity for past outrages, and the reduction
1	원시 나는 이 이 사람들은 생기	1
	보통하는 병자 그는 없는 회사		cation from the foreign office to the British minister at Pekin inclosed.
1	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang	Apr. 11	minister at Pekin inclosed.
	Yen Hoon.	pr. 11	Exclusion of Chinese: Draught of convention for exclusion of Chinese laborers; appoints meeting	37
			13th instant at the Department for discussing
1			10: Sends also views many the propositions of
1			MI. Unang relative to extradition and the even tion of treaty stipulations; the draught of convention and memorandum on Mr. Chang's propositions and memorandum on Mr.
1			ositions inclosed.

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF CHINA AT WASHINGTON-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1887.		4.1
246	Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr.	Aug. 16	Exclusion of Chinese: Objections stated at interview to the draught of convention; the consider-	375
	Bayard.		ation of them then promised the words "as the laws of the United States may now or hereafter prescribe," in Article II, and "subject to after prescribe," in Article II, and "subject to such regulations by the Government of the United States as may be necessary" require 년 ⁴ 중요 하다		modification; such laws and regulations should
1.0			be restricted to conform with treaty, and not	1
4.	불만을 통하고 하는 것이다.		be unduly severe upon Chinese; two essential articles omitted from the draught, first, pro-
A 4			tection to be secured to Chinese laborers in the
			I II to 1 Character to that assessmentions to
.			that effect were misunderstood; willing to
	조성하는 경기가 있는 것이 되었다.		States Covernment, China has gone hevond
1			treaty stipulations in protecting Americans in that effect were misunderstood; willing to leave the manner of protection to the United States Government; China has gone beyond treaty stipulations in protecting Americans in China; Chinese not protected in America; China not asking release from treaty, but reciprocity in treaty guaranties: Americans may	l
			China not asking release from treaty, but reci-	1 claim different but not greater protection
		*	in China than Chinese in America; interna-	1 procity in treaty guaranties; Americans may claim different but not greater protection in China than Chinese in America; international rights reciprocal; demand for treaty guaranties on the part of the United States by China reasonable, decision of Chief Instice that there is no law to protect Chinese: an China reasonable; decision of Chief-Justice that there is no law to protect Chinese; an article should be inserted in the treaty guaran-tving one: second essential article is one providing for indemnities; lack of a specific appropriation no reason for its omission; objects to leaving it to Congress; suggests a conven-to leaving it to Congress; suggests a convention similar to that of 1858; regrets refusal to 이 그는 기속에 하는데 되어 만나다		add article on extradition; difference of criminal procedure no objection, as extradition treaties have been made by the United States	1.5
			with Russia and Japan; again suggests a sep-
	35 D	D 00	arate treaty stipulation on the subject. Exclusion of Chinese: Violation of immigration	379
247	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.	Dec. 28	laws by Chinese claiming to return to the	319
	ren moon.		laws by Chinese claiming to return to the United States and by the sale of Chinese women; public feeling requires stricter exclusion; United States and China in accord upon the subject; requests the assistance of Mr. Chang in framing a convention to prohibit immigra-그리다는 그리는 일이 나는 점점이 있는데		tion of Chinese laborers, and incloses a projet
		1000	of a convention.
248	Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr.	1888. Jan. 9	Corean foreign mission: Repeated communica-	380
	Bayard.		cations received from the Chinese Government
	마다리 당하는 이 병이라요		in regard to sending an envoy to the United States by Corea, and one stating that the Co-
4	그 사진 하면 하셨다고 됐다고 하다		rean Government had written to that of China	l that its envoy would report his arrival in the	l
			United States to the Chinese minister, who would accompany him to the State Department;	1 that no further presentation would be necessary, but that the Chinese minister would in-
	F H DISTANCE NO.		terest himself in all matters when asked by the Corean envoy; Corea a vassal of China, and it is right he should interest himself in behalf of the Corean envoy; notified by the consul-gen-the Corean envoy; notified by the consul general of his expected arrival; will present him at the State Department; the Corean envoy	1
			should apply for the appointment of a day to	1 present his credential to the President; hopes
		l .	the minister's attendance will be dispensed
040	Mr. Boyard to Mr. Chang	Jan. 10	with. Corean foreign mission: Note received in reference	38
249	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.	5 an. 10	t the coming of an envoy from Corea, and shortly	1 30
		125	after a letter from the Corean envoy requesting	1.
			an interview to arrange for the presentation of his credentials; replied that he would be re-	1
		1 1	ceived the 13th instant, and soon thereafter
	Ing Mark to the National		presented to the President.	100
250	Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr.	Jan. 30	Exclusion of Chinese: Forty per cent. of the	38
	Bayard.	Maria da	Chinese who were in the United States in 1880 returned home; few falsely claim the right to 1.00 Feb. 4.5 4.5  	1-6-2-3-3-	come to the United States; has written to the come to the United States; has written to the viceroy and governor of Canton to prevent	1
	■ 경우 회장 기원 등급한		the importation of women for immoral pur- poses; Chinese consul-general at San Francisco

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF CHINA AT WASHINGTON-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
250	Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard—Continued.	Jan. 30	cates who arrived in December, and these were of good character, and bond was given for them;
		- 47 M	will write again to the authorities of Canton; the projet similar to the draught of convention of April 11, to which a reply was sent August 16; if the articles providing for in- demnity and protection to Chinese be inserted, mutual agreement may be reached; sends re-	1
			ply August 16, and desires to discuss the sub- ject at an interview.	383
251	Same to same	Feb. 16	Murder of Chinese at Log Cabin Bar, Snake River: Ten Chinamen murdered at Log Cabin Bar by unknown parties; cowboys, reported by a Chinaman to have driven them from the Bar, suspected of the murders; Chinese consul-gen-	1 eral had an interpreter sent to the point, and wrote to Mr. J. K. Vincent, who replied that
	h. 15전 [H. P. 이 스트라이어 관		evidences pointed to white men as the murder- ers and promised to communicate further infor-
		-	mation; none communicated; reward for appreheusion of murderers offered by the con-prehension of murderers offered by the con- sul-general; the United States Government requested to communicate with the local author() () () () () () () () () ()		ities to secure punishment of the criminals; fear that the murderous example will be imi-
i			tated elsewhere; correspondence on the subjected inclosed.	387
252	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.	Feb. 23	Murder of Chinese at Log Cabin Bar, Snake River: Regrets to hear of the murder of China-	301
	Tell Hoon.		men at Log Cabin Bar; statements meager, confused, and afford no clew; does not think the authorities of Idaho neglectful; crime stated
•			authorities of Idaho neglectful; crime stated to have been committed in Oregon, whose au- thorities have equal jurisdiction in the matter,
. 1			but no information has been laid before them; will send the correspondence to the governors of Oregon and Idaho; advantage of all attainable
253	Same to same	Feb. 29	evidence in the investigation. Chinese exclusion: Copies of the additional ar-	388
			ticles, which it is proposed to number IV, V,	000
254	Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr.	Mar. 3	ticles, which it is proposed to number IV, V, and VI, in the convention inclosed. Claim of Wachong & Co., managed by Chan Yee	389
	Bayard,		claim $187,814.10; only $67,042.10 presented, $17,042.14 being uncollected debts; Chan Yee He a prominent and wealthy merchant; the firm rented houses to Chinese at $379 a month.
			which became unoccupied; compelled to ship their goods to Victoria and Portland, and sell
		•	$20,000 worth for $7,000; they were compelled to stop their contract work and pay $1 a day to sixty unoccupied men for eighty-two days; their business depended upon Chinese customers, and they have sustained heavy losses:
			violent treatment and consequent illness of Chun Yee He's wife, for which no claim has Chun Yee He's wife, for which no claim has been made; Chan Yee He for twenty-four years a resident in the United States, ten •	years at Seattle, and pays $30,000 to the United _		States custom-house, not a common trader; his claims have been investigated and should be
255	Same to same	Mar. 3	paid in full. Claims of Chinese against the United States:	390
			According to request sends statement of claims, with a list of those based upon uncol-	000 lected debts; claim on account of twenty-eight Chinese murdered at Rock Springs made for their families; the statement of claims in-
256	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang	Mar. 7	closed. Claims of Chinese against the United States:	392
	Yen Hoon		The statement of claims received; will accept	334 proposed modification of treaty, asking a rea- sonable limit to be put to the period within which Chinese leaving the United States must return; Rock Springs tragedy should be considered as closed; hopes that justice may reach	1 /
		.:	the murderers, who were not United States citizens; expediency of concluding the con-
- 1			vention at an early date; appoints conference

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF CHINA AT WASHINGTON-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
257	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.	Mar. 9	Exclusion of Chinese: Transmits draught of treaty to restrict Chinese immigration; articles agreed to at the conference on the 8th surrounded with red lines and numbered; prepared to sign the treaty when the Chinese text is ready, and requests copy of translation of the	393
258	Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr.	Mar. 12	minister's power to execute the treaty. Exclusion of Chinese: Informed the Government of China that he was negotiating a treaty to re-	394
	Bayard.		strict Chinese immigration into the United States, and received the necessary powers for
259	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.	Apr. 11	that end. Murder of Chinese at Log Cabin Bar, Snake River: Transmits letter of governor of Idaho Territory upon the subject of the murder of Chinese at Snake River, Oregon; investigation	395
260	Same to same	May 8	made difficult by lack of information in spite of the good dispositon of the governor; copy of the governor's letter inclosed. Exclusion of Chinese: Treaty restricting immi- gration of Chinese approved by the Senate, with	396 two amendments; amendments repeat what the treaty says, asks their acceptation by the min- ister, that the treaty may be at once ratified
001	8	35 11	and proclaimed; copy of amended treaty inclosed.	400
261	Same to same	May 11	Exclusion of Chinese: Sends copy of treaty, with Senate amendments noted on margin; amend- ments do not alter treaty, but must be formally accepted and noted in certificates of exchange	400
262	Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.	May 12	of ratification; delay regretted. Exclusion of Chinese: Accepts amendments of Senate to immigration treaty; have telegraphed amendments to China, and shall append them	400 as a protocol to the treaty when ratified by the Chinese Government.
263	Same to same	May 14	Exclusion of Chinese: Will send the amended treaty to China, with the original signed treaty for the Government's decree; will communicate decree when received, and note amendments in certificate of ratification.	401
264	Mr. Rives to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.	May 15	Murder of Chinese at Log Cabin Bar, Snake River: Importance of securing evidence against the men indicted for murdering the Chinamen	401 at Snake River; the Chinese consul might greatly assist; no necessity for interference by United States authorized; letter from Mr. Sla- ter to Mr. McArthur on the subject inclosed.
265	Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.	May 20	Murder of Chinese at Log Cabin Bar, Snake River: Thanks for information in regard to the murder of Chinese in Oregon; will send copy to Chinese consultaneously at San Francisco, and	403
266	Mr. Shu Cheon Pon to Mr. Bayard.	Sept. 25	direct him to aid the local authorities. Exclusion of Chinese: The Chinese minister cables that it is necessary to reconsider three points in the treaty: First, the period of exclusion, which should be shortened; second, it	403 would be necessary to permit Chinese haborers who had returned to China before the signing of the treaty and have property in the United States to report the fact to the Chinese consul that they may obtain a return certificate; third, there should be a provision allowing laborers who have property worth less than $1.000 in the 267	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Shu Cheon Pon.	Sept. 26	United States to return; the minister will re- turn in twenty-two or twenty-three days. Exclusion of Chinese: Acknowledges receipt of note stating three points the Chinese Govern- ment desires to be reconsidered; pleased to hear	404 of the Chinese minister's expected return.

COLOMBIA.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1887.
26 8	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Maury	Feb. 25	Telegraph line across the Isthmus of Panama:	405
	(No 12).		The French Canal Company claims control of the telegraph line across the Isthmus; the rail	1.
		e Neva a	I road company say it is their private wire: importance to Government; the guaranties of the treaty of 1846 vague; if the telegraph comes un- der it, its use should be free and general; if that der it, its use should be free and general; if that 1.2	10 -4	on the isthmus is a private wire, then there is	1 lacking a means of intercourse and correspondence guarantied by the treaty.
269	Same to same (No. 44)	Nov. 14	Telegraph line on the Isthmus of Panama: Copy	406 of a complaint against the Panama Kaliroad Company for refusing to receive telegraphic messages inclosed.
270	Mr. Maury to Mr. Bayard	Dec. 19	Telegraph line across the Isthmus of Panama:	406
271	(No. 67). Same to same (No. 70)	Dec. 25	Communication to Mr. Holguin inclosed. Telegraph line across the Isthmus of Panama:	407
		200. 20	The Colombian Government states that the rail-
	[생생님 [18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18 18		way company holds no exclusive telegraph
100			right across the Isthmus of Panama, and that the Government has ordered the governor of Pan-
0.50		T. 65	ama to construct a line; this information verbal.	407
272	Same to same (No. 73)	Dec. 29	Telegraph line across the Isthmus of Panama: Communication from Mr. Holguin relating to	407 the claim of the Panama Railway Company to exclusive telegraphic rights over the isthmus,
		1888.	inclosed.
273	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Maury	Jan. 11	Quarantine of Colombian ports against Chili:	408
	(No. 54).		Special instructions with regard to quarantine measures at Panama directed against Chili	1 withheld, but greater restriction than is neces-
	4		sary to be deprecated; dispatch from our min-
274	Same to same (No. 56)	Feb. 2	ister to Chili on the subject inclosed. Telegraph line across the Isthmus of Panama:	408
	(2,0,0,0,	100	This amendment of the decision of the Colombian Government that the telegraph line across the Isthmus of Panama is a private wire—not a · ·		monopoly—and that that Government will erect	146
		,	a line, the use of which is tendered to the United
100			States, a gratifying proof of amity and of a desire to facilitate the mutual obligations of the	1
077	16. W.H 16. D 1		two countries in regard to the Isthmus.	400
275	Mr. Walker to Mr. Bayard (No. 88).	Feb. 13	Political and financial: Return of President Nu- fiez to the government; no disturbance antici-	409
	(110.00).		pated; bad financial condition of the country;
45.4			vales issued to pay the indebtedness of the Government; these payable at the rate of 6 per cent. annually out of the revenues; not usable in com-하는 항상된 시험하다 되었다.		mercial transactions, and bought up by the Government bank at 55 per cent. of face value, in its own notes, about 30 per cent. in United States money; no payment on foreign bonded debt since 1880; a committee of English bond-	1.56 debt since 1880; a committee of English bond-
4.			holders, with authority to make arrangements with the Government expected; the treasury
			bankrupt and future revenues discounted so	135
276	Same to same (No. 89)	Feb. 20	that no arrangement is probable. Quarantine against Chili: Copy of note to Colum-	409
	(,	200. 20	bian minister in regard to quarantine against cholers in Chili inclosed.	100
277	Same to same (No. 90)	Feb. 25	cholera in Chili inclosed.	410
	~~~~  	FOU. 40	Passport of F. W. Putnam: Wishes to know if conviction in a court of a foreign country de-	410 conviction in a court of a foreign country de- prives an American of a right to demand a passport. F. W. Putnam, born of American parents in the United States, obtained a passport from	· · the American minister in 1884 and was shortly	1
			after convicted of a felony in a Colombian court and served his sentence; he now applies for a	l
			l Dassnort: thinks he had a legal right but agirg
97			instruction in the matter, and also whether a	1.5
			minister can refuse a passport to an American citizen of notoriously bad character.	6 4
278	Same to same (No. 92)	Mch. 1	Quarantine against Chili: Copy of reply of the	410
			Quarantine against Chili: Copy of reply of the Colombian minister to note of the 20th ult. on	1
279	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Walker	Mch. 6	the subject of quarantine inclosed.  Ice monopoly on the isthmus of Panama: Prompt	411
	(No. 63).		action desirable in regard to the ice monopoly	 on the Isthmus of Panama. The Boston Ice Company, composed of Americans, twenty- three years engaged in the ice, lumber, and gen-1	Outpany, composed of Americans, twenty-	1 .

COLOMBIA--Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1888.
79	Mr. Ba ard to Mr. Walker	Mch. 6	eral merchandise business on the Isthmus of
	(No. 63)—Continued.	1.00	Panama. Its principal dealing is in ice, and 그리다 그 그 사람들은 점심을 받아 내	100	it is the only company in that business. By a decree of November 21, 1887, the importation and cale of natural ice in the department of and sale of natural ice in the department of Panama made a monopoly, reserving to the Panama made a monopoly, reserving to the Government the right to sell it to a private per-
. 1			son or company, who, with the Government's
- 1			consent, may transfer the monopoly to another,	S
- 1		1,14.15	and providing that from the day the grantee en- tered upon the enjoyment of the monopoly no
- 1			one could sell ice without the grantee's consent.
	그렇는 그 얼마가 그는 이 사고 됐다.		Invitations for bids and terms of the concession	100
	그는 옷 물까요 하는 그리면서 맛있다.		published January 21, 1888; the legality of the establishment of a monopoly, and of this con- tract, under the laws of Colombia, as applicable
- 1			establishment of a monopoly, and of this con-	1
- 1	i di di di di di di di di di di di di di		tract, under the laws of Colombia, as applicable	ļ .
١	1		to native citizens, to be ascertained and reported;	l l
- 1	ì		if illegal, further instructions to be awaited; if
-			legal, the injury to the Boston Ice Company, and 1	ļ		resources of Colombia which would result from	l
			enforcing the decree, to be presented to that	1
. 1	Albert Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the		thus to American capital, from developing the resources of Colombia, which would result from enforcing the decree, to be presented to that Government; the spirit of the treaty of 1846	l
.		ar (2)	one of closest amity, and under it much beliefly	1
۱ ا			derived from the good offices of the United States by Colombia; a severance of interest	1
- 1			States by Colombia; a severance of interest would cause a diminution of good feeling; a modification of article 7 of the concession to be	1 asked; no wish to interfere with the laws of PEC 등 성도 있다면 보고를 되는 것		another country, but to protect American citi-another country, but to protect American citizens; desire that emigration to Colombia should continue; monopolies injurious to trade;
- 1			no condition valid which forbids a citizen to
i		16 6.4	appeal to his own government; no reason for the United States to believe that discrimina-
			the United States to believe that discrimina-	l.
			tion against its citizens was meant, and the matter to be presented personally, not officially.
1	·		Decree of the Colombian Government No. 719.	l
1	,		of November 21, 1887, invitation for bids and of November 21, 1887, invitation for bids and terms of the contract for the ice monopoly inclosed.
30	Mr. Walker to Mr. Bayard	Mch. 6	Concordat between the Holy See of Rome and the	4
	(No. 95).		Colombian Government: The Spauish transla- lation of the concordat between the Holy See	1
	모양 문사의 성격으로 다리다다		of Rome and Colombia ambiguous. Translations of the concordat and of law 30, which virtually [ - 그렇지만, 그리고의 말까지만]		annus civic marriages not canonically per-
	[12] (발표기 왕 ) 시간에 프로젝터		formed, but does not illegitimatize children.
31	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Walker	Mch. 29	Passport of F. W. Putnam: A foreign conviction	4
	(No. 68).		not extra-territorial, and does not bar the right	1 of American citizens to a passport; inquiries should be made whether Mr. Putnam retains	1 his American nationality before granting him a passport.	1
32	Mr. Walker to Mr. Bayard	Apr. 7	I Tee monopoly on the isthmus: Complaint of the	4
	No. 105).		Boston Ice Company; granting of such monop-	1
			Boston Ice Company; granting of such monopolies in accordance with Colombian custom; exclusive privilege of selling certain commodities sold to highest bidder; action taken by minis-	1 sold to highest bidder: action taken by minis-
			l ter.	1
83	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Walker	Apr. 17	Quarantine against Chili: The Postmaster-Gen-	4
	(No. 75).	_	eral holds that there is no ground for complaint	1
			on account of the closing of the ports of the isthmus against Chili if they are opened as soon as danger of infection has passed; the De-	1
		1000	istimus against Uniii ii they are opened as	1
		1 1	partment thinks the measure is extreme; mails	1
٠			are being sent to Chili via Buenos Aryes.	1
84	Same to same (No 78)	Apr. 28	Capitation tax on United States citizens: United	4
		1. 10.50	States citizens required to pay a capitation tax
	hiji iyo a waxay ka ka birin M		from which British subjects are exempt by the l sel se	treaty of 1866; reply made to the United States
	를 하는 사람들이 많아 모르게 하는	1	treaty of 1866; reply made to the United States consul-general's protest that the matter had been referred to the supreme government;
	■ 설명 함께 전 상대 설계 및 기계
	1 기계를 보면 함께 한 사람들이 가득하는		tax if others are by the "favored nation" tax if others are by the "favored nation" clause of treaty of 1846 and by general princi-	1 ple, of international law; the question and the <ul> <li>The second of the /li></ul>		Department's views are to be presented to the	- 1

COLOMBIA—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
_		1888.
85	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Walker (No. 84).	June 6	Claim of the Panama Star and Herald: Hopes that the Colombian Government will consider the claim of the Panama Star and Hearld on its merits, and not with reference to other claims, as it does not fall within the lines of the negotiation for claims for destruction of property during the disturbances on the isthmus.	423
	Mr. Walker to Mr. Poward	June 7	Letter of S. Myers on the subject inclosed. Capitation tax on United States citizens: Note of	424
86	Mr. Walker to Mr. Bayard (No. 116).	. June 1	May 30 to the Colombian minister in regard to the levying of capitation tax on Americans on the Isthmus of Panama, and his reply in-
87	Same to same (No. 122)	July 21	Political: Translation of the law giving the Colombian President extraordinary powers inclosed.	42
88	Mr. Maury to Mr. Bayard (No. 133).	Aug. 1	Uncomplimentary remarks in President Nuñez's message about foreigners: All foreign legations sent notes similar to the American legation's	42 to the minister of foreign affairs, relating to a passage in President Nuñez's message to the Colombian Congress. Correspondence of the legation on the subject inclosed.
89	Same to same (No. 136)	Aug. 9	Uncomplimentary remarks about foreigners by President Nuñez in his message: General dis- approval of President Nuñez's message; a	42 proposition in the Colombian senate to send a congratulatory reply to President Nuñez withdrawn because of his insulting references to foreign governments; Dr. Holguin installed President, his inaurural address inclosed.
9 0	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Maury (No. 100).	Sept. 14	Uncomplimentary remarks by President Nuñez about foreigners: Dispatch No. 136, referring to the political condition of Colombia, the disap- proval shown of President Nuñez's remarks about foreigners, and inclosing inaugural ad-
291	Same to same (No. 114)	Nov. 27	dress of Dr. Holguin received.  Ice monopoly on the isthmus: The decree of the Colombian Government granting a menopoly of the sale of ice on condition that the right of	145.5
	4		the grantees, if foreigners, to seek redress through their own government be waived, is in contravention of treaty stipulations and inter- national law; extracts from the treaties in support of this position; the guaranty of the net- trality of the isthmus given to secure perfect equality of citizens of the United States in Co- lombia; the assistance given Colombia should not be forgotten; the creation of the monopoly injurious to Colombian trade; United States citizens should be protected by the Colombian Government; a formal protest believed unneces- sary.

		1
		1887.	[편 그 : 1227] - 1 - 그리고 1 1 - 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1
29 2	Mr. Dinsmore to Mr. Bayard (No. 53).	Sept. 30	Corean mission to the United States: Opposition of Chinese minister in Corea thereto, and efforts made by him to prevent its departure; China claims suzerainty and necessity of her consent before Corea may send missions abroad; corre-	433
		1	spondence with Chinese minister inclosed.
29 3	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Dinsmore	Oct. 7	Corean mission: Telegram not wholly intelligible,	436
	(No. 38).	1	but enough known to warrant an expression through the United States legation at Peking of surprise and regret that China should ob-	l
			struct the sending of Corean envoys; develop-	l ments awaited; Mr. Denby to be advised with; vessel of war at Chemulpo for protection of 35 D	0 / 15	American interests.	436
294	Mr. Dinsmore to Mr. Bayard (No. 63).	Oct. 15	Corean mission: The discussion with the Chinese minister upon the relations of China and Corea	430
	(No. 05).		Thavoidable; Mr. Yuan using the argument of the recognition of Corea's dependency by the 0.0	United States to affect foreign and Corean public opinion favorably to China's pretensions; a	1.00
		1	printed document circulated, purporting to be a copy of the American-Corean treaty, in which
		· .	a copy of the limited coroun broady, in which	•

COREA—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
294	Mr. Dinsmore to Mr. Bayard	1887. Oct. 15	the dependence of Chart is a second
	(No. 63)—Continued.	001. 15	the dependency of Corea is acknowledged; neither encouraged nor discouraged the mission to the United States: surprised that after favor-	l
			my the mission to Japan. Unina opposed that to	ĺ
		-	the United States; informed by the King that the minister to the United States will start in a the minister to the United States will start in a few days; Judge Denny, foreign adviser, gone to see the viceroy of Tientsin; his purpose un-
		1	known.	1
295	Same to same (No. 67)	Oct. 24	Military instructors for Corea: The Department's	437 telegram requiring a guaranty of good pay, etc
. , .			for military instructors communicated to the 1111111111	Corean Government, and the guaranty given;
			announcement sent by cable from Nagasaki at	l
		1000	King's expense, who is anxious for the instruct- ors to arrive; the house for their use unfurnished, new, and too small; accommodations
004	35 D 1/ 35 D		Dromised.
296	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Dinsmore	Nov. 1	Courtesies to Rear-Admiral Chandler: Letter	438
	(No. 44).		from the Acting Secretary of the Navy cover-	1
			ing a communication from Rear-Admiral Chandler, commanding the Asiatic squadron, report- ing courtesies of Mr. Dinsmore; reply made that the existence of cordial relations between diplomatic and naval officers is gratifying and 007	31 D: 135 D		necessary in the East: above letters inclosed.
297	Mr. Dinsmore to Mr. Bayard (No. 71).	Nov. 11	Corean mission: Invited, together with the Rus-	440
	(110. 11).		sian chargé d'affaires, by Mr. O. M. Denny, vice- president of the Corean home office, and foreign adviser to the King on his return from a visit to the Viceroy Li Hung Chang at Tientsin, to an interview on the subject of the Corean foreign missions; Mr. Denny gave history of the conference on the missions and on opening a port at Pejong Au in Corea; viceroy's position that ·		the permission of China should have been first obtained; the Corean minister, accredited as
1			envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary, will sail for the United States 13th instant:
	and the second		translation of a communication from Yuan Su
	the second of the first of the second		Kwai to the Corean foreign office, giving the assent of the Chinese Government to Corea's es-그 불량 성취 경기 없어 되어 그		tablishing missions abroad, with ministers resident only, but arguing against it, inclosed.
198	Same to same (No. 73)	Nov. 17	Corean mission: Telegram from Viceroy Li Hung	441
- 1			Chang to the Chinese representative in Seoul,
	마리를 가장하는 이 가장이다.		directing him to inform the Corean Government
	물가에 하는 것이 그 이 이야기를	N 30 4	that their representatives ab oad must first present themselves to the Chinese minister and be introduced by him at the foreign office; that he
- 1			shall yield precedence to the Chinese minister
.		4.1	and consult with him on important matters be-
- 1			fore acting; the Corean minister sailed for the
- 1			United States 16th instant; translation of tele-
- 1	,	1888.	gram inclosed.
99	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Dinsmore	Jan. 3	Infectious diseases: Transmits text of regula-	442
- 1	(No. 60).	- 1	tions for prevention of introduction of infec-
3 -			tious diseases at the treaty ports of Corea; the German Government excepts to two of the proto the Military of the Land		German Government excepts to two of the pro-VISIONS: (1) Infectious diseases must be defined njerije i dan i dan i		nothing else. (2) Article 6 is either to be street and seed to be a seed to the		as cholera, plague, yellow fever, small pox, and nothing else; (2) Article 6 is either to be struck out or the kind of disinfection specified; these
	January 1		criticisms reasonable; typhoid fever and scarlet
	a tati	1	criticisms reasonable; typhoid fever and scarlet fever might be added; consultation with col- leagues may lead to modification of regulations
-	The state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the s		leagues may lead to modification of regulations
			by the Corean Government; the regulations in-
00	Same to same (No. 63)	Jan. 26	cioseu.	440
-	to same (110.00)	оан. 20	Corean mission: Dispatch touching communica- tion of telegram from the Viceroy Li Hung	443
- 1		Kenada Auto	Chang to the Chinese representative at Seoul in regard to the formalities for presentation of Corean minister received a bout the time of his arrival in San Francisco, where every courtesy was shown; arrival in Washington of Mr. Pak was snown; arrival in Washington of Mr. Pak	1
1	the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the s		Chung Yang on the 9th instant; his letter of
- 1	and the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second o		the 10th requesting interview to arrange for

COREA—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
	-	1888.
300	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Dinsmore (No. 63)—Continued	Jan. 26	thereto; note received the previous day from the Chinese minister reciting his instructions; call from the Chinese minister the day before the interview with Mr. Pak and expression of satisfaction at Mr. Pak's reception; no other satisfaction at Mr. Pak's reception; no other intimation of interference; both to be treated as representatives of independent states; reception of Mr. Pak at the Department and pre-	l
		•	sentation to the President; Mr. Pak's name omitted from diplomatic dinner on account of	l his arrival after the issue of invitations, and no significance attached to the omission; corre-significance attached to the omission; correspondence on the subject of the Corean envoy, exchanged with him and the Chinese minister, and diplomatic list showing order of precedence
01	Same to same (No. 66)	Mar. 20	inclosed. Corean mission: Copy of dispatch from the United	44 States minister at Peking covering a translation of a letter from the King of Corea to the Viceroy Li Hung Chang, referring to the vassalage of Corea and her diplomatic representatives.
02	Mr. Dinsmore to Mr. Bayard	Apr. 21	published in a Chinese paper, inclosed. Missionaries in Corea: Importance of the ques-	44
	(No. 105).		tion of missionary work: remonstrances against imprudent zeal kindly received by the mission- aries; at first religious meetings held only for
. 2	- W - A •		foreigners, now for natives; journeys made into 10 To 10		the interior for religious teaching; these insti- tutions favorably regarded by natives, and patience and regard for the laws only necessary to secure religious freedom; the Methodist mission school named by the Corean Govern-mission school named by the Corean Government in token of approval; the right of foreign
-			residents to build a church dependent upon the favored nation clause and grant of the right of free exercise of religion to other nations; none of them have built a church; Seoul liable on the
	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·		of them have built a church; Seoul liable on the happening of a contingency to be closed to foreigners. French missionaries erecting a building for school and religious purposes near a tem-ing for school and religious purposes near a tem- ple and the palace of the King, who has offered to return them the purchase money and pro·		cure them new ground, but the offer has been refused; the Coreans opposed to the building and the matter will be the subject of diplomatic correspondence between France and Corea; Correspondence between France and Corea; Coreans awaiting the arrival of the French rep-	resentative that the affair may be amicably set-
03	Same to same (No. 106)	Apr. 28	tled. Missionaries in Corea: Corean Government com-	44 plains that American teachers are engaged in
	•		evangelical work; claims the right to refuse or allow schools; thinks there is no desire to inter-fore with schools further than to prevent religious teaching; Mr. Dinsmore's influence to effect observance of treaty promised; sent note to Mr. Appenzeller and Mr. Underwood, who	İ to Mr. Appenzeller and Mr. Underwood, who had gone on missionary work to the north of Corea, to accede to the Corean demands until . ]			their right was established; letter sent by their
04	Mr Parand to Mr Dinamore	June 15	missions asking them to return. Missionaries in Corea: Approves discouraging ag-	44
V±	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Dinsmore (No. 71).	5 mie 19	gressive attempts of mission aries to enlarge their April gar		privileges; their desire landable, but incautious and aggressive acts will create opposition and defeat their efforts in a country of the charac- ter of Corea; translation of sections 2 and 4, arter of Corea; translation of sections 2 and 4, article 4, and section 2, article 9 of the Franco-	1
			Corean treaty giving the right to Frenchmen to buyand lease lands, practice their religion, and teach the sciences, laws, and arts; no warrant
- 1			for religious teaching among the natives deduci-
-1			ble from this; unfortunate if well-meant efforts	1
	1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1		in opposition to treaty and protest of the Corean Government should arouse the hostility of the	l

COREA-Continued.

Ne.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1888.
305	Mr. Dinsmore to Mr. Bayard	June 25	Disturbance in Seoul caused by the rumor that	448
	(No. 115).	176.	children were being stolen by natives for for- eigners: People killed by the mob; stories of the cruelties and uses to which foreigners put the children; Japanese and Americans most 실험 시작 경찰 경기 가지 않는다.		suspected; threats to attack the American quarter; twenty men requested of Commander
		l	Jewellfor protection; similar precautions taken by other legations; quiet restored; action approved by Corean Government; troops to be DVA PA	proved by Corean Government; troops to be kept until crowd brought by the examinations to Seoul leaves; correspondence with colleagues and the foreign office during the disturbance will be reported in full
306	Same to same (No. 116)	July 1	Disturbance in Seoul: The detachment which	449 Disturbance in Seoul: The detachment which had been requested to protect Americans in Seoul sent back to the Essex; prompt response of Commander Jewell to the request for sail-of Commander Jewell to the request for sailors; this necessitated by the emergency of the situation, without the Department's permission; note written to the foreign office on the 1		18th, when threats were made of attacking sion; note written to the foreign office on the 18th, when threats were made of attacking the Americans, to issue a proclamation stat- ing the falsity of the rumors about them; procing the falsity of the rumors about them; proc-1 3
			crease than allay the excitement; proclama- tion of all the foreign ministers, except the Chinese; its good effect; proclamation of the King denying the stealing of children by Ameri-
			Chinese; its good effect; proclamation of the King denying the stealing of children by Americans; reports of abductions exaggerated and innocent people killed; universal respect and kind treatment of foreigners; old nostility toward Japanese; Lt. Foulke mistaken for a Japanese when attacked; quiet restored; the Essex sails from Chemulpo, leaving the Juniata there; note of Mr. Dinsmore to the foreign office, June 18, and proclamation of foreign min-
307	Same to same (No. 194.)	Tolar 10	ister inclosed.	452
301	Same to same (No. 124.)	July 18	Telegraphic line between Seoul and Fusan: Three intermediate stations; line 400 miles long;	492 rate 22 sen per word; direct communication with the cable at Fusan and independence of China secured; the line controlled and operated by Coreans; built by Mr. Halifax, an Englishman.
30 8	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Dinsmore	Aug. 4	Disturbance in Seoul: Commendation of Mr.	453
	(No. 78).		Dinsmore's precautions and the prompt assist-
	클리닝 약 기급 시장하는 사람.		ance rendered by the Navy, by which grave consequences from the troubles at Seoul were averted.
	CORRESPONDENCE W	ІТН ТНЕ	LEGATION OF COREA AT WASHINGTON.
		1000		-
309	Mr. Pak Chung Yang to Mr.	1888. Jan. 10	Presentation of credentials: Announcing his ap-	458
	Bayard.		pointment as envoy extraordinary and minister
		-	plenipotentiary from the King of Corea to the United States and requesting an interview to arrange for the presentation of his credentials.
310	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pak	Jan. 10	Presentation of credentials: Mr. Pak Chung Yang	458
	Chung Yang.		will be received at the Department Friday, 18th instant, and accompany him at an early
311	Mr. Pak Chung Yang to Mr.	July 16	day to present his credentials to the President.  Telegraphic lines completed to Fusan, and con-	454
	Bayard.		necting there with the Japanese cable; will in future send telegraphic dispatches to Seoul by	- that route.
	CORRESPONDENCE WITH	I THE LI	EGATION OF COSTA RICA AT WASHINGTO	N.
-		1990
	Mr. Rives to Mr. P. Perez	1888 Jan. 16	Boundary dispute with Nicaragua: The President	45
312	Mr. Rives to Mr. P. Perez Zeledon.	1888 Jan. 16	Boundary dispute with Nicaragua: The President has delegated to Mr. Rives his authority as arbi- trator of the treaty of limits between Nicaragua	45

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF COSTA RICA AT WASHINGTON—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
313	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Perez Zeledon.	M ar. 22	Boundary dispute with Nicaragua: The decision of the President as to the validity of the treaty of limits of 1858, between Nicaragua and Costa Rica, has been received in triplicate; one original is to be given to the representative of the Government of Costa Rica, one to the representative of the Government of Nicaragua, and one to be filed in the Department of State; the Department is appointed as the place of delivery.	456
314	Decision of the President of the United States, arbi- trator between Nicaragua and Costa Rica.	Mar. 22	Boundary dispute with Nicaragua: Boundary treaty of 1858, between Nicaragua and Costa Rica valid; Costa Rica has not the right to navigate the river San Juan with vessels of war, but may with vessels of her revenue service; answers the fourteen points of doubtful inter-	450 pretation communicated by Nicaragua; the report of Mr. G. L. Rives inclosed.
315	Mr. Perez Zeledon to Mr. Bayard.	Mar. 26	Boundary treaty with Nicaragua: A copy of the decision of the President as to the validity of the treaty of 1858, between Nicaragua and Costa	468
	는 함께 우일 말이다. 그루어 100분 등 이렇게 보고 다. 그는 소설을 하고 하는 것이 모든 100분 보고 보다.		Rica received; expresses the appreciation and obligation of his Government.
316	Señer Volio to Mr. Bayard	Sept. 19	Discriminatory duties, retaliatory, reported imposed on Costa Rican vessels in the United States; the 5 per cent. rebate given by the Costa Rican Government for services rendered in carrying mails, etc., not by way of preference or discriminatory, is open to all lines; the order of the United States Treasurer the result of	469
20.2			wrong information, and its annulment hoped for. Discriminatory duties on Costa Rican vessels in	470
317	Mr. Bayard to Señor Volio	Sept. 29	United States ports complained of as unjust, and the rebate granted to certain lines by the Costa Rican Government, on which the act of the	2"
			United States was based, denied to be a similar discrimination, by Señor Volio, on the ground that the same may be obtained by all lines; the argument not admissible; the rebate contrary to- favored-nation clause and equality of duties guarantied by Article VI of the treaty with Costa Rica, and compliance with the conditions on which it is granted not possible to foreign ves- sels; desire of the United States to develop the commerce of Central America and regret that this disapproval is necessary.

DENMARK.

	1887.		450
Mr. Bayard to Mr. Anderson (No. 53).	July 22	ating in favor of Russian and against American petroleum regarded as unfriendly discrimina-	472 to the Danish Government; requests copy of bill pending in the Danish legislature on the subject, upon receipt of which further instruc- tions will be sent.
Same to same (No. 55)	July 30	Protection of Swiss: For guidance in the protection of Swiss citizens in Denmark, a note to Mr. Kloss, Swiss chargé d'affaires, on the subject inclosed.	472
Mr. Porter to Mr. Anderson.	Sept. 8	Convict emigration to the United States: Representations have been made that Denmark furnishes convicts with clothes and money and sends them to the United States; the facts to be ascertained and reported to the Department.	473
Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard	Sept. 13	Petroleum bill pending in the Danish legislature and the Government remarks thereon inclosed.	473
	Oct. 12	Pork: A movement in Germany to compel Denmark to exclude American pork; pork from America reshipped in Denmark to Germany; trichinosis in Hamburg attributed to this source by the German Government, which de-	475
	(No. 53).  Same to same (No. 55)  Mr. Porter to Mr. Anderson.  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 152).	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Anderson July 22 (No. 53).  Same to same (No. 55) July 30  Mr. Porter to Mr. Anderson. Sept. 8  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 152).	Mr. Anderson (No. 53).  Same to same (No. 55)  Mr. Porter to Mr. Anderson (No. 152).  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 152).  Same to same (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 152).  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 152).  Same to same (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 152).  Same to same (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 152).  Same to same (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 152).  Same to same (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 152).  Same to same (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 152).  Same to same (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 152).  Same to same (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)  Yetroleum tests: A needlessly and top of bill genancy in the panish legislature and the Government remarks thereon inclosed.  Pork: A movement in Germany to compel Denmark to exclude American pork; pork from America reshipped in Denmark to Germany; trichinosis in Hamburg attributed to this

DENMARK-Continued.

	1		Page
	1887.		-
Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 156)—Continued.	Oct. 12	be made to exclude American pork; no trichi- nosis in Denmark, owing to thorough cooking; many cases in Germany because pork is eaten
Same to same (No. 159)	Oct. 18	Convict emigration to the United States: The reports of the sending of convicts to the United States from Denmark due to an article in the	470 been released from prison on condition that he been sent; he sailed for Scotland under an ason condition that they leave the country, but at liberty to go where they please; most go to the United States; circumstances of Reimonschnei.
		partner refuses parton; reports of sending paupers to America, but no particulars known; suspicious case of a pauper family; inspection at American perts advised; impossible to in-
Mr. Bayard to Mr. Anderson (No. 62).	Nov. 1	Pork: The reported attempt of Germany to in- fluence Denmark to exclude American pork im-	477
		ments to show the needlessness of such action and its harm to trade relations may be drawn
Same to same (No. 64)	Nev. 16	uedoriation of ex-criminals to the United States	478 copy of which has been sent to the Secretary of the Treasury; watchfulness to be continued and any actual case to be reported to the De-
Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 168).	Dec. 5	nation. Pork: A shipment of pork to Paris sold well; another to Bordeaux confiscated on the ground	478 that it was not; a correspondence between the two Governments on the matter; pork plague in Sweden and Denmark, which may lead to the many; possible that if excluded once, Germany will not admit Danish pork unless Denmark ex-Danish foreign office denies all intention of ex- cluding American pork; export of pork to Ger- many from Denmark, $5,333,000 annually, and Denmark will only exclude American pork when compelled by Germany and other countries, to
Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bay- ard (telegram).	Dec. 9	countries.  Extradition of J. A. Benson: J. A. Benson and brother, indicted in the United States for con-	479 mark will surrender them if the United States Government instructs a demand to be made for er la la companya di seriesa di seriesa di seriesa di seriesa di seriesa di seriesa di seriesa di seriesa di s Bianggiorna di seriesa di seriesa di seriesa di seriesa di seriesa di seriesa di seriesa di seriesa di seriesa		are United States citizens, that Benson is indicted, naming his crime, and if an order of arrest, issued by a proper court, is sent. Denmark
Mr. Rives to Mr. Anderson	Dec. 12	of police at the expense of the United States. Answer at once. Benson and accomplice in jail. Extradition of J. A. Benson: Benson indicted in	479
(vologiami).		ing land-grant papers; his description; his order of arrest, and other papers will be sent at once to Copenhagen with officer to receive him; assurances that Denmark extradites with-
Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (telegram).	Dec. 14	with treaty.  Extradition of J. A. Benson: Benson's identity certain; send officer to receive him at once;  Denmark will extradic without treaty; key to	480
	Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 168).  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 168).  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 168).  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (telegram).	Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 168).  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 168).  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (telegram).  Dec. 9  Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (telegram).	Same to same (No. 159)  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18  Oct. 18

DENMARK-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
	ř	1887.
330	Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (No. 184).	Dec. 16	Extradition of J. A. Benson: His brother will be released from jail December 21, and sail for New York the same day.	480
331	Same to same (No. 187)	Dec. 22	Pork shipped to New York from Denmark. An	480 epidemic among hogs in that country. Germans attempt to give the idea that the disease was imported from America.
332	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Anderson (No. 68.)	1888. Jan. 6	Extradition of J. A. Benson: The Department of Justice at once informed that the Danish Government would surrender John A. Benson, charged with fraud, and steps taken to procure evidences of his guilt; delay on account of difficulty of procuring proofs; copies of twelve indictments found against him, with warrants of arrest, transmitted; the Danish Government	481 to be requested to give copies of the telegrams
			Benson sent and received, and any other evidences of guilt.
3 33	Same to same (telegram)	Jan. 7	Extradition of J. A. Benson: Papers sent. Will Benson be delivered to United States officers,	481
334	Mr. Anderson to Mr. Bayard (telegram).	Jan. 8	Extradition of J. A. Benson: His identity established; will be delivered to United States officer; send officer at once.	482
335	Same to same (No. 199)	Feb. 1	Franks he sailed for United States January 30th pltime. Benson and brother, under the names of	482
		,	Pomeroy and Franks, claimed to have come from Canada to England to buy cattle; clippings from newspapers in regard to Benson and similar	, cases found in their trunks excited suspicion; in- formation communicated to United States min-	12.1
			affairs, and his promise to extradite the criminals; telegrams of 9th and 11th, and answer of the Department of the 12th, ordering demand 1			the Department of the 12th, ordering demand for extradition; arrival of Marshall Franks with indictments; Danish officer allowed to accomfor extradition; arrival of Marshall Franks with indictments; Danish officer allowed to accompany the prisoner to the border, but not to Bremen, to avoid complications with Germany; telegraphed to Consul Loening, at Bremen, who
336	Same to same (No. 202)	Feb. 3	promised assistance.  Pork: Efforts of Germany and Sweden and Norway to induce Denmark to exclude American pork by threatening to prohibit importation of	483
			Danish pork; Danish pork-raisers endeavoring to effect the same end; claim that the swine disease was imported from America.
337	Same to same (No. 207)	Feb. 24	disease was imported from America.  Extradition of J. A. Benson: Most of the papers requested of the Danish Government in the	484
			Benson case sent with United States marshal; thirteen telegrams, sent by Benson, inclosed.
338	Same to same (No. 208)	Feb. 24	Discrimination against United States vessels: Note	484 formed if there was any discrimination against United State vessels in Danish ports, and the baron's reply inclosed.	1 1
339	Same to same (No. 209)	Feb. 25	cular of July 9, 1887, made the subject of two	485 notes, one requesting the information desired, the other inviting the co-operation of Denmark;
			no reply received to the second, but efforts be- ing made to abolish all tonnage and navigation
340	Same to same (No. 210)	Feb. 27	charges. Petroleum tests: The upper house of the Rigsdag expected to amend the petroleum bill so as to make the fire test of petroleum 40 degrees	488
341	Same to same (No. 214)	Mar. 12	Celsius.  Pork: Importation of American pork prohibited on the 10th instant; translation of the published	486
342	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Anderson (No. 80).	Mar. 24	order. Petroleum tests: The progress of the petroleum bill in the Rigsdag to be watched, and such representations to be made to the Danish Government as American interests require; letter to the Department from Mr. Flagg, attorney of the Standard Oil Company, inclosed.	487

DENMARK—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
343	Mr. Andersonto Mr. Bayard (No. 216.)	Арг. 2	Petroleum tests: Telegram to the Department to the effect that a higher petroleum test would seriously injure American commerce with Denmark communicated to the foreign office; an amendment to the petroleum bill reported, raising the fire test to 40 degrees Celsins; no legislation on the subject probable this session.	487
	CORRESPONDENCE WIT	H THE I	EGATION OF DENMARK AT WASHINGTON
		T.	,
314	Count Sponneck to Mr. Bayard.	1888. Mar. 26	Citizenship of C. A. B. Johnson: He petitions to be released from his United States citizenship; born in the United States, but has resided ever since he was 2 years old and intends to remain in Denmark; made a citizen of Denmark by special law, which requires that evidence must be submitted within a year of release from for-	488
315	Mr. Bayard to Count Sponneck.	Apr. 10	eign citizenship; such a release requested for Mr. Johnson; his petition and certificate of birth inclosed.  Citizenship of C. A. B. Johnson: The Department can not give the certificate of release from American citizenship, but expatriation recognized by United States Government, and posi-	489
			tion of the Department that naturalization or renaturalization in a foreign country takes away rights of American citizenship; in this case there is also applicable the rule that a child born in a foreign country, during minority has the domicile of its parents, but may elect when sui juris, and the best proof of election is continued residence and discharge of the duties of a citizen of the country elected.
			ECUADOR.
346	Mr. Reinberg to Mr. Rives (No. 161).	1888. Oct. 17	River and coasting trade of Ecuador open after January 1, 1889, to vessels flying foreign flags by decree of Ecuadorian Congress; the right to stop all traffic and close any or all ports dur-	490
347	Mr. Rives to Mr. McGarr (No. 60).	Oct. 24	ing revolution or war reserved. Claims against Ecuador; Ecuadorian law exempting country therefrom; its provisions stated; United States regards them as subversive of principles of international law, and can not acquiesce in any attempt on the part of Ecuador to use such law as an answer to a claim presented by it.	490
			FRANCE.
$\overline{}$		105-
348	Mr. Vignaud to Mr. Bay- ard (No. 471).	1887. Aug. 29	Tonnage and navigation dues: Mr. Flourens has submitted the matter to his colleagues; he de- sires three copies of Department's circular of July 9, 1887.	493
849	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane (No. 268).	Oct. 20	Case of J. Fruchier: Information requested as to progress made in the case of J. Fruchier, to answer the letter of the governor of Nevada; the letter of the governor of Nevada to Mr. Bayard and Mr. Bayard's reply inclosed.	493
350	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard (No. 495).	Nov. 4	Case of J. Fruchier: The French Government has declined, as usual, to take any action in the case of John Fruchier, on the ground that no Frenchman can be discharged from military service because he has acquired a foreign citizenship unless he has the judgment of a French civil court recognizing his change of nationality; did not report the answer because it is the usual one, and is following it up with a view of questioning the propriety and justice of the position of the French Government.	493

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1887.
351	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard	Nov. 18	Medal struck by the committee of the Bartholdi	494
	(No. 505).		Statue, in honor of the President's presence at its inauguration, and a letter accompanying it from M. de Lesseps, the president of the committee, to President Cleveland inclosed.
352	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane	Dec. 3	Medal for the President, commemorative of the	494
002	(No. 278).		inauguration of the Statue of Liberty, received.	405
353	Mr. Vignaud to Mr. Bayard	Dec. 16	Case of Albert Gendrot, an American citizen, sum-	495
	(No. 519).		moned to perform military service in France; His father came to America in 1847; in 1870
	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·		went for a short time to France; in 1885 went	1
			again to France with his family: Albert Genuiu.	i `		aged nineteen, an artist, had an American pass-	1 port : ordered to join his regiment, to which he
- 1			protested; protest of Mr. McLane to Mr. Flourens; Gendrot imprisoned November 8; Mr. McLane's note requesting his release; Mr.
			Flouren's reply announcing his release not altogether satisfactory: Mr. Gendrot again ordered to join his regiment and threatened with arrest;
			Mr. Vigraud's note calling Mr. Flouren's atten-	6 30
954	Same to same (No. 520)	Dec. 20	tion to the fact.  Case of A. Gendrot: Note received from Mr.	497
354	Daine to Santo (110. 020)	100. 40	Flourens, the 16th instant, stating that no irreg-	1
			ularity had been committed in the case of Gen-	1
			drot who being the son of a Frenchman. Was	1 liable to military service in France though
		-	born in another country; replied that the United States Government would not admit his	ĺ of the		pretention, begging him to defer action and examine the principles in a friendly spirit; note of Mr. Vignaud to Mr. Flourens, December 15,
	25 D 34 35 35-T	T 00	and Mr. Flouren's reply of the 17th, inclosed. Case of A. Gendrot: Action in the case of A. F.	498
355	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane (No. 285).	Dec. 28	Gendrot approved : good offices to be continued	1
	(140. 200).		Gendrot approved; good offices to be continued to obtain his relief from military obligations;	100
			Gendrot to be informed that remaining in 1.1	France after becoming of age may cause him to be regarded as a Frenchman, and his only course to return to America.	1000
35 6	Mr. Vignaud to Mr. Bayard	Dec. 29	Case of A. Gendrot: Mr. Flouren's reply to the	499
000	(No. 526).	200. 20	last note insisting upon the discharge of Gen-	1
	(210.020)1		drot that the minister of war can not comply with this request without a judgment of a civil court that Gendrot is not a French citizen; by the laws of France the courts can declare one naturalized abroad not a Frenchman, but one born
1.,			of French parents is considered a Frenchman,	1
		4 3 4 4	and Gendrot's application to the courts would be of no avail; learning that he was about to be arrested, he has left France; Mr. Flouren's	1 1 1 1 1
		1888.	note of December 28 inclosed.	1000
357	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane	Jan. 13	Treaty between France and King of Johanna:	500
	(No. 287).		Dispatch received from consulat Zanzibar that
	한 병이 불쾌하는 사람들은 것이다.		a treaty has been made between France and the	-
		100	King of Johanna, and the statement is made in print that France has taken possession of that Island; a statement of France's relations with that island and copies of any treaties made to be	100
		1	asked of the French Government for the pro-
	a	T 20	tection of American citizens there.	500
3 58	Same to same (No. 289)	Jan. 23	Pork: The legation to use every effort to induce	300
			the withdrawal of the prohibition of American pork; dispatch from Consul Dufais, relative to	1 renewed efforts at Havre to effect a repeal of	1
			the prohibitory laws, inclosed.	1
359	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard	Jan. 24	Cases of Arbois and Fruchier: Pierre Arbois and	502
	(No. 538).	1	John Fruchier, American citizens, serving in the French army; contends, in note to Mr.	1
			Flourens, that the claim by the United States is	1 a sufficient proof of American citizenship, and de-	1
			clines to go before the courts; formally renewed	1
			the demand for the release of Americans in	1
			French army, and claims the same rights for American born citizens of French parents as for Frenchmen who are naturalized Ameri-	1 1
	l e tra julio 1000 an est		can citizens; note closes with an effort to impress the necessity of equitable arrangement
		1	and a promise to consider any proposition to that end; from conversations with Mr. Flou-	1
		1	rens expects some agreement will be reached as	1.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Pa
		1000		-
359	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard	1888. Jan. 24	to mode of establishing at an
	(No. 538)—Continued.	Juli. 21 position shown by Mr. Flourens to yield in the matter of native Americans born of French parents; note to Mr. Flourens, January 24,	1
360	Mn Powerd to Mr. 35 7	1	1000, Inclused.
00	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane (No. 292).	Feb. 3	Convict deportation to the United States from	1 5
	(140. 292).	1	Taului: Life Denartment plagged of the speed-	1 '
13.		1		1
			ucportation of criminals from Tabiti to the United States; copy of dispatch from the United States commercial agent at Nourmé, covering	- copy of the decree inclosed.
61	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard	Feb. 9	Convict emigration from New Caledonia to the	١.
	(No. 543).
- 1			Udicullia III relation to facilities given liber
			ateu convicts to come to the United States in	1
32	Same to same (No E4E)	-	Clused.	ĺ
"	Same to same (No. 545)	Feb. 9	Pork: No information of an attempt to repeal the	١ ٤
- 1		1 .	1000 DIVILLUIT THE IMPORTATION OF A merican	Ĭ
- 1		1	UULK Utiler than the newspaper articles trans
- 1		1	mirror by Mr. Dulais: no notice taken by the	1 Government of it; note to Mr. Flourens stat- ing instruction received, and reminding him of
-1		1
- 1
- [
1		la di sasari sa	dwale of previous interviews with Mr. Florings	1
- 1	그 이 그는 집안 되었다면 나를 살을 내가	Para de Sa
1		-	TOTAL CHAPTER DAIL INCHING WORLD be produced by
1			this discrimination; result of efforts for the
-			repeal of the prohibitory laws uncertain on account of political agitation; refers to previous
- [			dispatches for history of legation's action in
- 1
- 1			VI COMMETCIAL PERSIONS has provented a mason
-		100
- 1			110HI the executive a decrea substituting in-
-			SUCCEDED OF A INCIDENT MARK and its admission of
-		-
-			agement ever given by any minister to hope for satisfactory results from the present Chamber. contenting of M. M. H.
1		4
			clusion of a particular import is a domestic
:	garage and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the same and the sam
	Same to same (No. 505)	Feb. 14	Letters regetery issued by the count of	51
1		44.4	pleas of New York sent to Mr. Rathbone. pleas of New York sent to Mr. Rathbone, transmitted by the legation to the foreign office, and returned to the legation to 1			quest for the precise address of the parties, and
1			for information whether such letters issued by a French court of justice would be executed
1.			III bill Utilifed States: the letter exection and
	W. D. 11 32 33 5	!	mitted to the Department
1	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane	Feb. 15	Citizenship and military service. Three maintain	51
	(No. 298).	ì	ucate with in Mr. McLana's note of January 24
1
1
1			Output States of French narantage. (2) Notar
		}	class I there is no greation, the interest as to
1		-1	class 1 there is no question; the international rule of law in case 2 is that a child born in one
1	$$4. St. 1
1	ny dia n
-	See grant Library		twenty-one, which is indicated by residence; such persons, who have elected the United
1	ing set of the		such persons, who have elected the United
	A+4
1	(A)
1	A 4.
1 certification of such naturalization, putting it on the basis of a competent domestic court, cer-1
	(1)		HIGH IS ALC HIHIMINIONS: The Henortment will
1	esas de la comunicación de la la la la la la la la la la la la la granted, and will not grant protection where one is shown to be fraudulent, but does not recognize the right of a familiary that the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the st
			OHE IS Shown to be fraudulent but door
1.			ognize the right of a foreign court or govern-

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
364	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane (No. 298)—Continued.	1888. Feb. 15	naturalized citizen of the United States is liable to punishments on returning to France, for of-
		1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	fenses committed before naturalization, not discussed here; Mr. Flourens to be informed that adecree of naturalization granted by the United States Government can not be impeached by that of France, and if American citizens are they are not American citizens, they are to be released and damages paid for detention; im- portance of summary action in such cases to be presented; United States citizens accused of no crime not to be held in arrest a single day; such summary action always granted by the United States: no foreigner held to military duty in the United States when his release
5			was requested; the few Americans in France not needed in her armies; such a course will	H.
			exclude American merchants of French birth from buying goods in France; does not think that France will take a position conflicting with free principles, with the business interests and international comity of the two countries, and with the system on which the United States 65	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard (No. 551).	Feb. 16	Government is based.  Mails: The memorial of American merchants requesting that French mails be sent by the	51 fastest line brought to the notice of the French Government; note from Mr. Flourens, that such is the policy of the French parts of the rest.
66	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane	Feb. 24	is the policy of the French postal department, inclosed.  Case of J. Fruchier, naturalization, etc.: The po-	51
	(No. 302).		sition of this Government on the right of expa- triation and the sufficiency of the judicial de-	0.
			cree in proof of that fact summarized in answer to Mr. Stewart's letter in the case of John	1,33
			Fruchier; this case a good one to test the question in controversy; copies of correspondence with the French Government in relation to it to be sent the Department; Senator Stewart's letter to Mr. Bayard covering the letter of Governor Stevenson in reference to J. Fruchier's
67	Same to same (No. 303)	Feb. 24	case, and Mr. Bayard's reply inclosed.  Pork: Report on the pork question and course in the matter approved.	51
68	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard (No. 554).	Feb. 24	Protectorate of France over Johanna Island: Mr.	51 protectorate of Johanna Island by virtue of two treaties of April 21, 1886, and October 15, 1887; translations of Mr. Flourens's note and of
69	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane	Mar. 1	Submarine Cables Convention: The act of Con-	51
	(No. 306).		gress in conformity with article 12 of the convention for the protection of submarine cables, and the President's ratification of the declaration and final protocol of the International Con- vention for the Protection of Submarine Cables inclosed for transmission to the French Gov-
70	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard (No. 560).	Mar. 2	ernment.  Military service in the French army by American citizens: Dispatch from the Department, No. 298, upon the subject of American citizens of	51
			French parentage summoned to do duty in France delivered to Mr. Flourens; the point pressed that an American citizen forced into the army on the supposition that he is not an American citizen, must be released and paid compensation for detention; two Americans in French army not detained a ground that the French army not detained on ground that they are not American, but that the claim of the legation is not sufficient proof; distinction may be made, but questions practically same; note to Mr. Flourens directed against the preten- sion that the American minister or the citizen must go before a court to establish American citizenship; doubts if the Department's No.
			·298 authorizes him to demand the immediate release of Arbios and Fruchier and compensation; fears Mr. Flourens may not think it does:
- 1	H. Ex. 1, pt. 1	-V1	Americans will not be released until they have	l.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1888.		1
370	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard (No. 560)—Continued.	Mar. 2	a judgment of a court; did not call Mr. Flour- ens's attention to the case of American-born
371	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane (No. 308).	Mar. 6	citizens not of French parentage.  Letters rogatory from courts of foreign countries are executed according to United States statutes, which are explained in the Depart-	520
372	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard (No. 566).	Mar. 7	ment's circular of March 25, 1887, inclosed.  Case of J. Fruchier: Reply of Mr. Flourens to the demand for the release of Fruchier the same	52 as reply made to demand for release of Arbios and others; Fruchier's a good test case; no an- swer received to note of January 11; did not make a new demand on presenting copy of Department's No. 298 to Mr. Flourens; not advisable to press the matte before receiving his answer; Mr. McLane to Mr. Flourens, May 5, and Mr. Flourens's reply of June 14 inclosed.
373	Same to same (No. 573)	Mar. 23	Cases of Fruchier and Arbios: A personal note addressed to Mr. Flourens upon receiving Department's No. 302 informing him that instructions had been again given in the case of Fruchier, which was deemed a proper case to test the	52 principle involved; stating that a personal call had been made the day before to request an answer to note of January 11.; intention not to discuss the matter until receipt of an answer from Mr. Flourens changed on account of the delay; the release of Arbios and Fruchier, pending the discussion of the principles involved, by the two Governments, urged in person; Mr. Flourens's promise to recommend their release, and anticipation of difficulty of effecting it, owing to war regulations, and his further promise to bring the matter before the ministers.
74	Same to same (No. 575)	Mar. 29	ise to bring the matter before the ministers.  Political situation in France and the Boulanger incident.	52
75 76	Same to same (No. 579) Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane	Apr. 6 Apr. 6	Claim of B. F. Wilson against the sultan of Jo-	52 52
	(No. 320).		hanna: By the treaty of April 21, 1886, France is to arbitrate any dispute in regard to previous deeds and conventions between the sultan of Johanna and others; Dr. B. F. Wilson, an American citizen, claims damages of the sultan for violation of contract in regard to furnishing labor for a sugar plantation, destruction of	* property, and attempt to have him killed in 1882; the defense that Dr. Wilson aided Mohammed, who was inrevolt; the charge denied, and the denial corroborated by Mohammed's principal officer; no reply received to a commu- nication to the sultan on the subject; the case one coming under the treaty of 1886, if desired by Dr. Wilson, and the matter to be placed ver- bally before the French Government to know whether it will direct its resident to receive proofs in the case, and whether, having these proofs, it will arbitrate the claim, or other steps
77	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard (No. 584).	Apr. 16	are needed for obtaining French arbitration. Submarine Cables Convention: All powers, parties to the Convention for the Protection of Submarine Cables have convenied with Article	52
			Submarine Cables, have complied with Article XII of said convention, and it will go into operation May 1; French minister at Washington to give formal notification; list of powers who have adhered to the convention, and laws adopted by some of them in conformity with Article XII, inclosed.
78	Same to same (No. 588)	Apr. 20	Political situation in France, and the Boulanger incident.	52
79	Same to same (No. 589)	Apr. 20	Passport of Henry Asché: Qualified passports issued to children of naturalized Americans residing abroad and not intending to reside in	52
			the United States; instruction asked; pass- port issued to Hénry Asché, born at Bassorah, 1866, who has never resided in the United States and has no intention of so doing; his father, a German, naturalized in 1854; few years later went to Bassorah, and died in 1870 in business there; residence in Turkey no evidence the father meant to abandon American citizenship, and his son, a United States citizen by our laws; had he a right to a passport?

Ñο.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1888.
880	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard (No. 594).	Apr. 27	Cases of Fruchier, Arbois, and Gendrot: Mr. Goblet replies to the note of January 11, demanding the release of Arbois, Fruchier, and	53
	o la jajanja o jajan katan najara asebata di Ma		Gendrot, that the French Government does	1
			not question the validity of any act of natural-	ł ization of the United States Government, but has a right to determine whether the French-	1
	[ [ [ [ [ [ ] ] ] ] ] [ [ ] ] [ [ ] ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ] [ ]		man naturalized abroad is under any obligation to France; that the discussion of this point is	1
	이 그 보이 살림 작네네지를 걸게		waived, and Arbois and Fruchier are released	1 on furlough as a favor by the minister of war; that the minister of war and himself ready to that the minister of war and himself ready to consider any proposition to settle the question; the men technically subject to military service still will communicate views to Department before addressing proposition for settlement of the question to Mr. Gobiet; Mr. Gobiet's note
0.1	Mr. Beword to Mr. McLone	Apr. 27	inclosed. Letters regatory, execution of, in New York for	53
81	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane (No. 330).	Apr. 21	foreign courts: Extract from the code of New
	(1.0.000).		York as to manner of taking testimony in suits
	[1] - 100의 등학원(1985년) [2]		pending in foreign countries inclosed.	52
82	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard	Apr. 27	Political situation in France and the Boulanger	58
33	(No. 595). Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane	May 7	incident. Passport of Henry Asché: Importance of the	58
טע	(No. 335).	ATEM, 7	Passport of Henry Asché: Importance of the question of citizenship; a statement of the
	A 12 - 1		qualifications attached to the passport of Henry	- Asché desired; not understood how he can be
- 1		-	of Turkey: no passport can certify a qualified
	entropias de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de la comp La companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de la co		an American citizen, yet subject to the claims of Turkey; no passport can certify a qualified citizenship; résumé of the facts in Asché's	1900
14			l coco - donattul right of A sche's father to a bass-
	[전송 - 1. 1.		port, A sché himself not entitled; the question of what right he would have had to a passport had his father's and his residence in Turkey	1 had his father's and his residence in Turkey been continuous not considered; American citizenship abandoned by non-intention of returning to America; his passport to be recalled and canceled; doubtful cases to be submitted	F
			to the Department before issuing passports.
84	Mr. Vignaud to Mr. Bayard	May 24	Mr Lalanne's application for a certificate of ex-	58
	(No. 608).	-	emption from French military service: La- lanne born in France April 3, 1855; went to
	1.0	l	America on a French passport in 1874; declared
		1	his intention of becoming an American citizen
		1	in 1976 and obtained naturalization naners on the day of making the declaration; he voted at the Presidential election in 1884; original nat- uralization papers being lost, he obtained copies pralization papers being lost, he obtained copies 김 희롱 환경하다 보다는 병기는		and went to France; summoned to perform military service, he applied for a certificate of exemption; informed that such a certificate military service, he applied for a certificate of exemption; informed that such a certificate could not be issued, but he must establish his	1 nationality before a court; did not authenticate his certificate because he had been in the United States less than three years when obtained; as i ilian	he could have obtained another, the Department's advice is requested; correspondence with Mr. Lalanne on the subject inclosed.
85	Same to same (No. 610)	May 25	Passport of H. Asché: Mr. Asché's qualified passport, disapproved by the Department, was issued under paragraph 173, Consular Regulations 1881, in the qualified Form No. 11, as	5
		1	port, disapproved by the Department, was
			tions 1881 in the analified Form No. 11 as	1
	NAME OF THE RESIDENCE OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PA		directed by the above paragraph; the form
			directed by the above paragraph; the form not canceled by the Department, not in new Consular Regulations, but they had just ar- rived and had not been examined: Mr. Asché	1
			Consular Regulations, but they had just ar-	Ì
	16. ann à Mhaillain de c		rived and had not been examined: Mr. Asche requested to return passport: satisfied that he	1
	#당시는 기계를 제공하다는 기계		is not a bona fide citizen of the United States.	1
	[종호]는 아이가 하고 말을 안내면		is not a bona fide citizen of the United States, but thought he was technically entitled to a
	G	Ma- 00	passport.	1
886	Same to same (No. 615)	. May 30	Passport of H. Asché: Passport returned by Mr. Asché and canceled; he remarked that he was	5 placed in the position of a man having no na-	1
			tionality, as he could not claim German or Turk-	1
			ish citizenship, whereas there was an American	1
		1	statute recognizing him as a citizen.	1

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
	16 W	1888.
387	Mr. Vignaud to Mr. Bayard (No. 617).	May 3	Passports: New supply of passport-application	539
	(140. 017).		blanks telegraphed for; a large proportion of applicants naturalized American citizens, and	1
			the instructions of the Department enforcible in only a few cases; answers to following questions asked: 1. Is a passport to be refused to the wife or widow of a naturalized citizen who	1 has not her husband's naturalization papers?
			2. To a citizen who has lost or left at home his	1
• 1	다 돈이 하십 명명에 되는 데이어		naturalization papers? 3. To one who can not state when he will return to the United States,	1 - or whether he will or not? Children born abroad whose parents were naturalized citizens residing permanently abroad not entitled to passport; discretion will be used in the similar passport; discretion will be used in the similar case of the children of native Americans; German regulations require that foreigners visiting Germany by way of Alsace Lorraine after May	١.
			31 must have passports which are to be vissed
			at the German embassy in Paris: the cost of	l
			31 must have passports which are to be visaed at the German embassy in Paris; the cost of visaing raised from 1.90 to 12.50 francs; French passports made to wait ten or twelve days: ior-
388	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Vignaud	June 7	eign visaed at once. Passport to Henry Aschd, Paragraph 172 and Form	240
	(No. 341).		Passport to Henry Asche: Paragraph 173 and Form 1 of the Consular Regulations of 1881 were su	540, 1000			Derseded in 1885 by section 131 of Printed Personal instructions to Diplomatic Officers which Units reference to qualified passports hara.
389	Same to same (No. 342)	June 8
000	Same to same (110.342)	оппе о	Passport of Mr. Lalanne: Particulars in the case of the application for	540 of the application for a passport by Mr. Lalanne; Mr. Vignaud's letter to Mr. Lalanne di-
1			recting him to establish his citizenship before a French court: Mr. Lalanne's naturalization illegal; Mr. Lalanne doubtful of the correctness of the transcript; he could have become a citizen in October, 1876; inquiries as to the corzen in October, 1876; inquiries as to the correctness of the transcript will be made; nat- uralization illegal if transcript correct; only 3.00 00 00 00		necessary to have informed Mr. Lalanne that the legation could not intervene, as his papers did not establish naturalization; statement of
	and will be the first of		position of the French Government superfluous and liable to misconstruction; giving occasion
	그 문화학교는 과하는 모르고 싶었다.		for the supposition, indirectly or by implica- tion, that the United States will permit the ar-	100
10.7			rest of their citizens not charged with crime to
		_ '	be carefully avoided.
390	Same to same (No. 343)	June 13	Passports: The wife or widow of a naturalized	542 citizen, and a naturalized citizen, should first	l
			be required to produce the original certificate of naturalization or certified copy; cases enu-	l
			merated in which parol proof of lost passport is	l
- 1	1		admissible; passport to be refused to a natural-	I
			ized citizen who can not state when or whether	1
- 1			he will return to the United States; passports	l
	in the structure is		to be refused to children who have never been in the United States, whose parents are natu-
4			ralized citizens permanently residing abroad,
			unless the passport is given for the purpose of	ŀ
			assuming the duties of American citizenship;	1
			if the father's renunciation of citizenship pre-	1
			cedes the birth of the child no passport can be issued.	1
391	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane	June 14	P. Jacob, military service in France: Correspond-	543
	(No. 344).		ence relative to the case on file in the lega-	510
	a par		tion; facts in the case published in Foreign Re-	1 4 4
J. 7			lations for 1884; in view of the present aspect	100
	·		of the question of French-American citizens it	i
	Paragram of the control of the		is not deemed advisable to make the demand suggested by M. Ferry, but it is hoped Jacob's
	[다양편] 회 시민을 보고 있다		name, in view of the fact that he has served his	1
			term and no practical question remains, will be	i struck from the reserves; Mr Jacob renews his request that his name be erased from the his request that his name be erased from the French military rolls and his American citizen-	1
			ship recognized; Mr. Jacob's letter and the Department's reply inclosed.	l
39 2	Mr. Vignaud to Mr. Bayard	June 25	Passports: More than two hundred and fifty	545
	(No. 628),		Passports: More than two hundred and fifty issued since May 25; German regulations re-	020
			quire servants to have passports.	l

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Pag
	ering pipeling ang transfer on any order are any order and fill and the collection and the proper angelore.	1888.
393	Mr. Vignaud to Mr. Bayard (No. 629).	une 25	Passport of Mr. Cipriani: Application for a passport for Mr. Cipriani supported by Consular	5
	그렇지요 충격하는 하는 이상이다.		Agent Damiani received from the United States consul at Marseilles; passport issued; copy of letter to Mr. Mason, United States consul, giv-	l ing reasons for issuing it. Mr. Ciprionila and	1
			ing reasons for issuing it; Mr. Cipriani's appli- cation and copies of his note to Mr. McLane	1 and Mr. Damiani's letter to the consulate at	l
			Marseilles inclosed.	1
94	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane	June 30	Naturalization, parol proof of: Instructions in No.	5
	(No. 350).	1	343 to be referred to in regard to parol proof	1
			of naturalization; record always to be pro-	1
			duced and parol proof allowed in exceptional cases; every proper case of inability to produce	l.
			the certificate of naturalization covered by 343;
	The figure of the second		care to be used in issuing passports.
95	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard	July 2	Passports: parol proof of naturalization: Tele-	1
	(No. 631).		gram refusing discretion in granting passports gram refusing discretion in granting passports received; instructions as to whether par. 120, Art. XII, Dip. Per. Instrs. dispense with other proof than a passport from the Department	l .
		100	proof than a passport from the Department. The practice to issue a new passport in place of one from the Department not two years old:
1			of one from the Department not two years old; difficulty of complying with conditions for pa- rol proof laid down in 343; discrimination be-
- 1			rol proof laid down in 343; discrimination be-	1
			tween naturalized and native-born citizens; many Americans wi hout their certificates on	ĺ account of disuse of passports and can not account of disuse of passports, and can not procure them in time for their necessities; will observe instruction 343 in the matter.
6	Same to same (No. 633)	July 6	Passport of Felix Poyard and children. Passport granted to Felix Poyard and children, who has
.			resided in Bordeaux since 1860; fourth point of instruction No 343 strained and declaration to	a a literatura. National return vague; Poyard's son, aged seventeen,	Ď.
			applies for a passport, and Department instruc-97	Mr. Demand to Mr. Mr. T.	T 1 . 11	tions as to granting are requested.
"	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane (No. 357).	July 11	Passport of Mr. Cipriani: Granting a passport to Mr. Cipriani approved; facts establishing his (240.001).		citizenship: the question not of his storns citizenship; the question not of his status, but of the form of proof of citizenship; no information of interference with Mr. Cipriani's I 8	Come to some (No 250)	T1 10	rights; newspaper statements not understood. Passport of Mr. Twyeffort: Letter of Mr. Twy-
0	Same to same (No. 358)	July 16	effort alleging the refusal of Mr. McLane to	ं
	사람이 되었다.		renew his passport issued in 1879 because of his inability to produce proof of naturalization
		2.1	and the Department's reply inclosed.  Passport of Felix Poyard: French domicil with
9	Same to same (No. 359)	July 20	Passport of Felix Poyard: French domicil with Intent to remain a renunciation of American	100 citizenship, and deprives of right to passport; minor children in such a case have less preten-minor children in such a case have less preten- sion to a passport. The applicant can establish
	O (AT- 000)	T-1 00	his right by acts of citizenship.
0	Same to same (No. 360)	July 20	Passports: No discrimination between native
.			and naturalized citizens; the best proof always to be produced; affidavit and personal identification the best proof with natives; naturaliza- tion can be proved by the records of a court, and tion can be proved by the records of a court. and i inspection of the record of a certified convitable. I of the best and sole proof of the action of the	i court; exception when the original record is lost or destroyed; importance of the relation final dense in the		zen; naturalization a judicial act, and must be zen; naturalization a judicial act, and must be proved like other judgments; the hardships more apparent than real; certificates easily and inexpensively procured; duplicates can be taken abread or obtained in a formicht but tolewach more apparent than real; certificates easily and
.			abroad or obtained in a fortnight by tale
ı			abroad or obtained in a fortnight by telegraphing from Europe; instructions can not be altered; Americans residing abroad can be opnorı		100	tered; Americans residing abroad can be oppor- tunely informed that they must provide them selves with proofs of citizenship; the question
- 1	at the secretary to the cold		whether a passport not two years old dispenses with other proof affirmatively answered in

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
	The second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second secon	1888.
401	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard	July 23	Passport of Max Hellman: A passport issued to	55
	(No. 645).		Mr. Max Hellman, a naturalized citizen of the United States whose papers of naturalization were in New York, on his promise to produce them; Mr. Hellman well known to Mr. McLane
100			and has passports heretofore given by the State
102	Same to same (No. 651)	July 30	Department and the legation at Paris.	55
104	Eame to Bame (110.001)1	0 41, 00	Passport of Mr. Poyard and children: Concurs with the Department in its view that the fact	99 should be established that the applicant for passport does not intend to abandon Ameri-	' can citizenship: their general declaration accepted as to intention; Mr. Poyard's declara- tion to return as soon as he could as vague as	1
			any received, and passport would not have been	1 issued except for the opinion that he would return and perform his duties as a citizen; No. 359 not understood to require specific designa-
	-		tion of time of intended return, but intention
	(1 ( AY 070)	T 1 01	of applicants will be carefully ascertained.
103	Same to same (No. 652)	July 31	Passports: Will observe instructions Nos. 358 and 360 upon issuance of pasports; Russia the	55 only country requiring passports until lately:
			only country requiring passports until lately; case of Mr. Hellman; not respectful to press	1
			the question of exercise of discretion in grant-	1
			ing passports, when the technical legal proof of naturalization can not be produced at the	1 moment; did not need to be told what is strict legal proof; the class of cases in which discre-ion to be employed indicated in No. 631; might have mentioned the individuals who found themselves in Europe without their naturaliza-
	M. D	4 10	tion papers.	55
.04	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane (No. 367).	Aug. 10	Passport of Max Hellman, who did not produce	3
	(140. 507).		a certificate of naturalization, upon the strength of former passports granted by this Department and Mr. McLane's personal knowledge, is approved; formal proof dispensed with by per-
	[1] 프로젝트 제 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1 - 1		approved; formal proof dispensed with by per-
105	Mr. Adee to Mr. McLane	Aug. 15	sonal knowledge of minister. Passports: The points and the exceptional case	55
	(No. 370).	Ü	mentioned in the request for further discretion in the granting of passports covered by Dein the granting of passports covered by De-406	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard (No. 661).	Aug. 16	partment's recent instruction.  A Jacob military service of in France. The	55
			A. Jacob, military service of, in France: The attention of the French authorities again called to the case of Alfred Jacob. M. Goblet called to the case of Alfred Jacob. M. Goblet states that the military authorities will dis- charge Jacob as soon as he obtains permission from the French Government to assume American citizenship; no remarks made upon the 1		reply, but an inquiry addressed to M. Goblet	1
			whether his Government held a Frenchman could not become an American citizen without	1
	A		being previously authorized to do so, and, if	i · being previously authorized to do so, and, if such was the case, how the authorization was to be procured. This inquiry made because 12.5 4.78	the French pretension is so general as to be
	[H. B. S. S. S. S. S. S. S. S. S. S. S. S. S.		applicable to naturalized citizens of French origin as well as to those born in the United States of French parents; Mr. Goblet asked to agree upon some settlement of this question;	1 note to Mr. Goblet on the case of Alfred Jacob, and Mr. Goblet's reply, inclosed.
07	Same to same (No. 665)	Aug. 24	Political situation in France and the Boulanger incident.	5
08	Same to same (No. 684)	Oct. 4	Registration of foreigners: Decree of the French	5
			Government requiring foreigners intending to	1
		1.00	France to register in fifteen days or a month, and	1 furnish evidence of nationality; travelers ex-	1
		1	empted; difference between domicile and residence in France; difference made between for-	1 eigners resident and domiciled in France for- merly great, now small, such as inability to teach a primary school, liability to summary expulsion and requirement of a bond in the case of residents and not of those domiciled; statement of nationality and birth to be supported by docu-	1
			mentary proof, probably a passport; great num-	1
			ber of applications for passports expected at the legation, and consequent embarrassment;	1

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1888.
408	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard	Oct. 4	passports will be refused to those Americans
¥,-	(No. 684)—Continued.		who do not intend to return or who do not know whether they will or not, and probably	!
			to those who are uncertain when they will re-	1 turn; Department's attention called to these cases on account of serious consequences which may result; translation of the above decree inclosed.
409	Same to same (No. 692)	Oct. 19	Political: Revision of constitution; General Bou-	55
410	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane	Oct. 26	langer. Passports of Mr. Jules Jacobs irregularly	56
410	(No. 393).	000. 20	granted, as it appears that he was naturalized
	` ``		before he was of age; great care to be used in
411	Same to same (No. 394)	Oct. 29	granting passports. Registration of foreigners: The Department un-	56
*11	Same to same (No. 502)	000. 20	derstands the requirements in regard to regis-
	이 불인 얼마를 하는 아니면 되었		tration of foreigners in France to have been ameliorated; no necessity of discussing ques-
	하는 말하고 그들 같은 하다고 있다. [17]		tions proposed: passports not to be granted to those who have no intention of returning to the United States, but not to be refused to those who intend returning but have not fixed the observed; inquiries not to go further than nec- essary for issuance of passport; domicile not controvertible with residence.
41			essary for issuance of passport; domicile not controvertible with residence.
112	Same to same (No. 395)	Oct. 30	Passport of Stephen E. Heldenheimer: Naturalized	56
-	(2,0,000)		apparently within less than five years after his arrival in the United States; went abroad im-	1 mediately and never returned: passport immediately and never returned; passport improvidently issued; Mr. Heidenheimer seems to have no right to a passport; the case to be 110	Mr. Malana to Mr. Royard	Nov. 12	investigated and reported.  Passport of S. E. Heidenheimer: Legality of nat-	56
113	Mr. McLane to Mr. Bayard (No. 707).	1101.12	uralization not called in question by Mr. Del-
	(2.31,11),		denheimer's declaration and confirmed by Department's passport; declaration of intention of return yague but sworn to: passport reof return vague but sworn to; passport returned by Mr. Heidenheimer with promise to obtain evidence of the legality of his naturaliza-
114	Same to same (No. 710)	Nov. 17	tion. Passport of S. E. Heidenheimer: He admits that	56
*1.2	Same to same (110, 110)		he was the Edward Heidenhiemer who came to the United States November, 1866; left the United States on account of his health, intending to return; can not explain the mistake in the time of his naturalization; employed in his 하는데 말로 하고 하는데 네 마느라?	1.0	father's house in New York; affirms that no fraud was intended, and his ignorance of law due to sickness at the time; passport held and Mr. Heidenheimer advised to apply to the court which granted his naturalization papers.
		1 - 12 00	Mr. Heidenheimer advised to apply to the
	Mr. Bayard to Mr. McLane	Dec. 8	Passport of S. E. Heidenheimer: Mr. Heiden-	50
-15	(No. 406).	Dec. 0	heimer not a citizen, and his passport to be canceled.
	CORRESPONDENCE W	тн тне	LEGATION OF FRANCE AT WASHINGTON
416	Mr. Roustan to Mr. Bayard.	1887. Dec. 20	Political: Resignation of M. Grevy and election of	5
		1	M. Carnot President of the French Republic; good relations to be maintained with foreign	1 governments; value of the friendship of the United States.	1
		D 01	United States.	5
417	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Roustan.	Dec. 24	Political: Note received announcing the resigna- tion of M. Grevy and election of M. Carnot to	1 0
			the Presidency; close relation and interest of the United States for France and their wishes	1
		I have	the United States for France and their wishes	1
110	Mn Pouston to Mn Possed	Apr. 26	for her prosperity. Submarine cables convention: The interna-	5
418	Mr. Roustan to Mr. Bayard.	Дрг. 20	Submarine cables convention: The interna- tional convention for the protection of subma- rine cables went into effect May 1; circular	"
	[ - 이 이 글 생활은 이 보고?		rine cables went into effect May 1; circular from the French Government announcing that	100 all the powers signing the convention of March 14 had passed the requisite legislation in-	1
			closed.	1
	[ [ 20] 1일 : 10 : 10 : 10 : 10 : 10 : 10 : 10 :	1		1

GERMANY.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Pag
	•	1887.
419	Mr. Coleman to Mr. Bayard	Aug. 25	Tonnage and navigation dues: The Department	5
	(No. 496).		circular of July 9 communicated to the German Government; no discrimination in Germany against vessels from American ports;
120	Same to same (No. 502)	Sept. 12	note to Count Berchem inclosed.  Expulsion of Peter Mackeprang, a naturalized	E.
		Sept. 12	American citizen from Germany: Facts stated;	5
			Mr. Coleman declines to interfere because Mr.
			Mackeprang has formally applied for re-admis-
	[이 문화로 레르티스 왕 시원 라스		sion to German nationality; correspondence in-
121	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendle-	Oct. 11	closed.   Samoan affairs: The state of affairs in Samoa ton (telegram).	000. 11	distressing; will be made worse by the contin-	57
	[1] 교회회사 교육 회원 (교육 )		uance of war; Mr. Sewall instructed to preserve a strict neutrality; treatment of Samo-
		3.7	ans in accordance with treaty desired; the ad-
		1.5	visability of immediately electing a King and Vice-King as agreed in conference, and the issuance of instructions to representatives of treaty powers to favor such election, other matters being left for subsequent consideration, is to be suggested to the German Gov-	1
00	Mr. Danillator C. Mr. D.		ernment
22	Mr. Pendleton to Mr. Bay- ard (telegram).	Oct. 13	Samoan affairs: The Department's proposal sub-	5
	ard (telegram).		mitted to Count Bismarck; telegram from German consul at Apia that all the important
		100	chiefs had assembled after notice and formally recognized Tamasese King the islands quiet.
			recognized Tamasese King; the islands quiet; German men-of war to remain for moral effect;
			statements confirmed by telegram from the Ger.	14.
		CHARLES	man commodore; Bismarck seemingly ignorant man commodore; Bismarck seemingly ignorant of an agreement in conference for the election of a King and Vice-King.
23	Same to same (No. 518)	Oct. 13	Samoan affairs: Count Bismarck informed of con-	- 5
	(2.5,025)	Oct. 10	tents of telement of October 11 but telement	5' not read to him. He stated that the Cor tents of telegram of October 11, but telegram not read to him. He stated that the Ger- man consul had telegraphed the election of Tamasese to be King; that Malietoa mal-Tamasese to be King; that Malietoa mal- treated Germans and war was made against	İ him personally, not against his people; that Great Britain and the United States had acquiesced; that Malietoa was received and pro-	1 tected on board a German ship; that the conference in Washington had not reached a final conclusion; that the German Government de 는 이미를 가면 하는 이번을 보았다면요.		sired to maintain the good entente between the 이 시간 한 경기를 하지만 않아요? 낚		powers; that he does not conceive the change of King can make any change in the relations or course of the Governments towards Samoa or each other; Germany is willing to listen to	1. 1 any suggestion Telegram from German consul of September 17, stating the election of Malietoa and peace in the island, and a confirma-
1			tory one of the 20th from the German com- modore shown by Bismarck at morning inter-
1			view; Department's proposal repeated; stress upon the conference agreement; the idea of a	40.00
.			Vice-King new to the Count; he says the Ger-	Ele.
- 1	[ 그 없다 요즘 중심화를 잃는 이번이다. ]		man Government is willing there should be	100 such an officer; reiterates that the conference adjourned without definite results, adding that it is as well, as an opportunity is given of ob-	100
		1.1. 4.1	serving the new order of things, and the origi-
-			nal threads could be taken up where they were
	병 수 있는 것이 없는 것이 없다.		left off, that there is no haste, felicitates Mr
`			Pendleton upon the anticipation by the Sa-
		14.5	Pendleton upon the anticipation by the Sa- moans of the proposition of the United States by the election of a King which had left nothing for the Governments to do in that direction.
24	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendle-	Oct. 20	Expulsion of Peter Mackeprang: Mr. Coleman's	57 ton (No. 257).	500. 20	refusal to interfere in the case of the expulsion of Peter Mackeprang from Germany approved.
25	Mr. Pendleton to Mr. Bay-	Oct. 24	Samoan affairs: Extract from the Berliner Tage-	57
	ard (No. 526).		blatt, copying a Sydney newspaper as to the
- j			force of the German fleet in Australian waters,
- 1			and another from the semi-official Nord-Deut- schie Allgemeine Zeitung, giving the version of the foreign office of the transactions in Samoa,
		a star a la la est	inclosed.

LIST OF PAPERS.

GERMANY—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1887.
426	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendle-	Nov. 2	Samoan affairs: Mr. Sewall reports that Tamasese	578 ton (telegram).		has taken control in Samoa, and left Americans without protection; Mr. Sewall instructed
-			that his powers in regard to American citizens are not dependent on municipal government, and to maintain neutrality; Mr. Pendleton to inform the German Government that it is hoped
			Mr. Sewall will not be interiered with.	E770
27	Mr. Coleman to Mr. Bayard	Nov. 4	Samoan affairs: Count Bismarck acquiesces in Mr. Bayard's views as to the position of Mr. Sewall,	578
	(telegram).		and states that Germany Will hos interiere with and treaties will be observed; Prince Bismarck regretted the difference between two friendly notions as to these unimportant Islands, and
- 1			suggested a dispatch be sent to that enect
00	Mr. Pendleton to Mr. Bay-	Nov. 15	from the foreign office.  Arrest of Charles Schwalb, A. C. Postel, and	579
28	ard (No. 538).	1101. 10	Tuling Doctol Americans at Zurich, on reducist of authorities of Baden: Representations made to foreign office and reply of foreign office, i			man were suspected of complicity in a their,
			but proceedings against them developed their innocence; regret of German authornies ex-29	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendle-	Nov. 15	Illness of the Crown Prince: The President ex-	581 ton (telegram).		presses the sympathy of the people of the United States with the Emperor on account of en en en en en en en en en en en en en e		the Crown Prince's illness.
30	Same to same (No. 265)	Nov. 18	Arrest of Hans Jacobsen in the island of Alsen,	581 charged with being a deserter from the German army: His release to be requested; letter of W. W. Morrow, with accompaniments, in-	1.0
		37 01	closed. Illness of the Crown Prince of Germany: Sympa-	583
31	Mr. Pendleton to Mr. Bay- ard (No. 540).	Nov. 21	thy of President expressed; correspondence aid (140. 540).		with foreign office inclosed.	584
32	Same to same (No. 545)	Dec. 1	Pork: Trichina among German hogs; translations from the Berlin Zeitung showing the prev-	001
1			alence of trichinosis in Germany from this
		T	source inclosed. Pork: Decree of Emperor prohibiting the impor-	585
33	Same to same (No. 546)	Dec. 1	tation of, from Denmark, Sweden, and Norway
			inclosed	586
34	Same to same (No. 547)	Dec. 3	Arrest and imprisonment of Hans Jacobsen on the charge of being a deserter from the Ger-	000 man army: Facts stated; case one of desertion committed before emigration; correspondence
			inclosed	1.000
35	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendleton	Dec. 20	Arrest and imprisonment of Hans Jacobsen: The	589
"	(No. 274).		action of the legation in not presenting to the German Government the case of Hans Jacobsen	1 approved: provision made in the extradition	1000 approved; provision made in the extradition treaty with Germany for the trial and punishment 200	of a naturalized citizen of one country on his re- turn to his native land for offenses committed	1 hefore his departure decobsen shown by Da-pers before the Department to have deserted from the German army before coming to the	12.0
			United States: his case covered by the treaty.
36	Mr. Pendleton to Mr. Bayard	Dec. 26	Paganort refused to Mr. Manny Enrembacher, a	589
	(No. 555).		naturalized American, unless he consents to return to the United States for the purpose of residence; correspondence, inclosed.	1
0.77	Came to game (NT- EEO)	1888.	Samoan affairs: German newspaper account of	591
37	Same to same (No. 556)	Jan. 10	election of Tamasese as King and of other events occurring in Samoa, inclosed.  Passport of Mr. Ehrenbacher: The application of	593
38	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendleton (No. 279).	Jan. 11	Manny Ehrenbacher for a passport should be	030
	(20.210).		Manny Ehrenbacher for a passport should be passed upon in the United States in case he
00	G (NT- 990)	Ton 17	shall come to them. Samoan affairs: Communication of Prince von	594
39	Same to same (No. 280)	Jan. 17	Bismarck to Baron von Zedtwitz complaining of the action of American consuls in Samoa as hostile to German interests; the Department disposed to avoid difficulties as evinced by the recall of Mr Greenshaum. The Denarinch without evidence of the acts of other consuls	1 complained of; the action of the German con-

GERMANY-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
439	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendleton (No. 280) — Continued.	1888. Jan. 17	not in agreement with the Samoan Government or the municipal administration; the acts of the American consuls not proceeding from hostility to Germany; review of facts in support of this position; instability of the Samoan Government due not to the action of United States consuls, but the want of support from German consul; the agitation for annexation to neighboring British islands a cause of dis- turbance; efforts to establish a permanent government in Samoa not opposed by the United States; the efforts of the United States to pre- serve the independence of Samoa justified by instances of other islands cited; the treaty with Hawaii reciprocal, and no attempt made to interfere with that Government; grave doubts as to future relations of treaty powers in Samoa raised by Germany's action; the treaty giving control of that Government to Germany signed by Malietoa under compulsion in 1884; seizure by Dr. Stuebel of Malietoa's rights in the municipality of Apia, in 1885; the circumstances following Mr. Greenebaum's proclamation reviewed as evidence of the United States' desire to establish stable government in Samoa; conference in regard to Samoan affairs held in Washington, June-July, 1887, adjourned for consultation of representatives with their governments, because of the inability of the United States to accede to the proposals of Germany; the plans and propositions of Germany and the United States at the conference, and the position of Great Britain; surprise at the information that Germany had independently declared war against Malietoa "personally;" recapitulation of the circumstances attending the declaration of war against Malietoa and his overthrow; not possible to ignore Germany's knowledge of the acts for which war was declared prior to the meeting of the conference in Washington and silence in regard to them until after war had begun; instruction of Oct. 11, 1887, as to election of a King, etc., and	man particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particular particu reply of German minister declaring ignorance of any conference agreement and announcing the election of a King; similar proposal to the British Government withdrawn in consequence; the ignorance of the German Government not understood; the establishing of the new government in Samoa by the German consul not satisfying the condition of a free election and more objectionable than the German proposition at the conference; Baron von Zedwitz's complaint against the American consul and request that he be instructed to observe neutrality; his statement that the United	AND THE RESIDENCE OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY States had not recognized the municipal government of Apia, and objection to its consultaking any parttherein a surprise; such participation previously acknowledged by Germany; the United States not formally a party to the municipal government, but one by the action of its consul, and the government recognized by the Department; the municipal government de- clared in absyance by Germany because the United States representative was a little late at a meeting, and Apia occupied by German naval forces at request of Tamasese on account of absence of regular government; the situation in Samoa due to fomentation of native dissen- sions by foreigners and the desire of those in charge of German interests to obtain personal and commercial advantages; the action of Ger- many, subsequent to the conference, without sufficient consideration to the United States; the government established not satisfactory and should be put on a more impartial basis; the "guaranties" referred to equivalent to Ger- man contro 1 the administration of the govern- ment bette reonducted by a treaty power, but	,

LIST OF PAPERS.

GERMANY—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
439	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendleton	Jan. 17	independence liable to be destroyed; a strong
100	(No. 280)—Continued.		government the object of Germany, an independent one that of the United States, which consequently, dissents from Germany's propo-Addition of the		sitions, instructions to be communicated to German Government; Malietoa's complaint to as D. Hants Mr. Boward	Jan. 30	Mr. Dawson, inclosed. Trichinosis in Germany: Two newspaper accounts	609
140	Mr. Pendleton to Mr. Bayard (No. 573).	оан. оо	of its outbreak and extent, inclosed.
141	Same to same (No. 574)	Jan. 30	Socialist law of Germany: Bill to amend law, in-	609
		Jan. 30	closed. Spielmarken: Inquiries to be made whether the	61
442	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendleton (No. 248).	9 du. 00	German Government permits the manufacture of spielmarken, and facts reported to the De
	(110.240).		of spielmarken, and facts reported to the De partment; letter of the Secretary of the Treas-
443	Mr. Pendleton to Mr. Bayard	Feb. 4	Treaty of alliance of Oct. 7, 1879, between Ger-	61
449	(No. 575).		ury on the subject, inclosed.  Treaty of alliance of Oct. 7, 1879, between Germany and Austria-Hungary, inclosed.	613
444	Same to same (No. 578)	Feb. 7	Samoan affairs: Instruction No. 280 in regard to Samoan affairs handed to Count Bismarck.	01.
445	Same to same (No. 583)	Feb. 20	Socialist law prolonged to September 50, 1090	613
445 446	Same to same (No. 584)	Feb. 2	Spielmarken: No general law in Germany prohibiting the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of spielmarken; imitating the manufacture of sp	61
			card playing without objection: different view 20 pt		may be taken on inspection of the limitations of American coins: punishment provided by the laws for counterfiting coins, stamps, etc.; copies of the imitations requested; punishment of the manufacturers probable.	61
447	Same to same (No. 585)	Feb. 22	Passport application of Frank Kissel submitted to the Department for instruction: Difference	.01 hotwoon his certificate Which States that he Later and the second		had resided for three years previous to his coming of age in the United States, and his affidavit, which states that he arrived in the United States in 1882 at the age of twenty-seven, and in the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of th		was naturalized five years after, in 1887; the applicant denies the correctness of the certificate; advised to write for certified copies of his papers.
448	Same to same (No. 586)	Feb. 22	German army: Provisions of new law providing	61
	1	Mar. 9	for the increase of, considered.  Death of Emperor William: Sorrow of the peo-	62
449	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendleton (telegram).	mai. 5	ple and Government of the United States for the death of the Emperor.	62
450		Mar. 12	Death of Emperor William: Sympathy of President conveyed to foreign office; acknowledg-	02
	(No. 589).		ment of foreign office, inclosed.	00
451	Same to same (No. 593)	Mar. 17	Accession of Frederick III: His address to Ger-	62
		1000	man people and open letter to Prince Bismarck, inclosed.	1 2 3
452	Same to same (No. 595)	Mar. 20	Income tax levied on Mrs. Honey, wife of an	62
202			American citizen, temporarily residing in Frankfort: Facts stated; minister thinks matter should be passed upon by the courts before [[11] [12] 이 무슨 얼굴 먹게	100	diplomatic intervention is sought; correspond-
		35. 00	ence inclosed. Seizure by the German consul in Apia of a pilot-	62
458	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendleton	Mar. 30	house built on land leased by a citizen of	6
	(No. 300).		the United States: Facts stated; instructed	L   A to bring matter to attention of German Govern	-   '
		1	ment and urge speedy settlement of difficulty report from United States consul at Apia, in	·
			closed.
45		Apr. 2	Pork: Message of President to Congress recom-	- 6
	(No. 597).		mending the exclusion of swine meat and the preparations thereof exported from Germany	7
	대의 교육 조작병원 제상없는	1000	and France; comments of a German newspa	- per, inclosed.
45	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendleton	Apr. 2	Passport of Frank Kissel: Mr. Pendleton's dis patch, No. 585, forwarded to the probate judge
	(No. 303).	Harris No.	of Montgomery County, by whom a correct cer	- 1
			tificate of naturalization was furnished Mr	.
			Frank Kissel, with the statement that the error in the former certificate was due to the	В
	<ul> <li>I to the state of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of the first of</li></ul>	1.00	use of a wrong form.	- 1

LIST OF PAPERS.

GERMANY-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1887.		-
456	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendleton (No. 305).	Apr. 6	ment on the wife of Mr. Honor brought to the	630 attention of the Department by a letter from him, March 14, 1887: Mr. Pendleton's course in accord with that of the Department's course more to be done; the decision of the courts to be awaited; correspondence with Mr. Honey, 457	Same to same (No. 315)	Apr. 28	i inclosed.
		Apr. 28	and imprisonment in Alsace on charge of per	631
			1 UCIPATION III & Sections Consuracy - Penort on case by Third Assistant Secretary of State in- closed; facts given, and conclusion reached that Department would not be justified in intervening.
458	Mr. Coleman to Mr. Bayard (No. 622).	June 1	Alsace-Lorraine: Decree of Germany that page	635
	(110. 022).		will be required of foreigners entering Algare	- 100 to all foreigners other than Frenchmen; object of measure is to discourage and restrict French mitercourse with Alsace Lorraine decree and 459	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendle-	June 15	Death of Emperor Frederick III. The President ton (telegram).		USITED EXPLOSION to he made through the For	637
400			United States at the death of the Emperor
460	Mr. Coleman to Mr. Bayard (No. 628).	June 18	Down OI Fimberor Brederick III. Soprow universe	637
			Emperor: buried quietly at Potadom this many 입 스 호텔 발견하는 시간되지?		1 mg; note to Connt Bismarck conveying the
101	M. D		marck's acknowledgment inclosed
461	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendle- ton (No. 329).	June 19	1 Death of Emperor Frederick III . Recolution of	639
462			House of Representatives expressing sorrow for death and sympathy with Germany inclosed.
102	Mr. Coleman to Mr. Bayard (No. 630).	June 20	Proclamations of William II to the com-	639
- 1			and people: The couvoking in extraordinary session of the Reichstag and Landtag, and the three proclamations to the army, the navy, and the people the most important public acts of
- 1			william II; translations of the proclamations
463	Same to same (No. 631)	June 22	inclosed. Passport application of Charles Stein: Requests	041
.			IUSUFUCTIONS IN The Case of the application of Mr.	641
			Stein for a passport; he holds a passport which states that he is liable to military duty, and has
- 1			ucciated his intention of becoming an American
164	Sam. 4		citizen; he has never taken out his second papers.
10.2	Same to same (No. 635)	July 2	Income tax on Mrs. Honey: Note to Count Bis.	642
- 1		1	marck to have Mrs. Honey's appeal from the income tax imposed on her conveyed to the ı			Prussian minister of finance because of its preparation and signature by Consul-General Muel-
		ŀ	ier, who can not with propriety address himself
	ing a state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the		to the minister; ne was Mrs. Honey's agent in 네 얼마 얼마를 받는 것 같아.		corresponding with the local authorities, and familiar with the facts; the documents referred to by Mr. Mueller heretofore transmitted to the Department; correspondence with Mr.
			the Department; correspondence with Mr. Mueller and Mr. Coleman's note to Count Bismarck inclosed.
65	Same to same (No. 638)	July 5	Death of Emperor Frederick III: Notes to the	644 imperial secretary of state for foreign affairs, transmitting resolution of sympathy for the 66	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendle.	T1- 5	death of Frederick III inclosed
	(No. 333).	July 7	Marriages of Americans abroad: Correspondence with Mr. Ketcham, M. C., as to the validity of	645
67	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Coleman	Tule 10	marriages of Americans abroad, inclosed.
	(No. 334).	July 10	Passport application of C. Stein, who had declared his intention to become a citizen of the United	646
	그 생활하다면서 사람이 되었다.		States and applies for a passport; passports can
. ]	하는 그 등록을 잃었다면 되는 날이 없다.		be issued only to citizens, and not to a person who has simply declared his intention to be-
68	Mr. Coleman to Mr. Bayard	July 16	come a citizen	A / =
	(No. 639).	o mi 10	Death of Emperor Frederick III: Copy of note from Count Bismarck, expressing the thanks	647 of the reigning Emperor for the resolution of
- 1			condolence of the House of Representatives, in-

GERMANY-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Pag
		1888
169	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendle-	July 18	Seizure by the German consul at Apia of a pilot-	6 ton (No. 339).		house on land leased by a citizen of the United
		1.377	States: Department agrees with German Gov-	1 ernment that the building, which was erected States: Department agrees with German Government that the building, which was erected out of the municipal funds, should be treated as part of the assets of the late municipality; complaint of this Government related solely to question of title to the land.
70	Same to same (No. 341)	July 19	Income tax on Mrs. Honey: The transmission to the Prussian minister of the appeal in the case	6
	(		the Prussian minister of the appeal in the case of S. K. Honey approved.
71	Mr. Coleman to Mr. Bayard	July 23	Marriages of Americans abroad: Correspondence	6
	(No. 645).		of Mr. Bayard with Mr. Ketcham on marriages
		1	of Americans abroad received; the principle	I
		-	bration laid down in Mr Bayard's note that	ŀ of Americans abroad received; the principle of conformity to the law of the place of cele- bration, laid down in Mr. Bayard's note, that adopted in Germany; no marriage valid by 3 - 5 - 7	I German law which is not concluded before the	1
			"Standesbeamter," and a fine imposed upon
			"Standesbeamter," and a fine imposed upon a minister who solemnizes a marriage not so concluded; translations of German statutes	1.70
			concluded; translations of German statutes
.	C 4 (No. 650)	Ana 10	governing marriage inclosed. Income tax on Mrs. Honey discontinued, and	6
72	Same to same (No. 656)	Aug. 13	amount collected to be refunded; the question	۰ of Mrs. Honey's liability to a communal tax to be referred to the Prussian minister of interior, 1			and a further communication to be made on the	] subject; Mr. Honey's complaint understood to relate solely to the income tax: Mr. Honey notified of the decision; Mr. Hellwig to Mr. Pendleton, August 10, 1888, inclosed.
	G (77, 050)	0.1	ton, August 10, 1888, inclosed.	6
3	Same to same (No. 672)	Oct. 1	Samoan affairs: Little said by German newspa-	. 0 pers of the disturbances in Samoa; nothing by the especial organ of the Chancellor; chiefly	100 comments on the telegrams and editorial of the London Times; extracts from the Vossische	800
			Zeitung and the National Gazette; will report
1			any further information concerning the attitude	100
		1	of the German Government; extracts from the
4	Same to same (No. 675)	Oct. 4	London Times inclosed. Income tax on Mrs. Honey: The communal	6
*	Same to same (No. 013)	061. 4	tax discontinued; the state tax previously removed.
5	Same to same (No. 681)	Oct. 11	Military cases: Seven military cases favorably	6 decided since November 8, 1887, and one unfinished at that date; three pending; the decrease
	3 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1		in their number a cause of satisfaction; a report
1			of all military cases requiring intervention since the above date inclosed.
6	Mr. Rives to Mr. Pendleton	Oct. 20	Income tax on Mrs. Honey: Satisfaction of the	6
Ĩ.	(No. 371).		Department at the discontinuance of the income tax levied on Mrs. Honey, and the return of the _			amounts collected.	-
7	Mr. Coleman to Mr. Bayard	Nov. 9	Passport application of Solomon H. Ulmer for	6
	(No. 690).		himself, a naturalized citizen of the United 교 교회에게 된 한 번째 전화를		States, and his son, born in Germany; no apparent intention on Mr. Ulmer's part of returning
-		3.00	to reside in the United States; correspondence
- [	*		with United States consul at Nuremberg in regard to the case inclosed.
8	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Coleman	Dec. 4	Passport application of Solomon H. Ulmer: By	6
	(No. 387).	l	treaty with Bayaria naturalized citizens return-
- 1			ing to their native country to reside permatifum sasymus		nently renounce their adopted citizenship and t
ĺ			a two years' residence is prima facie evidence of such renunciation; Mr. Ulmer not entitled to passport for himself and son, on account of thirty years' residence in Bavaria.
- 1			to passport for himself and son on account of
- 1			- passport tot ministrit and bon, on account of t

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF GERMANY AT WASHINGTON.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1887.	G MI TT IIII G
479	Prince von Bismarck to Baron von Zedtwitz.	Nov. 18	Samoan affairs: Hostility to German interests shown by successive American consuls; the reason not understood; relations more friendly	66 with Great Britain, who has more cause for jealousy; preponderance of German over Amer- ican interests in Samoa; no attempt made to secure Germany advantages on this account;
			equal rights of nations in Samoa; no intention	İ to alter relations of treaty powers; the assistance of the Secretary of State of the United States requested to investigate and redress the acts of American consuls; an account of pro- ceedings in Samoa and letter of Mr. Sherwood to the Samoan secretary of state, covering a letter from Malietoa to the President of the United States, and a note of Mr. Sherwood's inclosed.
480	Baron von Zedtwitz to Mr.	Nov. 19	Illness of the Crown Prince: Gratitude of the	66'
	Bayard.		Emperor for the sympathy of the President and people of the United States in the illness of the Crown Prince.
481	Baron von Zedtwitz to Mr.	Dec. 23	Jubilee art exhibition at Munich: Foreign artists	66'
	Bayard.		and academies invited to take part in the jubi- lee art exhibition to be held at Munich from June 1 to October 31, 1888.
482	Baron von Zedtwitz to Mr.	Dec. 29	Regulations for the prevention of the introduc-	66
	Rives.		tion of infectious diseases at Corean treaty ports provisionally approved by representatives of	1000 treaty powers at Seoul; copy of the regulations
183	Mr. Von Alvensleben to Mr.	Jan. 24	inclosed.  Tonnage and navigation dues no greater for	66
	Bayard.		American vessels in German ports than for German vessels. Proclamation of the suspen-	1
	그 이 교회 경이 제 된 싫		German vessels. Proclamation of the suspen-
	10 1 1 E E		ships in American ports, and restoration of the dues collected since the approval of the act of 184	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Von Al-	Jan. 26	German vessels. Proclamation of the suspension of dues previously exacted from German ships in American ports, and restoration of the dues collected since the approval of the act of Congress of June 19, 1886, requested.  Tonnage and navigation dues: A proclamation will be issued by the President suspending the collection of tonnage dues on German vessels.	67
	vensleben.		will be issued by the President suspending the
485	Same to same	Jan. 30	collection of tonnage dues on German vesssels.	67
100	Samo to samo	0 an. 50	dent's proclamation suspending the collection	"
			Tonnage and navigation dues: Copy of the President's proclamation suspending the collection of tonnage dues on vessels from German ports in the ports of the United States inclosed.
486	Mr. von Alvensleben to Mr.	Jan. 30	Jubilee Art Exhibition at Munich: An appropria-	67
	Bayard.		tion and free return transportation requested in behalf of the American artists who participated in the Munich Jubilee Art Exhibition.
487	Same to same	Feb. 25	Tonnage dues collected on the Saale on her ar-	67 rival from Bremen. Proper instructions asked for the customs officers. Mr. Schwab's letter to Dr.Glavis, of February 15, and Treasury circular
488	Mr Bayard to Mr. von Al-	Feb. 28	for the customs officers. Mr. Schwab's letter to Dr. Glavis, of February 15, and Treasury circular No. 19, of February 1, 1888, printed herewith. Tonnage dues collected on the North German	67
400	vensleben.	Peb. 20	Line being investigated.	1
489	Mr. Bayard to Baron von	Mar. 8	Jabilee Art Exhibition: The invitation to take	67
	Zedtwitz.		part in the International Art Exhibition to be held at Munich laid before Congress.
490	Baron von Zedtwitz to Mr.	Mar. 10	Death of Emperor William: The thanks of the	67
	Bayard.		Imperial Government for the sympathy of the Government and people of the United States.
491	Mr. Bayard to Baron von	Mar. 19	Samoan affairs. Suggesting that each Govern.	1 67
	Zedtwitz.		ment be at liberty to publish the joint secret protocols in relation to the Samoan question pending further consideration. An early reply
		1 1980 days	requested, as the President is about to make a
492	Baron von Zedtwitz to Mr.	Mar. 24	communication on the subject to Congress. Samoan affairs: The German Government unable	67
	Bayard.		to adopt the suggestion that each of the three treaty powers be at liberty to publish the memoranda of the proceedings of the Samoan	1 conference. The protocols not suited for publication in view of the fruitlessness of the con-	1
493	Same to same	June 2	ferences. Seizure by the German consul in Apia of a pilot-	67
200		2	house built on land leased by a citizen of the United States: Law governing case discussed and action of German consul sustained; matter,	1
			however, has been satisfactorily settled between	1
	1 The Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of t		the lessee and mortgagee; proposes that the	i

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF GERMANY AT WASHINGTON-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
49 3	Baron von Zedtwitz to Mr. Bayard—Continued.	June 2	pilot-house be turned over to Samoan Govern- ment until the establisment of a new communal administration. Correspondence inclosed.
494	Same to same	June 4	Devices for the prevention of accidents: Foreign exhibitors invited to take part in the Exhibi- tion of Devices for the Prevention of Accidents, to be held at Berlin during, April, May, and June. 1889.	682
495	Count von Arco-Valley to Mr. Bayard.	June 18	Death of Emperor Frederick III: The Emperor expresses his thanks for the resolution of sympathy of the House of Representatives upon the death Frederick III.	682
496	Same*to same	July 11	Death of Emperor Frederick III: Gratitude of the Emperor for the sympathy of the Presi- dent and people of the United States upon the death of his father.	683
497	Mr. Bayard to Count von Arco Valley.	Aug. 17	Marriages between Chinese and foreigners in China: Memorandum on the validity of mar- riages in China between foreigners and Chi- nese subjects inclosed.	683

GREAT BRITAIN.

		1887.
98	Mr. Phelps to Mr. Bayard (No. 625).	Nov. 19	Tonnage and navigation dues: Copy of reply of Lord Salisbury to note written in conformity to Department's circular of July 9, 1887, inclosed.	684
99	Same to same (No. 628)	Nov. 26	Lekin on kerosene oil no longer collected privately at Hong-Kong; a communication from the foreign office in regard thereto inclosed.	685
000	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Phelps (No. 739).	Dec. 2	Sugar bounties conference: No objection to the attendance in a friendly way of an American representative at the sugar conference. Mr. White to be designated.	685
501	Mr. Phelps to Mr. Bayard (No. 643).	Dec. 17	Sugar conference attended by Mr. White, but no part taken in its discussions; adjournment of conference for the submission by the delegates to their respective Governments of conclusions reached. Mr. White's report to be sent soon. Note of December 9, 1887, from the foreign office and reply inclosed.	686
502	Same to same (No. 651)	Jan. 4	Mails: Note from Lord Salisbury in regard to the transmission of mails between Europe and the United States inclosed.	688
503	Same to same (No. 652)	Jan. 7	Sugar bounties conference: Mr. White's report inclosed.	688
504	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Phelps (telegram).	Jan. 31	Fish, permission refused two American vessels at Halifax to sell: Requests that the British Gov- ernment, pending a settlement of the fishery question, prevent the violation of international	695 law by the collector of the port of Halifax, who has forbidden two American vessels, in that port for repairs, to sell their cargoes of fresh fish, which must otherwise be thrown overboard.
505	Same to same (telegram.)	Feb. 2	Fish, permission refused two American ves els at Hallfax to sell: Satisfaction of the Department to be expressed that the collector of the port of Hallfax has been instructed to allow the fish to be landed and sold on payment of duty.	696
506	Same to same (No. 780)	Feb. 3	Fish, permission refused two American vessels at Halifax to sell: Correspondence inclosed.	696
507	Mr. Phelps to Mr. Bayard (No. 673).	Feb. 4	Fish, permission refused two American vessels at Halifax to sell: Correspondence with Lord Salisbury in reference to the refusal of the Canadian authorities to allow them to land their cargoes of fresh fish inclosed.	697
508	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Phelps (No. 791).	Feb. 17	Boundary dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela: Notes from the Venezuelan minister stating that the legislature of Demarara has re- cently asserted a claim of British jurisdiction	698 over the gold-mining district of Caratal, and that the governor of British Guiana has, in a decree, denied the validity of the grant by the Venezue- lan Government for the construction of a rail- road from Ciudad Bolivar to Guacipate, in that district, on the ground that it passes through British territory. No foundation apparent for

GREAT BRITAIN-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
508	Mr. Royand to W. Dl. 1	1888.	45
908	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Phelps (No. 791)—Continued.	Feb. 17	the minister's note other than the article in the Financier of January 24. Friendly interest taken by the United States in the boundary	l question between the two Governments on the	Ι.
	[설명 : 1945 - 1945] - 1945 - 1945 - 1945 - 1945 - 1945 - 1945 - 1945 - 1945 - 1945 - 1945 - 1945 - 1945 - 1945		supposition that it was a fact of history and capable of arbitration. The claim now stated a	l cause for disquietude and the supposition that	1 it is indefinite and not in accordance with his-agilian ili ili	toric evidence. No previous assertion of British authority over Caratal, and no appearance	ļ that the proposed railroad crosses British territory; the British boundary indefinite; the line of 1887 to the west of that of 1877. Guaci- pate west of both. The comparison to be made
	. 마늘이 밥보다 마음이 ㅎ 나를 뭐		with the colonial office list for 1888; the gratification a settlement of this question will give the United States Government to be made known to Lord Salisbury. Reference to be	l made to the article in the Financier and appre-nension expressed that a widening claim on the part of Great Britain may defeat a settlement; grave concern if there be no fixed limit to the British claim. The Venezuelan minister's note British claim. The Venezuelan minister's note and map printed by the Venezuelan Government inclosed.
509	Same to same (No. 798)	Feb. 21	Boundary dispute between Creek Brite's
	(10.130)	1 60. 21	Venezuela: Copy of note to Mr. Olavarria on	702
	이번 및 기본 및 등업 기교, 경		Boundary dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela: Copy of note to Mr. Olavarria on the subject and translation of his reply in-
510	Same to same (No. 809)	Mar. 1	closed. Samoan affairs: Gurr vs. Marquardt; Depart-
010	Zumo to sumo (1(0,000)	mai. 1	ment's views as to contest of jurisdiction be-	704 ment's views as to contest of jurisdiction be- tween the German consul and the municipal government in the case of Gurr vs. Marquardt government in the case of Gurr vs. Marquardt made unnecessary by information that the mu- nicipal government has been declared in abeyance, and propositions made by Germany for division of property; the matter to be brought to the notice of the British Government and division of property; the matter to be brought inquiries made whether notice of Germany's withdrawal has been received and whether instructions in the matter have been sent to the British consul at Apia; dispatches Nos. 83 and 84 from Mr. Sewall and the Department's No.
	G 41 GT 000		42 to him inclosed.
511	Same to same (No. 830)	Mar. 22	Sugar bounties conference: The arrival of a translation of the proces-verbaux awaited;	706
			note received from British minister urging the	4 importance of the presence of an American delegate; the inability of the United States	1.0
	보이는 이렇게 되었는데 이 것이다.		to take part, and the permission to Mr. White to attend the conference under the reserve
	•		communicated to the minister; if favorable answer is received a telegram will be sent en- abling Mr. White to be instructed as to his powers; this Government unable to give the 512	Same to same (telegram)	Man 07	methods of sugar testing and of taxing sugar.
J14	~ (teregram)	Mar. 27	Sugar bounties conference: Bounties opposed by the United States Government and no subsidies	707
J. A			paid; revision of tariff pending and adjustment of repates recommended by the Treasury:
•			excise can not be established on domestic sugar, nor import duties abolished by treaty, nor the proposed convention signed; the right to conform to international arrangements by independent legislation reserved; British min- ister asked whether with this understanding the attendance of the American delegate is de-513	Mr. Phelps to Mr. Bayard	3/	sired; instructions mailed 22d instant.
019	(No. 709).	Mar. 31	Samoan affairs: Lord Salisbury's note communicating the views of the British Government	708
	집단하는 그리고 하는 사람들은 그리는 그렇게 없어		in regard to, inclosed.
514	Mr. White to Mr. Bayard	Apr. 14	Sugar bounties conference: Two sittings of the	708
	(No. 722).		conference; Article I of the draft of convention adopted with proposed changes; a committee
. 1			appointed to report upon the method of pro-
1			cedure with regard to the remaining articles;
			translation of statement made to the confer-
-			appointed to report upon the method of pro- cedure with regard to the remaining articles; translation of statement made to the confer- ence by Mr. White, and copy of a telegram in the Times from Lille, stating that the French delegates are only authorized to sign the con- vention if all sugar-producing countries do in-
- 1			delegates are only authorized to sign the convention if all sugar-producing countries do, in-

GREAT BRITAIN—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1888.
515	Mr. White to Mr. Bayard (No. 726).	Apr. 21	Sugar bounties conference: Interest in the probable action of the United States; two sittings dur-	71
			ing the week; Brazil and Sweden not represented; Brazil will adhere; the sugar production	1
			of Sweden unimportant; the Belgian proposals	İ
	ka sanggala taga balang sa		not yet discussed, but the powers opposed to	1
			it; the Austro-Hungarian memorandum states that the convention will be without effect unless	l
			the United States signs: the oninion of Germany	1 and France the same; a convention abolishing sugar bounties, unless the United States is a party, improbable unless the penal clause pro- posed by Spain is feasible.	1
			sugar bounties, unless the United States is a	1
	*		party, improbable unless the penal clause pro-	1
516	Same to same (No. 729)	Apr. 25	Sugar bounties conference: Requests the opinion	71
	,		of the proper officers of the Treasury upon the	1.1
		1	correctness of the calculation of the indirect bounty paid exporters of sugar by the United States Government, contained in the memo-States Government, contained in the memo-
	la la la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de la serie de		randum received from the British director of customs at Dublin; copy of the memorandum
		1	inclosed.
517	Mr. Bayard to Mr. White	Apr. 30	Christmas, Fanning, and Penrhyn Islands taken	713
	(No. 862).		possession of in the name of Great Britain; the correspondence of 1879 in regard to the possess-	- ory right to Christmas Island to be recalled to the British minister; other questions to be re-
			served; the above correspondence inclosed.	-
518	Mr. White to Mr. Bayard	May 4	Samoan affairs: Copy of question asked in the	71
	(No. 742, bis.).		House of Commons in regard to Samoan affairs.
19	Same to same (No. 747)	May 5	and Sir J. Furgusson's answer inclosed. Sugar bounties conference: Question asked and	71 integ 0	Mr. White's answer in regard to the exportation	/1 of sugar from Louisiana and Sandwich Islands:
	Facilities		committee appointed to consider Article II: the French representative states that the adhesion of the United States is absolutely necessary; the Spanish penal clause thought necessary by the delegates, if the United States is not a party;
			speech of Mr. Wilson in the United States Sen-	1
		-	ate proposing sugar bounty commented on: M.	1
		-	Catusse's question and answer of Mr. White inclosed.
20	Same to same (No. 749)	May 11	Samoan affairs: Copy of article from the Times	71
	,		on questions asked in the House of Commons in regard to Samoan affairs, and Sir J. Fergus-521	Same to same (No. (752)	Mo- 14	son's answers inclosed.
	Same to same (No. (192)	May 14	Sugar bounties conference. The protocol de clôture	71 signed by Germany; Austria-Hungary, Belgium, Denmark, Spain, France, Great Britain, Italy, Helland and Bussia, the protected and expression Holland, and Russia; the protocal and annexed
22	Same to same (No 754)	34	projet de convention inclosed
مد	Same to same (No. 754)	May 18	Sugar bounties conference: Proceedings at the	72:
	Real Control of the Control of the		stongs from the 12th to the 22d inclusive: dis-
-:	网络克雷奇斯克雷克 医二氏菌		cussion in regard to the position of the United States; the creation of an international com.			mission to see that the provisions of the con.			vention are carried out; the Belgian, Spanish, and Dutch proposals rejected; American sugar
			excluded from England by the convention, unless the small indirect bounty is removed; op- position by the Liberals in England to the con-
- 1			vention: laboring men favor it don htful whether
.			the convention, as it is at breaent, will be signed.
!	land the second		extract from the London Times giving the de.
23	Mr. Bayard to Mr. White	May 23	bates in the French Chamber inclosed. Samoan affairs: Dispatch from United States con-	707
-	(No. 877).	,	sul at Apia relative to the aggressive conduct	725
- 1			of Germans in the matter of lands owned by
4	Mr. White to Mr. Bayard	Morr on	Americans inclosed.
1	(No. 757).	May 23	Sugar bounties conference: Copy of letter from	726
		1 1	Mr. Neville Lubback, chairman West India committee, inclosed.
25	Same to same (No. 764)	May 29	Christmas Island: Correspondence with Lord	727
			Sallsbury in regard to the right of Great	141
26	Same to same (No. 766)	Torri	Dritain to Christmas Island inclosed	100
	(NO. /00)	June 6	Samoan affairs: Extracts from the Times giving	728
	그는 물론 바닷물로 제 기		the speeches of Mr. McArthur, Sir James Fergusson, and Mr. Bryce in the House of Commons
		. 1	on Germany's action in Samoan inclosed.

LIST OF PAPERS.

GREAT BRITAIN—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1888.
527	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Phelps	June 18	Sugar bounties conference: Mr. White's report	73
	(No. 895).		sent to the Secretary of the Treasury, with request for his opinion as to the advisability of the adhesion of the United States to the projet of a	ŀ convention; the conclusion adverse to adhesion;
			the position of the Department confirmed by this advice, and participation in the projected international agreement procluded the ins-	1 international agreement precluded; the inability of the United States to sign the projet to be communicated.
28	Mr. White to Mr. Bayard	June 20	Sugar bounties conference: The opinion of the	78
	(No. 785).		delegates to the conference that the United States pay an indirect bounty; petition from the "Working-Men's National Association for the abolition of foreign sugar bounties," that the United States sign the convention; memoranda from Mr. Walpole and Mr. Bateman
20	Mn Dhalng to Mn Payand	Tuno 36	upon the American duties on sugar inclosed.	7:
29	Mr. Phelps to Mr. Bayard (No. 790).	June 26	Sugar bounties conference: Extract from the Times, giving two questions asked and an-	''
	(=101.00).		swered in the House of Commons in regard to the position of the United States inclosed.	1 -
30	Same to same (No. 795)	July 7	Sugar bounties conference: Copies of note to Lord	7
			Salisbury on the subject of sugar bounties, and his lordship's answer inclosed.	1
31	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Phelps	July 20	Samoan affairs: Translation of treaty between	7
	(No. 927).		the German consul at Apia and the adviser of the Tamasese government inclosed.	-
32	Same to same (No. 936)	July 30	Maritime conference: Act providing for an in-	7 ternational marine conference for securing greater safety for life and property at sea, and requesting the President to invite the other maritime powers to take part, passed by Con-2		gress; the special points enumerated; invita-	1 tion extended in 1862 by Great Britain to other powers to adopt its regulations on the subject; thirty-four approved them; a revision made by Great Britain in 1877 approved by sixteen powers and put in operation in 1880; insuffi-	1
	I see a part of a point of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of		ciency of present regulations, especially in the matter of signaling in fogs and with flags;	1
		1 2	matter of signaling in fogs and with flags;	- no international agreement with respect to pro- tection from shipwreck; the destruction of dangerous derelicts important, as also warnings dangerous derelicts important, as also warnings of storms, recently discovered dangers to navigation, etc., and uniform system of loading; subject, necessity of the adhesion of Great action of Great Britain in regard to the latter subject; necessity of the adhesion of Great Britain to the conference; a cordial invitation to be extended to her; no question relating to trade and commerce to be discussed; no states trade and commerce to be discussed; no states
		'	to have more than one vote; this dispatch to be read to Lord Salisbury, and copy left with him if desired; the interest of the President in the purposes of the proposed conference to be
	G		made known.	1.00
33	Same to same (No. 937)	July 30	Maritime conference: Invitations to maritime	7
	Landy Agains His a the	13 20 24	powers to meet in conference at Washington, April 17 1889 for the purpose of securing
			April 17, 1889, for the purpose of securing safety for life and property at sea; reference
	■ 800 (1) 10 (2) 10 (3)	1	to the load-line question admitted; hope that	1
		13 42 75 25	this question will be brought before the 10.00	conference by the British representatives; the invitation to Great Britain more specific than those to the other powers.	1
34	Same to same (No. 942)	Aug. 2	Samoan affairs: Note from the British charge	1 7 soliciting the Department's views on the German treaty with Samoa; the treaty provides that Germans in the municipality shall be sub- ject to certain of the former regulations,
	A Charles Man		changed into Samoan laws by the Samoan proclamation of January 18, and shall pay the taxes.	i etc., therein specified; Germans outside the municipality to pay the same tax as Samoans, not exceeding $5; that the regulations are to be enforced by Samoan judges, but appeal is to be had to the German consul at Apia, and the consular jurisdiction not be restricted;
			the British Government disposed to make a similar agreement; the clause in the British	. 1
	1	1 1 1 2	chargé's note, that British subjects are to be	1

GREAT BRITAIN-Cortinued.

To.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Pag
		1888.
34	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Phelps	Aug. 2	under the exclusive jurisdiction of the British	1
	(No. 942)—Continued.	7.00	consul, not understood; seems to refer to the 100	enforcement of the regulations; inquiry to be made whether the British Government proposes	1
			to consider the question to whom the tower	1
		1 4	etc., are to be paid, and for what expended; the Department agrees that it is advisable to put the regulations in force, but will not yield its exclusive consular jurisdiction; before changing the regulations it is desired to know the Department agrees that it is advisable to put the regulations in force, but will not yield	İ
			changing the regulations it is desired to know	1
			the opinion of the British Government as to	l
			the opinion of the British Government as to the advisability of obtaining a guaranty in respect to the disposition of the revenues;	1 respect to the disposition of the revenues;
			Germany seems to think it unnecessary to ex-	1
		/*	act guaranties which may be necessary for Great Britain and the United States.
35	Mr. Phelps to Mr. Bayard	Sept. 11	Letter from the foreign office, announcing that	7
	(No. 823).		Messrs. Taylor and Armistead, graduates of	100
			the United States Naval Academy, have ob-[ - 기업 : 1 : 1 : 1 : 1 : 1 : 1 : 1 : 1 : 1 :		tained first and fifth places, respectively, at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich, inclosed.
36	Same to same (No. 827)	Sept. 14	Sugar bounties conference: Transmits Mr. White's	7
		•	report upon the third session of the conference.
			the conference closed with the signature of a convention for the abolition of sugar bounties;	1
			the chief differences between the draught and convention as signed: letters on the subject	1 convention as signed; letters on the subject from Mr. Webster, Sir Thomas Farrar, and Mr. Lubbock inclosed.
,	35 D 35 D 1	0-4 1	Lubbock inclosed.	1
7	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Phelps (telegram).	Oct. 1	Samoan affairs: Tamasese reported overthrown	7
	(telegram).		by Mataafa, and the latter chosen King; to be ascertained whether the news has reached the foreign office; presumption that the choice of	1 foreign office; presumption that the choice of the Samoans will be respected by the treaty
Ы.	get and the second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second seco		powers, in accordance with understanding:
			such the intention of the United States; similar instructions sent to Berlin.
88	Mr. Rives to Mr. Phelps	Oct. 9	Samoan affairs: Assurances received from the	7
	(No. 973).		German Government that it will not interfere between native factions; spirit and resolution manifested by Samoans; dispatches of Septem-	1 ber 11 and 14, from United States consul at ·		A pia inclosed
9	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Phelps	Nov. 23	Protectorate of Great Britain over the Mosquito Reservation: Note from the British minister	7
	(No. 999).		Reservation: Note from the British minister	l in Central America to the minister of foreign affairs of Nicaragua, complaining that a post-	l
	4.5.4		office had been established at Rine Fields and	١.
			that forts, etc., had been, or are to be, established in the reservation by the Nicaraguan Government; that such acts were an interven-	l
	없다. 아이는 아이들이 되었다는 것은		lished in the reservation by the Nicaraguan tion in the domestic affairs of the reservation and contrary to treaty; also referring to the covernment; that such acts were an intervention in the domestic affairs of the reservation, and contrary to treaty; also referring to the boundary line. The last subject at present passed ever, the other questions the relief of long correspondence between this Govern- ment and Great Britain, and of great impor-	ľ
			tance; history of acts and declarations in regard to the Mosquito Reservation of the several ·		powers concerned; the contention of the United States that all that territory belonged to Spain states that all that territory belonged to Spain and passed to her revolted colonies; claim of Great Britain that they are an independent na-	l tion and her ally; treaty of 1860, by which Great Britain acknowledged the sovereignty of Great Britain acknowledged the sovereignty of	l
			Nicaragua over the Mosquitos; the interpreta-	İ
			tion of that treaty by the Emperor of Austria; the Department is of opinion that the estab. lishment of post-offices, forts, etc., are acta
			the Department is of opinion that the estab- lishment of post-offices, forts, etc are acts pertaining to the sovereignty of Nicaragua;
			the severeigner of Micalagua anonio Aviatin fact as well as in name, else there would be in- perium in imperio; the right of Great Britain's intervention in the affairs of the Mosanito In.	1 diana and Nicaragua not admissible and no
-			garded as the assertion of a British protecto.	12. 7
- 1			rate in another form; this instruction to be read

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF GREAT BRITAIN AT WASHINGTON.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1887.
540	Sir L. S. Sackville West to	Sept. 14	Passage of Lieutenant Schwatka, U. S. Army,	76
	Mr. Bayard.		through British terriritory on his reconnaissance in Alaska: No importance attached by the British Covernment which would have	l probably given permission; a memorandum,
	Same to same	C L 01	probably given permission; a memorandum, cailing attention to the fact, inclosed.  Seizure of the property of S. H. Davis & Co.:  Approved minute of the privy council of Canada embodying a report of the minister of
541	Banto to Saino	Sept. 21	Approved minute of the privy council of	7 Canada embodying a report of the minister of marine and fisheries dealing with the state-marine and fisheries, dealing with the statement of Messrs. S. H. Davis & Co., relative to	1 the seizure of their property by Dominion officials, inclosed.	1
542	Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S.	Nov. 17	Discrimination against United States vessels in	7'
	Sackville West.		Canada: Collection of 3 cents per ton dues on vessels coming from the ports of Ontario suspended by the President January 31, 1885, on information that no dues were imposed on United States vessels in those ports; the on vessels coming from the ports of Untario information that no drag wore imposed on United States vessels in those ports, the	1
			United States consulat Kingston reports Amer-	l
			ican vessels, less than 50 tons, taxed 50	1
			cents for entrance, and the same for clearance, and vessels over 50 tons twice that amount,	1
			and vessels over 50 tons twice that amount,	1
1			while Canadian vessels with coasting certifi-	1
. 1			cates, which cost nothing, are admitted free;	1
			this is a discrimination requiring a modification of the proclamation of January 31, 1885; de-	l., .
			sired to bring the matter to the attention of the Dominion authorities, that the duty may be removed before this step, is taken; report of the United States consul at Kingston on the	1
			the United States consul at Kingston on the
	a. ra a 1 111 to 1	Mar. 00	subject inclosed.	_
13	Sir L. S. Sackville West to	Nov. 29	Sugar bounties conference: Requests to know	7'
- 1	Mr. Bayard.		whether any member of the United States lega- tion can attend the sugar conference; France and Italy to be represented by their charges;
			the conference to sit for some time.
44	Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S. Sack-	Dec. 2	Sugar bounties conference: No objection to au-	7
	ville West.		thorizing a person to attend the sittings in a	1 friendly way, without committing the United
	G: T G G-1-11 NT-44	Dec. 6	States to participation; Mr. White to be desig-
45	Sir L.S. Sackville West to	Dec. 6	nated. The Golden Hind: Regret that the United States	77
	Mr. Bayard.		Government should have so long remained unanswered in regard to the matter of the Golden Hind; copy of a report of the privy council of Canada and a letter to the deputy minister of Canada and a letter to the deputy minister of fisheries from the master of the F. E. Conrad relative to the accusation that he had forbidden
10	Sama to same	Dec. 19	the Golden Hind to enter the Baie des Chaleurs
46	Same to same	Dec. 19	to renew her supplies inclosed. Immigration of Anthony Gallagher's family: Per-	77 mission for immigration of family of Anthony
٠.			Gallagher into the United States requested.
			Letter from the Darlington Poor Law Union in-47	Same to same (memorandum).	Dec. 23	closed.	7
	,		The independence of the Sandwich Islands guar-	į. antied by France and Great Britain in 1843: A similar declaration by other powers suggested and Germany to be asked to guaranty their neutrality and accessibility to ships of all 1888.	nations.
48	Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S. Sack-	Jan. 7		7
	ville West.		Immigration of A. Gallagher's family: The right of an emigrant to land depends upon facts pre-
	1.40		sented to the collector of customs at the time of landing and can not be decided beforehand.
49	Sir L. S. Sackville West to	Jan. 14	Sugar bounties conference: Hope of the British	77
	Mr. Bayard.	Jun. 14	Government that the United States will be represented at the next meeting of the sugar con-	1 ference and will become a party to the convenharwayaya barak in Barasa	Salahi.	ference and will become a party to the conven- tion for the abolition of sugar bounties; copies	1
	harana Kebasah bebiya		of the proces-verbaux of the sugar conference held in London in 1887 inclosed.	1
EΛ		Wab a	neid in London in 1887 inclosed.	-
50	Same to same	Feb. 2	Discrimination against United States vessels in	77
			Canada: Copy of minutes of the privy council of Canada embodying the report of the minister	1.
			of customs upon the subject of fees charged on	1
			United States vessels in the ports of Ontario	1
			inclosed.	i

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF GREAT BRITAIN AT WASHING-TON-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
551	Sir L. S. Sackville West to	Feb. 5	Refusal of authorities at Halifax to permit the	779
	Mr. Bayard.		sale of fresh fish by two American vessels in	ĺ distress: Permission granted American vessels in distress at Halifax to land part of their perishable cargo for bona fide repairs, without 552	Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S. Sack-	Feb. 7	prejudice to the question of right.
002	ville West.	Feb. 7	Refusal by authorities at Halifax of permission to two American vessels in distress to sell their	780
		-	cargo of fresh fish: The British minister's note stating that permission had been given them to land part of the perishable cargo and make bona fide repairs, without prejudice to the question of right, received.
553	Sir L.S. Sackville West to	Feb. 8	Samoan affairs: The United States Government	780
	Mr. Bayard.		reported to agree with the German that the case of Gurr vs. Marquardt is subject to German consular jurisdiction, and not within that of the municipal magistrate of Apia: the opinion of Great Britain different; requests to know whether the views of the United States remain the same after perusal of the correspondence in ==.	Camada	T1 1	the case, which is inclosed.
554	Same to same	Feb. 14	Sailing of American-owned ships under the British	786 flag: Requests information whether the United States can not prevent vessels sold to its citizens from sailing under the British flag; statement
555	Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S. Sack-	Fob 14	of facts in connection with the subject inclosed.
300	ville West.	Feb. 14	The North Erin: The misconduct of the captain of the North Erin while inside Cape Henry,	787
		-	Virginia, and within United States jurisdiction, when adeputy United States marshal attempted
	NA.		to serve process upon him, called to the atten- tion of the British Government for its proper action in the case; a letter from the Attorney General of the United States transmitting copy of a letter from the United States attorney at Norfolk, Va., inclosed.
556	Same to same	Feb. 15	Hawaiian treaty with the United States · Pleasure	788
.			that it is perceived that the political sovereignty of Hawaii is not impaired by the Pearl Harbor concession. Important reciprocities contained in the Hawaiian treaties with the United States
- 1		- 1	and the granting of any part of Hawaiian terri- tory to another nation without consent of the i			United States inhibited; unnecessary for the United States to join in guarantying the neutrainty of Hawaii or providing for the equal ac-
557	Sir L. S. Sackville West to	Mar. 6	cessibility of all nations to existing ports. Sugar bounties conference: Article VIII of the	789
	Mr. Bayard.		draught of convention annexed to the protocol of	100 December 19, 1887, in reference to sugar bounties not understood. No intention of excluding the colonies mentioned in the article from participa.	tion in the conference; such colonies self-govern-
-			ing and always omitted in commercial treaties:
			expectation that all the British possessions named in the article will become parties to the
	N. D. 11 61 - 1 -		agreement. Copy of Article VIII inclosed.	100
558	Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S. Sack- ville West.	Mar. 6	Sailing of American owned ships under British flag: No law of the United States to prevent	789 vino w ost.	1	flag: No law of the United States to prevent Americans from sailing British-built ships un-
PFC			der the British flag.
559	Same to same	Mar. 19	Samoan affairs: Suggests that each Government	790 be at liberty to publish the secret protocols of F.00	Gt . T G G G . T		the Samoan conference; an early reply requested.
560	Sir L.S. Sackville West to Mr. Bayard.	Mar. 19	Lights in the Red Sea: The advice of the United	790
	arr. Dayaru.	A 1 3	States requested as to whether the proposals of the Turkish Government in regard to maintaining lights in the Red Sea and Persian Gulf should be accepted, and if not, information as to what lights their trade requires and what !
			dues they will pay; the concession of the Porte for the maintenance of thirty lights inclosed.
561	Same to same	Mar. 19	Sugar bounties conference: The attendance of an	792
	e de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de la companya de		American delegate at the sugar conference inportant; success of the conference impossible unless the United States be represented.
562	Same to same	Mar. 20	Sugar bounties conference: Documents referred to	792 in the protocol of December 19, 1887, requested and the second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second second s		to be communicated to the British Government.

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF GREAT BRITAIN AT WASHINGTON—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1888.
5 6 3	Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S. Sack- ville West.	Mar. 21	Sugar bounties conference: Note stating the importance attached to the presence of a representative of the United States received, the	79
			portance attached to the presence of a representative of the United States received; the objects of the conference; legislation pending in Congress in regard to the tax on sugar and the United States at ready to become the United States not ready to become a party to the conference; subsequent adhesion of states provided for by Article VII of the draught; Mr. White will be authorized to attend if he can do so without power to sign a 64	Same to same	Mar. 21	convention or commit the United States to the results of the conference. Sugar bounties conference: The United States Gov-	79
	교통 (1 - 1 기타 기타 기타 등록) (1 - 1 기타 기타 기타 기타 기타 기타 기타 기타 기타 기타 기타 기타 기타		ernment unprepared to give the sugar tests, etc., referred to in the protocol of December 19, 1887.
65	Sir L. S. Sackville West to Mr. Bayard.	Mar. 22	Samoan affairs: The British Government of opinion that pending the re-establishment of the Samoan Conference its proceedings should be considered confidential.	79
66	Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S. Sackville West.	Mar. 24	Discrimination against United States vessels in Canada: The main argument of the Depart-	79
			ment's note in relation to fees exacted in the ports of Ontario misunderstood; no intention to state that entrance and clearance fees on American vessels in Welland canal are equiva- lent to the tonnage duty of 3-15 cents which was suspended by the President's proclamation of January 31, 1885, on vessels coming to the United States from Ontario; the fees charged on American vessels discriminatory; the minister of cus- toms replies that the fees charged on Canadian vessels in United States lake ports are equivalent to the Canadian fees, but fails to show dis- crimination; discrimination in Canada apparently admitted by the minister of customs; no claim made that American vessels be admitted to the Canadian coasting trades, but that Canadian vessels, licensed for the coasting trade, are given advantages over American vessels in the rates between the two countries; this allegation not answered by proposing mutuality of coast.
			not answered by proposing mutuality of coasting trades; the remedy in the Dominion act imposing the fees and empowering the governor
37	Same to same	Mar. 27	posing the fees and empowering the governor of Canada to reduce or re-adjust them. Aid to wrecked vessels: The President ready to issue the proclamation contemplated by the	79 act of Congress of June 19, 1878, for reciprocal aid to vessels wrecked in waters between the United States and Canada as soon as notified of the British Government's readiness to ac-
68	Sir L. S. Sackville West to Mr. Bayard.	Apr. 3	cept the arrangement. Sugar bounties conference: Pleasure that Mr. White should attend the sugar conference, and hopes that the United States will join the con-	79
69	Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S. Sackville West.	Apr. 11	vention. Lights in the Red Sea: The United States Government not in favor of accepting the proposely of the Ports in page 4 to establishing	79
			posals of the Porte in regard to establishing lights in the Red Sea; report of the chairman of the United States Light-House Board in 70	Sir L. S. Sackville West to Mr. Bayard.	Apr. 12	closed. Canadian tariff: Copy of a minute of the privy council of Canada, authorizing the addition of	79
71	Same to same	Apr. 17	fruits, plants, etc., to the free list, inclosed.  Pearl River Harbor: England's right by the treaty of 1851, with Hawaii, to anchor and re-	79 fit her war ships in all Hawaiian harbors and rivers; no special advantages sought under this treaty; Hawaii and the United States re- minded of this right in consequence of the 72	Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S.	Apr. 19	treaty of 1884, concluded between these two countries. Pearl River Harbor: The British minister's note	79
	Sackville West.		verbale in relation to the stipulations of the convention of December 6, 1884, between the United States and Hawaii concerning Pearl River harbor received; the British minister re- ferred to the Secretary of State's personal note of February 15, 1888, on the subject.

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF GREAT BRITAIN AT WASHINGTON—Continued.

	1.07
	1888.
Sir L. S. Sackville West to Mr. Bayard.	Apr. 20	Canadian tariff: Copy of a minute of the privy council of Canada recommending that, on ac-	800
		it be canceled and another issued specifying the articles to be admitted free of duty after Same to same	Apr. 25	containing the proclamation inclosed. Seizure of United States fishing vessels: Copy of	802
Stellie to sainte.
	i	with a copy of the minute of the privy coun-
10 mg		vessels Daniel J. Adams and Ella M. Doughly,
Same to same	May 2	Boit not refused to United States vessels by News	803
		purchase not necessary for such vessels.	803
Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S. Sackville West.	мау 4	British minister's note stating that the New-	000 sale of bait to American vessels received; ex-
Sir L. S. Sackville West to	May 7	pression of satisfaction renewed.	804
Mr. Bayard.	·	letters furnished by the owners of the British steamer North Erin, in reference to the com-
		master inclosed.	808
Same to same	May 21	Immigration of a body of Indians under the lead of William Duncan from Metlakahtla. British Columbia, into Alaska; such immigration not
	Mar. 20	United States.	808
Same to same	may so	waters: Form of license to be issued by the	00.
		ing vessels under the modus ninendi inclosed.	808
Mr. Edwardes to Mr. Bay- ard.	June 7	formation received that American fishing ves-	000 have purchased bait and sold it to French usn-United States consul at that place.
Mr. Bayard to Mr. Ed- wardes.	June 8	Illegal sale of bait alleged by American vessels to French fishermen, without a license at	80
		States consultated limited States consular agent informed of the charge against him and	1 1
Same to same	June 8	Immigration of Indians from British Columbia	80 regard to the matter inclosed	- In 5
Same to same	June 8	Illegal sale of bait by United States fishing ves-	81 gating such action denied by the consular offi-
Mr. Edwardes to Mr. Bay.	June 9	Illegal sale of bait by United States vessels: Ac-	81
ard.		tion of instruction sent to United States con-purchase of bait by United States vessels in and sale of it to French fishermen.	i
Same to same	June 9	Department's note received stating that the United States consular officer at St. Pierre denies instigating violation of bait laws by United
Mr. Bayard to Mr. Ed.	June 22	States vessels.  The Bridgewater seized and detained 81 days by	81
wardes.		the authorities of Shelburne Nova Scotia; review of facts in the case; claim presented for $20,000: no redress in Canadian courts; com-the law of the case not stated, as it is admitted that there was no warrant for the arrest.
	Same to same	Same to same	Sir L. S. Sackville West to Mr. Bayard.  Apr. 25  Same to same

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF GREAT BRITAIN AT WASHINGTON—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
7		1888.
5 87	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Edwardes.	July 2	Lights in the Red Sea: Inexpedient to assent to the Porte's proposal for establishing lights in the Red Sea; only four necessary; the dues exessive; no provision made for the publication of accounts of light dues on their rediction.	81
			exessive; no provision made for the publication of accounts of light dues or their reduction; but the United States may assent to an arrangement for establishing these four.
588	Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S. Sackville West.	July 21	Discrimination against American vessels in Welland Canal: Reciprocal equality of treatment in the lake canals of the vessels of both countries contemplated by treaty of Washington, such expelling prices with the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of the countries of th	813 me on such equality exists in the initial 589	Sir L. S. Sackville West to Mr. Bayard.	July 31	States. Discrimination against American vessels passing through Welland Canal brought to the attention of the Dominion government.	814
590	Mr. Herbert to Mr. Bayard.	Aug. 1	Justice Prowse's report on alleged breaches of the New Foundland bait act by American fish.	814
591	Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S. Sack- ville West.	Aug. 4	Discrimination against the products of countries	823
			Canada through the United States: Asks that the attention of the Canadian Government be given the matter; a memorial from American merchants on the subject, inclosed.
592	Sir L. S. Sackville West to Mr. Bayard.	Aug. 9	of the Cape of Good Hope imported into Canada by way of the United States brought to the ne	824
593	Same to same	Aug. 13	tice of the Dominion Government. Aid to wrecked vessels: Extract from a committee of the privy council upon the subject of rendering aid to vessels wrecked in waters between the United States.	824
594	Same to same	Aug. 13	rendering aid to vessels wrecked in waters be- tween the United States and Canada, inclosed. Discrimination against United States vessels in Welland Canal: Copy of an approved minute of the priva control to	824
595	Same to same		levied by the Deminion and relative to the tolls
090	Same to same	Aug. 25	passing through Welland Canal, inclosed.  Illegal recruitment of laborers in the New Heb- rides: The British Government calls the De- partment's attention to the matter of the illegal	825 recruitment of native laborers in the New Heb- rides on board the Mary Anderson, owned by an American, Eugene Wilbur, and flying the British flag; Mr. Wilbur confesses that he recruited laborers on board a vessel owned by him and flying the Paritish Programs.
			ity; the vessel liable to forfeiture in this case.
			in command, the offense one under the Pacific Islanders' protection act of 1872 and 1875: no proceedings taken against Mr. Wilbur, as he is an American and not within British dominions; sailing a British-built ship under a United States flag against American law; action requested to prevent such irregularities; the question of Americans flying their flag over British-built vessels believed to be of interest to the United 96	Mr. Bayard to Sir L. S. Sack- ville West.	Sept. 3	States.  Illegal recruitment of laborers in the New Hebrides: Attention will be given the acts of	826
			Eugene Wilbur, said to be an American. commanding the Mary Anderson, flying the British flag at the time of such acts, and now that of the United States.
97	Lord Sackville to Mr. Bayard.	Oct. 10	Illegal recruiting of laborers in the New Hebrides: Extract from a dispatch from the high commissioner in the Western Pacific in refer-	826
98	My Horbout to M. D.	3.7	ence to illegal recruiting of laborers on board the Mary Anderson in the New Hebrides, by re- quest of Lord Salisbury, inclosed.
90	Mr. Herbert to Mr. Bayard.	Nov. 11	Aid to wrecked vessels: Standing proposition of the Canadian Government for reciprocal aid to vessels in distress in the inland coasting trade.	827

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF GREAT BRITAIN AT WASHING-TON—Continued

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
599	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Herbert.	1888. Nov. 11	Aid to wrecked vessels: Acknowledges the communication of the offer of the Canadian Government to make reciprocal arrangements for aid to vessels in the inland waters between the United States and Canada; it has been the subject of previous correspondence; surprise at the declaration that no partial arrangement of reciprocity will be permitted in view of the act of Congress of the United States of June 19, 1878, providing for a reciprocal arrangement in all waters contiguous to the two countries; full participation in the coasting trade and towing business apparently a condition of Canada's participation in the arrangement; if this is not	82
i i			so, propositions in the line of the act of June 19, 1878, will be gladly received.
(	CORRESPONDENCE WITH	THE LI	EGATION OF GUATEMALA AT WASHINGTO	ON.
		1887.
00	Mr. Lainfiesta to Mr. Bayard.	Oct. 25	Protection to Guatemalan citizens by represent- atives of the United States: Asks that the con- suls and ministers of the United States will ex- tend to the citizens of Guatemala the same	82
01	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Montu- far.	Dec. 24	good offices they do to the citizens of Switzer- iand, and states that Guatemalan consuls, etc., will be instructed to do the same for Americans. Protection to Guatemalan citizens by represent- atives of the United States. The Entire States	83
	1601.		atives of the United States: The United States will extend to Guatemalan citizens the same protection which is extended to Swiss citizens if desired; for Mr. Montufar's information as to the extent of this protection Mr. Bayard's
2	Mr. Montufar to Mr. Bayard.	Dec. 27	to the extent of this protection, Mr. Bayard's note to Major Kloss, of June 1, 1887, is inclosed. Protection to Guatemalan citizens by representatives of the United States: Has received Mr. Bayard's communications stating how far	83
			United States diplomatic and consular officers extend protection to Swiss citizens, and offering to extend the same to those of Guatemala; friendship of Guatemala for the United States, suggests that a treat of friendship of consulting of consulting of consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting of the consulting suggests that a treaty of friendship and com- merce may be arranged between the two coun- tries, and that the matter be considered until he has had time to inform his Government of the offer of the United States.
			HAWAII.
1		100=
3	Mr. Merrill to Mr. Bayard (No. 138).	1887. Aug. 26	Financial: $1,500,000 of the $2,000,000 loan authorized has been borrowed; $1,264,699.26 netted to the Government; the Hawaiian Government considers the charges of the London syndicate too great, that 5 per cent. commission and 2 per cent. discount is sufficient; no more money to	632 with North America: $20,000 appropriated for 4	Same to same (No. 141)	Sept. 19	that purpose last session.  Political: Election of the Legislature; native Hawaiians support the reform party; the race question not prominent; an extra session prob-	838
5	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Merrill (No. 61).	Sept. 30	able; business not affected.  Oath required of foreign residents in Hawaii; the oath required of all nationalities and requisite for the enjoyment of political privileges; does not denote a post of the political privileges.	833
6	Mr. Merrill to Mr. Bayard (No. 148).	Oct. 15	does not deprive Americans of their United States citizenship. Immigration: 13,517 immigrant laborers in Ha- waii; 23 plantations prefer Japanese; 36 Portu-	834
7	Same to same (No. 149)	Oct. 22	guese and Chinese. Supplementary convention with the United States ratified; note from the British minister protest-	834

HAWAII—Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1888.
608	Mr. Merrill to Mr. Bayard	Nov. 8	Political: Opening of the Legislature; speech of	838
4	(No. 153).		the King upon the renewal of the treaty of reciprocity with the United States; the speech of 609	Same to same (No. 158)	Dec. 15	the King and reply of the Legislature, inclosed.  Veto power of the King: Resolution adopted by	837 the Legislature that the veto of the King, not countersigned by a member of the cabinet, is unconstitutional; the opinion of the supreme	1 2 court asked by the King; the decision of the justices will be supported; the resolution on a		the veto inclosed.
610	Same to same (No. 159)	Dec. 16	Supplementary convention with the United States approved by the Legislature; questions asked	844 en in the second of the		the ministry as to the statement made by the	1.
	•		King in his speech, that article 2 of the convention is conterminous with the treaty of reciproc-
611	Same to same (No. 160)	Dec. 17	ity, and their answers inclosed. Submarine telegraph cables: Popular desire to	847
7	,,		connect the Hawaiian Islands with North Amer-	02.
			ica by cables; the advantages of such connections; the original resolution in favor of Mr. Coote, the later one, which is in favor of no par-	l ticular person, inclosed.
910	S t (N- 101)	1888.
612	Same to same (No. 161)	Jan. 7	Veto power of the King: The supreme court divided in their opinion; the King vetoes more	849 bills; Mr. Dole, who is opposed to the King's power of veto, it is expected, will be made the 이 사람들은 기계 시간 사람들이 가셨다.		fifth justice; adjournment of the legislature expected; the message of the King, accompanying the vetoed bills, inclosed.
313	Same to same (No. 168)	Feb. 10	panying the vetoed bills, inclosed.  Veto power of the King: The independent veto power of the King sustained by the supreme	852 power of the King sustained by the supreme court; the decision quietly received by the country; no extra session expected; the decision of the supreme court inclosed.
614	Same to same (No. 169)	Feb. 13	Pearl River Harbor: Protest of the British min-	860
			ister against the concession based on the treaty between Great Britain and Hawaii, which mutually gives the right to enter all harbors, etc., which the ships of war of other nations
615	Same to same (No. 173)	Feb. 24	are allowed to enter.	861
010	Same to same (110. 175)	10D. 24	Pearl River Harbor: Correspondence between the British commissioner and the Hawaiian	00.
			minister of foreign affairs, relative to the con- cession of Pearl River Harbor to the United [ ]		cession of Pearl River Harbor to the United States, inclosed.
616	Same to same (No. 174)	Feb. 24	Immigration of Chinese: General feeling against	864
			Chinese immigration; anti-Asiatic union organized to restrict Chinese and Japanese immi- gration and effect the expulsion of those in the	1
	,		islands who do not renew their contracts to work,	l and to prevent licenses being granted them for	1
617	Same to same (No. 179)	Amm 4	trade; the published regulations inclosed.	00
J. /	Dame to Same (NO. 149)	Apr. 4	Christmas, Fanning, and Penrhyn Islands taken possession of by Great Britain; the British	86 commissioner says the trade of these islands is insignificant, but they are valuable as coaling
618	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Merrill	Apr. 20	and telegraph stations.  Pearl River Harbor: Memorandum of interview	86
	(No. 79).		with the British minister in regard to the treaty
		e de	of 1844 between Great Britain and France, by which they mutually agree to promote the neutrality of Hawaii, and the advisability of the United States joining in the guaranty, with United States joining in the guaranty, with other correspondence with the British minister 619	Same to same (No. 80)	May 2	in regard to the subject, inclosed. Christmas Island: The dispatch announcing the	866
~~0	to same (110. 60)	may 2	taking possession of Christmas and other Paci-	000 fic islands by the commander of H. B. M.'s ship Caroline received; copy of correspondence with the British minister in regard to these islands in 1879 inclosed; further information
'			requested.	100
620	Mr. Merrill to Mr. Bayard	July 24	Inter-island submarine telegraph cable author-	860
	(No. 196).		ized by act of the Hawaiian Government, $25,000 appropriated; Mr. Bartholomew, the contractor, in the United States arranging for its construction; favorable prospect for its comple-	1

LIST OF PAPERS.

HAWAII-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
621	Mr. Merrill to Mr. Bayard (No. 197).	1887. July 24	Exclusion of Chinese: Copy of an act limiting the time within which permits for Chinese to enter the Hawaiian Islands may be used in-	863
622	Same to same (No. 201)	Aug. 25	closed.  Exclusion of Chinese: The proposed amendment to the Hawaiian constitution, giving the legis- lature power to restrict the employment and immigration of Chinese, will probably be sup-	868
			ported by a majority of the present legislature; the question to be decided two years hence by the new legislature; the bill requiring laborers to procure a license reported adversely; the report of the special committee on the Chinese question and the proposed amendment inclosed.
623	Same to same (No. 204)	Sept. 11	Exclusion of Chinese: Amendment to the Hawaiian Chinese immigration act of 1887 inclosed.	871
624	Same to same (No. 211)	Sept. 29	Cable to British America: Protest of the British Government against granting the exclusive	873 right to lay such a cable; reply of the Ha- waiian Government that such a grant is within its right as a state; improbability of Mr. Coote fulfilling the requirements of the con- tract; a cable to the United States favored; enterprises of English capitalists in the Sand- wich Islands; British influence will be in- creased by a steam-ship line and cable to British America; the beneficial effect of direct com- munication with the United States.
625	Same to same (No. 213)	Oct. 6	Cook's Islands or Harvey Archipelago: Cruise of H. B. M.'s ship Caroline to take possession of or establish a protectorate over these islands at the request, as is claimed, of the authorities of Raratonga.	875

HAYTI.

626	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bayard (No. 153).	1887. Nov. 14	Caisse d'amortissement bonds: Laws passed by the National Assembly, (1) establishing a new	877 treasury service; (2) substituting new for old paper money; (3) converting the exterior debt and consolidating the floating debt; and (4) reg- ulating the interior debt (caisse d'amortisse- ment) and the back floating debt; last two laws affecting American citizens; the value of the bonds reduced 20 per cent. and the interest 1 per cent; copy of the fourth law, and letters of Mr. Thompson to the minister of foreign affairs setting forth its injustice to American bond holders inclosed.
627	Same to same (No. 155)	Nov. 26	Caisse d'amortissement bonds: An arrangement effected by which the bonds of Americans at the legation are paid one year's interest, the three months and fifteen days' interest and face value of the bonds to be exchanged for new ones; correspondence with the Haytian minister for foreign affairs inclosed.	881
628	Same to same (No. 161)	Dec. 24	Submarine cable between the Mole St. Nicholas and Santiago de Cubs to be commenced by Christmas; translation of law authorizing it in- closed.	883
629 630	Same to same (telegram) Same to same (No. 181)	May 26 May 26 May 26	Political: Revolution imminent; send war vessel. Political: Disturbances in Port au Prince; the city declared in a state of siege; a United States war ship requested to be sent; the ministers offer to act as bondsmen of Légitime's word; copy of letter of Senator Légitime to Mr. Thompson in- closed.	884 884
631	Same to same (No. 185)	June 6	Political: Arrival of the Yantic and Her Britan- nic Majesty's ships Tourmaline and Wrangler; departure of the former; Senator Légitime sent to Jamaica, Deputy Manigat to Santiago de Cuba; $5,000 to defray expenses accepted from the Government by Manigat; refused by Légi- time; quiet restored.	887

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1887.
632	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bayard (No. 186),	June 11	Political: President Salomon said to favor Deputy Manigat as his successor; interview with Salomon; the situation in Hayti: the return of	887
			Salomon; the situation in Hayti; the return of the Yantic expected; Her Britannic Majesty's ship Ready to relieve the Wrangler; the speech of President Salomon; article from La Vérité on the situation and letter of Senator Légitime	į š
6 33	Mr. Adee to Mr. Thompson (No. 107).	June 11	to the Conrrier d'Haiti inclosed.  Political: The Yantic sent to Port au Prince: re-	891
634	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bay-	June 11	ports no apprehension of disturbance; a confirmation of the report hoped for.  Political: Asylumat the American legation asked	895
	ard.		by C. Fouchard, Haytian secretary of treasury; asylum asked by Brutus St. Victor of the French minister; Légitime to have been attacked on the 24th ultimo.
635	Same to same (No. 188)	June 16	Political: Extract from the Le Moniteur correcting the La Vérité's report of Salomon's speech and an article from the Courrier d'Haïti on the	892
636	Same to same (No. 189)	June 19	situation inclosed.  Political: Arrival and departure of the French ship Du Coučdic, and the Bison expected; Her Majesty's ship Wrangler relieved by the Ready.	895
637	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Thompson (No. 110).	June 21	how Mr. Thompson could act as bondsman of the word of Légitime.	895
638	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bayard (No. 191).	July 2	Political: General Jeanty's resignation accepted and General Laforest appointed to command the arrondisement of Port an Prince and he suc- ceeded as commander of the place by General	896
			the port: translation of order of the day inclosed
639	Same to same (No. 192)	July 8	Political: Incendiarism in Port au Prince; Salo- mon accuses foreigners; a ship of war requested; arrests reported.	897
340	Same to same (telegram)	July 9	Political: Send war vessels; political incendiarism; situation critical.	898
841	Same to same (No. 193)	July 9	Political incendiarism: Panic in the city; most of the cargo of the Atlas returned; a man, captured while firing a house, to be shot.	898
542	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Thompson (telegram).	July 11	Political: A war vessel can not be sent unless	899
343	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bayard (No. 194).	July 16	particulars of urgency are furnished.  Political incendiarism: A house opposite to the legation burned; Romulus Romain, accused of	899
and the second			setting fire to a house, shot; discontent with President Salomon; the dismissal of his private secretary demanded; indications of general dis- content.
544	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Thompson (No. 114).	July 16	Political: Repeatedly sending war ships indicative of distrust of the Haytian Government; unwillingness to send ships to the West Indies during the yellow-fever season; none will be sent unless particulars of urgency are furnished.	900
45	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bayard (No. 196).	July 21	Political: Three British, one French, and one Dutch man-of-war in the harbor; telegram refusing to send ship received; desire expressed	901 by all for the presence of a United States ves- sel.
46	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Thompson (No. 115).	July 31	Political: Dispatch reporting disturbances in Hayti received; non-interference in Hayti's in-	901
147	Same to same (No. 119)	Aug. 2	ternal affairs approved.  Political: The Secretary of the Navy unwilling to send a ship unless absolute necessity requires it, which does not seem to be the age.	901
48	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bayard (telegram).	Aug. 10	quires it, which does not seem to be the case.  Political: Urgent and immediate need of two ships of war.	902
19	Same to same (No. 199)	Aug. 11	Ships of war.  Ships of war.  Political incendiarism: Two hundred and fifty thousand dollars given to the sufferers from the fires by the Government; claim presented by N. B. Walker, a United States citizen, for the destruction of a soap factory, through the British consul-general; reply of the Haytian Government; the French, English, and Spanish representatives said to be preparing to present	902 representatives said to be preparing to present claims for losses by the fires on the ground that the city was under martial law; the law passed for the aid of the sufferers inclosed.
50	Mr. Adee to Mr. Thompson (telegram).	Aug. 16	Political: War vessel sent	904

LIST OF PAPERS.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.		004
651	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Thomp-	Aug. 16	Political: The Galena ordered to Hayti; letter of Secretary of the Navy inclosed.	904
$65\hat{2}$	son (No. 120). Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bay-	Aug. 18	Secretary of the Navy inclosed.  Political: Revolution at Cape Haytien; abdica-	905
	ard (No. 201).		tion of President Salomon; return of Légitime; Thélémaque expected; dispatch from United States consular agent at Gonaïves, proclama- tion of Boisrond Canal, letter of President Salomon to Mr. Thompson, two dispatches from United States consul at Cape Haytien, States consular agent at Gonaives proclamation of Boisrond Canal. letter of President Salomon to Mr. Thompson, two dispatches from United States consul at Cape Haytien, tion of the revolutionary committee of Cane
			Haytien, order of the day proclaimed by General Thélémaque, order of the day proclaimed by the revolutionary committee, letter of Bois-	} eral Thélémaque, order of the day proclaimed rond Canal to Mr. Thompson and reply inclosed.
653	Same to same (No. 204)	Aug. 25	Political: Attempt of the French minister to stop	916
		1.0	Thélémaque from marching to Port au Prince; feeling between the North and the South; a provisional government formed.
654	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Thomp-	Aug. 30	Political incendiarism, No. 199, announcing, re-	917 son (No. 122).	Ŭ	ceived; the matter will be considered when a ess	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Por	Sept. 5	case is presented. Political: The new ministry; the indications in	917
655	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bayard (No. 205).	ոշին ո	favor of the election of the northern candidate,	911 ara (210, 200).		Thélémaque, for the presidency; arrival of the e=^	Same to some (Mrs. soe)	Sont 6	Galena.   Sanitary: Refusal to sign a circular-letter of the	918
656	Same to same (No. 206)	Sept. 6	French minister to the Haytian Government	910 stating that clean bills of health will not be given r			to vessels unless troops are removed from the	1.0
			city; will not enter into a contract to give clean bills of health if pestilence prevails; the circular a political move; the fever not spread-257	Same to same (No. 207)	Sont 5	ing. Political: Official call on the members of the	918
357	Same to same (No. 207)	pehe a	provisional government by Mr. Thompson, the	310 commander, and three officers of the Galena;
			the call not returned, owing to the Galena's departure.
658	Same to same (No. 208)	Sept. 8	Sanitary: Interview of the diplomatic corps with	919
	,	-	the provisional government; vessels to be advised to lie further from the wharves; a sani- tary commission appointed; the few cases of fever isolated, and clean bills of health given.	100
659	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Thomp-	Sept. 21	Political: Nos. 204 and 205 received; pleased at	920
200	son (No. 123).	Sont 99	the orderly course of events.  Sanitary: The circular-letter of the French min-	920
660	Same to same (No. 124)	Sept. 22	ister that clean bills of health would be refused	320
			if the troops were not removed from Port au Prince; Mr. Thompson's statement that by signing he would have been obliged to give
-			clean bills of health in all cases not understood;
			the bill of health should depend upon the condition of the port at the time of granting; sus- picious cases of fever at Port au Prince reported to the health officers.
661	Same to same (No. 125)	Sept. 24	Sanitary: Interview with the provisional gov-	921 ernment, with a view to the improvement of the sanitary condition of Port au Prince approved.	1
662	Same to same (No. 126)	Sept. 24	Political: Copies of letter from the Secretary of	921 the Treasury covering Commander Chester's report on Haytian affairs, and Department's reply, inclosed.
663	Mr. Rives to Mr. Thompson	Oct. 9	Political: Telegram announcing the death of	924
	(No. 128).		Thélémaque communicated to the Navy Department, with the request that a vessel be sent to	1
	an a var jalente		Hayti; no vessel available, but one will be sent
364	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bay-	Oct. 16	as soon as possible.	004
10.F	ard (No. 212).	Oct. 10	Political: Conflict in Port au Prince resulting in the death of General Thélémaque; amnesty	924
•	\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\		proclaimed; resignations of the ministers of	1 1 interior, and of agriculture and police; revolt in the north, and blockade declared against Cape Haytian, Gonaïves, and St. Marc; correspond ence with Légitime and his protestation in-	1
	G 43 (37 - 010)	0-4	closed.
65	Same to same (No. 213)	Oct. 17	Political: General Légitime elected "chief of the executive power;" civil war imminent; General Légitime's letter announcing his elec-	930
	<ul> <li>A second control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the</li></ul>		one executive power; civil war imminent;	1

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1888.
666	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bay- ard (No. 214).	Oct. 18	Political: Charge of attempted bribery against	93
	aru (110. 214).		the French representative in Hayti; odium cast on all; translation of a deposition pub-	100 lished in the Trait d'Union on the subject in-
667	Same to same (No. 217)	Oct. 29	closed. Seizure of the Haytien Republic and the William	93
			Jones: The Haytien Republic seized when leav-	" ing St. Marc; brought to Port au Prince by the Dessatines; statement of the captain; the land ing of her passengers at a port not blockaded.
			a salute to the American flag, and indemnity for the vessel's detention demanded; Légi- time's adherents in the minority; Americans	1
		A-5. 76	in danger; war vessel telegraphed for : machin-
	물론 이 집에 대변한 이번 없다		ery taken out and the vessel taken into the in- ner harbor; note to the foreign office not an Nicholas, Port de Paix, and Jaemel declared blockaded; the French vessel Bison in the harbor; the William Jones, with a perishable angle beauty	ļ harbor; the William Jones, with a perishable
	•		cargo bound for Gonaïves from Boston, seized and brought to Port au Prince; a ship of war
	•		asked; copies of notes from Mr. Piquant and 668	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Thomp-	Oct. 29	two notes to him inclosed.  The seizure of the Haytien Republic and William	936 son (telegram).		Jones, protest to be made against.
669	Mr. Rives to Mr. Thompson (No. 56).	Oct. 31	Right of asylum: Consul Goutier's mistake in denying the right of asylum in consulates to	936 political refugees corrected; correspondence
370	Same to same (No. 130)	Nov. 2	with Mr. Goutier inclosed.  Political: Mr. Goutier rebuked for interfering in	940
	Samo to samo (110. 150)	1101. 2	Haytian affairs by joining with other consuls	• • in the suggestion that Legitime withdraw as candidate for President of Hayti; copy of in-
1			struction to him inclosed.
71	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bay-	Nov. 3	Seizure of the Haytien Republic: The passengers	94
	ard (No. 218).	47.1	leave the vessel; the vessel condemned to confiscation and her owners to pay $50,000; Captain Compton advised not to leave his vessels
		-	until forced; copy of note to Mr. Piquant inclosed.
72	Same to same (No. 219)	Nov. 6	Seizure of the Haytien Republic and William	945
			Jones: Arrival of the Boston; the case of the seized vessels being considered with Captain 73	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Thomp-	Nov. 10	Ramsey.
""	son (telegram).	NOV. 10	Political: Taking sides in domestic strifes to be avoided and the commander of the Boston to	942
74	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bay-	Nov. 15	be freely consulted with.
-	ard (No. 132).	1101. 15	Seizure of the Haytien Republic and William Jones: Details will be sent by the Boston,	942
75	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Thomp-	Nov. 15	which leaves the 16th. Seizure of the Haytien Republic and William	046 son (No. 132).	1,01. 15	Jones: No. 217, announcing, received; telegram	943
76	Same to same (No. 133)	Nov. 16	of the 10th instant confirmed.  Political: Recognition of General Légitime's
	Same to same (No. 199)	1101. 10	government deferred until it shall be firmly es-	94
- 1			tablished; position of the United States as defined in instruction to United States representa-
	the state of the state of the state of		tives at Caracas in 1863; intercourse to be with
		1	the de facto controlling party, but no recogni- tion implied thereby.
77	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bay-	Nov. 16	Seizure of the William Jones: The vessel re-	94
	ard (No. 221).		leased, as she was not legally notified of the blockade; was ordered to Port au Prince and	47.5
			detained twenty days instead of being allowed
-			to go to another port; indemnity of $10,000 paid Captain Collins and her cargo exempted
-			from duty.
78	Same to same (No. 222)	Nov. 17	Seizure of the Haytien Republic: The case to be	94 referred to the Department for decision; correspondence with Mr. Margron; Mr. Metzger's protest and letter to M. Leon, and decision of	- protest and letter to M. Leon, and decision of
- 1			the prize-court on his petition for a delay, inclosed.
79	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Rives	Nov. 19	Seizure of the Haytien Republic: The crew sent to	95
	(No. 116).		the United States on account of the death of one of them; Captain Compton will remain;
			copy of correspondence with Captain Compton
80	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Thomp-	Nov. 20	and list of seamen inclosed. Seizure of the William Jones: Letter from Mr.	960
	son (No. 134).		Haskins in regard to, inclosed.	90

Page.	Subject.	Date.	From and to whom.	No.
		1000
961	Refusal of the authorities at Port an Prince to	1888. Nov. 24	Mr. Thompson to Mr. Bay-	81 give a clearance to the Winnie Lowry to Port		ard (No. 223).
	de Paix on the 25th; blockade of the port de- clared on the 26th; the vessel sails in ballast
l	for New York : instructions requested ; copy of			4, 14
962	the protest of the master inclosed.		성용화사회 명보다 있는데 얼마 그네
902	Seizure of the Haytien Republic: Arguments against the seizure not refuted; the vessel had	Nov. 24	Same to same (No. 225)	382
	a right to take arms to Havti, but did not: to			. 1
1	be guilty of contraband traffic she must be caught in delicto; forcing the blockade said to be of secondary importance, but the only charge; the testimony worthless; Mr. Solon Menos not subprenaed, and only appeared to bring in the		2 letter given him by the French minister; Légi- time fears that to yield would be to appear weak to his opponents: documents on which the 071	prize court based its decision inclosed.
977	Political: Expedition undertaken by the Catholic archbishop, French minister, and Mr. Mar-	Nov. 24	Same to same (No. 226)	83 gron to the north of Hayti for the purpose of effecting peace, without avail; Mr. Thompson		그는 현실 하게 하셨다고 있습니 declines to go with the others; stringent measures to be taken; translation of note sent to the committee of Cape Haytien and their reply,
ĺ	and the French minister's note to M. Reine		4.
980	and his reply inclosed.  Refusal of authorities at Port au Prince to	Nov. 25	Same to same (No. 227)	684 clear the Maggie Abbott for Port de Paix on the	1101. 20	Same to same (10.221)	004 day the blockade of that port was voted: Protest of the captain, McIntosh, against, inclosed.
981	Refusal of the authorities of Port au Prince to	Nov. 26	Same to same (No. 228)	685 clear the Julia Fowler for Gonaïves: Protest of		, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,
982	Captain Parker against, inclosed. Political: Interference will be strictly avoided,	Nov. 26	Same to same (No. 235)	686
	as directed in Department's No. 132 and tele-	1107. 20	Same to same (No. 250)	000
98	gram of the 10th instant.
98.	Seizure of the Haytien Republic: No. 218, reporting the decision of the prize court and protest	Nov. 27	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Thompson (No. 135).	687 against it, received; protest approved.		8011 (110. 100).
983	Yellow fever on the Boston: No. 220, announcing	Nov. 27	Same to same (No. 136)	888
98	her departure, received. Seizure of the Haytien Republic illegal; discus-	Nov. 30	Same to same (No. 137)	689
	sion to be avoided: the expectation of this	1101. 00	Dame to same (10. 101)	000 Government, to which the case was referred,
1	that the Haytian authorities will acquiesce in its decision to be impressed upon them; assur-	* ances to be received that the machinery will be
98	restored to the vessel. Seizure of the Haytien Republic; Sending home	Dec. 3	Mn Diver to Mn Thomason	enn
00.	the crew approved.	⊥00. S	Mr. Rives to Mr. Thompson (No. 57).	690

-
		1888.
691	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Preston.	May 23	Claim of C. A. Van Bokkelen: Duplicates in English and French made of the agreement for arbitration of the claim; requests that they be signed at the Department the 24th.	984
692	Mr. Preston to Mr. Bayard .	May 24	Claim of C. A. Van Bokkelen: Will be at the Department at 2 p. m. to sign the agreement for arbitration of Mr. Van Bokkelen's claim.	984
693	Same to same	June 5	Claim of C. A. Van Bokkelen: Acquiescence in the choice of Mr. A. P. Morse as arbitrator in the case; Mr. Morse should declare in writing that he will decide it impartially and according to law.	984
694	Mr. Adee to Mr. Preston	June 9	Claim of C. A. Van Bokkelen: Suggests that the 8th of June, the date of signing the formal declaration of impartiality, be taken as the date of Mr. Morse's appointment as arbitrator in the case; copies of Mr. Bayard's letter to Mr. Morse and Mr. Morse's reply, covering his formal declaration, inclosed.	985

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF HAYTI AT WASHINGTON-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page
		1888.
695	Mr. Preston to Mr. Bayard	June 13		88
			ence of the Department with Mr Morse re-	00
			ceived; June 8 accepted as the date of Mr. Morse's appointment.
696	Same to same	June 24	Claim of C. A. Van Bokkelen: Messrs C. A. do	88
100		ŀ	Ullambrin, George's Routwell and James C	00
			Brent are counsel for the Haytian Government in the case.
697	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Preston	July 20	Claim of C. A. Van Bokkelen: Messrs. Kennedy & Shellabarger and Marston Niles will repre-	98
826	Mr. Preston to Mr. Bayara	Oct. 25	Sent Mr. Van Bokkelen in the case
	—	006. 25	Political: Organization of the Haytian Government; revolutionists in the north; arms ex-	98 pected from the United States; the ports of Cape Haytien, Gonaïves, and St. Marc block-
4.			Cape Haytien, Gonaives, and St. Marc block- aded; requests prevention of violation of neutrality of the territory of the United States by 699	Same to same	0.4 0.	i ilisurgents agents.
000	Same to same	Oct. 27	Seizure of the Haytien Republic for attempting to run the blockade at St. Marc with insurgents,	98
			south of Hayti; the case submitted to the prize
700	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Preston	Oct. 29	court; crew and prisoners well treated.  Blockade of Cape Haytien, Gonaïves, and St.  Marc: The United States will take steps to prevent sending armed wassels, to Hayti to a
		200.	Marc: The United States will take steps to	990
	maduki eti ili mata 1		ticipate in the insurrection; information should be given the United States district attorney;
. 1			emerent blockade duly instituted will be re-
			1 Specieu, Dill Otherwise vessels can not bol seized; sales of munitions to persons who may be concerned in the insurrection can not be 1 Stodded: Seizhre of American vessels without 1
- 1			due notice of blockade will be regarded as an act of hostility.
701	Mr. Preston to Mr. Bayard	Nov. 2	The seizure of the Hautien Republic. The seize	991
			ure after proclamation of a state of war, and governed by treaty of 1864; a vessel attempt	001
			ing to land an armed expedition liable to seizure as a ponce measure; extract from Wheaton's
702	Same to same	Nov. 6	Luternational Law inclosed
		2101. 0	Contraband of war and insurgent officers sail for Hayti on the Saginaw, cleared from New York	992
			1 Dominican ports; attempt made too late to stop her by revenue cutter; telegram will reach the Boston the 8th.
703	Same to same	Nov. 13	Political: Letter to the President from General	993
	그 글로만 하게 하는 하는		Légitime, announcing his election as chief of the executive power of Hayti, inclosed.
04	Same to same	Nov. 14	Seizure of the Haytien Republic: Papers in the	993
.			case inclosed; a full statement of views on this	000
- 1			question delayed until all the papers are re- ceived; requests Mr. Bayard to suspend de-
, AF	35 Daniel 1 35 D		cision.
05	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Preston	Nov. 16	Political: Acknowledgment of General Legi-	994 time's government reserved until firmly estab- lished; intercourse will be maintained with the
	the area and a second		authorities in possession: the reception by the
06	Mr. Preston to Mr. Bayard.	Nov. 19	President of General Légitime's letter deferred. Seizure of the Haytien Republic: Decision of the	004 prize court inclosed. No diplomatic interven-	994 tion until an appeal from the decision has been taken or waived. If the decision be reversed on appeal, or if the prize court has not jurisdiction, the criminal courts have. A claimant for intervention of his government must prove in- nocence of crime. The Haytien Republic can-HOL CIAIM INTERVENTION CONVOCATION ON to
07	Same to same	Nor 94	Captain Compton and Mr. Metzger inclosed.
	Swill Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the	Nov. 24	Contraband of war shipped from New York os- tensibly for San Domingo, but really to insur-	997
			gents in mayti through collusion of San Domin.
	그 [17] 낚시된 글을, 알 모드 그게		gan consul; circumstances showing this; pre-
	그는 양화하는데 돌고 되다니		vention of such shipments requested; affidavit; copy, of affidavit of Mr. Bassett, and of his cor-
	그는 어떻게 안된 모양해		respondence with the consul of San Domingo.
08	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Preston	Nov. 28	inclosed.	1000
	TOSOII.	2101. 20	Contraband of war: The construction placed by Mr. Preston upon the treaty of 1864 in regard	1000 to the exportation of arms to San Domingo not
1	the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the s	1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1	concurred in. Americans free to make, vend,

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF HAYTI AT WASHINGTON-Continued.

No.	From and to whom.	Date.	Subject.	Page.
		1888.
709	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Preston	Nov. 28	Seizure of the Haytien Republic irregular and wrongful; the facts reviewed; she should be restored to her owners, her officers released, and compensation made.	1001
710	Mr. Preston to Mr. Bayard	Nov. 30	Seizure of the Haytien Republic: The case re- ferred to the United States Government; powers received from Hayti to consider it with the Sec- retary of State; the opinion of the United States Government requested.	1005
711	Mr. Bayard to Mr. Preston	Dec. 1	Seizure of the Haytien Republic : The decision of the United States Government on the matter communicated in note of 28th; acquiescence in the decision expected.	1006
712	Mr. Preston to Mr. Bayard	Dec. 3	Seizure of the Haytien Republic: The decision of the United States Government in the case received: an answer will be sent in a few days.	1006
713	Award of Mr. A. P. Morse in the claim of C. A. Van- Bokkelen against the gov- ernment of Hayti.	Dec. 4	Claim of A. C. Van Bokkelen: The claim; the facts; the questions to be arbitrated; treaty of November 3, 1864; conclusion, that the Government of Hayti pay $60,000.	1007

H. Ex. 1, pt. 1——VIII

CORRESPONDENCE.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

No. 1.

Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 93.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,
Buenos Ayres, November 19, 1887. (Received December 27.)

SIR: The Argentine Congress yesterday, by a strong vote, fully annulled all its export duties of every kind. This system for raising public revenue had been of long standing and most serious detriment to the industries of the country. United States importers interested in Argentine trade, its wools, hides, and linseed, and other kindred products, superabundant and cheap here and so desirable to them, can not fail to be interested in this event, and to note great advantage in it.

The export tax here on wool, for a long time amounting to 6 per cent. on its estimated official valuation, as the result of a strong popular demand, last year, was reduced 2 per cent., and now that the repeal is sweeping and entirely obliterating all vestige of such duties, every trading interest, interior and foreign, affected by it has cause for rejoicing.

This reduction just now is quite remarkable on the part of the Argentine Congress, when its treasury balances were strained and hard to reconcile. But it has been done, and is a strong appeal for reciprocity on

I trust I may be allowed to make a single suggestion in this connection, not in argument, but only for general information and for the furtherance of better trade relations between the Argentine Republic and the United States. They have repealed their export laws and something is left for us to do. As matters now stand a very strange discrimination is authorized and enforced by our Government against our Argentine friends; for they have been such from the first and are now our friends.

Mr. George F. Brown, an importer of New York, who has long dealt in Argentine products, puts the question so clearly it can not be improved.

In the matter of Argentine wools he says:

The duty on combing and clothing wools, costing not more than 30 cents per pound at the place of growth, is 10 cents per pound for unwashed, regardless of condition or of their relative value to our manufacturers. This is a serious inconsistency and is a discrimination against Argentine wools, for the reason that they are much heavier in dirt and grease than wools from Australia and New Zealand. As the actual value of wool to the manufacturer depends on its quality in the scoured state and that it must be scoured before it can be manufactured, it follows, in the application of a specific duty to wools in the grease, that the duties are heavier or lighter according to the quantity of dirt and grease the wool contains. In other words, that the duty on scoured wools should be considered.

At present Argentine wools pay the same specific duties as those from Australia and New Zealand, 10 cents per pound in the grease, but from their respective yield in scoured wool it is plain the tax is greater on the former than the latter. The average yield of Buenos Ayres wool is about 32 pounds in 100, so the duty per scoured pound would be over 31 cents. Forty per cent. is considered by dealers the average yield of Australian or New Zealand wool, and such at 10 cents per pound would be equivalent to more than 24 cents per scoured pound, or nearly 7 cents per pound less than on Buenos Ayres wool.

Here is such a discrimination against the Argentine product, an unintentional one, doubtless, that with the former export duties of this country added on, United States dealers could not possibly deal in it at all at a profit. Now that the export tax is removed it remains for our Government to finish the good work and to re-open the wool trade with this country, which would be of vast profit to us in many ways, without any attending political disturbance.

Anything that will re-establish the ancient trade relations of these two countries is of vital interest on all sides. No suggestions are made about the tariff question whatever, but why not arrange to have the Argentine Republic stand side by side with Australia, New Zealand, and other countries? Can anybody desire to continue discrimination against a sister Republic of our own continent struggling against many hinderances to follow in the footsteps of the United States and in favor of distant countries like New Zealand and Australia, the fostered colonies of England, the most powerful and partisan trade in the world?

I have, etc.

BAYLESS W. HANNA.

No. 2.

Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard.

No. 94.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Buenos Ayres, November 20, 1887. (Received January 5, 1888.)

SIR: A most important bill has passed both houses of the Argentine Congress, fixing a basis of a contract with Mr. Robert P. Houston, representing English capital, for the construction and operation of two lines of ocean steamers, one to ply between the north of Europe and the River Plate, the other between New York and Buenos Ayres. The Spanish text of this measure and translation are annexed as inclosures hereto.

It will be seen the agreement gives Mr. Houston a guaranty of 5 per cent. per annum on a sum not exceeding $6,250,000, for the construction of ten steamers, of 4,000 tons each, including four light-draught steam-launches for landing and river service for the North Europe line.

These steamers are to carry the mails for the Argentine Government free of charge.

In case of war the Government to use them at will, or to have the right to take them absolutely by purchase. Each steamer is to carry eight cadets for instruction in arts of seamanship. The ships are all to carry the Argentine flag. The ships are all to carry Argentine doctors. Duration of the guaranty to be fifteen years. Arrivals and departures to be weekly to and from Argentine ports.

The European ships to have refrigerators of sufficient capacity to carry 3,000 slaughtered sheep, or their equivalent in other fresh meats. These are the most prominent elements of the contract for the Euro-

The ships to run to New York will not contain refrigerators, but the other general features are the same. The details are quite extended. It is a tremendous scheme, and in some of its parts quite puzzling. The guaranty for the New York ships is to be 5 per cent. on a capital of $1,800,000, but annual expenditure in no case to exceed $90,000. This is not as much as was offered our own people and entails many objections and difficulties not imposed by that proposition. But our people interposed too many suggestions, and halting so long, have been left out, at least for the present. Houston proposes, without stops except at coaling stations, to run his ships at the rate of 16 miles per hour, stopping nowhere between this and New York north of Montevideo, and making the run from New York here in less than eighteen days. I have just returned from a call on the minister of foreign affairs, who has the formulation of the contract in charge, and found him in a very happy frame of mind over the situation. He assured me the first ship would run from New York here in April next. Doubts are, however, freely expressed by other steam-ship companies about Mr. Houston's ability to perform his agreements. I will have more to say about this contract, but for the present have given only its most general features.

I have, etc.,

BAYLESS W. HANNA.

[Inclosure in No. 94.—Translation.]

Terms agreed upon between the Executive and Robert Patterson Houston for direct navigation between northern Europe and the ports of the Republic.

1. The National Government proposes an annual guaranty of 5 per cent. upon a capital of £1,250,000 for the construction of ten steam-ships, for the direct navigation between the ports of northern Europe and the Republic, and for the construction of four lighters, to be used in the waters of the Republic for the transportation of immigrants and their cargo brought by said steam-ships.

2. The immigrants shall be English, Swedes, Norwegians, Germans, Danes, Dutch, Belgians, French, and of such other nationalities as the National Government may indicate.

3. The vessels shall carry the mail free.
4. In case of war the Government shall have the right to use said steam-ships as transports under conditions which shall be agreed upon. If used as cruisers or menof-war, the Government will pay the original cost of them.

5. On each vessel the Government may place eight naval cadets, to be educated in practical seamanship.

6. Should the profits of the company exceed 10 per cent., one-half of the excess shall accrue to the Government.

7. The accommodations for first and second class shall be reduced as much as possible, the preference being given to third-class passengers.

8. The 5 per cent. guaranty shall commence in the same proportion as the vessels are finished and run from the day they leave for the ports of the Republic, including the four steam lighters, which shall be of light draught and suitable for the navigation of the Parana and Uruguay Rivers.

9. The velocity of the ten vessels shall be 16 knots per hour.

10. For the completion of this contract Houston shall present to the Argentine legation in England, where the vessels will be built, the vouchers of the cost of each one, and if the same is considered excessive the amount shall be established by experts.

11. The duration of this contract shall be fifteen years. 12. The route shall be direct from the north of Europe to the ports of the Republic-vessels touching only at Montevideo and at such points as are customary for coaling; but on their return they can touch at any point.

13. One of these vessels shall arrive at least once a week in the ports of the Repub-

14. Government cargo shall have a rebate of 40 per cent. except coal and iron, which shall have 20 per cent.

15. It being in the interest of the company to transport as many immigrants as possible from the north of Europe, it will establish at its own cost such agencies as it may deem necessary to bring about the current of immigration.

16. The price of passage for immigrants shall be agreed upon between the Government and the company without any implication that the company renounces any benefit or premium which the Government may accord at any time to those who bring in immigrants.

17. In each of the vessels running from Europe to the Republic, the company shall place a freezing apparatus with the capacity of carrying at least 3,000 sheep, or their equivalent in beef

18. The fourteen steamers mentioned shall fly the national flag, and each one will be named for one of the Argentine provinces.

19. On the expiration of the guaranty, the vessels will continue under the Argentine flag while sailing to or from the ports of the Republic.

20. Each vessel will carry an Argentine doctor, or one of some other nationality, who shall have passed an examination in the Republic; said doctor shall be named by the Government and accepted by the company.

21. Fifteen months from the execution of this contract the service shall begin, and within two years from same date all the vessels shall be running.

22. It is understood that this company is completely independent of that which Mr. Houston has already established between Liverpool and the ports of the Republic, which may continue as before.

Terms agreed upon between the Executive and R. P. Houston, for direct navigation from the United States to the ports of the Republic.

1. Mr. R. P. Houston binds himself to establish a direct line of steamers between the United States and Buenos Ayres, which shall begin running within five months from the signing of this contract by the Argentine Government.

2. The line shall be served by three or four steamers of the same class and condition as the three for the North European service, and must be built in the same time as fixed for the others, but without freezing apparatus.

3. In the mean time, the line shall be served by such other steamers as Houston shall place in suitable condition for cargo and accommodations of passengers. 4. The guaranty shall be 5 per cent. on a capital of £360,000, maximum of said

5. The other conditions for the contract for the North European service are applicable to this.

No. 3.

Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, No. 98.1 Buenos Ayres, November 29, 1887. (Received January 5, 1888.)

SIR: The Argentine Congress, just adjourned, has vastly increased its railroad guaranties. Before the late additions they stood at $188,000,000; now they are increased by $88,000,000, making the total of such guaranties $276,000,000. The greater part of these guaranties are on a 5 per cent. basis-that is, that the roads when completed shall not fall below that on cost of construction and expense of operation.

I have, etc.,

No. 4.

Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 100.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Buenos Ayres, December 9, 1887. (Received January 17, 1888.)

SIR: Just before the adjournment of the late session of the Argentine Congress the President of the Republic was granted a two months' leave of absence for recreation. This vacation he has resolved to use in a general tour of observation throughout the country. He is now going from city to city and province to province in fulfillment of that design.

An invitation has been extended to the diplomatic corps to join him at Cordova, his former residence, on the 18th instant, where national ceremonies will take place, unveiling a statue of General Paz, one of the illustrious patriots who figured prominently in the early struggles of the country.

Cordova, situated among the foot-hills of the Sierra Chica chain of mountains, was one of the earliest seats of learning in the nation, and now, in addition to its colleges and other advanced schools, is especially attractive and important from the fact that the national observatory, once under the management of Dr. Gould, and more recently of Mr.

Thorne, both citizens of the United States, is located there.

Its university is unquestionably the pioneer of the western world. This may startle some of our college people in the United States, but let the facts speak. Harvard College, at Cambridge, Mass., our oldest university, has made its own history and written it in characters of gold. Sixteen years after the landing of the Mayflower on the 28th day of October, 1636, the court of Massachusetts voted £400, equal to $1,946 United States gold, to found a college. This was afterwards done at Cambridge, March 13, 1639, and as John Harvard, a man of obscure life, had largely increased this amount out of his private funds, the college took his name—Harvard College, now Harvard University. Strange to say, though $5,000 have been offered to any who could produce five lines of authentic history of this man none has yet claimed it.

The University of Cordova was founded in 1613, twenty-six years before Harvard, by Don Fernando Trejo de Sanabria, who devoted all his private fortune to the purpose, amounting to $43,000, and erected there a structure which has withstood the trials of two hundred and seventy-four years, and is at this day in a good state of preservation.

This pioneer city of science and letters is some 500 miles west of Buenos Ayres. It will be a long railroad journey to make, but in view of the dignity of the invitation, the general interest the occasion inspires, and the fact that the route to be traveled is in the general direction of the great railroad extending from the Plate River to Valparaiso, in Chili, soon to be completed and forming a part of it, the most of my colleagues have accepted the invitation. We will leave here by special train on the 16th, and the incidents and observations of the journey, it is hoped, will furnish suitable matter for the consideration of the State Department.

On the 2d of this month this legation was honored with a special invitation from the President to accompany his party up the Uruguay River to the city of Uruguay, until quite recently the capital of the province of Entre Rios, the most beautiful and perhaps productive of all the Argentine States. We left this port a little after noon in the Eola, a river steamer of rare model and appointments, of the famous Platense Line, owned by an English company and carrying the British flag.

We did not go further up the river than Paysandú.

Below this point we passed the vast salederos, or meat preserving and packing establishments, the principal one being that of Liebig, at Fray Bentos, in Uruguay. The "Liebig Meat Extract," prepared here, is known all over the world. The capital employed in this vast enterprise is English, or largely so. It now reaches nearly $3,000,000, and employs about 3,000 people—men, women, and advanced children. It exported last year nearly 1,000,000 cans each of meat and meat extracts, besides a vast amount of tanned hides, tallow, tongues, and refined grease, every part of the slaughtered animal being saved and rendered salable in some way.

At Uruguay, in the province of Entre Rios, and its recent capital, the steamer landed, and there the presidential party disembarked. At this place the national Government has erected vast and expensive port works, which were inaugurated by President Juarez in a review of the act of congress by which it was accomplished. The port and city are joined by a spur track of the Central Entre Rios Railroad, which crosses the province from Uruguay to Paraná, the early capital of the nation and the most thriving eity in Entre Rios, located on the Paraná River.

From Uruguay the President crossed the province of Entre Rios to Parana, where he was to be welcomed with great ceremonies at the early capital of the Republic. The invitation to remain with him was cordial, both on the part of himself and the governor of the province, but reluctantly declined on account of pressing matters at the legation.

However, at Cordova, on the 18th instant, the entire ministry and diplomatic corps will again have the pleasure of meeting the President before he leaves for the mountains, where, with his family, he will spend the remaining portion of his needed vacation. It is gratifying to add the flag of the United States was honorably displayed throughout the entire excursion.

I have, etc.,

BAYLESS W. HANNA.

No. 5.

Mr. Hanna to. Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 102.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Buenos Ayres, December 12, 1887. (Received January 17, 1888.)

SIR: As new proof of the vast carrying trade this growing country has attracted, Messrs. Baring Bros., of London, have recently become extensive shareholders of the Italian line called The Veloce Steam-ship Company, running between Buenos Ayres and the southern coast of Europe.

Its business has become so profitable that the service, hitherto monthly only, will soon become weekly, or nearly so. The Duchessa Di Genova of this reconstructed company has just reached this port with 1,037 passengers, and made the run out from Naples in eighteen days.

The Duchessa Di Genova is a magnificent steamer of modern pattern and highest speed. The fleet of the old company, before its recent reorganization with the Baring Brothers as its largest owners, was quite large, but now by the addition of the Duchessa Di Genova and the Sud America, the Duca Di Galliera and Vittoria soon to follow, will be immense.

Soon they will touch at Lisbon, Portugal, which run they expect to make regularly in twelve days, and thence connecting by rail, over the continent, with the German Lloyd at Havre. It is thought the passage to the United States may be made in twenty-two or twenty-three days.

This movement seems to be quite an emphatic rebuke to the tardy neglect of United States enterprise.

Even the Argentine Republic, only one-twentieth part as large as our country in population, will soon launch a monthly line of steamers from Buenos Ayres to New York, carrying its heroic little flag, in fulfillment of a commercial need, long existing, but hitherto slighted by our great metropolis.

I have, etc.,

BAYLESS W. HANNA.

No. 6.

Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard.

No. 103.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Buenos Ayres, December 12, 1887. (Received January 17, 1888.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose you herewith, inclosure presenting report of a sanitary convention recently signed by the Argentine, Brazilian, and Uruguayan commissioners, relating to the question of quarantine along the South American shores.

Difficulties and delays growing out of this situation have proved to be a sore question to the mail service and trade affairs generally. Hopes are entertained there may now be a general improvement in the matter and some relief obtained from many embarrassments.

The stipulations are given in full, as published by the commissioners themselves.

I have, etc.,

BAYLESS W. HANNA.

[Inclosure in No. 103.]

The International Sanitary Convention.

The following is the convention signed by the Argentine, Brazilian, and Uruguayan commissioners in Rio Janeiro:

ARTICLE 1.

The contracting countries agree in declaring that: Exotic pestilential diseases are yellow fever, cholera morbus, and the Eastern plague; an infected port is one in which either of the said diseases exists as an epidemic; a suspicious port is one in which isolated cases of either of said diseases are occurring, or one which is in easy and frequent communication with or is not sufficiently protected against infected ports. An infected ship is one in which a case of pestilential disease has occurred; a suspicious ship is one which, proceeding from an infected or suspicious port, has not had during the voyage any case of pestilential disease, or one which, though proceeding from a clean port, has touched at an infected or suspicious port, or one which, during its voyage or on its arrival has communicated with another ship from an unknown, infected, or suspicious port, or one which has had deaths from an unascertained cause or repeated cases of any kind of disease, or one which does not bring a clean bill of health from the port from which it proceeded, as well as from the ports of call, or one which, though it has undergone quarantine or received special sanitary treatment in either of the contracting countries, is not furnished with an international patent of free pratique. The declaration of a port being infected or suspicious shall be made by the Government of the declarant country at the request of the chief of the maritime sanitary service and shall be published officially.

ARTICLE 2.

The contracting countries shall establish adequate sanitary services, and the chiefs thereof shall communicate with each other upon all matters affecting the service. A code of international regulations shall be issued for establishing uniformity in the services.

ARTICLE 3.

The contracting countries shall establish such lazarettos as may be necessary, and they shall be placed upon islands; at least one floating lazaretto shall be established in case of an epidemic; floating hospitals shall be created in connection with the fixed lazarettos, to be used for the treatment of persons attacked by exotic pestilential diseases in the ships which may arrive or are already anchored; the quarantines and sanitary measures adopted in any lazaretto of either of the three countries shall be considered valid, for the purposes of this convention, provided they be officially certified; the ports shall not be closed against any ship, whatever may be her sanitary condition.

ARTICLE 4.

A ship proceeding from foreign ports shall not be put in free pratique without a previous sanitary visit. The visiting sanitary authority shall thoroughly investigate the sanitary condition of the ship and shall decide on the treatment to be applied.

ARTICLE 5.

Three kinds of ships are recognized, steam-packets with less than 100 fore-deck passengers; immigrant transports, that is to say, steamers with or without packet privileges which carry more than 100 fore-deck passengers; sailing vessels.

Every steamer must carry a doctor on board and be provided with a high-pressure

Every steamer must carry a doctor on board and be provided with a high-pressure steam-disinfecting stove; with a store of disinfectants and disinfecting apparatus; with a book containing particulars of the medical stores on board, with a record of the medical prescriptions made up; with a clinical book recording minutely all the cases of illness on board and the treatment applied to them; with a list of the passengers, specifying names, ages, sexes, nationalities, professions, and port of departure, with a list of the crew and a manifest of the cargo.

The books before mentioned shall be opened and marked by the consul of one of the contracting countries in the port of departure, and the pages relating to each voyage shall be closed by the sanitary authority of the port of destination. No fee shall be payable by the captains of ships for the opening of these books. All the ship's papers shall be submitted to the examination of the sanitary authority of the port of destination and of the consular authorities of the ports of departure.

ARTICLE 6.

Every ship must bring a bill of health from the sanitary authority of the port of departure signed by the consuls of the countries to which she is bound, in the said port and in the ports of call. This must be presented to the sanitary authorities of the ports of call of the three countries, and must be given up to the sanitary authority of the last port at which the ship arrives. The sanitary document hitherto issued by consuls is suppressed. The consul to whom the bill of health is presented may make any note thereon in rectification of the facts stated therein. A bill of health so rectified shall be sent by the sanitary authority of the first Argentine, Brazilian, or Uruguay port to the port of the country to which the rectifying consul belongs, together with a sanitary note signed by the authority of the same port, in which shall be declared the treatment to which the ship has been submitted.

The consuls in the ports of departure shall ascertain the sanitary condition of such ports and, in case of rectification of a bill of health, shall transmit the reasons for the same to the other two contracting countries. Ships going to ports of all three countries must take out a bill of health in each of them. A clean bill of health is that which does not mention any case of exotic pestilential disease in the ports of departure or call, and a dirty bill of health is that which mentions an epidemic or isolated case of either of the before-mentioned diseases.

ARTICLE 7.

The contracting countries resolve respectively to institute and pay a corps of medical inspectors whose duty it shall be to watch, on board the ships, the execution of the measures adopted in favor of the health of the passengers and crews, and also to note the occurrences during the voyage and to report them to the sanitary authority of the port of destination.

These inspectors shall be subordinate to the chief of the maritime sanitary department to which they belong.

ARTICLE 8.

Two kinds of quarantine shall be practiced, rigorous quarantine and quarantine of observation. The objects of the former shall be to ascertain whether among the passengers proceeding from an infected or suspicious port any one comes attacked by a pestilential disease in course of incubation and to disinfect the objects susceptible of retaining or transmitting contagion.

Quarantine of observation shall consist in the detention of the ship for the time necessary for making a rigorous sanitary visit on board. Rigorous quarantine shall be applied to infected ships and to ships on board which have occurred cases of discases not specified, and which could not be ascertained by means of the sanitary visit. The duration of the rigorous quarantine shall depend upon the maximum period for the incubation of the pestilential disease which it is wished to avoid in accordance with the international sanitary regulations.

The duration shall be reckoned from the date of the last case which occurred during the voyage or from the date of the landing of the passengers in the lazaretto. reckon from the last case when the ship has satisfied the stipulations of article 5, and when there is an inspector on board who certifies the exact date of such case and the execution of the proper measures of disinfection and the perfect state of health then existing, and when the sanitary authority has proved the veracity of the information of the proper measures of the sanitary authority has proved the veracity of the information of the proper graph and since the time transmission of the proper graph. If, under such conditions, the time transpired since the last case is more than that of the maximum period for incubation, the passengers shall be put in free pratique as well as the ship, provided she does not bring any susceptible objects, but if she bring such objects which have not been disinfected or which still require disinfected or which still require disinfected or which still require disinfected or which still require disinfected or which still require disinfected or which still require disinfected or which still require disinfected or which still require disinfected or which still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinct the still require distinc fection, the free pratique of disembarkation shall only take place after the termination of such disinfection. If the time transpired since the last case of disease should be less than the maximum period of incubation, and if the ship should have complied with the conditions previously mentioned in reference to the commencement of rigorous quarantine, the passengers shall undergo a quarantine of as many days as may be necessary to complete the period of incubation, and this in a lazaretto, unless there should be no place available in it, in which case the quarantine shall be permitted to be effected on board.

If on the arrival of the ship there should be on board any person attacked by a pestilential disease, such person shall be lodged in the floating hospital, and the passengers shall be submitted to quarantine in the floating lazaretto, and the ship shall be subject to the provisions made for such an emergency by the international regulations. The same proceedings shall be adopted when a vessel having had a case of pestilential disease, although none may exist at the time of arrival, has not satisfied the conditions mentioned in the paragraph relating to the commencement of the rigorous quarantine.

No. 7.

Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, No. 121.] Buenos Ayres, January 20, 1888. (Received March 23.)

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that one Walter E. Bartel, representing himself as a naturalized citizen of the United States, recently residing in Bayonne, N. J., called at the legation and made application for a passport. He was of German birth, had lost his naturalization certificate, and could not furnish the required proof of citizenship and truth of the facts, to be verified by his affidavit, in conformity to the late regulations of the Department, and the passport was refused. Subsequently he brought the affidavits of two United States sea-captains, well known to our consul here-Mr. E. L. Baker-as good and true men, that he was a naturalized citizen under the laws of the State of New York, and that his declarations were true. Did I exercise a proper discretion in issuing a passport on this showing, without requiring the applicant to apply to the clerk of the court where the naturalization proceedings were had for a certified copy thereof? I thought there was an emergency in his case, and acted upon such conviction.

Instructions are requested.

I have, etc.,

BAYLESS W. HANNA.

No. 8.

[Extract.]

Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Buenos Ayres, March 22, 1888. (Received April 28.) No. 143.]

SIR: Referring to my No. 106, of December 24, 1887, in which I ventured the opinion this country would some day become a formidable rival of the United States in the production of the cereals, so important in the volume of our exports, I now send you some valuable figures published this morning in one of the Buenos Ayres dailies as correctly taken from official reports.

This people will produce wool almost exclusively if they are encouraged to do so, because most profitable to them. But the great United States market, the most desirable in the world, now shuts its doors against this production and drives its producers to the alternative of supplying the vast and profitable demands of Europe with that which once was almost the only hope of Indiana, Ohio, Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri, and Minnesota.

It is idle to hope that Argentine industry, now attracting such wide attention as a commercial factor, will have anything to do with us on any other than a reciprocity basis. If they can not trade with us in the usual way, by exchange, they will look elsewhere and act independently, and what is still more serious, in direct conflict with us. This they have begun to do already by a perceptible diminution of their favorite pastoral industry for the cultivation of wheat, corn, barley, and lin-

We not only have had no ships of our own to build up a carrying trade with them, but when other enterprise has in part supplied this need and their wool product has been sent to us they have found our ports shut and sealed against them.

And what is true about the Argentine nation is just as true with reference to Uruguay and Paraguay, rapidly developing into mighty empires of thrift and trade.

I have, etc., .

[Inclosure in No. 143.]

The exports have been as follows:

Years.	Wheat.	Flour.	Maize.	Linseed.
1878	25, 669, 317 1, 165, 628 157, 078 1, 705, 292 60, 754, 677 108, 499, 228	Kilos. 2, 919, 793 1, 603, 045 1, 428, 046 1, 287, 396 548, 779 4, 814, 385 3, 743, 389 7, 447, 077 5, 262, 222 5, 386, 448	Kilos. 19, 064, 044 29, 521, 317 15, 032, 015 25, 052, 189 107, 327, 155 18, 634, 351 113, 710, 088 197, 859, 612 231, 663, 300 361, 456, 705	Kilos. 104, 275 246, 034 957, 995 6, 394, 516 23, 351, 794 23, 064, 736 33, 996, 956 69, 426, 996 81, 183, 742
Total	. 481, 338, 607	34, 470, 580	1, 117, 318, 776	276, 417, 94

1886.			1887.
	Kilos.	Value.		Kilos.	Value.
Wheat Flax Maize Peanuts Turnips Various	37, 864, 417 37, 689, 969 231, 650, 300 769, 197 2, 142, 944 3, 190	$1, 510, 388 1, 825, 199 4, 663, 421 30, 747. 85, 709 945	Wheat	237, 865, 925 81, 183, 752 361, 457, 705 3, 367, 300 940, 821 132, 785	$9, 514, 637 4, 059, 187 7, 229, 154 134, 696 37, 633 5, 307
Total		8, 106, 399	Total		20, 980, 617

No. 9.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hanna.

No. 61.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, March 27, 1888.

SIR: In your No. 121, of January 20 last, you inform the Department that one Walter E. Bartel made application to you for a passport, alleging that he was a naturalized citizen of the United States, of German birth, recently residing at Bayonne, N. J., and that he had lost his certificate of naturalization. Mr. Bartel not being able to furnish due proof to supply this loss, you properly declined to issue the passport.

Afterwards the applicant produced the affidavits of two American sea-captains who, you state, were well known to the consul of the United States as good and true men. In these affidavits the affiants declared that they knew Mr. Bartel was a naturalized citizen under the laws of the State of New York, and that his representations were true. You then issued the passport, and now ask the judgment of the Department on the propriety of your action.

The fact to be shown was the issuance by a competent court of record of a decree of naturalization. It seems very improbable that these sea-captains could swear to that fact or that their testimony was other than hearsay or belief. The evidence on which you granted the passport has not been submitted, and the Department is consequently not in a position to decide the question authoritatively, but the statements made in your dispatch create a presumption that your action was improvident.

Your full report, with copies of the affidavits, will, however, be awaited.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 10.

Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 150.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Buenos Ayres, May 3, 1888. (Received June 8.)

SIR: The promised early inauguration of the Houston line of steamships, to be operated under a contract with the Argentine Government, between New York and Buenos Ayres; the probability of a line also to Vera Cruz, Mexico, and the remote possibility of still another from Canada, are exciting general public and commercial interest just now in this country, as well as in Uruguay and Brazil, its immediate maritime neighbors.

The Houston line, I am informed at the State Department, is nearly ready to commence operations. It will carry the Argentine flag, but it will afford us direct and speedy mail service, and that will be a long stride toward active trade relations with the United States. Mexico.

too, it is said, will soon come into South American waters.

The United States alone, of all the countries most interested in this field of commercial enterprise, seems contented to fold its arms in indifference. Even Canada, so far north of us and with so much less to exchange for South American products, is here looking around to ascertain how and upon what conditions she can enter this golden harvest field.

Hon. Simeon Jones, a member of the Canadian parliament, is on the ground as an accredited commissioner, with full credentials and elaborate instructions to prepare a report to his Government of Uruguayan and Argentine industries and of the supplies Canada can furnish them in exchange for the wool, hides, tallow, and other products they can so lavishly and cheaply place in the market.

Commissioner Jones informs me that Canada has voted a liberal subsidy for a steamship line here which I think he expects to have supplemented by the Uruguayan and Argentine Governments, with some help, also, from Brazil. If United States, especially Boston and New York, enterprise, interested in opening up trade with the rich River Plate countries, is willing to play a secondary part to the bolder lead of Canada, it might furnish a portion of the capital needed for the equipment of the line, and have Boston, New York, and Philadelphia included among its call stations. It is true its ships would not carry our flag, we are used to that, but if the fact continues that we shall not be permitted to emphasize our own nationality on the seas, we may at least secure an adequate mail service, and improve our markets, now so clogged with overproduction, for the sale of United States manufactures.

I have, etc.,

BAYLESS W. HANNA.

No. 11.

Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard.

No. 154.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,
Buenos Ayres, May 19, 1888. (Received June 22.)

SIR: The recent abolition of African slavery in Brazil has caused great elation and joy throughout the Argentine Republic. It was made the occasion of a Presidential proclamation, appointing last Thursday, May 17, a national holiday—an opportunity for public rejoicing, which was very generally observed throughout the nation. In Buenos Ayres a vast civic procession proceeded to the Brazilian legation, where an address of congratulation was presented by the venerable General Metre on behalf of the Argentine Republic, and a reply elicited from Baron Alencar, the diplomatic agent of Brazil now stationed here.

On the evening of the same day the vast Plaza Victoria, the cathedral, and the government house were magnificently illuminated, and the cabinet, the foreign ministers, and the chief officers of the army and navy entertained by the President at the Colon theater. It was a notable day throughout, and now that the manacles of slavery have fallen from every human limb throughout all the Americas, the popular enthusiasm has been unbounded.

I have, etc.,

BAYLESS W. HANNA.

No. 12.

Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 166.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Buenos Ayres, July 25, 1888. (Received October 1.)

SIR: The immigration to these shores still progresses with marvelous volume. It is becoming a great question, both for Europe and the United States, for the former, on account of the diminution of its most industrious and valued producing class, and for the United States, because it is the inauguration of a formidable competition in grain production, the chief factor of its most radical industry.

There is now no room for doubts that the Argentine nation will, very soon, in every way, both in commerce and the cultivation of the soil, outstrip all countries on this continent south of the United States. This is not guess-work but a fact, apparent to all who come here and take the pains to weigh carefully productive and commercial conditions.

The strong commercial nations of Europe have covetous eyes on this magnificent and vigorous young country. The great fleets of steamships which England, Germany, France, Italy, and Belgium are sending into River Plate harbors, tell the story. Russia and Austria-Hungary also are making active preparations to join in the contest. The United States alone stands off and does nothing. Its ships are scarcely known here. It certainly has the largest and best variety of raw material, the best modeled machinery and most advanced skilled labor of all the nations on the globe, and yet it stands still and looks on indifferently at the inferior European handicraft constantly appropriating its models and placing its fabrics on the market falsely called United States manufactures, thus at the same time diverting its natural trade and leeching its good name.

We want American ships here, displaying the American flag, as a guaranty that they bring American goods for the Argentine market. Then the counterfeiters will be constrained to stand on their own merits and they will go down in the presence of such competition. The question of our commercial prosperity in this great field is now exactly what it will be a hundred years hence—wholly dependent on our own

Without a steady, reliable mail service, we can not maintain trade, and trade without our own ships is an impossibility. American ships will solve the whole difficulty, and it is the only solution of

I have, etc.,

BAYLESS W. HANNA.

No. 13.

Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard.

No. 167.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Buenos Ayres, July 26, 1888. (Received October 1.)

SIR: Referring to my last dispatch, I now furnish some details of certain reported schemes of colonization, attracting public attention and discussion by the prints of this capital.

A report has been widely circulated that a large secret organization of colored people of the United States has funds in readiness, has sent agents to Brazil and the Argentine Republic, and perhaps some other South American States, to negotiate terms of settlement for an extended exodus of negro families from the United States in search of

The manager of an English land syndicate called at the legation today, asking what I knew about such contemplated exodus from my country, stating he could place an entire township at their disposal, on such easy terms of purchase that there could be no cause for hesitation, if they wanted to come and engage in cattle, sheep, or agricultural farming. I had no information on the subject, and so informed this enterprising landed proprietor. On inquiring what he knew of such a project, I was told he "had positive information there was such a scheme on foot, and that it must very soon take on the form of development."

This rumor has been circulating about some time, but I have never before thought it serious enough to make a note of. Now as the inquiry comes so direct and from such a respectable source, I give the information as it has come to me.

It is unquestionably true, a vast movement is on foot in Germany and Alsace-Lorraine to send settlements here. I send herewith, as an inclosure, what the Daily Standard of this city has to say about it this morning. These coming people, it is said, are to engage in small farming, as in the United States, in grape culture, and the production of wheat and corn. The Department will be kept fully advised of developments, if such expected results are realized.

I have, etc.,

BAYLESS W. HANNA.

[Inclosure in No. 167.]

Comments of the Buenos Ayres Standard-200,000 Alsatians.

Nothing points so forcibly to the progress of this country, in the estimation of the world, as the increasing avidity displayed to know more about it in Europe and North America. Every mail brings us dozens of applications and letters eagerly asking for information, and the sale of our "Hand-book of the River Plate" has been so brisk for the last six months that the new edition is on the point of being exhausted. We are not reluctant to admit that the so-called propaganda bureaus are entitled to some part of the credit for this fresh boom abroad in favor of the Plate; and, although some of them manifestly devote themselves to "painting the lily," still their patriotic efforts, we think, are becoming grease to the wheels of the Republic's progress.

Some days ago we announced that a scheme was rumored on foot to bring to these shores 10,000 Germans, to relieve the misery caused by the terrible inundations of last spring in that Empire, and yesterday brought the news that 200,000 Alsatians, who refuse to be Germans, are ready to come here when the ground is prepared for them. To this end a special commissioner of the French Patriotic League, an institution that has for mission to prevent as many Alsatians and Lorrainers as possible accepting German nationality, has just arrived here, and if we had our way we would accord him a ten times warmer welcome than that given to our recent editorial guests, who brought us the flowers of rhetoric, while the agent of the French Patriotic League promises us the flower of Rhineland peasantry.

The incalculable benefit that must accrue to the country if this vast immigration scheme be brought to a successful conclusion, as we trust it may, is not to be solely measured by the increased population, production, and consumption it involves.

The preponderance of Italian immigration for many years now has hitherto borne nothing but good fruit, but it is obvious that the time has come when grafts from other stocks will make that fruit all the better, both from the statesman's and physiologist's points of view. The future Argentine will have the freshest blood in the world in his veins if the center and north of Europe now may be called in to redress the too rapidly increasing balance of the south in the Republic's population.

In presence of this promise of 200,000 French peasants, the old question arises, Is the National Government in a position to receive and settle such a host? Where is land to be found for them? Where are they to go? We unhesitatingly say, southward! ho! The tropical Chaco, the half tropical interior, would never suit these new-comers. Their promised land is the valley of the Rio Negro, where climate and soil are alike suited for them.

The National Government has frequently avowed its determination to make efforts to attract emigration from Northern Europe. The arrival of the French Patriotic League agent is a golden opportunity for initiating this sound policy. Our land immigration, colonies, and other too numerous and conflicting laws and regulations are in such a miserable, Lord Dundreary state of hodge-podge that the French agent could never see his way safely through them; indeed, we doubt if the whole cabinet, with the versatile and brilliant premier at their head, could perform the feat. The occasion is a special one and calls for special measures, and we hope the Government will not hesitate to adopt them. The successful settling of these 200,000 French peasants in the fertile valley of the Rio Negro would indeed be a new departure in the immigration line, and would most certainly attract a million more hands from Northern Europe in a few years. They can not all come out at once, no doubt; but the fact that they are within our reach is of the very first importance and of far greater moment to the future welfare of the nation than conversion of debt, launching of new loans, or any other purely administrative act whatever, however profitable. Now is the time to prove to the peasantry of North Europe that there is a place, work, and future competence for all who make this favored country their adopted home.

No. 14.

Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, No. 168.] Buenos Ayres, July 29, 1888. (Received October 1.)

SIR: Some of the railroads heretofore guarantied by this Government begin to develop serious complications. These concessions, having been granted on approximate estimates of cost of construction and value of earnings, impose upon the grantees certain obligations, the neglect of which now threatens to give them trouble.

The most of these concessions were given to English syndicates, with directories existing in London, and out of sight of their obligations here. The result seems to have been, they have given more attention to the collection of their coupons than the careful and enterprising operations of their investments contemplated in their undertakings. The Government complains they are not operating their roads properly, that they do not sufficiently keep up their road way and track, their equipment, etc., so as to render them of public and profitable utility, rather than a charge on the national treasury.

The whole subject was brought to the attention of Congress in the President's opening message, as appears in inclosure 1 where he quite forcibly admonished all such derelict companies they must operate their charters according to contracts, or their expected profits would be made to supply their omissions.

This message has been especially communicated to the home office of the British Government by Hon. John Jenner, chargé d'affaires, in absence of Mr. Packenham, minister, and has resulted in notices issued by Lord Salisbury to the secretaries of the various companies to put themselves right.

The position of the Argentine Government, as said before, is that these guarantied roads must increase their receipts to the fullest possible standard of prudent management, or that the guaranties may be withdrawn or the amounts covered by them be applied to betterments.

The English Government is disposed to require its subjects to keep faith with this Government.

The letter of the Marquis of Salisbury to the secretaries of the Argentine railways is lofty in spirit and worthy of commendation.

I have, etc.,

BAYLESS W. HANNA.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 168.—Extract.]

* President's message.

Careful examination of the figures furnished by the railways demonstrates that there is not a single railway which recognizes its true duty towards the public, and that renders services to the country equivalent to those reckoned upon by the authorities in granting the concessions. The railway traffic might be doubled, and even trebled, in parts; it might be considerably increased so as to give larger returns, thus facilitating a reduction in the tariffs and diminishing the pressure on the public treasury in respect to permanent lines.

treasury in respect to permanent lines.

The guarantied lines are in honor bound to make every effort to increase their receipts, and their failing in this respect would justify the Government in withdrawing the guaranty, and I fail to see who could criticise this proceeding, even by invoking the rights of the share-holders or bond-holders of a railroad whose administration is content to draw the entire guarantied interest at the end of each quarter, while it suffers the traffic to languish or cease altogether, and the road and the rolling stock to perish.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 168.—Extract.]

From Lord Salisbury; circular.

Under date 28th ultimo, the London foreign office issued the following letter to the secretaries of Argentine railways:

"Sir: The Marquis of Salisbury considers it to be expedient, in view of the public interests concerned, to bring to the knowledge of the directors of your company certain statements with respect to the alleged defective management of railways in the Argentine Republic, which have been reported by Her Majesty's chargé d'affaires at Buenos Ayres. Mr. Jenner reports that this subject was dwelt upon at some length in the last message of the Argentine Republic, and I am directed by Lord Salisbury to transmit, for the information of the directors, the accompanying extracts of a dispatch containing the statement above referred to.

"I am, etc.,

No. 15.

Mr. Hanna to Mr. Bayard.

No. 182.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,
Buenos Ayres, October 3, 1888. (Received November 26.)

SIR: I have the honor to inform the Department the regular session of the recent Argentine Congress closed the 29th ultimo. In view of the pressing importance of certain measures, embracing the charters of a number of projected railroads, greatly needed for the increasing traffic of this growing country, President Celman has called an extra session of Congress, which met the 1st instant. It is now thought this session will close sometime the latter part of November.

I have, etc.,

BAYLESS W. HANNA.

H. Ex. 1, pt. 1—2

AUSTRIA-HUNGARY.

No. 16.

Mr. Porter to Mr. Lawton.

No. 5.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, September 8, 1887.

SIR: I inclose herewith for your information a copy of a dispatch to this Department from Mr. von Versen, the American vice consul-general at Berlin, relative to the treaty recently concluded between Austria and the German Empire in relation to the right to sue in forma pauperis; also a copy of the Department's instruction to Mr. Pendleton, our minister at Berlin, in regard to the subject, called out by Mr. von Versen's suggestion as to the propriety of negotiating a similar treaty between the United States and the German Empire.

The question of how far foreigners can sue in forma pauperis is determined by the lex fori, which, under our Constitution, it is not within the province of the Federal Government to settle by any general law. As a mere matter of practice, however, it may be mentioned that there are, so far as this Department is informed, no jurisdictions in the United States in which an alien, as such, is precluded from suing in forma pauperis. In view of the fact that such a convention is apparently necessary to give Germans in Austria the right to sue in forma pauperis, you may, as a matter of interest, inquire and report how far the privilege of so suing is granted to American citizens bringing suit in Austria.

I am, etc.

JAMES D. PORTER, Acting Secretary.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 5.]

Mr. von Versen to Mr. Porter.

No. 274.]

United States Consulate-General, Berlin, August 6, 1887.

SIR: It occurs frequently that either United States citizens or subjects of the German States for lack of means are unable to commence and prosecute lawsuits against parties domiciled on the other side of the Atlantic, and this sometimes in lawsuits likely to turn out in their favor.

Under the laws of the German States, persons whose poverty is proven by certificates from the local authorities of their domicile, enjoy the privilege to commence and prosecute lawsuits within Germany free of cost, and being dispensed with depositing court's cost in advance.

This privilege has now been extended, by a convention concluded on the 9th day of May, 1886, and ratified this year, to the subjects of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, and vice versa by Austria-Hungary to the subjects of the several German States.

Considering the variety of relations between the United States and Germany—hardly less numerous than those between the German and Austrian States—it would, in my opinion, be of great benefit to many of our citizens who have not the means to bring lawsuits in Germany (for instance with regard to estates left by relatives) if a similar convention could be concluded between the United States and the German Empire.

I am, etc.,

F. von Versen, United States Vice-Consul General.

(Inclosure 2 in No. 5.]

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Pendleton.

No. 249.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, August 30, 1887.

SIR: I inclose herewith a copy of a dispatch to this Department from Mr. von Versen, the American vice-consul at Berlin, relative to the treaty recently concluded between the German Empire and Austria-Hungary relative to the right to sue in forma pauperis. In commenting upon that convention Mr. von Versen suggests the propriety of negotiating a similar treaty between the United States and the German Em-

It is hardly necessary to say that the question of how far Germans can sue in forma pauperis is determined by the lex fori, which, under our Constitution, it is not within the province of the Federal Government to settle by any general law. As a mere matter of practice, however, it may be mentioned that there are, so far as this Department is informed, no jurisdictions in the United States in which an alien as such, is precluded from suing in forma pauperis. As a matter of interest you may, in view of the communication herein inclosed, inquire and report how far a similar privilege is granted to citizens of the United States bringing suit in Germany.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 17.

Mr. Lawton to Mr. Bayard.

No. 14.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Vienna, November 4, 1887. (Received November 21.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose the application of Mr. Sigismund Löwinsohn to this legation for a passport; also his certificate of naturalization by the court of common pleas of New York City on the 5th day of February, 1872, and a passport given to him by this legation on November 10, 1883.

It appears that the applicant was born in Hungary, and taken to the United States while a minor and before he could make choice of a country; that, after reaching twenty-one years of age, he became a naturalized citizen of the United States, and within less than a month thereafter he returned to Austria-Hungary, the country of his birth; now resides in Vienna with his family, engaged here in a lucrative business, and has never visited the United States since he left that country in February, 1872. It further appears from his application for a passport that he is desirous of "registering the birth of a child;" but he can not and will not say that he expects to return to the United States at any definite time.

Upon such a statement of facts this legation refrains from issuing a passport, unless instructed to do so by the Department of State. This is one of the (too) numerous cases where "naturalization papers" seem to be procured to hold for emergencies and to give a claim for protection by the United States Government whenever service or duty shall be demanded by the country of birth and of present permanent residence, and to which, in this case, the applicant returned almost at the moment of taking the oath of allegiance to the United States. It is to be hoped that our Government will require some stronger evidence of a willingness to recognize the obligations and bear the burdens of a citizen of the United States before announcing that the claimant is under its protection, by granting a passport.

This legation respectfully asks the instruction of the Department in the premises; and

I have, etc.,

A. R. LAWTON.

No. 18.

No. 14.]

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Lawton.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, December 5, 1887.

SIR: I have received your No. 14 of the 4th ultimo, reporting your refusal to issue a passport to Mr. Sigismund Löwinsohn, who, being desirous of "registering the birth of a child," has applied, as a naturalized citizen of the United States, for a passport, but refuses to make any definite statement as to the time of his return to the United States, and evidently has no definite intentions on that subject.

As appears by his certificate of naturalization Mr. Löwinsohn was naturalized in the court of common pleas of New York City on the 5th of February, 1872. He was born in Pressburg, Hungary, on the 5th of February, 1851, and therefore had just reached the age of twenty-one years on the day of his naturalization. He came to the United States in November, 1866, and had consequently, at the time of hisnaturalization, lived in the United States just long enough for that purpose. He left the country of adoption in February (he does not give the day), 1872, a few days only after his naturalization, returned to the land of his nativity, and in March, the month after his departure from the United States, settled himself in Vienna, where he has since continued to reside, has married and had children born to him, and is engaged in a lucrative business. He has never visited the United States since he left it in 1872, and now evidently has no definite intention of ever returning and performing the duties and assuming the liabilities of American citizenship.

Your action is approved.

I am, etc.

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 19.

Mr. Lawton to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 19.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Vienna, December 10, 1887. (Received December 27.)

SIR: I have the honor to transmit translation of a note received from the ministry of foreign affairs in answer to an informal note which I addressed to Mr. de Szögyényi, chief of section at the ministry of foreign affairs, as to the right of foreigners to sue in the courts of the Empire in forma pauperis.

I have, etc..

A. R. LAWTON.

[Inclosure in No. 19.—Translation.]

Baron Pasetti to Mr. Lawton.

SIR: In compliance with the desire expressed in the esteemed note No. 7, under date of 19th ultimo, respecting the right to sue in forma pauperis, the ministry of foreign affairs has addressed itself to the ministry of justice of both parts of the Empire, and now has the honor to communicate to the envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States of America, General Alexander R. Lawton, the regulations which are in force in this part of the Empire on the subject in question.

The laws in the countries represented in the reichsrath provide that persons without means be exempt from paying taxes and stamp duties in connection with lawsuits. In cases where the law requires that the parties be represented by lawyers, an attorney will be appointed by the members of the bar, and the appointment carries with it exemption from payment of fee and tax.

If the party to whom this privilege was granted subsequently comes into possession of means, the payment of the lawyer's fee, of taxes, and of stamps, can be made from of means, the payment of the lawyers lee, of taxes, and of stamps, can be made from the amount realized by gaining the suit.

The poverty of the plaintiff is also taken into consideration in regard to securing the expenses of the defendant. While the plaintiff is bound to give security for the amount necessary to cover the expenses of the court, or to make oath that he is unable to give that security, the plaintiff, when once the right to sue in forma pauperis is conceded to him, is legally exempt from giving security for these expenses and also from giving seth. from giving oath.

As far as the persons are concerned to whom these benefits are granted, there is no law by which this privilege is made dependent upon Austrian citizenship, and for this reason the right of foreigners to sue in forma pauperis, unless coming under the provisions of special international treaties, is regulated by paragraph 33 of the general civil law, according to which foreigners as well as natives enjoy that privilege.

The above-mentioned paragraph reads as follows:

"Foreigners enjoy the same rights and have the same duties as native citizens, if not otherwise expressly provided that citizenship is a requisite for the enjoyment of such rights. Foreigners, in order to participate in this benefit, must, in cases of a doubtful nature, prove that the State of which they are citizens extends the same right to citizens of Austria."

Special treaties touching the right to sue in forma pauperis have been concluded with France (treaty of May 15, 1870, R. G. B. No. 43, 1880), Belgium (treaty of July 19, 1880, R. G. B. No. 19, 1881), Servia (treaty of May 6, 1881, R. G. B. No. 88, 1882), Italy (treaty of February 9, 1883, R. G. B. No. 113), Switzerland (treaty of January 8, 1884, P. G. R. No. 137), and the German Empire (treaty of May 6, 1882, P. G. R. No. 20, 1884). R. G. B. No. 137), and the German Empire (treaty of May 9, 1886, R. G. B. No. 22, 1887). These treaties, for the greater part of uniform text, agree to grant to the subjects of the contracting powers the same privileges conceded to their own subjects.

The imperial and royal ministry of foreign affairs will communicate to his excellency, the American minister, the provisions of the respective law which are in force in the countries of the Hungarian crown as soon as a reply has been received from the royal Hungarian minister of justice.

The undersigned avails, etc.

For the minister of foreign affairs.

VIENNA, December 7, 1887.

M. PASETTI.

No. 20.

Mr. Lawton to Mr. Bayard.

No. 21.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Vienna, December 17, 1887. (Received January 4, 1888.)

SIR: Referring to my dispatch No. 19, under date of the 10th instant, and its inclosure, wherein it was said that information respecting the right to sue in forma pauperis in Hungary would be sent as soon as a reply to an inquiry made on the subject had been received from the royal Hungarian minister of justice, I now have the honor to transmit a translation of a note just received from the ministry of foreign affairs respecting the rights of foreigners to sue in forma pauperis when residing in the countries of the Hungarian Crown.

I have, etc.,

A. R. LAWTON.

[Inclosure in No. 29.—Translation.]

Baron Pasetti to Mr. Lawton.

SIR: In pursuance of the note No. 28752-7, under date of the 7th instant, the imperial and royal ministry of foreign affairs has the honor to inform his excellency, General Alexander R. Lawton, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States of America, that the laws which are in force in the countries of the Hungarian Crown provide that foreigners are entitled to the right of suing in forma pauperis when they are subjects of a State which has concluded a treaty with the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy, by which mutual privileges are secured, or in the terms of paragraph 85 of the instructions given to the royal courts of justice, if they are subjects of a state in which the same procedure is observed towards Hungarian citizens.

The undersigned avails, etc. For the minister of foreign affairs.

M. PASETTI.

VIENNA, December 14, 1887.

No. 21.

Mr. Lawton to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 25.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Vienna, January 6, 1888. (Received January 31.)

SIR: In view of the anti-Semitic imbroglio which somewhat excited the Governments of Austria-Hungary and the United States, not long since, it is interesting to note that during the recent "holidays" the Baron and Baroness Albert Rothschild were declared by imperial decree hoffähig, that is to say, they will for the future be admitted to court balls. This is the first time that such a privilege has ever been conceded to persons of Jewish origin or faith, and it is causing a great sensation in the highest society of Vienna. Very many quarterings of nobility (sixteen, I believe) are the usual requisites of Hoffähigkeit; and it was not until last year that the wives of cabinet ministers, not being members of noble families, were admitted to court by reason of their husbands' offices.

This exclusion from court circles has long been sorely felt by the Rothschild family, and it has been rumored during the past year that Baron Albert intended to dispose of his palace residence and other property in Vienna, and retire altogether from Austria with his colossal fortune.

I have, etc.,

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF AUSTRIA-HUNGARY AT WASHINGTON.

No. 22.

The Chevalier de Tavera to Mr. Bayard.

WASHINGTON, December 23, 1887. (Received December 23.)

SIR: As it appears by the last official report on the life-saving stations in the United States, several members of the station No. 17, Forked River (New Jersey), have particularly distinguished themselves on occasion of the wreck of the Austrian bark-ship Kraljevica, which occurred on February 11 last.

The names of these courageous seamen are the following: John Soper, Samuel Perrini, Solomon Soper, William Inman, Cornelius Thomson, Henry Reeves, and Joel Ridgeway.

The three first named unfortunately succumbed whilst attempting to rescue the crew of the Kraljevica.

The Imperial and Royal Government, recognizing fully the self-abnegation with which these dutiful seamen tendered their services to the Austrian ship, entirely regardless of their own personal danger, I have been instructed to forward as an acknowledgment of these services the following gratifications to the above-named persons, viz: To W. Inman, C. Thomson, J. Ridgeway, and H. Reeves, $40 each (total $160); $100 to each of the families of the deceased seamen, viz: J. Soper, S. Soper, and S. Perrini (total $300).

I have consequently the honor to address myself to your obliging intervention, with the request to forward the inclosed sum of $460 to the indicated persons, expressing, at the same time, my fullest appreciation of the courage and devotion with which these seamen have been exposing and partially also sacrificing their lives in the accomplishment of their arduous and perilous duty.

I avail myself, etc.,

TAVERA.

No. 23.

Mr. Bayard to the Chevalier de Tavera.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, December 28, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 23d instant, inclosing a certificate of deposit for the sum of $460, which your Government desires to have distributed in part to the families of certain men in the American Life-Saving Service who lost their lives in an attempt to rescue the shipwrecked crew of the Austrian bark Kraljevica, and the remainder to certain survivors who rendered services on the occasion in question.

In reply I have the honor to inform you that it has afforded me great pleasure to make the generous action of your government known to my colleague, the Secretary of the Treasury, and to request him to cause the fund to be distributed in accordance with the directions contained in your note.

Accept, sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

BELGIUM.

No. 24.

Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 278.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Brussels, November 30, 1887. (Received December 13.)

SIR: I have the honor to invite your attention to article 2 of the decree of the sovereign of the Independent State of the Congo on the use of flags within the boundaries of that state, published in the "Bulletin Officiel" No. 5 (May, 1887, 3d year), and which will be found on file in the Department.

Article 2 reads as follows:

Every private vessel navigating the waters of the Independent State of the Congo, up the stream beyond the falls of Leopoldville, will be required to hoist at the stern the flag of the State. If she possesses ship's papers establishing her foreign nationality, she may hoist, in addition, the flag of her own country.

Article 3 fixes a penalty for the non-observance of the provisions of article 2.

My impression has been that, in accordance with a custom which is universal, vessels entering the rivers and harbors of another nation have the right to hoist the flag of their own nationality at the stern. If so, it is a curious departure from the general practice to compel the display of the Congo State flag at that part of the vessel, especially in view of article 2 of the general act of the Berlin conference, stipulating for the free navigation of the Congo and all of its affluents by the vessels of all nations.

I have, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

No. 25.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Tree.

[Extract.]

No. 90.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, December 7, 1887.

SIR: I inclose herewith copy of a dispatch addressed to this Department by the United States consul at St. Paul de Loando, and of its inclosure, being a petition signed by the Rev. A. Billington, a representative of the American Baptist Missionary Union at Stanley Pool, in the Congo Free State, setting forth certain arbitrary acts of the Congo authorities in seizing and diverting to their use a small steamer, the property of the said union, and employed in missionary work, and praying for protection and for the issuance of the papers necessary to enable that vessel to fly the Congo flag.

As the consul at St. Paul de Loando is not accredited to the Congo State, and the United States have at present no consular representative in that State, it becomes necessary to address the Congo Government through you.

The first ground of complaint is the attempt of Mr. H. M. Stanley to appropriate the vessel to his use in April last, an attempt, as would appear, so arbitrary and lawless that the chief of the Congo station at Stanley Pool was obliged to interfere to prevent Mr. Stanley from carrying out his purpose by force, whilst, however, aiding to accomplish the end in view, under the authority of the Congo State, by causing her to be handed over for the use of Mr. Stanley for forty-five days.

The second ground of complaint is even more serious, for it is alleged that, after having been kept by Mr. Stanley considerably beyond the forty-five days stipulated, and when returned by him and on its way back to the mission headquarters, the steamer was forcibly taken possession of, at Bangala, by armed soldiers of the Congo State under command of Lieutenant Vangele; and, up to the 3d of August last, was still held by the agents of the Congo State.

You will bring the allegations of Mr. Billington to the attention of the Congo Government, earnestly remonstrating against any such interference with the property rights of American citizens, and asking that steps be taken to restore the steamer in question to the agent of the American Baptist Missionary Union at Stanley Pool, and that a searching investigation be made of the arbitrary acts said to have been done in this regard by the Congo authorities, with prompt and effective reparation of any injury done to the owners by reason of the forcible seizure of the steamer.

No objects can be more legitimate or praiseworthy than those of the missionary laborers in Africa, and no missionaries are more entitled to considerate and just treatment at the hands of the Congo authorities than those who are citizens of the country that first recognized the Congo flag and has been unstinting in its expressions of sympathy and aid toward the establishment of civilized and liberal government in the Congo territories.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 90.]

Mr. Newton to Mr. Rives.

No. 33.]

CONSULATE OF THE UNITED STATES, St. Paul de Loanda, September 30, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose copy of a petition drawn up by the Rev. A. Billington, of the American Baptist Missionary Union at Stanley Pool, and to ask for instructions with reference to the same. I doubt if any papers granted by me would be recognized by the Congo Free State, as I am not recognized as consul for that district.

I am, etc.,

ROBT. S. NEWTON, Vice-Consul. [Inclosure 2 in No. 90.]

Mr. Billington to Mr. Newton.

AMERICAN BAPTIST MISSIONARY UNION, Stanley Pool, Congo Free State, August 3, 1887.

To the American Consul, St. Paul de Loanda:

SIR: The above society has a small steamer on the waters of the Upper Congo for the purpose of conveying missionaries and their goods to its stations. It did not occur to us to be necessary to have "papers" on our steamers till a few weeks ago. It has, however, recently become necessary. In the first place, for the protection of the mission property, and, in the second place, because that, after the 1st of September, 1887, we are compelled to fly the flag of the "Congo Free State," but are not allowed to fly any other flag until we have the proper papers of our nationality on

In April last when Mr. H. M. Stanley arrived here he applied for the use of our steamer, but our circumstances were such that we could not do as he wished; he then attempted to take the steamer by force, by placing an armed band at the entrance of our mission station and another at the place where our steamer was at anchor, and then sent in a letter demanding the instant surrender of the steamer; in case of my not complying, his officers had orders to enforce the demand at any risk either to myself or those concerned.

Before anything was done, the chief of the station of the "Congo Free State" at this place protested against Mr. Stanley's action in the name of the State, and the armed forces were withdrawn.

The chief of the station of the Free State then applied for the steamer, but our circumstances remaining unaltered we were obliged to refuse. It however became very clear to us, from conversation and correspondence, that the steamer would be taken, so that we ultimately handed her over to the Free State, under protest, for Mr. Stanley's use, for the space of forty-five days. She was kept considerably beyond this time by Mr. Stanley, but after she had been sent away by him, to be returned to us, before reaching here she was seized by another officer of the Free State.

This seizure took place at the State station Bangala, by Lieutenant Vangele. This officer first applied for the use of the steamer of the English Baptist Mission, she being there at the same time, but being refused he at once marched twenty armed soldiers on board the Henry Reed. His action was protested against by some of those in charge of the steamer, but without effect, and the steamer has not yet been returned to me turned to us.

It was only yesterday that we received the decree of the King respecting flags, and now at once write to ask if you will kindly arrange for us to get the "papers" as early as possible, that we may be able to use the American flag.

I inclose particulars of the steamer and hope they will meet all requirements.

I have the honor, etc.,

A. BILLINGTON. Member of the American Baptist Missionary Union and in charge of the said steamer Henry Reed.

No. 26.

Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 282.1 LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES. Brussels, December 15, 1887. (Received December 28.)

SIR: An interesting debate, lasting several days, has just terminated in the Belgian Chamber on the subject of orders for cannon which have been given by the Government to the Messrs. Krupp. Some of the speakers asserted that just as good guns could be made at the royal foundry at Liege as those ordered from Krupp, and that sound policy dictated that Belgium should not go to either Germany or France to procure arms, as she may be on terms of hostility any day with either or both of them. That Krupp could furnish cannon to Belgium only so long as Germany permitted him to do so, and that he would probably be forbidden to do it the very moment they were most required. That if she was obliged to go abroad for weapons she had better address herself to England, who was her ancient and faithful friend. It was also alleged in the course of the debate that Krupp's mode of manufacture was no secret, that the cannon was in commerce, and that any one had the right to copy the model.

The minister of war, in defending the course of the Government, declared that he desired to favor the national industry as far as the public interest would permit, but that one hundred and twenty field-guns were still required, which must be bought from the Messrs. Krupp, in order to preserve uniformity in that branch of the armaments.

The minister stated that for the armament of the infantry trials were progressing with small-caliber Schouloff, Nagant, and Mannlicher rifles. That the supply of the arm eventually selected for this purpose, as well as the cartridges, would be obtained in Belgium.

A resolution was finally offered demanding that, before any order was given to Messrs. Krupp, trials should be made of the cannon manufactured at the royal foundry in Liege. The ministers, however, would not consent to this, and the Government was sustained by a vote of 65 to 35.

In connection with military matters it may not be irrelevant to mention that the contingent of the Belgian army to be summoned for 1888 will number 13,200 men. It is said that, in case of mobilization, the army will embrace 100,000 men, with a reserve of 30,000 old soldiers, who may be called out in time of war.

The war budget for 1888, calculated on the basis of 48,403 men and 8,974 horses, amounts to 46,047,570 francs.

Work on the fortifications along the Meuse is progressing under the superintendence of the distinguished engineer Brialmont.

I have etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

No. 27.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Tree.

[Extract.]

No. 92.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, December 19, 1887.

SIR: Your No. 278, of the 30th ultimo, asking for instructions relative to the flag to be hoisted by American-owned vessels in the Congo Free State, makes it proper to supplement my instructions No. 90, of the 7th instant, in regard to procuring a flag license for a small steam-boat, the Henry Reed, employed in mission work on the Congo River above Stanley Pool.

By the Congo convention, signed at Berlin, the Congo River and its tributaries are opened to the trade and navigation of citizens of all countries and their vessels. Although the Government of the United States is not a party to that convention, yet the peaceful use of the benefits offered by the Congo Free State to the world at large are shared by their vessels and their citizens.

The commerce of the Congo Free State being thus freely opened, the American vessel, viewed as a vehicle of transit, may be either a registered vessel of the merchant marine of the United States or an unregistered vessel owned by citizens of the United States, without affecting her enjoyment of the guarantied privilege of navigation. In either case she has the right to fly the flag of the United States.

This Government holds it to be a settled principle of international law that ships not only are entitled to carry wherever they go the flag of the country of which their owners are citizens, but that it is their duty, as a rule, to carry such flag alone, inasmuch as the very fact of a vessel's having on board and displaying a plurality of flags renders her liable to suspicion. With this principle municipal laws requiring in certain cases quarantine or pilot ensigns to be carried do not conflict, because such ensigns do not claim to be flags of nationality. But the principle would be directly antagonized by a rule that vessels navigating the rivers of a particular State, when such rivers are open, as in this case, to foreign navigation, should carry the flag of that State. This is the purport of article 2 of the Congo decree of April 30, 1887, which you quote. Its effect is to substitute the flag of the Congo Free State for the national flag of the vessel by requiring its display on the staff at the stern, which in steamships is generally the place of the vessel's national emblem, although it is also shown at the peak. And this effect is not altered by the further provision of the same article 2, which permits the vessel to fly also the flag of the country to which she belongs.

This proviso is open to two serious objections. It subordinates the national flag to the temporarily displayed Congo flag. And it implies assertion of right on the part of the Congo authorities to determine the sufficiency of the vessel's title to fly her national flag by making it depend on the possession of papers establishing nationality. It is the province of each country to determine for itself the conditions for the use of its flag upon its vessels, and the United States' rule is that vessels bona fide owned by citizens of the United States are entitled, when abroad, to carry the flag of the United States irrespective of the question of the papers they may have on board.

With regard to the general question, as presented in your No. 278, you will make to the minister for foreign affairs of the Congo Free State a protest against the application of article 2 of the decree of April 30, 1887, to vessels owned by citizens of the United States, and will further protest against the application to such vessels of the last clause of that article which makes the right to carry a national flag dependent upon the possession of papers on board establishing nationality.

1 am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 28.

Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard.

No. 283.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,
Brussels, December 19, 1887. (Received January 3, 1888.)

SIR: The burgomasters of a number of the communes in Belgium have recently issued proclamations forbidding absolutely the hoisting of the red flag, on the ground that it presents an emblem of a seditious and anti-national character.

Persons hostile to the existence of all government founded on law have heretofore made very free use of this emblem in Belgium in their processions and at their meetings, until it has finally become necessary, in the opinion of the executive officers in the communes where it has made its appearance, to put a stop to it.

While the persons who follow this flag through the public streets and put it over the doorways where their meetings are held are not numerous in the country and are for the most part professional agitators, yet it has been observed that it tends to irritate the law and order people, who consider it as an insult to their own national colors, and if persisted in would, as the authorities believe, lead to collisions.

I have, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

No. 29.

Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 289.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,

Brussels, January 6, 1888. (Received January 17.)

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your instruction No. 90, of the 7th ultimo, on the subject of the wrongs inflicted on the American Baptist Missionary Union in the double seizure of their boat by Henry M. Stanley and the authorities of the Congo State, as alleged in the letter of the Rev. A. Billington, to which I have delayed responding more promptly in order that I might send you the answer of the administrator-general of the department of foreign affairs to the note which I addressed to him immediately after receiving the instruction.

I have the honor to transmit herewith the correspondence I have had with that official on the subject, which I hope will meet with your approval

The explanations seem to be satisfactory. Mr. Van Eetvelde declares that his Government entirely disapproved of the arbitrary conduct of Mr. Stanley, and states that it is in possession of evidence which relieves its agent at Stanley Pool of the imputation of covertly favoring Stanley's project to take possession of the boat against the will of her owners.

As to the second cause of complaint, the taking possession of the Henry Reed by armed soldiers under the command of Captain Van Gele on her way back to Stanley Pool, Mr. Van Eetvelde explains that it was done under a misunderstanding that his Government regrets, and the consequences of which it hastened to repair. It appears, as he explains, that Captain Van Gele had previously made several voyages in the boat at times when she was in the service of the State under contract of hire; that he was ignorant of the circumstances under which the boat had been put at the service of the State, and seeing her passing Equator station under command of an officer of the Congolaise navy, he wrongfully thought himself authorized to make use of her.

It is alleged by Mr. Van Eetvelde that the governor-general, as soon as he was informed of the fact, ordered the restitution of the boat, which was done on the 10th of August last, and that the complainants have been indemnified for the injuries which have been occasioned to them on liberal terms, including the expense of hiring for the whole period of the absence of the boat up to the day of her final surrender. I have, etc.

LAMBERT TREE.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 289.]

Mr. Lambert Tree to the general administrator of the department of foreign affairs and of justice of the Independent State of the Congo.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Brussels, December 23, 1887.

SIR: In accordance with instructions from my Government, I have the honor to bring to your attention a case of flagrant wrongs which are said to have been inflicted upon the American Baptist Missionary Union, composed of American citizens, and engaged in missionary work in the Congo Free State, by officials of the State.

It appears from a letter addressed by the Rev. A. Billington, representative of the union at Stanley Pool, to the American consul at St. Paul de Loando, a copy of which I inclose herewith, that the union owns a small steamer on the waters of the Upper Congo, called the Henry Reed, for the purpose of conveying missionaries and their goods to its stations. That in April last Mr. Henry M. Stanley arrived at Stanley Pool and applied for the use of the steamer, but that the circumstances of the missionaries were such that they could not do as they wished; that he, Stanley, thereupon, in the most arbitrary and lawless manner, attempted to take the steamer by force, by placing an armed band at the entrance of the mission station and another at the place where the steamer was at anchor, and then sent a letter demanding the instant surrender of the steamer. In case of non-compliance his officers had orders to enforce the demand at any risk, either to Mr. Billington or those concerned; that before anything was done the chief of the station of the Congo Free State, at Stanley Pool, protested against Mr. Stanley's action in the name of the State, and the armed forces were withdrawn. The chief of the station then applied for the steamer, but the circumstances remaining unaltered the missionaries were obliged to refuse its use. That it, however, became so clear to them, from conversations and correspondence, that the steamer would be taken, that they ultimately handed her over to the authorities of the Free State, under protest, for Mr. Stanley's use for the space of forty-five days.

Thus it appears that while the chief of the station ostensibly protested against the threatened violence of Stanley, as evidenced by his posting an armed force at the entrance to the mission and another at the place where the steamer was at anchor, and his unwarranted and insolent demand for the instant surrender of the private property of these missionaries, yet it is entirely apparent, from the statement of Mr. Billington, that he aided and abetted Stanley in his lawlessness, and that these missionaries were obliged to deliver their property up to the authorities of the Free State for the use of Stanley because they could not help themselves.

But another and still more serious and flagrant wrong to these missionaries by persons connected with the Government of the Congo Free State remains to be stated. It seems that the steamer was kept considerably beyond the forty-five days by Mr.

It seems that the steamer was kept considerably beyond the forty-five days by Mr. Stanley, and then when she had been sent away by him to be returned to the owners, the American Baptist Missionary Union, she was seized before reaching Stanley Pool by another officer of the Free State.

This seizure was made at Bangala by Lieutenant Vangele. This officer, it appears, first applied for the use of the steamer of the English Baptist Mission, she being there at the time, but on being refused he at once marched twenty armed soldiers on board the Henry Reed. His action was protested against by some of those in charge of the steamer, but without effect, and up to the 3d of August, the date of the letter, she had not been returned to her owners.

Assuming the facts to be correctly stated, and there seems to be no present reason to doubt that they are, I desire most earnestly to remonstrate, in the name of my Government, against the arbitrary and lawless acts of interference with the enjoyment of the rights of private property by the persons connected with the Government of the Independent State of the Congo, as indicated by the circumstances I have detailed.

The Government of the United States could not fail to regard with profound regret and displeasure such abuses of the rights of any of its citizens in the Congo Free

State by officials of the State, and especially in the case of the unselfish and self-sacrificing men who, braving the dangers of climate and the privations incident to a savage and unsettled country, have posted themselves there as aids of humanity and re-No settlers could be more valuable to the government of the new country in its efforts to spread the blessings of civilization, or are entitled to greater protection and more tender consideration at the hands of the governmental authorities, than the brave and single-minded men and women who are occupying the field of the Congo State as missionaries, and no missionaries more than these who go from America. They go from and are citizens of a country whose Government was the first to recognize the Congo flag, and which has been unfaltering in its sympathy and aid towards the establishing of a liberal and civilized government in that remote quarter of the

I am instructed to ask that the Government of the Independent State of the Congo will immediately take steps to cause the restoration of the steamer in question to her legitimate owners, the American Baptist Union, at Stanley Pool, and that the Government will cause a searching investigation to be made of the arbitrary acts said to have been done in this regard by the authorities of the State.

Also that a prompt and effective reparation be made for any injury done to the owners by reason of the forcible seizure of the steamer.

I avail, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 289.—Translation.]

Mr. Van Eetvelde to Mr. Tree.

INDEPENDENT STATE OF THE CONGO, DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS, Brussels, December 31, 1887.

Mr. MINISTER: You have kindly, in your letter of the 23d of this month, addressed me a complaint of which your Government had been notified by missionaries of the American Baptist Missionary Union, concerning the detention in the waters of the Congo of their boat, the Henry Reed.

I hope by some explanations to be able to show in some measure, Mr. Minister, that the facts to which you call my attention constitute much less a well-founded point of grievance against my Government, as they were produced under circumstances entirely exceptional, and as the injury to which they gave rise has been already repaired to the satisfaction of the complainants.

It will not be useless to recall, in the first instance, that Mr. Stanley undertook his last journey to Africa, not as representing the State of the Congo, but as chief of an expedition organized by an English committee with a view of carrying succor to Emin Pasha, whose position in the Soudan had awakened the sympathies of the civilized world.

By reason of the philanthropic and urgent character of his mission, the explorer had the right to count on the active co-operation of our authorities. nad the right to count on the active co-operation of our authorities. Thus you will not be surprised, Mr. Minister, that when on its arrival at Stanley Pool the expedition found itself in the face of difficulties, the commissaire of the district, Mr. Liebrechts, felt himself obliged to lend his good offices. And these difficulties were grave—a famine reigned in the district. The provisions there scarcely sufficed for the ordinary peads of the resultation and the columns of active the resultation and the columns of active to the resultation and the columns of active to the columns. the ordinary needs of the population, and the only means of saving a disaster to the numerous caravan of Mr. Stanley—nearly a thousand men—was to put him in the way of continuing sooner his journey. In the presence of this situation, Mr. Stanley was obliged to endeavor to procure all the means of transport then available at the Pool.

No aid was refused to him; the Baptist Mission alone did not accord the use of its boat, although its refusal was of a nature to put in danger numerous human lives and to compromise the fate of the enterprise. Perhaps in view of this consideration it is permitted to judge with less rigor the arbitrary proceedings to which your countryman had instant recourse in order to arrive at his ends. My Government does not for an instant approve them, nor still less share the responsibility. Its agent, far from having favored or tolerated them, put an end to them as soon as they had been On this point we have the satisfactory testimony of the brought to his knowledge.

complainants themselves. The matter was finished by a contract signed at the intervention of the authority according the use of the beat for a term of forty-five days. Mr. Billington claims, it is true, now, to have subscribed to this act only because of the ambiguous attitude of the commissaire of the district, and in order to avoid graver disagreements.

My Government believes itself justified in repelling the imputation with which this functionary is charged. His conduct, in my opinion, has been what it should have been, frank, benevolent, and dictated by the sole desire to conciliate individual conveniences with the necessities of a difficult situation; that it had no other character appears from the letter even of Mr. Billington, of which I herewith annex a copy, making known to the authority his determination to cede the Henry Reed. And besides, would it be permitted to suppose for a single moment that missionaries would have taken with bad grace and under protest a resolution to which was attached the success of an enterprise which by its humanitarian end responds so well to their own aspirations, and on which certainly depended the existence not only of the column of Mr. Stanley, but also that of all the inhabitants of the district? My Government does not think so.

As to the second fact that you have described to me, the detention of the same boat by the orders of Captain Van Gele, it is the result of a misunderstanding that my Government regrets and of which it has hastened to repair the consequences.

The Henry Reed had been previously hired to the State. Mr. Van Gele had used her to accomplish several voyages of exploration. He was ignorant of the new conditions on which the boat had been placed at the disposition of the State, and seeing her passing Equator Station under the command of an officer of our Navy, he wrongly thought himself authorized to make use of her. The governor-general, as soon as he was informed of the fact, ordered the restitution of the boat; which was done the 10th of August last, as is attested by the acknowledgment of the surrender, which was signed the same day.

I will add, Mr. Minister, that the complainants have been indemnified for the injuries which have been occasioned to them, the expense of hiring having been liquidated on the liberal conditions of the agreement for the whole period of the absence of the boat up to the day of her final surrender.

The explanations into which I have just entered indicate, Mr. Minister, that the State of the Congo is conscious of the duties incumbent upon it with the respect to every enterprise for the advance of civilization.

I can give the assurance that it will not fail in its task, that it will not forget the sympathies which have been expressed to it by the United States at the time of its foundation, and that it will continue, as in the past, to surround with its solicitude the works of missionaries. They, on their side, should not forget that it is not possible for them to serve more efficiently their noble cause than by giving to the State a loyal concurrence, and in co-operating in works which tend to the progress of civiliants.

They know, for the rest, that if they believe themselves injured, it belongs to justice to state their grievance, and that they will find always in the tribunals of the State the protection to which they have the right.

Please accept, etc., The general administrator of the department of foreign affairs,

EDM. VAN EETVELDE.

[Inclosure 3 in No. 289.]

Mr. Billington to Lieutenant Liebrechts, April 24, 1887.

AMERICAN BAPTIST MISSIONARY UNION, Stanley Pool, April 24, 1887.

DEAR SIR: Judging from our conversation of last evening it is evident that there was a misunderstanding in our letters of yesterday.

I now write to say that owing to the present very peculiar circumstances I have decided to assume responsibilities and powers I do not really possess, and hand over to the Congo Free State the steamer Henry Reed, in accordance with a mutual agreement to be drawn up and signed on the morrow.

It appears to me only just and right that our society would be in some way protected in case of the loss of the steamer, and I ask you again to do your best to obtain the guaranty mentioned yesterday.

Should you still fail in this matter the arrangement aforementioned will of course still go forward.

If you will appoint a time on the morrow I will call on you, or you may prefer to call here

Believe me, etc.,

A. BILLINGTON.

[Inclosure 4 in No. 289.]

Mr. Lambert Tree to the general administrator of foreign affairs and of justice, of the Independent State of the Congo.

> LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Brussels, January 5, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the reception of your esteemed note of the 31st ultimo which I have carefully read.

No purpose, however philanthropic or praiseworthy, which Mr. Stanley had in view, as the commandant of a private enterprise, could justify or excuse his arbitrary and violent acts in attempting, with the aid of an armed force, to seize and appropriate the private property of persons, without their consent, which he found within the limits of the Congo Free State, and I felt confident that the Government of the State would strongly disapprove of such conduct.

I am glad to know that your Government is in possession of evidence which relieves its agent at Stanley Pool from the imputation of covertly favoring Stanley's project to take possession of the boat against the will of her owners.

I feel assured that my Government will learn with sincere satisfaction and pleasure that the subsequent seizure of the boat by Lieutenant Van Gele was made under a misapprehension as to her having been hired by the State, and that she was still in its service; that the Government of the State, as soon as it learned of the fact, ordered her restitution to the owners, which was done; and that the complainants have been liberally indemnified for the injury which had been occasioned to them.

I profit, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

No. 30.

Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard.

No. 294.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Brussels, January 16, 1888. (Received, January 30.)

SIR: Referring to your No. 92 of the 19th ultimo, relative to the decree of the sovereign of the Independent State of the Congo of the 30th of April last, concerning the display of the flag of that State on foreign vessels, I have the honor to transmit herewith a copy of my note of the 9th instant, addressed to Mr. Van Eetvelde, the general administrator of foreign affairs.

In making a representation and protest on the subject, I did not see how I could better do so than by following generally the reasoning and language of the instruction.

With regard to the steamer Henry Reed, as her case is covered by the principles laid down in the instruction and is within the terms of the protest, if she is an American owned vessel, I have not deemed it necessary to make any allusion to her in this connection.

I have, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

[Inclosure in No. 294.]

Mr. Lambert Tree to Mr. Edmund Van Eetvelde.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Brussels, January 9, 1888.

SIR: Under instructions from my Government I have the honor to invite your attention to the second article of the decree of His Majesty, the soverign of the Independent State of the Congo, on the subject of the use of flags, bearing date the 30th of April, 1887, and published in the official bulletin, No. 5 (May, 1887).

H. Ex. 1, pt. 1——3

As this article is understood it decrees that every private vessel navigating the waters of the Independent State of the Congo up the stream beyond the falls of Leopoldville, will be required to hoist at the stern the flag of the State, and that if the vessel possesses ship's papers establishing her nationality she may in addition fly the flag of her country.

By the second article of the general act of the Berlin conference all flags, without distinction of nationality, are secured in the right to have free access to all the waters of the Congo and its affluents, including the lakes, and to all the canals that in the future may be cut with the object of uniting the water-courses or the lakes confined in the whole extent of the territories described in article 1 of that instrument; and while the Government of the United States is not a party to that convention, yet the peaceful use of the benefits offered by the Congo Free State to the world at large are shared by their vessels and their citizens.

The commerce of the Congo Free State being thus freely opened, the American vessel, viewed as a vehicle of transit, may be either a registered vessel of the merchant marine of the United States, or an unregistered vessel owned by citizens of the United States, without affecting, it is insisted, her enjoyment of the guarantied privilege of navigation. In either case she has the right to fly the flag of the United

My Government holds it to be a settled principle of international law that ships not only are entitled to carry wherever they go the flag of the country of which their owners are citizens, but that it is their duty, as a rule, to carry such flag.

The principle stated, however, would be directly antagonized by a rule that vessels navigating the rivers of a particular State when such rivers are open, as in this case, to foreign navigation, should carry the flag of that state.

This appears to be the purport of article 2 of the royal decree of the 30th of April, 1887.

Its effect is to substitute the flag of the Congo Free State for the national flag of the vessel, by requiring the flag of the State to be displayed at the stern, as it is evident that the flags of the two nations could not both fly from the same staff, or from the same gaff. To do this would be under some circumstances, at least, to denote that the vessel was a prize to the nationality whose colors were uppermost.

I understand it to be the universal usage that the flag carried on a gaff at the flagstaff at the stern, is the flag of the vessel's nationality.

The last clause of article 2 of the decree of April 30 implies the assertion of a right on the part of the authorities of the Congo State to determine the sufficiency of the vessel's title to fly her national flag by making it depend on the possession of papers establishing her nationality.

It is maintained by my Government that it is the province of each Government to determine for itself the conditions for the use of its flag upon its vessels, and the United States rule is, that vessels bona fide owned by citizens of the United States are entitled when abroad to carry the flag of the United States, irrespective of the question of the papers they may have on board.

I am therefore instructed by my Government to protest against the application of article 2, of the royal decree of April 30, 1887, to vessels owned by citizens of the First. In requiring such vessels to fly the flag of the Independent State of the Congo the stern. The right to require such vessels to hoist the flag of any other nationality than their own is denied.

Second. In making the right to carry a national flag on such vessels dependent upon the possession of papers on board establishing nationality.

I avail myself, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

No. 31.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Tree.

[Extract.]

No. 96.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, January 26, 1888.

SIR: Your dispatch (No. 289) of the 6th instant, reporting your action under my instruction (No. 90) of the 7th ultimo, relative to the alleged wrongs inflicted on the American Baptist Missionary Union by Mr. Henry M. Stanley and the Congo State authorities, has been received.

Your report of the restitution of the steamer and indemnification of the owners has been read with satisfaction.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 32.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Tree.

No. 97.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, January 30, 1888.

SIR: I inclose herewith a copy of a letter to this Department from the Secretary of the Treasury relative to pieces of metal known as "spiel marks," representing closely in size, color, and partly in design the several gold coins of the United States, which are imported from Belgium, and also relative to imitations of coins, postage stamps, and other obligations of foreign governments and our own, likewise imported from Germany, all of which, it is alleged, are used for fraudulent purposes.

I will thank you to make inquiry in the proper quarter as to whether the laws of Belgium prohibit the manufacture of the articles described in the Treasury Department letter, and to report the result of your inquiries to this Department.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 97.]

Mr. Fairchild to Mr. Bayard.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, January 21, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith a copy of a letter, dated the 18th instant, from Mr. J. J. Brooks, chief of the Secret Service of this Department, in which he states that there are imported from Germany pieces of metal, representing closely in size, color, and partly in design, the several gold coins of the United States, which are known as "spiel marks," and which, as alleged, are extensively used to cheat ignorant persons under the pretense that they are the gold coins of the United States; and also that imitations of coins, postage-stamps, and other obligations of foreign governments and of our own, in full size, and in miniature, and of exact appearance of genuine issues are imported, and that their importation leads to great abuse and injury.

Mr. Brooks states that the "spiel marks" are manufactured by one J. C. Laurer, of Nuremberg, Germany, and that the imitations of coins, postage-stamps, and other obligations of foreign governments and our own, are manufactured by J. B. Molus at Brussels, Belgium; Dr. Alfred Mosch Kan, at Leipsic, and Kramp & Co., at Offen-bach, Germany.

You will notice that Mr. Brooks states that his object in communicating these facts is to seek to obtain the protection of foreign governments for our citizens from such acts on the part of persons under their control which, if performed in the United States, would be adjudged illegal.

The matter is referred to you for such action as you may deem proper.

C. S. FAIRCHILD, Secretary. [Inclosure 2 in No. 97.]

Mr. Brooks to Mr. Fairchild.

U. S. TREASURY DEPARTMENT, SECRET SERVICE DIVISION, OFFICE OF CHIEF, Washington, D. C., January 18, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to submit for your consideration the following facts: First. There are imported from Germany pieces of metal representing closely in size, color, and partly in design the several gold coins of the United States. They are known as "spiel marks," and are said to be used as evidences of value in gambling transactions, but are really extensively used to cheat ignorant persons under pretense that they are the gold coins of the United States. This fraud has been practiced to my personal knowledge for ten years past, and has proved a serious loss to poor people. I am informed the manufacturer of the so-called coins is J. C. Laurer, Nuremberg, Germany.

Nuremberg, Germany.

Secondly. There are imported into this country imitations of coins, postage-stamps, and other obligations of foreign governments and of our own, in full size and in miniature, and of exact appearance of genuine issues. The manufacturers of some of these reproductions, which are prohibited in this country except by special authority, are as follows: J. B. Molus, 42 Rue Florence, Brussels, Belgium; Dr. Alfred Mosch Kan, Leipsic, and Kramp & Co., Offenbach, Germany. I do not charge counterfeiting against any of the firms named, but simply request attention to their practice of imitating representatives of values, ostensibly under the honest plea for adornment as curios, but which in its abuse is constantly leading to serious consequences. Experience brands the practice as a vicious one, full of evil suggestions, and should be suppressed.

The laws enacted by the Congress of the United States afford full protection to foreign governments against the counterfeiting of foreign coins and obligations in this country, and the purpose of the undersigned in this communication is to seek to obtain like protection of foreign governments for our citizens from such acts on the part of their citizens, which, if performed in the United States, would be adjudged illegal. Failing in preventing the manufacture abroad of the articles referred to herein, I respectfully suggest that steps be taken to prohibit their importation.

Respectfully, yours,

James J. Brooks, Chief.

No. 33.

Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 305.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Brussels, February, 11, 1888. (Received February 25.)

SIR: Referring to my number 294 in which I inclosed a copy of my note of the 9th ultimo addressed to Mr. van Eetvelde, relative to the decree of the 30th of April last, requiring foreign vessels on the Congo River to hoist the flag of the Congo State, I have now the honor to transmit herewith the answer of Mr. van Eetvelde to my note and my rejoinder thereto.

It will be observed that Mr. van Eetvelde discusses the question as if the Congo was territorial water, under the exclusive jurisdiction of the State, instead of being as free to the commerce of the world as the sea, subject only to police regulations with reference to public order and public health.

I have, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 305.—Translation.]

Mr. van Eetvelde to Mr. Tree.

INDEPENDENT STATE OF THE CONGO, DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS, Brussels, January 28, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: The communication that you have done me the honor to address me the 9th of this month concerns a decree made the 30th of April last, by the terms of which every vessel navigating in the Superior Congo is required to hoist the flag of the State, with the privilege, if she possesses ships' papers establishing her foreign nationality, to hoist in addition the flag of her country.

The Government of the United States sees in this measure a double infringement of the law of nations, no vessel, according to it, being obliged to carry any other flag than its own, and not being obliged to justify its nationality by ships' papers.

You kindly recall on this occasion that the general act of the Berlin conference opens to vessels of every nationality free acess to the Congo and its affluents. It is true, Mr. Minister, that by admitting all nations to subscribe to the general act the conference has intended to exclude no one from the advantages that it consecrates, and it enters into the desires of my Government to see the citizens of the United States profit by them in the greatest measure.

I do not think, however, that the decree of the 30th of April last can in any way trammel the free exercise of navigation in the waters of the Congo. It has been inspired, on the contrary, by quite different purposes; in stipulating that all vessels, without distinction, should in these latitudes little frequented display a flag recognized and respected by the natives, it is designed, in effect, as much to guard these vessels against any act of hostility as to strengthen toward the people still savage the prestige of a power which is one of the principal guardians of the work of the conference and which will be all the more able to protect the operations of commerce, that its outbority is attention and approximately this depression. that its authority is strong and uncontested. In this double manner the decree serves the interest of the liberty of navigation.

In taking this measure the Government of the Congo does not believe that it has overpassed the rights of police which belong to it in its territorial waters. It is a principle of international law, universally recognized to-day and consecrated by numerous precedents, that a foreign vessel, in all that touches public interest and public order is submitted to the laws of the testa where it is found and interest and public order, is submitted to the laws of the state where it is found, only interior matters and discipline on board escaping the jurisdiction of local justice. But I have shown that the decree is inspired by the most evident necessities, and protects the security even of navigation. Under these conditions, does it not justify itself so much the more that it neither makes any attempt against private interests nor the dignity of foreign navigators, since it happens every day that vessels of commerce and others hoist by simple courtesy another flag than theirs? My Government esteems that there can be no inconvenience in floating the colors of the two countries, the one at the side of the other; if, however, contrary to our thought, this exterior disposition of flags could be of a nature to awaken susceptibilities, the adoption of any modifications to the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of the reference of tions would not be refused which, in giving on this point satisfaction to your Government, would be to our mind compatible with the object of the measure.

The second objection that you have kindly addressed to me concerns the obligation which is imposed implicitly by the decree on foreign vessels to prove their nationality by ships' papers. I do not think, Mr. Minister, that this obligation is contrary in Without doubt it belongs to each country to fix any respect to international usages. the limits which suit it for conferring its nationality on vessels, but everywhere where the sovereignty of another power is exercised, and where in consequence the obligatory force of foreign laws ceases, this privilege is limited by that of the law of nations which accords to this power to determine on its side the conditions on which it recognizes the nationality of these vessels in its territorial waters. It is not only the theoretical rule which permits the State of the Congo to act as it has done; the general practice sanctions the principle that requires every vessel to justify its nationality by regular documents. This is so true that no vessel would be advised to go to sea without being furnished with them, as if she were unprovided with them she would be exposed in time of war to be declared fair prize, and as on her arrival in a foreign port she is required to present them for vise to the authority. The American law itself exacts that the papers should be deposited with the consul. The interest of nations and the care of their own neutrality command, besides, that a vessel without official attesta-tion can avail itself of the protection of no flag.

I hope, Mr. Minister, that on this question a simple misunderstanding separates us, and that at bottom the manner in which your Government sees it does not differ from that which I have just exposed. I read, in fact, in an official publication issuing from the department of foreign affairs * at Washington, that, according to the laws of Congress, the right to carry the American flag can only belong in practice to vessels registered at a custom-house. That is to say that by the fact itself of registry ships' papers are obtained. The work which I have just cited adds that foreign tribunals would not be required to recognize certificates of American property delivered by the consul to vessels of foreign construction.

Permit me to recall also that international acts to which the Government of the United States is a party consecrate the obligation for a vessel to justify her nationality by ships' papers. In the presence of these dispositions which animate our two Governments I can not prevent myself from regretting, Mr. Minister, that the terms of the decree of the 30th of April last have been able to give birth to a doubt as to their

My Government does not seek, in fact, to interfere in the delivery of these papers nor to dictate the conditions upon which such delivery should be subordinated; it is too penetrated with respect for the rights of the powers and too convinced that they would respect its own to raise this pretention. All that is desired is to prevent the abusive use of foreign flags, and on this point an accordance of views appear to exist between us; it is that vessels establish by a regular document that they are the property of foreign citizens and authorized as such to hoist the colors of their country.

I desire to add, Mr. Minister, that on this question, as on all others that could arise between the two countries, my Government will always be happy to accord to the one that you represent all the satisfaction reconcilable with the interest which it protects.

It has it at heart to recognize by its friendly action the fruitful support that the Government of the United States lent to it at the time of its foundation, and it will know how, being inspired with a duty of gratitude, to testify its solicitude to the enterprises in which the citizens of the United States will take the initiative in its It likes to believe, on its side, that the Government of the United States will not cease to encourage it with its sympathies and that on the present occasion it would kindly re-enforce, by its moral support, the authority of which the young state has need in order to assure the success of its civilizing and philanthropic work.

Please accept, Mr. Minister, the assurances, etc., The administrator general of the department of foreign affairs.

EDM. VAN EETVELDE.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 305.1

Mr. Tree to Mr. van Eetvelde.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Brussels, February 4, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the reception of your esteemed note of the 28th ultimo, which I have read with interest.

You therein confirm what I supposed would be the case, that your Government and mine are in entire accord on the point that the general act of the Berlin Conference opens to the flag of all nationalities, without distinction, free access to the navigation of the Congo and its affluents, whether parties to the convention or not. We equally agree on the general principle that the enforcement by the state through which a free river flows of police regulations, with a view to the preserva-tion of public order and the protection of public health within its territories, is not inconsistent with the enjoyment of the free use of the river for the purposes of navigation, trade, and commerce. I am not able to see, however, that the demand on the part of such state that foreign vessels traversing free waters shall display the flag of the state, or that the authorities of the state may properly exercise the right of deciding upon the sufficiency of the papers on board establishing the vessel's nationality as a prerequisite to her flying another flag than that of the riparian state, is in any sense a police regulation. If this demand is founded on law, the principle in this instance must be sought for elsewhere than in the right to make and enforce police regulations.

Nor am I prepared to admit, while fully recognizing the benevolent and kindly motives which actuate the authorities of the state, that the freedom of navigation of the waters of the Congo is assured, when the undisturbed enjoyment of this right can be obtained for foreign vessels only on the condition of flying the flag recognized or respected by the people of the riparian state. It is possible that such vessels might be more free from danger; but if they are obliged, for any reason, to conceal their own flag or hoist the colors of the riparian state as a condition to the navigation of these waters, dedicated to the free commerce of the world, it is evident that the navigation would not be free in point of fact, no matter whether all nations, without distinction, were subjected to the same terms.

^{*} Regulations prescribed for the use of the consular service of the United States, article 226, Washington, 1874.

39BELGIUM.

It is quite true that it happens every day that foreign vessels hoist at the foremast, as a matter of courtesy, the flag of the nation whose ports they are entering or departing from, but I believe it will scarcely be seriously contended that the extension of a courtesy, for however long a period it may have been practiced, constitutes a sufficient basis for the assertion of an absolute right.

So far as the question of law is concerned, it being conceded that the Congo River and its affluents are free waters, and open to the commerce of the world without distinction of flag, it seems to me it must inevitably follow that wherever a vessel may go, she may carry the flag of the nationality of which her owners are citizens, and that she is not bound to carry any other flag. Indeed, as a general rule, the display of the flags of two different nations on the same vessel renders her liable to suspiciou, and even puts in doubt her nationality. This principle is not in conflict with municipal laws requiring the display of quarantine flags, pilot ensigns, etc., which do not claim to be flags of nationality.

I regret that I am not able to concur with you on the question raised as to the right of your Government to determine upon the sufficiency of the papers on board of a vessel to establish its nationality.

There could be no better illustration of the danger of the exercise of such power by the authorities of one state over the vessels of another than that which is furnished in your own communication, to which I am now having the honor to respond.

You have therein kindly called my attention to section 226 of the Consular Regulations of the United States of 1874, as evidence that only vessels registered at a custom-house may carry the American flag.

It is quite natural for foreigners to fall into error in construing the meaning and effect of the local regulations of another country, because they can not be expected to be familiar with the history of such regulations, the circumstances which precede their adoption, or the purposes to be subserved in controlling or directing the agents of the Government.

Without entering into any explanation at length of the section of the Consular Regulations to which you have referred, I present to you at once the best evidence possible that you have misapprehended the section you have quoted, intended, as it was chiefly, to put a stop to the practice which had grown up with our consuls of issuing certificates of ownership to vessels-a practice clearly unauthorized by law.

That you have misapprehended its scope, you will readily see from the terms of sections 338 and 339, to be found in the Consular Regulations of the United States of 1881, at page 54.

The sections referred to read as follows:

"SEC. 338. The right of American citizens to acquire property in foreign ships has been held to be a natural right independent of statutory law, and such property is no more nor less entitled to protection by the United States than any other property of an American citizen.

"SEC. 339. The existing general regulations of the Treasury Department, under customs and navigations laws (Customs Regulations of 1874), recognize the right of property in vessels of this character, and declare them to be entitled to the protection of the authorities and to the flag of the United States, although no register, enrollment, license, or other marine document prescribed by the laws of the United States can lawfully be issued to such vessels, whether they are American or foreign built.

"The former practice of issuing sea-letters in the case of the purchase abroad of American or foreign vessels by citizens of the United States is no longer authorized and will not be permitted."

I have already explained, in my communication of the 9th ultimo, that American vessels may be either registered or unregistered.

A registered vessel is one which is built in the United States and wholly owned by citizens thereof. An unregistered vessel is one not built in the United States, but wholly owned by citizens thereof.

While registered vessels, with the view of encouraging ship-building, are entitled to certain privileges and exemptions not extended to unregistered vessels, both are nevertheless entitled to carry the American flag, and to claim the protection of the

The registration of vessels is a matter of local or municipal regulation, differing in different countries. I am not aware of any rule of international law which requires a ship to have a register, or any other document expressive of her national character.

She may plow through the sea and other free waters of the world without the possession of any such papers, and can not be lawfully disturbed, so long as she is engaged in peaceful pursuits and molests no one. The flag which she carries is the symbol of her nationality, and it is prima facie evidence to the world of the national character of her owners, just as a register, sea-letter, or other document is. True ownership of a vessel is a matter in pais, to be proved like any other fact. It may be shown by a bill of sale, the ordinary instrument used for the purpose of transferring property in a ship, or, in the absence of a bill of sale, it may be shown by parol testi-

On the other hand, as the national flag is prima facie evidence in free waters that the nationality of the ships carrying it corresponds to that of the flag, so, under well established principles of law, if a vessel is navigating under the flag of a foreign country she is to be considered as bearing the national character of the country under whose flag she sails. She marks a part of its navigation, and is in every respect liable to be considered as a vessel of the country.

Thus it is apparent under the rules of law that, if the decree of the 30th of April requiring vessels to hoist the flag of the Congo State is enforced, it invests the aurely of foreign vessels. thorities of the state with the power of making a prima facie transfer of foreign vessels, without the consent of the owners, to the marine of the Congo State. I am not able to find any warrant in the law for the exercise of such a power by the state.

While my Government watches with the deepest interest and sympathy the progress which is being steadily made by the royal and illustrious founder of the independent State of the Congo, in giving to that land the blessings of civilized government, and fully appreciates that the Government which he guides has the loftiest purposes in view, and fosters no aims which are not conceived with the intention of advancing the highest ends of good government, it yet esteems it a duty that it should not, by its silence, seem to assent to a proposal to inflict a fine on an American vessel which fails to hoist a foreign flag on waters which, without distinction, are free to the flags of the world.

I avail myself, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

No. 34.

Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 318.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES. Brussels, March 17, 1888. (Received April 2.)

'SIR: On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of last week subscriptions were received for an issue of one hundred thousand bonds of 100 francs each of the loan of the Independent State of the Congo. part of the sum of 150,000,000 of francs authorized to be borrowed by a recent royal decree, published in the last number of the Official Bulletin. The price fixed for the bonds was 83 francs each. They draw no regular interest, but each bond bears a number, and there will be six drawings annually. During the first period of eight years twenty four bonds will be annually drawn by lot, one of which brings a prize of 200,000 francs, and five others 150,000 francs each. The other eighteen yield from 1,000 to 5,000 francs. In the next period the prizes are of reduced value. A plan of redemption is also arranged, so regulated that all of the bonds are to be paid off at the end of a century. In the first year, for example, fifteen hundred bonds will be redeemed at 105 francs each; in the second, a certain number at 110 francs, adding each year 5 francs

The scheme seems to be a very clever one for the state, which, by the plan adopted, is enabled to borrow the money at something like 2 per cent. per annum. A portion of the money is invested as a sinking fund, and will be permitted to compound. In the mean time the state is put in possession of the ready cash it so much needs.

The result of the offerings of the first one hundred thousand bonds has been very flattering to the state. One hundred and eighteen thousand were subscribed for in three days, or eighteen thousand more than were offered for sale.

The secret of the success of the loan is undoubtedly largely due to its lottery feature, which presents the temptation of possibly gaining a

I presume that, now that the Congo Government has felt the public pulse as to the degree of cordiality with which its bonds would be welcomed, it will continue to launch other installments upon the market until the whole sum authorized to be borrowed shall have been taken up.

I have, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

No. 35.

Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Brussels, March 30, 1888. (Received April 9.) No. 321.]

SIR: Referring to your No. 97, of the 30th of January last, relative to the imitation by persons in Belgium of gold coins of the United States, and of postage-stamps and obligations of foreign governments and our own, I have the honor to transmit herewith the correspondence had with the Belgian minister of foreign affairs on the subject.

The question upon which information was asked of the Government, that is, as to whether the laws of Belgium prohibit the manufacture of the species of imitations described in the letter of the Secretary of the Treasury, it will be observed, is not directly answered in the note of the Prince de Chimay.

As far as I can learn from other sources, there is no law on the subject in Belgium. I submitted the question to Mr. Devolder, present minister of the interior and of public instruction and, until within a few months, minister of justice, on one occasion, when in conversation with him, and he told me that he knew of no law of the kind here, although he admitted that such a law ought to exist.

I will not fail to promptly transmit any further information which I may receive on the subject through the foreign office.

I have, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 321.]

Mr. Tree to the Prince de Chimay.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Brussels, February 14, 1888.

YOUR EXCELLENCY: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury to the Secretary of State, relative to the importation to the United States by certain persons resident in Germany and Belgium, of pieces to the United States by certain persons resident in Germany and Belgium, of pieces of metal, resembling closely in size, color, and partly in design, the several gold coins of the United States; also imitations of other coins, postage-stamps, and other obligations of foreign governments, as well as that of the United States, in full size and in miniature, and of the exact appearance of genuine issues.

It appears from the letter of the Secretary of the Treasury that the importation of these imitations of coin, postage-stamps, obligations, and other representatives of valuable things has led to great abuses, and especially that many ignorant persons are thereby defrauded.

In the United States the fabrication of such articles by persons resident therein would be adjudged illegal.

I would be greatly obliged if your excellency would kindly inform me whether the laws of Belgium prohibit the manufacture of the articles described in the letter of the Secretary of the Treasury, in order that I may acquaint my Government with the state of the law here.

Thanking your excellency in advance, I equally avail myself, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 321. Translation.]

The Prince de Chimay to Mr. Tree. .

MINISTRY OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS, Brussels, March 29, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: I have the honor to acknowledge the reception of your dispatch of the 14th of February last, relative to the counterfeiting of postage-stamps, bankbills, and American moneys.

The question has been brought to the attention of the competent authorities in Belgium, and I will not fail to keep you advised of any facts which may be stated by the said authorities.

Accept, Mr. Minister, etc.

LE PRINCE DE CHIMAY.

No. 36.

Mr. Lambert Tree to Mr. Bayard.

No. 331.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Brussels, May 11, 1888. (Received May 21.)

SIR: Again referring to your No. 97, of the 30th of January last, relative to the imitation by persons in Belgium of gold coins of the United States and of postage stamps, etc., I have the honor to transmit herewith a copy of a projet of law presented by the Government here to the Chamber of Representatives, and also the exposé des motifs * accompanying it, which is signed by the minister of justice.

It appears to be true, as I surmised in my No. 321, that no law at present exists on the subject, and the projet now offered in the Chamber is intended to cure omissions in legislation and to remedy the evils of which the Secretary of the Treasury complains in his letter to you of the 21st of January last, a copy of which was inclosed in your number 97.

The proposed Belgian law seems to prohibit most of the imitations to which attention has been directed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

I am not aware of any opposition in Parliament to the passage of such a law, and think it altogether probable that the projet herewith inclosed will be adopted without modification.

It is barely possible that it may not be reached at this session, which will terminate about the 15th of this month. If not, there is no doubt that it will be next winter. If it becomes a law at this session I will not fail to advise you of the fact.

I have, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

No. 37.

Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard.

No. 359.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES. Brussels, June 30, 1888. (Received July 16.)

SIR: As the money coined and put in circulation by a new state has, perhaps, a certain interest, I have ventured to send you to-day by post, under a separate cover, specimens of the first moneys ever coined by the Independent State of the Congo.

The package contains specimens of pieces of a half franc, and of 1, 2, and 5 francs in silver, and of 1, 2, 5, and 10 centimes in copper. No gold pieces have been coined as yet.

I have, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

No. 38.

Mr. Tree to Mr. Bayard.

No. 387.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Brussels, September 25, 1888. (Received October 8.)

SIR: I received yesterday a letter from the Belgian minister of foreign affairs, informing me that the King would receive me at the palace of Brussels to day at 11 o'clock.

At the hour named the court carriages were sent to the legation and I was called upon by Major General, the Count Van der Straten-Ponthos, an aid-de camp of the King, who accompanied me to the palace. I was immediately received by the King.

As I have heretofore explained in my dispatch reporting my audience with the King at the time of presenting my letter of credence as minister resident, the usage does not prevail here as at other courts of making a formal address on such occasions, but I thought it was a proper moment to say something to His Majesty on the delivery of the letter of the President, accrediting a representative of a higher rank to Belgium from the United States, which had maintained a mission at Brussels almost ever since the birth of the Kingdom, in fact, with one or two exceptions, the most venerable mission to the court. I therefore said to the King, that Congress having raised the rank of the diplomatic representative of the Government of the United States near His Majesty to that of envoy, the President had done me the distinguished honor to accredit me in the new quality. That it was scarcely necessary for me to assure His Majesty that while I remained in charge of the mission it would be my duty as it would also be my great pleasure hereafter, as in the past, to cultivate and strengthen to the utmost of my power the friendly relations which have always subsisted between Belgium and the United States. That I could not refrain from referring to the fact that it had been more than fifty-six years since the establishment of the mission by my Government which I now had the honor to be intrusted with near His Majesty, and that I believed that neither the archives of His Majesty's Government nor those of the American legation here would show a single circumstance to have occurred tending to mar the flow of friendly feeling between the two countries. That, on the other hand, much had taken place upon which the mind might dwell with great satisfaction. The vastly increased commerce between the countries, the establishment of steam-ship lines connecting the ports of New York and Philadelphia with the port of Antwerp, and that great act the freedom of the navigation of the Scheldt, were among the prominent events which mark the period covered since 1832, when the United States first sent a diplomatic representative to reside near this court. That in delivering to His Majesty the letter accrediting me in the character of envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary near His Majesty, I dared to express the hope and belief that the commercial and friendly relations between the two countries would continue to grow in strength to the mutual benefit of both nations.

The King in reply expressed his great pleasure that Congress had raised the mission of the United States to Belgium to the higher rank of envoy; that what I had said with reference to the relations between the two countries for nearly sixty years was quite true, and he hoped the same thing could be said of them to the remotest future. He spoke in exalted terms of the United States, and said he hoped some day to make them a visit, where there was so much to be seen to expand the views of Europeans. He was also pleased to say some very kind things to me personally.

After he had finished his formal reply, he detained me for nearly a half hour in conversation, and, I thought, endeavored to show me in every way his gratification that the grade of the mission of the United States at Brussels had been raised.

At the issue of the audience I was reconducted to my residence with the same ceremony, accompanied by the aid-de-camp of the King. I should not omit to mention that the King came to Prussels, only

I should not omit to mention that the King came to Brussels only last evening, from Ostend, where he has been staying for some time.

I have, etc.,

LAMBERT TREE.

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF BELGIUM AT WASHINGTON.

No. 39.

Count d'Arschot to Mr. Bayard.

[Translation.]

LEGATION OF BELGIUM, Washington, July 12, 1887. (Received July 14.)

Mr. Secretary of State: I have the honor to bring to the knowledge of your excellency that a great international exhibition of sciences and industry will open at Brussels next year in the month of May.

As the result of private effort this enterprise has obtained the high patronage of the royal government and of the city of Brussels. The object of the committee of organization is to direct the spirit of investigation and perfection in the search for means which will lead directly to better and cheaper production.

Your excellency will find inclosed a copy of the general regulations, and I venture to hope that you will give to this enterprise the aid of your distinguished patronage in having it made known through the press.

I avail myself, etc.,

No. 40.

Mr. Bayard to Count d'Arschot.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, July 29, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 12th instant, in which you notify this Department that an international exhibition will be held at Brussels next year. As the undertaking is one of interest to the American people, publicity has been given to it through the public press.

It is observed by section 8 of article 1 of the general regulations that foreign commissioners are contemplated to take part in the installation of the exhibition. A commission on behalf of this country could only be appointed in virtue of provision made therefor by Congress, which, however, can not have the matter brought before it except upon a formal invitation by the Government of Belgium to the Government of the United States to participate in the same manner as in other great international exhibitions held abroad during the past thirty years.

I have the honor to inquire, therefore, whether it is the purpose of the Belgian Government to extend such an invitation. If so, the President will take pleasure in bringing it to the attention of Congress at its next session, with a recommendation for its acceptance.

Accept, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 41.

Mr. de Bounder de Melsbroeck to Mr. Bayard.

[Translation.]

LEGATION OF BELGIUM, Washington, February 3, 1888. (Received February 4.)

Mr. Secretary of State: I hastened to communicate to my Government the note which your excellency was good enough to address to Count d'Arschot under date of 29th July last.

The Belgian Government having since then taken a more active and efficient interest in the success of the international exhibition which is to be opened at Brussels next May, has charged me to officially invite the United States to take part in this great competition, and hopes that the Government of the United States of America will consent by its moral and financial support to aid the country in occupying at that exhibition a position worthy of the marvelous progress which it has realized in the economic world.

I consider it my duty to inform your excellency that the executive committee of the American exhibitors, which is already formed at New York, has designated as its delegate the Hon. John Bigelow, formerly Minister of the United States at Paris.

I avail myself, etc.,

TH. DE BOUNDER DE MELSBROECK.

No. 42.

Mr. de Bounder de Melsbroeck to Mr. Bayard.

[Translation.]

LEGATION OF BELGIUM, Washington, February 29, 1888. (Received March 1.)

Mr. Secretary of State: Belgian manufacturers occasionally send agents to foreign countries for the purpose of peddling linen, woolen, cotton, and other new goods, which they take with them.

Desiring to furnish suitable information to the interested parties who apply to the department of foreign affairs, I have the honor to have recourse to your excellency's good offices, begging you to be pleased to acquaint me with the laws and regulations which are in force in the United States on the subject of peddling.

I avail myself, etc.,

TH. DE BOUNDER DE MELSBROECK.

No. 43.

Mr. de Bounder de Melsbroeck to Mr. Bayard.

[Translation.]

LEGATION OF BELGIUM, Washington, February 29, 1888. (Received March 1.)

Mr. Secretary of State: The King of the Belgians has offered an annual prize of 25,000 francs, the object of which is to encourage intellectual effort, and I have the honor to transmit to your excellency the inclosed notice, which summarizes the conditions on which the prize for 1893 will be awarded. The award will be made to the best work on the means of procuring, in abundance and at small cost, the best quality of potable water for large cities, especially for Brussels and its suburbs.

As citizens of the United States are invited to compete for this prize, I take the liberty to beg your excellency to cause this matter to be widely made known.

I avail myself, etc.,

TH. DE BOUNDER DE MELSBROECK.

[Inclosure.]

Notice.

By an order bearing date of December 14, 1874, His Majesty the King of the Belgians offered an annual prize of 25,000 francs, which was designed to encourage intellectual effort.

The prize for 1893 will be open to international competition and will be awarded to the best work on the means of procuring, in abundance and at small cost, the best quality of potable water for large cities, especially for Brussels and its suburbs, regard being had to the future increase of population.

Both manuscript and printed works will be received,

New editions of printed works can not be received unless they contain considerable changes and additions and have appeared, like the other works, during one of the years 1889, 1890, 1891, or 1892.

Works may be written in one of the following languages: French, Flemish, English, German, Italian, and Spanish.

Foreigners desiring to compete for the prize must send their works, either printed or in manuscript, before January 1, 1893, to the ministry of agriculture, industry, and public works, at Brussels.

If a work in manuscript obtains the prize it is to be published in the course of the year following that in which the prize shall have been awarded.

The award will be made by a jury appointed by His Majesty the King of the Belgians. The said jury will be composed of seven members, three of whom will be Belgians and four foreigners of different nationalities.

No. 44.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. de Bounder de Melsbroeck.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, March 5, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 29th ultimo, whereby you inform me that in view of the circumstance that Belgian manufacturers occasionally send agents to foreign countries for the purpose of peddling (colportant) linen, woolen, cotton, and other goods which they take with them, your Government desires to furnish suitable information to the interested parties who may make inquiry of the department of foreign relations, and request my assistance in acquainting you with the laws and regulations in force in the United States on the subject of peddling (colportage de marchandises).

In reply I have the honor to state that I do not quite understand whether your inquiry relates to the actual sale of the wares peddled from place to place, or to the operations of commercial salesmen who travel about with samples of goods which they exhibit and take corresponding orders for consignments thereof, to be afterwards delivered.

The laws regulating these two classes, peddlers and commercial travelers (the latter being commonly called drummers), are prescribed by the legislation of the several States. They vary widely in different States, and in each the two classes are subject to different treatment. Discriminations as to license fees, etc., are not infrequently made between commercial travelers representing houses doing business in the State and those who solicit orders on behalf of houses in other States of the Union or in foreign countries. These laws are continually undergoing alterations, and, as they sometimes affect the commercial intercourse of the States among themselves, are occasionally brought into question before the Federal tribunals.

Under these circumstances it would not be practicable for this Department to furnish the Government of Belgium with authoritative information covering the wide range of your inquiry. If, however, you will present it in a more limited form, stating the class of commercial colportage to which it relates and the States whose legislation it is desired to know, I will cheerfully endeavor to obtain further information on the subject.

Accept, etc.,

No. 45.

Mr. de Bounder de Melsbroeck to Mr. Bayard.

[Translation.]

LEGATION OF BELGIUM, Washington, March 27, 1888. (Received March 30.)

Mr. Secretary of State: My Government, being engaged in an examination and revision of its laws respecting naturalization, asks me for the text of a circular issued as far back as the year 1856 or 1857, whereby one of the honorable predecessors of your excellency in the Department of State announces to foreign Governments that "every child born upon the soil of the United States of America of alien parents, whether they be naturalized or not, is by the fact of his birth to be deemed naturalized, and can therefore claim the quality of a citizen of the United States."

My Government desires also to know if the legal decision embraced in such circular is still in force.

I should be very grateful if your excellency would have the great kindness to furnish me with this document and give me the information desired.

Thanking your excellency in advance, I embrace, etc.,
TH. DE BOUNDER DE MELSBROECK.

No. 46.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. de Bounder de Melsbroeck.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, April 2, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 27th ultimo, in which you request the text of a circular supposed by you to have been issued by a former Secretary of State to the effect that "every child born upon the soil of the United States of America of alien parents, whether naturalized, or not, is by the fact of his birth to be deemed naturalized and can therefore claim the quality of a citizen of the United States," and further request to be informed whether the doctrine so enunciated is still in force.

A very careful examination of the records of the Department fails to disclose any circular answering to the description you give.

The existing provisions of law on the subject are found-

(a) In section 1 of the act of Congress of April 9, 1866 (now section 1992 of the Revised Statutes), which provides that—

All persons born in the United States and not subject to any foreign power, excluding Indians not taxed, are declared to be citizens of the United States.

(b) In section I of the XIVth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, proposed to the States June 16, 1866, and promulgated July 21, 1868, it is provided that—

All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside.

I find the following statement in an instruction of Mr. Marcy, then Secretary of State, to Mr. Mason, our minister to France, dated June 6, 1854:

In reply to the inquiry which is made by you in the same letter, whether "the children of foreign parents born in the United States, but brought to the country to which the father is a subject and continuing to reside within the jurisdiction of their father's country, are entitled to protection as citizens of the United States," I have to observe that it is presumed that, according to the common law, any person born in the United States, unless he be born in one of the foreign legations therein, may be considered a citizen thereof until he formally renounces his citizenship. There is not, however, any United States statute containing a provision upon this subject, nor, so far as I am aware, has there been any judicial decision in regard to it.

The Attorney-General of the United States on 18th of July, 1859, gave it as his opinion that "a free white person born in this country of foreign parents is a citizen of the United States." (Op. Attorney-General, IX, 373.)

Constitutional provisions or statutes in this relation subsequent to these dicta will of course control; and questions arising thereunder must be considered upon the facts presented in actual cases in which a ruling becomes necessary, giving due heed to the general principle that the right of election of citizenship commonly pertains to the individual himself on becoming sui juris.

Accept, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 47.

Mr. de Bounder de Melsbroeck to Mr. Bayard.

[Translation.]

LEGATION OF BELGIUM, Washington, June 30, 1888. (Received June 30.)

Mr. Secretary of State: Since the last general census of the population of Belgium, which was made on the 31st day of December, 1880, various foreign governments have expressed a desire to be furnished with a list of such of their citizens or subjects (nationaux) as were residents of Belgium at that time. According to the law of May 25, 1880, a census of the population of the kingdom is to be taken every ten years, in such a way that ten censuses shall be taken during each century of the Christian era. The date of the next census will consequently be December 31, 1890. My Government thinks that it might be well in the interest of families and of certain executive departments for arrangements to be made between Belgium and those States which take a census of their population periodically, providing for an exchange of those of their census reports which relate to natives of their respective countries. The result of such an exchange would be, mainly, the facilitation, to a great extent, of the numerous inquiries which are daily made, both by private individuals and public authorities, concerning the fate of absent persons; it would, moreover, aid in the execution of the laws which govern the military service, in the preparation of statistics with regard to the population de jure, and in the making of the long searches which are so frequently rendered necessary by marriages, the division of estates, the collection of taxes, etc.

I am instructed to inquire of your excellency whether the United States Government feels disposed to conclude a convention to governin future, the exchange in question. Your excellency will find here.

with inclosed two of the cards which were used in collecting information concerning each person entered in the census of Belgium, of December 31, 1880. The place of birth was to be stated therein, and not the nationality. The Government of the King can not now say positively whether any change will be made in the text of these cards for the census of 1890, especially as regards mention of the nationality of the persons entered. It would consequently be glad to know whether the United States census reports mention the nationality as well as the birthplace of those entered.

I avail myself, etc.

TH. DE BOUNDER DE MELSBROECK.

No. 48.

Mr. de Bounder de Melsbroeck to Mr. Bayard.

[Translation.]

LEGATION OF BELGIUM, Washington, August 29, 1888. (Received August 30.)

Mr. Secretary of State: I hastened immediately to announce to my Government that, at the suggestion of your excellency, Congress had decided to raise to the rank of envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary the representative of the United States in Belgium, and that the nomination of Mr. Lambert Tree, for this latter title, had been submitted for the approval of the Senate.

The Government of the King instructs me to express to your excellency the satisfaction it has experienced at the advancement in rank of the mission of the United States to Belgium, and the Prince de Chimay adds: "Mr. Lambert Tree during his residence here has won universal good will; thus his promotion will be particularly well received."

I congratulate myself upon being the interpreter of these sentiments, and I have, etc.,

TH. DE BOUNDER DE MELSBROECK.

No. 49.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. de Bounder de Melsbroeck.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
Washington, August 31, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 29th instant in which you convey an expression of the satisfaction with which your Government has received information of the advancement in rank of the mission of the United States at Brussels, as well as of the promotion of Mr. Tree, the minister.

The President is much gratified by the contents of your note, and it has afforded the Department sincere pleasure to receive the kind message of the Prince of Chimay, so complimentary to our minister at Brussels.

Accept, etc,

BOLIVIA.

No. 50.

Mr. Carlisle to Mr. Bayard.

No. 36.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, La Paz, Bolivia, September 10, 1888. (Received October 15.)

SIR: I have the honor to advise that the national congress of Bolivia in ordinary annual session met in Sucre and perfected its organization on the 6th of August last.

The returns of the election held on the 13th, 14th, 15th, and 16th of May, for president and vice-presidents of the Republic, for the constitutional period of four years, were then canvassed and verified by that body on the 13th of August, as follows:

For president: Anicito Arce, 25,396 votes; Eliodora Camacho, 7,183 votes; scattering, 1,839 votes; total, 34,418 votes.

For first vice-president: José Manuel del Carpio, 21,537 votes; Belisario Salinas, 6,353 votes; Julio Mendez, 998 votes; Antonio Moreno, 657 votes; scattering, 4,873 votes.

For second vice-president: Serapio Réyes Ortiz, 21,995 votes; Demetrio Calbimonte, 6,260 votes; scattering, 6,163 votes.

And in conformity thereto a congressional decree was issued same day proclaiming as elected president, Aniceto Arce; first vice-president, José Manuel del Carpio; second vice-president, Serapio Réyes Ortiz, and fixing the 15th of August for the ceremonial of investiture.

The ceremony took place on that day, and the President elect pronounced before congress, on receiving the insignia of office, a discourse, which I inclose herewith in newspaper copy, with translation.

The first executive decree, issued August 15, continued the members of the cabinet in their respective offices for the time being.

I may be permitted to add that the present administration begins its functions in the light of abundant promise. The revolutionary party, in the overwhelming defeat of Camacho, is broken up and the country, under the capable and firm guidance of its present executive, is about entering upon an era of profound peace and prosperity.

I am, etc.,

S. S. CARLISLE.

[Inclosure in No. 36.—Translation.]

Discourse pronounced by Dr. Aniceto Arce on receiving the insignia of supreme power.

Mr. President, Honorable Representatives of the Nation:

Agreeably to constitutional mandate you have completed the work of investing me with the insignia of the supreme power to which the suffrage of my countrymen has elevated me; and in accepting it I appreciate the sacred obligations which the solemn oath I have just taken imposes upon me, in the presence of the God of our country, that He may favor my sincere designs, and before the worthy representatives of the nation, to the end that by their well-directed acts and abilities they may unitedly further the patriotic purposes of the Government which you have inaugurated. accomplish and make good the law is the synthesis of the responsibility of the mandatory, and the moral force of the nation increases when these duties are performed on the part of the authorities and of the people.

Invested with the insignia of head of the nation, I cease to be a party leader, and burying in the pit of oblivion the incidents natural and logical in the election contests of a democratic people, I invoke the support of all those citizens, lovers of their native land, to the end that they may assist me to build up the prosperity of the

Thus the preservation of public order as a source of the general good should be the work of those who were before of opposite political parties, and you, legislators, could peacefully provide for the necessities of the different means of public administration, and the Government execute your mandate with decision and patriotism.

With an earnest, constant desire I shall maintain the pleasant relations which now bind us to all the nations, and those especially ought to be fraternal which we should observe toward the neighbors which surround us.

The questions should be discussed in peaceful harmony and their determination placed upon the ground of strict justice.

Honorable senators and deputies, allow me, in this moment of a sacred and patriotic effusion of my soul, to render homage of gratitude to the illustrious mandatory who has just delivered the authority, full of glory, for having wisely preserved the public order without any interruption during his period of office, transmitting the power which the representatives of the people had intrusted to him in the midst of the peace which we now enjoy; glory and honor for having guarded the exercise of the public liberties, making them presents a specially the guest precious of these liberties, the liberties, making them practical, especially the most precious of these liberties, the liberty of the press, even in its surprising and grievous misguidance. High honor it is for him to leave to the nation an army, moral and disciplined, meritorious defender of his native land, worthy supporter of republican institutions.

Honorable representatives, from your august presence I speak also to the people whom you represent; and in promising upon oath the performance of my arduous duties before you, I do so with the same entireness before them, in order that my course of action, so many times disclosed, may be faithfully carried out.

I pray that God and the representatives of the nation will aid me in this great work. ANICETO ARCE.

Sucre, August 15, 1888.

No. 51.

Mr. Carlisle to Mr. Bayard.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES. No. 41.] La Paz, Bolivia, October 6, 1888. (Received November 14.)

SIR: I have the honor to report that the military mutiny begun at Sucre on the 8th of September last has led to graver events.

After two days of unrestrained and brutal license on the part of the soldiers, during which they killed 137 innocent, defenseless persons and wounded 60 more, committing besides every excess known to crime, and sparing neither age, condition, or sex, a leader appeared upon the scene in the person of Belisario Salinas, who proclaimed himself "Superior, political, and military chief of the South," and set up a provisional government with subordinates of his choice.

President Arce, who had fled from Sucre the night of the 8th, arrived on the 14th at Cochabamba, where he was received with every demonstration of loyalty.

He at once proclaimed the country in a state of siege, appealed to the patriotism of the people, and ordered the arrest of all persons suspected of complicity with the insurrectionary movement.

Under this order General Camacho and his suspected friends residing here were arrested on the night of the 19th and after a short imprisonment were taken to Huanchaca for safer keeping. The three battalions of the South, so far as any organization is left, are insurgent. The Army of the North, composed of three battalions of 500 men each, a squadron of cavalry of 250 men, and a select body of infantry from La Paz of 250 men, is apparently loyal and has been promptly concentrated at Oruro for a forward movement.

53

President Arce left Oruro September 30 with 1,200 men for Potosi, leaving the remainder of the army to follow in strategic movement upon Sucre. In the meantime a "junta" formed by the cabinet ministers Velarde and Ichaso and the prefect of Potosi had gathered together at that place a rude and undisciplined force of about 1,100 men. This body of men was advanced September 28 towards Sucre to repel the insurrectionary troops said to have been marched out from that place under Salinas to take Potosi and deliver battle to the Army of the North.

There is a grave misgiving in the public mind that when the forces meet, Arce's command, though numerically much stronger than that of the insurgents, may be greatly weakened by defection, and that the large proportion of the rank and file may affiliate with, instead of fighting, the enemy. This was the case with the Chorolque Battalion, stationed at Totala, 3 leagues from Sucre, which, on being marched to the city to re-establish order, was met by the insurgents in the out skirts and almost immediately absorbed by them, the disgusted officers of the battalion and a remnant of faithful soldiers retreating upon Potosi.

Events of a decisive character are daily looked for, and I trust to be able in a very short time to advise that legitimate order has been restored.

I am, etc.,

S. S. CARLISLE.

No. 52.

Mr. Carlisle to Mr. Bayard.

No. 44.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, La Paz, Bolivia, October 22, 1888. (Received November 26.)

SIR: I have the honor, referring to my despatch No. 41, to report that the military insurrection at Sucre has been suppressed and civil order completely restored.

President Arce, with the troops from Oruro, arrived at Potosi on the evening of the 6th instant, and after re-enforcing his army to 2,500 men, marched out from Potosi on the morning of the 8th and late in the afternoon encountered the insurgents, 800 strong and well posted on the heights of Karikari with eight Krupp guns. He at once attacked them and with the few remaining hours of daylight gained a decided advantage. The next day they retreated to Chaqui, a few miles south of their original position, and there dispersed, the same afternoon abandoning their cannon and other material of war and taking precipitate flight in the direction of the Argentine frontier.

Their courage in marching almost to the gates of Potosi to meet the constitutional army is explained by the fact that the road from Karikari afforded them the only safe line of retreat out of the country in event of disaster.

The loss on either side was insignificant.

This mutiny never had the sympathy or support of the people, but from the beginning to the end was the work of a brutal and cowardly body of soldiers, instigated by a few degraded and dismissed officers of the line. This is shown especially in the conduct of the citizens of Sucre, who, as soon as the insurgents had marched out towards Potosi, began the re-establishment of order and took effective measures for the defense of the city against their return.

The President, after the engagement, returned to Potosi, whence, on the 14th instant, he directed an official proclamation re-assembling the national congress at Sucre on the 1st of November next.

There is some disaffection in the North, caused by retention of the seat of the government and the sessions of congress at Sucre, but it is generally believed that it will soon be quieted under the President's conciliatory assurance and conduct.

I am, sir, etc.,

S. S. CARLISLE.

No. 53.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Carlisle.

No. 27.1

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, November 30, 1888.

SIR: I have received your No. 44 of October 22 last, in which you report the final suppression of the military mutiny at Sucre and the complete restoration of civil order.

The Department receives this information with satisfaction, and confidently hopes that the restoration of domestic peace will prove auspicious of an era of prosperity and advancement for Bolivia under the benign influence of a stable constitutional government.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

BRAZIL.

No. 54.

Mr. Jarvis to Mr. Bayard.

No. 112.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Rio de Janeiro, October 26, 1887. (Received November 21.)

SIR: In reply to your No. 70, of the 5th of September, 1887, I have to report that the agent of the Pedro Segundo Telegraph and Cable Company, Dr. Orville A. Derby, made a formal application to the Imperial Government for an extension of one year in which to complete and open the proposed line. I also addressed a note to the minister for foreign affairs calling his attention to the matter, and asking his kind offices in giving the company the time requested. An extension of six months was promptly given, and, upon representations made to the Government as to the necessity of still further time, the minister for foreign affairs has addressed me a note giving an assurance of another six months for completion if the company shows that its failure to complete the work within the present extension was no fault of the company. I inclose you a copy and translation of this note; and I beg to express the earnest hope that the company will go forward with the actual construction and submersion of the cable. If so, I think I can safely say the Government of Brazil will be liberal with the company as to future necessary extensions.

I have, etc.,

THOS. J. JARVIS.

[Inclosure in No. 112.—Translation.]

Mr. de Cotegipe to Mr. Jarvis.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS, Rio de Janeiro, 24th of October, 1887.

In addition to my note of the 16th of September last, I have the honor to inform Mr. T. J. Jarvis, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States of America, that the department of agriculture, commerce, and public works has just stated to me that, by decree No. 9872 of the 17th of last month, there was extended for six months more the term prescribed to the Pedro the Second American Telegraph and Cable Company for the submersion of the submarine cable, and that there can be granted only six additional months for the completion of the works, if the company shows that it has not been able to complete them within the term now granted on account of main force.

I take the opportunity, etc.,

B. DE COTEGIPE.

No. 55.

Mr. Jarvis to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 114.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,

Rio de Janerio, November 10, 1887. (Received December 13.)

SIR: Supposing that you will receive the news with interest and pleasure, I write to inform you of the better and more peaceful relations between Brazil and the Argentine Republic.

55

It has been for some years an open secret that, while the diplomatic relations between the two countries were pleasant enough, there was, in fact, existing a spirit of jealousy and ill-feeling that was liable to serious results. One cause of irritation and apprehension was a question of boundary between the remoter sections of the two countries. Happily that question has been substantially adjusted by a mixed commission.

Another question that was a great source of vexation and complaint was the difficult matter of quarantine. It was charged that the Argentine authorities quarantined ships coming from Rio de Janeiro in the yellow-fever season upon a mere pretext, and often when there was in fact no necessity for it; and that this pretext was often made use of to inflict injury upon Brazilian commerce and interests. On the other hand, it was charged that the Brazilian authorities quarantined ships coming from the River Plate in the cholera season from like motives, and that the quarantine had been kept up long after the danger had ceased, when it was justified in the beginning. These charges and counter charges, whether groundless or not, irritated the public mind and threatened the presperity and peace of the two countries. In the first half of this year a considerable injury was inflicted upon one of the great interests of the Argentine and Uruguay Republics by the prolonged prohibition of the importation of dried beef (carne secca) from the River Plate into Brazil; and the press and people of those countries gave out violent declarations against the Brazilian authorities. Of course I express no opinion as to the justification in the one case or the other; but I am happy to inform you that the three countries have come to a better understanding on this vexed question.

For two months or more negotiations have been going on between representatives of Brazil, the Argentine Republic, and the Uruguay Republic, in this city, looking to the execution of a sanitary convention between these three countries, which will hereafter regulate all these perplexing questions. The treaty has not yet been signed, but I am informed that there is a general agreement among the representatives of the three powers, and that it will be executed at no distant day.

While I have never officiously obtruded my opinions or suggestions upon any one, I have not failed to avail myself of all opportune occasions to suggest a peaceful adjustment of all conflicting questions among these South American countries. These countries have great resources, and with peace at home and abroad, and with good government, they have a future of great prosperity before them. I do not mean to intimate that my opinions or suggestions have had any influence, and I only refer to the matter that you may be informed of my general course of conduct and intercourse among those with whom I come in contact.

I have, etc.,

THOS. J. JARVIS.

No. 56.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Jarvis.

No. 78.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington February 10, 1888.

SIR: I inclose for your information copy of a letter from Mr. Stephen W. Hill, of Espy, Pa., concerning a reported effort to encourage emigration of colored people from the Southern States to Brazil.

57

The Department has no knowledge whatever touching the foundation of the present report, but, in view of the unfortunate results attending the emigration of citizens of some of the Southern States to Brazil in 1865, and of a number of laborers who left the United States about 1878, to work on the Madeira and Marmore Railroad, I should be pained to suppose there was any probability of the recurrence of similar failures.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure in No. 78.]

Mr. Hill to Mr. Bayard.

ESPY, COLUMBIA COUNTY, PA., January 31, 1888.

DEAR SIR: I beg leave to call your attention to the rumor that is going the rounds of the press that there is a scheme on foot, said to have originated at Topeka, Kans., for starting a great emigration of colored people from the Southern States to South America. I beg leave to ask, as a favor to my race, if the State Department has any knowledge of such an enterprise. And if so, whether the proposed emigrants are going in good faith to become subjects of the Emperor of Brazil, or under contract to labor under such terms as will reduce them to involuntary servitude, and if so, will you use your influence as Minister of State, so far as may be compatible with international law and the right of expatriation, to prevent any outrage being perpetrated on ignorant people. So far as the statement goes to set forth probability of their being sold into slavery, I have no apprehension for the reason that President Cleveland's administration would not tolerate such a scheme for a moment, as it has endeavored at all times to administer the Government upon purely democratic principles; that is, to procure the blessing of liberty and to promote the general welfare of all, and such a thing would be at variance with the progressive ideas of the Emperor Don Pedro; but whilst this is true, I am aware of the many schemes resorted to to violate laws in relation to contract labor, and to bring persons to this country to take the place of American workmen.

Yours, etc.,

STEPHEN W. HILL.

No. 57.

Mr. Jarvis to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 122.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Petropolis, March 12, 1888. (Received April 12.)

SIR: I have to inform you of the fall of the Cotegipe ministry, which has been in power since August 20, 1885, and of the appointment of a new ministry. The immediate cause of the fall of the ministry was a conflict between the navy and the Government; but to understand this fully it will be necessary to refer briefly to other facts leading up to it.

The ministry had been weakened in the confidence of the public by their attitude on the slavery question. Almost immediately after they came into office a law was passed, known as the Cotegipe-Saraiva law, providing for the gradual extinction of slavery. This law was a compromise between the conflicting opinions, and it was generally accepted at the time as the end of legislation on that subject; but it is alleged that in the execution of the law the Government adopted a dilatory policy, and construed every doubtful question against the slave and in favor of the slave-owner. The action of the Government in thus neutralizing the law re-opened the whole question, but the Government was strong enough in the popular branch of the general assembly to sustain itself on all points. Public sentiment proved to be far in advance of the Government, and the people commenced organizing outside of the law for the more speedy emancipation of the negroes. In the last few months the movement has received a wonderful impetus, and it is now led by some of the largest slave-owners, and by some who a year ago were among the strongest supporters of the Cotegipe government.

The course of the Government on this question has subjected it to many attacks, which, aided by the desertion of some of its strongest adherents, have gradually deprived it of the support of the country. But another and a still more serious trouble (because it may repeat itself) was what is known here as the military question. Some six or eight months ago an army officer published articles in the newspapers defending certain acts of army officers, and criticising certain Govern-The minister of war reprimanded the officer, who in ment officers. turn was supported by his fellow-officers; and finally the minister put some of the officers under arrest for insubordination. Army officers then commenced holding meetings and passing resolutions to such an extent that the matter was taken up by the general assembly, which was then in session, and the Government was interrogated as to its intentions. The ministry announced their purpose to compel the army to submit to proper discipline and to subordination to the civil authorities. army was not without friends and supporters in parliament, and the questions at issue excited a good deal of feeling in and out of the general assembly.

The discussion and excitement went on day after day till finally it was adjusted by the passage of a compromise resolution by the senate, which was something of a victory for the army, but which the ministry accepted as a means of settling what threatened to be a dangerous difficulty. I have referred to this occurrence because I think its influence can be seen in the events of last week, which were the direct occasion of the fall of the ministry. One night in the early part of last week an officer of the navy in citizen's dress was arrested by the police on the street in Rio for disorderly conduct, and was imprisoned for several hours.

When his fellow-officers heard of it they became very indignant at what they termed an outrage upon the dignity and rights of the navy. They held meetings, appointed committees, and demanded the dismissal of the chief of police and the punishment of the chief offending persons. The ministry was not disposed to yield to these demands, and conflicts followed between the police and squads of marines on the streets to such an extent that persons were wounded and property was destroyed. The disorder and the insecurity of life and property became so serious that it was found necessary to withdraw the police from the streets and to substitute for them a regiment or more of soldiers. Under these circumstances the ministry tendered their resignations in a body, and they were promptly accepted.

A new ministry has just been announced, composed as follows: President of the council and minister of finance, João Alfredo Correa de Oliveira; minister of the Empire, José Fernandes da Costa Pereiro, jr; minister of justice, Dr. Antonio Ferreira Vianna; minister of foreign affairs, Antonio da Silva Prado; minister of the navy, Luiz Antonio Vieira da Silva; minister of war, Thomaz José Coelho de Almeida; minister of agriculture, Rodrigo Augusto da Silva.

59

The ministry belongs to the same party (the Conservative) as the Cotegipe ministry, but its members are understood to be much more progressive, and on the slavery question they are said to be in favor of speedy action. I think it may therefore be concluded that the extinction of slavery in Brazil is near at hand, and it is probable that at the coming session of the general assembly, which will begin on the 3d of May next, a strong movement will be initiated to hasten that end.

BRAZIL.

I have, etc.,

THOS. J. JARVIS.

No. 58.

Mr. Jarvis to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 123.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Petropolis, March 27, 1888. (Received April 28.)

SIR: In reply to your No. 78, dated February 10, 1888, I beg to state that I have no information of any organized plan, or of any special desire, in any part of Brazil, to induce the negroes of the Southern States to emigrate to Brazil. There are, in many provinces of Brazil, organized immigration societies, which are taking very active measures to attract immigrants to these provinces, and to locate them there; but their efforts, as far as I am informed, look alone to Europe.

If any person has visited Brazil, in the interest of the alleged movement, the fact is unknown to me, and also to the editor of the Rio News, a newspaper published in Rio de Janeiro by an American from the State of New York, and who takes an interest in everything concerning his native country. I inclose you copies of his paper of the 5th and 24th of March, 1888, in which he points out the improbability that any such agent ever came to Brazil, and the probable evil consequences that would result from any such movement.

I will make it my business diligently to inquire into the matter, and if I find anything of interest I will make a more extended report.

I am, sir,

THOS. J. JARVIS.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 123.—From the Rio Daily News, Rio de Janeiro, March 5, 1888.]

A dangerous scheme.

The New York Herald of January 20 contains the following telegraphic dispatch from Kansas City, Mo., dated January 19, in regard to a scheme of colonizing African laborers in South and Central America:

"A movement affecting many States and hundreds of thousands of people has been

"A movement affecting many States and hundreds of thousands of people has been inaugurated in this city and now assumes definite shape. What the political consequences will be no one can tell. The headquarters of the new movement are in Topeka, Kans. The work to be done will be in the Southern States.

"Several well-known colored men of means met three years ago to consult as to the best method of relieving their people from the condition that prevailed in the extreme Southern States, especially in Louisiana, Mississippi, and South Carolina. After carefully studying the plan of government of the various countries open to them, they arrived at the conclusion that South America was the land that would give them shelter and a home, while a few of the investigators were inclined to look give them shelter and a home, while a few of the investigators were inclined to look with favor upon the Central American States.

"These men, all with some wealth and some of them counting with six figures, sent out educated agents, whose reports are now coming in. The Guianas, Brazil, and Argentine Confederation were examined as to climate, lands, and laws and privileges. The same work was done in Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, and Costa Rica. While agents were out their principals quietly effected a secret organization, whose head is in Topeka, for the purpose of agitating the matter by means of trustworthy agents throughout the Southern States. The men thus organizing represent nearly $2,000,000, their own money and property, a large portion of which theywill devote to this work.

devote to this work.

"This new move began to assume definite shape, and before the end of 1888 is reached, an exodus from the Southern States will have commenced that will carry off more than a million of laborers from the cotton, sugar, and rice fields, where they are now at work, while the tobacco fields will yield their full quota.

"There will be two colonies or outfitting points established in Honduras and Costa Rica, but the main efforts of this new organization will be directed to moving the colored people to South America. There will be settlements established in the Guiana highlands, directly north of the equator, and in the Brazilian highlands on the southern tributaries of the Amazon, to which will be directed those people coming from Florida and southern Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana. Further South immigration depots will be established in the Argentine Confederation for people from Kentucky, Tennessee, South Carolina and northern Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Texas.

"At a meeting held last night reports were given by the agent who visited these countries. It was learned that important concessions would be made by the Brazilian and Argentine Governments in the way of land and immunity from taxation. Aid in transportation is promised, which will place this new haven within the reach of all who can secure money enough to carry them through the first season. Their rights and privileges as citizens are guarantied, and owing to the mixed blood already existing in some of those countries their color will not debar them from political and social preferment.

"It was determined last night to continue the work of organization. Trusty agents are to be sent into all the sections where negro labor is so necessary. It is believed that by next fall all will be ready to set the stream in motion, and the attempt will be made to secure all the reliable and trustworthy negroes in the South, leaving only the worthless leaves are ability.

the worthless, lazy class, which is not wanted and which will be carefully weeded out. "Early in the summer a committee of twenty men will go to South America to complete the arrangements, secure the lands and concessions, and prepare for the work that follows. They are paying their own expenses, asking no favors of any one, and will aid the others to follow. From the reports now received they believe they will be granted free transportation from the United States for all worthy colored people who desire to go.

people who desire to go.

"It is the design of this committee to settle climatically all who go to their new homes. Those accustomed to the sugar and cotton fields will be distributed throughout the Guianas and Brazil. Those accustomed to mixed farming and cattle will be provided for further south, on the highlands and pampas, where they will be distributed so as to cluster around a common home station or colony.'

We do not know the immediate causes of this proposed exodus of negro laborers from the United States, nor can we verify the above report at this distance. There was a migration of these people from the South to Kansas some years ago, and much suffering resulted. Perhaps the same causes and influences are still at work—the dissatisfaction of these poor people with their present condition, their hopes of bettering that condition by a change of residence, and, perhaps, the inducements held out by unscrupulous men.

We shall not undertake to discuss the questions which have arisen from time to time as to their social, civil, and political rights, for these may best be left to the consideration of those personally interested; but in regard to the proposed migration to South American countries there are some considerations which we are in a position to offer, and which may be the means of averting a serious calamity

In the first place, we have no information of the reputed agents of this Topeka organization, nor of any inducements held out to them by the Brazilian and Argentine Governments. If these agents visited Brazil they succeeded wonderfully well in keeping themselves and their purpose well out of sight, and if any inducements have been offered they have been verbal and through secret channels. The promise of lands and transportation belongs to the minister of agriculture, and his official acts are always published. Assuming, however, that the negotiations spoken of have occurred, and that these agents have made all the specified preliminary arrangements, what are the inducements offered, and what are the results to be apprehended? In our opinion, which is based upon a knowledge and experience derived from

In our opinion, which is based upon a knowledge and experience derived from several years' residence in this country, no colony of American negroes will ever be prosperous and contented in South America, especially in Brazil. The language, laws, customs, and institutions of all these countries, except British Guiana, are foreign to them, and are widely different from anything to which they have been accustomed. It is our candid opinion that there is not one single country in South America where they will be treated as well as in the United States, even after admitting the justice of every complaint which they may advance to vindicate this projected exodus.

BRAZIL. 61

If they come to Brazil the result will be as follows: They will find the coast districts unhealthy and all the good lands taken up by large proprietors. The Amazon Valley comprises great areas of flood plains which are extremely unhealthy and are very unsuitable for agricultural purposes. If they go to the highlands of the southern tributaries of that river, they will be as completely severed from civilization and the world's markets as though they were in the very center of Africa. There is no regular overland communication with the sea-ports of the Atlantic coast, and communication by way of the Tapajos and Xingú is long, broken by rapids, and is not yet opened by navigation lines. The country is not settled, except by wild Indians, some of whom are known as cannibals. Cotton can-not be produced in Brazil as cheaply as in the United States, even near the coast; its production in the interior, therefore, is absolutely out of the question. Tobacco and sugar, also, could not be produced there to compete with the coast districts. In fact, there is not one single agricultural product that they can expect to cultivate profitably under present conditions. Without railways, steam-ship lines, and markets, and without government protection against Indians and lawless characters, the chances of their making even a bare living are very slight. They can not expect help from Brazil, for the country is poor and already overburdened with beggars and parasites, and they should not expect help from the United States, whose protection they propose to With such a future before them the chances are that they will starve or be degraded to the level of the savages about them.

Then, too, there are the social advantages which they enjoy in the United States, all of which must be left behind. Their children will find no public schools awaiting them, nor will the Government make any haste to supply the deficiency. They will have no churches nor church societies beyond what they can create in a rude manner by themselves, and their intercourse with people who are educated, enterprising, and progressive will be reduced to a mere recollection. We do not underrate the character and good qualities of the negro when we say to deprive him of all these will be to turn his steps backward and downward. He needs the stimulus of a vigorous civilization about him, the encouragement of progressive ideas, to keep him going. Remove all these and his intellectual and material development will be checked in an instant.

It needs no spirit of prophecy to foretell that this projected exodus will lead to disappointment, loss, suffering, helpless beggary, degradation, and death. If the American colony at Santarem, on the Amazon, could not maintain itself, what can the less energetic negro expect? Every one of the American colonies in this country has failed and disappeared, except that of Santa Barbara, and it is certain that no negro colony can do better. And however just his complaints against the people among whom he is now living, we can assure him that he is now enjoying more privileges, rights, comforts, and advantages there than he can ever gain here. He may find less prejudice against his color here in Brazil, more opportunities for association and amalgamation, but to gain these he must make infinite sacrifice and suffer infinite loss.

[Inc osure 2 in No. 123.—From the Rio Daily News, Rio de Janeiro, March 24, 1888.]

The Topeka scheme.

It would appear from our latest American exchanges that the Topeka scheme for establishing colonies of American negroes in South and Central America is making rapid progress in the South and is attracting widespread attention. The promoters of the scheme in Topeka, Kans., have effected a regularly-chartered organization under the corporate title "The South and Central American Immigration League of the United States of America," whose capital stock is placed at $2,000,000. The officers of the association were elected early in January last, and correspondence was at once opened with prominent colored men in every part of the country. At the beginning of February, forty two colonies, comprising about 12,000 members, were reported from eight States, and it was expected that the first lot of them would be ready to leave for their new home about May 1. The cost of transportation from the sea-board is placed at $10 to $15 per capita. It appears that the two countries on which their attention is chiefly centered are Brazil and the Argentine Republic, where they are told that there is no prejudice against their color, and where the climate and soil is everything they could wish.

In our issue of the 5th instant we called attention to some of the inconveniences and dangers to which these misguided people will certainly be exposed in these countries,

We do not hesitate to say that they are totally ignorant of the countries to which they propose to emigrate, and that nothing but failure and extreme suffering will follow such a step. We do not question the justice of their complaints, but we do question the wisdom of fleeing from evils known to those unknown. To show that these evils do exist, and that the colored people of the United States are totally unfitted to cope with them, we shall call their attention to a few plain facts based on experience and easily verified information.

In the first place, the negroes who are proposing to leave the United States are a peaceable, industrious people who are seeking a home where their color will not be an obstacle to social and political preferment, and where they can enjoy the fruits of their industry and enterprise unmolested by prejudice and arbitary restriction. For industrial purposes, they want fertile land, a mild climate, and good markets; and for social purposes, a law-abiding people, just and equable laws, absence of race prejudice, and an opportunity for themselves and children to exercise any and every privilege exercised by any other race. Now, where is this country to be found? Primarily, there are but two countries, Brazil and Guiana, in South and Central America, which can be said to have settled political institutions, and there is but one, British Guiana, where the English language is spoken. All the States of Central Primarily, there are but two countries, Brazil and Guiana, in South and Central America, which can be said to have settled political institutions, and there is but one, British Guiana, where the English language is spoken. All the States of Central America, Colombia, Ecuador, Venezuela, Bolivia, Peru, and Uruguay, are in a state of revolution, and the Argentine Republic is but little better. In every one of these countries, including Brazil, society is in a very unsettled state and the laws can not be said to afford any protection against usurpation and violence. There is not a republic among them which merits the name, for they are not governments of laws, but of officials. In the Argentine Republic, where several colonies are to be established, the police commissary is a veritable despot, who generally does just as he pleases. It is a common thing for men to be thrown into prison for months, and even years, without warrant or trial; and it is almost an unknown occurrence for a poor man to appeal against their exactions and arbitrary acts. In Brazil, the police delegates are quite as despotic and irresponsible. Now, what can a negro colonist do against such petty tyrants? He will not be able to speak the language; he can not depend upon the courts for protection; he can not appeal to their sense of justice. He will have no recourse but submission.

As to the places selected for colonies, what does he know about them? In the Argentine Republic there are no public lands remaining near the coast or lines of communication. The Government there has very unwisely sold its best lands in large tracts to speculators, who are establishing colonies on conditions most favorable to themselves. A few are honest and public spirited; the majority are grasping and tricky. There are some thrifty, prosperous colonies in that country, but there are more who have failed lamentably and whose inhabitants live worse than the American negro ever did. As for the projected colony on the highlands of the southern tributaries of the Amazon, it is an absurd chimera. The country is an unsettled wilderness, only partially explored, unprovided with even the rudest means of communication, without industries and markets, and full of privations which the most courageous negro in the United States could not stand for six months. No agent of the Topeka organization has ever visited that country; they are proposing to go there on mere hearsay. And the end will be that the consulates of the United States in this country will soon be overrun with destitute negroes, and the United States Government will have to send for them, just as it did for some of the white emigrants after the rebellion. There is more danger in the project than the Topeka league ever dreamed of, and it will be wise to inquire further before it is too late.

No. 59.

Mr. Jarvis to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 128.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Petropolis, May 12, 1888. (Received June 8.)

SIR: Referring to my No. 126, of April 18, 1888, I now have the honor to inclose the translation made by Mr. Williams, the secretary of the legation, of the law concerning trade-marks.

I am, etc.,

THOS. J. JARVIS.

63

[Inclosure in No. 128.—Translation.]

Law of Brazil concerning trade-marks.

Decree No. 3346, of October 14, 1887, establishing rules for the registry of marks of manufacture and trade.

The Princess Imperial Regent, in the name of the Emperor, thinks fit to sanction and order to be enforced the following resolution of the general assembly:

ARTICLE 1.

The producer or merchant has the right to distinguish his merchandise or products by means of special marks.

ARTICLE 2.

Industrial and trade marks may consist of everything which this law does not prohibit (Art. 8), and which may distinguish articles from others, identical or similar, of different origin.

Any name, special or common, denomination, partnership, designation, or signature and letters or ciphers only, will serve for this purpose, if invested with a distinctive form.

ARTICLE 3.

In order to secure the exclusive use of said marks, their registry, deposit, and publication according to this law are indispensable.

ARTICLE 4.

The commercial junta (council) or inspectoria (board of inspection) of the locality of the establishment, or of the principal one when more than one of the same kind belong to only one owner, is competent for the registry. The commercial junta of Rio de Janeiro is also competent for the registry of foreign marks and as the central depository of those registered in other juntas or inspectorias.

ARTICLE 5.

To effect the registry, a petition from the party interested, or his special attorney, is necessary, accompanied by three samples of the mark, containing:

(1) A representation of what constitutes the mark, with all its accessories and explanations.

(2) A declaration of the product of industry or trade for which it is designed, the occupation of the petitioner, and his place of residence.

ARTICLE 6.

The secretary of the junta, or the employé of the inspectoria appointed for that purpose, shall certify on each of the models the day and hour of its presentation, and, should the registry be ordered, he shall deposit one of them in the archives, and deliver the others to the parties interested with a note of the registry and its number.

ARTICLE 7.

Within thirty days the party interested shall publish, in the newspaper that inserts the acts of the general or provincial government, the certificate of registry containing the explanation of the characteristics of the mark, copied from the declaration required by article 5, No. 1, and within sixty days (reckoning these terms from the date of the said registry) he shall deposit one of the models in the commercial junta of Rio de Janeiro, according to article 4.

ARTICLE 8.

The registry of a mark is prohibited which contains or consists of:

(1) Coats of arms, armorial bearings, decorations or insignia, public or official, domestic or foreign, when their use has not been duly authorized,

(2) A commercial or partnership name which the petitioner can not lawfully use. (3) The indication of a fixed locality or establishment which is not that of the origin of the article, whether there be joined to this indication a fictitious name or another's name or not.

(4) Words, images, or representations which involve offense to individuals or to public decorum.

(5) The reproduction of another mark already registered for an article of the same species

(6) Total or partial imitation of a mark already registered for a product of the same species and which may mislead or confuse the buyer. The possibility of error or confusion will be considered to be verified whenever the differences of the two marks can not be recognized without comparison or attentive examination.

ARTICLE 9.

In registry the following [rules] shall be observed:

(1) Priority in the day or hour of the presentation of the mark establishes preference as to registry in favor of the petitioner; in case of the simultaneous presentation of two or more identical or similar marks the preference of that one will be admitted which has been used or possessed for the longest time; and in default of this requisite none will be registered without being modified by the parties interested.

(2) In case of doubt as to the use or possession of a mark the junta or inspectoria will order the parties interested to settle the question before the commercial tribunal, and they will then proceed to registry in conformity with the judgment.

(3) Should identical or similar marks, as set forth in article 8, Nos. 5 and 6, be registered in different juntas or inspectorias the one which is prior in date shall prevail; and in case of simultaneous registry each of the parties interested can apply to the said commercial tribunal; that shall decide which shall be maintained, having in view the provisions of No. 1 of this article.

(4) The junta or inspectoria, to which shall be presented a certificate that the action is pending to which reference is made in the preceding number, shall at once order the registry to be suspended till the final decision of the cause, which resolution shall be published in the official journal at the cost of the party interested.

ARTICLE 10.

From the decision refusing registry an appeal with suspensive effect can be made to the court of appeals of the district, in conformity with regulation No. 143, of March 15, 1842.

Like appeal against the admission of the mark can be made by:

(1) Any one who considers himself prejudiced by it, as regards some registered mark.

(2) The party interested in the cases named in article 8, Nos. 2 and 3.(3) The party offended in the cases named in No. 4, first part. (4) The public prosecutor in the two Nos. 1 and 4, last part.

The term allowed for making these appeals shall be five days, reckoning from the publication of the decision; but if the party does not reside in the place where the decision was made, and if there is no special prosecuting officer there, the term shall commence to run thirty days later.

ARTICLE 11.

Neither the failure to make an appeal nor its postponement shall destroy the right of any other party to bring suit in conformity with the preceding article.

(1) For procuring the nullification of the registry made contrary to the provisions

(2) To oblige the competitor, who is entitled to the same or a similar name, to modify it so that error or confusion may be impossible (article 8, No. 6, last part).

This action can only be brought by one who can prove prior possession of the mark or name for commercial or industrial use, though he has not registered it; and it expires by limitation, like that referring to article 8, Nos. 2, 3, and 4, first part, if not brought within six months after the registry of the mark.

ARTICLE 12.

The registry shall be valid for all purposes for fifteen years, at the end of which it can be renewed, and so on thereafter.

The registry shall be regarded as null and void if the owner of the registered mark shall not make use of it within the term of three years.

ARTICLE 13.

The mark can only be transferred with the product of industry or trade for which it has been adopted after a suitable note has been made in the register on view of authentic documents.

A like note shall be made should the firms be altered and the mark still continue to be used. In both cases publication is necessary.

ARTICLE 14.

The following persons shall be punished with imprisonment from one to six months and a fine for the use of the State of 500 to 5,000 milreis.

(1) Whoever reproduces wholly or in part, by whatever means, any industrial or trade mark duly registered and published without the authority of the owner or his legal representative.

(2) Whoever uses a mark belonging to another, or forged, as set forth in No. 1.(3) Whoever sells or offers for sale articles bearing a mark wholly or partly forged, or belonging to another.

(4) Whoever imitates an industrial or trade-mark in such a manner that the buyer may be deceived.

(5) Whoever uses a mark so imitated.

(6) Whoever sells or offers for sale articles bearing an imitated mark.
(7) Whoever uses a commercial name or firm which does not belong to him, whether it forms part of a registered mark or not.

§ 1. To constitute the imitation referred to in Nos. 4 to 6 of this article it is not necessary that the resemblance of the mark should be complete. It is sufficient, whatever the differences, that there should be a possibility of mistake or confusion, as set forth in article 8, last part.

§ 2. The usurpation of the commercial name or firm referred to in No. 7 shall be considered as existing, whether the reproduction be entire or whether there be additions, omissions, or alterations, provided that there be the same possibility of mistake or confusion on the part of the buyer.

ARTICLE 15.

The following persons shall be punished with a fine of 100 to 500 milreis for the use of the State:

(1) Whoever, without due authority, uses as an industrial or trade mark, arms, armorial bearings, or public official insignia, domestic or foreign.

(2) Whoever uses a mark that offends public decorum.
(3) Whoever uses an industrial or trade mark that contains an indication of a locality or establishment which is not that of the place of origin of the merchandise or product, whether there be joined to this indication another's name or a fictitious one, or not.

(4) Whoever sells or offers for sale merchandise or products bearing marks such as are set forth in Nos. 1 and 2 of this article.

(5) Whoever sells or offers for sale merchandise or products such as are set forth in No. 3.

ARTICLE 16.

Whoever uses a mark containing anything personally offensive, or who sells or offers for sale articles bearing such a mark, shall be visited with the penalties of article 237, section 3, of the criminal code.

ARTICLE 17.

The criminal action against offenses named in Nos. 1, 2, and 4 of article 15, shall be instituted by the public prosecutor of the district where articles are found which bear the marks therein mentioned.

Every producer of or dealer in a like article, residing in the place whence it comes, and the owner of the establishment falsely indicated, are competent to bring the suit against the offenders named in Nos. 3 and 5; and the party offended, or the party interested, against those named in articles 14 and 16.

ARTICLE 18.

Repetition of the offense shall be punished with double the penalties fixed in articles 14, 15, and 16, if ten years have not elapsed since the previous condemnation for any one of the offenses named in this law,

ARTICLE 19.

The said penalties do not exempt the delinquents from paying indemnity for the loss caused by them, and which the parties injured can demand by proper suit.

ARTICLE 20.

The sentences pronounced on the offenses embraced in this law shall be published in full by the successful party, in the same journal in which the registries were published; otherwise, they shall not be enforced.

ARTICLE 21.

The party interested can demand:

(1) A search or inspection to ascertain the existence of forged or imitated marks,

or of merchandise or products that contain them.

(2) The seizure and destruction of forged or imitated marks in the workshops in which they are prepared, or wherever they may be found, before they are used for a criminal purpose.

(3) The destruction of forged or imitated marks on the packages or articles bearing them before they are cleared from the custom-house, even though the wrappers and the merchandise or products themselves may be thereby damaged.

(4) The seizure and deposit of merchandise or products bearing a forged or imitated mark, or one indicating a false origin as set forth in article 8, No. 4.

§ 1. The seizure and deposit only take place as preliminaries of an action or in the course of it, and are of no effect if it be not instituted within thirty days.

 $\S$  2. The articles seized will serve to guaranty the payment of the fine and to indemnify the party, for which purpose they will be sold at public auction during the action if they easily spoil, or in case of execution.

ARTICLE 22.

Either of the measures referred to in the preceding article will be ordered or granted by the commercial judge whenever the party presents his petition, with a certificate of the registration of the mark (article 6); but in case of search, the judge should observe the formalities prescribed in articles 189 to 202 of the code of procedure and in other legislation in force, and can, when he thinks proper, require security.

The production of the certificate of registry of the mark is unnecessary when the question is as to merchandise or products set forth in article 8, Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 4.

ARTICLE 23.

Without the production of the certificate of registry no action shall be admitted for trial in virtue of this law, except that of article 11; but the injured party shall still be entitled to the indemnity due for the appropriation of the mark which he used prior to the registry.

ARTICLE 24.

The tribunal competent for the trial of actions referred to in this law is that of the domicile of the defendant, or of the place in which were found the merchandise and products marked with the forged or imitated mark.

The indictment and judgment shall be regulated by law No. 562, of July 2, 1850, and decree No. 707, of October 9, of the same year.

The form of procedure for the actions of article 11 shall be that of articles 236 and the following ones of regulation No. 737, of November, 1850.

ARTICLE 25.

The provisions of this law are applicable to Brazilians or foreigners whose establishments are without the Empire under the following requirements:

(1) That there exists between the Empire and the nation in whose territory are the said establishments a diplomatic convention securing reciprocity of guaranty for Brazilian marks.

(2) That the marks have been registered in conformity with local law.

67

(3) That the respective model and certificate of registry have been deposited in the Junta Commercial of Rio de Janeiro.

(4) That the certificate and explanation of the mark have been published in the Diario Official.

ARTICLE 26.

In case of compliance with requirements Nos. 2 to 4 of the preceding article, the provision in article 9, No. 3, shall have effect in favor of marks registered in foreign countries (which signed the convention promulgated by Decree No. 9233, of June 23, 1884, or which approved it) for the space of four months, counting from the day when the registry is made according to local law.

ARTICLE 27.

The registry of industrial and trade marks shall be preceded by the payment of fees, which the Government will fix by regulation, not exceeding those paid for registries and annotations of commercial contracts, and 20 per cent. more, part of which will be paid to the Junta Commercial of Rio de Janeiro as compensation for the increase of work which it will have.

ARTICLE 28.

The guaranties given by law No. 2682, of October 23, 1875, are applicable to the marks registered in conformity therewith.

ARTICLE 29.

The Government will issue the regulations necessary for the execution of this law.

ARTICLE 30.

Contrary provisions of law are revoked.

Rodrigo Augusto da Silva, of the council of His Majesty the Emperor, minister and secretary of state for the affairs of agriculture and public works, has concurred in this law and will cause it to be executed.

law and will cause it to be executed.

Palace of Rio de Janeiro, October 14, 1887, and the sixty-sixth year of independence and of the Empire.

PRINCESS IMPERIAL REGENT.

Countersigned:

RODRIGO AUGUSTO DA SILVA.
Office of the great seal of the Empire:

SAMUEL WALLACE MAC. DOWELL.

Dispatched October 19, 1887,

José Julio de Albuquerque Barros.

Registered.

Published in the department of state for the affairs of agriculture, commerce, and public works, October 20, 1887. In the disability of the director of the department of commerce, the chief of section.

ALFREDO AUGUSTO DA ROCHA.

Decree No. 9828, of December 31, 1887, approving the regulation for the execution of law No. 3346, of October 14, 1887, concerning marks of manufacture and trade.

The Princess Imperial Regent, in the name of the Emperor, exercising the prerogative conferred on her by article 102, section 2 of the constitution of the Empire, and for the execution of law No. 3346, of October 14, 1887, which establishes rules for the registry of marks of manufacture and trade, thinks fit to approve the following regulation, signed by the Bachelor Rodrigo Augusto da Silva, of the council of His Majesty the Emperor, minister and secretary of state of the affairs of agriculture, commerce, and public works, who has concurred in it and will order it to be executed.

Palace of Rio de Janeiro, December 31, 1887, the sixty-sixth year of independence and the Empire.

PRINCESS IMPERIAL REGENT.

Countersigned:

RODRIGO AUGUSTO DA SILVA.

Regulation referred to in decree No. 9828, of the present date, for the execution of law No. 3346, of October 14, 1887, concerning marks of manufacture and trade.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY PROVISIONS.

ART. 1. The efficacy of the guaranties established in law No. 3346, of October 14, 1887, in favor of industrial (or manufacturing) and trade marks, depends on the registry, deposit, and publication of said marks. (Law, article 3.)

ART. 2. Registry will be made in the commercial junta or inspectoria of the locality of the establishment, or of the principal one, if more than one of the same kind belong to only one owner, deposit in the Junta Commercial of Rio de Janeiro, and publication by copying the certificate of registry in the journal that publishes the acts of the general or provincial government, according to whether the place of the certificial of the Empire of Straight accounts. establishment, principal or sole, is the capital of the Empire, a foreign country, or some province. (Law, articles 4 and 7.)

ART. 3. The registry shall be valid for all its effects for fifteen years, on the expiration of which it can be renewed, and so on, thereafter. But it shall be considered void if the owner makes no use of it within three years. (Law, article 12.)

ART. 4. The guaranties of the cited law No. 3346, of October 14, 1887, are applicable to Brazilians and foreigners whose establishments are outside of the Empire whenever the following requirements concur:

(1) That between the Empire and the nation in whose territory the said establishments exist there be a diplomatic convention securing reciprocity of guaranties for Brazilian marks.

(2) That the marks have been registered in conformity with local law.

(3) That the respective model and certificate of registry have been deposited in the Commercial Junta of Rio de Janeiro.

(4) That the certificate and explanation of the mark have been published in the

Diario Official. (Law, article 25.)

ART. 5. In favor of marks registered in foreign countries which signed the convention promulgated by decree No. 9233, of June 28, 1884, or which afterwards agreed to it, the provision of article 20 of this regulation is valid for the term of four months, counting from the day when the registry is made according to local law, whenever the requirements indicated in Nos. 2, 3, and 4 of the preceding article have been complied with. (Law, article 26.)

ART. 6. For the execution of what articles 4 and 5 prescribe, the Government will inform the commercial juntas and inspectorias which nations have concluded with the Empire diplomatic conventions securing reciprocity of guaranties for Brazilian marks and which signed or adopted the convention promulgated by the cited decree

No. 9233, of June 28, 1884.

ART. 7. The industrial or trade mark can only be transferred with the article of industry or trade for which it has been adopted, a suitable note thereof being made in the register on view of an authentic document. Like note shall be made when partnership names are altered, but the mark continues to be used. In both cases publication is necessary in conformity with article 2. (Law, article 13.)

ART. 8. The guaranties given in law No. 3346, of October 14, 1887, are applicable to marks registered in conformity with law No. 2682, of October 23, 1875. (Law, article 28.)

CHAPTER II.

OF INDUSTRIAL AND TRADE MARKS; THEIR REGISTRY, DEPOSIT, AND PUBLICATION.

ART. 9. There shall be admitted to registry as an industrial or trade mark whatever distinguishes an article from others, identical or similar, of different origin; also any name, special or common denomination, partnership designation or signature, letter or cipher, if invested with a distinctive form.

Marks are excepted and can not be admitted to registry which contain or consist of-(1) Coats of arms, armorial bearings, decorations, or insignia, public or official, domestic or foreign, when their use has not been duly authorized.

(2) A commercial or partnership name which the petitioner can not lawfully use. (3) The indication of a fixed locality or establishment which is not that of the origin of the article.

(4) Words, images, or representations which involve offense to individuals or to

(5) The reproduction of another mark, already registered for an article of the same species,

69 BRAZIL.

(6) Total or partial imitation of a mark already registered for a product of the same species and which may mislead or confuse the buyer.

Secondary paragraph. - The possibility of error or confusion will be considered to be verified whenever the differences of the two marks can not be recognized without comparison or attentive examination. (Law, articles 8 and 2.)

ART. 10. To obtain registry a petition by the party interested or his special attorney, is necessary, accompanied by three samples of the mark, containing—

(1) The representation, by means of drawing, engraving, printing, or some analogous process, of what constitutes the mark, with all its accessories, including the color or colors with which it should be used.

(2) Its explanation or description.

(3) A declaration of the article of industry or trade for which the mark is intended,

the occupation of the petitioner, and his place of residence.

The petition, as well as the samples of the mark, should be done on substantial paper, 33 centimeters long and 22 wide, with a margin for binding, without creases or seams, and each one stamped, dated, and signed. (Law, article 5.)

ART. 11. As soon as a petition is presented for registry the secretary of the junta commercial, or, in the inspectorias, the employé designated by the chief, shall certify on each model the day and hour of its presentation, giving the party a receipt when required, and when the petition is drawn he will submit it for decision. (Law,

ART. 12. When the registry is ordered, the secretary or the employe of the commercial inspectoria will certify it on each of the samples of the mark, and will cause one of them to be placed in the archives with the petition, placing on it the order number, which he will note also on the other samples delivered to the party.

article 6.)

ART. 13. Within thirty days, reckoned from the date of the registry, the party interested shall publish in the official newspaper (article 2) the description of the mark and the respective certificate, copied in full from one of the samples, which with the other from the newspaper he shall deposit in the Junta Commercial of Rio de Janeiro, within sixty days, reckoned from the same date.

Secondary paragraph.—The party can, if he wishes it, include in the publication the drawing or representation of the mark. (Law, article 7.)

ART. 14. These documents shall be bound at the end of every year, and to each volume shall be added an index, mentioning in alphabetical order the nature of the products for which the marks are designed, and then consecutively the name of the proprietor, the order number of the archives, and the place of registry.

ART. 15. Documents relative to registries made in foreign countries shall be bound in another volume, with a suitable index added to it.

ART. 16. Indexes corresponding to the past year will be published in the Diario Official in the month of the July following. The Junta Commercial of Rio de Janeiro having ascertained the correctness of the publication, which it will cause to be corrected, if necessary, shall communicate it to the Government, for the purposes determined in the international treaties.

ART. 17. The commercial juntas or inspectorias will permit any one who solicits the privilege to examine in their offices, and under the necessary guard, documents filed or deposited concerning industrial and trade marks.

ART. 18. If before the completion of the registry of a mark the registry of another one or more, (which are) identical or similar, be requested, the registry of that one will be made which had precedence in the day and hour of presentation. In default of this requisite, the mark of that petitioner will be preferred who, within eight days, proves to the tribunal of the commercial junta or inspectoria that he has used or possessed it for the longest time. In default of this proof, none of the marks will be registered unless the parties interested modify them so as to avoid error or confusion.

(Law, article 9, No. 1, combined with article 8, No. 6.)
ART. 19. In case of doubt arising as to the use or possession of the mark the commercial junta or inspectoria, if it deems it advisable, will order the parties interested to settle the question before the competent tribunal, and the registry will then be made in conformity with the judgment. (Law, article 9, No. 2.)

ART. 20. Should it happen that identical or similar marks, as set forth in article 9, Nos. 5 and 6, and the separate paragraph, are registered in different juntas or inspectorias, that which is prior in date will take precedence.

In case of simultaneous registry each of the parties interested can apply to the competent tribunal. That will decide which shall be maintained, having in view the provision in article 18. (Law, article 9, No. 3.)

ART. 21. The junta or inspectoria to which may be presented a certificate that this action is pending shall at once order the effects of the registry to be suspended until the final decision of the cause, which (order) the party interested shall publish in the official journal. (Law, article 9, No. 4.)

CHAPTER III.

OF APPEALS.

ART. 22. From the decision refusing or granting registry of an industrial or trade mark, an appeal can be taken with suspensive effect to the court of appeals of the district, according to regulation No. 143, of March 15, 1842.

(a) In the first case by the party who has asked for the registry.

(b) In the case of grant of the registry.

By the public prosecutor, in the cases of Nos. 1 and 4, last part of article 9.
 By the owner of a commercial name or firm which he who has registered the mark can not lawfully use, in conformity with No. 2 of the cited article 9.

(3) By any producer of or dealer in similar goods who resides in the place falsely indicated as the place from which the article comes, in conformity with No. 3

(4) By the owner of the establishment also falsely indicated as the place of origin of the article, in conformity with said No. 3.

(5) By the party injured, in the case of No. 4, first part.

(6) By the party interested in the registered mark, in the cases of Nos. 5 and 6.

(Law, article 10, combined with article 17, second part.)

Secondary paragraph. -- Appeal can be made in the case of No. 2 of this article, although the owner of the commercial name or firm has not registered them and though the reproduction be not entire, and though there be additions, omissions, or alterations whenever the possibility of error or confusion is verified. (Law, article 10, combined with article 11, last part, and article 14, No. 7, section 2.)

ART. 23. The term for taking an appeal will be five days, counting from the publication of the decision; but, if the party does not reside in the place where the publication is made, and if there is not a special prosecutor there, the term will begin to run thirty days after. (Law, article 10, last part.)

ART. 24. The commercial junta shall confirm the decision within twenty-four hours. counting from the first session after the presentation of the first draft (minute) of the appeal, if the appeal be not allowed.

The commercial inspectorias shall make their decision within twenty-four hours, reckoned from the presentation of the minute, if they maintain their refusal of the registry.

ART. 25. In the commercial juntas the employé who has served as register in the case is competent to draw up the appeal for the court of appeals of the district, and, in the inspectorias, whoever may be designated by the chief.

The presentation of the papers to the tribunal devolves in the inspectorias on the said employé, and in the juntas on the secretary.

ART. 26. Besides the appeal, the persons mentioned in article 22, and in the cases respectively provided therein, can institute a suit for the nullification of the registry. (Law, article 11.)

ART. 27. The owner of a commercial name or firm is entitled to sue a competitor in the same kind of industry or trade who has a claim to an identical or similar name or firm, to compel him to modify them so that there can be no error or confusion, on proof of prior possession for industrial or commercial use.

Secondary paragraph.—This suit is admissible though the plaintiff has not registered the name or firm, and though there has not been a complete reproduction, but one with additions, omissions, or alterations, provided there be possibility of error or confusion. (Law, article 11, combined with article 14. No, 7, section 2.)

ART. 28. The tribunal competent for the suits named in articles 19, 20, 26, and 27, is that of the defendant's domicil, or of the place in which goods were found bearing the prohibited marks (article 9), or where the usurpation of the name was practiced. (Article 27.) Its form of procedure is that of articles 236 and those following, of Regulation 737 of November 25, 1850. (Law, Article 24.)

ART. 29. The suits referring to acts provided for in article 9, Nos. 5 and 6, can not be instituted without the production of the certificate of registry and of its publication, save, as to the latter, when dealing with acts which occurred within the term allowed for the insertion of the document in the official paper. (Law, article 22, last part, and article 23, first part.)

ART. 30. Those suits expire by limitation which are referred to in article 26, and which relate to the acts provided for in article 9, Nos. 2, 3, and 4, first part (individual offense), and in article 27, if not instituted within six months after the registry of the mark. (Law, article 11.)

ART. 31. The party injured by the appropriation of the mark, of which he made prior use without having it registered, is entitled to demand, by means of a suitable action, indemnity for the loss which he has suffered. (Law, article 23.)

CHAPTER IV.

OF OTHER GUARANTIES OF THE REGISTERED MARK.

ART. 32. The guaranties of the duly registered mark which has been duly deposited and published are also rendered effective by means of:

(1) A search or inspection to ascertain the existence of forged or imitated marks,

or of merchandise or products that contain them.

(2) The seizure and destruction of forged or imitated marks in the workshops in which they are prepared, or wherever they may be found, before they are used for a criminal purpose.

(3) The destruction of forged or imitated marks on the packages or articles bearing them before they are cleared from the custom-house, even though the wrappers and the merchandise or products themselves may be thereby damaged.

(4) The seizure and deposit of merchandise or products bearing a forged or imitated mark, or one indicating a false origin.

(5) Penal sanction against culprits.
(6) Indemnity for loss occasioned. (Law, article 21.)
ART. 33. The measures (acts) of the preceding article, Nos. 1 to 4, will be ordered by a commercial tribunal or required by it of the chief of public offices or establishments in which are the goods or products subject to such proceedings whenever the party demands them, exhibiting a certificate of the registry of the mark, and observing the following provisions:

(1) In case of search the formalities of articles 189 to 202 of the Code of Criminal Procedure must be complied with.

(2) The seizure and deposit only to take place as preliminaries of the suit, or in the course of it, and are of no effect if it be not instituted within thirty days, or if it be suspended by default of the plaintiff for more than fifteen days.

(3) All duties due to the national treasury having first been paid in the custom-house by the person who petitioned for the proceeding, the articles seized will be placed in the public depository.

(4) The said articles will serve as a guaranty of the payment of the fine and the indemnity of the mark, for which purpose they will be sold at public auction in the course of the suit, if they easily spoil, or in case of execution. (Law, article 21, sections 1 and 2, and article 22.)

ART. 34. Before ordering the measures (proceedings) of article 30, the judge, if he thinks proper, can require of the party security for payment of expenses (costs). The said party can appeal to the court of appeals of the district against the amount

ART. 35. The certificate of registry is not necessary whenever the question is as to marks, goods, or products in the conditions of article 9, Nos. 1 to 4, to all of which are applicable the guaranties of article 32, Nos. 1 to 4. (Law, article 22, last part.)

CHAPTER V.

OF THE PENAL SANCTION.

ART. 36. The following persons shall be punished with imprisonment from one to six months, and a fine of 500 to 5,000 milreis for the use of the state:

(1) Whoever reproduces, wholly or in part, by whatever means, any industrial or trade-mark, duly registered and published, without the authority of the owner or his legal representative.

(2) Whoever uses a mark belonging to another, or forged, as set forth in No. 1.(3) Whoever sells or offers for sale articles bearing a mark wholly or partly forged, or belonging to another.

(4) Whoever imitates an industrial or trade-mark in such a manner that the buyer can be deceived.

(5) Whoever uses a mark so imitated.(6) Whoever sells or offers for sale articles bearing an imitated mark.

(7) Whoever uses a commercial name or firm which does not belong to him, whether it forms part of a registered mark or not.

§ 1. To constitute the imitation referred to in Nos. 4 to 6 of this article, it is not necessary that the resemblance to the mark should be complete. It is sufficient, whatever the differences, that there should be a possibility of mistake or confusion, as set forth in article 9, No. 6, last part.

§ 2. The usurpation of the commercial name or firm, referred to in No. 7, shall be considered as existing, whether the reproduction be entire or whether there be additions, omissions or alterations, provided that there be the same possibility of mistake or confusion on the part of the buyer. (Law, article 14, sections 1 and 2.)

ART. 37. The following persons shall be punished with a fine of 100 to 500 milreis for the use of the State:

(1) Whoever, without due authority, uses as an industrial or trade-mark arms, armorial bearings, or public or official insignia, domestic or foreign.

(2) Whoever uses a mark that offends public decorum.
(3) Whoever uses an industrial or trade mark that contains an indication of a localify or establishment which is not that of the place of origin of the merchandise or

(4) Whoever sells or offers for sale merchandise or products bearing marks such as

are set forth in Nos. 1 and 2 of this article.

(5) Whoever sells or offers for sale merchandise or products as set forth in No. 3. (Law, article 15.)

ART. 38. Whoever uses a mark containing personal offense, or who sells or offers for sale articles bearing such a mark, shall be visited with the penalties of article 237, section 3, of the criminal code.

ART. 39. The repetition of the offense shall be punished with double the penalties fixed in articles 36, 37, and 38, if ten years have not elapsed since the previous condemnation for any of the offenses named in said articles. (Law, article 18.)

ART. 40. The penalties named do not exempt the delinquents from payment of the loss cau sed by them, and which the parties injured can demand by proper suit. (Law,

ART. 41. The sentences passed on the offenses named in this law shall be published in full by the successful party in the same journal in which the registries were published; otherwise they shall not be executed. (Law, article 20.)

ART. 42. The criminal action against the offenses mentioned in articles 36 and 38 shall be solicited by the party interested or injured; that of article 37, Nos. 1, 2, and 4 by the public prosecutor of the district where were found the articles bearing the a by the public prosecutor of the district where were found the articles bearing the marks therein named; and that of Nos. 3 and 5 of said article 37 by any producer of or dealer in an identical or similar product, who resides in the place of its origin, or by the owner of the falsely indicated establishment. (Law, article 17.)

ART. 43. The tribunal for these actions is that of the domicile of the defendant or of the place in which were found the goods or products distinguished by the mark subject to the penalty established in the preceding articles.

The indictment and indement shall be regulated by law No. 562 of July 1850 and

The indictment and judgment shall be regulated by law No. 562, of July, 1850, and decree No. 707, of October 9 of the same year. (Law, article 24.)

CHAPTER VI.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

ART. 44. The fees now collected in the commercial juntas and inspectorias of the Empire will continue to be levied and applied in the same way, except, in Rio de Janeiro, those for the title of books, which are raised to 50 reis.

ART. 45. There is also raised to 6 milreis the seal established for the registry of industrial and trade marks in No. 20, section 5, of list B, annexed to decree No. 8946 of ART. 46. Contrary provisions are revoked.

PALACE OF RIO DE JANEIRO, December 31, 1887.

Rodrigo A. da Silva.

No. 60.

Mr. Jarvis to Mr. Bayard.

No. 129.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Petropolis, May 14, 1888. (Received June 8.)

SIR: Referring to my No. 122, dated March 13, I have the honor to. inform you that yesterday the general assembly of Brazil finally passed, and the Princess Imperial Regent approved, a law abolishing slavery in Brazil, and I herewith inclose a copy of the law, with a translation

While I expected the speedy enactment of such a law, I did not anticipate such unanimity in its passage. Every indication of public sentiment is in hearty accord with this action of the general assembly, and I may add that this sentiment has been well prepared for the changes to take place in the labor of the country. I therefore do not share in the fears expressed by some as to its immediate effect on the various industries.

The maturing coffee crop is exceptionally large, and some, either honestly or for purposes of speculation, have expressed the apprehension that the immediate effect of emancipation would be so to disorganize labor as to render it difficult, if not impossible, to save the crop. In my view, the country has been so well prepared for this action that its present effect will not be deleterious, and its future results will be most advantageous, as we all know it has proved in our own land, to the general prosperity of the country.

I have, etc.,

THOMAS J. JARVIS.

[Inclosure in No. 129.—Translation.]

Text of the law which declares slavery abolished in Brazil, Rio, May 14.

LAW NO. 3353, OF MAY 13, 1888, DECLARES SLAVERY ABOLISHED IN BRAZIL.

The Princess Imperial Regent, in the name of His Majesty, the Emperor Don Pedro II, makes known to all subjects of the Empire that the general assembly has decreed and she has approved the following law:

ARTICLE I.

From the date of this law slavery is declared abolished in Brazil.

ARTICLE II.

All contrary provisions are revoked.

She orders, therefore, all the authorities to whom belong the knowledge and execution of the said law to execute it and cause it to be fully and exactly executed and observed.

The secretary of state for the affairs of agriculture, commerce, and public works and ad interim for foreign affairs, Bachelor Rodrigo Augusto da Silva, of the council of his Majesty the Emperor, will cause it to be printed, published, and circulated. Given in the palace of Rio de Janeiro, May 13, 1888, the 67th (year) of Independence and of the Empire. PRINCESS IMPERIAL REGENT.

Countersigned:

RODRIGO AUGUSTO DA SILVA.

No. 61.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Jarvis.

No. 90.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE. Washington, June 13, 1888.

SIR: I have to acknowledge the receipt of your dispatch No. 129, of the 14th ultimo, communicating the text of the Imperial decree of the 13th May, proclaiming the law of the same date for the total abolition of slavery in Brazil.

This gratifying information was communicated to me directly by his excellency, Rodrigo Silva, minister of foreign affairs of Brazil, in telegram received here on the 16th ultimo, which, translated, reads as follows:

The bill abolishing slavery has passed parliament, and was approved by the Princess Regent on the 13th. Great manifestations of joy.

The intelligence was received by the President with the utmost satisfaction, and a reply was immediately sent to his excellency by Acting Secretary Rives, in the following terms:

President directs me to convey to your Government his congratulations upon abolition of slavery in Brazil, and to express his personal hope and expectation that freedom thus extended will result in increased happiness and prosperity of your country.

This noble act, whereby Brazil has ranged herself in the now almost universal category of free nations, can not but have the earnest sympathy and call forth the warmest applause of all those who believe that good government among men is based upon liberty and equal rights of man; and it is especially gratifying to learn from your dispatch that every indication of public sentiment in the Empire is in hearty accord with this action of the general assembly, and that the popular mind having been well prepared for the change to take place in the labor system of the country, it is not apprehended that any economic disturbance will ensue.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 62.

Mr. Jarvis to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 145.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES.

Rio de Janeiro, August 31, 1888. (Received September 29.)

SIR: On the 22d instant I sent you a cablegram in the following words: "Emperor arrived in good condition amid great enthusiasm."

Of the arrival of the Emperor and its importance to the Empire, I will now give you a brief account, supposing it may be of interest to you. He arrived as I telegraphed you on the 22d in good condition, and he was joyfully received by a vast concourse of people composed of all classes of society and of all shades of political opinion. His extreme illness in Europe, and the vague and conflicting reports as to his mental and physical condition had filled the public mind with grave apprehensions as to the probable effects of the voyage. So little was known of his condition that no one seemed to know to what extent the elaborate preparations for his reception could be carried out. Thousands upon thousands crowded the piers or went out in ships to meet him, not knowing whether he could be seen at all or not. It was under these circumstances that he made his appearance, in good condition, before an anxious multitude of people, who gave him a heartfelt ovation.

The news of his arrival was received with great demonstrations of joy throughout the Empire. He is much esteemed and beloved by the people of all classes and opinions, and while he lives there will be no effort to make any changes or experiments in the present order of government. There was some anxiety and unrestin political circles before his arrival, growing out of the agitation, by some of the dissatisfied ex-slave-owners, for a republic. This has all disappeared since his arrival. Some of the slave-owners were very loth to part with their slaves without some compensation for them, and as they lost their slaves under the reign of the Princess Regent, they blame her, and it is said they are very bitter against her. They set to work to organize, in some of the more important provinces, a political party called the Republican party, whose open and avowed object was and is the establishment of a republic. In some local elections they developed a surprising strength, and in a few cases elected their candidates. To fully comprehend their political influence it is necessary to remember the fact that suffrage is very much restricted in Brazil, and that, while these dissatisfied ex-slave-owners are insignificant in numbers when compared with the entire male population, they are numerous in the body of electors. Their determined action and the unfavorable reports, in wide circulation, as to the condition of the Emperor's health created in political circles a feeling of anxiety and uncertainty. It is to be hoped that the Emperor may be spared yet many years, and that he may have the strength and health necessary to the full discharge of his duties.

I have, etc.,

THOMAS J. JARVIS.

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF BRAZIL AT WASHINGTON.

No. 63.

Mr. da Costa to Mr. Bayard.

IMPERIAL LEGATION OF BRAZIL, Washington, July 31, 1888. (Received August 8.)

SIR: The Brazilian minister of foreign affairs has just written commanding me to convey to the President of the United States of America the heartfelt thanks of the Imperial Government for the congratulations which he expressed to the Brazilian minister on the great event of the abolition of slavery in Brazil.

I have to appeal to your excellency to lend me your assistance in the discharge of this agreeable commission by acting as my interpreter with the President.

I avail myself, etc.,

J. AUGUSTO DA COSTA.

No. 64.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. da Costa.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, August 9, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 31st ultimo, in which you convey an expression of the extreme gratification of the Imperial Government, occasioned by the remarks of the President to the Brazilian minister on the great event of the abolition of slavery in Brazil.

The President is much gratified by this friendly appreciation of his utterances, which were due no less to a feeling of sincere amity towards Brazil and her people than to a full realization in the light of recent events in our own country of the magnitude and importance of the reform peacefully accomplished in Brazil.

Accept, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

CENTRAL AMERICA.

No. 65.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 698.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

(Received September 13.) Managua, Nicaragua, August 22, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to inclose a translation of a telegram, received at La Libertad, from the minister for foreign affairs of Salvador, and a copy of one which I addressed to you at his request from the same These telegrams relate to a claim of the Government of Italy against that of Salvador, arising from a sale of the Government printing establishment made by the late president Zaldivar to an Italian

The transaction took place over two years ago, and soon after Zaldivar had left the country the courts declared the sale illegal and void, and the property was restored to the Government; the matter has ever since been the subject of diplomatic correspondence.

About three months ago the chargé d'affaires of Italy informed me that he had instructions from his Government to consult with me in regard to this claim; he did not, however, and I did not, consider it necessary to report the incident to the Department. About the same time the Government of Salvador instructed its representative in Paris to settle the claim, if possible, through the medium of the Italian minister at the same place, and negotiations with that object have been going on for several days, but thus far with no prospect of a satisfactory result.

Under the circumstances above mentioned the Government of Salvador appeals to that of the United States, and asks that its mediation be The minister for foreign offered to Italy for a settlement of the claim. affairs and the president of Salvador expressed to me an earnest desire for such mediation and their willingness to abide by the decision of the United States, whatever it might be.

Should the negotiations pending in Paris fail, as it is believed they will, the mediation of the United States would be very grateful to Salvador. I understand that the claim for the property and damages amounts to two million francs.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 698.—Translation.—Telegram.]

Señor Delgado to Mr. Hall.

[Extract.]

SAN SALVADOR, August 16, 1887.

Circumstances independent of my will prevented my seeing you yesterday. I hope you will send your Government a cable message to the tenor of what was suggested last night by Dr. Melendez in his conversation with you. My government trusts also that you will please interpose your good offices with the view of inducing the Government of the United States to offer its mediation to Italy.

With high, etc.,

MANUEL DELGADO.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 698.]

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

[Telegram.]

La Libertad, Salvador, August 17, 1887.

The Government of Italy is now pressing a heavy claim against the Government of Salvador, arising out of Zaldivar's transactions. The Salvadorian Government would be extremely grateful if you should offer your mediation to Italy. Negotiations pending in Paris are likely to fail.

HALL.

No. 66.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 709.] LEGATION OF THE U. S. IN CENTRAL AMERICA, Guatemala, September 27, 1887. (Received October 14.)

SIR: With reference to my dispatch, No. 698, of the 22d ultimo, from Managua, and to my telegram of the 17th, from La Libertad, relating to the claim of Italy against Salvador, I have to acknowledge the receipt of your reply to the latter, dated the 26th of the same month, to the effect that without more precise knowledge of the grounds of the Italian claim the Government of the United States hesitates to tender mediation.

The foregoing was transmitted to me at Managua and its purport communicated by me to the minister for foreign affairs of Salvador, who, in reply, said that he would furnish me with the particulars by next mail; up to the present, however, I have not received them.

I have the honor now to inclose a copy of your telegram of the 16th instant, suggesting that the Salvadorian Government should sustain its minister in naming a sum to settle the claim, and if a reasonable proposal should be rejected by the Italian Government then the good offices of the United States might be offered.

Having communicated the purport of the foregoing to the minister of foreign affairs of Salvador, he replied that his government could not authorize its minister to offer a specific sum because the account upon which the claim is based has never been adjusted, and that in this sense the minister at Paris has been instructed by his government.

The Italian chargé d'affaires ad interim here informs me that his government broke off, some time ago, all negotiations with the Salvadorian minister at Paris. He also informed me that Signor Sagrini, the claimant, left here for Italy early last month and is no doubt there now, and further, that a new minister of Italy to Central America would soon arrive, and that he probably brings instructions respecting the claim, which in the meantime remains in abeyance.

I have, etc.,

[Inclosure 1 in No. 709. - Telegram. - Translation.]

Mr. Hall to Señor Delgado.

GUATEMALA, September 19, 1887.

With reference to the affairs of Sagrini, the United States minister at Paris says to the honorable Secretary of State, who concurs with him, that in his opinion the Government of Salvador should authorize its minister there to offer a reasonable sum to settle the claim, and in case of its non-acceptance by the Italian Government then the good offices of the Government of the United States might be offered.

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 709.—Telegram.—Translation.]

Señor Delgado to Mr. Hall.

SAN SALVADOR, September 20, 1887.

I received your telegram last night, and after thanking you I have to say that my Government could not authorize its minister at Paris to offer Sagrini (the claimant) a specific sum, because the account has not been adjusted.

My Government thinks that what ought first to be done is to proceed with the adjustment of the account by mutual agreement or through the medium of arbitrators. In this sense it has given instructions to its representative at Paris.

With assurances, etc.,

MANUEL DELGADO.

No. 67.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 712.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, September 28, 1887. (Received October 14.)

SIR: With reference to my dispatch No. 699, and to other correspondence relating to the recent boundary treaty between Nicaragua and Costa Rica, I have the honor to transcribe the following translation of a telegram of this date, received this evening from President Carazo, of Nicaragua: "Congress rejected convention; arbitration remains."

Which means that the Nicaraguan Congress having rejected the treaty of the 26th July last with Costa Rica, the two Governments must now fall back on the convention signed in Guatemala on the 24th of December, 1886, which provides for the arbitration of the President of the United States of the question as to the validity of the treaty of April 15, 1858.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

No. 68.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 505.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, October 7, 1887.

SIR: I have received your telegram of the 30th ultimo, saying that the Nicaraguan Congress had rejected the boundary convention with Costa Rica. Similar information had already been received here through the diplomatic representatives of those Governments at this capital; and in a note to the Costa Rican minister, after acknowledging his upon that subject, I have said, "that I thus learn with regret that the expected course of direct settlement of the questions between two countries to which the United States are equally friendly is interrupted."

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 69.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 716.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, October 7, 1887. (Received November 3.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a printed copy of the message of the President of Guatemala to the national constituent assembly of that Republic, on the 1st day of October, 1887, with a synopsis of its contents.

You will observe that the President opens his message with the enunciation of the principle of popular sovereignty, and declares that the legislative authority during the past two years dictated laws in opposition to the interests of its constituents, and in nihilation of branches of the Government, especially in that of the department of finance. It was, therefore, on account of the restrictions imposed upon him that it became impossible to save the national credit, unless with a firm hand, and by change of advisers in his cabinet he should assume, for a time, supreme executive power. Hence his decree of June 26, 1887. his course of conduct met with popular approval was illustrated by the demonstrations of good will and enthusiastic reception throughout his tour of visit to the eastern departments of the Republic. And, although at first the representative of Mexico refused to recognize the new order of things, that now an arrangement has been perfected by which the Republic of Mexico, in common with all other powers represented at this capital, renews its friendly attitude in harmonious recognition of a firm, existent fact.

The other portions of the message refer, as you will note, to the domestic affairs of the Republic, of which, from time to time, you have been advised, so far as the same relate to the interests of our fellow-citizens resident here.

There seems to be perfect accord between the national administration and the legislative assembly, presaging unity of action and a harmonious execution of the laws.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure in No. 716.]

Synopsis of message presented to the national constituent assembly by General Manuel Lisandro Barillas, President of the Republic of Guatemala, the 1st day of October, 1887.

It opens with a declaration of popular sovereignty, and its recognition by the executive as co-operating in the execution of the laws.

But in the experience of the past two years, owing to the faithlessness of the legislative assembly towards its constituents by hampering the action of the administration, and imposing restrictions upon the department of finance, and thus seriously impairing the national credit, it became necessary for the President to issue a decree on the 26th of June last, by which the executive power assumed supreme authority.

The people sanctioned this decree by loyal manifestations of good will and enthusiastic reception of the President on his visiting tour through the eastern department

Foreign representatives acquiesced in the new condition of things, including an entire change of cabinet, except the minister from Mexico, who stated that he would refer to his Government in the matter.

Subsequently, however, owing to the "kind and spontaneous initiative" of the German minister, an "arrangement" has been made by which the "Mexican flag salutes" the assembly, "together with the flags of all the powers which are represented here."

A minister has been sent from Guatemala to Washington, where he has received the cordial and kind reception characteristic of the great and intelligent people of the United States of America.

The President regards the establishment of a permanent legation in the United States as indispensable.

Pardons for political offenses were promulgated by decree from the 30th of June to the 15th of September, so that the punishment inflicted would not be more than the The executive power, however, reserved the right to grant or prison confinement.

refuse pardon according to circumstances.

In relation to action upon the ecclesiastical authority, and to avoid controversies between church and state, and in conformity with the practice of monarchs in Catholic countries, it was found necessary to apply article No. 92 of the penal code, punishing with imprisonment, or a fine from $300 to $3,000, every person in this Republic who would execute briefs, receipts, or orders from the Roman curia, publish or circu-

The archbishop, counsellor at law, Don Ricardo Casanova y Estrada, disobeyed article 92, and was exiled from the country.

The habeas corpus act will continue in force, as a constitutional guarantee, as now defined by the penal code, but its regulation is to be more clearly defined by an initiatory sketch which will be at a future day sent to the assembly.

Agriculture is to be protected in a decided and well considered manner.

Inasmuch as "it is a principle in economy that competition betters and cheapens everything," the President has thought proper to utilize several lines of steamers for trade and agriculture. The line of the Marquis de Campo has been opened to traffic, and in order to prevent the enjoyment of invidious privileges an abatement of 3 per cent. was ordered on the duties for articles imported by steamers of regular and direct lines, and another rebate of  $2\frac{9}{10}$  per cent. for the merchandise brought by regular steamers running between San Francisco, Cal., and Panama.

The German Kosmos line has received a subvention of $1,000 for every direct trip between Europe and the ports of Guatemala.

The railway line between Escuintla and the capital, although put in public service on the 15th of September, 1884, has never been officially received. Differences and deficiencies in the details of the contract, as to the execution of the work, were to be submitted to the decision of official engineers, chiefly as to the construction of bridges, wooden ones being used temporarily, instead of iron ones for a permanency. These differences and deficiencies are to be reconciled and the road to be received and the subvention regulated by mutual agreement. This has been accepted, and the executive power proclaimed the contract of July 13, 1880, to be in force and agreed that the payment of the stipulated subvention should be "effectuated" in a term of thirty years instead of twenty-five, which had been previously fixed, deducting $50,000 annually during the first six years.

A railway communication to the Atlantic coast is expected to open next year. Articles of necessity have been imported from California to be sold at a price so that the poorer classes would not suffer.

Steps have been taken to improve the condition of the army and replenish the stores of arms and ammunition; the militia is to be reorganized on the Prussian basis. Great attention has been paid to public instruction; 25 primary schools have been opened; 7 have been re-established; 16 have been declared national schools, and subventions have been granted 26. The nurseries of instruction have been increased by 85, and the pupils by nearly 4,000. The sum of $19,543 has been expended by the present Government in buildings and repairs to schools. Inspectors of primary instruction have been appointed struction have been appointed.

It was found necessary to abolish the syndicate, owing to the irregularity and neglect in book-keeping, and to regulate the way by which the national treasury would be enabled to replace the abolished establishment.

The decree with regard to pensions was abolished as having a retroactive effect.

A transitory duty has been established on the exportation of coffee, the decree stating that as long as high prices were maintained in the foreign markets $1 would be charged for every hundred weight of the berry exported.

The premium in favor of exports of sugar has been abolished.

A reduction has been made upon the excessive duties charged upon tobacco imported. Stringent regulations have been enforced to prevent frauds on the revenue, both as to imported and manufactured liquors at home.

A decree which rendered the working of coal mines difficult has been abolished. Finally, the executive has ordered the settlement of the public debt, appointing a fixed sum for the payment of interest and amortization, as well as a method to collect and verify the payments.

No. 70.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 717.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, October 7, 1887. (Received November 3.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a translation of a note from Señor Montufar, in which he intimates a wish of his Government that the United States should permit their representatives in foreign countries to represent Guatemala in the absence of a Guatemalan minister or consul. The note was written under the erroneous impression, no doubt, that the diplomatic and consular officers of the United States are authorized to represent the Swiss Government in the same manner as they do their own; that is, as if holding its commissions, and as officers of the Swiss Government to conduct its negotiations in foreign countries.

Señor Montufar called upon me yesterday, and I placed before him the two circular instructions of the Department, No. 11, of the 16th of June, and No. 15, of the 15th of December, 1871, which show that the diplomatic and consular officers of the United States are merely authorized to use their good offices in behalf of Swiss citizens, with the consent of the local authorities, in countries and places where no representatives of Switzerland reside. This apparently was not what he wanted. I promised him, however, to communicate his wishes to you, as the same will no doubt have been communicated by the Guatemalan minister at Washington.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure in No. 717.—Translation.]

Señor Montufar to Mr. Hall.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS Guatemala, October 4, 1887.

Mr. MINISTER: The United States of America have given their support to Switzerland, which, although a Republic, is a European nation, permitting the ministers and consuls of the American Union to lend their good offices to the Swiss Cantons and to their citizens in those countries where there are no ministers nor consuls of Switzerland.

Guatemala, an American Republic, would see with pleasure the adoption of such a measure in her favor. To-day I instruct our minister at Washington to make the request of the American Government, and I ask you, if there is no objection, to be pleased to write in the same sense so that the request may be well received.

This opportunity, etc.,

LORENZO MONTUFAR.

No. 71.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 718.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA.

Guatemala, October 12, 1887. (Received November 3.)

SIR: With further reference to your instructions numbered 476, 489, 494, and 499, the last dated the 8th ultimo, and to other correspondence relating to the Spanish Central American Line of steamers of the Marquis de Campo, I have the honor to inclose a translation of a contract, concluded on the 1st of July last, between the same party and the Costa Rican Government. This contract stipulates for a rebate of 5 per centum on all merchandise imported by the steamers of that line into the Pacific ports of Costa Rica.

I have postponed until now communicating with the Costa Rican Government, in regard to the above mentioned rebate, for the reason that the general agent of the Pacific Mail Company for Central America had informed me that he had been assured by the local agent in Costa Rica that the Government, following the example of Guatemala and Salvador, would of its own accord extend the same concession to all regular lines of steamers, whether under contract or not. The Government, however, has thus far done nothing of the kind; in the meantime the Spanish Central American steamers have commenced their voyages between Panama and San Francisco I have therefore determined to communicate at once to the Costa Rican Government and in the tenor of your instructions above referred to. A copy of my note of this date to the minister for foreign affairs is inclosed herewith.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 718.—Translation.]

Contract between the Marquis de Campo and the Government of Costa Rica relative to the establishment of a line of steamers between Panama and San Francisco and intermediate ports.

[From La Gaceta Oficial of Costa Rica of the 19th July, 1887.]

No. 41.

The constitutional congress of the Republic of Costa Rica decrees:

ONLY ARTICLE.

The ratification of the contract made in this city the 1st day of the present month, between the secretary of state in the marine department, duly authorized by the President of the Republic, and Carlos F. Irigoyen, in representation of the Marquis de Campo, for the establishment of a line of steamers between Panama, San Francisco, Cal., and intermediate ports, for the service of transportation of passengers, cargo, and correspondence.

The tenor of the contract referred to is as follows:

Apolinar de Jesus Soto, secretary of the department of war and marine of Costa Rica, duly authorized by the President of the Republic, and Carlos Francisco Irigoyen y Montero, etc., resident of Guatemala, in the name and in representation of Señor Don José Campo y Perez, Marquis de Campo, etc., resident of Madrid, capital of the Kingdom of Spain, as per power of attorney in due form exhibited, have agreed to enter into, ad referendum, the following contract:

ARTICLE 1.

The Marquis de Campo binds himself with the Government of Costa Rica in the terms hereinafter expressed.

(a) To establish a line of mail steamers to ply between San Francisco, Cal., and Panama and intermediate ports, which shall be employed for the service of cargo, and shall have sufficient accommodations for carrying passengers.

The line shall be styled the "Spanish Central American," and shall consist of seven mail steamers, whose names shall be Centro America, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Salvador, Honduras, Guatemala, and Mexico. The two first named shall sail under the flag of Costa Rica, and the others under the flags of the other Republics of Central America.

The company may employ auxiliary steamers, which may carry the Spanish flag, and the latter shall have the same rights and obligations stipulated in the present contract in regard to those previously mentioned.

The steamers shall touch at the port of Punta Arenas, and at any other which the Government may open on the Pacific, at least once a week, with the obligation of remaining therein ordinarily twelve hours, and six hours more when the authority, by notification to the agent or to the captain of the vessel, shall demand it two hours before the time designated for sailing, save in every case the time required for loading and discharging.

The company shall give notice to the marine department of the dates upon which the steamers should arrive at the port or ports of the Republic, and others of the route, according to the established itinerary, and shall also give public notice thereof in the official newspaper. In the same manner notice shall be given of any change in the dates of the arrival of the steamers.

(b) To charge as a maximum of freight and passage the rates designated to-day in the tariff of the Pacific Mail Steam-ship Company, with a rebate of 20 per cent. in addition; the passages are payable in soles, in money of Guatemala or Honduras, or in their equivalent in Costa Rican money. But for material and munition of war, as well as any other articles which the Government may import for its own account, the company shall rebate 25 cents from its adopted tariff.

(c) To give, upon the order of the respective departments, a free passage in its steamers from Costa Rica to any of the ports of their itinerary, and vice versa, to the diplomatic ministers and employés of the Government traveling in commission. In addition to this there shall be placed at the disposal of the Government every year four first-class round passages between San Francisco and Panama or intermediate ports.

(d) To carry at half the tariff rates troops in the service of the Government upon the presentation to the agent or supercargo on board of the order of the respective department in which the class of passage to be given shall be designated. Also to carry for one-half the steerage rates laborers arriving in or leaving the Republic with the authorization of the Government, the fact to be verified by a competent authority. In either case, upon an emergency, the order may be given by the captain of the port.

(e) To receive on board the steamers each year and to maintain at his expense four young men, who, in the opinion of a commission appointed by the Government, have made the needful studies to become apprentices in navigation; four others, two of whom to learn engineering and two the duties of quartermaster, and twelve others to acquire the knowledge and practice of wheelmen.

The four first, after two years, shall be examined, and should they prove to be fitted, shall receive a diploma, and they shall be employed according to their class and the wages assigned the station; the next four and the twelve last named shall earn wages from the time they are received on board, and these, as well as those previously mentioned, shall not be dismissed from the service, except for faults of a grave character or for manifest incapacity.

The company is bound to notify the minister of marine, when for any of the causes mentioned in the foregoing paragraph the apprentices may be dismissed, so that the Government may replace them.

(f) To carry the mails of Costa Rica in his steamers for the places at which they may touch, and those for the Republic that may be delivered to the steamers, as also to be responsible for their care and preservation on board. The correspondence shall be delivered and received by the intermediary of the postmasters.

The officers of the steamers are prohibited absolutely from receiving letters cutside of the mails, except those that may be delivered on the high seas or after the closing of the mails; but in such cases the letters shall be delivered to the authorized functionaries of the Government, who shall collect the postage thereon, unless already franked with stamps.

Notwithstanding, the company may carry outside, apart, all letters or papers of or from its employes, and upon the business of the company.

The correspondence must be delivered alongside of the steamer, and the captain shall be bound to receive it at any moment up to the hour of sailing.

(g) To prove, under penalty of $100 fine for each infraction, should it be necessary, that a steamer may have been compelled by circumstances to sail without awaiting the corresponding permit of the captain of the port.

(h) To submit to a fine of $200 for each failure of the steamer to touch at the port or ports of the Republic upon the designated dates, it being understood that if it should occur three times consecutively the fine shall be $500, and if four times consecutively the fine shall be $1,000, and if the failures should be five or more times consecutively the Government shall have the right to collect as a penalty $2,000 for the last, and in addition to declare the contract to be de facto rescinded.

(i) Not to carry on board of their steamers troops or elements of war from the ports of their itinerary to the territory of the republic without the express consent of the Government, and in every case the company bind themselves not to land arms nor ammunition of the class before mentioned in the ports of the nation, unless expressly consigned to the Government.

(j) To observe strictly the laws and regulations relative to maritime traffic, saving the exceptions contained in this contract.

ARTICLE 2.

The Government of Costa Rica binds itself with the contractor, the Marquis de

(a) To rebate 5 per cent from the customs duties upon whatever merchandise may be imported by the steamers of the line in the ports of the Pacific. But the company may import, free of customs duties, stores and utensils, purely naval, required for its vessels, conditional with a previous presentation of a memorial to the treasury department, so that note thereof may be taken and the respective authorization conceded if in conformity with the stipulations of this contract.

(b) Not to demand of the steamers of the company for all port dues more than $10 in the aggregate each time that one of them touches at the port or ports of the country upon their contracted service; and to exempt the movable and immovable property of the company in the Republic for maritime service from taxes of every kind, which in future may be levied.

(c) To concede to the company gratuitously eighteen lots of public land in the port or ports at which the vessels may touch in fulfillment of this contract for the construction of buildings and for marine service.

(d) To instruct the captains of ports to receive and dispatch the steamers without delay, by day and by night, the company paying for the extra labor of the employes.

(e) To give the company a pecuniary subvention of $10,000 a year during the five first years, and $8,000 a year during the remaining five, said subvention to be payable monthly in current money of the Republic, commencing from the 16th day of December, 1888, upon which the existing contract between the Pacific mail steamers shall cease.

(f) Not to concede to any other company or companies greater advantages than those which by this contract are conceded to Spanish Central American line of steamers in whatever relates to the service between San Francisco and Panama.

ARTICLE 3.

The duration of this contract shall be for ten years, commencing in conformity with clause (e) in the foregoing article on the 16th of December, 1888. Notwithstanding, with the exception of the pecuniary subvention, both contracting parties agree that the service of the Spanish Central American Line shall commence on the first of October of the present year, with all other covenanted obligations and rights.

ARTICLE 4.

The contractor may transfer or hypothecate by whatever title the line of steamers mentioned in this contract, it being understood that such transfer or hypothecation shall not be in favor of any foreign Government nor to the prejudice of the stipulations in this convention.

ARTICLE 5.

In case the Panama Canal should be opened during this contract, the company may propose to the Government a modification or amplification of its conditions; but if it should not be accepted, the said contract shall for the same reason terminate.

ARTICLE 6.

The capital of the company, wherein it does not conflict with the foregoing clauses, shall be considered as foreign capital.

ARTICLE 7.

The company shall have an agent in the capital of this Republic with sufficient powers to represent it in all cases.

ARTICLE 8.

Every question which shall arise between the contracting parties with respect to its rights and obligations shall be submitted, in accordance with the laws of the country, to the decision of the arbitrators, one named by the Government and the other by the company; and if they should disagree in their report, it shall be decided by a third, to be mutually agreed upon by the same arbitrators at the time of accepting their appointment.

ARTICLE 9.

This contract is subject to the approbation of the legislature of the Republic. In faith whereof they sign the present contract at the national palace of San José, the 1st day of July, 1867.

A. DE JESUS SOTO. CARLOS IRIGOYEN.

PRESIDENTIAL PALACE.

Let the foregoing contract be approved and submitted to the Constitutional Congress for its ratification.

To the executive power.

Given in the hall of sessions of the national palace at San José the 16th day of July, 1887.

A. Esquivel,

President.

MAXIMO FERNANDEZ,

Secretary.

FRAN'CO M. FUENTES.

Proto-Secretary.

Let it be executed.

Soto.

Soto.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 718.]

Mr. Hall to Señor Esquivel.

GUATEMALA, October 12, 1887.

Mr. MINISTER: The Department of State of the United States in several of its instructions to the writer assumes that the rebate in customs duties which the Government of Costa Rica has recently granted to the so-called Spanish Central-American line of steamers is contrary to the spirit and intentions of all modern treaties of commerce and friendship, and especially to the spirit and intentions of the existing treaty of friendship, navigation, and commerce between the United States and that Republic.

Under date of the 1st July last past, as appears in the official newspaper of Costa Rica of the 19th of the same month, a contract was concluded between the Government of your excellency and Don Carlos F. Irigoyen, as agent of the Marquis de Campo. This contract (article 2, clause a) stipulates, in addition to a money subsidy, for a rebate of 5 per centum in custom duties upon all merchandise imported into Costa Rica by vessels of that line; it stipulates also that this privilege shall not be extended to any other line of steamers during the existence of the contract (article 2, clause f); elsewhere in the contract it is provided that the duration of the contract shall be ten years.

The first-mentioned stipulation practically closes the import trade of the Pacific ports of Costa Rica to American vessels for a period of ten years; it excludes them from participation in the same import trade from San Francisco and any other ports of the United States on the Pacific. Article 2, clause f, appears to be contrary to the spirit and intentions as well as the letter of Article 3 of the before-mentioned treaty.

The treaty of 1851 between the United States and Costa Rica stipulates that there shall be reciprocal freedom of commerce between the two countries. It also stipulates, substantially, that no higher duties shall be collected upon merchandise imported into Costa Rica in vessels of the United States than shall be collected upon merchandise in vessels of any other nationality; at all events, it will no doubt be apparent to your excellency that the framers of that treaty could have never contemplated the possibility that merchandise imported into Costa Rica by American vessels would, under any circumstances, ever be subjected to higher duties than those imposed upon merchandise imported by the vessels of any other nationality whatsoever.

My Government would be very reluctant to imagine even that the Government of your excellency entertains the unfriendly purpose of excluding vessels of the United States from the import trade of the Pacific ports of Costa Rica, and to compel American shippers of San Francisco and other ports of the United States to make use of the so-called Spanish Central American Line in order to enjoy the rebate of 5 per centum in duties; still, as the contract now stands, there can hardly be any other conclusion. As an example of the injustice and inequality of this rebate of 5 per centum, it is alleged that upon very many classes of goods it will exceed the amount of freight money from San Francisco, New York, and even from Europe by every

In the same connection I am authorized by my Government to say that the proposed alterations of the national customs tariff for the benefit of a special enterprise, as in this instance, overpass all legitimate limits of subsidies to vessels, and operate to destroy American shipping interests, which have been built up in good faith and in the faith of treaties, and that the differential duties it is proposed to establish to the prejudice of those interests call for an urgent protest. Should its respectful representa-tion be insufficient, my Government will be compelled, however reluctantly, to recommend to the Congress of the United States the adoption of some legislation which will effectually protect those interests, and if it should result in the imposition of differential duties upon the products of Costa Rica imported into the United States by the Spanish Central American Line, the Government of your excellency will surely have no just cause to complain.

But to avoid such retaliatory measures and to promote by all legitimate means the friendly relations of commerce between the two countries, I beg leave respectfully to suggest that your excellency's Government shall immediately extend to all vessels of the United States arriving at the Pacific ports of Costa Rica the same rebate of 5 per centum in duties which have been accorded to the Spanish Central American Line.

My Government has a right to expect such a resolution of your excellency's Government as being in accord with treaty stipulations; it would, moreover; obviate further controversy upon a disagreeable subject.

I trust these observations will be received in the same friendly spirit in which they are offered, and in the interests of the cordial relations which have always subsisted between the United States and Costa Rica.

With renewed assurances, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

No. 72.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 729.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

(Received November 22.) Guatemala, October 31, 1887.

SIR: On the night of the 27th instant Col. Don Vicente Castañeda, Constitutional Vice-President of Guatemala, at the head of an insurgent force of about two hundred men, invaded Huehuetenango, an important town near the frontier of Mexico, and attempted to seize the military quarters; after two hours' firing the insurgents were repulsed. Castañeda was captured the next day at the neighboring town of Chiantla, and yesterday morning was shot, as also were four of the principal officers that accompanied him.

Almost simultaneously with the affair at Huehuetenango another insurrectionary movement was frustrated near the frontier of Salvador; four of the leaders were captured and have since been shot.

It appears that these revolutionary attempts were intended to have been made two months ago. It is said that the affair at La Union,

Salvador, the night of the 5th of September, reported in my No. 703, of the 13th of that mouth, was a part of the plan.

After the failures referred to, the insurgent organizations have broken up and the forces have dispersed; it is believed that no more attempts will be made, as it is evident that the movement has met with no popular response or sympathy.

The inclosures herewith contain the official and unofficial reports published by the Government and, I have no doubt, are trustworthy.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 729.—Translation.—Supplement to "El Guatemalteco," 28th October, 1887.]

Public tranquillity assured.

The public is already aware that a party of bandits, led by Mariano Pineda, Jorge The public is aircady aware char a party of balletis, led by Mariano Fineda, Jorge Zepeda, José Arzú, and Juárez, have been scouting through different places of the departments of Guatemala, Santa Rosa, and Jalapa, closely followed up by the forces of the Government, meeting with no sympathy in any of the villages and hamlets through which they passed; but, on the contrary, finding that in those same localities the inhabitants were arming with the purpose of capturing them, they were compelled to disperse; some went in the direction of Alzatate to reach from thence the Soledad Mountain others presented themselves to the chiefs of the Government. the Soledad Mountain, others presented themselves to the chiefs of the Government forces sent in their pursuit.

Among those who fled to the mountain were the above-mentioned four chiefs, but the Indians of Alzatate pursued them closely and captured two; the others were compelled to leave the neighborhood; the chiefs, considering themselves lost and being destitute of all resources, decided to take refuge in the territory of Salvador; with that object they fled in the direction of Jutiapa and, in passing Tasajera, were captured by the commandant, Pedro Cambara.

Last night they were conducted to headquarters at Jutiapa, where they will be tried according to military laws.

While the Government was giving its orders in regard to the foregoing a dispatch came from the telegraph operator of Huehuetenango reporting that the garrison was attacked and that a lively firing against the military quarters was going on. A few moments later he amplified his dispatch stating, that Colonel Don Vicente Castañeda, with forces of Chiantla, a neighboring town, was the attacking party; an hour and a half later the following telegram was received:

"HUEHUETENANGO, October 27, 1887.

" To the President:

"At 7 p. m. Don Vicente Castañeda invaded this place, was repulsed by the twentyfive men of the garrison, and retired after two hours firing; we lost on ourside, killed, a lieutenant and two soldiers. The insurgents left a sublicutenant and three soldiers, killed, and carried away others of their dead; they also left two wounded We had three soldiers wounded.

"It was impossible to estimate the number of the force. Mariano Casteñeda, a relative of the chief, and two officers named Castellanos accompanied him. "Francisco Fuentes."

Telegraphic orders were given immediately to the commanders of Quezaltenango, San Marcos, and Quiché, to march with their forces of upwards of two thousand men to the aid of Huchuetenango; order was re-established there, as in Chiantla, when Castefieda with fifteen other persons were captured. Castefieda's treason has the double stain of having been false to his military duties, inasmuch as he was in the active service of a Government which had treated him wi hall kinds of consideration, and of having reciprocated with base ingratitude the social importance and the promotions which General Barillas had given him.

The affairs of Palencia and Huehuetenango demonstrate once more that the towns of the Republic will not now rise up as in former times at the voice of the first ambitions leader who would make them the instruments of his ignoble designs. The Government applauds the conduct of the several chiefs, the troops and inhabitants of the Orient and Occident, who have contributed to the maintenance of public order and have severely punished those who attempted to subvert it.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 729.—Translation.—From "El Guatemalteco" of 30th October, 1887.]

Execution of insurgent chiefs in Guatemala.

[Telegram from General Pimental to President Barillas.]

JUTIAPA, October 29, 1887.

To the President:

After having made the required investigation, in conformity with the requirements of the law, I ordered the insurgent chiefs, Mariano Pineda, Jorge Zepeda, José Arzú, and Antonio Juárez, belonging to the band of which you are already informed, to be shot.

S. PIMENTAL.

CHIANTLA, October 30, 1887.

To the President:

At this moment, 6 a.m. ex-Col. Vicente Castañeda, ex-Lieuts. Ismael Diaz and José Muñoz, and ex-Sublieuts. Matias Cifuentes and Francisco Alonzo, convicted of military sedition, have been executed with the formalities of the law. Luis Molina.

[Inclosure 3 in No. 729.—Translation.]

Proclamation of President Barillas.

Manuel Lisandro Barillas, general of division and President of the Republic of Guatemala, to the Guatemalans:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: In assuming the unlimited powers given me by the decree of of 26th June, my purpose was to make use of them with so much moderation and forbearance that not a tear should be shed for political causes. In pursuance of this purpose the gubernative action was so directed that there was no imprisonment and no expulsion until the moment when for powerful reasons, of which you are all well aware, it became necessary to expel Archbishop Ricardo Cazanova from the territory of the Republic.

On the 1st of October the constituent assembly was installed. I gave account to it of all my official acts, and in the naration is to be found no other act of severity than the indispensable expulsion of Senor Cazanova.

The constituent power approved on that same day, by acclamation, the decree of the 26th of June, and was pleased also to extend a vote of thanks to the executive power. I awaited the happy moment when the new fundamental law should be placed in my hands to enter upon a constitutional regimen, without any Guatemalan or inhabitant of this Republic having undergone molestation.

But fate had proposed for Guatemala a situation that was not in my peaceful, lenient, and mild programme. There are persons and political circles to whom alternation in power is not acceptable; they consider themselves designated by special privileges always to command and never to obey. It is of no importance to them that their estates are secure, that in their persons they enjoy the most ample guaranties, that they enjoy tranquillity, unless they have absolute power, unless they have the people subject to their order like a flock of lambs; and if they do not guide so that not a ray of the light of modern civilization can penetrate, they will always be making efforts to place themselves at the head to dominate so that the country may return to the dark night of those thirty years. I shall present you proofs of all this.

On the 25th of September the Government had notice that on the frontier of Salvador a party of insurgents had risen up, and, led by Salvador, Sandoval, José Aguilar, and one Tinoco, said to be a Nicaraguan general; it knew very well that the movement had been planned and was directed by some of the strongest reactionists of the capital of Guatemala who also supplied it with resources.

I abstained from proceeding against them and even from making investigations which might result in a punishment which was not in accord with my adopted programme, and I devoted my efforts solely to breaking up the faction. The result was a happy one, due to the energy of General Pimental, commandant at Jutiapa, to the activity of the commandants of Chiquimula Jalapa, Zacapa, and Santa Rosa and to the officers under them, and to the loyalty and good sense of the inhabitants of the towns which, though in contact with the insurgents, resisted their persuasions.

Thanks, also, to the Government of Honduras, which manifested its desire to cooperate in the extermination of the insurgents, and to the good offices of the Government of Salvador, which, like a true friend, has been a loyal sentinel of tranquillity and order, this moment was not isolated.

Proceeding from Palencia, a party led by Mariano Pineda, Jorge Zepeda, José Arzú, and Antonio Juárez scoured several points of the departments of Guatemala, Santa Rosa, and Jalapa. It was closely pursued by the forces of the Government, and found no sympathy whatever in the hamlets through which it fled. Instead of support, they met with persecution. The inhabitants spontaneously took up arms to capture them, and in this situation they were compelled to disperse, some taking the direction of Alzatate to reach the Soledad Mountain, while others presented themselves to the chiefs sent in their pursuit and solicited protection. The Indians of Alzatate followed up closely those who went in that direction.

The insurgent chiefs, destitute of resources, and believing themselves lost, attempted to reach Salvadorian territory through the department of Jutiapa, and at a place called Tasajera were captured by the commandunt, Pedro Cambara. Orders were given immediately to conduct them to headquarters at Jutiapa, where, after the regular trial, Pineda, Arzú, Zepeda, and Juárez were shot.

This is not all what happened in the Republic. On the night of October 27, the post commander of Huehuetenango notified the commander of the department, Francisco Fuentes, that there was a group of armed men near the city. The garrison was placed under arms and the militia was called together; but before the corps of guards could arrive the insurgents penetrated into the principal square; they were led by Vicente Castañeda (vice-president of Guatemala), who harangued his men with shouts, crying that he was going to be President of the Republic. Fuentes defended the place bravely during two hours of firing, several dead and wounded on both sides remaining on the field. sides remaining on the field.

The routed insurgents were captured and tried with the formalities of the law, and to day at 6 a. m. ex-Col. Vicente Castañeda, ex-Lieuts. Ismael Diaz and José Muñoz, and ex-Sublieuts. Matias Cifuences and Francisca Alonzo suffered its extreme penalty.

When the news of the attack on Huehnetenango was received orders were sent to the commanders of Quezaltenango, Quiché, and San Marcos to send aid, and I am very satisfied not only with the activity with which these forces were mobilized, the enthusiasm of the chief in command, the celerity with which they repaired to the point indicated under the orders of General Molina, but with the loyalty manifested on the deads by the peoples of the Republic, both in the Orient and Occident.

Compatriots: The blood shed in battles is to be regretted, and still more when shed on the scaffold, but the responsibility of such effusion falls not upon the Government acting in self-defense, but upon the insurgents who combat it in all possible ways without excepting the most execrable of all, treason to the Republic.

Guatemalans: Whatever may be my own ideas in regard to the inviolability of human life, the military laws which have been placed in my hands to be enforced, and which I have promised faithfully to observe, impose the penalty of death upon those who, with arms in their hands, attempt to pervert public order.

Inhabitants of the Republic: I have been placed under the necessity of exercising acts of severity which are not in harmony with my sentiments, but it is not possible for me to witness with indifference the public peace menaced, and our dearest interests in danger. I shall continue, to my great regret, the course of severity, in which unfortunately I have been placed, if the acts of justice accomplished at Jutiapa and Huehuetenango should not suffice to insure order and progress, institutions which are of the first and greatest necessity of the country.

Guatemala, October 30.

M. L. BARILLAS.

No. 73.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

[Extract.]

No. 516.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, November 2, 1887.

SIR: I have to acknowledge receipt of your No. 710, of September 28, concerning the proposed Spanish Central American line of steamers, and to say that the Department has also received from the vice-president and the secretary of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company letters bearing upon that subject.

Copies of this correspondence were promptly submitted to the Secretary of the Treasury, with a view to the application of the provisions of section 2502 of the Revised Statutes of the United States. Pending final decision by the fiscal authorities, however, a letter was received from the secretary of the Pacific Mail Company, dated the 17th instant, saying that they were in receipt of advices to the effect that the discriminating duty imposed by Guatemala against American vessels would soon be withdrawn, and expressing the belief that the other States of Central America would recede from their unjust position in this regard.

A copy of this letter was likewise communicated to the Secretary of the Treasury, who, under date of the 25th ultimo, replied that unless further advised his Department would take no action at present toward exacting the discriminating duty prescribed by section 2502 of the Revised Statutes.

This conclusion, it may be observed, is evidence of the good will and indisposition of the United States to take advantage of the situation while a prospect of satisfactory adjustment remains, and it is earnestly hoped that the early removal by Guatemala of any discrimination against vessels of the United States, and the recession of the other Central American States from their present unjust position in this regard, will save the Government of the United States the necessity of entering upon a course of retaliation which can not fail to disturb our hitherto beneficial relations.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 74.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 517.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, November 5, 1887.

SIR: I have to acknowledge the receipt of your No. 718, of the 12th ultimo, in the matter of the Spanish Central American Line of steamers, and the contract with the Government of Costa Rica granting a rebate of 5 per cent. on all merchandise imported by the steamers of that line into the Pacific ports of that Republic.

I have inclosed a copy of your dispatch to the Secretary of the Treasury, calling his attention to your note to the Costa Rican minister for foreign affairs protesting against this unfavorable treatment of American commercial interests, and intimating that unless our vessels were accorded the same rebate, this Government might find it necessary to apply retaliatory measures.

Your action in the premises is approved.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 75.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 523.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, December 6, 1887.

SIR: I transmit a copy* of an affidavit by Henry Nelson, master of an American steam-tug, William S. Moore, in which he states that on November 20, 1887, while lying at anchor in the Rama River, Mosquito Reservation, his vessel was forcibly seized by an armed body of Nicaraguan troops or persons wearing uniforms of the Nicaraguan soldiers.

^{*} See inclosure 2 in document No. 84.

You will present the complaint to the minister for foreign affairs, with a view to an investigation thereof and proper explanation or reparation, as the facts of the case may require.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 76.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 749.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,
Guatemala, December 8, 1887. (Received January 4.)

SIR: With my dispatch No. 450, of November 20, 1885, I transmitted a copy of a contract between the Guatemalan Government and one Martin Roberts for the construction of the so-called "Northern Railway of Guatemala," by which it is proposed to connect this capital with the Atlantic sea-board. Mr. Roberts, it appears, did not succeed in inducing New York capitalists, fortunately for themselves, to invest in that scheme, and nothing has since been heard of it.

The Government has again entered into another contract, for the same object, with Mr. John T. Anderson, merchant and United States consular agent at Livingston. Mr. Anderson is a native of Canada, and a naturalized citizen of the United States. To carry out his enterprise he proposes, I understand, to form a company in New York City and to incorporate it under the laws of that State.

This railway was undertaken by the Guatemalan Government in 1883 and abandoned in 1885, soon after the death of President Barrios. During all of that period and for a year later it was a source of constant trouble and annoyance to the Department as well as to this legation. The construction of the first 60 miles was contracted for with Messrs. Shea, Cornick & Co., who brought out large numbers of laborers from New Orleans, and others followed who were not contracted, but ostensibly in search of work on the railway.

The reports that reached me of the want, destitution, sickness, and mortality among those laborers were such that I deemed it my duty to invite the Department's attention to the matter and to suggest that a naval vessel should be sent to Livingston to convey the destitute laborers to New Orleans, from whence most of them came. In accordance with my suggestion, the U. S. S. Swatara was sent to that port and many of the laborers found to be in a deplorable state of destitution were taken on board and carried back to New Orleans. The Commander reported to his Department that the prompt arrival of the Swatara at Livingston was, no doubt, the means of saving many lives.

Soon after these occurrences the new government of Guatemala failed to observe its contract with Messrs. Shea, Cornick & Co., who, in consequence, were compelled to make an assignment of their claims against the government to their creditors. The creditors through their syndics made two successive adjustments of the claims with the government, both of which were in succession repudiated, and then the matter became the subject of a long correspondence between the creditors, the department, and this legation, which did not terminate until a year later.

I have the honor to inclose an English version of the contract with Mr. Anderson, and to invite the Department's attention to Article 1X, relative to the right of the contractor to import laborers and the obligation of the Government to employ all the means in its power to enforce the contracts made abroad with such labor.

The means that would probably be employed for that purpose would be the imprisonment of the laborer or other arbitrary methods, such as are employed in the coolie system, and could not, I imagine, be permitted to be applied to laborers contracted in the United States.

The present government of Guatemala is, no doubt, disposed to carry out this latest contract in good faith, but there is no assurance that any other government which might succeed it would be favorably inclined.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure in No. 749.]

Contract between the Guatemalan Government and John T. Anderson—Northern Railway of Guatemala.

[Extract.]

ARTICLE IX.

The enterprise, with the exception of Chinese, has the right to import the number of workmen it may need, and the government will employ all means in its power to enforce the contracts they make with the enterprise; said contracts will be considered valid in the republic, although celebrated in a foreign country; this will be consigned in the respective contracts.

No. 77.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 750.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA, Guatemala, December 8, 1887. (Received January 4, 1888.)

SIR: Under date of the 6th of July last, the Costa Rican Government concluded a contract with one of its citizens, named Pedro Terrés, for the establishment of a line of sailing vessels between Port Limon on the Atlantic, and ports of Europe; in this contract the government concedes a rebate of 5 per centum in customs duties on all merchandise imported into Costa Rica by those vessels, and exemption of the vessels from light and tonnage dues. By a subsequent decree, the same rebate and concessions are conceded to the vessels of Terrés on the Pacific.

From the fact that these vessels are to sail under the Costa Rican flag, it would seem that the exceptional privileges they enjoy are in conflict with articles IV and V of the treaty of 1851, between the United States and that republic, which place the vessels of both nations upon a footing of absolute equality in the ports of each other. I respectfully invite the Department's attention to the translations, herewith inclosed, of the contract and decree referred to.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure in No. 750.—Translation.—From La Gaceta de Costa Rica, July 7, 1887.]

Contract between the Costa Rican Government and Señor Terrés.

Apolinar de J. Soto, secretary of state in the department of war, duly authorized, on the one part, and of the other part Pedro Terrés y Ruis, of age, married, merchant, and resident of this city, have concluded the following contract:

ARTICLE 1.

Senor Terrés binds himself-

(a) To establish between the port of Limon, of this republic, and the European ports that may suit his interests, a regular and constant service of transports by means of the sailing vessel Anita, matriculated in this country, and the other vessels of the same class that he may hereafter choose to establish, with the object of conveying the products of this republic to Europe and of bringing merchandise destined to the same, at a reduced rate of freights, in benefit of the commerce of this country.

(b) To make a rebate of 25 per centum in the freight upon effects for the government brought by his vessel.

(c) Not to permit on board of his vessels the transportation of troops or munitions of war to the territory of the republic without the express consent of the government, nor to land any arms or war materials in the ports of the nation unless coming consigned to the government.

(d) To place eight passages, annually, by his vessels going to and returning from Europe to this republic and vice versa, at the disposal of the government.

(e) To place his vessel or vessels at the disposal of the same government, whenever solicited, at an equitable remuneration.

ARTICLE 2.

The Government of Costa Rica, in conformity with the decree No. 30, of the 4th instant, of the constitutional congress, concedes a rebate of 5 per centum from the custom duties upon the merchandise imported into the country at the port of Limon by the vessel or vessels of Señor Terrés, during the term of this contract; it being understood that inasmuch as the said vessels sail under the flag of Costa Rica, they are exempted from the payment of light and tonnage dues in conformity with Article 15 of the fiscal code.

ARTICLE 3.

The duration of this contract shall be for five years from the date of its approval by the president of the republic. In case that Senor Terrés, for any cause, should not be able to keep up the service during the time stipulated, he shall give opportune notice thereof to the government, so that it can decide as to the rescission of this contract.

ARTICLE 4.

This contract may be transferred by the contractor to any person or company whatsoever, but to no foreign government.

In faith of which they sign the present contract in the national palace at San José on the 6th day of July, 1887.

A. DE J. SOTO, PEDRO TERRÉS.

PRESIDENTIAL PALACE, San Jose, July 6, 1887.

The foregoing contract approved.

Soto.

No. 55.

The constitutional congress of the Republic of Costa Rica, at the solicitation of Don Pedro Terrés, and in use of the powers conferred by the seventy-third article of the constitution,

DECREES.

Only article.—The authorization given to the executive power by decree No. 30, of the 4th instant, is hereby amplified to the effect that the same concessions shall be granted to the vessels owned by Señor Terrés which navigate the Pacific as have been given to the vessels which he intends to establish on the Atlantic, conditional with his rendering in compensation the same service to the satisfaction of the executive

To the executive power given in the hall of sessions of the national palace at San José, the 29th day of July, 1887.

A. Esquivel,
President of Congress.
Maximo Fernandez,
Secretary.
Manuel J. Jimenez,
Proto. Secretary.

PRESIDENTIAL PALACE, San José, July 30, 1887.

Let it be executed.

Soto.

No. 78.

Mr. Bayard to Mr Hall.

No. 525.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, December 9, 1887.

SIR: In connection with my 517 of the 5th ultimo, concerning the contract between the agent of the Spanish Central-American line of steamers and the Government of Costa Rica, touching the rebate of 5 per cent. on importations in those steamers, I have now to apprise you of the receipt of a letter from the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, dated the 14th ultimo, saying that in view of the statement of the agent of the Pacific Mail Steam ship Company, the parties most interested, and of which report is made in my No. 516 of the 2d ultimo, to the effect that the Central American governments are expected shortly to withdraw the discrimination against vessels of the United States, that Department does not deem it expedient to take any action at present in the matter, but asks this Department to advise it of any further developments.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 79.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 751.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,
Guatemala, December 10, 1887. (Received Jan. 4, 1888.)

SIR: With my dispatch No. 718 of the 12th of October last, I transmitted a copy of my note of the same date to the minister for foreign affairs of Costa Rica, relative to the rebate of 5 per cent. in customs duties which that Government concedes to all merchandise imported into the Pacific ports of Costa Rica by the steamers of the so-called Spanish Central American line plying between Panama and San Francisco.

I have now to inform the Department that up to this date I have received no reply to or acknowledgment of the note referred to, although I have reason to believe that it has been in possession of the minister for the past six weeks or more.

In the mean time four steamers of the before-mentioned line are plying between Panama and San Francisco, all of them enjoying this 5 per cent. rebate in the port of Punta Arenas; this alone is sufficient to exclude the Pacific Mail Company's steamers and all other American vessels from the import trade of Costa Rica in her ports on the Pacific.

One of the steamers of the Central American or Campo line is named the Costa Rica and sails under the Costa Rican flag.

It has been contended that this rebate, if conceded to vessels of a distinct nationality, is not contrary to the treaty stipulations of the United States with these republics. I do not believe that the Department is prepared to admit such a claim, but while there might be the shadow of a doubt on this point as regards the vessels of other nation alities, there can be, in my judgement, none whatever that the Government of Costa Rica in granting such rebate to vessels sailing under the Costa Rican flag, to the prejudice of the commerce of the United States, totally disregarded its treaty obligations.

The treaty of 1851, between the United States and Costa Rica, provides, among other stipulations, for reciprocal freedom of commerce. Article VI provides, substantially, that the same duties shall be paid upon importations into Costa Rica, whether the same shall be made in Costa Rican vessels or in vessels of the United States.

I inclose herewith a translation of a letter from the Costa Rican consul at Panama to the minister of foreign affairs of Costa Rica, announcing the arrival at that port on the 6th of September last of the steamer bearing the name and sailing under the flag of that republic; a copy of a letter dated October 25, from the consul of the United States at San José, in answer to my inquiries as to whether the rebate referred to is being carried out, and copies of two letters upon the same subject, from Mr. Leverich, the special agent of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company in Central America, to all of which I beg to invite the Department's attention.

As Costa Rica discriminates in her Pacific ports against vessels of the United States and their cargoes, and in favor of her own flag, it is but just that the discrimination provided for by section 2502 of the Revised Statutes should be applied to Costa Rican vessels and their cargoes in the port of San Francisco.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 751.—Translation.]

Consul Boyd to Señor Esquivel.

CONSULATE OF COSTA RICA, Panama, September 23, 1887.

Mr. MINISTER: I have the honor to inform you that the national steamer Costa Rica, Capt. Don José Asín, of the line of the Marquis de Campo, arrived at this port on the 6th instant.

She is a beautiful vesse, of 4,000 tons register, three masts, new machinery of 2,000 horse-power; she employed  $53\frac{1}{2}$  days on the voyage fron Antwerp to Panama, subdivided as follows:

Antwerp to Buenos Ayres, twenty-seven days; Buenos Ayres to Port Coronel, fifteen days; Port Coronel to Panama, eleven and one-half days; notwithstanding bad

I am pleased to certify that Commander Asin brings all of his documents in order, and upon these conditions she will clear to-day for Champerico, touching on her return at Punta Arenas.

In congratulating the supreme government upon the inauguration of this line, which is destined to promote development and progress in that republic in its manifold interests,

I beg, etc.,

SAMUEL BOYD, Consul.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 751.]

Mr. Wingfield to Mr. Hall.

CONSULATE OF THE UNITED STATES AT SAN JOSÉ, COSTA RICA, October 25, 1887.

SIR: In reply to your letter of the 12th October, 1887, I understand that the contract between the Costa Rican Government and the Spanish American Line of steamers, by which a rebate of 5 per centum on duties upon merchandise brought upon said steamers is allowed, is being carried out.

I am, etc.,

J. RICH'D WINGFIELD.

[Inclesure 3 in No. 751.]

Mr. Leverich to Mr. Hall.

AGENCY PACIFIC MAIL STEAM-SHIP COMPANY, Guatemala, November 9, 1887.

SIR: At La Libertad, on the 4th instant, I found a quantity of cigars stored awaiting shipment to Costa Rica per Marquis de Campo Line. I offered to take them at the same rate of freight which the Campo Line charges; 20 per cent. less than our tariff. The owner, however, refused my offer on the ground that Costa Rica allows a rebate of 5 per cent. in the duties on merchandise imported by the Campo steamers.

I bring this to your attention to show you how impossible it is for this company to compete with the Campo Line while these discriminating duties exist.

I am, etc.,

J. H. LEVERICH, Special Agent.

[Inclosure 4 in No. 751.]

Mr. Leverich to Mr. Hall.

AGENCY PACIFIC MAIL STEAM-SHIP COMPANY, Guatemala, December 9, 1887.

SIR: I beg to transcribe for your information the following extract from a letter which I have received from this company's agent at Punta Arenas (Costa Rica) dated the 24th ultimo:

"The matter of the 5 per cent. rebate is still in the same shape; this protection of the Campo Line induces importers to give it the preference over ours, especially for all articles paying high duties, like cigars, which pay $2 per kilogram.
"The Guatemala brought to this port 80 tons of different kinds of goods from San

The foregoing will suffice to show you how handicapped this company is in meeting this competition against a discriminating customs duty of 5 per cent. in favor of the Campo Line.

> J. H. LEVERICH. Special Agent.

No. 80.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 752.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, December 10, 1887. (Received January 4, 1888.)

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your instructions, No. 516 and No. 517, of the 2d and 5th ultimo, in regard to the rebate in customs duties conceded to the Spanish Central American Line of steamers by the Governments of some of these Republics.

The Guatemalan Government has not withdrawn the discriminating duty of one-tenth of 1 per cent. against American vessels in its Pacific ports, nor is there any probability that it will be done until some opportunity occurs for abrogating its contract with that line.

The Nicaraguan Government has withdrawn the rebate of 2 per cent. it had conceded to the same line. I have had no official correspondence with them on the subject, but while in Nicaragua, in August last, I was able to convince President Carazo and his minister for foreign affairs that the concession was contrary to the treaty of 1867. I was promised also that the rebate should be withdrawn, and I am informed by our consul at Managua that it has been done.

The Government of Honduras concedes a rebate of 2 per cent. in customs duties to the above-mentioned steamers and has taken no action towards annulling it.

In brief, as the matter now stands, the rebates in favor of the Spanish Central American steamers and the consequent discriminating duties against our vessels in the Pacific ports of Central America are as follows:

Guatemala imposes a discriminating duty of one-tenth of 1 per cent. on importations by all regular lines of American vessels, and 3 per cent. on importations by other and transient vessels of the United States.

Costa Rica imposes, practically, a discriminating duty of 5 per cent. on all merchandise imported by vessels of the United States into her Pacific ports.

Honduras concedes a rebate of 2 per cent. in favor of the Central American steamers, thus discriminating to the same extent against vessels of the United States.

Salvador concedes a rebate of 3 per cent. to all regular lines of vessels, irrespective of contracts or nationality.

Nicaragua has withdrawn the conceded rebate of 2 per cent., thus placing vessels of the United States on the most favored footing in her Pacific ports.

I have, etc,

HENRY C. HALL.

No. 81.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 753.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, December 12, 1887. (Received January 4, 1888.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of a letter, dated the 23d ultimo, from the consul of the United States at San Juan del Norte, Nicaragua, reporting the seizure, on the 20th of the same month, near the borders of the Mosquito Reservation, by Nicaraguan officials, of two small vessels, carrying the flag of the United States, called the schooner Merida and a steam-tug called the W. S. Moore.

The Merida appears in the ninth annual report (1876-777) of the merchant vessels of the United States under the name of the John H. Patteson, of Red Bank, N. J., 43.60 tons. The consul states that the vessel came to Nicaragua in 1876; was sold in 1882 to Nicaraguans and remained under that flag until August, 1886, when it was sold to the present owner, a citizen of the United States, and has since displayed the American flag in virtue of the general regulations of the Treasury, as set forth in Article XX of the Consular Manual.

As the facts reported in the consul's letter have appeared in some of the newspapers of the United States, I have no doubt the case has been brought already to the Department's notice. I shall communicate them to the Nicaraguan Government and ask for an investigation. have no doubt, however, that the Nicaraguan commissioner, now in the reservation, will order these vessels to be restored to the owners, if the facts should prove to be as they have been represented to the consul.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 753.]

Mr. Brown to Mr. Hall.

[Extract.]

UNITED STATES CONSULATE. San Juan del Norte, Nicaragua, November 23, 1887.

Sir: I transmit a copy of a letter from the consular agency at Bluefields, Mosquito Reserve, relating to alleged unlawful acts by Nicaraguans upon Americans.

What is recited in the inclosure is all the information I have at this date, but Mr.

N. P. Allen and the agents of the W. S. Moore have been requested to present themselves at the Bluefields agency, that the necessary declarations and affidavits substantiating the charges in Captain Allen's letter may be taken.

The alleged acts took place near the mouth of the Rama branch of the Bluefields, where it empties into the former, and about the line running north and south that is supposed to be the line of disputed boundary between Nicaragua and the municipal authority of the Mosquito Reserve.

Opposite each other at that point, on the Rama, the Government of Nicaragua and that of the Mosquitia authorities have established officials, that of Nicaragua being a police governor, a collector of revenue, a sergeant, a corporal, and thirty soldiers as the customs guard. The Mosquitia have located magistrates and a small force of police.

The schooner came to this part of the country in 1876 as a regularly registered American vessel, under the name of the J. H. Patterson. In 1882, by a regular sale, she was transferred to citizens of Nicaragua. Being at this port, her name was changed to that of Merida, and from that date until August 20, 1886, she displayed the flag of Nicaragua. On the 6th of August 1886, she was sold and transferred by her alien owner to Mr. Nathaniel P. Allen, a native of Portland, Me. On the 20th of August, above cited, the due certificate (Form No. 35), pursuant to the Treasury regulations in cases of purchase by citizens of the United States of American or foreign built vessels in foreign ports, was issued by the agency at Eluchields and since that date she has in foreign ports, was issued by the agency at Bluefields, and since that date she has displayed the flag of the United States, and she has for more than one year been used by Captain Allen, her owner, as a store-house, being anchored in the Rama Rivernear its mouth, Captain Allen, as I believe, having permission or license to do that from the Mosquito Government, and it was at that point she was seized by the Nicaraguan authorities leasted at the most have the state of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of the most of th authorities, located at the mouth of the Rama, both Nicaragua and the municipal authority for the reserve claiming to have rightful jurisdiction of that place.

The W. S. Moore is a small steam-launch said to be owned by Henry Brothers, of Baltimore, and by them sent to be used as a tender to the larger sea-going fruit vessels which they have running between Baltimore and Philadelphia and the banana plantations of Bluefields River and its branches, Rama and Siguia.

On what ground the seizure was made as to either of these vessels I am not advised; it may be an alleged violation of revenue regulations the authorities at the Rama are seeking to enforce, though I have not been able to get a sight of such regulations, but it is more than probable that it is one of the steps adopted by Nicaragua to recover her great interests in that region.

The long-del yed commissioner of Nicaragua in the Mosquitia passed through there to his post of duty on the 14th instant. I hear that Mr. Climie, after completing the work of his mission to Washington, is to go to the Mosquitia to survey and mark the boundary.

I am, etc.,

WILLIAM A. BROWN, Consul.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 753.]

Mr. N. P. Allen to Mr. Augustine.

RAMA BANK November 20, 1887.

DEAR SIR: This morning an armed force wearing the uniform of the Nicaraguan Government boarded my vessel, the Merida, and took forcible possession. They also boarded the W. S. Moore. I have abandoned everything to them. Both vessels had the American flag flying at the time, and it is all an outrage.

I showed them my license from the Mosquito Government. I asked for their author-

I showed them my license from the Mosquito Government. I asked for their authority; they showed me their rifles. I claim American protection and damages for the interruption of my business.

Yours, respectfully,

N. P. ALLEN,
An American citizen and owner of schooner Merida.

United States Consular Agency, Bluefields, Mosquito Reserve, November 21, 1887.

I hereby certify that the above is a true copy of the original letter of Capt. N. P. Allen, on file in this office.

JOHN S. AUGUSTINE, United States Consular Agent.

No. 82.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 754.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, December 15, 1887. (Received January 4, 1888.)

SIR: I had the honor to transmit to you on the 9th instant a telegram to the effect that the President of Costa Rica had notified the Nicaraguan Executive that the engineers now on the way to Nicaragua for the purpose of surveying and locating the projected canal route would not be permitted to operate on Costa Rican territory without express permission from its Government.

I now inclose a translation of a telegram received on the 8th instant from President Carazo, of Nicaragua, containing a transcript of another telegram, which he had just received from the President of Costa Rica, informing him with reference to the corps of engineers which recently left New York for Nicaragua with the object of definitely locating the canal, that the Costa Rican Government would interdict all studies or surveys within its territory until its express authorization shall have been obtained. At the same time the President of Costa Rica declares that his Government is enthusiastic for a work of such importance, and that it has manifested a disposition to grant the necessary concessions on equitable terms. Unfortunately, the Nicaraguan Government is not of the same opinion.

This opposition of the Costa Rican Government to the Nicaraguan Canal is of recent origin. It found no fault with the former concession, known as the Menocal concession of 1880, nor was it a party to the contract. In a communication addressed to Mr. Frelinghuysen, which I transmitted to the Department with my dispatch No. 203, of the 29th February, 1884, the then minister for foreign affairs of Costa Rica, in behalf of his Government, appealed to that of the United States in favor of the Nicaraguan Canal, on the ground of American fraternity and interests.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure in No. 754.—Translation.]

President Carazo to Mr. Hall.

Managua, Nicaragua, December 7, 1887. (Received December 8, at 8 p. m.)

I have just received the following telegram from the President of Costa Rica:

"President CARAZO, Managua:

"I have received the telegram in which you are pleased to inform me that a corps of engineers has sailed from New York with the object of definitely locating the canal. My Government is enthusiastic for a work of such importance, and has manifested itself disposed to grant the necessary concessions on equitable terms, but up to the present no arrangement has been made. It will therefore be under the necessity of interdicting all surveys in its territory until its express authorization shall have been obtained.

"BERNARDO SOTO."

Which I communicate to you for your information.

E. CARAZO.

No. 83.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 755.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, December 21, 1887. (Received January 12, 1888.)

SIR: With reference to and in continuation of my dispatch No. 754, of the 15th, I had the honor to transmit to you, on the 19th instant, a telegram announcing information received by me from the President of Nicaragua, to the effect that Costa Rica has withdrawn objections to the possible operations of the ship-canal surveying party on Costa Rican territory.

The translated text of President Carazo's telegram is as follows:

Minister Hall, Guatemala:

The President of Costa Rica has addressed me the following telegram:

I have the pleasure to inform you that, at the solicitation of the canal company, my Government has granted permission, under this date, for making the necessary surveys in Costa Rican territory for locating the line of the canal.

Señor Esquivel, minister for foreign affairs of Costa Rica, under date of the 2d ultimo, addressed a note to Señor Zavala, minister for foreign affairs of Nicaragua, in which he confirms and reiterates a former protest against the present interoceanic canal concession, granted by Nicaragua to Messrs. Menocal and associates, as an infraction of article 8, of the treaty of 1858, for the reason that the consultative voice of Costa Rica had not been heard.

In regard to the treaty of 1858, Señor Esquivel claims that until it shall have been declared by the arbitrator to be null and void, its observance is binding upon both countries, and that, even in such event, it will remain in force until the question of boundaries, which must result from the arbitrator's award, shall have been settled.

He arraigns the canal concession upon the ground that the rights of Costa Rica to navigate the San Juan River, the right in common with Nicaragua to the Bay of San Juan del Norte (rights which Nicaragua has not conceded nor has Costa Rica possessed), are attacked and impaired thereby. He also alleges that the completion of the canal will result in grievous injury to the territory of Costa Rica, to her commerce, and to her river routes of communication; that the San Juan will be rendered useless for Costa Rican navigation; that the courses of Costa Rican rivers will be changed, and that many other grave injuries will be done to that Republic.

In the face of these charges he declares that the Costa Rican Government has no desire to create obstacles to the construction of the canal; that it is an enterprise of world-wide importance and interest, and that for a long time it has been the great desideratum of all Central American patriots.

These charges are, beyond a doubt, unfounded, and I am not aware that they have ever been made before; especially the charge that the courses of Costa Rican rivers will be changed and their navigation injured. The only effect the elevation of the waters of the San Juan to the level of the lake, as has been proposed, could have would be to make some of the Costa Rican streams which empty into it navigable during the whole year, whereas now they are mere creeks, during the so-called dry season. That section of Costa Rican territory near to the lake and the San Juan River is now almost wholly unproductive and sparsely inhabited. The completion of the canal would no doubt render it as valuable as any portion of Nicaraguan territory through which the proposed canal will pass. So well convinced of this fact were the prominent citizens of Costa Rica, as I reported to the Department in my dispatch No. 306, of January 12, 1885, that immediately after the signing of the canal treaty of 1884 the then President Fernandez and the now President Soto, as well as many other notabilities of that Republic, hastened to secure large tracts of public lands near to its proposed route.

The Nicaraguan minister, Señor Zavala, in reply to Señor Esquivel, expresses surprise and concern at receiving this uncalled-for protest in regard to a question which, having been submitted to arbitration, is beyond their discussion, but is again brought up at the very moment when a corps of engineers, charged with making the final surveys of the route, is about to arrive in Nicaragua, and that were it not known that the Costa Rican cabinet is guided by enlightened counsels, it might well be supposed that the protest has no other object than the creation of obstacles to the consummation of a work of great interest, upon which the Central American States found all their hopes for the future, and that this conduct of Costa Rica is in complete opposition to that which it formerly observed whenever the same subject has been discussed.

He further reminds the Costa Rican minister that the canal concession recently granted to Señor Menocal and associates is essentially the same as the one granted to same parties in 1880, to which Costa Rica made not the slightest objection; on the contrary, it accepted the idea, suggested by Nicaragua, to join with the other Central American States in offering to the company a guaranty of 3 per cent. profits upon the capital to be invested in the enterprise; thus approving and assenting to the legality of all that Nicaragua had done in granting the conces-The Government of Nicaragua is therefore at a loss to understand what can possibly be the motives of the Government of Costa Rica for protesting against acts which have already received its approbation.

The rejection by the Nicaraguan Congress of the treaty of July last between those governments has evidently aroused a feeling of deep resentment on the part of the Costa Rican Government, which will make any mutual settlement next to impossible.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 755.—Franslation.]

Señor Esquivel to Señor Zavala.

SAN JOSÉ (COSTA RICA), November, 2, 1887.

Mr. MINISTER: On the 14th of May of the current year the Co-ta Rican Government, through this department and the worthy medium of your excellency, communicated to that of Nicaragna that it did not consent to the infraction of arricle 8 of the treaty of 15th April, 1858, committed by the Government of that Republic in entering into a contract for the construction of an inter-oceanic canal without having heard the consultative voice of the Government of Costa Rica, which had protested against such contract, that the just rights of the Republic may in no wise be prejudiced.

In reply to that protest, your excellency in a note, dated the 23d of June was pleased to state that the Nicaraguan Government had no desire to reopen a discussion in which both countries had been so long engaged, which is submitted to arbitration, adding that it sustains the nullity of the treaty of 1858 and that the instructions your excellency had received were limited to a manifestation that the Government of Nicaragua did not consider itself bound to solicit the consultative voice of Co-ta Rica in regard to the disadvantages which the negotiations might possess for the two countries, using the words of article 8 of the said treaty, and that in the event of the treaty being declared valid, that will be one of the points which would be submitted to the decision of the arbitrator.

be submitted to the decision of the arbitrator.

After the communication to which I allude, those days followed in which the hope was entertained that the differences between Costa Rica and Nicaragua would be arranged by a proposed conference of the two presidents. To-day that hope has vanished in consequence of the rejection of the treaty of Managua. My Government is not only in the position of confirming its former protest, but of amplifying it upon reasons based upon a study of the contract concluded between the Government of that Republic and Señor Aniceto G. Menocal for the opening of the interoceanic canal. canal.

It has always been clear to my Government that the treaty of 1858 is synallagmatic. It became, in this Republic and in that a law, and as such was observed during long years. It can not be held to be null and void at the will of one only of the ong jong years. It can not be neit to be null and void at the will or one only of the contracting parties. The question whether the treaty is valid or not is submitted to arbitration, and my Government tranquilly awaits the arbitrator's decision. Until that treaty, which is revested with extraordinary solemnities, shall have been declared null, its observance is binding upon the two Republics.

There is still more upon this point. Even in the case that the arbitration should declare the treaty of 1858 to be null, which my Government really does not expect, according to the convention concluded in Guatemala it must continue in force until it shall have been definitely settled by treaty or by new arbitration, what will then shall have been definitely settled by treaty or by new arbitration, what will then become a question of boundaries; an old and grave question which the treaty of 1858 cut short, and about which the opinions of our respective Governments are wide apart.

Under these circumstances your excellency's Government entered into a canalization contract without hearing the Government of Costa Rica, notwithstanding the stipulations of the treaty of 1858, and notwithstanding that the contract to which I allude profoundly injures the national interests of this Republic, which, according to the treaty, is riparian in a part of the right bank of the San Juan; it has perpetual rights of navigation on this river and common right with Nicaragua in the Bay of San Juan del Norte, and its boundaries on the Pacific side extend to the central point of the Bay of Salinas. Failing to obtain the positive right arising from the treaty of 1858, Costa Rica supported by her legitimate titles, would be restored to her former boundaries marked by the lake, the San Juan River, and the River La Flor.

These precedents being established, I pass to the contract between that Republic and Mr. Menocal. Several of its clauses, as well as the surveys made up to 10-day, indicate that the San Juan River will serve as the bed of the projected canal; that the banks of the river can be occupied, the mouth of the river changed, and the courses of other rivers running into Costa Rica territory, and in which she has indisputable rights, changed. The right to navigate the San Juan, the riparian rights to the same, and the right in common with Nicaragua to the Bay of San Juan del Norte are attacked and impaired by the contract to which I al ude, and its execution would result in grievous injury to the territory of this Republic, to its commerce, and to its river routes of communication.

It is true that it has been agreed that the excavations for the interoceanic canal are to be made in Nicaraguan territory, but it is none the less true that without violating that principle the waters of the San Juan can not be made use of, so that it will be rendered useless for the navigation to which Costa Rica has a right. Enormous modifications are to be made in the bays, and the present courses of Costa Rican rivers are to be changed and in this way grave injuries will be done to this Republic, and greater still should the canal company change the traced route in virtue of the freedom of action which the contract I refer to concedes them.

For all this the Government of Costa Rica is under the necessity of confirming and does confirm and extend her former protest, and will not consent at any time that the excavation of the canal shall prejudice the rights of this Republic, whether by taking a part of her territory or the waters in which she has the right of nav gation, or by modifications of the bay in which she has a common right, or by deviating the rivers that run in Costa Rican territory

My Government is far from wishing to create obstacles to the canal enterprise; no one can attribute such intentions to a progressive administration, animaled by Central American spirit, but it is its strict duty to maintain unharmed the rights and prerogatives of the country whose destines are confided in it.

Aware of the immense utility of an interoceanic canal, an enterprise which may be considered of universal importance, and which has for a long time been considered the desideratum of Central American patriots, my Government has always been and is disposed to hear propositions respecting the part that pertains to it in a work in which nature and her laws give joint rights to this Republic.

Notwithstanding, however great may be the importance of the projected canal, and although the construction thereof can count upon its sympathy, my Gove nment can not consent to the carrying out of the work to the sacrifice of this nation, and it considers that the hour has arrived to formulate the present protest which the Government of your excellency should receive in no other light than as the fulfil ment of the obligation of mine ever to preserve harmless the rights of Costa Rica.

I improve, etc.,

ASCENSION ESQUIVEL.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 755.—Translation.]

Señor Zavala to Señor Esquivel.

Managua, Nicaragua, December 2, 1887.

Mr. MINISTER: With deep concern and not without surprise I have received the courteous note of your excellency, dated 2d November last, substantially confirming and amplifying your protest of the 14th of May of the present year against the canal concession to Mr. Aniceto Menocal, because the consultative voice of that Government had not been heard.

Indeed, Mr. Minister, that new and uncalled for protest upon a subject which is already beyond the discussion of our respective Governments, it having been submitted to arbitration, is again brought up at the very moment when a corps of engineers charged with making the final studies for locating the line of the interoceanic canal, about to arrive at our shores; it could not otherwise than cause surprise and unfavora ble impression upon my Government, because if it were not known that the deliberations of the enlightened Costa Rican cabinet are guided by an elevated spirit, it might be supposed that it was intended to create obstacles to the execution of a great work of universal interest, upon which these countries base all their future hopes. Moreover, it is in complete opposition to the conduct formerly observed by that Government, whenever this enterprise, of such vital importance, has been discussed.

In the opinion of my Government the note of this Department of the 23d June, in reply to that of your excellency of the 14th of May last, sufficiently explains its ideas upon the question submitted to arbitration, and its purposes, whatever may be the nature of the award, should have completely tranquillized the Government of your ex-

Unless the Government of Costa Rica wishes to withdraw from the cognizance of the arbitrator, the question pending in regard to the validity of the treaty of 15th April, 1858, any protest or allegation in regard to rights to be derived from that treaty would be out of place because based upon a document whose substance is under judicial consideration; nor is this new arrangement justified by the circumstance that the efforts of both Governments to arrange the difficulty directly have failed, inasmuch as the proposed treaty of 26th July last contains a provision therefor in the event of its not being projected; and, moreover, the contracting parties agreed therein to submit to the arbitrator's award.

The present reply, therefore, must be limited substantially to a repetition of the note of this department of the 23d of June last; but I deem it not out of place to make the following observations:

The canal concession lately granted to Mr. Menocal is essentially the same as the one granted to the same party in 1880. In the former as well as in the present concession the engagements of Nicaragua were limited exclusively to her own territory and waters. So true is this that your excellency's Government in a note dated the 24th June of the same year (1880) recognized that in the contract referred to the boundary line as determined by the second article of the treaty of 1858 had been respected; a declaration the more honorable for Nicaragua, and an irrefutable proof of the spirit of harmony and fraternity which animated her Government, inasmuch as for a long time previous to the date of that concession my Government had persisted in the nullity of the referred to treaty. Subsequently the Government granted an extension of time for carrying out that contract, and not only the Government of your excellency remained silent upon the points now referred to in its reiterated protest, but in 1884 it accepted the idea of offering a guaranty to the same association of 3 per centum upon the capital invested in the enterprise, thus approving and assenting to the legality of all that Nicaragua had done in granting those concessions.

With these antecedents my Government is unable to understand upon what moti es that of your excellency has decided to protest against perfectly legal acts which Lave already received its approbation.

Nicaragua has sustained the insubsistence of the treaty of 1858, because it has never been perfected, and she is convinced that the arbitrator will declare it to be null, for -the reason that it is a doctrine current with writers upon international law that a compact which is void does not cease to be void even when it may for a time have been observed. Notwithstanding that treaty is now submitted to an arbitrator's decision, Nicaragua would not now attempt to carry her pretensions of dominion to the Salto River, to which her primitive rights extend; neither is she disposed to consent that Costa Rica shall exercise rights dependent solely upon the validity of the treaty, much less when the treaty is interpreted in the sense maintained by the Government of your excellency.

In the opinion of my Government any discussion in regard to the rights of Nicaragua and Costa Rica in the case provided for by article 8 of the Arbitration Convention of Guatemala is premature, but I must at once say to your excellency that the article mentioned refers to a period subsequent to the arbitrator's declaration; it says nothing in regard to the rule that must be observed previous to that decision; it respects the established status quo, otherwise it would give temporary validity, although in appearance only, to a treaty which should have been declared insubsistent, while the interpretations which each party would give to its stipulations would bring us back to the same or a worse situation than the one we are trying to get out of.

I can not let pass without observation the opinion expressed in your excellency's note wherein you state "that the works of the canal would result in grievous injury to the territory of Costa Rica, to her commerce, and to her river routes of communication, and that the right to navigate the San Juan, the riparian rights to the same river, and the right in common with Nicaragua to the Bay of San Juan del Norte are attacked and impaired."

Those rights, if they should become effective through a declaration of the validity of the treaty of 1858, would never give Costa Rica the right to deprive Nicaragua of her free action as lord and owner of the territory and waters.

On the other hand the same contract establishes that in whatsoever way the work of the canal may be carried out, the canal company is under the obligation to canalize the lower San Juan and to re-open the bay so that the right of navigation, which by the treaty would pertain to Costa Rica, far from being impaired, would be benefited by the construction of this work. From this stand-point the protest is still less explicable.

the construction of this work. From this stand-point the protest is still less explicable. Having made these observations, which my Government has deemed indispensable in fulfillment of the high duties confided to it, and which the Government of your excellency with its enlightened judgment will appreciate in their full value, it remains for me to say to your excellency that they do not lessen in any manner the vehement desire of my Government to see our old differences cut short forever, and that the cordial harmony existing between the two Republics may remain inalterable.

With these purposes, I have the honor, etc.,

ADRIAN ZAVALA.

No. 84.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 756.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, December 21, 1887. (Received January 12, 1888.)

SIR: With reference to my dispatch, No. 753, of the 12th instant, relating to the alleged seizure on the 20th ultimo of two small vessels carrying the American flag, called the schooner Merida and the steamtug called the W. S. Moore, I now inclose a copy of a letter dated the 3d instant, from the consul of the United States at San Juan del Norte, reporting that he had learned that the Merida had been restored to the owner.

I have no doubt as to the truth of the statement, nor that the other vessel will be restored to the owner as soon as the facts shall be brought to the notice of the Nicaraguan commissioner, now in the reservation and found to be as represented to the consul.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 756.]

Mr. Brown to Mr. Hall.

Consulate of the United States, San Juan del Norte, Nicaragua, December 3, 1887.

Sir: Referring to the case of the American vessel Wm. S. Moore, mentioned in mine of November 23, as unlawfully boarded by the authorities of Nicaragua at the mouth of the river Rama in the reserve, I have to transmit a copy of an affidavit by Capt. Henry Nelson, master of that vessel, reciting the facts of such seizure. I hear that in the case of the Merida that the authorities at the Rama have sent to Captain Allen an apology and requested him to come and take possession of the Merida. Of this report I have nothing authentic, but think that such action will be quite probable, as soon as Commissioner Urtecho becomes informed of the circumstances, and to whom I had directed Mr. Augustine to address on that subject.

General Urtecho went on duty on the 18th ultimo at Bluefields.

I am, etc.,

WM. A. BROWN, Consul.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 756.]

Affidavit of Henry Nelson, master of the steam-tug W. S. Moore.

Bluefields, M. R., Nicaragua:

This day before me, the undersigned authority, personally came and appeared Capt. Henry Nelson, who having been by me first duly sworn on his oath declares:

That heretofore, to wit, on or about the 20th day of November, A. D. 1887, he was in command of the American steam-tug Wm. S. Moore, an American bottom, registered in the city of Alexandria, Va., United States of America, and owned by Messrs. Henry Brothers, of the city of Baltimore, in the State of Maryland, United States of America.

Affiant states that he is an American citizen, and was commanding the said vessel on the date aforesaid as master thereof, sailing said vessel from Bluefields to the head of navigation on Bluefields or Escondido River, transporting freight and passengers from said Bluefields to the mouth of the Rama River and intermediate points on the said Bluefields or Escondido River. Affiant states that said vessel has been engaged as aforesaid in the said trade under permission from the Mosquito Government for and during the term of a year and upwards, and sailing the American flag during the Affiant states that on or about the said 20th day of November, A. D. 1887, he was in command of said vessel as aforesaid, and had just terminated his usual voyage from Bluefields to the aforesaid Rama mouth, having arrived at her mooring on Saturday night of the 19th instant, and was laying alongside of the schooner Merida. That on the afo esaid morning of the 20th of November, aforesaid, about the hour of 8.30 a.m., while peaceably lying at anchor as aforesaid, not having discharged the freight and passengers, and with the American colors flying at the mast head, and without any previous notice, an armed body of soldiers, or persons who were dressed in Nicaraguan uniform, came on board the said vessel and forcibly took possession of the same, claiming to act under Nicaraguan authority, and demanded the ship's papers, which I refused to surrender, notifying them that I was licensed to engage in said trade by the local Government of Mosquito.

Affiant further states that after refusing to surrender the ship's papers as aforesaid the said armed body of men, acting under the immediate command of an officer of Nicaragua, proceeded to forcibly enter the cabin and hold of said vessel and search the same, and did not release said vessel until after the lapse of an hour or more.

Affiant further states that the said vessel has been peaceably engaged as aforesaid in said trade during the past year, as also other vessels plying between Bluefields and the said Rama mouth, and that he verily believes that the said action of the said Nicaraguan authorities has materially damaged the business of said vessel, and that the said action was wholly unauthorized, and that the same was an unjust and unwarranted discrimination against Americans and American enterprises, and an insult to the flag of his country.

In witness whereof affiant hereunto signs his name this November 22, A. D. 1887. HENRY NELSON.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this November 22, A. D. 1887. J. A. Hodgson, Magistrate.

UNITED STATES CONSULAR AGENCY, Bluefields, M., R. Nicaragua:

I, the undersigned, hereby certify that J. A. Hodgson, whose signature appears attached to the foregoing jurat, is an acting magistrate in and for the city of Bluefields, duly appointed and qualified, and that his signature is his true and genuine signature and as such entitled in full faith and credit; that the said Henry Nelson is an American citizen, and that the steam-tug Wm. S. Moore is as alleged an American vessel.

Witness my hand and official seal at Bluefields, M. R., Nicaragua, this, November

22, A. D. 1887. [L. S.]

JOHN I. AUGUSTINE, U. S. Consular Agent.

No. 85.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 763.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA, Guatemala, January 6, 1888. (Received January 25.)

SIR: With reference to my dispatch No. 748, of the 6th ultimo, and to other correspondence therein mentioned relating to the claim of the Government of Italy against that of Salvador, I have to inform the Department that Señor Magliano, chargé d'affaires of Italy in Central America, has received instructions to proceed to Salvador and endeavor to effect an equitable and friendly settlement. He has also solicited my good offices with the Government of Salvador, which it would be quite impossible to render from here.

I therefore telegraphed you on the 3d instant, conveying the Italian minister's request and asking instructions, and received last evening your reply, dated the 5th instant, instructing me that, if both parties joined in requesting my impartial good offices, I might visit Salvador for that purpose.

Señor Magliano will leave here for that Republic, overland, on the 9th, and will arrive at the capital about the 18th instant. I have informed the Salvadorian Government of his proposed departure and of the object of his visit, and have placed my good offices at its disposal, should the same be required. I shall probably leave here for La Libertad, Salvador, either on the 17th or 22d instant by steamer.

I have, etc..

HENRY C. HALL.

No. 86.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 533.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, January 7, 1888.

SIR: I have received your No. 759 of the 8th ultimo, relative to a contract between the Guatemalan Government and Mr. John T. Anderson, an American citizen, for the construction of the Northern Railway of Guatemala.

In this connection I have examined article IX, to which you invite attention and which relates to the right of the contractor to import laborers other than Chinese, and the obligation of the Government to employ all possible means in its power to enforce the contracts made abroad with such laborers; but the question is too general to admit of instructions in advance of a case being presented.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 87.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 766.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, January 11, 1888. (Received February 2.)

SIR: During the year 1881 the Guatemalan Government granted to three American citizens, Messrs. Lyman, Bunting, and Fenner, a concession for the construction and operation of a railway from the port of Champerico, on the Pacific, to Retalhuleu, an interior town about 30 miles distant

The concession was subsequently transferred to an association in San Francisco, Cal., and a company was organized for carrying it out, under the laws of that State and the name of the "Champerico and Northern Transportation Company of Guatemala."

This company carried out their concession satisfactorily; the road was completed and was formally accepted by the Government in 1884.

It is stipulated in article 2 of the concession that the grantees shall have the right to operate a railroad between the two places mentioned during the term of twenty-five years, and that during that period no other person or association shall have the right to construct another railway within a less distance than 15 leagues on either side of the line.

Notwithstanding the explicit terms of the article above mentioned, the Guatemalan Government has recently granted another concession to parties who style themselves Messrs. J. L. Bueron & Co., to construct a railway from the Port of Ocos to Quesaltenango. The distance from Champerico to Ocos does not exceed 8 leagues, or about half of the distance stipulated in the Champerico Company's contract. The concession has been accorded in the face of a respectful protest of the managing director and of irrefutable proof that it is a flagrant violation of the Champerico Company's rights.

I have had no official correspondence with the Government in regard to this matter other than to advise the minister for foreign affairs that a copy of the protest referred to, herewith inclosed, had been filed in this legation; indeed, there was no time to give attention to it, as the contract was rushed through the department of public works and the assembly with most unseemly haste. However, upon the receipt of the notification that such a protest addressed to the minister for public works had been filed in this legation, the minister for foreign affairs referred the question to Professor Rockstroh, a member of the Guatemalan and Mexican boundary commission.

I inclose a copy and translation of his report, in which it is demonstrated, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that the Ocos concession is an infringement on the rights already conceded to the Champerico Company.

This Ocos contract was signed by the minister for public works on November 7 last past, and was confirmed by the assembly on the 14th of the same month. The Government appears to have held the matter under advisement for nearly a month. It was not until the 15th ultimo that the President signed it. I have not deemed it necessary to forward a copy and translation with this dispatch; the other inclosures sufficiently show its object, and, if carried out, the effect it will undoubtedly have on the Champerico Company.

In addition to the before mentioned inclosures I have the honor to transmit a translation of the concession and contract of the Champerico

Company with the Government.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure No. 1 in No. 766.]

Mr. Robinson to Mr. Hall.

GUATEMALA, November 15, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to hand to you herewith a correct copy of a communication and protest that I have this day personally delivered at the office of the minister of fomento of Guatemala, addressed to him, and to beg of you that you will place the said copy on file in the legation of the United States for such future reference as may be necessary.

I have, etc.,

[Translation.]

To the Minister of Public Works:

GUATEMALA, November 15, 1887.

When the national constituent assembly was discussing the project of a railway from the port of Ocos I presented to that body a respectful protest, showing that the enterprise could not be carried out without prejudice to the interests of the Champerico Railway, and without violating article 2 of the contract made with this company, which definitely prohibits the construction of another line at a distance of less than 15 leagues.

The national representatives, setting aside the just considerations which I submitted to their judgment, paying no attention to my demands, approved the project referred to by a small majority.

Under such circumstances I should remain silent, were it not that such silence might be supposed to signify an acquiescence, a tacit submission to the law passed by the assembly, and if, as the managing director of the company, I did not consider myself bound to exhaust every effort in defending the important interests confided to my care.

I appeal, therefore, to the Government of the Republic in demand of protection for the interests of the Champerico Railway, so seriously menaced by the assembly's act in approving the project of a railway from the port of Ocos. I appeal to the Government in demand of justice; I ask nothing else when I ask that the stipulations contained in article 2 of our contract shall be respected; that the anterior rights acquired by the same company shall be respected. And that protection which I demand, Mr. Minister, is not alone in benefit of the Champerico Railway; it is in benefit of the whole country; in benefit of the credit of the nation.

If to-day the Government consents to this new project by approving the law of the assembly, to-morrow it will be said abroad, and with good reason, that in Guatemala neither compacts nor stipulations nor agreements formally contracted are respected; that in Guatemala the irrevocably-acquired rights for great undertakings are continually being trodden under foot; and in this way capital, which might otherwise be invested in public works and new industries, so much needed in Guatemala, is

In view of the foregoing, as director of the Champerico Railway, and with the respect due to the high functionary whom I have the honor to address, I ask you, Mr. Minister, to present this memorial to the President of the Republic, with the object that the supreme Government may be pleased to refuse its compliance with the assembly's law approving the contract for the railway from the port of Ocos, and otherwise to acknowledge as presented this formal protest which I make for the damages and injuries, caused by this violation of article 2 above mentioned, to the Chamages and injuries of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the perico Railway Company.

SANFORD ROBINSON. Managing Director, etc.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 766.—Translation.]

REPORT UPON ARTICLE II OF THE CONTRACT OF THE CHAMPERICO RAILWAY COM-PANY WITH THE GOVERNMENT OF GUATEMALA.

Mr. Rockstroh to Señor Montufar.

GUATEMALA, November 19, 1887.

Mr. MINISTER: I have the honor to present to the minister in the following a report upon article 2 of the contract between the Government of the Republic and Messrs. Lyman, Fenner, and Bunting, for the construction of a railway between Retalbuleu and Champerico, signed the 12th of March, 1881.

This article 2 relates to the exclusive privilege conceded to the association for the term of twenty-five years, first, to operate a railway between Champerico and Retalhuleu, and second, the construction of other railroads within a certain zone on both sides of the line.

The first part of the said article is so clear that there can be no doubt in regard to

"The grantees shall have the exclusive right during the term of twenty-five years, commencing from its opening to public service, to operate a railway between the places mentioned (Champerico and Retalhuleu)."

The second part of the article mentioned says: "No other railway shall be constructed by any other association or person during the same term at a less distance than 15 leagues on either side of the line."

In regard to this paragraph the question has arisen whether it is to be understood, first, whether at a distance of 15 leagues on both sides of the line no other association or person shall construct any railway to unite Champerico and Retalhuleu, or second, whether at a distance of 15 leagues on both sides of the line no other corporation or person shall construct any railway, which soever may be its starting point and

In the first hypothesis the paragraph would be altogether superfluous, and one would be at a loss to understand why it was inserted in the contract. The association having the exclusive privilege of operating a railway between Champerico and Retalhuleu, any other railway from one of these points to the other would be excluded, although it might have a great deviation from a straight line between the two places.

Moreover, the construction of a railway from Champerico, deviating 10 or more leagues to the east or west to terminate afterwards in Retalhuleu, would be an ab-

This contingency is certainly not to be taken into consideration.

The Champerico-Retalhuleu Railway Association evidently wished, by this clause, to prevent the construction of a railway which would come into competition with their line, especially in the department of San Marcos, depriving it of a great part of its principal traffic (transportation of coffee) now monopolized by this company in all the zone, comprising Costa Grande, Costa Cuca, and Costa de San Marcos.

I think that the second explanation only can be given to the paragraph referred to, according to which no railway can be constructed within a distance of 15 leagues from both sides of the line. By this line is understood a straight line between Champerico and Retalhuleu, so that this association would have the exclusive privi-lege for twenty-five years of constructing railroads in a zone formed by two right-angled parallelograms having for a common base the straight line between Champerico and Retalhuleu, and each one being 15 leagues in length.

The territory which a railway between Retalhuleu and Quezaltenango would cross would be excluded from this zone, while the western parallelogram embraces all the coast as far as the river Suchiate, which there serves as the boundary between Guatemala and Mexico.

The distance from Champerico to the mouth of the Suchiate River is equal to 31 minutes of a degree upon the parallel of 14 degrees north.

A degree on the fourteenth parallel measures 108,021.4 meters; consequently a straight line from Champerico to the mouth of the Suchiate River measures (31 minutes) 55,809.3 meters, or 11.162 leagues of 5 kilometers; 13.952 leagues of 4 kilometers; 13.367 leagues of 5,000 varas (of 835 millimeters.)

With assurances of the most distinguished consideration, etc.,

E. Rockstroh.

[Inclosure 3 in No. 766.—Translation.]

The Champerico Railway concession.

Delfino Sanchez, secretary of state for public improvements of the Government of the Republic, with authorization and instruction of the general president, for one part, and for the other J. H. Lyman, D. P. Fenner, and J. B. Bunting, have celebrated the following contract:

ARTICLE 1.

The supreme Government, in the name of the Republic of Guatemala, concedes to Lyman, Fenner, and Bunting, or to the persons that may legally represent them, authority to construct and operate during ninety-nine years a railroad operated by steam or electricity from the port of Champerico to Retalhuleu via Caballo Blanco.

On the completion of the ninety-nine years, which shall count from the date that the line is opened to public service, it shall, with all its fixed and rolling material necessary for its operation, stations, warehouses, etc., pass to be national property.

ARTICLE 2.

The grantees shall have the exclusive right during the term of twenty-five years that shall run from the opening of the road to public service to operate a railroad between the points indicated; no other person or enterprise during the said term having the power to construct another at a less distance than 15 leagues on either side of the line.

ARTICLE 3.

The Government will aid the enterprise with the subvention of $700,000, that it will deliver to them in debentures, amortizable with 20 per cent. of all the maritime duties that goods imported or exported through Champerico may pay.

The debentures will be given to the grantees when they shall have graded the road to the Encrucijada, but their amortization will not commence until the rails have been laid to Caballo Blanco.

ARTICLE 4.

The Government will give to the enterprise the ownership of 1,000 "caballerias" of national lands, in alternate sections of 50 "caballerias" each one, in the places where it may be possible, in such manner that one of said sections shall remain to the Government and the other to the grantees.

On the completion of the work to Caballo Blanco the designation of the lands will be made by the two contracting parties.

When the lands that are selected may surround a town, the space that may be necessary for cemeteries, pastures, looms, parks, etc., shall be left unoccupied.

The expense of measurement, setting land-marks, plans, etc., for all the lands, will be at the cost half each of the Government and the enterprise.

The grantees will be considered as denouncers in fact of all the mines that may be on the lands that may be delivered to them; notwithstanding which, for their acquisition and exploitation, they should be regulated in the manner prescribed by the laws of the Republic.

ARTICLE 5.

The titles that, in conformity with the legislation of the country, may be extended over the territorial property conceded to the enterprise, shall be transferable, divisible, etc., in the same manner as private property.

ARTICLE 6.

For the whole length of the line the Government will cede gratuitously to the enterprise a strip of land of 100 English feet in width, giving it besides the space that may be necessary for turnouts.

Besides, it will cede to it in each one of the towns of Champerico, Caballo Blanco, and Retalhuleu, four "manzanas" of land, for shops, offices, stations, warehouses, etc., and besides two other manzanas in each one of the points where they may wish to establish a station.

ARTICLE 7.

If there should be a necessity for occupying any part of the cart road, the grantees can make use of it, the part not occupied always remaining free for the traffic.

ARTICLE 8.

Materials of every species that may be found in national lands, and that can be utilized for the construction of the line, may be taken by the enterprise without any

In the matter of lands of private property that may be encountered, the enterprise shall enjoy all the rights conceded to the Government for works of public utility.

ARTICLE 9.

All the articles, utilities, and materials that the enterprise may import through Champerico, and that may be indispensable for the construction, maintenance, operation, and improvement of the line, shall be exempt from importation duties during the before-mentioned term of twenty-five years.

All that may be necessary for the creation and maintenance of shops, offices, stations, etc., will enjoy an equal exemption and for the same term, as well as the food and clothing that may be imported while the line is being constructed, calculating the first at 25 cents per day per person, and equally the first furniture that is introduced for the offices, shops, and stations.

ARTICLE 10.

The letters of exchange and the metal, coined or in bars, that the enterprise may draw or import from the exterior for the business of the said enterprise shall pay no stamp duty nor any other.

ARTICLE 11.

During the term of twenty-five years stipulated, the property fixed and movable, bonds and stock of the enterprise shall be free from all fiscal or municipal impost and all forced loans as well in time of peace as in time of war, and its agents and employés that may be foreigners will remain excepted also while they are in its service from direct contributions, forced loans, and military service, and will enjoy all the guaranties and rights consecrated and stipulated for the rights of peoples and in international agreements.

ARTICLE 12.

The officials of the enterprise will be invested by the Government with public authority to the end that they can preserve order and police on the road, having the right to demand the aid of the armed force each time that it may be necessary for the defense and guard of the railroad and its dependencies.

ARTICLE 13.

During the construction, the enterprise will have the gratuitous use of the Government telegraph, and during the twenty-five years of the concession, of the national mails, it always being understood that the correspondence so transmitted shall refer exclusively to the business of the said enterprise; but it shall construct a telegraph line especially for the road, on the posts of which the Government can fix wires for the public service.

ARTICLE 14.

The concessions, rights, and privileges that by the present contract are executed to Lyman, Fenner, and Bunting, shall be considered as extended to their legal representatives, the same as to other persons, company or companies, to whom in whole or in part they may assign them; but they can not cede them nor hypothecate the line to a foreign Government nor admit it as a partner.

The railroad, as well as the lands to which the present contract refers, shall be considered as the absolute property of the grantees, of their legal associates, representatives and successors, except as specified in article 1; and the financial organization of the enterprise as well as the emission of mortgage bonds and of shares, shall remain entirely at the pleasure of the grantees.

ARTICLE 15.

The grantees shall have the right to form an anonymous company in the Republic or outside of it in order to obtain the necessary resources to complete the work.

The mortgage bonds that the enterprise emits shall be considered as recorded in the register of property, without other requisite than the presentation in said office of a copy of the act of hypothecation, certified by notary public and authenticated by the respective minister or consul.

ARTICLE 16.

In case that the grantees propose to dispose of the railroad, the Government shall have the right of preference in acquiring it under equal conditions.

ARTICLE 17.

This company will not be responsible for damages that, by accident or "force majeure," the persons and effects that they convey may suffer, whether it may be in its trains, or in its stations, or dependencies.

Only in the event of such damages being caused by the fault or negligence, duly proven, of the employés of the enterprise, will there be any responsibility.

ARTICLE, 18.

The company will fix its residence where it considers it convenient; but shall have a representative in Guatemala, with all the powers necessary to treat with the Government in the resolution of questions that may arise.

ARTICLE 19.

The tariff shall not exceed the following rates on the whole extent of the line: Freight on coffee and other articles of exportation, $8 per ton of 2,000 pounds, or 40 cubic feet; articles of importation, $10 per ton of equal weight or dimensions; dangerous or inflammable freight, pieces that exceed 40 cubic feet in volume or 2,000 pounds in weight, precious metals, jewelsy, and animals will remain subject to special agreements between the enterprise and the shippers.

H. Ex. 1, pt. 1—8

Passengers shall pay $4 in the first and $2 in the second class.

ARTICLE 20.

The enterprise can not exact any compensation for the transportation of e na tional mails and of its conductors, it being understood that they make use of the ordinary trains.

Each time that the Government needs a special train for this purpose the enterprise will be obliged to furnish it as soon as may be possible, without collecting other expenses than that they may have in fuel and conductors.

Troops, chiefs, and officials, their equipments, material of war, and employés in commission, will pay only half of the tariff rates.

ARTICLE 21.

The railroad shall possess the material necessary to assure the immediate and sure transportation of all the passengers and merchandise that may be presented in any direction; this as well as the fixed material shall be of the best quality.

ARTICLE 22.

The road shall have at the least a distance of 1 meter between the rails, which must be of steel; the bridges shall be all of iron; the maximum grade shall not exceed 4 per cent.; and the constructions shall be such as are required for a railroad of the first class.

ARTICLE 23.

The enterprise is obliged to begin the works within twelve months and to complete them within two years and a half, which times shall count from the date in which the Government gives its approbation to this contract. In the contrary case it shall be considered as concluded in fact.

ARTICLE 24.

As a guaranty of compliance with the present stipulation, the grantees oblige themselves to deposit in the office of the secretary of fomento the sum of $10,000 in current. rent money within the term of one year, that shall run from the date on which this agreement is approved. If the contract should become void by the fault of the grantees, they shall lose this deposit in favor of the Government, but it will be returned to them when they give proof of having imported into the Republic materials for the railroad whose value reaches $50,000.

ARTICLE 25.

If between the Government and the enterprise there should arise any question of whatever nature, it shall be submitted to the decision of two arbitrators, named one by each party, and of a third in case of discord, designated by both, whose decision shall be considered as final.

The arbitrators shall be designated within the term of one month, that shall count from the day on which either one of the parties notifies the other that a question has arisen that should be decided in that manner; and if either of the parties refuses to name within this term the corresponding arbitrator, he will be considered as having consented to the opinion or proposition of the other.

TRANSITORY ARTICLE.

Before the present contract receives the approbation of the Government, it must be submitted to the "Central Railroad Company of Guatemala," that it may manifest whether it does or does not make use of the right conceded to it by Article 5 of the agreement signed April 7, 1871.

In faith of which, and for the constancy of both interested parties, two of one tenor are signed in the office of the secretary of fomento of the Republic of Guatemala, on on the 12th of March, 1881.

DELFINO SANCHEZ.

D. P. FENNER.
J. H. LYMAN.
J. B. BUNTING.

NATIONAL PALACE, GUATEMALA, June 20, 1881.

Brought to view the contract signed on March 12 last past, between Messrs. J. H. Lyman, D. P. Fenner, and J. B. Bunting, for one part, and for the other the secretary of state and of the office of fomento, duly authorized to celebrate it, and considering that such agreement, relative to the construction and operation of a railroad between Retalhuleu and the port of Champerico, via Caballo Blanco, is found in conformance with the instructions that were given with that object to that functionary, and that the "Central Railroad Company of Guatemala" having allowed to transpire the ninety days conceded to it in which to manifest if, with respect to this contract, it would make use of the right of preference belonging to it, has tacitly renounced the said right relative to the construction of the said road; the general president, desiring to facilitate the realization of all enterprises that contribute to the prosperity and aggrandizement of the country, decrees to concede his approbation to the contract of which mention has been made, it being an indispensable requisite for the validity of the present decree that the grantees accept the conditions that follow:

(1) The enterprise will be always national, even when all or any of its members may be foreigners, and it will be subject exclusively to the jurisdiction of the courts of the Republic in all transactions whose cause and action take place within its territory.

(2) The said enterprise and all the foreigners and successors of those who may take part in its business, whether as stockholders, as employes, or in whatever other character, will be considered as Guatemalans in regard to all it can refer to.

(3) They can never maintain, in respect to the titles and transactions relating to the enterprise, the rights of foreigners under any pretext; and

(4) They will only have the rights and means of making them valid that the laws of the Republic concede to Guatemalans, and in consequence foreign diplomatic agents can not intervene.

Let it be communicated.

Rubricated by the general president.

SANCHEZ.

Modifications to the contract for the construction of a railroad between Retalhuleu and Champerico.

MAY 30, 1882.

Having noted the desirability of making clear, completing, and modifying some articles of the contract made between Messrs. J. H. Lyman, D. P. Fenner, and J. B. Bunting, dated March 12 of last year, for the construction of a railroad between the town of Retalhuleu and the port of Champerico, the secretary of state and of the office of fomento, with the authority and instructions of the president of the Republic, for one part, and J. H. Lyman, as representative of the grantees, for the other, have agreed on the following points that will be considered as additional to the aforementioned contract:

1. The exclusive right to which Article 2 of the concession refers shall be considered as embracing the prohibition of other analogous enterprises crossing the road, only carts being able to do this in those points in which it may be indispensable for the service of the public.

In those places in which the transit of carts may be constant the company shall construct its grades and bridges in such manner that the traffic can be performed with facility

2. Article 4 is modified so as to establish that the designation of the lands to which it refers can commence to be made a year after the work shall be completed to Caballo Blanco; and that the lots can embrace an area less than 50 caballerias when the Government and the enterprise shall in common accord so decide.

3. The "manzanas" of land that, according to article 6, the Government will cede to the company for stations, shops, etc., shall be designated as soon as the plan shall be finished, to the end that there may be no delays in the construction of the offices.

4. Article 22, which provides that the line shall not have less than a meter between the rails, is reformed so that the breadth shall not be less than 3 feet English.

5. Although the Government does not impose any limitation on its faculty of altering the maritime duties that are paid in the custom-house of Champerico, taking into consideration that the products of the said custom-house have been reduced on account of the duties heretofore levied on articles of export, having been reduced or abolished in place of the 20 per cent. established by article 3 of the concession, 25 per cent. of all the maritime duties produced by products that may be imported or exported through Champerico is assigned for amortizement of the $700,000 in debentures with which the Government has offered to aid the enterprise.

6. Stipulating that the enterprise is not strictly obliged to cause the line to pass through the "Encruziada," although it has to pass through Caballo Blauco, the Government will deliver the debentures as soon as the first 10 miles may have been

7. If it becomes convenient to the enterprise to construct branches that may depart from the principal line for other points, the Government concedes to the company the faculty of making such works.

In such cases all the articles, utilities and materials that the enterprise imports through Champerico, and that may be indispensable for the construction and operation of the roads, shall be exempt from duties of importation during the term of the original concession.

In faith of which, and for due constancy, two of one tenor are signed in the office of the secretary of fomento of Guatemala the 30th of May, 1882.

MANUEL HERRERA. J. H. LYMAN.

The chief official of the office of the secretary of fomento certifies:

That on this date the general president was pleased to issue the following decree:

"The anterior contract having been brought to view and finding all its stipulations arranged according to the instructions that were communicated to the secretary of state and of the office of fomento for its celebration, the general president decrees: To approve the seven articles of which it is composed.

"Let it be communicated.

"Rubricated by the general president."

HERRERA.

PALACE OF THE EXECTIVE POWER, Guatemala, May 30, 1882.

D. ESTRADA.

No. 88.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 538.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, January 23, 1888.

SIR: I inclose herewith, for your information in respect of previous correspondence, a copy of a letter from the secretary of the Pacific Steam-ship Company, dated the 6th instant, concerning the continued imposition by Costa Rica of a discriminating duty of 5 per cent. against American vessels in favor of those of the Spanish Central American

I have laid a copy of this correspondence before the Secretary of the Treasury, as desired.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 538.]

Mr. Lane to Mr. Bayard.

NEW YORK, January 6, 1888.

DEAR SIR: Differential duties granted the Spanish Central American line of steamers by the Republic of Costa Rica.

Referring to previous correspondence on this subject, and especially to our letter of September 19 and your letter of November 2, 1887, I now have the honor to submit herewith the following copies of correspondence, from which you will notice that the Government of Costa Rica persists in maintaining its unjust position of discrimination against American vessels to the extent of 5 per cent. differential duty in favor of shipments by the Marquis de Campo steamers, viz:

Letter from Mr. J. H. Leverich to this company, dated San José, November 15. Letter from George H. Rice, dated San Francisco, December 15, 1887, inclosing three letters from shippers.

Letter from J. H. Leverich, dated San José, December 16, 1887, inclosing copy of letter from that gentleman to Mr. Hall, United States minister to Central America.

We have therefore to beg that the honorable Secretary of the Treasury may be advised of the situation, and that immediate steps may be taken having for their object the application of the provisions of section 2502 of the Revised Statutes of the United States by directing the collector at San Francisco to exact the additional duty prescribed by the above-mentioned section of 10 per cent. on all merchandise imported into San Francisco from Costa Rica by said steamers.

Respectfully,

W. T. LANE, Secrétary.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 538.—Extract.]

Mr. Leverich to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company.

SAN JOSÉ DE GUATEMALA, November 15, 1887.

DEAR SIRS: Costa Rica is still paying 5 per cent. rebate on all goods imported by the Campo steamers. Mr. Hall is still awaiting a reply from that Government to his process. I would mention that Minister Von Bergen leaves shortly for Costa Rica for the express purpose to obtain, if possible, the same 5 per cent. rebate for goods per Kosmos and Hamburg American Packet Companies; so between Mr. Hall and Mr. Von Bergen, I hope the matter will shortly be arranged.

I have called Mr. Hall's attention to that shipment of cigars from La Libertad for Punta Arenas, which the shipper refused to forward by our line at Campo Line rates, owing to the 5 per cent. differential duty, and he will report this to the Department at Washington.

Respectfully protest. I would mention that Minister Von Bergen leaves shortly for Costa Rica for

Respectfully,

J. H. LEVERICH, Special Agent.

[Inclosure 3 in No. 538.]

Mr. Rice to Mr. Gould.

AGENCY PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP COMPANY, San Francisco, December 15, 1887.

DEAR SIR: Referring to our conversation on the subject of differential duties in favor of Del Campo Line to ports in Costa Rica, I have secured three letters from large shippers on our Panama Line on this subject. I find there are no shippers here who do not perfectly understand this to be the case. It is not only claimed by all houses in that country who order goods shipped from here, but is advertised in the Government organs of the country. This surely is a discrimination against an American line which is having its effect.

Very truly yours,

GEO. H. RICE, Freight Manager.

[Inclosure 4 in No. 538.]

Messrs. Sperry & Co. to Mr. Rice.

San Francisco, December 5, 1887.

SIR: Regarding your inquiries concerning the rebate in duties at the port of San José de Costa Rica, would say that our customers in Costa Rica have advised us that we should ship by the Spanish-American line, as they are able to collect 5 per cent. rebate on the duties, and they have also inclosed us advertisements cut from their papers stating such to be the case.

Hoping this will be satisfactory, we are, etc.,

SPERRY & Co.

[Inclosure 5 in No. 538.]

Messrs. Urruela & Urioste to Mr. Rice.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 7, 1887.

DEAR SIR: On the steamer San Pablo, arrived 5th instant from Hong-Kong, we have several invoices of silk goods for Central America. Among them there is No. 11, one bale silk goods for Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, and we propose to you to take delivery of same here, we releasing the Pacific Mail Steamship Company from any claim whatever on this account, and assuming all the responsibility for this action. The freight to Punta Arenas has been prepaid at Hong-Kong, but we do not ask for the refunding of any part thereof, only to have the goods delivered to us here so that we can ship them in bond by one of the steamers of the Marquis de Campo's Line, thus insuring the 5 per cent drawbook in system because which the Campo's Line, thus insuring the 5 per cent. drawback in custom-house duties which the Government of Costa Rica allows on all merchandise shipped by said steamers.

Hoping for a favorable answer, we remain, etc.,

URRUELA & URIOSTE.

[Inclesure 6 in No. 538.]

Messrs. de Sabla & Co. to Mr. Rice.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 12, 1887.

DEAR SIR: In answer to your inquiry in regard to reduction of duties allowed on freight shipped to Costa Rica per steamers of the De Campo Line, we have been informed by several of our correspondents that the said reduction amounts to 5 per cent.

Very truly, yours,

EUGENE DE SABLA & Co.

[Inclosure 7 in No. 538.—Extract.]

Mr. Leverich to Patific Mail Steamship Company.

SAN JOSÉ DE GUATEMALA, December 16, 1887.

DEAR SIRS: Although Mr. Hall has informed this Government of the wish expressed by the State Department that this company should be placed on the full 3 per cent. basis without the one-tenth per cent. discrimination, still no action has been taken to that end, and this one-tenth per cent. discrimination is still in force.

Mr. Hall has heard nothing from Honduras nor from Costa Rica in reply to his official communications. I inclose you press copy of my letter to Mr. Hall pointing out how handicapped this company is so long as the Costa Rica Government pays the 5 per cent. differential duty to the Campo Line.

If you will study the treaty with Costa Rica you will see that this discriminating duty is a direct violation of same, and being such I believe the tenth per cent. discriminating duty can be applied by the United States at San Francisco on all campo steamer Costa Rica has on board 1,600 packages from Punta Arenas. The present Campo steamer Costa Rica has on board 1,600 packages from Punta Arenas. I have also informed Mr. Hall of this. You can rely on Mr. Hall's most zealous efforts to get this differential duty either removed or granted to American vessels. I would mention that Minista Van Berneral and the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the tion that Minister Von Bergen has not yet left here for Costa Rica.

Respectfully,

J. H. LEVERICH, Special Agent.

[Inclosure 8 in No. 538.]

Mr. Leverich to Mr. Hall.

GUATEMALA, December 14, 1887.

DEAR SIR: I beg to transcribe for your information the following from a letter which I have received from this company's agent at Punta Arenas, dated 24th ultimo: "The 5 per cent. question is still in the same shape, and certainly this protection of Campo induces importers to prefer this line, and more for articles like cigars, paying over $2 kilo duty. The Guatemala brought 80 tons of different goods from San Francisco to here."

This will show you how handicapped this company is in meeting this competition as long as this 5 per cent differential duty exists in favor of the Campo Line. Yours, truly,

J. H. LEVERICH, Special Agent.

No. 89.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 540.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, January 25, 1888.

SIR: I inclose for your information copies of papers, under oath, in relation to the claim of Julius R. Schultz, under Title LXXII of the Revised Statutes of the United States, as discoverer of guano deposits on Vivorilla Key, off the coast of Honduras.

I have explained in a letter to Mr. J. Gorham Moale, of Baltimore, of to-day's date, that the decision of the Department upon the claim of Mr. Schultz had been deferred, owing to a question of sovereignty over the island, and promised to acquaint him of the result of the Department's investigation as soon as practicable.

Accordingly, I will thank you to ascertain whether Vivorilla Key is under the dominion of the Government of Honduras, or other nation.

In this connection reference is made to your No. 41, of December 14, 1882, upon the subject.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD:

[Inclosure in No. 540.]

Affidavit of Julius R. Schultz.

To the Department of State of the United States of America, Washington, D. C.:
I, the undersigned, Julius R. Schultz, a citizen of the United States, in accordance with and in pursuance of the provisions of the Revised Statutes of the United States, Title LXXII, entitled "Guano Islands," and the amendments thereto, do respectfully give notice to the Department of State that on the 20th day of March, 1886, I discovered a deposit of guano, on a key of coral or limestone formation, on a reef about 4 miles in length, running north-northwest by south-southeast, in about latitude 15° 51' north, and longitude 83° 19' west.

The measurements of said key, called Vivorilla Key, are as follows, viz: Height, 15 feet; breadth, 380 feet; length, 1,550 feet.

That on the 31st day of January, 1887, I took peaceable possession of said key in the name of the United States and have since that time retained, and still retain, peaceable possession thereof. That at the time of the said discovery and of the taking possession of said key as aforesaid, the said key was not in the possession or occupation of any other Government, or of the citizens of any other Government. And of the United States, Bluefields, Nicaragua; and the declaration of Capt. Jacob A. Peterson, marked Exhibit J. R. S. No. 1,* and a certified copy of the declaration of Capt. A. Hodgson, made before John S. Augustine, consular agent of the United States at the same place, marked Exhibit J. R. S. No. 2.*

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. R. SCHULTZ.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

District of Maryland, City of Baltimore, $8:

Before the subscriber, George Morris Bond, a commissioner appointed by the circuit court of the United States for the fourth circuit in and for the Maryland district, personally appeared before me, this 14th day of September, 1887, Julius R. Schultz, and made oath in due form of law that the matters and facts set forth in the aforegoing declaration or instrument of writing are true as therein set forth, and at the same time subscribed the same in my presence, "J. B. Schultz."

[SEAL.]

GEORGE MORRIS BOND, United States Commissioner for the District of Maryland.

No. 90.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

[Extract.]

No. 543.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
Washington, January 28, 1888.

SIR: I have received your No. 763, of the 6th instant, relative to the Italian claim against Salvador; also your telegram of the 25th instant

I desire to express the satisfaction with which the Department learns that this question has reached an amicable adjustment, and to add that the result is particularly gratifying in view of the manner in which it was obtained.

Awaiting your full report of the nature and extent of your good offices in bringing the parties into mutual accord,

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 91.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 769.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, January 30, 1888. (Received February 24.)

SIR: In continuation of my dispatch No. 763, of the 6th instant, I have the honor to inclose a copy of my note of the same date to the minister for foreign affairs of Salvador, tendering my good offices for the settlement of the question then pending between the Salvadorian and Italian Governments, and translations of his telegrams of the 9th and 12th instant in reply.

I arrived at the capital of Salvador on the 19th instant. Señor Magliano, the Italian chargé d'affaires, had already been there several days; the claim which had given rise to the difficulty had been discussed, but no progress had been made toward a settlement. The amount demanded by the claimant Sagrini through the Italian Government was upward of $530,000, a good part of which arose from interest at 18 per cent. per annum, compounded every six months, as stipulated in the contract; the claim without interest being about the half of that sum.

The day following my arrival the minister for foreign affairs informed me that he had little hope of coming to an understanding with Señor Magliano, as their views were very wide apart. He asked me to suggest some way of bringing it about. Up to that time no sum had been mentioned by either party. I suggested that he should offer a specific sum of money, payable by installments. This was accepted by President Menendez, and on the following day a protocol was signed by which the Government of Salvador agreed to pay the sum of $270,000 in long installments, subject to the approval of the Salvadorian Congress and the Italian Government. I communicated the result to you by telegram.

Both parties expressed to me much satisfaction over this prompt and friendly settlement. The Government of Salvador expected to pay a much larger sum; the Italian chargé is satisfied that it is in every respect equitable and just, and is confident his Government will so consider it, whatever may be the ideas of the claimant.

Í have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 769.]

Mr. Hall to Señor Delgado.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA, Guatemala, January 6, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: Señor Magliano, chargé d'affaires of Italy to Central America, will leave here in a few days for the capital of that Republic. He proposes to go overland via Santa Ana. I mention the fact in order that your excellency may, if deemed proper, notify the authorities at Santa Ana and the other places he will be likely to pass through.

His ostensible object in visiting Salvador is to present his credentials. He will also discuss with you the matter of the Sagrini claim. He has expressed a wish that I should accompany him, and my Government has so authorized me, provided it should also be the wish of your excellency's Government. I will therefore thank your excellency upon receipt of this note to telegraph me, so that, if desired, I may make my arrangements to leave by steamer on the 17th instant.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 769.—Translation.]

Señor Delgado to Mr. Hall.

SAN SALVADOR, January 9, 1888.

SIR: I have just received your esteemed communication of the 6th instant. y Government returns to you its most sincere thanks for your generous offer and accepts it with the greatest pleasure. I earnestly request you to be pleased to inform me the day on which you leave for this Republic.

With consideration, etc.,

MANUEL DELGADO.

No. 92.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 770.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, January 30, 1888. (Received February 24.)

SIR: With reference to your instructions, numbered 516, 517, and 525, of the 2d and 5th of November and 9th December, 1887, to my dispatches No. 751 and No. 752, and to the subject of the discriminating duties to which merchant vessels of the United States are subject in the ports of Costa Rica, I have to inform the Department that while recently in Salvador I learned that the steamer Costa Rica, carrying the Costa Rican flag, had touched at Punta Arenas and other Central American ports and at nearly all of them had received cargo for San Francisco.

As I had the honor to report to the Department in my dispatches above mentioned, the Costa Rica Government still maintains a discrimination in favor of the Spanish Central American Line of steamers to which the Costa Rica belongs, to the prejudice of vessels of the United States, and as in your instruction No. 525, relating to the same subject, the wish of the Treasury Department to be informed of any further developments is expressed, I deemed it advisable to inform you of the movements of the steamer referred to, for any action the Treasury Department might be disposed to adopt in regard to the application of section 2502 of the Revised Statutes to the cargo, and accordingly addressed you from San Salvador on the 25th instant a telegram.

This steamer on her return from San Francisco will probably bring cargo for Costa Rica upon which there will be a rebate of 5 per cent.

from the regular tariff rates upon imports.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

No. 93.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 771.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,
Guatemala, February 4, 1888. (Received February 24.)

SIR: With reference to my dispatches numbered 753 and 756 of the 12th and 21st December last, and 767 of the 13th ultimo, to your instructions 523 and 532 of the 6th December and 6th ultimo, and to other correspondence relating to the alleged seizure by Nicaraguan authorities of two small vessels carrying the flag of the United States, I have the honor to inclose herewith translations of a note, dated the 24th ultimo, from the minister for foreign affairs of Nicaragua, and of the several inclosures accompanying it, from which it would seem that as regards the schooner Merida the facts have been misrepresented.

From these papers it appears that the Merida, after having carried the Nicaraguan flag for a number of years and having become unserviceable as a sea-going vessel, was sold to Mr. N. P. Allen, a citizen of the United States. Mr. Allen had the vessel towed to the mouth of the Rama River, and it is claimed outside of the reservation, where he converted it into a shop, from which it is alleged a contraband trade was carried on, liquors were sold without license, it was rendezvous of gamblers and disorderly persons of both sexes; over this disreputable resort the owner had raised the American flag, and it would seem claimed exterritoriality.

General Urtecho's letter to the consular agent at Bluefields, inclosure 4, is probably a correct version of the affair, although it may have been communicated already. I beg to commend it and its inclosures to your notice.

I am, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in 771.—Translation.]

Señor Zavala to Mr. Hall.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS Managua, Nicaragua, January 24, 1888.

SIR: I have before me your courteous communication of the 21st December last past, in which your excellency calls the attention of my Government to the reports received from the consul at San Juan del Norte, in regard to the seizue of two American vessels by the Nicaraguan authorities established at the mouth of the Rama River, near to the territory of the Mosquitia Reservation.

Complying with the wishes your excellency expresses by instruction of your Government, I have to inform you that the acts to which these reports refer have not taken place.

Inclosed herewith I send your excellency copies of a dispatch from the minister of Government, and of communications upon the subject, addressed to the Government and to the American consular agent by the governor and intendent of the district of the Siguia. By these documents your excellency will perceive that there has been no undue seizure of any American vessel, and all that occurred was the searching of the schooner Merida of Mr. N. P. Allen, which unseaworthy vessel, unfitted for navigation, had been converted into a store-hulk, in which a contraband trade and a retail trade in strong liquors were carried on without payment of the license dues established by law, and without the permission of these authorities; the vessel was also a general center of frequent disorderly acts of all kinds.

I have no doubt that the foregoing will suffice to explain the conduct of the Nicaraguan authorities in the Siguia district, and that the consul at San Juan del Norte, with better data in his possession, will have rectified his reports.

With assurances, etc.,

ADRIAN ZAVALA.

[Inclosure 2 in 771.—Translation.]

The minister of government to the minister for foreign affairs of Nicaragua.

MANAGUA, January 12, 1888.

SIR: In response to the wishes expressed in your note of yesterday I inclose an authenticated copy of the report of the Government intendent of the district of Siguia to this ministry concerning the search ordered to be made by Nicaraguan authority of the schooner Merida, belonging to Mr. N. P. Allen, an American citizen. In that document it is clearly shown that there was no seizure of any vessel whatever, and that the search of Mr. Allen's schooner, turned into a commercial establishment, was made in virtue of a complaint made to the governor of police of Siguia that great disorders were committed therein, and strong liquors were sold at retail without the license of the authority, and without payment of the duties established by law.

With every consideration, etc.,

DAVID OSORNO.

[Inclosure 3 in 771.—Translation.]

General Urtecho to the minister of government of Nicaragua.

REPUBLIC OF NICARAGUA AND INTENDENCY OF THE DISTRICT OF SIGUIA December 20, 1887.

SIR: In the section of cablegrams of the "Diario Nicaraguense" of the 3d instant appears the following:

"NEW ORLEANS, November 29, 1887.

"The captain of the steamer Harlan publishes a letter signed by the captain of the schooner Merida in Escondido River, announcing that on the 20th of November Nicaraguan soldiers seized his schooner and the steamer William S. Moore without any cause therefor, and being asked by what right they did so, showed their rifles."

In anticipation of your inquiry I report to you what actually took place, and I do this making use of the annexed copy of a communication on the subject which I addressed to the consular agent of the United States at this port, in which all the facts are set forth.

With high respect, etc.,

ISIDORO URTECHO.

[Inclosure 4 in No. 771.—Translation.]

General Urtecho to the United States consular agent at Bluefields.

No. 21.7

REPUBLIC OF NICARAGUA. GOVERNMENT AND INTENDENCY OF THE DISTRICT OF SIGUIA Bluefields, December 16, 1887.

Sir: I have received your communication of the 14th instant relative to the complaints presented to your consular office by N. P. Allen, an American citizen, in consequence of a search ordered to be made by Nicaragua authorities of his vessel, the schooner Merida, lying on the banks of the Rama River. I have taken note also of the letter addressed to you by the same Mr. Allen, and of which you transmit me a

I give you with much pleasure the information you ask for upon the subject, but before entering into the facts which gave rise to the complaint, permit me to make known the antecedents which will enable you to form a correct judgment of the case.

The so-called schooner Merida is not, properly speaking, a vessel; it was at one time, and when it became useless for navigation, was towed to the river and made fast to the shores of the Rama and Siguia, and was made use of as a trading establishment. Such at present is the schooner Merida of Mr. Allen.

In that establishment every kind of trading is carried on without the least regard to morality; there is gambling and drinking, and it has become a general resort for men and women, who may be properly styled professionals. What the schooner Merida was as a focus of rioting, before the establishment of Nicaraguan forces in that locality, every one here can inform you; but better than that, the wounds that Mr. Allen carries upon his body are indelible marks of that life of libertinage. Since the establishment of Nicaraguan forces at that point things have improved tree transported the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of the property of th establishment of Nicaraguan forces at that point things have improved very much, but they are still far from being satisfactory. I now take up the subject of your communication.

The ordinance of the district of Siguia, within whose jurisdiction Mr. Allen resides, prohibits the introduction of spirituous liquors, without the previous payment of duties. Besides special laws upon the subject prohibit the retailing of the same liquors without the license of the authority.

On the 20th November last there was a fight on board the Merida between men under the influence of liquor, and in consequence the clandestine sale of ardent spirits by Senor Allen was denounced to the governor of police. In virtue thereof, the establishment (hulk) was searched; the act was perfectly correct, inasmuch as Mr. Allen had neither paid duties nor did he hold a license:

Mr. Allen refused to permit the search, closed the establishment, threw the keys at the police agent and withdrew. A servant of the same establishment picked up the keys, and through him the search was made. A small demijohn, with a small quantity of rum, was found, and also very marked indications of liquors having been run off. After the search the keys remained in the possession of the same servant, and in the afternoon of the same day Mr. Allen was, by his own voluntary act, at the head of his establishment again, which indicated that he withdrew his claims and protests. This all took place with Mr. Allen.

He claimed that he held an old license from the authorities of the reservation, but this subterfuge has no value whatever; aside from other reasons, which it is unnecessary to set forth at this time, the laws of the reservation prohibit the sale of liquors outside of the towns, and in no case would it have been conceded to Mr. Allen.

With high consideration, etc.,

ISIDORO URTECHO.

No. 94.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 549.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, February 6, 1888.

SIR: I transmit for your information, in connection with previous correspondence, a copy of a letter addressed by me to the Secretary of the Treasury to-day relative to the imposition of a discriminating duty of 10 per cent., as provided by section 2502 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, upon the cargoes imported at San Francisco from Costa Rica by the vessels of the Spanish Central American Line.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 549.]

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Fairchild.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, February 6, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 31st ultimo, inclosing a draught of a letter to the collector of customs at San Francisco, in relation to the imposition of the 10 per cent. discriminating duty under section 2502 of the tariff act of March 3, 1883, on the cargo of the steamer Costa Rica.

The third paragraph of the letter reads as follows:

"Merchandise imported in said steamer, with the exception of such as is covered by the terms of Article VI of the treaty of 1851 with Costa Rica, is subject to the discriminating duties levied by section 2502 of the tariff act of March 3, 1883."

The only suggestion the Department wishes to offer is whether the discriminating duty should not be imposed on all the merchandise on the vessel, as the discriminating rebate of duties on merchandise imported into Costa Rica on vessels of the line in question is understood to apply to all merchandise, whether the growth, produce, or manufacture of the United States or not.

If it should be deemed advisable not to raise this treaty question as yet it might perhaps be well explicitly to state that there shall be excepted from the imposition of the discriminating duty such merchandise as may be the growth, produce, or manufacture of the Republic of Costa Rica.

In the opinion of the Department, however, the discrimination now made by Costa Rica in favor of merchandise imported on the vessels of the Central American Line being applied to all merchandise, is violative of Article VI of the treaty of 1851 be-tween the United States and Costa Rica, and would justify this Government in regarding its provisions as temporarily suspended by Costa Rica.

I inclose herewith, for your further information, copy of a letter of the 1st instant to this Department, from the secretary of the pacific Mail Steamship Company.

I have, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 549.]

Mr. Lane to Mr. Bayard.

CONTINUED IMPOSITION OF A DISCRIMINATING DUTY OF 5 PER CENT. BY COSTA RICA AGAINST AMERICAN VESSELS IN FAVOR OF THOSE OF THE SPANISH CENTRAL AMER-ICAN LINE.

> PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP COMPANY, New York, February 1, 1888.

SIR: Referring to previous correspondence, and especially to our letter of the 27th alt. relating to the above subject, I now beg to hand to you a further extract from a letter just received from our special agent, Mr. J. H. Leverich, at the city of Guatemala, under date of January 7, 1888, from which you will notice that M. Leverich states that the 5 per cent. question was then in statu quo, and that the Marquis de Campo's steamer Costa Rica had landed 125 tons of goods from San Francisco under that protection.

Asking that you will kindly communicate this to the Treasury Department,

I remain, etc.,

W. T. LANE, Secretary.

[Inclosure 3 in No. 549.—Extract.]

Mr. Leverich to Mr. Lane.

COSTA RICA-DIFFERENTIAL DUTIES.

GUATEMALA, January 7, 1888.

DEAR SIRS: I am glad to hear you intended asking Mr. Bayard now to urge action on the part of the Treasury Department against Costa Rica in the shape of the 10 per cent. discriminating duties on goods imported into San Francisco under the flag of that Republic. My latest advices from Punt a Arenas are that the 5 per cent. question is still in statu quo and that the Costa Rica landed 125 tons of goods from San Francisco under that protection. Respectfully, etc.,

J. H. LEVERICH.

No. 95.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 550.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, February 7, 1888.

SIR: I have received your No. 766 of the 11th ultimo. It appears that the Government of Guatemala in 1881 granted a concession to an association of Americans for the construction of a railway from Champerico to Retalhuleu; that the "Champerico and Northern Transportation Company of Guatemala" successfully carried out the provisions of the concession, article 2 of which stipulated that no person or enterprise should have power to construct a railroad at a less distance than 15 leagues on either side of the line, and that by lately granting another concession to Messrs. J. L. Buerron & Co. to construct and operate a railroad from Ocos to Quesaltenango, lying within the previous concessionary line, Guatemala, it is claimed, has violated its obligation of 1881. Accordingly, the Champerico Company has protested to the national Government against this infringement of their rights, and filed a copy of such protest with your legation.

To enable the Department to act in this matter, should they desire its future intervention in behalf of their rights, the Champerico Company should set forth their complaint in a memorial properly sworn to and supported by affidavits, in accordance with the provisions of the circular, several copies of which are herewith transmitted for your own and the company's information, through its agent.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 96.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 773.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA, Guatemala, February 10, 1888. (Received March 6.)

SIR: With my dispatch No. 691 of the 22d July, 1887, I had the honor to transmit a copy and translation of an additional contract, dated the 14th June of the same year, between the Marquis de Campo and the Government of Salvador, by which the latter agreed to concede to the line of Spanish Central American steamers, an indirect rebate of 3 per cent. in the import duties upon merchandise brought to Salvador by the steamers of that line.

In my subsequent dispatch, No. 700, of the 30th August last, I transmitted a copy and translation of an executive order of that Government, dated the 17th of the same month, extending the rebate to all regular lines of steamers and sailing vessels.

I now inclose a copy and translation of another executive order, dated the 27th ultimo, revoking that of the 17th August last. The reasons given are that the Marquis de Campo, through his agent, has officially informed the Government that it is impossible for him to carry out his contracts for a service of steamers, and that in consequence, the order of the 17th August has no longer any object.

There is no allusion to the contracts of May 6, 1886, and June 14, 1887, but it may be inferred, in view of the premises, that they will be held to have lapsed.

The steamers referred to continue to ply between Panama and San Francisco, but not with any regularity.

I am, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

Inclosure in No. 773.—Translation.—From the Diario Oficial of Salvador of the 28th January, 1888.]

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS, National Palace, San Salvador, January 27, 1888.

The executive power, taking into consideration that the Marquis de Campo, through his agent in this republic, has officially notified the department of public works that it is impossible for him to carry out the contract with this Government in regard to a service of Spanish steamers, and that in consequence the executive order of the 17th of August, by which the indirect subvention, established by article 1 of the additional contract of the 6th June of last year, was extended to all regular lines of steamers and sailing vessels complying with the terms thereof, has ceased to have any object, decrees the revocation, in all its parts, of the above-mentioned executive order of the 17th of August of the past year.

Signed by the President.

ALVARADO, Secretary of Public Works.

No. 97.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 775.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,
Guatemala, February 16, 1888. (Received March 6.)

SIR: In continuation of my dispatch No. 718 of the 12th of October, and referring to your instruction No. 517 of the 5th of November, 1887, and to other correspondence relating to the differential duty of 5 per cent. which the Government of Costa Rica applies to vessels of the United States at the port of Punta Arenas on the Pacific, I have now to inform the Department that after a delay of nearly three months the minister for foreign affairs has replied to my note of the 12th of October last, a copy of which accompanies my dispatch above referred to.

I beg leave to inclose a copy and translation thereof, and a copy of my reply thereto, to all of which I respectfully invite the Department's notice.

The minister refers to the contracts of his Government with certain British and German lines touching at Port Limon on the Atlantic, which enjoy the same rebate of 5 per cent., and I will add to the exclusion of our vessels, although probably more than three-fourths of the export trade of Costa Rica by that port is with the United States.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 775.—Translation.]

Señor Esquivel to Mr. Hall.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS, San José, Costa Rica, January 10, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: I had the honor to receive the note of your excellency of the 12th of October of the past year, in which you are pleased to manifest that the contract made by this Government with the Marquis de Campo Line of steamers is contrary to to the stipulations of the treaty of commerce of 1851, be tween Costa Rica and the United States, inasmuch as in addition to granting a subsidy to the enterprise a rebate of 5 per cent. in customs duties is conceded upon all importations by this line, and that during the ten years of the duration of that contract no other line of steamers shall be granted a like concession. Your excellency believes that the stipulations referred to are not in harmony with the reciprocal freedom of commerce stipulations. lated in the treaty of 1851, nor with its provisions that no higher duties shall be demanded of American vessels in Costa Rica than of the vessels of any other nationality whatsoever, and upon this point your excellency informs me that you are authorized by your Government to say that the alteration of the tariff in favor of the Spanish enterprise overpasses the limits of subsidies to lines of steamers and will cause the ruin of American freighters on these coasts. Finally after expressing the necessity of your protesting, and of your Government protesting, in case that the contract with the Marquis de Campo should be sustained, of establishing differential duties upon merchandise conveyed by the Spanish Line from Costa Rica to American ports, your excellency concludes by suggesting that the rebate of 5 per cent. shall be extended to American vessels touching at Costa Rican ports on the Pacific. The nature of this subject and the strict observance of its international engagements which has always been characteristic of my government require that my reply be extended so as to present to your excellency considerations which, I doubt not, will convince you that the contract with the Marquis de Campo is not contrary to the treaty of 1851, and that the concessions made to him do not go beyond the natural powers of the Costa Rican Government nor of the subsidies that are granted to steamer lines.

My Government has been anxious to increase its maritime communications for the benefit of its commerce in general, and as in this Republic there are not yet sufficient inducements to attract spontaneously lines of steamers to our ports, it has been necessary to stimulate them by means of concessions or subsidies, and this has been done with the lines which touch at the port of the Atlantic as well as those which touch on the Pacific.

In regard to the first, that is to say, Limon, a decree of the permanent commission issued on the 15th of January, 1885, and approved by Congress on the 31st of May of the same year, authorizes the executive power to make contracts for the time deemed requisite with the different companies of steamers on the Atlantic which should bind themselves to touch at least once a month at the port of Limon, to bring and convey the mails gratis, and to reduce their freights in benefit of commerce. The authorization granted by the said law was extended to the companies by conceding to them a rebate of 5 per cent. from the customs duties upon merchandise imported or exported by their respective vessels.

In virtue of these legal powers, my Government, in the contract made on the 9th of June, 1885, with the Atlas Company, plying between Limon and New York, and vice versa, conceded a rebate of 5 per cent.; it conceded likewise the rebate of 5 per cent. on the 20th of August, 1885, to the Harrison Company, and on the 19th of October of the same year to the British Royal Mail; on the 10th of January, 1886, to Minor C. Keith, a citizen of the United States, as the owner of the steamer Foxhall (sailing under the British flag), and on the 21st of August, 1887, to the Hamburgh-American Line.

Referring now to the port of the Pacific, Punta Arenas, I have to apprise your excellency that for a long time no other line of steamers besides the Pacific Mail had touched there, and its service was not sufficient for the necessities of the commerce which has been increasing on that side between this Republic, the ports of Central America, and California. The Pacific Mail placed us in communication with San Francisco once a month only, while to-day we have that communication assured four times a month by the Marquis de Campo Line.

This line makes a considerable rebate in freights and passages, a point to which I beg to be permitted to call your attention, for it can not be disguised that American commerce would unquestionably gain by taking advantage of the facilities which the Spanish line affords for placing its merchandise at Punta Arenas at an expense for transportation much less than the former tariff rates of the Pacific Mail, the only line which formerly touched at our Pacific port.

Even to-day no other American line plies between Punta Arenas and San Francisco, and the Pacific Mail has no cause of complaint against the Government of Costa Rica, because it is subsidized by the sum of $12,000 a year, which it will still continue to enjoy during the present year.

In addition to the foregoing I beg to inform you that the Marquis de Campo's Line renders the Costa Rican Government special and very important services. It makes a rebate of 25 per cent. in freight upon articles which the Government imports for its own account, carries gratuitously the diplomatic ministers and employés who travel on commission of the Government; it affords also, besides that, four passages every year between Panama and San Francisco; it is bound to carry troops at half the tariff rates, the same also for laborers who enter or leave the Republic by order of the Government; it admits every year four young men to learn the duties of navigators, four others as engineers and quartermasters, and twelve as helmsmen; finally it is under the obligations and responsibilities established by the contract of the 1st of

The advantages set forth and the services expressed therein my Government remunerates in part by the rebate in customs duties; and it is to be noted that to-day the Spanish company enjoys solely this rebate, while the Pacific Mail, without all of the obligations weighing upon it, which the Marquis de Campo's Line has accepted, enjoys the before-mentioned subvention, which is paid in coin.

Your excellency will observe at once that no difference has been established in favor of the Spanish marine, which might give cause to say that an international inequality had been established in contravention of the treaty of 1851. In reality it is nothing more than a remuneration conceded to a private enterprise for the special services it renders, and neither the merchant marine of any other nation nor even the Costa Rican can consider themselves injured. And your excellency will permit me to call your attention also to the fact that the contract with the Marquis de Campo does not prohibit the making of similar concessions, but solely the extension of greater favors to another company.

From the foregoing it may be deduced that my Government, in granting the rebate of customs duties in exchange for services rendered, has had no other thought than to attract to our ports an indispensable element for the service of commerce, and to remunerate such services without prejudice to any one and without infraction of the rules which international compacts impose.

Although I believe I have already sufficiently answered the note which has given rise to this communication, I will intimate to your excellency that my Government, in its anxiety to increase, so far as possible, means of maritime communication, proposes to submit opportunely to the legislative power a project asking its authorization to grant to the lines of steamers which touch at Punta Arenas the same rebate of 5 per cent. whenever they undertake, in behalf of this Republic, obligations like those of the lines which touch at the Atlantic port and enjoy that concession.

I improve this opportunity to renew to your excellency my distinguished consideration and to subscribe myself,

Your obedient servant,

ASCENSION ESQUIVEL.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 775.]

Mr. Hall to Señor Esquivel.

United States Legation in Central America, Guatemala, February 14, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: Absence from this legation has prevented my giving earlier attention to the courteous note of your excellency of the 10th ultimo, relative to the differential duties to which vessels of the United States are subject at the port of Punta Arenas, in consequence of the rebate in import duties conceded by your excellency's Government to the line of steamers of the Marquis de Campo, plying between Panama and San Francisco.

In the first place I beg leave respectfully to explain that the statement contained in my note of the 12th of October last, to the effect "that by the terms of the contract with the Marquis de Campo equal advantages can not be conceded to other lines of vessels," was made under the erroneous impression that the corresponding clause in the contracts of the Marquis de Campo with the other Central American Governments was the same in the contracts with Costa Rica. I now find that in the latter "mayores ventajas" only are mentioned, while in the former, "iguales 6 mayores ventajas" are stipulated.

I regret that I can not concur with your excellency in that the rebate of 5 per cents of import duties, conceded to the vessels of the Marquis de Campo, is not contrary to the treaty of 1851 between the United States and Costa Rica. The object and intention of the treaty may appear to be sufficiently clear; it stipulates for reciprocal freedom of commerce between the two countries, and surely there can be no such reciprocity when the vessels of one party are subject to differential duties in the ports of the other. One of the steamers of the Marquis de Campo's Line sails under the Costa Rican flag; that this steamer should enjoy exceptional advantages in Costa Rican ports over vessels of the United States, is, in my judgment, clearly contrary to the letter as well as the intentions of the treaty as expressed in its Article VI. The treaty establishes absolute and unconditional equality of the vessels of both nations in the ports of each other.

In my note of the 12th of October last I stated "that the treaty of 1851 stipulates substantially that no higher duties shall be collected upon merchandise imported into Costa Rica in vessels of the United States than shall be collected upon merchandise imported in vessels of any other nationality and vice versa." If such is not the object and intention of the treaty, it is difficult to imagine why any reference is made therein to reciprocal freedom of commerce or to duties on imports.

That this rebate overpasses the legitimate limits of all subsidies to vessels and in many instances greatly exceeds the rates of freight charged by other lines, making a fair competition impossible, I beg leave to cite the following case of recent occurrence.

In December last, a steamer arrived at San Francisco from China having on board, among other consignments for Central America, a bale of silk goods upon which freight had been paid at Hong-Kong through to Punta Arenas. To avail himself of this rebate in duties in Costa Rica, the consignee at San Francisco had the goods surrendered to him for shipment by one of the Marquis de Campo's steamers, and without demanding a return of any part of the already prepaid freight to Punta Arenas, showing that the rebate must have exceeded double the amount of freight money by any other line of vessels than that of the Marquis de Campo.

With reference to your excellency's suggestion that American commerce would unquestionably gain by taking advantage of the facilities which the so-called Spanish line affords, I beg leave to express my doubts whether my Government, after having secured by treaties an equality of treatment for American vessels in the ports of the principal nations of the world, would be prepared to surrender such rights or to see the foreign commerce of the United States transferred to the Spanish flag.

I am well aware that the contract with the Marquis de Campo does not establish a differential duty in favor of the Spanish mercantile marine, but I fail to perceive that this fact in any way warrants the inequality which that contract establishes against American vessels in the port of Punta Arenas, where they pay a higher rate of duties than is paid by the vessels of the before-mentioned line. The advantages the Government of your excellency derives from the steamers of that line should, of course, be remunerated, but there ought to be some other way of doing this than the one adopted of subjecting vessels of the United States and of other nationalities to differential duties

In regard to the rebate of 5 per cent. conceded to the several lines of British and German steamers which touch at Limon, I beg leave to say that in my opinion it is as contrary to the treaty with the United States as is the same rebate conceded to the Marquis de Campo's line on the Pacific. While it exists merchant vessels of the United States are practically excluded from the import trade of that port by the differential duties established against them. The same may be said of the contract of the 5th of July, 1887, with Don Pedro Ferres for the establishment of a line of sailing vessels under the Costa Rican flag between Limon and ports of Europe, extended by decree of the 30th of the same month to the vessels of Senor Ferres on the Pacific, to both of which the same rebate of 5 per cent. is conceded.

My Government will be gratified to learn that it is the intention of that of your excellency to solicit the authorization of the legislative power to grant to all lines of steamers which touch at Punta Arenas the same rebate of 5 per cent. now enjoyed by the Marquis de Campo's steamers; it conceives, however, that under the existing treaty vessels of the United States are entitled to this rebate unconditionally, so long as it shall be extended to any other line or lines of vessels, whether of Costa Rican or of any other nationality.

I beg to be permitted to add that these representations are made by instructions of my Government, and in the general interest of American shipping.

Renewing to your excellency the assurances of my highest consideration and respect, I have the honor to subscribe myself,

Your obedient servant,

HENRY C. HALL.

No. 98.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 554.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, February 27, 1888.

SIR: I learn that much disquietude is felt in Nicaragua by reason of rumors that the plan of consolidation or amalgamation of the Central American Republics, which received so serious a check when undertaken by General Barrios a few years ago, is proposed to be revived by his successor, General Barillas.

The strong disapproval of the United States exhibited to any steps of coercion or constraint by one or more of the Central American States toward their neighbors to bring about a union was unequivocally manifested in the instructions sent to you in 1885. The circumstances under which General Barillas assumed the reins of government in Guatemala after the death of General Barrios seemed to afford hopes of permanent tranquillity in that State and its good relationship with the other States of the Central American group, and the Government of the United States has indulged the friendly hope that no schemes of dictatorial power or undue predominance in the councils of Central America, and no disturbance of the peace of our neighbors, would meet with encouragement under the presidency of General Barillas. are unwilling to abandon this hope, and it would be very gratifying to have it confirmed by receiving assurances from the Government of Guatemala of the groundlessness of the reports which now reach us.

The great interest expressed in the proposed construction of the inter-oceanic canal by citizens of the United States, under charter granted according to the laws of the United States, and the concern naturally felt for the security of the vast capital necessary for the accomplishment of such a work under effective guaranties of stability and order, should serve to advise the statesmen of Guatemala of the new and important enterprises thus inaugurated, and lead them to realize the magnitude of the concern which would necessarily be felt should any ill-counseled plans of domination or control cast a doubt upon the capacity of the independent Central American States to maintain orderly and local self-government, and observe relations of good-will toward each other.

Military movements are at all times hostile to peaceable commercial interests, and any observable tendency in such a direction at the present juncture could not fail to seriously discompose the excellent plans now in progress to construct the canal, and thereby to advance the commercial position of all the Central American States, in which general advancement Guatemala could not fail to share in due proportion to her commercial importance and the enterprise of her citizens in the paths of commercial advantage.

You will carefully inquire whether any ground exists for the apprehensions to which I have adverted, and will likewise take an early and discreet occasion to convey to the Government of President Barillas the views of the Government of the United States, which are consistently and strongly in disapproval of a coercive union of the Central American Republics and favorable to their independent, tranquil, and harmonious continuance under the reign of constitutional law. It will require but little statement or argument on your part to emphasize the feeling of disquietude and the grave results of unfriendliness which would be created if the capital and interests of citizens of the United States in Central America should be jeopardized by the ambitions of any of those States, and the paramount urgency of avoiding such a contingency by all available means, of which frank and friendly counsel is not the least.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 99.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 779.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, February 23, 1888. (Received March 16.)

SIR: In answer to your instruction No. 540 of the 25th ultimo, received on the 16th instant, I have the honor to inclose translations of the telegrams exchanged with Señor Zelaya, minister for foreign affairs of Honduras, relating to the nationality of Vivorilla Key, lying off the coast of that Republic.

It would seem that the Government had to apply to the governor of the coast department of Colon for information; he replied that the key is in the jurisdiction of Honduras, and that it is situate 33 miles to the north of the mouth of the "Coratzea" lagoon, which lies near to the coast and not far from the Nicaraguan frontier. The name of the lagoon is no doubt incorrectly given in the telegram; in some maps the name is "Catargo," and in others "Cataraca." I imagine there can be no doubt but that the key belongs to Honduras.

Upon receipt of the minister's telegram of the 21st I cabled the following to the Department:

Minister for foreign affairs of Honduras telegraphs, Vivorilla Key within the jurisdiction of Honduras.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 779.—Telegram.—Translation.]

Mr. Hall to Señor Zelaya.

GUATEMALA, February 17, 1888.

I greet your excellency, and by instruction of my Government request your excellency to be pleased to inform me whether Vivorilla Key, situate about 180 miles from Ruatan, Bay of Honduras, is in the jurisdiction of that Republic? HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 779.—Telegram.—Translation.]

Señor Zelaya to Mr. Hall.

TEGUCIGALPA, February 19, 1888.

I have asked for information from Puerto Cortes and Truxillo, in order to reply with certainty to your telegram respecting Vivorilla Key.

Your obedient servant,

JERONIMO ZELAYA.

[Inclosure 3 in No. 779.—Telegram.—Translation.]

The same to the same.

TEGUCIGALPA, February 21, 1888.

The governor of the department of Colon communicates by telegraph the follow-ng:

ing:
"Vivorilla Shoal and Keys are in our jurisdiction. They are situate 33 miles to the north of the mouth of Coratzca* (?) Lagoon. It contains limestone and some guano."
Your obedient servant,

JERONIMO ZELAYA.

No. 100.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 788.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,
Guatemala, March 16, 1888. (Received April 7.)

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt, this evening, of your instruction No. 554 of the 27th ultimo, relating to the reported disquietude felt in Nicaragua by reason of the rumors that the plan of consolidation attempted by President Barrios in 1885 is to be revived by his successor, President Barillas.

While I am quite sure that all such rumors are without foundation or justification, I shall take an early opportunity to obtain an authoritative statement in regard to their truth or falsity.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

No. 101.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 560.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, March 23, 1888.

SIR: I have pleasure in transmitting for your information a copy of a note from the minister of Italy† here, dated the 18th instant, conveying an expression of his Government's thanks for your efforts in bringing to an equitable adjustment the claim of the Italian Sagrini against Salvador.

^{*}The name of the lagoon is no doubt incorrectly transmitted. On some maps the name is "Catargo" and on others Cataraca.

† For inclosure see Doc. No. 722, post, p. 1050, under "Italian correspondence."

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 102.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 562.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, March 27, 1888.

SIR: I herewith transmit fourteen copies each of the report of Mr. George L. Rives, Assistant Secretary of State, to the President, and of the latter's decision as arbitrator, pursuant to the treaty of December 24, 1886, between Nicaragua and Costa Rica, concerning the validity of the treaty of limits between those Republics, concluded April 15, 1858.* One copy of each of these documents is to be permanently retained on the files of your legation. The others you are at liberty to distribute as you may think best.

The originals of the President's award were by his direction delivered to the respective ministers of Nicaragua and Costa Rica at this capital, Dr. Horacio Guzman and Señor Don Pedro Perez Zeledon, the 24th instant.

Adding, in conclusion, that ten copies of each document herewith transmitted have been sent to the consuls of this government at Managua, San José de Costa Rica, and San Juan del Norte,

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 103.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 563.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, March 27, 1888.

SIR: In your dispatch No. 766, of January 11, 1888, you reported the protest made by the managing director of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company of Guatemala against certain acts of the Guatemalan Government which, it was asserted, constituted a violation of the contract between that Government and the company.

On February 7 last, by instruction No. 550, I informed you that the subject could not be considered by the Department unless the case were brought to its attention by a memorial supported by affidavits.

This memorial has now been furnished, and the facts already reported, with considerable fullness of detail, in your No. 766, are all in the possession of the Department.

Mr. Sanford Robinson, the managing director of the company, has submitted, besides the memorial—a copy of which I inclose—a copy of the concession for the construction of the railroad which he represents, and of the report of Mr. Rockstroh, of the Guatemalan Government.

^{*} For inclosures see Doc. No. 314, post, p. 456.

These papers are annexed to your dispatch, already adverted to, and no copies of them need be now transmitted to you. Mr. Robinson further submits a copy of the decree of September 24, 1884, accepting his road, and of the concession recently granted for the construction of a road from Ocos to Quesaltenango, which you will find published in the Official Gazette for October 4, 1884, and December 15, 1887, respectively.

From these documents it appears that on March 12, 1881, the Government of Guatemala entered into a contract with Messrs. Lyman, Fenner, and Bunting, citizens of the United States, for the construction of a railroad from Champerico, on the Pacific coast, to Retalhuleu, a town about 30 miles in the interior. Certain modifications were made by a separate instrument dated May 30, 1882. The contract as modified was subsequently assigned to the petitioner, the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company of Guatemala, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of California, who completed the road and now possess and operate it.

By the contracts in question the Government of Guatemala granted to Mr. Lyman and his associates authority to build and to operate for ninety-nine years a railroad from Champerico to Retalhuleu, at the end of which time the road with all rolling stock, etc., should become national property. The Government further agreed that for twentyfive years from the date of the opening of the line for traffic no other railroad should be operated between these terminal points and none other should be constructed within 15 leagues on either side of the line. The Government further agreed to assist the enterprise by a subvention of $700,000 in bonds receivable at the Champerico custom-house for 25 per cent. of the export or import duties there collected. The Government further granted land in aid of construction, besides giving the road bed and land for stations; and it exempted the enterprise for the term of twenty-five years from all taxation, including duties on articles imported for the construction and maintenance of the road. tees were bound to build and equip their railroad in a specified manner and to begin and complete it by a specified time under penalty of forfeiture, and to deposit $10,000 as guaranty of performance on their part.

Other features of this contract will be referred to below.

The railroad was built in accordance with the contract and accepted by the Guatemalan Government on September 24, 1884, and the $700,000 in bonds duly delivered to the grantees or their assigns.

Up to the end of 1884, therefore, there is no evidence of any dispute between the railroad company and the Government.

It is now asserted by the petitioners that on July 31, 1885, when about $441,000 of the bonds remained unredeemed, the Government of the Republic issued a decree suspending payment of the bonds for one year, which suspension has since continued in force, although interest at 6 per cent on the unredeemed bonds has been paid for some portion of the intervening time.

It is further alleged that on November 8, 1887, the Government of Guatemala, by a contract dated on that day, granted to J. L. Bueron & Co. the right of constructing and working a railroad from the port of Ocos to the city of Quesaltenango, which contract was approved and ratified by the constituent assembly on November 14, 1887, and approved by the President of the Republic on December 15, 1887. The port of Ocos is situated on the Pacific Ocean in Guatemalan territory to the northward of Champerico. The distance between Champerico and Ocos is stated by you to be about 8 leagues; and the distance between Champerico and the mouth of the Suchiate River, which forms the boundary between Guatemala and Mexico, is said to be a little less than 56 kilometers or about 35 miles. Any railroad terminating at Ocos must, therefore, run within much less than 15 leagues of the petitioner's road throughout its entire length, and the construction of such a line would seem to be in plain violation of the exclusive privileges conferred upon the assignors of the petitioner.

These privileges, as already pointed out, were contained in the clauses guarantying that no other railroad should be constructed within 15 leagues of the petitioner's road during the first twenty-five years of its existence.

The transaction, as above stated, can not be treated as open to the objections which could be made to a grant of a perpetual monopoly. It is, on the contrary, a contract, by which the petitioners and the parties interested with them, agree to build for the Guatemalan Government a railroad, and are to receive for building such road $700,000 in bonds, a certain quantity of land, and the right of operating the road without charge for a period of ninety-nine years; and, as incidental to this, they are to be secured against certain competition, and be free from all taxes for a period of twenty-five years.

The petitioners aver that this guaranty against competition is of vital importance to them, and that without it they should not have undertaken the construction of this important work.

It appears, therefore, that the Guatemalan Government have directly violated two essential features of their contract—the agreement to receive their bonds at the custom house, and the guaranty against competing roads within 15 leagues—and it is for these breaches of the contract that the petitioner now asks redress.

It is, of course, unnecessary for me to remind you that the Government of the United States has always refused to press the contractual claims of its citizens against foreign powers, unless it should appear that the citizens holding such claims were unduly discriminated against by the debtor government, or denied a judicial domestic remedy against it. Where these conditions do not exist the intervention of this Government in contractual claims by its citizens against foreign governments is limited to instructions to its diplomatic representatives abroad to exercise, unofficially, their personal good offices in recommending to the governments to which they are accredited a just and honorable settlement of the claims.

The present case appears to be one of the class in which that course may properly be adopted, and you are therefore instructed to present unofficially to the Guatemalan Government the grievances of which this petitioner complains.

In so doing you may take occasion to call the attention of the minister of foreign affairs to the great importance to Guatemala, as well as to the citizens of the United States whose interests are now directly involved, of a scrupulous observance of good faith in the performance of their contract. In the pursuance of an enlightened policy, Guatemala has sought to attract the capital and skill of citizens of other countries and particularly of the United States, to undertake the construction of works of public utility which may serve to open to the world her great but hitherto undeveloped resources. To accomplish this result, nothing is more essential than a feeling on the part of those who may be willing and able to undertake such tasks, of confidence in the exact integrity of the Guatemalan Government, and it is not too much to say that the course of that Government in relation to the contract now under consideration contains nothing in it re-assuring for persons whom Guatemala may invite to enter into future engagements. It is vain to expect that the means of men and money required from other nations for the execution of similar works will ever be furnished in the face of such manifestations of disregard for contracts deliberately made.

It is not questioned that a government, when a monopoly becomes oppressive, may give public relief by the grant of privileges to an adverse interest. If, however, it should do so in such a way as to destroy private rights granted by its own express agreement, it would seem but just that compensation should be made to the parties thereby injured. And, it may be observed, that in the case now in question the exclusive privileges granted to the petitioners' assignors are not only conferred for a limited period, but are so guarded by provisions for prompt and effective service, at rates fixed in the contract itself, as to prevent the possibility of any oppression to the public.

It may be said that the petitioner under the contract ought to have submitted these questions to an arbitration. But the terms of article 25 can hardly be regarded as applying to a case like the present, which does not arise from any dispute as to the meaning of the contract or as to its application to a particular state of facts, but is based upon a clear repudiation and disregard by the Guatemalan Government of some of the essential features of the agreement. It seems plain that these questions are not such as can be disposed of by arbitration.

It may further be urged that the petitioner is bound by the restrictions embodied in and imposed by the terms of the President's approval of the contract of March 12, 1881. These conditions require that the enterprise shall always be national; that all persons interested in the road as stockholders, employés, or otherwise, shall be regarded as Guatemalans in regard to it; that they can never maintain the rights of foreigners in respect to the titles and transactions relating to this enterprise; and that no foreign diplomatic agent can ever intervene.

Provisions similar to this contained in the laws of certain Spanish-American Governments, or in contracts between those Governments and citizens of the United States, have in recent years been several times set up by those Governments as a bar to the intervention of this Government for the protection of the rights of its citizens. But the United States has uniformly refused to regard such provisions as annulling the relations existing between itself and its citizens or as extinguishing its obligation to exert its good offices in their behalf in the event of the invasion of their rights.

As instances of the Department's action in such matters may be mentioned its intervention in May, 1885, in behalf of certain Americans employed on Mexican railroads (see Wharton's Digest, II, 337) and its instructions of February 15, 1888, to Mr. Buck, United States minister to Peru, with reference to the case of Mr. John L. Thorndike, in which it took the position that "this Government can not admit that its citizens can, merely by making contracts with foreign powers, or by other methods not amounting to an act of expatriation or a deliberate abandonment of American citizenship, destroy their dependence upon it or its obligation to protect them in case of a denial of justice."

[Inclosure in No. 563.]

Mr. Robinson to Mr. Bayard.

Washington, D. C., March 21, 1888. (Received March 22.)

Sir: Sanford Robinson, as managing director of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company of Guatemala, a corporation formed under the laws of the State of California, respectfully comes before the honorable Secretary to complain of the unlawful acts of the Government of the Republic of Guatemala, hereinafter set forth, and begs leave to submit the following statement, to wit:

On March 12, 1831, the Government of Guatemala made a concession to and entered into a contract with three American citizens, to wit: J. H. Lyman, D. P. Fenner, and T. B. Bunting, for the construction of a railroad from the port of Champerico, on the Pacific coast, to the town of Retalluleu, situated about 30 miles in the interior.

most important points in the said contract were as follows:

Article 1. A franchise for ninety-nine years.

Article 2. A reservation during the term of twenty-five years of a strip of land on each side of the said railroad, 15 Spanish leagues (equal to about 39 English miles) in width, or a total of 78 miles, in which territory the Government agreed not to authorize during the said term the construction of any other railroad.

Article 3. A subvention of $700,000 in debentures, redeemable at the Champerico custom-house with 20 per cent. of the duties. Afterwards this was modified to 25 per cent. of the duties at the said custom-house (section 5 of the modifications), and afterwards, by special decree, the percentage was made 12 per cent. of the duties at all the custom-houses of the Republic.

Article 9. Exemption from duties on railroad material for construction and maintenance.

Articles 10 and 11. Exemption from stamp duties and taxation.

Other concessions of minor importance were made, not necessary to enumerate, and which up to date have been fulfilled on the part of the Government.

The two most important concessions on the part of the Government were the subsidy and the reservation of the 15 leagues on each side of the line. These are of the essence of the contract, without which the railroad would not have been constructed.

Article 14 extends the rights of the concessionaries to their legal representatives, and article 15 confers on them the right to form a company outside of the Republic for the purpose of constructing the said road.

The grantees assigned the contract to the aforesaid Champerico and Northern Transportation Company of Guatemala, and the said company in accordance with the original contract constructed the said railroad, expending a large sum of money in the work. The road was by decree of the executive duly accepted on October 4, 1884, as having been constructed in compliance with the contract.

The debantures were duly issued by the Government in "bonos" (bonds) to the amount of $700,000; each bono specifying on its face the object of its issue, and these bonos became at once receivable at the custom-houses of the Republic for 12 per Here, however, commenced the acts of bad faith on the part of cent. of the duties. the Government. It issued "documents," so-called, to merchants in exchange for advances of money made to the Government, receivable for duties; these documents bearing on their face the provision that they were not subject to the necessity of paying 12 per cent. of the duties in bonos of the railroad company. In consequence of this the company received up to the time of the suspension of payments of its bonos not over 6 per cent. of the duties.

The process of redemption, however, went on until July 31, 1885, when the Government, by formal decree, suspended payment of the "bonos" for the term of one year, failing, however, at the end of the year to resume payment, and from the said 31st day of July, 1885, none of them have been redeemed. Up to that date about $295,000 had been redeemed, leaving on hand about $441,000. At the expiration of the year of suspension the Government organized a "syndicate of the public debt," its duties being to collect 50 per cent, of the maritime revenue, and devote the proceeds to the payment of interest on the debt, at varying rates, ranging from 12 per cent. down to 6 per cent, the "bonos" of the Champerico Railroad being entitled to the lowest rate. After payment of the interest any surplus in each year was to be devoted to payment of principal.

Under this law the Champerico Company received three months' interest, from the 1st day of January, 1887, to the 1st day of April of the same year. Your petitioner, acting for the company, having no other resource, was obliged to accept the forced regulation of the Government, but did so under protest, reserving all the right of the company under the original contract, in case of the failure on the part of the Government to carry out the new arrangement. After the payment of the first three months' interest the syndicate continued to collect its proportion of the customs duties until the 26th day of June, 1887, the second installment of interest being due on the 30th of June. On the 26th of June the President declared himself dictator, and on the 27th of June, by decree, abolished the syndicate and seized the funds in its hands. Your petitioner immediately made a demand for the amount due the company, claiming that the funds were held by the syndicate in trust, and on the 4th day of July following the treasury paid the three months' interest due to the company, but it held and still holds the surplus available for payment of principal. Since that time no payments whatever have been made.

During the suspension of payments the Government has made other contracts for the construction of railroads, with subventions. Amongst these one was made with a Spaniard, named Fernandez, for the construction of a railroad from Antigua to Palin, with a subsidy of Government bonds receivable for duties in the custom-houses. Fernandez made a pretense of grading a portion of the road, and then, receiving the bonds for that portion, abandoned the work with the consent of the Government. The bonds, however, have always been received at the custom-houses, and are now nearly or all canceled, although those of the company are not received. Other contracts have since been made with large subventions from the Government. The above-mentioned acts of bad faith on the part of the Guatemala Government were but the beginning and led up to the last attack on the company, one so flagrant and so ruinous in its consequences as to force the company to take whatever measures it can to save itself from the complete ruin of the enterprise.

On December 15, 1887, the Government, against the earnest and formal protests of your petitioner, made a contract with J. L. Bueron & Co. for the construction of a railroad from Quezaltenango to the port of Ocos. Ocos is a small and new port, situated about 7½ Spanish leagues to the west of the port of Champerico. This Ocos road is to run lengthwise through the coffee districts of Costa Grande and Costa Cuca; then to turn towards the coast and run to the said port of Ocos. These districts supply nearly all the traffic of the Champerico road, and for that traffic the road was built. For 30 miles or more this new road will run within the 15-league strip on the westerly side of the Champerico road and take all its trade. The result of the construction of this road will be simply the complete ruin of the property of the Champerico Company.

It is well to state here that some time before the Bueron contract was heard of your petitioner had, encouraged and urged by the members of the Government, made surveys for an extension of the Champerico road through the same country covered by the Bueron road, and had formally applied for a concession asking for no subvention or aid except the right of way.

After making this proposition your petitioner was unable to get any action on it and was suddenly surprised by discovering that the Government had made a contract with Bueron for a road covering the same ground and giving him besides a large subsidy. In opposing this contract, which your petitioner did most strenuously in communications, protests, and personal interviews, he was aided strongly by the United States minister, the Hon. Henry C. Hall, who, unofficially, made every endeavor to prevent the carrying out of the threatened contract. As, however, he acted only unofficially, simply using his good offices in behalf of the company, the Guatemala Government paid no attention to him.

Mr. Hall has informed your petitioner that he has fully and minutely reported the whole transaction to the Department of State.

The statements herein contained can, therefore, be fully verified by his reports. In company with Mr. Hall, your petitioner had several interviews with the minister of foreign relations, Don Lorenzo Montufar, and was assured by him that in the face of the contract with the company none such as contemplated could be made with Bueron. In the whole affair your petitioner feels assured that Mr. Montufar acted in good faith, and that he would have prevented the consummation of the Bueron contract if he had had the power. The President conceded all the arguments of your petitioner and gave him to understand that the contract would not meet his approval. Before the final approval of the contract by the President, Mr. Montufar submitted the whole question at issue to Mr. E. Rockstroh, a competent and scientific man, for many years in charge of one of the Government institutions of learning, and for some years past engaged in making, in company with Prof. Miles Rock, of Washington, the survey for the boundary-line between Mexico and Guatemala. The points on which he was asked to report were: (1) The meaning of article 2 of the contract; and (2) the distance from the Champerico road to the contemplated Ocos road.

On both points Mr. Rockstroh, in a report dated November 19, 1887, decided against the right of the Government to make the Buerron contract.

In face of this report of their own expert, appointed by themselves, the President approved the Bueron contract, it being published as a law in the Official Gazette on December 15, 1887.

Your petitioner further states that he was refused a sight of the Bueron contract, until it was published, after approval of the President, in the Official Gazette of the Government.

The above history will show the honorable Secretary that the Government, by promises, having induced the Champerico Company to construct the railroad, commenced, as soon as it was completed, a consistent course of violation of the contract, ending in the Bueron concession, a deliberate and willful attempt to ruin the enterprise. act is one equivalent to confiscation of its property, for the Government might as well seize the road itself as to take away its traffic, a traffic they had agreed to pro-

The 15-league clause was so important that the construction of the road would never have been undertaken without it. There was a practically fixed amount of business. The building of the road brought no new business. The road simply hauled by steampower what had hitherto been hauled by oxen. With a fixed amount of traffic limited in quantity no one would have invested money in it without an allowed tariff sufficient to yield a proper revenue and exemption from competition for a reasonable term of years.

Except the questions above stated no disputes have occurred between the Government and the company. The Government has never claimed, nor does it now claim, that the company has in any way violated any part of its contract.

In consequence of this last act of oppression and violation of contract on the part of the Guatemala Government, the company already finds itself seriously damaged. Negotiations which have been pending for a sale of the company's road have been stopped, and the stock of the company has been rendered practically valueless.

The Champerico Company is not the first American enterprise that has suffered at the hands of the Guatemala Government, nor will it be the last, unless the said Government can be brought in some way to see the error of its ways. The company is powerless in Guatemala; it has no tribunal to appeal to; it has no resource whatever except in the mediation of the United States Government. Your petitioner believes that such mediation would be effectual, not only in protecting the company from the present attack, but in relieving it from future ones, as well as tending to prevent attacks on other American enterprises. It is with regret that the company finds itself forced to ask this intervention, but it is compelled by its necessities to do so. Wherefore, in view of all the facts herein set forth, your petitioner, in the name of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company of Guatemala, now respectfully asks the aid and intervention of the Department of State, in order to procure from the Guatemala Government a strict compliance with the terms of the contract made with Lyman, Fenner and Bunting, and, therefore, prays that the Department will take such steps as it may deem necessary in the premises to secure an abrogation of the Buerron contract, and prevent the threatened spoliation and practical confiscation of the company's property.

Your petitioner respectfully refers to the following documents herewith submitted:

Copy and translation of Lyman, Fenner and Bunting contract.

Translation of decree accepting the Champerico road. Copy and translation of the Buerron contract.

Copy and translation of the report of E. Rockstroh. Certified copy of articles of incorporation of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company of Guatemala.

U. S. Coast Survey map and official map of Guatemala, showing location of the ports of Ocos and Champerico, the line of the Champerico Railroad, and approximate line of the proposed Ocos Railroad, the position of the coffee-producing districts, and the 15-league lines.

And your petitioner will ever pray, etc.

SANFORD ROBINSON. Managing Director.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 21, 1888.

Sanford Robinson, being duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is forty-one years of age; that he was born in North Yarmouth, in the State of Maine; that his residence is in the city of San Francisco, State of California, but that he is at present residing temporarily in the city of Guatemala, in the Republic of Guatemala; that he is the managing director of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company, of Guatemala, a corporation formed under the laws of the State of California, owning property in the said Republic of Guatemala; that he is a stockholder in the said corporation; that the statements made by him in the above petition are true, except as to those matters stated on information and belief, and as to those matters he believes them to be true; that the documents filed with the said petition and referred to therein are correct copies of the originals, and that the translations are true and correct; that the line of the Champerico Railroad is correctly laid down on the maps filed with said petition, and that the acts referred to and complained of in the foregoing petition took place during the time that the deponent has been acting as managing director of the said Champerico and Northern Transportation Company, and while he was residing in Guatemala; that is to say, between the 31st day of July, 1885, and the 1st day of January, 1888.

SANFORD ROBINSON.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 22d day of March, A. D. 1888.

[SEAL.]

EMMA M. GILLETT,

Notary Public.

No. 104.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 793.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,
Guatemala, March 27, 1888. (Received April 16.)

SIR: With my dispatch No. 684 of the 12th of July, 1887, I transmitted a copy and translation of a decree of the Guatemalan Government, extending the rebate in import duties, so far as the contract with the Marquis de Campo would permit, to all regular lines of vessels.

The Central American Line of the Marquis de Campo has continued to enjoy, up to the present, a rebate of 3 per centum in import duties, and the regular American lines plying between Panama, ports of Central America, and San Francisco a rebate of 2.9 per cent. The withdrawal of the Marquis de Campo's steamers from these waters is now announced by his agent in Guatemala, and the Government, in consequence, has issued a decree, on the 24th instant, a copy and translation of which are inclosed, withdrawing all rebates in duties, so that vessels of all nationalities are placed, as formerly, on the same equal footing as regards the payment of customs duties on imports.

The Government of Salvador has already rescinded an executive order to the same effect of the Guatemalan decree of the 11th July, 1887, as I had the honor to report to the Department by my dispatch

No. 773 of the 10th ultimo.

I have, etc.

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure in No. 793.—Translation.—Extract from "El Guatemalteco" of the 27th March, 1888.—Revocation of the decree of July 11, 1887.]

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS, PALACE OF THE EXECUTIVE POWER,
Guatemala, March 24, 1888.

The representative of the Spanish Central American Line of mail steamers of the Marquis de Campo having manifested that the enterprise has been under the necessity of definitely withdrawing its vessels; considering that the benefits conceded to other companies by the rebate in import duties conformably with the decree of the 11th July, 1887, with the view of establishing a just equilibrium which would not exclude competition and would favor the interests of the country, and in view of the announced declaration of the above-mentioned line, the motive for conceding such privileges having ceased to exist, and the re-establishment of uniformity in import duties having become indispensable, the President decrees to abrogate all the executive orders issued in favor of the steam-ship companies plying regularly to our ports on the Pacific and relating to the rebate in customs duties upon merchandise imported by their vessels.

Let it be communicated. Signed by the President.

BARRUTIA,
Secretary of Public Works.

No. 105.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 798.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, April 3, 1888. (Received April 25.)

SIR: Mr. Concepcion Pinto, a naturalized citizen of the United States, and for many years a resident of San Francisco, Cal., has addressed me a communication, written by his advocate, asking to be informed whether the Governments of the United States and Guatemala hold that certain parts of the treaty of March 3, 1849, relative to peace and friend-ship are still in force, as stipulated in its Article XXXIII, and in such case, whether Article XII, which provides that the citizens of both contracting parties shall enjoy the same rights in their trials at law which are enjoyed by natives or citizens, may not also be considered to be in force. A translation of Mr. Pinto's communication is inclosed herewith.

The treaty referred to was terminated by Guatemala in 1874, and so far as I can ascertain, without any reference having been made by either party to the last clause of paragraph 1, of Article XXXIII, as fol-iows:

That in all those parts which relate to peace and friendship it shall be perpetually binding on both powers.

Mr. Pinto's object in making this inquiry is the following: He has brought a suit in the courts of this city against the International Bank of Guatemala, and on the ground that he is a foreigner the bank's advocate has petitioned the court that Mr. Pinto shall be required to give security in the sum of $100,000; for this requirement, it is said, no law exists, and no such security was ever required of a citizen of the country.

Article XII of the treaty of 1849 stipulates substantially that the citizens of the contracting parties shall enjoy the same rights in their trials at law that are enjoyed by natives or citizens.

I have forwarded a copy of Mr. Pinto's communication to the minister for foreign affairs of Guatemala with a note, of which I inclose a copy.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 798.—Translation.]

Mr. Pinto to Mr. Hall.

GUATEMALA, 24th March, 1888.

SIR: Having several claims pending before the tribunals of this Republic and others to present, I have the honor to address you, requesting you to be pleased to inform me whether the Governments of the United States and of this Republic hold Article XII of the treaty of the 3d of March, 1849, to be binding. In this article it is stipulated that the citizens of the contracting parties in each country shall enjoy the same rights in their trials at law that are enjoyed by the natives or citizens.

It is said that notice of its intention to terminate the treaty was given by the Government of Guatemala in the month of September, 1873, but as Article XXXIII, paragraph 1, provides that such notice shall apply only to whatsoever relates to commerce and navigation, and that whatsoever relates to peace and friendship shall be perpetually binding on both nations, it appears conclusive that Article XII subsists in all its force and vigor inasmuch as it does not relate to navigation nor to commerce, but to peace and friendship, assimilating Guatemalan citizens in the United States and citizens of the United States in Guatemala with the citizens of the one and the other country in all that relates to their rights in the courts of justice.

Begging that you will be pleased to inform me whether you consider the same to be binding, I have the pleasure to subscribe myself,

Your obedient servant,

CONCEPCION PINTO.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 798.]

Mr. Hall to Señor Barrutia.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA, Guatemala, April 3, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: Mr. Concepcion Pinto, a citizen of the United States, has addressed a communication to this legation requesting to be informed whether the Governments of the United States and Guatemala hold that those parts of the treaty of the 3d of March, 1849, between the two countries, relative to peace and friendship, are still in force as stipulated in its Article XXXIII, and in such case whether Article XII, which stipulates that the citizens of both contracting parties in each country shall enjoy the same rights in their trials at law which are enjoyed by natives or citizens is not also in force.

The treaty referred to was terminated by Guatemala in 1873, and so far as I have been able to ascertain, without any reference having been made concerning those points which relate to peace and friendship, which the treaty itself stipulates shall be perpetual.

I have forwarded a copy of Mr. Pinto's note to my Government and have asked for its instructions, but in the meantime it would be reasonable to expect that unless there are special laws which deprive citizens of the United States and other foreigners of any of the privileges enjoyed by native citizens in the tribunals of Guatemala, the courtesies at least due from one friendly nation to another should entitle them to the same consideration. I am very sure that no Guatemalan could be deprived of any privilege in the courts of the United States enjoyed by natives or citizens of the country.

With renewed assurance of my highest, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

No. 106.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 800.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,
Guatemala, April 4, 1888. (Received April 25.)

SIR: In continuation of my dispatch No. 797, of the 2d instant, I have the honor to inclose a copy of a personal note of this date from Señor Magliano, chargé d'affaires of Italy, in Central America, announcing the approval of the protocol, signed by himself and the minister for foreign affairs of Salvador, through my mediation, under your instructions, in January last. The approval is conditional with the rebate of the one-third of the sum agreed upon, which, as has been shown, belongs to Ex-President Zaldivar. Señor Magliano has already assented to this rebate.

I respectfully invite your attention to Señor Magliano's note, wherein he expresses his high appreciation of the great service that his Government has received in the amicable settlement of this serious and delicate question with Salvador, which has been effected through the good offices I was able to render to both parties while carrying out your telegraphic instruction of the 5th of January last past and your No. 535, of the 11th of the same month.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure in No. 800.]

Señor Magliano to Mr. Hall.

ITALIAN LEGATION. Guatemala, April 4, 1888.

SIR: Yesterday I received the following telegram from Señor Delgader minister for foreign affairs of Salvador:

"Our protocol of January 24 has been approved by Congress, with the sole condition that the amount to be paid shall be $180,000."

In giving your excellency this information I consider it my duty to again assure you of my sincere gratitude and appreciation of your efficacious aid in bringing to an amicable conclusion the serious and delicate question that existed between my Government and that of Salvador with reference to the claim of Dr. Sagrini.

Your personal intervention, requested by the Government of Salvador, authorized by the honorable the Secretary of State at Washington, accepted by the cabinet of Rome, and most gladly welcomed by me, could not but succeed to the advantage of both parties, inasmuch as your action, undertaken with so much tact, prudence, and ability, was shown to be inspired solely by an impartial feeling of justice and equity, as also by the desire to render a service to two friendly Governments, and with perfect disinterestedness disinterestedness.

My Government, being informed by me of what your excellency has done in this matter, will certainly not fail to acquaint you with a due manifestation of their gratitude; in the mean time,

I have the honor, etc.,

ROBERTO MAGLIANO.

No. 107.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 801.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Guatemala, April 5, 1888. (Received April 25.)

SIR: With further reference to your instruction No. 554, of the 27th of February last, and in continuation of my despatch No. 788, of the 16th ultimo, I have the honor to inclose copies and translations of correspondence with the minister for foreign affairs of Guatemala relative to the disquietude prevailing in Nicaragua by reason of the rumors that the plan of a consolidation of the Central American States under one Government, undertaken by General Barrios in 1885 and signally failed, is about to be revived by his successor, General Barillas.

On the 17th ultimo I addressed the minister a note in consonance He replied at length on the 28th, declaring with the instruction. the rumors prevalent in Nicaragua to be unfounded, and giving their supposed origin; he declares, also, that Guatemala contemplates a restoration of the Central American Union by legitimate or lawful means only; he refers to the treaty of the 16th of February, 1887, as having been concluded for the same object. But in the same paragraph he states, substantially:

That at any time and under whatever circumstances, however difficult, whenever on the part of one or more of the Central American Republics the idea of a union shall be developed, the people and Government of Guatemala, in use of their undoubted autonomy, will always be disposed to make use, by lawful means, of whatever may conduce to the national reconstruction of Central America.

As this paragraph appears to be ambiguous, I addressed him a second note, stating that a frank disclaimer that any other means than those provided by the treaty of the 16th of February, 1887, are contemplated would probably allay all doubts as to the intentions of his Government. I am very confident that no such movement as has been feared in Nicaragua is contemplated, nor have I any apprehension that under any circumstances will General Barillas resort to coercive means for the purpose of carrying out an enterprise which, after the failure of 1885, would hardly be considered other than as utterly impracticable.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 801.]

Mr. Hall to Señor Barrutia.

GUATEMALA, March 17, 1888.

SIR: I am instructed by the honorable Secretary of State of the United States to apprize your excellency's Government that he has learned that much disquietude is felt in Nicaragua by reason of the rumors that a plan of a consolidation of the Central American Republics which was undertaken by General Barrios three years ago is about to be renewed by the present Government of Guatemala. On that occasion my Government expressed its strong and decided disapproval of any steps of coercion or constraint by one or more of the Central American States toward the others with the view to such consolidation; this disapproval was made known by me to your excellency's Government soon after the promulgation of the union proclamation of President Barrios in 1885.

The circumstances under which his excellency General Barillas assumed the reins of the Government after the death of General Barrios, gave hopes of permanent tranquillity in Guatemala and of its good relationship with the other States of Central America. My Government has hitherto entertained the same hope as well as its belief, and is by no means disposed to abandon it, but, under the circumstances of the rumors which have caused so much disquietude in Nicaragua, it is of paramount importance, and it would also be very gratifying to my Government, to have that hope and belief confirmed by receiving from the Government of Guatemala its assurance of the absolute groundlessness of these rumors. The importance of such assurance will be shown hereinafter.

The great interest expressed in the proposed construction of the interoceanic canal through Nicaragua by citizens of the United States, under an act of incorporation granted according to the laws of the United States, and the apprehension naturally felt for the security of the vast capital necessary for the accomplishment of such a work under effective guaranties of stability and order, will suffice to show to the Government of Guatemala how important to an enterprise of that magnitude already inaugurated are the assurances asked for; that there shall be no ill-counseled plans of domination or control to cast a doubt upon the capacity of the Central American Republics to maintain orderly and local self-government and to observe relations of good will towards each other.

While my Government would sympathize with any movement having for its object a voluntary, harmonious, and peaceful union of the five Central American States, it would always strongly disapprove any attempt of coercive union upon whatever pretext. Until such a union can be realized my Government will favor their independent, tranquil, and harmonious continuance under the reign of constitutional law.

It requires but little argument to emphasize the feeling of disquietude and the grave results of unfriendliness which would be created if the capital and interests of citizens of the United States in Central America should be jeopardized by the ambitions of any of these Republics, and the paramount urgency of avoiding such a contingency by all available means.

My Government in instructing me to set forth to that of your excellency the foregoing frank and friendly statements, is fully persuaded that the Government of Guatemala will give such assurances as will effectively dissipate all doubts to which the reports from Nicaragua have given rise.

Renewing to your excellency, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 801.—Translation.]

Señor Barrutia to Mr. Hall.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS, Guatemala, March 28, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: I have received and taken into attentive consideration your note of the 17th instant, in which, complying with the instructions of the honorable Secretary of State of the United States, you are pleased to inform me that he has learned that much disquietude is felt in Nicaragua by reason of the rumors prevailing there that the plan of a consolidation of the union of the five Central American Republics is about to be revived by the present Government of Guatemala, and that on account of these rumors your Government has manifested its decided disapproval of any coercive step or of constraint on the part of one or more of the Central American States to carry out that plan; that your Government has entertained the hope that under the presidency of General Barillas tranquillity would prevail in Guatemala and good relations would be maintained with the other Central American States; but that in consequence of these rumors, which have caused disquietude in Nicaragua, it is important, and it would be satisfactory to your Government, to see that hope confirmed by receiving from my Government assurances that these rumors are unfounded; that the importance of such assurances is founded on the great interest manifested in the construction of the interoceanic canal through Nicaragua by citizens of the United States, and the natural apprehension felt for the security of the vast capital required for the accomplishment of such a work, already inaugurated; and finally that your Government would sympathize with a peaceful and harmonious union of the Central American States, at the same time disapprove of any plan to obtain it by coercive measures.

H. Ex. 1, pt. 1—— 10

Duly appreciating the just desire of your Government to give confidence and security to its citizens in all that relates to the vast enterprise of the interoceanic canal through Nicaragua, I have the honor to reply to your note, in compliance with the special instructions of the President of the Republic.

It is frequently difficult, Mr. Minister, in any special or private affair, to reach definite and concrete conclusions when the facts are not defined, when no manifestations are even suggested of acts, real or supposed; when, finally, everything devolves upon the unsubstantial basis of rumors, whose origin is doubtful, whose object is unknown, and whose importance does not go beyond that of indefiniteness and vagueness.

Notwithstanding in the present case the rumors to which you refer are so unfounded that no effort is needed to destroy them, their falsity is proven by the very fact that my Government has taken no steps nor has it made any manifestations from which it can be in any way logically deduced that it entertains ambitious pretentions of domination. It would suffice to invoke your own respectable testimony as a resident of this capital, and able to observe political events closely, whether you have noticed any preparations of a hostile character against any Government or enterprise, or any political combination foreign to or contrary to the rights and common interests of the Central American peoples.

For several months past it has been notorious that these rumors proceed solely from Nicaragua, where they have been invented and sustained by a few emigrés enemies of the present political system of Guatemala, who, with the object of carrying out their revolutionary projects, promote all kinds of animosities against my Government, regardless of the means employed, however unpatriotic or calumnious they may be.

In this connection I beg to inform you that already, at the end of August of last year, our minister in Washington, Señor Francisco Lainfiesta, communicated to the honorable the Secretary of State the existence of such rumors, and at the same time gave assurances of their absolute falsity.

Be pleased then to receive in the sense of a guaranty for the legitimate interests of your fellow citizens the assurance that the rumors are entirely and maliciously false which have circulated and unfortunately have caused unusual disquietude in the neighboring sister Republic of Nicaragua, designated by nature to produce in her territory, by means of the interoceanic canal, and thanks to the capital and energy of the North American citizens, the greatest economic transformation in these sections of Central America, a transformation which my Government anxiously awaits, as one of the most efficient means for carrying into practice the national union of these Central American peoples upon a solid and stable basis. This was set forth by the legation of Guatemala in Washington, by a communication dated the 2d of September of last year, expressing the lively sympathy of Guatemala for the canal, and offering the co-operation of my Government for the removal of any difficulties which might arise in the accomplishment of that grand and transcendental work.

The foregoing, in the opinion of my Government, answers all the points of your dispatch relating to the assurances which your Government has a right to demand as regards the interests of its citizens which are linked with the great enterprise of a canal through Nicaragua, interests which, under any circumstances, and for the good of Central America, would be respected and placed under safeguards, as is due to every kind of foreign interest existing in these countries.

It remains for me to refer to the declarations of your Government in regard to its views upon the national reconstruction of Central America.

My Government would fail to recognize the importance of the announced declarations without responding thereto, and at the same time making, explicitly and honorably, frank manifestations in regard to the sentiments it entertains and the principles which have decided, and will hereafter determine its conduct. Aside from the personal convictions which the President of the Republic and the persons who compose his cabinet entertain in regard to the loyalty and desirability of the Central American union, I should state, in response to your courteous and friendly frankness, that according to our constitution, article 2, the Guatemalan nation will always be ready to re-incorporate itself with the Central American nation

ality. ullet

That for this great object a treaty was concluded in this capital on the 16th of February, 1887, and with the view to prepare for the national union. It was signed by the plenipotentiaries of the five Central American Republics, and has been ratified by the legislatures of a majority of them (Guatemala, Salvador, Honduras, and Costa Rica), and that at any time and under whatever circumstances, however difficult, whenever on the part of one or more of the Central American Republics the idea of a union should be developed, the people and Government of Guatemala, in use of their undoubted sovereignty, without egotism, and without any spirit of domination, will always be disposed to make use, within the limits of law, and by lawful means, of whatever in their judgment may conduce for the general and permanent good, to the effective national reconstruction of Central America.

I believe, Mr. Minister, that the foregoing, which I trust you will be pleased to communicate to your wise and enlightened Government, will dissipate the unfounded apprehensions to which these false rumors have given rise, and that at the same time the principles and aspirations which the political faith of the people and Government of Guatemala sustains will be established with frankness and dignity.

This occasion affords me the pleasure to renew, etc.,

SALVADOR BARRUTIA.

[Inclosuro 3 in No. 801.]

Mr. Hall to Señor Barrutia

GUATEMALA, March 29, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your excellency's communication of yesterday's date in reply to mine of the 17th instant, in which, complying with the instructions of my Government, I informed your excellency of the prevalence of rumors in Nicaragua connected with the alleged intentions of the Government of Guatemala to revise the plan of a consolidation of the five Central American nationalities under one general government.

It will give me much pleasure to forward by next mail to the honorable the Secre-

at will give me much pleasure to forward by next mail to the honorable the Secretary of State a copy and translation of this important communication, but I beg to be permitted to invite the attention of your excellency to some of its points which, without explanation, might give rise to erroneous impressions, or at least to uncertainties; I refer to the following paragraph relating to a re-incorporation of the Central American nationalities:

"Que con este gran propósito se celebró en esta Capital el Tratado de 16 de Febrero de 1887, encaminado á preparar la union nacional suscrito por Plenipotenciarios de las cinco Repúblicas Centro Americanas y ratificado por la mayoría de las legislaturas de dichas Repúblicas, y que en cualquiera epoca y en cualquiera circunstancias por dificiles que sean en que de parte de una ó mas repúblicas del centro surja el pensamiento de realizar la union, el pueblo y Gobierno de Guatemala, en uso de su autonomia incontestable, sin egoismo y sin espíritu de predominio, y sin atentar intereses locales ní extrangeros estarán siempre dispuestos á emplear dentro de los límites del derecho, los medios legítimos que á ser juicio conduzcan para bien comun y estable á la eféctua reconstruccion nacional de Centro América."

The treaty of the 16th of February, 1887, contemplates a restoration of the union of the Central American States by peaceful means only, but the latter part of the foregoing paragraph leaves a doubt as to whether under certain circumstances the Government of Guatemala might not be disposed to resort to coercive means. A frank disclaimer that the Government of Guatemala contemplates a restoration of the union of these States, save solely in the manner provided by the above mentioned treaty, and that under no circumstances will the Government of Guatemala attempt to constrain by force of arms any of the other States to accept the union against their will, would probably allay all doubts and suspicions as to the praiseworthy intentions of your excellency's Government in the premises.

Renewing to your excellency the assurances, etc.,

[Inclosure 4 in No. 801.—Translation.]

Señor Barrutia to Mr. Hall.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS, Guatemala, April 5, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: I have the pleasure to refer to your esteemed communication of the 29th ultimo, acknowledging the receipt of mine of the previous day, relating to the false rumors current in Nicaragua that the Government of Guatemala proposed to renew by coercive means the project of the union of Central America, and calling my attention to the fact that the ideas expressed in the ante-penultimate paragraph of my aforesaid communication might, without some explanation, give rise to erroneous interpretations or to uncertainties as to the attitude of Guatemala in the matter referred to.

Permit me, Mr. Minister, to state that in the paragraph referred to the opinion of my Government in regard to this matter of Central American interest is clearly and definitely expressed, and, expressed as it is, I believe it will suffice to dissipate every doubt which might exist or arise by reason of the false rumors to which I have referred in my first communication, and which I believe I have demonstrated to be destitute of all foundation. I have assured your excellency, and I have the pleasure to repeat it, that my Government would employ for the consummation of the long desired Central American union the legitimate means to be found within the limits of the law (derecho)* and my Government hopes that the Government of your excellency, upon being informed of the friendly and frank manifestations which have been addressed to it on the subject, will accept them at their true value as a guaranty to the American interests in the Nicaragua canal enterprise and will at the same time be convinced of the rectitude of the intentions of the Government of this Republic.

In stating to your excellency the foregoing, which is all that my Government can say in reply, it is a pleasure to reiterate to your excellency, etc.

SALVADOR BARRUTIA.

No. 108.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hosmer.

No. 571.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, April 27, 1888.

SIR: In connection with my No. 569, of the 18th instant, I herewith transmit for your information and files a copy of a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, dated the 24th instant, and of my reply thereto, dated the 27th, explaining that the withdrawal of the Marquis de Campo steamers, as reported in Mr. Hall's No. 793, of the 27th ultimo, related exclusively to the Republic of Guatemala.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 571.]

Mr. Fairchild to Mr. Bayard.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
April 24, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, dated the 18th instant, transmitting a copy of dispatch No. 793, of the 27th ultimo, from the United States minister at Guatemala City, relative to a revocation by the Guatemalan Government of its decree of July 11, 1887, placing regular lines of vessels entering in that country on the same footing as the vessels of the Spanish Central Line of steamers.

The minister reports that the withdrawal of the Marquis de Campo's steamers "from these waters" is now announced by his agent at Guatemala, and you remark that there appears to be no discrimination in the Pacific ports of Central America in favor, of any foreign flag.

In the minister's dispatch of December 10, 1886, he stated that Costa Rica conceded a rebate of customs duties on all merchandise imported into its Pacific ports in the steamers of the Spanish Central American Line, plying between Panama and San Francisco, and in your communication of the 6th of February last you expressed the opinion that the discrimination then made by Costa Rica was violative of the treaty of 1851, and would justify this Government in regarding its provisions as temporarily suspended by Costa Rica.

This Department does not recall that notice has been given of any formal abrogation of this concession, nor is it understood whether the minister intended to say, in dispatch 793, that the vessels of the Spanish Central Line have been withdrawn from the waters of Costa Rica.

As instructions have been given to the collectors of customs in accordance with the suggestion in your letter of February 6, above cited, to apply to importations in Costa Rican vessels the provisions of section 2502, Revised Statutes, imposing additional duties, it is essential that full information should be received by this Department of any facts that may warrant a revocation of the instructions.

If, in your opinion Article, VI., of the treaty should now be considered as in force, and not temporarily suspended, I will thank you to so advise me.

Respectfully, yours,

C. S. FAIRCHILD. Secretary.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 571.]

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Fairchild.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, April 27, 1883.

Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 24th instant and to say that from Mr. Hall's dispatch No. 793, of March 27 last, it is evident that the withdrawal of the Marquis de Campo steamers, otherwise known as the Spanish Central American Line of steamers, was a withdrawal simply from Guatemalan waters. It was in consequence of the first decree of that Government extending the rebate on imports, so far as the contract with the Marquis de Campo would permit, to all regular lines of vessels. The withdrawal having been announced by the agent of that company in Guatemala, a decree of March 24, 1888, was issued withdrawal that have the same feature. all rebate in duties and placing all nationalities on the same footing All this, however, appears to relate to Guatemala alone, and the term withdrawal "from these waters" seems to have been used by Mr. Hall as amplying to the waters of that seems to have been used by Mr. Hall as applying to the waters of that re-

Nothing has been received from Mr. Hall on this subject, so far as Costa Rica is concerned, since his No 775 of February 16, 1888, a copy of which was sent to you on the 16th ultimo. That dispatch showed that Costa Rica maintained the discrimination in favor of the Spanish Line.

I have, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 109.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hosmer.

No. 574.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, April 30, 1888.

SIR: The Department has received Mr. Hall's No. 798, of 3d instant. communicating an inquiry of Mr. C. Pinto, an American citizen (who has been asked to give a large bond in connection with a suit he has brought against a bank in Guatemala), whether Article XII of our treaty of 1849 with that Government is not still in force, so that no discrimination can be made against him in respect to the bringing of this suit, for the reason he is not a citizen of Guatemala.

I find upon examination of the records that on the 12th of September, 1873, Señor Marco A. Soto, Guatemalan minister of foreign affairs, addressed a note to Mr. Williamson, United States minister to Guatemala, notifying him that on the 28th of the preceding month of August, the President of the Republic, Barrios, had directed the termination of all the treaties of Guatemala with foreign countries in order that new treaties might be made more suited to the conditions of the times. To this end the minister for foreign affairs said he gave notice to Mr. Williamson that the treaty of 1849 would be regarded as denounced from and after the date of the receipt of such notice at Washington.

Not being clear as to the meaning of this, Mr. Williamson, on the 16th of September, 1873, called the attention of the minister of foreign affairs to the fact that by the thirty-third article of the treaty it would continue in full force and effect for twelve months after the date of notice.

On the 30th of October, 1873, Señor Vicente Dardon, Guatemalan minister at this capital, wrote to Mr. Fish, saying that the Government of Guatemala, under date of 12th September, had announced to Mr. Williamson "its desire for the annulment of the treaty concluded between Guatemala and this Republic [the United States] March 3, 1849, in order that the term of one year might commence to run, which for such annulment is fixed by Article XXXIII of the said treaty."

Mr. Fish, replying on the 15th of November, 1873, said he had received the information referred to from Mr. Williamson, "who was advised that consequently the treaty would terminate on the 4th of November, 1874; that is to say, one year from the receipt of the notice by this Government."

This is all there is on the subject, and it discloses nothing decisive as to the non-termination of those parts of the treaty relating to peace and friendship. It may however be argued that as notice was given pursuant to the provisions of Article XXXIII of the treaty, so far as time was concerned, and those provisions were thus recognized in the denunciation of the treaty, those parts relating to peace and friendship are to be regarded as still in force.

In determining what are the parts relating to peace and friendship as contradistinguished from those relating to commerce and navigation, the treaty furnishes no test; we must therefore look to the substance of the various provisions to find under which head they fall.

The first article of the treaty provides that there shall be perfect, firm, and inviolable peace and friendship between the contracting par-

As to this part there can be no doubt. But in international relations, peace and friendship have certain incidents, which constitute the comity of nations as distinguished from rights of commerce; that is to say, of buying, selling, and trading. One of those incidents is the right of resort to the courts for the protection of persons and property. In regard to this, Article XII, of the treaty of 1849 between the United States and Guatemala, provides as follows:

Both the contracting parties promise and engage formally to give their special protection to the persons and property of the citizens of each other of all occupations who may be in the territories subject to the jurisdiction of the one or of the other, transient or dwelling therein, leaving open and free to them the tribunals of justice for their judicial recourse, on the same terms which are usual and customary with the natives and citizens of the country in which they may be, for which they may employ in defense of their rights such advocates, solicitors, notaries, agents, and factors as they may judge proper in all their trials at law; and such citizens or agents shall have free opportunity to be present at the decisions and sentences of the tribunals in all cases which may concern them and likewise at the taking of all examinations and evidence which may be exhibited in the said trials.

Another provision, that may fairly be classed under the head of peace and friendship, may be found in Article XIII of the treaty, by which it is—

Agreed that the most perfect and entire security of conscience shall be enjoyed by the citizens of both the contracting parties in the countries subject to the jurisdiction of the one and the other, without their being liable to be disturbed or molested on account of their religious belief, so long as they respect the laws and established usages of the country.

In the same article we find a still stronger provision, as affecting peace and friendship, to the effect that—

The bodies of the citizens of one of the contracting parties who may die in the territories of the other, shall be buried in the usual burying grounds, or in other decent and suitable places, and shall be protected from violation or disturbance.

Truly this is not a provision of commerce or of navigation.

There can be nothing unfair to Guatemala in treating these provisions as in force, since they continue to be binding on Guatemala, they are equally and reciprocally obligatory on the United States.

You will take an early occasion to impress these views on the Guatemalan secretary for foreign affairs, informing him that we hold that the indicated treaty provisions relating to peace and friendship were not terminable, and have not been terminated by the notice given by Guatemala in 1873.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 110.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hosmer.

No. 575.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, May 1, 1888.

SIR: I transmit for your information a copy of a letter from the secretary of the Pacific Mail Steam-ship Company, and of the Department's reply thereto, dated the 26th ultimo and 1st instant, respectively, touching the precise situation of Costa Rica in the matter of the discrimination in favor of the Spanish Central American line of steamers.

You will accordingly ascertain whether the de Campo steamers have been withdrawn between Costa Rica and San Francisco; and if so, whether the obnoxious legislation remains unrepealed.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 575.]

Mr. Lane to Mr. Bayard

NEW YORK, April 26, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of letter of the Assistant Secretary, Mr. G. L. Rives, dated 18th instant, together with copy of decree of the Guatemalan Government referred to therein, for which we thank you.

We notice that Mr. Rives goes on to say that, "There now appears to be no discrimination in the Pacific ports of Central America in favor of any foreign flag."

Referring to our previous requests for the exaction of extra duties on cargo proceeding from Costa Rican ports to San Francisco, concerning which we have not as yet been advised that the Treasury Department has taken any action, our understanding of the situation is that if the Del Campo steamers were still running between Costa Rica and San Francisco the discrimination against American vessels would still exist.

As, however, they have been driven off the coast by their inability to compete with this company's steamers (irrespective of any assistance afforded us by the Treasury Department, such as that which was solicited by us) we do not understand that any final withdrawal of the discrimination in question has been enacted by the Government of Costa Rica.

If so, we would be obliged if the Department would kindly advise us to that effect. Respectfully, etc.,

W. H. LANE, Secretary.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 575.]

Mr. Rives to Mr. Lane.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, May 1, 1888.

SIR: In reply to your letter of the 26th ultimo, I desire to say that the Department's latest information in the matter of the discrimination by Costa Rica is in Mr. Henry C. Hall's dispatch, No. 775, of February 16, 1888, which showed that that Government still maintained the discrimination in favor of the Spanish Central American Line, otherwise known as the Marquis de Campo steamers.

In connection with Mr. Hall's dispatch, forwarding the Guatemalan decree of March 24, 1888, the Secretary of the Treasury asked for further and more precise information as to the position of Costa Rica in this matter, saying that instructions had heretofore been issued to the collector of customs at San Francisco to apply the provisions of section 2502 of the Revised Statutes to cargoes coming to that port from Costa Rica in the Spanish steamers. Mr. Fairchild was advised that Mr. Hall's No. 775 contained the latest information in the Department's possession.

Mr. Hosmer, the chargé d'affaires ad interim of the United States at Guatemala City, will be directed to ascertain whether the De Campo steamers have been withdrawn between Costa Rica and San Francisco; and, if so, whether the obnoxious legislation remains unrepealed.

I am, etc.,

G. L. RIVES,
Assistant Secretary.

No. 111.

Mr. Hosmer to Mr. Bayard.

No. 809.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, May 9, 1888. (Received May 28.)

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your instructions numbered 563, of March 27, 1888, inclosing a copy of the memorial of Mr. Sanford Robinson, managing director of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company, addressed to you in relation to an alleged violation of the contract made by the Government of Guatemala with that railroad by having granted a contract to Messrs. J. L. Bueron and others, the execution of which would tend towards the ruin of the traffic of the existing corporation.

In obedience to your instructions, as above, I addressed a note to the minister of foreign affairs of this Republic on the 26th of April ultimo, a copy of which I now have the honor to inclose to you, and in which I recall the attention of the Government of Guatemala to the complaint and protest which formed the basis of the memorial of Mr. Robinson to you, and the evident error into which that Government had been led in making the new contract objected to, by a misapprehension as to the actual distance between the ports of Champerico and Ocos, and referring to the settlement of the question of distance by that Government's own expert engineer, Mr. Rockstroh, concluding that upon a reconsideration of the case, in the light of a correct measurement as to relative distance, the Government will cause the opposing contract to be rescinded.

As yet I have received no written reply to my note, the delay having been explained by the minister for foreign affairs, in a recent personal interview, as owing to his waiting for a translation of my note into the Spanish language

It seemed desirable that I should proceed at first in the manner I have done, in order to afford the Government the opportunity of correcting an error which might have occurred through a miscalculation as to distance, and not with the purpose of dishonoring its obligation under a contract based on good faith between both parties, and in which the question of a reserved right of distance on either side of the line was so important a factor, and which might be regarded indeed as the essence of the con-

The reply of the minister for foreign affairs may open some other question relating to the contract; in which case I am amply fortified by your instructions, which so thoroughly cover every possible point that may be discussed, and which I shall strictly follow.

Meantime I have thought it proper to advise you of the unofficial action I have taken, as expressed in my note to the Guatemalan Government.

I have, etc.,

JAMES R. HOSMER, Chargé d'affaires ad interim.

[Inclosure in No. 809.]

Mr. Hosmer to Minister Barrutia.

GUATEMALA, April 26, 1888,

Mr. MINISTER: I beg respectfully to recall the attention of your excelency's Government to the complaint and protest of the managing director of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company, of Guatemala, against the contract which was made by your excellency's Government with Mr. J. L. Bueron and others on the 8th of November, 1887, approved and ratified by the constituent assembly on November 14, 1887, and finally approved by the President on December 15 of the same year.

Evidently some mistaken calculation as to measurement must have prevailed upon your excellency's Government to grant to others a right which is clearly in contravention to the express terms of the contract entered into in good faith by the existing railroad company and the Republic of Guatemala as far back as March 12, 1881, and on account of the terms and stipulations of which citizens of the United States invested a large sum of money in the building and equipment of the road; because it is clear by the report of Mr. E. Rockstroh, the Government engineer, who was called upon by the late minister for foreign affairs to give an opinion in the matter, that the port of Ocos is within the prescribed distance of 15 leagues, which, according to the terms of the contract, for a period of twenty-five years from the date of the opening of the road for traffic, was agreed as the space upon which no other railroad should be constructed on either side of the line.

Hence it seems to my mind, that the Bueron contract must have been made under the misapprehension to which I have just alluded as to the technical point of relative distance. And if your excellency will carefully examine both Mr. Rockstroh's expert report and such other data as may be in the possession of the Government, in regard to the distance between the ports of Champerico and Ocos, I venture to express the belief that your excellency's Government will cause the contract for the construction of a railroad from the port of Ocos to Quezaltenango to be rescinded.

As a matter of argument it is not to be presumed that your excellency is not fully alive to the importance of maintaining inviolate all contracts which are made by a responsible Government with its own citizens or those of other countries, or how dangerous to the national credit, both at home and abroad, would be a violation of them on the part of such a Government. I speak with pride, as a citizen of the United States, when I emphasize not only the particularity of my own Government in the faithful performance of its national obligations, but its earnest desire that all other nations with whom it has friendly relations should maintain the same respect and regard for all contracts entered into with the citizens of a friendly power.

I am confident that in the case in question, although I am not instructed to officially intervene, my Government would feel greatly pained to learn that the contract with the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company of Guatemala, owned and managed by citizens of the United States, was rendered ineffectual and virtually void by the continuance of another contract which to all intents and purposes supercedes it, and if carried out would destroy its traffic by ruinous competition.

It affords me pleasure, therefore, to anticipate the purpose which must animate your excellency's Government upon a careful reconsideration of the action already taken in causing the contract entered into with Messrs. Bueron and others, to build a rail-road from the port of Ocos to the city of Quezaltenango, to be rescinded by the honorable constituent assembly on account of the evident error in the calculation of distance, which has the effect of practically annulling a previous contract made in good faith between the Republic of Guatemala and certain citizens of the United States, and without which reserved right of distance on either side of the line it would have been impossible to have prevailed upon capitalists to advance the money to build the road.

I entertain a feeling of confidence, also, that in the exercise of my good offices in behalf of my fellow-countrymen in the matter which I have ventured to bring to your excellency's notice, I will be acquitted of any presumptuous purpose tending in the remotest degree towards uncalled-for advice; but realizing to how great an extent the multifarious duties of your excellency's exalted position must necessarily absorb time and thought in their varied exercise, I have taken the liberty to recall the just cause for complaint and consequent protest on the part of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company to the attention of your excellency's Government, with its suggested remedy, and to express my sincere hope and expectation that it will meet with that ever ready and prompt response which can not fail to be the purpose of an administration which evidences so earnest a desire to maintain the integrity of the Republic, and preserve its credit at home and abroad.

With renewed sentiments, etc.,

James R. Hosmer, Chargé d'Affaires ad interim.

No. 112.

Mr. Hosmer to Mr. Bayard.

No. 817.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,
Guatemala, June 5, 1888. (Received June 25.)

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your instructions numbered 575, of May 1, 1888, and in reply to the same to inclose to you a translated copy of the note of the minister for foreign affairs of the Republic of Costa Rica, in which he refers to an accompanying copy of the official Periodical of that Republic containing the President's decree notifying the withdrawal of, and concession made to the Marquis de Campo's line of steamers, and declaring the right of Costa Rica to make reclamation for non-fulfillment of contract; a translated copy of which decree also I now have the honor to inclose to you herein.

I have, etc.,

JAMES R. HOSMER, Chargé d'Affaires ad interim.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 817.—Translation.]

Señor Esquivel to Mr. Hosmer.

DEPARTMENT FOR FOREIGN RELATIONS, San José, May 2, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the note of February 14 last, from your legation. It seems to have been written under the impression that the interests of the merchant marine of the United States would be injured by the rebate of 5 per cent. granted by my Government on the duties on all merchandise brought into this country by the Marquis de Campo's line of steamers.

I regret that I am compelled to differ in opinion on this subject from the chief of your legation and that the arguments adduced in my note of January 10 have failed to bring him over to the view held by my Government. At the same time I beg leave to inform you that the cause of our disagreement no longer exists, my Government having revoked the concession made to the Marquis de Campo's line of steamers for the reasons given in the decree published in the official newspaper, a copy of which decree I inclose.

This decree obviates the necessity for any further discussion of the concession made to the Marquis de Campo's line of steamers, but the note of February 14 refers also to concessions made in favor of several lines of British and German steamers running to the port of Limon. I am happy to say in reply that my Government has every disposition to make equal concessions to all lines of Atlantic steamers taking upon themselves the same obligations as the lines referred to.

With regard to the contract made with Mr. Pedro Terrés relative to the establishment of a line of sailing vessels between Limon and the ports of Europe, I do not hesitate to assert that my Government is ready to treat on the same terms with the representatives of any other line of sailing vessels willing to undertake the same obligations as Mr. Terrés.

My Government expects by this policy to promote the maritime commerce of the country, and thereby to increase its financial resources and to develop the few attractions presented by this Republic to maritime enterprise. This impartial policy can not fail to be of great benefit to every effort to increase maritime communication between our Atlantic port and other countries.

I am, etc.,

ASCENSION ESQUIVEL.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 817.—Translation from La Gaceta, the official newspaper.]

SAN JOSÉ, COSTA RICA, April 11, 1888.

Bernardo Soto, General-in-Chief of the Executive and Constitutional President of the Republic of Costa Rica: Considering that the concession granted to the Marquis de Campo to aid him in establishing the Spanish-American steam-ship line should be considered null and void, because the marquis has already withdrawn the steamers, after only a few months service, and because he has given notice of his intention to abandon the undertaking;

In virtue of these reasons, and in conformity with that clause of Article I marked "h," of the contract of July 1, 1887, approved by Congress on the 16th of the said month.

DECREES.

Only Article. - The concessions made to the Marquis de Campo is hereby revoked, and the Republic of Costa Rica retains the right to demand of the marquis whatever damages shall appear to be due for his non-fulfillment of contract.

Given at the presidential palace at San José, the 10th day of the month of April, 1888. BERNARDO SOTO.

The Subsecretary of Marine in charge of the Bureau. RONULFO SOTO.

No. 113.

Mr. Hosmer to Mr. Bayard.

No. 818.].

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA, Guatemala, June 9, 1888. (Received June 28.)

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your instructions numbered 574, of April 30, 1888, furnishing many good and sufficient reasons why the clause in the annulled treaty between the United States and Guatemala, relating to peace and friendship, should be still in force, and I beg respectfully to inclose to you a copy of my note addressed to the minister for foreign affairs of Guatemala, dated June 6, 1888, in which I attempt to impart your views to that Government.

I have, etc.,

JAMES R. HOSMER, Chargé d'Affaires ad interim.

[Inclosure in No. 818.]

Mr. Hosmer to Señor Barrutia.

GUATEMALA, June 6, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: Referring to the note addressed to your excellency by the minister of the United States on the 3d of April last, in which it is stated that Mr. Concepcion Pinto had addressed a communication to this legation for information as to whether the Governments of the United States and Guatemala hold that those parts of the treaty of the 3d of March, 1849, between the two countries relative to peace and friendship are still in force as stipulated in its Article xxxIII, I now have the honor to acquaint your excellency that I am instructed by my Government that it holds "that the indicated treaty provisions relating to peace and friendship were not terminable and have not been terminated by the notice given by Guatemala in 1873."

My Government is of the opinion that there is a contradistinction between those provisions of the treaty annulled by notice from Guatemala which relate to intercommercial relations and those which relate to peace and friendship; that the former may be denounced by notice of either of the high contracting parties to the other, but that the latter are, from their very essence and nature, as stipulated by the first article of the treaty and defined by Articles XII and XIII, binding upon both; that the existing condition of peace between the two countries naturally includes friendship, mutually reciprocal and equally obligatory upon both Guatemala and the United States, and that under these circumstances there can be nothing unfair to Guatemala in treating the provisions referred to as in force.

Availing myself, etc.,

JAMES R. HOSMER, Chargé d'Affaires ad interim.

No. 114.

Mr. Hosmer to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 819.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,
Guatemala, June 9, 1888. (Received June 28.)

SIR: In continuation of my No. 809, of May 9, 1888, in which I inclosed a copy of my note addressed to the minister for foreign affairs, in obedience to your instructions numbered 563, of March 27, to employ the good offices of this legation in behalf of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company, to remedy the wrong alleged to have been committed against that railroad by the Guatemalan Government, I now have the honor to inclose to you a translated copy of Minister Barrutia's reply addressed to me on the 24th ultimo, and a copy of my rejoinder to the same of this date.

I have, etc.,

JAMES R. HOSMER, Chargé d'Affaires ad interim. [Inclosure 1 in No. 819.—Translation.]

Señor Barrutia to Mr. Hosmer.

GUATEMALA, May 24, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to reply to your esteemed note relative to the complaint and protest of the director of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company against the contract celebrated by the Government with Mr. Luis Bueron and others for the construction of a railroad between Quezaltenango and the port of Ocos on the Pacific. You, sir, are pleased to indicate that in treating of this matter you do so unofficially, and it is in the same sense that I have the honor also to answer the cited note of your excellency.

Effectively my Government celebrated on the 8th of November, 1887, the contract referred to, and in making it I had in view the rights acquired by the owners of the railroad between Champerico and Retalhuleu; rights that have not been prejudiced, as they could never be, as it goes without saying that my Government maintains inviolate every perfected contract made between it and other persons, whether they be foreigners or natives.

This is so natural a position that any Government whatever that knows how to respect itself should consider it as a sacred duty and make it in every case the rule of its conduct.

I enter into these considerations in order to refer myself to the sentiments of your note above cited, which I find very much in accord with the convictions of my Gov-

I am aware of the report of Mr. E. Rockstroh on the business in question, as well as to any other relative to the distance between Ocos and Champerico; but these reports, in my opinion, explain nothing in respect to the business in question, because the concessionaries, according to the contract, have the right to operate the railroad between the points indicated (Champerico and Retalhuleu) without any other person, company, or enterprise being able during the said time to construct another line at a less distance from the said line, but always understood to be between the points indicated.

Now, Champerico and Retalhuleu are very distinct, as you know, sir, from Quezaltenango and Ocos; they are not within the reserved strip and consquently the Government has, with perfect right and without violating other rights, contracted for this new line with Mr. Bueron.

But, even admitting the case, which I may venture as a supposition, that the Government should not have been correct, the Champerico railroad enterprise should have raised the question, if it believed that its rights had been injured in the sense that the contract indicates under the bases of which the said enterprise was carried to completion.

Article xxv establishes that if between the Government and the enterprise there should arise any question of any nature whatever it shall be submitted to the decision of two arbiters, and I believe that the case has arrived for an appeal to this recourse that should make clear the acts, and would give the right to whom it may belong.

I am, etc.,

SALVADOR BARRUTIA.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 819.]

Mr. Hosmer to Señor Barrutia.

GUATEMALA, June 9, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: In acknowledging the receipt of your excellency's courteous reply of the 24th ultimo to my note of April 26, relative to the protest and complaint of the managing director of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company, I must beg respectfully to differ from your excellency's views as to Article xxv of the contract applying to the question at issue. It does not arise from any dispute as to the meaning of the contract or as to its application to a particular state of facts, but is based upon a clear repudiation and disregard by the Guatemalan Government of some of the essential features of the agreement.

This is the opinion of my Government, in carefully reviewing the contract, and so expressed in calling my attention to the memorial which recited the facts upon which the complaint was based, and in instructing me to unofficially intervene in the matter;

and, by referring to the memorial itself, I notice that it urges as follows:

"Your petitioner further states that he was refused a sight of the Bueron contract until it was published, after approval by the President, in the official gazette of the Government." In such case it would have been impossible to have raised a question or questions of specific nature in regard to the new contract, or called upon arbitrators to decide upon matters of which the Champerico Railroad Company were necessarily ignorant. Hence, as I am informed, the managing director of the company filed with your excellency's Government and the honorable legislative assembly, then in session, a protest as to the action of the Government in granting a contract to build a railroad which, according to its proposed direction, would violate a pre-existing agreement by the terms of which a reserved right was stipulated to prevent the ruinous competition which would inevitably result by building a new railroad running through the coffee-producing country.

I am again constrained to urge upon your excellency's notice that the granting of the Bueron contract violates the vital feature of the existing agreement with the Champerico Railroad Company in giving the right to build a railroad within 15 leagues on either side of that road.

The importance of this stipulation is emphasized by being expressed in the second article of the contract, the first article being merely declaratory of the concession, and it seems to me that the language is most clear when it states: "No other person or enterprise, during the said term (twenty-five years), having the power to construct another at a less distance than 15 leagues on either side of the line" ["no pudiendo construirse otro por distinta persona ó empresa durante el mismo término, á menor distancia de quince leguas á uno y otro lado de la linea"."

a menor distancia de quince leguas a uno y otro lado de la linea."]

"On either side of the line" can have but one meaning, to my mind, and that is, at any point measured from the line of the railroad at right angles to the same. So that Ocos, or any other point on the projected railroad, which is included in the Bueron contract, must, in the definition of article second of the contract with the Champerico Company, be measured from the line of railroad which has already been accepted by the Guatemalan Government, and has been in active operation for a period of nearly four years.

In thus urging upon your excellency's notice my argument in support of the good offices I am instructed to employ in behalf of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company, I desire to re-affirm the expression of my personal opinoin that your excellency's Government will be actuated by the desire to remedy the unintentional wrong which the granting of the Bueron contract inflicts upon the railroad company whose rights the existence of the new contract menaces, and upon further consideration of the matter will cause that contract to be rescinded.

From the nature of my instructions I am sure that my Government will be gratified to learn that such a course has been pursued, and will recongnize it as a practical proof of the reciprocity of that friendship and good will which it sincerely entertains for the Republic of Guatemala.

Renewing the assurances, etc.,

JAMES R. HOSMER, Chargé d'Affaires ad interim.

No. 115.

Mr. Hosmer to Mr. Bayard.

No. 823.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, June 21, 1888. (Received July 9.)

SIR: Referring to my No. 818, of the 9th instant, in which I inclosed to you a copy of my note to the minister for foreign affairs of Guatemala, imparting to him your views in respect to the provision of peace and friendship in the annulled treaty of 1849, I now have the honor to inclose to you a translated copy of Minister Barrutia's reply to my note, received by me June 13, although bearing date on the 9th instant, in which he concurs in the views I expressed in accordance with your instructions.

I have, etc.,

JAMES R. HOSMER, Chargé d'Affaires ad interim. [Inclosure in No. 823.—Translation.]

Señor Barrutia to Mr. Hosmer.

GUATEMALA, June 9, 1888.

SIR: Referring to your esteemed communication of the 6th instant, in which you show me that your Government holds that the contract celebrated the 3d of March, 1849, is not terminable in relation to peace and friendship, I have the honor to state that—the articles of that agreement being based on the general principles of popular rights—it is evident that the prescriptions can not be denied in any civilized country of the earth; and so it is, as you, sir, know very well, the stipulations of which I am speaking are to be completely observed, although no treaty exists which would establish them; I do not say only among nations which are of the same kind of Government and profess a sincere friendship as it is between Guatemala and the United States, but even amongst nations which have not these circumstances.

We are, therefore, perfectly in accord on this point, and for the reasons expressed, the convention (treaty), except as regards the stipulations of a terminable character which it contains, can not be considered as having terminated.

I approve, etc.,

SALVADOR BARRUTIA.

No. 116.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 596.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, July 11, 1888.

SIR: With further reference to Mr. Hosmer's dispatch No. 817, of the 5th ultimo, in relation to the Spanish Central American line of steamers and Costa Rica, I have to request you to furnish to the Department as full information as possible in regard to the contracts of the German and English line of steamers referred to in your correspondence with the Costa Rican minister for foreign affairs.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 117.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 835.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES
IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, July 21, 1888. (Received August 9.)

SIR: By a decree numbered 278, dated the 14th of June, 1882, the Guatemalan Government declared Livingston, on the Atlantic coast, a free port, and an adjacent strip of territory, lying between the Sarstoon River and Santo Tomas, a free zone for a period of ten years from the 1st of January, 1883. The decree was duly carried out; Livingston became a free port in connection with the free zone, and has so continued to be up to this date, a period of five years and seven months, but now, without any previous intimation of its intentions, the Government issues another decree closing the port of Livingston, transferring the custom-house to Yzabal and abolishing the free zone.

The transfer of the custom house to Yzabal, where it was formerly may not cause any serious inconvenience, but the suppression of the free zone is quite sure to give rise to complaints. Many foreigners, among them a number of Americans, have purchased government lands therein and have engaged extensively in the growing of tropical fruit for the markets of the United States. Other foreign interests have also grown up there under the guaranties and inducements held out by the decree referred to.

I have deemed it my duty to invite the attention of the Guatemalan Government to these facts; to a consideration of the injuries that those interests are likely to sustain in consequence of the abolition of the free zone, and to suggest that its enforcement, at least, shall be postponed until they shall have been assured against losses.

In this connection I beg leave to invite the Department's attention to a similar case which occurred in Costa Rica in 1884 and was reported to the Department in my No. 241, of the 25th of July, and No. 263, of the 1st of October of that year; it was also the subject of the Department's instructions No. 170 of the 20th of August, No. 184 of the 13th of October, and No. 192 of the 29th of October, 1884.

For convenient reference, I inclose several papers relating to this case, and shall be glad to receive the Department's instructions in regard to it.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 835.—Translation.]

Decree No. 278 of the 14th of June, 1882, declaring Livingston, Guatemala, a free port for ten years from 1st of January, 1883.

J. Rufino Barrios, general of division and constitutional President of the Republic of Guatemala, considering that the opening of Livingston as a free port of deposit will give impulse in a notable manner to the commercial interests of the country, and will directly and efficiently stimulate the development of the wealth of the fertile coasts of the Atlantic, in use of the powers with which I am invested, I decree:

ARTICLE 1.

From the 1st of January next (1883) the port of Livingston shall be free for importations. On no articles imported thereat, whether for local consumption or for warehousing, shall any maritime duty be imposed during the term of ten years.

ARTICLE 2.

The Treasury Department shall designate the zone over which the concessions of the present decree shall be extended, and shall dictate all the regulations for its execution.

Therefore, let it be published for its promulgation and observance, and let account thereof be duly given to the legislative assembly.

Given in the palace of the executive power in Guatemala the 14th day of June, 1882.

J. RUFINO BARRIOS.

The secretary of state and of the department of public works:

MANUEL HERRERA.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 835.—Translation.]

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY AND PUBLIC CREDIT.

Decree No. 414 of the 6th of July, 1888, revoking decree No. 278 of the 14th of June, 1882, which declared Livingston a free port for the period of ten years from January 1, 1883.

Manuel Lisandro Barillas, general of division and constitutional President of the Republic of Guatemala, considering:

That by executive order of November 27, 1885, the custom-house established in Yzabal was transferred to the port of Livingston, and that this measure has not given the results which were desired;

That it is more desirable for the fiscal interests that the office of entry and dispatch of merchandise destined for the interior consumption of the Republic should be at Yzabal:

That by decree No. 278 of June 14, 1882, the opening of Livingston as a free port and of deposit was ordered in attention to the special circumstances of that period;

That at present, in view of the importance acquired by the wealth of those places and the notable development of their agriculture, there is no longer any motive for continuing to consider the territory comprised between the Sarstoon and Santo Tomas, on the gulf of that name, and San Felipe, situated on Lake Yzabal, in the Strait of Golfete, as a free zone;

That the unhealthy climate of Livingston gives rise to difficulties in the public service, because the employes are continually getting sick and have to leave the office for indefinite periods, which does not occur with the same frequency at Yzabal as its climate is less unhealthy and for the same reason competent employes for the service of the custom-house can be more readily found; therefore, I decree:

ARTICLE 1.

The custom-house at Livingston is suppressed and in substitution the custom-house of entry is established at Yzabal.

ARTICLE 2.

All merchandise heretofore imported through the port of Livingston shall be entered, indispensably, at the custom-house of Yzabal.

ARTICLE 3.

Foreign merchandise destined for consumption in the territory lying between the Sarstoon River, Santo Tomas, on the gulf of that name, and San Felipe, on Lake Yzabal, shall pay the corresponding import duties.

ARTICLE 4.

The removal of the offices of the custom-house at Livingston with its archives and dependencies, under respective inventory, shall be undertaken at once.

Given in the palace of the executive power at Guatemala the 6th day of July, 1888.

M. L. BARILLAS. The secretary of state in the department of finance and public credit:

MAURICIO RODRIQUEZ.

[Inclosure 3 in No. 835.]

Mr. Hall to Señor Martinez Sobral.

GUATEMALA, July 17, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: By decree No. 278, of the 14th of June, 1882, the port of Livingston was declared free from all customs duties upon importations, whether for consumption or deposit, for the period of ten years from the 1st of January, 1883. The free zone of Livingston was made to comprise the territory lying between the Sarstoon River and Santo Tomas, including San Felipe, on Lake Yzabal.

Under the inducements held out by this decree and its guaranties many foreigners have taken up and purchased government lands in the free zone, and have entered largely into the production of tropical fruit for the markets of the United States, while other associated interests have been created under the same guaranties, which have still four years and over to run before the period expressed in the decree shall have expired.

By decree No. 414, of the 6th, published in the El Guatemalteco of the 10th instant, the above-mentioned decree No. 278 is revoked; the custom-house at Livingston will be suppressed and the free zone will be abolished; it is understood also that this measure is to have immediate effect, no previous notification whatever having been given by the Government of its intentions.

H. Ex. 1, pt. 1——11

The interests created in virtue of the inducements and guaranties set forth by the first-mentioned decree, No. 278, will, beyond a doubt, be seriously prejudiced by its revocation; the measure can not fail to call forth the remonstrances and protests of the injured parties. This eventuality must certainly have been overlooked at the time the present decree was issued.

I beg leave to submit this subject, in all its bearings, to the enlightened criterion and high sense of equity and fair dealing of the Government of your excellency, fully persuaded that, whatever may be the motives for the abolition of the free zone, the enforcement, at least, of decree No. 414 will be postponed until the interests created under the guaranties of the decree of the 14th of June, 1882, shall have been assured against the losses and injuries which now threaten them.

Renewing, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 4 in No. 835.—Translation.] Señor Martinez Sobral to Mr. Hall.

> DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS. Guatemala, July 19, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: I have had the honor to receive the esteemed note of your excellency in which you are pleased to address to the Government some observations in regard to the difficulties to which the enforcement of decree No. 414, issued on the 6th instant, might give rise.

I have also the pleasure to say to you that my Government accepts, with the interest which is due the observations you make in regard to the mentioned decree, and will take them into consideration in dictating its resolution, inasmuch as its desire is that the interests of the foreigners who come to the country shall be guarantied by the laws.

With sentiments, etc.,

E. MARTINEZ SOBRAL.

No. 118.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No 608.1

DEPARTMENT OF STATE. Washington, August 14, 1888.

SIR: I have received your No. 835 of the 21st ultimo, relative to the decree of the Government of Guatemala, revoking its former decree of 1882, establishing Livingston a free port and its adjacent district a free zone, and have attentively considered your observations upon this subject.

Your protest against this summary action of the Guatemalan Government, as shown by the representations made in your note of the 17th ultimo to the minister of foreign affairs, meets with the Department's approval. The instructions heretofore sent to you in 1884, respecting a similar case in Costa Rica, and to which you specifically refer, sufficiently state the principles by which your conduct will be guided.

I am, sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 119.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 844.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, August 14, 1888. (Received August 30.)

SIR: With my No. 835 of the 21st instant, I inclosed a copy and translation of a decree of the Guatemalan Government abolishing the free port and zone of Livingston and transferring the custom house at that place to Yzabal.

The Government has now reconsidered the matter and has suspended, temporarily, the enforcement of article 3 of the mentioned decree, which relates to the free zone. The custom-house has already been transferred to Yzabal.

Before any other measure shall have been adopted I hope to receive an instruction on the subject from the Department.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure in No. 844.—Translation.]

Becutive order suspending the operation of article 3 of decree No. 414 of the 6th of July last, relative to the free zone on the Atlantic coast of Guatemala.

> DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE AND PUBLIC CREDIT, PALACE OF THE GOVERNMENT, Guatemala, August 6, 1883.

The Government, wishing to favor importers of merchandise for consumption in the free zone created by decree No. 278 of the 14th June, 1882, and defined by the regulations of the 6th of December of the same year, taking into consideration the several memorials presented by merchants and the fact that in order to adopt an appropriate resolution the Government needs to consider attentively what these merchants have set forth, the President of the Republic decrees-

That, for the present and until otherwise ordered, article 3* of decree No. 414 of the 6th July of the current year is not to take effect and the territory comprised between Sarstoon and Santo Tomas, on the gulf of that name, and San Felipe, on Lake Yzabal in the strait of Galfete, is to be considered a free zone, and, consequently, the following-named places, Cocoli, Sarstoon, Livingston, and Santo Tomas are comprised therein. Let it be communicated. Signed by the President.

RODRIQUEZ.

No. 120.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 857.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA, Guatemala, September 4, 1888. (Received September 20.)

SIR: Ever since my return from the United States, early in July last, I have given constant attention to the subjects of your instruction No. 563, which relates to the complaint of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company, of San Francisco, in regard to an alleged violation of their contract with the Guatemalan Government. In pursuance of that instruction, Mr. Hosmer addressed two communications to the minister for foreign affairs, dated, respectively, the 26th of April and the 9th of June last. The former was answered on the 9th of May, and the minister's note was transmitted to the Department with ^{*} See inclosures 2, 3 and 4 in Doc. No. 117, p. 159, ante.

Mr. Hosmer's dispatch No. 819. The communication of the 9th of June has not yet been answered.

This case has been the subject of many interviews with President Barillas, Señor Sobral, and myself. Fully a month ago it was agreed that the concession should be revoked because of its illegality, or that Messrs. J. L. Bueron & Co. should be induced to surrender and cancel it. The latter course was adopted, with the approval of Mr. Sanford Robinson, the managing director. Mr. Bueron, who lives at Quesaltenango, was sent for, and a day or two after his arrival I was informed by President Barillas and Señor Sobral that everything would be arranged to my satisfaction; that Bueron had agreed to cancel the contract and to give up his concession.

On the 31st ultimo, upon learning that Mr. Bueron was on his way back to Quezaltenango, I called upon Señor Sobral to ascertain what had been done in the premises. He could not inform me. I then called on President Barillas, and from him learned that Bueron had signed a document in the department of public works which he understood, although he had not seen it, to be the recission of the contract. He sent for it, and it proved to be nothing more than a simple memorial to the minister for public works asking for certain modifications of the original contract, in no way affecting its objectionable features, but generally leaving it in full force.

Mr. Robinson informs me that at the time the Bueron concession was granted the company were in treaty with parties in London for the sale of their property, and that in consequence negotiations were suspended and have not since been resumed.

On the 1st instant I addressed a note to Señor Sobral, of which the inclosure is a copy, in which I requested a reply to Mr. Hosmer's note of the 9th of June last. During the evening Señor Sobral called at the legation to show me the draught of a document which he had forwarded to Quezaltenango for Bueron's signature; this document was in consonance with the promises made me by President Barillas.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure in No. 857.]

Mr. Hall to Señor Sobral.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA, Guatemala, September 1, 1888.

Mr. Minister: By special instructions of my Government a communication, dated the 9th of June last, was addressed to your excellency's predecessor, Señor Barrutia, relative to the complaint of the Champerico Railway Company, of California, which alleges that there has been a violation on the part of your excellency's Government of its contract with that company, by the concession of the 7th of November, 1837, to Messrs. J. L. Bueron & Co., against which the company, through their general agent in this Republic, made, and filed in this legation, due and timely protest, and the same was transmitted to the ministry now under your excellency's worthy charge, with my communication, dated the 18th of the same month of November, 1887.

As more than four months have elapsed since this matter was first brought to the notice of your excellency's Government by instruction of my own, and as nearly

As more than four months have elapsed since this matter was first brought to the notice of your excellency's Government by instruction of my own, and as nearly two months have elapsed since the communication first above mentioned was written. I begleave, most respectfully, to request your excellency to inform me what resolution, if any, the Government of your excellency has been pleased to adopt, or proposes to adopt, in regard to the revocation of the concession of the 7th of November, 1887, to Messrs. J. L. Bueron & Co. Your excellency will, no doubt, concur with me that my Government is entitled to a definitive answer to the respectful communication on the subject which, by its special instruction, was addressed to that of your excellency on the 9th of June last.

This occasion affords me the opportunity to renew, etc.

HENRY C. HALL.

No. 121.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 863.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, September 10, 1888. (Received October 2.)

SIR: With my dispatch No. 620, of the 21st of February, 1887, I had the honor to transmit a copy and translation of a general treaty between the five Central American States, signed in this city on the 16th day of Article 26 of the treaty provides for a congress of the States, which shall meet every two years at their several capitals in the following order: Costa Rica, Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, and Guatemala, and that the first of these meetings shall be held at the capital of Costa Rica, on the 15th of September, 1888.

The above-mentioned treaty has been ratified unconditionally by Guatemala, Honduras, and Costa Rica, and by Salvador with some amend-Nicaragua as yet has taken no action in regard to its ratification; notwithstanding that State will be represented in the congress which will meet at San José, Costa Rica, on the 15th instant.

The following are the names of the delegates of the several States: Señor Don José Farfan, for Guatemala; Dr. Don Jeronimo Zelaya, minister for foreign affairs of Honduras, for Honduras; General Don Isidro Urtecho, for Nicaragua; Señor Don Pedro Perez Zeledon, for Costa Rica; Dr. Don Francisco E. Galindo, for Salvador.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

No. 122.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

[Extract.]

No. 617.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, September 11, 1888.

SIR: I have received your telegram of the 2d instant, reporting that the Guatemalan Government persists in sustaining the Bueron contract, and requesting instructions as to protecting the rights of the in-

On the 7th instant I replied to you by telegraph.

The principle applicable in this, as in other cases of contractual claims against foreign governments, was laid down in my instruction No. 563, of March 27, 1888. It was there stated that, except where citizens holding such claims were unduly discriminated against by the debtor government or were denied a judicial domestic remedy against it, the Government of the United States would refuse to press the claims, and would limit intervention to the tender of the unofficial good offices of our diplomatic representatives. You were instructed that the present case was one in which that course might properly be adopted, and you were authorized to present unofficially to the Guatemalan Government the grievances of which the petitioners, the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company, complained.

These grievances are fully set forth in the instructions already referred to, and consist in part of a proposed concession to Messrs. J. L. Bueron & Co. of the right to construct a parallel line of road in a manner directly contrary to the plain language of the concession held by the petitioner. This conduct amounts, as stated in my former instructions, to a "clear repudiation and disregard by the Guatemalan Government of some of the essential features of the agreement." But, however serious in its consequences to the petitioner, it appears to be nothing more than a breach of contract. Your later dispatches, Nos. 809, of May 9, and 819, of June 9, 1888, on this subject present no facts which would serve to remove it from this category; and I am therefore constrained to repeat my former instructions, limiting you to the use of your unofficial good offices in presenting the case to the Guatemalan authorities.

I am, sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 123.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 621.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, September 17, 1888.

SIR: In connection with my instruction No. 613 of the 31st ultimo, in regard to the discriminating duties applied to American vessels in Costa Rican ports, I have to inclose for your information a copy of a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury of the 12th instant, saying, in view of the statements made in your Nos. 841 and 842, that instructions would be given to customs officers generally, imposing discriminating duties in the case of importations into the United States in Costa Rican vessels.

I am, sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure in No. 621.]

Mr. Fairchild to Mr. Bayard.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, September 12, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, dated the 31st ultimo, touching the rescinding of the contract of the Marquis de Campo line of steamers and transmitting copies and translations of contracts between the Costa Rican Government and various lines of foreign and Costa Rican steamers, which are stated to enjoy, practically under said contracts, a monopoly of the carrying trade between the United States and Costa Rica, to the exclusion of vessels of the United States.

Instructions will be given to customs officers generally, imposing discriminating duties in the case of importations into the United States in Costa Rican vessels.

Respectfully, etc.,

C. S. FAIRCHILD, Secretary.

No. 124.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 868.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, September 19, 1888. (Received Uctober 11.)

SIR: With my dispatch No. 542 of the 6th of August, 1886, I had the honor to transmit to the Department a copy and translation of a circular of the Guatemalan Government to the civil authorities of the country, instructing them touching the conduct they are expected to observe in their relations with foreigners, and furthermore instructing them in cases of difficulties to communicate by telegram directly with the minister for foreign affairs before taking action.

I have now to inclose a copy and translation of another circular of the same character, addressed to the prefects of the departments, and through them to the judicial administration and military authorities reminding them of their duties and obligations in the premises.

This circular has been issued in consequence of the affair at Livingston on the 25th ultimo.

I have, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 868.—Translation.]

Señor Sobral to Mr. Hall.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS, Guatemala, September 17, 1888.

Mr. MINISTER: I have the pleasure to transmit to you inclosed four copies of the circular addressed by this department to the prefects (jefes politicos) of the Republic, prescribing the conduct which the Government ordains is to be observed by the administrative, judicial, and military authorities in regard to foreigners residing in the country.

Requesting that you will be able to give account thereof to your Government,

I have the honor, etc.,

E. MARTINEZ SOBRAL.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 868.—Translation.]

Circular relative to the conduct to be observed by the Guatemalan local authorties towards foreigners.

> DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS, Guatemala, September 13, 1888.

To the prefect (jefe politico) of ———:

The expediency of attracting worthy and industrious emigrants, who having established their residence and domicil in this country, shall become examples of morality, order, and of respect for the laws, and promoters of progress, has on different occasions been the the motive for the emission of administrative instructions, having for their object the protection of foreigners, to afford them facilities for extending their business, fixing their status, and in general terms designating their rights and duties.

All the guaranties of liberty, property, and security which the constitution recognizes for the inhabitants of Guatemala are equally accorded to foreigners who visit our land; and although they do not exercise the rights of citizenship, they undoubtedly have the right to claim that the laws and the authorities shall protect their persons, their business, their industries, and their property.

In the exercise of civil rights, exclusive of political capacity, our laws make no distinction between Guatemalans and foreigners; familiar rights are conceded alike to Guatemalans and to foreigners; to both the right also to acquire and dispose of property by lawful titles; the right to inherit and devise by wills; to both are given free access to the courts; to both, facile accessibility to the administrative authorities for such actions as may be incumbent upon them; both have the right to enter into contracts, with due observance of the prescriptions of the laws; in a word, natives and foreigners are entitled to the same rights and to the same protection and enjoyment of tranquillity and to obtain by honorable industry the conservation and increase of their possessions.

The constitutional precept that the authorities are created to uphold the inhabitants in the enjoyment of their rights, refers alike to Guatemalans and to those born abroad who come to reside in our country. The authorities, therefore, can make no distinction when either appear before them in demand of their rights, to present their complaints, or to solicit the protection to which they may be entitled. In the same manner that facilities are afforded to natives for the establishment and development of their business and the protection of their persons and rights, so also, within the limits of the law, should foreigners be protected against abuse and violence and afforded ample aid in the protection of their agricultural and industrial enterprises.

It is opportune to remind foreigners that they are not bound to discharge municipal duties, nor do military service, nor to work personally on the roads, their obligations in this last respect is limited to the payment of the corresponding road tax; that the administrative authorities can demand of them no tax or anything else that the laws do not impose; that the judicial authorities must afford them prompt and strict justice, and that those of the military order, although acting as administrative or civil authorities, are under the obligations to respect them in the same manner as they must respect the natives of Guatemala.

But, at the same time, articles 13 and 15 of the constitution are to be borne in mind: "Foreigners, from the moment they arrive in the territory of the Republic, are strictly bound to respect the authorities and to observe the laws, and they are entitled to be protected by them.

"Foreigners are bound to respect the police regulations and orders; to pay the local imposts and the established taxes upon trade, industry, professions, property or possession thereof, as also such imposts and taxes as may be established thereafter, or when those first mentioned shall have been increased or diminished."

Our laws therefore afford every kind of guaranties to foreigners, but concede them no privileges; and if, in conformity with international law, they recognize favorable distinctions in regard to diplomatic agents, they establish no odious inequalities against those of foreign birth who fix their residence among us or who land upon our shores.

The Government of Guatemala, ever inspired by those elevated principles which tend to facilitate the relations of men of all countries, and disposed to consider and to respect alike natives and foreigners, inasmuch as all form a part of the great human family, has at different times issued strict instructions with the view of better assuring the security and welfare of such foreigners without distinction of nationalities.

The President of the Republic, from whom I have received instructions to the effect, directs, through my medium, that you be reminded of the contents of the circular of the 29th June, 1886, and to call your attention to the obligations to give immediate notice to the Government by telegraph of any difficulties that may arise on account of the application of the respective laws, to the end that whatever obstacle exists may be removed and opportune instructions given to whomsoever it may concern. Above all, the President desires that you inculcate in the subordinate authorities of your dependency their duty to observe these instructions, given with a view to avoid international claims and conflicts, with the assurance that the infractors will be made to feel the full weight and rigor of the laws.

In thus carrying out the President's instructions, I subscribe myself, etc.,

MARTINEZ SOBRAL.

No. 125.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 624.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, September 27, 1888.

SIR: I have received your No. 857, of the 4th instant, relative to the complaint of the Champerico and Northern Transportation Company against Guatemala.

I gladly commend your diligence in repeatedly pressing the case upon the attention of that Government in the hope of reaching a satisfactory settlement, but I must express the Department's regret at the reported delays and evasions which characterize the Guatemalan Government's treatment of the complaint.

I am, sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 126.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 871.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Managua, Nicaragua, September 29, 1888. (Received October 25.)

SIR: With reference to previous correspondence relative to the complaint of the Champerico Railway Company of San Francisco, Cal., against the action of the Guatemalan Government in granting a concession to Messrs. J. L. Bueron & Co. to construct a parallel railway from the port of Ocos to Quezaltenango, in alleged violation of a contract with the former,

I have the honor to transcribe the following copy and translation of a telegram, dated yesterday, from the minister for foreign affairs of Guatemala, to the effect that Messrs. J. L. Bueron & Co. have given up their concession.

Hoy ha sido presentado al ministerio de fomento el escrito del Señor Bueron en que retira su concesion.

The document of Señor Bueron, by which he surrenders his concession, has been presented to-day to the minister for public works.

I am, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

No. 127.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Hall.

No. 633.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, October 26, 1888.

SIR: I am in receipt of your No. 871, of September 29 last, announcing the settlement of the complaint of the Champerico Railway Company of San Francisco against the Government of Guatemala, through the surrender of the concession granted to Messrs. J. L. Bueron & Co. to construct a parallel road from the port of Ocos to Quezaltenango.

I desire to express the Department's satisfaction that this question, which threatened a grievous injury to the contract rights of American citizens, whose capital and enterprise had been legitimately invested in Guatemala, is thus removed from the field of diplomatic discussion.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 128.

Mr. Hall to Mr. Bayard.

No. 883.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN CENTRAL AMERICA,

Guatemala, November 7, 1888. (Received December 7.)

SIR: In continuation of my dispatch No. 871, of the 29th of September last past, relating to the complaint of the Champerico Railway Company of San Francisco against the Guatemalan Government, I have the honor to transmit copies and translations of correspondence having special reference to the canceling of the concession to Messrs. J. L. Bueron & Co., granted in November, 1887, for the construction of a railway from the port of Ocos to Quezaltenango, which concession has been shown to be a violation of that of 1881, held by the Champerico company.

My dispatch referred to contains a transcript of a telegram from the minister for foreign affairs of Guatemala, received at Managua, in which he announces the surrender of the Bueron concession, in other words its abrogation, with the consent of the grantees.

Soon after my return to this capital from Nicaragua I asked for a confirmation of the telegram to be given me in an official communication, and it was promptly accorded. On the 25th ultimo I informed the managing director, Mr. Sanford Robinson, of the result, and on the 4th instant received his reply expressing unqualified gratification that the matter had been brought to such a satisfactory termination. I respectfully invite your notice of this correspondence, and beg to be permitted to add that, in treating of this case with the Guatemalan Government, I have endeavored to conform strictly to your instruction No. 563, of the 27th March last past.

I am, etc.,

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 883.]

Mr. Hall to Señor Sobral.

GUATEMALA, October 22, 1888.

 $Mr.\ Minister:$  I had the honor to receive at Managua, Nicaragua, on the 29th ultimo, your excellency's following telegram:

"PALACIO DEL GOBIERNO, Guatemala, Setiembre 28 de 1888. (Recibido en Managua á las 11 a. m. del 29.) "Señor Henry C. Hall,

"E. E. Y. M. P. de los E. E. U. U. en Centro America, Managua:

"Hoy ha sido presentado al ministerio de fomento el escrito del Señor Bueron en que retira su concesion. Al comunicarlo á Ud. me es grato asegurarle que soy muy atento S. S.

"E. MARTINEZ SOBRAL."

I have transcribed the foregoing to my Government and am confident that it will have been received with much satisfaction. I should be pleased to receive from your excellency a confirmation of the telegram.

It remains for me to tender to your excellency and his excellency the President my sincere thanks for the interest taken in this matter.

I avail myself, etc.

HENRY C. HALL.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 883.—Translation.]

Señor Sobral to Mr. Hall.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS, Guatemala, October 24, 1888.

SIR: In conformity with the wish made known by your esteemed note of the 22d instant, I have the pleasure to confirm the telegram which, under date of the 28th September last past, I addressed to you at Managua, Nicaragua, as follows:

"Official Telegram, September 28, 1888.

"H. E. HENRY C. HALL,
E. E. and M. P. of the United States in Central America, Managua:

"The document of Señor Bueron, by which he surrenders his concession, has been presented to-day to the minister of public works (fomento).

"In communicating it to you, it is a pleasure to assure you that I am, etc.,

"E. Martinez Sobral."

I improve this occasion to repeat to you that I am, with personal esteem, Yours, etc.,

E. MARTINEZ SOBRAL.

CHILI.

No. 129.

Mr. Roberts to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 162. LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Santiago, October 7, 1887. (Received November 15.)

SIR: The Anglo-Chilian Tribunal adjourned sine die, England having accepted $100,000 gold in liquidation of the twenty one claims submitted for diplomatic action.

As near as I can make out, the amount of claims liquidated by the $100,000 is about $6,000,000. The Italian-Chilian Tribunal heard arguments in a few cases, but as yet has rendered no decisions.

The French claims stand as heretofore advised. I think the French Government will accept the offer made by Chili.

The Spanish minister awaits the dissolution of the tribunals before presenting the claims of Spanish citizens.

I am, etc.,

WILLIAM R. ROBERTS.

No. 130.

Mr. Roberts to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 164.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Santiago, October 28, 1887. (Received December 8.)

SIR: In my dispatch No. 162, dated the 7th instant, referring to the international claims tribunals, I stated that the Anglo-Chilian had adjourned sine die, the remaining twenty-one claims having been settled diplomatically by Chili paying $100,000 gold in liquidation of the same.

I added, that as near as could be ascertained the amount of these claims so settled was about $6,000,000. This was arrived at by deducting the amount of the claims decided, as published in the Diario Oficial, from the sum total as given over a year ago.

On the 14th instant, the Diario Oficial published another decision of the English Tribunal, on the largest claim before it, namely, The Peruvian Guano Company, limited, for £792,233, 13s. 5d. for losses sustained in not being able to carry out its contract with the Peruvian Government in the carrying and selling by assignment 1,900,000 tons of guano, on account of the war between Chili and Peru, claiming a damage of 173 CHILI.

£4 15s. a ton on the unfulfilled part of the contract This being in the nature of consequential damages, the tribunal declared itself incompetent to try the case, not being "directly caused by the operations of the land or sea forces of Chili on the coast or territory of Peru."

This decision, of which I had no knowledge when writing the dispatch referred to, entirely changes the figures as given, which, corrected, should read thus: Twenty claims, amounting to £50,125, and $49,666 silver, or say in all $300,291, were settled for $100,000 silver, and not gold as was published in the press at that time.

I have, etc.,

WILLIAM R. ROBERTS.

[Inclosure in No. 164.]

List and amount of claims presented to and decided by the Anglo-Chilian tribunal.

No.	Name.	Where.	Character of claim.	Amount.	Amount in sil-	When de-	Decision.
	 그림 왕이 됐습니다. 하는 말이 말을				ver dollars.	cided.	Decision.
1	Richard T. Anderson			£ 8. d.
2	James Noble	Lima	Interest on bonds		$11, 200. 00	July 5, 1884 Aug. 23, 1884	Disallowed.
3	Thomas Lawlor		Merchandise		1, 669. 00	Aug. 23, 1884	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting
	James Kirkwood		Horses		3, 000, 00	July 19, 1884	Allowed, Chilian arbiter dissenting.
5	Dungen For & C.		Horses. Furniture, etc. House Bale of osnaburgs Tea and hear	• • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • •	6, 000. 00	Sept. 16, 1884	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting
	Duncan, Fox & Co	Chorillos	House	. 1,000 00 0		Sept. 16, 1886	Disallowed.
	T Stoffand & G	Pisco	Bale of osnaburgs	. 157 11 9		July 5, 1884	Allowed.
-	J. Stafford & Co	Mollendo and Cal·	Tea and beer	. 132 15 3		Sept. 24, 1884	Disallowed.
8	D:3 C	lao.		1			<ul> <li>Local Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Control of the Co</li></ul>
0	David Genno	Callao	Losses	173 00 0		July 19, 1884	Disallowed, President Lopez Netto di
9	Tohn Ponsulassassassassassassassassassassassassass						genting
10	John Farquharson	Cerro Azul	Trunk	462 00 0		do	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting
11	William Fry	Mollendo	Merchandise	4,554 10 6		Jan. 10. 1885	Disallowed.
	do	Quilca	Sugar, etc		2, 742, 45	Sept. 22, 1887	Ordered to be filed.
	Huth & Co	Mollendo	Sugar, etc Merchandise	327 10 0		Sept. 27, 1884	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting
14	Cockburn, Roxburgh & Co	Payta	O0000H	70 16 5		Ang 92 1994	Allowed, Chilian arbiter dissenting.
14	John Mathison and others (Cho-	Chorillos	Losses	1,819 18 0		Oct. 1, 1884	Do.
15	rillos Gas Company).	_					20.
16	John Mathison	Barranca	House			Oct. 11, 1884	Do.
7	do	Payta	Sherry	90 00 0		Nov 15 1885	Disalloweg.
	William B. Minhimmick	Miraflores	Furniture	800 00 0		Jan 10 1885	Disallowed, English arbiter dissentin
	William Simpson	do	House	1,000 00 0		do	Do.
	James Bishop	do	House and furniture	1, 596 13 4		Nov 15 1995	Do.
21	Alfred Brierly	do	do	415 19 6		Ang 97 1994	7.
22	William E. Aicken	do	Furniture	1,825 00 0		Ang. 30, 1884	$\mathbf{\tilde{Do}}$ .
	Philip Rosenthal	do	Property	416 13 7		Ang. 16 1886	Allowed.
24	Kemish & Nelson	Chorillos	Merchandise	1, 903 10 11		Nov. 15 1885	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting
34	Benjamin J. Smith	Miraflores	Furniture	111 13 00 1		Aug. 30, 1885	Disallowed.
25 26	Lima Railways Company	Lima	Stations, etc	8,423 2 10		Nov. 15, 1885	Disallowed, English arbiter dissentin
20	Samuel Peake	Huanillos	Lighters	13, 835 1 7 1		Aug. 16, 1886	Tribunal incompetent.
37 .	John James Harris	Callao	Sundries			Nov. 21, 1884	Allowed $25,000, Chilian arbiter dissen
						2101. 21, 1007	ing.
28	do	do	do	l	14, 600, 00	Oct. 8, 1884	Disallowed.
29	Robert Reid	Chorillos	Furniture	482 15 00	22,000,00	Nov. 29, 1884	Allowed, Chilian arbiter dissenting.
30	Bates, Stokes & Co	Huancayo	Wool	774 00 00		Oct. 31, 1884	Disallowed.
31 1	Bates, Stokes & Co	Chorillos	Workshops	1, 922 00 10		Nov. 15, 1885	Disallowed, British arbiter dissenting do	House, etc	1, 500 00 00		Aug. 2, 1886	Do.
55	William Tweddale	Pisagua	Clothes	-,	500.00	Sent 6 1894	Disallowed.
34   1	Unaries Baker		Sundries	the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the s	91 409 00
35 .	Frederick Peede	Barque	La Plata		31, 981, 00	Aug. 16, 1886	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting Incompetent.

he i	William S. Main	Tourbo de Mora	Furniture	1, 530 00 00		Aug. 2, 1886	Disallowed.
30	Charles H. Williams	Mireflores	House, etc	5,000,00,00		do	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting.
37	Gunston, Edmundston & Co	Medillones		44 836 2 5		do	Incompetent.
38	Gunston, Edmundston & Co	mojinones	and customs re-	12,000 2 0
1					711 01	4 4 4 4	2" - 12 - 14 - 15 - 15 - 15 - 15 - 15 - 15 - 15
	William Long	0111	Townitarno	900 00 00	l i i i	A 110 0 1007	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting.
39	William Long	Chormos	Eurniture	800 00 00	2 011 00	Aug. 0, 1001	Do.
40	George Elster	do	ao		6, 311. 00	Aug. 11, 1880
41	Miller & Co	Tacna	Ten barrels fuse	64 00 00		Aug. 16, 1886	Incompetent.
42	William S. Stanley	Iquique	Losses		37, 922. 65	Nov. 2, 1886	Allowed $12,000.
43	George E. Steel	Cerro del Pasco	Carts, etc		2,000.00		Settled outside of tribunal.
44	Mary Watkins	Barranco	Clothing, etc		6, 047. 00	Aug. 16, 1886	Disallowed.
45	William S. Stanley. George E. Steel Mary Watkins. Gerard Garland Mary P. de Maclean. Peruvian Guano Company	Chorillos	House and furniture	4,609 18 4		Aug. 25, 1887	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting.
46	Mary P de Maclean	Arica	do		71, 690, 00	Oct. 11. 1886	Disallowed.
40	Donnyion Guana Company	111100111111111111111111111111111111111	Losses of freight on	792, 233 13 5	1	Sept. 15, 1887	Incompetent.
47	refuviali Guano Company
	do		Guano tools ate	46 413 7 4			Settled outside of tribunal.
48		m 1 2 35	Cam daise	594 00 00		A 77 0 1006	Disallowed.
49	John Meikle	Tourbo de Mora	Sunuries	334 00 00	000.00	Amm 10 1000	Do.
50	Robert Bishop	Mollendo	Guano, tools, etc Sundries Furniture House and furniture		800.00	Aug. 10, 1000	Do. Do.
51	Roger Davis	Mejillones	House and furniture	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	4, 500.00	ao	Di-11- d The which ambiton disconting
52	John Tregear	Arica and Tacna	Goods, merchandise		11, 270. 33	Nov. 2, 1886	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting.
53	Edward Chirineo				13, 917. 20		Settled outside of tribunal.
54	Charles Watson	Mollando	Property		220 645 18	July 4, 1887	Disallowed.
55	Robert K. Jeffery			2,035 00 00		July 7, 1887	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting.
56	Robert K. Jeffery Thomas Wheelock	Chorillos	House		30, 000, 00	July 14, 1887	Do
57	Simon, Israel & Co	Mollendo	Merchandise	1.688 3 8	1	Aug. 25, 1887	Disallowed.
58	John T. North	Ship	Marañon	7	74 000 00	Nov. 2, 1886	Incompetent.
98	dodo	Disagno	Property		12, 585, 93	do	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting.
	do	Danillan de Dice	Water-condensing ma-			do	Allowed $6,000.
60	ao	rapenan de rica	water-condensing ma-		12, 500. 00		πιο ποα φοισσοι
	Thomas S. Tuffield		chinery, etc.	704 0 00	1	Aug. 2, 1886	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting.
61	Thomas S. Tuffield	Tacna	Furniture	704 8 00	4 540 05	Sept. 22, 1887	Ordered to be filed.
62	John Braithwaite	do	do		4, 740. 97	Sept. 22, 1887
63	Henry H. Nagle	Barque	Lilly Grace	4,583 6 8		Aug. 18, 1887	Incompetent.
64	Henry H. Nagle Lebbeus Sumpter		Pigs	183 6 8		Aug. 2, 1886	Allowed.
65	William Hill	Ancon	Property		6, 940, 00	July 14, 1887	Disallowed.
66	Dugald McLellan		Furniture	141 15 00			Settled outside of tribunal.
67	Alexander Stenhouse	Mollendo	House		3, 000, 00	July 14, 1887	Disallowed.
68	Alice Gallagher de Carrol	Charillas	Half house Property	3,000 00 00		Oct. 11, 1886	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting.
69	Virginia M. de Swain	do	Property	0,000	40, 120, 10	Nov. 2, 1886	Disallowed.
70	do	Canata	Damages		28 645, 20	do	Do.
70	do	Calles	Duties		17 740 65	do	Do.
71			Trades		244 70	Ang 9 1996	Do.
72	Samuel Peake		Hardware		244.10	Trans 97 1007	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting.
73	William Spedie	Mollendo	Lighters and property.		558, 954, 00	Julie 21, 1001	Do.
74	Brooking, James & Co	Pisagua	Hardware Lighters and property Losses Deposits withdrawn	15, 124 11 00		July 14, 1887
75	London Bank of Mexico	Lima	Deposits withdrawn	5, 302 15 00		Aug. 18, 1887	Incompetent.
			by order of Chillan	i .	1
			officers.*		1	1
76	John Briggs	Tacna	Sundries	1	. 3, 955. 00	Aug. 2, 1887	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting.
			# 41- 4000 00% Dammin				and a second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of the second of

^{*} Also $228, 295, Peruvian paper dollars (very little value).

List and amount of claims presented to and decided by the Anglo-Chilian tribunal-Continued.

		1	1
No.	Name.	Where.	Character of claim.	Amount.	Amount in silver dollars.	When de- cided.	Decision.
				£ s. d. 4, 219 7 7 78 18 00
77	Thomas Chapman	do	Animals, etc	4.219 7 7		Aug. 25, 1887	Disallowed.
78	Campbell, Jones & Co	Mollendo	Merchandise	78 18 00		Aug. 18, 1887	Do.
79	do	Arica	Hides			Sept. 15, 1887	Do.
80	do		Dynamite taken from the ship $Knight$		1, 376. 02	Aug. 18, 1887	Incompetent.
81	Jefferson & Co	Quilca	Merchandise	77 10 00		A 00 1007	0-3-34-3-61-3
82	John Jefferson	Arica	Furniture and effects.			Aug. 26, 1887	Ordered to be filed.
83	William Sutherland	Cajamarca	House and jewelry	1, 218 00 00	7, 900. 00	Oct. 11, 1887	Disallowed. English arbiter dissenting
84	James Canny	Pascopampa	Animals			July 18, 1887	Do.
85	Anthony Delolme	Chorillos	House and property	20 000 00 00	1, 420. 00	Oct. 11, 1887	Allowed.
86	The Lima Railway Co		Immont duting	1 00 1 10 0		••••	Disallowed.
	Francis A. Kelly	Panallan da Pica	House and property Property do	1, 505 12 3			Withdrawn.
88	James Taylor	Picogno	Droporty		21, 162. 00		Settled outside of tribunal.
89	W. S. McClellan	do	do		4,000.00	July 7, 1887	Disallowed.
	Andrew Jackson		Merchandise	275 00 00		June 27, 1887	Ordered to be filed.
91	James A. Clarke	Mollondo
92	Barclay Burns	Monendo	Property Personal property Property	85 12 00			Do.
	Francis Boyd.	do	Property	29 3 4			Do.
94	Archibald Barclay	uo	Froperty		1, 358. 00		Do.
95	J. Jefferson, R. Smart, and J.	ao					Do.
00	Robillard.	ao	Lighters and buoys		1, 235. 00	June 27, 1887	Ordered to be filed.
96	James O'Connor	7.9			The Control of
97	W. A. Smith	qo	Furniture		1, 809. 00		Settled outside of tribunal.
98	T W Tananan		Wine	91 4 00			Do.
99	J. W. Lonergen Jefferson & Co	Arica	Furniture Office, etc Losses	2,060 00 00			Withdrawn.
00	Julia Maclean de Outram	ao	Office, etc	2,700 00 00		July 4, 1887	Ordered to be filed.
		Tacna	Losses		8, 525.00	do	Do.
02	Pariamin C. C.						Settled outside of tribunal.
	Benjamin G. Chapman	Cañeta	Sundries	2, 108 11 1			Do.
03	Thomas Keppel	Supe	Sundries		2, 209, 00	July 4, 1887	Ordered to be filed.
.04	Henry Gray	Payta	Furniture				Settled outside of tribunal.
.05	Ibbotson Bros. & Co	Chimbote	Hardware	109 10 00			Do.
.06	A. T. White	do	Clothing		1, 530, 94		Do.
07	Campbell, Outram & Co	Pisagua					Paid and withdrawn.
.08	Wholey Bros	Ancon	Property				Settled outside of tribunal.
.09	John Farmer	Chorillos	Property House and furniture	3,000 00 00		Aug. 8 1887	Disallowed, English arbiter dissenting
10	Frederick Ford			1,000 00 00			Do.
11 12	Dr. Maclean's heirs	do	Death of the doctor .	10,000 00 00		do	Ordered to be filed
		3. 1. A	Furniture	-27.555 57 77 1		· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	Do.

113	Edward Irving	Callao	do	f	732.50		Settled outside of tribunal.
114	Edward Irving. Crown Perfumery Co.	do	Perfumery	143 13 00		Sept. 22, 1887	Ordered to be filed.
110	Trederick Duzagio	- (10)	Dunes		3, 197, 60		Settled outside of tribunal.
116	Susana Flecknoe	Chorillos	Death		20,000,00		Incompetent
117	A. M. Fisher	Minoflopos	Dromontre	075 00 00			Ordered to be filed
118	Mrs. Mercedes Reid	Chorillos	do		32, 435, 00	Sept. 15, 1887	Incompetent.
•						,
11	Total			1. 034. 028 14 3	1, 246, 268, 92
×					-,,	1
•

NOTE.—For sake of convenience counting the pound as $5 (although it is worth more than that in silver), the 118 claims would amount to $6,416,410. The secretary of the tribunal had reduced the pound at $7.50 to paper currency, which was wrong.

Disposition of claims submitted to the Anglo-Chilian tribunal.

		In pounds.	In silver dollars.
60	Claims disallowed Thrown out on account of incompetency of the tribunal Ordered to be filed (papers not in proper shape) Allowed	99, 735	$959, 989
11		860, 355	159, 742
14		19, 683	19, 452
13		4, 131	57, 420
2 0	Total	983, 904	1, 196, 603
	Settled outside of tribunal for $100,000 silver	50, 125	49, 666
118		1, 034, 029	1, 246, 269

Or in dollars, at $5 to the pound, $6,416,410.

Taking the one hundred and eighteen claims, amounting to $6,416,410 (counting $5 to the pound), on which was allowed $178,075, or 2.78 per cent.

Deducting from the one hundred and eighteen claims ($6,416,410) the eleven thrown out by the tribunal ($4,461,517) on account of incompetency, leaves $1,954,893, upon which the tribunal allowed $78,075, and outside of same $100,000; a total $178,075, or 9 per cent.

Twenty claims settled outside of tribunal ($300,291). Allowed, $100,000, or 33 per

Under the presidency of Senor Lopez Netto on the tribunal seven claims out of twenty-five were allowed. Under the presidency of Señor Lafayette Rodriquez Pereira five out of thirty-five were allowed. Under the presidency of Baron d'Andrada out of thirty-five none were allowed.

Résumé.

Twenty-five claims decided under Señor Lopez Netto; 35 claims decided under Señor Lafayette R. Pereira; 35 claims decided under Señor Baron d'Andrada; 3 withdrawn (one of them paid); 20 withdrawn, settled outside of the tribunal.-Total,

No. 131.

Mr. Roberts to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 166.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES. Santiago, November 11, 1887. (Received January 4.)

SIR: Cholera has again made its appearance in Santiago. week ending November 5 forty cases were reported as proving fatal, nineteen on yesterday and fourteen the day previous.

It has extended to the south of Chili during the winter months, and has been particularly severe in some sections.

It is the general impression that it will prove as destructive to life in Santiago and its environs as it was last summer, though the Government and people are much better prepared to meet it in a sanitary point of view.

It is quite possible that our commerce and mails by way of Panama may be again obstructed in consequence. The chargé d'affaires of Colombia notified the Chilian Government on the 8th instant that his Government would not permit vessels from Chili to enter her ports for the present. So long as Peru keeps her ports open the mails will be sent there, and from thence to Panama; but should Peru follow the example of Colombia, and in all probability she will, then the South

CHILI. 179

Pacific will again be closed to our commerce, our mails, and our travelers.

Whatever justification Peru may have for closing her ports, Panama in my opinion has none. It takes twenty days for a mail steamer to reach Panama from Valparaiso; if there was infection on board it would show itself during the trip, and the vessel could very properly be quarantined or refused admittance; if there was not, and the vessel could show a clean bill of health, then she should be permitted to enter port.

I have, etc.,

WILLIAM R. ROBERTS.

No. 132.

Mr. Roberts to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Santiago, November 30, 1887. (Received December 27.)

SIR: In dispatch No. 166, November 11, I had the honor to advise the Department that the cholera had re-appeared in Santiago, and that the Government of Colombia had closed her ports to vessels sailing from Chili. On the 16th instant I wired to you a dispatch reporting the closing of the ports of Colombia to arrivals from Chili; that the deaths in Santiago were but ten daily, the cholera being of a mild type, easily controlled, and that the action of Colombia appeared to be unwarranted by the facts and injurious to American interests, not justifi-

On the 23d instant I telegraphed you again to the effect that all Chilian ports were free from cholera, and that as Peru had refused to accede to the Colombian request that Peruvian ports should be closed against Chili, Panama refuses all communication.

And on the 29th as follows:

able, and should not be permitted to continue.

BAYARD, Washington:

No. 168.1

Peru closes ports.

ROBERTS.

I hesitated before sending the first dispatch, but believing the information of importance to the Government and perhaps to the public, I concluded to send it; my chief object, however, in cabling to you was the hope that the influence of the United States Government would be successfully exerted in preventing the Colombian Government from closing the port of Panama to vessels from Chili.

Not alone, however, has the Government of Colombia closed her ports to vessels from Chili, but she has succeeded in compelling Peru and Ecuador to pursue a similar policy, under the threat that a refusal on their part would be followed by a decree of prohibition such as that issued against Chili.

That the Government of Colombia would be justified in submitting vessels from Chili to quarantine regulations is beyond question, but the absolute prohibition of ships, merchandise, and even the mails, is without reason or justice, seeing that it takes twenty days to reach Panama by steamer from Valparaiso.

The steam-ship lines bound to run to Panama from the south coast will receive the subsidy of the Chilian Government as though they performed the service for which they are subsidized, as they are not responsible for the failure to perform their part of the contract, and it will simply transfer the commerce crossing the isthmus to their own steamers running to and from Europe; the gain therefore is altogether on their side and the losses altogether on ours. There are other influences which may also have operated, but I mention this one for your consideration.

The fact that cholera is likely to be an annual visitant of South America for years to come presents to the United States a very serious problem, as to whether the Government of Colombia shall at its discretion under some plausible pretext prevent free transit across the Isthmus of Panama whenever cholera, small-pox, or some other epidemic shall make its appearance on this coast. I am thoroughly of the opinion that other influences than sanitary ones have operated in the present case and may operate again, and we can not too soon meet this question, which so deeply concerns our interest and our prestige on this hemisphere.

I hope to have this dispatch taken by the City of Pueblo, that reached Valparaiso to-day and leaves to-morrow for San Francisco, Cal., in which case it will reach Washington, accidents excepted, within twenty-five days.

In future I may have my dispatches forwarded by way of Europe, as the surest and perhaps the swiftest route during the embargo at the isthmus.

As yet the deaths from cholera in Santiago are averaging about twenty daily. So far as known the disease has not increased since then throughout the country. About 30 per cent. of the persons infected die, and the number of deaths among the well-to-do classes is greater than it was at the beginning of this year, but there is an entire absence of the excitement and panic which were so general on its first appearance in Chili.

I have, etc.,

WILLIAM R. ROBERTS.

No. 133.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Roberts.

No. 73.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, December 5, 1887.

SIR: This Department is constantly in receipt of communications from citizens of the United States having claims against the Government of Chili, who manifest impatience at the delay that has occurred in the adjustment of their demands. They have been told that the difficulties attending the proceedings of the arbitration tribunals to which claims of the citizens and subjects of certain governments have been submitted, and the failure of those tribunals to reach a satisfactory decision on the cases before them, made it expedient for the Government of the United States to seek, even if it involved delay, a more promising basis of settlement than that which other governments had accepted and found so defective.

From recent advices it seems not improbable that at an early day (if, indeed, it has not already been done) a compromise of the claims before the arbitration tribunals will be agreed to by some or all of the government.

ernments in interest.

It seems, therefore, to the Department that it would not be expecting too much for the Chilian Government now to take into consideration the negotiation of a convention for the adjustment of the claims of citizens of the United States against that Government; and you are authorized to say that the Government of the United States regards such a measure as desirable and likely to promote the good relations of both countries.

I am, etc..

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 134.

Mr. Roberts to Mr. Bayard.

No. 171.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Santiago, January 6, 1888. (Received February 25.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose translation of protocol for the settlement of French claims against Chili, amounting to about $3,400,000.

I am, etc.,

WILLIAM R. ROBERTS.

[Inclosure in No. 171.—Translation from the Diario Oficial, No. 3191, December 31, 1887.]

MINISTRY OF FOREIGN RELATIONS.

Whereas the national Congress has given its approval to the following protocol: At a meeting in this department Señor Miguel Luis Amunategui, minister of foreign relations of Chili, and Mr. Arthur Lanen, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the Republic of France, being authorized by their respective governments, have agreed to the following:

1. To approve the arrangement which the accredited agents of the one and the other country before the arbitration tribunal have entered into for the canceling of the eighty-nine claims submitted to its decision, for the sum of 300,000 Chilian silver dollars, to be paid by the Chilian Government within fifteen days after the approval of this agreement by the national Congress, from which sum 6 per cent. is to be deducted, which, according to the convention of November 2, 1882, is to be applied to the expenses of the aforesaid tribunal, and in consequence of which the said claims remain extinguished.

2. The envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the French Republic will receive the referred to sum, and will distribute it among the owners of the eightynine claims in amount, mode, and form he may deem proper, without the Government of Chili having any responsibility in its distribution.

3. That it remains expressly established that the Government of Chili has effected this friendly arrangement with the object of bringing to a prompt conclusion the claims pending, and without this arrangement affecting either directly or indirectly the principles and jurisprudence which the Government of Chili has maintained and sustained before the arbitration tribunals.

In testimony whereof they authorized this with their signatures and seals in duplicate, in Santiago, the 26th day of the month of November, 1887.

MIGUEL LUIS AMUNATEGUI. [L. S.] A. LANEN. [L. S.]

And whereas, it having been heard by the council of state, it has been deemed proper to approve and sanction the same:

Therefore, let it be promulgated and brought into effect in all its parts as law of the Republic.

Santiago, December 30, 1837.

J. M. BALMACEDA. MIGUEL LUIS AMUNATEGUI.

No. 135.

Mr. Seibert to Mr. Bayard.

No. 180.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Santiago, February 15, 1888. (Received April 12.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith copies of the notes exchanged between the British minister here and the Chilian minister of foreign relations, relating to Chili's liability for a portion of the Peruvian foreign debt, and the Grace-Aranibar contract, as published in the Diario Oficial, and also a translation of the same.

I am, etc.,

C. M. SEIBERT.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 180.—From the Diario Official, February 3, 1888.—Retranslation.]

Mr. Fraser to Señor Amunategui.

Santiago, December 28, 1887.

MR. MINISTER: In the conversation I had the honor to have with you this morning, you asked me to send in writing a memorandum of the two communications relating to the subject of the Peruvian creditors and their claims on the revenue of Tarapaca, which Her Majesty's secretary of state for foreign affairs had expressed to me the desire that I should place to the knowledge of the Government of Chili.

I now take pleasure in so doing, in as nearly as possible the same terms as my instructions.

1. In view of the willingness of the Peruvian Government to take its proportional share in the arrangement of the Peruvian debt, Lord Salisbury indicated to me the desire that by means of friendly representation I should try to induce the Chilian Government to make some proposition for the discharge of its responsibility respecting the hypothecate claims on the Province of Tarapaca, and in this manner to put an end to the constant complaints of British creditors.

2. The bond-holder's committee having called the attention of Her Majesty's Government to the fact that Peru has been compelled to abandon an agreement already concluded, for the liquidation of the Peruvian foreign debt, simply because the Government of Chili did not approve of that agreement, the Marquis of Salisbury has instructed me by telegraph to ask that the Chilian Government be good enough to explain exactly in what its objection to the Grace-Aranibar contract consists, in order that this contract may be modified in reasonable terms, according to the meaning of these objections.

Improving, etc.,

HUGH FRASER.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 180.—From the Diario Official, February 3, 1888.—Translation.]

Señor Cuadra to Mr. Fraser.

Santiago, February 2, 1888.

Sir: I have received your note dated December 28, 1887, in which you were pleased to send me a written memorandum on the instructions you received from Her Majesty's secretary of state, and which have for their object:

1. To induce the Chilian Government by means of friendly representation to formulate some proposition in discharge of its responsibility to the hypothecate claims that may affect the Province of Tarapaca, thus putting an end to the losses of British creditors; and

2. To point out the precise objections which the Grace-Aranibar contract suggests to the Government of Chili, adjusted in the past year by the representatives of Peru and the Peruvian bond-holders referred to by you.

The simple exposition of the facts will be sufficient to satisfy your wishes, and to form a correct opinion of the antecedents relating to the two points mentioned.

From the official documents of Peru, dated immediately before the declaration of the war, it is shown that the total foreign debt of that country at that time was £32,960,706, of which sum £11,141,580 pertained to the loan of 1870, and £21,546,740 to the loan of 1872, and £272,386 to the bonds of the Pisco and Ica Railway and those called New

CHILI.

Granada and Ecuador. Consequently the bonds from the loans of 1870 and 1872 form The said loans had for their object the construction of railthe foreign debt of Peru.

roads, irrigation of public lands, and other national works.

It may be of interest to know the origin, development, and legal consequences of the referred-to loans, in order that the controversy raised by the creditors of Peru can be judged with correctness.

By the act of January 15, 1869, the Government of Peru was authorized to issue bonds to pay for the construction of the railroads "from Arequipa, Puno and Cuzco from Chimbote to Santa and Huarez; from Trujillo to Pacasmayo and Cajamarea; from Lima to Jauja, and such others as the Republic may need." The said act did not authorize the Government to mortgage the guano deposits of the territory.

On January 19, 1870, the representative of Peru contracted with Dreyfus Bros. &

Co., for the placing of the loan for the sum of £11,920,000, and in article 4 of said contract it was agreed as follows:

"As security for the payment of the interest and principal of such loan, the Government affects (afecta) all the revenue of the nation, and especially the receipts of the custom-houses of the Republic and the proceeds of the sale of guano in Europe, America, etc." In the bonds emitted in compliance with the said contract, it is said in article 6 "that the Government of Peru under the faith of the nation affects (afecta) the fiscal receipts of the Republic, and especially the net proceeds of guano, etc., the railroad from Arequipa, etc., and the customs revenue of the country.

There is nothing in the law (act) authorizing the loan of 1870, nor in the contract with Dreyfus, which was its result, nor in the text itself of the bonds, that provides for the mortgage of the guano deposits of Peru, neither in the informal way in which later on the bonds of the loan of 1872 were issued.

The Government of Peru affected (afecto) the property of the nation in general declarations and in terms current in that kind of contracts, as promises of honor, but it does not constitute a real mortgage.

The act of January 24, 1871, authorized the Peruvian Government to construct the railroads of Cuzco, Cajamarca, and Ancachs, of Puira and Trujillo to Huamachuco, and the prolongation of the Oroya railroad to the city of Ayacucha; and for this it was authorized to contract a loan of £15,000,000, of which sum £2,000,000 were to be applied to irrigation works on the coast of the Republic. The said law does not authorize the Government to hypothecate the guano.

On January 7, 1871, the Peruvian Government contracted with Dreyfus Brothers & Co. for the placing of this loan. Article 4 of said contract says: "As security for the payment of the interest and sinking-fund of this loan, the Government affects (afecto) all the income of the nation, now created or to be created, and especially (1) the proceeds of the sale of guano, etc., (2) the railroads and works of irrigation, and (3) the receipts of the customs revenue, etc."

At the issuing of this loan an attempt was made to raise it to £36,000,000, excess over the £15,000,000 to be applied to the payment of the Peruvian loans of 1865 in England, of 1866 in the United States of America, and of 1870 in Europe. This procedure was publicly objected to, and the stock exchange reminded that the text of the law authorized a loan of £15,000,000 only, and not one of £36,000,000, declared the excess of the issue illegal, and the contractors at that time obtained the placing of only a relatively small amount.

In the issuing of this loan, which was attempted to exceed in the sum of £21,000,000 and which at the end was exceeded by £6,546,740, neither the formula of the act, in the printing of the bonds, nor the clear and precise terms of the contract of July 7, 1871, emanating from the said act, were observed. The following was printed on the bonds: "The Government of Peru, under the faith of the nation, mortgages all the existing guano beds of the Republic, and especially all the guano deposits," etc.

The procedure which inspired the attempt of an illegal issue was applied to the test of the bonds, printing on them a mortgage which did not exist, neither in the contract nor in the respective act, and which was established by the issuers of the loan, who were at one and the same time the consignees of guano and the providers

The Peruvian Government could not mortgage the guano existing in the Republic, because the acts of 1869 and 1871 did not confer that authority, and because the contracts entered into by said Government for the placing of both loans did not stipulate any mortgage lien whatever on the properties of Peru.

The imposition of the mortgage lien on the bonds of 1872 was a procedure unauthorized in its origin, irregular in its form, and completely null and void in its results.

It is hardly necessary for me to observe that a mortgage of a State in favor of private parties does not and can not exist. International law does not recognize the formula accepted, nor tolerates any other for the constituting of this kind of liens. Neither can it be said that there exists a civil mortgage to which the rules of private international law are applicable, because in the issue of the bonds of 1872 all the legal conditions are wanting to establish a real mortgage.

And this is a doctrine founded on fact, and on authorities which it is opportune to state (to recall to mind).

On July 1, 1875, the Peruvian Government suspended absolutely the service of its foreign debt, and the creditors of Peru, in presence of such situation, agreed to reduce to one-half the rate of interest first stipulated, agreeing, moreover, that the Peruvian Government might take from the proceeds of the guano £700,000 yearly to attend to its own proper expenses. In this manner the creditors of Peru, who claimed to have preferred rights and liens, acknowledged the primary right of Peru to attend before all else to the expenses of its own existence.

Notwithstanding the obligations imputed to the Peruvian Government in the text (drafting) of the bonds of 1872, and the agreement of 1875, which explained the extent of the guaranty stipulated on said bonds, the Government freely disposed of the guano and in the form that it believed most advantageous to the interests of the State. It was for this reason that the bondholders repaired to the courts of London, Paris, and Brussels against the consignees who sold the guane for their own account and benefit and of the Peruvian Government.

The supreme court of London declared "that the bonds issued by the Peruvian Government did not contain any hypothecate responsibility, but simply promises of honor which did not constitute obligatory contracts before any tribunal of a foreign country, not even before the common courts of the country that issued them without the consent of that country." The court of appeals of Paris declared that "from the repeated expressions of compromiso, garantia, assignacion hipoteca jeneral and especial, showed that the Peruvian Government had only pledged in a general manner like an ordinary debtor to the service of one of its loans the resources and faculties, designating without including on the other hand those of another nature which might pertain to it, and that the movable character of the things offered as guaranty excludes all hypothecate right, etc.," and concluding by condemning the claimants to pay all costs of appeal as well as the costs of the first instance. The court of justice of Brussels gave a like decision and for analogous reasons.

The conflict of interests produced by the Peruvian bondholders with the consignees engaged by Peru for the sale of guano resulted, as is seen by judicial action, that the pretended hypothecate rights of the bondholders was universally disauthorized, and that, too, by the highest judicial authority of the nations where the referred-to bonds circulated.

But to these declarations, as well founded as irrevocable, there are also added explicit declarations of the English Government with regard to the line of conduct which it had laid out in view of the special claims of the bondholders.

On February 26, 1878, Mr. James Croyle, president of the committee on Peruvian bonds, sent a note to Her Majesty's secretary of state, Lord Derby, saying that the committee proposed to send an agent to Peru, to act near that Government at the time Congress was in session, for the purpose of coming to an equitable arrangement for the bondholders, whom he represented, asking for this purpose the protection and official support of Her Majesty's Government. He asked, moreover, if, in case the bondholders could not obtain justice from the Peruvian Government, and if it had resolved to extract the guano directly and on its own account, they could count on the assistance and protection of Her Majesty's Government.

The reply given to this petition is as follows:

"MINISTRY OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS. " March 9, 1878.

"SIR: With reference to your letter of the 26th ultimo, I am authorized by Lord Derby to say to you that Her Majesty's Government can not give any official support to the Peruvian bondholders, because such procedure would be contrary to rules established in analogous cases, but Lord Derby will be pleased to instruct, if you so desire, Her Majesty's minister in Lima to give such extra-official aid as he may deem best to the agent your committee may send there. With regard to the last paragraph of your letter I must say to you that Her Majesty's Government can not take upon itself to counsel the bondholders, and still less a portion of the bondholders, as to their legal rights in view of the bonds and the decree of November 14, 1873, and if the bondholders adopt a procedure in violation of Peruvian laws, or of the country, they can not count upon the aid of Her Majesty's Government.

"Julian Pauncefore.

"To Mr. J. CROYLE."

A few months later the Marquis of Salisbury was called to the ministry of foreign affairs, and the committee resolved to make another attempt before the new minister, and here is the reply:

"MINISTRY OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS " May 12, 1878.

"SIR: I am authorized by the Marquis of Salisbury to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 30th ultimo, in which you urge upon Her Majesty's Government to adopt certain measures in protection of the Peruvian bondholders, and to say to you that Lord Salisbury feels sorry that Her Majesty's Government does not permit him to render more assistance to the bondholders than that which it has already given them.

185CHILL

"I am, sir, your obedient and humble servant,

"JULIAN PAUNCEFOTE.

"To Mr. CROYLE."

Such was the status quo at the breaking out of the war between Chili and Peru. After the war was undertaken, and the territory of Tarapaca was occupied by our forces, the Chilian Government granted to the Peruvian creditors the extracting and selling of guano by paying a royalty of £1 10s. sterling per ton. This was the first money the said creditors received for many years in payment of their credits, and as was natural they gave their full consent to this concession.

By the decree of February 9, 1882, the preceding decree terminated, and 50 per cent. of the net proceeds from the sale of 1,000,000 tons of guano was ceded to the Peruvian creditors whose titles were sustained by the guaranty. Mr. John Proctor, sufficiently empowered by the committee of Peruvian bondholders, accepted the dispositions of the decree alluded to, in the name of the creditors representing £25,838,370.

This voluntary concession from the military occupant of Tarapaca was ratified at the signing of the treaty of peace by Chili and Peru, which ended the war.

The two States that executed this compact were free and sovereign, and these agreed that the Peruvian creditors should only have the option of 50 per cent. of the profits from the deposits known and actually worked, for "the products of deposits to be discovered in the future in the ceded territories shall exclusively belong to Chili." The Government of the Republic covenanted with the Government of Peru and not with its private creditors; therefore i is not permitted to any individual creditor of that Republic to address the Chilian Government soliciting modifications of a solemn international treaty.

There is not a leading consideration of an includible character in the controversy raised. Chili obtained Tarapaca in payment of her war expenses and in compensation due the sacrifices which that imposed. If Peru agreed to bases of concession in form affecting its private creditors, to it belongs the obligation with third parties. All other understanding of the exercise of the sovereignty of a state would be irreconcilable with the laws and independence of nations: The power of a State to terminate war and to make peace, the faculty, in conformity to international law, to cede a part of its territory, although this may affect individual creditors, and although for them its solvency may diminish or compromise private property. It is true that the cession of territory may produce detriment, but the detriment of a State caused by war or a disorderly or unscrupulous administration, or by internal revolutions, or by economical mistakes, necessarily affects its creditors, no matter what may have been the condition when the debts were contracted or the special liens which these affected.

I consider myself excused to invoke examples and indisputable authorities that confirm the right of the victor to become unconditional owner of a part of the enemy's territory that may be required to recompense the expenses of the war and to guard its future security. But it will be well to remember that the loans of 1870 and 1872 had for their object the building of railroads and other national works which absorbed the sum of 82,000,000 silver soles, employed in benefiting territory only which Peru conserved, without ever spending a single pound sterling in Tarapaca. This weighty circumstance united to the general form and mere promise of honor which the bonds of the Peruvian debt carry makes all reasonable discussion with the bondholders unsustainable.

The Government should have desired, however, to grant to the Peruvian creditors the right to extract and sell for its account the guano of Tarapaca, in which they participated, by the paying of a royalty on each ton. This was a mere internal administrative measure, having for its object to take off the Government's hands the necessarily discretional administration of the extracting, loading, freighting, and consigning of the guano. But by announcing this idea to those interested they imagine perhaps that there was an implicit acknowledgment of pretended hypothecate rights, and that the hour had arrived to formulate exactions completely unfounded.

Not meeting the expected acquiescence in the Chilian agents, the bondholders applied to the committee of the stock exchange of London, and under pressure obtained the postponement for three months of the official quotation of the bonds emitted in the postponement for three months of the omeial quotation of the bonds emitted in payment of the saltpeter certificates which Chili acknowledged to English and French citizens and other European nationalities. To the committee of the stock exchange belongs the announcing of the grounds of justice, or even equity, which induced it to favor the English creditors of Peru by such unusual procedure, to the damage of English creditors of Chili, which always has paid all its public obligations.

Without desiring to do so perhaps, it has adopted a resolution which mainly interests Englishmen, who in the past honored Peru and who to-day honor Chili with their confidence, but which does not compromise Chili's credit, for this does not depend upon the directory of the London stock exchange, nor on the Peruvian creditors, but upon the stability of her institutions, the administration of her resources, and the punctuality with which it has always fulfilled its promises.

Your suggestion for the Chilian Government to formulate a proposal in favor of the Peruvian creditors has come at the very moment when these employ aggressive proceedings against the creditors of Chili, and as much for this circumstance as for the foregoing considerations my Goverment believes that it should limit itself, in that which may concern the Peruvian creditors, to the faithful compliance with the treaty of peace of October 20, 1883.

It remains for me to announce the opinion of the Chilian Government on the Grace-Aranibar contract.

Article XV of the contract says, concerning guano, that the committee shall respect the conditions of the treaty of peace between Peru and Chili in reference to the extracting (esplotacion), whilst the treaty of peace speaks of extracting and sale (esplotacion i venta). Attention is drawn to the omission of the words "and sale," in order to avoid mistakes and to establish the truth of the matter.

In Article XIX of the same contract the committee declares that it will cancel the one-half of the Peruvian foreign debt, and will retain the other half, without responsibility as to Peru to recover the same from others interested, thus giving to understand that this last half would be recovered from Chili, as already suggested in the prospectus of the business. It was necessary to observe that in all agreements between the Peruvian Government and the holders of its foreign debt it should be clearly established that no more responsibilities be imputed to Chili than expressly mentioned in articles 4, 7, and 8 of the treaty of peace.

The Peruvian Government had to acknowledge these formulated observations made before it, as nothing less could follow their justice and origin.

Other observations have likewise been made to the Peruvian Government, but in official form and good friendship.

By the Grace-Aranibar contract Peru delivers to the committee all its railroad property for the term of sixty-six years, cedes the mines of a vast region, adjudicates to it the ownership of 1,800,000 hectares of land in the most fertile provinces of the Republic; the lands to be selected by the committee. It gives, moreover, 180 hectares of land for each family that emigrates to its territory; concedes all the guano it may have in its dominions; makes it the direct collector of the receipts of the most important custom-houses; authorizes it to establish a bank of issue, with privilege to emit bills, for twenty-five years, the bank to receive directly all national taxes from the treasurers and collectors of the State. Peru covenants, in fact, concessions which import the diminution of her sovereignty and the economic absorption by its creditors.

The especial and delicate international condition of Chili and Peru after the late war, and our sincere desire for the reconstruction and progress of the Peruvian Republic, induced my Government to express its opinion on the Grace-Aranibar contract, affirming its conviction that no contract between Peru and its creditors will be reasonable if that country does not conserve the full exercise of its autonomy for the administration of the State and the preferred right to the revenue necessary for the maintenance and services of the Republic.

I cherish the hope that Her Majesty's Government, so respectful to the laws of nations, and always animated by a rectitude which has won for it such special considerations in this austrial region of the continent, will find that my Government has done as much for the Peruvian creditors as counseled by its spirit of equity and the compromises contracted during the war and after in its legitimate closing.

I have, etc.,

P. L. CUADRA.

No. 136.

Mr. Seibert to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 181.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES. Santiago, February 24, 1888. (Received April 12.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a translation of the protocol signed by the representatives of Chili and Italy, by which all the claims of Italian subjects against Chili not acted upon by the international tribunal, two hundred and sixty-one in number, were settled for the round sum of 297,000 Chilian silver dollars, and a translation of President Balmaceda's message to Congress setting forth the number and amount of the various Italian claims, either decided by the tribunal, withdrawn, or settled, and recommending the approval of the protocol.

187CHILI.

The Congress by a subsequent act approved the protocol and authorized the payment of the amount therein mentioned to the Italian representative, which has already been complied with.

By this settlement of the Italian claims the international tribunals established between various European Governments and Chili have ceased to exist.

The only claims against Chili arising out of the late war, still unsettled, are those of United States citizens and of Spanish subjects.

I am, sir, etc.,

C. M. SEIBERT, Chargé d'Affaires ad interim.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 181.]

Translation of protocol.

Señor Miguel Luis Amunategui, minister of foreign relations of Chili, and Count Fabio Sanminiatelli, minister resident of His Majesty the King of Italy, at a meeting in this department, and being authorized by their respective Governments, have agreed to the following:

1. To settle all the claims, two hundred and sixty-one in number, still pending before the Italian-Chilian tribunal upon the terms agreed to by the agents of both Governments accredited before the arbitration tribunal for the sum of 297,000 Chilian silver pesos (dollars), which the Chilian Government shall pay within the fifteen days following the approval of this agreement by the Congress of Chili, deducting 6 per cent. from this amount, which, according to the arbitration convention, is to be applied towards the expenses of the said tribunal; thus canceling and wholly extinguishing the said claims.

2. The minister of His Majesty the King of Italy shall receive the aforesaid sum of $297,000 (Chilian silver pesos), and shall distribute it among the owners of the said claims without this distribution affecting in any manner whatever the responsibility of Chili.

3. It remains especially established that this voluntary and direct arrangement has been effected by the Chilian Government for the purpose of bringing the pending claims to a speedy close, and without affecting, either directly or indirectly, the principles and jurisprudence maintained by the tribunal and sustained by the Government of Chili.

In faith whereof the Chilian minister of foreign relations and the Italian minister resident have signed the present protocol in auplicate, and sealed with their respective seals.

Done in Santiago de Chili, the 12th day of January, 1888.

MIGUEL LUIS AMUNATEGUI. [L. S.]

F. SANMINIATELLI. L. S.]

[Inclosure 2 in No. 181.]

Translation of President Balmaceda's message to Congress with reference to the Italian claims.

FELLOW-CITIZENS OF THE SENATE AND CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES: The claims brought forward by Italian subjects by reason of the war on the Pacific and submitted to the consideration of the tribunal, constituted by the arbitration commission of December 7, 1882, represent 6,769,856.31 silver soles, and £127,644.4.7. Reducing the last to the first-mentioned money at the rate of 38 pennies to the peso (dollar), it is equivalent to 806,173.93 silver soles, which, added to the $6,769,856.31, makes a total 7,576,030.24 silver soles as the total sum of all the referred to claims.

The interest on this sum, calculated for the space of five years at 5 per cent. per annum, amounts to $1,894,007.60 in the same money.

The claims from which the Chilian Government has been absolved, or to which it has been condemned by the decisions of the Italian Chilian tribunal, amount to $830,843.30, with $207,710.80 interest, calculated at the rate and for the time above mentioned.

The claims which the tribunal has not yet been able to take into consideration amount to $5,200,621.78, and the interest as aforesaid to $1,300,155.44.

The only claim that was settled by a direct understanding between the Government and interested party amounted to $1,973.67, the interest on which sum, calculated on the basis mentioned above, is $493.91.

The sum of $1,542,591.59, remaining after deducting from the total amount of the claims the amount decided by the tribunal, the amount it has not been able to reach, and the one closed by direct settlement, represents the claims which the tribunal has declared itself incompetent to take into account, or which have been withdrawn by the parties interested, the interest on which would amount to $385,647.90.

The amount which Chili is to pay by virtue of condemnatory decisions is $70,326.31 in capital and $21,942.36 in interest.

The money in which all the foregoing amounts have been expressed is the silver sol, at the rate of 38 pennies. (Here follows a reduction of the various amounts mentioned into Chilian currency at 25 pennies the peso, which is immaterial.)

The preceding data show the advantage accruing to the treasury by the agreement contained in the protocol. In effect, supposing that the proportion in the amount represented by condemnatory sentences in future of all pending claims, over which the tribunal would have to decide, were the same as the sentences given to date, the new decision would put an obligation upon the State of not less than $435,000 silver; that is to say, the State would have to pay $138,000 more than the sum fixed in the present transaction.

In the desire to put a definite termination to all matters that trace their origin to the last war, by which it is pretended to derive responsibilities against our country, my Government has gladly accepted the idea to settle, by the payment of a round sum, all claims yet pending the decisions of the Italian-Chilian tribunal, and by virtue of which it has arrived to an agreement with the representative of His Majesty the King of Italy in the adjoint protocol, which having been heard by the council of state, I have the honor to submit to your approval.

J. M. BALMACEDA. P. L. CUADRA.

Santiago, January 26, 1888.

[Inclosure 3 in No. 181.]

Decisions of the Italian-Chilian tribunal.

[In decisions marked with an * the Italian arbiter dissented from the opinion of the majority of the

No.	Name.	For what claimed.	Value.	Remarks.
7	José Cecchi	For levying a forced money con- tribution by Chilian officers, May, 1881.	$1,000.00	Allowed.
22	José Piazze	For destruction of two houses in Mollendo, March, 1880.	10, 000. 00	Disallowed.*
101	Luis Marcone	For destruction of property on five farms and in Ancon.	19, 000. 00	Do.
12	Juan B. Sanguinetti	Losses by the bombardment of Pisagua.	70, 000. 00	Dismissed.
16	Angel Mazzari	For destruction of his hotel at Casapalca.	15, 107. 00	Disallowed.
58	Eduardo Costa	For depredations by Chilian sol- diers on his farm near Lima.	6, 068. 00	Allowed $3,000.
.59	Juan Cuneo	do	6, 495. 00	Allowed $1,000.
60	Luis Arata	Destruction of two houses and merchandise in Cañete.	8, 700. 00	Disallowed.
63	Balth. Colombo	Destruction of crops on his farm near Lima.	1, 710.00	Disallowed.*
68	José Paggi	Destruction of farm	5, 100. 00	} ~
		Property and personal injuries	12, 000. 00	} Do.
·61	Angel Astengo	Losses on his farm by Chilian soldiers.	4, 600. 00	Allowed $2,300.
62	Pedro Gazzola	Destruction of his property in Lunahuana, December, 1882.	23, 600. 00	Disallowed.

CHILI.

Decisions of the Italian-Chilian tribunal—Continued.

No.	Name.	For what claimed.	Value.	Remarks.
26	J. Carlos Serra	Destruction of property in Arica.	$2, 852. 30	Disallowed.*
28 70	José Vignolo et a	Destruction of a fishing-boat in	6, 000. 00 1, 800. 00	Do. Disallowed.
87	José Caprile	the bay of Callao.  Destruction of his property at	1, 493. 20	Do.
144	Lorenzo Navaro	Tacna.  Destruction of his property in	8, 493. 70	Disallowed.*
24	Marcelo Gullino	Callao. Destruction of his property in	8, 432. 09	Do.
69	Lorenzo Taccione	Arica. Destruction of a fishing boat and	2, 600. 00	Disallowed.
123	Pedro Cota	other property.  Destruction of property at Tacna and other places.	1, 665. 40	Do.
13	José Bergtagliatti	Destruction of five houses in Pisagua by bombardment.	21, 500. 00	Dismissed.
17	Pablo Monteverde	Destruction of property in Callao.	3, 000. 00	Allowed $2,000
146	Santos Padovani	Destruction of property and house.	20, 000. 00	Disallowed.*
178	Antonio Blotte	Destruction of property on his farm.	4, 000. 00	Do.
31	Manuel Bozzano	Destruction of property in Pisagua.	1, 060. 00	Do.
$\begin{array}{c} 76 \\ 147 \end{array}$	Antonio Bocca Federico Granier	Destruction of farm near Callao.  Destruction of property in Callao.	15, 450. 00 3, 839. 03	Do. Do.
20	José Fetta	Destruction of property at Tacna.	16, 000. 0 0	Dismissed.*
21	José Barabino	Destruction of property at Mollendo.	5, 000. 00	Disallowed.*
23	Miguel Denigri	Destruction of property in Pisagua.	48, 000. 00	Do.
98	Estaban Casasa	Destruction of property in Tacna.	1, 157. 90	Do.
99	Alberto Padesta	Destruction of property in Matucana.	3, 308. 60	Disallowed.
124	Juan Gabba	Destruction of property in Tacna.	10, 545. 00	Disallowed.*
205	Jacinto Gibelli	do	320. 80	Filed for want proof.
207	Natalio Savio	Destruction of property in Jaguay.	3, 180. 60	Do.
239	Juan Languases	Destruction of property near Lima.	910.00	Do.
14	Morfino Richini & Co	Losses by the bombardment of Pisagua.	35, 000. 00	Disallowed.*
71	José M. Balbi	Destruction of his property in Chorillos.	28, 500. 00	Do.
$\begin{array}{c} 72 \\ 180 \end{array}$	Fidel Giovanini	Destruction of his property in San Luis de Cañete.	43, 054. 00 12, 860. 00	Do. Disallowed.
185	Juan Bruno	Destruction of his fishing-boat at Chorillos.	1, 100. 00	Do.
188	José Molino	Destruction of his house at Chorillos.	8, 629. 00	Disallowed.*
209	Pompeyo Baggioli Eduardo Piaggio	dodo	21, 500. 00 7, 500. 00	Do. Do.
$\frac{212}{232}$	Francisco Novello	Destruction of his house at Canete.	4, 500. 00	Disallowed.
$\frac{262}{30}$	Schiaffino Bros	Destruction of property by the	24, 400. 00 115, 000. 00	Dismissed. Disallowed.*
131	José Bartoletto	bombardment of Pisagua. Destruction of property in	1, 012. 48	Dismissed.
140	Gregorio Miano	Tacna. Losses in Lima	6, 000. 00	Disallowed.
$\frac{161}{172}$	Andres Barreta	Losses in Callao Losses in Pisagua	8, 000. 00 4, 014. 00	Do. Disallowed.*
194 201	Nicholas Gambetta  Estaban Berrisso	Destruction of farm property, etc., at Torata. Property taken from his farm	4, 960. 00 3, 860. 00	Allowed $500. Allowed $800.
. 5		near Lima.	•
223 224	Jeronimo Consigliere Jorje Veacava	Losses at Cañete Losses at Lunahuana	15, 470. 58 12 000. 00	Disallowed. Disallowed.*
294 295	Francisco Elena Bautista Maresca	Losses at Jauja  Destruction of his paper mill in	2, 205. 00 5, 000. 00	Disallowed. Disallowed.*
339 338	José Morello Carlos Grimaldi	Callao. Losses on his farm near Lima. Destruction of his hotel at Pa- cochaca.	12, 000. 00 4, 493. 30	Disallowed. Disallowed.*

Decisions of the Italian-Chilian tribunal—Continued.

No.	Name.	For what claimed.	Value.	Remarks.
360	Francisco Ottone	Destruction of his farm near	$6, 800.00	Disallowed.
263	Dolore Hernandez (widow) .	For the death of her husband at Chorillos by Chilian soldiers.	30, 000. 00	Disallowed.*
218	Vicente Rosso	Losses of farm property near Lima.	11, 700. 00	Awarded $800.
5	Julio Zanelli	Losses by bombardment of Pi-	£206 1 3	Disallowed.*
32	Antonio Cadamestori	do	$6, 500.00	Do.
40	José Cartese	do	5, 500.00	Do.
158	Antonio Capelleti		12,000.00	Do.
82	Francisco Barbero	Destruction of his property in Lima.	2, 600.00	Awarded $400.
183	Juan Damonti	Destruction of three boats at Chancai.	3, 959. 00	Dismissed.
235	Milio Rossi Corsi	For payment of extra duty	700. 45	Do.
269	Luis Costa	Destruction of farm property near Miraflores.	1, 600. 00	Disallowed.
278	Luis Assereto	Sacking of his store at Pecay	705, 80	Dismissed.
272	Juan Bailletti	Loss of six mules and five horses.	1, 700.00	Do.
280	Alf. Gambarini	Sacking of his saloon and store at Ica.	655. 00	Disallowed.
381	Luis Segalerba	Sacking of his property at Concepcion.	8, 165. 70	Dismissed.*
335	Fernim Eterno	For goods furnished to Chilian soldiers.	2, 078. 50	Dismissed.
337	Juan Solari	Destruction of his property on the island of San Lorenzo.	13, 723, 00	Do.
342	Manuel Molfino	Destruction of wines and liquors.	13, 200. 00	Do.
350	Damian Mustigo	Property destroyed by Chilian soldiers.	1, 787. 00	Disallowed.
351	Felipe Diego Schiattino	For sacking his property and imprisonment.	£45, 438 14 4	Dismissed.
365	Andres Picasso	For the sacking of his store at Huancatango.	$15, 000. 00	Do.

Besides the above there were forty-eight claims ordered to be filed, for want of proper papers, the amounts of which were not given in the Diario Oficial, in which the decisions of the tribunal appeared.

To the Italian-Chilian tribunal were also three Belgian claims submitted, amounting to $5,639.80 and which were all dismissed.

It will be noticed that the sum total of Italian claims as given in the message of the President to Congress (inclosed herewith) exceeds the figures given in dispatch 133, May 11, 1887, also taken from the Diario Oficial at about that time.

In the preceding list of decisions of the Italian-Chilian tribunal, it will be noticed, that like the Anglo-Chilian tribunal, not a single award is made for the destruction of property at Miraflores or Chorillos, occasioned either during or after the battle at those places.

C. M. S.

No. 137.

Mr. Roberts to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 184.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Santiago, March 22, 1888. (Received May 22.)

SIR: My two months' leave of absence having expired on the 17th instant, I returned to the legation, much improved in health.

I have thought that a brief account of my observations during my trip, with some general information pertaining thereto, may not be uninteresting to the Department,

CHILI. 191

I passed a few weeks at the mineral baths of Colina, in the mountains, which are noted for the cure of rheumatic affections, with excellent results. After leaving there, I visited for a few weeks the estate (hacienda) of an American friend, observing the system of agriculture and life among the rural population, and as my friend was a local magistrate I had excellent facilities.

From there I went south, visiting en route Concepcion and Talcahuano. The former is a very pretty city, the third in importance in Chili, with a population of 25,000. It has one of the best colleges in Chili, with education at the expense of the Government, a very handsome new opera-house built by the municipality, a fine cathedral, and several of the largest stores in Chili for the sale of general merchandise, besides some excellent hotels.

Talcahuano, with a population of a little over 5,000, is within a few miles by rail and is the principal port for the export of wheat; formerly it was much frequented by American whalers, but whaling is no longer profitable in the South Pacific.

The Bio-Bio, the most historic river in Chili and the largest, runs near both cities. It was formerly deep, with a powerful current, but it is now a placid water-course of some 500 feet in width, with scarcely enough of water in its tortuous channel to float a whale-boat, and all owing to the total and absolute destruction of the timber in that section of country through which it runs. It was on its banks that the Spanish adventurer Peter Valdivia fought, with varying fortunes, the brave Araucanians for the possession of Chili, and it was there that the Spaniards in 1818, after years of disastrous fighting, totally routed the Chilian army under O'Higgins, to be followed by their defeat and almost annihilation later on in the same year, by Generals San Martin and O'Higgins, at the battle of Maipo, a victory that secured the independence of Chili.

From Talcahuano I crossed the bay on a small steamer owned by an American, to Tome, a summer resort some 20 miles across. It formerly shipped all the wheat exported, but railroads have changed all this, and its chief commerce now is in Chilian wines, mostly claret.

There are several very large wine "bodegas" or warehouses at Tome. One of them that I visited contained three hundred thousand gallons. One now in course of erection it is calculated will hold one million gallons. I saw a cask that held a thousand gallons. The casks are mostly made in Germany and put together here. On asking why they did not buy them in the United States, the reply was, the prices are too dear. This is almost a universal answer to similar questions, and I doubt not a true one in the main; in fact my own experience and observation confirm it.

Chilian claret sells from $2 an aroba (5 gallons) to $10 for the best; it is very good and for the most part pure. When three years old it is an excellent claret, very much superior to the French, with the exception of a few choice brands. Scarcely any French clarets are drunk here, the native claret having almost entirely taken its place within a few years. Chili with its soil and climate, is bound to be a vast winegrowing country, and vineyards of the best European vines and on the best system are being largely planted.

Notwithstanding the great production of wine at present, it is not enough to meet the home consumption, for claret is universally used at table in Chili. Everybody drinks claret who can buy it.

Tome is a very old town, with a population of 5,600. It is noted for the honesty of its inhabitants; nobody ever thinks of locking doors; it is a common thing to see the street doors open at night. There is a custom house, post-office, an iron pier 1,000 feet long by 50 wide, and a military band performs on the plaza, near the pier, in the even-Nearly all the towns here with a few thousand inhabitants have a band, and the Chilians are remarkable for their wonderful aptitude at learning to play on instruments. I have seen two companies of artillery drilling in the park at Santiago to the bugle notes of two little boys on horses, whose little legs scarcely covered the horses' backs.

The chief mill in Chili for the manufacture of woolens and cloth is located at Tome. It employs at times as many as five hundred hands, and the army and police of Chili are supplied with cloth from its looms.

From Tome I returned to Talcahuano and took steamer for the south, calling first at Coronel, a coaling port with large coal mines. From there I went to Lota, one of the most noted places in Chili. It belongs to Señora Cousiña-the entire port, with extensive coal mines, several mills for the manufacture of common glassware, plain and fancy tiles, red and yellow bricks and iron-work, and about 100,000 acres of land. In the mines and works over two thousand men are employed throughout the year.

The park which surrounds the chief dwelling, or rather castle, which is now being rebuilt, contains from 300 to 400 acres, and is one of the most beautiful perhaps in the world. It is on a high cliff about 200 feet above the ocean, which incloses it on three sides. Nature has done much for it, but art, money, and labor have done more; grottos, lakes, ravines, arbors, chain suspension bridges, everything that is rare in plants, shrubs, trees, flowers, birds, or animals that could be had in any part of the world is to be found here.

The mines here, like all the coal mines in Chili, extend under the ocean, and the quality of the coal in all is similar. It is rather soft, of poor heating power, with a heavy smoke, something like our coal in the Ohio valley. At present it is delivered on board of vessels in the harbor at $10 a ton, the highest price it has commanded for years; the lowest it has ever brought was $4.75, and the average price is from $6 to $7 a ton of 1,000 kilograms, (about 2,100 pounds). English coal sells at present in Valparaiso at £2 2s. a ton of 2,240 pounds, equal to about $19 of Chilian paper currency. From Lota I went to Lebu, another coaling port rather prettily situated, and from there to Valdivia, the seat of the much-talked-of German settlement in Chili.

The population of the town is between 5,000 and 6,000, mostly Germans and their descendants, while that of the province of Valdivia is about 33,000, and similar in character to that of the town. While the German colonists are highly appreciated, the fault found by the Chilians with the Valdivia colony is that it continues German in sentiment, language, and national feeling, rather than Chilian. I am inclined to think, however, that this is more in appearance than reality and that prosperity and freedom will in time make good citizens of them.

Valdivia is noted for its lager beer, large quantities of which are shipped to all parts of Chili; also for its apple cider, the only place in Chili where it is made, and for its sausages and hams, which sell at Santiago for 50 cents a pound. It is also noted for its rains; the saying is that it rains thirteen months in every year in Valdivia.

The steamer on its trip south delivered large quantities of general merchandise at all the ports touched, but nothing to denote it came from the United States save a quantity of burning fluid. On her return trip from Port Montt to Valparaiso she took large quantities of sawed lumber, potatoes, wines, four large scow-loads of lager beer in barrels at Corral, besides one hundred and fifty head of Argentine cattle, which had been fattened at Valdivia.

CHILI. 193

In the silver and copper mines in the vicinity of Santiago, which I have visited, the miner receives from $1 to $1.25 a day, but generally earns more on piece work; besides this he receives daily a ration of beans or a pound of good bread, and all he can eat at mid-day of a stew composed of cracked wheat, sun-dried beef (called charque), onions, potatoes, and beans, and a pound of fresh beef or mutton three times a week, and his lodging.

Coal-miners earn from $1 to $1.50 a day, and "putters" (those that bring the coal from the mines to the surface) from 80 cents to $1, house free, and get one third ton of coal each month, for which 50 cents is deducted from their pay.

In Santiago a laborer receives 80 cents to $1 a day, and a brick-layer and carpenter $2. Rents for working people are very low, as the buildings in which they live are of adobe, cheap and poor.

Near Santiago a laborer on a hacienda receives 40 cents a day when employed, a ration or pound of bread and beans, house rent free, and an acre of ground for vegetables, but far from the cities he receives 10 cents less a day, but receives grass for two cows or two horses, as he may prefer. When the "patron" has work they must give him the preference. Farm labor is becoming scarce in Chili and the pay is sure to advance.

The working people are hardy, nervous, and energetic. They are patient, tractable, and respectful, but not servile, and become attached to their haciendas and patrons. As a rule they do not live long, and a large percentage of their children die young.

As to land, it is generally held in large tracts, except in the foreign settlements of the South. A thousand acres is considered a small farm, and 3,000 or 4,000 is an average, while many haciendas contain 10,000 or 12,000. The church haciendas are, or were, very large, but fear for the future security of possession has caused many of these to be divided up and sold.

All the principal families of Chili own, through inheritance or purchase, large haciendas, on which they reside about three months in the year, and from which they receive large incomes.

Farming in Chili is the most certain and profitable business in it where irrigation is obtainable. The melting snows bring down from the Cordilleras a rich sediment, which manures the ground, constantly adding to its soil, and irrigates the growing crops.

The grasses are natural, varied, and nutritious; also a white and yellow clover, alfalfa, sown on coarse, gravelly lands or in beds of dried up water courses, is inexhaustible, and gives three heavy green crops a year. Wild oats grow everywhere in Chili, and after a wet or snowy winter on the Cordilleras the sides of these mountains are covered with luxuriant crops of it, growing 8 or 10 feet high. I have a bundle of it in my house brought from a place near 4,000 feet above the level of the sea; it is 8 feet high; the grain, however, is very small.

Wheat and barley are the two staple crops. Barley sells here from $3 to $4 the "fanega" of 155 pounds; wheat from $3.75 to $4 a "fanega" of 160 pounds. Oxen are universally used for draught and bring, in fair condition, from $50 to $60 each; when fattened for the butcher they sell according to weight and condition. Large numbers of oxen are brought from the Argentine when the snows melt in the summer, and fattened here. Butchers' meat is not retailed by the pound as with us, nor is it cut up in the same way; it is sold by the piece.

All the meat consumed in Santiago is slaughtered for so much a head at the "matadero" or municipal slaughter-house, the receipts for which for the month of December amounted to very near $13,000. The number and kind of animals slaughtered were as follows: Horned cattle, 5,700; calves, 100; sheep, 8,500; lambs, 2,500; and hogs, 550—a large consumption of meat food for a population of 190,000.

I have, etc.,

WILLIAM R. ROBERTS.

No. 138.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Roberts.

No. 84.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, April 17, 1888.

SIE: Representation having been made by our chargé at Bogotá that the Colombian Government has entirely closed the isthmian ports of the Pacific to vessels coming from Chili, owing to fear of infection by cholera, thus prohibiting the passage of the mails, and several complaints on this subject having come from your legation, the matter has been brought to the attention of the Postmaster-General.

His views are substantially that, while this is the first instance known of an absolute exclusion of the mails as a sanitary measure, yet, inasmuch as the ordinary precautions of disinfection, etc., have never proved entirely effective in preventing the spread of cholera, he considers that, despite the inconvenience caused by the action of the Colombian Government, we shall have no tenable ground of complaint if the ports are opened as soon as the danger of infection ceases.

This Department is, however, disposed to regard the Colombian measures as extreme and at variance with international usage, not to speak of the transit question involved.

Your telegraphic dispatch asking that mails for your legation be sent via England has been transmitted to the Post-Office Department, but the Department has as yet received no reply. We are informed that, at present, they are being forwarded via Buenos Ayres, increasing the time of transmission by about five days.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 139.

Mr. Roberts to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 192.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Santiago, May 3, 1888. (Received July 25.)

SIR: The President and cabinet returned to Santiago on the 1st of April, a special session of Congress having been called for the 2d to ratify an amendment to the constitution, permitting the free exercise of all religious creeds, which was approved of three years previously by Congress, as required by the constitution. There was but one month remaining of the time in which it had to be ratified.

CHILI. 195

Scarcely had the discussion in Congress commenced when a rupture occurred in the cabinet. Señor Zañartu, minister of interior, resigned in consequence of some misunderstanding with the President. Within a few days the entire cabinet retired from office, and a few weeks more passed before a new cabinet was announced.

In the meantime the proposed amendment to the constitution was abandoned for the present. It is said that, in consideration of this, the church will reconsecrate the cemeteries and recognize the civil marriage laws.

As soon as I received official notice of the appointment of the new cabinet from Señor Demetrio Lastarria, the minister of foreign relations, I called to pay my respects, but he not being in his office, I then called upon President Balmaceda, who received me very cordially, as usual. I was accompanied by the secretary of legation, and Señor Quadra, minister of interior, was with the President and remained during the interview.

After some general conversation I said: "Mr. President, I called to pay my respects to the new minister of exterior, Señor Lastarria, at whose appointment I am very much gratified, but was not fortunate in finding him in his office. My intention was to have a conversation with him on the subject of the claims of American citizens resulting from the war with Peru. It was also my intention to mention the matter to your excellency, in order that you might learn directly the views of my Government, with the hope that the minister may be prepared to discuss the matter fully when I should have the honor to call on him for that purpose.

"The administration of President Cleveland," I said, "has abstained from presenting these claims for consideration, from a desire not to embarrass the Government of Chili while negotiations were pending with European Governments for the settlement of similar claims, but now that these have terminated by settlement, my Government, naturally solicitous for the interest of its citizens, who for some time have been pressing their claims upon its attention, would like to negotiate for the appointment of a commission for their adjustment, believing also that such a settlement would promote the good relations existing between the two Governments."

The President replied that he was very glad to hear what I said, but that tribunals were a very expensive means of settlement. I replied that I did not see how a convention for the settlement of our claims could be very costly; that our claims were few, and the gross amount was not large; the questions that would necessarily arise in their adjustment were not likely to lead to protracted discussion, and that for many reasons, which doubtless the President could well understand, my Government preferred to settle them through a convention.

The President again repeated, "Tribunals are very costly."

I said: "Mr. President, I hope before I leave Chili to be instrumental in settling all questions in dispute between the United States and Chili, so that there will be no questions pending which could possibly interfere with the continuance of the most cordial and friendly relations between the two countries." To which he replied that he hoped it would be so.

I have, etc.,

No. 140.

Mr. Seibert to Mr. Bayard

No. 201.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Santiago, July 17, 1888. (Received August 25.)

SIR: Since my last dispatch on the delays and irregularity of the mails from the United States, instructions Nos. 84, 85, and 86 from the State Department have been received. As each of these came by a different route, I will give the dates of receipt, etc., as a matter of information. No. 84, dated April 17, arrived at Buenos Ayres on May 29, as indicated by the post-office stamp on the envelope. On May 30 it was restamped for transmission, overland, to Chili, arriving at Los Andes, on this side of the mountains, on June 30, and the following day, July 1, at Santiago, seventy-five days after being mailed at Washington. Several other letters and a few newspapers were also received on that day. As instructions Nos. 81, 82, and 83 are wanting, as nearly all newspapers between the dates of April 7 and 27, it is supposed these are detained in the mountains, as it is known here that a number of mail bags with correspondence from the United States are snowed in and will arrive when the pass is again open.

No. 85, dated May 5, coming, as it appeared by the post-mark, by way of San Francisco, Cal., was received on July 5 (sixty-one days).

No. 86, dated May 10, via England, arrived here on the 15th instant (sixty-six days).

As the Panama route was known to be open in New York on June 1, as we are informed by a gentleman who left that city on the day mentioned, and arrived here the first week of this month, it is hoped that the mails for Chili have ere this been forwarded via Panama, as Minister Roberts, in his dispatch, No. 188, dated March 31, requested the mails to be sent via England only "as long as the Panama route was closed."

It may be interesting to the Department to know the fate of five bags of correspondence which left Valparaiso for Central and North America, on January 29, 1887, just at the breaking out of cholera in Santiago, and did not reach their destination.

From the "Consular correspondence" published in the Diario Oficial of the 12th instant (eighteen months after the occurrence) it appears that the authorities at Panama declined to receive the mail bags and that the steamer Cordelia took them to Acajutla, Salvador; there the postmaster, after being unsuccessful to have them re embarked upon one of the Pacific mail steamers, carefully and solemnly "buried them in the bottom of the sea, and in the presence of many witnesses."

The referred to article is inclosed herewith. It will be remembered that dispatches Nos. 118 and 119, January 27 and 28, 1887, as several other letters from this legation, were amongst the correspondence thus destroyed.

I have, etc.,

C. M. SEIBERT, Chargé d'Affaires ad interim.

[Inclosure in No. 201.—Extract from the Diario Oficial of July 12, 1888.]

Santiago, July 11, 1888.

The port of Panama being closed to vessels from Chili, on account of the epidemic (cholera) which prevailed in that country during the early part of the year 1887, the 197 CHILT.

postmaster at Valparaiso availed himself of a trip made by an English steamer to the port of San José de Guatemala for the purpose of sending correspondence, and to that end five mail bags, containing letters and printed documents for Central America, the Antilles, Mexico, the United States of America, etc., were placed on board of the said steamer (the Cordelia) on the 29th of January of that year.

As that port was likewise closed for the same reason, the said steamer delivered the correspondence in question to the post-office at Acajutla, Salvador.

Instructions were issued to the consul and postal agent of Chili at Panama to inquire what had become of that correspondence; and that officer addressed the postmaster of Acajutla, from whom he received the following reply:

"ACAJUTLA, April 23, 1886.

"I have received your very polite communication of the 5th instant, together with a duplicate of your letter of the 29th of October last, which, I regret to inform you, did not reach me, for what cause I know not. I therefore beg you to pardon my lack of attention in not replying to your aforesaid communication; believe me that if that communication had not been lost I should have regarded it as a great pleasure and a high honor to comply with your wishes, as I hereby do.

"The correspondence to which you refer and concerning which, through you, the postmaster at Valparaiso inquires, was delivered in this port by the captain of the steamer Cordelia to the agent of the Pacific Mail Steam-ship Company; this was not properly done, because the correspondence had been intrusted to the captain to be taken to San José de Guatemala in order that it might thus reach Panama; and as that correspondence came from a place where the cholora prevailed, my predecessor, in obedience to his duty, declined to receive it. The agent of the Pacific Mail Company did all in his power to get it placed on board of the steamers of the company which he represents in this port, but being unable to do so, he had recourse to my consistent when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company when the company whe services when I took charge of this post-office; for that purpose he delivered to me the five mail-bags which I endeavored to place on board of one of the Pacific mail steamers, but after I had got them on board they were immediately returned, when it was found that they were from Chili. As I had unofficially taken charge of the correspondence in question, simply with a view to pleasing the agent, I was alarmed when I found that all the steamers of the line declined to receive it, merely on the ground that it was from Chili, in which country the cholera prevailed. I then realized the fact that I had taken a serious responsibility upon my shoulders, and desiring to meet that responsibility, I took the precaution to order that correspondence to be sunk to the bottom of the sea in the presence of many persons in this port.

"This measure seemed to me to be the most suitable, because, if I had endeavored to fumigate it, I should not have been able to do so without exposing the correspondence to violation, since it was not addressed to this country, and all the Republic might have become the victim of that scourge of mankind. Before taking this measure, I considered that the correspondence might be replaced, but that the victims to the disease, in case it broke out, could never be replaced. I thus reply to your two communications aforesaid, and with assurances of esteem and consideration, I take pleasure in signing myself "Your obedient servant,

"ANTONIO EZETA.

"To the Consul and Postal Agent of Chili at Panama, United States of Colombia."

No. 141.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Roberts.

No. 87.1

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, May 26, 1888.

SIR: I have to acknowledge the receipt, on the 12th of March last, of Mr. Seibert's No. 181, of the 24th of the preceding month, in which he informs the Department that a protocol has been signed by the representatives of Chili and Italy by which all the claims of Italian subjects against Chili not acted upon by the international tribunal, 261 in number, were settled for the lump sum of $297,000, causing a saving to the Chilian Government of $138,000, compared with what it would have been required to pay had the cases been decided by the tribunal. also stated that with the settlement of these claims the international tribunals established by the various European Governments have ceased to exist, leaving the claims of the United States and Spain the only ones still unsettled.

The decisions and awards of the tribunals in question appear to have been highly unsatisfactory, many of the claims before them having been withdrawn to be settled elsewhere, and unfinished cases, or those not yet reached, being settled by a lump sum. In a previous dispatch you state that there would have been a general protest against the action of the tribunals had it not been for the course of the German Government, which was the first to accept a lump sum in liquidation of its claims, and which is supposed to have done so to the advantage of the claimants, though definite information as to the terms of settlement has not been received.

As I informed you in my No. 73, of the 5th of December last, this Department is receiving constant complaints from claimants, who are not content with our answer that the appropriate moment for pressing their claims to a settlement has not yet arrived. To the suggestion made in your No. 96, of the 15th of October, 1886 (which in view of all the circumstances was adopted by the Department), that this Government would be in a better position for urging such claims after the work of the unsatisfactory international tribunals then in existence had been completed, reply is made that these tribunals are now defunct, and that there does not appear to be any good ground for further delay on the part of this Government. The first point to be considered is whether it would be more advantageous to American interests to submit the claims to an international commission, or to accept a lump sum to be paid to Chili in full discharge of all claims against her by citizens of the United States.

In the list of claims in your No. 42 of 14th January, 1886, there may be some susceptible of individual settlement, while others might be left to arbitration or settled by a lump sum.

With your knowledge of the character of the claims in question, it is hoped you will be able to agree with the Chilian Government on some acceptable plan of settlement free from the defects of the late tribunal.

It is desirable that this question be taken up and pushed to an issue as rapidly as possible.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 142.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 227.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, September 5, 1887.

SIR: I have received your No. 422 of July 29, 1887, concerning the reduction of the likin tax on kerosene oil at Canton from $1.30 to 50 cents per case.

The Department is equally pleased as yourself at this very considerable reduction, and shares also in the gratitude which you express in behalf of the labors of Mr. Seymour, consul at that port, by whose instrumentality this reduction was largely effected.

You will convey to Mr. Seymour a suitable expression of the Department's thanks.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 143.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 445.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, September 7, 1887. (Received November 2.)

SIR: In further reply to your dispatch No. 207, of date June 14, 1887, I have the honor to report the conclusions that I have reached touching the "Ward estate claim" against the Chinese Government, and to ask further instructions.

Your dispatch inclosed a copy of Mrs. Amidon's petition as sole claimant against the Chinese Imperial Government in the matter entitled the "Ward estate claims" (inclosure No. 1); Senate Ex. Doc. 48, Forty-fifth Congress, second session (inclosure No. 2); Senate Report No. 1986, Forty-ninth Congress, second session (inclosure No. 3); a statement of the case, with voluminous exhibits appended, entitled Mr. Glavis to Mr. Bayard (inclosure No. 4).

In your dispatch you state that you explained to Senator Sherman that while the "Ward estate claims" were not separately considered in Ex. Doc. No. 48, Forty-fifth Congress, yet they were distinct from the two others there presented, namely, the "Ward claims" and the claim of Charles E. Hill for the charter of the steamer Keor jeor; that the latter two have been settled, the former by the payment of $56,246.56 in February, 1883, and the latter by a receipt from the Chinese legation, in accordance with the act of Congress approved March 2, 1885. You further stated "that the Ward estate claims were outstanding and that the petition of Mrs. Amidon correctly represented the facts, as the Department understood them."

You state further "that, as the Chinese Government steadfastly denied the validity of the claims, all efforts to obtain an equitable settlement thereof were rendered fruitless."

You further call my attention to dispatch No. 74, of March 3, 1881, from Mr. Evarts to my predecessor, Mr. Angell, in which he endeavored to secure an adjustment of these claims after deducting the sum of 42,309 taels, but the result was again unsuccessful. China denied accountability and set off a counter demand against the the Ward estate.

You direct me to give the whole matter a thorough and careful investigation and to furnish you my conclusions "in connection with the papers now sent and the information already in the possession of your (my) legation, or such as you may be able to obtain otherwise, to the end that a final and effectual decision as to these claims may be reached."

You do me the honor to state that I am at liberty to present this claim to the Imperial Government without further authorization from you. You state that, if my conclusion should be favorable, yet, out of abundant caution, I should prefer to obtain your sanction prior to presenting the claim, I am at liberty to adopt this course.

You further do me the honor to state that it is your "desire to obtain the fullest possible authoritative examination of the subject, and to be guided by your (my) conclusions in the premises based on the inclosed documents and whatever information you may be able to gather from the legation's archives and elsewhere in China touching the validity of these claims."

A claim coming to me from you presented in so careful, complete, and peculiarly considerate a manner demands at my hands, and has to the best of my ability received, the most thorough consideration.

The rule as laid down in Wharton's International Digest, Volume II, section 213, for the determination of the question whether a diplomatic agent will be authorized to present a claim to a foreign government, is that the claim should be tested as a bill in chancery would be by a general exception for want of equity. But, under your instructions, I am to consider all the evidence bearing on the case that may be found in the archives of this legation or "elsewhere in China."

Under this broad delegation of authority, I shall present for your consideration a history of this case gathered from all sources. nection therewith, and as bearing on the solution of the question whether the claim should now be presented by the Government of the United States to the Government of China, I shall call attention to the action of the representatives of our own Government in China on this and the other claims with which this one was involved up to the present time.

HISTORY OF THE WARD ESTATE CLAIM.

The general facts connected with this claim are historical.

may be briefly stated as rollows:

The entry of General F. T. Ward into the military service of the Imperial Government of China, during the Taeping rebellion, in the winter of 1860-'61; his organization of a corps called the "ever victorious army;" his gallant and meritorious conduct in the field; his being mortally wounded in battle the 21st of September, 1862; his declaration, while his death was imminent, that the Taotai of Shanghai owed him -110,000 taels; the devise of this money by a verbal declaration reduced to writing and attested by two British officers; his death, September 22, 1862.

The instrument mentioned is set out at page 5, Senate Ex. Doc. No.

48 (inclosure No. 2 in dispatch No. 207).

In inclosure No. 4 in your dispatch No. 207 the proof as to admissions of Woo that this was a just debt may be summarized as follows: Albert L. Freeman, in statement No. 21 (inclosure No. 4), of date April 9, 1864, says:

With reference to the claim of 110,000 taels against Woo (the old Taotai) and in favor of the estate of the late General Frederick T. Ward, I beg leave to say that shortly after the death of the general, and previous to the affairs of the estate coming into my hands, the claim was admitted to be correct to General Burgevine.

But he does not say who made the admission, nor does he state that he heard it.

He says that—

The same acknowledgment was made repeatedly afterwards to me by Taikee, the Government banker, who represented the old Taotai as having fully acknowledged the amount of the claim but that a scarcity of money prevented its immediate payment. A promise was given that it should be paid on the return of the old Taotai from Nanking.

Messrs. Jenkins and Rodgers, in a letter dated April 13, 1864, and addressed to F. G. Ward, of which a copy is found in inclosure No. 4, exhibit No. 25, say:

The claim for 110,000 taels due the estate of your son, the late General Ward, was laid before Messrs. Woo and Taikee when they met with us to discuss the various claims, and they admitted the same, but stated that they had (or became liable for) a sum of 30,000 taels (or Mex. $30,000, we are at this moment uncertain which) to apply against this amount.

By the dying declaration of General Ward, Admiral Hope and Mr. Burlingame were designated as his executors. They declined to act. With the assent of the creditors, Albert L. Freeman was appointed administrator. He duly qualified.

Before his appointment the following events had transpired, which are described in the letter of Mr. Seward to Mr. Twombley (p. 6, Ex.

Doc. No. 48).

General Burgevine had succeeded Ward as commander of the "ever victorious army." When Burgevine was dismissed from his command he declined at first to acknowledge the right of the Taotai Woo to remove him. Afterwards he left the command but retained three steamers. Woo appealed to Mr. Seward to require Burgevine to give up the steamer Confucius. After consultation with Burgevine it was arranged that the steamer should be delivered under the terms of an agreement which is set out at page 9, Ex. Doc. No. 48. It provided for the payment of all claims which should be awarded by arbitrators, to be appointed, one by Seward and one by Woo, with provision for an umpire in case of disagreement. Under this agreement the Confucius was delivered up and Messrs. H. B. Jenkins and J. Kearney Rodgers were appointed arbitrators to hear and adjudicate all the claims against the Chinese Government growing out of the Ward transactions. One of the first acts of Mr. Freeman, administrator of the Ward estate, was to file before these arbitrators the claim for 110,000 taels.

The award of the arbitrators appears in the record as Exhibit No. 12. It was made at Shanghai, March 3, 1863, and contains the following entry:

Claim 32, Bill 110, 110,000 taels, account of F. D. Ward.

At page 7, Ex. Doc. No. 48, Mr. Seward sets out at length the reasons why this award was not enforced.

It is unnecessary for me to copy his language here. Woo absolutely refused to pay any of the awards. Finally, on the 13th day of October, 1863, a new agreement of arbitration was made by Seward and Woo. The letter of Seward to Woo, fixing the terms of this arbitration and Woo's acceptance, are set out at page 10, Ex. Doc. No. 48. I call special attention thereto. Mr. Seward's proposal contains these words:

Those claims which are declared not just or unsupported shall be dropped by the consul and never brought forward again.

Woo, in his acceptance, claims "that the account of Mr. Benson should be reckoned in connection with that of General Ward, and the dues on account of the former made available in settling the accounts of the latter. There is no reason in our being called on to pay money on account of General Ward first."

The arbitrators selected were Edward Cunningham and Thomas

Hanbury. Mr. Seward (p. 4, Ex. Doc. No. 48) says:

When the second arbitration * * * was agreed upon the claim of the estate was again submitted. I append hereto the decision of the arbitrators (pp. 4 and 5, Ex. Doc. No. 48).

It does not appear by whom the claim was submitted to the arbitrators. Presumably it was done by Mr. Freeman. He was still the administrator of Ward's estate. Mr. Freeman resigned his trust June, 1864.

With reference to the award (p. 5, Ex. Doc. No. 48), Mr. Seward says:

They found the evidence on either side as submitted to them incomplete and insufficient, and were unable to reach an award.

It may be mentioned here, also, that this new arbitration and award is throughout this record bitterly attacked by the representatives of Ward's estate.

It is charged that there were verbal protests against the new arbitration before action by the arbitrators. But the record does not thoroughly sustain this charge.

The decision of the arbitrators was made December 26, 1863. The written protest is dated March, 1864, and was not delivered to Mr. Seward until November 14, 1864. At all events, Mr. Seward does not appear to have regarded the determination of the arbitrators as final. He seems to have looked on it as a dismissal without prejudice. We find that, after Mr. Freeman's resignation as administrator, Seward, in virtue of his general consular authority, continued to act as administrator of the Ward estate until Mr. Twombley was appointed.

Woo paid some of the claims allowed (see p. 13, Ex. Doc. No. 48) and refused to pay the balance.

Seward took steps to procure the report of Henry G. Ward as to the disposition of £40,000 that he had taken to the United States to be used in purchasing ships. But in the meantime, through the instrumentality of Mr. Burlingame, Ying, a former Taotai at Shanghai, had been appointed to take evidence and report at Peking. Upon meeting Ying, Seward found himself in the same condition that Freeman had been in, unable to account for the use of the £40,000 which had been entrusted to Henry G. Ward. Thus the matter had to rest until the accounts of Henry Ward could be had. In May, 1868, John T. Twombley was appointed administrator of Ward's estate. Henry Ward's accounts were furnished to Mr. Twombley. These accounts were laid before Woo in June, 1868, but he still refused to pay any sum of money.

One of the important questions in this case is to determine what claim, if any, the Chinese Government had against General Ward for moneys advanced during his life-time.

At page 19, Ex. Doc. No. 48, Woo gives his statement of this claim. It will be found in the dispatch of Prince Kung to Mr. Low, dated November 28, 1870. Prince Kung sets forth at length the account given by Woo of all his transactions with Ward.

I quote one paragraph in full:

In March, 1862, the commander of the forces, General Ward, having received orders from the [acting] governor of the province (Sich Huan) to make an attack on Suchan, Chang-Chan, and other places, wished to procure some foreign steamers and various sorts of guns and artillery. Yang and I, on getting the orders, succeeded in raising a loan in various places of 270,000 taels, which General Ward received and sent to the United States, in bills, but, after his death, not a ship or a gun was ever received in Shanghai. Further, the amount of $46,553 owed for arms and ammunition bought in England was never sent forward out of this sum.

Thus it appears that the charge that Ward had received 270,000 taels from the Chinese Government is here specifically described as money "which General Ward received and sent to the United States in bills," to be used for a specific purpose. The record now presented shows exactly how much money was received by Henry G. Ward for that purpose and what he did with it.

The account of Henry G. Ward adjusted by Jacob R. Telfairs (Exhibit 40) shows a balance of account against Henry G. Ward of 42,309 taels, which the claimant allows as a credit against the amount claimed.

From all the proof it does not appear that General Ward received from Woo 270,000 taels for the purpose specified, but that he received only two installments of £20,000 each. There can be no reasonable doubt that this money was accounted for as claimed by Henry G. Ward.

With regard to the claim of 34,570 taels set up by Woo and Taikee to purchase ammunition, it appears from Freeman's statement (Exhibit 21) that of this sum 12,000 taels were deposited with Olyphant & Co. to pay for ammunition, and was so applied. The items 5,000 taels and 17,500 taels appear to have been received from Taikee by the general and deposited with H. Fogg & Co., in whose account they appear to the credit of the general, and on the debit side of the same account there are several charges for munitions of war purchased in Shanghai, which would cover the amounts referred to.

The statements made by the claimant, page 5 of her petition, regarding the financial dealings of General Ward with the Chinese Government. I find to be substantially correct ment, I find to be substantially correct.

But the language of Mr. Seward (p. 89, Ex. Doc. No. 48) should be noted, of date April 30, 1877, which is hereinafter set out totidem verbis. The scope of it is that he had seen a Chinese paper which Woo said was a receipt for 270,000 taels signed by Ward.

The action of this legation as to the "Ward estate claim" may be summarized as follows:

May 12, 1864, Mr. Burlingame addressed to Prince Kung a letter giving a full statement of the claim and asking payment. Prince Kung replied that he had authorized Li, governor of Kiangsu, to investigate the matter (Exhibit 26). Mr. Burlingame wrote again, May 30, 1864, to Prince Kung, transmitting a statement of the general's father (Exhibit 27). July 27, 1864, Mr. Burlingame again addressed the foreign office on the subject (exhibit not numbered). August 11, 1864, Mr. Burlingame again wrote to the foreign office (exhibit not numbered). He requests Prince Kung to order Governor Li to examine only the account mentioned in General Ward's will. Prince Kung replies that Governor Li has been ordered to select an officer to examine the accounts.

August 16, 1864, Mr. Burlingame addressed Mr. Seward (Exhibit 31) expressing his "unqualified conclusion that it (the claim) was just" and describing his action thereon.

Mr. Burlingame left Peking in March, 1865, and returned in October, 1866. During this interval nothing was done.

He left China in 1867, having made no further effort to adjust the

Mr. Burlingame's successor, Mr. Ross Browne, did not take the case

Governor Low reached China in March, 1870. His action in connection with the Ward claims is fully set out in Ex. Doc. No. 48. In his letter to Mr. Fish (p. 15, Ex. Doc. No. 48) he says the "Ward estate claim has never been taken up by me officially."

July 7, 1870 (p. 17, Ex. Doc. No. 48), he addressed Prince Kung in favor of the payment of the sums awarded by the last arbitrators, Cunningham and Hanbury.

Prince Kung in reply (p. 18, Ex. Doc. No. 48) sends a statement of Woo, which is important and has already been quoted.

Governor Low does not appear ever to have presented to the Chinese Government the "Ward estate claim."

March 5, 1875, Mr. Fish stated to Mr. Avery that the claim of Fogg & Co. was meritorious * * * and "the arbitrators had made an award in favor of the claimants." Mr. Avery was directed to press this claim (see p. 22, Ex. Doc. No. 48). Nothing appears to have been done by Mr. Avery.

Mr. Seward succeeded Mr. Avery. Under date July, 1876, he wrote to Prince Kung. He says:

These claims were submitted to arbitration at Shanghai and in the month of January, 1864, the arbitrators made their award. The award declared certain of the claims to be just (p. 23, Ex. Doc. No. 48).

Lengthy correspondence follows between Mr. Seward and the foreign office relating to the claims that were awarded but not to the "Ward estate claims."

In the minute of an interview of Mr. Seward with the foreign office (p. 57, Ex. Doc. No. 48) in presenting the Ward claims Mr. Seward says:

He could not venture to adduce proof as to the merits of individual claims.

They had all been decided upon in 1864 by arbitrators duly appointed, and their award could not be opened.

All through this discussion with the foreign office, Mr. Seward relies on the award (Ex. Doc. No. 48, passim, but particularly pp. 72, 73, 74,

April 30, 1877, Mr. Seward addressed another note to Prince Kung. At page 88, Ex. Doc. No. 48, he makes a lengthy argument in favor of the award, setting up strongly its sanctity. On page 89 he uses the following language:

There is no doubt that General Ward received money with which to buy steamers and munitions of war, neither is there any doubt that Woo held a Chinese paper with a stamp upon it which he said was Ward's receipt for 270,000 taels. He did show this paper to the arbitrators in my presence. But he entirely failed to show for what purpose this money was given to Ward. As it is well known that about 120,000 taels were given for the purchase of steamers, it was not singular that the arbitrators failed to rely upon it as evidence that 270,000 taels were given for the purchase of steamers, it was not singular that the arbitrators failed to rely upon it as evidence that 270,000 taels were given for the purpose.

He goes on to show that a considerable part of the 120,000 taels was spent in England. He alludes to the accounts of Henry G. Ward, which had been exhibited to Woo. He claims that the claim of Woo against Ward's estate, or that of Ward's estate against Woo, has nothing to do with the claims of the seventeen merchants.

This whole statement will throw much light on the merits of this case. Mr. Seward's conduct is approved by the Acting Secretary, Seward

(p. 92, Ex. Doc. No. 48).

Under date June 7, 1877 (p. 95, Ex. Doc. No. 48), Mr. Seward notifies the Department that he has consented that the Ward claims may be referred to the viceroy at Nanking (p. 95, Ex. Dec. No. 48).

At page 102, Ex. Doc. No. 48, are set out the instructions of Mr. Seward to Mr. Holcombe, to control him at Nanking in reference to the claims to be presented and pressed. He directs Mr. Holcombe to present for allowance at Nanking the claims set out in his letter to Mr. Twombley, of March 22, 1872, which is presented at page 6 of Ex. Doc. No. 48. The "Ward estate claim" is not included in this list. It includes only the claims awarded by the arbitrators.

The result of the reference to the viceroy at Nanking is set out at page 106 et seq., Ex. Doc. No. 48. The "Ward estate claim" was not set up or presented. Page 120, Ex. Doc. No. 48, Mr. Seward reports to the Secretary the result of the Nanking reference.

Mr. Evarts, in dispatch No. 203, date November 26, 1877, writes to Mr. Seward that Mr. Twombley has been urging "the necessity of having the Ward estate claim pushed, * * * alleging what appears to be a plausible reason for such action, namely, that should it be omitted from any settlement now made it will prove very difficult to secure for it any future consideration from the Chinese Yamên." (See p. 136, Ex. Doc. No. 48.)

Mr. Seward is directed to give this matter consideration.

In dispatch No. 399, of February 7, 1878, Mr. Seward replies to Mr. Evarts' dispatch No. 203. He states that he has not taken up the Ward claim for the reason "that the transactions out of which it originated may be considered, perhaps, to have been of a private nature, and to involve the responsibility of the * * * Chinese official Woo Taotai, rather than the Chinese Government."

He intimates that the evidence is not conclusive. He prognosticates failure, which he says would produce bad results, etc.

In dispatch No. 172, of date June 18, 1881, Mr. Angell reports his action on the Ward estate claim. By Department's dispatch No. 74, dated March 2, 1881, he had been directed to present it again to the Chinese Government. The dispatch informed him that the heirs proposed to deduct 42,309 taels from the amount claimed. He was to demand 67,691 taels, with interest from March 3, 1863, being the date of the first arbitration. He says:

I made a thorough examination of the voluminous papers in our archives on the subject. I rose from that examination so impressed with the weakness of the claim as it was left by former negotiations that, had the Department's instruction left any room for me to act according to my own judgment, I should not have presented it.

He further considered that if any better showing could be made it might be well to present it and prevent its lapsing by neglect. He gives a history of the claim, and concludes that no very strong argument can be based on the fact that the first commission sustained the claim. He assumes from Mr. Seward's statement (p. 4, Ex. Doc. No. 48) that Henry G. Ward's account had been rendered, but he says that it seems from Prince Kung's reply that the Chinese had not seen it.

Mr. Angell incloses in this dispatch his dispatch to the foreign office and their answer.

In Prince Kung's reply you will notice the very ingenious manner in which Woo's admissions are avoided. Ward demanded 20,000 taels for each of five cities captured and when Ching was recaptured he asked for 10,000 more. Woo said, "Wait until we have a succession of military successes and we will abundantly recommend your services." And this, Prince Kung ayers, is all the foundation of the Ward estate claim.

The Prince argues with great strength that Ward expressed a hope

"and not a recognized obligation."

He goes over the whole case. His paper should be read in order to understand thoroughly the Chinese position on this claim. He states strongly that when Mr. Seward "was promoted minister, in his frequent consultations with this office on the Ward and Keor jeor claims, he never referred to the Ward estate claim as one that needed to be settled separately."

During Mr. Augell's time nothing was done with this claim.

In Mr. Angell's dispatch No. 202, of date August 18, 1881, he recites another effort to secure the payment of the Hill and Ward claims, but it had no reference to the "Ward estate claim."

In Legation Archives, volume 34, Consulate Records, Shanghai, Seward, 1861–1863, appears a statement of the Ward estate claim, prepared by Frederick G. Ward, which is very full and complete. This statement accompanied the petition of F. G. Ward to the Chinese Government. It effectually disposes of the statement that the Chinese Government did not have before it the accounts of Henry Ward relating to the purchase of steamers in New York. The account presented, as set out at page 751 of this volume, is literally copied by me:

Taotai Woo to General Ward's estate, September 22, 1862.

$\mathbf{D}_{\mathbf{R}}$ .
- 	Taels.
To amount due at General Ward's death, admitted by Woo and which he promised to pay.	110,000.00
To interest from date to June 21, 1864.	23, 175. 00 20, 000, 00
To amount due H. Fogg & Co., for supplies furnished to the army, about.
To interest to June 21, 1864, 21 months, at 12 per cent	4, 200. 00
Total	157, 375, 00
Cr.
1863. By net proceeds of sale of steamers in the United States $90,170.43, American currency, exchange 150 per cent
4, 101.00	45, 782, 28
	40, 102, 20
도 보고 있는데 보고 있는데 그 사람들이 되었다. 	111, 592. 72

Then follows a statement of the claim against Taikee. Attached to this statement are the following papers: Admiral Hope to F. G. Ward, June 20, 1864; Freeman to Hope; a copy of the general's will; memorandum of the general's cash account down to June 7, 1864; memorandum of disbursements of Ward while in command of the Chinese Imperial forces; account of W. H. Fogg & Co.; Taikee's account; Freeman's letter to Seward of April 8, 1864; list of claims against the Chinese Government allowed by Rodgers and Jenkins; letter of said arbitrators to Seward announcing their finding; letter of Jenkins and Rodgers to F. Ward, April 13, 1864, containing statement of Woo's admissions; Major Cook's affidavit; Twombley's affidavit; instructions of Tsung li Yamên to Ying; protest of Frederick G. Ward against the action of Hanbury and Cunningham, not dated, but showing on its face that it was after the award; letter of Henry G. Ward to Frederick G. Ward, May 24, 1864; letter from same to same, same date; petition of Frederick G. Ward to the Chinese Government, going over the whole case.

The action of my immediate predecessor with regard to the Ward claims is fully reported in No. 167, Mr. Young to Mr. Frelinghuysen, of date March 22, 1883.

Mr. Young had succeeded in having the Ward claims and the Hill claim referred to the Viceroy Li Hung Chang at Tientsin.

In dispatch 102, of date January 13, 1883, Mr. Young gives a copy of his confidential instructions to Mr. Holcombe. It will be seen that no allusion was made to the Ward estate claim.

Mr. Young reports the settlement reached by Mr. Holcombe and the payment by the viceroy of $52,246.56. He says: "This payment is a settlement in full of what are known as the 'Ward claims,'principal and interest at 9 per cent." The Hill claim was not settled, but the record shows that Hill did not waive, nor did the minister, any of his rights. Mr. Young says he was anxious to settle these claims, because "the existence of the controversy was an embarrassment in our relations with China."

In his report to Mr. Young of his acts at Tientsin, Mr. Holcombe says:

I first acknowledged receipt in full, principal and interest, of all demands of citizens of the United States on account of the so-called Ward claims.

He further says:

Both of these last-named officials (the viceroys at Nanking and Tientsin) argued against the abstract validity of the claims, but proposed payment on the ground of the arbitrator's award and their friendly feeling towards the United States.

It is to be noticed, as Mr. Holcombe explains, that the Hill claim was rejected by the last arbitrators simply because it was not covered by the articles of arbitration, not being against Woo Taotai. Woo Taotai was in no wise responsible for the Hill claim. It was, therefore, not considered by the arbitrators. Mr. Holcombe claims, also, that the second arbitration was a mistake. But the fact that the Hill claim had been submitted to the arbitrators was forcibly used by the viceroy:

Li maintained that his action was beyond question; that he paid the Ward claims because the arbitrators declared they were justly due, and refused to pay the Keor jeor claim because the same arbitrators said it ought not to be paid.

Still Mr. Holcombe thinks that the fact of there being a surplus in our hands of the "Chinese indemnity fund" operated strongly on the mind of Li in refusing to pay the Hill claim.

In the memorandum of Mr. Holcombe it will be seen that he bases his claim for payment distinctly and solely on the award. Thus, "as the arbitrators decided that these claims should be paid in February, 1864, without interest, none is claimed on them prior to March 1, 1864."

The receipt given by Holcombe to Li is set out as inclosure 17 to Mr.

Young's dispatch 167. It contains this language:

Received * * * the sum of * * * in full and final payment of all demands against the Government of China held by certain citizens of the United States, and commonly known as the Ward claims, the aforesaid amount being composed of an unpaid balance of an award in arbitration made by Messrs. Edward Cunningham and Thomas Hanbury upon the 18th of January, A. D. 1864.

Of date February 22, 1883 (inclosure 18, No. 167), Holcombe writes to Li that he has received his communication stating that—

You are prepared to pay in full, principal and interest, the balance of the same declared to be due and owing in the Ward claims by the arbitrators, Messrs. Cunningham and Hanbury.

Inclosure 2 in dispatch No. 167 is a letter of Mr. Young to Li Hung Chang, of date March 10, 1883, in which he thanks his excellency for the "prompt and handsome manner in which he disposed of that long-standing question," etc.

It does not appear that anything has been done in the Ward estate claim since 1881.

The only other matter of any interest to be found in the archives is Mr. Young's letter to Mr. Twombley, of date November 26, 1883.

I quote the following:

The Department of State simply acknowledged the dispatch of Mr. Angell, in which he expressed a strong disapproval of the validity of the claim (the Ward estate claim). Nor, so far as I can discover, has there been any instruction or suggestion from the Department directing the legation to pursue the claim. The only conclusion I can form is that the Department accepts the judgment of my predecessors, and has not deemed it wise to continue the discussion.

He says further:

I do not find in the archives that you or any one concerned in the Ward claims showed the least interest in an affair which belonged to you and your co-beneficiaries alone.

For fear that it may be imagined that I have overlooked it, I abstract what is stated in the record about the "salt monopoly." In an affidavit made by H. N. Twombley August 16, 1863, he says that General Ward told him on several occasions that he had interest in the Government salt monopoly; that said interest was in the hands of Taikee, of Shanghai; that the value of the same was 100,000 taels. (Exhibit 22.)

Henry G. Ward, in an affidavit made August 18, 1863, says that his brother, General Frederick T. Ward, frequently said that he was the owner to the extent of 100,000 taels in the Government salt monopoly, and that he purchased the same through Taikee, and said also that he had deposited with Taikee a further sum of, "say, 50,000 taels, to be similarly invested." (Exhibit 22.)

REMARKS AND CONCLUSIONS.

This claim rests primarily upon the declaration of General Ward:

"The Taotai of Shanghai owes me 110,000 taels."

For obvious reasons I do not regard this statement as furnishing a cause of action either against Woo or the Imperial Government. Tested by the rules of evidence, the statement of a decedent is not admissible in an action by the administrator. Tested by the circumstances surrounding Ward, and by the proven fact that Taikee did not owe him anything, the declaration can not be taken as accurate.

No paper, account, or voucher has ever been found which furnishes a basis for this claim. I do not see that the claim, which is based on hearsay, that General Ward had invested 100,000 taels or 150,000 taels in a salt monoply has any connection with the alleged debt. Besides, an accurate examination of his accounts has failed to bring to light the least foundation for this claim. The case rests nowhere except on the alleged admissions of Woo. Admissions are the weakest species of proof if uncorroborated by facts. The debt being characterized as Woo's debt, and the admissions being general and unexplained, it is questionable whether they bind the Chinese Government.

I append hereto, as inclosure 1, a copy in full of a letter of Mr. George F. Seward to Mr. Burlingame of date September 8, 1864, which is found in legation archives, volume 34, consulate records, Shanghai, Seward, page 897, et. seq. I make it a part of this dispatch because it is not likely that there is a copy thereof in the archives of the State Department. It is a complete history of the Ward estate claim, given by a person who was better acquainted with all the facts than any other person, and who, by his nationality and his official position, must be regarded as friendly to the claimant.

He speaks of the admission of Woo as "supposed admission." He explains the peculiarity of the Chinese in stating mutual accounts. He shows the utter impossibility that General Ward in two and a half years, during the whole of which time he was engaged in fighting, could have amassed the half million of dollars claimed by his estate after his death. He dwells on the fact that there were arrears due to numerous merchants. He shows how the claim throughout is based on hearsay statements. But his letter must be read in full to get a correct understanding of it, and it is needless to attempt to furnish an abstract of it.

It is not for me to decide whether or not it was a mistake to set aside the first award. Certainly it was unfortunate for the claimant. If the first award had stood, the allowance to the estate might possibly have been collected. Woo got the benefit of two elements of consideration for his agreement to submit to arbitration: the surrender of the steamer Confucius and the departure of Burgevine.

But he refused to be bound by the first award. He refused just as strenuously to be bound by the second award.

Consul General Seward and Woo, on the 13th day of October, 1863, entered into new articles of arbitration. The new arbitrators were two of the foremost business men in China. They found "that the only safe conclusion is that neither party substantiates a claim on the other, and that matters should be allowed to remain as they stand, the claims off-setting each other."

This is undoubtedly a good award. In his letter to Twombley (p. 8, Ex. Doc. No 48) Mr. Seward says:

This agreement superseded the former one, and hencetorward I could claim under it only.

Whether Mr. Seward had the power to agree to a new arbitration or not is not very important. His powers as consul over decedents' estates were considerable. But no formal protest was made against his action until long after the event. The Ward estate claim was submitted to the arbitrators presumably by the administrators. It is too late to object to the jurisdiction. If Woo had promptly accepted the award and abided by it, the Ward estate claim would have been forever adjudicated.

But Woo repudiated a large part of the award, and paid such debts only as he thought just, irrespective of the awards.

It was competent, therefore, for the Ward state also to repudiate the award.

No insuperable bar to the prosecution of the claim by the Department of State arose until 1883, when the money due on the award was paid by China. If it be conceded that the original claim is not substantiated by sufficient proof to warrant its being again presented to China, which is clearly my opinion, the question of the validity of the alleged counterclaim becomes immaterial. But I think it best to give my views thereon.

The claim of the debt from Ward to the Chinese Government rests on the declaration of Woo, and the exhibition of a paper, in Chinese, purporting to be a receipt from Ward for 270,000 taels. No copy or translation of this paper was preserved. We know little about it. But Woo says that the money received "was sent to the United States in bills." If this be true, it was honestly accounted for. There is no doubt, I think, that H. G. Ward's accounts as rendered are accurate and honest.

The following circumstances all sustain this view: The contract made for ships; the inability to complete it for want of money; the demand for more money; the failure to get it; the sale of the ships. By these accounts it is shown that the estate received and retains 42,309 taels of money furnished by Woo.

But as China denied the validity of the original claim it did not matter that Henry G. Ward's transactions were explained. It must be noted that Woo saw these accounts in 1868.

The Chinese contend that as the estate has received 42,309 taels and the Imperial Government has awarded divers posthumous honors to the general nothing more is due. Whether the national debt of gratitude has been discharged hardly enters into the elements of consideration on this occasion. It is not to be presumed that the Government of the United States will make sentiment a basis of a claim against another nation.

But, in an official point of view, taking cur relations and past dealings with China into account, it seems to me that, even if this claim were strong and not weak as it undoubtedly is, it would not comport with our dignity, and hardly with fair dealing, to take it up again.

A review, as set out, of the facts will sustain this opinion.

My predecessors, except Mr. Burlingame, have relied exclusively upon the last award.

Since Mr. Evarts wrote to Mr. Angell to present the "Ward estate claim" six years have elapsed. The "Ward claims" were then unpaid. At that time China still refused to be bound by the award, and, for that reason, it was permissible to push the "Ward estate claim" irrespective of the award.

But in 1883 China acknowledged, not the justice of the award, but its binding effect, and paid the sums awarded with interest at 9 per cent. from the time fixed for payment. It is not equitable for one nation in dealing with another to dispute the validity of an award after it has received the fruits of other parts thereof. It is like blowing hot and cold, as the lawyers say. The whole conduct of the negotiations at Tientsin and the final receipt for money paid on the award constitute a strong ratification of the last award. The repayment to China of the residue of the "Canton indemnity Fund" after deducting, without any recognition of this claim, Hill's claim, constitutes another link in the chain of events which operate against the proposition to re open this claim.

I do not undertake to define the distinction between presenting a claim officially and unofficially. The recognized medium of communication between the Imperial Government and the outer world, under the treaties, is the diplomatic agent. If he specifies that he acts unofficially, little or no attention will be paid to him by the Imperial Government.

The claim, in my opinion, does not rest on a basis sufficient to warrant its presentation in any form.

It is just to the memory of General Ward to say that I have reached the conclusions above set out without any process of reasoning which casts any shadow of obloquy on this remarkable man.

That he believed in the justice of his claim; that some moral foundation existed for it in the statement of Woo, that when they had a succession of military successes "we will abundantly recommend your services;" that if he had lived he would have been rewarded in a great degree; that if he had a legal claim there was no sufficient offset against it, are facts that may be deduced from the record.

Desiring simply and without any pride of opinion to present all the aspects of the case, I concede that there are inconsistencies in Woo's conduct and declarations hard to reconcile. At one time he claims as due him 30,000 taels, or dollars; at another, 270,000 taels.

If the original case were firm and strong I would have no difficulty in coming to a different conclusion; but, unfortunately, there is no basis for it except the alleged admissions of this inconsistent witness.

While, therefore, these and other considerations, which will occur to you, remove from the case all reproach against those persons who have from time to time prosecuted this case and from the present petitioner, there are not, in my view, sufficient grounds for the renewal of this

Lest you should think that this case should have been argued more in extenso by me, I beg leave to state that I have intentionally avoided making a legal argument. I am sure that your own judgment and learning will supply reasoning, legal or otherwise, better than I can I am sure also that you will give to all the suggestions made, full consideration. I have only to state in conclusion that in the discharge of the duties of my position my sole desire is to execute your directions, and that they will be most cheerfully and implicitly obeyed.

I have, etc.

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 445.]

Mr. Seward to Mr. Burlingame.

SHANGHAI, September 8, 1864.

MY DEAR MR. BURLINGAME: Your semi-official open letter, dated 16th ultimo, was handed me by Mr. Ward on the 5th instant. As the matter is important I hasten to reply.

The general intent of the letter troubles me somewhat, since it is in fact an expression which I have handled the Ward estate.

sion of your disapproval of the manner in which I have handled the Ward estate.

Without entering at once into the question of the feasibility of the course determined upon by you, I propose to recapitulate in the briefest manner the incidents of General Ward's history in China, and of the management of the estate.

General Ward arrived in Shanghai as officer of the ship Matilda, on or about the 20th of April, 1860. His previous history had been an erratic one and embraced experiences upon the ocean and those schools of adventures, Texas and Nicaragua. He soon found employment in taking charge of a body of 20 or 30 Manilla marines, then being organized by Gough, a sort of commodore of the Chinese fleet.

Ward found favor with the Taotai Woo, a man of acute mind and large experience, and with Takee, a merchant who had amassed by various means a large fortune. The Manilla force grew into a large body of foreign vagabonds, who, under the influence of Ward's dash and of his sternness, achieved some successes, but they were too expensive and too unreliable as a force. Ward sorted out the better men and with these as officers organized the body of natives who have since become famous as Ward's "ever victorious army."

Ward then achieved a series of victories which promised to stem the current of the rebellion. He fought indomitably, alike indifferent to the dangers of the field and of We all remember that in the terrible summer of 1862 he was as active as if fighting under the bracing atmosphere of a purer climate.

Finally the last scene was enacted near Ningpo on the 21st of September, 1862. He fell while directing an attack upon Tsikee, a strongly walled city.

For more than twenty-four hours he lingered in much pain. He was still clear in mind so far as one can judge. By his request a few words were taken down as follows:

"The Taotai of Shanghai owes me 110,000 taels. The Takee also owes me 30,000 taels, a total of 146,000 taels.

"I wish my wife to have 50,000 taels, and all that remains to be between my brother

"I wish Admiral Sir James Hope and Mr. Burlingame to be my executors."

When the messenger, Captain Borlase, announced to me the death of General Ward you had already proceeded to Peking.

The dying words I knew of only by report. Admiral Hope was also absent. precautions, however, were taken as prudence dictated. By my direction the effects of the deceased were taken in care and his papers sealed and put in a place of safety.

Subsequently, perhaps fifteen days, Admiral Hope arrived. He took some action in the estate, among other things giving to Takee the possession of two steamers—the Martin White, a tug, and the Fah wah, a river steamer, then nearly finished; in both of which Ward was known to be interested. Admiral Hope seems not to have doubted that Takee was also interested in them.

In a short time Admiral Hope, who was about to leave China, handed me an open letter for Mr. Cunningham, then absent, which contained a request that he should act for him in the estate. A copy of the statement made by Ward when dying was inclosed, and mention made of the fact that he (Hope) had recommended to yourself that in your absence I should be empowered to act for you.

Your power of attorney came in due time, Mr. Cunningham in the meanwhile taking such steps in the custody of the property as was thought advisable.

At this point a difficulty arose. As judge in the probate I did not feel that I could well act also as executor in an estate in which many points of dispute were sure to arise: neither could I recognize that either Mr. Cunningham or myself received any very definite authority under the power of attorney.

After consultations with Mr. Cunningham, who was little disposed to act in the estate at all, I called a meeting of those concerned. Mr. Cunningham opened to them the circumstances of the case, and advised the nomination of an administrator. Mr. Freeman's name was proposed and accepted by all. I accordingly issued to him the necessary authority. Some time elapsed in this way. Then occurred the Burgevine imbroglio. Woo and Takee were pressed for the money due the estate, as named by Ward, and assented that the amounts were correct, but Woo declared that there were counter-claims to a large amount; Takee, that he had paid for the whole of the tug Martin White, and that, as the vessel was joint property, one-half of the purchase money should be deducted. When Burgevine was removed the affairs of the evervictorious forces were in a sad condition. Money was due on this account to a large amount. The claims came in to me, and I thought it my duty to assist in clearing the business up. Woo was degraded, but, after Chinese custom, was directed to settle the outstanding accounts. It was at this time of confusion that the administrator, with my assistance, secured possession from Burgevine of the two steamers. was only too glad to get them from the latter by any means in his power. I may say here that at Shanghai the collection of debts from Chinese has taken the form of diplomatic representation. I knew by experience that it would be better to determine with Woo, if possible, the exact amounts due the claimants, and then, in case payment was withheld, representation might be made in the proper quarter.

By written agreement with Woo, Messrs. Jenkins and Rodgers were determined upon as arbitrators to decide which claims were due and owing. Accounts were handed in by people of all nationaltities to an extent of about $350,000. The claim against Woo of 110,000 taels was also put in by the administrators in Ward's estate.

Woo was furnished with abstracts of ac-The arbitrators were engaged six weeks. counts and asked to enter his objections. He did not come forward, and finally, wearied with the delay, the arbitrators brought in their report. The claims were wearied with the delay, the arbitrators brought in their report. The cla passed almost without an exception. Upon the award, I asked payment. sisted that the arbitrators had not done their work; that it was not just to hold that they had. I asked his reason for saying this, but could get nothing satisfactory from I accordingly handed the papers to yourself, asking you to interfere to secure payment.

At that time Burgevine was at Peking. You had secured a promise for his re-instatement. Unwilling to injure Woo, of whom you had a favorable opinion, you said to me, "It will be better to go back to Shanghai and tell Woohow the affair of Burge-He will then see that the best thing he can do will be to pay vine has terminated.

up and avoid further trouble."

Burgevine came to Shanghai; the instructions from Peking were different from those we expected had been sent, or else the local authorities considered that the conjuncture was one that called for peculiar action. They refused to receive Burgevine, and thus the lesson which Woo learned was quite of a different sort from the one we had expected to profit by. But Woo gradually came forward with his objections to the award. I considered them carefully and finally determined that I should be doing an unnecessary act, and one which I could not defend to myself should I insist longer. I then set to work to collect evidence in regard to the claims, and to sift them by personal communication with the claimants and with Woo. The result was that many claims were entirely ruled out, and on the other hand that Woo assumed many which he had denied at first. He would not, however, pay over the amounts allowed until I should assure him that I would also collect in his favor from Burgevine, and from Burgevine's quartermaster, Benson, whom he considered defaulters. In all this time the matters of the Ward estate were being discussed.

Finally, perceiving that it was useless to proceed in this manner longer, unwilling to trouble you with a matter with which, from my information, I was more competent to deal, unwilling also to undertake to reclaim through the Chinese officials with whom there was little chance of accomplishing anything except in the wrong direction, I agreed upon a second arbitration in which Mr. Cunningham was named by me and Mr Hanbury by the Taotai.

Three matters were to be laid before them under their submission; the general unpaid claims, the claims of the estate, and the counter-claims against Benson. Burgevine had at this time joined the insurgents. The Taotai agreed to pay whatever the award should call for. I agreed not to press again any claims which they should rule out, and also to do what I could to collect from Benson in case he was adjudged to be a defaulter.

The arbitrators went into the general claims very carefully. The ground to be gone over in regard to them was necessarily quite the same to an extent as that to be gone over in dealing with the matter of the estate.

It is obvious that the relations between Woo and Ward were to be examined most carefully in numerous cases where the decision would simply effect transfer of debt from the one to the other.

The decision was at last rendered; the award on general claims cut down the amount from, say, $500,000 to, say, $61,000. In the matter of the estate there was declared to be not evidence enough to enable the arbitrators to decide either way. The charges against Benson were declared unproven. Woo, upon this award, paid up an amount of about 60 per cent. of the award. For various reasons, I have not as yet urged the payment of the balance.

You will now remember that in May I was at Peking. My visit was short and occupied with a great variety of business. The matters of the estate were, however, taked over at some length. Knowing that Mr. Ward was at the moment en route for the capital (my opinion was that the estate would be better off to let the matter stand, thus keeping what they had), I naturally endeavored to tell my story in a manner which would show you when he should arrive that I had not based my opinion upon any one-sided consideration of facts. You seemed completely satisfied, and even asked whether Mr. Ward could not in some way be turned back.

I returned to Shanghai, and anxious to close up the estate with a view to be ready at any moment to return to the United States, I endeavored to secure an (adjustment) adju dication upon the still unattempted accounts of Takee and the estate. I wrote to Takee recommending that as he claimed from the estate he should come into court. Without hesitation he appointed Mr. Jenkins to act for him. A regularly drawn petition was entered; a prosecutor chosen and the matter duly brought in for a hearing. At this point the solicitor for the estate had counter-claims, and asked that a bond should be required from Takee to abide the adjudication about to be made. Takee consented to give a bond to an amount of 30,000 taels, with a foreign surety, but preferred to submit the matter to an arbitration. He was naturally suspicious of me for requesting him to come into my court, and for the insisting upon a bond. He would doubtless have refused the bond had I not consented to the arbitration.

The administrator would not make himself a party to the submission. He resigned and I thus became official administrator, and executed the necessary documents. The arbitrators were Messrs. Loureiro and Hayes. They showed their fairness in the outset by agreeing upon Mr. Dixwell, than whom no man in China is more respected as umpire.

You have already seen my argument on behalf of the estate. Indeed, you have, perhaps, been induced by it to take more strongly the ground you now occupy in this matter. I append a copy of the agreement, only remarking that I was acting at the time not as judge, but advocate.

During this time Mr. Ward was still at Peking. You were fully informed of the arbitration. I received no word of dissent from my action from either.

The award was finally entered a few days ago. Since this Mr. Ward has arrived and the whole matter seems again afloat.

You will thus see the general bearings of my action. I will now dwell briefly upon the contents of your letter and the remarks which will follow will indicate my position.

The substance of your letter is that yourself and Dr. Williams have carefully examined the evidence brought forward by Mr. Ward and have come to the unqualified conclusion that the dying statements of the deceased should be accepted as definite and final. You have so represented to the Government, who you say have issued orders that the accounts in relation to certain sums of money sent to New York through General Ward for the purchase of the steamers alone should be deducted. You direct me to forward the audit and to collect from Woo the amount of the difference between the amount so audited and the 110,000 taels. From Takee I presume I am also directed to collect the 30,000 taels. Nothing is said of the very important matters lately at issue between Takee and the estate, in regard to the two steamers Martin White and Fahwah.

It thus seems that the claims of the estate are in your opinion so clear that no argument can be entertained. Upon the point I find myself reluctantly but irreconcilably at issue with you. If it was a simple matter of judgment I should not take up valuable time in argument or hesitate to carry out your wishes. The case stands, however, that I am in possession of facts which have not come before you and which it seems to me proper that you should know before final action is taken.

In the first place it is stated in your letter that your position was "that the dying words of General Ward and the admission of Woo and Takee to various reputable parties and before a legal commission, assented to by both sides, constituted sufficient evidence of the justice of the claim and that the award of the commission after a month's sitting was an adjudication of the same."

The dying words of Ward have been given. I believe that they may be satisfactorily explained consistently with the actual facts of the case. I doubt much, however, whether in a court of law, if unexplained, they would stand against evidence produced.

Now, either these dying words are all in all or else they are little. If seriously invalidated in one point they can hardly stand in another.

They are so invalidated in the case of Takee. Two arbitrators, Mr. Hayes on my part, a person very favorable to the estate, a man of acuteness and the strictest principles, and Mr. Loureiro on the part of Takee, a person of vast business acquaintance, whose success speaks strongly as to his capacity, have gone very carefully into the matters pending, and they offer their report without disagreement. The accounts are still to be made up. The decision, however, offers the explanation of the dying words of Ward and yet finds that the 30,000 taels have vanished into the air. The next step in your position is connected in my argument on the first. You say "the admission of Woo and Takee, etc., constituted sufficient evidence of the justice of the claims." You do not say what these admissions are, but I infer from your position that your belief is that Woo and Takee acknowledged without reservation the full indebtedness as stated by Ward. Of the admission which Woo did make I will speak afterwards. That of Takee as given by Mr. Freeman, the only witness who has made any statement within my knowledge, is that he asked Takee whether the amount due Ward was the same as the sum mentioned by the latter; Takee answered, "Yes, I owe 30,000 taels, but I paid for the whole of the Martin White. jointly purchased and the one-half must be deducted from the share of Ward."

Mr. Freeman is a witness decidedly uncompromising in favor of the estate. The conversation was had soon after the death of General Ward. Just now the arbitrators have examined the whole evidence and they decide from proofs drawn from many quarters that Takee had paid as represented by him in the outset.

As to the whole train of facts leading the arbitrators to their conclusion, I referyou to Mr. Hayes' statement inclosed. Mr. Dixwell, who had examined the matter to an extent, entirely approves of their judgment.

The 30,000 taels which Ward referred to, as is reasonably put by Mr. Hayes, could be described to the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the description of the d was just in setting aside the old arbitration.

only be the deposit with the Tong Tai Bank, made through Takee. I can not but agree with him in saying, "I think it reasonable to suppose that he (Ward) wisked to call attention to this deposit and thus avoid the claiming by Takee of the whole of the Martin White." General Ward's dying statement thus has its usefulness, but it can not well be taken as an accurate expression of the condition of accounts at the date; this having been the judgment of all who have carefully examined facts on both sides, so far as Takee's matters are concerned, must lead us to hesitate in regard to the amount named as due from Woo. But there arises the supposed admission of Woo of the amount so claimed. I do not know what evidence you have on the point. I inclose, however, the statement of Messrs. Jenkins and Rodgers, who declare that Woo did not assent to them, at least as represented; he, on the contrary, admitting the general sum, claimed a large counter side.

It may seem peculiar to one not acquainted with the manner in which claims are spoken of by Chinese that Takee and Woo should say "We do owe the sums named," and then make the contradictory statement, "but he owes us so and so." This, however, is the Chinese peculiarity. Thus a merchant would declare of such a man, "He owes me 30,000 taels. I owe him 20,000 taels," instead of striking the balance and saying, "He owes me 10,000 taels." I inclose Mr. Eames' statement on this point. Now I come to the matter of the arbitration. I have already stated why I re-opened the matter. I have also given a statement of the sums allowed by the second arbitration. A simple comparision of the amounts must indicate to you that my action

The answer which arises in your mind is that if Woo failed to come forward, as he should have done, on the original arbitration he should be compelled to abide the consequences.

But I must say here again that we must allow for Chinese peculiarities. from experience in my own court that a Chinaman is not capable of working his He will come to you and reiterate the fact that " so much is due to him." It is only by patience and urging that his proofs can be adduced. If I am not correct in this, should we not still hesitate to receive as accurate an award in an amount of half a million of dollars involving intricate questions, all made in less than six weeks, including time of collection of claims and making translations? I concluded from a very slight knowledge even of some of the arguments and proofs since brought forward that I could not conscientiously insist upon the award as given by Messrs. Jenkins and Rodgers. We have only to note the result of the subsequent investiga-tion made by Messrs. Hanbury and Cunningham of the general claims, and the ab-sence of complaint against their award, except in one instance, to determine that my action was founded upon those principles of justice to all men, which I feel proud to remember have always characterized your conduct, and which in this instance can not but receive your most unhesitating sanction. So much may be said in regard to accounts against Woo.

Turning to Takee's case, there is little to be said. The matters at issue with him have been submitted to only one arbitration. There is no irregularity in the submis-I was official administrator, and as such had a full right to assent to the arbitra-Considering all circumstances, it was, as I think, my duty to do so. The award was given and there is no irregularity in it. Until this is set aside by judicial action I can not go behind it, except upon the doctrine of might instead of right. Moreover, so far as I am able to judge, there is no legal action which can be taken to overthrow it. But can we without inconsistency let the award with Takee stand and refuse any arbitration at all to Woo? I consider the original award as nothing, and so de-If I, as the one party to it, and Woo as the other, so agree and determine upon a new investigation, can any one say that the original arbitration was more than nothing? If, then, viewing the matter abstractly, we allow the Takee award to stand, and we can not but do so, we must at least accord Woo the privilege of an arbitration. It comes now to this point: There has been an arbitration with Woo—I refer to the Hanbury-Cunningham arbitration. Shall it stand or not? So far as matters of right go it may be opened. Woo has always declared that he wished I have been of opinion that it would not be wise to open it lest the estate should fare worse.

At the same time I have consented to allow Woo to neglect payment in the general award by the arbitrators, in order that if developments should warrant I might be able to declare that Woo himself had, by neglecting to abide the award, opened the door for a new arbitration. It is feasible to open the matter with Woo, and I confess that it seems to me desirable that this should be done. I may not be able to say that the estate will gain anything, yet it will be better that a definite decision may be given in order that no one may have reason for complaint.

If it be opened I will venture to promise a cordial co-operation with Mr. Ward in trying to impress upon the arbitrators those strong points of evidence which have gone so far in determining your action. If, however, other evidence is produced, which, in a fair view of all circumstances, decides the arbitrators in an award against the estate, you certainly would be the last to say that injustice had been done.

I now note the remarks made by you as to my position as executor. You state that I am the legal executor. Upon this point I would say that no will has been proven You state that and that consequently there can be no executor. I am simply administrator. That I am legally clothed with the usual powers of an administrator can hardly be doubted. But is it wise for me to turn the estate over to Mr. Ward? Upon this point I must also inform you of some facts which have not come before you.

There is reported to have been a considerable rupture in Mr. Ward's family at home. This much is certain, that the only person supposed to be interested in the estate beside Henry Ward, the sister mentioned in the last words of the deceased, refused to give her father the power of attorney asked for by him. Mr. Freeman tells me that Mr. Ward told him that he had written for this. Doubtlessly the sister refers to her father when she states in a letter, an extract from which is inclosed, that she had been requested to give a power of attorney for the settlement of her matters in China, Thus of two persons interested one prefers not to place matters in but had refused. Mr Ward's hands. Then, again, the custody of the steamers, not wholly the property of the estate, could not well be turned over to a person who, believing himself an heir, would only act with them as his own interest might dictate.

Again, there are several creditors of the estate in Shanghai who, I think, would not see without distrust the property, present and prospective, of the estate turned over to a person who rightfully or wrongfully does not hold a very good reputation, and who by sharp practice might wheedle them out of what they may now expect to get.

I have thus gone over, inadequately and hurriedly, suggesting rather than arguing, the points contained in your letter. I will dwell a moment upon circumstances which bear upon the whole matter.

Ward, as we have said, was in China only two and a half years. During this period he was busily occupied in organizing a troublesome force, and in the field. His mind was in his work.

I say his mind was in his work. It could not well be that one so ambitious as he was, so busily engaged and so successful in his operations, could be a simple loot-getter.

If it had been so he would have obtained a reputation accordingly. Now, if he was so wrapped up, he would be apt to subordinate other interests to that of his success in the one direction, and this is precisely what his dying words indicate. Takee, the merchant, owed him, to put it as he did, but 30,009 taels. This amount on inspection vanishes, except as a credit item in a transaction of an extensive nature. The only other outstanding credit of a private nature seems to have been his interests in the steamers. The accounts show with these that he had not disbursed so much as his copartner.

But with Woo, the Government, so to speak, he claimed that there was a large sum, and there seems to be reason to believe that this was the case. It stands thus, coupling the above facts with the well-known fact that the Government was hardly pushed for means, that Ward advanced to, or failed to draw from, the Government certain amounts. He could only have been actuated in this by a desire to help along the main object

Is it now likely that such a man would accumulate a large fortune in the short while he was at work. If he was liberal enough to advance so largely, would he not be also liberal in many ways in which he could not expect a pecuniary return?

But without this argument, the case, as represented by Mr. Ward, is essentially absurd. He has claimed as follows:

	Taels.
From Woo	110,000
From Takee	30,000
Martin White (cost)	41,000
Fahwah (one-half cost)	50,000
House on French Bund
Salt monopoly
• •
Total	361,000

Or half a million of dollars.

It is to be noted that the evidence about the salt monopoly is precisely the same kind of evidence on which he relies to prove sole ownership in the Martin White, by statements made by the deceased to various parties. It is to be noted also that no trace of any possible interest in a salt monopoly can be procured. If the matter was in so blind a state, surely Ward, if there was really such an amount, would have spoken of it in his last words.

To a person of General Ward's temperment, his employment must have been a source of the keenest pleasure. Does any one doubt that, knowing the fame which was in store for him, he would have hesitated upon entering the field even had he known that no pecuniary reward was to be vouchsafed? But, again, where could so much money come from? Cities were being taken, but they were also being retaken. Ward had not found it possible to hold some cities which are within the 30-mile radius. The fact that everything was largely in arrears to shop-keepers, to soldiers, to Ward himself, is evidence enough that half a million of dollars could not so easily have been accumulated by him.

Yet Ward was in the habit of talking largely. Perhaps he deemed it his rôle to do so. His large talk, which every one who was in Shanghai at the time of his prosperity knows of, is, however, the very thing which serves to make it difficult to get at the justice of the case. A sort of halo of the brightest hues surrounds all he did which it is difficult for the eye to penetrate, except when assisted by the smoked glass of judicial examination. This is so evident from the reports concerning his business transactions with Takee, that I must dwell a moment longer at the risk of utterly wearying you.

Perhaps you have yourself heard something of his reported connection with Takee in silk operations. Takee utterly denies that he ever had any such dealings. There is no evidence of any kind to show it. If there had been, as with the house and the salt monopoly, there should have been some memoranda among his papers. There was nothing of the kind, although many papers were found. The only thing which indicated business transactions was a memorandum of a settlement upon a silk shipment of two or three thousand taels' value made conjointly with Yakee. (The memorandum was in Ward's writing. The first letter was formed thus "Y.") We supposed, until it was explained, that the name was Takee, and thus hoped to show the arbitrators that transactions of a mercantile kind had taken place with Takee, which in his petition he had completely ignored. Of course the attempt failed utterly.

Going back to Takee's matters, you will notice that the arbitrators advise a sale of the steamers. I do not see how they can be held under the circumstances. I propose to have them advertised as "for sale shortly," but not to consummate the transaction until I hear from you. The custody of the steamers is expensive, and I have already advanced a considerable amount upon them. Both are laid up. At this point I shail leave the matter. All that I have said—and not all of the available ground has been gone over-has been meant to indicate only that we shall not be dealing with the Chinese concerned in that enlightened manner which will insure us the greatest respect if we persist in ignoring what they have to say. They may weakly give way in the particular instance, but will it not affect our opportunity for general

I have now to acknowledge a letter from you of a later date (August 22) than the one under reply. I note with pleasure your remarks, and beg to say in view of them that I trust that my foregoing statements will not serve to remove that high consideration which you have heretofore accorded me, and of which your last letter is a most pleasing testimonial.

Yours, truly,

GEO. F. SEWARD.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 445.]

[Extract from A. A. Hayes's letter to George F. Seward, United States Consul-General.]

SHANGHAI, August 30, 1864.

Ward's dying statement that Takee owed him 30,000 taels was utterly unsupported, and taking into consideration a random way in which he habitually spoke of his means, etc., I could not bring myself to accept the theory that when near his end, and in great pain, he was able to make up his accounts in his head and strike an accurate balance, and think it much more likely that he had reference to the 30,000 taels in the Tong Tai Bank, before alluded to. Of this 20,500 taels were paid for half the Martin White. More than the balance is charged on the bank-books as regular payments to Ward's debit. I think it reasonable to suppose that he wished to call attention to this deposit, and thus avoid the claiming by Takee of the whole of the Martin White.

True copy.

GEORGE F. SEWARD, United States Consul-General.

SHANGHAI, September 8, 1864.

[Inclosure 3 in No. 445.]

Messrs. Rodgers and Jenkins to Mr. Ward.

SHANGHAI, April 13, 1864.

DEAR SIR: In answer to your verbal inquiries as to our actions as commissioners appointed to examine into claims against the Chinese Government on account of the Ward corps, we make, as requested, the following statement: The claim of 110,000 taels due the estate of your son, the late General Ward, was laid before Messrs. Woo and Takee, when they met with us to discuss the various claims, and they admitted the same to be correct, but stated they had paid (or became liable for) a sum of 30,000 taels (or Mex. $30,000, we are at this moment uncertain which), to apply against this amount. They never furnished us with any proof of such payment, but left us under the impression that they admitted the sum of some 80,000 taels to be due to your son's estate from them on this claim.

Yours, etc.,

J. KEARNEY RODGERS. F. H. B. JENKINS.

[Inclosure 4 in No. 445.]

[Extract of a letter from Elizabeth C. Ward to A. L. Freeman, esq.]

SALEM, April 18, 1864.

I have not sent a power of attorney to any one, though requested to do so, having full confidence in your ability, and hope that you will confinue to act for me until the estate is settled.

True copy.

GEORGE F. SEWARD. ALBERT L. FREEMAN. [Inclosure 5 in No. 445.]

Mr. Eames to Mr. Seward.

Shanghai, September 8, 1864.

SIR: Relative to your statement in a letter to the Hon. Anson Burlingame, that a Chinaman, instead of saying I owe so and so 10,000 taels, would say I owe him 30,000 taels, he owes me 20,000 taels. I repeat, as I have before stated, this has repeatedly occurred in my practice.

I have, etc.,

I observed this peculiarity especially in a late case at Ningpo, in which I was engaged, and in which the Chinese defendant persisted in saying that he owed the plaintiff a large sum, at the same time claiming a much larger sum from the plaintiff, although I had endeavored to persuade him to state the balance only. I inclose a letter from Robert Raynor, esq., one of the assessors in the suit referred to, confirming my statement.

I will inclose a letter from the plaintiff in the suit, if received in time, and should you think it important, I have no doubt that further confirmation could be obtained from Mr. Holt, Her British Majesty's consul at Ningpo.

J. B. EAMES.

[Inclosure 6 in No. 445.]

Mr. Raynor to Mr. Eames.

Shanghai, September 8, 1864.

MY DEAR MR. EAMES: In reply to your question regarding the case of Johnson & Co. vs. Ho Amun, in which I was one of the arbitrators, I beg to say that I remember quite distinctly Ho Amun's admitting his indebtedness to Johnson & Co.'s agent for a certain amount, he at the same time claiming from the same individual as due to him (Ho Amun) an even larger sum.

My own practice in settling accounts with Chinese is almost invariably to tell them, in pigeon English, "first my looksee how much you owe my, then looksee how much my owe you, so fashion, very easy finder that balance."

I find that the Chinese, at least in dealing with Europeans, seem always to look upon the whole of the debit side of their account with a house as a debit due by them (Chinese), and upon the whole of the credit side as a debit due them, keeping the two, as it were, distinct, until by striking a balance and settling that the matter is arranged.

Yours, very truly,

ROBT. RAYNOR.

No. 144.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 451.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, September 9, 1887. (Received November 2.)

SIR: What effect the railway schemes of Russia may have on the policy of the Chinese Government it is impossible to prognosticate, but the effect of the completed lines on China is not difficult to forecast.

The scheme of a trans Uralian railway which will connect St. Petersburg, on the Baltic Sea, with Wladiwostock, on the Pacific Ocean, is vast but feasible. The construction of our own transcontinental railways, and particularly the completion of the Canadian Pacific, have at the same time demonstrated the feasibility of building railways of great length, and their usefulness when completed.

England finds, over the Canadian Pacific, a new route to India, partly on her own soil, and the balance on the sea which her navy dominates. Russia is keenly alive to the advantages which would thus accrue to her great rival in the event of a war for India, which has so often been imminent, and, some day, as the world believes, must transpire. But the country which is most threatened by the proposed Russian line is China.

The trans-Siberian railway is now completed from St. Petersburg to Tiumen, a trans-Uralian city. As the new line is laid, it depends somewhat on steam navigation. But, as the waters in Siberia are closed by ice from the 10th of November to the 10th of April, the railway line to serve the required purposes must be continuous. The line must rely largely on governmental aid. A railway can not compete with the Amur River steamers in carrying tea, nor probably with the caravan route across the desert to Irkoutsk. Grain and cattle are cheap in Siberia, but so they are in Russia. It will take many years to develop the immense mining interests in Siberia. The road will be very costly to build, and can not rely on its own revenues. Military exigencies for such a road are pressing. In 1878 and 1879 war nearly resulted between Russia and China over the rejection by China of the treaty made by Chung How. The immense labor and expense of accumulating men and munitions of war at Wladiwostock, the insufficiency of the fleet in the Pacific, the want of a base of operations, the absence of arsenals, all taught Russia a lesson.

She abandoned the treaty as made and gave back to China the largest part of Ili, retaining, however, some strategic positions.

Russia now recognizes that by existing means of communication she can not move troops and stores in requisite quantities. She realizes that, by building a road to the Pacific, she may become the greatest power on that ocean. It is true that her Pacific port, Wladiwostock, is closed by ice during the winter, but when once she has grasped the Pacific, she will not be slow in seizing a more southern port, perhaps Port Lazaref.

The necessities of the Chinese Empire thus become clear. She must build railways to preserve her lines of communication, and to enable her to mass troops. She must build a line to Moukden, with a branch thence to the Amur, and another to Possiet; so as to give strategic communication with Corea. She must defend her frontier with forts and men, and there must be communication to them by rail.

What influence these ideas have had on the late action of China in connection with American capitalists, I can not say; but, as they are now being discussed in all the newspapers, either in criticism or approval of that action, it is likely that the Chinese statesmen have grasped the problem.

From the Chinese Times, to which I am indebted for some of the foregoing facts, I take the following statement of the distances of the proposed railway: From St. Petersburg to Tiumen, 1,816 English miles; from Tiumen to Wladiwostock, 4,796 miles, or, allowing for divergencies, 7,226 miles. The cost of building the line between Tiumen and Wladiwostock is estimated at £48,000,000 sterling.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 145.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 464.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, September 29, 1887. (Received November 25.)

SIR: I have the honor to report that the third installment of the indemnity fund (6,000 taels) to the American missionaries was paid to Mr.

Cockburn, Her Britannic Majesty's consular agent at Chung King, the 3d instant. This sum has been placed by Mr. Cockburn in the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank at Hankow to the credit of Dr. Crews.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 146.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

[Telegram.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, October 6, 1887.

Directs Mr. Denby to express to the Chinese Government the surprise and regret with which the United States learn of obstruction being placed by Chinese officials in the way of Corea's diplomatic representation in the United States as stipulated in existing treaty.

BAYARD.

No. 147.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 478.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, October 10, 1887. (Received November 25.)

SIR: I have to report that the Presbyterian missionaries at Canton endeavored, in the early part of September, to re establish their mission post at Kwai Ping, in the province of Kwang Si. This is the same place from which they were driven May 6, 1886.

On this occasion Mrs. Fulton, wife of Rev. A. A. Fulton, his sister, Miss Fulton, a physician, and two children were driven away by the mob. They did not suffer personal injury, but missiles were thrown against their boat and abusive language uttered. Some of the Chinese residents received them kindly, but owing to the violence of the mob it was deemed best to withdraw. During the voyage down the river one of the boats was wrecked. It was immediately looted by robbers. Valuables and passports were carried away and the remaining property was destroyed. The loss amounted to $200 or $300 in value. The consul will present a claim for damages to the local authorities.

Such wrongful proceedings can not be too severely condemned. I can not forbear, however, saying that I view with regret and reprehension the intemperate zeal which insists on a dangerous effort to effect missionary lodgments in the interior in localities where great opposition is met.

With the approval of yourself and your predecessors this legation has continuously announced the true construction of the treaties to be that permanent residence in the interior is not secured, as matter of legal right, to the missionaries.

This declaration is qualified only by the assertion that if other missionaries are allowed to locate in the interior the same right would be claimed for the Americans, and if injuries followed a residence which the authorities tolerated, redress would be demanded therefor.

In public and private utterances I have cheerfully testified that mission work accomplishes philanthropical and charitable purposes. I may go further and assert that some compensation goes to the country of the missionaries in ethnological, philological, geographical, historical, commercial, and literary information, which these pioneers gather and transmit home. These considerations, however weighty, can not be permitted to override positive law, nor can they condone conspicuous acts of rashness.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 148.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 480.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, October 11, 1887. (Received November 25.)

SIR: Referring to my dispatch No. 451, of date September 9, wherein I described the projected Siberian railway, I now have to state that eleven Russian railway engineers have arrived at Hong-Kong.

They will explore and survey the country between Vladivostock and Boussé, a place on the Oussouri River, a distance of 60 or 70 miles.

The Oussouri is a tributary of the Amoor. The ultimate design is to extend the railway first to Lake Baikal and thence to the borders of the Ural Mountains, where it will be connected with the railway system of Russia in Europe.

It is said that contracts have already been made to transport the staff, the rails, and the rolling stock. This movement will prove of vast advantage to Vladivostock.

I have, etc.,

요...하네 보겠지요...하네 다

No. 149.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 242.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, October 13, 1887.

SIR: I have received your No. 443, of August 26, 1887,* relative to the two Chinese officials who have been selected to visit the United States and other countries during the period of their two years's ojourn abroad.

A copy of your dispatch has been communicated to the Secretary of the Treasury, to the end that the gentlemen referred to may receive due admission into the United States upon arrival; and you may feel assured that whatever this Department can do to contribute to or promote the success of their mission while in this country will be cheerfully done.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

CHARLES DENBY.

^{*} Printed in Foreign Relations, 1887, p. 235.

No. 150.

.Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 482.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, October 13, 1887. (Received December 3.)

SIR: The suzerainty of China over the great territories surrounding the Empire is one of the most difficult and shadowy questions arising in Eastern affairs.

It confronts you now in Corea. It confronted the French in Tonquin, the British in Upper Burmah and Thibet. The claim of suzerainty by China might be passed over as a harmless one, which time and information of international affairs may correct, but by reason of it China raises barriers against European trade.

It is well understood that the secret opposition of China to the opening up of trade communication with Thibet defeated Mr. Coleman Macauley's mission here a year ago. In the case of Upper Burmah China's claim to suzerainty lay dormant until Great Britain occupied Burmah. She then used it to defeat Mr. Macauley's plans, to secure the Hong-Kong opium convention and the abandonment of Port Hamilton by Great Britain. She contrived also to perpetuate her claim of suzerainty by obtaining from the British Government a pledge that the decennial missions from Mandalay to Peking with presents to the Emperor, should be continued. She insisted also that the head of the Burmese hierarchy and not a British official should conduct the mission.

This year she ostentatiously granted to Corea a remission of tribute for the coming year because of the poverty of that kingdom and her gracious good-will toward it.

By referring to my dispatch No. 94, of date February 17, 1886, it will appear that the Tsung li Yamên, under date of February 16, 1886, enumerated, as some of the dependencies of China, Corea, Lewchew, Tonquin, and Annam, Siam, Burmah, Nanchang (the Laos country) Ghoorkat, with the statement that these countries had all received an imperial patent or title from China as dependent or tributary states. Besides these it was stated that there are dependent territories included in the register or census of China, and as they embrace an area of several tens of thousands of li, it is no easy matter to state their names and boundaries seriatim.

Another illustration of this claim of suzerainty is now furnished in the case of Nepaul. The Emperor now claims to be the protector of this Himalayan hill state. A mission was sent from Nepaul to China. It first went to Lhassa, the capital of Thibet, where it was received with great distinction. It then proceeded to Peking, carrying presents and a letter from the ruler of Nepaul to the Emperor. The letter is addressed by Erdeni, the King of the Ghoorkas, "who humbly prostrates himself with nine obeisances before the throne of his great majesty, whose fostering kindness is like the overspreading vault of heaven and the rays of the sun and moon, and whose benevolence is extended to a myriad kingdoms." The letter contains much more of this hyperbolical adulation. It is dated August 6, 1886. The Emperor of China indorsed on it "We have perused this letter."

The Indian papers advise that some understanding should be come to with China as to her claim of suzerainty over Nepaul and other British possessions. They view this claim with distrust, and fear that serious difficulty may supervene if at any time the action of Great Britain as to her frontier possessions should be claimed as an infringement of the rights of China.

While I was writing this dispatch a communication came from Mr. Dinsmore, detailing the opposition of the Chinese minister to the sending of a minister to the United States. Mr. Dinsmore informs me that the Chinese minister claims that in our treaty with Corea "it is distinctly stated that Corea is the vassal state of China." There is color for this assertion in the remarkable letter of the King of Corea to the President of the United States, which was delivered to Commodore Shufeldt during the negotiations, May 15, 1882 (see Mr. Holcombe's dispatch to the Department, No. 133, June 26, 1882).

The first sentence is this: "Chosen has been from aucient times a state tributary to China." But it is also claimed that the treaty is made between equal states, and that the United States have nothing to do with the "various duties" to China.

China can not now be heard to object to the sending by Corea of ministers abroad, because she consented that Corea should make treaties with the foreign powers. Nevertheless the condition is peculiar. Here Corea, preliminary to the making of a treaty, solemnly notifies the power with which it treats that it is tributary to China.

What restrictions, if any, on the intercourse with other powers, the suzerain may impose, are to be carefully considered. I simply make the suggestion as worthy of some consideration.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 151.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 496.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, October 26, 1887. (Received December 12.)

SIR: I have the honor to inform the Department that from reports recently presented to the throne, the Yellow River, aptly named by the Emperor Taokuang "China's Sorrow," because of the calamity caused by its oft recurring floods, has again burst its banks; this time at a place below Ching Chow, near the capital of Honan.

It is to be feared that the devastation caused will be as serious as in 1856, when the river changed its bed, and instead of emptying itself into the Yellow Sea about latitude 34°, this huge volume of water turned off at right angles near the city of Kao Feng Fu, the capital of Honan, and found its issue in the Gulf of Pechihli, latitude 38°.

Though full particulars of the extent of the destruction and desolation have not yet transpired, still there is reason to believe that a frightful calamity has occurred, for the overflow must have covered hundreds of acres of arable land, converting them into a vast lake, destroying villages and towns, and rendering homeless thousands of persons.

A decree published recently appropriating the sum of 400,000 taels, and the entire quantity of tribute grain, to be sent by Grand Canal next year, due from Kiang-Su and other places, to alleviate the sufferings of the people, is evidence of the serious nature of the disaster.

By a decree published on the 8th of October instant, at the instance of the director general of the Yellow River, a subprefect, major, lieutenant, and second sergeant have been degraded and ordered to wear the canque along the banks of the river, and the intendant at the capital of Honan is to be handed over to the board for the determination of The offense committed by these officers is that they did not a penalty. take precautions to repair the damage to the banks of the river, and thereby avert further disaster.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENRY.

No. 152.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 500.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, October 27, 1887. (Received December 12.)

SIR: I have the honor to hand you inclosed copies of correspondence which have passed between the Tsung li Yamên and myself regarding the obstructions in the Canton River near Whampoa.

The appointment of a higher officer to attend to the duties affecting commerce at Whampoa I regard as desirable, but I do not admit the right of China to put obstructions at Whampoa that prevent vessels of deep draught from proceeding to Canton in time of peace.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 500.]

The Ministers of the Tsung-li Yamen to Mr. Denby.

Informal.

Peking, October 10, 1887.

Your Excellency: Last year your excellency addressed the Yamen, requesting that steps be taken to cause the removal of the barrier at Whampoa in the general interest of commerce.

At the time the Yamen replied that the barrier at Shalu could never be removed, a decree having been issued by the throne, and further discussion upon the subject would be of no use.

Later, his excellency Mr. Von Brandt, minister for Germany, at an interview, requested that an officer be appointed at Whampoa, and that the rule adopted at Taku be carried into effect there, which would be convenient to commerce.

The Yamên would observe that the appointment of an officer to reside at Whampoa in order that loss of time by delay to foreign merchants may be avoided is certainly an admirable and satisfactory plan. Notes have repeatedly been sent to the governor-general of the Tao Kuangs to take under consideration the circumstances and devise a scheme that could be enforced.

That officer has reported that, under the present regulations in force at Whampoa, on the arrival of foreign vessels the customs tide-surveyor issues a permit to open hatches and discharge into cargo-boats. After loading, the hatches of the cargo-boats are sealed by the tide-surveyor, and on arrival at Canton the hatches are opened, cargo examined, and duties paid.

In the case of vessels loading at Whampoa, the goods to be shipped are first examined at the custom-house at Canton, and after the payment of export duty a permit to ship in cargo-boats is issued. After loading, the hatches are sealed, and on arrival at Whampoa the tide-surveyor re-examines the cargo, and if there be no mistake permission is granted to transship to the foreign vessels. This rule is the same as the one in force at Taku governing imports and exports.

But foreign vessels, on arrival at Taku, must first be reported by the foreign consulted the questions before permits it is invested to discharge containts between the foreign consulted the questions.

sul to the customs before permit is issued to discharge cargo into boats. on the arrival of foreign vessels at Whampoa, if the foreign hong (consignee) gives a bond guarantying the payment of the duties, dues, and all other charges within the specified time, and that they will not overstep or evade the rules, it is only neces-sary then for the vessel's papers and tonnage-due certificates to be presented (to the customs), and the tide-surveyor at Whampoa will at once issue permit to open hatches and discharge cargo into boats. Hence cargo can be discharged and be on its way to Canton before the consul has reported the vessel to the customs.

Further, if the arrival of a vessel at Canton is telegraphed by the tide-surveyor to the customs at Canton, shippers can at once apply for permits to ship export cargo.

When the vessel is ready to clear, the tide-surveyor at Whanpoa, after duly examining the export cargo, and the loading of the vessel is completed, hands the grand chop, or clearance, with the other papers, to the captain, and he is therefore not obliged to proceed to Canton for them.

Thus it will be seen that the regulation in force at Whampoa governing the importation and exportation of merchandise is much more convenient than the one in force

But hitherto at the Whampoa customs there has been only a tide-surveyor, and as the rank of the chief of the tide-waiter class is comparatively low, it is now pro posed to appoint a fourth-class assistant deputy commissioner of customs, to reside at Whampoa and take charge of the customs, then giving due weight and importance to the office.

The Yamên would further observe that as the object and purpose of your excellency's communication are to benefit commerce, the plan now proposed by the viceroy at Canton, together with a request that a deputy commissioner of customs be appointed to reside near at hand (Whampoa) to take the management of shipping, will meet with the wishes of the mercantile class.

The plan adopted at Whampoa is much more convenient than the one in force at Taku, and the ministers believe your excellency will surely be pleased to agree to it.

(Cards with compliments of ministers.)

[Inclosure 2 in No. 500.]

Mr. Denby to the Tsung-li Yamén.

No. 15.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, October 27, 1887.

YOUR IMPERIAL HIGHNESS AND YOUR EXCELLENCIES:

I have had the honor to receive your imperial highness' and your excellencies' communication of the 10th instant, wherein you inform me that the Imperial Government intends to appoint a fourth-class assistant deputy commissioner of customs to reside at Whampoa to take the management of shipping. You further state your belief that I will agree to this plan.

You also inform me that the barrier at Shalu, in the Pearl River, can never be removed, and further discussion upon the subject would be of no use.

I have to express my regret at the above determination of a question in which the commerce of all nations is interested.

The obstruction of natural channels leading to ports has only occurred in time of It has been done by the Dutch, the English, the Americans, the Russians, and the Germans. But it is thoroughly settled by international law, that when war ceases, such obstructions, when impeding navigation in channels in which large ships are accustomed to pass, must be removed by the territorial authorities.

Such is the rule apart from treaty.

If there were any doubt about this question, it would be settled by the provisions of the treaties of the United States with China, which virtually make Canton a free port, to which our merchant vessels are entitled to have free access in time of peace.

While I do not admit the right of China, under international law, to close the channel in question, yet the appointment of a higher officer to take charge of the shipping duties at Whampoa seems to be desirable.

With assurances, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 153.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 247.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, November 4, 1887.

SIR: Your telegram, received here early in the morning of October 27, informs me that in reply to the representations you were instructed to make with regard to the alleged intervention of China to control or obstruct the diplomatic relations of the United States and Corea, the Chinese Government alleges that Corea is tributary, adding that the King of Corea, having memoralized the Emperor of China, has been authorized to act under the provisions of the treaty between Corea and the United States.

H. Ex. 1, pt. 1---15

It may be premature, in advance of a full report of the correspondence had by you with the Chinese Government on this subject, to lay down instructions for your guidance. But it is right and proper to suggest a line of thought within which our treatment of the question should be confined. The essential thing is to fix the responsibility of execution of treaty stipulations, and to determine where lies the discretion which guides the acts of independent and sovereign states in their mutual relations. Whether the act performed is obligatory or permissive is not material, so long as it is done by the one contracting party in pursuance of a treaty compact with the other.

The reciprocal sending and receiving of diplomatic and consular officers is provided for in the treaty between the United States and Corea. No act of national sovereignty is more express and decided than this, and it is necessarily an attribute of the power to manage her own affairs, domestic and foreign, which, as the United States were assured when the treaty with Corea was negotiated, belonged to Corea, notwithstanding her tributary relation to China. That treaty sprang, logically, from the announcement of the Chinese Government that its treaties with foreign powers did not extend to Corea, and that it was in no way internationally responsible for any acts of Corea toward foreigners. By treaty Corea assumes that responsibility.

It seems, now, from your telegram, that the accepted sovereignty of Corea in her foreign relations is not absolute. It seems to be claimed by China that one of the simplest and most ordinary provisions of the treaty can not be executed without the King of Corea memorializing the Emperor of China and being accorded permission to do so.

The right to accord permission necessarily involves the right to refuse it, but the exercise of the latter right suggests a responsibility which has not heretofore been admitted and is expressly disclaimed. What would have been the consequence if the Emperor of China, in the exercise of a sovereign claim of right, had refused to allow Corea to maintain a diplomatic mission in the United States?

I do not think the advisers of His Majesty the Emperor have considered the necessary inference from the premises on which they act. For if the treaties of Corea with sovereign States can not be executed without the authority and consent of China, they can not be violated without the responsibility of China.

The Department's instructions to your legation, during the past few years, show the concern felt here at the indeterminateness of the question of China's relation to Corea. The object of this instruction is to impress like solicitude upon you, so that in any discussion affecting this question you may ascertain the real position of China, and avoid any admission that might be construed as approving China's singular claim of ultimate control without ultimate responsibility.

I am, etc.,

No. 154.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 248.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
Washington, November 7, 1887.

SIR: I have to acknowledge the receipt of your No. 445, of September 7, 1887, in the matter of the Ward estate claims against China, and to say that the Department greatly appreciates your able and thorough review of the claim.

I have said to the attorney of Mrs. Amidon, Mr. George O. Glavis, that, after an extended investigation of the case and an extremely careful examination of its circumstances and history, both in this Department and in the Legation of the United States in China, the Department was of opinion that the claim, as presented, was not one which this Government would be justified in pressing further upon the Government of China.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 155.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 509.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, November 11, 1887. (Received January 4, 1888.)

SIR: I have the honor to submit a few observations on the monetary and banking system of China.

The stranger, on arriving in China, is struck with the apparent inconvenience of the monetary system, but a short residence tends to create an opinion that the system is well adapted to the people, at least in some respects.

The financial business of the foreigner is done either in Mexicans or taels, as he prefers. Drafts on London are in pounds sterling. His bank account is kept in taels or Mexicans, as may be preferred. Ordinary accounts in the stores in Shanghai are kept in dollars. The commercial business is done mostly in taels. As the price of silver varies every day, the transfer of dollars into pounds, pounds into taels, and taels into Mexicans is bewildering. Usually the tael is worth $1.40 in Mexicans.

China has hitherto resisted all schemes for the establishment of a mint as understood in Western countries. Yet China coined iron money under the reign of Huang Ti, two thousand six hundred years before Christ.

This coin has been replaced by a copper piece called chien, because it originally weighed a mace (one-tenth tael). This coin and lump silver are the only public signs of the value of products and the only instruments of ordinary barter. The popular name of this coin is "cash."

The monetary system as affecting silver is arranged on the principle of weight, and the divisions have the same names—taels, mace, candareen, and cash. The computation is decimal.

Each cash should weigh, as Williams states, 58 grains troy, or 3.78 grams, but there are in various localities smaller cash in circulation, and the rate of exchange varies in different parts of the land from 500 to 1,800 for a silver dollar. There are big cash and little cash.

Peking cash passes 5 for 1 silver cent or 500 for $1.

Taking into consideration the immense population of China and the poverty of the people, a good argument may be formulated to sustain the legislator who created "cash." If there was to be but one coin it was necessarily the smallest.

While great weight makes transportation difficult, so that copper coin is not often carried from place to place; on the other hand the incumbrance of quantities of coin is so great that every one seeks to get rid of it.

For transactions to be consummated at a distance the copper coin must be changed for silver, but in small transactions in the various localities its circulation is rapid. It thus happens that silver in the Empire and coin in the districts fulfill exactly the intention of the Government.

In the open ports, and wherever Europeans have a foot-hold, the Mexi-At Peking the missionaries, whose can dollar readily passes current. dealings are with the poorer classes of people, use exclusively the tael and the cash. But the two foreign merchants located here and the legations habitually keep their accounts in Mexican dollars.

The tael varies in weight in various centers.

The Hai Kuan (customs) tael is the heaviest, and the one with which the Government makes its payments. It is worth $1.22½ gold at the present rate of exchange.

The copper coin, as coined by the Government, never varies in purity. No matter what the value of copper may be, the same quantity enters Williams gives the contents of this coin as follows: Alloy of copper 50, zinc  $41\frac{1}{2}$ , lead  $6\frac{1}{2}$ , and tin 2, or of equal parts of copper and zinc.

It must be said that the Chinese have succeeded reasonably well in maintaining the equilibrium between silver and cash and between these two metals and the needs of commerce.

Monsieur Simon, who wrote a valuable paper on this subject, accounts for the first result by the non-existence of foreign enterprises which offer to pay large interest on silver, but more particularly by the Chinese law which permits interest at 30 per cent. While this law exists no country can compete with China as a market for silver.

As to the depreciation of silver it depends on many causes and can not Its inconveniences are manifold, especially to the poorer classes, whose wages do not increase as the value of silver diminishes. The Government seeks to avoid the effect of depreciation by making new issues of cash. Because the importation of foreign silver tends to diminish the value of silver in the Empire, there is a strong party here opposed to foreign commerce.

It may be remarked that the depreciation of silver is one of the great evils attending commercial operations in China. The European who desires to remit a part of his earnings home, finds that his silver tael The lower silver goes the less sterling it will varies in value every day.

buy and the more he loses.

The rate of exchange on London and the demand are the criteria of the profits of the trade with China. It is, therefore, evident that when exchange on London is low, for example, when, as in August, 1886, the Shanghai tael was worth 4s.  $7\frac{3}{4}d$ . instead of 4s.  $11\frac{1}{2}d$ ., the price in January, 1885, the merchant in China can not get his goods laid down in this market for the same price in sterling as before. The market value of the goods not having increased he has to bear a loss proportional to the fall in exchange.

The interest laws of China, with which the operations of banking are intimately connected, date from the year 1250 of our era. The enormous rate of interest is curiously defended by several writers. It results, they say, in securing economy in order that the borrower may repay the loan, in producing greater industry, in deterring persons from borrowing, in reducing the number of renters of land, and in increasing the number of land owners, and in inducing circumspection with regard to new enterprises. It is further stated by men of business, that this 30 per cent. is only a maxmum founded on the probability that the oscillations of the price of silver will never exceed that sum. It must be understood, also, that the ordinary rate of interest rarely exceeds 20 or 22 per cent., and money may be had at 12 per cent., though sometimes it exceeds even 30 per cent.

Silver is ordinarily cast into pieces of 10 taels value bearing some resemblance to a Chinese shoe, being a lump hollowed out in the center and raised at the sides and ends. Larger pieces of the value of 50 taels are almost the exact shape of a shoe. They are from 97 to 99 per cent. pure silver. Gold bullion is cast into bars like cakes of India ink, weighing about 10 taels. In the early days of foreign trade the Mexican dollar was cut into pieces as it was in our Western States. Pieces were punched out of it until it lost recognition as a coin. I have seen in the South of China hundreds of these mutilated pieces which are of no use but to be melted into bullion. It is the custom in the South of China to stamp Mexican dollars and they are then called "chopped dollars."

Williams has little to say about the banking system of China, but his views, in the general, are correct. The subject is worthy of more attention than he accorded to it, and is becoming day by day more important. The progress of trade, the necessities of the Empire, and the importunity of foreigners seeking concessions of banking privileges, have latterly attracted the attention of the whole world to banking in China.

There does not exist in China any State bank so-called. The issue of paper money dates back to the earliest historic period. The reader of Marco Polo wearies of the continual and unvarying description given by him of the countries that he visited. The monotonous statement is forever repeated that "they issue paper money and bury their dead." This statement is sometimes all that is said and constitutes a chapter.

Kublai Khan bought everything valuable his people had and paid in paper money, a system much commended by Marco Polo as resulting in the possession of endless treasure without any cost. This system had the usual result, and a rebellion ensued which overthrew the reigning dynasty.

Five hundred years before Christ Government bills, which were utterly worthless, were in forced circulation. In 1455, according to Williams, they were suspended, and, except during the Taeping rebellion in 1858, no bills have been issued since. These bills were current in the capital only. As there is no profit to a government in the business of banking except in the issue of paper money and as only a bank of issue requires special privileges, China has, as a state, nothing to do with banking. There is, however, in each province a private bank which performs the functions of the treasury for the Government and receives the taxes. It requires payment in silver purer than the silver of the locality, and thereby makes 2 per cent. as compensation for its services. These banks are like all other private banks and perform all the usual functions.

There are also private banks of emission, but they are not numerous. They exist chiefly at Peking. They issue notes of as low denomination as 10 cents. Their bills do not pass current out of Peking. These notes are worth more than cash, and a great business is done in exchanging one for the other.

The Government tolerates these banks of issue rather than favors them. In the event of suspension of payment the Government takes, possession of the bank and administers its affairs for the benefit of the bill-holders. There are few cases where there are, after failure, any but nominal assets. Usually when disaster comes the banker disappears, as with us, with the assets and the loss is total.

The true Chinese bank is the bank of discount and deposit. These stand high in popular confidence. It does not appear that they derive any great benefit from governmental action.

For aught that can be ascertained to the contrary, these banks are as old as history. Their existence 2,600 years B. C. is well established. The creation of paper money and the existence of banks are contemporaneously described, and, possibly, the coinage suggested the bank.

The insecurity of Chinese houses and the danger from fire made banks of deposit a necessity. All classes in China have bank accounts. The business of the banks is to discount paper, negotiate bills of exchange, to loan money on land or personal property, and to buy and sell the precious metals. There is no governmental limit to their establishment. They sell bills of exchange at short dates to any point in China. The Hong-Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, and other foreign banks, have largely interfered with the sale of foreign bills and bills running a long time. The banks ordinarily (except in Peking) pay interest on deposits, sometimes on daily balances. They agree also to give the parties every facility for borrowing. The custom is that a depositor can obtain on his own paper, as a loan, twice the amount of his deposit, but only for a few days' accommodation.

Deposits may be withdrawn at will and interest (except in Peking) received up to date of withdrawal. The foreign banks also pay interest on deposits, but they stipulate for fixed terms. The Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation pays 5 per cent. on fixed deposits.

The bank, for a consideration, guaranties the paper of its customers. It sometimes happens here, as elsewhere, that the deposits are ten or fifteen times greater than the capital of the bank.

There exists in Peking a clearing-house system which will compare favorably with that of New York. Each depositor receives from his banker a book with two columns, in one of which will be entered his deposits, and in the other to his debit all the sums he may disburse. He then sends all his creditors to his banker to be paid, and in the evening he sends his book to his bankers. The next morning the clerks of the various banks get together and indicate in their books the various sums that they are to disburse or receive for their patrons. The balances are paid in cash, or are left to stand over on interest until the end of the year.

It is said that the banks assist each other in case of difficulty and extend the time of payment to any solvent bank requiring it.

The system of demanding immediate payment by holders of bills, which has resulted in so many commercial crises in America and elsewhere, does not exist here. The Chinese banker allows ten or fifteen days in which the debtor bank can raise money at home or procure it from the provinces. Failures take place here as elsewhere, but a bank which rests on a solid foundation, that might have been ruined by sudden pressure, secures time to raise funds and save itself.

These financial difficulties ordinarily supervene only at the end of the year, when all debts must be settled. At the time of the Chinese New Year, and at two other periods, the fifth and eighth moon festivals, every man settles up, and to allow a debt to go over these periods is considered disgraceful. Especially does this rule prevail at the Chinese New Year, which occurs in February of our calendar. These great periodical settlements have hitherto had the effect to prevent financial crises such as have occurred in other countries.

It is the practice of the Government to allow its moneys to be deposited with the banks of the best class when any danger is anticipated. Thus, at the end of the year large deposits are made by the Government officials in the banks, to enable them to meet their obligations in cases where there has been unusual stringency in the market.

In cases of general suffering the Government also makes loans of grain to cultivators of land and other necessitous people, to be repaid, with interest, in kind.

There is little counterfeiting of bank bills. Often the depositor waits and sees the bills filled up in sums to suit him. I know one case where a very worthy gentleman thus received notes representing 100 taels in the morning, and the bank closed before night. He came to me, and I presented his case to the Tsung-li Yamên. The Yamên denied all responsibility, but promised to see that the assets were properly administered. A Government officer took possession of the bank, the cashier having fled, but my friend never received a cent of his 100 taels.

Circular letters of credit are issued by the banks, which are good in China where the banks have agencies. Money is remitted from place to place in bills as at home. The rates are much higher than with us, as transportation is private and very costly.

No statistics that I know of are published relative to banks. Bankers are reticent. There is considerable competition between the native and foreign banks, and information as to business is designedly withheld. The branch of the Hong-Kong and Shanghai Bank at Peking keeps large sums on deposit in about twenty banks, but receives no interest thereon.

The native banks "milt" the silver received without charge, which is all the consideration the Hong-Kong and Shanghai Bank receives for its deposits.

The ordinary rate of interest at Peking is 1 per cent. a month.

Silver comes to the capital from the provinces in small wooden logs. The inside is dug out, the silver put in, and the pieces of wood bound together with iron bands, and it is thus carted to the treasury.

Among foreigners in China there is a general desire for coinage and a national bank. The rivalry between the various nationalities is so great that any particular scheme by one nationality is attacked by all the others. This happened, notably, when the Philadelphia syndicate sought to obtain concessions at Tientsin.

In spite of the abundance of banks existing in China, making it a country as thoroughly provided with banks as any country in the world, still the banks often succumb to financial difficulties. Some of their difficulties originate from non-fulfillment of the obligations assumed by the local authorities. This happened recently in Shansi, where, during the campaigns in the northwest, the banks lost many millions of taels. There being no Government bank the private banks can get no relief when it is most needed, except as I have already stated.

It must be remembered, in considering the general question, that the people and the merchants have little confidence in the good faith of officials. As China is practically divided into twenty-one separate local governments, with almost absolute authority in the viceroys or governors, this want of confidence in financial matters results in serious evils. A national bank would restore confidence and give solidity to financial operations. The leading paper in China, the North-China Daily News, proposes to overcome opposition to a scheme of general or national banking by an organization composed of leading firms in all commercial countries. It proposes that the stock of such an institution be divided up amongst the various nationalities, reserving a large portion for the Chinese. By this means international jealousies would be removed, and the bank would be worked on broad and honest principles.

My judgment is that China will not accede to any such scheme. There is evident purpose on the part of the Chinese rulers to reserve for their country the great franchises of public institutions, such as railroads, steam-ship lines, telegraphs, and banks. This policy is logically correct. The chief objection to it is the delay necessary to instruct and educate this people, which is now earnestly and strenuously striving for improvement and progress.

There seems to be no reason why our banking system might not work successfully in China. If China would intrust the whole subject to some great American financier, I do not doubt that the success which has attended the operations of the imperial maritime customs under Sir Kobert Hart would be realized in banking and coinage.

There is no confusion in the world comparable to the financial muddle in governmental operations in China. The immense benefits which would accrue to the Government from a good system in the collection, distribution, and remittance of revenues are patent to all observers. The superintendence of financial matters in China would be a career worthy of any man's ambition. It is needless to say that unimpeachable reputation and great ability would be requisite.

It is well to say also that the accomplishment of such a plan must be worked out by individual effort. The legation could aid only by courtesy and by the private personal influence of the minister. If he had the authority to pledge his Government to any financial scheme it would be unwise to exercise it, but he has no such authority.

Knowing, as I well do, that national pride would be gratified by the prominence of my fellow-citizens in any great work of progress in China, nothing would be left undone by me that is consistent with public duty to forward such a work.

I have etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 156.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 514.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, November 22, 1887. (Received January 4, 1888.)

SIR: I have the honor to forward to you herein for your information some particulars concerning the terrible inundation caused by the rupture of the levees along the Yellow River in the last week of September of this year. Although the calamity was known of at Peking nearly two months ago, the reports of the provincial authorities to the Emperor concerning the event have only very recently been given to the public.

The Yellow River, not very far to the west of Kai-feng-fu, the capital of Honan Province, enters an alluvial plain, which undoubtedly owes its origin to the river's deposits, and which spreads to the north and south of the mountainous Shantung Peninsula as far as the sea coast without an elevation on its surface, save here and there in a sand hillock.

From the prefecture of Honan-fu the Yellow River's deposit commences to be so abundant that the whole bed of the river has been silted up until it is elevated above the surrounding country. For example, at Lung Men Kou, the diverging point of the old and new courses of the Yellow River, Ney Elias states in his "Report on the course of the Yellow River" (1869) that he found the bed of the river with an average elevation above the general level of the neighboring country of about 15 feet.

The immense banks off the mouths of the Yellow River are yet another proof of the tremendous rapidity with which the siltage takes place. The Chinese Times, of October 29, 1887, mentions in this connection that 30 or 40 miles distant from the shore, in the deep indentation of the coast between Che-foo and Taku, soundings that fifty years ago gave 40 feet now show but 18.

This siltage has a most disastrous effect on the arable soil on which it may be deposited, rendering cultivation impossible; consequently wherever the river has passed agriculture is practically ended, and a thinly scattered population is all that is left in once prosperous and densely inhabited districts.

Since time immemorial the Chinese have endeavored to check this river and to keep it in its bed by erecting a continuous line of embankments along its course from the point where the siltage commences down to its mouth. But, notwithstanding the enormous works which have been erected year after year and century after century, the most fearful overflows continually occur, several of them so great that they have changed the course of the river. In the earliest times of Chinese history the Yellow River emptied into the Gulf of Pei-chih-li, near Tientsin, and it followed this course down to the thirteenth century of our era. At that time it changed its course and, taking an easterly direction, south of the Shantung peninsula, it emptied into the Yellow Sea. The river continued to follow this course until 1851, when it again burst its embankments on the north side at Lung Men Kou, and by 1853 it was once more flowing into the Gulf of Pei-chih-li, its general direction nearly parallel to that which it held in olden times.

In the summer of the present year the Tsin, an important left-bank affluent of the Yellow River, which empties into it about 60 miles west of Kai-feng-fu, as also the main stream itself, became greatly swollen by incessant rains, and on the 24th of September the dikes broke in the district of Cheng Chou—a little to the west of Kai-feng-fu. During the succeeding days the breach rapidly increased, notwithstanding every effort on the part of the troops, until it was over 3,000 feet wide, through which the whole river dashed, leaving its former bed dry.

The water flowed in a southeasterly direction through the prefectural districts of Kái-feng and Chen Chou; the Kulu River, down to where it empties into the Sha-ho, being apparently the western limit of the inundation. About 50 miles south of the mouth of the Kulu River the flood seems to have taken an easterly course through the provinces of Anhui and Kiangsu, sweeping down the course of the Huai River, through the Hungtse Lake, and into the sea by its old mouth east of Tsing Kiang-pu.

The main body of the water followed the course of the Kulu River, and in this section of country the inundation attained a depth of from 10 to 20 feet. In other districts to the east the water was only from 3 to 4 feet.

Reports concerning the damages done by the flood outside of the province of Honan have not so far been published, but in that province alone we learn that about 2,000 towns and villages-which must have a population of at least 2,500,000—have suffered from the flood.

The loss of life appears to have been fearful. The governor of Honan, in a memorial to the Emperor, published in the Peking Gazette of October 28, savs:

Nearly all the people have been drowned in the districts reached by the waters, the survivors being those who escaped to high ground or took refuge in trees, where they remained until rescue came.

In a later memorial the same officer reports that-

Fortunately the flow of the waters has not been rapid, as the country is quite level. There are, moreover, many sand hillocks, which have afforded a place of refuge and a means of escape to many.

As soon as the accident occurred the provincial authorities took measures to relieve the sufferers, and besides sending boats and rafts in all directions, bearing food and clothing, opened relief establishments, in many of which there are as many as 20,000 refugees.

The Emperor has given orders that about $3,000,000, besides all the grain tribute due in 1888 from Kiang-pei and Kiang-su, as well as its cost of conveyance to the capital be devoted to the relief purposes. sums, however large, will be far from sufficient to meet the requirements, and the board of revenue has been authorized by the Emperor to forward a constant and unfailing supply of funds to the high authorities of the inundated provinces, so that the work of repairing the breach and providing for the destitute population may be constantly looked after.

It may not seem inappropriate to add here a few details concerning the manner in which the Government provides for maintaining the extensive works along the Yellow River, and what appropriations are made to meet the expenses incurred thereby.

The general management of the works along the Yellow River, within the province of Honan, is intrusted to the director-general of the Yellow River, who has also the superintendence of the grain transport East of Honan the river works are under the care of the governor-general of Chihli and the governor of Shantung, through which provinces the river flows. Prior to the change of course of the river in 1852, there were two directors general, one for the southern division of the river and one for the eastern, who took complete charge of all the works, but since the river has taken its northern course to the sea, the office of southern director general has been abolished and the eastern one alone retained.

The director-general has under his orders about 2,000 men, belonging to the "Army of the Green Standard," who, besides having to guard the embankments and keep them in repair over a distance of about 160 miles, have certain duties to perform in connection with forwarding grain junks on the Grand Canal, and are also supposed to do garrison work, escort prisoners, etc. Two Taotais are under the direct orders of the director-general, dividing between them the section of river under his jurisdiction, along the banks of which are seven stations in which are kept detachments of troops to watch the action of the river on the works.

The Yellow River works comprise two categories: First, embankments constructed by the people and at their expense; second, Government works, comprising embankments, supplementary embankments constructed to withstand inundations which have broken through the "people's embankments," side dikes, etc., all of which works, together with their dimensions and the materials to be used in constructing them, are minutely detailed in the Dynastic Institutes.

By a regulation of 1662, which is still in vigor, all the works are under the guaranty of the officer who has built them for a period of one year, removal from office being the penalty visited on him should any of them be destroyed within that limit.

The funds for the works under the orders of the director-general, the pay of his troops, etc., are provided for by fixed appropriations, which, so far as I can learn, have varied but very little during the last hundred and fifty years. Thus in 1730, 670,536 taels (say $704,600) are, according to the Dynastic Institutes, allotted to the river works. In 1876 this allowance, according to the regulations of the board of revenue, is fixed at 757,401 taels (say $908,880).

These fixed appropriations can not, however, be considered as giving the amount annually expended by Government on the Yellow River, for not a year passes that additional sums are not appropriated by special decree for extraordinary works. One million and a half dollars might represent the annual expenditure on account of the Yellow River within that section under the orders of the director-general.

I have no exact means of ascertaining the amounts expended annually by the high provincial authorities of Chihli and Shantung for similar purposes, but from certain figures found in memorials to the Emperor by these officers I think that the expenditures may average about $300,000 a year. This would give us an average annual expenditure on works along the lower course of the Yellow River of about $2,000,000.

It would be tedious to enter into any discussion of the various plans which have at different times been submitted to the Imperial Government for controlling the Yellow River. Suffice it to say that none of those which have been tried have decreased the violence or frequency of the floods. In connection with the present breach it has been decided by the Government that it must be closed and the river turned back to its habitual course.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 514.]

THE YELLOW RIVER.

A memorial of the board of revenue appeared in this morning's Shumpao, proposing six ways and means of raising funds for repairing the recent breach in the Yellow River, in Honan province.

River, in Honan province.

(1) The dismissal of petty officers from the provincial garrisons, as they are not necessary in time of peace, and it will be a saving of nearly 2,000,000 taels to the Government.

(2) The purchase of munitions of war, gun-boats, and machinery from abroad shall be stopped for the present.

(3) The rice allowance of princes, dukes, and all officials in Peking shall be stopped for one year, commencing on the first moon of the fourteenth year of Kwang Hsü.

The soldiers in Peking are to receive their rice allowance, but not the equivalent in money as heretofore.

(4) The soldiers stationed near Honan province shall be ordered to assist in repairing the breach of the river.

(5) The salt merchants of all the provinces shall be called upon to make contributions and get promotion in official rank in return.

(6) The pawn-shops which should pay a yearly tax of 5 taels to the Government should be ordered to pay 100 taels in advance, and then be exempted for twenty years. All the revenue-remitting banks throughout the provinces shall be ordered to pay a

The first, fifth, and sixth proposals have been already sanctioned by imperial de-

No. 157.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 263.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, December 3, 1887.

SIR: I have received your No. 478, of October 10, last, in regard to mob violence against missionaries at Kwai Ping, and desire to approve your admirable, as well as judicially expressed views upon the subject. I am, etc.

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 158.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 521.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, December 9, 1887. (Received February 3, 1888.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a translation of a memorial presented by the King of Corea to the Emperor of China, which lately appeared in the Shih Pao, a Chinese newspaper published at Tientsin. In substance it is a complete recognition of the vassalage of Corea to China.

It prays that as "an extra act of grace" the Emperor will allow envoys to be sent abroad.

Any remarks offered by me on the relation of Corea to the society of nations must be construed as bearing only on my own country and the country to which I am accredited. I have nothing officially to do with Corea.

Vattel discusses, at page 2, the status of dependent states with reference to foreign powers. This discussion furnishes little information applicable to the peculiar relations existing between China and her dependent states. The text has little application to countries which, in their history, antedate international law, of which, also, they never had any knowledge. What unwritten law or tradition controls the relations of China with her dependencies remains unknown.

I assume that the position of the United States with reference to Corea is contained in Mr. Frelinghuysen's declaration that-

The independence of Corea of China is to be regarded by the United States as now established. (1 Wharton's Digest, § 64.)

Your own dispatch No. 27, of date July 27, 1887, to Mr. Dinsmore, contains this statement:

If, contrary to the expectations of this Government, the progress of Chinese interference at Seoul should result in the destruction of the autonomy of Corea as a sovereign state with which the United States maintain independent treaty relations, it will be time then to consider whether this Government is to look to that of China to enforce treaty obligations for the protection of the persons and interests of citizens of the United States, etc.

The co-equality of Corea with the United States being thus recognized, it would seem that no questions but those of expediency remain.

In the solution of such questions the geographical locality of Corea, its distracted condition internally, its possible relations to Japan, Russia, England, and China, if complete independence be assured, are all to be looked at.

I have, etc.

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 521.—Memorial from King of Corea to Emperor of China.]

Draft of memorial presented to His Majesty, the Emperor of China, by the King of Corea in the matter of sending envoys abroad.

Li-hsi, King of Chosen (Corea), reverently presents a memorial upon the subject of sending envoys to western countries, requesting that permission be first granted by the issuance of your majesty's mandate to the end that officers may be deputed hence.

Upon the 7th day of the eighth moon (23d of September, 1887), Shen-wu-tse, a councillor (Ling-I-cheng), of the council of state, memorialized the throne that he had, on the same day, received a communication from Yuen Shih Kai, chief commissioner representing the Government of China, stating that he had received a telegraphic message from the grand secretary, Li Hung Chang, to the effect that the Tsung-li Yamên had sent the following edict, issued by the Emperor of China, to

"In the matter of Corea sending diplomatic officers to western countries, it is necessary first to ask our sanction when such officers can be sent, thus acting in accordance with the rules and usages of dependent states. Respect this."

The grand secretary instructed me to make this known to the council of state without delay, so that his majesty's injunctions may be observed.

Having received the above instructions, as in duty bound, the chief commissioner addresses a communication to the council of state and beg that they will peruse the same, and that a memorial be presented (by the King) asking permission (to send envoys abroad) in due observance of imperial instructions.

The King is mindful that the small state over which he presides has for generations been the recipient of favors from the Heavenly Court—favors as high as the sky and as thick as the earth, as exalted as the mountains, and as deep as the sea; that your majesty perceives and understands all things, and he that asks shall receive.

But in the matter of intercourse with foreign nations your memorialist has been the special recipient of your majesty's regard and kindly thoughts toward his dependent state, using your power and strength to elevate and assist her, and permitted her to enter into commercial and friendly relations, first with the United States, and dispatched an officer to assist in the negotiation of a treaty. Further, a dispatch was sent (to the United States authorities) before the negotiation of the treaty clearly setting forth that Corea was a state tributary to China, but that hitherto full sovereignty had been exercised by the Kings of Chosen in all matters of internal administration and foreign relations.

As a dependent state Corea reverently maintains and observes the proper rules of courtesy and respect, but as regards equality and mutual reciprocity with foreign nations, governmental prestige, and international relations, each has full powers.

Later, other western nations negotiated treaties with Corea, all after the terms in general of the United States treaty, and after their provisions were agreed upon by the negotiators a memorial was presented to your majesty asking your sanction and approval. After the United States treaty was ratified, the United States Government, in accordance with the provisions of treaty, sent a minister plenipotentiary to reside at Seoul. Your memorialist in turn sent an embassy of congratulation to the President of the United States, which in due time returned to Corea. But no mission has ever been sent to the other treaty powers. These powers, in consequence, have frequently represented to the Government of Corea that, as they are represented by accredited agents at Seoul, they invited Corea to send ministers to their courts. Your majesty's dependent state was not unmindful of the urgency of the times, at the same time it was desirous of carrying out the provisions of the treaties.

Your memorialist has now appointed his minister Pu Ting Yang as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary, and proposes to send him to the United States; also his minister Chao Chen-hsi as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary, and proposes to depute him to represent Corea at the courts of Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, and Russia, to be clothed with power to attend to international questions arising in those countries.

Your memorialist, in presenting the foregoing facts, begs that as an extra act of grace your majesty will condescend to give your sanction and approval to the sending abroad of the ministers named, to the end that the question regarding envoys may be settled in conformity with the stipulations of treaty.

Under the existing laws governing Corea, in the matter of tribute and ceremonial, all memorials have been presented to your majesty by the board of rites, but all questions of an international nature (with foreign countries) have been presented to your majesty, in behalf of Corea, either by the prince and ministers of the Tsung-li Yamen, or by the minister superintendent for northern trade, Li Hung Chang. Unless in matters of the utmost importance your memorialist would not venture to memo-

Your majesty's mandate, which has just been communicated by telegram, has been received by your memorialist upon bended knees, and he finds it impossible to express his feelings of gratitude, as well as those of fear.

Your memorialist, instead of withdrawing from troubling your majesty, ventures to present this memorial, and is sincerely quaking with emotions of fear and alarm for your majesty's injunctions.

No. 159.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 529.1 LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES. Peking, December 20, 1887. (Received February 24, 1888.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a communication lately sent by me to the Tsung-li Yamên. It involves a missionary trouble similar to others which are always pending in China.

The facts are briefly that the Presbyterian missionaries at Chi Nan Fu, during last September, October, and November, endeavored to secure a perpetual lease of land for hospital purposes. They claimed that the governor, in 1884, agreed that they might purchase additional land for residential purposes. That, unfortunately, is a mistake.

An examination of the records here discloses that the governor refused to make any such agreement. Acting on this alleged promise and on certain oral statements made by the officials, the missionaries secured a perpetual lease of a lot. They took the lease to the officials to be stamped. They were put off on various pleas and finally notified that, owing to the opposition of the people, the transaction should be considered off. Mr. Reid, representing the mission, then took possession of the premises. He alleges that the family of the lessor consented to this occupation; but the lessor himself was in jail and could not con-

The twelfth article of the treaty of 1858 requires that "the legal fees to the officers for applying their seal shall be paid." It requires, also, that particular spots shall not be unreasonably insisted on. needless to say that it confines renting and hiring to the treaty ports.

Mr. Reid was ejected and injured by a mob. He is now here demanding relief and intimating an intention to demand personal damages.

As I construe section 134, of the Diplomatic Instructions, I have no authority to apply for compensation for him without specific instructions. I judged it best to endeavor to settle the matter and to endeavor to secure for them another tract of land in lieu of the one objected to by the gentry.

The missionaries having demanded that their lease should be sealed and protection accorded, should not, after a distinct notification that they could not be permitted to occupy that particular lot, have taken the law in their own hands by entering on the disputed premises. They excuse themselves by saying that is Chinese law. But, whether it is Chinese law or not, they are bound by the treaty, which requires payment of fees and sealing of the lease preliminary to taking possession of leased land,

The missionaries claim, however, that under the twelfth article of the British treaty of 1858, and the sixth article of the French treaty of October 25, 1860, they, by virtue of the favored nation clause, can settle and lease or buy property anywhere in China.

Diplomatic and consular officers in China are often put at a disadvantage. Their fellow citizens can not be abandoned even if not always exactly in the right. Hence there are always questions between the two Governments.

The Department has approved on divers occasions of the statement that the treaties confer no legal right on Americans to secure property in the interior. The Department has not, however, distinctly formulated in any dispatch to this legation its views as to the rights of missionaries in the interior of China. It is worthy of consideration by you whether specific instructions, which might be authoritatively communicated to the missionaries, and which might serve as an implicit guide for this legation, should be prepared.

The twelfth article of the treaty of 1858 provides that citizens of the United States may, at the open ports, "rent houses and places of business or hire sites on which they can themselves build houses or hospitals, churches, and cemeteries."

By gradual encroachment this right has been extended to the interior, and whether its exercise should be acknowledged and enforced or repudiated is the chief question in China, and possibly will remain the leading and most annoying question for all time to come.

My policy has been not to encourage adventurous locations in the interior, in fact to announce distinctly that this legation does not construe the treaties as granting unlimited right to buy or lease land in the interior. But if the missionaries, with the consent of the local authorities, effected a lodgment, they would be protected by this legation against any wrongs subsequently perpetrated against them. This was the rationale of the Chung King case. I respectfully submit the whole question to you.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 529.]

Mr. Denby to the Tsung-li Yamên.

No. 16.]

PEKING, December 21, 1887.

YOUR IMPERIAL HIGHNESS AND YOUR EXCELLENCIES:

I have the honor to bring to the attention of your imperial highness and your excellencies the circumstances of a late riot at Chi Nan Fu, in which an American missionary was injured, also certain troubles now existing in the locality with reference to the purchase by the missionaries of a lot of ground. The missionaries, Messrs. Gilbert Reid, Paul D. Bergen, and Robert Coltman, jr., have made the following representation to this legation:

In an interview with the Taotai, in January, 1886, they sought the aid of the officials in securing ground for a hospital. The governor, to whom the matter was referred by the Taotai, replied that the officials could neither purchase property for the missionaries nor compel the people to sell, but if both parties mutually agreed to a purchase, the purchase could be completed and if any opposition arose it would be suppressed. In July of this year the matter of establishing a hospital was again brought up and referred to the governor and he answered, as before, that the purchase of land might be made if the parties agreed, and that the deeds could be presented to the local authorities to be stamped, and if afterwards any opposition arose the local authorities must suppress it.

In August last the missionaries took a perpetual lease of a piece of property and took the deeds to the Taotai's Yamen, on the 1st of September, to be stamped. Taotai, in the presence of all, ordered the magistrate to stamp the deed in case there was no illegality in the purchase. He also ordered that the landlord and middlemen should not be annoyed, and that if the neighbors were summoned it should be to ask if the property had been bought from the man as claimed by the missionaries. next day the landlord and middlemen and one of the missionaries appeared before the magistrate and it was shown that the lease was legal, and the landlord was ordered to vacate his house in two months. The magistrate, however, refused to stamp the deed, saying that he wished to report the case to the Taotai.

During the next few days the two neighbors were summoned, and both said they did not wish the property and were willing that the foreigners should have it. Still the deed was not stamped. Then the magistrate inspected the property.

A petition was then presented alleging that the property was public property, but it was not signed, and the officials refused to accept it. The residents were then granted three days to present any reason why the foreigners should not have the property, and if no such reason existed the property should be taken by the missionaries. No teason was presented in the time limited. Still the deed was not stamped. The deed was therefore sent to the Taotai, but he ordered it taken to the magistrate, which was done, accompanied by a request to stamp it. After waiting three days one of the missionaries went in person to see the magistrate, who excused himself from stamping the deed until the two months should expire which had been allotted for the vacation of the property. In this interview the missionaries requested that the landlord, who had been imprisoned, should be released. The magistrate declined to release him, stating that the man was not locked up, but only summoned to be examined. Up to the present time he has not been released. A few days before the expiration of the two months the gentry, headed by Li Ching Ao, a previous governor of Ho-Nan, presented a petition, objecting to the lease of this particular property as a violation of the treaty and because it was objectionable to the people. After several interviews with the officials the missionaries, at their request, agreed to wait thirty days to allow the officials to procure satisfactory property in exchange for the piece selected. But no offer of exchange was ever made. One of the middlemen was sent to the Yamen and confined in chains. A few days before the month expired a petition was sent to the Taotai, citing the promises and orders previously given and made and showing how they had all been disregarded by the magistrate and asking him to decide justly and to order that, on the day fixed for taking possession of the house, the deed should be stamped, protection given, and the landlord and middlemen released. To this petition no reply was vouchsafed.

Upon the landlord's family having agreed that the missionaries might take possession of the property, they notified the Taotai that the time having expired one of them would go in the evening to the property and take charge of it. He was requested to order the magistrate to protect the occupant. In the evening of November 28 Rev. Gilbert Reid went to the house. In about an hour's time certain ringleaders entered the house and ejected him. He re-entered the house; some thirty of the mob also entered, and some picking up bricks, others sticks, and the strongest seizing him, he was once more forcibly ejected, being thrown to the ground with vio-lence, receiving a severe contusion of the left temple, besides having the skin torn from his hand and arms and suffering from concussion and being hit by stones.

Panting and half unconscious he lay for more than an hour in the street, the uproar continuing, when finally a constable appeared, assisted him to rise and led him to an inn. One of the missionaries immediately went to the Taotai's Yamên, but in spite of his plea of the urgency of the case no interview was granted. The magistrate's Yamên was then visited. The missionary was assured that the magistrate would go to the scene of the disorder and was told to go on before. At the east gate the guardians refused to open the gate. After repeated vain efforts to have it opened, the missionary returned to the magistrate's Yamên. The magistrate did not go to the scene of the mob at all. It was only after a few hours had elapsed, after the magistrate had been notified, that any news was received as to Mr. Reid's condition. In the morning two of the missionaries went to the Taotai's Yamên to gain an interview, but were refused. Two deputies, however, appeared and told the missionaries that the property could not be vacated for their possession because the gentry were unwilling.

Later an interview was had with the Taotai. The Taotai then made the plain statement that the opposing party was the gentry; that to suppress them was impossible, and that all the missionaries could do would be to accept back again their money which awaited them in the magistrate's Yamên. He also said the governor had no other mode of managing the case.

The foregoing is a plain statement of facts as presented to me by the missionaries, and I submit them for the consideration of your imperial highness and your excellencies, that some remedy may be devised for the wrongs and injuries inflicted.

I respectfully request that four things shall be ordered by your imperial highness and your excellencies to be done:

First. That the ringleaders in the assault on Mr. Reid be punished.

Second. That possession of the leased property be accorded to the missionaries and protection in its occupancy be assured.

Third. That if it shall be held by your imperial highness and your excellencies that it is more desirable to make an exchange of property, and to give to the missionaries another tract in lieu of the one that they have bought, that a suitable and satisfactory tract of laud be tendered to them. They desire above all things peace and har-

Fourth. That the landlord and middlemen be released. They are evidently guilty of no wrongdoing, and it is a matter of deep regret that they are made to suffer because of their connection with this transaction.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 160.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 531.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, December 26, 1887. (Received February 24, 1888.)

SIR: At this time, when civil-service reform is on trial in the United States, a slight comparison of the system with the competitive examination system in China may not be uninteresting.

Under the Chinese system the candidates for office are divided into three grades: "Budding geniuses," "Promoted scholars," and those who are "ready for office." The examination for the first grade takes place in the chief city of each district or hsien; for the second, in the provincial capital; for the third, at Peking.

A fourth examination remains for those who aspire to the distinguished honor of a place in the Imperial Academy.

About 2,000,000 persons are examined every year in China, and about 2 per cent. pass.

The successful students at the district examinations are exempt from corporal punishment, receive all possible social consideration, and are regarded as superior beings. Once in three years they repair to the provincial capital for competition for the second degree. Ten thousand students usually enter the lists.

The "promoted scholars" of all China appear at Peking the succeed-Successful examination there is followed by appointment to an office, which is determined by lot. Another examination, as stated, follows for a position as a member of the Hanlin College, and from these again a laureate is selected, by competitive tests, who is the model scholar of the empire for the season.

There is no restriction as to the age of applicants. Many instances are known of persons of forty, fifty, sixty, seventy, and even eighty years of age attending the examinations.

This system is liable to many objections from a western point of view. It holds out the attainment of official position as the one object of life. In free countries, where so many laudable objects of ambition are offered to the people, wisdom and prudence would discourage a desire for office. It creates a special class devoted to the government and subservient to improper official influence. It takes from the laborious avocations of life vast numbers of men who become consumers instead of producers.

It is by no means a practical system. The examinations are not designed to test the fitness of the applicants for any class of office. They are mostly the same everywhere, and in their subjects are confined to disquisitions on Confucian philosophy, repetition of passages from the classics, ancient history of the dynasties, with occasional treatises on agriculture, poetry, war, and finance.

The examination fixes the status of the successful applicant. He becomes one of the literati, a class of people whose anti-foreign proclivities are well known.

The arguments which are usually advanced in favor of this system in China may be summarized under three heads: It serves the state as a safety-valve, providing a career for those ambitious spirits who might otherwise foment disturbances. It operates as a counterpoise to the power of an absolute monarch. It gives the government a hold on the educated gentry and binds them to the support of existing institutions.

It will be acknowledged, I think, on a comparison of this system with civil-service reform in Great Britain and the United States, that exactly opposite ends are designed by the latter, except possibly the second purpose above stated.

In free countries frequent elections furnish a safety-valve for ambitious spirits; there is no absolute monarch to be guarded against, and there is no purpose in increasing the governmental influence, because existing institutions are not in any danger. Party spirit is sufficiently rife in Great Britain and the United States and requires no stimulant. Its zeal is now perhaps excessive. The appeal of patriotism is rather to the conscience of the voter than to faithfulness to party ties.

In western countries examinations in the civil service tend directly to secure the independence of the citizen.

He secures office not through personal abasement to great leaders or favoritism, but as the result of merit. In China these competitive examinations, while based on merit, build up a class entirely subservient to improper official influence.

The practical methods are also decidedly better with us than in China. The examinations here are at stated periods for often as many as 10,000 applicants at a time. They cover all over the empire the same general subjects. Only abstract knowledge is considered. The subjects of examination have no reference to any particular class of office. The successful applicant may enter any branch of the civil service.

Under our system all this is changed. Each examination is practical and tests the fitness of the applicant for the special official service that he desires to enter, whether it be the customs, the Treasury, the Post Office Department, the Patent Office, or any other.

In our system official influence is sedulously guarded from abuse. There is no such check here.

Here it is distinction in abstract scholarship which insures official appointment.

There is no good reason why great scholars should alone administer the government to the exclusion of the masses whose means or opportunities have not enabled them to become graduates of colleges.

Under our system, while high education is not a bar to success, it is not the only qualification or sometimes the most important. The civil-service act of 1883 provides for an examination of the fitness of the applicant. He may be eminently fit for the discharge of many duties, and yet be comparatively unlearned in letters, history, or languages.

That the Chinese system encourages education must be admitted.

So far it is better than no system.

It is plain that the Chinese themselves have seen the defects in the subjects of study and examination. They have lately given to the sciences a place in their curriculum, not obligatory it is true, but open to candidates who are to receive appropriate recognition.

This entering wedge of reform may enable the Chinese Government to build up a perfect system on the good foundation which was laid thousands of years ago.

Our system has been attacked as being a copy of the Chinese plan. But even this cursory comparison demonstrates that the objects and machinery of civil-service reform are entirely different from the Chinese competitive examinations. The different governmental conditions of the two countries demand different treatments. Our aim is to guard against the despotism of party; the Chinese rather seek to uphold the despotism of the emperor. Our aim is to fill the offices with independent men who are fit for the discharge of their duties.

The Chinese seek to perpetuate an educated class, and do not seek individual fitness.

Herein lies one of their great troubles. It happens every day that distinguished scholars who know nothing of engineering science are sent to superintend the public works; civilians are put in charge of troops or ships, and men are made judges who know nothing of law.

Under a complete civil-service system, like that of England or British India and our own law, as far as it extends, such absurdities are impossible.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 161.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 533.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, December 28, 1887. (Received February 24.)

SIR: Recurring to my dispatch No. 529, of date the 20th instant, I have the honor to inclose a translation of the Yamên's reply to my communication regarding the recent missionary trouble at Chi Nan Fu, by which you will observe that instructions have been sent to the Shantung authorities to clearly investigate and properly manage the affair.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 533.—Translation.]

The Tsung-li Yamên to Mr. Denby.

No. 19.] Peking, December 26, 1887.

YOUR EXCELLENCY: Upon the 21st instant the prince and ministers had the honor to receive a communication from your excellency citing the circumstances of a riot at Chi Nan Fu, which occurred on account of the lease of property by American missionaries, in which one of them was informed that one of the middlemen to the transaction was confined in chains; that the magistrate had disregarded the promises of the Taotai and that all the missionaries could do would be to accept back the money. Your excellency requested that the Shantung authorities be instructed to provide some remedy for the wrongs and injuries inflicted, and proposed four things be ordered by the prince and ministers to be done, etc.

The prince and ministers would state that it appears that there is no record of the case in question having been reported to the Yamen. But now having received your excellency's communication narrating the circumstances, the prince and ministers have addressed the governor of Shantung requesting him in turn to instruct the Taotai at Chi Nan Fu to clearly investigate and properly manage the affair. As in duty bound the prince and ministers send this communication in reply for your excellency's perusal.

No. 162.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 539.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES. Peking, January 7, 1888. (Received March 3.)

SIR: I have the honor to state that I have sent to each consul a copy of the inclosed circular.

I regret that I can not procure for the Department a copy of "Treaties between the Empire of China and foreign powers, together with regulations for the conduct of foreign trade," etc., edited by William F. Mayers, Chinese secretary to Her Britannic Majesty's legation at Peking. This book was published in 1877 by the North China Herald, Shanghai, and was for sale in London by Trübner & Co., 57 and 59 Ludgate Hill. I am informed that it is out of print in China.

I understand that the customs is preparing a book containing all the treaties, which I will send to the Department as soon as it appears.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 539.—Circular.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, January 7, 1888.

To the Consuls:

SIR: The act of Congress approved February 23, 1887, entitled "An act to provide for the execution of Article II of the treaty concluded between the United States of America and the Empire of China on the 17th day of November. 1880," etc., will be enforced by the consuls as far as it provides for the infliction of a personal punishment or fine for violation of its provisions.

. The jurisdiction of the consuls for that purpose is held to be exclusive.

In respect to the confiscation of opium you will be governed by the eight rules which have long governed confiscation proceedings in China, and which make provision for the recognition of her acknowledged rights and interests in the matter under the treaties. These rules provide for a trial before the cousul of the foreign power whose citizen is interested and an officer of the customs, and for an appeal to the minister and the foreign office.

For convenience I refer to page 527, Part I, Diplomatic Correspondence, 1868, and a book entitled "Treaties Between the Empire of China and foreign powers," edited by William F. Mayers, page 216.

These rules were agreed to and promulgated at Peking the 31st May, 1868.

I am, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 163.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 541.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, January 10, 1888. (Received March 3.)

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that some time last year an agent of the French Panama Canal Company came to Hong-Kong for the purpose of hiring Chinese coolies for the company's works. The governorgeneral at Canton, to whom he submitted the question, while stating that he had no objection to raise against hiring Chinese laborers for the Panama works, said that the subject must first receive the approval of the Imperial Government.

The French agent, together with a member of the English firm of Jardine & Matheson, to whom he had been recommended, then went to Tientsin and submitted the question to Li Hung Chang. This official declared against the scheme, saying that China had enough enterprises in which she could kill her people without being obliged to have recourse to the Panama Canal.

The question was then submitted by the French minister to the Tsung li Yamên, but I learn that no understanding has been reached.

In the mean while I learn that a French Government transport has left Hanoy, in Tongking, with a load of coolies for Panama, and that others will shortly follow, it being found that by shipping them from French territory the sanction of the Peking Government is not quite so indispensable.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 164.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 545.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, January 12, 1888. (Received March 3.)

SIR: I have the honor to report that the Shanghai general chamber of commerce lately addressed a communication to the dean of the diplomatic corps requesting the intervention of the ministers in the matter of bonded warehouses at Shanghai.

The chamber resolved that any scheme for the establishment of bonded warehouses which did not permit the bonding of all wharves and warehouses, or such as were prepared to accept and comply with the regulations, was against public policy and constituted an interference with trade and vested interests.

The ministers were requested to use their influence to induce the Chinese Government to rescind its edict, which designates the warehouses of the China Merchants' Navigation Company as the sole bonded warehouses and secures to that company the monopoly of the storage of goods.

The ministers are much inclined to favor the private bonded warehouse system as now in force in western countries; but they recognize that the establishment of bonded warehouses at all is a step forward which has only been reached after years of endeavor.

They take it for granted that after the present system has been put in operation and its benefit to commerce realized, it may and will, probably, be extended.

Recognizing that China has the abstract right to designate any warehouse it may select as a public bonded warehouse, they have, therefore, through the dean, advised the chamber that they decline at this time to press on the Chinese Government the propriety of permitting all warehouses to be bonded, but should results show that the general commerce requires an extension of the system, the ministers will use their influence to secure such extension.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 165.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 548.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, January 17, 1888. (Received March 17.)

SIR: I have the honor to forward to you, herewith, a clipping from the North China Daily News giving the provisional regulations published by the Chinese maritime customs for the bonding of goods.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 548.]

BONDED WAREHOUSES IN CHINA.

GENERAL REGULATIONS FOR BONDING.

The commissioner of customs sent us yesterday the following regulations, which come in operation on the 1st of January:

The Chinese Government having assented in the revised German treaty to the experimental establishment of bonded warehouses at Shanghai, the following provisional regulations have been drawn up. They are divided into four sections, according as they affect—1, vessels; 2, cargo; 3, the custom-house; 4, the bonded warehouse:

1. Rules for the guidance of German vessels.

1. After arrival and consular report, the import manifest of German vessels are to be lodged with the customs.

2. When the consul's report has been received, the manifest handed in, and permits to land applied for and issued, the vessel will be allowed to discharge.

3. When import cargo has been discharged, export cargo shipped, and dues and duties paid, the customs clearance will be issued. The customs will enter on the clearance the amount of import duties paid on foreign goods and the number of packages of foreign goods bonded upon which duty has not been paid.

4. The rules regarding export duties, coast trade duties, and tonnage dues remain as before.

2. Rules for the guidance of importers.

5. A distinction is made between a vessel's import foreign cargo and her native cargo. While foreign goods may be bonded or not, at the importer's option, native goods will be treated as before, i. e., released upon payment of duty, and will not be allowed to be placed in bond.

6. Foreign goods may, at the importer's option, be either treated as before, i. e., pay duty and be released, or may be bonded. The importer must state on his import application in addition to the description, number of packages, weight, and value of the goods, on which goods he wishes to pay duty and on which he wishes to defer payment, in order that the customs may know whether to issue a duty memo. or a bond-

Local rule 1 .- An application for general discharge permit will be held to be an application for importation on payment of duty.

The importer must in all cases obtain a bonding permit before landing his cargo and placing it in bond.

Local rule 1 .- Goods for which a bonding permit is issued must be taken direct to the bonded warehouse.

8. If the importer wishes to take samples of goods placed in bond, he must first obtain a sample permit from the customs before opening the packages. warehouse keeper will, upon production of this sample permit, allow the packages to be opened and samples taken, and the original packages will then be closed in whatever way the importer and warehouse keeper may agree upon.

9. When the importer wishes his goods, or any portion of them, to be released from bond, he must supply the customs with a description of the goods, number of packages, weight, value, date of bonding, name of importing vessel, destination, name of exporting vessel, etc., when applying for duty memo., release permit, or shipping permit. Goods for sale in Shanghai, or for re-export to a Yangtze port, must pay import duty before being released from bond. If intended for re-exportation to other treaty ports, or to a foreign port, they will not be required to pay duty before quitting bond.

Local rule 1.—Goods for which a permit to ship in bond (non-duty paid) or a permit to withdraw from bond for shipment is issued must, in case of failure of shipment, be taken direct to the customs jetty for examination; application to withdraw from bond for import must then be made for such shut-out cargo.

10. Goods removed from the bonded warehouse without a permit will be confiscated, and the proprietors of the bonded warehouse will be responsible for the amount of the duty leviable.

11. Twelve months are proposed as the limit during which goods may remain in bond. If not applied for by the importer at the expiration of that period, the proprietors of the bonded warehouse must pay the import duty and remove the goods

12. The insurance of bonded goods, warehouse charges, and indemnity for fire or loss, are matters to be arranged between the proprietors of the bonded warehouse and the importers, and do not concern the customs.

3. Regulations to be given effect to by the customs.

13. Seeing that German vessels will arrive with cargo which is, and with cargo which is not, to be bonded, the customs must first receive the consular report and import manifest before issuing permits to discharge, etc.

14. On application from the importer to bond foreign goods, the customs will issue the bonding permit with the permit to land.

15. On application from the importer, the customs will issue a sample permit to open packages in bond for the purpose of taking samples.

When the importer desires to dispose of bonded goods in Shanghai, or to re-export them to a Yangtze port, the customs will, upon application, issue a duty memo.. and upon production of the receipt will grant a release permit, and, if required, a Yangtze export permit.

17. Upon application from the importer to re-export bonded goods to a treaty port, other than a Yangtze port, or to a foreign port, the customs will issue a release permit and an export permit.

18. The customs will enter on the clearance of each German vessel the amount of import duty paid, and the number of packages placed in bond on which payment of duty is deferred.

19. The form of bond to be entered into by the proprietors of the bonded warehouse, the books to be kept there, the arrangements for either permanently stationing customs officers at the warehouse or for periodical inspection, as well as the rule for the daily routine of work at the warehouse, will be decided by the Shanghai customs as circumstances require.

20. In the quarterly returns of revenue the duty paid on goods released from bond is to be entered in the return for the current quarter; and in the annual trade returns such goods are to be entered under their proper flag. Goods remaining in bond are to be treated, as regards these returns, as yet not imported.

4. Rules to be observed by the proprietors of bonded warehouses.

21. The proprietors of warehouses appointed by the Shanghai customs to store goods in bond must enter into bonds in which they bind themselves to observe all the regulations of the Shanghai customs, and engage that no goods shall enter the warehouse without a permit, and that, once in the warehouse, goods shall not be opened or released without the proper permit; and in the event of goods being so opened or released without permit, the said proprietors bind themselves to pay a fine of so many times the duty leviable on the goods concerned.

Local rule 1.—Bonded warehouses shall be exclusively reserved for the storage of bonded goods.

Local rule 2.—Warehouses now authorized by the Shanghai customs to store goods in bond are as follows, viz:

Warehouse No. 14 at the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company's lower Hongkew wharf, for the storage of bonded cargo ex vessels moored at that wharf, and where arrangements will be made for the reception, landing, and storage of bonded goods, water-borne, from vessels not moored at that wharf

The bonding of other warehouses will be made known to the public by a notification displayed at the custom-house.

Local rule 3.—Each door of every bonded warehouse shall be marked in conspicuous letters with the word "bonded;" and each such door will be provided by the customs, but at the expense of the warehouse proprietor, with a second lock, the key of which shall remain in the hands of the customs officers.

22. The proprietors of bonded warehouses must keep books, the form of which will be determined by the customs, in which must be recorded particulars of all goods which enter and leave the warehouse, as well as full particulars of the opening of packages for the purposes of taking samples.

23. Custom officers, whether permanently stationed at the warehouse or coming for the purpose of inspection, shall at all times have access to, and be at liberty to examine, both books and cargo without hindrance on the part of the proprietors of the bonded warehouse.

24. Goods for which the importer has obtained a bonded permit will be checked on arrival at the bonded warehouse by the warehouse keeper in the presence of the customs officer before being stored. At the same time an entry will be made in the warehouse book, and the bonding permit will then be receipted and handed to the customs officer to be filed.

25. On the presentation by the importer of a sample permit to take samples, the bonded warehouse keeper must inform the customs officer, in order that both may be present when the packages are opened and the samples extracted. On the packages being reclosed, the warehouse keeper must make a full entry in the book kept for the purpose, and then hand the sample permit to the customs officer to be filed

26. When the importer brings to the bonded warehouse a release permit for goods to be disposed of in Shanghai or re-exported to a Yangtze port it will be the duty of the warehouse keeper to inform the customs officer, in order that both may personally see to the release of the goods. The warehouse keeper must at the same time enter the particulars in the prescribed duty-paid book, and then hand the release permit to the customs officer to he filed.

27. When the importer brings to the bonded warehouse a release permit for goods to be re-exported to a treaty port other than a Yangtze port, or to a foreign port, it will be the duty of the warehouse keeper to inform the customs officer, in order that both may personally see to the release of the goods. The warehouse keeper must at the time enter the particulars in the prescribed re-export book, and then hand the release permit to the customs officer to be filed.

28. Twelve months is proposed as the limit during which goods may remain in bond. At the expiration of that period, if the importer has not applied for his goods, the proprietors of the bonded warehouse must pay the import duty and remove them elsewhere.

29. The storage and custody of goods in the bonded warehouse, warehouse charges, insurance, etc., are declared to be private matters to be arranged by the proprietors of the bonded warehouse, and do not concern the customs. The customs, however, are to be kept informed of the warehouse rules.

The above regulations are provisional and subject to alteration, or cancellation, as the Shanghai customs may from time to time decide to be necessary. The four main divisions, however, are to be maintained.

No. 166.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 551.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, January 21, 1888. (Received March 17.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a translation of a letter from the King of Corea to the Viceroy Li Hung Chang, which appeared in the Shih-pao, a Chinese paper published at Tientsin, January 13, 1888.

The King states that as soon as his envoys have performed the duty of offering their congratulations, he intends to recall them and leave charges d'affaires in their places; that they will be instructed to show the greatest respect towards the minister of China.

He recites the imperial decree in which it was laid down that the position of Corea toward China, as well as her international relationship, must be preserved; the etiquette of a dependent country must be observed in intercourse with the ministers of China by consulting them in all matters not expressly provided for. He eites the rules laid down by the Viceroy that the Corean envoy should present himself first at the Chinese legation and ask an introduction on his arrival; that the Corean minister must take his place after the Chinese minister on official occasions, and must be guided in all matters by the Chinese minister. These, he says, are the duties of a dependent nation towards its suzerain.

He goes on to cite other comments of the Viceroy, all enforcing vassalage of Corea to China. He assures the Viceroy of his intention to maintain his position towards China as well as his international relations, and promises conformity to the views of the Viceroy and renews his admiration, etc.

He has adopted the rules laid down for him and ordered his envoys to be guided by them.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 551—Letter from King of Corea to Viceroy Li Hung Chang, published in Shih-pao January 13, 1888.]

The King of Corea makes a communication.

On the 11th of November our foreign secretary, Chao Piugwu, reported to us the arrival on that day of a dispatch addressed to him by Yüan, Chinese resident in Corea. It appeared from the dispatch that on the 9th of November, at 8 p. m., the resident had received a telegram from your excellency in reply to one sent earlier by himself. Your excellency took note of the statement made by us, that the appointment of ministers plenipotentiary to European courts having already been announced to the representatives of those courts in Corea, and reported by them to their respective Governments, it would be unadvisable to change the title of our envoys, as such a proceeding would appear strange, but as soon as our envoys had performed the duty of offering our congratulations, it was our intention to recall them and leave charges d'affaires in their places, as being a more economical plan, and we should instruct our envoys on arriving in any foreign country scrupulously to adhere to the old etiquette and show the greatest respect towards the minister for China.

Your excellency was pleased with our compliant toue, and desired to make a special effort to accommodate our wishes. An imperial decree, however, had been issued to you in which it was laid down that, when the envoys were dispatched, both the position of Corea towards China and her international relationships must alike be preserved; the envoys must observe the etiquette of a dependent country in all their intercourse with the ministers for China, consulting them and making reference to them in all matters not expressly provided for, so that perfect harmony might be maintained. Your excellency therefore felt bound to lose no time in framing three rules; first, that a Corean envoy on reaching any country should present himself at the Chinese legation to announce his arrival, and request the Chinese minister to introduce him at the foreign office, but afterwards it would not be necessary to follow this course; secondly, that at receptions at court, official banquets and other entertainments, the Corean minister must take his place after the Chinese minister; and, thirdly, that in international matters of serious importance the Corean minister must privately consult the Chinese minister beforehand and be guided by his views.

These, your excellency said, were all matters regarding the relations of a depend-

These, your excellency said, were all matters regarding the relations of a dependent nation with its suzerain, in which other powers were not concerned and with which they could not interfere; and they were what was meant in the decree above quoted when it spoke of matters not expressly provided for, and of the maintenance of perfect harmony.

Your excellency added, that the welfare of Corea was inseparable from that of The Cuinese ministers were honorable men in high position, who would not fail to show complete courtesy to their Corean colleagues. Your excellency desired the resident here to make this known to our foreign secretary in order that it might be communicated to us, and that we might, without fail, issue instructions to our envoys in the sense desired. On the arrival of our dispatch itself, your excellency would again send us a reply.

Your excellency's letter shows that you have followed His Majesty the Emperor's kindly policy of protecting the weak, sympathizing as much as possible with our country in its troubles and graciously assenting to our request for the retention of the title of the envoys, so that our faith may be preserved in the eyes of the world and no grounds be given for suspicion to foreign nations.

Henceforth both our position toward China and our international relations will be maintained, the gods of our country will enjoy perpetual peace, and a stop will be put to troublesome remarks.

All this is due to your excellency's unceasing desire for the complete protection of our interests, for which we shall ever feel the most lively gratitude.

At the end of this month we shall give orders for the departure, first of Pu Ting-Yang, our envoy plenipotentiary to the United States, and then of Chao Chen-hsi, our envoy plenipotentiary to Great Britain, Germany, Russia, Italy, and France, in order that they may perform their appointed duties.

We have carefully studied the three rules drawn up by your excellency in conformity with the Imperial decree, and we are more than ever filled with admiration at their adequacy and completeness.

We have directed our foreign secretary to reply to the resident, informing him of our immediate adoption of the rules, and we have ordered the two envoys to be guided by them. We at the same time feel bound to convey our thanks direct to your excellency, and request you to address His Majesty the Emperor on our behalf, in accordance with the terms of this letter.

No. 167.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 553.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, January 26, 1888. (Received March 17.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of my communication to the Yamên on the subject of the obstruction in the Canton River.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 553.]

Mr. Denby to the Foreign Office.

[To be sent before the 26th January in the form of an official "white" note.]

After consultation with my colleagues I have the honor to present to your highness and your excellencies the following additional observations relative to the removal of the Shalu barrier at Canton and the measures proposed by the Chinese Government to alleviate the injury caused to foreign commerce by the artificial obstructions erected in the river by the provincial authorities.

It is one of the principles of international law which during the last half century has had more than one practi al application that, while the right of a government to take such measures for the defense of its territory as it may consider necessary even to the detriment of alien interests may not be questioned, such government is expected, the cause for the extraordinary measures adopted by it once having disappeared, to replace matters as they were before the necessity for such measures arose, and especially to remove immediately any obstructions in the channels of commerce to free intercourse which may have been erected for purposes of defense.

This rule applies equally to the state of things in the Canton River.

Canton has been opened by treaty to foreign trade. Large sums have been spent there by foreign merchants for the erection of dwelling houses and godowns, and it is, therefore, only just and equitable that these obstructions which have been erected in the river of Canton for purposes of defense should be removed now that the necessity for them has disappeared.

The proposition of the provincial authorities to station a customs assistant of the fourth class at Whampoa, which your highness and your excellen ies have seen fit to transmit to me, would have been very well if it had been put into force for a short time before the removal of the barrier could have been undertaken, but it can not be thought of as an equivalent for the losses and delays which f reign shipping has to suffer in the Canton River in consequence of the non-removal of the obstructions placed in it.

I can therefore only most earnestly request your highness and your excellencies to forward to the provincial authorities at Canton with as little delay as possible the necessary instructions for the removal of the barrier at Shalu.

If, as it might seem from a passage in the last communication of your highness and your excellencies to me on this subject, that an erroneous impression has been produced upon the mind of His Majesty the Emperor on this subject by an incomplete or one-sided report from the provincial authorities, I trust that the impression will be removed by your highness and your excellencies placing before the Emperor not only the facts of the case as I have had the honor to place them before you, but also the political consequences which are likely to result in future from a non-compliance with a generally recognized international rule as well as from a violation of treaty stipulations by which, with the express sanction of His Majesty the Emperor, Canton has been opened to foreign trade and navigation and has to remain so. Your highness and your excellencies will allow me at the same time to point out to them that the necessity of appealing to His Majesty the Emperor for reconsideration of this subject might have been spared to the Tsung-li Yamen, if, as it is the case everywhere else, questions having an international bearing were not decided upon a report from the provincial authorities alone, without having been first submitted to the Tsung-li Yamên, to whom the foreign ministers have to look as the representatives of the Chinese Government in its international relations.

I avail, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 168.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 554.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, January 26, 1888. (Received March 17.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of my communication to the Yamên on drawback certificates on the Yangtse.

I have only to state in addition that the consideration of this question by my predecessor in 1883 resulted, December 19, 1883, in the adoption of a set of rules by the Government.

The first rule was-

Drawbacks, whether for native produce or foreign imports, issued after the 1st January, 1884, may be cashed or tendered for duties of any kind at the option of the holder.

This rule was acceptable to the foreign merchants generally, but it was canceled February 25, 1884. The only reason for this cancellation was that the redemption of drawbacks would be detrimental to the customs revenues.

In addition to the arguments advanced in the communication now sent, it may be stated that shippers are compelled to insure the drawbacks. As matters now stand, if a cargo intended for exportation is lost in transit to Shanghai, the drawback certificate never issues, and the half duty paid is lost. Hence the otherwise needless expense of insurance.

Altogether it is estimated that on the one article of hides, which are largely exported from Hankow, the drawback system produced a loss to the shippers of 1,700 taels in 1886.

A serious effort will now be made by the ministers to restore Rule I, above cited.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 554.]

Mr. Denby to the Foreign Office.

Informal. 7

JANUARY 23, 1888.

YOUR IMPERIAL HIGHNESS AND YOUR EXCELLENCIES:

For a long time past the way in which the rule contained in article 5, section 1, or the revised regulations (of 1862) of trade on the Yangtze Kiang has been carried out, has given rise to numerous complaints on the part of the foreign mercantile communities at the Yangtze ports.

Under this rule the shipper of native produce at a river port, on board a steamer provided with a river pass, must pay both export and coast-trade duty. If the native produce is exported from Shanghai within the twelve months allowed, the shipper obtains from the Shanghai customs a certificate of its re-exportation, on production of which at the river port of shipment the customs at that port issue a drawback for the amount of coast-trade duty paid.

This rule imposes already a certain amount of hardships upon the foreign exporter, as he has to deposit with the Imperial Chinese customs the amount of coast trade duty, even for goods intended from the beginning for exportation, but the injury done to the foreign exporter becomes still more apparent when one bears in mind that the drawback granted to the exporter on production of the Shanghai certificate is neither exchangeable for ready money nor can it be used for the payment of other duties than coast-trade duties. The consequence of this state of things is that the exporter has either to keep his drawback certificate for many months, until he finds an opportunity for using it again, or has to sell it to a third person at a considerable loss, amounting often to more than 4 per cent.

A remedy to this state of things, very injurious to the foreign exporter, could be easily found if the Chinese Government would consent to make the drawback certificates for coast-trade duty exchangeable for ready money, as is the case with drawback certificates for import duty.

It seems hardly just and equitable that the customs authorities should withhold from the foreign exporter money which, after all, has been deposited with them only as a security, and which should be returned to him as soon as he has proved to the satisfaction of the customs authorities that the goods shipped by him from the river port have been exported from Shanghai.

Under these circumstances, I venture to hope that the facts which I have had the honor to place before your highness and your excellencies will meet with your favorable consideration, and that you will see your way of doing away with a practice which, while unprofitable to the Chinese Government, constitutes in fact a great hardship for the foreign exporter.

I avail, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 169.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 555.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES. Peking, January 26, 1888. (Received March 17.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of my communication to the Yamên relating to the camphor monopoly by the Government in Formosa.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENRY.

[Inclosure in No. 555.]

Mr. Denby to the Foreign Office.

No. 4.7

January 25, 1888.

YOUR HIGHNESS AND YOUR EXCELLENCIES:

In 1869 the then British consul at Taiwan Fu concluded with the local authorities an arrangement by which the camphor trade, until then a monopoly of the Chinese Government, was thrown open to merchants in general. This agreement was accepted by the Chinese Government and communicated by the Tsung-li Yamên, with the rules and regulations thereto, to the foreign legations.

Until 1886 this arrangement had worked satisfactorily to all parties concerned, when in this year it was withdrawn by order of his excellency the new governor of Formosa. Without authorization, or even instructions from the Chinese Government or the foreign legations, both parties to the agreement in force, even without previous information to the foreign merchants, to the foreign consuls, yea, even to the Chinese local authorities, the rules in force for nearly twenty years were abolished and the government monopoly, or more properly speaking, the monopoly of the provincial exchequer, re-established. Camphor transported from the interior to Taiwan Fu under transit passes was seized and confiscated and the protests and reclamations of the owners as well as of the consuls left unnoticed. The Tsung-li Yamen, on being appealed to, declared without hesitation that the arrangement in question, concluded in 1869, having obtained the sanction of the imperial government could not be set aside by the provincial authorities, and that these latter would be called upon to explain their action. There the matter has rested ever since it was first brought to the knowledge of the Tsung-li Yamên, and the provincial authorities without minding in the least the instructions they may have received from the Tsung-li Yamên, and the provincial authorities without minding in the least the instructions they may have received from the Tsung-live authorities. li Yamen, simply continue to ignore the former international arrangement and to act upon their own judgment.

This way of proceeding on the part of the provincial authorities throws a very clear but very unsatisfactory light upon the relations existing on one side between the foreign representatives and the Tsung-li Yamên, on the other between that body and the provincial authorities. Everywhere else the minister of foreign affairs is the representative of his government in its relations with foreign powers; he takes the orders of his sovereign or chief magistrate of his country for the transaction of international business, and his decisions and declaration on such questions engage and bind his government. Here in Peking the situation is utterly changed. The Tsung-li Yamên seems to have no power with regard to the provincial authorities, or at least not to be willing to exercise it. Its decisions are simply ignored by the provincial authorities, and its functions seem to consist principally in transmitting complaints from the foreign legations to the local authorities and vice versa, in the latter case very often in a form which goes far to prove that no supervision or discretion has been exercised by the Yamen even in this office of intermediary.

If for once the Yamen should come to a decision on a point, its orders are generally put aside entirely or partly by the provincial authorities, and worse even, questions of the greatest national importance are settled over the head of the Yamên by a direct reference of the provincial authorities to the throne.

Your highness and your excellencies will easily understand that such a state of things must be fraught with difficulties and dangers to the international relations of China. It has been at the express demand of the Chinese Government and with the express understanding that the Chinese Government was willing and in a position to assume the duties and responsibilities of a central government, that the foreign powers have consented to do away with the direct applications for redress that used to be addressed formerly to provincial and local authorities. But the assurances given by the Chinese Government have been left in many respects unfulfilled, and out of the indefinite performance of these duties has grown delay in the dispatch of public business between the Yamen and the legations.

It is with great diffidence that I have ventured to speak thus frankly to your highness and your excellencies, but I can not disguise the fact that serious difficulties, if not dangers, may arise from the position actually occupied by the Tsung-li Yamên. The way in which I have had the honor to lay the state of things as understood and judged by me before your highness and your excellencies, will enable you, if necessary, to obtain by representation to the throne greater power or another constitution, if either in your opinion shall be necessary, to allow the Yamen to act the part of a foreign office such as it is generally understood and necessary for the maintenance of international relations.

But while leaving the decision of this question to the wisdom of your highness and your excellencies, I have the honor to request you to issue without delay to the provincial authorities of Formosa the necessary instructions to abolish immediately the provincial monopoly on camphor illegally re-established by them, and to revert to the execution of the arrangement of 1869 as agreed upon between the Tsung-li Yamên and the foreign legations.

I avail, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 170.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 556.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,

Peking, January 26, 1888. (Received March 17.) SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of my communication to the Yamên.

The statement of the rights of foreigners and the taxation on foreign goods is forcibly and clearly made by the dean of the diplomatic body.

The ministerial body is largely indebted to him for his able presentation of the important questions handled in this communication and in those which precede it.

I rejoice to see the ministers take up unanimously and seriously all these questions.

Sir John Walsham, Mr. von Brandt, and I have at divers times presented most of these subjects to the consideration of the foreign office, but they are now brought to the attention of the Government for the first time by the concerted action of all the ministers.

I anticipate favorable results therefrom.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 556.]

Mr. Denby to the Foreign Office.

[To be sent before the 26th of January in the form of an official "white" note.]

YOUR HIGHNESS AND YOUR EXCELLENCIES:

In the month of July, 1886, the lekin authorities at Taiwan Fu claimed that foreign merchants established there should pay lekin on native produce, their property, forwarded from Taiwan Fu to Auping for shipment at the latter place.

In order to avoid a complete stoppage of trade and the reclamations for damages which would not have failed to result from it, Her British Majesty's consul at Taiwan Fu made an arrangement with the local authorities according to which foreign exporters were to be allowed to forward their goods pending the decision to be arrived at at Peking, on depositing with the Chinese authorities a guaranty for the amount of lekin claimed.

To the representation of some of the foreign legations to the Yamen of the illegality of the pretension put forward by the lekin authorities at Taiwan Fu, your highness and your excellencies replied that instructions had been given to the inspector-general of foreign maritime customs to send one of his officials to Formosa to inquire into the matter and to make the necessary arrangements on the spot.

Since then nearly eighteen months have elapsed without anything having been done by the Tsung-li Yamèn or by the inspector-general, while, on the other hand, the lekin authorities have not only not modified their pretensions, but have lately even claimed the payment of the guaranty notes given by the foreign exporters.

There can be no doubt of the illegality of the action of the lekin authorities. Native produce, the bona fide property of foreigners, has, on exportation, to pay no other duty than the export duty, or, if it is shipped to a Chinese port, coast-trade duty; the foreign exporter has to do only with the custom-houses established at the places or ports open to foreign commerce, and the lekin authorities have no right to interfere with his business. To claim lekin on produce between Taiwau Fu and Auping would be equivalent to doing so between Tientsin and Taku, Shanghai and Wusung. Ganton and Whampoa, and between all the other places where the market open under treaty is not at the same time the place of shipment.

The rules under which a foreigner has to pay taxes on native produce are simple and clear: If he purchases in the interior he has either to pay the transit duty, or, if he does not take out a transit pass, all inland taxes legally claimed from a native merchant.

If he purchases it in an open place, he has neither to pay any tax whatever, nor is it his business to convince himself that the native merchant from whom he buys has paid the inland tax*s, it being the duty of the Chinese authorities and not of the foreign merchants to protect the Chinese exchequer against defraudations. On expertation the foreign merchant has to pay only those duties paid by treaty and none other.

The action of the Taiwan Fu lekin authorities being clearly in contravention of the above rules, which have been in force ever since the conclusion of the treaties, I have the bonor (again) to request your highness and your excellencies to forward without delay the necessary instructions to the lekin authorities at Taiwan Fu to abstain from their illegal proceedings and to act in future according to the rules laid down in the treaties as enunciated above.

I avail myself, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 171.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 285.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, February 9, 1888.

SIR: I have received and read with attention your dispatch No. 521 of December 9 last, transmitting and commenting on a publication in a Chinese newspaper purporting to be a recent memorial addressed by the King of Corea to the Emperor of China, praying for authority to send envoys to represent the Kingdom near the Government of the United States and also at the courts of the principal European powers.

My instruction No. 281 of the 26th ultimo, communicating for your information copy of an instruction and its inclosures, sent under the same date to Mr. Dinsmore, at Seoul will have informed you of the reception of the Corean minister, Pak Chung Yang, at this capital, on a footing of diplomatic equality with the representatives of other States which maintain treaty relations with the United States.

Your comments upon this singular memorial attracted my consideration. I quite agree with you that the agitation of the subject of Corea's complete independence of China, by representatives of the United States is neither desirable nor beneficial; nor do I think it incumbent on this Department now to pursue any question heretofore raised as to the relations of Corea to China, unless called upon to do so by an actual case requiring affirmative action.

The claim of China has never been definitely stated. Upon the negotiation of our treaty with Corea, the King wrote a letter to the President which was communicated to the Secretary of State by Admiral Shufeldt, and which was before the Senate when the treaty was approved. According to the translation sent hither by Admiral Shufeldt in his report to the Secretary of State, dated May 29, 1882, the letter reads as follows:

The Chose Hsien country (Corea) is a dependency of China, but the management of her governmental affairs, home and foreign, has always been vested in the sovereign.

Now, as the Governments of the United States and Corea are about to enter into treaty relations, the intercourse between the two nations shall be carried on in every respect on terms of equality and courtesy, and the King of Corea clearly asserts that all the articles of the treaty shall be acknowledged and carried into effect according to the laws of independent States.

In the matter of Corea being a dependency of China (in) any question that may arise between them in consequence of such dependency the United States shall in no way interfere.

The King has accordingly deputed commissioners for the purpose of negotiating the treaty, and now, as in duty bound, addresses this communication for the information of the President of the United States.

(The date of this letter corresponds to May 15, 1882, while the treaty was signed May 22.)

According to the translation communicated to the Department by Mr. Holcombe in his No. 133 of June 26, 1882, the letter reads as follows:

Cho-sen has been from ancient times a state tributary to China, yet hitherto full sovereignty has been exercised by the Kings of Cho-sen in all matters of internal administration and foreign relations. Cho-sen and the United States, in establishing now by mutual consent a treaty, are dealing with each other upon a basis of equality. The King of Cho-sen distinctly pledges his own sovereign powers for the complete enforcement in good faith of all the stipulations of the treaty in accordance with international law.

As regards the various duties which devolve upon Cho-sen as a tributary state to China, with these the United States has no concern whatever.

Having appointed envoys to negotiate a treaty it appears to be my duty, in addition thereto, to make this preliminary declaration.

This letter, which has been accepted by China as authoritative, contains the only official statement ever received by this Government as to Corea's relation to China.

In the report above referred to Admiral Shufeldt said that the treaty between the United States and Corea-

Was agreed to without any political consideration whatever, and only upon the promise, which I had previously made and reported, that I would forward to the President of the United States a letter from the King of Cho-sen, stating the political relations existing between Cho-sen and China.

The position of the United States is that of simply requiring the observance of treaty obligations, and it is not thought expedient to pursue any controversy as to the relations of China and Corea, further than may be necessary to enable us to secure such observance. The interest of this Government is not political. It seeks merely the protection of American citizens and their commerce, and is not disposed to go beyond the point where such protection can be obtained.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 172.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 567.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, February 9, 1888. (Received April 7.)

SIR: As matter of convenient reference, I inclose herewith a table of statistics of Protestant missions in China, December, 1887.

The number of foreign missionaries is now 1,040, which is 121 more than in December, 1886, 43 of these being men and 74 unmarried women. This increase is chiefly due to the China inland mission, Native ordained ministers number 175, an increase of 35; unordained native helpers number 1,316, an increase of 30; communicants number 32,260, an increase of 4,260, or about 14 per cent.

The total of contributions is $38,236.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 567.] Statistics of Protestant missions in China, December, 1887.

	Date of mission.	Foreign missionaries.				ordained ers.	utive		ls.	b.y.
Name of society.		Men.	Wives.	Single women.	Total.	Native orda	ative minist nordained helpe	Communicants.	Pupils in schools.	Contributions b
London Missionary Society A. B. C. F. M American Baptist, North American Protestant Episcopal. American Presbyterian, North. American Reformed (Dutch). British and Foreign Bible So.	1807 1830 1834 1835 1838 1842	28 29 5 10 45 .5	21 25 5 6 34 5	11 12 2 1 19 3	70 66 12 17 98 13	8 21 4 22 19 5	69 86 16 21 176 19	3, 595 1, 545 371 362 3, 786 820	2, 186 559 145 900 1, 932 124	$17, 200. 00 180. 00 279. 26 410. 76 2, 448. 88 2, 076. 29
ciety Church Missionary Society Bnglish Baptists Methodist Episcopal, North Seventh-day Baptist, South	1843 1844 1845 1847 1847	13 26 19 30 1 13	7 19 15 27 1 10	8 14 1 9	20 53 34 71 3 4 32	12 1 43	114 177 8 87 7 24	2, 507 1, 062 3, 349 24 1, 641	2, 152 160 1, 084 36 232	3, 106. 80 450. 00 3, 473. 57
Basel Mission English Presbyterian Rhenish Mission Methodist Episcopal, South Berlin Foundling Hospital Wesleyan Missionary Society	1847 1847 1847 1848 1850 1852	20 21 3 8 1	15 15 3 7 1	7 14 4 5	32 35 43 6 29 6 32	3 5	66 84 6 7	1, 808 3, 553 60 222 80 935	598 370 200 725	654. 00 3, 920. 00 210. 34
Women's Union Mission	1859 1860 1864 1865 1865	7 6 123	4 5 52	5 1 90	5 11 5 12 265	12	13 73	1, 218 1, 218 634 1, 932	105 162 273 50 173	8. 00 100. 25 250. 00 401. 34
	1868 1868 1868 1869 1871	4 3 10 3 2	2 3 6 3 2	4	6 6 20 6 4	2	42 11 4 46	306 83 25 1, 765	77 260 5 527	240. 00 72. 00 975. 60
Gospel. American Bible Society Established Church of Scotland. Berlin Missions General Protestant Evangelical Society	1874 1876 1878 1882	4 8 3 4	2 4 3 4	2'1	8 12 6 9	3	60 3 21	30 500	80 70
Bible Christians Foreign Christian Missionary Society Book and Tract Society Society of Friends	1885 1886 1886 1886	5 1 1 4	1 2 1 1 1	3	5 7 2 2 8		1	30	32	4.00
Total December, 1887		489	320	231	1,040	175	1,316	32, 260	13, 777	38, 236, 70
Increase over 1886		4	4	74	121	35	20	4, 260	198	19, 862. 14

With compliments of the compiler.

S. H. GULICK, Editor Chinese Recorder.

No. 173.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 569.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES. Peking, February 13, 1888. (Received April 7.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a Chinese proclamation on rendition of fugitives from justice, which was issued by the four high provincial authorities of the province of Kuang Tung.

The occasion of its issuance was probably the arrest, at the Chinese town near Hong-Kong, of a member of the Triad Society a year and a half ago. He started in a steam-launch to go to British Kowloon, which is opposite to Hong-Kong. The launch changed its destination and went to the Chinese town. The man jumped overboard, but was arrested and executed.

The examination into the case did not disclose any guilty complicity of the managers of the steam-launch, and the matter was dropped. The seizure of the man alongside the wharf did not constitute an infringement of international law. The proclamation is issued in order to guard against similar occurrences in the future.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 569.]

A CHINESE PROCLAMATION ON RENDITION.

[The rendition proclamation of four high imperial officers of Kwang Tung: Ko, provincial treasurer; Wong, chief criminal judge; Ging, salt commissioner; Tin, grain intendant.]

The proclamation is said to be for general information. It is issued in accordance with instructions received from the Tsung-li Yamen by Chang, viceroy of the Two Kwang, to the following effect:

"The treaties between China and foreign nations contain clear provision for the rendition of law-breakers.

"For a considerable period no differences or difficulties arose." But in the instance of some criminals of great notoriety special methods were re-Fearing that if reports were made and their rendition applied for, the matter would leak out and certain criminals known to be in hiding under foreign juristion would contrive to make good their escape, attempts were made to effect arrests without first reporting to the (foreign) authorities concerned.

"Such practices are contrary to law, and in the result lead to much trouble.

"Foreseeing this, instructions are now forwarded that all subordinate officials under the viceroy's control may be enjoined to act in accordance with the treaty provisions. When a Chinese criminal flees for hiding to a foreign country the matter must be reported to the officials of that country, and application made for the rendition of the culprit. No secret devices may be resorted to with a view to make an arrest."

The viceroy is further directed by the Peking authorities to issue a proclamation conveying to his subordinate officers the instructions of the Tsung-li Yamên. This is done accordingly by the high provincial authorities (above named) in the viceroy's

The proclamation proper is addressed to all whom it may concern, civil and military:

"From this time onward none may engage in secret attempts to capture (Chinese) criminals who are under foreign protection."

Positive directions are added:

"First report on the matter to your own officials that they may make representations to the viceroy. He will make applications that criminals in hiding abroad be delivered up for proper punishment. Use no underhand devices to arrest criminals, lest trouble be thereby caused."

Issued in Canton, 4th January, 1888.

No. 174.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 572.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, February 15, 1888. (Received April 21.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a translation of the reply of the Yamên to my dispatch (No. 1) of January 25, relating to the levying of lekin on goods bought at a treaty port in Formosa for export.

It will be seen that the Yamên defends the lekin chiefly on the ground that the foreign merchants have generally failed to take out transit passes, and as they do not thus pay half duty should pay lekin.

The foreign ministers insist that the provincial authorities should collect lekin in the interior; that, if they fail to do so, it is their fault; and that there is no warrant for collecting lekin on goods owned by foreigners at a treaty port.

There will be further correspondence on this subject, which will be reported to you.

I have, etc.

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 572.]

The foreign office to Mr. Denby.

No. 2.1

PEKING, February 11, 1888.

YOUR EXCELLENCY: Upon the 25th of January, 1887, the prince and ministers had the honor to receive a communication from your excellency in the matter of the levy of lekin in Formosa (from foreign merchants) on native produce, which you regarded as a violation of treaty stipulations, etc.

It appears that lekin has been levied on tea in northern Formosa for a long time, and in southern Formosa there has been in force what is termed "chuan huo lekin," or lekin on ships and goods. The rules governing the two systems are not exactly the same. Since Formosa was changed into a provincial government the necessary funds (adequate to meet the expenses) have been very large. The governor, therefore, decided to do away with the name "chuan huo lekin" and adopt the medus operandi existing in other provinces and impose lekin on all articles of merchandise, a system universally carried out there. Formosa is somewhat different as compared with other provinces. In the other provinces the places where native products are produced are a very long distance from the sea-ports, and there are also a great many lekin stations.

Hence native goods in transitu to a treaty port have to pay the lekin duties exacted en route. If foreign merchants procure transit passes and purchase native produce in the interior, on the arrival of the goods at the barrier nearest the port the transit dues due thereon shall be paid.

The trade in the interior of Formosa has not, as yet, been fully opened. In South Formosa the principal articles are sugar and sugar-cane. These are produced in close proximity to the capital city, and it is absolutely necessary that lekin should be collected near there. Further, there is only one route where lekin is levied, and the tax is much lighter than the impost of a similar character in other provinces. The object of levying this tax is to provide revenue, still at the same time to regard the interest of the mercantile classes. The lekin barrier established is at a place called Si Lei, 5 li (little over 1½ English miles) from An Ping. The barrier at An Ping is solely for the examination of goods; the system in forcein Nantai and Amoy, in the province of Fukien, has been followed—there is no difference.

If foreign merchants purchase produce in Formosa and under the regulations apply for transit passes they pay half duty; otherwise lekin is levied on the goods. This rule is certainly not in the least at variance with the provisions of treaty.

The Yamên, some time ago, sent a note of inquiry to the governor of Formosa and

The Yamên, some time ago, sent a note of inquiry to the governor of Formosa and that officer made a report setting forth in a clear and concise manner every detail (regarding this business). The governor further stated that during the sugar season this year no transit passes have been applied for by foreign merchants who have exported sugar and, under the regulations, to pay lekin can not in the least be a matter of inconvenience to them.

A necessary communication, etc.

No. 175.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, February 20, 1888. (Received April 21.) No. 574.]

SIR: It has been the practice here since China entered into diplomatic relations with the foreign powers for the prince and ministers of the Yamen to send their cards to the foreign ministers on our New Year's Day, but they do not send cards to the secretaries, attachés, or Soon after our New Year's Day the prince, ministers, and heads of the boards, and other high officials call on a designated day. The Tsungpans or chief secretaries of the Yamên, seven in all, in like manner on our New Year's Day send their cards to the secretaries and other members of the legations.

On the Chinese New Year, which occurred this year on Sunday, February 12, of our calendar, the foreign ministers sent their cards to the prince and ministers of the Yamên, and the other members of the lega-tions sent their cards to the Tsungpans.

Mr. von Brandt, the dean of the diplomatic corps, has always insisted that etiquette demanded that the prince and ministers should, on this occasion, send their cards to the secretaries and other members of the legation. He states that this is the practice at European courts.

The question being brought before the ministers, they authorized the dean to propose to the prince and ministers that the Tsungpans should call on the foreign ministers, or leave their cards with that of the prince, the foreign ministers would then, on the Chinese New Year, send their cards to the Tsungpans, and the prince and ministers of the Yamen should on our New Year, in 1889, send their cards to the various members of the legation.

A correspondence ensued between the dean and his interpreter on the one side and the ministers and the Tsungpans on the other, which by degrees became somewhat strained and offensive. The result was that the prince and ministers declined to agree to send their cards to the secretaries, attachés, and interpreters.

The foreign ministers then determined to send their cards, as usual, on the Chinese New Year to the prince and ministers and afterwards to send cards to the other officials who had called on them, but not to call in person as had always been customary.

Of course this decision was much regretted as it tended to offend the Chinese officials, but it was argued that the minister could not separate himself from his associates in the legation, and that he ought not to compel the members of the legation to call on the prince and ministers if their visits were not to be recognized in any manner.

After the Yamên received the communication of the dean the Marquis Tsêng was sent to confer with him orally. The result of the interview was that the marquis proposed that the prince and ministers should agree to send their cards on their next New Year (1889) to the secretaries of legation in addition to sending them to the ministers, and that all correspondence on the subject be withdrawn. The dean reported this proposal to the foreign ministers, who, in order to avoid an unpleasant breach with the Tsungli Yamen and the other officials, consented that they would make their annual visit accompanied by the secretaries. But the ministers determined that they would not ask their interpreters to accompany them, and that the Yamen should be notified of this determination, and that they would be expected to furnish interpreters.

It was thought by some of the ministers that the prince and ministers, on this announcement being made, would agree to send cards to the interpreters and the whole question would be settled, but the Yamên replied simply that they had made arrangements for their own interpreters to serve on the occasion of our visit.

The action of the foreign ministers above set out met with my full approval.

Every step in diplomatic intercourse with China which tends to break down reserve is commendable. There should be no retrogression in the etiquette of official relations until the foreign representatives are granted audience with the Emperor, and exact reciprocal treatment with that accorded to Chinese representatives in western countries. The difference is now material and it has its effect on the people in keeping alive hostility to foreigners. This widely diffused hostility would disappear or sensibly diminish if the officials of the Government would adopt a line of conduct displaying friendly and honorable recognition of the diplomatic and consular agents.

It is not proposed by the ministers to demand social intercourse, but it is determined to compel, if possible, the Yamên to accord to them and their subordinates officially the observance of the etiquette which prevails in Western countries.

Although, therefore, the question of proper treatment of the interpreters and attachés is for the present waived, its discussion has been postponed only, and it will be renewed from time to time until it is settled correctly.

It was unpleasant to the ministers to seem to waive a point of etiquette touching the interpreters. These gentlemen are as respectable members of the legation and certainly as useful as any other members. They are habitually engaged in important intercourse with the members of the Yamên, and the most difficult work of the legation is done by them.

They are, in Peking, scholarly and cultivated men and are, on all accounts, entitled to the highest consideration. In the Russian system, particularly, there are no divisions of the foreign service. The dragomans or "gens de langue" have equal rank as a class with the other branches of the service. They are, in fact, usually designated as "Chinese secretaries," and should be so designated in our service. In the French service there are the three distinct divisions of diplomatic, consular, and interpretorial. The same rule prevails in the services of other nations and of our own.

But it is distinctly held by the ministers that the differences in the various services create no distinction here, and that the interpreters are all on an equality among themselves and are all entitled to the same treatment from the Chinese officials which is accorded to the secretaries of legation.

Taking the actual condition of his service into account it was difficult for the Russian minister to consent to seem to accord, by agreeing to call on the Yamên with his secretaries alone, precedence to his secretaries over his interpreters. His chief interpreter, in fact, ranks his secretary. For the sake, however, of presenting a united front to the Chinese Government, he waived the inconsistency and agreed to call with the other ministers, reserving the question for future settlement.

In my own case I exceedingly regretted that the interpreter of this legation, as it was decided, would not accompany me on the occasion of my visit to the Yamên and the other high officials; but I was not prepared to take, on that account alone, the responsibility of declining to comply with the usage of calling, in view of our existing relations with China and the importance of preserving the best possible feeling between the two countries at this juncture of affairs at home and here.

I would be pleased to receive from you some account of your own practice touching the reception by the President of secretaries, attachés, and interpreters, the interchange of official calls between yourself and members of the various legations, and such other matters connected with the subject as may throw light upon official intercourse here.

I am, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 176.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 577.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, February 21, 1888. (Received April 21, 1888.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a translation of the reply of the Yamên to my communication on the camphor monopoly in Formosa, which was forwarded to you in my dispatch No. 555, of January 26 last.

It will be seen that this communication is evasive and irresponsive. It is stated that camphor may still be bought by foreign merchants in places near the sea-ports "if procurable there," and that "official control" of the trade is taken only in the disturbed districts.

In fact the objectionable proclamation made the trade in all the island a Government monopoly. I do not know that any American is interested in the camphor trade in Formosa, but the subject is important as being on the part of the ministers an effort to force the Imperial Government to compel the viceroys to comply with treaty stipulations. There will be further correspondence on the subject with the Yamen.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 577.]

The Foreign Office to Mr. Denby.

PEKING, February 16, 1888.

YOUR EXCELLENCY: Upon the 25th January ultimo the prince and ministers had the honor to receive a communication from your excellency in the matter of the camphor trade in Formosa, in which you requested that the rules agreed upon in the eighth year of Tung Chih (1869) governing the trade in this article still be continued in force, and that it shall not be carried on as a Government monopoly. In regard to this case the Yamén has sent repeated communications to the governor of Formosa in which the question at issue has been discussed. During the summer of 1887 the Yamén received a report from the governor of Formosa as follows:

which the question at issue has been discussed. During the summer of 1887 the Yamen received a report from the governor of Formosa as follows:

"Shui Ti Liao is over 300 li from the capital of Formosa, and conterminous with the borders of the districts inhabited by the aborigines. The passes issued by the customs authorities clearly stipulate that foreign merchants in purchasing camphor must not proceed to places in close proximity to the country occupied by the aborigines and their trade, to the end that trouble may be avoided. In the present case of the German merchant Tui Hsing (Lauts and Haesloop) proceeding to the said place to trade, this was a violation of the stipulations of treaty set forth in the customs passes. In a word, Formosa camphor is not produced in the outer mountainous region inhabited by the Chinese. Since the tenth year of Kuang-hsü, no exportation of camphor has been made, and as evidence of this fact there is the customs return which can be examined. The provincial monopoly in camphor is in that produced in the inner mountainous region inhabited by the aborigines which has been brought under subjection by the governor.

263

"The provincial government has, at its own expense, established military stations there as a means of protecting this business. It will thus be seen that the present condition of affairs is not the same as formerly. Foreign merchants are still permitted to purchase camphor, if procurable, near the sea-ports, the same as the German firm Tui Hsing who have also made purchase at Lu Chiang, a place settled and free from disturbances. But to places conterminous to the region settled by the aborigines foreign merchants should not proceed, in due observance of the conditions prescribed in the customs passes.

"As to Shui Ti Liao, this is a place where the aborigines appear and disappear. A feud exists between the Chinese and aborigines there; they kill each other, and there are repeated cases of murder. There can be no harm by the foreign ministers at Peking instructing their respective consular officers, in conjunction with the local authorities, to proceed to said place for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not it is conterminous to the boundaries of the aboriginal region. Whether or not Chinese as well as foreign merchants formerly bought camphor there it is not convenient to accept the one-sided statement of foreign merchants, and these alone as authentic. The present system of conducting the camphor trade in Formosa is not in violation of the treaty and agreement.

The Yamen would observe that from the above report at places near the sea-ports camphor, if procurable there, can still be purchased by foreign merchants without regard to whether it is official or not, but in the inner mountainous regions, settled by aborigines recently brought under subjection by the governor of Formosa, as the trade has been opened at the expense of the Government, makes it another matter, and the action taken by the Formosan authorities can not be regarded as a violation of treaty or of the agreement in their placing the trade in question under official con-

Disturbances easily arise in the districts settled by the aborigines, and in not wishing foreigners to proceed far into the interior is purely from a desire of complete friendliness. The action taken in the premises is in accordance with the treaties.

The prince and ministers believe that your excellency will, with a spirit of impartiality, look into the matter and regard the statements made in this communication as being in order.

No. 177.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, No. 578.] Peking, February 24, 1888. (Received April 21.)

SIR: As some discussion has lately taken place in the United States touching slavery in China I submit the following observations thereon:

The origin of slavery in China is given in an ancient writing, the Fong-fou-ting, in substance as follows: In antiquity there were no slaves, neither male nor female. The first slaves were felons who lost their liberty by reason of their crimes. But they were slaves simply in the sense that their labor belonged to the public. Prisoners and captives taken in war introduced a second species of slavery. Finally, in the troubles and misfortunes of the third dynasty, the poor who were without resources gave themselves with their families to the great and rich who were willing to support them. These last two forms of slavery caused the condition to be regarded rather as a misfortune than a shame.

In the memoirs prepared by the early Catholic missionaries, and printed in 1777, there are treatises on slavery. Marriage of slaves was encouraged for the sake of the increase.

Slaves were usually treated with kindness, and were supported by their masters in their old age. Manumission was common, and instances are recorded wherein slaves refused the tender of their freedom. The missionaries wax eloquent in defense of slavery, and regard the institution as developing "a mode of thought and sentiment worthy of the authors of Telemachus and of the Friend of Man." The traditional Chinese patriarch's idea of the family, they say, modifies and tempers slavery so that masters and slaves become one great family.

Slaves were never numerous in China, and of late years they have decreased in numbers. All China knows, says one writer, that an edict of the Emperor was necessary to oblige his Tartars on duty to have slaves for domestic servants, and that this edict is hardly observed.

All modern writers agree that slavery still exists. Every native may purchase slaves, and the condition is hereditary. Freedom is forfeited by crimes or mortgaged for debt. Slaves are so few that they attract little attention. At Peking girls bring higher prices than boys, varying, according to age up to eighteen years, from 30 to 300 taels. Needy parents sell their children, and orphans are sold in times of famine for a few taels in cash.

Williams ascribes the paucity of slaves to the existence of the competitive examination system. The widely diffused education consequent on the preparation for the examinations by 2,000,000 of people every year has saved China, he thinks, from the feudal system, the villeinage consequent thereon from the introduction of castes, and the considerable entension of slavery. To deny that competitive examinations have had this beneficent tendency would be to contradict the experience of humanity touching the benefactions of education. But the same result in Western countries is much more advantageously obtained by the common schools, which more than all else are the distinguishing glory of modern times.

It is probable that the patriarchal form of the Chinese Government, the primitive idea among the Chinese as among the Jews, that all the people constituted a great family, and the doctrine of the worship of ancestors, have more than the competitive examinations restricted the spread of slavery.

That slavery is tolerated by Chinese law will sufficiently appear from the statutes which, although fallen somewhat in disuse, still exist. I quote a few of these laws.

By section 115 of the penal code a master soliciting and obtaining in marriage for his slave the daughter of a freeman suffers eighty blows. Accessories are punished in like manner. A slave soliciting and obtaining a daughter of a freeman in marriage is punished in like manner. If he receives the woman into his family he suffers one hundred blows.

A person representing falsely a slave to be free and thereby procuring such a slave a free husband suffers ninety blows. The marriages are in all such cases null and void.

Under section 313 a slave striking a freeman shall be punished one degree more severely than is by law provided in similar cases between equals

Entire disability so caused is punished by strangulation, and in event of death from the blow, the slave is beheaded. A freeman striking a slave is punished one degree less than in ordinary cases, but he is strangled if death follows the blow.

Slaves striking or killing one another are punished as equals are.

Under the head of "slaves striking their masters," section 314, the punishments are very severe. For striking the master the punishment is beheading; for killing him, death by the slow process; for accidental killing, death by strangling; for accidental wounding, one hundred blows and banishment. For similar injuries to their master's relatives the punishments are reduced one degree.

265

CHINA.

If the master beats the slave to death for having committed a crime he suffers one hundred blows.

A gentleman living here who has devoted his life outside of all missionary societies and alone to charity, Mr. J. Fisher Crossette, gives me some information as to slavery. He says there is a system of servitude carried on in the coal mines west of Peking. Men are involved in gambling debts and then taken to a coal mine. Their lives and labor are mortgaged for the existing debt and for others subsequently created, and they remain slaves.

The Chinese have a great horror of this condition, and the law has done much to put a stop to this abuse, and in certain districts has succeeded. Mr. Crossette personally knows that large numbers of girls were carried off and sold into slavery during times of famine in the province of Shantung. A Chinese convert at Tsi-nan-fu sold his little daughter for $16 to serve as a maid of all work in a rich man's family. Boys were not marketable. Another Christian sold his wife for $2.50 to pay a debt of that amount.

Mr. Crossette says that there exists in some parts of China a peasant servitude, such as formerly existed in Russia.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 178.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 292.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, March 6, 1888.

SIR: I have received your No. 545 of January 12, 1888, relative to the bonded warehouse system in China, and the application of the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce to the dean of the diplomatic corps, invoking its assistance to prevent the granting of a monopoly of storage of goods in bond to the China Merchants Steamship Company.

It seems prudent to watch the course of the experiment and, if successful, to press for its extension, as promised by the reply of the diplomatic body through its dean. But the Yamên should be given to understand that the United States do not thus waive objections to any form of monopoly which may restrict foreign commerce at the open ports.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 179.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 585.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 7, 1888. (Received April 21, 1888.)

SIR: I have the honor to inform the Department that the attention of this legation has been brought by the foreign office to the practice of smuggling fire-arms, which, under the treaty, are contraband of war, by sailors in the employ of foreign steamers plying to the port of New-

Chwang. This illicit traffic seems to have been carried on for a long time, and it is said that the arms are sold to a class of outlaws and brigands who infest the eastern Manchurian provinces. The Government, naturally, is anxious to put a stop to it, and even suggests that when foreign sailors are detected in this illegal business they should be deported by their respective consuls to their native lands, and forbidden to again engage themselves as sailors on the China coast. I have informed the Yamên that I will co-operate with the Chinese authorities in trying to stop this illicit business and have promised to instruct our consuls to use every legal means to prevent citizens of the United States from violating the treaty in this respect.

I do not apprehend, however, that there will ever be any complaints of this nature against our citizens, as there are very few engaged as sailors on this coast.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 180.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 293.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, March 7, 1889.

SIR: I have received your dispatches (Nos. 529 and 533) of the 20th and 28th of December, respectively, in relation to the missionaries' troubles in Chi Nan Fu, and in China in general.

The views expressed by you in relation to this subject meet with the approval of the Department. It can not be contended that the treaties grant to citizens of the United States an unlimited right to buy or lease land in the interior of China, and it is therefore proper for the legation to inform those who apply to it for information of that fact. On the other hand if, as you say, the missionaries, with the consent of the local authorities, effect a lodgment, they should be protected. When China was opened by treaties with foreign powers to the entrance and residence of foreigners, it was inevitable that the restricted limits of residence and business prescribed in those treaties should be extended, and as this has gradually been done, with the consent of the local authorities, it may be implied that those authorities have assumed the duty of giving proper protection.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 181.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 586.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 10, 1888. (Received May 5.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a printed translation of the joint memorial of the Viceroy of the two Kuangs and the governor of Canton, praying the prohibition of the importation of kerosene oil.

It will be noticed that the Viceroy openly avows that he put an excessive lekin on kerosene in order to diminish its importation.

Malice against the United States plainly appears in this production. The injuries done by kerosene are said to be greater than those done by opium. Our treaty of 1881 is invoked, and a parallel instituted to show that kerosene can be excluded.

The ignorance displayed in this article is only equaled by its evident hostility to foreigners. The Viceroy seems to think that a treaty with the United States would be all sufficient to exclude coal-oil. If he had pursued a little further his opium analogy, he would have seen that, although our treaty prohibits our people from engaging in the opium business, the business in its magnitude is not at all affected, it is simply done by the citizens of other countries. So it will be with kerosene.

In point of fact citizens of the United States are slightly engaged in the import of kerosene. At Tientsin the trade is in Chinese hands exclusively. At Shanghai very little, comparatively, is handled by Americans. The China and Japan Trading Company is the only American house engaged in importing kerosene to any extent. Germans and Englishmen and perhaps others handle kerosene. It might be agreeable for them that the business was prohibited to Americans, but China would be injured rather than benefited by the prohibition.

Kerosene comes also from Batoum.

My present impression is that I will not bring this matter to the attention of the Yamen but will await their action. I do not anticipate that any notice will be taken of this stupid memorial.

I shall discuss this subject and some others with the Viceroy in Canton this spring.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 586.]

KEROSENE OIL

[Joint memorial by the viceroy of the Two Kuang and the governor of Canton setting forth the fatal hurtfulness of kerosene oil, and praying that its importation may be prohibited.]

We respectfully submit a report made to us by the Tinghai magistrate, Chang Wên-tsung. On the 18th of the 9th moon, a kerosene lamp, bursting in an upstairs room in the Yang-shing paper-shop, on the Yang-ho-kuang street, Swatow, the conflagration spread to the neighboring houses, and although the local official deputy magistrate, Shih Kan, was promptly on the spot, with the soldiers under his command, they were unable to put it out until the next day, owing to the high wind prevailing at the time, and the fact that kerosene was stored in all the shops in the neighborhood; over four hundred families, great and small, being burnt out.
We also submit a similar report by the Taotai of the Chaochow, Kiatong, and Hinchow intendancy of Tê-tai.

We further submit a report from General Tao-ting Sheng, commanding at Yang-cheong—the Bogue—that on the night of the first day of the 10th moon, the river steamer Wahyeung was burnt to the water's edge off Shachiao, outside the Bogue, by the explosion of a kerosene lamp in the passenger's saloon, and notwithstanding the efforts of the garrison of the forts and the sailors of the fleet to save them, by which some seventy or eighty lives were saved, the rest of the passengers and crew, numbering some seven or eight hundred persons, were either burned or drowned.

On receipt of telegraphic news of this disaster the Shan-kou office was directed at once to send an officer down to the spot to see what was to be done and to collect the corpses and see to their proper burial, the benevolent society being instructed to provide coffins for their reception.

The fire on this occasion was so rapid and so fierce that nothing could be done to stop it, and not only was the vessel burnt, but over seven hundred lives were sacrificed at the same time. Language is insufficient to describe the horror of the scene; disfigured bodies floating on the river and cumbering the bank.

On inquiring into the subject, we find that kerosene is chiefly imported from America, and that in consequence of its cheapness it has come into general consumption. It is highly inflammable, and unless the greatest care is taken destructive fires constantly result from its use. It appears further that in a dry climate, like that of Canton, the danger of fire is very great, and that last winter scarcely a day passed without one, nine-tenths of the number being traceable to kerosene, notably the great fire in November last, outside the south gate in which over 1,000 families were burned out and over $10,000,000 worth of property was consumed.

We must attribute, therefore, the daily increasing frequency of these disasters to the increasing consumption of kerosene, since the introduction of which incalculable injury has been done to Chinese life and property in this province alone, to say nothing of the other coast and riverine provinces.

It may even be said that the injury done to China by kerosene is more grave than that done by opium, for although opium is indeed a poison, its action is slow, whereas with kerosene, which is found everywhere, if it once catches fire it spreads the more you try to put it out; in a moment the neighborhood is in a blaze and life and property are constantly destroyed.

It is also a matter of importance, although in a less degree, that since the development of the kerosene consumption the native industry in pea nut, colza, and bean oil has day by day declined.

Having this in view we last year instructed the various lekin stations to impose heavy additional duties on kerosene, hoping by increasing its cost to diminish its consumption, which led to the American minister addressing the Tsung-li Yamên, who called on us for a report, which we made confidentially in May last.

We would submit that by the treaties foreign merchants are forbidden to deal in sulphur or saltpetre, as these concern the military organization, or in rice or beans, as these affect the food supply of the people, and that there is precedent therefore for articles prohibiting foreigners trading (even in) Chinese produce, they should not therefore setting forth as they do, that they are friendly States, insist, in order to profit themselves, on harming us and introducing foreign produce shown to be so highly injurious to the welfare of the people.

We would submit, also, that, as by the supplementary treaty with America made in 1881, provision was made to limit Chinese emigration to that country and prevent its increase, as the competition of Chinese labor was found to be objectional; therefore, that, if they can prohibit our going there because Chinese labor is injurious to their interests, we have an equal right to prohibit the importation of kerosene when it is injurious to us. The law that nations have a right to protect their own interests and prevent injury being done their people applies to both countries alike if there be any justice; and when either Government acts on this principle no objection can be raised We request therefore that the Tsung-li Yamên may be instructed, quoting the precedent of the supplementary treaty, and on the ground of the injury done to this province, to arrange with the American minister for the institution of regulations in the matter and also that secret instructions may be given his excellency, Chang Yen Hoon, the minister at Washington, to make strong representations to the foreign office there on the subject, to the end that in future foreign merchants may not be allowed to import kerosene or that they may only be allowed to do so in limited quantities, or that, as has been done with opium, special tariff rules may be established putting kerosene out of the category of ordinary merchandise and leaving it to China to tax it as it pleases.

If this be done in a few years the import will diminish, calamities will largely decrease, and native trade will greatly benefit.

Having in view the importance of care for interests of the people, and trusting to prevent the recurrence of the calamity of fires, we, Chang Chin Tung, viceroy of Canton, and Wu-Ta-ching, governor of Canton, humbly submit this memorial, praying that Her Majesty the Empress and His Majesty the Emperor may be graciously pleased to cast their sacred glance thereon.

No. 182.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 590.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 17, 1888. (Received May 5.)

SIR: From the reign of Yung Cheng, A. D. 1723, down to 1860, it has been customary for the emperors to hold court about five months in the year at the Yuen Ming Yuen, or summer palace, situated about 8 miles northwest from Peking.

For the inhuman treatment of the Chinese authorities toward the French and English prisoners who were captured by treachery, Lord Elgin and Baron Gros gave orders that this—the favorite summer residence of the reigning family—should be destroyed as an act of retribution. Of these palaces the most gorgeous description has been given. They were surrounded by every variety of hill and dale, woodland and lawn, interspersed with canals, rivulets, and lakes, with numerous temples and pagodas, containing a large portion of the moveable riches and presents of the Emperor of the reigning family. Since their destruction there has been no available resort where the Emperor could spend the summer months.

About two years ago the Empress ordered that the imperial pleasure-grounds, which were in a more or less dilapidated condition, should be extended and put into a thorough state of repair. Work was commenced, palaces built, and accommodations necessary for the court were made at an enormous outlay. By a decree, which appeared a few days since, the Empress and Emperor, with the members of the court, will move to these pleasure-grounds, which are in close proximity to the prohibited city, on the 20th of May, and there remain until the autumn.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 183.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 591.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 19, 1888. (Received May 5.)

SIR: I have the honor to report that the Tsung-li Yamên has agreed that arrangements will be made to relieve the foreigners from the present unsatisfactory system of "drawbacks" on the Yangtze. The exact changes to be made have not been determined.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 184.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 592.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 19, 1888. (Received May 5.)

SIR: I have the honor to report that the Tsung-li Yamên desires further time and information before coming to a final determination touching the government camphor monopoly in Formosa. The ministers insist that, until final decision, the rules adopted in 1869 (Prince Kung to Mr. Browne, dispatch 39, March 17, 1869) are to remain in force. This probably is the end of the monopoly.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 185.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 593.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 19, 1888. (Received May 5.)

SIR: I have the honor to report that the Tsung-li Yamên has agreed to instruct the governor of Formosa to cease the imposition of lekin on native produce, the property of foreigners, within any open port or while in transit from such port to the place of shipment.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 186.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 594.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 19, 1888. (Received May 5.)

SIR: I have the honor to report that the Tsung li Yamên has refused to order the removal of the obstructions in Pearl River, near Canton. The foreign ministers do not accept the decision as final.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 187.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 595.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 19, 1888. (Received May 5.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of a communication sent by me to the treasurer of the Central China Mission. It aims to set out the law of land tenure in China affecting foreigners, a subject of considerable and growing importance.

I have thought that in its actual form of practical questions and answers it would be more satisfactory to you than a more elaborate essay might be.

I desire to call attention to the sixth question and answer. That question involves the right of foreigners to acquire and hold real estate in the interior. I did not think it proper or incumbent on me to discuss this subject at length in a paper addressed to a private citizen.

My views, which are those of the Department as far as I know, are plain and simple.

The treaties per se do not confer on foreigners the right to settle in the interior and to acquire property. There can be no dispute on this point, except it be based on the sixth article of the French treaty of October 25, 1860. The twelfth article of the British treaty of June 26, 1858, containing the words "or other places," has received at the hands of Great Britain the construction that it does not mean unlimited right to settle in the interior, but applies only to places near the open ports.

The Chinese text of the French treaty, viz, "It is in addition permitted to French missionaries to rent and purchase land in all the provinces, and to erect buildings thereon at pleasure," has never been adopted under the favored-nation clause by any foreign power, not even by France as an intrinsic part of the treaty.

The words quoted are not in the French text in any shape or form, and the French text is the authoritative version.

But although the power to acquire land in the interior is not found in the treaties, in point of fact it has been, by custom and toleration, permitted to many foreigners to reside permanently in the interior and to acquire land. The missionaries of all nationalities have stations all over China, and are constantly opening new stations.

As an example, take the city of Peking, the actual seat of government of this most exclusive court. The eighth rule attached to the customs tariff in English and Chinese, agreed on in November, 1858, is the following:

RULE VIII .- Peking not open to trade.

It is agreed that Article IX of the treaty of Tientsin shall not be interpreted as authorizing British subjects to enter the capital city of Peking for purposes of trade.

Yet, by the tolerance of the Chinese Government, the Hong-Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation has a branch bank here. There are also two foreign merchants here who do a general business, buying what they please and selling all conceivable articles. One of them has a hotel for foreigners. Curio dealers come here from time to time, and stay as long as they please.

On the religious side of the question, we have the noted example that the Emperor last year, in exchange for the grounds of the old Pei Táng—the Catholic cathedral—gave to the Catholics a large and valuable tract of land in the imperial city, close to the prohibited city, to be used for churches, schools, convents, hospitals, and as the residence of the numerous clergy. The Emperor gave them, also, 400,000 taels, and, by decree, authorized the use of the land for the purposes indicated. In front of the new cathedral, which will be an imposing building, this imperial decree will be chiseled on a marble slab, which will be erected on the back of a huge marble tortoise, the emblem of perpetuity.

It is notorious that elsewhere in China official consent has been given to the acquisition of land and the erection of hospitals, churches, and residences, both by Catholics and Protestants.

Influenced by these considerations, I am now making an effort to secure more land for the Presbyterian mission at Chinanfu, in Shantung.

Leaving the treaties out of consideration, what, then, is a fair conclusion from the actual condition of things in China?

It would seem to be this: The Imperial Government leaves the question of permanent residence to be solved by the local authorities and the people. If the foreigner can procure toleration in any locality, and is suffered without objection to locate therein, he, by degrees, may acquire vested rights, which his own government and the Imperial Government also are bound to secure to him if attacked. If the foreigner is unable by tact and prudence to conciliate the natives so as to secure a permanent residence, he is not strictly entitled to demand either of his own government or the Imperial Government insistence on a claim which has no treaty basis.

It is claimed, however, that the rights granted under the treaties have been enlarged by the usage and tolerance of the Chinese Government, and by special acts, whereby peculiar rights and privileges in certain localities have inured to certain foreigners, and under the favored-nation clause similar rights will be claimed for citizens of the United States.

The Government of the United States does not undertake to control its citizens in their selection of residences at home or abroad. have the right to go where they please. They will, while traveling in foreign countries, be protected by the Government.

Should citizens of the United States locate in the interior of China, the Government of the United States could not, as matter of treaty stipulation, insist that they have the right to acquire real property, except in localities where this right has been accorded to citizens or subjects of other foreign powers. In this last case, under the favorednation clause, exact equality should be insisted upon.

Should citizens of the United States, with the consent of the authorities and having complied with the terms of article 12 of the treaty of 1858, acquire real property, they will be protected in its enjoyment, and wrongs or injuries done them will be redressed.

When citizens of the United States are permanently located in the interior, with the consent and acquiescence of the local authorities and the body of the people, it will be considered proper and advisable for the consular and diplomatic agents to assist them in any reasonable effort to secure grounds for the prosecution of their business.

It follows from what has been written that the citizens of the United States who undertake to settle in the interior must understand that they do so without any positive treaty sanction. While governmental protection as to their persons would follow them the world over, the Government does not hold itself bound to assist them in the prosecution of any business or employment whose exercise in the given locality contravenes the usage or laws of China.

The effort for permanent residence in the interior of China and the primary securing of the right to carry on business must be their own individual acts.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 595.]

Mr. Denby to Mr. Hykes.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES. Peking, March 19, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following answers seriatim to the queries propounded by you in your communication of the 18th ultimo:

First.—By what tenure may citizens of the United States hold real estate in the open ports, but outside of the limits of the foreign concessions?

Answer.—The only specific authority to hold real property in China under the treaties with the United States is found in the twelfth article of the treaty of June, 1858. "Citizens of the United States may rent houses and places of business, or hire sites on which they can themselves build houses or hospitals, etc., at the open ports." The "tenure" is by lease. The practice has been to make the lease perpetual, which practically serves the purpose of a fee simple. Your attention is called to the first article of the treaty of July 28, 1868, wherein the Emperor of China reserves the right of eminent domain over all the lands and waters in China, and the right of jurisdiction over persons and property within any granted tract of land except so far as the tion over persons and property within any granted tract of land, except so far as the right may have been relinquished by treaty.

The application of what is called the exterritorial rights and jurisdiction of foreigners is too well known to require further reference.

Second. - What are the recognized limits of the treaty ports within which foreigners have the undisputed right to hold property?

Answer.—This question might be answered generally by stating that there are not in all localities any "recognized limits" of the treaty ports within which foreigners have the "undisputed" right to hold real property. The twelfth article of the British treaty of June 26, 1858, contains the words "whether at the ports or at other places." The words "other places" have been generally construed as meaning places contiguous to or in proximity to the open ports; such places as Taku, Woosung, Whampoa, Sicawei, and perhaps others will occur to you as coming within this construction. I think that each case of attempted settlement outside of a treaty port would have to be treated on the peculiar circumstances of location, convenience, and custom.

Under section 3 of the Chefoo convention, which provides that lekin shall not be collected at the treaty ports, the question of their limits is an important one to China.

It comes up here now and again.

It is now the subject of controversy in Formosa, and it will continue to vex foreigners for many years to come.

Third.—According to the treaty, what is the proper legal way for foreigners to proceed to secure titles to such real estate? Are the various consuls furnished with blank forms of leases similar to those used by British subjects?

Answer.—The first branch of this question is answered by article 12 of the treaty of 1858. The practical making of a conveyance will be hereinafter mentioned. The answer to the latter branch is: British consuls issue title deeds only for land situated within the limits of British concessions. All title deeds to property situated outside of these concessions are issued by the Chinese authorities. The consuls of the United States have no authority to issue title deeds to real estate in China. Printed forms of deeds with an English translation, such as are issued by the Taotai at Shanghai, are obtainable at the consulate-general, but they are only available for property within the jurisdiction of the said Taotai.

Fourth.—Is it necessary, according to Chinese law and the stipulation of the treaties, to have the titles stamped by the Chinese officials (i. e., the Taotai or magistrate) in order to have a complete and legal title to the property?

Answer.—Such a question of law as this can hardly be answered absolutely so as to apply to every possible state of facts.

The twelfth article of the treaty of 1858 provides certain conditions which may be held to be conditions precedent to the acquisitions of land. Among them is this: That the legal fees to the officers for applying their seal shall be paid. In the United States a deed would be good inter partes, at least by estoppel, without acknowledgment witnessed by a notarial seal. But unless the deed were acknowledged and recorded, it would not without actual notice to a subsequent bona fide purchaser be held valid as against such purchaser. Whether under certain circumstances a court might hold that title passed without the deed being sealed or stamped by the Chinese authorities I can not undertake to say. But it may be said with positiveness, as you suggest, that the want of a seal would create difficulty and confusion. Prima facie, there is no consummated legal transfer until the seal has been affixed. As we derive our rights chiefly from the treaties, it would seem that their stipulations ought in all cases to be directly complied with, and consequently all deeds ought to be sealed before possession is taken.

The practice at Shanghai is for the Taotai to stamp all deeds. In addition a note is made on the deed over the consul-general's signature and seal.

I believe the rule in China is, when a native offers to sell his land he must produce the original or old title deeds. These are examined and compared with the record of titles in the magistrates office before the sale can be made.

When land is mortgaged an indorsement setting out the mortgage is generally made on the deeds, and the deeds are then handed to the mortgagee to be held by him as security for his lien. You will recall that this was substantially the common law process for centuries in England.

It has been superseded in the United States by the system of recording in the office of the county recorder all deeds and mortgages.

In the United States a purchaser for value would not be affected by an unrecorded mortgage of which he had no actual knowledge. I presume the rule would be the same in China. But, I believe, that when the deeds are exhibited and mortgage liens are found to be indersed thereou, the sale can not be consummated until the mortgage is satisfied. I repeat that these questions of mere law can not be answered positively without knowledge of the specific facts in the jurisdiction where a system of equity is co-existent with a system of law.

Fifth.—After a foreigner has secured land from a Chinese and he wishes to convey it to another foreigner, what is the proper method of procedure?

Answer.—The universal rule the world over is that immovable property—land—must be conveyed according to the law of the sites. Eminent domain and jurisdiction over land belongs to the Emperor of China, as to all other governments. He has the unquestioned right to regulate the mode of conveyance, and to prescribe what acts shall be evidence of alienation. The forms used in conveyancing may vary in different localities.

At Shanghai an indorsement of the transfer is made on the title deeds in Chinese and English, and is duly stamped by the Taotai. A record of the transfer is kept in the register of land transfers. Three copies of the deed are made; one is retained by the Taotai, one given to the vendee, and one is filed by the consul general.

Sixth.—By what tenure may foreigners hold real estate in interior places; that is, in places quite beyond the limits of the open or treaty ports?

Answer.—It has already been stated that under the treaties there is no authority for foreigners to hold land outside of the ports except in places contiguous or in proximity thereto.

But if it appears, as has occurred frequently, that foreigners by the consent of the authorities and people of any locality have permanently settled in the interior, and have procured the necessary title deeds, and have had them sealed, under article 12, cited, the tenure thereof would not differ from that under which land is held at the The mode of conveyance would be the same.

Seventh .- May such property be securely held in the name of a Chinese convert in trust for the missionary society?

Answer.—The subject of trusts is one of the most difficult. In China it seems to be usual with foreigners, in the interior at least, to have property conveyed to a trustee, who executes, as a precaution, a declaration of trust to the cestuy que trust, which is not recorded. The plan is probably legal. But the better plan would, in my opinion, be to have the deed made to the head of the mission in trust for his society, or to the society direct.

It would be presumptuous for me to undertake to advise my countrymen whose experience and knowledge vastly exceed my own on such questions as this.

Eighth.—Should such titles be stamped by the Chinese authorities?

Answer.—From what has already been said, this question must be answered in the Ninth.—What plan would you recommend a missionary society to pursue in getting property in interior places for mission purposes?

Answer.—The forms to be observed in the procurement of property have already been mentioned.

Tenth.—As to rules issued by the Yamen to govern the leasing of land to foreigners, you will find in the fourth volume Chinese Recorder, page 141, certain rules prescribed by the Yamên. They have some slight bearing on the subject. I know of no others. These rules were never acceded to by the foreign representatives.

These so called rules are too lengthy to be copied here, and have little reference to leasing land. I am, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 188.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 600.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 21, 1888. (Received May 5.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of a letter sent by me to the managers of Pootung Wharf and Godown Company. it to you as explanatory of my action touching the important question of the bonding of kerosene in China, so far as it has been presented to this legation.

The question is still unsettled.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 600.]

Mr. Denby to Messrs. Russell & Co.

PEKING, March 22, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 14th instant with inclosures. I thought that Sir Robert Hart had the power to make the order that you desired to bond the Pootung Warehouse. I therefore had an interview with Sir Robert. He informed me that any application to change the existing rules of the bonding system must be made to the Tsung-li Yamên, and that he had no authority to make any change therein.

I shall not make such application until you, your directors, and your stockholders have more maturely considered the subject and have indicated to me in the most positive manner that such is your deliberate desire. I submit my reasons for your careful consideration. I need not, of course, say that my only object in this and all other matters which come before me officially is, consistently with the just rights of others, to advance the rights and interests of those who consult me, and especially of my own countrymen.

Is there not grave danger that the interests of your company will be put in peril by bringing the contemplated demand to the attention of the Yamên?

The situation, as I understand it, is this: All kerosene now arriving at Shanghai is stored in your godowns. You at present monopolize that storage. The introduction of the bonded system has not, in the least, affected your business. Nor has it affected the business of dealers, because each and all of them have equal rights and there is no discrimination. The dealers lose the interest on the import duty, the Pootung Company loses nothing. Possibly the importation might increase with the extension of the bonding system to kerosene. Therein alone lies your prospective advantages. Let us look at the other side, at the risks to be run in applying now for the desired privilege.

It is not a matter of simple conjecture, but it is highly probable that if I ask that your warehouse may be bonded for kerosene, on the perfectly legal ground that this article is entitled to this right, the Yamen may answer, "Yes, we will instruct the China Merchants' Company to procure a river front, a wharf, and godowns for that

The actual result, then, of my friendly effort to do you a benefit would be an injury; you would lose the benefit of all the storage, which would go to the new ware-house. I am not prepared to advise you to take this risk. You are no doubt better posted on your own business than I am, but it must be taken for granted that my position here gives me some insight into subjects of this character. If China were to provide, of its own accord, a warehouse for bonding kerosene, then the whole question would be au tapis, and I would not hesitate to press on the Imperial Government my opinion of the injustice of granting to one corporation, whether Chinese or foreign, a monopoly of an important business. While I admit the undoubted right of China to establish, own, and control Government bonded warehouses, I dispute the equity and justice of such a policy as applicable to the anomalous condition and history of Shanghai. I especially dispute the equity and justice of granting to one corporation, whether Chinese or foreign, a monoply of a business which the industry, skill, and means of all the merchants of all ationalities have built up.

If any dealer in kerosene were to present to me a claim to the right to bond kerosene, I should unhesitatingly admit his privilege to do so and should feel bound to further it. But the question now comes from the Pootung Company, which is interested in the storage of the article.

It, therefore, seemed proper to put the responsibility of the issue on that company, and in order to assist it in arriving at a correct result, to present my views. I have done so notin any wise as dictatory, but simply as advisory. I will be pleased to hear from you further.

I am, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 189.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 299.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, March 22, 1888.

SIR: I inclose for your information a copy of a dispatch from the United States consul at Canton, No. 141, of January 17, 1888, covering a memorial addressed to the Imperial Government of China by the viceroy of the Two Kwangs and the governor of Kwang-Tung, calling attention to the injury to Chinese life caused by the kerosene oil imported by foreign merchants and requesting the issue of Imperial commands forbidding its importation. I add, also, a copy of a letter from Mr. J. H. Flagg, dated the 20th instant, in which, as the representative of large petroleum interests in this country, he refutes the statements of the memorial and asks that no action be taken by this Government looking to the injury of that American commodity in China.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 299.]

Mr. Seymour to Mr. Rives.

No. 141.]

United States Consulate at Canton, China, January 17, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit a copy of a translation of a joint memorial * from his excellency the viceroy of the Two Kuangs and his excellency the governor of the province of Kuang-Tung to the Imperial Government of China to prohibit or limit the importation of American kerosene, because of its hazardous nature and the disasters it has caused to lives and property of Chinamen. The document, which is worthy of attention, has not obtained publicity; but it has reached the consuls in what is deemed a reliable form, and, was carefully translated by an advanced Chinese scholar in the British consulate (Mr. Hosie), and is regarded as genuine as it is mischievous and dangerous; for the viceroy is relentless and unceasing in his warfare against foreign interests.

The British consul at Canton has sent a copy of the memorial to the British legation at Peking, and I have sent copies to Minister Denby at Peking and to Consul-General Kennedy at Shanghai.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

CHARLES SEYMOUR, United States Consul.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 299.]

Mr. Flagg to Mr. Bayard.

NEW YORK, March 20, 1888.

SIR: Through the courtesy of Mr. Lee, chief clerk of the Department, I have been furnished with a copy of the translation of the joint anti-kerosene memorial of the viceroy of the Two Kuangs and the governor of Kuang-Tung to the Imperial Government of China dated December or January last, wherein the memorialists set forth that certain disastrous conflagrations have lately taken place in the Canton province, which they ascribe to the use of American kerosene oil, and praying that the Imperial Government may negotiate a treaty with the United States looking to the exclusion of refined petroleum from the Empire, or subjected to such restrictive regulations as will essentially exclude it from the Empire.

Mr. W. H. Libby, the representative of the American Export Association and of the Standard Oil Company, has recently returned from China. A conference with him on the subject convinces me that this memorial was inspired by the local guilds who desire to suppress American kerosene in order to restore their former trade in the native ground-nut oil, and that the recent conflagrations complained of are made the pretext to justify this movement.

The memorial, however, does not successfully conceal the fact, and indeed openly states, that "kerosene oil comes for the most part from America and is largely consumed, owing to its cheapness;" and at the conclusion of the memorial it is further stated "that if kerosene could be suppressed native trade would be greatly benefited."

The memorial, however, emanates from a respectable, if not potent, source, and I feel justified, in behalf of the petroleum interests which I represent, in submitting a few brief considerations to show the absurdity of the claim it puts forth, even from a Chinese stand-point, and which I am sure you will very carefully consider before entering upon any treaty negotiations or submitting to any local regulations looking to a restriction of the petroleum exports to China from the United States.

These may be briefly summarized as follows:
(1) That such prohibition or restriction of petroleum would be in conflict with the purposes and objects of our commercial treaty with the Empire.

^{*}The memorial is printed as received from Mr. Denby. See Document No. 181 ante, page 267.

(2) That the balance of trade with China at the present time is largely against the United States, and petroleum being the foremost article of our exports to that country, its exclusion or essential restriction on the part of China would increase the existing difference in the exchanges of the two countries.

(3) That China is the only country which by hostile legislation and the imposition of almost prohibitive "lekin" taxes of a local character is now obstructing commerce in petroleum and that these measures to restrict its general use seem plainly in conflict with the spirit and intent of our treaties, and have already led to a marked diminution of our trade and established a commercial grievance on our side.

(4) That experience has indicated to us that any attempted curtailment of petroleum importation is not in accordance with the wishes or welfare of the Chinese people at large, but would be in the interest only of a few powerful commercial guilds.

(5) That China is using far less petroleum relatively than any country of importance, and that with the population estimated at one-fourth that of the world, its consumption of petroleum is only about one sixty-second. This fact, in connection with the statistics which follow, utterly refutes the complaint of the viceroys that the trade is assuming undue and alarmingly large proportions.

The following table shows the approximate petroleum consumption of 1887:

Country.	Population.*	Number of cases.	Per capita, 1 case to each—
United States Java Japan India China Entire world	60, 000, 000	30, 000, 000	2
	20, 000, 000	2, 000, 000	10
	37, 000, 000	2, 800, 000	13
	240, 000, 000	4, 000, 000	60
	360, 000, 000	1, 600, 000	225
	1, 500, 000, 000	100, 000, 000	15

*Statistics for 1880.

(6) The absence of any similar protest from any other quarter of the globe refutes the rash assertions contained in the memorial, China receiving and consuming the same quality of oil that is shipped indiscriminately to other countries throughout the world.

Years ago it became apparent to those largely interested in the development of the petroleum industry in the United States that the value of the costly plants and machinery necessary for the business must absolutely depend upon the ability to offer a product to the world which should be practically safe as an illuminant, and without attaining this degree of safety such investments must be almost without value. The great majority of human beings the world over from instincts of self preservation exercise reasonable care in the use of matches, gas, steam, petroleum, and kindred products utilized for heat or light, yet there are exceptional instances of gross carelessness and those of idiocy or crime which no precautions can avoid.

Modern conflagrations have demonstrated that even iron and granite can be consumed, and if petroleum would not burn the very object of its production would be The experience of the world, however, demonstrates that the refined petroleum of to-day, handled with ordinary care, is not a dangerous commodity. manufacturer who refines it, the inspector who daily bends over it, the underwriter who insures it, the ship's master and crew who transport it, the merchant who handles it, the multitude in every clime who consume it, have long ceased to regard it with special apprehension. It is hourly being distributed in every land, and is floating on every sea. It has supplied one of the great wants of the world, and especially in the Orient where it has annihilated previous darkness and replaced very inferior and far more expensive products. It has especially proved a boon to the masses of the poor, for it has placed within the reach of the scantiest purse one of the primal necessities of life. It has rendered possible among those poor classes a host of evening industrial occupations unknown before, while evening schools and other educational advantages have been established for the first time in the history of Oriental civilization.

From the stand-point of the Chinese people alone, no considerable restriction can be laid upon the consumption of refined petroleum in China without serious detriment to the masses of her people. This fact being so self-evident suspicion is confirmed that the complaint is inspired solely by the local guilds who desire to resuscitate the old traffic in the native ground-nut oils by the exclusion of the cheaper and better American commodity.

Respectfully, yours,

No. 190.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 602.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 27, 1888. (Received May 5.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a translation of a dispatch received from the Tsung li Yamên on the subject of "drawbacks," in reply to my note inclosed in my dispatch to you numbered 554, of date

January 26, 1888.

The Yamen proposes that from the fourteenth year of the reign of the present Emperor, beginning on the 112th customs quarterly period (July 1, 1888), all drawback certificates will be received in payment of all kinds of duties at the customs where they were issued. This rate, however, shall not apply to outstanding drawbacks.

Under the present system, drawbacks being receivable only for coastwise duties, it is plain that to make them receivable for all duties will greatly appreciate their value and prevent their accumulation.

I would have preferred that the merchant should only be required to give bond that he would export the goods sent from the interior to a port of shipment in one year, or failing to so export them would pay the penalty of the bond.

My impression is, however, that the merchants and the foreign ministers will cheerfully accede to this settlement of a troublesome question.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 602.]

The Foreign Office to Mr. Denby.

PEKING, March 25, 1888.

Your Excellency: In January last the Prince and ministers had the honor to receive a note from your excellency in the matter of drawbacks on native produce exported from the Yangtze ports, wherein you observed that the rules in force seemed to be detrimental to the interest of foreign merchants, and you therefore requested that they be modified, etc. In regard to this matter the Yamên have repeatedly communicated with the northern and southern ministers-superintendent for foreign trade to instruct the several customs authorities under their respective jurisdictions to take under consideration the question as to whether or not a modification in the present system could be effected, and to present a report embodying the true facts of the case. These officers have now presented a report, as follows:

"When native produce is shipped at a river port the shipper must pay both export and coast-trade duty before he ships it. Drawbacks issued can be tendered in payment of coast-trade duties. This rule was adopted with a view to guard against shippers secretly carrying out schemes and smuggling. It has been in force for a long time. Moreover, when the special rules for tea were framed, some years ago, it was clearly made known that these could not be taken as a precedent governing other articles of native produce, and it was no easy matter to alter the established rules."

The Yamên would observe that in regard to this question, since there are in force fixed rules, it has not been convenient to suddenly make a change in them; but since your excellency has stated that they are working disadvantageously to the interest of merchants, and requested that they may be modified, the Prince and ministers could not but consider how an arrangement could be made, thus manifesting a desire to befriend the foreign merchants.

It is therefore proposed that from the fourteenth year of Kwanghsii, beginning on the one hundredth and twelfth customs quarterly period (July 1, 1888), all drawback certificates issued before that date will be received in payment of all kinds of duties at the custom-house where they were issued. Drawbacks that were issued previous to that period will be received in payment of coast-trade duties at the office from whence they emanated. Under this rule on the one hand new drawbacks will not accumulate, and on the other hand old drawbacks can, from time to time, be all redeemed. This system will not prove detrimental to either the customs or the merchants—the modification made is just and equitable, of which the Prince and ministers believe your excellency will approve.

Now besides having written to the northern and southern ministers-superintendent for trade in turn to instruct the customs authorities on the Yangtze River to alike observe the new regulation, the Prince and ministers send this communication for your excellency's information.

No. 191.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 603.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 27, 1888. (Received May 5.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith, for your information, a translation from a Chinese newspaper published at Tientsin, purporting to give the text of a memorial submitted to the Emperor by the Tsung-li Yamên, together with the boards of revenue and civil office, reporting favorably on a prior memorial submitted by Li Hung Chang, for developing the gold mines along the Mo-ho Valley, near the Amur River, and to the northwest of the city of Merguen.

The memorialist, after referring to the steps which have been taken to inquire into the subject, refers to the neglect of the Government in developing the mining resources of the country. The proximity of the Mo-ho to Russian territory, and the influx of foreign adventurers to these new gold fields, are also reasons why the Government should not lose time in assuming control of the works. Another reason which suggests itself to the writers of the memorial, and one which must be of great weight at present with the Government, is that the developing of mining industry in this desolate frontier district, open to the inroads of Russian adventurers, would cause the population to rapidly increase, and thus strengthen the frontier defenses of the Empire.

The memorialists then proceed to consider the proposals, sixteen in number, made by Li Hung Chang, in the memorial previously referred to, and in which he submits his plans for developing the mines in the Mo-ho region.

The most important of these measures are:

(1) The formation of a joint stock company, with a capital of 200,000

taels, divided into two thousand shares.

(2) The engagement of competent mining engineers, and in this connection the viceroy speaks in the highest terms of the two American mining engineers, Professor Church and Mr. Ellsworth, who have been for the last year employed at the silver mines near Jeho and the gold mines near Pingtu, in Shantung.

(3) The necessity of constructing steamers to navigate the Amur, and thus render the Chinese authorities independent of the Russians, from whom they have heretofore been obliged to hire steamers whenever needed.

(4) The purchase of proper mining machinery. It is observed, however, that in the present case, the work being altogether placer mining, native appliances may prove sufficient.

(5) To obtain men to work in the mines it is suggested that those who have been driven away by the Government troops and have sought refuge in Russian territory be allowed to come back, those alone excepted who have become Russian subjects, who "should not be harbored under any circumstances."

(6) The necessity of opening a road between Tsitsihar and Moho (500) miles) so as to facilitate transport; for this purpose it is proposed that a body of 1,000 or 2,000 soldiers be detached, who, when the work of road building is finished, can be employed in erecting telegraph lines, establishing stations, protecting convoys, etc.

The last clause provides that when the company shall have paid off its debts, among which is to figure a sum of 100,000 taels advanced by Li Hung Chang, and a further one of 30,000 taels advanced by the general of Hei Lung Chiang for preliminary expenses, it is to pay the salaries of the officers and men, the expenses of the office, the allowance of the extra garrison which it is proposed to establish, etc. "What. ever is left as the net profit shall be disbursed in the following manner: Thirty per cent. should go to the support of the army; 20 per cent. should be distributed as a bonus among the men, and the remaining 50 per cent. should be equitably divided pro rata among the share holders."

Should'a company be formed and the shares put on the market, and should the suggestions quoted above be incorporated in the charter, it may prove as difficult to find purchasers as it was when the Kaiping extension railway was started last year. It must also be borne in mind that joint-stock companies in which the official class has had a part have not proved successful in China; the management has always been most extravagant and preferred share-holders have invariably existed; lucrative sinecures have had to be provided for friends and relatives of directors, managers, influential officials, and share-holders, etc.

It can only be hoped that, in case the company is organized, it may prove an exception to the rule and turn out such a success that, as the memorialist remarks, "undertakings on a vast and comprehensive scale will be inaugurated, in order to enrich and strengthen our frontiers."

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 603.]

MEMORIAL ON GOLD MINING ALONG THE AMUR RIVER.

The Tsung-li Yamen, together with the boards of revenue and civil office, submit the following memorial in reply to certain proposals to develop the gold mines along the bed of the Mo-hó, which proposals were embodied in memorials by the military governor of Helung-kiang, and by Li Hung-chang. (See Chinese Times of 31st December, 1887.)

On the 24th November, 1887, the grand council handed to the Tsung-li Yamên a copy of a memorial by the military governor of Helung-kiang upon the subject of sending men to examine and survey the gold districts along the Mo-hó. This memorial was referred by rescript to the consideration of the memorialists.

Again, on the 20th January, 1888, a copy of a memorial from Li Hung-chang was received in which he proposed that the Government should take in hand the opening and developing of the gold mines along the Mo-hó. This memorial was likewise referred to the Tsung-li Yamén, with instructions that they draw up a reply thereon, giving the result of their views and deliberations.

The memorialists find that the Mo-hó, together with its adjacent mountains, is situated within the territory of Helung-kiang, to the northwest of the city of Merguen. According to previous surveys it is distant for Niao-tao about 800 li, from Yutao about 1,000 li, Tsitsihar 1,500 li. To the east is the town of Ai-hun, a distance by water of 1,500 li; to the north, just on the other side of the Amur River, are the recently established frontier towns of Pokana, Fu-ka-tun, Alaba, and Chin-chêng.

The gold ore along the bed of the Mo-hó is very abundant but the country is most wild and desolate. Hordes of ruffian characters used to frequently visit these places and stealthily dig away the ores, until finally they were driven away by the exmilitary governor Wen Hsu, who also established a frontier post there to keep off these marauders. But so long as it is known that gold exists in abundance in these regions, men will always be eager to obtain possession of it, and it will be well-nigh impossible to afford permanent protection on account of the inaccessibility of the country. Formerly a Russian merchant named Sabatin endeavored, by representations through the Russian minister at Peking, to obtain a lease of the district known as the Tsu-lu-hai-tu, which was situated to the west of the Mo-hó, in order to develop the gold mines there. The Russian merchant preferred this request on the ground that our Government were taking no steps to develop these mines. Since then the memorialists have carried on a frequent correspondence with Li Hung-chang and Kung-tang upon the subject in question. On the 10th February, 1888, an 1mperial decree was issued authorizing the appointment of a commission to inspect and examine the valley of the Mo-hó, and also to project measures for mining exploitations. Afterwards Li Hung-chang submitted a memorial embodying sixteen proposals, treating of the matter on hand in an exhaustive manner. The memorialists posals, treating of the matter on hand in an exhaustive manner. would humbly observe that in the countries of Great Britian, the United States, and Russia much of their national wealth is derived from the gold mines in Australia, California, and Siberia, respectively.

Although China possesses gold mines in abundance, yet heretofore our Government has never made mining a national undertaking, and consequently very little gold has And of this small quantity of gold in China foreigners have exported the bulk abroad, so that what little remains here is enhanced in value. The contiguity of the Amur districts, where the gold mines exist, to Russian territory is another cogent reason why mining exploitations should not be delayed.

If our Government is to adopt a far-sighted policy, it must at once develop the Empire's resources and strengthen her frontiers, putting them upon a perfectly secure basis. Should the mining exploitations along the Mo-hó prove successful, immense benefit would accrue to Government and stockholders alike, while the desolate frontiers would become thickly populated and the poor miserable peasants would find sure means of obtaining livelihood. The memorialists now desire to consider carefully, one by one, the sixteen proposals of Li Hung-chang, because they feel that, this being the initial stage of national mining enterprise in China, too great caution can not be exercised.

According to the recommendation of Li Hung-chang, Li Chin Jung, expectant prefect, should be appointed by Imperial edict to be head director of mining enterprise in Helung-Kiang, as that officer has shown himself most zealous and indefatigable in his duties. The military governor of Helung Kiang should be directed by imperial command to act in concert with this officer, Li Chin Jung, in all matters pertaining to mining operations and they should both evince the greatest diligence.

Whatever exigencies or difficulties may arise that have not been provided against in these deliberations, it will be the duty of Li Chin Jung to report then to Li Hungchang, in order that he may communicate them to the Tsung-li Yamên for their information and consideration. The sixteen proposals are appended below, with the memorialists' suggestions and explanations.

(1) The establishment of a general mining office. —In inaugurating an important enterprise such as mining, the first step is to provide the requisite funds for the various purposes of purchasing machinery, erecting buildings, ordering steam-boats, constructing roads, engaging mining engineers, stationing garrisons to protect the mines, etc. These operations involve expenses on a large scale, to meet which funds must be obtained by forming a joint-stock company. At present Li Hung-chang has advanced 100,000 taels, and the military general at Helung-Kiang 30,000 taels, to be used for preliminary expenses. After the joint-stock company has been formed and all the required capital raised, this advanced loan will be returned to Li Hung-chang and the military governor.

(2) The formation of a joint-stock company.—Joint-stock enterprises in China are what are known as "kung su," or corporate companies in Western countries. These are really enterprises by and among the people. In recent years the China Merchants' Steam Navigation Company and the Kaiping Mining Company are examples of corporate companies, composed of merchant stockholders. It is proposed to raise a capital of 200,000 taels, to be divided into 2,000 shares. Branch offices will be established at Kirin, Tientsin, and Shanghai for the solicitation and allotment of shares, and afterwards for the payment of dividends to shareholders and other purposes. All details must be managed with absolute honesty, in order that stockholders may derive benefit and corporate companies may win popular favor.

(3) The selection of the locality for the commencement of mining operations.—It is found that the gold vein extends from the west mountain on the Ngo-erh-ku-na River, through Chi-kan-a-le-han and terminates at the lower section of the Amur River, a total distance of 500 li. This district was formerly known as the "Chin Yueh," or "gold cave." Along the streams of the Yuen Pao mountain, which lies on the Mo-hó, traces of the former digging by gold depredators are still visible. It is decided that the mining operations be confined to this locality, beginning with those places that are richest in gold ore, as may be determined by the mining engineer, and extend that are richest in gold ore, as may be determined by the mining engineer, and extend the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the stat tending the field step by step as may be advisable. Suitable buildings should be erected where the operations commence, for the accommodation of the officers and miners.

(4) The engagement of mining engineers. - During past years Chinese mining enterprises have suffered greatly through the employment of incompetent foreigners. To secure the service of an expert mining engineer is not an easy matter, but it is reported that the American engineer, Mr. Church, employed at the Jeho silver mines, and Mr. Elsworth, employed at the Pingtu-chou gold mines in Shautung, are men of great ability. For the present enterprise the strictest caution should be exercised to insure the engagement of honest and able men, in order not to squander the funds needlessly.

(5) The exercise of jurisdiction.—The Mo-hó is distant from the town of Tsitsihar by land 1,500 li; by water via Ai-hun the distance is still greater. About this region Russian steamers ply backwards and forwards on the Amur River, and it is most likely when mining has once commenced matters will come up for settlement with the Russian officials. Some one must, therefore, be empowered to transact such official business, as otherwise, by reason of the great distance of the mining districts, it will be quite impossible to report every question to headquarters. It is decided, therefore, that Li Chin Jung be authorized to deal with the Russian officials in all matters except those involving vital international interests. In which case they will be reported to Li Hung-Chang, or the military governor of Helung-Kiang.

(6) The construction of steam-boats. In the Russian treaty of 1858 it was agreed that only Chinese and Russian steamers shall be allowed to navigate the Amur River, and all other nations are debarred from the privilege. During the 4th moon of the 12th year of Kiang Hsü, the military governor of Helung-Kiang frequently hired Russian steamers to transport food supplies for the troops who had been sent to expel the gold marauders. This was found to be a great inconvenience, and subsequently efforts were made to purchase one of the Russian steam-boats, but the matter fell though. It is now decided to have two steam-boats constructed at the arsenal at Kirin, to be used for purposes of transport; also to construct four other boats for cruising and policing the rivers. As the steam-boats will require much fuel, the military governor should detach a portion of the soldiers to fell trees and supply all the fuel needed.

(7) The purchase of machinery.-In working placer mines a necessary step is to draw off the water, and for this purpose suitable machinery must be provided, as hand labor is impracticable. But as the depth of the water in the Mo-ho, where the gold is, does not come to 10 feet, perhaps it will hardly be necessary to purchase machinery for pumping purposes. Whatever machinery is required, however, must be supplied.

(8) The employment of men.—The country about the Mo-hó is wild, desolate, and inaccessible, and men contemplate going there with dread. But for the present undertaking it is absolutely necessary to have competent, upright, and energetic men, who will spare themselves neither time nor trouble to achieve success. It is proposed that the officers be appointed probationally. After three years' conditional service, those who evince capability and usefulness will receive permanent appointment, and those who are specially meritorious will also be recommended for official promotion. In this manner men will be encouraged to earnest effort and upright behavior.

(9) The recall of refugees to work in the mines. - It is found that of those who formerly dug away the gold ores the principal part were Shantung and Chih-li emigrants who are without occupation. These had wandered from Hai-shen-wei and Chia-kó-tú to the Mo-hó, whence they were subsequently expelled by the Government troops sent against them. They then crossed the Amur River, and drifted into Russian territory in considerable numbers. It is thought that in opening these mines an opportunity should be offered to these men, so that those who choose may return to Chinese territory and receive employment. An exception should, however, be made in the case of those having already become Russian subjects, and they should not be harbored under any circumstances.

(10) The construction of roads for purposes of transport.—The distance from Tsitsihar to Ai-hun, and from Ai-hun to Mo-hó, both by land and by water is 2,350 li. Chin Jung reports, however, that the entire distance from Tsitsihar to the Mo-hó by land alone is only 1,500 li, which is shorter than the usual land and water route by 800 or 900 li. The land route from Tsitsihar to Mo-hó, however, traverses inaccessible mountains and impenetrable forests that have not seen the tracks of men. proposed that a body of 1,000 or 2,000 soldiers be detached to fell the trees and clear a road, and for this extra duty that they be compensated by extra allowances. This measure is suggested with a view of facilitating transport. The military governor of Helung-Kiang should be directed to concert plans with the commander-in-chief of the territorial army of Manchuria for putting this measure into execution. the work of road construction has been completed the soldiers can be employed in erecting telegraph lines, establishing stations, protecting goods in transitu, etc.

(11) The stationing of an extra garrison.—At the newly-established frontier post of Po-lo-chia-ta the garrison numbers only 500 men, and they are there to suppress local disorder and keep guard over the mines. In view of this fact, the request for an extra garrison should be granted, especially as the expenses of said garrison will be borne by the mining company.

(13 to 15) The appointment of treasurers and accountants; the co-operation of the shareholders in the management; the economizing of the company's funds, and the methods of disbursements for the company.—All these four items belong to the duties of the head director, and it behooves him, in that capacity, to exercise due discretion and unimpeachable integrity.

(16) The payment of dividends.—It is proposed that when the mines have brought forth sufficient returns, the first step be to cancel all the company's debts, interest and principal. After that the salaries of the officers and men, the expenses of the office, the allowance of the garrison, etc., should be paid. Whatever is left as the net profit should be disbursed in the following manner: Thirty per cent. should go to the support of the army; 20 per cent. should be distributed as a bonus among the men, and the remaining 50 per cent. should be equitably divided pro rata among the shareholders. A detailed statement of the company's receipts and expenditures should at the end of every year be submitted to the examination of the board concerned. Should the present attempt prove successful, and the ores be found in great abundance, undertakings on a vast and comprehensive scale will be inaugurated in order to enrich and strengthen our frontiers.

No. 192.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 604.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 28, 1888. (Received May 5.)

SIR: The currency of China is anomalous. It is in a transition state which is destined to lead up to a mint.

The want of uniformity in the size and value of cash is a crying evil. The Government understands thoroughly the confusion that exists, but conservatism and a fear of the people have hitherto prevented the adoption of a remedy.

Some time ago it was proposed to issue "standard" cash in part payment of monthly salaries. It was not intended to supersede the large Peking cash. These cash were first introduced during the reign of Hsien Teng, when, owing to the Yunnan rebellion, copper became scarce.

Their circulation is confined to Peking.

The issuing of standard cash is for the purpose of creating uniformity between the provincial and Pekingese currencies, but the proposed change has disarranged the currency in Peking. The people believe that the Peking cash will be withdrawn from circulation. At first the Peking cash was worth 10 standard cash, now it is worth two and a fraction. The banks have withdrawn their notes from circulation, for fear that they will have to be paid in standard cash, and have substituted notes payable in Peking cash. The influence on business is most disturbing.

I inclose herewith a decree issued March 12; its purport is that Peking cash will not be withdrawn, but that this cash shall be supplementary to the standard cash.

I have, etc.,

[Inclosure in No. 604.]

CURRENCY QUESTION IN PEKING.

A decree.

March 12, 1888.

We are in receipt of a memorial from the governor of Shun-t'ien Fu stating that, owing to the proposed issue of standard cash in part payment of monthly salaries, the circulation of Peking cash has become restricted in the market. When the introduction of standard cash was first decided upon it was intended that they should be supplementary to the Peking cash, with which they were in all mercantile and official transactions to exchange in the proportion of two to one; but the disuse of the latter currency was never contemplated. Though this has been announced in successive edicts and confirmed under regulations published by the board of revenue, still it has not had the effect of removing the uneasiness felt in commercial circles, and the process of selecting the larger and heavier Peking cash and rejecting the lighter still goes on. The result is that the people are unable to exchange their cash for the necessaries of life. The exchange is manipulated by dishonest traders to the great inties of the rest of the population. We therefore command the governor of Shun t'ien and the commandant of the Peking gendarmerie to issue fresh proclamations authorizing the continued circulation without any process of selection of all Peking cash, two mace and upwards in weight, which have been coined at the Government mints. Let any attempt to restrict the circulation of this currency under the pretext that it is to be discontinued, or any forcing of the price of commodities, be severely punished in accordance with law.

No. 193.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 605.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 28, 1888. (Received May 5.)

Sir: I inclose herewith a copy of a recent decree issued by the Emperor.

I send it as a specimen of elevated Chinese composition. It exhibits commendable sentiments and is evidently intended to quiet the popular mind, which has been growing restive over recent expenditures.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 605.]

FUTURE RESIDENCE OF EMPRESS DOWAGER.

A decree.

MARCH 13, 1888.

Ever since our childhood, when we succeeded to the great inheritance, Her Majesty the Empress Dowager has conducted the Regency with unremitting care by night and day, and during the ten years and more of her rule the Empire has been consolidated and its people have enjoyed happiness. Last year we received Her Majesty's commands to assume the personal control of the Government, but she was graciously pleased to vouchsafe to our childish inexperience the benefit of her advice. When we reflect on the arduous exertions and the unremitting attention, extending to the minutest details, which our revered mother has bestowed on the Government of this great Empire for more than twenty years, during the present and preceding reigns, we feel night and day inward uneasiness and searchings of the heart at the thought that she had no place at her disposal wherein she might seek rest and enjoyment during the little leisure that was left after the discharge of the manifold duties of the state. The Western Park, which adjoins the palace, formed the residence at one time of the Emperor K'ang Hsi. Its buildings and grounds are still in good order, and with slight repairs it can be converted into a suitable retreat for Her Majesty.

The Emperor, K'ien Lung, assigned the Ta-pao-ên Yên-shou temple in Wan Shoushan to the Empress Mother, and attended upon Her Majesty there at the celebration of three decennial birthdays. In reverential imitation of this commendable and happy precedent, we also propose to restore the grounds and buildings of the Ch'ing Yi-yiian at Wan Shou-shan, and place it at the disposal of Her Majesty for use on such auspicious occasions. Attended by all ministers of our court, we would at each decennial birthday there offer our congratulations to Her Majesty, as some slight token of our respect and dutiful affection. After repeated solicitations, Her Majesty has been graciously pleased to assent to this arrangement, and has issued the following

"Ever since we assumed the Regency we have spent our nights and days in fear and trembling as if standing on the brink of a precipice. Though the Empire has now in a measure been restored to peace and happiness, still we have never relaxed our unremitting attention for a single moment. We are aware, however, that the Emperors of our sacred line have in the administration of their Government ever paid attention to the wants and sufferings of the people, and that the wanton license of former dynasties has been conspicuously absent in laying out their pleasure grounds, in the conduct of hunting expeditions, and in similar recreations. As the present proposal is intended as an expression of dutiful regard on the part of His Majesty, we can not endure the thought of offering undue objections to its acceptance, the more especially as the funds for the work will be drawn from our private savings, and will entail no expense or sacrifice on the country. Rumors, based on insufficient knowledges to the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the count edge, are prevalent in the outside world on the subject, and suspicions are even entertained that this is the beginning of the gradual restoration of the whole summer palace. All this is very far from being in keeping with the anxious thoughts we cherish in the depth of our seclusion. The fact is that considerations of time and circumstance would not warrant a revival of the establishment of courts and the erection of public offices such as Yung Chêng's reign witnessed. Granting that the people have advanced in material prosperity, and that peace prevails within the four seas, there are still countless measures to be taken for continuing the glory of our predecessors and transmitting a worthy example to our descendants. Our duty is to select and endeavor to give effect to the more important of these, and we trust the nation will believe that our thoughts are directed to this object and not to the frivolities of pleasure and sight-seeing. The Emperor is now advancing to manhood, and the greatest respect he can pay to us will be to discipline his own body to develop his mind, to pay unremitting attention to the administration of the Government, and to love his people. Let not the present method of paying respect to us be made an opening for the gratification of future ease and enjoyment. It is our heartfelt hope that the ministers of the court will vie with each other in checking extravagance and in securing the attainment of good government."

We feel it to be our bounden duty to pay implicit obedience and respect to Her Majesty's commands by abstaining from the least show of laxity or extravagance. All our ministers, too, should consider it their duty to further her earnest exhortation by directing all their energies to the discharge of their public functions and the promotion of the public welfare. The works in the Western Park being now nearly finished, we have selected the 20th of May next as the day on which Her Majesty will take up her residence there. The arrangements respecting her staff of attendants and guards will be based upon the regulations previously drawn up by the princes and ministers.

Let this decree be promulgated for general information.

No. 194.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 606.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 29, 1888. (Received May 5.)

SIR: The earthquake and volcanic phenomena of the past few years have been very remarkable, and these great disturbances continue to be produced.

From a recent report of the governor of Yunnan, which appeared in the Peking Gazette, a tremendous earthquake has occurred in the south of the province.

In his memorial to the throne the governor states that the disturbance commenced between 5 and 6 p.m. on the 14th of January last, and continued till 4 a.m. on the following day. During the period there were ten or more serious shocks, which were accompanied by a noise as of thunder. In certain district cities the town walls were either thrown down or cracked, while the public offices and temples shared the same fate. At a place called Shih Ping, in the south of the city, eight or nine tenths of the private houses fell; in other parts the devastation was rather less, but still even there over a thousand rooms were left with cracked or standing walls—over 200 persons of all ages were crushed to death, and more than 300 permanently crippled. There was much loss of life or limb in the surrounding villages, it being estimated that to the east 800 were killed and about the same number wounded; to the south, 200 and 400; to the west, 300 and 500; to the north, 100 and 200; making a total of over 4,000 killed and wounded.

This does not, however, represent the entire suffering caused. Many people, rich and poor, are left without homes—all their property and provisions being buried beneath the ruins.

The earthquake was felt in other places, which caused suffering of a similar nature to that in Shih-ping.

The memorialist, in view of the unprecedented magnitude of the disaster and the vast extent of misery caused, has instructed the officials in the disturbed localities to lose no time in administering and providing for the wants of the unfortunate sufferers.

In a place called Wu Yuen Ting the district jail was thrown down, from which all the prisoners escaped.

A rescript from the Emperor shows that His Majesty is much distressed by this unfortunate and serious calamity and orders that measures be taken at once to insure relief to the sufferers.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 195.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 607.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, March 31, 1888. (Received May 31.)

SIR: If Chang Chi-tung, whom I shall shortly see in Canton, continues to act on the lines he has adopted as to kerosene, the considerations hereinafter stated may become important.

That the levying of enormous internal taxes on imported goods should be energetically resisted is the purport of your dispatch No. 209 of June 24, 1887.

The ground of this resistance is that such taxation is more or less prohibitory of an importation which the treaties permit.

The power of a State to tax imported articles has been, under certain limits, recognized in Brown v. the State of Maryland (12 Wheaton 419), and the License Cases (16 Curtis, 516). But these cases arose under the Constitution of the United States.

The familiar rules for the interpretation of treaties do away with strict construction and require that the interpretation shall be favorable rather than odious; that the whole context shall be considered, and that the reason of the treaty shall prevail.

Under the treaties, importations are permitted to be made by foreigners on the same terms that are accorded to Chinese subjects.

That the goods so imported escape lekin while in foreign hands is admitted. But, under the guise of internal taxation, they are subjected in Shinese hands to special duties which are not levied on native

The test proposed by Chang Chi-tung is the nationality of the owner. He claims that China has the undoubted right to tax her own citizens as she pleases. This view is erroneous. The element to be considered is not the nationality of the owner, but the character of the goods. The harm done by levying an extraordinary tax on imported goods in the hands of a Chinese subject is just as great as if they were in the hands of a foreigner. Imports will certainly cease in either case whenever the tax becomes so great as to make importation unprofitable.

Under the treaties this internal taxation may be resisted long before it becomes prohibitory.

The true principle to be contended for is that there shall be no discrimination against the imported article. That China might tax all oils, native and foreign, a uniform sum, stopping short of a point which would imply prohibition, might be admitted. But, it can not be admitted that, for the purpose of benefiting a particular native article, China may, under the guise of internal taxation, discriminate against a foreign article of the same character.

If China may lawfully do this the treaties are valueless. It would be exceedingly easy to annihilate foreign trade without infringing the treaties.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 196.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 617.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, April 5, 1888. (Received May 31.)

Sir: I have the honor to inclose herewith a translation from the Shen Pao, a Chinese paper, of an account of the Emperor's annual visit to the Temple of Heaven, February 20, 1888, to offer sacrifices.

This ceremony is altogether the most imposing and most peculiar of Chinese religious rites. The most imposing because the head of the empire, who is the chief priest of its religion, does homage in the name of countless millions. He typifies his people and his race, and as their representative offers sacrifices.

It is the most peculiar because there is no idolatry of images here, no wooden or earthen gods. The deity is Shangti, the Supreme Ruler. He is the Lord of Heaven, the arbiter of nations. He is imperceptible to the senses. He is not clothed in human form like the Zeus of the Greeks. The conception of him is more ideal than that of the Jehovah of the Jews. This ideal has never been incarnate like the Christ. While Confucianism, Buddhism, Taoism have millions of adherents, and their followers have created an endless pantheon of divinities, Shangti stands alone in his supremacy above all the waves of corruption. There glow around him the rays of a primeval faith, and he symbolizes the Spirit of the Universe.

The Temple of Heaven is located in the Chinese City, a short distance from the Chién Mên, the chief gate of the Tartar City. It is a single tower covered with azure tiles, representing heaven. It contains no image.

The solemn rites are performed on a marble altar outside of the temple. On this altar, once a year, a bullock is offerred as a burnt offerring.

Notices of this ceremonial, as of all others in which the emperor participates, are regularly sent to the ministers, wherein they are requested to notify their countrymen not to appear on any of the streets to be traversed on these occasions. As Chinese are equally excluded the ministers have raised no question over this request.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 617.]

THE EMPEROR IN THE TEMPLE OF HEAVEN.

On the 9th day of the first month (20th of February) the Emperor of China went in person to the Temple of Heaven at Peking to pray for the harvest this year with the usual ceremonies.

The day before His Majesty passed in the Hall of Abstinence in prayer, fasting, and meditation.

On the 19th of February, at the fifth drum (the fifth watch before daylight), the T'ai Ch'ang Sze (a high bureau intrusted with the arrangement of such ceremonials) placed a yellow table (the imperial color) in the Hall of Great Harmony, the T'ai hwo Tien. South of the Emperor's seat was placed an incense burner shaped like a small pavilion, and in another similar erection, east of the left hand pillars, stood a scroll on which a sentence of prayer was painted in the choicest calligraphy. To the west of the right hand pillars of the building, stood yet another pavilion to contain the mounted rolls of silk which were painted with similar inscriptions. The Tsan Li Lang and the Tuh Cheeh Kwan (whom we might call "the Masters of Rites and Readers of Prayers") stood respectfully waiting outside the gate of the Hall of Great Harmony, holding in front of them the silken scrolls is baskets and the incense in bronze censers.

The chief of the T'ai Ch'ang, the ceremonial bureau already mentioned, called by Mr. Mayers the court of sacrificial worship, accompanied by other officers of the bureau, were waiting inside the hall, and when the time arrived he proceeded with the imperial astronomer to the gate of pure heaven (a palace gate called the Kien Tsing Mun), to announce to the Emperor that it was two-quarters of the hour of the hare (i. e., 6.30 a. m.), and his majesty issued from the above-named gate riding in a sedan chair, passed through the back left gate, and thus to the hall of great harmony, where his sedan chair was deposited at the northern steps and he entered the building and stood in front of the left pillars, facing the west.

Four officials of the Han Lin Yiian (or Imperial Academy of Literature) were standing outside the right-hand door of the building, facing east. The readers of prayers now issued from the inner cabinet, holding in front of them, respectfully elevated, prayers written on scrolls of paper, and entered the middle gate of the hall of great harmony, and the silken scrolls and incense were borne after them into the hall. In front of them were borne a pair of incense-burners. The masters of rites, ten in number, conducted them, preceding them, and mounted the central steps as far as to the vermilion dais. The readers of prayers, those who bore the prayer-scrolls, and the bearers of silken scrolls and incense having entered the central gate of the hali, reverently laid down their burdens one by one on the yellow table, and retired after

The chief of the court of sacrifice (Tai Ch'ang) opened a prayer-scroll, and the masters of rites spread a cushion on the ground. The Emperor advanced in front of the yellow table and reverentially inspected the objects lying on it, after which he performed the genuflection called "once kneel and thrice kowtow" and then took up his position again, standing as before. The chief of the court of sacrifice rolled up the prayer-scroll again and the cushion on which the Emperor had just kneet was the prayer-scroll again and the cushion on which the Emperor had just knelt was removed.

The readers of prayers now advanced to the yellow table and made three kowtows. They respectfully take from the table and bear aloft the prayer-scrolls, the silken scrolls, and the incense, which they deposit one by one in the graceful pavillion-like stands meant to receive them. With three more kowtows they retire.

The mandarin in charge of the incense now carries a box full of incense to the incense-stand, places it gently there, and withdraws.

The bearers of the prayer scrolls now leave the edifice by the central door, the stand containing the incense precedes them, and that which contains the silken scrolls fol-The chief of the court of sacrifice, kneeling, informs the Emperor that lows behind. this part of the solemn rite is over.

His Majesty mounts his sedan chair again and returns to the palace.

The clock strikes 9 a. m., and the Emperor, in dragon robe and cap of ermine surrounded by a knob of crimson velvet, issues from the palace gate, called the pure heaven gate, seated in a "summer chair" borne by eight men. Passing successively through the back left gate, the center left gate, and the gate of great harmony, he arrives at the mid-day gate, where he descends from his sedan chair and ascends his great jade palanquin, borne on the shoulders of thirty-two men. As he mounts, the equerries in waiting hold a vermilion ladder or flight of steps leading up to the palanquin to assist him in getting in. All the bearers are dressed in outer robes of red silk and inner robes of ash-colored linen. On their feet were fast-walking boots of the same gray material, with thin soles, the upper part round the ankles being of black fur. They were caps of leopard skins, dappled as if with coins of gold, with red velvet plumes, kept in position by gold filigree plates, from which floated yellow feathers down their backs. The palanquin is 8 feet high and weighs 3,000 cattles (about 1 ton 16 hundred-weight), but the bearers walked swiftly, under its weight, like lightning flashes or the shooting stars rush across the sky, and at every étepe of one mu and three-tenths they were relieved by a fresh set of thirty-two men.

When the Emperor ascended the great jade palanquin, the sedan with its eight bearers still followed him. Beside the palanquin walked two of the chief equerries to support it.

Ahead of this stately procession rolled the five gigantic cars ordinarily drawn by elephants, which animals were this year absent from the fête by the permission of the Emperor, to whom the danger of their suddenly getting ungovernable was pointed out.

Looking now behind the imperial palanquin, we see marching the ten men armed with spears hung with leopard's tails, the ten men with swords, and the dozen men carrying bows and arrows, all representatives of the Tartar corps of the paitanga bodyguard.

Just behind came, walking, about a hundred of the highest Manchu nobility, princes, bei-lehs (emirs), bei-tszes (sons of bei-lehs), dukes, marquises, and earls, assistant chamberlains (who command in turn the palace guard), general officers of the brigade of imperial guards, the comptroller of the household, and the prince of the imperial blood, who, as president of the clan court, preserves the genealogical record or family roll of the Ta Tsing dynasty, all armed either with bows and arrows or with large swords. As soon as this noble company arrive outside of the middle gate, they all mount their charges, before that having been obliged to walk on foot. The rear is brought up by two assistant chamberlains, with their suite, bearing two immense yellow dragon standards.

Outside the mid-day gate are kneeling a great number of civil and military mandarins in court dresses, who may not accompany the procession, being not of sufficiently high rank, and so pay their respects to it thus as it defiles past. The stone road to the temple of heaven, which is about 8 li long ( $2\frac{1}{2}$  to 3 miles), although not yet mended with stones, as intended, looked neat with all its inequalities hidden in a uniform covering of yellow soil. At the mouth of every road or street, whether within the wall of Peking or outside of it, which ran into the route of the procession at right angles to its course, were mat sheds, draped outside with blue cloth, serving as tents for Chinese infantry ("green standard"), who mounted guard at each corner, armed with whips to keep order and silence amongst the people in these streets. At every five paces of the road along which the procession passed stood a guardsman of the van-guard, in full uniform, sword by his side and whip in hand. The gates and doors of every house and shop were closed, and red silk decorations hung in festoons in front of them; all along the route and in front of every sentry station were displayed bows and arrows, swords and spears, arranged in symmetrical order, with decorative lanterns and satin hangings. The Emperor, having arrived at the left gate of the brick wall of the temple, exchanged his great jade palanquin for a sedan chair with eight bearers only, and on entering the west side of the sacred path inside the left gate of prayers for the year descended, and on foot walked up to the chamber of imperial heaven and held a stick of incense burning in his hand in the prescribed manner, after which he inspected the victims (oxen, etc.) laid out there, the sacrificial vessels of bamboo and wood, and, returning to the west side of the sacred road, got into his sedan chair again, went out at the gate of prayers for the year, and repaired to the hall of abstinence, to the immeasurable chamber, to pass a season in holy contemplation.

(The guards inside and outside the temple are here described. The duty of patrolling the temple of heaven, etc., devolves upon the princes of the blood on these occasions.)

The Emperor, in the immeasurable chamber of his hall of abstinence, at 4 o'clock in the morning commanded supper, which was duly served by the gentlemen in waiting, and then the bronze statue bearing on its head the inscription "Abstinence" was set up fronting his majesty as he sat.

The K'eh-k'in prince (one of those descended from grandsons of T'ai Tsu and T'ai Tsung, chiefs of the Manchu dynasty before their conquest of China), accompanied by the Emperor's aide-de-camp, the chief of the eunuchs, and other officers, kept patrol outside the apartment.

The chief of the court of sacrifice already mentioned had arranged a prayer mat on the ground outside the chambers of prayers for the year, and had set up the tablet of Shang Ti (the supreme god) in the interior of the chamber, facing south, with on its right and left the tablets of the Emperor's ancestors facing east and west respect-A great curtain had been hung up outside the door of the chamber.

The Emperor, in his sacrificial vestments embroidered with the golden dragon, a court barrette of white ermine on his head, surmounted with an immense pearl set in a gold ornament representing nine dragons, and a necklace of one hundred and eight precious pearls round his neck, issued from the hall of abstinence at the appointed hour, riding in a summer sedan chair borne by eight men, entered the temple, and reached the left gate of prayers for the year through the west gate of the brick wall of the temple. Here, alighting, he walked into the chamber of prayers for the year, and adored Shang Ti of imperial heaven and his own august ancestors. The animal victims and the sacrificial vessels of various sorts were here already laid out in the prescribed order,

The reader of prayers knelt in front of His Majesty, holding up the prayer scroll in both hands, and reverentially recited the prayer. As it was still dark inside the building, another official of the court of sacrifice knelt beside him, with a candle to throw a clear light on the written words of the prayer. When the prayer had been read the Emperor made three kneelings and nine kowtows, and rose again to his feet. The incense-bearer brought the incense, the wine-cup bearer brought the cup, the silk-hearer the silk: and the official with the cushion spread it out on the floor. The silk-bearer the silk; and the official with the cushion spread it out on the floor. The master of ceremonies ushered His Majesty to his place. The Emperor knelt thrice and kowtowed nine times, and when he rose again the musicians played three antique airs.

The paper sycee and the offerings of food from the carcasses of the animal victims were held up and presented as prescribed by ancient forms. Officers of the board of ceremonies (Li Pu), of the court of sacrificial worship, and of the court of imperial entertainments (or banqueting court), holding respectfully in both hands the paper scroll, the silken prayer scrolls, and the incense case, advanced to the great incense-burner and solemnly burned all these objects to ashes. The chief of the court of sacrificial worship knelt and announced to the Emperor that the ceremony was finished.

His Majesty, ascending the summer sedan chair, returned to his chamber in the hall of abstinence, to change his attire and have some repose. Then getting into his palanquin again he was carried through the inner and outer gates of the temple, the State musicians performing an ancient melody. The cortege, in the same order as before, passed through the Chêng Yang gate, and the Emperor burned incense in the Buddhist temple and the temple of Kwan Ti, the god of war. Taoist priests in full attire knelt to receive him at the left of the entrance. When this ceremony was finished the Emperor page of the receive him at the left of the entrance. ished the Emperor passed through the Ta Tsing gate, the music ceasing as the bell tolled out from over the Mid-day gate. Passing through the Tien Ngan gate, the Tuan gate, the Mid-day gate and the T'ai Hwo gates, and the K'ien T'sing gate, he returned to his palace in Peking and the procession dispersed.

The Emperor entered the palace, paid his respects to the aged Empress, and went to his cabinet.

The knowledge that our Emperor thus worships the gods and reveres his ancestors so devoutly, and prays for the people so that they may be fed and clothed, well protected, and happy all over the land, must surely fill us with loyalty and admiration of his august person.

(Abridged from the Shên Pao.)

No. 197.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 618.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, April 7, 1888. (Received May 31.)

SIR: I have the honor to report that the question whether the foreign ministers should shortly demand to be received in audience by the Emperor is again being agitated.

It is reported that the Emperor will on the 20th proximo escort the Empress to her separate residence, will leave her there, and will thenceforth assume the sole rule of the Empire.

It is argued by some of the ministers that this would be an auspicious and proper time to demand audience. It is said that the foreign powers have so far forgiven the gross want of courtesy displayed by China to their representatives while they receive and honor the ministers sent by China to them on account of the ignorance of international usages heretofore existing among the Chinese, but that this excuse no longer exists. Some of the ministers are inclined to ask an assurance from their Governments that if the Emperor now refuses to receive them the ministers of China will in like manner be refused audience by the heads of their Governments.

I do not ask authority, in the discussion of the audience question, to say that if audience is denied to me it will be denied to the Chinese minister at Washington. I do not think it proper to pledge my Government to any particular course on this question.

There may be time to report the facts and ask positive instructions. I need say nothing on the general question, because my archives show the unbroken concurrence of yourself and your predecessors in favor of demanding audience. It is not a matter of etiquette, but a matter of vital interest to foreigners in China.

I learn that the Emperor will not be married this year. If demand for audience were now made, an answer might be postponed until his marriage, which will occur next year.

Owing to the great length of time required in the transmission of dispatches and answers, I deemed it proper to present this question now.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 198.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

[Extract.]

No. 304.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, April 10, 1888.

SIR: I acknowledge the receipt of your No. 541, of January 10, 1888, and inclose, for your information, a copy of a dispatch from Mr. Adamson, consul-general of the United States at Panama (to whom a copy of your dispatch was transmitted for report), No. 369, of the 21st ultimo, saying that no Chinese laborers were ever conveyed by a French Government transport from Hanoi, in Tonquin or China, to Panama. I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure in No. 304.]

Mr. Adamson to Mr. Rives.

[Extract.]

No. 369.7 CONSULATE-GENERAL OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Panama, March 21, 1888.

SIR: Referring to your No. 132, of March 6, marked "Confidential," which incloses a copy of a dispatch from the American minister in China in relation to the employment of Chinese coolies on the Panama Canal, I note your instructions to in-form the Department whether "French Government transports" are conveying coolies from Tonquin to Panama.

In reply, I have to say that up to this time no "French Government transports" have brought any coolies from Tonquin or China to Panama.

I suspect there is an error in the statement, and that the shipment referred to is that of 565 Chinese laborers brought by the Pacific Mail steam-ship City of Pekin from Hong-Kong (say, in March, 1887) to San Francisco, where they were transferred to same company's steam-ship Colima, and 563 coolies landed here from Colima on the 3d day of May, 1887, two having died during the voyage.

I saw these men landed, and made a note of the fact at the time, and have confirmed my facts to-day by information received from the general agent of the Pacific Mail Steam-ship Company, who adds that the coolies in question were brought out by agents of one of the great contracting firms of the Canal Company (Bonafous &

Co.), who wished to ship more, but the governor of Hong-Kong would not permit it.

I may also add that the prefect of Panama told me this morning that in three months after their arrival here not a single coolie remained on the works of the canal. They deserted in squads daily, it being impossible to identify and put them back on the works, and judging from personal observation and common report I believe they quickly became "washermen" and petty shop-keepers on "the line."

The ill-success of that experiment renders it improbable that any more Chinese coolies will be brought here; none are expected by Canal Company's director.

I am, etc.,

THOMAS ADAMSON.

No. 199.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 621.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, April 13, 1888. (Received June 4.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a translation of the answer of the Yamên to my dispatch, of which a copy was sent you in my dispatch No. 529, of December 20, 1887.

The Yamên sets out the report of the magistrate at Chinanfu to the following effect: Mr. Reid leased a lot; the price was agreed on and half was paid; the deed was not stamped; the literati and people presented a petition that the locality was objectionable on account of geomantic influences; the magistrate discussed the matter with Mr. Reid, and agreed to return him the money paid, and that the missionaries might take steps to acquire another site. November 28, the magistrate invited Mr. Reid to call on him, but he failed to do so. Between 9 and 11 o'clock Mr. Reid, with bedding under his arm, forced his way into the inner court-yard of the house and ordered the occupant to vacate one of the rooms for him to take possession. The women and children were alarmed; Mr. Reid was pushed back and fell in the court. He was not assaulted. The magistrate has recovered the money to be returned to

Mr. Reid, "who can engage a person to acquire another place."

On this report, the Yamen observes, after recapitulating the facts, that the owner of the house and the middleman have been released; that the missionaries can discuss with the local authorities the action to be taken to secure a suitable house at another place; that the governor of Shantung will be addressed to render assistance in devising a plan of action, but if property can not be acquired at once, the missionaries "then will only have to be forbearing and wait, and not show a hasty temper."

It is to be noted that this account suppresses mention of the preliminary interviews of the missionaries with the officials.

It is to be remarked on the whole case that there can be little, if any, doubt that Mr. Reid was injured by the mob. His own conduct was imprudent. While he denies that he went to the premises at the hour stated, between 9 and 11 p. m., he admits that he went thither at dusk, between 6 and 9. He admits also that he was notified that the trade was off. He knew the landlord was in jail. After an examination of the archives he admits that the governor did not promise Mr. Holcomb that the missionaries might acquire more land. Thus the actual basis of all his action falls. He still relies on the absolute right of missionaries to acquire land at their pleasure anywhere in China. An argument to that effect prepared by him, or a member of his mission, has lately appeared in the Daily News.

I notice, with satisfaction, that the Yamên does not raise the question of exclusion, and bases its reply on the assumed necessity that geomantic influences shall not be affected. This is one of the oldest and most potent superstitions in China, and can not, without ever recurring danger of a riot, be disregarded.

I have replied to the Yamên's communication in a dispatch of which a copy is herewith inclosed.

I deny most of the charges made against Mr. Reid, and reiterate my demand that the matter be settled by the procurement of other property in exchange for the lot purchased, and that full protection be accorded. I notify the Yamên that I await further developments before addressing them again on the subject.

On a review of the whole case, which is now before you, should you be of the opinion that I should insist on the right of the missionaries to have the lot purchased, I will do so. Or should you think proper to direct me to send a member of this legation to Chi-nan-fu to settle the whole matter, that will be done.

Either course is difficult. This Government is compelled to consult the wishes and superstitions of the people.

To send an official to settle the question is also objectionable. The theory of the missionaries in the interior is that they have cast their lot with the natives, and the churches organized by them are native churches. An appeal to official foreign aid destroys this sentiment.

With very marked success in China, but with some animadversions to which all officials are liable, I have usually left these local disturbances to be settled locally. Time and prudence have secured better results than diplomatic interference can secure. I interfered in Chunking because no consul was near there. I made representations lately to the Yamên of incipient riots and disturbances in the Chinese city in Peking, because I am on the ground. But, even here, I have passed over, with the full concurrence of the missionaries, some trivial disturb-I took up the Chi-nan-fu case because the place is remote from My countrymen had been imprudent, but I thought I might be able to do them some good.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

Inclosure 1 in No. 621.1

Foreign office to Mr. Denby.

APRIL 6, 1888.

Your Excellency: Some time ago the prince and ministers had the honor to receive a communication from your excellency relating the circumstances of a late riot at Chi-nan-fu in which an American missionary was injured; also certain troubles with reference to the purchase of property by the missionaries. Your excellency requested that instructions be issued to the provincial authorities that some remedy be devised for the wrongs and injuries inflicted, and proposed that four things be done,

The Yamên immediately communicated with the said provincial authorities and at the same time sent your excellency an acknowledgment, all of which is a matter of

Upon the 22d March your excellency sent a note wherein you made inquiry as to whether anything had been decided upon, to which the Yamen made an acknowledg-This is also a matter of record.

The Yamên has now received a communication from the governor or Shan-tung embodying a representation made to him by the intendant of Chi-nan-fu, based upon a report submitted by the magistrate of the Li Cheng district, which is as follows:

"The Rev. Gilbert Reid, an American missionary, leased, under a deed in perpetuity, certain house property, belonging to one Lin Meng K'wei, situated on the street called San Huang Miao, outside the Tung Kuan. The matter was mutually arranged by the middleman, Chen Wan Nien, and it was agreed that the price should be 240 strings, each of 1,000 cash: half of the purchase-money to be paid in advance, the balance to be paid on taking possession of the premises. The deeds, however, had not been stamped, when the literati and people presented a petition in which it was alleged that the place was objectionable on account of interfering with the geomantic influence, and they were not at all willing that the missionaries should take possession. The magistrate thereupon discussed the matter verbally with Mr. Reid, and agreed to recover the money paid in advance by the missionaries and they could take steps to acquire another site. This proposition Mr. Reid agreed to. The money later was recovered. Upon the 28th of November, 1887, the magistrate invited Mr. Reid to call on him, but this he failed to do. In the evening of the same day at the third watch (11 p. m. to 1 a. m.) a missionary named Bergen and others reported that Mr. Reid had gone outside of the Tung Kuan for the purpose of urging the occupants to vacate the house, when he was assaulted.

"The magistrate at once made an investigation of the affair and it appeared that, between 9 and 11 o'clock of the same evening, Mr. Reid, with bedding under his arm, forced his way into the inner court yard of Lin-Meng K'wei and ordered the occupants to vacate one of the rooms for him to take possession of first. The women and children, on seeing Mr. Reid, became alarmed and terrified. Mr. Reid was pushed back and he fell in the court, whereupon the neighbors advised him to return, and really he was not assaulted. The magistrate went in person to hold an examination. The missionary had marks of having been hurt, but they certainly were not wounds the result of having been assaulted. The magistrate, besides having recovered the money advanced to be returned to Mr. Reid, who can engage a person to acquire another place, and further (having the desire) to console and satisfy the missionaries, requests that his petition be presented to the higher anthorities."

The Yamen would observe that, in regard to the house property leased under a deed in perpetuity, by the Rev. Gilbert Reid, from Lin Mêng K'wei, the literati and people oppose his occupying it. The owner had not moved out when, late in the evening, Mr. Reid forced his way into the inner court. The women and men thereupon pushed him back and he fell; moreover he was not assaulted, and there can be no need of making it the subject of an inquiry or further discussion. The money advanced has been recovered, and it is right that Mr. Reid should receive it back again. The owner of the house, as well as the middleman, have been released from their incarceration and are free from trouble. If the said missionary wishes to find at another place a suitable house for a hospital, he can at any time with the local officials discuss the action to be taken. The Yamên will also address the governor of Shan-tung to render assistance in devising a plan of action, but if property can not be acquired at once the missionaries then will only have to be forbearing and wait and not show a hasty temper.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 621.]

Mr. Denby to the foreign office.

PEKING, April 16, 1888.

YOUR IMPERIAL HIGHNESS AND YOUR EXCELLENCIES:

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of April 6 instant, relating to the missionary troubles at Chi-nan-fu. I have the honor to offer the following observations:

You make no allusion to the statements made in my communication that all the acts of the missionaries, in connection with the attempted purchase of the house in question, were communicated to the local authorities and were apparently approved by them. The whole opposition to the purchase seems to have originated with Lin Ching Ao. This man does not live near the property. It lies in the southeast suburb and he lives in the city. The neighbors had all acquiesced in the purchase. The missionaries were always ready and willing to consent to an exchange of property, but no steps whatever were taken by the officials to that end. Mr. Reid did not accept the invitation of the magistrate to visit him on the 28th November last, for the reason that he had already reported the case to the Taotai and had received no reply to his communication. Mr. Reid asserts that he occupied the house by an arrangement with the family. He informed the Taotai that he intended to take possession, and asked him to order the magistrate to protect and help him.

The statement now made that the missionaries may search for other property has been made for several years. But whenever a piece of property is selected, the objection is made that it interferes with the geomantic influence. As the missionaries are unable to determine what property interferes with the geomantic influence, it should be the duty of the local officials to settle that question before the purchase is made. It is to be noted that the report of the local magistrate, while it denies that Mr. Reid was assaulted, admits that "the missionary had marks of having been hurt." As to how to those marks were inflicted is a subject of dispute.

Mr. Reid's reputation is good, and it can not be believed that he voluntarily inflicted injuries on himself. It is not very material whether he was knocked down and so injured or whether he was stricken with some implement.

You have before you his original statement, to which he adheres. The plain facts remain that an American citizen has been injured without any efforts being made to protect him, or any satisfaction being afforded. There is reason to believe also, that unless care is taken there will be other riots and injuries. Your highness and your excellencies were kind enough to say that "if the said missionary wishes to find at another place a suitable house for a hospital he can, at any time, with the local authorities, discuss the action to be taken. The Yamen will also address the governor of Shantung to render assistance in devising a plan of action."

I have advised Mr. Reid to return to Chi-nan-fu, and to make personal efforts, by conference with the local authorities, to procure, under the instructions of the Yamên, a settlement of these troubles.

As there is no representative of the United States convenient I would take it as a favor if you would issue directions that the Taotai and local magistrate confer freely with Mr. Reid. It is desirable, also, I think, that the local authorities should take the initiative in selecting a piece of land to be offered to the missionaries in exchange for the house purchased. A direction from you to this end would render it certain that after a new purchase no difficulty would arise on the ground of Feng Shui.

I trust also that under your wise and kind direction stringent steps will be taken to prevent further disorder. Some care in this regard is necessary, as the examinations are to be held at Chi-nan-fu in August next, and students the world over are liable to be disorderly at times.

I shall await further developments before addressing you again on this subject.

I avail, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 200.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 628.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, April 17, 1888. (Received June 4.)

Sir: I have the honor to state that the vice-consul of the United States at New-Chwang has put this question to me:

To what pains and penalties are Americans liable if proved to be engaged in the smuggling of fire-arms and contraband of war into China?

I have answered that no nation that I know of punishes with personal punishment its own citizens for breaches of the revenue laws of other countries; and that no statute defining and punishing the offense of smuggling into China, except the opium statute, exists in the United States. I have advised him that should such case arise he would have to exercise his judgment, and that while deportation is unknown to our laws, it is probable that the guilty person could be induced voluntarily to go away never to return. Confiscation of the smuggled goods is the only penalty I know of.

In the event that a Chinese subject, who is employed in an American ship, is caught on shore in China in the act of smuggling, he should be left to be handled by his own Government, without interference by the United States consul.

A different question would arise if the arrest were attempted to be made on board of an American ship.

Such a case should be immediately reported to the legation.

I submit these views to your better judgment. I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 201.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 307.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, April 23, 1888.

SIR: I have received your No. 574, of February 20, 1888, concerning the discussion with the Yamên in reference to New Year's calls thereon by the diplomatic body at Peking.

In reply to the last paragraph of your dispatch, touching the President's reception and the interchange of official calls between the Secretary of State and the members of the various legations here, I inclose three copies of the current diplomatic list. The precedence of the Chinese secretaries over "translators and attaches" therein indicated follows the official list communicated to this Department by the Chinese In practice no distinction is here made, the translators being minister. accorded equal treatment with the secretaries. At the President's reception on New Year's Day the Chinese minister attends, with such suite as he deems proper, and all are presented by him to the Presi-In the social intercourse of the Chinese minister with the Cabinet officers, as for example at their receptions at their dwellings, the minister is generally accompanied by one or sometimes both of the translators, and their cards, when left on the Secretary of State, are returned the same as the secretaries' cards.

It is much to be regretted that these minute questions, almost incomprehensible to us, should obstruct the free and friendly official intercourse this Government always desires to see maintained between its representatives abroad and the officers of the Government to which they are accredited, and with whom they have to transact the public business.

I am, sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 202.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 308.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, April 25, 1888.

SIR: I desire to acknowledge receipt of your dispatch No. 585, of the 7th ultimo, relative to the complaint of the Government of China in the matter of the smuggling of fire arms at New-Chwang, and to approve your action in promising the aid of your official service to prevent Americans from engaging in the unlawful practice.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 203.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 633.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, April 27, 1888. (Received June 4.)

SIR: I had the honor, in my dispatch No. 593 of March 19, to report that the lekin question in Formosa was in train of satisfactory settlement. Subsequently the Tsung-li Yamên repudiated the interpretation placed on their alleged agreement with the foreign ministers. The Yamên has finally determined to insist on the collection of lekin at a point between Taiwanfu and Anping.

This construction of the treaties can not be submitted to. Taiwanfu is the treaty port. It is about 3 miles from Anping. Anping is to all intents and purposes the port of the treaty port. Ships can not go to Taiwanfu. If lekin be collected on goods sent from Taiwanfu to Anping for shipment, Taiwanfu ceases to be a treaty port.

While it is conceded that the Chinese authorities have the right to collect lekin, it is insisted that they can not collect it at a treaty port, nor while goods are in transit from a treaty port to a neighboring port of shipment. Such construction would authorize lekin to be collected on goods in the hands of foreigners between Shanghai and Woosung, between Canton and Whampoa, between Tientsin and Taku, between Foochow and the Pagoda Anchorage, between the island of Kulangsu and the town of Amoy; in fact, between many cities and the actual place of shipment.

While it is agreed that, owing to the peculiar geographical situation of Taiwanfu, it will be inconvenient for the Chinese authorities to collect lekin elsewhere than at the lekin station, Si Lei, half way between Taiwanfu and Anping, still it is claimed with confidence that foreign merchants have no concern with this inconvenience. It is the business of the local authorities to collect this internal tax the best they can, but they can not violate the treaties, which prohibit its collection at a treaty port. When goods once reach Taiwanfu and are bought by a foreign merchant the right to collect lekin ceases. If afterwards, while the goods are being transported to the actual place of shipment—only 3 miles away-lekin may be collected, evidently the treaty port is to this extent abolished.

Under these conditions it was unanimously agreed by the foreign ministers that communications of which copies are herewith inclosed should be sent as identic notes to the Yamên. The Yamên is therein notified that instructions have been sent to the various consuls to protest against the levy of lekin at Taiwanfu or at any point between that place and Anping, and that reclamations will be made for any taxes illegally collected.

I shall report more in extenso on this question after my visit to Formosa.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 633.]

Foreign Ministers to Foreign Office.

PEKING, April 28, 1888.

YOUR HIGHNESS: At the meeting which took place on the 25th instant between the representatives of Germany, Great Britain, and the French Republic, on the one side and some of the ministers of the Tsung-li Yamên on the other, their excellencies the Chinese ministers contended that under the treaty of Nanking only the ports were opened and not the towns, and that therefore Chinese produce bought at the towns mentioned in that and other treaties was subject to the payment of inland dues on being brought to the port for shipment.

The terms used in Article II of the treaty of Nanking to designate the places opened for foreign trade are cities and towns, and no discrimination is made with regard to ports.

The Anglo-Chinese treaty of 1858 uses in Article XI the terms of cities and ports for Chinese the Anglo-Chinese the Franco-Chinese and Kning chow; the Franco-Chinese New-chwang, Tang chow, Tainan Chao chow, and Kuing chow; the Franco-Chinese treaty of the same year uses in Article VI indeed only the term of ports, but even if there could be any doubt as to the signification of this expression it is in Article VII. explained by the use of the words ports et villes at which French merchants are given the right to trade; in Article VII of the Franco-Chinese treaty of 1860 the town and port (la ville et le port) of Tientsin are expressly mentioned as opened to French port (1a vine et le port) of Hentsin are expressly mentioned as opened to Fielden trade under the same conditions as all the other towns and ports mentioned in the treaties; the American-Chinese treaty of 1858 uses the term of ports and cities at which American citizens are allowed to trade; the German-Chinese treaty of 1861 uses the term of ports et villes at which German subjects can freely trade, and the same expression is used in the Belgian-Chinese treaty of 1865, Article XI. In the other treaties the expressions ports and towns are used alternatively, so that no doubt can exist that everywhere the expressions used are intended to designate the administrative unity usually called a town, and not a part of it, which might be called the harbor or port of the town.

In all the treaties above mentioned concluded since 1858 the foreign text is declared to be the one which in case of difference of opinion is to be held as the correct

The undersigned representatives of the German Empire, the United States, Japan, Great Britain, Spain, Russia, the French Republic, and Belgium, must therefore protest most strongly against any attempt on the part of the members of the Tsung-li Yamen or other high Chinese officials to reduce the right of foreign merchants to reside and trade at the towns open under treaty to the one of residing and trading in that port of the towns mentioned in the treaties which may have been set aside for shipping purposes.

No foreign settlements having existed at the time of the conclusion of the treaties, it is self-evident that they can not have been meant by the use of the terms towns or ports. The further attempt of the members of the Tsung-li Yamên, made at the conference above referred to, to deduce from section 3, Article I, of the Chefoo convention that, because in that arrangement it was proposed that only within the foreign concessions no lekin was to be levied on foreign imports, lekin might be levied on Chinese produce without the foreign concessions at the places open to foreign trade under the treaties, can hardly be looked upon as a serious one, as section 3 of the Chefoo convention has as yet been neither ratified by Her Britannic Majesty's Government nor approved by any of the governments of the other treaty powers.

The undersigned avail, etc.,

M. VON BRANDT, German Minister. CHARLES DENBY United States Minister. SHIODA SABURO, Japanese Minister. JOHN WALSHAM, British Minister. TIBURCIO RODRIGUEZ Y MUNOZ, Spanish Minister. A. COUMANY, Russian Minister. G. LEMAIRE, French Minister. CH. MICHEL, Chargé d'Affaires, for Belgium.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 633.]

Foreign Ministers to Foreign Office.

PEKIN, April 28, 1888.

The undersigned representatives of the German Empire, the United States, Japan, Great Britain, Spain, Russia, the French Republic, and Belgium, have the honor to inform His Highness Prince Ch'ing and their excellencies the ministers of the Tsung-li Yamèn that their long and patient endeavors to obtain from the Tsung-li Yamèn a prohibition of the illegal practice arbitrarily introduced by the provincial authorities of Formosa with regard to the levy of lekin, or other inland dues within the town of Taiwanfu opened to commerce by the treaty of 1858 and subsequent ones, or between Tainanfu and Anping, as well as with regard to the trade in camphor regulated by the joint arrangement of 1869, having proved fruitless, they have sent the following instructions to Taiwanfu to serve as guidance to their respective officials and merchants established there.

In view of the attempts made by the provincial authorities at Tainan Fu, to levy lekin or other inland dues on Chinese produce, the property of foreign merchants, and purchased by them within the town of Taiwanfu either within that place, or during the transport of the said produce from Taiwanfu, to the place of shipping at Anping, you are hereby instructed to protest again against such arbitrary and illegal proceedings, and to inform the Chinese authorities that they will be held responsible for any loss or losses arising to foreign merchants from the interference of the Chinese authorities in the manner above stated. You will at the same time inform the foreign merchants that under the treaties they are not bound to pay lekin or transit duty on Chinese produce their property bought at Taiwanfu, either while at that place or during the transport from there to the place of shipping at Anping, and that any just claims for damages arising from the illegal and arbitrary interference of the Chinese authorities will be immediately presented to the Chinese Government.

"With regard to the re-establishment of the camphor monopoly in Formosa you will inform the Chinese authorities and foreign merchants that, the joint agreement of 1869 abolishing the camphor monopoly and regulating the manner in which the trade in camphor was to be carried on by foreigners being still in force, any interference with the legitimate trade of foreign merchants in this community would authorize claim for compensation, which will be immediately presented to the Chinese Government.

"You will also inform the local authorities that should the interests of foreign merchants suffer, directly or indirectly, through the illegal interference by the Chinese authorities, the Chinese Government will be held responsible for such losses."

M. VON BRANDT, German Minister. CHARLES DENBY, United States Minister. SHIODA SABURO, Japanese Minister. JOHN WALSHAM, British Minister. TIBURCIO RODRIQUEZ Y MUNOZ, Spanish Minister. A. COUMANY, Russian Minister. G. Lemaire, French Minister. CH. MICHEL, Chargé d'Affaires for Belgium.

No. 204.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 634.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, April 27, 1888. (Received June 4.)

SIR: I had the honor to report, in my dispatch No. 592 of March 19, that measures for the abolition of the camphor monopoly in Formosa were in satisfactory train. Subsequently the Tsung-li-Yamen repudiated the construction placed on its alleged agreement by the foreign ministers. The Yamen now insists that the monopoly in camphor shall remain in force as at present.

By reference to dispatch No. 39, of date June 15, 1869, of Mr. J. Ross Browne to the honorable Secretary of State, and inclosure B therein, you will see that certain rules governing the camphor trade were adopted March 17, 1869. These rules were in the nature of an agreement between the Chinese Government and the foreign powers. Under the circumstances the foreign ministers have transmitted to the Yamên a communication, of which a copy is appended to my dispatch No. 633 of April 27, 1888.

The ministers therein insist that these rules are still in force and inform the Yamên that the consuls have been instructed to claim compensation for all injuries arising from any breach thereof. I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 205.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 639.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, May 5, 1888. (Received June 14.)

SIR: In my dispatch No. 574, of date the 20th of February last, I dwelt at some length on the question of etiquette to be observed in the matter of exchange of calls on foreign and Chinese New Year between the officials of the foreign office and the secretaries, attachés, and interpreters of the various legations, and informed you that the diplomatic representatives would press the matter until a proper and satisfactory arrangement, consistent with dignity, had been effected.

I now have the honor to inform you that the question has been settled in a manner that can not be other than satisfactory to all concerned.

The proposal of the prince and ministers, which forms an inclosure, has received the approval of my colleagues and myself.

I trust that my action in the premises will meet with your approval.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 639.]

Proposal from Tsung-li Yamên on the subject of the exchange of cards on Chinese and foreign New Year.

On Chinese New Year the foreign representatives residing at Peking will send cards: (1) To the prince and ministers; (2) to each one of the secretaries of the Yamên (Tsung pans), whose names will be given; (3) to the seven departments of the Yamên—to each department one card.

The secretaries, attachés, and interpreters will send their cards in the same manner. On foreign New Year the prince and the ministers will send their cards: (1) To the foreign representatives, (2) to every one of the secretaries, attachés, and interpreters, whose names will be given to them.

The Tsung pans will send their cards in the same manner.

The officials of the seven departments will send one collective card for each of the departments to the foreign representatives, secretaries, attachés, and interpreters.

No. 206.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 315.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, May 9, 1888.

SIR: I desire to acknowledge receipt of your dispatch No. 595 of March 19, 1888, and to say that the Department has read with interest your very thorough discussion of the subject of land tenure in China. The question is one of much importance and the Department will in its future consideration of the subject, derive great assistance from the exposition of the methods of transfer of title to land in China which the dispatch contains.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 207.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, No. 640. Peking, May 11, 1888. (Received July 21.)

SIR: In the year 1881 an institution called the Imperial Naval College was established at Tientsin by the Viceroy Li Hung Chang, for the purpose of preparing Chinese cadets for the navy of the Imperial Government after the system prevailing in Western countries.

The college has two departments of sixty students each, executive and engineering, the former under the direction of Mr. Yen Tsung Kwang, a graduate of the Foochow Arsenal and of the Royal College at Greenwich, England, and the latter under two English professors, also of the Royal College. I learn that in its inception, development, and present successful position the college owes much to Mr. Yen.

The students of the college are selected from all parts of the Empire. After an examination in Chinese literature they are admitted for a probationary period and set on to study English. If they show signs of success in acquiring this language, they are retained for a period of four years in the executive school and much longer in the engineering. In the executive school solid geometry and geometrical conics, trigonometry, navigation, natural astronomy, theoretical algebra, statics, etc., are taught, while in the engineering the course is in studies such as are usually taken in technical colleges.

A torpedo department has been successfully inaugurated by one of the English professors, who has filled up in a very complete manner a workshop with every requisite for instruction in this sine qua non of modern naval warfare.

Examinations are held quarterly, and I understand the results have proved more than creditable to the students. It is another proof of the extreme quickness with which the supple Chinese intellect masters difficult problems.

At a recent examination the average of marks gained by the pupils, many of whom had been but a short time in the school, was about 50 per cent., a result which reflects the utmost honor on the Chinese and English professors. The Chinese pupils, I learn, readily master the western mathematical methods, as is shown in most of the foreign schools in China. But the fact should not be lost sight of, that the Chinese savants have perfect mathematical methods of their own and for hundreds of years have been able to calculate eclipses, etc. One feature of the establishment which should be remedied is the time spent in elementary education. If the Government should establish a sort of preparatory school where English mathematics and elementary science could be acquired, without wasting, as it were, the power of high-class specialists, it would be a great advantage.

About three years are spent in teaching the elements of mathematics and science by men who could with much more profit to the public service be engaged in special teaching.

However, in making this observation, I do not wish to be regarded in the light of a critic.

Not unlike the system in our own Naval Academy, the students are entirely maintained at Government expense and are further in receipt of adequate pay.

The Chinese Government will no doubt foster this and all similar institutions with the utmost care. From this school will come the men to whom must be confided the reorganized navy of China.

I inclose copy of a proclamation, issued by the manager of the college, inviting candidates to compete at the entrance examinations.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Enclosure in No. 640.—Translation.]

Proclamation concerning entrance to Naval College, published in the Shih Pao, April 30, 1888.

A proclamation from Sin, Expectant Taotai of Chihli and manager of the imperial naval college at Tientsin, in the matter of inviting candidates to compete at the entrance examination:

Be it known that in each of the engineering and executive departments of the naval college at Tientsin there are a prescribed number of sixty candidates who are being trained for service in Imperial navy. Since the college was established in 1881, a class of thirty cadets have graduated, and they have been appointed on board our men-of-war, or have been sent abroad to study the tactics of naval warfare. They are all receiving ample salaries and substantial promotions, being selected as the country's bulwarks against the insults of foreign foes.

At present a class of thirty-nine students have just completed their studies, and will be placed on board training-ships some time during the fourth moon.

Exclusive of those who have already been examined and selected to fill the vacancies made by the graduating class, there yet remain twenty and more candidates to

Therefore, I, the manager, promulgate this proclamation to invite candidates to compete at the examinations, and the scholars and people of the district of Tientsin are hereby informed that should any of them belonging to respectable families have sons or brothers who are under eighteen years of age, having strong constitutions and sons or prothers who are under eighteen years of age, having strong constitutions and robust intellects and who can write essays or other literary productions, desire to be examined, they must first submit to the college authorities a statement of the candidate's age, his place of birth, and his antecedents; and then, upon their arrival at the college, he will be examined. And those candidates whose family genealogical records are untainted, and who possess requisite literary ability, will be selected fairly by the manager who will show no respect of persons. You must not logical records are untainted, and who possess requisite interary ability, will be selected fairly by the manager, who will show no respect of persons. You must not seek the indirect assistance of the college faculty, thereby hoping to receive admission on any ground other than that of personal merit. If candidates are unable to compose literary essays, it will be unnecessary for them to undertake the trouble of coming from afar. Candidates who are selected will first have their names enrolled and weit for further anyways property by the callege. When the day arrives for them and wait for further announcements by the college. When the day arrives for them to enter upon their studies they will proceed to the college, accompanied by one of their relations, who will draw up the necessary papers of agreement. After that they will enter upon their studies, and at the expiration of three months' probation, those who are finally selected will be given a monthly allowance of 4 taels each. Should any afterwards distinguish themselves by exceptional scholarship, awards and promotions will be accorded to them.

Let the people be inspired with ambition and be not negligent of their best interests.

No. 208.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 644.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, May 21, 1888. (Received July 21.)

SIR: I have learned from a dispatch received from Mr. Consul Wingate, at Foochow, that on hearing from Consul-General Kennedy of the wreck of the American steamer San Pablo, near the island of Haitan, on the coast of Fukien, he applied to Mr. Chang, a Taotai at Foochow, and the imperial commissioner of the Foochow arsenal, for a gun-boat to be sent to the wreck to render any needed assistance.

This request was complied with, but it is claimed that the local authorities were not efficient in protecting the property from looters. I understand that a claim will be presented for damages, which will re-The San Pablo became a total wreck. ceive proper attention. was considerable looting by fishermen and the residue was sold at public auction and brought something over $400.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 209.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 646.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, May 26, 1888. (Received July 21.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose, for your information, a newspaper copy of a letter presented by the Hong-Kong chamber of commerce to the Hong-Kong Government; also one addressed to the committee of the chamber of commerce by the leading Chinese merchants of the colony, both having relation to the recent action of the Australian authorities in refusing to allow Chinese passengers to land at Australian ports.

It appears that 270 Chinese laborers who took passage per steamer Afgan at Hong-Kong on the 27th of March last were refused permission to land at Melbourne. Other steamers from Hong-Kong to Australia, whose departures were subsequent to the Afgan, it is feared will meet the same fate.

The China press is full of bitter attacks against the Australian colonies and views the stoppage of emigration as not only arbitrary but high-handed with a vengeance, as no notice, it is alleged, was given by the Australian authorities of the intended exclusion of Chinese laborers; and that very heavy losses will revert to the owners and charterers of vessels which have been specially constructed for the trade.

On the other hand, I understand that the Australian Government justify the action taken under the Chinese emigration statute of 1865 and Chinese act of 1881.

The following is a copy of a telegram, dated Melbourne, the 8th of May, addressed by the governor of Victoria to the governor of Hong-Kong, as published in the Hong Kong papers:

Referring to your telegram, 4th May, my Government are acting under Chinese immigrant statute, 1865, and Chinese act, 1881. Chinese immigrants, by Afgan to Victoria, naturalization papers presented by Chinese immigrants claiming to be naturalized British subjects have nearly in all cases been found to have been issued to other than the ostensible holders, attempting consequently fraudulent evasion of poll-tax, the consequence being Government strictly enforcing acts, under order in council passed under public health acts, rendered vessels from Hong-Kong, Singapore, etc., liable to detention by health officer.

Whatever may be said pro and con in the matter of the action taken in the Afgan case, there is one thing almost certain, and that is, there has been a strong anti-Chinese feeling prevailing in Australia for a considerable time, and it may reasonably be conjectured that the adoption of measures for the restriction of Chinese immigration would be favorably received by a large class of colonists, principally the workingmen.

As an index of the public sentiment on this question, I need only refer to the account of a public meeting held at Sydney on the 27th

March last, which forms an inclosure, No. 2.

As further evidence that the colonists are anxious to reduce to as small a degree as possible the influx of Chinese laborers, the following telegram, taken from an Australian paper, shows. I give it in full:

SYDNEY, April 10.

The New South Wales Government has dispatched a reply to the secretary of state for the colonies re the Chinese protest, couched in very clear and forcible language. It commences by asking the British Government why, if America prohibits Chinese immigration, the colonies should not do so for the same reason. As in America, the working classes of Australia are directly opposed to them; there can be no sympathy or peace between the races, neither any interchange of ideas, of religion, or citizenship, intermarriage, or social communication. It asserts that the Australians are determined to preserve the British type of races, and that if protection can not be afforded as sought Australia must act from the force of public opinion. The reading of the above dispatch in the Sydney house of assembly elicited great cheers, which were renewed when Sir H. Parks replied that if, unfortunately, the reply of the imperial authorities was unfavorable it would then unquestionably be the Government's duty, without loss of a single day, to take steps to protect the colony, once and forever, from the influx of Chinese.

It is reported that some of the leading Chinese in Australia have requested that the matter be brought under the notice of the viceroy at Canton, and he be urged to take diplomatic action, but I have not, as yet, been able to ascertain that any such action has been taken by that officer.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 646.]

THE HONG-KONG CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND CHINESE EXCLUSION IN AUSTRALIA.

The following letter has been addressed by the chamber of commerce to the Government:

Hong-Kong General Chamber of Commerce, Hong-Kong, May 7, 1888.

SIR: By desire of the committee of the chamber of commerce, I have the honor to bring to the immediate notice of his excellency the governor the following resolution, which was passed unanimously at a special meeting of the committee held today to consider the question of the refusal of the Australian colonies to admit Chinese subjects into their ports:

subjects into their ports:

"Resolved, That in the opinion of the committee the action of the Australian Governments prohibiting the landing of Chinese in the Australian ports, intelligence of which has been received by telegraph, is a subject demanding the very grave consideration of Her Majesty's Government-

"(1) Because it is not consonant with British methods of government, of justice, that tradal regulations should be instantly suspended without ample notice, to permit of those interested conforming therewith, for the action of these Australian colonies threatens to involve those engaged in the trades affected by the new regulations with very serious loss, for which apparently no compensation is offered. Merchants depending upon the good faith of the Australian Governments, having complied with regulations in force when their engagements were made, are, at a moment's notice, without warning of any kind, subjected to limitations with which they are powerless to comply.

"(2) That the refusal to permit the landing of Chinese in the Australian colonies is fraught with most serious consequences to British interests in China.

"Perhaps at this juncture no prominent notice may be taken by the Chinese Government of the restrictions imposed upon the rights of its subjects, conceded under treaties with Great Britain; still the committee can not but deplore the dangerous precedent that has been set, and which will doubtless very seriously affect the promotion of England's friendly intercourse with China in the near future."

I am also requested to forward to you, for the information of his excellency, copy of a letter dated to-day and addressed to the committee by the leading Chinese merchants of this colony, bearing upon the question. The names of the signatories are in the possession of the chamber and can be furnished to the Government if required.

I have, etc.,

P. RYRIE, Chairman.

Hon. F. STEWART, LL. D., Colonial Secretary.

Hong-Kong, May 7, 1888.

GENTLEMEN: We have received a telegram from Australia informing us that the Australian authorities refused permission to Chinese passengers to land under any circumstances, and that the passengers by several steamers recently arrived there from Hong-Kong were turned back unceremoniously and without any previous warning. We are quite at a loss to understand this most unjustifiable action of the Australia and the statement of the Australia and the statement of the Australia and the statement of the Australia and the statement of the Australia and the statement of the Australia authorities and the statement of the Australia authorities and the statement of the Australia authorities and the statement of the Australia authorities and the statement of the statement of the Australia authorities are statement of the Australia authorities and the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statement of the statem

H. Ex. 1, pt. 1--20

tralian Government, especially after having had long commercial intercourse with our port and other ports of China. We can not but view the present action of the Australian Government as a direct infringement of all international law and usages, and a violation of treaty rights between civilized nations.

The passengers who are subject to this exclusive policy embarked from the colony without the slightest previous knowledge or notice, and their being turned back in this arbitrary manner will, in our opinion, injure the trade of this colony and entail much hardship and loss both to the passengers themselves and local ship-owners and mercantile firms.

We, therefore, having met together, in long deliberation, resolve to approach you and request your kind assistance in getting a satisfactory settlement of this difficulty and to obtain right and justice from the Australian Government, and, if necessary, to move his excellency the governor of Hong-Kong to communicate by cable with the Government in question with a view to having the restriction removed.

We are, etc., (Here follow signatures.)

The COMMITTEE OF THE HONG-KONG GENERAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 646.]

Account of public meeting held at Sydney, Australia, March 27, 1888.

SYDNEY, March 27.

A large and enthusiastic meeting was held to-night, under the auspices of the Anti-Chinese League, in the Sidney town-hall, to protest against the influx of Chinese into Australia and the present legislation regarding Chinese. The mayor presided, and amongst the speakers of the legislative assembly, Messrs. Dibbs, Fletcher, Melville, and Schey, M. P's, and Mr. Talbot, president of the league. These following resolutions were carried without a single dissentient:

(1) That the almost unrestricted influx of Chinese into Australia will, if continued, threaten our social and political welfare, and that the time has arrived for the imposition of substantial and effective restrictions on their further introduction.

(2) That this meeting of citizens desires to express its strong objection to any action on the part of the Government of China in giving assistance or encouragement to Chinese immigration into Australasia, and calls upon the home government to maintain the right of the Australian colonies to frame such laws as they may consider necessary to insure in this continent a preponderance of the British race.

A deputation was appointed to present the resolutions to the governor.

No. 210.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 647.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, June 1, 1888. (Received July 21.)

SIR: I am sending the Department, under separate cover, the Customs Gazette, embracing the quarter ending the 31st of March, 1888.

From the figures presented the total collections at the treaty ports for the perio dunder review have been: 4,349,668, 4.8.2, Haikuan taels, against 3,106,872, 6.1.2, in 1887; or say, United States gold, $5,219,602 and $3,728,247, respectively.

Of the principal American imports the showing is not discouraging, though there appears a decrease in kerosene oil at Shanghai, the chief place of import, for the quarter, of 1,159,075 gallons, as against the same period last year; still this should not be taken as an intimation of a falling off in the consumption, as I learn that the stock on hand at the beginning of the year amounted to over 5,000,000 gallons.

The total importation of all kinds of American piece goods at the same port was 427,610 pieces, as against 274,590 pieces for the same quarter of 1887, showing an increase of 153,020 pieces.

From the statistics of the American import trade with Corea an improvement is noticeable. Kerosene shows an increase for the quarter of 26,920 gallons as compared with the importation for same period of 1887, and in piece goods the excess is 900 pieces.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 211.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

[Extract.]

No. 324.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, June 6, 1888.

SIR: I have received your dispatch No. 618, of April 7 last, in which you report that the question of the audience of foreign ministers with the Emperor is again agitated in view of His Majesty's contemplated sole assumption of imperial rule on May 20th, ultimo, and ask instructions touching a declaration on the part of this Government, with others, that if the Emperor should refuse to receive the foreign representatives at Peking, the ministers of China will in like manner be refused audience by the heads of the governments to whom they are accredited.

Your views as to the inexpediency of announcing, in advance of a general agreement, a rule of action which would necessarily be binding upon this Government and so assume the character of an ultimatum, are entirely approved, and there seems to be no good reason to instruct you to commit this Government to any particular course on this question.

While, unquestionably, nothing that savors of inequality in the relative positions of sovereignty of this Government and that of China is to be recognized or admitted, nevertheless the inherent dissimilarity in the civilizations and customs of the two countries will almost inevitably render precise similarity or even equivalence in ceremonial impracticable if not impossible, and in these differences there need be no suggestion or implication of discourtesy or lack of respect on one side or the other.

We therefore can not expect, nor do we desire, to supplant and replace the traditions, manners, and customs of other nations by our own and against their will, but should endeavor to allow the spirit and intent of mutual amity and respect to find expression in such ways as may be most agreeable to those foreigners with whom we are thrown in intercourse, and this to such a degree as shall not invade or impair the essentials of our own self-regulated decorum.

If any proposed ceremonial in China should be in violation of our canons of propriety it should be so stated, and the ceremony altered or disallowed; but if the Government of China prefers to make and receive its responsible communications through the medium of certain officials only, and under certain established and traditionary forms, I do not consider that the United States ought to demur because the form or the agency is dissimilar from those employed by us.

The pageantries of royalty are unknown in the United States, but they are an important feature in some other governments, and unless they are inconsistent with a proper respect to our sovereignty as represented by our minister, I should not be disposed to object to them. The mysterious seclusion of the head of the Chinese Empire may be used by that nation as a political force in their system and esteemed by his subjects as part of that "divinity" that "doth hedge a king," and to be successful in correction and to be successful in corrections.

and to be successful in conveying an impression of power.

So far as the subject falls under the purview of existing treaty engagements, it would certainly seem that reciprocity is to prevail in the matter of diplomatic representation, and it is further deducible that the measure of such reciprocal treatment shall be the usage of the western nations.

Article V of our treaty of June 18, 1858, with China, only gave to the minister of the United States in that country the right of stated visits to the Imperial capital and conference there "with a member of the privy council, or any other officer of equal rank deputed for that purpose, on matters of common interest and advantage."

There is herein no stipulation or even suggestion of diplomatic audience of the American minister with the head of the Chinese Empire.

But article VI of the same treaty provides that:

If at any time His Majesty, the Emperor of China, shall, by treaty voluntarily made, or for any other reason, permit the representative of any friendly nation to reside at his capital for a long or short time, then without any further consultation or express permission, the representative of the United States in China shall have the same privilege.

Within eight days from the signature of our treaty as aforesaid, a treaty was signed at Tientsin, on June 26, 1858, between Great Britain and China, by the third article of which provision is made for the permanent residence of a British minister at the capital of the Empire. In the first paragraph of that article, it is said of such British minister that:

He shall not be called upon to perform any ceremony derogatory to him as representing the sovereign of an independent nation on a footing of equality with that of China. On the other hand, he shall use the same forms of ceremony and respect to His Majesty the Emperor as are employed by the ambassadors, ministers, or diplomatic agents of Her Majesty towards the sovereigns of independent and equal European nations.

It is to be remarked that the form of etiquette and ceremonial thereby stipulated is guarantied to the Emperor of China as his right, and the stipulation does not create a right e converso in the British minister in China to receive in return the same ceremonial observances.

What stipulation as to the form and measure of ceremonial observance to which the British minister in China was entitled under the Anglo-Chinese treaty of 1858 is found in the fourth article, which, after defining certain personal rights of travel, security of correspondence, and the like, concludes as follows:

And generally, he shall enjoy the same privileges as are accorded to officers of the same rank by the usage and consent of western nations.

The privileges of residence and representation so stipulated in favor of the British minister in China forthwith inured to the minister of the United States in virtue of the above-cited sixth article of our treaty of 1858, and the subsequent treaties of China with other nations have added no substantial modifications in this regard.

Another circumstance to be remarked is that nowhere in the treaties of China with the United States is the privilege of imperial diplomatic representation in the United States expressly stipulated. That, however, is a right of independent nations, necessarily incidental to their friendly intercourse, and may be assumed to exist without express convention. It is, in fact, so assumed in the fourth article of our treaty of

309

November 17, 1880, where "the Chinese minister at Washington" is mentioned incidentally and as a matter of course. This common recognition of an inherent right of independent and equal sovereignty is, perhaps, more suitable than a specific permission for the reciprocal sending of diplomatic agents.

CHINA.

If China confined her diplomatic intercourse with other States to receiving their envoys, and sent to foreign countries in return none but consular representatives, whose functions are properly definable by treaty, the treatment of such envoys at Peking might, within due limits of international respect, be governed wholly by Chinese usage or prescription, but by sending diplomatic agents, as well as receiving them, a reciprocity and mutuality of treatment in conformity with the modern usage of nations is necessarily implied. It is, as you suggest, very likely that this consideration of reciprocal usage and ceremonial as essential to the intercourse of equal and independent powers would largely influence the Government of the United States in dealing with the issue should it be raised at Peking by a formal denial of audience.

Strictly speaking, however, a minister plenipotentiary (except for the presentation of bis letters of credence or recall, and then only by custom and usage), has no right of audience with the head of the State.

That right rests upon the fiction of personal representation of the sovereign, which pertains to the ambassadorial capacity, and neither China nor the United States sends or receives "ambassadors" eo nomine. While the Chinese minister in Washington has no more right to demand personal audience of the President, for any purpose, than the minister of the United States at Peking has to demand similar audience of the Emperor, it is unlikely that any discrimination would ever be made against the Chinese minister in Washington in respect of ceremonies shared by the whole diplomatic body. It might, for example, be deemed invidious to exclude him from the President's receptions, and the like, to which all the foreign representatives are customarily invited. But no such idea of discrimination could be involved in requiring the Chinese minister in the United States to present his letters of credence or recall, or to perform any other act which, according to "the usage and consent of western nations," is done in special audience, in the same manner that the United States minister at Peking is required to do.

It does not appear practicable at present to give you any more precise instructions in the premises than these.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 212.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 325.1

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, June 6, 1888.

SIR: Your No. 621, of the 13th of April last, relating to the missionary troubles at Chinanfu, has been received and read with much attention and interest. Your course in the matter appears to have been judicious, and your estimate of the legal and practical aspects of the case to be correct, so that it does not seem to the Department advisable to fetter your action by any absolute instructions. Your knowledge of the feelings and character of the parties to the dispute will doubtless enable you to balance the arguments on either side and bring the question to a mutually advantageous issue.

Should another tract of land satisfactory to the missionaries be found it would seem wiser to accept it and for Mr. Reid to waive any claim for damages, inasmuch as the actual base of all his actions falls through, as you state, under the circumstances as admitted by him and which appear to have been the cause of the resistance of the Chinese to Mr. Reid's entry on the premises.

It is hoped that the rights of missionaries, if not too aggressively asserted by them, will, with time and patience, gradually grow in scope, and acquire somewhat of the stability of consuctudinary privilege; but the religious and local prejudices of the inhabitants, as, for instance, the one in question of geomantic influences, should be borne in mind, and as far as possible such arrangements made by the missionaries as will avoid an appeal to treaty rights which might lead the Chinese to insist officially on the strict letter of the treaties. Experience shows that by a moderate amount of conciliation and good will the rights of foreigners will be gradually extended and interpreted by the Chinese in a more liberal spirit and beyond the limits of the treaty ports.

I shall hope soon to receive from you a report of the amicable and satisfactory settlement of these troubles.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 213.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 327.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, June 7, 1888.

SIR: I have received your No. 628 of April 17, 1883, in regard to the inquiry of the vice-consul at New-chwang as to the treatment of American citizens engaged in smuggling contraband goods in China and your reply that no law was provided for the punishment of such offenders personally.

As you say, "confiscation of the smuggled goods is the only penalty I [you] know of," and that is to be applied by China under her own revenue laws. This point was made clear in the Department's recent correspondence with you about the opium smuggling act approved February 23, 1887.*

1 am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 214.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 328.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, June 7, 1888.

SIR: The treaty concluded in this city on March 12 last, between the Chinese minister and myself, was, as you have been heretofore informed, duly submitted to the Senate for its advice and consent, and a full copy thereof, together with the message of the President transmitting the same, have been transmitted to you for your information.

On the 7th of May the treaty was confirmed by the Senate, with two

I now inclose a copy of the treaty as so amended, and with it a copy of the correspondence* held by me with Mr. Chang Yen Hoon, the Chinese minister, by which you will perceive that he does not consider that the Senate's amendments change the force or effect of the text of the original treaty and that he accepts the same as in consonance with the treaty as concluded.

It appears also by the letter of his excellency that, under the Chinese system of making treaties, it is necessary that all conventions shall receive the imperial assent before the exchange of ratifications can be au-To this end, the treaty upon being signed was at once transmitted to the Chinese foreign office at Peking.

The effect of the Senate amendments was to necessitate a submission of them likewise to the same authority, and they have, therefore, been duly forwarded to Peking by the Chinese minister.

Pending the consideration of the treaty and the Senate amendments by the authorities in China, and the communication of the result of such consideration to the Chinese minister here, the latter has embarked for Peru, to be absent several months in the performance of his official duties as minister duly accredited by China to represent that Government in Peru.

The delay consequent upon his absence, and the action of the Senate in attaching amendments to the treaty, will prevent the enactment at this session of the legislation by Congress needed to carry the treaty into effect, and nothing more can probably be done until the reassembling of Congress in December next.

In the interim, however, the treaty as amended may be received from China, and ratifications being exchanged it may be within the power of the President to make proclamation of its final adoption.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure in No. 328.]

Copy of treatg as amended.

Whereas on the 17th day of November, A. D. 1880, a treaty was concluded between the United States and China for the purpose of regulating, limiting, or suspending the coming of Chinese laborers to, and their residence in, the United States;

And whereas the Government of China, in view of the antagonism and much deprecated and serious disorders to which the presence of Chinese laborers has given rise in certain parts of the United States, desires to prohibit the emigration of such laborers from China to the United States:

And whereas the Government of the United States and the Government of China desire to co-operate in prohibiting such emigration, and to strengthen in other ways the bonds of friendship between the two countries; Now, therefore, the President of the United States has appointed Thomas F. Bayard, Secretary of State of the United States, as his Plenipotentiary; and His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of China has appointed Chang Yen Hoon, Minister of the Third Rank of the Imperial Court, Civil President of the Board of Imperial Cavalry and Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, as his Plenipotentiary; and the said plenipotentiaries, having exhibited their respective full powers found to be in due and good form, have agreed upon the following articles:

^{*} See Docs. Nos. 260, 261, 262, 263, post, pages 396, 400, 400, 401, respectively.

ARTICLE I.

The high contracting parties agree that for a period of twenty years, beginning with the date of the exchange of the ratifications of this Convention, the coming, except under the conditions hereinafter specified, of Chinese laborers to the United States shall be absolutely prohibited; and this prohibition shall extend to the return of Chinese laborers who are not now in the United States, whether holding return certificates under existing laws or not.

ARTICLE II.

The preceding article shall not apply to the return to the United States of any Chinese laborer who has a lawful wife, child, or parent in the United States, or property therein of the value of one thousand dollars, or debts of like amount due him and pending settlement. Nevertheless, every such Chinese laborer shall, before leaving the United States, deposit, as a condition of his return, with the collector of customs of the district from which he departs, a full description in writing of his family, or property, or debts, as aforesaid, and shall be furnished by said collector with such certificate of his right to return under this treaty as the laws of the United States may now or hereafter prescribe and not inconsistent with the provisions of this treaty; and should the written description aforesaid be proved to be false, the right of return thereunder, or of continued residence after return, shall in each case be for-feited. And such right of return to the United States shall be exercised within one year from the date of leaving the United States; but such right of return to the United States may be extended for an additional period, not to exceed one year, in cases where by reason of sickness or other cause of disability beyond his control such Chinese laborer shall be rendered unable sooner to return; which facts shall be fully reported to the Chinese consul at the port of departure, and by him certified, to the satisfaction of the collector of the port at which such Chinese subject shall land in the And no such Chinese laborer shall be permitted to enter the United States United States. by land or sea without producing to the proper officer of the customs the return certificate herein required.

ARTICLE III.

The provisions of this Convention shall not affect the right at present enjoyed of Chinese subjects, being officials, teachers, students, merchants, or travelers for curiosity or pleasure, but not laborers, of coming to the United States and residing therein. To entitle such Chinese subjects as are above described to admission into the United States they may produce a certificate from their Government or the Government where they last resided, vised by the diplomatic or consular representative of the United States in the country or port whence they depart.

It is also agreed that Chinese laborers shall continue to enjoy the privilege of transit across the territory of the United States in the course of their journey to or from other countries, subject to such regulations by the Government of the United States as may be necessary to prevent said privilege of transit from being abused.

ARTICLE IV.

In pursuance of Article III of the immigration treaty between the United States and China, signed at Peking on the 17th day of November, 1880, it is hereby understood and agreed that Chinese laborers, or Chinese of any other class, either permanently or temporarily residing in the United States, shall have for the protection of their persons and property all rights that are given by the laws of the United States to citizens of the most favored nation, excepting the right to become naturalized citizens. And the Government of the United States re-affirms its obligation, as stated in said Article III, to exert all its power to secure protection to the persons and property of all Chinese subjects in the United States.

ARTICLE V.

Whereas Chinese subjects, being in remote and unsettled regions of the United States, have been the victims of injuries in their persons and property at the hands of wicked and lawless men, which unexpected events the Chinese Government regrets, and for which it has claimed an indemnity the legal obligation of which the Government of the United States denies; and whereas the Government of the United States, humanely considering these injuries and bearing in mind the firm and ancient friendship between the United States and China, which the high contracting parties wish to cement, is desirous of alleviating the exceptional and deplorable sufferings and losses to which the aforesaid Chinese have been subjected; therefore, the United States, without reference to the question of liability therefor (which as a legal obligation it denies), agrees to pay on or before the 1st day of March, 1589, the sum of $276,619.75 to the Chinese minister at this capital, who shall accept the same, on behalf of his Government, as full indemnity for all losses and injuries sustained by Chinese subjects as aforesaid, and shall distribute the said money among the said sufferers and their relatives.

ARTICLE VI.

This convention shall remain in force for a period of twenty years, beginning with the date of the exchange of ratifications; and if, six months before the expiration of the said period of twenty years, neither Government shall formally have given notice of its termination to the other, it shall remain in full force for another like period of twenty years.

INCLOSURES.

No. 215.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 329.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, June 15, 1888.

SIR: I desire to acknowledge the receipt of your No. 639 of the 5th of May last, and to express the Department's satisfaction that the intricate question relating to the etiquette to be observed between the Chinese foreign office and the diplomatic body at Peking on New Year's Day has at last been disposed of.

I am, sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 216.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 651.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Pekin, June 25, 1888. (Received August 20.)

SIR: I now have the honor to transmit herewith the English text of the treaty between Portugal and China and convention appended thereto.

I have the honor, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 651.]

TREATY OF AMITY AND COMMERCE BETWEEN PORTUGAL AND CHINA.

Preamble of the treaty.

His Most Faithful Majesty the King of Portugal and Algarves, and His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of China, desiring to draw closer and to consolidate the ties of friendship which have subsisted already for more than three hundred years between Portugal and China, and having agreed at Lisbon the 26th day of March, 1887, second day of the third moon of the thirteenth year of the reign of the Emperor Ruanghsti, through their representatives, on a protocol of four articles, have now resolved to conclude a treaty of amity and commerce to regulate the relations between the two states. For this end they have appointed as their plenipotentiaries: His Most Faithful Majesty the King of Portugal and Algarves Thomas de Souza Roza his envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary in special mission to the court of Peking, knight of the order of Nossa-Senhora de Conceição de Villa Viçosa, Grand Cross of the Order of the Rising Sun of Japan and of the Crown of Siam, commander of the Order of Charles III and of Isabella the Catholic of Spain and knight of the Iron Crown of

His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of China his highness Prince Ching, president of the Tsung-li Yamen, and Sun, senior vice-president of the board of works and minister of the Tsung-li Yamên; who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers and found them to be in good and due form, have agreed upon the following articles:

ART. I. There shall continue to exist constant peace and amity between His Most Faithful Majesty the King of Portugal and the Algarves and his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of China, whose respective subjects shall equally enjoy, in the dominions of the high contracting parties, the most complete and decided protection for their persons and property.

ART. II. China confirms in its entirety the second article of the protocol of Lisbon, relating to the perpetual occupation and Government of Macao by Portugal.

It is stipulated that commissioners appointed by both Governments shall proceed to the delimitation of the boundaries, which shall be determined by a special convention; but so long as the delimitation of the boundaries is not concluded, everything in respect to them shall continue as at present, without addition, diminution, or alteration by either of the parties.

ART. III. Portugal confirms, in its entirety, the third article of the protocol of Lisbon, relating to the engagement never to alienate Macao without previous agreement with China.

ART. IV. Portugal agrees to co-operate with China in the collection of duties on opium exported from Macao into Chinese ports, in the same way and as long as England co-operates with China in the collection of duties on opium exported from Hong-Kong into Chinese ports.

The basis of this co-operation will be established by a convention appended to this treaty, which shall be as valid and binding to both the high contracting parties as the present treaty.

ART. V. His Most Faithful Majesty the King of Portugal and the Algarves may appoint an ambassador, minister, or other diplomatic agent to the court of His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of China, and this agent as well as the persons of his suite and their families will be permitted, at the option of the Portuguese Government, to reside permanently in Peking, to visit that court, or to reside at any other place where such residence is equally accorded to the diplomatic representatives of other nations. The Chinese Government may also, if it thinks fit, appoint an ambassador, minister, or other diplomatic agent to reside at Lisbon, or to visit that court when his Government shall order.

ART. VI. The diplomatic agents of Portugal and China shall reciprocally enjoy in the place of their residence all the prerogatives and immunities accorded by the law of nations; their persons, families, and houses, as well as their correspondence, shall be inviolate.

ART. VII. The official correspondence, addressed by Portuguese authorities to the Chinese authorities, shall be written in the Portuguese language, accompanied by a translation in Chinese, and each nation shall regard as authoritative the document written in its own language.

ART. VIII. The form of correspondence between the Portuguese and the Chinese authorities will be regulated by their respective rank and position, based upon complete reciprocity. Between the high Portuguese and Chinese functionaries at the capital or elsewhere, such correspondence will take the form of dispatch (chan-hoei); between the subordinate functionaries of Portugal and the chief authorities of the provinces, the former shall make use of the form of exposition (xen-chen) and the latter that of declaration (cha-hsing); and the subordinate officers of both nations shall correspond together on terms of perfect equality. Merchants, and generally all others who are not invested with an official character, shall adopt in addressing the authorities the form of representation or petition (pin-ching).

ART. IX. His Most Faithful Majesty the King of Portugal and the Algarves may appoint consuls-general, consuls, vice-consuls, or consular agents in the ports or other places where it is allowed to other nations to have them. These functionaries will have powers and attributes similar to those of the consuls of other nations, and will enjoy all the exemptions, privileges, and immunities, which at any time the consular functionaries of the most favored nation may enjoy.

The consuls and the local authorities will show to each other reciprocal civilities and correspond with each other on terms of perfect equality

The consuls and acting consuls will rank with Tau-tais; vice-consuls, acting vice-The consuls consuls, consular agents, and interpreters-translators, with prefects. must be officials of the Portuguese Government and not merchants. The Chinese Government will make no objection in case the Portuguese Government should deem it unnecessary to appoint an official consul at any port and choose to intrust a consul of some other nation, for the time being, with the duties of Portuguese consul at that port.

ART. X. All the immunities and privileges, as well as all the advantages concerning commerce and navigation, such as any reduction in the duties of navigation, importation, exportation, transit, or any other which may have been or may be hereafter granted by China to any other State, or to its subjects, will be immediately extended to Portugal and its subjects. If any concessson is granted by the Chinese Government to any foreign government under special conditions, Portugal, on claiming the same concession for herself and for her own subjects, will equally assent to the conditions attached to it.

ART. XI. Portuguese subjects are allowed to reside at or frequent the ports of China opened to foreign commerce, and there carry on trade or employ themselves Their boats may navigate without hindrance between the ports open to foreign commerce, and they may import and export their merchandise, enjoying all the rights and privileges enjoyed by the subjects of the most favored nation.

ART. XII. Portuguese subjects shall pay import and export duties on all merchandise according to the rates specified in the tariff of 1858, adopted for all the other nations; and in no instance shall higher duties be exacted from them than those paid by the subjects of any other foreign nation.

ART. XIII. Portuguese subjects are permitted to hire any description of boats they may require for the conveyance of cargo or passengers, and the price of said hire will be fixed by the contracting parties alone, without interference of the Chinese Gov-No limit shall be put to the number of boats, neither will it be permitted to any one to establish a monopoly of such boats or of the service of coolies employed in the carriage of merchandise.

Should contraband articles be on board any such boats, the guilty parties shall immediately be punished according to law.

ART. XIV. Portuguese subjects residing in the open ports may take into their service Chinese subjects and employ them in any lawful capacity in China, without restraint or hindrance from the Chinese Government, but shall not engage them for foreign countries in contravention of the laws of China.

ART. XV. The Chinese authorities are bound to grant the fullest protection to the persons and to the property of Portuguese subjects in China, whenever they may be exposed to insult or wrong. In case of robbery or incendiarism, the local authorities will immediately take the necessary measures to recover the stolen property, to terminate the disorder, to seize the guilty and punish them according to the law. Similar protection will be given by Portuguese authorities to Chinese subjects in the possessions of Portugal.

ART. XVI. Whenever a Portuguese subject intends to build or open houses, shops, or warehouses, churches, hospitals, or cemeteries, at the treaty ports, or at other places, the purchase, rent, or lease of these properties shall be made out according to the current terms of the place, with equity, without exaction on either side, without offending against the usages of the people, and after due notice given by the proprietors to the local authority. It is understood, however, that the shops or warehouses above mentioned shall only be allowed at the ports open to trade, but not in any place in the interior

ART. XVII. Portuguese subjects conveying merhandise between open ports shall be required to take certificates from the superintendent of the custom-house, such as are specified in the regulations in force with reference to other nationalities.

But Portuguese subjects, who, without carrying merchandise, should like to go to the interior of China must have passports issued by their consuls and countersigned by the local authorities. The bearer of the passport must produce the same when demanded; and the passport not being irregular, he will be allowed to proceed and no opposition shall be offered, especially to his hiring persons or vessels for the carriage of his baggage or merchandise.

If he be without a passport, or if he commits any offense against the law, he shall be handed over to the nearest consul of Portugal, to be punished, but he must not be subjected to any oppressive measure. No passport need be applied for by persons going on excursions from the ports open to trade to a distance not exceeding 100 li and for a period not exceeding five days.

The provisions of this article do not apply to crews of ships, for the due restraint of whom regulations will be drawn up by the consul and the local authorities

ART. XVIII. In the event of a Portuguese merchant vessel being plundered by pirates or thieves within Chinese waters, the Chinese authorities are to employ their utmost exertions to seize and punish the said robbers and to recover the stolen goods, which, through the consul, shall be restored to whom they belong.

ART. XIX. If a Portuguese vessel be shipwrecked on the coast of China, or be compelled to take refuge in any of the ports of the Empire, the Chinese authorities, on receiving notice of the fact, shall provide the necessary protection, affording prompt assistance and kind treatment to the crews and, if necessary, furnishing them the means to reach the nearest consulate.

ART. XX. Portuguese merchant vessels of more than 150 tons burden will pay tonnage dues at the rate of 4 mace per ton; if of 150 tons and under, they shall be charged at the rate of 1 mace per ton. Superintendent of the customs shall grant a certificate, declaring that the tonnage dues have been paid.

ART. XXI. Import duties shall be paid on the landing of goods; and export duties upon the shipment of the same.

ART. XXII. The captain of a Portuguese ship may, when he deems convenient, land only a part of his cargo at one of the open ports, paying the duties due on the portion landed; the duties on the remainder not being payable until they are landed at some other port.

ART. XXIII. The master of a Portuguese ship has the option, within forty-eight hours of his arrival at any of the open ports of China, but not later, to decide whether he will leave port without opening the hatches, and in such case he will not have to pay tonnage dues. He is bound, however, to give notice of his arrival for the legal registering as soon as he comes into port, under penalty of being fined in case of noncompliance within the term of two days.

The ship will be subject to tonnage dues forty-eight hours after her arrival in port, but neither then nor at her departure shall any other impost whatever be exacted.

ART. XXIV. All small vessels employed by Portuguese subjects in carrying passengers, baggage, letters, provisions, or any other cargo which is free of duty, between the open ports of China, shall be free from tonnage dues; but all such vessels carrying merchandise subject to duty shall pay tonnage dues every four months at the rate of 1 mace per ton.

ART. XXV. Portuguese merchant vessels approaching any of the open ports will be at liberty to take a pilot to reach the harbor; and likewise to take a pilot to leave it, in case the said ship shall have paid all the duties due by her.

ART. XXVI. Whenever a Portuguese merchant ship shall arrive at any of the open ports of China the superintendent of the customs will send off one or more custom-house officers, who may stay on board of their boat or on board of the ship, as best suits their convenience. These officers will get their food and all necessaries from the custom-house, and will not be allowed to accept any fee from the captain of the ship, or from the consignee, being liable to a penalty proportionate to the amount received by them

ART. XXVII. Twenty-four hours after the arrival of a Portuguese merchant ship at any of the open ports the papers of the ship, manifest, and other documents shall be handed over to the consul, whose duty it will be also to report to the superintendent of the customs, within twenty-four hours, the name, the registered tonnage, and the cargo brought by the said vessel. If, through negligence or for any other motive, this stipulation be not complied with within forty-eight hours after the arrival of the ship, the captain shall be subject to a fine of 50 taels for each day's delay over and above that period, but the total amount of the fines shall not exceed 200 taels.

The captain of the ship is responsible for the correctness of the manifest, in which the cargo shall be minutely and truthfully described, subject to a fine of 500 taels as a penalty in case the manifest should be found incorrect. This fine, however, will not be incurred if, within twenty-four hours after the delivery of the manifest to the custom-house officers, the captain expressed the wish to rectify any error which may have been discovered in the said manifest.

ART. XXVIII. The superintendent of customs will permit the discharging of the ship as soon as he shall have received from the consul the report drawn in due form. If the captain of the ship shouldtake upon himself to commence discharging without permission, he shall be fined 500 taels and the goods so discharged shall be confiscated.

ART. XXIX. Portuguese merchants having goods to ship or to land will have to obtain a special permission from the superintendent of customs to that effect, without which all goods shipped or landed shall be liable to confiscation.

ART. XXX. No transshipment of goods is allowed from ship to ship without special permission, under penalty of confiscation of all the goods so transshipped.

ART. XXXI. When a ship shall have paid all her duties, the superintendent of customs will grant her a certificate, and the consul will return the papers, in order that she may proceed on her voyage.

ART. XXXII. When any doubt may arise as to the value of goods which by the tariff are liable to an ad valorem duty, and the Portuguese merchant disagrees with the custom-house officers as regards the value of said goods, both parties will call two or three merchants to examine them, and the highest offer made by any of the said merchants to buy the goods will be considered as their just value.

ART. XXXIII. Duties will be paid on the net weight of every kind of merchandise. Should there be any difference of opinion between the Portuguese merchant and the custom-house officer as to the mode by which the tare is to be fixed, each party will choose a certain number of boxes or bales from among every hundred packages of the goods in question, taking the gross weight of said packages, then the tare of each of the packages separately, and the average tare resulting therefrom will be adopted for the whole parcel.

In case of any doubt or dispute not mentioned herein the Portuguese merchant may appeal to the consul, who will refer the case to the superintendent of customs; this officer will act in such a manner as to settle the question amicably. The appeal, however, will only be entertained if made within the term of twenty-four hours; and in such a case no entry is to be made in the custom-house books in relation to the said goods until the question shall have been settled.

ART. XXXIV. Damaged goods will pay a reduced duty proportionate to their deterioration. Any doubt on this point will be solved in the way indicated in the clause of this treaty with respect to duties payable on merchandise ad valorem.

ART. XXXV. Any Portuguese merchant who, having imported foreign goods into one of the open ports of China and paid the proper duties thereon, may wish to reexport them to another of the said ports, will have to send to the superintendent of customs an account of them, who, to avoid fraud, will direct his officers to examine whether or not the duties have been paid; whether the same have been entered on the books of the customs; whether they retain their original marks, and whether the entries agree with the account sent in. Should everything be found correct, the same will be stated in the export permit, together with the total amount of duties paid, and all these particulars will be communicated to the custom-house officers at other ports.

Upon arrival of the ship at the port to which the goods are carried, permission will be granted to land without any new payment of duties whatsoever, if, upon examination, they are found to be the identical goods, but if during the examination any fraud be detected the goods may be confiscated by the Chinese Government.

Should any Portuguese merchant wish to re-export to a foreign country any goods imported, and upon which duties have been already paid, he will have to make his application in the same form as required for the re-exportation of goods to another port in China, in which case a certificate of drawback or of restitutions of duties will be granted, which will be accepted by any of the Chinese custom-houses in payment of import or export duties.

Foreign cereals imported by Portuguese ships into the ports of China may be re-exported without hinderance, if no portion of it has been discharged.

ART. XXXVI. The Chinese authorities will adopt at the ports the measures which they may deem the most convenient to avoid fraud or smuggling.

ART. XXXVII. The proceeds of fines and confiscations inflicted on Portuguese subjects, in conformity to this treaty, shall belong exclusively to the Chinese Govern-

ART. XXXVIII. Portuguese subjects carrying goods to a market in the interior of the country, on which the lawful import duties have already been paid at any of the open ports, or those who buy native products in the interior to bring to the ports on the Yang-tse-Kiang, or to send to foreign ports, shall follow the regulations adopted towards the other nations.

Custom-house officers who do not comply with the regulations, or who may exact more duties than are due, shall be punished according to the Chinese laws.

ART. XXXIX. The consuls and local authorities shall consult together, when neccessary, as to the construction of light-houses and the placing of buoys and lightships.

ART. XL. Duties shall be paid to the bankers authorized by the Chinese Government to receive them in sycee or in foreign coin, according to the official assay made at Canton on the 15th of July, 1843.

ART. XLI. In order to secure the regularity of weights and measures and to avoid confusion, the superintendent of customs will hand over to the Portuguese consul at each of the open ports standards similar to those given by the Treasury Department for collection of public dues at the customs at Canton.

ART. XLII. Portuguese merchant ships may resort only to these ports of China hich are declared open to commerce. It is forbidden to them, except in the case of which are declared open to commerce. force majeure, provided for in Article XIX, to enter into other ports, or to carry on a clandestine trade on the coast of China; and the transgressor of this order shall be subject to confiscation of his ship and cargo by the Chinese Government.

ART. XLIII. All the Portuguese vessels dispatched from one of the open ports of China to another, or to Macao, are entitled to a certificate of the custom-house, which will exempt them from paying new tonnage dues during the period of four months, reckoned from the date of clearance.

ART. XLIV. If any Portuguese merchant ship is found smuggling, the goods smuggled, no matter of what nature or value, will be subject to confiscation by the Chinese authorities, who may send the ship away from the port, after settlement of all her accounts, and prohibit her to continue to trade.

ART. XLV. As regards the delivery of Portuguese and Chinese criminals, with the exception of the Chinese criminals who take refuge in Macao, and for whose extradition the governor of Macao will continue to follow the existing practice, after the receipt of a due requisition from the viceroy of the two Kwangs, it is agreed that in the Chinese ports open to foreign trade the Chinese criminals who take refuge at the houses or on board the ships of Portuguese subjects, shall be arrested and delivered to the Chinese authorities on their applying to the Portuguese consul; and likewise the Portuguese criminals, who take refuge in China, shall be arrested and delivered to the Portuguese authorities on their applying to the Chinese authorities; and by neither of the parties shall the criminals be harbored, nor shall there be delay in delivering them.

ART. XLVI. It is agreed that either of the high contracting parties to this treaty may demand a revision of the tariff, and of the commercial articles of this treaty, at the end of ten years; but if no demand be made on either side within six months after the end of the first ten years, then the tariff shall remain in force for ten years more, reckoned from the end of the preceding ten years; and so it shall be, at the end of each successive ten years.

ART. XLVII. All disputes arising between Portuguese subjects in China with regard to rights, either of property or person, shall be submitted to the jurisdiction of the Portuguese authorities.

ART. XLVIII. Whenever Chinese subjects become guilty of any criminal act toward Portuguese subjects, the Portuguese authorities must report such acts to the Chinese authorities in order that the guilty be tried according to the laws of China.

If Portuguese subjects become guilty of any criminal act towards Chinese subjects, the Chinese authorities must report such acts to the Portuguese consul in order that the guilty be tried according to the laws of Portugal.

ART. XLIX. If any Chinese subject shall have become indebted to a Portuguese subject and withholds payment, or fraudulently absconds from his creditors, the Chinese subjectant withhous payment, or madduning associated and to compel him to pay, the authorities shall use all their efforts to apprehend him and to compel him to pay, the action provided and the possibility of its payment ascertained. The debt being previously proved and the possibility of its payment ascertained. Portuguese authorities will likewise use their efforts to enforce the payment of any debt due by any Portuguese subject to a Chinese subject.

But in no case will the Portuguese Government or the Chinese Government be considered responsible for the debts of their subjects.

ART. L. Whenever any Portuguese subject shall have to petition the Chinese authority of a district, he is to submit his statement beforehand to the consul, who will cause the same to be forwarded should he see no impropriety in so doing, otherwise he will have it written out in other terms, or decline to forward it. Likewise, when a Chinese subject shall have occasion to petition the Portuguese consul, he will only be allowed to do so through the Chinese authority, who shall proceed in the same manner

ART. LI. Portuguese subjects who may have any complaint or claim against any Chinese subject, shall lay the same before the consul, who will take due cognizance of the case and will use all his efforts to settle it amicably.

Likewise, when a Chinese subject shall have occasion to complain of a Portuguese subject, the consul will listen to his complaint and will do what he possibly can to re-establish harmony between the two parties.

If, however, the dispute be of such a nature that it can not be settled in that conciliatory way, the Portuguese consul and Chinese authorities will hold a joint investigation of the case, and decide it with equity, applying each the laws of his own country according to the defendant.

ART. LII. The Catholic religion has for its essential object the leading of men to Persons teaching it and professing it shall alike be entitled to efficacious protection from Chinese authorities; nor shall such persons, pursuing peaceably their calling and not offending against the laws, be persecuted or interfered with.

ART. LIII. In order to prevent for the future any discussion, and considering that the English language, among all foreign languages, is the most generally known in China, this treaty, with the convention appended to it, is written in Portuguese, Chinese, and English, and signed in six copies, two in each language. All these versions have the same sense and meaning, but if there should happen to be any diversions have the same sense and meaning, but if there should happen to be any diversions have the same sense and meaning. gence in the interpretation of the Portuguese and Chinese versions, the English text will be made use of to resolve the doubts that may have arisen.

ART. LIV. The present treaty, with the convention appended to it, shall be ratified by his most faithful majesty the King of Portugal and the Algarves and his imperial majesty the Emperor of China. The exchange of the ratifications shall be made within the shortest possible time, at Tientsın, after which the treaty, with the convention appended, shall be printed and published, in order that the functionaries and subjects of the two countries may have full knowledge of their stipulations and may fulfill them.

In faith whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed the present treaty and have affixed their seals thereto.

Done in Peking, this first day of the month of December, in the year of our Lord Jesus Christ 1887, corresponding with the Chinese date the 17th day of 10th moon of the 13 year of Kwang Sü.

Signatures of the Chinese plenipotentiaries. [CHINESE SEAL.]

Ratifications exchanged April 28, 1888.

THOMAS DE SOUSA ROSA.

PRINCE CHING, SUN-IU UEN.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 651.]

Convention appended to the treaty of amity and commerce concluded between Portugal and China on the 1st December, 1887.

ART. I. Portugal will enact a law subjecting the opium trade of Macao to the following provisions:

(1) No opium shall be imported into Macao in quantities less than one chest.

(2) All opium imported into Macao must, forthwith on arrival, be reported to the competent department under a public functionary appointed by the Portuguese Government, to superintend the importation and exportation of opium in Macao.

(3) No opium imported into Macao shall be transshipped, landed, stored, removed from one store to another, or exported, without a permit issued by the superintend-

(4) The importers and exporters of opium in Macao must keep a register, according to the form furnished by the Government, showing with exactness and clearness the quantity of opium they have imported, the number of chests they have sold, to whom and to what place they were disposed of, and the quantity in stock.

(5) Only the Macao opium farmer, and persons licensed to sell opium at retail, will be permitted to keep in their custody raw opium in quantities inferior to one chest. (6) Regulations framed to enforce in Macao the execution of this law will be equivalent to those adopted in Hong-Kong for similar purposes.

ART. II. Permits for the exportation of opium from Macao into Chinese ports, after being issued, shall be communicated by the superintendent of opium to the commissioner of customs at Kung-pacuan.

ART. III. By mutual consent of both the high contracting parties the stipulations of this convention may be altered at any time.

In faith whereof the respective plenipotentiaries have signed and sealed this con-

Done in Peking this 1st day of December, in the year of our Lord Jesus Christ 1887' corresponding with the Chinese date the 17th day of 10th moon of the 13th year of Kwang-Sü.

Signatures of the Chinese plenipotentiaries. [CHINESE SEAL.]

THOMAS DE SOUSA ROSA.

PRINCE CHING, SUN-IU-UEN.

No. 217.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 659.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, July 9, 1888. (Received August 20.)

SIR: As matter of information on an interesting question, I have the honor to inclose herewith a translation of the agreement lately made by the German minister with the Tsung-li Yamên as to the status of Chinese women married to German subjects.

The understanding reached is that such women shall be subject to the laws of the husband's nationality. Under section 1994, Pevised Statutes, second edition,* page 350, and section 147†, Con. Reg., 1888, this result does not follow a marriage where the contracting alien is an American, because under recent statutes no Chinese subject can be naturalized.

Americans have occasionally married Chinese women.

Intermarriage with persons of other nationalities is common. I personally know some very respectable families where the mother is Chinese and the father an alien.

The perplexities attending the condition of a Chinese woman married to an American are manifold and embarrassing. She alone of the family would be subject to Chinese law and beyond the pale of American protection. Her husband's death would leave her practically without any nationality.

Doubtless, in practice, such an abhorrent condition would be softened as much as possible by the consuls and the legation. But the absolute law still remains and may constitute a bar to legal assistance to defenseless and dependent women, who, by a life-time of discharge of their duties, may have eminently merited all possible consideration. It is true, I think, as stated in the inclosure, that the general international law recognizes that a woman who marries an alien becomes subject to the jurisdiction of her husband's nationality. It seems to me that this is a better rule than the statutory exception quoted. While I cordially agree that public policy in the United States demands that Chinese subjects shall not be naturalized, I strongly incline to the opinion that a lawful marriage between a Chinese woman and an American citizen should insure to the wife the same protection which is granted to women of other nationalities upon their marriage with our citizens.

Without further argument I submit the question to your better judgment.

I am, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 659.—Translation.]

Agreement between Mr. von Brandt, German minister, and the Tsung-li Yamén in regard to marriages between Germans and Chinese.

Under the custom in all (foreign) countries, where a woman marries an alien she becomes subject to the jurisdiction of her husband's nationality. This custom should also follow in the case of Chinese women.

German consuls have frequently requested me to instruct them as to the jurisdiction a Chinese woman is under who marries a German subject, and acting under their requests it is right and proper that a mutual understanding should be arrived at upon the question.

^{*}Sec. 1994. Any woman who is now or may hereafter be married to a citizen of the United States, and who might herself be lawfully naturalized, shall be deemed a citizen.

tSec. 147. It is further provided by law that any woman (who might lawfully be naturalized under the existing laws) married, or who shall be married, to a citizen of the United States shall be deemed and taken to be a citizen. The recognition of this citizenship will be subject to the qualifications above referred to. It is also provided (Rev. Stat., 2168) that when any alien who has made declaration dies before he is actually naturalized, the widow and children of such alien shall be considered as citizens of the United States upon taking the oaths prescribed by law,

According to my views a Chinese woman who marries a German subject should be subject to the jurisdiction of the laws of her husband's nationality. But the fact of her marriage to a subject of Germany should be communicated by the German consul (of the place) to the Chinese local authorities. This would meet the views of both countries.

As to existing marriages between Chinese women and Germans, after the present agreement between Mr. von Brandt and the Tsung-li Yamên is settled and takes effect, German consular officers shall then report them to the proper local authorities. If among them there are cases where the parties have failed to request the German consuls to report their marriage to the local authorities and an action at law is brought against the wife it shall be tried and settled by the Chinese authorities, or if it appears that a Chinese woman has been guilty of crime before her marriage, and for that reason marries a German subject for the purpose of placing herself under the protection of a distant country (Germany), on such cases being brought to light the crime committed shall be punished by the Chinese authorities.

German women entering into the bonds of matrimony with Chinese subjects shall be subject to the laws of their husband's nationality.

No. 218.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 660.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, July 9, 1888. (Received August 20.)

SIR: In my dispatch No. 603, of the 27th of March, ultimo, I transmitted for your information a translation of a memorial submitted by the Viceroy Li Hung Chung to the throne on the subject of mining. the memorial the viceroy referred to the employment of two American engineers-Mr. Church, who has been engaged at the mines at Jeho, and Mr. Ellsworth, employed at certain gold mines at Pingtu Chow in the province of Shantung.

From a report which I have received from a gentleman who has recently returned from the mines under the charge of Mr. Church, I learn that the enterprise augurs well of success.

There are two mines of argentiferous lead, or galena, now being worked with foreign machinery. At each, a shaft about 300 feet deep has been opened from the surface to water-level, and the water which has stood in the bottom of both mines for several years is now being pumped out. It appears that natives had been working the mines for about forty years, and had extracted pretty much all the ore above the water-level, but there they stopped, as they could not handle the water.

The foreign staff consists of Prof. J. A. Church (alluded to above) as superintendent; H. F. Dawes, assayer; an engineer and two miners from the Comstock mines in Nevada—all Americans. Two hundred native miners are employed, on wages. The mines are protected by a guard of fifty soldiers from the garrison at Ku Pei Kou, as the country is infested with robbers who defy the weak and thinly scattered officials, and who sometimes go about plundering in large gangs of scores and hundreds of men.

No ore has been taken out by foreign methods up to the present. Work has been concentrated on sinking the shafts to get at the water with pumps. The shafts have passed through several veins of fine ore, and when the water is out probably richer ore will be found at the bottom, as indications are favorable to this. But nothing positive can be said at present. There is about 30,000 taels of pumping and hoisting machinery, made in San Francisco, now at these mines, leaving the concentrating mills and smelting furnaces still to come if plenty of good ore is found later on, which in all probability will be the case.

The Viceroy has furnished the funds for machinery and for working expenses, and the mines may be considered as being worked for him. The ore is rich in lead, which the Viceroy is anxious to obtain, as there are no lead mines yet worked in China, and large quantities of lead are used for military purposes.

All difficulties have been overcome so far, and the first stage of the work is nearly completed, namely, pumping the water out of the mines and seeing what the prospects are under water. I understand that two months more will finish this, and then, if successful, work will begin in extracting and smelting ore. I also learn that it is the intention of the Viceroy to ultimately form and work these mines under a joint stock company.

I am, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 219.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 667.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, July 14, 1888. (Received August 29.)

SIR: I have the honor to make the following report on the foreign trade of China for the year 1887:

The value of the foreign trade.—The total value of the foreign trade was 188,123,877 Haikwan taels, as against 164,685,891 for 1886. figures do not include the value of goods carried coastwise nor goods carried in Chinese junks which are not under the control of the maritime customs.

Customs revenue.—The customs revenue for 1887 was 20,541,399 Haikwan taels, being an increase of 5,396,711 taels. Of this increase, opium lekin accounts for 4,645,842 taels.

Exports.—The total value of the exports for 1887 was 85,860,208 taels, as against 77,206,568 taels in 1886, an increase of 8,653,640 taels.

In spite of the universal wail that went up over the depreciation of tea, the total quantity exported was 2,096,097 piculs in 1887, against 2,217,295 piculs in 1886. In quantity 5 per cent. (120,000 piculs) less left China in 1887 than in 1886. But the assessed value of the export in 1886 was 33,504,820 taels and in 1887 29,379,838 taels. "It is, therefore," says the statistical secretary of the customs "to the depreciation in value, with its likely effect in bringing about a diminished production in years to come, that we must attribute the apprehension entertained for the prosperity of this vast industry."

The total quantity of white raw-silk exported was 59,589 piculs. this a quantity, 2,780 piculs, is included, which was exported in junks through the Kowloon and Lappa customs. Deducting this there remains 56,809 piculs, valued at 17,461,367 taels, a quantity almost identical with the export of 1886, but the value is 5 per cent. higher. same remark applies to other classes of unmanufactured silks. Of brown sugar there was exported 458,268.85 piculs in 1886, against 634,179.12 piculs in 1887, an increase of 175,910.27 piculs.

Of white sugar there was exported in 1886, 128,828.14 piculs, against 113,475.42 in 1887. Of sugar candy there was exported 25,392.97 piculs in 1886, against 19,288,96 piculs in 1887,

Sugar has, therefore, in the main, recovered from the decline of last vear.

Next to tea and silk comes straw braid as an article of export. The growth of this trade has been rapid. The exports were as follows: 1883, 58,627 piculs; 1884, 78,168 piculs; 1885, 76,494 piculs; 1886, 82,413 piculs; 1887, 150,952 piculs. The value in 1887 was 3,738,310 taels.

The principal original places of export are Tien-tsin and Chefoo, the largest exportation being from Tien-tsin. Great complaints have been made by foreign merchants of the bad condition in which this article has been brought to market, but the trade has nevertheless steadily increased.

Imports.—The total value of the imports of foreign goods was 102,-263,669 taels against 87,479,323 taels in 1886, an increase of 14,784,346

taels.

Last year imports show an increase of 6,562.25 piculs in opium, an increase of 7,933,309 pieces, dozens, and piculs of cotton goods. They show also increase in miscellaneous piece goods, in metals, and in sundries. At the nineteen treaty ports the imports of English and American drills fell off from 416,699 pieces and 620,803 pieces, respectively, in 1886, to 288,511 pieces and 464,731 pieces, respectively, in 1887. Cotton lastings rose. Cotton yarn increased from 382,984 piculs in 1886 to 523,114 piculs in 1887.

The import of kerosene was, in 1886, 23.038,101 gallons; in 1887, 12,015,135 gallons, an enormous decrease. The statistical writer says: "As qualifying the vast discrepancy in the figures of the two years I am told that whereas the stock in Shanghai at the end of 1887 was only

5,500,000 gallons, that of 1886 was 10,500,000 gallons."

We find that the value of the imports from the United States in 1886 was 4,647,333 taels, and in 1887, 3,398,390 taels, a decrease of over 1,000,000. It is probably accounted for by the decrease in petroleum. The exports to the United States were, in 1886, 11,928,404 taels, and in 1887, 11,545,406 taels. The total trade with the United States was 14,677,487 taels in 1886, and 12,314,310 taels in 1887.

Trade of leading foreign countries.—The imports and exports of the leading foreign countries were as follows: Hong-Kong, 89,154,228 Haikwan taels; Great Britain, 42,149,286 Haikwan taels; Europe (Russia excepted), 14,132,954 Haikwan taels; United States, 12,314,310 Haikwan taels; Japan, 7,678,442 Haikwan taels; India, 6,334,945 Haikwan taels: Russia and Siberia, 5,704,281 Haikwan taels.

Shipping statistics.—Of vessels entered and cleared in 1887 the representation of the most important countries was as follows: Great Britain, 15,917; Chinese, 6,402; Chinese junks, 1,996; German, 2,749; Japanese, 409; American, 255; Spanish, 132; French, 121.

The shipping statistics show an increase of 137 vessels, aggregating 443,901 tons, over the year 1886.

Exchange.—The average rate of exchange on London during 1887 was the lowest average of any year on record.

The average value of the Haikwan tael during 1887 was  $4s. 10\frac{1}{2}d.$ , against  $5s. 0\frac{1}{2}d.$  in 1886. To understand exactly this question of exchange, let it be remembered simply that a person lays down at the bank at Shanghai a tael and inquires how much that will bring him in London. When the answer is  $4s. 10\frac{1}{2}d.$ , instead of  $5s. 8\frac{1}{2}d.$ , as in 1882, it will be seen how trade is affected and how grievously those residents of China suffer who are compelled to send money home to their families. The tael in which they receive their salaries or wages is becoming day by day of less value, and their incomes are proportionately diminished. If, however, all the money earned is spent in China, the depreciation of the tael only remotely affects them. Prices of labor and of articles produced in the country are ordinarily not affected by the depreciation of silver. It is only the foreign value that is depreciated.

It must be said also that the high price of exchange or the low price of silver, as compared with gold, tends to stimulate foreign trade. As there is a great loss on silver converted into gold on London, the foreign merchant increases his exportations that he may get products in London which may be bargained for gold. The import trade is likewise stimulated, because the merchant is induced to bring goods to China which may be exchanged for native products. The low rate of exchange is, therefore, not an unmixed evil. The customs reports for 1887 show a considerable increase of business in spite of dearness, or, as they would say here, lowness of exchange, and in spite of the lugubrious complaints of all classes of merchants, particularly of dealers in tea. The tea market opened this year at higher rates than ever before, which fact is a curious commentary on the alleged ruin which attended the trade last year and which was prophesied this year.

Opium.—The statistical secretary thoroughly explains the new opium regulations. February 1, 1887, the system of collecting duty and lekin on opium, which had formerly appertained to the local officials, was transferred to the imperial maritime customs.

Two new offices of the customs were opened on April 2, at Kowloon (opposite to Hong-Kong) and Lappa (near Macao), to have supervision over the revenue accruing to China out of the commerce carried on in junks between Hong-Kong and Macao, respectively, and the main-land of China.

On June 1, Hong-Kong passed a new ordinance placing the opium trade within the colony under special regulations. These regulations prohibited the unauthorized possession of raw opium in smaller quantities than whole chests, and required retailers to record and account for raw opium taken over to be repacked into small-sized packages. As there are no means of getting raw opium into possession for any improper use the business of opium smuggling practically ceased. A like law was made for Macao. The tariff being the same in the nineteen treaty ports and in the two new ports of Kowloon and Lappa, and there being no difference in the tariff in favor of opium carried in junks as heretofore, opium is now generally carried by steamer.

The Secretary does not think that opium consumption has increased in China, but for the first time there are accurate statistics. Heretofore large quantities entered China lawfully and unlawfully of which no record was kept.

A preference for native opium is said to have been developed.

The Haikwan tael, in which the customs revenue and all values are stated, is equivalent in English money to 4s. 10½d.; American gold, to $1.20; French, 6.18 francs; German, 4.95 marks; Mexican, $1.54.

The picul is equivalent to 100 catties, or 133½ pounds avoirdupois, or 60,453 kilograms.

The catty is equivalent to 16 taels, or  $1\frac{1}{2}$  pounds avoirdupois, or 0.60453 kilograms.

The tael is equivalent to  $1\frac{1}{3}$  ounces avoirdupois or 0.037783 kilograms.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 220.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 333.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, July 17, 1888.

SIR: I inclose for your information a copy of a letter from the Rev. Gilbert Reid, dated Chi-nan-fu, May 24, 1888, touching the rights and privileges of American missionaries in China, and a copy of my reply saying that you had already exerted yourself to obtain for those excellent and self-sacrificing citizens the amplest measure of protection and privilege, and would no doubt continue to do so.

I am, sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 333.]

Mr. Reid to Mr. Bayard.

CHI-NAN-FU, CHINA, May 24, 1888. (Received July 12.)

DEAR SIR: I send by this mail a number of the Daily News, in which a Chi-nan-fu correspondent argues the question of the rights of missionaries in the interior of China. I send this number, as I understand the question is being brought to the notice of the State Department. In writing, I speak in behalf not only of all American missionaries, but of all Protestant missionaries. It would be a severe blow if the State Department and the United States minister should advocate the side of no right under the treaty. Better would it be if silence were adopted, in case a decision can not be rendered on the other side. If rendered in favor of such a right, it by no means implies that the right is of such a nature as to be pressed in argument before the Chinese Government. The American treaty has only the favored-nation clause, but this along with the tacit and open consent of the Chinese Government is sufficient. Just as the Chinese Government begins to put the question beyond all dispute, and to grant favors to missionaries, it would be a pity if a foreign government should be the cause of checking the favor In a conversation I had with the German minister I learned that he secured from the Tsung li Yamên (foreign office) a written statement that all German missionaries in the interior could have the same right as granted to Roman Catholic missionaries, viz, to purchase property in the name of the church. The Chinese Government is inclined to give toleration to Christianity and to missionaries, and it is to be hoped that nothing shall be done by the American Government to injure the efforts of missionaries merely because they are Americans.

Owing to the fact that favor is the chief feature, the right of it, under the "favored-nation clause" should be less pressed, perhaps, but not denied.

I thus write freely, as one interested in a question of vital importance.

I believe, sir, etc.,

GILBERT REID.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 333.]

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Reid.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, July 17, 1888.

SIR: Your letter of the 24th May last has been received. The number of the Daily News to which you refer as containing an article "in which a Chi-nan-fu correspondent argues the question of the rights of missionaries in the interior of China" has not been received, but its purport is sufficiently suggested by your comments.

I am happy to inform you that you are incorrectly advised if, as would seem, you infer that the United States minister in China is about to "advocate the side of no right under the treaty." Mr. Denby's standing instructions are to endeavor to obtain for our excellent and self-sacrificing missionaries in China no less a measure of privilege than is granted by treaty, conferred by favor, or procured through use and custom for the missionaries of any other nation and creed, and a recent instruction has emphasized the satisfaction this Government will feel at beholding the safe and steady enlargement of the privileges which these estimable men may, and doubtless will, obtain for their labors as China yields more and more to influences of modern progress and realizes the determination of the missionaries to abide by all forms of law and cultivate kindly relations with the people among whom they cast their lot.

It is believed that our diplomatic representative in China, Mr. Denby, has energetically and efficiently exerted himself in behalf of missionary interests at all times and in all practicable ways. While doing so it is quite probable that he may sometimes have cautioned persons who were desirous of extending their privileges against the impolicy of impatient action and unadvised aggressiveness in the employment of privileges granted in excess of the letter of the treaties and resting upon favor rather than strict right. It is the duty of a diplomatic representative, while seeking to promote the attainment of the commendable desires of his countrymen, to advise them as to the law and treaties, in order that they may be duly informed of their rights, and that his efforts in their behalf may not be impeded by inopportune claims or demands. It is not doubted that Mr. Denby will always ask for his countrymen as great a measure of favor as is granted to citizens of any other power.

I am, sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 221.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 670.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, July 20, 1888. (Received September 11.)

SIR: I have the honor to report as briefly as possible the important incidents of the tour of inspection lately made by me to the divers ports in China.

I returned to Peking July 6, having been absent since April 28.

I embarked in the Juniata, Lieutenant Commander W. T. Burwell, commanding, May 11, at Shanghai. The first port touched at was Amoy.

Mr. Crowell is an energetic and efficient consul. His office was in excellent condition.

I invited Mr. Crowell to accompany me to Formosa.

Kelung, Formosa.—We dropped anchor at Kelung May 19. The harbor of Kelung is good. The ship declined the services of a pilot and sailed in by charts and anchored at about the middle of the harbor. As soon as we cast anchor a salute of twenty-one guns was fired by the fort. The Chinese flag was run up at the peak and twenty-one guns fired in return.

The Chihsien, or local magistrate, soon called, followed by the prefect and the general of the troops. The shore was decorated with great numbers of Chinese banners, and military companies were drawn up behind them.

The visiting officials informed me that the governor, Lin Ming Chuan, had sent chairs and bearers for the party, and had arranged for boats and other chairs at Si-Kow to convey us to the capital city, Taipeifu.

The next morning, May 20, we left the ship. I was accompanied by Consul Crowell, Captain Burwell, Lieutenants Wood, Usher, Chapin, Herbert, Dr. Ogden, and the second secretary. We were received on shore with a salute of three guns, the usual Chinese salute, by a company of soldiers and by the prefect and local magistrate. There are about 10,000 people in the various villages around the bay of Kelung.

The houses are small, one story, built of brick. The streets are about 8 feet wide. There were some respectable looking stores with foreign goods displayed, but the general appearance of the people and locality was one of great poverty. The people are much smaller than the northern Chinese, but seemed to be larger than the people of Amoy. Just outside the village of Kelung are the quarters of the general. In passing I returned his call. He received me with the usual salute, a display of soldiers, and gave me tea and wine.

The coal mines at Kelung.—The chief article of export is coal. The mines now worked, and considered available to supply a demand, lie in the hills to the east of Kelung. The mines are worked by the governor. They supply but a limited quantity of coal per diem. During the attack made by the French in 1884 the Chinese authorities flooded the shaft, and at present it is not entirely cleared and ready for work. When in working order the government mines, as at present developed, are reckoned capable of supplying about 200 tons of coal per day, but the available amount of coal can, perhaps, be considerably increased by using the output from coal seams worked by private persons. A number of such veins exist.

In quality the Kelung coal is said to be somewhat similar to Takasima or Karetse coal (Japan coal), though inferior to either of them. Analysis of this coal has been had from time to time, showing an improvement in quality as the vein is developed. At present there is but a limited demand for Kelung coal. The Douglas, Lapraik & Co.'s steamers use a mixture of one-half Kelung coal and one-half better quality from other sources of supply. These steamers run from Tamsui to Hong Kong and points on the coast. The Juniata took 30 tons of this coal at Kelung while there. It was of the best quality available, several grades having been shown to the officer who selected the coal. This coal was found to burn freely and gave about 9 per cent. ash, being about equal to Australian coal of good quality. Kelung coal was also found at the pagoda anchorage, Foo-Choo, where 70 tons were taken by the Juniata. This proved to be of very poor quality.

In general terms, this coal may be said to be fair steaming coal when of the best quality, and it is to be presumed that the quality will improve as lower levels of the coal veins are reached. The coal veins vary from 18 inches to 3 feet in thickness, and have a dip of 18 degrees to 20 degrees, and are worked in the usual manner. Mr. Matheson, an Englishman, has charge of the mines.

Railroads in Formosa.—Kelung is the northern terminus of the projected system of railways. The Kelung mountain is now being tunneled. A railroad is at present under construction designed to eventually communicate with the chief towns of southern Formosa. At present it extends from Kelung on the north as far as Changhwa, reckoned about 100 miles.

The surveys were made under the direction of English engineers brought out for the purpose. The labor is furnished by the governor from the troops at his disposal, and the material is procured by contract with foreigners, after competition in price and quality. The part of the line between Taipeifu and Kelung, 20 miles in length, is to be equipped by German firms. The southern end of the road from Taipeifu to Chang-hwa, 80 miles in length, is to be equipped by Jardine, Matheson & Co. It is rumored that the course of the road conforms rather to arbitrarily selected localities than to the present importance of some of the towns. There is projected but one station between Kelung and Taipeifu, that at Si-kow. The gauge of the road is to be 36 inches. The tunnel at Kelung, which extends over 1,000 feet through the mountain, is not completed. As soon as it is finished the laying of the rails will be commenced.

The grading and ballasting of the road as far as Chang-hwa is completed. There remain yet some bridges to be erected. Some of the rails have been delivered at Kelung, but the greater part, together with the rolling stock, have not arrived.

At present the authorities engaged in the work expect to have the road in working condition in a year, but many of the foreigners resident in Formosa declare this to be impossible, and set the time as at least two years more.

As this railroad is designed to enhance the importance of Kelung, in addition to other directions of usefulness, it will probably somewhat diminish the prosperity of Tamsui. The residents of Tamsui, however, assert that other trade, chiefly tea, must pursue its present channels, as handling by railroad would be too rough for the chests.

It is to be seriously regretted that Messrs. Russell & Co. failed to secure the contract for building this road. The Americans did not or could not successfully compete with the German and English prices, though they presented the excellence of American products in the most attractive light. It was an error not to put the offers for the job at a rate low enough to secure it. If even there had been little or no profit, the prestige resulting from success would have very much increased American influence in Formosa. All this is well understood now, but it is too late.

It is possible that a thorough development of the coal mines and the use of the railway may make Kelung a successful rival of Amoy, and may very much depreciate the importance of that city. As matters now stand, nearly the entire tea crop of Formosa goes to the United States. This tea is carried to Amoy, a distance of 200 miles across the Formosa Channel. The transit is often dangerous by reason of the typhoons. The tea is then loaded on steamers destined to New York. If ships could secure coal in Kelung, and load there for New York, a transit of 400 miles would be saved. The governor entertains these views and looks to Kelung as a rival to Amoy in the future.

The port of Kelung has attracted the attention of the British admiral as a coaling station. He visited the port and examined the coal, and it is said that his opinion was favorable.

From Kelung to Twatutia.—The trip from Kelung to Twatutia is novel and interesting. After crossing the Kelung Mountains in chairs, or afoot, a branch of the Kelung River was reached. There boats awaited our party and in them we floated down the rapids between high hills and through picturesque gorges. There were long reaches of nearly still water and the progress was slow. Five hours after embarking we reached Si-kow. There we were carried ashore on the backs of men, the boats being unable to touch the bank. A great crowd of people had assembled to look at the foreigners. We were escorted to a large room and tea was handed us. We then took chairs again and proceeded along the bed of the railroad to Twatutia.

Taipeifu.—The new seat of government is Taipeifu. Here lives Lin Ming Chuan, the governor, under whose progressive direction the vast improvement in Formosa has been made. It is a new city, sparsely built up. It is surrounded by a stone wall about 25 feet high, measuring 1 mile around the city. The ground was originally a paddy-field. Owners of lots are now compelled to improve them in two months or sell them. The streets are laid out in foreign style, about 40 feet in width. The improvements are uniformly of brick. The city is lighted with the electric light. There are 20 large and 100 small lights. The governor's Yamen is lighted with electricity.

There are cable lines of telegraph running to Sharp's Peak, near Foochow, which is the nearest point on the main-land, being about 100 miles nearer than Amoy. The cable is landed at Tamsui, which is 10 or 11 miles from Taipeifu. The telegraph line was completed to Kelung the 29th April of this year.

Near the city is an arsenal, at which arms and ammunition are made. There is a saw-mill, with modern imported machinery, which is now engaged in doing work for the railroad. Patent saw-mills have been imported for sawing great trees, with which the mountainous portions of the island abound. A school for teaching English has been started, which is attended by the governor's sons.

The jinrickshaw has been imported from Japan, and numbers of them convey passengers from Taipeifu to Twatutia.

The governor has ordered, through Messrs. Russell & Co., two fast and commodious passenger steamers. They are to carry freight and passengers to Shanghai, Tien-tsin, and thence back to Tamsui. There will be considerable competition in shipping with the established lines, which will reduce freights. Up to this time the English line of steamers has done the most of the carrying. Something has been done by German steamers.

All these improvements are mainly due to the pertinacity and progressive spirit of the governor. The Imperial Government has stood off and let Lin Ming Chuan have his way.

Possibly the Emperor desires in this distant island to test the modern schemes before embarking in them in China proper, or, more probably, the Imperial Government is awake to the value of Formosa as an outpost of the Empire, and is willing that the most energetic measures may be taken to secure protection to it.

Twatutia.—Twatutia is the residence of the foreigners. It is a third of a mile from Taipeifu. Here are the great hongs owned by representatives of several nations, engaged almost exclusively in the tea trade. Here the Russells have machinery for firing tea, the only machinery so used in China. The usual process is to dry the tea in baskets over pans of charcoal.

All the processes of curing and packing tea are done here with wonderful expertness. The wood for the boxes is imported from Amoy, but they are made in Twatutia. The process of making the lead boxes which line the wooden boxes is simple and effective. The lead in bars is melted in a crucible. When melted it is dipped out and poured between two stones on which there is a coating of felt. The stones are pressed together by hand and immediately opened and a thin leaf of lead is made. The leaf is cut into proper shapes and put inside the boxes. A man will make 1,000 sheets a day. The boxes are painted by hand.

I saw the process of making scented tea. Great piles of the white jasmine flower are put on the tea while it is being fired and then removed.

Twatutia numbers about a dozen foreigners, with a Chinese population of some thousands.

The Russells have a fine building, where my party were handsomely entertained by Mr. Frank Cass, the head of Russell & Co. at Amoy. There are several fine buildings in process of erection. The existing improvements ordinarily are in Chinese fashion and are plain. Of course no English community is without a club. The one at Twatutia numbers thirteen members, including the absent and present. The club extended the usual hospitalities to us.

Messrs. Boyd & Co. have introduced at Twatutia silk worms and the manufacture of silk may become important, but it is now in its infancy.

Interviews with the governor .- On my arrival the governor sent cards. I notified him that I would call the next day, if agreeable to him. immediately answered that he would see me.

The governor's Yamên is new, like the rest of the city, but on the general plan of such buildings. On either side of the main gateway were nondescript pieces of statuary, half dog and half dragon.

On the main gate were the usual pictures of Chinese gods.

The governor received me at the inner gates as I got out of my chair. I was attended by the officers I have mentioned, who were in full uni-

The governor is fifty-three years old, is hale and hearty. He is a soldier, plain and blunt.

I said to him that I thanked him for his various courtesies to me since my arrival in Formosa and that I would take pleasure in reporting to my own Government and to the Tsung-li Yamen how handsomely and hospitably I had been received.

He said that my country and his had always been friendly and it afforded him great pleasure to see me; that I was the only foreign minister that had ever come to Formosa.

I said that the relations between Formosa and the United States were close; that we were her nearest neighbors, except Japan; that we took nearly all her tea; that having heard a great deal of the progress he was making in Formosa I desired to see the island.

He said he had done a great deal, but not as much as he wanted to do, because he was hampered for funds.

I then said I was gratified to know that some of our citizens had contributed to the progress and had been of some service in developing the island. He said that Russell & Co. had been of great service to him, and that Mr. Cass was a good man.

I said I was glad to know that the consul at Amoy had maintained friendly relations with him. He said yes, that the public business had always been satisfactorily attended to by Mr. Crowell.

Previous to this time I had introduced Captain Burwell to the governor, and the captain had presented the other officers to him.

I said that I supposed he had never before seen the American uniform, and I hoped he would never see it except on a peaceful occasion. He said China and the United States had always been friendly, and China would not permit any other relation than that of friendship to exist.

We were then escorted into a room in which a table was spread with the usual fruits and confections. Tea was brought to the governor, who received the cup in both hands and placed it at the plate of each The governor first raised the tea to his lips and we did the same.

I was seated on the governor's right and the others in the order of Wine was poured into the glasses. I proposed the governor's health, which was drunk standing.

A desultory conversation followed. The governor invited us to dinner at an hour to be fixed, according to Chinese fashion, by ourselves. Four p. m. the next day was agreed upon.

Before leaving I asked the governor to give me an interview in which I might talk to him about business matters. He agreed to do so. He was throughout exceedingly cordial and frequently expressed his pleasure at seeing a minister in Formosa. He offered to put at my disposal a house for the officers, but this was declined.

On my return to my quarters the chief of the foreign office called. He has been in office during twenty-eight years in Formosa. He spoke in the friendliest manner of the United States, as, in fact, all the officials do, and I believe honestly. I returned this gentleman's call next day and was handsomely received and entertained. All the Taotais and local magistrates also called on me.

The governor returned my call in the afternoon. He was preceded by two officers and followed by a company of soldiers. He was placed on my right and I handed him a cup of tea with both hands. He told us about the aborigines; said they were to be found about 40 li (13 miles) from Twatutia; that he had conquered and subdued them. Parties of these savages are occasionally brought in and held a while, and clothed and turned loose, but the mass of them are as untamed as ever. They very much resemble our savages. They waylay and murder Chinamen whenever they can.

The general drift of our conversation was railroads. He made many inquiries about the system in the United States, and I explained it to He especially desired to know whether the Government built the lines, and was much interested in my explanation of the system in the West of voting aid to railroads by taxation. He inquired also as to the European situation and the probability of war. He was not well posted on foreign subjects, but, from occasional newspapers furnished him by the Russells, his acquaintance with such topics was above the average of Chinese officials. I renewed my request for a business interview at which he and I and the consul should alone be present. He seemed disinclined to regard my visit in any light but one of courtesy and I explained to him that when I formed the purpose of visiting Formosa I did not know of the pendency of any claim in Formosa in which my countrymen were interested, but that traveling in an official capacity, it was my duty when any matter of business affecting my countrymen was brought to my attention to properly consider it.

He conceded that this view was correct. I was with him two hours the next day discussing this matter. It was briefly this: The Russells had, more than a year ago, recovered judgment at Taiwanfu against a defaulting compradore for $40,000. There had been great delay in collecting the money.

He was anxious to demonstrate that there had been no negligence. He and I and the consul argued the question for two hours on one occasion and afterwards for three hours on another.

May 22 I and my companions dined with the governor. The dinner was partly Chinese and partly foreign. There were foreign wines in abundance and much jollity. The governor proposed the health of the President of the United States. I proposed the health of the Emperor and Empress of China. The governor brought his son, aged eighteen, into the dining-room and had him adopt my son as his elder brother, according to Chinese fashion. He gave frequent accounts of his life. He is a soldier, and not one of the literati. He was in the army at an early age and, at eighteen, commanded a company during the Taeping rebellion. He was not in much favor at court, and after the rebellion was put down he was left during fourteen years in obscurity. During the French war he was called to command in Formosa. He bought arms and ammunition with his own money. He defeated the French at Tamsui and saved the island.

He was exceedingly friendly to me personally and profuse in his professions of friendship to the United States. He expressed his intention to send me a large invoice of the finest tea, but this was declined with the statement that my Government did not permit its officials to accept presents from foreign officials.

The sulphur springs in Formosa.—Leaving Twatutia at 11 a.m. on the 23d of May, in a steam-launch, kindly loaned by the governor (and having a small boat in tow for landing or crossing the shoals in case we grounded), we proceeded down the Tamsui River 5 miles to mouth of the Kelung, and thence up the latter river about 3 miles.

Here we disembarked at a small landing on the right bank, and struck out on foot in a northeasterly direction, along the embankments of the paddy fields, for the distant hills, far up the side of which we could see the rising vapor from the sulphur springs, the object of our visit.

About 2 miles across the dead level of the rice fields we passed through several villages and the ascent began.

By rocky and difficult paths we commenced to climb. As we advanced we found that cultivation followed; every available spot was made to do duty. The rocky hill sides were covered with the pine-apple plant, more favored spots with the tea shrub, while the steepest declivities were terraced with narrow shelves from top to bottom, and on these ledges were growing flourishing crops of the universal cereal, rice. The vivid green of the rice, just beginning to head, in contrast with the dark rocks and more somber verdure of the mountains made an effect most beautiful and strange.

We had gone but a short distance from the foot of the hills when we were met by the strong sulphurous odor of the springs, brought down by the breeze. In crossing a good-sized brook, a little further on, we found it almost boiling hot and were earnestly cautioned not to fall in while crossing, which intimation was hardly necessary.

About 2 miles of this upward work and we reached a rocky amphitheater, in the bottom of which were the springs.

Some scarcely came under the name of springs, as they were simply jets of steam and sulphurous vapor escaping from crevices in the rocks with a roar like that made by the escape pipe of some gigantic boiler "blowing off" steam through its safety-valve.

Others were bubbling caldrons of milky-looking water 2 or 3 feet in diameter, and one or two were nothing more nor less than boiling liquefied mud.

A little distance from the level floor of the amphitheater where the springs were, and perched among the volcanic boulders which covered its sides, were numerous little huts which were found to contain rude appliances for collecting the sulphur.

Here and there in the vicinity of the springs a few half-naked Chinamen were mining the sulphur stone left in by-gone ages.

When collected it is taken to one of the huts and boiled in small iron caldrons (of which each hut had a battery of three, roughly mounted in clay and stones) and more or less purified of dross, etc., by skimming and by allowing the heavier impurities to settle in cooling. After it cools the cake of sulphur and slag is lifted out of the pot and the sulphur separated from the latter. It is again heated and run into round molds about 12 inches in diameter by 8 inches deep. In this form it is carried down the mountains for shipment by coolies, a cake being suspended from each end of a bamboo bearing-pole.

It is impossible to ascertain the quantity of sulphur thus produced, but it is necessarily very small. It is all shipped to China, most of it, if not all, going to Canton.

After lunch we retraced our steps, embarked, and steamed down to Tamsui, the sea-port at the mouth of the river.

Tamsui, Formosa.—Tamsui is the sea-port of the capital. miles from Taipeifu, on the right bank of the Tamsui River. It has a troublesome bar, over which ships drawing more than 12 feet can not

The foreign population numbers about a dozen people. .The native population is about 95,000. The foreigners live on the top of a range The native city is on the river bank and malarial fever of high hills. The only foreign physician in North Formosa resides prevails there. at Tamsui. He visits Twatutia and Kelung. There is a missionary establishment here under the direction of the Canada Presbyterians. A Spanish Catholic priest has lately arrived. The governor, by the way, seems to identify the Catholics and the French. He said to me, "You have few Catholics in your country." I said, "You are mistaken; we have at least ten millions." He said, "Your people don't like the I said, "You are mistaken again; all religions are indif-Catholics ?" ferent to my Government. We molest no man for his religous opinions. The Catholics in the United States are just as worthy, deserving, and good citizens as the Protestants. There is not a particle of difference made in the Government, or in society, between Catholics and Protest ants." He seemed quite surprised at these statements.

The trade of Tamsui in 1887.—For reasons that will appear hereafter I describe with some minuteness the trade of the chief port of northern

Formosa.

Shipping.—The shipping is continually on the increase. The "Dou glas" is the main line of steamers, but twenty-nine roving steamers entered Tamsui in 1887, bringing rice and sundry cargoes and taking away coal and passengers. Two other steamers under the British flag and seven sailing vessels entered the port. Here, as elsewhere, sailing vessels have decreased in number. One sailing vessel of 180 tons burden flying the American flag, entered Tamsui in 1887, but no steamer.

Value of the trade.—The gross value of the trade in 1887 was 5,641,990 Haikwan taels, being an increase of 74,000 taels over 1886. crease is chiefly represented by the telegraph materials and machinery imported for government purposes. Rice increased as an import.

declined as an export in value, but not in quantity.

Foreign imports.—Opium imports increased. Opium was largely im This opium can be divided in small quantities ported from Turkey. while a ball of Benares opium can not be so minutely divided; hence it is popular.

Cotton goods show an increase of 10,000 pieces as compared with 1886

Japanese cloth has fallen away.

Forty-nine pieces of American drills, worth 400 taels, and 911 pieces of American sheetings, worth 2,004 taels, were imported.

In woolens and chiefly in lastings there is a decrease of 2,000 pieces.

Kerosene oil and Japanese matches have held their own.

Of native imports there were 65,000 piculs of rice, 11,500 piculs of beans, and 3,500 piculs of wheat in excess of 1886.

The increased importation of rice is due in part to the failure of the local crop and in part to the increase of population. Medicines, tobacco, and potato flour show an increase, while nankeens, sugar, and fans have declined.

Shanghai has largely increased her trade with Formosa. The total increase at Tamsui is 264,000 Haikwan taels. The chief foreign imports from Shanghai were shirtings, Japanese cloth, iron ware, hardware, cement, machinery, and kerosene oil.

Tea.—The tea season opened May 6. In June the largest business was done. Exportation continued until December. The exportation to Amoy for the year exceeds that of 1886 by 5,000 piculs and that of 1885 by 4,000 piculs. This result argues well, chiefly for the growers and badly for the foreign merchants. Native packers and middle men have profited by the increase.

Camphor.—Under the auspices of the camphor office 2,500 piculs of this product have been collected and sent to Hong-Kong. A Cantonese firm takes this camphor at $12 a picul. It costs the Government $9 and sometimes $11 per picul to procure the camphor, so the profit is small.

Sulphur.—There has been considerable export of the product of the springs hereinbefore described.

In September a native firm contracted for one year to take 3,000 piculs for the Canton market at the rate of $3 per picul, the Government giving the sole right to sell Formosa sulphur at Canton. There has been some trouble, however, with persons claiming prior rights.

Coal.—The total amount of coal exported, including cargoes in junks, was 20,301 tons.

Cargoes have been obtained with difficulty. The out-turn of the Government mine above described has been 25 to 50 tons a day. The coal business under the new English engineer is improving.

Telegraph lines.—In addition to the telegraph lines from Tamsui to Sharp's Peak, from Taipeifu to Tamsui and Kelung, already described herein, Taiwanfu was joined to the Pescadores by a short cable.

It is believed that some advance has been made for trade among the tribes south of the To-ko-ham River.

Further details of the trade of Tamsui may be found in the annual "Returns of Trade Reports" for 1887 of the imperial maritime customs, which has been forwarded to the Department. My figures are taken from this report.

Some general observations.—Great Britain has a consulat Tamsui, Mr. F. S. Bourne, the gentleman who so actively assisted me in the Chungking difficulties two years ago.

Nearly the entire products of Formosa go to the United States. A peculiarly good feeling for our Government and people exists here.

It is worthy of serious consideration whether, in view of our intimate relations with Formosa, it is not advisable to establish a full consulate at Tamsui. The Department from this report and from other sources of information can determine this question.

Formosa is to day the most progressive part of China. It comprises a body of land as rich as exists anywhere. Should the schemes of improvement now projected and in process of construction be successfully prosecuted a vast impetus will be given to commerce. Conflicting ideas of national development now confront each other in the United States. Whatever views as to protection may be urged at home, it is impossible that the American abroad should not desire to see his own flag floating in every port and on every sea.

Facilities furnished by the establishment of consulates greatly contribute to national aggrandizement and to the furtherance of commercial interests.

In my opinion a United States consulate of equal rank with other consulates should be created for Formosa.

The governor has assumed vast responsibility. His operations involve the expenditure of large sums of money. The system of taxation in Formosa has been primitive. She has been neglected by the imperial government and has been spared taxes which prevail on the main-land. It is now necessary to raise enormous sums by taxation. The land tax in China is being levied in Formosa. There will be opposition, riots, perhaps, and serious difficulties. From the energetic character of the governor, I argue success for him, but he may be involved in serious financial trouble. He already looks anxiously to the future.

He has contracted great liabilities. He has great difficulty in meeting them. He has embarked on a novel and adventurous career for one of his nationality. His course points to a revolution, which in its effects may control the destiny of China. Success for him means imitation on the main-land and an unbounded progress for the Empire.

The world at large must applaud his energy and pluck and wish him all manner of success.

The lekin question.—The necessity for raising money has driven and will still drive the governor to levying new lekin taxes. I thoroughly explained to him the position of foreign powers on the lekin question. I stated to him that under the treaties we would not pay lekin at the treaty port, nor would we pay lekin between the treaty port and the actual port of shipment. I told him that lekin, for instance, would not be paid between Twatutia and Tamsui; that China had stood by and seen foreigners invest enormous sums of money in places near to the treaty ports; that this money had been invested and trade had been prosecuted on the faith that only existing taxes would be collected; that China was by her consent and non-action for many years now estopped from levying new taxes; that it would be very easy to destroy all foreign trade by excessive taxation, and it would not be submitted to. He made a lengthy explanation of his views of the lekin question. I told him that the foreign powers could not take into consideration any of the inconveniences of collecting lekin away from treaty ports and contiguous localities; that we could only look at the treaties, and under our construction his propositions were inadmissible.

Map of Northern Formosa.—I append hereto a map of Northern Formosa. Upon this map are inscribed the names of the following valuable trees growing in Formosa: The camphor, the shaulam, the sasam, the su-te-cha, the lama, and katang, the pride of India, the oak, the rattan, and a great variety of bamboo.

The map will enable the Department to follow me in my trip across Formosa.

Macao.—The Juniata remained four days at Hong-Kong, and left for Macao the morning of June 1, and arrived at 11 a. m. the same day.

As soon as we arrived a steam-launch was sent out to the ship by the acting-governor, and put at our disposal. Captain Burwell, the secretary, and myself went ashore to call upon the acting governor.

A salute was fired from the fort, a company of soldiers was drawn up on the quay, and a carriage awaited us. Mr. J. R. da Costa Duarte, the secretary-general and secretary of legation, acting-governor, received us with great politeness. We were escorted to the grotto of Camoens, and driven over the narrow limits of the Portuguese possessions.

I do not think the Portuguese officials are satisfied with the late Chinese treaty. They say that Macao has belonged to Portugal for three hundred years, that the recognition of her title to Macao is all that she got under the treaty. For this empty consideration she has agreed that Macao shall be an outstanding opium depot for China. Under this treaty no opium can be sent from Macao to China without a certificate from the Chinese commissioner that duties have been paid. Just beyond the narrow peninsula on which Macao stands the Chinese custom-house is located, and watch is kept over dealers in opium.

It must be considered, however, that Portugal has set at rest a troublesome question. Formany years she paid tribute or rent for Macao. Then she ceased to pay anything.

Canton.—June 5, I called on his excellency Chang Chih Tung, Viceroy of the two southern provinces.

I had notified him that I would call on him with the consul and my secretary for a business interview. I was received cordially, and after a considerable business discussion was entertained at dinner.

I talked with all possible plainness to the Viceroy. I stated to him that his conduct was in direct contrast to the treatment of the United States toward China. That since my appointment as minister three years ago we had paid, or were to pay, to China nearly a million dollars, whereas he had never paid a cent to our citizens. That I was sorry to learn that the goods of Americans were wrongfully seized for alleged evasion of lekin; that proper protection was not afforded to Americans; that their just claims were denied payment. I had to demand of him very plainly that he should take up and settle the pending claims of our citizens, particularly that of Dr. Fulton.

He made a general denial of all my statements as to wrongs and injuries except the non-payment of claims. He said he had promised me two years ago that there should be no riot, and he had kept his word; that he had not knowingly seized foreign goods for lekin; and that as for Dr. Fulton's claim, he had not paid it because the amount was not ascertained. He said Dr. Fulton had said he had lost very little property and now he had a large claim. I said it was impossible that Dr. Fulton should have made such a declaration; that he was a thoroughly honest man; and that, besides, it was exceedingly easy to have proof as to the actual loss and to decide on the evidence. He said the matter would be taken up and examined and he would do justice. He said that if foreign goods had been seized for lekin it was a mistake, and that as soon as possible such mistakes were corrected. It is true that the Viceroy lately paid Russell & Co. the full value of some kerosene oil that was seized by the lekin authorities.

Mr. Seymour then read a lengthy paper, stating item by item the grievances complained of. The viceroy promised to consider all the complaints and to do justice.

The point of the obstruction of the Canton River was presented by us. The Viceroy did not then give any assurance that he would remove the obstructions, but I have lately seen it stated that he has ordered their removal on the ground that they produce floods.

The above is the substance of an interview which lasted about two hours. Two days afterwards the Viceroy was entertained by the consul. Several of the officers of the Juniata were present. The conversation was chiefly on modern naval improvements, in which the Viceroy is much interested.

In the report of my visit to Canton, as to other places, I intentionally omit an account of my visits to the missions. They were fully described in the report of my tour made two years ago.

Foo-Chow.—The Juniata put into the Min River, on which Foo-Chow is situated, June 12. Consul Wingate soon arrived in a steam launch, and we proceeded from Pagoda Anchorage to the city.

I called on the Viceroy, and he returned my call. There was no business with the Viceroy awaiting me. Our conversation was general and very friendly.

Mr. Wingate successfully manages the business of this consulate, generally without any appeal to the legation.

There may be questions arising out of the looting of the San Pablo, but it is unnecessary to state them until they are formally presented

One of my reasons for going to Foo-Chow was to obtain information as to the conduct of the Chinese officials at the time of the wreck of this ship. I found that the Chinese authorities had promptly sent a steamer to the wreck, but the people of the vicinage had, before its arrival, looted the ship. It is likely that I will bring the general question of protection to wrecks before the Yamên, with the view of securing regular methods of procedure when ships are wrecked, and holding the local authorities responsible for damage. A very good system now prevails in the province of Shantung. It should be extended to all the coast provinces.

Shanghai.—The Juniata reached Shanghai June 18.

At Shanghai, as elsewhere, the local officials called with many expressions of good-will, compliments to our distinguished consul-general, and lavish offers of entertainment.

Among the many matters of business discussed with General Kennedy there is but one which I particularly desire to bring to your attention.

The case of Arlington.—During my stay in Shanghai one Arlington, an American, was charged with taking indecent liberties with little girls in the public gardens. The peculiar atrocity of this crime awakened great indignation and there was serious talk of lynching.

Having heard the circumstances from the witnesses, I advised his prosecution for an assault and battery with intent to commit a rape. To this charge he pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor for four years.

The insufficiency of our criminal system in the East generally and in outlaying countries was never better shown than by this case. The criminal jurisdiction of the consul is first statutory. But the United States code provides no punishment for this or any other offense, except offenses against the United States.

The ordinary criminal jurisdiction belongs to the States and the Territories. The criminal jurisdiction is, second, common law.

But the common law in England has long since been superseded by act of Parliament. That portion of the common law which prevails in the United States antedates the Revolution. It was necessary in this case to go back to a time prior to the Revolution to find a definition of the crime and its punishment. We found, or thought we found, that the punishment in such cases was left to the discretion of the court. Public opinion and justice demanded a heavy punishment. We did the best we could.

The remedy for this anomalous condition of things is so simple that I most seriously recommend its adoption. It would be the simplest piece of labor to draw a bill providing that if any American shall commit any defined offense in China, Japan, Siam, Corea, or any of the islands in the East, or in any uninhabited country, he shall be punished as enacted. Congress would certainly pass such a bill and the consuls and legations would readily and easily enforce its provisions.

As the minister of the United States is denied power of legislation, the only possible solution of a great and growing difficulty is the one stated. I commend the subject to the careful consideration of Dr. Wharton. It is worthy of his distinguished pen.

In this general report I do not deem it necessary to discuss elaborately the questions involved, but may do so hereafter in a separate dispatch.

During my stay in Shanghai the Juniata fired a salute of twenty-one guns for the Emperor William, of Germany, and I attended the funeral obsequies of the late Emperor Frederick.

Tientsin.—July 1 I called on the Viceroy Li Hung Chang. He had been sick for twenty days and received me as a special mark of favor.

Here, again, there are no questions pending requiring my interposition. The Viceroy is intelligent, has experience, properly esteems foreigners and no difficulties worthy of mention occur in his province.

As he and I are old friends our interview was very friendly.

I inquired whether the railroad would go from Tung-chow to Peking. He said that it was not certain that it would be extended to Tung-chow; that there was opposition to it.

He then inquired if I knew the minister to Corea and what his rank was. I said he was minister resident and consul-general. He said he meddled in things that did not concern him. I said that I thought that an investigation of his conduct would disprove that assertion; that men were often accused of participating in schemes of which they had no knowledge; that Mr. Dinsmore stood well with everybody who knew him, and that I believed him to be prudent and discreet; I had never known that in any public act he desired anything more than that Corea should observe her treaties, and that our citizens should be protected in their treaty rights.

Concluding observations—I desire to return thanks to Admiral Chandler for the use of the Juniata, and to Lieutenant-Commander Burwell and his officers and crew for their uniform kindness and for substantial assistance furnished me in the prosecution of my trip. I found on this tour, as before, and as I believe I will always find, that the American naval officers are accomplished, educated, and agreeable gentlemen.

It is, possibly, not within my purview to make any suggestions touching the Navy, but an extended experience has satisfied me that the Government should have on this station at least two small draught steamers, capable of going to Canton, Tientsin, Shanghai, and, in fact, to all the chief cities in China. Nearly all the principal treaty ports are situated on rivers. These ships should be fast and modern in their appointments.

On proper request one of these ships should be put at the disposition of the minister for trips to the ports.

I am satisfied that ministerial tours are productive of great good. They display the flag; they serve to introduce naval officers to the best Chinese and foreign society; they enable the minister to keep thoroughly posted on the wants of the foreign population; they create friendly feeling between the Chinese officials and the foreigners. For the Navy and the minister there can be no better disclipine.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 222.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 671.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, July 20, 1888. (Received August 29.)

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that negotiations are pending here for the extension of the China railway from Tientsin to Tung-chow, a place about 14 miles from this, on the terminus of the Peiho River. The line from the Kai Ping mines to Tien-Tsin is nearly completed, and the directors are very anxious to extend the company's operations in the direction of the capital.

It is rumored that there is some opposition in official circles against the project, but it is believed that the negotiations will be pushed to a favorable result on the arrival of the newly appointed provincial judge of Chihli (who is interested in the company) for audience of the emperor.

I understand that the proposed line has been surveyed by competent engineers, and it is only necessary to get the sanction of the emperor, when work will be commenced and pushed on with energy.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 223.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 672.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, July 20, 1888. (Received August 29.)

SIR: The feeling and interest displayed by the Chinese in the matter of developing the mining resources of this country have received quite an impetus during the past two years. China is beginning to realize the importance of, and the advantage that will accrue to the Government and people by, the utilization of her mineral wealth, and it is not infrequent that we hear of proposals being made by the high authorities to the throne for permission to open and work mines.

Recently a memorial was presented to the Emperor by Tang Chuing, director of mines in Yunnan, upon the subject of copper mining in that province. The memorialist reports the measures which he has taken for developing the mining industry of certain districts in Yunnan. He states that toward the end of last year he started for Chaotung and on his arrival there he found some Japanese mining engineers awaiting him. Accompanied by them he went over all the hills in the district, making a tour which lasted three months.

Rich seams of ore were found at several places. Lead was found in abundance at a place called Wei Ming. Mining establishments were started at all the places named under the charge of a public mercantile company, and in outlying points where the company could not start operations the natives were allowed to open mines on their own account. The company was to purchase the out-turn of these mines at certain fixed rates, and, to prevent smuggling, the miners were not authorized to establish smelting furnaces. The memorialist goes on to say that mining, smelting, and all other operations were at first to be conducted on the native principle, but if this proved unsuitable an admixture of western systems was to be introduced. A worthy object cited by the memorialist was to give employment and support to the needy population. Every care was taken to provide for the comfort of the miners and the maintenance of discipline among them, and secret societies and sworn brotherhoods were strictly forbidden. As soon as success was secured for the enterprise in the east of Yunnan operations would be extended elsewhere.

There is one difficulty, cites the memorialist, and that is all the mines alluded to are new ones, and he learnt from the Japanese engineers that it was only by sinking to a depth of 400 or 500 chang (a chang is 10 Chinese feet) that they could be worked on a large scale. The work is so hard that unless foreign machinery is employed no result could be obtained for eight or nine months.

The memorialist concluded by saying that he will urge the company to use its utmost efforts to obtain successful results at the earliest possible date.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 224.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 338.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, July 25, 1888.

SIR: I have to acknowledge the receipt of your dispatch, No. 646, of May 26 last, in regard to the exclusion of Chinese from Australia.

Your dispatch is interesting in its bearing on the general problem of Chinese emigration and the competition of Chinese with domestic labor, which appears to demand an effective solution in other countries besides the United States.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 225.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 678.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, July 30, 1888. (Received September 11.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose a translation of an edict recently promulgated by the Empress Regent, having relation to her retirement as director of the Government, after the marriage of the Emperor, which will be celebrated some time during the month of February next.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 678.]

AN EDICT ISSUED BY THE EMPRESS REGENT, PUBLISHED IN PEKING GAZETTE, JULY 27, 1888.

Inasmuch as when the Emperor first assumed the reins of Government there would be questions arise that might cause His Majesty some hesitancy as to the means to be adopted to meet them, we could not refuse to offer our advice when occasion made it necessary, and we therefore felt constrained to yield consent to the entreaty of our servants of state to continue the direction of government for some years.

During the past two years His Majesty has devoted his leisure hours in continuing his course of instructions, and has shown skill and cleverness in the advancement of

In the matter of governmental questions whether important or otherwise, His Majesty has proved himself competent to determine the pros and cons as they arise, and to deal with them in a manner befitting and right. To us this is a source of great

His Majesty will enter the bonds of matrimony some time during the first moon of next year (about February), and he should thereupon assume the entire charge of the administration of government, thus satisfying the aspirations and hopes of our ministers and the people of our Empire.

Let the board of astronomy reverently select an auspicious day during the second moon of next year (March) for our retirement and report to us.

Respect this.

No. 226.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, No. 681.] .: Peking, August 3, 1888. (Received September 20.)

SIR: It is not within my province to comment on your official acts favorably or unfavorably; still you may not consider it improper for me to express my complete approval of the treaty with China lately negotiated by you.

Comment has been made here why the right of settling in the interior was not secured to Americans. The answer is plain. As long as the foreign powers conserve the right of exterritorial jurisdiction China can not, in its length and breadth, be safely thrown open to foreigners for permanent settlement. It is impossible to provide in the interior the machinery necessary to enforce the laws of the various nations of the world.

The necessity for legal tribunals to settle ever-recurring disputes in civil matters between the subjects of the various nationalities and between them and the Chinese is apparent. It is indispensable also that crime should be punished. Difficulties continually arise at the treaty ports touching the treatment of foreigners who are not represented by These difficulties would become insuperable if foreigners were permanently settled all over China.

The missionaries who have put into practice the assumed right of permanent settlement are not engaged in business and therefore rarely come in conflict with the Chinese.

It is worthy of remark that the only noticeable new clause in the Portuguese Chinese treaty of December, 1887 (see Art. XVI), is this one:

It is understood, however, that the shops or warehouses above mentioned shall only be allowed at the ports open to trade, but not at any place in the interior.

The action of Australia antagonistic to the Chinese immigrants which followed the negotiation of the late treaty with the United States has also given rise to comment.

The condition touching Australia differs materially from that relative to the United States, under which that treaty was negotiated. China was not at all disinclined to agree to the provisions of exclusion therein incorporated. Her action was put on the basis of protection to her people, which could only be secured by their exclusion from the United States. But China covets Australia as a home for her emigrants. A late commission which visited that country made glowing reports as to the condition of the Chinese. It proposed to establish consulates in Australia. It made no serious objection as to the treatment of the Chinese. It merely suggested proceedings to secure the abolition of an obnoxious poll-tax on landing.

The object of China as to Australia was to facilitate emigration. Her object in dealing with us was to prohibit it. She now finds herself, to her surprise, confronted with the same active antagonism in Australia which meets her in our own Western States.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENRY.

No. 227.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No.682.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, August 7, 1888. (Received September 20.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a translation of a memorial from the governor of Shantung, covering a set of regulations for the protection and salvage of vessels on the coast of that province.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 682.]

Memorial of the governor of Shantung, inclosing a set of regulations for the protection and salvage of vessels on the coast of that province.

[From Peking Gazette, May 21, 1888.]

Chang Yao, the governor of Shantung, submits a memorial, in which he incloses for imperial sanction a number of regulations which he has had drawn up for the pro-

The Pautah, a steamer belonging to the China Merchants' Company, struck some months ago on a rock off the Chefoo promontory, and having become a total wreck was plundered by the villagers in the neighborhood. In the report which the governor forwarded to the throne, he dwelt upon the necessity of devising some measures for the western of vessels meeting with such mishage in the future and stated that nor forwarded to the throne, he dwell upon the necessity of devising some measures for the protection of vessels meeting with such mishaps in the future, and stated that he was in consultation with Li-Hung Chang, the northern superintendent of trade, as to the advisableness of drawing up a code of regulations which might prevent a repetition of such a serious offense on the part of the villagers and might save traders from being exposed to such harm in future. The memorialist observes that the coastline of Shantung province is dotted over with islands and studded with rocks, among which passing vessels, if they happen to meet with a four are super to less their means. line of Shantung province is dotted over with islands and studded with rocks, among which passing vessels, if they happen to meet with a fog, are sure to lose their way and become stranded. The people along the sea-board make use of such occasions to commit indiscriminate plunder. When a vessel is completely wrecked the islanders, who are quite at home in the water, and set little store by their lives, dive down and bring up the cargo. This might be excused, but it is intolerable that they should, as they often do, board, plunder, and break up a ship that is merely stranded, and even take human life in their passion for gain. The shipping interests are generally represented by people from other provinces, who shrink from legal proceedings. The result is that such cases are, for the most part, not reported, and when they are the authorities pass them over without making too close an inquiry. In course of time the habit has developed into an established custom, and wrecking has become a recognized profession. So bad is it that vessels which have been disabled do not venture to approach the shore, and become total wrecks in consequence. The evil is one which is common to all the islands along the coast, but owing to the dangers of the navigation the Shantung promontory has obtained a special notoriety for

In 1876 the Tsung-li Yamên drew up under imperial sanction a set of rules for the protection of distressed ships, whether Chinese or foreign, a copy of which was sent to Shantung and embodied in regulations issued under the instructions of the then governor, Ting Pao-chen, by all the local authorities along the coast.

The rules in question were very complete and exhaustive, but they were not efficiently carried out, and in course of time they came to be regarded merely as waste paper. It is extremely desirable that they should again be promulgated, and that the whole matter should be put on a proper footing.

The Taotai has accordingly, in compliance with the governor's instructions, drawn up a new code of rules in six clauses, based upon the old ones issued by the Yamen, with such modifications and additions as the lapse of time and local circumstances seemed to require. The new rules have been examined and approved by his excellency Li-Hung Chang, who joins the memorialist in submitting them to the throne for the imperial sanction. A copy has at the same time been forwarded to the Tsung-li Yamên and to the board concerned.

A rescript appended to this memorial directs the Yamên concerned "to take note." The inclosure to the above memorial did not appear in the Gazette, but was subsequently published by the native press in Shanghai and Tientsin.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 682.]

Abstract of rules drawn up for the protection and salvage of vessels on the coast of Shantung.

I. DIVISION OF THE COAST LINE INTO SECTIONS FOR THE PURPOSE OF DEFINING RESPONSIBILITY.

The islands along the coast lie so thickly dotted about and so closely interlaced, that unless boundary lines are closely determined responsibility can be readily evaded. It will, therefore, devolve upon the Taotai at Chefoo to send a commission composed of competent officers to fix, in concert with the civil and military authorities, the limits of their respective jurisdictions. Each section shall comprise a distance of 10 li, and shall contain a station in charge of one marine officer and two superintendents, all of whom shall be recommended and vouched for by the respectable people of the an of whom shall be recommended and vouched for by the respectable people of the neighborhood, and also by the authorities of their respective districts. A flag-pole will be erected in front of each station, which will fly a flag by day and show a lamp at night as signals for the benefit of ships in distress. All the boats in each section will be marked and numbered, and a list of them and of the names of their owners will be registered in a book kept for the purpose. Each boat will be furnished with a certificate bearing an official seal and containing a convention. a certificate bearing an official seal and containing a copy of these regulations. When their services are required each boat will during the day be furnished with a flag bearing a device to the effect that it is to protect merchant ships and strictly prohibit plunder. By night each boat will exhibit a light as a signal to vessels in distress. Ships, Chinese and foreign alike, which have struck upon a rock, gone ashore, or met with any other casualty, should fly a flag by day and exhibit a lamp by night as a sign that they require assistance. On seeing such a signal the people and fishermen in the neighborhood should go at once and report the fact to the nearest station. The latter will then dispatch boats to the rescue, and will send messengers to report to the civil and military authorities. Should the vessel in distress be a large one, and the boats in the district be insufficient for purposes of rescue, then the authorities may apply for assistance to a neighboring station; but under ordinary circumstances, no station can interfere beyond its jurisdiction. When the civil and military authorities receive information of a casualty they shall proceed to the spot with a force of soldiers to afford protection.

The coast along the Jung-Ch'eng districts presents such dangers to navigation and is so distant from the provincial capital, that there is difficulty in exercising adequate control over it. The Taotai at Chefoo has, therefore, been empowered to establish a head protection office in the very center of it, in charge of a deputy and one or two respectable members of the gentry, to whom all the other stations shall send their reports. The salary of the deputy and the other expenses of the office shall be defrayed from the expenditure fund of the foreign customs, and the scale of rewards and fines shall, after each occurrence, be determined by the deputy in consultation with the magistrate of the district.

II. REWARDS AND PENALTIES PRESCRIBED AS A MEANS OF PREVENTING EVASION OF DUTY.

The Taotai at Chefoo will be made responsible for furnishing detailed reports of all cases in which ships have been rescued or cargo salved under these rules by the civil or military authorities along the coast. Occupants of inferior posts who have rendered good service will receive better appointments, and those whose posts are good will be recommended for promotion to a higher grade in the service.

Short-comings will be punished by marks being placed against the offender's name on the official record, or by his removal from office, according to the degree of their gravity. The prevalence of wrecking on the Shantung promontory adds greatly to the difficulty of the lack of affording sufficient protection to ships. Officers, therefore, holding substantive appointments, within whose jurisdiction no case of wrecking shall occur for a period of three years, will be transferred to better appointments, and acting officers, whose jurisdiction may be exempt from such cases for one year, will receive one term of a good acting appointment. The superintendents of the stations, who may be reported by the local authorities as having done really good service, will, on the first occasion of the kind, be entitled to apply for buttons and honorary tablets, and on the third occasion will be advanced to official positions. Cases of neglect of duty will be punished by removal from office or a slight fine. Should the superintendents of station be found to be implicated in acts of plunder they shall be dealt with as principals in the crime. Persons who are the first to give information to a station of a ship being in danger shall be entitled to the first place in the order of merit. This reward in the case of a large ship shall be as high as 30 taels, and in the case of a small one shall be limited to 10 taels. If the captain has no means of defraying the amount it shall be paid out of the funds of the office, and if these are insufficient it will be advanced by the local authorities, to be repaid to them by the Taotai of Chefoo.

III. RULES LAID DOWN TO PREVENT CONFUSION.

The accidents which befall vessels in distress are of various kinds and of different degrees of gravity. Vessels that are merely leaky, and whose cargoes admit of being salved, should fly a white flag during the day and exhibit two red lamps by night, on seeing which the nearest station will send off one or two boats with all speed to make inquiries. They will not be allowed to board the vessel or to cause her any inconvenience. If the captain wishes to have the cargo removed he will be at liberty to make use of as many of the boats as he pleases for the purpose. The station will send men to take charge of it, and when the work is completed the captain of the vessel and the superintendents of the station will decide upon a fair and equitable remuneration for the work, which at most must not exceed a fourth of the value of the cargo salved. If the captain does not wish to have the cargo removed and the boat people swarming on board proceed to do so without authority, it will devolve upon the local authorities to have them arrested and severely punished.

Should a vessel have sustained serious damage and be in imminent danger, she will, if it be day-time, fly a black flag, and will, if it is night, exhibit two green lights, on seeing which the office will send off with all speed a number of boats to her rescue. It will be for the master to indicate whether the safety of the ship, the cargo, or the crew should be first attended to. The salvors will not proceed to act of their own motion. Should any of the cargo that has been sent ashore be removed elsewhere or stowed away in hiding, the depredators will, on discovery, be obliged to restore the plunder and be punished for the crime of taking advantage of danger to commit robbery. Ruffians who, in their passion for gain, take human life or break up vessels in distress, will be immediately bound and forwarded by the superintendents of the stations to the local authorities for punishment. Should the superintendents be found to have been in collusion with such persons, they too will be arrested and placed in confinement. Persons who bring false accusation will take the place of the accused.

IV. AWARD OF GRATUITIES AS AN ENCOURAGEMENT TO EXERTION.

All property salved must first be inspected by the local authorities, and, in the event of the property being foreign, its salvage must also be reported to the nearest consul, who will examine it in conjunction with the local officials. An estimate having been made of its value, a certain portion thereof shall be appropriated for rewarding the

The amount shall be determined by the value of the property saved and the difficulty experienced in its salvage.

The rewards shall be divided into the following four classes: Where the work of salvage has been difficult, but the amount of the property recovered is small, one-third of it shall be apportioned as the reward of the salvors. Where the salvage is Where the salvage is difficult and the amount of the property large, or where the amount is small and the salvage easy, the reward shall be one-fifth. If the property has been under water and has been rescued at the risk of life, the salvor shall be assigned two-thirds of it as a reward for his services, the other third remaining the property of the captain

The superintendents of the stations shall furnish the local authorities with lists of all the rewards assigned for salvage purposes.

As stations have to be established and their staffs can not perform their duties without some means of support, one-tenth of the above rewards shall be appropriated for In saving life also the difficulty or easiness with which it has their maintenance. been effected will be taken into account in determining the reward; 5 taels will be given in the one case and 10 taels in the other. If the individual himself has no means, the amount will be advanced in the first instance by the local authorities, to be re-imbursed to them by the Taotai at Chefoo from the expenditure fund of the If only cargo and no people have been rescued, a report should be sent to the nearest local authority, as also to the consul, who will together decide upon a fair amount of reward. In the case of the rescue of individuals and no property, they must, whether they be Chinese or foreign, be provided in the first instance with food and clothing and sent to the nearest local authority or consul, who will provide them with a passage or an escort, as the case may be, and funds to take them to their native place. In the case of foreigners who have no consuls to take charge of them, a report will be sent to the trade committee, who will provide them with the case of them to return to their own country. When, owing to the roughness funds to enable them to return to their own country. of the sea and the fury of the elements, or the fact that the casualty occurred in midocean, human help is of no avail, every one must submit to the will of Heaven, and reckless charges of negligence must not be indulged in.

V. Notices to be Widely Posted by Way of Encouragement and Warning.

The ignorant people along the coast, not knowing that they will be rewarded if they rescue vessels and be punished if they fail to do so, maintain an attitude of indifference, and occasionally even go to the length of plundering vessels when they are It is essential, therefore, that these regulations should be drawn up in a printed form, and that a copy should be supplied to every boatman and resident along A register of the names of the persons to whom such documents have been issued will be kept at each station, and when a casualty occurs flags, lamps, etc., will be issued to holders of these certificates, and to no one else. The certificates will be sealed by the Taotai and counter-sealed by the magistrate and the superintendents This will teach the people the importance which the authorities attach to the work of protection, and may prevent them from again transgressing the law. Henceforth district officers will be bound within a space of five days from the time of the occurrence to forward periodical reports to the Taotai or prefect of all casualties happening within their districts, stating whether rescues have been effected or not; whether rewards have been granted under those regulations; whether plunder has been committed; and whether any charges have been made by the captain or other persons. Forms for filling up these reports will be issued by the Taotai, and concealments or omissions will be punished.

VI. RE-INFORCEMENT OF THE NAVAL FORCE WITH A VIEW TO SECURING ADEQUATE PROTECTION.

The custom of wrecking has become so deeply ingrained in the natives of Jung-Ch'êng, that the ordinary military establishments are quite unable to suppress it. There are four war junks in Teng-Chow and Jung-Ch'êng. These will be placed in command of the major of the Le Ch'êng battalion, and, with the two vessels at present under his control, will be divided into two squadrons, one stationed on the island of Mo-ya, to watch the southeast section of the coast, and the other at Lung-hsu, to guard the northeast, both being in readiness to proceed wherever a call is made upon their services. Ch'eng-Shan and Mo-ya Island are both already provided with lookout men. In the Jung-Ch'eng district there are twelve rocky islets, on each of which a lookout man will be stationed, in charge of lamps, flags, and other appliances.

No. 228.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 685.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES. Peking, August 12, 1888. (Received October 8.)

SIR: I have the honor to make herein some observations on certain questions of Chinese law. I receive frequent letters touching these Possibly the subjoined abstract may serve the purpose of my correspondents.

Descents.—Primogeniture does not exist, except that there is hereditary succession of certain ranks and dignities. The persons inheriting the family property are all the sons, whether born of the principal or inferior wives. Division is made by stirpes, the grandsons taking the father's shares. Daughters do not inherit. If they are married, they get nothing; unmarried, a sum is provided for their marriage expenses. The unmarried daughters remain with the eldest son. For this reason his share is sometimes larger than that of his brother. If there are no male heirs, and no successor has been adopted, the daughters divide the inheritance. In default of lineal heirs, collaterals inherit. tate is not forfeited to the Government as long as any relatives of the decedent remain. Collaterals so inheriting are bound to the worship of ancestors and taking care of the family tomb.

Wills.—The system of bequeathing property by will does not gen-Wills are sometimes made by wealthy persons in order to save litigation, and are acquiesced in by the heirs. But the law provides what disposition shall be made of the property of a decedent.

There is no fixed form for wills. The signature of a testator to a written will would be sufficient. The wishes of the testator may be verbally expressed to the family.

A will made in a foreign country is held good in China as to property there situate belonging to foreigners.

Probate courts.—Probate courts do not exist in China. Documents devising property are retained by the legal heirs.

Ownership of lands.—Theoretically the land belongs to the Emperor; practically, the holder has all the rights of conveyance and mortgage which exist elsewhere.

There have been cases where the Government has taken property without compensation, but ordinarily an assessed valuation is paid when land is taken for public use.

The land tax is one of the most important taxes. If that is regularly paid, the owner is secure in his possesions.

Conveyances.—On the sale of land the old deeds are transferred to the purchaser. A new deed is made, which is acknowledged and sealed by the magistrate of the district, who keeps a record of the transfer.

Leases are in writing.

Marriages .- No marriage certificate issues. Section 101 of the code contains minute rules as to the contraction of marriage. The first or principal wife is usually chosen for the husband by his parents or senior relations. She is supposed to be his equal in rank. She acquires all the rights and privileges which in Asiatic nations appertain to a wife. She can not hold separate property free of her husband's control.

Other wives may afterwards be taken, as the man pleases, with few ceremonies and without regard to rank. The secondary wives are subordinate to the first wife, but equal among themselves. They are called inferior wives and not concubines. Their children are legitimate. There is no limit to the number of secondary wives.

Majority of infants - Practically, during the life-time of the parents they control the child at pleasure.

Naturalization.—There is no law on the subject, but in practice foreigners may place themselves under the protection of Chinese law.

Courts of justice.—The lowest court is that of the district magistrate; the next is that of the prefect; the third, that of the Taotai; the fourth, the provincial judge.

Appeal is allowed from a lower to a higher court, from district to department. It is sometimes allowed to the governor and the governor-general and then to Peking. The magistrate is called "the parent of the people."

Attorneys are not employed in legal proceedings.

The highest court in the Empire is the Hsing Pu, or tribunal of punishments. The Emperor very rarely overrules its decisions.

There are separate judicial tribunals for the members of the banner corps, the imperial clan, and the imperial household.

Here is also a grand court of revision, which exercises general supervision over the administration of the law.

It is scarcely necessary to remark that under the treaties with China the foreign powers administer their own laws in the consular courts. The nationality of the defendant determines the jurisdiction of the consul. A person is sued before and tried by his own consul and according to the laws of his own land.

In what I have written I have given the law as affecting Chinese only.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 229.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard

No. 686.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, August 16, 1888. (Received October 8.)

SIR: I have the honor to state that the imperial board of astronomy has reported that the third day of the second month of next year (March 4, 1889) is an auspicious day for the assumption of government by the Emperor in person.

That day has accordingly been fixed by the imperial decree for this ceremony.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 230.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 343.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, August 18, 1888.

SIR: I herewith transmit, for your information, a copy of my note* to the minister of Germany at this capital, dated the 17th instant, accompanied by a memorandum embodying the Department's views touching the validity of marriages in China between subjects of that Empire and foreigners.

^{*}Mr. Bayard to Count Arco Valley, August 17, 1888, with inclosures, printed as Doc. No. 497 post, page 683.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 231.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 690.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, August 22, 1888. (Received October 8.)

SIR: The information has reached Peking that the whole of the new embankment made at Chêng Chow, on the Yellow River, has been carried away. The cost of this work was 9,000,000 taels, and this sum has been wasted. Eight thousand lineal feet of river-wall had been completed; not an inch remains. It is reported that 1,000 laborers were drowned by the latest flood, only a few days ago.

By a late decree the Emperor degrades the director-general of the Yellow River, Li Hung Tsao, and several of his subordinates, and punishes nearly every one connected with the work. The workmen, 80,000 in number, are to be paid off and dispersed, and the work is suspended for the present.

There are no native engineers worthy of the name, and pride prevented the employment of foreign engineers. The methods used to repair the breach were piling and then raising a structure of cushions of millet stalks with mud in rice sacks. The action of the water has created a basin 60 feet deep around the breach, and it is impossible, with the means used, to close it. It is known that the water of the Yellow River is encumbered with silt, and, being unable to cut a way to the sea, the banks for hundreds of miles are in danger.

It is contended by competent foreign engineers that no merely local reparation of the banks will accomplish any good results. They claim that in existing conditions the river bed will rise continually and the banks must be continually raised, and that breaks will occur at weak spots in spite of all local work.

They propose many schemes, such as the creation of vast lakes, as reservoirs, in which to store the surplus water, and canals to divert it. But there has never been a scientific survey made, and the Chinese Government has no plan except to repair the banks in the manner stated. It naturally fell back on the system of punishing the officials.

Honan, one of the most valuable provinces, which has always filled an important part in Chinese history, is ruined. Should relief ever come to it, it will probably be found that the sand has destroyed the soil for agricultural purposes. This has been the effect in certain overflowed districts in Shantung. The province of Anhin is nearly submerged. The cities and villages in these provinces are tenantless, and the people are drowned or scattered. Other damages are apparent. The silt-laden waters of the Yellow River, now entering the Yangtze, will, it is feared, create shoals and destroy the navigation of that great stream.

China does not want for a host of advisers. It is said that five hundred different plans have been submitted to prevent overflows. Every newspaper teems with contributions to this species of information. Every syndicate has its engineers ready with a plan of action. But from time immemorial China has borne this "sorrow," and she does not seem willing to adopt radical measures of treatment.

Meantime the Yellow River must for the present keep its new course. It would seem to be the best plan to allow it unmolested to continue its present route until some radical measure of restraining it shall have been adopted.

I have the honor, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 232.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

No. 691.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, August 24, 1888. (Received October 8.)

SIR: I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy of a letter received It will be seen that the Chinanfu troubles are from Rev. Gilbert Reid.

in process of settlement.

These troubles have been the nightmare of the newspapers for a year and more. I am sincerely glad that time seems likely to vindicate my judgment and conduct, and that my fellow-citizens, if they do not ask too much, will succeed in their wishes.

I have the honor, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Extract from No. 691.]

Mr. Reid to Mr. Denby.

CHINANFU, August 2, 1888.

SIR: It gives me great pleasure to write you that your dispatch to the Tsung-li Yamên in June last proved a most opportune assistance. The Yamên's order to the governor, referring to your dispatch, instructed the local authorities to see and consult with me and to effect an exchange of property. After various attempts to induce me to consult with certain deputies specially appointed, or to ask for an interview, the acting Taotai senthis card, requesting me to appoint a time for an interview of this Yeman. at his Yamên.

At the conference thus secured there was present the Taotai himself, supported by the prefect, magistrate, and the two deputies. The three main points of consultation were, first, possession of property; second, punishment of the guilty parties who instigated the riot; third, some form of compensation for the insults and injuries received. These points, along with the matter of seeing the governor at some proper time, are to be referred to the governor, and on receipt of instructions the Taotai will give me a reply. I, in turn, will inform the legation.

It is the desire of the official to postpone the matter till after the great examination in September.

The reply of the Taotai will give particulars. I am, etc.,

GILBERT REID.

No. 233.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Denby.

No. 346.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, August 27, 1888.

SIR: I have received and considered your No. 659 of the 9th ultimo, concerning the status of Chinese women married to aliens and citing the agreement between Mr. von Brandt, the German minister at Peking, and the Tsung-li Yamên, by which Chinese women married to Germans are to be subject to the jurisdiction of their husbands' nationality.

Your statement throws light upon the inquiry made here a few days since by the German minister at this capital, and instruction on the subject is for the most part anticipated by my No. 343, of August 18 instant, which communicated to you copy of the memorandum given to Count Arco Valley, touching Chinese-American marriages. Nothing in the reported agreement between the Tsung-li Yamên and Mr. von Brandt conflicts in any way with the general propositions laid down in that memorandum. The rule accepted by the Government of China, that places a Chinese woman married to a German under the national jurisdiction of the husband, will probably assist in determining the status, in China, of the Chinese wife of an American citizen, assuming the marriage to be consensual and monogamous, and no special agreement on our part with China or modification of our statute to such end appears to be necessary at present.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 234.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Telegram.]

PEKING, September 5, 1888.

BAYARD,

Washington:

Believe treaty has been rejected. Have demanded from foreign office positive information some days since. No information has yet been received.

DENBY.

No. 235.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Telegram.]

BAYARD,

PEKING, September 6, 1888.

Secretary, Washington:

Treaty postponed for further deliberation.

DENBY.

No. 236.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 701.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, September 17, 1888. (Received November 2.)

Sir: I have the honor to report that some days ago five ministers of the Yamên, to wit, Marquis Tsêng, San Yü Wen, Hsü Yung-I, Liao Shou-Heng, and Hsi Chén sent cards asking for an interview to-day,

I, of course, assented. Four came to the legation at 3 o'clock and remained until after 5. They stated the object of their visit to be to learn whether I had any information as to the passage of a bill by Congress absolutely excluding all Chinese from the United States. They said that they had received a dispatch stating that Congress, being angry over the alleged rejection of the treaty, had resorted to this measure. I answered that I knew nothing about any bill having passed.

I said that China, and not the United States, had proposed the new treaty; that China had stated what should be the provisions thereof, and the views of China had been literally adopted by the framers of the treaty; that the conduct of China in refusing to ratify the treaty was unjust and indefensible.

They said that China had not refused to ratify the treaty. She was simply considering the question. I said she had allowed it to go out to the world that she had rejected the treaty. It was so reported in the London papers, the Chinese papers, and everywhere in Peking. In thus acting China was going back on its own express orders and di-That there was no cause whatever to justify the change of That the sole object of the treaty of 1880 was to exclude Chinese front. That the treaty of 1888 changed the word "suspend" to the word "prohibit," and limited the effect of the treaty to twenty years. That this constituted the only difference between the treaties except so far as the latter favored China in other clauses. That China had known since 1880 that the influx of Chinese laborers would not be tolerated in the United States. That there was not the slightest use of endeavoring to cover up or disguise this plain question. That we were not acting like Australia and certain British provinces in America, levying a per capita tax on Chinese passengers in ships. But that we announced openly our policy to be that the immigration of Chinese laborers must stop, and departing laborers could not return except under the conditions stated in the new treaty.

I said that it was worthy of consideration whether the old treaty was not strong enough to support all necessary legislation, and, whether Congress had passed a new bill or not, it was probable that, if information reached that body that China had receded from her promises and pledges, the most stringent legislation would be enacted. I said the only thing to do was to immediately ratify the new treaty; that the new treaty was attacked at home as bitterly as in China; that a large part of the people in some States demanded absolute exclusion; that the Government had not favored that scheme; that it had in all things treated China fairly and honorably. I cited the passage of the opium bill and the payment of $453,400 in April, 1885, the payment of $147,748.74 in 1887, and the provision for the payment of $276,619.75 in the new treaty. I stated that, in spite of all these evidences of friendship, China now was, without any cause or reason whatever, declining to ratify its own work, and that delay in this matter was dangerous.

They protested that they had not rejected the treaty, but that they came to me for information on certain subjects.

They asked me if I would telegraph to inquire whether a bill had passed excluding all Chinese from entering the United States. I agreed to do that. They then asked me if I would telegraph to ask authority from you empowering me to consult with them as to new clauses. I said no, that this treaty had been made by the express orders of China, and did not contain a line except what she said she wanted, and if it were re-opened there would be great delays, and it would be altogether improper for me to ask authority to amend or alter its provisions.

I finally asked them what changes they proposed to make in the treaty. They said they could not, on the moment, state them.

I said to them that if they would in twenty-four hours send me a statement of any additions or alterations that they proposed to make in the treaty, I would wire the substance thereof to you; but I stated that there was no conceivably proper change that occurred to me.

They said that the bill as passed by Congress might have excluded all Chinese laborers now in China who had certificates. I said the express object of the treaty was to exclude absent laborers from returning. That our policy was to do away with the disgraceful frauds which had made certificates merchandise in Hong-Kong, and had introduced into the United States hordes of men who had never been there before, and that in their communication to me of August 3, 1886, now before them, they had agreed that this might be done.

They said that a general bill of exclusion would prevent laborers who had $1,000 worth of property in the United States, or who had families, from returning thither. I said of course it would, but if they had promptly ratified the treaty Congress would not perhaps have passed a law to change its provisions. If now, by their delay, trouble came they must take the consequences. They said that Congress ought not to have passed a bill prohibiting immigration before the treaty was ratified. I said the only bill I had seen was printed in a newspaper, and provided that it should not take effect until after the ratification of the treaty. Legislation was necessary in advance of the ratification because it might be delayed until after the adjournment. Our interview lasted more than two hours. It was participated in to a considerable extent by the Marquis Tsêng.

During the interview the Marquis did not take a prominent part in the discussion. He, however, was frequently appealed to by me on account of his supposed acquaintance with western methods of legislation.

He usually corroborated my statements.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 237.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 703.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Peking, September 20, 1888. (Received November 2.)

SIR: Your telegram to the effect that the bill for the total exclusion of Chinese laborers from the United States had been passed by both houses of Congress and awaited the President's approval, and that in view of the excited state of public feeling on the Pacific coast in favor of the measure, and the critical situation thereby created, it became necessary to impress upon the Chinese Government the urgency of coming to a decision, in the interest of treaty relations and friendship, reached me at 5 p. m. the 19th instant.

In that sense I immediately sent to the Yamen the communication of which a copy is herewith inclosed.

This communication reached the foreign office about 6 o'clock p. m. the I knew that it would probably not be considered that evening, because the ministers had gone to their homes. I knew also that the question of ratification could not be finally acted on to-day, the 20th, because the Emperor would have to be consulted. His official audiences take place early in the morning, and he could not be consulted before the morning of the 21st. I did not, therefore, demand an instantaneous reply, but limited the time for an answer to forty-eight hours.

I could not telegraph to you yesterday because the gates of the Tartar city are closed at dark, and after that time there is no access to the telegraph office, which is situated in the Chinese city.

Early this morning I sent you a telegram reporting that your instructions had been communicated to the Yamen, and that an answer could not be obtained inside of forty-eight hours.

If my previous dispatches have reached you, you are in possession of all my acts and doings.

By my dispatch No. 701, of September 17, you will see that the Yamên, at their interview with me, agreed to send me, in twenty four hours, suggestions as to alterations in or additions to the treaty. not telegraph an account of that interview to you, because I expected to receive these suggestions the 18th, and intended to embody all information in one telegram; but the Yamen has, up to this writing, sent me nothing.

We asked nothing of China except the exclusion of laborers. This has been the essence of the agreement of the two countries for eight years. The new treaty simply strengthens an assured right. the last country in the world to complain of exclusion. She excluded all the world from the earliest times. She excludes laborers to-day by forbidding foreigners to engage in manufacturing in her borders. She permits foreign access only to some twenty points on the sea-board and the great rivers. There are no American laborers in China. comparatively few merchants. The body of our people are missionaries, who are here for no purpose save to exercise philanthropy and to promote religion.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

[Inclosure in No. 703.]

Mr. Denby to the Foreign Office.

No. 14.7

Peking, September 19, 1888.

YOUR HIGHNESS AND YOUR EXCELLENCIES:

I am informed by telegram from the honorable Secretary of State that the bill providing for the total exclusion of all Chinese from the United States has passed both Houses of Congress and awaits the President's approval.

My reading of the telegram induces the belief that the approval or disapproval of the bill by the President of the United States depends on an immediate decision by the Government of China as to whether it will or not ratify the pending treaty.

The situation is critical; Congress is about to adjourn; immediate action must be

In the interest of treaty relations and friendship between the two countries, and in view of the fact that the new treaty was suggested by your highness and your excellencies, I respectfully request that you will immediately ratify the treaty and give me immediate official notice thereof. If I do not receive from your highness and your excellencies within forty-eight hours an answer to this dispatch, it will be my duty to telegraph to my Government that the ratification has been refused.

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 238.

Mr. Denby to Mr. Bayard.

. [Extract.]

No. 704.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,

Peking, September 21, 1888. (Received November 2.)

SIR: I have the honor to confirm my telegram of this day, which reads to the effect that the Chinese Government refuses to ratify the treaty unless discussion be allowed with a view to shortening the twenty years' limit, to permitting the return of laborers now abroad owning $1,000, and to providing for the return of laborers now absent who may own less.

I inclose herewith a translation of the communication of the Yamên

It will be seen that the demands made involve the making of a new treaty.

The first demand looks to the shortening of the period of limitation. I have no comment to make on this clause except that it trifles with our just rights.

They demand, secondly, that laborers who have returned to China previous to the enforcement of the treaty, and who would have been qualified to secure a certificate of return under Article II, shall be allowed to present a petition to the Chinese consul, embodying the circumstances, and that a certificate be granted them to return to the United States. the treaty been ratified, and such a suggestion been made as to the provisions of the laws which are intended to provide for its execution, this demand would have been worthy of fair consideration. in my opinion, no authority to issue certificates should, in any event, be given to a Chinese consul.

The third demand is, in its terms, indefinite. It proposes the discussion of the question how the cases of Chinese laborers who are now abroad, and who own less than $1,000, shall be dealt with. If this clause looks to a return of this class it is inadmissible. It is settled by the treaty that such persons can not return. Under Article II, the right to return is expressly limited to a Chinese laborer who has "a lawful wife, child, or parent in the United States, or property therein of the value of $1,000 or debts of like amount due him and pending settlement."

To make any provision whatever for the return of Chinese laborers who do not fill these requirements, is simply to annul Article II altogether.

In view of the fact that I have no authority to discuss with the Yamên any alterations in the treaty, I have sent to them the reply of which a copy is inclosed.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENRY.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 704.]

The Foreign Office to Mr. Denby.

No. 10.7

PEKING, September 20, 1888.

Your Excellency: Since the interview we had with your excellency a few days ago, we have during the interval considered the points in the new treaty that are still necessary to be clearly discussed. They are arranged under three headings and we were preparing a memorandum of them when we received your excellency's dispatch of the 19th instant, the contents of which we have duly perused.

It appears that on account of your Government having heard reports published in the newspapers that China would not assent to the ratification of the new treaty, both Houses of Congress have therefore passed an act.

On the Yamen hearing of this report we were at first rather inclined to disbelieve it, hence we (some of the ministers) proceeded to your excellency's legation to make inquiry. Your excellency was also certain that there was no such thing; but on perusal of your excellency's communication we then knew that the reports were well

We certainly had no idea or expected such a thing

With regard to this matter, it concerns the establishment of a treaty between the two countries, and we can not but be extra careful and circumspect. It is right, therefore, to await until after your excellency has taken up the three points submitted by the Yamên and carefully and clearly considered them and sent us a communication in reply, then we can present the new treaty in a memorial to the throne, asking for ratification thereof.

If this matter can be expeditiously considered and decided upon the Yamên will also be very much pleased. But we are of the opinion (that if) the Government of the United States has hitherto entertained thorough friendly relations towards China (the President) will surely not assent to the one-sided action of Congress in the passage of the new act, pressing China and giving her very little time, thus making it difficult for the Yamen to deal in the matter satisfactorily.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 704.]

MEMORANDUM SUBMITTED BY THE TSUNG-LI YAMÊN IN REGARD TO THE NEW EX-CLUSION TREATY.

(1) In this treaty, although the purposes and intent of the contracting parties are in general identical, still the people outside are very much displeased with it. If the period of limitation can be discussed with a view to reducing it, this will have the effect of tranquillizing their feelings a little, and it will make matters much more

At the expiration of the changed period of limitation, if the two countries do not consider it necessary to make any alteration, then another period of limitation can

(2) In the second article of this treaty (after it takes effect) the provisions governing the return of Chinese laborers to China and their going to the United States are, on the whole or generally speaking, satisfactory; but in regard to Chinese laborers who have returned to China previous to the enforcement of this treaty, if they have property in the United States they should be allowed to present a petition to the Chinese consul embodying the circumstances, and a certificate be issued granting them also in like manner the right to return to the United States, thus manifesting a sense of justice.

(3) Chinese laborers who have returned to China, and who have property in the United States not amounting to $1,000 in value. It is right that the question as to how such cases should be dealt with should also be discussed.

[Inclosure 3 in No. 704.]

Mr. Denby to the Foreign Office.

No. 15.7

Peking, September 21, 1888.

YOUR HIGHNESS AND YOUR EXCELLENCIES:

I have received, to my very great regret, the communication of your highness and your excellencies on the subject of the ratification of the new treaty between the Imperial Government of China and the United States.

Your action amounts simply to a rejection of the treaty.

Any change made in it now would involve the necessity of another ratification by the Senate of the United States.

I have no authority to make a new treaty nor to discuss with your highness and your excellencies the propriety of making any changes in the treaty which is before you for ratification.

I have forwarded your communication to my Government and will await its orders.

I have, etc.,

CHARLES DENBY.

No. 239.

Mr. Rives to Mr. Denby.

No. 357.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, October 10, 1888.

SIR: I transmit herewith for your information copies of the recently approved Chinese exclusion act and of the President's message upon the subject; also of Senate Ex. Doc. O, Fiftieth Congress,* first session, parts 1 and 2, and Senate Ex. Doc. No. 272, Fiftieth Congress, first session.

I am, etc.,

G. L. RIVES, Acting Secretary.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 357.]

[Public-No. 305.]

AN ACT a supplement to an act entitled "An act to execute certain treaty stipulations relating to Chinese," approved the sixth day of May eighteen hundred and eighty-two.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the passage of this act, it shall be unlawful for any chinese laborer who shall at any time heretofore have been, or who may now or hereafter be, a resident within the United States, and who shall have departed, or shall depart, therefrom, and shall not have returned before the passage of this act, to return to, or remain in, the United States.

SEC. 2. That no certificates of identity provided for in the fourth and fifth sections of the act to which this is a supplement shall hereafter be issued; and every certificate heretofore issued in pursuance thereof, is hereby declared void and of no effect, and the chinese laborer claiming admission by virtue thereof shall not be permitted to enter the United States.

Sec. 3. That all the duties prescribed, liabilities penalties and forfeitures imposed, and the powers conferred by the second, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth, sections of the act to which this is a supplement are hereby extended and made applicable to the provisions of this act.

SEC. 4. That all such part or parts of the act to which this is a supplement as are inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Approved, October 1, 1888.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 357.—Senate Ex. Doc. No. 273, Fiftieth Congress, First session.]

Message from the President of the United States, relative to the act to execute certain treaty stipulations with China.

TO THE CONGRESS:

I have this day approved the House bill number eleven thousand three hundred and thirty-six, supplementary to an act entitled "An act to execute certain treaty stipulations relating to Chinese," approved the sixth day of May, eighteen hundred and eighty-two.

It seems to me that some suggestions and recommendations may properly accompany my approval of this bill.

Its object is to more effectually accomplish by legislation the exclusion from this country of the Chinese laborers.

The experiment of blending the social habits and mutual race idiosyncrasics of the Chinese laboring classes with those of the great body of the people of the United States has been proved by the experience of twenty years, and ever since the Burlingame treaty of 1868, to be in every sense unwise, impolitic, and injurious to both nations. With the lapse of time the necessity for its abandonment has grown in force, until those having in charge the government of the respective countries have resolved to modify and sufficiently abrogate all those features of prior conventional arrangements which permitted the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States.

^{*} For Senate Ex. Doc. O, Fiftieth Congress (convention for restricting Chinese immigration), see Document No. 260, post, page 396 (Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon, May 8, 1888).

In modification of the prior conventions the treaty of November 17, 1880, was concluded, whereby, in the first article thereof, it was agreed that the United States should at will regulate, limit, or suspend the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States, but not absolutely prohibit it; and under this article an act of Congress, approved on May 6, 1882 (see vol. 22, p. 58, Stats. at Large), and amended July 5, 1884 (vol. 23, p. 115, Stats. at Large), suspended for ten years the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States, and regulated the going and coming of such Chinese laborers as were at that time in the United States.

It was, however, soon made evident that the mercenary greed of the parties who were trading in the labor of this class of the Chinese population was proving too strong for the just execution of the law, and that the virtual defeat of the object and intent of both law and treaty was being fraudulently accomplished by false pretense and perjury, contrary to the expressed will of both Governments.

To such an extent has the successful violation of the Treaty and the laws enacted for its execution progressed, that the courts in the Pacific States have been for some time past overwhelmed by the examination of cases of Chinese laborers who are charged with having entered our ports under fraudulent certificates of return or seek to establish by perjury the claim of prior residence.

Such demonstration of the inoperative and inefficient condition of the treaty and law has produced deep-seated and increasing discontent among the people of the United States, and especially with those resident on the Pacific coast. This has induced me to omit no effort to find an effectual remedy for the evils complained of, and to answer the earnest popular demand for the absolute exclusion of Chinese laborers having objects and purposes unlike our own, and wholly disconnected with American citizenship.

Aided by the presence of this country of able and intelligent diplomatic and consular officers of the Chinese Government, and the representations made from time to time by our minister in China under the instructions of the Department of State, the actual condition of public sentiment and the status of affairs in the United States has been fully made known to the Government of China.

The necessity for remedy has been fully appreciated by that Government, and in August, 1886, our minister at Peking received from the Chinese foreign office a communication announcing that China, of her own accord, proposed to establish a system of strict and absolute prohibition of her laborers, under heavy penalties, from coming to the United States, and likewise to prohibit the return to the United States of any Chinese laborer who had at any time gone back to China "in order" (in the words of the communication) "that the Chinese laborers may gradually be reduced in number and causes of danger averted and lives preserved."

This view of the Chinese Government, so completely in harmony with that of the United States, was by my direction speedily formulated in a treaty draft between the two nations, embodying the propositions so presented by the Chinese foreign office.

The deliberations, frequent oral discussions, and correspondence on the general questions that ensued have been fully communicated by me to the Senate at the present session, and, as contained in Senate Executive Document O, parts 1 and 2, and in Senate Executive Document No. 272, may be properly referred to as containing a complete history of the transaction.

It is thus easy to learn how the joint desires and unequivocal mutual understanding of the two Governments were brought into articulated form in the treaty, which, after a mutual exhibition of plenary powers from the respective Governments, was signed and concluded by the plenipotentiaries of the United States and China at this capital on March 12 last.

Being submitted for the advice and consent of the Senate its confirmation, on the 7th day of May last, was accompanied by two amendments, which that body en-grafted upon it.

On the 12th day of the same month the Chinese minister, who was the plenipotentiary of his Government in the negotiation and the conclusion of the treaty, in a note to the Secretary of State gave his approval to these amendments, "as they did not alter the terms of the treaty," and the amendments were at once telegraphed to China, whither the original treaty had previously been sent immediately after its signature on March 12.

On the 13th day of last month I approved Senate bill number thirty-three hundred and four, "to prohibit the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States." This bill was intended to supplement the treaty, and was approved in the confident anticipation of an early exchange of ratifications of the treaty and its amendments and the proclamation of the same, upon which event the legislation so approved was by its terms to take effect.

No information of any definite action upon the treaty by the Chinese Government was received until the 21st ultimo—the day the bill which I have just approved was presented to me—when a telegram from our minister at Pekin to the Secretary of State announced the refusal of the Chinese Government to exchange ratifications of the treaty, unless further discussion should be had with a view to shorten the period stipulated in the treaty for the exclusion of Chinese laborers, and to change the conditions agreed on, which should entitle any Chinese laborer who might go back to China to return again to the United States.

By a note from the chargé d'affaires ad interim of China to the Secretary of State, received on the evening of the 25th ultimo (a copy of which is herewith transmitted, together with the reply thereto), a third amendment is proposed, whereby the certificate under which any departing Chinese laborer alleging the possession of property in the United States would be enabled to return to this country, should be granted by the Chinese consul instead of the United States collector, as had been provided in the treaty.

The obvious and necessary effect of this last proposition would be practically to place the execution of the treaty beyond the control of the United States.

Article I of the treaty proposed to be so materially altered had, in the course of the negotiations, been settled in acquiescence with the request of the Chinese plenipotentiary, and to his expressed satisfaction.

In 1886, as appears in the documents heretofore referred to, the Chinese foreign office had formally proposed to our minister strict exclusion of Chinese laborers from the United States without limitation; and had otherwise and more definitely stated that no term whatever for exclusion was necessary, for the reason that China would of itself take steps to prevent its laborers from coming to the United States.

In the course of the negotiations that followed suggestions from the same quarter led to the insertion in behalf of the United States of a term of "thirty years," and this term, upon the representations of the Chinese plenipotentiary, was reduced to

"twenty years," and finally so agreed upon.

Article II was wholly of Chinese origination, and to that alone owes it presence in the treaty.

And it is here pertinent to remark that everywhere in the United States laws for the collection of debts are equally available to all creditors without respect to race, sex, nationality, or place of residence, and equally with the citizeus or subjects of the most favored nations and with the citizens of the United States recovery can be had in any court of justice in the United States by a subject of China, whether of the laboring or any other class.

No disability accrues from non-residence of a plaintiff whose claim can be enforced in the usual way by him or his assignee or attorney in our courts of justice.

In this respect it can not be alleged that there exists the slightest discrimination against Chinese subjects, and it is a notable fact that large trading firms and companies and individual merchants and traders of that nation are profitably established at numerous points throughout the Union, in whose hands every claim transmitted by an absent Chinaman of a just and lawful nature could be completely enforced.

The admitted and paramount right and duty of every Government to exclude from its borders all elements of foreign population which for any reason retard its prosperity or are detrimental to the moral and physical health of its people, must be regarded as a recognized canon of international law and intercourse. China herself has not dissented from this doctrine but has, by the expressions to which I have referred, led us confidently to rely upon such action on her part in co-operation with us as would enforce the exclusion of Chinese laborers from our country

This co-operation has not, however, been accorded us. Thus from the unexpected and disappointing refusal of the Chinese Government to confirm the acts of its authorized agent and to carry into effect an international agreement, the main feature of which was voluntarily presented by that Government for our acceptance, and which had been the subject of long and careful deliberation, an emergency has arisen in which the Government of the United States is called upon to act in self-defense by the exercise of its legislative power. I can not but regard the expressed demand on the part of China for a re-examination and renewed discussion of the topics so completely covered by mutual treaty stipulations as an indefinite postponement and practical abandonment of the objects we have in view, to which the Government of China may justly be considered as pledged.

The facts and circumstances which I have narrated lead me, in the performance of what seems to me to be my official duty, to join the Congress in dealing legislatively with the question of the exclusion of Chinese laborers, in lieu of further attempts to adjust it by international agreement.

But while thus exercising our undoubted right in the interests of our people and for the general welfare of our country, justice and fairness seem to require that some provision should be made, by act or joint resolution, under which such Chinese laborers as shall actually have embarked on their return to the United States before the passage of the law this day approved, and are now on their way, may be permitted to land provided they have duly and lawfully obtained and shall present certificates heretofore issued permitting them to return in accordance with the provisions of the

Nor should our recourse to legislative measures of exclusion cause us to retire from the offer we have made to indemnify such Chinese subjects as have suffered damage through violence in the remote and comparatively unsettled portions of our country at the hands of lawless men. Therefore I recommend that, without acknowledging legal liability therefor, but because it was stipulated in the treaty which has failed to take effect, and in a spirit of humanity befitting our nation, there be appropriated the sum of two hundred and seventy-six thousand six hundred and nineteen dollars and seventy-five cents, payable to the Chinese minister at this capital on behalf of his Government as full indemnity for all losses and injuries sustained by Chinese subjects in the manner and under the circumstances mentioned.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, October 1, 1888.

[Inclosure 3 in No. 357.—Senate Ex. Dec. No. 272, fiftieth Congress, first session.]

Message from the President of the United States, transmitting, in response to Senate resolution of September 11, 1888, report and documents relative to the pending treaty with China.

TO THE SENATE:

I herewith transmit, in reply to the resolution of the Senate of the 11th instant, a copy of a report from the Secretary of State, with accompanying documents, relative to the pending treaty with China.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Washington, September 18, 1888.

TO THE PRESIDENT:

In transmitting copies of the correspondence of this Department in relation to the pending treaty with China, called for by the resolution of the Senate of the 11th instant, it is proper, in elucidation thereof, to inform you that the subjects embraced in the treaty were also elaborately discussed in the personal interviews held by me with Mr. Chang Yen Hoon, the Chinese minister, from time to time since his arrival here in 1886. By reference to my private memoranda of these interviews, I find they took place at this Department on January 7, January 28, March 11, March 18, and April 13, 1887—on the 23d of which last-mentioned month the minister sailed for Spain, to which country he was also accredited as minister, whence he returned to the United States in the month of August following, but did not renew his residence at this capital for some months thereafter.

The subject of the treaty was without delay renewed by me, and, in addition to the correspondence herewith transmitted, I held personal interviews with the minister at this Department on February 29, March 2, May 4, May 9, May 11, 1888.

On May 21 last the minister sailed from New York for Peru, to which country he was also accredited as minister, and my latest information is to the effect that he is now on his way from Lima to the United States.

On July 16 last I was called upon by the Chinese chargé d'affaires ad interim, who informed me that on the Friday previous (July 13) a cablegram from the Chinese foreign office had been received by him, in which the inquiry was made "whether any further amendments could be added by the Senate to the pending treaty."

In reply, he was informed by me that the treaty as now amended by the Senate was concluded, and only awaited an exchange of ratifications to become binding upon both parties by proclamation to that effect.

The personal interviews above referred to, together with the copies in writing herewith transmitted, and the two telegrams from our minister in China already communicated by you to the Senate in response to a resolution of inquiry of the 5th instant (and published in the Congressional Record, page 9211), comprise in full the information requested by the resolution of the Senate of the 11th, which I herewith return to

In view of the phraseology of the closing line of the resolution referring to any other representative or agent of the United States in China or elsewhere, with reference to the said treaty, I have the honor to state that no correspondence whatever with any one other than that which is now transmitted has been had by this Department in reference to the said treaty.

When the treaty now pending was submitted by you in March last to the Senate for confirmation, it was accompanied by copies of certain correspondence between this Department and the Chinese minister, in relation to the negotiations, and this was printed by order of the Senate, being Executive Document O, of the present session. This publication included sundry of the letters now again transmitted, as will appear by reference to the Senate executive document referred to. Respectfully submitted.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, September 18, 1888. T. F. BAYARD.

IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES, September 11, 1888.

Resolved, That the President be requested, if not incompatible with the public interest, to transmit to the Senate as early as convenient all correspondence or communications by and with the Government of the United States concerning the treaty with China recently ratified by the Senate, including all communications which have passed between the State Department and our minister to China or any other representative or agent of the United States in China or elsewhere with reference to said treaty.

Attest:

Anson G. McCook, Secretary.

List of inclosures.

- 1. Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon. Jan. 12, 1887. (Doc. No. 240, post p. 360.) 2. Communication from Tsung-li Yamên to United States minister, received from Chinese interpreter, Mr. Liang. Jan. 12, 1887.
- (Doc. No. 241, post p. 362.) 7. (Doc. No. 242, post p. 363.) Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.
   Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard. Jan. 15, 1887. Feb. 25, 1887.
- 4. Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard. Feb. 25, 1887. (Doc. No. 243, post p. 363.) 5. Memorandum left at Department by Chinese minister. Mar. 18, 1887. (Doc. No. 244, post p. 366.)
- 6. Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon. Apr. 11, 1887. (Doc. No. 245, post p. 371.) 7. Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.
- (Doc. No. 246, post p. 375.)
- 8. Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon. 9. Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard. 10. Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard. (Doc. No. 247, post p. 379.) (Doc. No. 250, post p. 381.)
- Aug. 16, 1887. Dec. 28, 1887. Jan. 30, 1888. Feb. 16, 1888. Feb. 23, 1888. (Doc. No. 251, post p. 383.) (Doc. No. 252, post p. 387.)
- Mr. Chang ren Hoon to Mr. Bayard.
   Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.
   Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.
   Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.
   Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.
   Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.
   Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.
   Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.
   Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.
   Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.
   Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard. Feb. 29, 1888. (Doc. No. 253, post p. 388.) Mar. 3, 1888.
- (Doc. No. 255, post p. 390.) (Doc. No. 256, post p. 392.) (Doc. No. 256, post p. 393.) (Doc. No. 260, post p. 396.)
- Mar. 7, 1888. Mar. 9, 1888.
- May 8, 1888. May 11, 1888. (Doc. No. 261, post p. 400.)
- May 12, 1888. May 14, 1888. (Doc. No. 262, post p. 400.) (Doc. No. 263, post p. 401.)

CORRESPONDENCE WITH THE LEGATION OF CHINA AT WASHINGTON.

No. 240.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.

[Confidential.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, January 12, 1887.

SIR: I have had the honor informally to discuss with you, in recent personal interviews in connection with questions growing out of mob violence upon Chinese in certain of the Northwestern Territories of this country, the expediency of concluding a treaty between our respective Governments for the purpose of inhibiting for a term of years the immigration of Chinese laborers to the United States, where their distinctive presence in newly-settled regions has excited race prejudice and given rise to the serious disorders, which are so much to be deplored.

I have been led to believe, by advices received at this Department from the minister of the United States in China, that such an arrangement would meet the ready approval of your Government, which has already put forth efforts to prevent further emigration of its subjects of the class indicated.

The prohibition which I now have the honor to propose applies to laborers only. Teachers, students, merchants, and travelers for curiosity or pleasure would continue fully to retain all the rights of entrance and sojourn in the United States which they at present enjoy.

It is worthy of remark that under this proposal the exempted classes of Chinese really include by designation all, or nearly all, the classes of American citizens who resort to China under the present treaties; and unrestricted territorial range within the United States will be continued to Chinese as fully as it is enjoyed by our own citizens; a liberty which is denied to Americans in China.

In pursuance of the object above indicated I have the honor to submit herewith a projet of a convention, which, if satisfactory and within the scope of your delegated powers, may at once be signed and submitted to the Senate for its approval.

Accept, sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure.]

Draught of Convention relating to Emigration transmitted with note to Chinese minister, of January 12, 1887.

[Confidential.]

JANUARY 12, 1887.

Whereas, on the 17th day of November, A. D. 1880, a treaty was concluded between the United States and China for the purpose of regulating, limiting, or suspending the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States, as well as their residence therein; and whereas it is thought desirable by both Governments, in order to strengthen the bonds of friendship between them, that a further and express restriction should be placed upon the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States, where their presence in newly-settled regions has excited antagonisms and given rise to much deprecated and serious disorders:

No. 241.

[Translation received from the Chinese interpreter, Liang, January 12, 1887.]

A communication from Tsung-li-Yamên (the foreign office) to the United States minister, Mr. Charles Denby.

SIR: We had the honor of addressing your excellency a note in the first month this year regarding the outrages committed upon the Chinese laborers in the United States, which we requested you to communicate to the Secretary of State, to the end that protection might be extended to them according to their rights as guarantied by the treaty stipulations. We received a reply from you, stating that you had communicated with the Secretary of State on the subject, and that you had heard of the strenuous efforts of your Government in protecting them.

Chinese laborers hitherto and now residing in the United States are entitled by treaty to go and come of their own free will and accord, and to protection, rights, privileges, immunities, and exemptions which are accorded to citizens or subjects of the most favored nation. Government issues certificates to those Chinese laborers who may leave the United States for their homes or other country, thereby enabling them to return to the United States, is an act in conformity with the treaty stipulations.

Recently outrages of a serious nature—such as driving the Chinese from their fields of labor and places of abode or trade, burning and murdering them-have been repeatedly committed. The local authorities had not extended to them timely protection, nor have they exerted themselves with zeal in bringing the perpetrators of the crimes to justice after their commission; consequently, though after such a long delay, no justice has as yet been obtained in any of the cases, for which the sufferers feel bitterly grieved even in their very bones, and those who hear of it feel pained to their hearts.

While your Government in vain professes to guaranty protection to the Chinese laborers, they in reality do not derive any substantial protection as demanded by their rights. China treats the Americans strictly in conformity with the treaty stipulations, but the United States treat the Chinese in such a manner as if the treaties were made for no purpose.

Now China, of her own accord, proposes to establish a system of prohibition, that those laborers who have not been to the United States will be strictly prohibited from going thither, nor any Chinese laborer who has returned to China from the United States, where he has no property or family, will be allowed to go back thither to run the risk of treading on the ground of danger. With regard to the Chinese laborers now remaining in the United States and that class of Chinese entitled by treaty to come and go of their own free will and accord, it is hoped that they will forever be treated according to treaty stipula-tions. These are the outlines of the plan proposed for the prohibition of the Chinese laborers, but the detailed and minute provisions of the regulations relating to the same will be communicated to you for your information after they have been discussed and decided upon by the Chinese minister at present accredited to your Government.

It is necessary that the Chinese merchants going to the United States should bear a certificate by which to discriminate them from the labor-Either the certificate should be issued and forwarded by the Chinese consul-general at San Francisco to the Chinese merchant, who shall get it visaed by both the Chinese and American consuls in Hong-Kong, or it should be issued by the Chinese consul in Hong Kong to the Chinese merchant. We hereby request that you will call the attention of your Government to the subject, in order that a certain course be immediately adopted for the guidance of the Chinese merchants who apply for the certificate above mentioned.

With regard to the Chinese who, while going from China to another foreign country or returning from the latter to China or from one foreign country to another, may require to pass through the United States in transitu, it is to be hoped that the United States will, as hitherto.

permit their free transit without let or hindrance.

With a view of a strict enforcement of the prohibition of the Chinese laborers from going to the United States, we propose to write to His Excellency Walsham, the British minister at Peking, requesting him to communicate with his government on the subject, to the end that instructions may be given to the governor of Hong-Kong to assist in the said prohibition. And we therefore beg that your excellency will communicate the above to the consideration of the Secretary of State.

No. 242.

Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.

CHINESE LEGATION, Washington, D. C., January 15, 1887. (Received January 17.)

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note dated the 12th instant, the contents of which I have carefully noted.

I have also several things which I intend to propose to your excellency's consideration, but, under instructions from the foreign office, I can not do so until all the pending cases are settled.

Referring to the cases of outrages committed upon the Chinese in the United States in the past years, you kindly gave me repeated assurances, in person, that indemnities would be awarded and the cases settled within a certain time, which I, in my dispatches, more than once commucated to the foreign office; but, nevertheless, they still remain unsettled; consequently I find myself placed in a rather delicate position, which it seems hard for me to extricate myself from.

It seems premature for us to enter into negotiations for concluding a treaty, as suggested by you, at the present moment.

I have a strong desire to maintain the friendly and cordial relations of the two Governments, but as it would lack the spirit of harmony necessary for carrying on negotiations if arguments should only be set forth in correspondence, I shall hope to do myself the honor of having an interview with your excellency at my earliest convenience.

Accept, sir, etc.,

CHANG YEN HOON.

No. 243.

Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.

Washington, D. C., February 25, 1887. (Received February 25.)

SIR: It becomes my unpleasant duty to bring to your attention further acts of violence against Chinese subjects and injury to their property in violation of treaty rights, additional to the lawless acts which have been the subject of my previous notes.

It appears from the reports received at this legation and corroborated by the statements of the officers of the United States and of the public press, that a considerable body of peaceable and law-abiding Chinese laborers at the mines on Douglass Island and in the vicinity of Juneau, Alaska Territory, near one hundred in number, were assaulted in the month of August last by a band of wicked and lawless men, with arms and violence, and ordered to cease work and abandon the Territory; that when the Chinese declined to go voluntarily, the mob of armed men took them by force, drove them to the sea-shore, put them on miserable, small schooners, and sent them adrift on the ocean; that they were, after enduring great hardships, landed on a distant and barren land; that being kindly taken on board by a passing steamer, they were carried back to the place where they had been working; that they desired to return to their employment, but the wicked men who had first driven them away threatened their lives if they remained, and neither their employers nor the United States authorities could afford them any protection; that to save their lives, and with great pecuniary loss and damage, they were compelled to flee to San Francisco and elsewhere outside of the Territory of Alaska, having endured further hardship and suffering on their journey; and that, owing to the reign of terror created by these wicked men, they have not been able to return to Alaska.

Official information of this outrage has doubtless reached your Government, as the noble and honored President in his last annual message to Congress has alluded to it; and General Gibbon, the military commander in Washington Territory, in his annual report of September 8, 1886, states that "a report has recently reached me from authentic sources that in the month of August a number of Chinese laborers were expelled from Douglass Island, in the Territory of Alaska, by an organized party of white men, who acted with great brutality towards their helpless victims." The newspaper account which I inclose herewith will furnish you with some of the many details published by the press at the time.

It has not been possible for me, owing to the distant locality of these occurrences, to obtain speedily an accurate estimate of the losses which have been sustained by the Chinese through these lawless acts; but I take the liberty to transmit to you a copy of the petition of some of the sufferers, and as soon as I can obtain further information I will again communicate with you on the subject. But I have felt it my duty not to delay longer to address you and to ask urgently that rigorous and effective measures will be adopted, if not already taken, to bring to merited punishment the wicked men who have so defiantly violated the laws and the treaties and have so inhumanly outraged the rights of my countrymen to their great bodily suffering and pecuniary loss.

Accept, sir, etc.,

CHANG YEN HOON.

[Inclosure 1.—From the Chicago Tribune, August 15, 1886.]

NEWSPAPER ACCOUNT OF THE EXPULSION.

Inhumanity to Chinamen—The brutal treatment accorded the Celestial miners who were expelled from Douglass Island and Juneau City, Alaska.

Mr. J. B. Hammond, an engineer and contractor of this city, has just returned home and gives a doleful account of the recent expulsion of Chinese miners from Douglass Island and Juneau City, Alaska. He also recites the words of ex-Governor Hoadley, of Ohio; Bishop Warren, of Colorado; Dr. Haven, of Chicago; Chief-Justice Waite, and others, who were in Alaska about the time, and all of whom denounced in the most bitter terms the inhumanity and barbarity that, by intimidation and force, compelled the defenseless heathen to quit their labors and risk their lives in small and unseaworthy boats for the long voyage down the coast to Fort Wrangel.

The facts are stated to be that one hundred armed men visited the Treadwell mine on Douglass Island and ordered the Chinese to leave, threatening them in unmistakable language with death if they remained. Somewhat to the astonishment of their employers the Chinamen expressed a readiness to stay and fight, but, being unarmed and a ageneral massacre being almost certain to follow any resistance on their part, it was reluctantly admitted that the only thing for them to do was to leave. Some efforts were made through the United States marshal to secure protection for them, but too The Chinese were marched in a body from the mines, taken in skiffs to Juneau, and then packed on board two small schooners. There were eighty-seven of them in all, and they so crowded the boats that there was not even room for them to lie down. To add to the brutality of the expulsion, they were given nothing to shelter them from the inclement weather and barely rice enough to keep them from starving on their four weeks' trip along the coast. Mr. Hammond was an eye-witness to the expulsion, and denounces it as a most cowardly and inhuman proceeding. The Chinamen, he says, were not to blame for being there, having gone to work under a contract made in San Francisco at a time when it was impossible to get white labor to go to Alaska. As it is now, he says, the mine-owners will have to indemnify the Chinese, and the owners will, in turn, demand indemnity from the Government.

[Inclosure 2.]

PETITION OF CHINESE SUBJECTS.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 7, 1887.

To His Excellency the CHINESE MINISTER:

The petition of Fung Ah Soey, native of the district of Sunning, and others, all subjects of China, lately working in the mines on Douglass Island, Alaska Territory, respectfully sets forth:

That your petitioners were laborers lately employed in the mines on Douglass Island, Alaska Territory. That on the 8th day of the 7th month in the last year (August 6, 1886), a party of wicked men, over one hundred in number, drove your petitioners to the sea-shore, took them across in small boats to Juneau, and subsequently placed them on board small schooners, which conveyed them to Fort Wrangel where they were landed on a barren land and left, suffering from both hunger and

That fortunately a passenger vessel called the Ancon passed by, her master took your petitioners on board, and carried them back to the place where they had been working. That the wicked parties, armed with guns, threatened to kill your petitioners. Your petitioners were greatly alarmed, and for the protection of their lives fled to the port of San Francisco in a vessel. They had to borrow money of their employers to pay for their passage.

That your petitioners, in consequence of their expulsion from the island, lost all their money and property, amounting in all to $13,762.65.

That the four leaders of the wicked party are named, respectively, Jack Timmers, Patrick McGliney, Frank Berry, and George Wheelock.

That a delay has been occasioned in making this report owing to some time having been taken to ascertain the names above mentioned. That a statement of the losses sustained by your petitioners has been lodged with the consul-general at San Francisco. Your petitioners therefore humbly pray that your excellency will kindly take this matter into your consideration and communicate the same to the Government of the United States, to the end that proper punishment may be inflicted on the evildoers and indemnification be awarded to your petitioners. And your petitioners shall, as in duty bound, ever pray.

[Signed by various Chinese subjects.]

No. 244.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE CHINESE IN THE UNITED STATES.

[Left at the Department by the Chinese minister March 18, 1887.]

By article 3 of the treaty of 1880, which reads as follows: "If Chinese laborers, or Chinese of any other class, now either permanently or temporarily residing in the territory of the United States, meet with ill treatment at the hands of any other persons, the Government of the United States will exert all its powers to devise measures for their protection, and to secure to them the same rights, privileges, immunities, and exceptions as may be enjoyed by the citizens or subjects of the most favored nations, and to which they are entitled by treaty," the Chinese in the United States are entitled to enjoy completely the rights and privileges of protection; but in September of the year 1885 there occurred a case in Rock Springs, Wyoming Territory, where the Chinese were murdered and burned to death by a mob of laborers, and immediately after the wicked class of people in the Western Territories in various ways followed this bad example; consequently, there have been numberless cases in which the Chinese were outrageously treated. Thanks to the United States Government for having sent its troops for the suppression of the riots, by which kind act not a few lives of the Chinese were The President of the United States having been fully informed of the sad sufferings of the innocent Chinese in the Rock Springs case, and being prompted by a sense of justice, recommended to Congress the necessity of awarding indemnification for the losses and damages sustained by the suffering Chinese. An indemnity bill has been passed accordingly, granting the full amounts claimed. Nevertheless no justice or redress has as yet been done or given on account of the Chinese who were murdered. The acts of expulsion of the Chinese did not die away even until last fall.

The treaty stipulations require that the United States Government shall exert all its power to devise measures for the protection of the Chinese in the United States in case they should meet with ill treatment at the hands of any other persons, but the population in the Western Territories have made the ill treatment of the Chinese a constant practice, and have looked upon the acts of expelling and burning out the Chinese as sources of pleasure. Consequently, no sooner had the perpetrators in the cases of outrage in Rock Springs and Seattle been arrested than they were released, which could by no means strike terror to the hearts of the evil-doers. The Chinese Government, having the interests of its subjects at heart, being unable to bear any longer with the ill manners with which they are treated in the foreign country, and with a view of averting any possible cause of disturbance and ill feelings between the people of the United States and China which might jeonardize the friendly relations of the two Governments, did, on the 4th day of the seventh month last year (3d August, 1886), write to Mr. Denby, the United States minister at Peking, through the foreign office (Tsung-li Yamên), on the subject of China's purpose of her own accord to prohibit its subjects of the laboring class from emigrating to the There are three important things which China proposes United States. to do in this respect: (1) Those Chinese laborers who have not been to the United States will be strictly prohibited from going thither. (2) Those Chinese laborers who have returned to China from the United States, where they have no wife or family or relations, money, or property, will not be allowed to go back thither. (3) The Chinese who are now resident in the United States should be entitled to proper protection in conformity with the treaty stipulations. The detailed and minute provisions of the regulation relating to the above are to be discussed and decided upon by me (the Chinese minister) and the honorable Secretary of State. The British minister in Peking has also been communicated with on the subject by the foreign office, with a request that his Government may be informed thereof, to the end that the governor of Hong-Kong may be instructed to assist the Chinese Government in strictly carrying out these regulations to their fullest extent, a copy of which was some time since sent over to your Department.

In your note of the 12th January last an inhibition was proposed of the immigration of Chinese laborers into the United States for a term of years, and a discussion together of measures for carrying out the same was suggested, so that when agreed to they might be communicated to the Senate for consideration. And in reply of the 15th January last I said I had also several things to propose for your excellency's consideration.

Now, I have, in conformity with the instructions from the foreign office, carefully drawn out in detail certain provisions in connection with the proposed prohibition and restriction of the coming of the Chinese laborers into the United States, and the proper protection of the Chinese that are now in the United States, which I send herewith to your excellency, so that we may together discuss the same, in the hope that, when they are agreed upon, you may communicate the same to the Senate and I to the foreign office, for their respective consideration; and upon their approval by the latter the decree of my sovereign will be asked for the permission to have them supplemented to the treaty of November 17, 1880, in order that they may be faithfully carried out by both Governments.

The proposed provisions are as follows:

(1) China, having of her own accord prohibited the immigration of its subjects into the United States, will do so from time to time in such manner as may be required by circumstances, there being no necessity for fixing a certain period for that purpose.

(2) No Chinese laborer who has never been to the United States shall be permitted to go thither. Any such laborer who shall be detected in attempting to go to the United States by fraudulently making use of a return ticket and by personating the name of the person mentioned therein will be visited with a heavy fine.

(3) Any Chinese laborer who has returned to China from the United States can not go thither again unless he really has there his family or relations, money, or property, or accounts contracted through him pending settlement. But before he embarks for the United States he must furnish to the consul-general at San Francisco, for his examination, a full statement setting forth the names of the members of his family or relations, the locality where he has his money or property, and the names of the parties connected with the pending accounts.

(4) Any Chinese laborer who, returning to China from other countries, may desire to pass in transitu through the United States should be permitted to do so as hitherto without let or hindrance.

(5) From henceforth any Chinese laborer who desires to leave the United States for China shall, before his departure, report to the consul-general at the port of San Francisco whether or not he has in the United States a family or relations, money or property, or any accounts pending settlement, in order that the above may be inserted in the certificate for the purpose of examination and investigation.

(6) The exempt class of Chinese subjects, whether proceeding to the United States as teachers, students, merchants, or from curiosity, if possessed with certificates or documents of proof of other description, shall be at once permitted to land without any detention under any pretense.

(7) In the two annual messages of 1885 and 1886 of the President of the United States to congress, his excellency expressed his anxiety. for the maintenance of harmony and friendship between the two countries, for the extension of protection over the Chinese subjects in conformity with the treaty stipulations, for the strictly warning of American subjects against ill-treating the Chinese subjects, and that no oppression of individuals of a special race should be tolerated. gave evidence of the desire of the President to strengthen the friendly relations between the two countries, which is fully appreciated by both the Chinese Government and its subjects. It is now desirable that the President should be respectfully requested to proclaim to the public that, with a view of preventing its subjects from suffering ill-treatment in the foreign distant land, the Chinese Government has, of its own accord, prohibited the coming of Chinese laborers into the United States; that this measure will ensure the reduction of the number of the Chinese laborers in the United States; that the Chinese subjects, American citizens as well as aliens, shall live peaceably together without any prejudice against each other; that it is provided by article 4 of the treaty of 28th July, 1868, that Chinese subjects in the United States shall enjoy entire liberty of conscience, and shall be exempt from all disability or persecution on account of their religious faith or worship in the United States, and that any person who may hereafter commit acts of murder, arson, and robbery, similar to those in the past, against the Chinese shall be severely punished without the least leniency.

(8) It is desired that a United States marshal or other officer should be appointed, and have his office in San Francisco, whose duty it should be to especially attend to those cases wherein Chinese and Americans may be concerned that may have occurred in all the States or Territories of the United States of America. It is necessary that many United States officers should be employed in the places where the Chinese are settled, for the purpose of making inquiries from time to time. If they should hear of any wicked band planning to do injuries or violence against the Chinese they should report the same by telegraph to the United States marshal or other officer thus appointed, to the end that efforts may be made for their protection, and for the arrest and punishment of the wicked band.

(9) It is desired that instructions should be given to the military and civil local authorities of all the States and Territories to take, from time to time, active measures for watching the circumstances attending the doings of the respective laboring classes of China, America, and other countries, and that if they should find any feeling of discord amongst them they should make preparations for any emergency of disorder that may arise, either by employing extra number of police officers or enlisting militia for the purpose of suppressing any riot that may break out, and for patrolling the streets, to the end that dangers may be averted by the adoption of precautionary measures. It is further desirable that in case of any outrage, such as arson or expulsion, being committed against the Chinese by lawless bands in any State or Territory, or if under contemplation, the local authorities on learning of the same may be permitted, as they deem proper, to summon by telegraph the assistance of troops from the vicinity for the suppression of the same, and the officer commanding the same shall at once proceed thither with his troops. There are precedents for this in the treatment and protection of American merchants and missionaries in China by the Chinese Government.

CH1NA. 369

(10) It is to be hoped that hereafter if any persons, acting in concert, are guilty of assailing and killing the Chinese with fire-arms they will be punished by hanging, as a warning to others. Those who aid and abet in the assault, armed, should be severely dealt with, and not be permitted to escape punishment. I don't allude now to ordinary and isolated cases of assault between individuals.

(11) Simple expulsion by force of the Chinese by lawless persons, though unaccompanied by arson, murder, or robbery, or bodily injury, is still a violation of the treaty stipulations, and a deliberate purpose to create disorders, and the perpetrators should be punished according to their relative guilt as leaders or followers. The foregoing provisions, Nos. 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11, will show what measures I think desirable to have adopted to secure the protection of Chinese subjects in this country in conformity with the treaty stipulations. It is the Government of the United States, and not the State nor local governments, which guarantied to exert all its power to devise measures for the protection of Chinese subjects in the United States, and for this reason I have made the foregoing suggestions. They may not be altogether in conformity to the usual practice in the United States, but they are very much like what the United States ministers and consuls have asked my Government to do, and which it has done for Americans in China. If I correctly understand what has been decided, only a few days ago, by the Supreme Court in this capital, there is no law of the Congress of the United States to punish wicked men for conspiring to injure or intimidate Chinese subjects, or thereby murdering, wounding, assaulting, or robbing them. But the court says that the Congress has the power to pass such laws, and to have them enforced by the Government officers and in its courts, and that it may pass such laws as are necessary to carry out treaty stipulations. If, then, in my foregoing suggestions, I have not conformed in all respects to the practice of your country, I think this very respectable court has sanctioned the spirit of my suggestions, and your excellency's great wisdom in the practice and duty of your Government will enable you to accept in some amended form the propositions I have made, and we may thus be able to agree upon measures to carry out the guaranties of the treaty which have up to this time been so often violated with impunity.

(12) With regard to the losses and damages sustained by the Chinese in all the cases of cruel outrage against them in past years, it is requested that the United States Government should do justice and award indemnities in every case. It is suggested that this can be done by following the precedent in the claims convention of November 8, 1858, by paying to the Chinese Government a sum sufficient to cover all losses, and this sum to be distributed by China, or by agreeing upon a claims commission to estimate and award the losses.

(13) Chinese merchants who belong to the exempt class mentioned in the treaty, on their landing at the port of San Francisco, have been often subjected to inconveniences and troubles by being compelled to appear in court, through the acts of the local authorities at that port, in investigating and discriminating the cases of returning Chinese laborers thereto in past years. Hereafter they should be permitted to land upon the presentation of their certificates or production of evidence or bond of security, without the necessity of going into court for

H. Ex. 1, pt. 1——24

(14) By article 18 of the treaty of 1858, there is a provision relating to extradition. It would be well to make a treaty agreement, so that hereafter, if any criminals who are Chinese subjects should take refuge in the United States, they may be delivered up to the Chinese consuls in order to be returned to China for trial and punishment.

(15) In former years a duty at the rate of 10 per cent. on its cost value was levied on imported rice from China to American ports; at a later date it was raised to $1 for each 100 pounds; and, in 1864, on account of the civil war, it was increased to $2.50 per 100 pounds, just about equal to the cost value of the rice in China. In 1883 it was reduced to $2.25. Now you are enjoying peace and prosperity and your treasury is overflowing, can not you afford to reduce the duty? Chinese subsist upon rice as your people do upon wheat. price is a grievous burden upon the poor class of Chinese in this country; it is right, therefore, to ask your Government to take the subject into its kind consideration to the end that the duty may be reduced to $1 per 100 pounds, for which the Chinese will feel very grateful. Of course I can not expect that your Government will take off the entire duty as you have from tea and Chinese starch.

[Inclesure-Translation.]

A communication from the foreign office to the British minister at Peking, sent on the 4th day of the 7th month last year (3d August, 1886).

SIR: We have the honor to inform you that cases of repeated outrages recently committed against the Chinese in the United States have rendered it necessary for us to write to the British minister in Peking, and also to the Chinese minister in Washington, with a request that he should communicate with the honorable Secre-Washington, with a request that he should communicate with the honorable Secretary of State on the subject, begging him to cause protection to be extended over the Chinese laborers residing there in conformity with the treaty stipulations, and also to the use of strenuous efforts for the apprehension of the perpetrators of the outrages. The prejudice of the people of the United States against the Chinese laborers is so intense that it is next to impossible to remove it, and if no timely precautionary measures are taken in the matter there may be no end to disasters.

Now China proposes to prohibit of her own accord the emigration of Chinese laborers into the United States. No Chinese laborer will be permitted to go to the United States, nor any Chinese laborer who has returned to China from the United States where, if he has no family or relations, money or property, will be allowed to go back thither, in order that the Chinese laborers who remain in the United States may gradually be reduced in number, causes of danger be averted, and lives preserved.

It appears from inquiries made that Chinese laborers going to the United States generally embark in steamers that sail from Hong-Kong, which renders the examination intended to be made by the Chinese officials difficult. For this reason we have the honor to request that you will kindly communicate with your Government on the subject, to the end that instructions may be given to the governor of Hong-Kong, to devise measures for the examination and prohibition of the emigration above referred to, and to disallow any vessel of any nationality to carry any Chinese laborer as passenger for any port in the United States, so as to strike the evil at its very root. Thereby the future troubles may be avoided.

In former years Peru and Spain trafficked in Chinese, and the Hong-Kong government assisted in terminating the evil by examination and prohibition. But the outrages committed against the Chinese laborers in the United States by burning and expulsion are comparatively worse than the traffic alluded to.

Your Government is noted for its benevolence and we feel sure that it will not fail to accede to our request in rendering its assistance in the matter.

No. 245.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, April 11, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit for your consideration and approval a draught of a convention embodying those views as to the prohibition of the future coming to this country of Chinese laborers, which, I believe, from our conversations heretofore had, meet our joint approval.

In view of your contemplated departure from the United States, I shall be glad, if it will suit your convenience, to meet you at this Department at 11 a.m. of Wednesday next, the 13th instant, for the consideration of the very interesting subject contained in the documents which I have now the pleasure to submit to you.

Be pleased, also, to receive my comments upon the paper expressive of your views and wishes in relation to extradition, and to the execution of treaty stipulations relating to Chinese subjects by the police powers of the United States.

Accept, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure 1.]

Draught of Convention to Regulate Emigration from China to the United States.

Whereas, on the 17th day of November, A. D. 1880, a Treaty was concluded between the United States and China for the purpose of regulating, limiting, or suspending the coming of Chinese laborers to and their residence in, the United States;

And whereas the Government of China, in view of the antagonisms and much deprecated and serious disorders to which the presence of Chinese laborers has given view in cortain parts of the United States. rise in certain parts of the United States, desires to prohibit the emigration of such laborers from China to the United States;

And whereas the Government of the United States and the Government of China his Plenipotentiary; and His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of China has appointed as his Plenipotentiary; and the said Plenipotentiaries, having exhibited their respective Full Powers found to be in due and good form, have agreed upon the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The High Contracting parties agree that for a period of twenty years, beginning with the date of the exchange of the ratifications of this Convention, the coming, except under the conditions hereinafter specified, of Chinese laborers to the United States shall be absolutely prohibited.

ARTICLE II.

The preceding article shall not apply to the return to the United States of any Chinese subject who has a lawful wife, child, or parent in the United States, or property therein of the value of one thousand dollars, or debts of like amount due him and pending settlement. Nevertheless, every such Chinese laborer shall, before leaving the United States, deposit, as a condition of his return, with the collector of customs of the district from which he departs, a full description in writing of his family or property, or debts, as aforesaid, and shall be furnished by said collector with such certificate of his right to return under this Treaty as the laws of the United States may now or hereafter prescribe; and should the written description aforesaid be proved to be false, the right of return thereunder, or of continued residence after return, shall in each case be forfeited.

ARTICLE III.

The provisions of this Convention shall not affect the right at present enjoyed of Chinese subjects, being officials, teachers, students, merchants, or travelers for curiosity or pleasure, but not laborers, of coming to the United States and residing therein. It is also agreed that Chinese laborers shall continue to enjoy the privilege of transit across the territory of the United States in the course of their journey to or from other countries, subject to such regulation by the Government of the United States as may be necessary to prevent said privilege of transit from being abused.

ARTICLE IV.

This Convention shall remain in force for a period of twenty years, beginning with the date of the exchange of ratifications; and if, six months before the expiration of the said period of twenty years, neither Government shall formally have given notice of its termination to the other, it shall remain in full force for another like period of twenty years.

[Inclosure 2.]

Memorandum on propositions left at the Department by the Chinese minister on the 18th of March last, respecting the emigration of Chinese subjects from China to the United States, and other subjects.

The memorandum left at the Department by his excellency the minister of China, on the 18th ultimo, after reciting the provisions of article 3 of the immigration treaty of 1880, and discussing the treatment of Chinese subjects in the United States during the past few years, submits for the consideration of the Department fifteen propositions looking to the adjustment of various questions.

The first proposition is, that China, having of her own accord prohibited the emigration of her subjects to the United States, will do so from time to time in such manner as may be required by circumstances, there being no necessity for fixing a certain period for that purpose.

The second proposition relates to the same subject and particularly to the punishment by China of her subjects who fraudulently attempt to emigrate to the United States.

The third proposition provides that no Chinese laborer who has returned to China from the United States shall be permitted to return hither unless he has a family or relations, money or property, or accounts pending settlement.

Proposition fourth touches the transit through the United States of Chinese laborers returning to China or going to other countries.

Proposition 5 provides that any Chinese laborer who desires to return to China from the United States shall, before his departure from the latter country, report to the consul-general of China at San Francisco, whether or not he has in the United States any family or relations, etc.

Under proposition 6 it is provided that the exempted classes of Chinese subjects possessing a certificate or other documentary proof of their character shall be at once permitted to land without any detention under any pretense.

Proposition 7 contains a request that the President proclaim to the public with a view to preventing Chinese subjects from being further ill-treated in the United States, that the Chinese Government, of its own accord, has prohibited the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States, etc., and that any person who may hereafter commit acts of murder, arson, and robbery, similar to those in the past against the Chinese, shall be severely punished without the least leniency.

Proposition 8 outlines a special system of police for the protection of the Chinese in the United States, and suggests the appointment of a special officer at San Francisco to attend to such cases of difficulty between Chinese and other persons as have lately taken place.

Proposition 9 suggests that instructions be given to the military and civil authorities of all the States and Territories to take from time to time active measures for watching the development of circumstances, with a view to the prevention of outbreaks or disorders either by employing an extra number of police officers or enlisting militia, etc.

Proposition 10 suggests that hereafter if any persons acting in concert are guilty of assailing or killing Chinese by fire-arms they shall be punished by hanging, as warning to others. Those who aid or abet in the assault in arms to be severely dealt with, and not be permitted to escape punishment. This proposition, however, has no ref-. erence to ordinary and isolated cases of assault by one individual upon another.

373 CHINA.

In addition to the measure suggested in the preceding proposition for the protection of Chinese, the minister refers, in proposition 11, to the recent decision of the Supreme Court that no law of the United States at present in force provides for the punishment by the courts of the United States of persons who attempt to expel Chinese. The minister intimates that some such law should be adopted.

Proposition 12 suggests the payment by the United States to China of a sum sufficient to cover all losses and injuries to Chinese in the United States from mob violence; this sum to be distributed by China, as was done by China under the claims convention of November 8, 1858. If this is not acceptable, his excellency suggests that a claims commission be organized to decide upon the losses and injuries.

Proposition 13 suggests that the exempted classes of Chinese coming to the United States should be permitted to land upon the presentation of their certificates or production of other documentary evidence, or on giving proper security, without the necessity of going into court for examination.

Proposition 14 relates to extradition, and suggests that a treaty be made for the return to China of fugitive Chinese criminals.

Proposition 15 suggests the reduction of the duty on rice from $2.25 a hundred pounds, the present duty, to $1 a hundred pounds.

From this resume it appears that seven of his excellency's propositions, namely, the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, and 13th, relate to the subject of emigration. Five, namely, the 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th, relate to the protection of Chinese in the United States. Of the remaining three propositions one relates to claims, another to extradition, and the third to the duty on rice.

It is understood that these propositions are submitted by his excellency as an outline of the provisions which his Government would desire to see embodied in a convention with the United States. The project of a convention submitted by the Secretary of State to the minister of China on the 12th of January last related solely to the restriction of Chinese immigration to the United States. The Department, however, being desirous of reaching, as far as may be practicable, a conventional solution of the question now under consideration between the two Governments, is ready to extend the scope of its former proposal. For this purpose it herewith submits a draft of a convention, consisting of a preamble and five articles.

The preamble contains the acknowledgment desired by His Excellency in the first proposition of his memorandum of the desire of China to prohibit the emigration of her subjects to the United States.

The first article proposes a prohibition, except under certain conditions afterwards specified in the draft, of Chinese laborers to the United States for a period of twenty years.

Article two provides that the preceding article shall not apply to the return to the United States of Chinese subjects who have families in the United States, or property therein of the value of $1,000, or accounts of like amount due them and pending set-It is, however, required that Chinese subjects desiring to return to the United States shall furnish the authorities of the country proper evidence of their title to return.

Article three provides that the Convention shall not affect the right at present enjoyed of Chinese subjects, being officials, teachers, students, merchants, travelers for curiosity or pleasure, but not laborers, of coming to the United States and residing It is also provided in this article, as His Excellency desired, that Chinese laborers shall continue to enjoy the privilege of transit across the territory of the United States in the course of their journey to and from other countries.

Article four provides that the Convention shall remain in force for a period of twenty years, and thereafter for a like period, unless notice of termination shall be given by one of the contracting parties six months prior to the expiration of the first period of twenty years.

It is believed that this draft substantially covers and meets those propositions of His Excellency's memorandum relative to the subject of emigration. In respect, however, to propositions 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11, which contain the specific suggestions of His Excellency as to the measures which he thinks it desirable for the Government of the United States to take for the protection of Chinese laborers in this country, the Department has found itself unable to meet his suggestions or to formulate any counter proposition. As has already been seen, it is proposed under the seventh head that the President shall issue a proclamation that Chinese and other aliens shall live peaceably together, and that any person who may hereafter commit acts of murder, arson, and robbery, similar to those in the past against the Chinese, shall be severely punished without the least leniency. This proposition is at variance with the constitutional principles of the American Government, and is not based on any treaty provision. The Executive Department of the Government of the United States, of which department the President is the head, may aid in the prosecution of offenses, but can neither try nor punish them. Every man charged with the commission of a crime in the United States is entitled to a trial according to the law of the land. This is a right guaranteed by the Constitution and carnot be taken away either by treaty or by an act of Congress. In infamous crimes, such as are described by His Excellency, a part of the law of the land is that no person shall be tried except on the presentment of a grand jury. Every man charged with the commission of such a crime in the United States, and so presented for trial, is entitled to be tried by a jury impartially selected, and if found guilty, sentence is imposed by the court trying the case, and not by the President, who can remit but cannot impose penalties.

Proposition 8 outlines a sort of special detective system, which would be an anomaly in our history.

Proposition 9 contains certain provisions which require more particular attention. It is asked that this Government give "instruction to the military and civil local authorities of all the States and Territories" for certain purposes; and it is further asked that "in case of any outrage such as arson or expulsion being committed against Chinese by unlawful bands in any State or Territory, * * * the local authorities on learning of the same may be permitted to summons * * * troops," etc.; and it is said that "there are precedents for this in the treatment and protection of American merchants and missionaries in China by the Chinese Government."

In proposition 11 it is said, in reference to the protection of the Chinese, that "it is the Government of the United States, and not the State or local government, which guaranties to exert all its powers to devise measures for the protection of Chinese subjects in the United States. * * * They (these suggestions) may not be altogether in conformity to the usual practice in the United States, but they are very much like what the United States ministers and consuls have asked my Government to do, and which it has done for Americans in China." It is thus seen that his excellency asks the Government of the United States to direct the local authorities of the States as well as of the Territories as to the steps to be taken for the protection of the Chinese; and the justification of this request is stated to be that there are "precedents for this in the treatment and protection of American merchants and missionaries in China by the Chinese Government," and that the ministers and consuls of the United States in China have asked that Government to do what is now asked of the United States. Why have the ministers and consuls of the United States asked such things? Merely because under the treaties the Government of China is expressly bound to grant protection in the form stated; the United States is not. In all the treaties from 1844 down to the present time the Chinese Government has undertaken to oversee and direct and guaranty the protection of American citizens in China through the local authorities in that country. Beginning with the treaty of 1844, we find in the fourth article an express stipulation by the Government of China that if the consuls of the United States at the open ports in China are "disrespectfully treated or aggrieved in any way by the local authorities, said officers on the one hand shall have the right to make representation of the same to the superior officers of the Chinese Government, who will see that full inquiry and strict justice be had in the premises." In the eighth article of the same treaty it is provided that citizens of the United States shall be permitted to hire servants, seamen, etc., "for a reasonable compensation, to be agreed on by the parties or settled by application of the consular officers of their Government, without interference on the part of the local officers of the Chinese Government." In the seventeenth article it is provided that, "in order to the preservation of the public peace, the local officers of each of the five ports shall, in concert with the consuls, define the limits beyond which it shall not be lawful for citizens of the United States to go." In the ninteenth article it is stipulated by China that all citizens of the United States in China "shall receive and enjoy for themselves and everything pertaining to them the special protection of the local authorities of the Government, who shall defend them from all insult or injury of any sort on the part of the Chinese;" and it is also provided that if the dwellings or property of citizens of the United States be attacked by mobs or other lawless bands of persons, "the local authorities, on requisition of the consul, will immediately dispatch a military force to disperse the rioters, and will apprehend the guilty individuals, and punish them with the utmost rigor of the law." the twenty-fourth, twenty-sixth, twenty-seventh, twenty-ninth, and thirty-second articles of the treaty of 1844 we find express guaranties of the Chinese Government as to the conduct of the local authorities. The treaty of 1858 contains almost a complete repetition of the provisions above cited. (See articles 10, 11, 13, 18, 28.)

It is thus seen that the measures which his excellency has requested this Government to adopt are substantially those that the Chinese Government has stipulated and employed for the protection of Americans in China. The American minister and consuls, in calling upon the Chinese Government to perform those stipulations, have simply requested China to execute the treaty in conformity with her own institutions. China's call on us is to revolutionize our institutions. This proposition it is unnecess sary to discuss.

In respect to the proposition for the payment of claims, it is proper to say that, as no money can be applied to such a purpose without a specific appropriation by Congress, the Department thinks it best that each case should be submitted to Congress on the merits for such action as may be proper. This course, in the case of the Rock Spring difficulty, resulted in the appropriation by Congress of a sum to indemnify Chinese subjects for losses incurred by that unfortunate occurrence.

CHINA. 375

In respect to the suggestion that this Government reduce the duty on rice to $1 a hundred pounds, it may be said that this also is a matter for Congressional action, which can not be anticipated by the executive department of the Government.

The Department is of opinion that, owing to the totally opposite systems of criminal procedure in the respective countries, an extradition convention between the United States and China is impracticable. Moreover, if the draught herewith submitted of a convention to restrict immigration of Chinese laborers to the United States should be agreed upon by the Government of China, it would be impossible for the United States to become, except to a very limited extent, an asylum for fugitive Chinese criminals.

No. 246.

Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.

CHINESE LEGATION, Washington, D. C., August 16, 1887. (Received August 17.)

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the draught of a convention which accompanied your note of April 11 last. In the interview I had the pleasure of having with you on the 13th of April last, I pointed out to you some words in the draught which I considered as not well defined, and I also invited your attention to some articles in the memorandum which I had sent you that you did not agree to, as well as something you subsequently declined to carry out, though you had led me to expect it.

You kindly assured me that the matters would receive your proper consideration and mutual discussion.

This gives evidence of the candid spirit which has always controlled your conduct in your relations with this legation, and of your desire to maintain the cordial friendship existing between the two Governments, for which I express my deep sense of gratitude. The following words of Article II of your draught, "as the laws of the United States may now or hereafter prescribe," and of Article III, "subject to such regulation by the Government of the United States as may be necessary," etc., should require some slight modification.

It would seem desirable to so restrict such "laws" and "regulations" as to require them to be consistent with the letter and spirit of existing treaty stipulations, and of such a nature as not to be unduly harsh or vexatious to the Chinese subjects. I beg to inform you that there are two essential articles which ought to be inserted in the present draught. The first of these is about the protection which should be secured to the Chinese laborers now in the United States. The Imperial Government, in order to prevent its subjects from suffering all descriptions of hardship and misery, is quite willing to suspend, by some measures, the immigration of that class of His Majesty's subjects whose free entrance is stipulated by the treaty of 1868, but in doing so it feels that in justice and equity the same convention which provides for this suspension should contain an article providing specifically for the protection of the life and property of those now lawfully in the United States.

A careful examination has been made of the memorandum accompanying your note, which gives the reason why such an article was omitted from the draught of the convention prepared by you, and that examination makes me fear my memorandum left with you on March 18 last has not been correctly understood. In the latter memorandum I made some suggestions in regard to the form in which I should be glad to see protection extended to the Chinese in the United States, but I at the same time expressed my doubts as to whether they would be found to conform to the usual practice in the United States, and I appeal to the great wisdom of your excellency to suggest a form of stipulation which would reconcile the plain treaty guaranties with your governmental system and practice, so as to prevent future controversies.

I have been much grieved to learn that my memorandum has been understood to be a call on the United States to "revolutionize its institutions." I did make certain suggestions as to methods to be adopted for the enforcement of treaty guaranties, because similar methods had been called for by American ministers and consuls in China; but what I was desirous of obtaining was the substance and certainty of protection, and the form or methods of protection I was quite willing to leave to you to draught.

It is hardly deemed necessary to go over in detail the citations made in your memorandum of the treaty of 1844. It would be easy to show that the action of the Chinese Government taken at the request of American ministers and consuls has been much beyond the treaty Article 19 of the treaty of 1844 and its re-enactment in stipulations. 1858 merely place Americans "on a common footing •* * * with subjects of China," and none of the treaties pledge the authorities to measures of reparation beyond the punishment of the violators of the But the American representatives have demanded and received much greater reparation, as was specifically shown in the legation note of November 30, 1885. It is to be borne in mind that the treaty of 1844 was entered upon under peculiar circumstances, which no longer exist. Although China has maintained a stable government of law and order for ages, its system was not then well known by practical intercourse to the United States, and it was willing to offer special guaranties, which were incorporated in that treaty. If reciprocal stipulations were not required of the United States, it was because China had confidence in the good faith of its friend, and believed that its system of government and laws was sufficient to secure protection to the Chinese who should come into its territory. The years which have elapsed have shown the practical workings of the treaty guaranties and international obligations in the two countries.

In China, so far as is known, not a single American has lost his life by mob violence; while in every case where injury has been done to the property and rights of American citizens by conspiracy and mobs, punishment has been promptly inflicted upon the guilty, and full pecuniary indemnity has been made by the authorities. This has been so conspicuous that an American official of high rank and large experience, whose business it was by appointment of his own Government to investigate the subject, and whose testimony was quoted in inclosure No. 4 to legation note of November 30, 1885, states that Chinese subjects in their own ports have suffered much more injury from Americans in China than has been inflicted by the latter on the former, and that Chinese officials have been faithful and punctual in carrying out treaty obligations against their own countrymen. On the other hand, the correspondence of this legation shows that in the past three years more than thirty Chinese have been murdered through mobs in the United States, and that so far as known not a single punishment has been inflicted on the murderers; tens of thousands of peaceable and law observing Chinese have been forcibly and in great fright driven out of their abodes and compelled to abandon their employment in the State of California and in the Western Territories, and the authorities have administered no punishment on the wicked men who have done these unlawful deeds; and losses to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars have been suffered by the Chinese in these same localities at various times through the acts of bands of lawless people, and in only one case, and that through the kind intervention of the President and your excellency, has reparation thus far been made, and in no instance have the local authorities shown any disposition to make indemnity.

CHINA. 377

China is not now asking to be released from the treaty stipulations of 1844 and 1858, but it does feel that when the United States for a second time asks that the immigration stipulations of the treaty of 1868 be amended and restricted some degree of reciprocity in treaty guaranties as to protection should be enacted and enforced, and it appeals to the experience of Chinese laborers in the United States as its The memorandum attached to your note warrant for such a claim. states that "under the treaties the Government of China is expressly bound to grant protection in the form stated; the United States is not." No, it may be answered, not in the same form, but in equal measure. It can not be believed that you would insist that China is bound to grant a greater measure of protection to Americans in its territory than your Government is willing and able to grant to Chinese in the Neither would you claim that protection to life and United States. property is more certain and ample in China than it is or can be made in the United States. Nor would you admit that the difference in the system of government makes this protection less efficient in the United States, or that this difference would release your Government from its treaty obligations to enforce protection. All that I sought to obtain by submitting my suggestions as to methods of protection was to secure to Chinese laborers in the United States the same measure of protection as is extended to Americans in China. If this is impossible under its system, then it must be inferred that the Government of the United States is impotent to discharge its international obligations, and I am unwilling to be understood as bringing such an insinuation against this great and powerful nation. I understand that its first teacher of international law has laid down the doctrine that "the whole international code is founded on reciprocity" (Wheaton, 6th ed., p. 421). And the Supreme Court of the United States in the very month in which I left my memorandum with you declared that "if the United States can require this (protection of its coinage and currency) of another (nation), that others may require it of them, because international obligations are of necessity reciprocal in their nature. The right, if it exists at all, is given by the law of nations, and what is law for one is, under the same circumstances, law for the other" (The United States vs. Ramon Arjona, March 7, 1887).

As it is apparent the Chinese laborers in the United States have not been afforded protection, while Americans in China have been afforded ample protection, it would seem that the claim which China now makes is reasonable, that some specific treaty stipulation be enacted and enforced to secure their protection for the future. The United States agreed in Article III of the treaty of 1880 to "exert all its powers to devise measures for their protection." I took the liberty to refer to a recent decision of the very honorable Supreme Court which points out quite clearly what power the Government possesses in this respect and what are the defects of existing legislation; and in another decision rendered on the same day it set forth the obligations of the Government. It is believed that an examination of these two decisions will sustain in substance my claim that a new treaty article as to protection ought to be added to your draft. From the decision of the Supreme Court delivered by the Chief-Justice, in the case of Baldwin vs. Franks, United States marshal, March 7, 1887, it appears that there is a law of the Congress which, among other things, provides (Sec. 5508, R. S.) a severe punishment for conspiracy to injure or intimidate citizens in the exercise of their civil rights; and (Sec. 5509) also punishes for any murder, arson, robbery, or other felony or misdemeanor committed as the result or part of said conspiracy. It decides that it is within the power of Congress to enact such legislation, but that because Chinese are not citizens the law in its present form is not applicable to offenses of the character described committed against them. Still it quotes Article III of the treaty of 1880 and makes the following declaration:

That the United States have power under the Constitution to provide for the punishment of those who are guilty of depriving Chinese subjects of any of the rights, privileges, immunities, or exemptions guarantied to them by this treaty we do not doubt.

And in construing the law just cited, it adds:

It may be that by this construction of the statute some are excluded from the protection it affords who are as much entitled to it as those who are included; but that is a defect, if it exists, which can be cured by Congress, but not by the courts.

In the case of the United States vs. Ramon Arjona, March 7, 1887, the Chief-Justice, in delivering the opinion of the court, used the following language:

The National Government is in this way made responsible to foreign nations for all violations by the United States of their international obligations, and because of this Congress is expressly authorized to define and punish offenses against the laws of nations. The law of nations requires every national government to use due diligence to prevent a wrong being done within its own dominions to another nation with which it is at peace, or to the people thereof. * * * A right secured by the law of nations to a nation, or its people, is one the United States, as the representatives of this nation, are bound to protect. Consequently, a law which is necessary and proper to afford this protection is one that Congress may enact, because it is one that is needed to carry into execution a power conferred by the Constitution on the Government of the United States exclusively. There is no authority in the United States to require the passage and enforcement of such a law by the States. Therefore, the United States must have power to pass it and enforce it themselves, or be unable to perform a duty which they may owe to another nation, and which the law of nations has imposed on them as a part of their international obligations.

In view of the foregoing it is believed that you will be willing to draft an article, to be added to the proposed convention, somewhat similar to Article XIX of the treaty of 1844, and Article III of the treaty of 1880, or a stipulation for protection to Chinese laborers secured by laws of Congress to the extent indicated by the Supreme Court as consistent with the system of government.

The second article which I regard as desirable in order to secure the approbation of my august sovereign, is one respecting the indemnities to be granted for the injuries sustained by the Chinese laborers in their persons and property through mob violence. It seems manifest that no punishment will ever be inflicted on the wicked men who did these acts, and that the local authorities will make no compensation for their losses, and the only recourse is to the Government of the United States. I can not understand why the absence of a specific appropriation by Congress should be the reason for not reaching some international method of settling the claims growing out of these unlawful occurrences, especially as I find that this has been the usual practice of the United States with other nations, and claims conventions with them have always preceded a specific appropriation from Congress. While I recognize the magnanimous conduct of Congress respecting the riot at Rock Springs, I recall the fact that my legation has presented a number of cases of mob violence in different localities, representing a large number of claimants, and I fear it would be placing them in an unfavorable position to submit their examination to such a body as Congress, already burdened with its legitimate duties, and before which it would not be proper for the representative of a foreign government to have a hearing.

379

I again commend to you the method of settlement reached by the United States and China under the claims convention of 1858, and, if that is found impracticable, I ask that the usual practice of the United States with foreign governments may be in this instance followed.

In conclusion, I venture to express my disappointment at the decision reached by you on the subject of the extradition of criminals, as from my previous interview I had been assured that an agreement on that subject would have been easily reached. I do not see why the "opposite system of criminal procedure in the respective countries" should render an extradition convention impracticable, especially since I am informed that the Government of the United States has very recently negotiated such treaties with Japan and Russia, the neighbors of China, the criminal procedure of each of which nations is understood to be very different from the system of the United States. I therefore commend to your excellency again the expediency of making a separate treaty stipulation on the subject, with a view of carrying out your promise.

Accept, sir, etc.,

CHANG YEN HOON.

No. 247.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, December 28, 1887.

SIR: I am constrained in the interests of that international comity which we both desire so fully to promote and sustain to attract your excellency's attention to certain late disclosures in the course of judicial proceedings at San Francisco in which certain Chinese subjects were arraigned for violation of existing laws of the United States relative to the restriction of the immigration of Chinese laborers, passed for the enforcement of the existing treaties with China.

From the published letters of the judges and the public report of the proceedings in these trials the facts seem to be established that a systematic evasion of the restriction upon the immigration of Chinese laborers imposed by laws passed in pursuance of the treaties has been and continues to be practiced by Chinese professing to have gone away from the United States and claiming the right to return hither under the provisions of the treaty.

The details of these disclosures are shocking and unnecessary for repetition in this correspondence; suffice it to say that an extensive traffic in immorality of the grossest nature, by which Chinese women are imported into the United States and bought and sold into infamy by their own countrymen, is clearly proven to have been carried on.

The systematic violation of the treaty of 1880, and of the restrictive act of the United States passed in 1882, was averred by the eminent judge (Hoffman) before whom part of the cases were tried, and were also stated by another judge (Sawyer) in a published letter to the Hon.

Mr. Morrow, M. C., dated November 21, 1887.

The intelligent vigilance exercised by you over the affairs and interests of your countrymen in the United States will have, doubtless, prepared you for these statements; and I have no doubt whatever that you have been duly informed of the transactions referred to, and that you feel equally with me a sincere regret therefor, and a desire to prevent their possible recurrence. I need scarcely tell you of the strong feeling that has been aroused in the public mind in this country by the occurrences referred to, and of the sentiment that has been renewed and re-invigorated in favor of more effective measures of restriction and prevention.

In considering the remedy I have great satisfaction in finding a complete accord between the Government you so honorably represent and that of the United States in desiring an absolute prohibition of Chinese laborers from coming into the United States from China.

A conventional arrangement to this end has already been proposed and measurably discussed between us, and a draught of such a treaty placed in your hands. Let me, therefore, invite your excellency, under the powers already held by you from your Government, to proceed with me, at your earliest convenience, in framing a just and wise convention in which China and the United States shall deal with this subject in a manner consistent with their sense of mutual respect and duty, and calculated to cement their amicable relations.

With this view, I now hand you, inclosed herewith, a draught of a projet* upon the basis of which we can hopefully proceed to an agreement.

Accept, sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 248.

Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.

CHINESE LEGATION, Washington, D. C., January 9, 1888. (Received January 9.)

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that during the last autumn and the present winter I repeatedly received from the foreign office in Peking and his excellency Viceroy Li Hung Chang, official dispatches and cablegrams relative to the accrediting of an envoy to the United States of America by Corea. The cablegram of the 11th of November, 1887, communicated to me the statement of a note from the Corean Government, to the effect that the Corean envoy would report his arrival to the Chinese legation here when he arrived in the United States, and would request the Chinese minister to present him at the State Department; that afterwards no further presentation would be necessary, and that the Chinese minister should interest himself in all matters whenever he should be asked to do so by the Corean envoy.

As Corea is a vassal state of China, and on the occasion of the treaty between the United States and Corea being made and entered into, a communication relative to the subject was made to your Government, it is right, therefore, that I should interest myself on behalf of the Corean envoy, who is on this occasion accredited to this country by his Government.

^{*}For inclosure see inclosure 1 in Doc. No. 245, ante, p. 371.

381

Yesterday I received a telegram from the Chinese consul-general at San Francisco, advising me of the departure, on the 4th instant, of the Corean envoy, Mr. Pak Ting Yung, from that port for this capital, and that he might be expected to arrive here in a day or two.

In due time I will present him to your excellency, only with a view of strengthening the bond of friendship of the three countries. With regard to the appointment of a date for the presentation of his credentials to the President of the United States, it is right that the Corean envoy himself should make the application to your excellency, in which it is hoped your excellency will kindly interest yourself, and that my company with him on his presentation to the President may be dispensed with.

Accept, etc.,

CHANG YEN HOON.

No. 249.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
Washington, January 10, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of yesterday's date, giving me knowledge of the communications to you from your Government in relation to the coming hither of an envoy from the Government of Corea to the United States.

Shortly after having been thus advised by your note I received from the envoy of Corea, Mr. Pak Chung Yang, a letter by the hands of his secretary asking an interview with me at this Department for the purpose of making an arrangement for the presentation of his credential letter to the President.

To this I have replied that I shall expect to receive the Corean minister on Friday next, the 13th instant, at 12 o'clock, noon, and shall thereafter at an early day accompany him to be presented to the President in official audience, in the usual manner.

Accept sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 250.

Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.

Washington, D. C., January 30, 1888. (Received January 31.)

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note dated the 28th of December, 1887, inclosing a draught of a projet for a treaty, and also relative to an alleged systematic evasion of the restriction upon the immigration of Chinese laborers imposed by laws passed in pursuance of the treaties, being practiced by Chinese professing to have gone away from the United States and claiming the right to return hither under the provisions of the treaty.

In reference to the circumstances last above mentioned the Chinese consul general at the port of San Francisco states, in his report to me, that, according to the United States census of 1880, the number of Chinese resident in the United States was over 150,000; that from the day the supplementary treaty of 1880 took effect to the day the act of restriction upon the immigration of Chinese laborers came into force, there were over 12,000 Chinese who left the United States to return to China and who should belong to the exempt class, not to come under the restrictive act; that of this number there are over 9,000 who have not yet come back to this country; that since the day the restrictive act came into operation up to the 29th of November, 1887, out of the number of Chinese who had obtained return certificates when they left the United States to go back to China, there were over 31,500 who had not returned hither; and that the number of the Chinese now resident in this country, compared with that of 1880, is lessened by 40 per cent. I am, therefore, of opinion that under the vigilant and strict measures adopted by the customs authorities in their examination of the Chinese coming and landing in this country, the class of Chinese falsely professing to have gone away from the United States and claiming the right to return hither under the provisions of the treaty can not be numerous.

The shocking traffic in immorality alluded to in your note, by which Chinese women were imported into the United States and bought and sold into infamy by their own countrymen is indeed detestable. I had heard of it previously, and I have repeatedly written to the viceroy and governor of Canton on the subject, requesting them to strictly charge the local authorities to make stringent efforts for the arrest and severe punishment of those who are guilty of the crime described. The Chinese at the port of San Francisco who had taken the warning and dreaded the punishment were afraid to give bond for the infamous women who were held for examination in court; consequently the customs authorities were able to prevent them from landing, and the consul-general was able to request the masters of the steam-ships, by which the women had come, to carry them back to China.

The consul general further states in his report that the steam-ships San Pablo, City of Sydney, and Oceanic, which arrived at San Francisco on the 7th, 15th, and 29th of December, 1887, respectively, each brought only two or three Chinese women who had no return certificates, and who, on inquiry being made, were found to be persons not of infamy; thereupon the consul general ordered the Chinese merchants of the city, some in large and some in small business, to give joint bonds for them on the condition that, if these women should thereafter be found leading a life of infamy, the Chinese public would entirely withdraw from dealing with the bond givers in business. I will, of course, from time to time, communicate with the authorities of Canton and urge on them the necessity of strictly prohibiting such traffic, by which means it is sincerely hoped that this evil may be prevented, and the importation into the port of San Francisco of women for immoral purposes may be stopped without further difficulty.

As to your proposition for a conventional arrangement and the draught of a projet indorsed by you, I beg to recall to your attention the fact that this identical projet was sent to me with your note of April 11, 1887, and that I had the honor to send you, on the 16th of August last, a memorandum note containing a detailed reply to your draught of treaty, with a proposition by me for two additional articles which I regarded as essential to acceptance by my Government. It is inexplicable to me why there is no allusion to my memorandum note in your note under reply. If you will take into consideration the articles proposed in my note with those in your proposed draught, without confining yourself merely to the question of restriction upon the immigration of the laborers, but will also include the protection guarantied by the supplementary treaty, and, further, will make provision for the additional claims for indemnity submitted by me, then I shall hope that a mutual agreement as to the conventional arrangement will soon be arrived at.

CHINA. 383

I would have spoken to you regarding this matter in my last interview with you on the 13th instant, but for the pressure of business on your part. I therefore take pleasure in sending you this reply, and hope soon to have the opportunity to call again to discuss the subject on a day to be designated by you.

Accept, etc.,

CHANG YEN HOON.

No. 251.

Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.

Washington, February 16, 1888. (Received February 21.)

SIR: It is with great regret that I have to bring to your attention another case of outrage inflicted upon my countrymen, which resulted in the murder of ten Chinese laborers in the most horrible manner.

The consul-general at the port of San Francisco has reported to me that he received a joint petition dated the 18th of July, 1887, from Chea-Tsze ke, Chea-Fook, Kong-shü, and Kong Chun, natives of the district of Punyu, Chinese subjects, who represent that at the beginning of the ninth month, the Chinese twelfth year of Kwong Su (October, 1886), their clansmen named Chea-po, Chea-Sun, Chea-Yow, Chea-Shun, Chea-Cheong, Chea Ling, Chea Chow, Chea Lin Chung, Kong Mun Kow, and Kong Ngan, respectively, went to Log Cabin Bar, Snake River, State of Oregon, in a boat loaded with provisions, accompanied by another boat manned be Lee She and others, for the purpose of seeking for gold; that they had been pursuing their avocation peaceably until the beginning of the intercalary fourth month (the latter part of May and the greater part of June, 1887), when they were suddenly murdered by some unknown persons; that when Lee She and his party came out of the bar in their boat they found three bodies of Chea-po's party floating down the river and some provisions and bedding lying profusely at the entrance of the bar, and upon a search being made further found Chea-po's boat stranded on some rocks in the bar, with holes in the bottom, bearing indications of having been chopped with an axe, and its tie-rope cut and drifting in the water; that Mr. J. Vincent, commissioner of Nez Percés County, Idaho, visited the scene of the murder, and on examining the three bodies found a number of wounds inflicted by an ax and bullets; that the bodies of the others that had been murdered have not yet been found; that in the fourth month, last year (the latter part of April and the greater part of May, 1887), a person named Jackson told a Chinese named Hung Ah Yee that he had witnessed some cowboys, eight in number, forcibly driving Kong Shu and his party out of the bar in their boat and throwing their provisions and bedding overboard; that Kong Shu and his party fled from them, being afraid to offer any resistance; and that since he had learned of the murder of Chea-po and nine others he came to the conclusion that the cowboys had committed the crime; that they, the petitioners, reported the case with all its circumstances to the authorities in Lewiston, Idaho, and a copy of which report and of the statement of the examination made of the bodies they have submitted to the consulgeneral for his perusal, praying that he may communicate with the local authorities on the subject, so that due justice may be obtained by having the murderers pursued, arrested, and punished.

The consul-general states that Log Cabin Bar is in the Snake River; that, after he had learned of the murder through the press dispatches. he immediately asked the Sam Yup Company to depute a Chinese interpreter, by name Lee Loi, who lived near the bar, to attend to the case, and on the 14th of July, 1887, wrote a letter to Mr. J. K. Vincent, commissioner of the county, requesting him to investigate the matter; that Mr. Vincent in his reply informed him that white men were the murderers, as some of the provision "flour" left at the bar he had traced directly to them, and that a white man had told a Chinese at his camp some very curious stories, and that some circumstances looked very suspicious. He (the consul-general) is therefore fully convinced that the murderers must be white men (Americans), and further says that the commissioner promised to write again to him if he should thereafter have secured more definite information regarding the stolen property; but several months have elapsed and he has not heard from him again, though he (the consul general) has repeatedly written to him. He (the consul-general) has offered a reward for the apprehension of the murderers, and has ordered Chea Tsze Ke and Lee Loi to make inquiries, but they have not yet discovered the names of the murderers.

The consul-general finds that there are very few Chinese in the neighborhood of the bar, which is far from San Francisco, and that it would not be easy for the police of that place to make their investigation; and that, as the commissioner has assured him that the murderers were white men, he has sent me copies of the correspondence and all documents connected with the matter, begging me to communicate with you thereon, to the end that the local authorities may be communicated with, so that justice may be secured by having the murderers arrested and punished, and that the Chinese during their sojourn here may be protected.

As the character of this case, wherein ten lives were murdered and their bodies mutilated in a most shocking manner and thrown away, as will be seen by Commissioner Vincent's report, differs greatly from a common case of homicide, it is feared other wicked persons may, from their hatred of the Chinese, follow the examples of the murderers if they are not arrested and punished, which will affect the interest and safety of the Chinese resident there and elsewhere in the United States; I have, therefore, sent you the inclosed copies of the correspondence and documents connected in the case, hoping that you will kindly communicate with the local authorities, and urge that the murderers may be speedily apprehended and punished, to serve as a warning to others.

Accept, etc.

CHANG YEN HOON.

[Inclosure 1.]

Messrs Tsan and Bee to Mr Vincent.

CHINESE CONSULATE-GENERAL, San Francisco, Cal., July 14, 1887.

DEAR SIR: Referring to this case of the Chinese subjects recently murdered on Snake River, this consulate is desirous of obtaining further information.

We beg therefore to ask your good offices in giving us such information as you have in regard to the outrage. If not in your province to do so, will you kindly refer this letter to any one who can enlighten us further than what we have seen in the press dispatches, which merely announced the finding of the bodies of several Chinese in the river?

We have the honor, etc.,

LIANG TING TSAN,
Consul-General.
F. A. BEE,
Consul.

[Inclosure 2.]

Mr. Vincent to Messrs. Tsan and Bee.

LEWISTON, July 19, 1887.

SIRS: Your communication of July 14, 1887, just received, and in answer would say that about June 14 the coroner of this county was called upon to hold an inquest upon a body up Snake River. On his return he stated that he was a Chinaman shot in the back and body, chopped in the head with an ax. Three days after news came from Perewawa, 40 miles below Lewiston, that another body had been found there, shot in the breast and head chopped. About the same time a Chinese boat, manned by ten men, came down Snake River and reported the supposed killing of a boat crew of ten, as they were all missing from their camps. Words were immediately sent below, and in a few days Lee Loi, agent of the Sam Yup Company, arrived here. Upon his arrival I had a talk with him; at his request I went with him down Snake River to Log Cabin Bar, there we found another body, shot in the back twice, head and left arm off; made inquiries about others and found one had been seen badly chopped in the head, but he was not taken from the river. We brought the body to Lewiston and buried it here.

Since that time I have been in Lee Loi's employ, have been up Snake River above where the murder was committed. Water so high impossible to find out what was done. Since have made a trip to Salmon River, from which I returned yesterday. To-day I had a little talk with a Chinaman who saw provisions on bar after men were gone.

I have been and am still in the employ of the Chinese company, ferreting out the matter. From what I have so far found things seem to show that white men were the murderers, as some of the provision "flour" I have traced directly to them. I have been following up, for six days, a white man who was at their camp and one who is the last one known to have been there. He has told some very curious stories about the matter, and some circumstances look very suspicious. But there is in that vicinity some twenty or thirty bad men and I was watched very closely for nine days. I expect to start again up Snake River on the east side and will get into their camp by some means and know what has been done with their property, if the agent here thinks best. It was the most cold-blooded, cowardly treachery I have ever heard tell of on this coast, and I am a "49er;" every one was shot, cut up, and stripped and thrown in the river. It happened about 120 miles above Lewiston, in Oregon.

The Chinese here have paid me for what I have done so far, but Government ought to take it in hand, for with actions like this none are safe. I shall continue to work for them endeavoring to trace the matter as long as they may wish me to, and if you should wish me to report what I may discover to you, or if you, as consul should wish any work done in the case, I should be very glad to do it for you.

Respectfully, yours,

J. K. VINCENT, United States Commissioner.

[Inclosure 3.]

Judicial proceedings in reference to murder of Chinese in Idaho.

In justice court of Lewiston precinct, in and for the county of Nez Perces, Territory of Idaho. The People of the United States for Territory of Idaho, plaintiffs, vs. John Doe, Richard Doe, etc., defendants.

Lee Loi, first being duly sworn, complains and accuses Richard Doe, John Doe, and others, names unknown, of the crime of murder by feloniously, wilfully and with malice aforethought cut with an axe, shot with a gun or pistol loaded with powder and ball, which they, the said Richard Roe, John Roe, and others, names unknown, did hold in their hands, kill and murder ten Chinamen, belonging to what is known as the Sam Yup Company. Said murders having been committed on Snake River, in the State of Oregon, Wallowa County, about 120 miles from Lewiston, Nez Perce County, Idaho Territory, on or about May 25, 1887, to the best of his knowledge and belief.

All of which is contrary to the form of statutes and against the peace and dignity of the people of the United States, and he hereby prays that they, the said Doe, Roe, and others may be arrested and dealt with according to law.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 18th day of June, 1887.

J. K. VINCENT, Justice of Peace of Nez Perce County, I. T.

LEWISTON, July 8, 1887.

This is to certify to whom it may concern, that I have by instructions from Lee Loi, an agent of the Sam Yup Company, have found the following description of murdered Chinamen whose bodies have been found. One on Snake River, above Lewiston near Lime Kiln, found by Mr. Lewis, description: About 5 feet 6 inches high, 4 very large teeth, 2 above standing out, 2 below standing out and down. He had on clothes; a leather belt around his waist; shot in the back just below right shoulder blade, two cuts in back of head, one on each side, done with an ax; found about June 16.

One at Perrewawa Bar, about 40 miles below Lewiston; found about the same time.

No clothes; shot in breast just below heart; head very much cut and chopped.

One on Log Cabin Bar, found June 23, on Snake River, 30 miles below Lewiston; about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches tall; had on clothes and boots; two shot wounds in small of back near backbone; head off, as though chopped; left arm off between elbow and shoulder, both arm and head in coat which was fastened to his body, held there by belt around his waist. He was lodged in large drift pile when found; some recognized him as Ah Yow.

> J. K. VINCENT, Justice of Perce County, and United States Commissioner.

WARRANT OF ARREST.

TERRITORY OF IDAHO, County of Nez Perce:

In the justice or the United States commissioner court of said county. The people of the United States in the Territory of Idaho to the sheriff of Nez Perce County:

A complaint upon oath having been this day laid before me by Lee Loi that the crime of murder has been committed, and accusing John Doe and Richard Doe and others thereof, you are therefore commanded forthwith to arrest the above-named John Doe and Richard Doe and others, and bring them before me forthwith at the justice court-room in said county and Territory, to be dealt with according to law, or in case of my absence or inability to act, before the nearest or most accessible magistrate in the county.

In testimony whereof I, J. K. Vincent, have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said court at Lewiston, this 18th day of June, A. D. 1887.

J. K. VINCENT, Justice of the Peace for Nez Perce County, I. T. and United States Commissioner. No. 252.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
Washington, February 23, 1888.

SIR: I have received with pain your note of the 16th instant, wherein you state certain facts which have come to your knowledge, and which appear to indicate the murder of three and possibly ten Chinese subjects on the Snake River, State of Oregon, and you inform me of the unavailing steps taken by the local authorities to discover the murderers.

From the statements contained in your note and the accompanying report of the Chinese consul general at San Francisco, with its annexed papers, I gather that in October, 1886, ten Chinamen, whose names you give (and who may be called for convenience Chea-Po's party), went up the Snake River to some point above Lewiston, Idaho Territory, in a boat loaded with provisions, for the purpose of seeking for gold; that towards the middle of June, 1887, three bodies of Chinamen, supposed to have been of the party mentioned, were found in the Snake River, with every indication of having been foully murdered; that these bodies having been found within the jurisdiction of Idaho Territory (one body having been found on Snake River, at Lime Kiln Bar, above Lewiston, one at Perrewawa Bar, about 40 miles below Lewiston, and the third at Log Cabin Bar, on Snake River, about 30 miles below Lewiston, which was recognized as that of Ah You), the authorities of Idaho held due inquest thereon; that on the verdict, showing that murder had been committed, warrants were promptly issued by the court at Lewiston for the arrest of the unknown murderers; that another Chinese exploring party visiting Log Cabin Bar in June, 1887, found three bodies of Chea-Po's party floating down the river (which bodies I infer to have been those subsequently found lower down Snake River as above described); that Chea-Po's boat was discovered stranded on some rocks in the bar and hacked with axes, and that at the spot of Chea-Po's camp bedding and provisions were discovered strewn about, some of the scattered provisions being flour said to have been traced to the former possession of white men.

No clue is furnished pointing to the murderers save the indirect statement that in April or May, 1887, "a person named Jackson told a Chinese named Hung Ah Yee that he had witnessed some cowboys, eight in number, forcibly driving Kong Shii and his party out of the bar into their boat and throwing their provisions and bedding overboard; that Kong Shii and his party fled from them, being afraid to offer any resistance, and that since he (Jackson?) had learned of the murder of Chea-Po and nine others he had come to the conclusion that the cowboys had committed the crime."

The facts which I thus endeavor to summarize connectedly are confusedly and even contradictorily presented in the inclosures accompanying your note. For instance, in the body of your note it is stated that Mr. Vincent, a commissioner of Nez Percé County, Idaho, visited the scene of the murder and there examined the three bodies, while Mr. Vincent's appended statement shows that he examined but one body, found down Snake River at Log Cabin Bar, being, as would seem, the third body found, as I have above stated. Again, the scene of the murder is not located distinctly. Your note says that Chea-Po's party went to Log Cabin Bar, and the spot is thereafter vaguely described as "the bar," and as being up Snake River about 120 miles above Lewiston; but from Mr. Vincent's statements Log Cabin Bar, where the third body, that of Ah You (Chea You?), was found, is about 30 miles below Lewiston.

It seems evident that murder has been committed upon three Chinamen, one of whom appears to have been identified as of Chea-Po's party, and the other two are inferred to have belonged to that party. The remaining seven Chinamen of Chea-Po's party have not been traced. The motive of the murder is not shown to have been plunder, for their boat was destroyed, not stolen, and their bedding and provisions were scattered about, although it is possible that the scattered property may have been that of Kong Shii's party, which Jackson saw thrown into the water at "the bar" by cowboys a short time before. The murderers of the three discovered members of Chea-Po's party are unknown, and no satisfactory clue to their identity is furnished by your statements.

It is greatly to be regretted that the facts thus meagerly stated afford very little basis for the successful operation of the law in tracking and punishing the unknown authors of this foul crime. I am, on the facts before me, indisposed to impute neglect to the authorities of Idaho Territory, within whose jurisdiction the three bodies were found. not appear that the crime itself was committed within their jurisdiction; Snake River, otherwise called Shoshone River, is the boundary between Idaho Territory on the one hand and the State of Oregon and Washington Territory on the other. The bar where Chea-Po's party were camped, and where the crime is alleged to have been committed, is stated to be in Oregon, about 120 miles above Lewiston, Idaho, so that the authorities of Oregon have at least equal jurisdiction in the case, although it is not stated that any evidence has been laid before them to set in motion the machinery of justice in that State. I shall forthwith transmit copies of your note and its inclosures to the governors of the State of Oregon and of the Territory of Idaho, urgently recommending to them that every effort be made by the judicial authorities thereof to further the ends of justice by eliciting the facts of the murder and pursuing and punishing the guilty parties.

I need scarcely point out to you the advantage of furnishing the competent authorities with all attainable evidence in aid of the investigation asked for.

Accept, sir, etc.

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 253.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, February 29, 1888.

SIR: In pursuance of the promise I made you in our conference this morning, I have the honor to inclose herewith copies of the three additional articles discussed by us to the draught of convention to regulate emigration from China to the United States.

These additional articles, which are marked respectively A, B, C, might be inserted in the convention as Articles IV, V, and VI; and Article IV of the draught convention might be made Article VII.

Accept, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure.]

Draught of additional articles to the treaty concerning emigrativn from China to the United States.

Α.

In pursuance of Article III of the emigration treaty between the United States and China signed at Peking on the 17th day of November, 1880, it is hereby understood and agreed that Chinese laborers, or Chinese of any other class, either permanently or temporarily residing in the United States, shall have for the protection of their persons and property all rights of process that are given by the laws of the United States to citizens of the most favored nation.

B

Whereas Chinese subjects, being in remote and unsettled regions of the United States, have been the victims of injuries in their persons and property at the hands of wicked and lawless men; and whereas the Government of the United States, humanely considering the same and bearing in mind the firm and ancient friendship between the United States and China which the high contracting parties wished to cement, is desirous of alleviating the exceptional and deplorable sufferings and losses to which the aforesaid Chinese have been so subjected; therefore the United States, without reference to the question of liability therefor (which it denies), agrees to pay on or before the 1st day of March, 1889, the sum of —— dollars to the Chinese minister at this capital, who shall accept the same, on behalf of his Government, as full indemnity for all losses and injuries sustained by Chinese subjects as aforesaid, and shall distribute the said money among the said sufferers.

C.

The Government of China hereby engage to use their best efforts with the British Government with a view to an arrangement between them to prevent the coming of Chinese laborers into the United States from Hong-Kong, by way of British Columbia.

No. 254.

Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.

CHINESE LEGATION, Washington, March 3, 1888. (Received March 5.)

SIR: With my note of February 19, of last year, in giving you a statement of the losses sustained by Chinese subjects during the riot at Seattle, Washington Territory, I inclosed an estimate of each one's losses. By reference to that estimate you will see that the chief sufferer was the firm of Wachong & Co., kept by Chan Yee He; the total amount of his claim was $187,814.10. An examination of the estimate will also show that I did not make a formal demand for a large part of this claim, to wit, $120,772, because I desired to avoid asking indemnity for losses not clearly sustained by international law. Consequently I only inserted then in the statement an estimate of $67,042.10 on his account. There appears now in the statement an estimate of $49,999.96, after deducting his claims based on uncollected debts amounting to $17,042.14.

Mr. Chan Yee He is a prominent and wealthy merchant. Though in the riot all his goods and houses were not robbed and burnt, yet the horrible circumstances under which this sad event took place truly claimed every sympathy, in which I have no doubt your excellency will join, and the losses to his business thus occasioned by this riot I deem it but fair to bring again to your notice with this note.

When the riot occurred the said firm owned a number of houses, rented to Chinese at the monthly rental of $379. The occupants were expelled from the Territory and the houses remained unoccupied for some time. The firm possessed a large stock of goods which they were forced by the rioters to ship away from the town, a portion being sent to Victoria, and the remainder to Portland. Owing to the character of the goods, of the value of $20,000, it was necessary to sell them at auction, and the sum realized from the sale was only $7,000.

At the time of the riot the firm was engaged in large public works under contract, having in their employ a large number of workmen. The greater portion of them being Chinese were driven away, but sixty remained and were kept by them eighty-two days unemployed owing to the stopping of the works on account of the riot, and they were compelled to pay them each $1 per day. Besides, their business depended entirely on the Chinese customers, and owing to the absence of the Chinese from the Territory for one year since their expulsion their business became very dull, and through that source they lost several tens of thousands of dollars. All the above are the basis of Wachong's claims.

During the riotous proceedings the residence of Mr. Chan Yee He was invaded by the mob and his wife was dragged down stairs from the second story and out on the street by the hair of her head. The fright and bodily injuries received made her seriously ill, and three days afterwards she was prematurely delivered of a child. After a long sickness and intense pain for several months she finally recovered her health. The insult and ill treatment thus inflicted by the wicked people on a respectable and prominent lady in this case should be looked upon as a comparatively worse case than the outrageous case of forcibly driving the Chinese from the Territory. Mr. Chan Yee He has made no claim for this outrage, but I am sure you will agree with me that no money indemnity which might be paid could compensate for such injuries. The husband, Mr. Chan Yee He, has resided in the United States twenty-four years, and fourteen years in Seattle; he has been engaged in large business enterprises, and he pays to the United States customhouse $30,000 annually.

I have found on careful inquiry that the statement of his claims is true, he being a respectable merchant of high standing, and not on the same footing as common traders. I have, therefore, recited all the detailed circumstances of his case in this note which I did not mention in my note first presenting the claims, and I think they will commend themselves to your favorable consideration, so that his claims for indemnity may be granted him in full.

With sentiments of the highest regard, I remain, etc., CHANG YEN HOON.

No. 255.

Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.

CHINESE LEGATION, Washington, D. C., March 3, 1838. (Received March 5.)

SIR: In the interview which I had the honor to hold with you on the 29th ultimo, in response to your polite note of the 24th ultimo, you requested that I should send you a copy of the statement of claims, which I left with you during the interview, with a list of those which were based upon losses of uncollected debts.

CHINA. 391

In compliance with your request I have great pleasure in transmitting the accompanying statement, which I hope may be found to meet your desires.

It will be noted that the statement includes a claim on account of the twenty-eight lives lost at the Rock Springs riot in 1885. When the estimate for property losses was sent to you with the note of my predecessor of November 30, 1885, it was hoped that due punishment would be inflicted upon the wicked men who so cruelly murdered the Chinese subjects in that horrible affair, and thus their relatives would have the satisfaction of knowing that some atonement had been made, and for which punishment I have in my notes made repeated requests. But since not a single one of the murderers has been punished, it seems highly just that some compensation should be made to the families of the unfortunate men, and I know so well your high sense of justice and kindness of heart that I am satisfied you will recognize this claim as well founded.

With this new opportunity, I repeat, etc.,

CHANG YEN HOON.

10

[Inclosure 1.]

STATEMENT OF CLAIMS. I.—Property losses.

In note of April 5, 1886: Squak Valley, Washington Territory..... $535.65 4,054.88 6,064.70 Anaconda, Montana Territory..... 3,000.00 In note of February 19, 1887: Tacoma, Washington Territory-7,530.65 Losses in the vicinity..... . In note of February 19, 1887: Seattle, Washington Territory-Losses as stated in inclosure accompanying note.....$143,851.87 Deducting claims based upon uncollected debts, as There remains in the Seattle claim..... 108, 514. 27 In note of February 25, 1887; Juneau, Alaska Territory. No detailed estimate of losses yet filed. About 100 Chinese were expelled. Estimating $100 each for property losses and expenses of journey to San Francisco and elsewhere would amount to ... 10,000,00 In note of February 15, 1886: A statement of riots at Bloomfield, Redding, Boulder Creek, Eureka, and other towns in California, involving murder, arson, robbery, and expulsion, but no estimates. Also a statement that near 100,000 Chinese had been driven from their homes. Total of property losses, as estimated..... 246, 619, 75 II.—Loss of lives. In note of November 30, 1885: Rock Springs, Wyoming Territory. Number of lives lost in riot, besides 16 wounded ... -28 In note of April 5, 1886: Squak Valley, Washington Territory. Number of lives lost (and 4 Orofino, Idaho Territory. Number of lives lost. In note of August 11, 1886: Anaconda, Montana Territory. Number of lives lost..... In note of February 16,1888:

Snake River, Oregon. Number of lives reported lost.....

If the Snake River murders are omitted, of which no accurate information is yet received, there remain 40 lives of Chinese by riots and violence for which no compensation has yet been made. If the indemnity paid by Spain to the United States in the Virginius case is accepted, $2,500 as the lowest sum, there would result a claim for $100,000. Add as above, property losses, $246,619.75; grand total, $346,619.75.

[Inclosure 2.]

STATEMENT AS TO CLAIMS FOR UNCOLLECTED DEBTS.

These only appear in the Seattle claims (see note February 19, 1887).
The first on the list is the claim of Wa Chong & Co. for $67,042.10. In the detailed items on file in the Chinese legation there appears of this scalledted debts	examining collected debts	sum for un-
The others in the list as follows:	$17,042.14
Tong yu Chong	8,477,95
A WOULD CHOUD	0,477.93
On Tai	2,568.91
Hong Fong Low	2, 797. 25
Yeong Kee.
Kow Kee	333, 10
Sory Woh (total of this claim is $5,321.35. Deduct losses in goods, $3.121.35)	428.55
bory won (total of this claim is $5,321.35. Deduct losses in goods, $3.121.35)	2, 200.00
Total for uncollected debts	35, 337. 60

No. 256.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, March 7, 1888.

SIR: I had the honor to receive, on the 5th instant, your note of the 3d instant, accompanied by a full statement of the pecuniary estimate of all the losses in property and injuries to person suffered by Chinese subjects throughout the United States in remote and unsettled localities at the hands of lawless and cruel men.

I have carefully considered the amended draughts of the proposed articles of the treaty and shall accept the modifications as they appear in the manuscript sent by you, asking, however, that a reasonable limitation upon the period of their voluntary absence from the United States shall be fixed within which Chinese subjects must avail themselves of the right to return to the United States.

The tragedy at Rock Springs in 1885 should, however, be considered as having been deliberately closed as between the two Governments, and I am not wholly without hope that the hand of justice may yet reach the perpetrators of those crimes, none of whom, however, were citizens of the United States.

You will comprehend the obvious expediency of concluding the proposed convention at the earliest possible day, and I will therefore invite you to call at this Department on Thursday, the 8th instant, at 2 o'clock p. m., at which time I believe the terms of the treaty can be definitely agreed upon between us and the instrument be prepared for our signatures on Saturday next.

Accept, etc.,

No. 257.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, March 9, 1888.

SIR: I have now the honor to transmit the draught of the treaty to restrict immigration as amended and agreed to in our late personal conferences on the subject.

For your clear understanding I have caused to be surrounded by lines in red and numbered the amendments agreed to at our conference on Whenever you shall have prepared the text of the treaty in the Chinese language I shall be prepared to sign the treaty and will ask you to send me a translated copy of the power received by you from your Government on its behalf to execute the treaty.

Accept, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure.]

Draught of Chinese treaty.

Whereas, on the 17th day of November, A. D. 1880, a Treaty was concluded between the United States and China for the purpose of regulating, limiting, or suspending the coming of Chinese laborers to, and their residence in, the United States;

And whereas the Government of China, in view of the antagonisms and much department of the coming disorders to which the presence of Chinase laborary has given recated and serious disorders to which the presence of Chinese laborers has given rise in certain parts of the United States, desires to prohibit the emigration of such laborers from China to the United States;

And whereas the Government of the United States and the Government of China desires to co-operate in prohibiting such emigration, and to strengthen in other ways the bonds of friendship between the two countries;

the bonds of friendship between the two countries;
Now, therefore, the President of the United States has appointed Themas F. Bayard, Secretary of State of the United States, as his Plenipotentiary; and His Imperial Majesty, the Emperor of China, has appointed Chang Yen Hoon, Minister of the Third Rank of the Imperial Court, Civil President of the Board of Imperial Cavalry, and Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, as his Plenipotentiary, and the said Plenipotentiaries, having exhibited their respective Full Powers tiary; and the said Plenipotentiaries, having exhibited their respective Full Powers found to be in due and good form, have agreed upon the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The High Contracting parties agree that for a period of twenty years, beginning with the date of the exchange of the ratification of this Convention, the coming, except under the conditions hereinafter specified, of Chinese laborers to the United States, shall be absolutely prohibited.

ARTICLE II.

The preceding article shall not apply to the return to the United States of any Chinese laborer* [subject] who has a lawful wife, child, or parent in the United States, or property therein of the value of one thousand dollars, or debts of like amount due him and pending settlement. Nevertheless, every such Chinese laborer shall, before leaving the United States, deposit, as a condition of his return, with the collector of customs of the district from which he departs, a full description in writing of his family, or property, or debts, as aforesaid, and shall be furnished by said collector with such certificate of his right to return under this Treaty as the laws of the United States may now or hereafter prescribe and not inconsistent with the provisions of this Treaty; and should the written description aforesaid be proved to be false, the right of return thereunder, or of continued residence after return, shall in each case be forfeited. And such right of return to the United States shall be exercised within one year from the date of leaving the United States; but such right of return to the United States may be extended for an additional period, not to exceed one year, in cases where by reason of sickness or other cause of disability beyond his control, such Chinese laborer* [subject] shall be rendered unable sooner to return--which facts shall be fully reported to the Chinese consul at the port of departure, and by him certified, to the satisfaction of the collector of the port at which such Chinese subject shall land in the United States.

^{*} Words in italics added; in brackets, stricken out.

ARTICLE III.

The provisions of this Convention shall not affect the right at present enjoyed of Chinese subjects, being officials, teachers, students, merchants, or travelers for curiosity or pleasure, but not laborers, of coming to the United States and residing therein. To entitle such Chinese subjects as are above described, to admission into the United States, they  $may^$  [shall, in accordance with section 6 of the law of July 5, 1884, of the Congress of the United States] produce a certificate [as required in said section] from their Government or the Government where they last resided, viséd by the diplomatic or consular representative of the United States in the country or port whence they depart.

It is also agreed that Chinese laborers shall continue to enjoy the privilege of transit across the territory of the United States in the course of their journey to or from other countries, subject to such regulation by the Government of the United States as may be necessary to prevent said privilege of transit from being abused.

ARTICLE IV.

In pursuance of Article III of the Immigration Treaty between the United States and China, signed at Peking on the 17th day of November, 1860, it is hereby understood and agreed that Chinese laborers, or Chinese of any other class, either permanently or temporarily residing in the United States, shall have for the protection of their persons and property all rights that are given by the laws of the United States to citizens of the most favored nation, excepting the right to become naturalized citizens. And the Government of the United States reaffirms its obligation, as stated in said Article III, to exert all its power to secure protection to the persons and property of all Chinese subjects in the United States.

ARTICLE V.

Whereas Chinese subjects, being in remote and unsettled regions of the United States, have been the victims of injuries in their persons and property at the hands of wicked and lawless men, which unexpected events the Chinese Government regrets, and for which it has claimed an indemnity the legal obligation of which the Government of the United States denies; and, whereas, the Government of the United States, humanely considering these injuries and bearing in mind the firm and ancient friendship between the United States and China, which the High Contracting parties wish to cement, is desirous of alleviating the exceptional and deplorable sufferings and losses to which the aforesaid Chinese have been subjected; therefore, the United States, without reference to the question of liability therefor (which as a legal obligation it denies), agrees to pay on or before the 1st day of March, 1889, the sum of $276,619.75, two hundred and seventy-six thousand six hundred and nineten dollars and seventy-five cents,* to the Chinese Minister at this capital, who shall accept the same, on behalf of his Government, as full indemnity for all losses and injuries sustained by Chinese subjects as aforesaid, and shall distribute the said money among the said sufferers and their relatives.

ARTICLE VI.

This Convention shall remain in force for a period of twenty years, beginning with the date of the exchange of ratifications; and if, six months before the expiration of the said period of twenty years, neither Government shall formally have given notice of its termination to the other, it shall remain in full force for another like period of twenty years.

No. 258.

Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.

Washington, D. C., March 12, 1888. (Received March 12.)

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that in my memorial to the Throne, dated the tenth day of the third month in the thirteenth year ^{*}Words in italics added; in brackets, stricken out.

395

of Kwong Sü (3d April, 1887), relative to the payment of the indemnity paid by your Government in the Rock Springs case, for which I obtained an imperial edict commanding me to receive the same, I clearly stated that I was then negotiating with your excellency a convention for the protection of the Chinese subjects residing in the United States and also the restriction of their immigration thereinto.

On the twentieth day of the intercalary fourth month, in the thirteenth year of Kwong Sü (11th June, 1887), I had the honor to be apprised of a rescript in vermilion from my august sovereign on the subject delivered to the foreign office to the effect, "let the foreign office take note of the same," which is the customary imperial method of conferring powers in such cases.

I therefore take pleasure in communicating to you the above, hoping that you will take cognizance of the same.

Accept, etc.,

CHANG YEN HOON.

No. 259.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, April 11, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith for your information in connection with my note to you of February 23, 1888, relative to the murder of certain Chinese subjects on Snake River, Oregon, a copy of a letter from the governor of the Territory of Idaho, dated the 3d instant, upon the subject. It will be observed that, despite the excellent disposition of Governor Stevenson, the very limited knowledge of the facts so far as disclosed makes investigation difficult, if indeed it does not tend to defeat the ends of justice.

Accept, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure.]

Governor Stevenson to Mr. Bayard.

Boisé City, Idaho, April 3, 1888.

SIR: In reply to your letter of February 24, inclosing correspondence from the minister of China relating to the murder of ten Chinamen on Snake River.

I have deferred answering, hoping that I might be able to give some information as to who were the parties that committed this terrible and brutal murder, but up to this date have been unable to obtain any important facts. I have referred the matter to the officers of the law and will see that every effort shall be made to find out the guilty parties and bring them to punishment.

The place where the Chinamen were working was about 120 miles above Lewiston, in the State of Oregon. Only one body was found in Idaho and he had floated down the river and lodged on the Idaho side of Snake River, at Lime Kiln. The body the river and logged on the Idaho side of Snake River, at Lime Kiln. The body the river and the constant of the logged of the state of the logged on the Idaho side of Snake River, at Lime Kiln. found at Penewana bar, 40 miles below Lewiston, and the one at Log Cabin Bar, 30 miles below Lewiston, were both in Washington Territory.

Any information I shall be able to obtain will be forwarded to you at once.

I have, etc.,

E. A. STEVENSON.

No. 260.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, May 8, 1888.

SIR: It gives me pleasure to inform you that the treaty signed and concluded by us as the plenipotentiaries of our respective countries on the 12th of March last has been approved by the United States Senate, with two amendments.

I inclose a copy of the treaty with the two amendments written in red ink and numbered in the margin.

On examination of these amendments I do not discover that the original provisions of the treaty are in any degree altered thereby, but that they only repeat what the treaty itself was intended to express.

In view of the expediency of finally concluding this agreement between our two countries, I invite you to join with me in accepting these amendments, for which end the powers already vested in you are sufficient, and for which I shall receive due authority from the President.

Ratifications being thus secured can at once be exchanged, and proclamation made by the President, which will put the treaty in force without further delay.

Accept, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure.-Confidential Executive O. Fiftieth Congress, first session.]

Message from the President of the United States, transmitting a convention between the United States and China for the exclusion hereafter of Chinese laborers from coming to the United States, signed and concluded at Washington March 12, 1888.

TO THE SENATE:

I have the honor to transmit herewith, and recommend for your constitutional approval, a convention, signed and concluded in this city on the 12th instant, under my direction, between the United States and China for the exclusion hereafter of Chinese laborers from coming into this country.

This treaty is accompanied by a letter from the Secretary of State in recital of its provisions and explanatory of the reasons for its negotiation, and with it are transmitted sundry documents giving the history of events connected with the presence and treatment of Chinese subjects in the United States.

In view of the public interest which has for a long time been manifested in relation to the question of Chinese immigration, it would seem advisable that the full text of this treaty should be made public, and I respectfully recommend that an order to that effect be made by your honorable body.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Washington, March 16, 1888. GROVER CLEVELAND.

Report of the Secretary of State to the President.

TO THE PRESIDENT:

I have now the honor to transmit herewith, with a view of its being communicated to the Senate for its advice and consent, a convention providing for the absolute prohibition of the coming of Chinese laborers into the United States, which was concluded in this city on the 12th instant by me under your instructions and authority and by the Chinese ministe at this capital under the imperial authority of China.

Shortly after the advent of your administration it was considered advisable, in view of the manifest popular discontent in the States bordering upon the Pacific, growing out of the presence there of Chinese laborers and their obvious lack of assimilation with the sympathies, habits, and interests of our own citizens, and the demon.

397 CHINA.

strated inefficiency of the statutes intended to restrict their coming among us, that an effort should be made to procure the desired relief by obtaining the consent and co-operative action of China by means of an amended treaty, and thus avoid the necessity of a resort to separate legislation, which, without the co-operative assistance of the Chinese Government, would be less effectual, and might also be open to exception as being in conflict with or in derogation of the stipulations of existing conventions, and possibly as impairing our good understanding with a friendly power.

The temporary absence from the United States in 1885, and the subsequent illness of the then Chinese minister, unavoidably delayed negotiations, but upon the arrival of his successor, the present minister, Chang Yen Hoon, propositions were speedily submitted to him for a convention absolutely prohibiting the immigration of Chinese laborers, and after some further delay, arising from a visit made by him to Europe last summer, the treaty herewith transmitted has been concluded.

By this arrangement we have secured the co-operation of China in the main purpose and object of the treaty, which is plainly stated in the first article of the convention to be the absolute prohibition of Chinese laborers from coming into the United States for twenty years, and its renewal thereafter for a similar period, unless notice shall have been given as provided in Article VI.

This precludes the return of any Chinese laborers who are not now in this country, and forbids the coming into the United States of Chinese laborers from any quarter whatsoever.

From this inhibition are excepted any Chinese laborer who has a lawful wife, child, or parent in the United States, or property therein of the value of one thousand dollars ($1,000), or debts of like amount due him and pending settlement.

Considerations of humanity and justice require these exceptions to be made, for no law should overlook the ties of family, and the wages of labor are entitled to just protection.

Judging also by the statistics of the class in ques ion and from general experience, such excepted cases will be practically few in number, infrequent, and easily capable of such regulations as will prevent abuse.

The regulation : nd control of the issue of such certificates of return will be wholly in the hands of United States officials, and power to prescribe other laws at discretion may be exercised by the United States.

Such right to return is for a limited period, and the certificates are invalidated by the perpetration of fraud in connection with their procurement or use, and the United States are free to adopt such measures as may become advisable to check or punish

In the course of late litigation in the United States courts in California, arising out of the contested claims of certain Chinese laborers to return to the United States under the certificates now provided by law, it has been pertinently suggested by the learned judges before whom the cases were tried that the detailed information contained in the certificates themselves, as now issued to the Chinese, furnishes the means of fraudulent entry of Chinese laborers, to whom such certificates have been fraudulently transferred and who are not entitled to come to the United States. it has been pointed out that if all the facts requisite for complete identification of the departing Chinaman were retained in the United States official custody, and a paper containing only a simple number, and properly marked, signed and countersigued by the officers, were furnished, the means of detecting and preventing fraud in the transfer of the certificate would be given, and the present abuses made almost impossible

Existing treaty privileges of travel and sojourn in the United States to Chinese officials, teachers, students, merchants, and travelers for curiosity and pleasure remain undisturbed, as well as the transit right of laborers strictly to be exercised under

United States regulations.

The stipulations of the third article of the treaty of 1880 provided for the extension of the full protection to the person and property of Chinese subjects of all classes that is given by laws of the United States to the most favored nation, and by the terms of that article the United States also agreed "to exert all its power to secure such protection" to the persons and property of Chinese subjects in the United States.

It can not justly be alleged that any discrimination has been made against the Chinese by the laws of the United States, nor that they have been denied or obstructed in their access to the avenues of public remedial justice, which are open to all persons alike without distinction of race or nationality. But the fact remains that, for reasons heretofore stated in the message of the President to Congress in relation to the Rock Springs indemnity, there has been a failure of justice in the repression and punishment of crime and lawless violence of which Chinese were the victims, owing to the mingled causes of race prejudice, labor rivalries, their peculiar habits, and segregation from other nationalities.

The ill treatment to which Chinese laborers have been subjected by lawless and cruel men in certain scantily-settled and remote regions of our jurisdiction, where they are practically beyond the reach of the protecting arm of the law, has been a subject of just complaint by their Government, as well as mortification and sorrow to our own, and Congress heretofore in the case of the Rock Springs massacre in Wyoming Territory, in view of all the circumstances, has made voluntary appropriations for the relief of the sufferers and their families.

The distribution of governmental powers under our system forbids the assumption of local police control by the Federal authority, except in the cases provided for by the Constitution wherein State and local governments make application to the Executive for the assistance of the military arm of the Government.

The stipulations of our treaty with China does not demand the enactment or enforcement of laws discriminating in favor of the Chinese subjects in the United States, nor does it entitle them to greater or other protection than is accorded to citizens of the most favored nations.

Tried by this test the Chinese in all cases of injuries to their persons or property are equal before the laws of this country to the citizens of any other "most favored" nation and certainly to our own citizens.

But the fact remains that they have suffered grievously in person and property, and whilst the liability of the United States is wholly inadmissible, as is recited in Article V of the treaty now submitted, yet it is competent for this Government, in humane consideration of those occurrences, so discreditable to the community in which they have taken place, and outside of the punitive powers of the National Government, to make voluntary and generous provisions for those who have been made the innocent victims of lawless violence within our borders, and to that end, following the dictates of humanity, and, it may be added, the example of the Chinese Government in sundry cases where American citizens who were the subjects of mob violence in China have been indemnified by that Government, the present treaty provides for the payment of a sum of money to be received as full indemnity for all such losses and injuries sustained by Chinese subjects in the United States, to be received and distributed by the Chinese minister at this capital.

This payment will, in a measure, remove the reproach to our civilization caused by the crimes referred to, as well as redress the grievance so seriously complained of by the Chinese representative, and unquestionably will also reflect most beneficially upon the welfare of American residents in China.

I submit herewith a list of the claims from time to time presented to this Department through the Chinese minister, in which the names of the claimants, the amount of the losses, and estimation and details of the injuries inflicted are set forth.

Respectfully submitted.

T. F. BAYARD.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, March 16, 1888.

Chinese emigration treaty as amended by the Senate.

Whereas, on the 17th day of November, A. D. 1880, a Treaty was concluded between the United States and China for the purpose of regulating, limiting, or suspending the coming of Chinese laborers to, and their residence in, the United States;

And whereas the Government of China, in view of the antagonism and much deprecated and serious disorders to which the presence of Chinese laborers has given rise in certain parts of the United States, desires to prohibit the emigration of such laborers from China to the United States.

And whereas the Government of the United States and the Government of China desire to coöperate in prohibiting such emigration, and to strengthen in other ways the bonds of friendship between the two countries;

Now, therefore, the President of the United States has appointed Thomas F. Bayard Secretary of State of the United States as his Plenipotentiary; and His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of China has appointed Chang Yen Hoon Minister of the Third Rank of the Imperial Court, Civil President of the Board of Imperial Cavalry and Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary as his Plenipotentiary; and the said Plenipotentiaries, having exhibited their respective Full Powers found to be in due and good form, have agreed upon the following articles:

ARTICLE I.

The High Contracting parties agree that for a period of twenty years, beginning with the date of the exchange of the ratifications of this Convention, the coming, except under the conditions hereinafter specified, of Chinese laborers to the United States shall be absolutely prohibited; and this prohibition shall extend to the return of Chinese laborers who are not now in the United States, whether holding return certificates under existing laws or not.*

^{*}The amendments of the Senate to the Treaty as originally signed are printed in italics.

399

CHINA. ARTICLE II.

The preceding article shall not apply to the return to the United States of any Chinese laborer who has a lawful wife, child, or parent in the United States, or property therein of the value of one thousand dollars, or debts of like amount due him and pending settlement. Nevertheless, every such Chinese laborer shall, before leaving the United States, deposit, as a condition of his return, with the collector of customs of the district from which he departs, a full description in writing of his family, or property, or debts, as aforesaid, and shall be furnished by said collector with such certificate of his right to return under this Treaty as the laws of the United States may now or hereafter prescribe and not inconsistent with the provisions of this Treaty; and should the written description aforesaid be proved to be false, the right of return thereunder, or of continued residence after return, shall in each case be forfeited. And such right of return to the United States shall be exercised within one year from the date of leaving the United States; but such right of return to the United States may be extended for an additional period, not to exceed one year, in cases where by reason of sickness or other cause of disability beyond his control, such Chinese laborer shall be rendered unable sooner to return—which facts shall be fully reported to the Chinese consul at the port of departure, and by him certified, to the satisfaction of the collector of the port at which such Chinese subject shall land in the United States. And no such Chinese laborer shall be permitted to enter the United States by land or sea without producing to the proper officer of the customs the return certificate herein required.*

ARTICLE III.

The provisions of this Convention shall not affect the right at present enjoyed of Chinese subjects, being officials, teachers, students, merchants, or travelers for curiosity or pleasure, but not laborers, of coming to the United States and residing therein. To entitle such Chinese subjects as are above described to admission into the United States they may produce a certificate from their Government or the Government where they last resided, viséd by the diplomatic or consular representative of the United States in the country or port whence they depart.

It is also agreed that Chinese laborers shall continue to enjoy the privilege of transit across the territory of the United States in the course of their journey to or from other countries, subject to such regulations by the Government of the United States as may be necessary to prevent said privilege of transit from being abused.

ARTICLE IV.

In pursuance of Article III of the Immigration Treaty between the United States and China, signed at Peking on the 17th day of November, 1880, it is hereby understood and agreed that Chinese laborers, or Chinese of any other class, either permanently or temporarily residing in the United States, shall have for the protection of their persons and property all rights that are given by the laws of the United States to citizens of the most favored nation, excepting the right to become naturalized citizens. And the Government of the United States reaffirms its obligation, as stated in said Article III, to exert all its power to secure protection to the persons and property of all Chinese subjects in the United States.

ARTICLE V.

Whereas Chinese subjects, being in remote and and unsettled regions of the United States, have been the victims of injuries in their persons and property at the hands of wicked and lawless men, which unexpected events the Chinese Government regrets, and for which it has claimed an indemnity, the legal obligation of which the Government of the United States, humanely considering these injuries and bearing in mind the firm and ancient friendship between the United States and China, which the high contracting parties wish to cement, is desirous of alleviating the exceptional and deplorable sufferings and losses to which the aforesaid Chinese have been subjected; therefore, the United States, without reference to the question of liability therefor (which as a legal obligation it denies), agrees to pay on or before the first day of March, 1889, the sum of two hundred and seventy-six thousand six hundred and nineteen dollars and seventy-five cents ($276,619.75) to the Chinese minister at this capital, who shall accept the same, on behalf of his Government, as full indemnity for all losses and injuries sustained by Chinese subjects as aforesaid, and shall distribute the said money among the said sufferers and their relatives.

^{*}The amendments of the Senate to the Treaty as originally signed are printed in italics,

ARTICLE VI.

This convention shall remain in force for a period of twenty years, beginning with the date of the exchange of ratifications; and if, six months before the expiration of the said period of twenty years, neither Government shall formally have given notice of its termination to the other, it shall remain in full force for another like period of twenty years.

In faith whereof we, the respective plenipotentiaries, have signed this treaty and have hereunto affixed our seals.

Done, in duplicate, at Washington, the 12th day of March, A. D., 1888.
T. F. BAYARD, [L. s.] CHANG YEN HOON.

No. 261.

Mr. Bayard to Chang Yen Hoon.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, May 11, 1888.

DEAR MR. MINISTER: Complying with your verbal request made in an interview to-day, I have now the pleasure to hand you a full copy of the treaty in which the two amendments added by the Senate are contained, and noted upon the margin.*

I agree with you that these two amendments do not change or add to the force and effect of the original text of the treaty as signed by us, but it will be necessary to have them formally accepted on behalf of your Government and noted in our certificate of exchange of ratification.

The delay thus caused by the Senate amendments is to be regretted, but the action of that body is independent and co-ordinate and must be so accepted.

I inclose the printed copy of the treaty, with the amendments noted in red ink, and I am,

Very truly, yours,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 262.

Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.

CHINESE LEGATION, Washington, May 12, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 8th instant, in which you inform me that the United States Senate has approved the treaty which we signed on the 12th (13th) of March last, with two amendments, which you inclose.

I have carefully examined these amendments, and as they do not alter the terms of the original treaty, it will give me pleasure to accept them in due form.

By international practice a treaty requires the ratification of the sovereign for whom the treaty is concluded, and I, on the 15th of March last, sent the signed treaty to the foreign office for its examination, and I have just telegraphed to the same office the amendments in question. As soon as I shall be notified by my Government of the ratification, by my august sovereign, of the treaty, I shall, in exchanging ratifications, have the amendments written in a protocol to be appended to the treaty.

^{*}For text of treaty, as amended, see Document No. 260, ante, page 396,

CHINA. 401

I improve the occasion to assure you, Mr. Secretary, of my most distinguished consideration.

CHANG YEN HOON.

No. 263.

Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.

CHINESE LEGATION, Washington, May 14, 1888. (Received May 14.)

DEAR MR. SECRETARY: I had the honor to receive your note of the 8th instant, informing me of the approval of the treaty by the United States Senate, with two amendments, which you inclosed, written in red ink on its margin, and to which I have already replied.

I have the honor now to acknowledge the receipt of your note of the 11th instant, inclosing a full copy of the treaty and the two amendments, and also the printed copy of the treaty, with the amendments noted in red ink.

I will, without delay, send them to the foreign office, which will present them, with the original signed treaty, to the Throne for its decree. I will communicate with you as soon as I am notified of the decree. The amendments will be, in due form, noted in the certificate of exchange of ratification.

I am, very truly, yours,

CHANG YEN HOON.

No. 264.

Mr. Rives to Mr. Chang Yen Hoon.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, May 15, 1888.

SIR: Referring to previous correspondence exchanged by the Department with you in relation to the reported murder, in May, 1887, of a party of Chinamen engaged in mining on Snake River, in Oregon, I have the honor to communicate to you for your information copy of a letter in relation to the occurrence, written by the honorable James H. Slater, of Joseph, Oregon, formerly a Senator of the United States, to Mr. L. L. McArthur, United States attorney for the district of Oregon, which letter has been sent to this Department for such use as may be proper.

You will observe that Mr. Slater makes important statements touching the necessity of securing evidence against the six men who have been indicted recently for the killing and robbery of the Chinamen in question. It seems probable that much aid in the indicated direction might be rendered to the authorities of the State of Oregon having jurisdiction in the premises by the Chinese consul at San Francisco, who has heretofore interested himself in tracing out the authors of this grievous crime and endeavoring to procure their trial and conviction.

The crime having been committed against the laws and peace of Oregon, and the indictment against certain of the alleged murderers having been found by the criminal courts of that State, there is no present occasion for Federal jurisdiction in the premises, or for interference to procure testimony on the part of the judicial officers of the United States. The Chinese consul at San Francisco and his agents, with the witnesses to the facts mentioned in your previous note, will, I am sure, be afforded every courtesy and facility by the authorities of the State of Oregon, of whose energetic disposition to take advantage of every opportunity to further the ends of justice Senator Slater's letter affords gratifying proof.

Accept, etc.,

G. L. RIVES, Acting Secretary.

[Inclosure.]

Mr. Slater to Mr. McAuthur.

Joseph, Oregon, April 25, 1888.

DEAR SIR: There is a matter in this county which in my judgment ought to be looked into by the United States district court, if it has jurisdiction. The facts are about as follows: About last May a party of white men, about six or seven men, committed a most daring outrage on a camp of unoffending Chinamen who were mining on Snake River. They went in broad day-light, attacked them, and there is direct proof of the killing of two and indirect proof of the killing of many more. Their camp was robbed, and it is believed that the white men got some $5,000 or $10,000 in gold dust. An indictment was found in the circuit court in March last against six, Ben Evans, J. B. Canfield, Omer Le Rue, Robert McMillin, Carl Hughes, and Hiram Mayward. The three latter are in jail; the other three, who are regarded as the ringleaders, are at large and are out of the State and their exact whereabouts not definitely known, but it is believed that with proper effort they can be secured.

Frank Vaughn testified before the grand jury and gave the whole matter away. The feeling here is quite intense against the accused and a general desire is expressed that all the parties should be brought to punishment, but the county is not in a condition to push the prosecution. Detectives will have to be employed to hunt down the three out of the State. I believe there is no power vested in the court or county to employ detectives or agents for the purpose named. The Governor can issue proper papers and bring back the accused when found and arrested, but has no power I think to do more. I have not examined the Federal statutes, but surely think that such offenses are surely cognizable in the Federal courts, but if they are not I feel sure that in such a case the Department of Justice can find some way to aid in the hunting down of these men. It seems to me that in such a case the Federal Government must have the power to vindicate a friendly foreigner within its borders under treaty stipulation. McMillin and Vaughn claim to have been eye-witnesses to the whole affair, and Mayward and Hughes claimed to have remained at the cabin of the white men during the affair and have been restrained from saying anything about it by reason of threats. Vaughn turned state's evidence and is under bonds.

I write to you because you are the United States attorney for Oregon and directly in communication with the Department, and also because I regard the matter in a

I write to you because you are the United States attorney for Oregon and directly in communication with the Department, and also because I regard the matter in a most serious light and feel sure that if the matter be laid before the proper authority the whole power of the Government will be brought to bear to bring the guilty to justice. Every aid will be given by the officers of this county and by the people here. I am, of course, not advised as to what the powers of Judge Deady's court may be, never having examined into it. But if jurisdiction attaches I trust immediate steps will be taken to insure a speedy conviction, and if there is a doubt about the matter, I suggest that the whole matter be at once laid before the Attorney-General. You are at liberty to make such use of this letter as you may think best. If further information be desired D. B. Reavis, county clerk, and Peter O. Sullivan, county judge, will be glad to furnish the same.

I must ask you to excuse the bad appearance of this letter as I have written in great haste, and without time to put it in better shape.

Respectfully, yours,

JAMES H. SLATER,

No. 265.

Mr. Chang Yen Hoon to Mr. Bayard.

CHINESE LEGATION, Washington, D. C., May 20, 1888. (Received May 21.)

SIR: I have great pleasure in acknowledging the receipt of the note of Acting Secretary Rives of the 15th instant, relating to the murder of Chinese subjects on Snake River, Oregon, which has heretofore been the subject of our correspondence.

I desire to express my hearty thanks for the information contained in said note and its inclosure, and to say that I shall send a copy of the same without delay to the consul-general at San Francisco, and direct him to take such action in the matter as is within his power to aid the local authorities in discovering and bringing to punishment the wicked men who perpetrated the murder. I repeat to you with this new opportunity the assurance of my highest consideration and esteem.

CHANG YEN HOON.

No. 266.

Mr. Shu Cheon Pon to Mr. Bayard.

CHINESE LEGATION, Washington, September 25, 1888. (Received September 25.)

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that I am in receipt of a cable-gram from Lima from the minister of China, Chang Yen Hoon, to the effect that there are three points in the pending treaty which the Chinese Government regards it is necessary to reconsider with your Government, and which the minister instructs me to bring to your notice without delay.

First. Though the two Governments seem to agree on the general purpose of the treaty, it causes dissatisfaction to the Chinese people. It would seem well, therefore, to take into consideration the question of some reduction of the period of suspension of the coming of the laborers into the United States.

Second. Article 2 of the treaty, generally speaking, is satisfactory, but it would be necessary to permit every Chinese laborer who had returned to China from the United States before the signing of this new treaty, and who has property in the United States, to report the fact to the Chinese consul so that he may be enabled to return to the United States under a certificate granted him.

Third. There ought to be a provision for the return of Chinese laborers who have property in the United States of the value of less than $1,000.

The Chinese minister sails from Callao on the 26th instant, and will be back in Washington in twenty-two or twenty-three days. As the relations between your excellency and the Chinese minister in the transaction of official business has always been cordial and harmonious I hope that some satisfactory conclusion will be reached after his return.

Accept, sir., etc.,

SHU CHEON PON,

No. 267.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Shu Cheon Pon.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, September 26, 1888.

SIR: I beg leave to acknowledge your note, dated yesterday, in which you inform me that although the treaty signed and concluded at this capital on the 12th of March last, between the United States and China, seems to meet the views of your Government as to its general purpose, yet it causes dissatisfaction to the Chinese people, and that there are three certain points in the treaty which the Chinese Government regards it necessary should be reconsidered and which by the instruction of your minister you set forth in your note and bring to my notice.

I am much pleased to learn by your note that the minister expected to sail from Peru to-day for this country, and that we may expect his return to this capital in the course of three weeks. His presence here will be assuredly welcomed, and I trust that he will renew the duties of his high office in good health, and continue in those relations to this Department which have always been so cordial and harmonious.

Accept, sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

COLOMBIA.

No. 268.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Maury.

[Extract.]

No. 12.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, February 25, 1887.

SIR: The French Canal Company avows its control of the land line of telegraph operated in connection with the Panama Railroad Company, and asserts its determination to retain the monopoly alleged to have been derived from the railway concession. The railroad company gives notice, for its part, that "theirs is a private wire, and they pass messages between Panama and Colon by courtesy."

The mere fact that the international communications of two continents, over an intricate net-work of cables, is dependent for an important connecting link upon the "courtesy" of a corporation and the use of a line of wire alleged to be "private," and constructed as an accessory to a railway, is a matter of concern to the governments which are constrained to use such limited and unstable means of official intercommunication.

The guaranties of the treaty of 1846 are necessarily general and somewhat vague, especially as to matters not distinctly foreseen when it was framed. It may not be practicable or even expedient to seek to define its provisions, for the progress of invention and development of material forces would soon demand a re-adjustment of its terms. it is very evident, without resorting to elaborate argument, that if telegraphic facilities are among the means of interoceanic communication covered by the treaty, they must be open and public and their free and neutral use fully secured. The announcement that the railroad and canal companies' telegraph line from Colon to Panama is a private wire, and that the use of it by the Governments of the United States and Colombia and by the commercial public is permissive only, is, if true, abundant demonstration that no trans-isthmian telegraphic communication now exists such as was contemplated and falls under the necessary guaranties of the treaty of 1846. That instrument guaranties to us "equal, tranquil, and constant use" of whatever means of transit are provided for "correspondence," and the telegraph is assuredly the most important and useful of all such means.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 269.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Maury.

[Extract.]

No. 44.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, November 14, 1887.

SIR: Referring to the views of the Department, as expressed in its instruction No. 12, of the 25th February last, touching the considerations which should operate to prevent the dependence of this and other governments upon the mere courtesy of a private telegraph company on the isthmus for the transmission of messages, I inclose* a copy of a further complaint against the Panama Railroad Company for its refusal to receive messages for transmission across the isthmus.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 270.

Mr. Maury to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 67.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Bogotá, December 19, 1887. (Received January 30, 1888.)

Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your No. 44, of November 14th last.

I now have the honor to transmit herewith a communication I have this day addressed to Mr. Carlos Holguin, minister of foreign affairs, and will in due time communicate to you his reply, and what other steps I may find it necessary to take in bringing this subject to a satisfactory settlement.

I shall deliver this communication to the minister in person, and urge prompt action in the matter.

I am, sir, etc.,

DABNEY H. MAURY.

[Inclosure in No. 67.]

Mr. Maury to Mr. Holguin.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Bogotá, December 19, 1887.

SIR: With reference to my notes t of the 14th and 28th April and May 12 last, I have the honor to inclose a further communication * * * on the subject of my notes, which I beg your excellency will be good enough to return me when convenient.

which I beg your excellency will be good enough to return me when convenient.

I am again instructed to bring this highly-important matter to the earnest consideration of your excellency's Government, not doubting that on reconsideration you will see the necessity of preventing any private company from asserting a monopoly over the telegraph across the isthmus.

If such a course were allowed, it will be a source of great trouble to all nations in the near future, and a resolution declaring that Colombia will permit no monopoly of telegraphs or other means of correspondence across the isthmus will greatly gratify the Government of the United States, which looks with much disfavor upon the monopoly now exercised by the telegraph company owning the lines across the Isthmus of Panama, and can not permit its continued exercise.

I take this opportunity to renew, etc.,

DABNEY H. MAURY.

^{*} Inclosure not printed herewith.

No. 271.

Mr. Maury to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 70.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,
Bogotá, December 25, 1887. (Received January 30, 1888).

SIR: In reference to the subject of my letter to you, No. 67, December 19th, instant, I have the honor to inform you that I laid the matter before the minister of foreign affairs in a written communication of the points I raised against the claim of the Panama Railway Company to exclusive telegraphic rights on the Isthmus. He listened to us attentively, and replied that as the subject was new to him it would take a few days to familiarize himself with it, after which he would lay it before President Payan, and would let me know as soon as possible what action the Government would take in regard to it.

Last evening Señor Holguin, the minister of foreign affairs, kindly called at my residence and informed me that his Government had decided that the railway company held no exclusive telegraphic rights across the Isthmus, and further, that to avoid any possible conflict of private interests it had decided to construct and own the line, and that General Posada, governor of Panama, had been ordered to proceed at once with the work. This communication was verbal only, but as soon as I receive it in writing I shall forward you a copy.

I am, sir, etc.,

DABNEY H. MAURY.

No. 272.

Mr. Maury to Mr. Bayard.

No. 73.] LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,
Bogotá, December 29, 1887. (Received January 30, 1888.)

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith a communication, received yesterday, from Señor Carlos Holguin, minister of foreign affairs, relating to the claim of the Panama Railway Company to exclusive telegraphic rights across the Isthmus, with a translation of the same.

I have, etc.,

DABNEY H. MAURY.

[Inclosure in No. 73.—Translation.]

Mr. Holguin to Mr. Maury.

REPUBLIC OF COLOMBIA, MINISTRY OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS, Bogotá, December 28, 1887.

Mr. MINISTER: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your courteous note of the 19th instant, and of the 14th and 28th of April, and of the 12th of May last, all relating to the same subject, namely, the monopoly which is said to be claimed by the Panama Railway Company over the telegraphic line across the Isthmus.

The Government, availing itself of the right which it possesses, of constructing that class of public works within its own territory, has resolved to establish in (the department of) Panama a telegraph of a national character, of which your Government can have the use, with the utmost assurance that its communications will meet with no obstructions.

I believe, Mr. Minister, that this measure of the Government fully meets the wishes expressed in your note to which I have the honor to refer, and I suppose it is thus made clear to you that the Government does not recognize the monopoly referred to. I repeat, etc.,

CARLOS HOLGUIN.

No. 273.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Maury.

No. 54.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, January 11, 1888.

SIR: I transmit for your information a copy* of a dispatch from our minister in Chili relative to the re-appearance of the cholera at Santiago, and intimating that the quarantine measures at Panama are too rigid.

Special instructions are withheld for the present, but you will take such opportunities as in your judgment seem to be proper to deprecate any greater restriction of transit facilities than are demanded by sanitary considerations.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 274.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Maury.

No. 56.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, February 2, 1888.

SIR: Your dispatches Nos. 67, 70, 72, and 73, dated respectively the 19th, 25th, 26th, and 29th of December last, have been received. relate to your execution of my instruction numbered 44, of November 14, 1887, touching open telegraphic communication across the Isthmus of Panama, which had theretofore been the subject of correspondence, and you therein report the decision of the Colombian Government that the telegraph wire belonging to the Panama Railroad Company is a private wire, and not an exclusive monopoly of telegraphic transmission across the territory of the Isthmus. I observe also the announced purpose of the Colombian Government to construct and operate as a public work within the federal district of Panama a line of national telegraph of which the unobstructed use is tendered to the Government of the United States.

This decision and announcement are received with satisfaction. Government of the United States appreciates the action of the Colombian Government in placing at its disposal a means of untrammelled and secure telegraphic communication over so important a thoroughfare as the Isthmus, and sees therein a renewed indication of the spirit which animates the Government of Colombia in facilitating the observance of the important and intimate obligations which exist between it and the United States in respect of the Isthmian transit.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

^{*} For inclosure, Mr. Roberts to Mr. Bayard, November 11, 1887, No. 166, see Document No. 131, ante, p. 178.

No. 275.

Mr. Walker to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 88.1

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, (Received March 16.) Bogotá, February 13, 1888.

SIR: I have the honor to inform you that President Nuñez, who temporarily relinquished executive functions about two months ago, returned to the capital yesterday and resumed control of the Govern-

It is not thought that there will be any disturbance of public order, all parties being, seemingly, willing to await the result of the elections for members of Congress, which take place in April, to be followed by its assembling in July.

The financial condition of the country, in the mean time, is deplorable, and constantly growing worse. The income from custom house duties and from internal taxation being barely sufficient to meet the current expenses of the Government, all payments on account of the large indebtedness arising out of the attempted revolution of two years ago, are being met by issues of what are called rales, that is, by orders on the treasury payable at the rate of 6 per cent. annually, out of the proceeds of the custom-house receipts for that year. When these receipts are insufficient to meet outstanding vales, holders, in excess of the 6 per cent. of that year, are paid out of the next year's revenue in the same proportion.

As these vales can not be used in ordinary commercial transactions, holders are forced to sell them to the "Banco Nacional," a Government institution. It is now paying 55 per cent. of their face value in its own So that the small percentage of the unfunded national debt now being settled, when reduced to American currency amounts to about 30 per cent. only of its recognized value.

Of the foreign bonded debt since 1880 not a cent has been paid. It is said that a committee of the English bond holders will shortly arrive here, with authority to make some arrangement with the Government, but the treasury of the country is bankrupt and its future resources so discounted that it is difficult to see how any arrangement which would be satisfactory to the holders of bonds is possible.

I have, etc.,

JOHN G. WALKER.

No. 276.

Mr. Walker to Mr. Bayard.

No. 89.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Bogotá, February 20, 1888. (Received March 23.)

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your No. 54, of January 11 last, inclosing a copy of a dispatch to you from Minister Roberts, in regard to the existence of cholera in Chilian ports and the quarantine regulations at Panama.

There being no information at this legation as to the nature of these regulations, I to day addressed a note on the subject to the minister of foreign affairs, a copy of which I inclose herewith. As soon as an answer is received I shall transmit you a copy of it, and inform you what other steps I may find it expedient to take in the matter.

I have, etc.,

JOHN G. WALKER.

[Inclosure in No. 89.]

Mr. Walker to Mr. Restrepo.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Bogotá, February 20, 1888.

John G. Walker, chargé d'affaires of the United States, presents his compliments to His Excellency Vicente Restrepo, minister of foreign affairs, and respectfully requests to be informed what quarantine regulations have been established at Panama as to vessels coming from Chilian ports where it is thought cholera prevails. While the United States Government would in no wise object to such precautions as may be necessary to prevent the introduction of cholera into Colombian ports, it deprecates any unnecessary restrictions upon commerce and the free passage across the Isthmus of Panama.

No. 277.

Mr. Walker to Mr. Bayard.

No. 90.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Bogotá, February 25, 1888. (Received March 23.)

SIR: Francis W. Putnam, born in the United States, of American parents, and a resident of Colombia, on the 20th of December, 1884, obtained a passport from Minister Scruggs, as an American citizen. short time subsequently he was convicted in a Colombian court of a felony, and was sentenced to a term of imprisonment, which he served out, and was discharged without a pardon. He now applies to this legation for a renewal of his passport, and I have deferred acting on his request until I am instructed from your Department.

The point about which I am in doubt is, whether or not this conviction in a court of a foreign country deprives the person of the right to demand a passport as an American citizen. I am of the opinion that legally it does not, but respectfully request to be instructed on this point. And also whether or not the diplomatic officers of the Government have the right to deny passports to persons of notoriously bad character, although their American citizenship be undoubted.

I am, etc.,

JOHN G. WALKER.

No. 278.

Mr. Walker to Mr. Bayard.

No. 92.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Bogotá, March 1, 1888. (Received April 6, 1888.)

SIR: On the 20th ultimo I addressed a note to the Colombian minister of foreign affairs on the subject of quarantine regulations at Panama, and on the 25th ultimo I received from him a reply, a copy of which, with a translation, I have the honor to inclose herewith.

I am, etc.,

JOHN G. WALKER.

[Inclosure in No. 92.—Translation.]

Mr. Restrepo to Mr. Walker.

REPUBLIC OF COLOMBIA, MINISTRY OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS, Bogotá, February 23, 1888.

The undersigned, minister of foreign affairs, courteously salutes the honorable John G. Walker, chargé d'affaires of the United States, and referring to his verbal note of the 20th instant, has the honor to explain the circumstances connected with the closure of Colombian ports against vessels coming from Chili.

The Government of Panama, upon the first announcement of the scourge, directed the absolute closure of the ports of the isthmus against vessels coming from suspected

In view of the magnitude of the danger, and in the absence of means to guard against the contagion, such as quarantines and systems of disinfection, the Government of the Republic confirmed the measures adopted by that of Panama. was that notwithstanding applications of the Government of Chili, that of Colombia has maintained the absolute closure, in accordance with the advice of sundry sanitary councils and authorities of reputation who were consulted on the subject.

Later information made it appear that the cholera had ceased, but when the Government was about to modify its existing decrees, in a sense unfavorable to closure, the Colombian chargé d'affaires at Santiago advised that with a change of season the epidemic had reappeared in various provinces of Chili. In view of this intelligence the Government did not hesitate in its determination to maintain absolute

This action on the part of the Colombian Government has been in accord with other Governments on the Pacific coast, which have likewise closed their ports against vessels coming from infected ports, as this ministry is informed periodically by its agents in Lima and Guayaquil.

This Government does not conceal the fact that the danger of the epidemic spreading from Chili to Colombia has not presented a like degree of probability at all times, and that consequently the preventive measures should be in proportion as the danger is more or less imminent. But in the absence of such sanitary systems as exist in other countries, it has been quite impossible to establish gradations of which I speak, or to diminish the precautions taken, until the absolute disappearance of the dauger of infection.

For this reason, although we have had in view the various systems of disinfection and quarantine of France, for example, and the measures advocated by sanitary conferences and congresses, the Government has found itself obliged, in presence of the danger, and in absence of the necessary means of prevention, to resort to absolute closure to protect the country from this fearful scourge.

For the rest, the undersigned is persuaded that the Government of the United States should recognize that as there are no existing means on the Pacific side of Colombia for disinfecting objects brought in vessels from Chili in transit across the isthmus to the United States, there will always be a danger which can not be eliminated as long as cholera exists in Chili.

In spite of the considerations which the undersigned has just laid before the chargé d'affaires of the United States, this Government to day telegraphed its agent at Santiago, requesting information in regard to the present sanitary condition of Chili, and the probability of the reappearance of cholera in case it has lately disappeared.

The undersigned reiterates, etc.,

VICENTE RESTREPO.

No. 279.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Walker.

No. 63.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, March 6, 1888.

SIR: I have to call your attention to the following facts, in respect of which your prompt action is desirable.

The Boston Ice Company, a partnership composed exclusively of citizens of the United States, has been for more than twenty-three years engaged in the business of shipping ice, lumber, and general merchandise to the cities of Aspinwall and Panama, in the Republic of Colombia, for sale by the agents or representatives of the company, and is now engaged in such business. It appears from papers laid before the Department that the shipping of ice to the cities of Aspinwall and Panama and the selling of such ice therein constitutes the principal part of the business of this ice company, in which part of its business it has a large amount of capital invested and many agents and officers employed. Indeed, the Boston Ice Company appears to be the only importer and dealer in ice in the two important cities named.

It appears that on November 21, 1887, President Nuñez promulgated a decree, countersigned by Mr. Restrepo, minister of the treasury, for establishing a monopoly of the importation and sale of natural ice in the department. This decree you will find published in the Diario Oficial of November 24, 1887. It provides that the Government of Colombia reserves to itself the monopoly of the importation and sale of natural ice in the department of Panama; that the Government may grant said monopoly or privilege to an individual or to a company either by private contract or at public auction; that the grantee of such privilege may transfer it to another individual or company with the previous assent of the Government, and that from the day whereon the grantee of said privilege enters into the enjoyment thereof no individual or company shall import ice into said department of Panama without the consent of said grantee.

On January 21, 1888, Mr. Restrepo, minister of the treasury, issued a printed invitation for proposals or bids for the concession suggested by the above decree, with a form of the contract which would be required, a translation of which is herewith inclosed. You will probably have no difficulty in procuring a printed copy of this invitation in Snanish on making request in the proper quarter.

You will then ascertain and report whether, under the laws and usages of Colombia to which the native citizens of that Republic are subject, a monopoly in any article of trade or commerce is allowable, and whether the contract of concession suggested by Mr. Restrepo, minister of the treasury, is in conflict with the laws and usages of the United States of Colombia.

If you should discover that the granting of such a monopoly as is proposed in this concession is not warranted by the laws of Colombia, you will report the same to this Department and await further instructions.

If you should, on the other hand, discover that such a monopoly is not inconsistent with the usages and laws of that country, you will then make known unofficially to the minister of foreign affairs the ruinous result upon the business of the Boston Ice Company of enforcing such a decree on the conditions outlined in the proposed concession, and of the utter discouragement to the investment hereafter of any American capital, or the promotion of any American enterprise, if such a fate should await other American citizens who, like the company in question, have for more than twenty years lent the aid of their capital and business energies in faithful subordination to the laws of Colombia in the development of the convenience, comfort, and health of the people of that country.

The spirit of the treaty of 1846 is one of closest amity between the two countries, and under the terms of this treaty, especially under article 35, the active good offices of the United States have been exerted with the highest benefit to the Republic of Colombia.

It would be well for you to impress the minister with the fact that the severance of interests between the inhabitants of the two countries must necessarily be followed by a diminution of personal good feeling; and it would be deeply regrettable if a check should now be given to the immigration of American citizens of reputation and wealth into Colombia, where their presence has been heretofore only productive of great good to that country and also to themselves.

As following these views, it would be well for you in a friendly manner to see whether a modification of the terms contained in the seventh article of this concession could not be obtained.

It is not the disposition of this Government to interfere in any way with the administration of the laws of another and a friendly power, but where the interests of American citizens have been sought to be secured by treaty and are unexpectedly exposed to invasion and injury it is part of the duty of one friendly government to point out to another the injurious results that must necessarily follow.

It is the wish of this Government that the overflow of numbers, capital, and energy from the United States into the Republic of Colombia, should continue to benefit both countries, and that they shall understand that it is the part of friendship to point out all circumstances that may tend to jeopardize the good feeling that should be encouraged to exist between the citizens of the two countries. Monopolies are held in the United States to be obnoxious and to be violative of sound public policy, as being in restraint of trade and destructive of that equality which should exist before the law, and be followed by a government with the citizens under its control.

No condition could be held valid which deprived a citizen of the right to appeal to the protecting power of his own Government, for that is secured to him by the eternal principles of justice as reflected in well-known international law.

The United States have no reason to believe that any discrimination against its citizens is intended by the Government of Colombia, and therefore, in presenting this subject to the foreign office, you will do so personally and not officially, frankly stating the friendly object with which the present dispatch to you is penned; that is, to prevent injuries to important interests of citizens of the United States lawfully engaged in business in Colombia, following the laws of that country, and giving it the benefit of their capital and enterprise.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 63.—Translation from the Diario Oficial, published at Bogota, Thursday, November 24, 1887, of decree number 719 of 1887.]

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Decree number 719 of 1887 (21st of November) for the monopolizing of the importation and sale of natural ice in the department of Panama.

The President of the Republic considering that, by the decree number 858, of December 12, 1885, which is to-day the law of the Republic, agreeably to transitory article L of the Constitution, the National Government reserved to itself the administration of the department of Panama in all its branches;

That, by article third of said decree, there were delegated to the governor of that department the necessary powers to reorganize in all its branches the public administration of the said department, which implies that the Government had reserved them

That the delegation of powers to a Government official does not imply any surrender of the right to exercise the same by said Government, decrees: ART, 1. The Government reserves to itself, as a financial measure for the Department of Panama, the monopoly of the importation and sale of natural ice in the said department.

ART. 2. The privilege which, by the preceding article, the Government reserves to itself, may be granted to an individual or to a company, either by a private contract or at public auction, and in accordance with the tenders of bids, which the Treasury Department will publish at appropriate intervals.

ART. 3. The grantee may transfer such privilege to another individual or company with the previous consent of the Government.

ART. 4. From the day whereon the grantee enters into the enjoyment of the privilege of which this decree treats, no individual or company shall import ice into the department of Panama without the consent of said grantee.

ART. 5. In case the Government does not grant this privilege, which by the present decree it reserves to itself, it will avail itself of the same when it may be deemed expedient, for which purpose the appropriate announcement shall be issued with due notice.

Given at Anapoima, November 21, 1887.

RAFAEL NUÑEZ.

VICENTE RESTREPO Minister of the Treasury.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 63.—Translation.]

Official notice of the Government of Panama inviting proposals for the importation and manufacture of ice in that Department.

IMPORTANT.—OFFICIAL NOTICE.—ICE.

Until the 18th proximo, this Government, duly authorized, will receive proposals for the importation and manufacture of ice in the department, which will be transmitted to Bogota by cable.

Conditions for the proposals.

 The contract or concession will be for twenty years.
 The payment of the tax to be established will be made annually in advance at the general office of the department treasury, in silver coin 0.835 fine.

(3) The buildings, machinery, ice-houses, etc., in good condition, will become the property of the Government, without pay, at the termination of the concession.

(4) Security satisfactory to the Government will be given.

(5) It will be a strict condition to renounce diplomatic remedies for whatever dispute may arise, obeying unconditionally the national laws.

(6) The maximum price of ice of every kind shall not exceed 10 centavos per kilogram at retail.

By superior orders.

Francisco de Fabrega, Jr., General Secretary.

PANAMA, January 14, 1888.

[Inclosure 3 in No. 63.—Translation.]

Proposals invited for a contract of concession for the manufacture, importation, and sale of ice in the department of Panama.

> DEPARTMENT OF TREASURY, Bogotá, January 21, 1888.

Inasmuch as the contract of concession for the manufacture and sale of ice in the department of Panama, made at public auction to Mr. Christian A. Maal, has not been approved by his excellency the President of the Republic, and in consideration of act No. 42, of 1883, passed by the legislative assembly of the extinct State of Panama, and of executive decree No. 719, of the 21st of November last, published respectively in Nos. 7140 and 7240 of the Diario Oficial, all persons, citizens of this nation, or foreign citizens who may desire to obtain the concession for the manufacture, importation, and sale of ice in the aforesaid department are invited to send their proposals to this ministry on or before February 29 next, at 2 p. m.

The proposals referred to will be subject to the following conditions:

RIGHTS OF THE CONTRACTOR HOLDING THE CONCESSION.

I. The Government concedes to N. N. the exclusive right to manufacture, import, and sell ice in the department of Panama for the term of - (which will not exceed twenty years).

II. From the time when N. N. enters upon the enjoyment of the concession granted to him, which will take place — (number of months) after the grant of the concession, no person or company will be allowed to manufacture, import, or sell ice in the department of Panama without the consent of the contractor.

III. N. N. shall have the right to demand the expropriation of land which he may require for buildings, aqueducts, and warehouses needed for the manufacture, importation, or sale of ice. The seizure, to take effect under existing laws on the subject, provides indemnity which the contractor must pay.

IV. The Government declares that the manufacture, importation, and sale of ice in the department of Panama is a work of public utility (empresa de utilitad publica), and that, for such reason, it shall be exempt from all kinds of imposts, taxes, and duties, whether they be national, territorial, or municipal.

V. It also declares that the agents, employés, and servants of this work shall be exempt from all public service.

OBLIGATIONS OF THE CONTRACTOR HOLDING THE CONCESSION.

I. N. N. shall pay into the treasury of the department of Panama in silver coin ($35 fine) the sum of —— for each year during the continuance of the concession, and make such payments annually in advance.

II. N. N. shall bind himself to furnish, free of cost, to the charitable and military hospitals now established, or which may be established in the cities of Panama and Colon, and on the line of the railroad and the canal, all the ice which, in the judgment of the physician or superintendent of each establishment, they may need.

III. N. N. shall pay, for the benefit of public instruction, a fine of $25 for each day that he fails to supply said hospitals with the ice they may require, except in case of accidents

IV. N. N. shall keep on hand the amount of ice required for consumption, and the places for its sale shall be open to the public from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m.

V. N. N. shall bind himself to sell ice at not over 10 centavos per kilogram.

VI. At the expiration of the concession, N. N. shall cede to the department of Panama, without right to any indemnity whatever, the buildings, machinery, apparatus, and store-houses set up on the isthmus for the manufacture and sale of ice.

VII. N. N. shall bind himself (if a foreigner) not to resort in any event to diplomatic reclamations in controversies which may arise in regard to the interpretation and execution of this contract.

VIII. N. N. shall, in like manner, be bound to submit himself to the respective judges and courts of the Republic for the settlement of said controversies.

IX. N. N. shall guaranty the fulfillment of this contract by mortgage security, or bonds satisfactory to the department of treasury, to the amount of two of the annual payments due the department of Panama under Section I of these obligations.

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

I. The present contract shall become void, without further notice, if, within-(such a time) from the granting the concession, the manufacture, importation, and distribution of ice, in quantities sufficient for the consumption, should not have been commenced.

II. In like manner it shall become void in case of more than six months' delay of any annual payment, or if the supply and sale of ice is suspended for more than one month, except in case of accidents. Such annulment of contract being proclaimed, the amount pledged to secure the fulfillment of the contract, under section 9 of the obligations of the contractor, shall belong to the Government.

III. The contractor shall not assign this concession to any other person or company without the previous consent of the Government, and in no event to a foreign gov-

IV. The contract, made by virtue of this public bidding, shall be subject to the approval of the executive branch of this Government, without which it will not be

The proposals shall be presented folded, closed, and sealed, and on the envelope shall be written the contents and name of the bidder; and they must be accompanied by a bond, drawn up on stamped paper of the first class, and signed in the presence of witnesses.

At 12 o'clock noon, on the 1st day of March, the papers will be opened, the bonds offered will be examined, and bids and counter-bids will be listened to, in which no person shall take part except those who have made written proposals and whose bondsmen have been adjudged to be satisfactory. In these bids and counter-bids (pujas i repujas) the largest payment offered to the department and the shortest time for which the concession is desired will be considered as the best bid.

VICENTE RESTREPO, Minister.

A true copy. Attest: [SEAL.]

Adolfo Aleman, Oficial Mayor.

No. 280.

Mr. Walker to Mr. Bayard.

No. 95.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Bogotá, March 7, 1888. (Received April 6.)

SIR: As a subject which may be of interest to the State Department and important to some of our citizens coming to this country to reside, I have the honor to inclose herewith a copy in Spanish of the "Concordat" recently celebrated between the Holy See of Rome and the Colombian Government, with a careful translation. In making this translation I regretted that I did not have access to the original Latin text in which it was drawn up and signed, but had to content myself with the Spanish translation, which in some of the articles is vague and ambiguous. The first clause of the seventeenth article is so much so that in my translation I was forced to be paraphrastic rather than literal.

As a part of the same subject I herewith transmit a copy with translation of law 30, passed by the legislative council on the 25th of February last, which virtually annuls all civil marriages celebrated at any time in the past, unless the ceremony was also performed canonically. The annulment of the marriage, however, does not illegitimatize the children of such marriage.

I am, sir, etc.,

JNO. G. WALKER.

[Inclosure 1 in No. 95.—Translation.]

CONCORDAT ENTERED INTO BETWEEN POPE LEO XIII AND THE REPUBLIC OF COLOMBIA.

[Concluded December 31, 1887. Ratified by the legislative council of Colombia February 24, 1888.

In the name of the most holy and indivisible Trinity, the supreme pontiff, Leo XIII, and the most excellent Rafael Nuñez, President of the Republic of Colombia, by their respective representatives, to wit, on the part of his holiness, the most eminent Monsignore Mariana Rampolla del Tindaro, cardinal presbyter of the most holy church of St. Cecelia and papal secretary of state; and on the part of the Republic, his excellency Joaquin Vélez, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary near the Holy See, who, after a mutual exchange of credentials, have concluded the following convention:

ĀRT. 1. The Catholic, Roman, Apostolic is the religion of Colombia, the public authorities of which shall recognize it as an essential element of social order, and they bind themselves to protect it in all its rights and privileges, and to cause it and its ministers to be respected.

ART. 2. The Catholic Church shall be free and independent of the civil authority, and shall freely exercise all its spiritual authority and jurisdiction, conforming in its administrative government solely to its own laws.

ART. 3. Canonical legislation shall be free of the civil, and shall form no part of the latter, but will be respected by the latter.

ART. 4. The church, represented by its hierarchical authorities, is recognized by the state as a true and legitimate entity, with capacity to exercise and enjoy all rights pertaining to such.

ART. 5. The church has the right of acquiring, possessing, and administering real and personal property, in accordance to general laws, and its lands and establishment.

ments shall be no less inviolable than those of the citizens of the Republic.

ART. 6. Ecclesiastical property may be taxed in the same manner and to the same extent as the property of private individuals, except edifices for public worship, theological seminaries, and the residences of the clergy, which are exempt from all taxation, occupation, or appropriation to other uses.

ART. 7. The secular and regular clergy shall not be required to perform public duties incompatible with their ministry and profession, and at all times shall be exempt from military service.

ART. 8. The Government shall enact such laws as will protect the sacerdotal dignity whenever, for any cause, a minister of the church may figure in criminal trials.

ART. 9. Diocesan bishops and parish priests may claim from the faithful the emoluments and ecclesiastical fees canonically and equitably established, either by the immemorial custom of the diocese or by the rules of religious services; and in order that such acts and obligations may produce civil effects, and that the temporal authority may lend its support, the bishops shall proceed in accord with the Government.

ART. 10. Competent ecclesiastical authority has the right in Colombia to establish religious orders of both sexes, to be governed by suitable constitutions. But in order to secure the enjoyment of the rights of a lawful corporation and the protection of the laws, they must present to the civil authorities the canonical authorization issued by their ecclesiastical superior.

ART. 11. The Holy See will lend its support and co-operation to the Government for the establishment in Colombia of religious institutions, giving preference to those for charitable purposes, for missions, for the education of youth, and for general education, and to other works of public utility and beneficence.

ART. 12. Public education and instruction in universities, colleges, schools, and in other centers of instruction shall be organized and directed in conformity with the dogmas and moral teachings of the Catholic Church.

ART. 13. Consequently, in such centers of instruction the respective diocesan bishops, either by themselves or by special delegation, shall exercise the right, in whatever concerns religion and morals, to inspect and revise the text-books in use in the

The archbishop of Bogotá shall prescribe the text-books relating to religion and morals to be used in the universities; and to insure uniformity of teaching on those subjects, said prelate, in connection with other bishops, shall choose the text-books for the other schools of official instruction.

The Government shall see that no lectures are delivered on literary, scientific, or general subjects in any branch of learning that inculcate ideas contrary to Catholic dogmas or calculated to lessen the respect due to the church.

ART. 14. If, in spite of the orders and precautions of the Government, the moral and religious teaching (in universities, colleges, etc.) shall not conform to Catholic doc-trines, the respective diocesans may withdraw from the offending professors and masters the privilege of teaching in such branches.

ART. 15. The Holy See has the right to fill vacancies in the archbishoprics and bishoprics, but the holy father, as an evidence of special deference and to the end of preserving perfect harmony between the church and the state, agrees that in filling such vacancies the previous consent of the President shall be obtained. To that end, when such vacancies occur, the President may recommend directly to the Holy See such ecclesiastics, as in his judgment unite in themselves the gifts and qualifications necessary for the episcopal dignity; and the Holy See, on its part, before making the appointment, shall always communicate the names of the candidates for promotion in order to ascertain whether or not the President considers the candidates civilly or politically disqualified for such positions. Vacancies in the bishoprics to be filled as soon as possible, and in no case to remain unfilled for more than six months.

ART. 16. The Holy See may erect new dioceses, or change the limits of those existing whenever it is thought opportune and useful for the better care of souls, previously consulting the Government and admitting such suggestions as may be reasonable and just.

ART. 17. All persons professing the Catholic religion, desirous of contracting marriage, should have the ceremony performed according to the rites of the church.

The civil effects of marriage, in respect to the persons and property of the contracting parties and their descendants, can only be secured when the marriage is performed in accordance with the prescriptions of the Council of Trent. This celebration shall be witnessed by the functionary who may be designated by law for the sole purpose of verifying the entry of the marriage in the civil registry. But in cases of marriage in articulo mortis, when this formality might be difficult of observance, it may be dispensed with, and other proof substituted.

It being the business of the contracting parties to secure the intervention of the civil functionary for the registry, the duty of the clergyman is limited to an admonition as to the requirements of the civil law.

ART. 18. In order to give marriages celebrated at whatever period, according to the prescriptions of the Council of Trent, civil effect, suppletory evidence of ecclesiastical origin will be given preference.

ART. 19. Matrimonial causes affecting the married relation, cohabitation, and the validity of espousals pertain exclusively to the ecclesiastical authority, the civil consequences of marriage to the temporal.

ART. 20. The armies of the Republic shall enjoy the indulgences known as castrenses, to be regulated by the holy father in a separate act.

ART. 21. Following the divine offices there shall be offered up in all the churches of the Republic the following prayers: Domine salvam fac Rempublicam; Domine sal-vum fac Præsidem ejus et supremas ejus auctoritates.

ART. 22. The government of the Republic recognizes in perpetuity as a consolidated debt the value of the redeemed annuities (censos) now in the treasury, and of the estates belonging to the church fraternities, charitable foundations, chapels, establishments for instruction and benevolence erected by the church, which at any time may have been inscribed in the public debt of the nation. This recognized debt is to bear interest without diminution at the annual rate of 4½ per centum payable every

ART. 23. The income arising from sequestrated benefices and tithings pertaining to charitable institutions, chapels, monasteries, and other separate foundations is recognized and shall be paid to those who have the right to receive them, or to their legal representatives. This payment shall be made without diminution as is provided for in the last preceding article, to commence with year 1888. In case any such bodies have become extinct, the amounts due them by a previous arrangement with the Government shall be applied to pious and charitable objects without in any case contravening the intention of the founders.

ART 24. In view of the present condition of the national treasury of Colombia and the benefit derived by the church from the observance of this convention, the Holy See makes the following relinquishments:

(a) The value of the principal of the sequestered property belonging to the aforesaid extinct convents and religious bodies of both sexes, not included in the foregoing articles, and which has not in any manner been recognized. (b) Whatever is due to such extinct organizations for rents or interest already accrued, or in whatever manner resulting, from said sequestration previous to the 31st of December, 1887.

ART. 25. In consideration of the foregoing favor the Government of Colombia agrees to secure, in perpetuity, an annual net sum, hereby fixed at one hundred thousand Colombian dollars, to be increased when the said treasury is in a better condition, said payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters, seminaries, missaid payments to be applied to the uses of the dioceses, chapters are the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioceses of the dioc sions, and such other civilizing works of the church, and in such manner as may be agreed upon between the high contracting parties.

ART. 26. The surviving members of the extinct religious communities shall continue in the enjoyment, for their maintenance and other necessities, of such revenues as may have belonged to them by virtue of previous laws and decrees.

ART. 27. In like manner shall be paid the rents and incomes set aside by anterior laws and decrees for the support of public worship in churches, chapels, and other religious places not included in article 22. If concerning this point there should be doubt or difficulty, the Government shall communicate with the competent ecclesiastical authorities, to the end that a good understanding may be arrived at.

ART. 28. The Government shall return to religious bodies such of their sequestrated property as has no distinct destination; but if the owner does not come forward, or if he fills no ecclesiastical office, it may be sold and the proceeds applied to pious and benevolent objects, according to the most pressing needs of each diocese, the proceeding in such cases to be in accord with the ecclesiastical authorities.

ART. 29. The Holy See, in order to secure public tranquillity, declares, for its part, that persons who purchased ecclesiastical property during the past changes in Colombia, or who have redeemed annuities (censos) in the national treasury, according to the provisions of the civil law at the time in force, shall not be disturbed in any manner by the ecclesiastical authorities, a favor extended not only to those who performed the acts, but to those who, in the exercise of whatsoever functions, may have taken part in the same, in such manner that the first purchasers, as well as their legal successors and those who have redeemed annuities (censos), shall enjoy in peace and security said property, its products and emoluments, stipulating, however, that the Republic shall not in future repeat similar acts of seizure.

ART. 30. The Government of the Republic shall arrange with the respective diocesan bishops all that relates to cemeteries, reconciling the exigencies of their civil and sanitary character with the veneration due the sacredness of such places and with ecclesiastical prescriptions. In case of misunderstandings on such subjects, they will be arranged between the Holy See and the Government.

ART. 31. Agreements between the Holy See and the Government of Colombia for fostering Catholic missions among barbarous tribes shall not require the after approval

ART. 32. The present convention repeals and renders null and void all laws, orders, and decrees, in whatsoever mode or period they were promulgated, in such parts as may contradict or are inconsistent with this convention, which shall remain the permanent law of the State.

ART. 33. The ratification of this convention shall take place within six months from the date of its signature, or sooner, if possible.

In faith whereof the said plenipotentiaries sign and seal this convention.

Done at Rome the 31st day of December, 1887.

M. CARDINAL RAMPOLLA. JOAQUIN F. VÉLEZ.

NATIONAL LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL, Bogotá, February 24, 1888.

Considering (1) that in the celebration of the foregoing convention the Government has acted within the powers conferred upon it by article 56 of the fundamental law of the Republic.

(2) That by this agreement, which satisfactorily and consistently settles all pending questions between the church and the State in conformity with the new national régime, and at the same time responds to imperious necessity and public well-being, which demanded the definition of the mutual relations between the civil and the ecclesiastical powers; and

(3) That its stipulations conform strictly to the provisions of articles 38, 41, 47, 53, 54, and 55 of the constitution.

It is decreed-

ART. I. That the foregoing convention is hereby approved and incorporated in the present law.

ART. II. The amount to be paid out of the treasury of the Republic to fulfill its obligations thereby created is hereby appropriated, and will be included in the budget of the present fiscal period.

Given at Bogotá this 24th day of February, 1888.

CARLOS CALDERON. R. President. José Maria Rubio. F.. Vice-President.

ROBERTO DE NARVAEZ, MANUEL BRIGARO, Secretaries.

> EXECUTIVE GOVERNMENT, Bogotá, February 27, 1888.

Let it be published and executed. [L. S.] (Countersigned.) VICENTE RESTREPO, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

RAFAEL NUÑEZ.

[Inclosure 2 in No. 95-Translation-Extract from law 30, of 1888.]

ART. 34. A marriage, contracted in conformity with the rites of the Catholic religion, annuls ipso jure a purely civil marriage, previously entered into with another person.

ART. 35. For purely civil effects, the law recognizes the legitimacy of the children, conceived previously to the annulment of the civil marriage, in accordance with the provisions of the last preceding article.

ART. 36. The man who, after having contracted a civil marriage, afterwards marries another woman, according to the rites of the Catholic Church, is required to provide subsistence to the woman and his children by her until she marries canon-

No. 281.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Walker.

No. 68.].

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, March 29, 1888.

SIR: In your No. 90, of the 28th ultimo, you state the case of Francis

W. Putnam, an applicant for a passport.

Mr. Putnam is a native American citizen, a resident of the Republic of Colombia, and obtained, on December 20, 1884, a passport from Minister Scruggs. He was subsequently convicted in a Colombian court of a felony, sentenced to a term of imprisonment, which sentence he served out, when he was discharged without a pardon.

He now applies for a renewal of his passport, and you ask the opinion of the Department in the case.

The question presented is whether a foreign conviction of crime is a bar to an application by the party convicted for a passport, and the Department holds that it is not, because foreign convictions of crime are not to be regarded as extraterritorial in their operation.

It would be well, however, in the present case, before issuing a passport, to inquire whether the applicant retains his American nationality or whether he has abandoned it with no intention of renewal.

Allegiance and protection are correlative, and if the former has been forsaken the latter is no longer due. If the applicant has no intention of performing the duties of an American citizen he has no just claim for a certificate of such citizenship.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 282.

Mr. Walker to Mr. Bayard.

[Extract.]

No. 105.]

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES, Bogotá, April 7, 1888. (Received May 5.)

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your No. 63, of the 6th of March last, and would inform you, that when the intention of the Colombian Government to let a contract for the ice monopoly on the Isthmus of Panama was first made public, I looked into the question with the view of protesting against it, should I find sufficient grounds. I found, however, that it had long been the custom of this Government to grant such monopolies. For instance, the exclusive privilege of slaughtering, the sale of salt, tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, and lucifer matches, in Bogotá and other places in the Republic, is sold to the highest bidder, in the same manner as has just been done with the ice monopoly on the isthmus.

On general principles I felt sure that such a measure could but be prejudicial to American interests.

The first letting was fixed for the 18th of January last, and on the 15th I received a cablegram from the agent of the Boston Ice Company requesting my interference in its behalf. This was the first intimation I had had of its interest in the question, or of the existence even of I immediately called on the minister of foreign affairs, such a company. Holguin, and unofficially represented to him the injury the proposed measure would be to the company in question, and generally the impolicy of such a measure. He replied, in substance, that the Government was compelled to draw revenue from every available source, and that the letting would have to be made in accordance with the published programme. I pointed out to him that, as there were but three days before the letting, the time ought to be extended, so as to allow the Boston Ice Company to take measures to protect its interest, or to bid for the contract should it desire to do so. He admitted the fairness of this suggestion, and promised to see the President, and if possible to have the time for closing the contract extended. The day following he informed me he had seen the President, and that letting had been postponed forty days, namely, until the 1st day of March.

In both of these interviews with Minister Holguin I dwelt upon the injury the granting of this monopoly would be to the company which had long been engaged in the ice business on the isthmus, and had a large capital embarked in the enterprise, and that in any event time should be allowed it to dispose of its stock and plant, and suggested one year for this purpose. He admitted the reasonableness of this suggestion, and promised that it should be taken into consideration when the contract was to be formulated, but added that he could not promise that as much as a year would be granted, but said he would do the best he could. The Government did fix ten months from the day of letting for the contract with the new parties to go into effect, and I was assured by Minister Restrepo afterwards that this time was given in compliance with Minister Holguin's promise to me.

Inaccordance with the invitation for proposals from Minister Restrepo, dated Bogotá, January 21, 1888, the contract was let out in this city on the 1st day of March, and was taken by Messrs Maal, José Ma. Sierra, Juan de C. Gaveria, and associates, for the term of twenty years, at $45,000, Colombian silver, per annum, payable yearly in advance; the contract to go into effect ten months from the date of the letting.

I have just returned from an interview with Señor Restrepo, minister of foreign affairs, in which I called his attention to the points dwelt on in your dispatch, as objections against the ice monopoly. He assured me that nothing but the poverty of the Government would have induced it to grant the monopoly in question, but that the contract had now been made, as I already knew; the money required from the grantees to insure its fulfillment on their part had been deposited; and that it was therefore irrevocable. To the friendly expressions in your dispatch towards the Colombian Government the minister replied that these sentiments were fully reciprocated by his Government, and that as an evidence of its desire to throw no obstructions in the way of the freest trade intercourse between the two countries his Government had permitted the free introduction of fresh beef on ice from the United States, notwithstanding the fact that there was a slaughter monopoly on the isthmus.

It may be mentioned that the Boston Ice Company itself enjoyed the advantages of an ice monopoly at one time on the isthmus, as I am informed by Mr. R. W. Rice, its Panama agent, in a letter to this legation, dated January 2, received January 18 last.

I am, etc.,

JNO. G. WALKER.

No. 283.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Walker.

No. 75.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, April 17, 1888.

SIR: A copy of your No. 92, of the 1st ultimo, concerning the entire closure of the Pacific isthmus ports against vessels coming from Chili, having been inclosed to the Postmaster General, I now state in substance his views in regard to the question.

While this is the first instance known to the Post-Office Department of an absolute exclusion of the mails as a sanitary measure, yet it is to be observed that the ordinary precautions of disinfection, etc., have never proved entirely effective as regards cholera, and therefore, despite the inconvenience caused by the action of the Colombian Government, the Postmaster-General is of opinion that we will have no tenable ground of complaint if the ports are opened as soon as the danger of infection ceases.

This Department is, however, disposed to regard the Colombian measures as extreme and at variance with the usages of civilized nations, not to speak of the transit question involved.

The mails are, as we are informed, now being sent to Chili via Buenos Ayres.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 284.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Walker.

No. 78.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, April 28, 1888.

SIR: The Department has been informed by our consul-general at Panama that citizens of the United States are required to pay a capitation tax in that department from which British subjects are exempted by virtue of the treaty between Great Britain and Colombia of 1866.

Reply was made to the consul-general's protest by the secretarygeneral that the matter has been referred to the supreme Government of the Republic.

This Department holds that citizens of the United States in Colombia are exempted from paying any tax from which the subjects or citizens of another power are exempt both by the "favored nation" clause of our treaty of 1846 with Colombia, and by the general principle of the law of nations which justifies this Government in insisting that there shall be no undue discrimination against citizens of the United States wherever they may be resident.

You are instructed to bring this question to the attention of the Colombian Government, and to urge the Department's views upon it.

I am, sir, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

No. 285.

Mr. Bayard to Mr. Walker.

No. 81.]

DEPARTMENT OF STATE, Washington, June 6, 1888.

SIR: I inclose copy of a letter from Mr. Leonard Myers, of Philadelphia, relating to the claim of the Panama Star and Herald against the Government of Colombia.*

As this case does not fall within the lines of the negotiations begun some time ago in reference to the settlement of claims for destruction of property during the disturbances on the Isthmus, it is hoped the Colombian Government will consider and adjust the claim on its merits and without reference to the method of disposing of other classes of claims.

I am, etc.,

T. F. BAYARD.

[Inclosure in No. 81.]

Mr. Myers to Mr. Bayard.

125 SOUTH SEVENTH STREET, Philadelphia, May 12, 1888.

DEAR SIR: Your polite reply this day received informs me that the claim of the Panama Star and Herald was presented by our minister at Bogota to the Government of Colombia, and that the minister of the latter Government suggested that it be presented with others growing out of the disturbances of 1885 in the Isthmus to the claims convention for the creation of which negotiations are still pending.

I am much pleased that no authority has been given to our minister to assent to this proposition.

I had the honor in my letter of May 23, 1887, to write you that the wrong done to the Panama Star and Herald was not until 1886 and did not arise out of the disturbances of the previous year.

The outrage was an independent one, not caused by insurgents, but a seizure by the authorities themselves. It does not fall within the scope of the Congressional inquiry of February 16, 1887, your reply to which was made on the 19th of that month. It was natural that Colombia should endeavor to postpone a settlement, just as she wishes to postpone the creation of the claims convention which is contemplated.

