PROFESSOR GRIGGS TO SHOW MOVIES OF VOLCANIC ALASKA

Prof. R. F. Griggs of the National Geographic society at Washington will give an illustrated lecture at 4:30 this afternoon on "The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes," in the auditorium of Agricultural hall instead of 165 Bascom hall as advertised.

Ten years ago Professor Griggs went on an expedition to Alaska to make a geographical study of region laid waste by the eruption of Katmai. At his lecture today he will exhibit motion pictures of this volcanic region which he was the first to open to human knowledge.

The graphic descriptions of the new wonder given by Professor Griggs in the National Geographic Magazine of January, 1917, were so remarkable as to cause ex-President Wilson to set aside the region, 1,700 square miles, as the Katmai National Monument. All of the volcanic phenomena of this region had their origin in the great eruption of 1912, the explosions of which were so violent that within two days the effects of its ash cloud were noticed in Wisconsin, 2,000 miles away. The crater of Katmai produced by the eruption is a tremendous abyss more than half a mile deep.

CHESTERTON SCORES IGNORANCE OF EDUCATED IN BRILLIANT PARADOX

By W. M. SALE

"That German is drinking beer," remarks the uneducated man, with his grip upon the facts of life in their simplicity; the educated man, with his floating, fashionable fallacies, comments "That Teuton is consuming alcohol."

Thus, in a brief, sweeping aphorism, Gilbert Keith Chesterton presented the crux of his paradox, "The Ignorance of the Educated," in his lecture in the high school auditorium last evening. Paradox, perhaps, one uses ill-advisedly, for, according to his own telling, the search of his lengthy works of common-sense has led him to the desire to develop a noble religious epic, "Paradox Lost," and one ponders, half-whimsically, half-thoughtfully, on the conclusion of his speech, "Why, oh why, be educated?"

Chesterton a Character

Fortunately, or unfortunately, Chesterton has made himself a character, rather than a medium for the presentation of ideas. He spoke, wrapped in Chestertonian atmosphere, as truly a part of the man as his Bolivar-poncho cloak, vast sombrero, and Samsonian locks. His thoughts were phrased in the Queen's Chestertonese; and his audience, determined upon enjoying him, followed the slightest touch of his individual humor with an appreciative laugh.

One could scarcely corroborate the sentiment held by Mr. A. G. Gardner and his school that Mr. Chesterton is only the embodiment, perhaps the over-embodiment of jest, without serious reservations, for there was much of worth in his words. His ideas did not ring with supreme ineptitude—the desire to conclude; they seemed more of a search on his part to go with his audience on paths which he had traveled, rather than to lead them by the hand to a definite, clearly-distinguished goal.

Trammelled With Theories

The educated man, in his advance from free peasantry and the simple adjustment of the problems confronting him, had become trammelled with theories, fine-spun and entangling, which prevented his clear conception of the facts of life, Chesterton declared. As the man who painted his whiskers green and then sought for a method of obscuring his luxurious verdant growth, so the educated man spins out his theories and seeks protection from their consequences. Free peasantry needed no socialism or individualism as a remedy for arising disorders; it did not need look to the common consciousness of "the people—the state—as the desired owner of the land and adjuster of troubles. Developing the idea of a civiliza-

CINDER MEN TO RUN NOTRE DAME HERE SATURDAY

Olympic Stars Will Offer Stiff Competition to Badgers

In excellent condition after participating in the Fourth Annual University of Illinois Relay carnival at Urbana last Saturday, the Wisconsin track team is preparing for the meet against Notre Dame on Saturday, Mar. 12, at Madison.

The Badgers won a third place in the four mile relay race at Illinois and showed up strong in most of the special events. Kayser, Badger middle distance runner, was barely nosed out of first in his heat of the mile relay. Captain Kasper, Notre Dame, beat Kayser to the tape by a few inches.

Notre Dame Strong

Notre Dame, with two Olympic stars in the lineup, will give Wisconsin closer competition than did Northwestern. Johnny Murphy, one of the best high jumpers in America, and August Desch holder of the world's record in the 40-yard low hurdles, are two of the best track and field men who represented America in the Olympic games at Antwerp, Belgium.

Murphy injured his knee in the American Legion meet at Boston recently, and although he has been kept from competition since that time, the star will undoubtedly enter against Wisconsin.

Coach Knute Rockne, Notre Dame, will bring 15 track men to Wisconsin. In addition to Murphy and Desch, the Indianans have Wynne, a hurdler who tied the

Dr. Meanwell Denies Story in Journal

To Wisconsin Students:

Dr. Meanwell has asked me to deny, through the columns of the Daily Cardinal, the absurd remarks he is alleged to have made concerning next year's basketball prospects in last night's Wisconsin State Journal.

Director of Athletics, T. E. Jones, who, according to yesterday's Journal, is claimed to have overheard the remarks, will readily testify as to the falsity of the statements attributed to Coach Meanwell. Predictions of the nature stated, coming from one in Dr. Meanwell's position, would tend to create a most unfavorable impression of him in the minds of other conference coaches.

Furthermore, Dr. Meanwell is not in the habit of doing any personal prophesying for the State Journal nor for any other paper. He believes that one in his position cannot afford to do so when the results of basketball games are determined by a great many conditions other than the coach.

The fact that Michigan and Illinois each lose but one man, Minnesota two, and Northwestern and Ohio none, show the folly of Meanwell making any such assertions as he is credited with having made.

VARSITY EXPO TO BEGIN DAY AFTER RECESS

Exhibits Will Be Erected During Week of Spring Vacation

Beginning a day after spring vacation, the University Exposition will run for the three days of April 21, 22, and 23, both afternoon and evening. The formal opening of the Exposition will be on Thursday afternoon the 21st, and the building will be open, with the exception of mornings, from then until the doors close at midnight Saturday the 23rd.

"This date has been chosen because we will then have the beginning of the week during spring vacation to erect the exhibits," said General Manager W. B. Florea last night.

"The success of the Exposition depends on the setting of a date when people from all parts of the state may attend," continued Florea, "and by setting this time the students can not only bring back their parents to see their Alma Mater in a bird's eye view, but high school students will be also able to attend."

Make Floor Plan

The floor plan of the Exposition has been made and blue prints are now being made by students of the College of Engineering. The gymnasium annex has been given over to the College of Engineering and the College of Agriculture. The main floor has been divided into 70 booths, where the remaining departments and colleges will place exhibits that will run from the wireless telephone booth to that devoted to student activities.

"The rapid expansion of the university since the last Exposition in 1915 makes it necessary to have more room than the Armory affords," said Florea. "For this reason the electrical engineers will place their exhibit in the Electrical Engineering laboratory. Strings of colored lights will run from the

10 PER CENT REBATE DECLARED BY CO-OP

A total amount of $15,000 will be distributed among the members of the Co-op this year on the basis of the profit-sharing plan. A rebate of 10 per cent is to be given.

"We feel that the 10 per cent rebate is a nominal one for this year," said E. J. Grady, manager of the Co-op. "Business conditions have been out of the ordinary because of the big drop in prices."

Last year a rebate of 15 per cent was given.

Over 2,000 students in the university have become members of the Co-op this year. The investment of $2.50 at the beginning of the year obtains a life membership in the organization. At present the total membership, including the inactive members, numbers over 21,000.

The yearly rebate averages about 13 per cent.

BEFORE we introduce the speaker of the day, the editor wishes to waste a few minutes of your lecture period by inserting a remark or two on Mr. Chesterton, who entered the community last night, and flew North today.

NATURALLY we're not going to say much about the lecture; that's out of our ken. However, we could not refrain from mentioning the fact that there were six sets of evening clothes in the assembly of 1200. Which is, we believe, a record; the Minneapolis Symphony brought forth but three.

AUGUSTUS FEHRENBACH was quite in his element, although a little conscious of the Tux. The yellow pencil sticking at least four inches from his coat pocket added greatly to the generally formal effect of the evening.

AND as to Mr. Chesterton, he was all that we expected, and perhaps fifty pounds more.

WE cannot quite approve of the method of the finishing of the lecture. After our entertainer has done most of his tricks, rather well, we dislike to ask him to repeat some of his older and more popular jokes, as well as reply extemporaneously to some more or less smart questions.

IT'S like asking a pianist, after a good recital, to play "Annie Laurie," the "Giribadi Hymn," "The Coming of the Storm," and the Blue Danube.

BUT after all, why be educated anyway?

YOU'RE just as happy without, it seems.

TIPS to purists: ... "those sort of things" was heard to fall from Chesterton's lips. It sorta takes the sting out of that D— on the last theme.

AND now the Duke DiKakiak, the w. k. and e. w. Jester, will complete the slaughter.

PRETTY neat I'll basketball season, eh? The crowd alone could have socked Ohio the other night one might successfully wager.

WE suppose the miniature gold basketballs will be dangling from several watch chains very soon, which is a good sign and might advantageously bear repetition in ensuing years.

TRAINING was broken yesterday by the boys in the following manners:

Al Frogner takes a trip to the Tri Delt house.

Gus Tebell when freed from stifling restraint and forbearance went himself down town and—consumed numerous Hershey bars.

Rolly Williams went home to Edgerton where they elected him mayor. (He is now training for baseball, track and crew.)

Cop Taylor is spending his evenings reading Ovid, Horace and Terence (who you will remember used to write for the Roman Thursday Evening Post).

Jack Williams was last seen in the company of Eddie Mathews. We don't know where he is now.

Clarence McIntosh has started a four month siege on the ladies.

Little Nap Gage is in the arms of his Alpha Delt brothers enjoying the dissipation of light loquaciousness.

Duke Ceaser is home catching the shut-eye. He says to wake him up for mid-semester.

Cheek to cheek dancing between loydies is forbidden at Kehl's. We heartily endorse any prohibition which does away with such rank waste.

REMEMBER the words of Shakespeare, "Familiarity breeds contempt."

ISN'T it queer that modern journalism cannot conceive of a speaker having any purpose other than "bringing a message?" Most of them are "world messages" too. We make a move for statutory enactment against such lack of originality.

OH, girls, we just can't wait till spring when we can see Apollo Harding (from Belvidere, Indiana) in a bathing suit, can we?

THE Independent Magazine prints this horrible verse. What do you make of it?

GEORGE MARTIN hasn't been hitting the lake this spring as in previous years. What's the matter, George? Cold water doesn't hurt you Western boys, does it?

IS there any significance in the fact that when a sorority wishes to punish the worst possible way in initiation, it makes its pledges maintain strict silence. We bet that hurts more than paddling.

THE Kappas have a wireless telephone installed in their house. We earnestly hope they can't hear what is being said in some of the more masculine gatherings of verbal discourses.

SOMEBODY assuming the nom de guerre of May Bee writes to tell us that Porter Brown, the man with a record of six, has been with us for three weeks and is still single. He also makes comment on the fact that the Phi Sigs have won the large milk can (that once graced Morgan's window) with which they will start a new dairy. The entire report could not be submitted because the class has not settled the final account with the 1921 Badger. A complete report will be submitted next time, but it is estimated that the Badger cleared a very good sum for the class.

The question of the senior memorial was discussed and Harriet Bartlett, chairman of the social committee, announced the senior dance to be held March 18. This is the first senior social activity of the year, and will be followed later in the spring by a series of senior picnics. The senior dance will be open to underclassmen.

William Florea made some announcements regarding the university exposition, and urged the necessity for the cooperation of every member of the senior class.

Tickets for the first annual Kommerce Kaper are going rapidly, according to the Commerce club men who are putting over the first "Klassy Kicking kontest" in the history of the course in commerce.

"We want to establish an exclusively commerce dance of the very highest sort as the traditional finishing feature of Commerce week," said Rudolph C. Zimmerman '22, who is chairman of the social committee in charge of making arrangements.

"We have endeavored to make the dance one of the best which has ever been given so far this year, and have secured the two big dancing rooms at the Park hotel to hold it in. "Sunny" Ray and "Doc" Dorward make a pair of entertainers that can't be beaten at Wisconsin, and the music will be the best that Jean Casserly with a five piece Thompson orchestra can produce."

Tickets can be secured at Morgan's, the University Pharmacy, or from members of the Commerce club.

AFRICAN SINGERS TO ENTERTAIN MEET OF FOREIGN STUDENTS

The International club will present a varied and interesting program "a la cafeteria" at the S. G. A. room in Lathrop hall tomorrow night. Following a cafeteria supper, which starts at 6 o'clock, the members and visitors will be entertained by African student singers.

A cordial invitation is extended to all foreign students in the university to attend the meeting tomorrow night. The International club has been an important factor in the life of the foreign student at Wisconsin and plans for this semester will materially augment this reputation.

SHORT HORN FROSH DEFEAT SOPHS IN BASKETBALL GAME

The first year students of the Agriculture short course defeated the second year basketball team at the Wisconsin high gymnasium last night by the score of 23 to 5.

The two teams are now in a tie for the championship, as each has won one game. The tie will be played off at some future date.

The lineup of the two teams is as follows:

First year team—H. Magnuson, H. Lewis, forwards; F. Johnson, center; C. Stevens, R. Nagles, guards.

Second year team—Cook, Wang, forwards; Zockern, center; Haroldson, Weiner, guards.

DEAN SELLERY TO SPEAK ON GRADES

Dean Sellery is to talk to the Fellowship meeting in the university "Y" at 7:15 this evening, on the subject of "Last Semester's Grades." His talk promises to be interesting as he intends to give interesting figures on the present conditions, and the faculty point of view in regard to the problem of grades.

In addition to the talk there will be a short musical program and a chance for new men to meet the others. The meeting will last one hour.

WEATHER

The highest temperature during the past 24 hours was 35 at 5 p. m. and the lowest was 21 at 7 a. m. Precipitation was .01 and the sun sets at 5:57.

Heavy rains fell Tuesday and Tuesday night in the lower lake regions, Ohio and lower Mississippi Valley and on the west Gulf coast.

These occurred during the passage of a trough of low pressure that is now crossing the Appalachian mountains preceded by southerly winds and much warmer on the Atlantic coast and followed by northerly winds and much colder weather in the central and eastern states. Unsettled and warmer weather is crossing the northern Rockies.

WORK AT KITCHEN STOVE PAVED WAY TO BUSINESS SUCCESS FOR THIS WOMAN

Mrs. Harriet Cole Emmons.

Five years ago Mrs. Harriet Cole Emmons faced the necessity of earning her own living. She became associated with the advertising of a food product just put on the market. Today that product is known all over the country and Mrs. Emmons finds time to do some advertising for American-made dyes. She is one of the few women holding a position of importance in the dye industry in America. Yet she had practically no training for a business career, "except a far-seeing mother and a course in home economics and work in her own kitchen."

She was not willing to attempt advertising a product until she knew it thoroughly and so the company fitted up a kitchen on the sixteenth floor of their building, a regular kitchen like one would find in any home, and Mrs. Emmons tested her product in every conceivable manner under normal home conditions. She believes she has good grounds for her conviction that "home economics should be the basis of every girl's training."

HATS OFF TO THE TEAM

WITH its last opponent disposed of, the season completed and a tie for the conference championship tucked away, the Wisconsin basketball team is deserving of more than passing credit.

The 1920-21 season has been one of the most peculiar basketball years in the annals of conference competition. It has been a season of upsets, reversals of dope, unexpected defeats, and unexpected victories in which teams which were apparently strong at the beginning of the year have been relegated to minor places in the percentage column, and the apparently weak teams have gradually fought their way to the top. And to this latter category belong the Wisconsin five.

When Dr. Walter E. Meanwell returned last fall to resume the coaching of basketball he found a situation not altogether encouraging. Of the men who reported for the first practices few had had more than a year of experience, several were suffering from injuries which were destined to keep them from the game altogether or until after the conference schedule had been commenced, and there were no outstanding stars or mainstays from the year before who were available for the first games. So unpromising was the outlook that the coach felt it necessary to cancel his first preliminary games because the team was not yet ready to play them.

Before they could meet their opponent on an equal footing it was necessary for the men to master a style of play absolutely new to them, accordingly they were required to report for practice October 1, a month earlier than any other basket five in the conference. That was five months ago.

During almost every day for that last five months the little squad of men assembled on the armory floor for from two to three hours of the most intensive practice, the longest scrimmages, and the most severe grueling any Wisconsin five has ever been subjected to. And all this in face of the most discouraging of outlooks.

Practicing every day for five months requires much time when one is carrying a full schedule of classes, yet these men did not neglect their work. Basketball is a sport extending through two semesters, hence it is necessary that the players be eligible every semester in which they play. Not a single regular was ineligible at the opening of the second semester.

Losing their first conference game to Northwestern, the weakest team in the conference, by one point, was not the most encouraging way to commence the season, yet not a single man failed to report back for the next practice determined to make up for this defeat by enough subsequent victories to make the loss negligible. It was this same spirit of determination and fight to the last ditch fostered and bred into every practice that culminated in the wonderful second half come-back in the recent Minnesota game, in which every man gave all that he had to win the game which practically decided Wisconsin's final rating.

The past season has for students and faculty a wonderful lesson in team play, ability to meet discouragements in a spirit of unending fight and determination, and sacrifice of time and energy for the prestige of their alma mater. There is not a single player who does not now consider the untiring, unceasing, and unending work worth while, and not a one who has not derived lasting benefits of character and experience which will serve him after his scholastic and athletic days are over.

Hats off to the 1920-21 basketball team.

MORTAR BOARD DANCE

FASHIONABLE society women in a number of our large cities have recently adopted very effective means of raising great sums of money to be used for enterprises that are worthy of general financial support. These women have become sponsors of prize fighting exhibitions for the purpose of gathering in a lot of money that fairly itches to be spent. Methods used in raising money are not the most important element in the final analysis. The use to which the funds are to be put is what really counts.

On this hypothesis, we urge the temporary resurrection of the long-lost indoor sport of tea dancing. To be explicit, we urge all those who enjoy dancing to turn out Saturday afternoon for the "Jitney Dance" which is to be staged by Mortar Board "in the court." The nature of a "Jitney dance" and the location of "the court" it is not our purpose here to define. It is for us, rather, to say a word about Mortar Board, and the purpose of this unique dancing party.

Mortar Board is an honorary senior women's organization, membership in which is based upon scholarship, service to the university and upon womanliness. Upon election to Mortar Board, the junior woman pledges to continue this service in her senior year, and to perpetuate this idea real tasks have been set for the organization. Among other things, an annual scholarship of $100 for some university woman must be raised and also a share in maintaining the Mortar Board Co-operative house.

Your job is to find out what a "Jitney dance" is and where "the court" is located. Then, be there Saturday afternoon!

Communication

FOR THE HONOR SYSTEM

The Editor Daily Cardinal:

The problem of the honor system reminds me of a little anecdote told in a book on education. A mother, who was going out, told her little boy not to stick beans into his nose. When she returned, she found that he had done just exactly what she forbade him to do. In the same way, by making a law against cribbing, and by actually exercising police duty, the professors arouse in young people, who are naturally daring in doing things dangerous, an itching temptation to break the law. It is a fundamental human trait, the forbidding fruit was the most tempting of all the objects in the Garden. Eliminate the risk, and there will be no zest left for running the risk.

I have seen the honor system successfully introduced in a grammar school. Why can we not introduce it in Wisconsin, with its wonderful spirit and its splendid manhood and womanhood? What we need is self-respect; but we cannot look for self-respect in people kept under surveillance. Give the men and women of Wisconsin a chance to show their mettle; and they will measure up to their responsibilities.

Wisconsin is for the honor system; and I am with her!

WOULD AVOID NEW TAXATION

An effort will be made to so reduce the appropriations asked for at this session of the legislature by the different departments, boards and commissions, that it will not be necessary to increase income tax rates.

During the present week the joint finance committee of the legislature will hold hearings on the requests of the nine normal schools for appropriations. Many of the schools are asking for new buildings. Next week the committee will consider the applications for additional revenues for the university.

When both have placed their requests before the committee, it will then be possible to determine in a general way the amount of money which will be needed to run the government during the coming two years. The appropriations asked for exceed the revenues of the state by approximately $16,000,000 for the coming biennium. If it is possible to reduce the requests of the different departments, it may be that the state can get along without any additional income taxes. Gov. Blaine in his special message made it plain that under no circumstances will he sign bills which would increase taxes on the general property of the state. This means that if there is to be any increase in the appropriations that it must be taken care of by means of additional income taxes.

MAY POSTPONE NURSES' BILL

Lamb County Nurse Measure is Opposed in Committee

The Lamb bill to make the county nurse law optional with the different counties of the state will be reported for indefinite postponement by the assembly committee on public welfare. This bill by Assemblyman Lamb, Fond du Lac, was first sent to house committee on state affairs for hearing and was favorably recommended. So much opposition arose that it was finally sent to the assembly committee on public welfare for further hearing.

Assemblyman Lamb said that county nurse law would cost counties of state from $3,000 to $4,000 annually. He said that this was a part of a big program which is the next four or five years will demand a million dollars annually expended by the state.

Dr. C. A. Harper opposed the bill. He impressed upon the committee the necessity of preventing of communicable diseases and said that this cost in Wisconsin was less than 5 cents a head. He said that it was unfair to counties of state not to make the law compulsory.

"One county may have a public health nurse and may do everything possible to stamp out contagion and communicable diseases," declared Dr. Harper. "The county next door may refuse to employ a county health nurse if the law is optional and the result will be that the communicable diseases of the county without a health nurse will all be dumped upon the county with a health nurse."

Committees Are Working

The 500 committeemen that are working to make each exhibit novel and yet representative have nearly completed the plans and will soon be ready to begin work on the exhibition proper. The representatives of the faculty of the various schools and colleges have been working with the students on their committees that their respective displays may be the best possible.

It is expected that a partial disclosure of the make-up of the various booths will be given beginning next week, so that the students who have never seen an Exposition may understand just what it attempts to do for the university.

CHESTERTON SCORES HIT WITH LECTURE

tion constantly becoming more complex, Mr. Chesterton finds in the great discovery of modern panaceas, only society's realization of the defects in its theories. The English people, basing their brotherhood with the German on the radical theory of origin from a common Teutonic stock, should have entered the Great War a hundred years before 1914, in his opinion; the English waiter, to whom all foreigners were but queer people who jabbered, would have seen the facts at once. The intellectual movement which developed the theory of Teutonic origin, collapsed on the precipice of insane exaggeration, and war resulted which might have been avoided.

For these things, one feels grateful to Mr. Chesterton. This, one feels, is the essence of a big thought, presented in a manner not calculated to deceive or mislead, with a satisfactory flair of humor which but tends to make it more memorable.

On the whole, we feel that Mr. Chesterton's lecture was very much worthwhile. We would like more of a similar nature.

At The Theaters

AT THE STRAND

William S. Hart, assisted by Ann Little and Thomas Sanschi, is now playing at the Strand theater in his latest Paramount picture "The Cradle of Courage."

Mr. Hart has the role of "Square" Kelly, a safecracker of San Francisco who is reformed after two years' service with the American troops in "the cradle of courage" in France. He becomes a policeman on his return from the trenches and brings his former accomplices in crime to justice and wins the love of a pretty girl. The story is exceedingly dramatic and the theme is appealing, so that there is not a dull moment throughout the development of the story.

One of the best fists fights in which Mr. Hart has been seen in many moons occurs in this photoplay when he battles with and vanquishes a gang leader portrayed by Thomas Sanschi. This is only one of many exciting scenes that make "The Cradle of Courage" the equal of "The Toll Gate."

The added attraction will be a Chester Comedy "An Overall Hero" with "Snooky" the Humanzee chimpanzee, and the Chester Kiddies.

AT THE GRAND

The Charles Ray picture "19 and Phillis," which was scheduled to show for four days at the Grand, has been held over and will be repeated again today. In this picture Mr. Ray departs from his usual country boy role, and is seen as a small town "dandy" whose array

CHESTERTON SAYS AMERICANS ARE NO MORE IGNORANT THAN ENGLISH

By A. B. M. and E. A. M.

"The educated in America are not more ignorant nor more educated than the educated ignorant in England or any other country," said Mr. Chesterton politely in answer to the first question put by two interviewers.

The great purveyor of acrobatic feats of the intellect was quite tired after having delivered his challenging lecture on "The Ignorance of the Educated," and at first he was disinclined to enter deeply into the discussion offered by the interviewers.

"Although I may yet be impelled to write a book on America, I do not as yet feel capable of judging the country adequately," he said.

But when the reporter pressed the question, asking if he did not really consider that there were more ignorant educated in America than in England, Mr. Chesterton became more candid.

"Of course in a country where there are so many manufacturing towns, and where the people are commercially inclined, there are probably more ignorant who claim to be educated than in a more conservative country like England.

"But America has the advantage of being newer and fresher."

Here one of the reporters, taking advantage of preparatory readings in Mr. Chesterton's express opinion, interposed: "But do you think that new things are necessarily true things?"

This question brought forth the famous Chesterton chuckle, and the admission: "No indeed, I do not!"

The other reporter seized this opportunity to plunge him into a philosophical discussion of modern thought:

"What do you think of modern thought? Is it progressive?"

"Modern thought is running away with itself. It is breaking down," he said emphatically.

"It lost its balance at the time of the religious wars in the seventeenth century, and has been reeling back and forth ever since. We seem to be merely floundering about and getting nowhere. Just because tomorrow is Thursday, is not sufficient reason for holding that it is better than today, which is Wednesday. Modernity is no gauge of values."

Although by this time the author was talking freely and with renewed energy, he was interrupted by the secretary, who told him that his car was waiting. The last the reporters saw of him was his portly figure, with the heavy shock of hair, descending the steps of the high school.

PRIZE LIST OF STOCK EXHIBIT IS ANNOUNCED

and a solid gold seal chain for champion mixed clan. They will also offer a silver loving cup for the best feature act.

Breeders Respond

The response from state and national live stock organizations which have been solicited for special prizes has been very gratifying. Because of the lead that the College of Agriculture has taken in the past in making Wisconsin the leading dairy state of the country, the interest manifested by live stock breeders has been noteworthy. Governor John J. Blaine, an owner himself of a large herd of Holstein cattle, has heartily approved and sanctioned the exhibition, and will attend "if possible."

Exhibition of many pure-bred animals of exceptional quality and type, prize winners in many exhibits, will be held in the morning and afternoon. All the entrants in the event have been made by university students, according to the customary rule.

Among the live stock to be shown are 18 sheep from the university flock which won 20 prizes at the International Stock show at Chicago last year. Duroc Jersey, Poland China, and Hampshire hogs, leaders in their breeds, will be exhibited, as well as Berkshires and Chester Whites.

Other afternoon exhibits will include Aberdeen Angus and Short-horn breeds in the beef class. These cattle were imported direct from Scotland and England. Dairy breeds of Ayrshire, Holstein, and Jersey will also be shown. Prize winning cows, holding milk and butter records, are also to be exhibited.

REESE TO TALK TO COMMERCE CONVO

At 4:30 this afternoon William H. Reese will address a convocation of the students in the School of Commerce in the auditorium of the "Pep" building.

Mr. Reese has won a nationally known reputation as a salesman not only through his sales and executive ability but through his engaging personality. Prof. S. W. Gilman of the School of Commerce has tried for three years to get Mr. Reese to address the commerce students, but conditions were unfavorable until this year.

The subject of Mr. Reese's address will be concerned with business opportunities and will be of especial interest to seniors who are planning their after college work. The address is closely connected with the vocational conference going on at present.

Besides these outstanding men Coach Rockne has Montague, McBarnes, Hogan, Meredith, Hoar, Flynn, Doran, and Falvey, to balance up a team which holds championship aspirations.

Wisconsin will present the same lineup that defeated Northwestern easily, and the Badgers should have a good chance to defeat the Notre Dame galaxy of stars.
