7,300 Father's Day Invitations Placed in Mails

Program for Nov. 5 Completed by Committee; Grinnell
Game Feature

Seven thousand three hundred Father's day invitations went into the mails last night. Working under the direction of Harry Thoma '28, student chairman of Father's day, and John Bergstreser '25, member of the committee appointed by President Glenn Frank, a score of workers were kept busy until a late hour folding the invitations and putting them into envelopes addressed by students at the time of registration.

Father's day will fall on Saturday, Nov. 5, the day of the Grinnell game here, but the entire weekend will be given over to activities in entertainment of the university's guests. The complete program of events, which will be published in tomorrow's Cardinal, is attached to Pres. Frank's invitation.

The official invitations, which went into the mails last night, read as follows:

"To all 'Wisconsin' fathers:

As spokesman for the faculty and the students of the university, I have the happy privilege of inviting you to be present on Father's day, Nov. 5.

GET TICKETS

Non-holders of coupon books whose fathers are coming to the university for Father's day must procure their own ticket to the Grinnell game in the regular fashion before Saturday, Oct. 22 in order to take advantage of the student rate of 50 cents.

At a later date, the fathers having replied to the 7,300 invitations sent out last night, students will be permitted to exchange their ticket or coupon for two seats together upon payment of the one ticket open price of $2.50.

If students fail to get student-price tickets before the deadline Saturday, they will be unable to procure two seats together except by buying them at the open sale at $2.50 each. The Father's day committee strongly urges all students to take care of this at once.

"On this day the university will follow its customary schedule of work and play and will be happy to have you present to see and share in its duties and its pleasures. We want you to become acquainted at first

Daily Cardinal Sends Out Questionnaires on Greek Letter Rushing

Answers to be Used to De- termine System for Future

By Wesley F. Peterson

In accordance with its editorial policy favoring the adoption of some system for fraternity rushing, the Daily Cardinal is today mailing questionnaires to every men's Greek letter organization on the campus. It is the purpose of these questionnaires to ascertain the efficiency of pre-registration rushing, and to produce facts which will shed some light upon the desirability of having deferred pledging at Wisconsin.

All answers to the list of questions will be regarded as absolutely confidential, and no fraternity's or individual's name will be divulged in connection with any statistics received.

Wit and Satire Feature Style Issue of Octy

BY A. G.

"Why are all the little boys and girls going up the hill looking so happy today, Papa?"

And Papa replied, "Don't you know, you little half-wit, the style number of Octy's out today?"

Readers, you will find that the current number of Octopus is strangely humorous. What is commonly known as collegiate humor is missing, and the editors have substituted clever wit and satire.

There is no outstanding bit of work in the magazine unless it be Jack Roe's "London Letter from Peoria," which is ably augmented by two hilarious illustrations from the facile pen of old Ruth Alcott.

The art work is consistently good. The amateurism, slapped-together-isn't-this-funny type of drawing has deserted Octy for fresher fields, and Octy is accordingly much improved.

Paul Fulcher, the human professor, is at his best again in the book column, and that is exceedingly good.

It is refreshing to find an English professor who can write literary comment with his tongue in his cheek.

Pep Rally to be Part of Benefit Dance for Memorial Union Fund

A football pep rally, the only one to be held before the Wisconsin-Purdue game will be staged as a part of the Memorial union benefit dance, Oct. 21 at the Hotel Loraine Crystal ballroom.

Announcement of the arrangements for the rally were made yesterday by Charles Dollard '28, member of the union board.

George Little, director of athletics will speak and it is probable that a member of the Purdue coaching staff will also address the dancers.

A varsity cheerleader will lead the cheering at intermission, and Joe Shoer's Parkway theater orchestra will play Wisconsin songs.

Because of the rally at the dance the usual pep meeting on the lower campus will not be held.

Tickets for the dance went on sale yesterday morning at Gelvins and the Co-op and in the various fraternity houses. They are selling for $2.

Spalding's Technical Skill Is Emphasized in Concert Here

BY M. L. B.

Dashing pyrotechnics characterized Albert Spalding's program given last night at the Christ Presbyterian church. Many of the selections admitted of the vigorous treatment at which the violinist was most adept. In the Habanera of Sarasate, the Tarantella movement of a Suite by Strawinsky, and the Molto Vivace movement of Von Dohnanyi's Ruralla Ungarica, Spalding was at his best. Cecil Burleigh's Moto Perpetuo and Schubert's Hark, Hark, the Lark, given as an encore, were enthusiastically received by the audience.

Mr. Spalding's fingering, especially in the allegro passages, was outstandingly excellent, and responsible for much of the success of his numbers. The constant use of harmonics and the mute throughout the program tended toward monotony of interpretation. Although firm and vigorous, the tonal quality was at times strident from too heavy pressure of the bow.

The concert proved that Mr. Spalding was thoroughly versed in the technique of his art. Technical ability was emphasized often at the sacrifice of sympathetic interpretation. Mr. Andre Benoit contributed not a little to the program by his able accompaniments.

Issue Official Army Uniform to R. O. T. C.

The issuance of regular army uniforms to R. O. T. C. men this year, marks the passing of the familiar "longies" of former wearers of the uniform.

This year, the members of R. O. T. C. will have to struggle with the perplexing problem of trying to wrap spiral leggings around legs which often are not suited for that sort of dress.

After suits have been issued to those taking the basic R. O. T. C. course, and after officers see what sort of fits and misfits appear, the suits will be sent to a local concern to be altered and pressed.

Nominate Momsen as Prom Chairman at Junior Meet; De Haven for Presidency

Engineer Publication Makes Appearance on Campus; Ward Editor

With the appearance of the Wisconsin Engineer on the campus Tuesday morning, another of the university publications begins the year. From its handsome red and cream cover to its 40th page it is thoroughly enjoyable and fits in well with the other campus productions.

A welcome to old and new students by Dean F. E. Turneaue begins the new Engineer, followe by an article by E. W. Jeffrey, of the Madison Gas and Electric company, entitled "Chemical Engineering Developments in Gas Purification." A technical article explaining the measurement of compressed air by the air orifice method is written by George Heimerl '27 and William Lidicker '27. Marvin Hersh '29 is the author of a humorous and interesting account of the Civil Engineers' summer survey camp held at Devils Lake each summer.

Another interesting story concerns the Engineering Teachers school held in July at Madison. One section of interest is devoted to accounts of the present work of alumni of 1927 and earlier classes. The campus notes section cleverly combines humor and satire, bits of news concerning the college, and personal items.

Other features of the magazines are the Editorial column and a column devoted to reviews of recent engineering exploits.

Disprove Charges of Rail- roading Before Peaceful Caucus Ends

BY E. S. D.

The junior class, the storm center of every fall election, threw its collective hat in the ring last night when a representative group assembled at the Delta Gamma house, heard a speech on harmony and union by the retiring-president, Edward Cole, and settled down to business.

"The nominations for prom chairman are now open," smiled Mr. Edwin Kelly of the Theta Xi Kelleys, chairman.

Silence—deathly silence.

"I nominate Bill Momsen," from Miss Gaynold Carroll followed by a recital list of Mr. Momsen's qualifications.

Then swiftly—"I move the nominations be closed,"—"Second," and "Aye!" grunted by the assemblage.

"I guess there are no more nominations," smiled Mr. Kelly with dazzling preception.

"How strange!" quoth Miss Marjorie Droppers in a voice calculated to chill the iceman.

"Now we will try, I say, try, to nominate a president," said Mr. Kelly unheeding.

"I nominate Bob DeHaven," . . .

"I move the nominations be closed,"

... (chorus) "Aye!"

"This is really too easy," smiled Mr. Kelly.

And thus through the whole list until Miss Sally Dabis had been nominated.

Russell, Famous English Writer Appears Here

Lecture Planned on Nov. 2,
Under Student Forum
Auspices

Bertrand Russell, famous English lecturer and writer, will speak in the men's gymnasium Wednesday, Nov. 2, it was announced yesterday by the officers of the Wisconsin Student Forum, under whose auspices he will appear here. His subject will be "Science and Civilization."

Mr. Russell, or Hon. Bertrand Russell, as he may more properly be called, is a versatile and romantic figure in the world of education. Heir to a British peerage, war-time prisoner of conscience, both socialistic and anarchistic in his tendencies, an avowed advocate of free love, a prolific but superior writer, one of the celebrated mathematicians of all times, and a fearless and highly respected philosopher and logician—he seems to have sounded the whole gamut of fields of thought and to have excelled in each.

He arrived in New York on Sept. 29 and shortly after that became engaged in a debate in Boston and New York with Dr. Will Durant, author of the "Story of Philosophy," on the question, "Is Democracy a Failure?" Russell upheld the negative, supporting the institution of democracy against the attacks of Dr. Durant. Following this debate, Russell is beginning a tour of the west, where, besides appearing at many colleges and universities, he will address the state teachers associations of Missouri and Wisconsin on the new educational ideas which he is putting into effect in the small school he recently organized for that special purpose.

Before the war, Russell was known to the learned all over the world as the foremost of symbolic logicians as well as the heir to an earldom. He also excelled in the application of his work to the field of mathematics.

Mr. Russell has written many and varied works. His articles on the political, social and economic affairs of China startled the governments of the world—and doubtless modified their attitude toward this weak and mis-treated nation. His recent book, "The Analysis of Matter," has been hailed everywhere as a model of clarity, although it treats of one of the most abstract subjects possible.

Russell is only paying a short visit to the United States. He will sail for his native land on December 14.

Students Fairly Treated—Schein

Cardinal Charges Treated Ridiculous by Madison Judge

Students are shown more leniency than townspeople in Madison courts. Judge S. E. Schein declared yesterday, in reply to an editorial in yesterday's Cardinal charging him with fining student traffic violators unfairly in order to please Madison residents, and thus win re-election next year.

"I never had such a thought in mind," the judge declared. "Perhaps it would be well to bring that writer into court for contempt, but I shall merely ignore it. It's too ridiculous."

"I think students have been given very fair treatment in this court. Students sometimes are released because a penalty imposed in court would automatically carry with it expulsion from school, which is not a penalty provided in the statutes. The statutes fix a penalty which may be imposed and I don't feel like imposing that penalty when it might carry with it a more severe punishment, such as expulsion from school."

Glenn Frank to Open Hillel Lecture Series

President Glenn Frank will introduce a special lecture series under the auspices of the Hillel foundation, with an address at 8:30 tonight. The purpose of the series which will include talks by leading professors at the university, is to bring a closer connection between the class room work and life in general. The meetings will be open to all students of the university, and are to be held at the Hillel foundation.

EXTENSION HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Dean H. L. Russell, of the College of Agriculture, opened the Extension Workers' conference Tuesday afternoon in Agriculture hall with an address on "Looking Forward in Conservation."

This meeting is an annual affair at which the county agents, and the extension workers of the university get together and discuss various problems connected with their fields. The conference closes Saturday.

President Glenn Frank will address the group Wednesday at a banquet at the Park hotel.

Prof. K. L. Hatch, agricultural extension, Mrs. N. K. Jones, home economics, Profs. Griffith Richards, and O. R. Zeisman, soils, Prof. T. Macklin, agricultural economics; Prof. E. L. Luther, superintendent of farmers institutes; Prof. J. F. Wojta, state leader of agricultural representatives; and Prof. W. McNeil, director of boys' and girls' club work, are among those who will address the conference.

Nominate Momsen as Junior Prom Chairman

ated vice president; Miss Eleanor Pennington, secretary; "Rube" Wagner, sergeant-at-arms; and Louis Schmidt, student senate member.

Changed Rail-roading

A snag was struck in the treasury, however. John Ash and Kenneth Crowell were nominated.

"Ah-h-h, a fight at last," sighed Mr. Kelly, a true Irishman at heart. Mr. Ash won the nomination on the first ballot; Mr. Kelly plainly felt cheated.

Mr. Edward Fronk, attired in a lumber jack, natty knickers, golf hose, and other trappings the well-dressed politician does not wear in cartoons, arose and objected.

Things had run too smoothly for Mr. Fronk. To Mr. Fronk smoothness meant previous oiling, and oil to Mr. Fronk conveyed a distasteful connotation. It implied boss rule and a threat at democracy.

Boss Rule Denied

Whereupon the group sent the candidates from the room and started all over again. Mr. Kelly asked for objections. He received denials of boss rule, avowals of harmony, and eulogies of the present candidates.

Mr. Kelly begged for objections to satisfy the belligerents. He received more denials, more avowals and more eulogies. Mr. Kelly pleaded piteously for objections. He received a third helping of harmony.

In despair Mr. Kelly turned to Mr. Fronk and said hopefully, "Everybody objects to objections."

And thus closed the meeting of the junior class—the class that claims to have set out to show the seniors what harmony and unity really mean.

Daily Reports of Badger Teams

Crofoot Shifts to Half; Hayes at Quarterback

Smith and Rebholz Fight for Fullback; Practice on Purdue Plays

What is probably the most drastic change made in the personnel of the Wisconsin football team was accomplished last night when Capt. Edwin Crofoot, veteran quarterback, was shifted to a halfback position, and Neil Hayes, a promising substitute quarterback, was sent in to call signals for the first team.

Will Change Work?

Since the Michigan game, when rumor was spreading to the effect that in order to strengthen the running attack of the Badgers, Crofoot might be shifted from his regular position, there has been much discussion over the probability and wisdom of such a change, but with the rumor actually carried into effect, the wisdom of the change will have to be decided by the coming game with Purdue.

With Crofoot and Rose as halfbacks and Hayes at quarterback, the problem of who will carry the fullback assignment in Saturday's game is still somewhat undecided.

Rebholz Improves

Both Smith and Rebholz, the outstanding candidates for this position, are good line pluggers and blockers, but Rebholz seems to have developed into the best punter on the squad, and with this advantage may get the call over Smith this Saturday.

The Badger kicking department has been woefully weak this year, and the choice for this duty thus far lies between Crofoot and Rebholz. Rebholz, under the tutelage of Coach Guy Sundt, has been improving rapidly, and if he continues, there is more than a chance that he may be used at fullback, since the need of a punter is greatly felt by the team this year.

All Americans Used

Such remarks as "there goes Wilcox, down him! Look out, here comes 'Pest' Welch on that left end, Shift with him fellows and get 'em low and hard," were to be heard at Camp Randall stadium last night when the Varsity football squad went through a hard night of scrimmage against the All Americans.

The All Americans, decked out in the striped jerseys of Purdue, and with individual men representing the main stags of the Boilermaker team, gave the varsity an interesting hour of practice by using against them the plays that Purdue will probably put into action this Saturday.

Varsity Hits Hard

The Wisconsin regulars, back again after a day of rest, seemed more than eager to get into action again, and at times, made the All Americans look rather bad. The Purdue plays, after being run over several times, no longer gave the first team much trouble, and they broke through on many occasions to throw the All American ball carriers for losses.

Fraternities to Start Intramural Bowling on Next Tuesday Evening

HERE'S the DOPE

The middle of the week marks a convenient dividing point between grumbles over what happened last Saturday, and gambles over what will happen this Saturday. Please observe how closely we follow the rule.

Despite a certain sympathetic feeling toward those who essay to pick winners before they have won, we are always more or less overcome when some lucky lad guesses right. Arv Schaleben of the Minnesota Daily remarked last week that "Notre Dame will beat Navy by two or more touchdowns, both teams to score. Wisconsin will not score on Michigan, the Wolverines to win by more than one touchdown. Minnesota will win from Indiana with consummate ease, the Hoosiers to call time out at least four times." Notre Dame did beat Navy, 19-6, and Michigan did trim Wisconsin, 14-0, but the consummate ease was conspicuously not present in Minnesota's mix-up with the Hoosiers. What does that prove?

Among the crop of rising young Western conference stars, Harold Glasgow, Iowa's new ball-packer, appears to be one of the most promising. Glasgow made himself about as annoying as one man can during the Wabash game, and though he remained in action only a short time, it was long enough to have his name very carefully noted by the Minnesota scouts.

One of Iowa's touchdowns against Wabash was the product of a very clever, if somewhat extemporaneous trick play. About midfield, Arvil, Iowa fullback, crashed through center for ten yards and then dropped the ball, fumbled it, you might say. But Carlson, left end, happened to be close enough to clutch the wild little pigskin and chauffeur it forty yards to the goal. Which is what we call a lot of interest on a poor investment.

Considering that an Iowa State gent named Lindblom hit Illinois with everything but the goal-posts in helping his team to a 12-12 tie last week, we assume that Illinois may have a pleasant afternoon with Tiny Lewis, Vic Gustafson, and Northwestern this Saturday.

FOUR ADAMS HALL GAMES PLAYED OFF

B vs. C

Sections B and C played a close game in the Adams Hall league yesterday at the intramural field. The final result was in doubt until the end. Neither team scored until the last minute of play when Moore of C threw a long pass to Wormley for a touchdown. The extra point was made when a player of B interfered with the kicker, making the score 7-0.

The lineups: B—Varion, Noie, Bardes, Kojis, Page, Benn, Raettig; C—Briscoe, Butts, Strub, Moore, Schaeffer, Wormley, Schmidtman.

E vs. H

Section H defeated E in another game, 13-0. However, E played with only six men, and so did very well to hold their opponents to two touchdowns; one extra point was made.

The lineups: E—Behnke, Hertz, Toepper, Graebner, Dedlick, Race; H—Bindey, Wesendank, Connelly, Lamm, Haight, Meiklejohn, Wilgis.

G vs. F

The game between G and F proved to be the best of the day. G won, 14-0, mainly through the fine playing of Meiklejohn and Miller. On the first kick-off, Meiklejohn caught the ball on his own goal line and ran back 70 yards before being touched; G scored their first touchdown a minute later. In the third quarter, before making the second touchdown, Meiklejohn attempted to drop-kick from the 40 yard line but missed the cross-bars by inches.

The lineups: G—Yonts, Waitz, Ulman, Meiklejohn, Patterson, Abramson; F—Lehman, Knoll, Wisiewski, Zimmerman, Moore, Campbell, Zilner.

A vs. D

The game between A and D resulted in a win for the former. The score was 3-0 as a result of a perfect drop-kick by Butts from the 40 yard line.

The lineups: A—McFadden, Cock, Lewis, Butts, Vass, Killinger, Bloodgood; D—Card, Selle, Ransholt, Ewerman, Eisfeld, Brown, Allen.

Ten Men Picked to Compete in Quadrangular

Wisconsin Again Has Strong Entry in Annual Harrier Race

Wisconsin's opening conference meet is scheduled to take place in Chicago next week in the form of a quadrangular meet with Chicago, Northwestern, and Indiana. Coach Jones has practically selected the first ten men to compose the Wisconsin varsity squad.

The Badger harriers have been working consistently for the coming meet, and despite all adverse weather conditions and other handicaps have been able to round into condition. In the opening meet with Kansas, the Wisconsin runners were able to defeat their opponents by the count of 23-32.

Three Vets

The team will be composed of ten men, three of whom are veterans. Capt. Zola, John Petaja, Charles Bullamore are the best bets for a Wisconsin victory. Newcomers to the squad are W. Burgess, Fink, Steenis, Wall, Schroeder, Fudlson and Chamberlin.

Last week, Mr. Jones held a time trial to determine the last four men of the first varsity team, and the results were somewhat surprising.

Steenis Strong

J. Steenis, long-legged sophomore, won the race with little effort. Behind him was Chamberlin, varsity "aWa" 440 yard dash man, who was running his first cross country race. Mr. Jones hesitated a great deal before including Chamberlin among his first varsity, because he regarded the lad as a better asset to his track teams, and figured that cross country running might possibly have an ill influence on his sprinting ability. But after due consideration he has finally decided that Chamberlin will take the trip to Chicago for the quad meet.

Schroeder, sophomore runner, was behind Chamberlin, with Fulsom, and Campbell, following. Although over twenty men ran in this meet, it was thought better not to record the finishing places of the remainder of the men.

News Reel to Take Movies of Wisconsin Men in I-M Sports

Not content with having made athletes out of a large majority of the men students in the university, intramural department officials are now bent on transforming them into movie stars.

The attempt will take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon when an International News Reel cameraman visits Intramural field to get a first hand picture of the way physical education is being carried out at the university.

According to George Berg, with whom arrangements were made for the taking of pictures, spectators will be invited to visit the field during the time the news reel is being taken. Spectators, in fact, will be quite welcome as a sort of general background for the movie.

Various aspects of the bigger and better Wisconsin intramural sports program will be featured in the reel.

Hutton, Star End, Lost as Purdue Starts Practice

Injuries Weaken Boiler- maker Eleven, but Strength Remains

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 18—"Forget that Chicago game, and buckle down for Wisconsin, one of the fastest improving teams in the Big Ten," Coach Jimmy Phelan told the Purdue football squad here last night and intensive drilling was begun immediately for the Badgers. More serious than the loss of the Maroon game was an injury suffered by Leon Hutton, a star end, who dislocated his shoulder and who will be out of the game indefinitely, probably for the remainder of the season.

Ralph Welch, target of the Chicago defensive, had his legs badly bumped but should come around into shape by this weekend. The Purdue team as a whole is carrying numerous marks of the hard fought game. Over-zealousness in attempting to make up for several bad breaks early in the game played no small part in the close defeat, while removal of Hutton weakened Purdue's line.

Harmeson Stars

A bright spot of the contest was the playing of Glenn Harmeson, sophomore halfback, whose 65 yard run scored Purdue's lone touchdown. Harmeson's passing and carrying of the ball featured Purdue's offensive, and he should be heard of more before the close of the season.

The loss of Hutton by the injury route adds another man to the staggering list of casualties that has disrupted Purdue's gridiron organization since the first of the year. Wilcox, Leichtle, Ramby, and a group of others have been hit by injuries and have cut Purdue's reserve deeply.

Reports of Purdue scouts show that Wisconsin played a much better game against Michigan than the score indicates. Fine teamwork and a hard playing, capable line will prove a big handful for the Boilermakers next Saturday, and Coach Phelan plans to leave nothing undone to whip the team into shape for the contest.

Number Five

WHEN THE Cardinal announced its policy of stating a definite editorial goal, it made clear that new planks would be added as circumstances seem to demand, and old planks will be removed as their aim is achieved. The time has come to add another plank. Perhaps it should have been added sooner, but it is brought home more forcefully now following a talk by Director of Athletics George Little at a meeting of Prof. Gilman's commercial law class Monday morning. In that talk Director Little set forth some of the aims toward which the athletic department is working. The outstanding one, one that has been commended before, is "athletics for all." This, then, the Cardinal now adds to its platform as plank number five.

Surely, there is not a person on the campus who is not heartily in accord with this program. The fact that more than a thousand men have entered intramural activities is ample demonstration that it is popular among those whom it is designed to benefit most. And Director Little expressed an important idea when he explained that such activity results not only in physical benefit, but tends to eliminate some of the super-critical remarks by spectators during games.

Anyone who has sat in the stands during an exciting football contest is aware that there seem to be scores of people who know more about the game than the players. Judging from the angry cries which follow a misplay, or the advice freely offered, there are spectators who have a knowledge of the game more vast than can possibly be acquired by weeks of hard work under a good coach. Yet the chances are that most of those people have never even attempted to play the game themselves. If they had, they would realize that fumbles are sometimes made by the best of men, that errors in judgment are but human, not criminal offenses, and they would have a much more appreciative and enlightened attitude toward the conduct of the game in general.

It is well known, of course, that the present athletic policy of the university is also gradually making the acquisition of gym credit an interesting procedure rather than a weekly bore. These things are of great importance. They deserve the attention which is being focused upon them. Hence, the Cardinal has added plank number five to its platform of "On Wisconsin."

Win or Lose

BADGER supporters who witnessed the Michigan game Saturday were convinced of one fact—Coach Glenn Thistletonwaite is developing a fighting Wisconsin football team which is certain to be a credit to the university win or lose. Its gallant, courageous battle against the mighty Wolverine has already proven that. Badger rooters yelled themselves hoarse in encouragement of an eleven which offered stubborn resistance to the trickery of the Michigan gridmen and displayed a superior power and finish on offense. The loss of the game means nothing. There are no alibis, no sour grapes. It was a thrilling contest, well fought, and Coach Thistletonwaite deserves commendation for the fighting spirit and football knowledge which he has instilled in the Wisconsin team. There are other games ahead, and there need be no fear that that spirit will not be in evidence. It is up to the student body to continue its support of team and coach, to back Wisconsin win or lose.

Why a Government?

PERHAPS BY the time this is read the Experimental College students will have decided upon a form of government. They have been holding general meetings and committee meetings in an effort to formulate a workable organization. But just why is a form of government needed for the liberal students in Adams hall? Why is an organization needed any more than a special legislative body for the College of Engineering, the School of Commerce, or any other particular branch of the university? The obvious reply is that the men in the new college are living together under conditions a great deal different than those under which engineers and commerce students live.

This is true enough, but even the Experimental College men are already under enough supervision. As dormitory residents they are under the jurisdiction of dormitory regulations. As university students they are under the regular university administration. And many of them are fraternity men; so they are under still a third organization. A body of the students has manifested a fund of common sense when it opposed the formation of any government for the Experimental College. And reports indicate that the latest meetings on the subject are not as well attended as they should be. In short, there is both opposition to and apathy toward another machine of self-government in the Experimental College.

There are already enough—in fact, more than enough—self-government machines and figurehead politicians on the campus without the addition of another group through the formation of an Experimental College organization. It is thoroughly in the interests of really workable and efficient student government to reduce the amount of machinery and increase the activity.

There is one possibility in connection with Experimental College organization which has favorable points that seem to be in direct harmony with the idea of the college. This is the plan of forming a model Parliament or other legislative body and then considering problems of the day. This will serve to educate the students in current history as well as in the workings of such groups. This idea has been successful elsewhere; why not here?

Numen Lumen

WE ARE publishing in the news section today a platform formulated Sunday afternoon by a group of budding politicians in the class of 1931. They have decided to back Union board and the Memorial union, promote an awakened interest in student self-government, maintain freshman traditions, make for class unity, promote social life, support the Experimental college, et cetera.

Although these politicians are young, their toddling footsteps are already treading on the right path. They have set up an admirable set of principles to which they have pledged themselves. If every class, and every member of every class could only get some of their enthusiasm, some of their spirit, some of their earnest spirit of On Wisconsin, what a great university this might be!

Readers' Say So

POWER-HOUSE POLICY

To the Editor:

Permit me, a rank outsider, to express my hearty approval of your announcement of a definite platform, support of which will be a feature of your editorial policy.

It may not be recalled that at the last Gridiron banquet, I ventured to suggest three possible attitudes in editorial policies, producing three types of journals, the garbage can, the reflectoscope, and the power-house. I should say that your recent announcement definitely promotes you from the reflectoscope phase to the power-house phase.

The fact that I am intensely interested in, and, I think, share your general views upon the four issues you have outlined, makes my pleasure all the greater.

Strength to your arms, and persistence to your pens—or perhaps better, courage to your Coronas!

Very sincerely yours,

R. W. BARSTOW.

FOUL SMELLING PIPES

To the Editor:

Two weeks ago at the Cornell game, we sat in back of some member of the Football Enthusiasts of America, and were thoroughly annoyed throughout the entire game by the continual smoke from his everlasting pipe. I would suggest that those who have any vestiges of their gentlemanly training left refrain from smoking foul smelling pipes when there is a wind that will blow the smoke into the face of a girl or girls sitting in the direct line of the wind.

We do not object to cigaret smoke, but a peculiar pipe odor can make one sick very easily. It is a shame that one man can be selfish that he has no regard for the comfort of those around him—especially during a football game when one wishes to enjoy himself.

With just a little cooperation on the part of masculine readers of the "Say-So," football games may soon become again a joy to us and other members of our sex.

ROCKETS—Sheldon

I wrote oodles and oodles of excellent Skyrockets copy this morning, but teacher insisted that I hand in my blue book.

After the indiscriminate orgy displayed this week end, m'thinks only chem studies will pass exams.

I admire the ideals embodied in the honor system: alternate rows and six seats apart. But prithee, what if we had no honor?

Be one in a thousand—a suggestion for Gamma Phi pledges.

Too sorry for words, Isabelle, but Ginnie suggested it.

THE THETA FORMAL

Take pledge out for dinner every night. Tickets to show three times per week for period of one month are necessary. Know Theta history "perfectly". If you don't own a car, rent one. Worry about it later, but remember you have a goal in mind. Invite her to your house party, fusser's dinner, and throw in the Chicago game for good luck. Be persistent in your love-making. Then at the climax, the moment you have awaited so impatiently nears—she takes somebody else, and you no doubt will rate the Beta Sig alumni dance.

I know I'm curious, but what are the Delta Sigma Tau's going to do Homecoming?

Does a robber have a definite goal in mind?

THE LIQUOR QUESTION

Our hero was desperate. He had called every bootlegger and Alpha Kappa Lambda in town, but to no avail. His throat groaned discontentment. What to do? The boys wouldn't give him a drink. Hair tonic? No he wouldn't, he couldn't that would be too debasing.

Along comes a brother buoyed up, highly spirited. Our hero asks him for a drink.

"Shory ash 'ell, but aint got none", he wails.

And our hero lovingly reports him to the disciplinary committee for being intoxicated.

Is she a burnette? Wrong again—Alpha XI.

Yes, there's no doubt about it. The Sig Chi's are sure to win the touch-football championship. I just talked to one of them this morning.

LOOKING AHEAD!

Sonny: Mamma dear, buy me an aeroplane.

Phi ed: Don't be sil, son, you're too old for one.

And mother, if you read this—tell Bill to be sure to wear his rubbers.

Masterpen

Sailing Pretty With a
Rider Masterpen

"Stranded! Stuck on dry land! Not a darned drop of ink left in my pen! And the lecture is only half over!"

Right after class he did what he had intended to do long before. He made hot tracks to Rider's Pen Shop and traded his old pen for a Rider's Masterpen. It holds eight times as much ink, and he has been "sailing pretty" ever since.

Moral: Tomorrow never comes. Get your Rider Masterpen today.

Hohlfeldt Talks at Arden Club

Wiebelungen Legends Subject of Fireside Discussion Sunday Afternoon

The stirring story of Siegfried, hero of the Niebelungen legends, was the subject of the first fireside meeting of the year at the Arden club Sunday afternoon. Professor Carl Hohlfeldt, chairman of the German department at the university, sketched the origin and development of the famous German legend and read the most famous portions.

"Although the love-hate theme of Grynhild and Siegfried is essentially a German legend dating back to the 7th century, it has been appropriated by other literatures, chiefly Scandinavian, and is a theme of international popularity. It was forgotten in the Renaissance and was rediscovered about the middle of the romantic 18th century, when it was treated by Wagner and Hebbel in Germany, Ibsen in Norway, and William Morris in England, whose epic is considered to be his finest piece of work.

Professor Hohlfeldt read "The Death of Siegfried" from the Lettsom translation of the original Niebelungen Lied, the closing scene of the Valkyria from Wagner, where Grynhild falls asleep and is surrounded by fire magic, and "The Passing Away of Grynhild" from Morris' epic.

These meetings, which are being held under the chairmanship of Janet Tietjens, will be conducted every Sunday afternoon, at each of which a prominent member of the university faculty will talk informally to Arden club members and guests.
