HELLO FRESHMAN.

Say Dick: I'm telling you. I've stood a lot from you and never squirmed, but when my sweetie deludes me into dropping into a six foot heating tunnel (time 11:55) in the vain hope of locating that private entrance into Wisconsin's dear old Chadbourne—well, Dick, "C'est fini," then I rise in righteous wrath and proclaim to the world—they're spoofing you, Old Top!

CAMPUS QUEEN! REPORT FOR DUTY.

Dear R. H. L.: Please make Campus Queen
write some more—about other things than W. G. N.
(we don't know what that means either—does anyone?). Every time we read her name in the Line, little prickly feelings go up and down our spine. (Excuse us, we didn't mean to make that rhyme.) You see, we love Wisconsin U. too—and the very word "campus" reminds us of The Hill—and old Bascom Hall—and Lake Mendota—and the Drive—(wonder if Campus Queen knows that drive? I'll wager she does)—and that most lovable of traditions, Prof. Fish, with his red vest and neck-tie. Some day . . . we're going back . . . but now, we're lonesome—for Wisconsin—and we love Campus Queen. Make her write, R. H. L., please do!

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT.

DEAR HARVE: No Michigan stars have been visible in Madison this winter. Their appearance was predicted, but they never showed up. "Angry Michigan" says there were at least two, but both were ineligible. Wisconsin seems to require that its stars be bright above the neck as well as below. A star on the team is worth two in the stand. Pennsylvania '17.

HE WHO GETS SLAPPED.

To Mr. Maroon Forever—I wonder if Walt Campbell based his selection of John Thomas on the All-American during the course of the Wisconsin-Chicago game. John seemed to hesitate a bit when he hit the best line in the conference.

WISCONSIN, 24.

PERHAPS THE HUMANE SOCIETY MADE HIM QUIT.

To Maroon Forever: Regarding John Thomas. I don't seem to remember that he ever played thru a full game.

MAKE of the NEWS

College Department.

Friend Harve: Apologies for my tardiness in giving you the standing of the conference schools in all sports for the college year ending June, 1922 (one point for first place, two for second, etc.):

	Foot- ball.	Basket- ball.	Track.	Base- ball.	Total.
Wisconsin	4	2½	4	2½	13
Illinois	8½	4	1	1	14½
Michigan	5	2½	5	2½	15

As you remember, the score for the previous year was: Wisconsin, 9½; Illinois, 10; Michigan, 11½. Standing for combined years: Wisconsin, 22½; Illinois, 24½; Michigan, 26½.

All of this in anticipation of considerable noise from Ann Arbor, if their basketball, track, and baseball teams are as good as their football team was this year.

If Iowa ought to be included, her own alumni must furnish the statistics. The Badgers are pleased to note Iowa's rise, but we haven't kept all the "dope" on her.

Queen of Our Hearts

Fair Wisconsin we'll cheer,
For we all hold her dear,
And as queen of our hearts she shall reign.
When her team takes the field,
All opponents must yield,
As her sons her traditions maintain.
For we're true to Wisconsin,
We'll fight for her fame,
The Card'nal shall never know shame.
And at home or afar,
May her bright shining star,
Guide us onward to honor her name.

HOMECOMING MADISON, OCT. 31, NOV. 1-2 1919 1919

Replying to the wise crack of "Ex-Illinois '26" about Wisconsin, "pickin' 'em" in the matter of prelim games. When Tom Jones says Ames, Creighton and South Dakota are good prospects, we agree with him so far as to say they compare favorably with a certain little Indiana college eleven which startled the football world last fall with a score which read: "Butler, 10; Illinois, 7."

We may pick 'em, "Ex-'26," but we manage to beat 'em when we do pick 'em.

STUDENTS LACK SLEEP, IS CLAIM

University Clinic Experts
Attribute Illness to Insufficient Rest.

By a Staff Correspondent.

MADISON, Wis.—Do University of Wisconsin students get enough sleep?

Doctors at the university clinic say "no." At the physical education department they say "no," and those in charge of the women's dormitories agree sadly that those at the clinic and at Lathrop hall are correct.

Everyone, students, doctors, and most of all the faculty, agree that the students are too busy. Students say that it's studying that keeps them from getting their needed rest. Faculty members say that too many outside activities are responsible.

"The course of study here at Madison is arranged so that the average student can carry the regular course without at all curtailing the rest and recreation necessary for health. It is no study that causes irregular hours, except during times of 'cramming,' it is weekend festivities and improper methods of study," is the opinion of a woman doctor at the university clinic.

Miss Lippitt of the department of physical education expressed the belief that the time required for study could be reduced from one-half to one-third if the time was well spent and not wasted.

"A great many students do not begin their work until 9 or 10 p. m., and often later," said Miss Lippitt. "They waste the early part of the evening or else wait until the house is quiet before beginning to study. Consequently a much longer time must be spent at every lesson, for information is not easily retained after the brain becomes fatigued."

Although people differ greatly in the amount of sleep they require, it is generally believed that eight hours is a good average of what students should have. That must not mean that they get it, by any means. Young people who at home were used to eight or nine hours' sleep come to the university and immediately try to do what they find many others doing—get along with less.

Dr. Robert Van Valsah of the university clinic says, "Individuals need widely varying amounts of sleep. Some can get along on half of what others take, and do it for years, with no seeming effect. But when there comes an illness that taxes powers of endurance, those who have gone on with from four to six hours of sleep a night stand less chance.

"Lack of sleep," went on Dr. Van Valsah, "more than irregular habits of eating or exercise, is the most prevalent cause of illness here at the U."

pointed.

SHAKE SHIMMY ALL THEY WANT AT U. OF W.

Special to Wisconsin News.

MADISON, Wis.—If Wisconsin university co-eds want to "shimmy" and wear short skirts, that's their own business, not the university's.

So spoke Miss F. Louise Nardin, dean of women of the university, today when asked if the series of "don'ts" for co-eds at dances recently written into the regulations at Northwestern university and other western schools would be adopted here.

"We have no such legislation pending here at Wisconsin," Miss Nardin said. "It is not our policy to enforce reforms among isolated groups by drastic means. There is certainly no bad taste in dancing and dress and legislation does not get far in regulating such matters. We always have chaperons at our dances, but no drastic measures are needed to regulate student conduct here."

The five "don'ts for dancers" adopted at Northwestern university at the suggestion of Mrs. Mary Ross Potter, dean of women there, are:

Chaperons for all dances.

Elimination of peekaboo waists and short skirts.

No chin on the shoulder dancing.

No shimmy or by-products thereof, including the "intimate twist."

No smoking by either co-eds or their escorts.

PORTUGAL

"TAPS" AT 9 O'CLOCK SEEN

Many Students Plead Heavy
Studies for Listlessness in Classroom.

MADISON, Wis.—Burning of the "midnight oil" along the university "Latin quarter" may soon be a thing of the past.

A "more sleep" campaign started by the university clinic promises to make a Madison a "9 o'clock town."

When usually "peppy" undergrads and co-eds started to show that "tired feeling" at morning classes, a faculty investigation was started. The solution was found, they say, in the gay night parties along fraternity house row, and midnight frolics in the women's "dorms."

Some of the students pleaded heavy courses and long night study periods. Low grades exploded this alibi.

TOO BUSY HAVING FUN.

"The students are too busy," said one of the clinic physicians, "but not with their studies. Hundreds spend four hours of pleasure for every hour of real work."

Miss Mary Lippert, leader in the "more sleep" campaign, is willing to give the students at least an even break.

"Where the courses are so heavy that they necessitate long hours of preparation, I recommend that they be reduced," she said. "Every student should be able to prepare his lessons and still be able to retire at 11 o'clock."

The "more sleep" question is to be brought before President E. A. Birge for action.

MAY CHANGE "TAPS" HOUR.

It is probable that he will change the dormitory "taps" from 10 o'clock to 9 o'clock, campaign leaders say. On Friday and Saturday "dorm" residents are permitted to remain out until midnight.

With the approach of the holidays, preparations for the annual "sore eye special" are being made. The passengers will be students whose low grades make their presence no longer acceptable to the faculty.

I was relieved when I read that Michigan and Wisconsin are going to meet again in 1923. Keen as was the game at Ferry field this fall, I did not see a single unsportsmanlike tackle or play. There seemed a certain friendly rivalry, as though they were playing for love of the game and not hatred of each other. With this spirit, it would be a shame if the schools did not meet. I believe I am expressing the spirit of the entire student body when I say Wisconsin will be welcomed here at Ann Arbor again in 1924, and I know we will receive the same welcome at Madison next year.

OFFICE OF THE DEAN OF MEN.

Professor Warren J. Mead,
Science Hall, University of Wisconsin,
Madison, Wis.,

December 8, 1921.

Dear Professor Mead:

May I call to the attention of yourself and of the members of one of your classes an incident which produced an unfavorable impression of the University and of University students on the minds of many people. On a geology field tour this fall one hundred students in your charge descended from the train at Ablemans, Wisconsin. Upon reaching the platform, the boys gave voice to the customary Engineering yell "Well, well, well! Is this Ableman? Oh Hell! A Madison business man who was on the train tells me that he never knew the thermometer to go down so fast. A group of sectionhands near the front end of the train threw down their picks and shovels and began cursing the students and the University. In the entire car in which the gentleman sat the hammers tripped nerrily. A preacher who sat opposite him opined that Bryan was right, it was a thoroughly godless institution. A couple of traveling men who sat ahead of him began to discourse on the uncalled for insult to the small town. My friend was of the impression that over half the people on the train went on their way with a thoroughly unfavorable impression of our students and institution and that they would probably voice this impression and spread these sentiments wherever they went.

The incident in itself is a small one, but its results are certainly not unimportant. If the boys had given the Varsity xx locomotive or a sky rocket for Ablemans or had sung a stanza of On Wisconsin, the impression would have been totally different, but to step off the train and deliberately insult the community made everyone angry who heard it. I have no doubt the boys would respond if asked about the matter that it was thoughtlessness, and that is probably the exact truth. But why should University students be thoughtless in a matter which so vitally affects the welfare of the institution? At the University, they are supposed to be taught to think.

In our contact with parents, with school men, and with citizens in general throughout the state, we encounter an immense amount of prejudice, misunderstanding and hostility toward the University. We do our best to combat it and in our present campaign for a Wisconsin Memorial Union Building we are endeavoring to mobilize the love of our own alumni and former students throughout the state and to correct many misapprehensions which exist in the minds of the people at large. But, unhappily, destructive work is much more easy and much more successful than constructive work. I have not the slightest doubt that the Ablemans incident did more damage in one minute than we shall be able to counteract in many weeks.

I should be glad if you would bring this matter to the attention of the class concerned.

Very sincerely yours,

(Signed) S. H. Goodnight

Lawyers Must Scratch Back of Heads When Passing Victorious Plumbers

Lawyers must scratch the back of their heads now-days. This new but compulsory fad to be adopted by the lawyers is the result of their losing the snowball fight to the engineers. The condition was part of the challenge, but the enforcement is entirely left to the lawyers' honor.

It now becomes the duty of every lawyer to acquaint himself with the personnel of the engineering school. How this acquaintance is to be made is also left to the individual lawyer, but several suggestions are offered: If a person with a beard is met, don't be too sure about scratching your head, it may be a professor. If a slide rule projects from the pocket of a student, then give the password, and if the student responds by dashing his slide rule to the ground, you have tackled the wrong man.

The snowball fight has aroused so much interest that it may prove to be the first of a series of novel stunts to take place between the two schools before the end of the present term. The lawyers by agreement are to issue the next challenge. What the nature of this challenge will be, is still a mystery, but it has been rumored that the lawyers will challenge the engineers to a hand-car race on the day of the engineers parade.

Engineers Given Grid Challenge By U. W. Law Team

Football Game to Benefit Memorial Union is Purpose

The Law school challenges the College of Engineering to a football game to avenge certain grievances set forth in a legal summons drafted yesterday. The contest is to be staged at a date to be decided upon later if the challenge is accepted by the engineers. All proceeds from the event will be given to the Memorial Union fund.

Alleged injuries suffered by the Law school from the Engineers' welcome and the activities of the College of Engineering in certain parades are mentioned in the challenge. It is to atone for these before the public that the football game is proposed.

The document of the Law school follows:

The Summons

The Varsity Engineers are hereby summoned to appear and answer to the Lawyers of a plea of Wager of Battle. The said Lawyers by Blackstone, their attorney, complain for that whereas, the said Lawyers now are good, true, honest, just and faithful subjects of this institution and as such have always behaved and conducted themselves and until the committing of the several grievances by the said defendants as hereinafter mentioned were always reputed, esteemed and accepted by and amongst all their neighbors to whom they have been in any wise known, to be persons of good name, fame, character and dignity. And whereas, also, the said plaintiffs hath never been guilty, or until the time of the committing of the several grievances by the said defendants as hereinafter mentioned, been suspected to have been guilty of snobishness, physical inferiority, egotism, or any other such heinous crime.

Yet the said defendants well knowing the premises, but greatly envying the happy state and position of the said plaintiffs and contriving wickedly, maliciously, unlawfully, and unjustly intending to injure the said plaintiffs in their good name, character, fame, reputation and dignity and to bring them into public scandal, infamy and disgrace with and amongst all their fellow students, and to cause it to be suspected and believed by these students that the said plaintiffs have been guilty of the aforementioned crimes; to subject them to the pains and scorn of student sentiment; to vex, harass, oppress, impoverish and wholly ruin the said plaintiffs hereofore, to-wit: at the University of Wisconsin in certain boisterous and well known, ill spirited outbursts of engineering mirth, of and concerning said plaintiffs in the presence and hearing of divers good and worthy students in the presence of the last mentioned parties maliciously, crudely, uncouthly, and unjustly uttered, blurted of and concerning the said plaintiffs and scandalous, malicious, unbecoming and unjust words following, that is to say,

"Well, Well, Well,
Is that the Law School
O Hell."

And as a still further cause of action the plaintiffs allege that on a certain great day of pomp and celebrity, to-wit: the 17th day of March, popularly known as St. Patrick's day, the defendants wickedly, and maliciously in an attempt to belittle the dignity and position of the plaintiffs in a certain vulgar, crude and unbecoming manner did arrange a parade consisting of various mechanical contrivances, to-wit: six typical morbid engineers drawing one hearse which therein lay one casket labeled, "The Law School."

By means of the committing of such grievances by the said defendants as aforesaid, the plaintiffs hath been and are greatly injured in their good name, fame, reputation and brought into public scorn and disgrace with and amongst their fellow students, and have by reason of the committing of the said grievances a cause of action for which they seek relief in the following manner, to-wit: that the eleven best, strongest, huskiest, bravest, and MOST BLOODTHIRSTY "PLUMBERS" representing the above defendants, appear in Pig Skin court Randall Field Circuit spiritually and physically prepared before the unsuspecting, worthy, and defrauded student body to atone at the hands of the said plaintiffs in forty minutes of battle, commonly known as "Football."

Whereupon, if the said defendant do not appear in open court upon the day to be set, and of which they will be duly notified, judgment will be rendered against them; all plaintiffs rights will be vindicated, and the Engineers will forever

"PULL IN THEIR NECKS."

Subscribed and sworn before me this 19th day of October, A. D. 1921.

ENGINEERS TO BATTLE LAWS AT FOOTBALL

Plumbers Accept Law Defi to Fight for Supremacy at Randall

The Law school challenge to the College of Engineering has been acted upon, and the Engineers will battle with the Laws before the public on the football gridiron, settling once and for all time which school is supreme. The proceeds of the game will go to the Memorial Union fund.

But still, the disciples of Saint Patrick's monkey wrench gaze over the hill and murmur,

"Well, well, well, is that the Law school?"

"Oh, hell!"

Once more these words from the disgusted plumbers. And as they say, the assumptions of the "cained" in thinking of producing a football team, can, as time goes on, only add to the pitying disgust.

The corduroy men would be insulted, they say, at the legal verbiage of Blackstone, attorney for the laws, hurled in the recent challenge, if only they could come to consider the lawyers of enough import to merit their words being taken seriously.

Just why the Law shop desires to be humiliated before the public is beyond the conception of the engineers; the Northmen are more than willing to act as the humiliating factor in crushing the presumptuous Bar-tenders via the football route.

The Answer

To this end, Saint Patrick has had his scribe write at some length in accepting the challenge of Blackstone. The communication follows, in part:

"Since the lawyers have flung open such an appealing challenge, the engineers feel anxious to negotiate for the 'Battle Royal.' Saint Patrick, himself, in a triumvirate, will welcome a tri-Blackstone in room 116 of the Engineering building on Thursday, Oct. 20, 1921, at 4:30 p. m., to make all the arrangements and draw up the contract. Whereupon if the aforesaid Blackstone representatives do not appear, the lawyers' challenge for 'Mortal Combat' will be assumed to have been withdrawn, and the lawyers can again assume their place at the bar.

Therefore, be it Resolved, That we, the U. W. Engineers, do hereby accept the challenge of the U. W. Law School to play a game of football, the date and rules to be drawn up by the date mentioned, 1921.

Be it further Resolved, That the Engineers are in absolute accordance with the idea of playing the game for the benefit of the Memorial Union fund.

Signed

SAINT PATRICK,
Engineer de Luxe.

ENGINEERS

ENGINEERS' PARADE

Assembly and March:

Assemble at foot of Park Street as early as possible, in order to get proper place in line for a prompt start. Parade starts at 1:30. Assignments to position will be made by marshalls, who will wear green arm bands.

Line of march will be down State Street, around square, back State to the lower campus, where all Engineers will gather at foot of library steps.

Keep proper intervals between various outfits as well as possible. In case of any trouble, drop out, in order not to hold up parade, and fall in line later.

On arriving at lower campus, all Engineers will pay honor to St. Patrick, and have the privilege of kissing the Blarney Stone. (This Stone has not been used since its disappearance in 1912.)

Dress:

Turn out in old clothes, if you are not dressing for some particular stunt. Corduroys for upperclassmen, flannel shirts for everyone.

Group and Individual Prizes:

Professors Larson, Corp, and Hyland, will judge for the prizes. Entries will be received by any Marshall (wearing green arm band) up till 1:25. Last year a man won a prize who did not decide to enter until noon Saturday.

Band:

The band will form under Leonard, behind Science Hall, and receive additional equipment necessary.

Guards of St. Patrick:

A special guard for St. Patrick will be formed same place as band. Turn out and be in the guard.

MEN'S DIVISION

HAND ME DOWN MY BONNET

Hand me down my bonnet,
Hand me down my shawl,
Hand me down my calico dress,
And we'll go to the calico ball.

CHORUS:

As we go marching,
And the band begins to p-l-a-y,
You can hear the people shouting
Wisconsin's going to win the game today.

First she gave me candy,
Then she gave me cake,
Then she gave me ginger bread,
For kissing her at the gate.

CHORUS:

First she gave me whiskey,
Then she gave me gin,
Then she gave me ginger bread,
For kissing her on the chin.

CHORUS:

WHY DON'T YOU GET TO WORK
Why don't you get to work like other people do,
How the hell can we work
When there's no work to do

CHORUS:

Hallelujah, give us a hand out,
Hallelujah, Amen,
Hallelujah, give us a hand out,
To revive us again.

SECOND CHORUS:

Hallelujah, Peiper Heidsick,
Hallelujah, Spear Head,
Hallelujah, Star Tobacco,
We'll chew till we're dead.
(END WITH AMEN AFTER LAST VERSE)

We came to this town, we came here by rail,
Arrested for vagrancy, landed in jail.

We went to a house, we knocked on the door,
The landlady said I have seen you before.

We are hungry as sin, we also have thirst,
We can eat anything,
That will not bite us first.

ST. PATRICK

St. Patrick was an Engineer, he was, he was,
St. Patrick was an Engineer, he was, he was,
For he discovered the calculus,
And handed it down for us to cuss,
Erin go braugh, hurrah for the Engineers,
Erin go braugh, hurrah for the Engineers.
St. Patrick was an Engineer, he was, he was,
St. Patrick was an Engineer, he was, he was,
For he invented the monkey wrench
To screw the Law School off the bench.
Erin go braugh, etc.
St. Patrick was an Engineer, he was, he was,
St. Patrick was an Engineer, he was, he was,
For he discovered the Pearly Gates
And surveyed the road to hell so straight,
Erin go braugh, etc.

DON'T SEND MY BOY TO HARVARD

Don't send my boy to Harvard,
The dying mother said,
Don't send my boy to Michigan,
I'd rather see him dead,
But send him to Wisconsin,
It's better than Cornell,
But rather than Chicago
I'd see my boy
In the evening by the moonlight,
You could hear those darkies singing,
In the evening by the moonlight,
You could hear those banjos ringing.
How the old folks would enjoy it,
They would sit all night and listen,
As we sang a song of college days,
Tell me where to go,
Northwestern for her pretty girls,
Wisconsin where they grow,
Michigan for chappies,
Purdue for Johnnie boys,
Chicago for her Standard Oil,
But for Suckers, Illinois.
