Institute for Defense Will Convene Today

The first session of the Wisconsin Public Affairs institute will open a two day conference this morning in the Union theater at 9:45. Prominent speakers, representing the different phases of national defense, will discuss the part communities will play in the present national total defense program.

Pres. C. A. Dykstra and Gov. Julius Heil will open the institute. After registration, Dykstra and Judge Marvin J. Rosenberry, chief justice of the Wisconsin supreme court, will speak in a symposium, "Defense of What?" in the Union theater.

NATIONAL DEFENSE

At the afternoon session, "National Defense in Action" will be discussed. Speakers will be Col. William H. Draper, Jr., of the United States army; Prof. D. D. Leschier, of the university economics department; and Carl Taeusch, United States department of agriculture.

Frank Bane, advisory commission to the Council of National Defense, will speak on "State Organizations and Their Role in National Defense" at the evening dinner session in Great hall at 6:30. After the address, there will be a panel discussion on "How May Wisconsin's State Organizations Best Contribute to National Defense?"

NEW VOTERS WILL MEET IN STOCK PAVILION

Two thousand Wisconsin collegians who reach voting age this year are invited to attend the Dane county Citizenship day ceremonies to be held Sunday at the university stock pavilion, Sherwood Gorenstein, chairman of the student board citizenship committee, announced yesterday.

Pictured above is a scene showing a class of last year's "21ers" receiving instructions concerning their duties as citizens of the United States. They learn methods of voting and types of government in local communities, state, and nation.

ROTC Winners Of Squad Drills Are Announced

Winners in Wednesday night's Reserve Officers' Training corps' individual and squad drill competition were announced by the military department yesterday at the same time the names of the three cadets slated to receive Chicago Tribune medals in the armory at 1:20 this afternoon were made public.

Each semester the Chicago Tribune sends the military department three medals for presentation to the three second-year basic cadets judged most proficient in drill and theory grades. This semester's winners, who will receive their awards from Col. John T. Rhett, ROTC officer for the sixth corps area, are:

Ralph C. Theiler, gold medal; George R. Dawe, silver medal; and Isadore A. Zydock, bronze medal. All three are infantry.

Milton Friedman Becomes Object Of Controversy

By ALEX DWOKIN

Although members of the department of economics met with President Dykstra and Dean George Sellery of the College of Letters and Science yesterday afternoon, the controversial proposal to appoint 28-year-old Milton Friedman to an associate professorship in economics was not discussed, according to President Dykstra.

Opponents to Friedman's appointment to the assistant professorship cited his youth and lack of outstanding qualifications, and the fact that new courses would have to be scheduled for him because those in his fields, economics, statistics, and theory, are adequately covered by the present staff.

Friedman recently circulated a report on an "unofficial investigation" of the department's facilities in the field of statistics which pointed out that students at the university could not secure proper training to fit them to teach. Friedman's proposed promotion was endorsed by a petition to the department heads signed by graduate assistants in economics, but no mention was made of the report.

Prof. F. H. Elwell, director of the School of Commerce, who attended the conference, said that the creation of a separate School of Commerce, making the present commerce department independent of the College of Letters and Science, has been discussed in Dykstra's office.

Professor Elwell favored the change in the department's status because "it involves the support of business men of the state." He stated that it would not mean the addition of any new courses or personnel to the department.

In a letter to Dean Sellery on the proposed appointment of Friedman a member of the economics department, reported to be Prof. Edwin E. Witte by the Wisconsin State Journal yesterday, stated that Friedman's proposed appointment would "arouse extreme bitterness within the department of agricultural economics and the School of Commerce." Witte would make no statement last night on authorship of the letter, nor would

Red Army Will Battle Blue On Eagle Heights, May 24

Although all the characteristics of a major modern military operation will be in evidence when the Red army battles the Blue over the ramparts of Eagle heights a week from Saturday, the local blitzkrieg will turn out to be nothing but an all-morning maneuver of the university's entire cadet corps.

This martial exercise will start off four days of final ROTC activities before the close of the school year. Complementing the maneuver will be the May 25 graduation parade, part of the Parents' weekend program; and the annual federal inspection, planned for May 26 and 27.

One of the most ambitious activities attempted by the military department, the sham battle will embody all of the instruction the cadets have received this year. None of the guns, some of which will be "ersatz," will fire anything except a few blanks. Lt. Col. Lewis and Major Hahn, acting as umpires, will determine which of the belligerents are "dead" or "wounded," and which side may advance against the other.

Invited to witness the maneuver have been prominent civilians, reserve officers of the Madison area, and the local press, including members of The Daily Cardinal staff. Ten Madison business organizations have donated a total of approximately $200 for the lunch the cadet corps and guests will partake in after completion of the all-morning maneuver.

Those local business firms which have contributed for the lunch are:

Wisconsin Power and Light company, Gisholt Tool and Machine company, Oscar Mayer, Guardian Life Insurance, Rennebohm, First National bank, Hotel Loraine, Mutual Life, Madison Gas and Electric company, and Commonwealth Telephone company.

Pi Phis, Pajamas Highlight Serenade On Langdon Street

Led by a disillusioned Pi Beta Phi chorus, Langdon street co-eds and men—many of them still wearing pajamas—bounced from their houses early Thursday morning to stage an extemporaneous serenade up and down the length of the street.

Prominent in the procession, which began when the Pi Phi singers failed to place in Spring Festival song tournament, were Edward Blumberg and Jim Lowe, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Blumberg, attired in his pajama bottoms—no more, no less—and Lowe, wearing only his underwear, chanted lustily as the original Pi Phi group was enlarged to include practically every sorority and fraternity in the vicinity.

Haresfoot Club Has Fair Financial Gain

In post-war days, Haresfoot has made a profit upwards of $10,000. It has also lost as much as $8,000, but this year for the first time in five years Haresfoot is "in the blue."

Ray Hilsenhoff, student financial advisor, ventured a guess that the 1941 profits should be somewhere between $500 and $1,000, but he qualified this statement with a warning "if they stay within their budget."

*Groups Form Working Crews To Pave Road

Eight fraternities, two lodges, house units, and ten residence halls have organized crews for the first all-campus work day to pave the lake road on Saturday, Bob Avery announced last night.

"Everything is complete," he declared, "We have the cinders, our work crews are ready to go, and the equipment is on hand."

Bands will lead parades of workers from Langdon street and the men's residence halls at 7:30 tomorrow morning so that all workers will arrive together. Contrary, however, to a previous statement, classes will not be dismissed, Avery said.

All foremen who have been named to take charge of the work squads will meet today at the hydraulics laboratory on the lake road near Park street at 4:30 to be assigned their road sections, Avery said.

Last indications on the work to be done to the road showed that the job may not take the entire day, officials of the work day committee reported. Because of uniform consistency of cinders, they will not have to be sifted. It is now thought that only one layer of cinders will have to be laid.

"The response to this first work day call has been very satisfactory," Avery and Gunther Heller agreed. "Despite initiations and formals, fraternities and sororities have come through in great shape," they said.

Men's residence halls, Elizabeth Waters and Langdon halls have turned out in almost full force.

Mayland Appointed New Octopus Editor By Board Yesterday

At a noon meeting of the board of directors of the Wisconsin Octopus yesterday, Edward J. Mayland, junior from Racine, was appointed the executive editor of the magazine for the ensuing year. T. Stan O'Malley, sophomore from Milwaukee, was appointed business manager, and Sam Greco, junior from Kenosha, was appointed advertising manager.

Mayland is a familiar figure around the Octopus office, having been a consistent contributor for three years as well as art director this last year. O'Malley comes to the Octopus from the 1941 Badger, having been advertising manager there. Greco rises to his position from his former post as promotion director of the Octopus.

The board of directors that appointed these men was composed of Dean George C. Sellery; James S. Watrous, instructor in art history; Roger F. Wurtz, former executive editor; Roger W. Gerling, former business manager; and Ray L. Hilsenhoff, student financial advisor.

The afternoon's main address will be delivered by Howard McClusky, an associate director of the staff of the American Council of Education, Washington, D. C. Mr. McClusky is a former member of the University of Minnesota faculty.

Chosen as Miss Democracy for the event, Ann Tangerman, Badger co-ed, from Hammond, Ind., will appear in one of the tableaux of the pageant.

Chicago Occupations Bureau Helps Women College Grads

The Chicago Collegiate Bureau of Occupations is a non-profit organization formed to aid women college students seeking employment in Chicago after their graduation.

Founded in 1912, the bureau annually interviews and registers close to 10,000 women. The Bureau is sponsored by the Chicago alumnae associations of leading colleges and universities and the American Association of University Women. Its policies are governed by a board of directors composed of delegates from these organizations. It is managed by college women trained in personnel work who themselves have had business and professional experience.

"We have secured jobs for statisticians, home economists, secretaries and stenographers, laboratory technicians, social service workers, women interested in advertising and editorial work, librarians, office workers; indeed virtually every kind of position imaginable except teaching." Mrs. Ruth Drummond, the bureau director, says. "We are accepted by leading employers in the Chicago area as the headquarters for qualified women job applicants from colleges all over the country. We are delighted to consult on any employment problem, cooperate in filling difficult positions, and furnish prompt service for both temporary and permanent jobs," she adds.

The bureau places young graduates just out of school as well as mature, experienced workers. Reasonable fees on a percentage basis from each registrant who is successfully placed in a position take care of the organization's actual placement expense. Donations from sponsoring college alumnae associations are used for research, guidance and promotion work.

"So far this year," Mrs. Drummond reported, "a marked improvement in prospects for college women seeking employment has been evident. Business has reflected the speed up of the defense program and as a consequence, a crying need has developed for well trained and capable women in a wide variety of work."

Women graduates who plan to seek work in Chicago are urged to register with the bureau at 5 South Wabash avenue as soon as they reach the city.

New Econ Head

PROF. D. D. LESCOHIER will succeed Prof. E. E. Witte as chairman of the economics department, Dean G. C. Sellery has informed the Cardinal. The appointment, which still has to go through official channels, will be effective starting next fall.

Professor Lescohier joined the economics department at Wisconsin in 1918 and has taught here since. His courses include business cycles, personnel management, wages and price, and the labor market.

Professor Witte, chairman during the past year, was granted a leave of absence which will begin next fall to enable him to do research work.

The Badger Beauties completed their regular softball season without a defeat to mark their record when Chez 919 forfeited to them in their last game. The Madisonians were also the recipients of a forfeit as was the House of Desmond.

Yesterday afternoon the fraternities relieved their crowded noon schedule and twilight games by playing two of their games in the afternoon. In the first of these encounters the Psi U's won their first game, defeating Zeta Tau, 8-4.

Phi Gamma Delta also scored its first victory when it surprised Alpha Kappa Psi, 13-3.

In the only independent game played, the Lutheran Students gained themselves a spot in the playoffs by swamping Pres House 11-4.

DELTA CHI-SAE

Harder of the SAE's and Krueger of Delta Chi hooked up in a brilliant softball pitching duel yesterday, which ended only after an extra inning brought a 1-0 victory, and perhaps a divisional trophy, to the Delta Chis. Each pitcher allowed but one hit, the SAE hit, a double, going to Pohle, and the Delta Chi hit being made by Krueger himself. By the victory Delta Chi remained undefeated, while handing their toughest opponents a loss.

Evidence of the quality of the pitching comes from the fact that Krueger allowed no walks and Harder issued only one. Krueger struck out nine batters, and Harder fanned five.

With the game scoreless in the last of the sixth, Krueger, the first Delta Chi batter in that inning, hit a long fly to left center. Jimmy Lowe made a nice try for the ball, got his hands on it, but couldn't quite hold it because of the muddy underfooting, and Krueger raced to third on the error.

On the next pitch, W. Johnson slapped a long fly to left, which enabled Krueger to easily score the only run of the ball game.

PHI SIG-THETA DELT

Phi Sigma Delta remained undefeated by squeezing out a 5-4 victory over Theta Delta Chi. The Phi Sigs have now won four straight games, and have only to get past the Triangle for a perfect season.

With the score tied at three-all, the Theta Deltas went ahead in the third on successive doubles by Williams and Stark.

The Phi Sigs came back with a fine two-run rally in their half of the last inning to win. Kellerman walked and stole second, whereupon Yoblon singled him home. Yoblon went to second on the throw to the plate, stole third, and scored on Bachman's long fly.

SIGMA NU-DKE

In the only other game played, Sigma Nu humiliated Delta Kappa Epsilon, 15-5. With the score 5-3 against them going into the last inning, the Sigma Nus put on a 12-run scoring spurge, topped off by Ritz' home run, to walk off the muddy field with an easy triumph.

DELTA THETA SIGMA WINS

The Delta Theta Sigma hardball team had a close call but continued its unbroken streak by taking a six-inning 5-3 game from Phi Sigma Delta. Reiter's triple with the bags loaded in the second gave the Phi Sigs a three run lead, but poor fielding gave the Delta Thetas a tie in the last of the fourth.

In the sixth, singles by Hart and Arneson, and Bahler's walk, broke the deadlock and Arneson held the Phi Sigs hitless in the last three frames.

Behind Lehner's two-hit pitching the Delta Taus pounded out a 13-1 win over the AEPis. The Pi Lams won on a forfeit.

record is 14 feet, 2 1/4 inches, set by Cassels of Chicago. Williams went over the 14-foot mark last Saturday against Iowa and if he has a good day may retain his title. But it will be close.

Bob Wright, Ohio State, will probably take both hurdles, although the competition will be keen. Thomason, Michigan, Rankin, Purdue, and Hoosier Roy Cochrane—he won the national collegiate title in this event one year—may surprise the dopesesters and nose out Wright.

WISCONSIN POINT WINNERS

Wisconsin figures to score in approximately ten events, although Paskvan or Beierle in the shot and Williams in the pole vault are the only possible first place contenders. Jones figures that Novak or Soergel in the sprints, Schoenike in the half and the mile, Timmerman in the high Indiana's other firsts will come in the two mile and the shot and discus. Witt has the edge on the rest of the distance field, while Archie Harris may put the shot and hurl the discus not only to a double first, but also to new meet records. Pushing Harris we find the two Badger weight men, Paskvan and Beierle, and Hook, Michigan. The discus will not be as closely contested as the shot, for Harris is way ahead of the field in this event.

WILLIAMS MAY KEEP TITLE

In the pole vault there are three 14-foot vaulters competing, including defending champion Bill Williams, Minnesota's Jack DeField, and Ed Thistlewaite of Northwestern. The

A squad of 17 Badger trackmen left for Minneapolis yesterday where the 41st annual outdoor Big Ten track meet will be held. Preliminaries are today; finals are scheduled for tomorrow.

"First place is out of our reach," Coach Tom Jones declared. "Indiana and Michigan will battle for that spot alone, probably running their scores into the 40's. Michigan should nose out the Hoosiers."

BADGERS FIGHT FOR THIRD

"The fight for third place will be among Ohio State, Wisconsin, Northwestern, and Illinois," he said. "The Ohio State boys appear to be the strongest contenders for this spot, but if all our boys do well we may out-point them."

Results in the first division in the 1940 outdoor conference meet are as follows: Michigan 51; Indiana 35 1/2; Wisconsin 26 1/4; Minnesota 25; Illinois 24 1/2.

This year Northwestern and Ohio State are expected to break into the first division, and Minnesota and Illinois will probably be the schools crowded out.

WILLIAMS DEFENDS CROWN

The Badgers enter the meet with a 1940 Big Ten champion and four other 1940 Big Ten point-winners. Bill Williams is the defending champion, having captured the pole vault crown last year.

The other scorers are Alf Harrer in the high jump; Howie Schoenike in the two mile; Cyril Kabat in the discus, and George Paskvan in the shot put and discus.

PROBABLE WINNERS

The most probable individual champions are as follows:

100 yard dash—Piker, Northwestern
220 yard dash—Piker, Northwestern
440 yard dash—Ufer, Michigan
High hurdles—Wright, Ohio State

Golters Await Iowa

Resolved to avenge defeats at the hands of University of Minnesota squads, Wisconsin's varsity tennis and golf teams face conference foes today.

The netmen meet the Gophers in a return match at 10 o'clock on the varsity courts. Joe Steinauer's golf team will not have a crack at the Gophers but meet conference competition in a strong Iowa team on a Madison links this afternoon.

The Badger courtmen will be endeavoring to snap a three match losing streak in Big Ten competition. Before dropping the match to Minnesota, the Cards had lost to Chicago and Michigan.

Sandwiched between the defeats was a 9-0 victory over Marquette. The squad under the direction of a new mentor, Carl Sanger, opened its season with a win over Iowa's Hawkeyes.

By DON OLMSTED

Wisconsin's up-and-coming baseball team ends its home conference schedule in a two-game series today at 3:30 and tomorrow at 2:30 when it meets the University of Chicago at Camp Randall.

Ed Scheiwe, regular Badger right fielder whose right eye has been puffed and darkened since he was hit by a thrown ball while sliding into second a week ago against Minnesota, may be able to resume his place in the Wisconsin lineup. Leonard Sweet has to date done a capable filling-in job for Scheiwe.

MARONS WEAK

The Maroons have an unimpressive record in conference competition and are at present resting snugly at the bottom of the conference standings. They have not been able to win a Big Ten game.

The Badgers, who split two games with the Gophers of Minnesota last week, hold two conference victories and three defeats in the conference. Wisconsin previously split a series with Ohio State and lost to Illinois, defending conference champions.

BADGERS LEAD HITTING

Although the Wisconsin team batting average of .358 leads the league in that department, the team now is in eighth place through inability to bring the runners all the way around. From 68 conference hits, the Cards have gained a total of only 80 bases.

Wisconsin's batting champion last year, Lefty Smith, third baseman, again leads the team in hitting with a tremendous .500 average.

Bob Van Sickle will try today against Chicago to maintain his perfect record of two conference wins in two attempts.

Frosh Track
Squad Victors

Coming out on the long end of a 73-53 score, Wisconsin's freshmen defeated Iowa's frosh in a dual telegraphic meet held May 10. The Badgers won nine firsts and slammed the high-jump.

Iowa's Forman took the century in 10 flat and also took the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet. Lambert was Wisconsin's double winner, taking both hurdles. Hertz of Wisconsin was second in the highs and Wilson of Iowa, second in the lows.

BADGERS TAKE QUARTER

Froote of Wisconsin won the quarter mile in :51.2 followed by a teammate, Schafer, and Slye of Iowa. Reiss and Anderson of Wisconsin placed one, two in the half mile. Welt of Iowa was third.

Schmidt of Wisconsin turned in the excellent time of 4:28.7 to win the mile, Iowa took second and third places. The Badgers took first and third places in the two-mile. Knox won the event in 10:15.1.

ARNESEN WINS VAULT

In other field events the cardinal and white colors won the pole vault, high jump, and javelin. Arneson climbed 12 feet 6 inches in the pole vault, Hertz made 6 feet 1 inch in the high jump and Doerr heaved the spear 149 feet 1 inch.

Tucker of Iowa won both the shot and discus, heaving the shot 41 feet 10 inches and sailing the platter 136 feet 10 inches. Wisconsin took second and third in shot-put and third in the discus.

Now that spring football practice has been concluded at Marquette university, Backfield Coach Robert H. (Doc) Erskine is devoting more time to his hobbies—art and first editions. The Marquette mentor has a surprising collection of paintings and several shelves of rare books.

FRATERNITIES HAVE NOT FAILED—NEILSON

J.S.'s Article Gives Biased, Untrue Picture

By GORDON J. NEILSON

The editor has asked me to write an answer to the anti-fraternity article written by "J.S." which appeared in the Cardinal last Saturday.

My first reaction was that such a piece of writing was unworthy of consideration, but fraternity men resented the article highly, and I believe it only right that this space be devoted to a reply to "J.S."

First, to those who still think the article was written by Jerry Sullivan, despite his very fair refutation Tuesday, I can only say that it couldn't have been Jerry. I know him too well. He isn't bigoted.

In glittering generalities J. S. condemns fraternities and fraternity men as "high-brow, intellectual dead-beats, anti-social, and anti-democratic." The failure of one student as a fraternity man is no reason to slander the whole system.

J. S.'s article is primarily absurd because it condemns a system for failing to produce characteristics which are individual problems for anyone.

Fraternity men have no appreciation of Brahms or Raphael or Emerson, says J.S. Has J.S. any basis for his statement that fraternity men lack any more cultural values than do the independents? I, for one, have attended more concerts, more exhibits, more plays, read more of philosophy and socially significant books in any one year since I have lived in a fraternity than I ever did my freshman year as an independent, and I have had no more money at my disposal. The reason has been that I have known more people who appreciated these things, with whom I could participate in them.

In the same paragraph J.S. accuses fraternities of putting the emphasis on number of pledges, and the number of athletes and activity men. Is that a social evil (if true)? Isn't it only natural to be proud of the members of your fraternity and their accomplishments? I have recollections of old dormites pointing with pride to famous members of their house, lauding their achievements. The same is conceivably true in lodging houses. Furthermore, I do not believe these things are overemphasized in the fraternities. Naturally a fraternity isn't running on nothing. It must stress its strong points.

J.S.'s first criticism is that fraternities do not encourage students to think. A splendid generality to serve his purpose. I'd like to know J.S. and know why he never got any intellectual stimulation out of fraternity life. Perhaps he never participated in a bull session. Perhaps he never talked about philosophy courses, economic problems, political affairs. Perhaps he really never "got going" on religion and social problems. Maybe he was never around when the fraternity had speakers and discussion leaders on everything from sex and manners to religion and world affairs. Well, I have been, and I can introduce J.S. to

Secret of Happiness

In our pursuit of the things of this world, we usually prevent enjoyment by expectation; we anticipate our happiness, and eat out the heart and sweetness of wordly pleasures by delightful forethoughts of them; so that when we come to possess them, they do not answer the expectation, nor satisfy the desires which were raised about them, and they vanish into nothing.—Tillotson.

Want to Be Rich?

Do you wish to become rich? You may become so if you desire it in no half-way, but thoroughly. Do you wish to master any science or accomplishment? Give yourself to it and it lies beneath your feet. This world is given as the prize for the men in earnest; and that which is true of this world, is truer still of the world to come.—F. W. Robertson.

plenty of Wisconsin fraternity men who have.

J.S. accuses fraternity men of copying, of using exam files. Come now, J.S., you know you really can't prove that any more fraternity men do these things than independents. I'm pleased that Jerry Sullivan pointed out that the university dormitories have the best exam file on the campus, and I dare say the lodging house boys save tests for their friends too.

Why accuse one individual more than any other for these things just because he is a member of a fraternity?

I'm glad J.S. recognizes in the next paragraph that we have fun. I recognize that the fraternity is a social institution, and for those who desire a social as well as intellectual education, there is no better place to achieve than in the fraternity—and without overemphasis.

Your last criticism J.S., is that fraternities fail in producing a social being. It's an old axiom that life is a give and take proposition, that you get out of a thing what you put into it. I know of no better place in college to fashion your pattern of life, to learn to get along with people, to learn self-government, to give and to take, than in the fraternity. Also, where else but in a fraternity can you make contacts which you will keep all your life, friends to whom you can return and be assured of a welcome? That continuing bond is of lasting value.

You say the fraternity man has an air of domination over other fraternity men and non-fraternity men, in other words, is a snob. That is perhaps the most foolish statement you made in your article, J.S. A lot of my very good friends are independents, many are in other fraternities, and I am no exception. I would like to say, J.S., that many of the biggest "snobs" on this campus are the independents and the book worms, whose false notion of persecution and social distinctions leads them to adopt an air of disdain for anyone who wears a Greek emblem. Have you, for instance, ever noted the nasty attitude many dormitory and lodging house residents have whenever one of their fellow dwellers pledges a fraternity or sorority?

I will just touch on your charge that fraternity costs are higher and conditions poorer. If you care to know, J.S., I can show you plenty of figures illustrating how the Greeks have pared their costs to meet the times. Conditions even in poorer fraternities are superior to lodging houses, and of course you cannot expect private enterprise with huge taxes to compete with state dormitory construction, but if I had to choose between the two for living, it wouldn't be the dorms.

Space prohibits citation of examples to prove all my points, but I can produce them. I only want to say in closing that it is unfortunate you are not intellectually honest enough to sign your name. Can it be that you couldn't defend your statements if known? I can, and I'm proud of it!

Wage-Hour Committee Asks Fair Wage Scale

After a full year of indifferent achievement, the wages and hour committee finally showed results the other day when John Bossard, chairman of the committee, announced that six establishments have agreed to the committee's minimum wage-hour scale.

About 60 per cent of the entire student population is dependent on employment in the Madison restaurants and stores for self support. Many times they work under conditions that would not be tolerated if necessity were not so pressing. It is therefore a great service that the committee performs when it secures better working conditions for students.

But the only way in which the power behind the committee can be manifested is by student support of the establishments that agree to the minimum wage scale. They all depend to a large extent on student purchases, and the difference of those purchases would encourage employers to bargain with the committee.

Thirty-five cents an hour—the wage asked by the committee—is not an exorbitant figure. But often employers take advantage of the fact that students also have to go to school in order to force them to take what amounts to a sweat-shop wage. At one time the ULLA, when it was still constituted by respectable liberals, succeeded in bargaining with the employers, but since then there has been a relapse.

The work of the committee can only have a successful outcome if the student body supports it actively and vigorously. Again in this case, the cooperation of students will redound to their own benefit.

BOTH ARE DOING WELL! THANK YOU

The Biology building is thought of by most students on the hill—particularly those in the L. and S. school as a place where frogs are dissected and things are taken apart to see what makes them work. It is a grim place, full of formaldehyde smells and research.

But Life came to the Biology building recently, for Nellie, the "best-behaved monkey in all the animal house," became a mother. Nobody knew in advance that she was going to anticipate, for they would have charged double the money for her.

Nellie went ahead and had her baby amid the raucous racket of the vivarium, and now she sits clutching the wee booger to her newly maternal breast.

The Daily Cardinal takes this opportunity to congratulate Nellie and wish good monkeying around to the newcomer.

Non compos mentis

By Alex Dworkin

of progress, and all who digress from the tortuous path are spineless weaklings. We are born into an age of toil and frustrations of our desires, but we know we must not stray one iota from the skull-littered path we trod. Those who bog down in refusing to meet their destiny are scum in the eyes of all who are righteous, and clear-minded, and moreover, intelligent.

Our's is the destiny of God, of democracy, of equality, and of glorious, soul-illuminating progress. Progress is something you can see all around you, provided you look in the right directions. We have more railroads, radios, telephones, facts on the physiology of the frog in the spring-time, and reasons why Mrs. Andrew Jackson was a flop in the White House than any who have come before us.

is the key to it all. We can see the gleaming towers of the city of the glorious future—the future of the land of boh-beer and ice-cream cones, the city of truth, justice, and plenty of time to do nothing in but loaf and rest up after the glory road. Some would rather call this city Shangri-La, some might call it heaven.

We might have all been miserable Philistines, but our leaders say they see the gleaming towers before us, and we trust in their vision.

Now there are some who doubt our venerable leaders, who say that we have already passed the green meadows in our course, and that there is only swamp land ahead, that the city of gleaming towers is only a mirage.

But we know better. These cynics are the ignorant, the selfish, the stinking Fascists, the members of the WCTU and of the East Waupun Cooperative league.

AMONG THE IGNORANT

we can number the racketeer unionists who would halt our holy war for democracy for their own petty ends. All they want is more drinking money, and more time at home to raise a brood of smelly little offspring in.

Ignorant are the machine workers who can't see their jobs tightening nuts or bolts or feeding a machine—monotonous as it may be—is doing something for progress. Ignorant are the sub-normal criminals who gripe because we don't want to take them into our little scheme after they've served the jail-sentence part of their punishment. Ignorant are the loathsome slum-dwellers, the business men who are tired of worrying about making money—wonderful, green-edged money.

IGNORANT ARE THE SHARECROPPERS

and the educated who have failed in our material life. Ignorant are the few unpatriotic draftees in our national army of glory in democracy.

These dullards, these weaklings, the ignorant and the selfish forget about the heritage which we will probably leave our children . . . or if not our children then surely our children's children . . . or if not their children then undoubtedly their children.

An heritage of chaos.

"Democracy has died before in history. And peoples that had known it and prized it seemed not sorry to see it go. When popular government flickered out in ancient Greece and Rome, nobody thought of reviving it. All this may happen again on this continent in your generation. I beg you to believe that no price you can pay to prevent this will be too high."—Glenn Frank, Baccalaureate Address, University of Wisconsin, June, 1935.

Sophomore Engineer Misses Telescope

A small surveying telescope was lost Monday, May 5, by Edward Palmer, civil engineering sophomore. Palmer left the instrument on the ground behind the Engineering and Education building where he was doing a surveying problem. It was not missed for several days.

Since the field of view of the telescope is so small that it cannot be held steady in the hands, it is valueless to the finder. However the list price of the telescope is $100 and Palmer has had to cancel his registration for required summer survey camp because of the loss.

The finder is requested to leave the instrument in the mail box of Ray S. Owens, associate professor of topographic engineering, in the Engineering and Education building.

jump, McFadzean in the broad jump, Zolin in the hurdles, and Harrer in either the hurdles or high jump are the only other possible point winners.

That's how the situation looks in black and white—before the events are run off. What the actual results will be naturally depend upon individual performances.

But you can count on the score which Coach Jones has outlined. He's one of the foremost authorities in the track world, this dean of American track coaches, and he isn't often wrong.

Economics--

Prof. Don D. Lescohier, chairman of the department.

Commenting on the statement in the letter, Prof. Asher Hobson, of the department of agricultural economics, said, "We have no feeling against Friedman as an individual. We have never been asked to discuss Friedman with the department of economics."

Professor Hobson said that the usual procedure in making recommendations for promotions in the economics department is to consult with the associated departments, but that it wasn't done in this case.

"They have a perfect legal right to do it that way if they want to, but it's not the usual way," he contended.

As to what the usual way has been in the past, neither Professor Lescohier nor Professor Witte would comment.

Friedman's appointment as well as the proposed divorce of the School of Commerce from the College of Letters and Science will be taken up for final action at a meeting of the board of regents at the home of Frank Sennbrenner, in Neenah, on May 26.

ditch will have to be dug and some grading must be done. Tentative plans call for horse drawn plows and a "bull-dozer" for this work.

Workers are cautioned to wear old clothes and especially gloves, by the committee. There will be adequate medical aid available in case of accidents, but cuts and blisters can be greatly decreased by wearing gloves, it was said.

Success thus far in the project has warranted making work day an annual affair, Avery said.

"In fact, a continuation of the lake path past the fraternities and sororities on the lake as far as Wisconsin avenue is now being thought of," Avery intimated.

Certain faculty members have shown a desire to come and help on the road, it was determined last night. An open invitation to faculty members and all other students who want to help has been extended by the student board.

Members of last year's student board who have been instrumental in making the first Wisconsin work day a success are:

Robert Avery, Gunther Heller, Ray Zahn, "Bud" Bruemmer, Dave Lippert, Claire Tiefenthaler, and Lois Warfield.
