[PRICE THREE CENTS.]

CONCERT PROGRAM

OF THE GLEE, MANDOLIN AND BANJO CLUBS.

MANY SELECTIONS WRITTEN BY THE STUDENTS.

They will Sing the Wisconsin Hymn
and When Violets are There.

The concert of the Glee, Mandolin and Banjo clubs will be given at Library hall, tomorrow evening. The program includes many songs and instrumental pieces written by local talent. The program will be opened by the Mandolin and Banjo clubs and the three clubs with solo by Mr. Greenbank will close the second part. The complete program is as follows:

PART FIRST.

1. Mandolin and Banjo clubs,—Wisconsin March,—Arr. by Foster, '95, and Vaughn, '95.
2. Glee Club,—(a) University of Wisconsin Hymn,—Mary M. Adams. (b) Wake the Glee,—Steele.
3. Mandolin Club,—Selections from Spenser's Comic Opera "Princess Bonnie,"—Arr. by Nitschke.
4. Glee Club,—The Jabberwock,—W. G. Sired.
5. Banjo Club,—"College Two-Step,"—F. A. Vaughn, '95.
6. Glee Club,—(a) Ben Bolt (Solo by Mr. Morse),—Arr. by "Tribby" (b) The Farmers,—W. G. Sired.
7. Mr. Bacon, Glee and Mandolin clubs,—"When Violets are There,"—C. F. McClure, law '95; Arr. by Nitschke.

PART SECOND.

8. Glee Club,—Town Crier's Song (Solo by Mr. Sedgwick),—De Koven.
9. Mandolin Club,—Andalusia,—Arr. by Nitschke.
10. Glee Club,—Medley,—Arr. by Sedgwick, Law '95.
11. Banjo Club,—Selections from "Passing Show,"—Arr. by F. A. Vaughn, '95.
12. Glee Club,—Good Night Beloved,—W. G. Sired.
13. Mr. Greenbank, Glee, Banjo and Mandolin clubs,—"Conceited Things,"—Arr. by Nitschke.

Decorations are kindly furnished by Mr. Francis Beese.

THE WOMAN'S LEAGUE.

The Woman's League extends a cordial invitation to the women of the university and the ladies of the faculty to be present at the College Tea to be given tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 6 at Ladies' hall. The Tea is the first of a series of social entertainments that were part of the original plan of the League as a means of accomplishing its purposes, one of which is to give the women of the university an opportunity of becoming acquainted and spending a social hour in each others company and also of meeting the ladies of the faculty, a privilege that has long been wished for.

—E. Ray Stevens, law '95, is sick with a severe attack of grip.

TOMORROW AFTERNOON.

The indoor meet to be held then on account of the concert.

Owing to the Glee club concert being held tomorrow evening the regular weekly meet will come in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock instead of in the evening.

The last events will be as follows:
40 yard Dash (Novice).
45 yard High Hurdle Race.
1-2 mile Walk.
Running High Jump.
Standing Hop, Step and Jump.
Double Foot High Kick.
Putting 16 lb. Shot.

The first event, the novice sprint is open only to men who have not qualified themselves for the final heat in any scratch 40 yard race in any of the previous meets, and it will not count in the scores for the all-round medal.

There is but one more meet which will be held next Saturday evening, March 23d and the regular scoring events will be:

40 yard Dash.
1 Mile Run.
1 Mile Walk.
Running Broad Jump.
Standing High Jump.
Pole Vault.
Putting 16 lb. Shot.

Some other events will probably be introduced to increase the interest of the meet but these will complete the list which count in the all-round competition.

SIGMA DELTA SIGMA PARTY.

Sigma Delta Sigma fraternity gave a very enjoyable informal dancing party last night at their chapter house. Prof. and Mrs. Van Vleck chaperoned the party. The rooms were tastefully decorated, and ices and punch were served during the evening. Nitschke's orchestra furnished the music. Those present were: Misses Welles, Carlton, Osborne, Robinson, Fish, Pendleton, Gage, Wood, Thomas, Procter, MacNamee, Holcombe and Harris; and Messrs. Witter, Salisbury, Lees, Trippe, Manchester, Dahl, McNab, May, Ryan, Compton, Thomas, Williams and Graham.

OTIS SKINNER.

Otis Skinner will appear at the Fuller opera house, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, next week. The plays to be presented are, "His Grace de Grammont, a new play written for Mr. Skinner, by Clyde Fitch, and the ever-welcome "Merchant of Venice. Mr. Skinner has supported many of the leading actors and actresses in former years, and has had remarkable success in his starring tour of this season.

NORA SAMLAG.

Nora Samlag meets Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Prof. Olson's room, North hall. Prof. Olson will lecture on "The Aryan Question and the Origin of the Scandinavians."

—Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Osborne of La Crosse have been visiting their daughter, Miss Laura Osborne, '97.

—W. B. Overson, law '96, is confined to his room with the grip.

JUNIOR ORATORS

WILL COMPETE AT LIBRARY
HALL TONIGHT.

THE CONTESTANTS AND THEIR ORATIONS.

The Winner to Compete in the Final Contest.

The annual contest of the junior orators, of the literary societies, will occur at Library hall tonight. This is the first time that the "Junior Ex" has occurred in the winter term, as it has usually been left as the last event of the year, but on account of the change in the rules of the oratorical association by which the winner of the Junior Ex has the right to compete in the contest for representatives to the Northern Oratorical League contest, the "Ex" has been placed in the winter term.

The contest is not an individual one as each orator is chosen from one of the literary societies. Society feeling, therefore, enters into the contest and into the support given the various contestants. To win the Junior "Ex" for one's society is considered one of the great honors of the college course.

The following is the program:

President, Miss Nellie McGregor, Laurea.

Cornet Solo—"Fantasi"—E. C. May.

Oration—"William Pitt"—Martin J. Gillen, Athena.

Oration—"A Relic of Barbarism"—Gertrude B. Hood, Laurea.

Music.

Oration—"The Iron Chancellor"—A. W. Schmidt, Philomathia.

Oration—"The New Woman"—Addie-may Wootton, Castalia.

Oration—"Personal Vengeance"—Harry S. McCord.

Music.

Vocal Solo—Selected—Miss Anna Jonas.

Judges: On Thought and Style—

Rev. E. G. Updike, Prof. A. A. Knowlton, Rev. E. J. Baskerville.

On Delivery—Hon. T. D. Weeks, Hon. H. C. Adams, Mr. Harry L. Butler.

Committee on Arrangement—Miss Jessie Shepherd, Miss Irma Reel, P. H. Urness, Guy S. Ford, H. A. Sawyer.

Committee on Reception—Miss Hattie Geotsche, Miss Ella Guile, Miss Lucile Knight, Miss Amelia Huntington, W. W. Hughes, L. A. Copeland, J. B. Amazeen, W. L. Bolton, J. H. Leigler, Cyrus W. Dolph.

THE CONCERT.

Every time the university Glee, Mandolin or Banjo clubs have appeared and played at any public gathering in the city this winter they have been greeted with enthusiastic applause and the audience has always insisted on double the number of pieces on the program. This manifestation of pleasure on the part of the audience gives proof of the excellence and superiority of the music discoursed. The concert to be given Saturday evening by these clubs is awaited with eager anticipation of a genuine royal treat. The clubs have been training long and faithfully until they have attained a degree of artistic finish and perfection that simply amazes the most exacting musical critic. Col. B. B. Herbert, of Chicago, paid the Banjo club a high tribute at the Wisconsin Press meeting last evening after it had rendered several selections. — Madison Democrat.

HARVARD LIBRARY.

According to Harper's Weekly Harvard University reports that she cannot continue to compete successfully with the other leading educational institutions of the country unless some one will build her a new library building. She hasn't room at present to store her books, much less to give her scholars adequate space to handle and read them. About $250,000 will build library enough to meet her necessities for some time to come. The last considerable addition that was made to the Harvard library building was built some fifteen years ago, since which time the number of students in the university has about doubled, and the number of books to be housed has greatly increased.

ADDRESS BY HOARD.

Ex-Governor Hoard addressed a large number of dairy students of the university last evening and had an interested and appreciative audience. He discussed the increase of the dairy business in the state within a comparatively few years and gave the students some excellent and valuable information in line with their studies.

CHICAGO'S ORATORICAL CONTEST.

The oratorical contest held at the university of Chicago, last evening was a university of Chicago, last evening was won by H. F. Atwood, who will represent that university at the Northern Oratorical League contest. The subject of his oration was "Reasons for a New Political Party."

NEW BASE BALL COACH FOR HARVARD.

Colonel Samuel E. Winslow has been appointed head coach of the Harvard base ball team. He was the captain of the 'Varsity nine for 1885, and was chief coach of the team of '93, which was the best Harvard placed in the field for years.

Dr. E. R. L. Gould, lecturer on economics and statistics at Johns Hopkins university, has accepted the position recently created at the University of Chicago of professor of statistics. He will assume his new duties next October.

—Professor Freeman is at Galesburg, Ill., tonight, to deliver an address at Knox college.

Mr. Chauncey L. Williams, formerly of this city, and well known and honored here, took a run up from Chicago, where he is in business, a few days ago. He returns today.

We wish to announce the election of J. J. Rogers, '97, and J. C. Schmidt-man, '98, as reporters for the Cardinal.

To the visitor Madison seems to afford many unusual advantages for the student besides those offered by the university. He thinks of opportunities afforded for seeing the municipal, county, state and United States courts in session, for listening to the best legal talent the state affords, for observing the manner in which the executive department is conducted, and the chance to attend the legislature in open session. To the man of affairs these opportunities seem to be of real value and he marvels that the students do not take advantage of them. The winter term is almost gone and if the legislature adjourns before the spring term opens now is the time to see it in session if at all.

We would suggest that the class of
'97 postpone the election of their Badger board until after the '96 annual appears. A number of the sophomore class have contributions in it which would bring their ability before the class and which might otherwise be overlooked. The new board would not be in working order anyway until near the close of the spring term so that very little would be lost by the delay.

Some of the students have an idea that the musical clubs do not need or deserve the support which should always be given to university organizations. A number of the students care enough about hearing the clubs to go to the concert without considering it a duty which they owe to a university organization. But there are others who care so little for music that their college spirit has to be appealed to before they will buy a ticket for the concert. The musical clubs of the university of Wisconsin have never lacked audiences on their annual trips and it would be a reflection on the university to be compelled to say that the students were less willing to go to a concert than were the residents of the cities included on the trip. The way that the clubs are received every spring when they go before audiences in this and neighboring states shows that they are worthy of support. The advertisement the university receives from the clubs is considerable. This year they are going to take a much longer trip than before. They are to leave the state of Wisconsin, where they are well known, and go into places where the university of Wisconsin is not as famous as it is in its own state. This trip of the clubs will advertise the university as nothing else could. But an increased trip means increased expense and uncertainty as to the success of the concerts. On this account the larger the house tomorrow night the larger will be the guarantee fund against loss on the trip. So the concert deserves and requires the support of every student. Let the audience tomorrow night show that college spirit is as live in its support of music

as it is of athletics.

A CHARMING MUSICAL.

Many Accomplished Artists Perform
at the Park Hotel.

One of the rarest musical treats of the season was that of last evening at the Park hotel; the fourth of the legislative musicals under the direction of Mr. George N. Wiswell, of the St.
Paul road, and of Proprietor Lougee for their friends. A program, including some twelve numbers was given, and nearly every number was heartily encored as they deserved to be. Those who took part were Miss Mabel Webster, harpist and violinist, of Chicago;
Miss Bessie Lou Daggett, soprano, of Oshkosh; Miss Mabel Ruggles, pianiste, of Chicago; Miss Anna Jonas, soprano, of Madison; Miss Lind, soprano, of Wausau; Miss Alexander, contralto; Prof. Roundtree, reader, of Chicago; Mr. George N. Wiswell, baritone, of Milwaukee; Mr. George W.
Taylor, of Marinette, and Miss Phillips and Mr. W. G. Sired, accompanists.
Miss Webster's harp and violin solos were one of the features of the evening, as were Miss Daggett's vocal solos. Miss Lind and Miss Alexander sang a delightful duet, and Miss Jonas performed in her usual charming manner. Mr. Wiswell and Mr. Taylor are old favorites in these musicals and both appeared to excellent advantage.
The occasion was attended by Governor Upham and Lieutenant Governor Baensch and a large number of members of the legislature and their ladies and by citizens of Madison and by editors from about the state. Mr.
Reed, of the Chicago headquarters of the St. Paul road, acted as assistant master of ceremonies in a measure that added much to the enjoyment of the evening.

Mrs. Cleveland's receptions will be discontinued during lent. Mr. Cleveland will forget all about the self-denials of the season as he shakes hands with himself at having got congress out of the way.

EIGHTH ANNUAL CONCERT

—BY—

University of Wisconsin

CLEE, BANJO and MANDOLIN CLUBS,

LIBRARY HALL, March 16th.

Admission 75 and 50 cents. Seats may be reserved at Moseley's Book Store.

EDITORS' CONVENTION.

The men who mould public opinion and incidentally furnish all the badger news to the citizens of the state are holding their annual convention at the capitol. They look more like a gathering of successful bankers or professors than like a gathering of country newspaper editors. Over 100 members are in attendance at the convention which is the forty-second annual meeting of the Wisconsin Press association.

The evening session was held in the senate chamber. The room was crowded, the gallery filled and the lobbies overflowing with spectators.

The University Mandolin club opened the session with the College Two Step and responded to an encore.

J. Mitchell Chapple, editor of the Ashland Daily Press, was then introduced. He spoke of his experience during a recent European journey. The Isle of Wight, once the home of Tennyson, was among the first things he saw when he got across the water. When he got into England he pinched himself, he said, to assure himself that he was in a strange land. He applied for an assignment at a newspaper office and got it. He was sent out to report a regatta. His article, two sticks in length, was rejected with a note from the editor informing him that the paper had a regularly employed leader writer. He told of the reticence of the English and how he had to impersonate a barber in order to interview an English lord. He told of meeting the lord afterwards through an introduction of a mutual friend. Mr. Chapple hoped the lord wouldn't recognize him, but before they parted the lord said, "Mr. Chapple, you may be a capital journalist, but you're a blasted bad hairdresser." His visit to Holland, he said, would ever be a fond recollection. It was there he saw the best work of art his eyes ever feasted upon. It was Rembrandt's famous picture of his mother. Germany was visited. Goethe's workshop at Weimar was the inspiration for several eloquent paragraphs in his paper. He spoke of the beautiful landscapes of Switzerland. He told of drinking absinthe in France and of his visit to the international fair at Antwerp, Belgium. His crowning experience with John Ruskin. He described Ruskin's home, which is like an old farm home. With great difficulty he got within the house, having first scaled a high stone wall. Ruskin's library, his picture gallery and his studio were described. Ruskin, the literatuer and Oxford professor, was portrayed with much vividness.

Millet, the painter, had stolen his wife's heart in painting her portrait and the great sorrowing mind had banished himself to the lonely spot at Brantwood, the hermit home of the great philosopher. While in the home a little girl fell down stairs, breaking some plate. Ruskin, though his mind was shattered, picked up a piece of the plate and handing it to Mr. Chapple said, "Like all human hopes and ambitions, broken, broken, broken! Go!" He concluded his paper with a glowing tribute to the newspaper profession of the United States, to the newspaper men of Wisconsin and to the liberties enjoyed in this country. The mandolin club then rendered two airs and was forced to respond with another number before the applause could be quieted.

P. A. Bardour, of the Menomonee Enterprise, gave an address in French dialect. It was a humorous description of a trip to Washington and caused much merriment.

Col. B. B. Herbert, editor of the National Printer-Journalist, followed with an address on Horace Greeley as apprentice, printer and editor. Horace Greeley, the child of New Hampshire hillsides, he said, was a Godsend to this country during the turbulent times of war. To him is due thanks for the birth of the republican party that under his guidance freed the slaves of the south. At four years of age Greeley could read. He followed Greeley's varying career from the time he left his New Hampshire home to his sad and untimely death.
