No More School For Rest Of Year!!

Year by Year Without News

BY C. O. S.

American marines were recalled from Nicaragua yesterday and the Chamorra government was declared supreme. The banana growers immediately turned over their plantations to the natives.

Strange!

The Chicago Tribune omitted the words "Red" and "Communist" from its pages yesterday. Editorials demanded immediate reduction of our navies, withdrawal of troops from China and election of "America First" Bill Thompson as mayor of Chicago.

Calvin Coolidge

Calvin Coolidge announced yesterday that he would go to Nicaragua for his summer vacation. The weather is extremely agreeable, and the natives are very friendly. President Coolidge told your correspondent yesterday. Cal added that he is fond of bananas, a fruit found in profusion in the Central American country.

THE PRINCE OF WALES HAS GIVEN UP HORSEBACK RIDING FOR THE SAFER AND SANER RECREATION OF DRIVING A FORD.

A real honest to goodness Red Communist was found lurking in the offices of a prominent newspaper office yesterday. His hair was long and his beard bushy. He held a smoking bomb in one hand and a copy of the "New Russia" in the other. It is feared that a new wave of Red terrorism has struck the United States, editors of this great Middle Western morning newspaper declared yesterday.

CHINESE STUDENTS AT THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN PRESENTED JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER WITH A LOVING CUP YESTERDAY IN TOKEN OF HIS EFFORTS IN MAKING CHINA A LAND OF FILLING STATIONS AND RED CROWN BILLBOARDS.

The Madison chapter of the W. C. T. U. thanked the Daily Cardinal for its fearless editorial policy and expressed the hope that the editors next year would appreciate the ideals for which the organization stands.

A New Foreign Policy

Nervous Nellie Kellogg has announced the following points of the foreign policy to take effect Jan. 1, 2000 A. D.

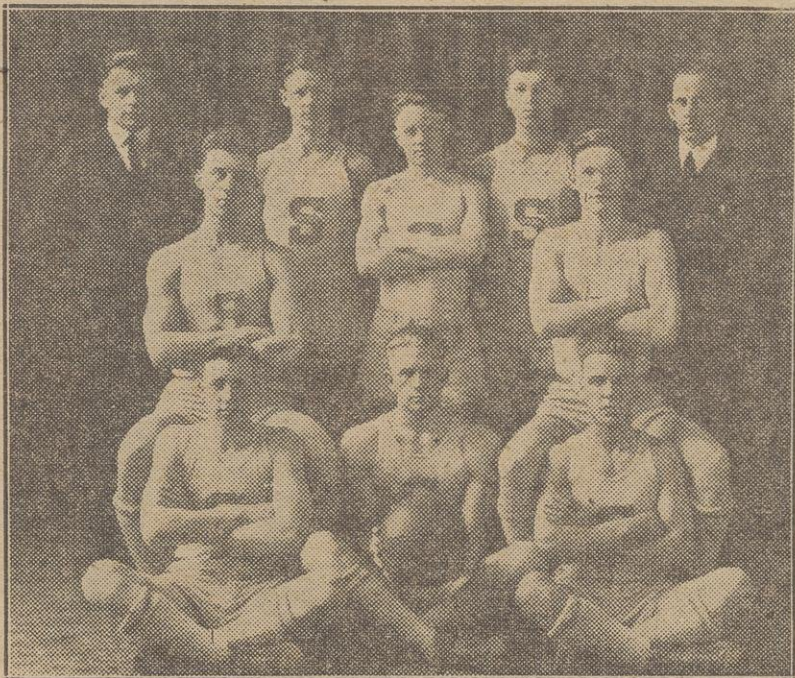

1—Marines will not be dispatched to protect American lives and property. Members for the Society of Prevention of War will be sent instead.

2—Members of the diplomatic course will not be required to graduate from Harvard. Only full-fledged graduates of the University of Wisconsin will be permitted to enter the foreign service.

SENATOR BORAH OF IDAHO, HAS BEEN GIVEN A FREE PASS ON ALL RAILROADS AND ON STEAMSHIP LINES LEADING TO MEXICO, NICARAGUA, HAITI AND ALASKA. THE WORTHY SON OF THAT STATE FAMOUS FOR ITS FINE BAKING POTATOES WILL LEAVE ON HIS WELL PRESS-AGENTED INVESTIGATION TRIP NEXT WEEK.

Save the Union (Suit)!

With a fervent prayer up on his calcimined lips, the great Porter Butts sank to his knees, weeping happily, for the great Union was saved. The Confederates had been repulsed;—no. Pardon me, that's another story.

Anyway, there was Porter Butts sinking to his knees, and the Salvation Army standing on the southeast corner of State street singing hymns. "I don't want no bread and butter," said Porter peevishly.

"Whyinthehell don't you pay your Union pledge?"

President Frank slunk away fearfully, pulling his derby futher down on his noble brow. "I'll tell Scotty on you," he yelled back as his quick feet sped him on his way. "I'll tell on you."

So little Porter Butts went back to building his Union and that is why, dear children, we have Christmas on December 25 and New Year's on January 1.

George E. Little, Athletics, Denies Rumor of Grid Team

Believes It Would be Darn Good Idea to Forget Football

After consulting all the more prominent freshmen on the campus Director of Athletics George E. Little announced yesterday that the university would probably not have a football team next fall.

"Following the precedent set during the past three years, we have decided to have practically nothing in the way of a grid team," said Mr. Little. "Coach Thistlethwaite agrees with me that the material for this purpose is about the best possible, and we believe that the idea will be a complete success."

Faculty Agreeable

It was understood among the higher-ups that one or two faculty members were beginning to object to the fact that football games invariably interfered with geological field trips and other important university social functions.

To replace Homecoming, Coach Little has decided to hold a peanut race regatta open to all who have never been to Middleton or other points outside the state.

Reporters Active

At a late hour last night, it was impossible to reach Walter E. Meanwell, basketball coach to verify a rumor that there would not be a basketball team either. Walt is thought to be highly incensed over the accusation brought against him last year that his short pass attack is original.

"The track men will carry on" asserted Tom E. Jones, cinders coach, when attacked by a Daily Cardinal reporter. Tom stated further that as long as Wisconsin has a wonderful field house, it would also have a wonderful track team.

Fair, Fat Ladies Turn Out to be Only?—Read On

SUN PRAIRIE, Wis., (Special)—A group of Wisconsin coeds delighted the people of this city last night with a magnificent, scintillating, thrilling, gorgeous production, "Meet The Prince."

The audience was so pleased with the performance that a veritable shower of pennies were thrown upon the stage to recompense the Wisconsin ladies for their performance.

BULLETIN

Late last night your correspondent discovered upon the reliable authority of Bill Purnell, grad, that the supposed young ladies are real he-men instead of chorus girls as he supposed. He is pleased to correct the error.

The two leading ladies, Wilhelmina Oglivie and Katherine Earle were captivating in their youthful winsomeness and the young men of this city waited outside the stage door entrance last night with bouquets of pussy willows and trailing arbutus for them.

HA, HA, STUDENT SURE HAS DONE IT

What We Mean is, This Guy Kuppenheimer Committed Suicide

Oscar Fishbone Kuppenheimer '37 was found dead and dying behind the Kappa Beta house late yesterday afternoon. He was in a dying condition. Later he was determined dead by a committee of three professors, Carl Russell Fish and the board of regents of the University of Berlin.

But these simple words do not tell the tragic tale behind this lad's daring suicide. The world knows not the sad, sad story that it is our lamentable duty to relate. Yes it is deplorable.

Oscar Fishbone Kuppenheimer, now ex '37, committed suicide late yesterday afternoon because a readers' say-so, a mild one, that he had turned in to the editorial office of the Daily Cardinal was not printed word for word. No, young Kuppenheimer brazenly discovered that the word "the" had been audaciously tampered with and left out of his letter.

Evidently he has no further excuse for remaining on this mortal soil so he shuffled off. The editors of the Daily Cardinal, it was rumored about the Ag Campus yesterday, are well-right mortified by the incident and are seriously thinking of reprinting Kuppenheimer's letter in full.

When interviewed late yesterday evening Kuppenheimer refused to be quoted and would say nothing for publication.

MARGARET ALSOP NEW HEAD OF WOMEN VOTERS

Tuesday night in Lathrop hall, new officers elected by the Collegiate League of Woman Voters are as follows: president, Margaret Alsop '29; vice president, Alemda Olmsted '28; secretary, Monona Hamilton '28; treasurer, Hazel Anderson '29. The new officers will be formally installed in May to serve a term of one year.

NOT MUCH ON THE EDITORIAL PAGE TODAY

Even Joseph Steinauer Makes Comment on Unusual Scholastic Move

Lage sections of the campus were in a furore of indignation yesterday as the result of announcement from the office of the president that school would be dismissed Tuesday for the rest of the year. The unflinching editorial policy of the Daily Cardinal, student publication, with regard to indiscriminate bandying about of fraternity pins was said by persons high in the official confidence to be the main reason for the dismissal.

Frank Fearless

President Glenn Frank, in an official and exclusive communication to the Daily Cardinal, remarked, "After an extended conference between two professors and three intelligent men, including of course myself, we reached a decision to save money by eliminating the most useless thing around the university. It took only a moment to decide that the most useless thing was attendance on classes. Since we have dismissed classes, we hope that students will find more time for the better things in life—necking, the W. C. T. U., and hiking after Camels."

Deans All Out

Attempts to interview Deans Sellery, Glicksman, and Roe were unsuccessful because all three had left town fearing the wrath of the student body.

H. E. Vail, crew coach remarkable, was highly pleased by the faculty action. "Goody," he cried with glee "now the boys can row 24 hours a day, instead of only 12."

Steinauer Laconic

Coach Joseph Steinauer, swimming, was the only member of the athletic department who didn't seem to be pleased. "A man ought to be loyal to his studies," said Steinauer, "and as long as there's a single chance that one guy may learn something we ought to keep the dam class rooms open."

Telegrams of consolation poured in from all over the United States late last night. The general sentiment seemed to be favorable.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Coolidge was closeted in the cabinet all day today considering the action taken by the University of Wisconsin in dismissing school.

When he finally emerged he telegraphed this statement to President Frank, "Once again Wisconsin leads the world in educational advance. You are to be highly congratulated on this, the newest evidence of the progressive spirit."

GENEVA, Switzerland—The League of Nations unanimously endorsed the closing of the University of Wisconsin here today. M. Briand, France, remarked from the floor, "Dose Americans iss oop to more smart-alecness. Ve should encourage dem mooch, eh?"

Austin Chamberlain, England, said that he had been expecting such a move ever since the university had started teaching Norse language.

NICARAGUA—Pres Diaz of the Nicaraguan republic was highly pleased to hear that the University of Wisconsin would be closed down for the rest of the semester. "The best news that has come out of the United States since the marines stuffed my ballot box," Diaz stated.

HONGKONG, China—Cantonese and North Chinese troopers threw away their rifles and went together in a mightily rejoicing when they heard that the University of Wisconsin was to be closed today.

"The war is undoubtedly at an end, since this remarkable event has taken place," announced Sun Sat Loo, leader of the north China army. Mark Wun Sock, of the Cantonese, agreed.

DETROIT SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT CALLS COONSKIN COAT A PITFALL

The coonskin coat has been added to the list of pitfalls that result, supposedly, in the deluded freshman's boarding the "sore-eye special." Edwin L. Miller, assistant superintendent of Detroit schools, classes it along with athletics, fraternities and sororities, jazz music, and movies in its invitation to destruction in the form of flunking out.

Many colleges, maintains Miller, in their greed for enrollment, admit students not capable of doing college work. These he regards as the coon coat class who are interested in social rather than academic activities.

How a coonskin coat could lure a freshman from his books is something of a mystery, for even a freshman would scarcely leave a warm study room for the thrill of wandering about for an hour in a flapping, oversized coat. He might be vainly loath to remove such a "disguise" for a day or two after he has acquired it, but the novelty wears off, almost as rapidly as does the novelty of going to lectures and writing reports.

What is behind the idea of the coonskin coat as a factor in frosh failures is the idea that the fur coat of the college man symbolized the academic shortcomings that many of the social crowds have displayed. It is not the coat itself—no, indeed, it is the man inside the coat.

Styled Right Clothing Can Be Moderately Priced

We knew that University men would appreciate a moderately priced suit of clothes that was styled correctly. We knew that it should be in the forty dollar class and have two trousers. To find a line of clothes to meet these requirements was the task of Joe Ripp, manager of our clothing department. After a painstaking search Mr. Ripp has at last found exactly what University of Wisconsin men want . . . by name, ROXBURN CLOTHES. The clothes were made according to our specifications. The fabrics are without question the best we've ever seen. And the prices are popular. See this line today.

"VARSITY-APPROVED IS OFFICIALLY CORRECT

Every man on the campus knows this famous line of clothes designed by a style committee from the leading schools of the country. The cut of these clothes has been generally accepted as almost "official," for it combines every style feature of a correct young man's suit. Of course the tailoring is of the finest, for they are made by Cohn, Rissman, the makers of Stratford clothing.

BASEBALL SQUAD ENTRAINS TODAY FOR TRIP SOUTH

Men Not Definitely Picked for Annual Practice Tour

Off for the south. That phrase describes perfectly the particular activity to which Wisconsin's 1927 baseball will devote this afternoon.

The team, 16 strong, leaves late this afternoon for Chicago, whence it will entrain for various southern points including Memphis, Tennessee, the scene of its first game.

Squad Not Picked

Coach Guy S. Lowman had not yet announced the complete personnel of the team last night, although new uniforms and equipment had been issued to some 12 men who were considered certain to make the trip.

It was announced yesterday that Wisconsin will meet Indiana university's touring nine at Oxford on the mornings of the two days when it is scheduled to play the University of Mississippi in the afternoons. Two regular games are also scheduled with Indiana to be played during the conference season.

Plan Games

The men who are practically certain of going on the southern trip include acting captain "Rollie" Barnum and John Doyle, catchers; Michael Murphy, first base; Phillip Koenig, second base; Gene Ross, third base; John Dedker, shortstop; Lloyd Larson, Ed Donagan, and Earle Burbridge, outfielders; Einar Jacobson, pitcher.

Other men who will complete the squad will be picked from are Arthur Mansfield, Ambrose Massey, fielders; and Clausen, Stupecky, Galle, Thelander, and Ellerman, as pitchers. The necessity of a large pitching staff makes it probable that as many pitchers will be taken along as possible.

As now arranged, the Wisconsin training schedule includes ten games, two each with Mississippi college, and the University of Mississippi, and Indiana University, and one each with Southern university, and St. Louis university. The first game of the regular season will be played with Bradley Polytechnical college, April 16, in Madison.

Alumni Records Office Boasts of Queer Missive

One of the most interesting and unassuming departments in the university is the Alumni Records office, situated in the Union building, and presided over by John Bergstresser. Here all manner of information requests from far and near are received, and after search through the voluminous files, they are cordially answered.

Here the records of Wisconsin graduates, recent and ancient, are stored, to be brought to light again when some graduate desires to learn the whereabouts of a former classmate. But it is not only the alumni who write from time to time. There are many, who never attended the university, but believe that this state institution can aid them too in their various and several quests for people once connected with the school.

Many interesting and queer letters are received at this office, ranging from the person who wanted a list of all the Schuylers and Van Ransselaers, to the one who wanted information regarding "a Chinaman by the name of 'Yet O'Yang' or 'O'Wang'." Life Insurance companies write here to locate policy holders, and there are many firms that utilize this agency to verify prospective employees' claims to a Wisconsin diploma.

Some friend wanted "her address: she has been sending me postal cards to Mexico for two years," another writes "would like very much to locate 'Slim'." An informative and curious place, this, where are buried the college records of the many who know Wisconsin now as only a memory.

TRAINING TABLE TIPS

THE SOUTHERN TRIP
WE ENTER THE RELAYS
RECORDS

Goodbye Guy and the rest of you guys. If you don't show those southerners how to play baseball you're holding out on them.

It's such a sad thing to see all those fine young men leaving for a long trip through the south. Athletes just naturally have it tough.

One nice thing about Coach Lowman, he nearly always lets the baseball players know whether they're going on the trip at least an hour before the train time. We were around the gymnasium last night, and some of the boys didn't even know yet what time the train left. That's the idea, Coach keep 'em informed.

Some of the editors attempted yesterday to persuade us that we should follow April Fool tendencies on the sport page. "No," we insisted, "The sport page is funny enough as it is."

One thing that the Wisconsin team will have to reveal on its trip is just how good, or how bad, the pitching staff is. Playing a game almost every day of the tour, every member of the Badger staff should get at least one good work-out.

This boy Jacobsen looked like a first-class hurler in one or two games last year, and we are hoping that he will develop even further. He ties himself in a knot on the wind-up and that makes him easy prey for base stealers, about the only serious weakness he has.

If "Squeaks" Larson is through having trouble with his bad leg, he should help out the Badger won and lost percentage considerably. As captain last year, Larson fell down a bit on the hitting but his fielding and throwing were as near perfect as a college player usually gets. All he needs to do now is to regain his batting eye and his final season will be a success.

Eddie Donagan and Earl Burbridge, the remaining members of the outfield, would make a pleasing addition to any college team. Burbridge played a fine game in right field last year and broke up a couple of good ball games by hitting at opportune moments. Donagan is also a consistent hitter and fielder.

Fraternities File Entries in Greek Meet

As the entry deadline approached late yesterday afternoon, 11 fraternities had signified their intention of entering the twenty-first annual interfraternity and sorority relays to be held in the annex at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening.

The Greek teams already entered include: Phi Kappa Tau, Kappa Sigma, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Chi, Beta Theta Pi, Delta Sigma Pi, Delta Upsilon, Theta Xi, Pi Kappa Alpha, Phi Gamma Delta, and Tri-angel.

The D. U.'s with the strength of precedent behind them, stand as the strongest contender for the championship trophy, but several other teams, among them Theta Xi and Phi Kappa Tau, have an equally good chance to come through.

The Theta Xi team, composed entirely of varsity men, would be a topheavy favorite were it not for the fact that the relay will consist of six one-lap sections. This makes speed the essential equality, and most of the Theta Xis are distance runners, rather than sprinters.

Phi Kappa Tau, with Benson and Jirtle to furnish a snappy start and finish looks like an inside contender.

Four dormitory sections, H and G of Tripp hall, and F and E of Adams hall, filed entries in the dormitory relays which will be one of the features.

SCHOLARSHIPS TO BE GIVEN WOMEN STUDENTS

The Committee on Loans and Undergraduate Scholarships announces that it has a number of scholarships for women for the academic year of 1927-28. The values of these scholarships range from $50 to $250 and are granted on the basis of scholarship, worthiness, and financial need. Information concerning these scholarships and the application blank for such may be obtained now from Prof. Julius E. Olson, chairman of the committee, at 109 Bascom hall. The applications must be filled out and in the hands of Prof. Olson by May 1.

Eber Asks Pho Survey Of Great Lakes Basin

A request that Pres. Coolidge authorize a photographic survey of the Great Lakes basin and its connections is contained in a resolution introduced in the state assembly this morning by Speaker John W. Eber, Milwaukee. It will come up for action at the next session of the house.

The resolution sets forth that the pictures would be of use in the Great Lakes levels case which is pending before the U. S. supreme court. Inasmuch as the matter is one of inter-state importance,

PURDUE TO USE NEW STADIUM TRACK TWICE

LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Purdue's Ross-Ade stadium will be used for the first time this year for track meets. One of the best outdoor tracks in the middle west has resulted from two years of preparation. The new track is modern in every respect and will undoubtedly be the scene of some great track meets within the next few years. It is 440 yards around, with a 220 yard straightaway.

A dual meet with the University of Chicago squad, on May 7, will dedicate the new track. The meet was originally scheduled for the Midway, but owing to construction which the Maroons have underway on their playing field, it was deemed advisable to hold the meeting here. The Indiana squad will come here on the following week for the second and last home meeting of the season.

TEAMS SIGN NOW FOR WOMEN'S TOURNAMENTS

Teams wishing to enter women's spring intramural tournaments are to register if possible before spring vacation with Miss Bassett, of the Women's Physical Education department.

Three sports are being offered for intramural competition. Tennis will require two on a team, indoor baseball, which will be played outdoors, has to have seven to a team and six or more students are necessary for track teams.

The elimination games will start the week of April 18. There will be but one track meet in which all teams will compete and from which the winners and runner-up will be selected.

SENIOR WOMEN ARRANGE BANQUET AND PROGRAM

The annual banquet of senior women will be given Tuesday evening, May 17, at the Lorraine hotel according to an announcement made today by Elizabeth George. The affair is sponsored by Blue Dragon, and all senior women are invited. The program will be announced later.

400 More Theaters Bar "Peaches" Acting

PITTSBURGH —(T)—Mrs. Frances "Peaches" Browning, estranged wife of Edward W. Browning, New York real estate operator has been barred from appearing in any of the 400 theaters affiliated with the Motion Picture theater owners association of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

WOMEN PLAY TWO HOT CAGE GAMES

Sophs Tie Freshmen, 13-13:
Juniors Defeat Seniors,
19-16

Two exciting and well attended women's class basketball games were played Wednesday between the freshman and sophomores, and the juniors and seniors. The frosh-soph game was, somewhat slow and the players didn't warm up until the last quarter. At the end of the first half the sophomores led 6 to 4. The game ended in a tie, 13-13.

The junior-senior contest was well played and spectacular. At the end of the first half, the seniors led by 3 points due to Mabel Butler's skill in making baskets. The juniors rallied after the half and fought through to a 19 to 16 victory.

The members of the junior team were: forwards: Margaret Marsden and Marna Leland; center, Alice Marsh; side center, Margaret Boggs and guards, Alice Nauts and Ray Frazier. Alice Nauts and Ray Frazier were the most consistent players on the team. It was their dogged determination that changed the score in their favor in the second half.

Those on the senior team were: forwards: Mabel Butler, Rose Lauter; center, Lorraine Fritz; side center, Beatrice Thomas; guard, Elizabeth Cuenzli. Mabel Butler was the star player in the first half with her spectacular over arm baskets but in the second half she missed numerous shots. The juniors only found the basket a very few times in comparison with the number of times they shot at it.

The end of the class games was celebrated by a free-for-all by the juniors and seniors to get the senior's mascot—a stuffed goat, which the juniors had stolen last week. Neither class can claim the honor of having the mascot for parts of it were distributed rather unequally among team and class members. The seniors attended the game decorated with their class colors of purple and the juniors did likewise attired in yellow caps.

FRESHMAN BASEBALL

All candidates for the Freshman baseball team are to report ready for practice at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon to Coach Uteritz at Camp Randall.

Printing of Crime and Scandal

Ever since the days when Joseph Pulitzer ran rampant on the pages of the New York World and William Randolph Hearst started to imitate and emulate him on the pages of the New York Evening Journal, people have had a lot of fun and entertainment talking about "yellow journalism." While to all outward appearances these critics give the impression of having the facts, closer inquiry usually reveals that they know not of what they are talking.

Yellow journalism to most people means but one thing—the printing of crime and scandal. They rant rave about the sensational stories of anti-social acts, burglaries, kidnappings, murders and make remarks to the effect that papers are smut sheets, crime news should not be printed etc. Several papers have started a movement toward refusing crime news entrance to their columns. By doing this these papers are flatly refusing to fulfill one of their vital reasons for existing as public servants.

There are several reasons why papers should print news of crime and by so doing they perform a distinct and decided service to every citizen who reads the paper. By running stories about crimes, the apprehension of the criminals, their trials and convictions, the papers have a decided influence on discouraging potential criminals from attempting the same act. If a series of robberies is taking place, news of the robberies, the methods used, help and warn owners of stores and factories to take extra precaution toward guarding their own property against similar attempts. Few people ever think of this service when they are giving the "yellow press" its daily roasting.

When the press carries stories saying that seventy-five automobile owners were hauled into court to pay fines of one dollar and costs for parking on the wrong side of the square, for example, all other car owners in town take advantage of the warning and usually feel grateful. The story tells them that the police are after violators and suggests that they had best not violate the law themselves. It protects their one dollar and costs before it is commandeered by a judge. They do not follow the same reasoning through, however, and see just how this instance of printing minor news of law violations can apply to the more serious ones of robbery, murder, etc.

It is true that some papers take advantage of the sensational in crime news and present it out of all proportion to its merits. We do not mean to defend these papers. If inhabitants of the United States do not want to stare facts in the face, why have newspapers at all. Crimes exist, have an importance to every citizen and should be reported for the deterring effect they have on potential criminals and for the opportunity they afford the average citizen to guard against them himself.

The newspapers which follow the practice of excluding crime news from their columns are falling down on one of their most important functions in the communities in which they circulate. Some of this so-called yellow journalism is not as yellow or as fiendish as it would seem without an inquiry into the possible good which it is doing in just such ways as this.

We've Lost That Darn Pin

It's mighty discouraging trying to do favors for people. Usually one ends up by getting into a lot of trouble and personal grief—to wit, our effort to replace a lost sorority pin to its owner.

In yesterday's Daily Cardinal we advertised the fact that a gold quill pin with a black enamel "Q" on it and the initials J. W. S. on the back had been found by us. From examining the piece of jewelry we most certainly thought that it must belong to some university woman student, perhaps a very good looking one. This would have repayed us for some of our trouble. Witness our disappointment and consternation when a darn man turned up in the office to claim the quill!

That was bad enough, but read the tragedy of the following. Before the gentleman called to claim his property we re-lost it! The emblem of membership in a club was residing in our vest pocket the last we heard about it, and must have fallen out during the process of extracting our time piece from the same pocket. Now we're in a fine mess—advertise our willingness to replace the quill, have the gentleman call (darn him), lost it before we can consummate our kindly deed. If anybody finds this item of personal adornment will he (we hope it's "She") be so kind as to bring it to the Daily Cardinal editor's office so that we can save our face with this gentleman owner.

The Battle for Grade Points

Last night we sat up until past midnight poring over a French book, endeavoring to cram sufficient knowledge into our head to write a passing mid-semester examination. So did some thousand other students.

But what good did it all do? All this crammed knowledge will be dissipated as soon as vacation begins. In fact as soon as the mid-semester is over we will immediately begin to forget how to conjugate "mettre" and "pouvoir." During this cramming we were not acquiring knowledge, we were not learning anything—we were working for a mark, which will give us grade-points, which will make it possible for us to continue in school. The mid-semester exam will not be a test of what we have learned during the past two months—rather it will be a test of how much miscellaneous matter we are able to assimilate the night before the exam and remember up until the time the bell marks the close of the examination hour.

Phraps we'll write a pretty decent exam. The instructor may give us an 84. Four grade points—if it had been an 85 we would have had eight grade point. How silly!

We came here with the hope of learning something. Marks weren't going to mean anything. We were all through with that sort of thing when we finished high school. During the first month of our stay here we ceased the elusive knowledge. The first semester six-weeks exams came. Then we learned that the chase for marks was the paramount activity in this institution and we decided to tag along. Since then the knowledge we have acquired has been little and the marks we have achieved have been high. We found that it was unnecessary to study during the periods between exams—all that is necessary is a few hours cramming on the night before the examination. We are getting by big. But are we learning anything of value?

In the old days Michigan employed the straight pass-funk system. At the end of the semester the university sent each student an official envelop. Within were some cards. If they were blue you had passed the course—if they were yellow you had flunked. No squabbling over grade points. No cramming for exams. No marks. You either passed or flunked.

A bulletin by Intercollegiate Press from the University Travel association says that women will be barred from the second annual college cruise around the world. They say that foreign countries, unused to coeducation, attribute a wrong attitude to the floating university. We'd think they would—most any foreigner, regardless of his continental sophistication would be amazed to see our modern coeds in action. It is said that Leland Stanford women have passed a liberal smoking rule—they may smoke if they care to in their dorms, but not in public places. Incidentally the foreigners who see our floating universities must get an awful wallop out of watching the American coed trying to be wild. It is bad enough to see women smoking—but terrible when they don't know how to naturally and gracefully!

Goody goody, they've yut a new ribbon in the typewriter.

SHORT STORY NUMBER TWO

Peter Rabbit in Scotland,
Or

How he nearly starved to death.

Peter Rabbit sat down in an Edinburgh hash house and yelled for ice water. The waiter brought it to him.

"Say," announced Peter, "This water is warm."

"'Twas cold yesterday laddie," answered the waiter.

Peter got peeved and demanded the manager. Pretty soon the waiter came back all alone.

"Well," asked Peter, "where's the manager?"

"Hoot mon, and he's standing right before you," said the waiter.

"Oh, you're the manager," said Peter. "Bring me the cook, I'll tell him what I think of his ice water."

When the waiter-manager came back he was still all alone.

"Where's your cook?" asked Peter.

"Right here," said the waiter-manager.

"Oh, you're the cook, too," said Peter.

"Yes," answered the waiter-manager-cook, "I can save a pretty penny in wages."

"Call a taxi," said Peter, "I'm gonna go home and I wanna get down to the boat."

Pretty soon the waiter-manager-cook came back with a uniform.

"Are you a taxi driver?" demanded Peter.

"To be sure," answered the waiter-manager-cook-taxi driver, "Let's go to the dock."

So he proceeded to walk all the way to the dock with Peter.

Minnesota may get a whipping post, but they aren't so good—why down home in Indiana they've got the cutest electric chair you ever saw.

UNIVERSITY BAND TO GIVE CONCERT

Prof. Morphy Will Conduct Program in Armory Sunday

Prefacing the appearance of the University concert band in its annual spring concert Sunday afternoon in the Men's gymnasium the second band under the direction of Wardwell Montgomery '27 played in Music hall yesterday and gave a good account of itself.

The second band has played at athletic events throughout the year and is to be commended for the preparation and performance of its concert numbers.

Major E. W. Morphy's senior organization the concert band proper which plays Sunday has reached a stage of development this year whereby Major Morphy feels that soloists will not be needed to aid in the program.

The Goldmark "Sakuntala" overture heads a program which is characterized by music written for orchestra rather than band. The name of the overture is taken from an ancient East Indian legend.

Tschaikowsky, Thomas, Dvorak, and Gounod are other composers whose works have found a place on the Sunday program.

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—Edgar M. Wilkins, an American kidnapped by bandits last Sunday, was still in the hands of his captors today said dispatches from Guadalajara.

President Frank Denounces Present Mexican Policy

action has triumphed, every time political liberalism has failed in Mexico, it has proved in the long run to have been "bad business" for the foreign investor. Any Mexican policy, therefore, that does not make for a permanent settlement of the Mexican muddle is not only poor statesmanship but "bad business," regardless of the immediate concession it may secure. All this seems so obviously true that it should be unnecessary to say it, but the whole history of our Mexican relations cries aloud for its statement."

Send Resolution

Copies of 9 resolutions were handed out at the meeting to be sent to President Coolidge, Secretary of State Kellogg, Senator Blaine, Senator La Follette, and Congressman Nelson:

"As a citizen of the United States of Wisconsin, I am writing to urge upon you the desirability of supporting the constitutionally elected government of Mexico by continuing to prevent general shipment of arms into that country and seeking a settlement of our mutual controversies through some form of international judicial settlement."

Arms shipped at large into Mexico now can only be intended for the use of military revolutionists who were defeated in the very orderly and decisive elections of 1924, and who are seeking to undo by force the results of that expression of the popular will.

"Furthermore, by pursuing our rights and the rights of our citizens in Mexico by the peaceful avenues of international judicial settlement, we may at once protect our own interests, preserve peace between the two neighboring nations, and advance the cause of law and order both in Mexico itself and among the nations of the world at large."

Women Will Meet to Organize New Y. W. C. A. Clubs

The first meeting for the purpose of organizing the new Sophomore Y. W. C. A. clubs will be held at 12:45 this noon at Lathrop parlors at which time Lana Barrett '28 president of Y. W. C. A. and former chairman of the clubs will talk. This meeting is open to all freshman women interested.

The purpose of these clubs and the work which they have been carrying on through their three years of organization will be told of by Miss Barrett and Kathryn Lain '29, newly appointed chairman will explain what plans have been made so far.

These clubs meet every noon for discussion the subject of which this past year was "Comparative Religions," and are held under the guidance of junior girls who meet once a week to prepare for the subject. Also every spring a weekend house party is held affording the new members to become better acquainted and to discuss and plan the work for the coming year. In the fall a banquet, the plans for which have been made during the preceding spring, is held at which new members are taken into the organization.

Those who have been participating in discussions of the freshman Y. W. groups and who wish to continue with the same type of interest may find the opportunity of doing so in joining these clubs. The number is not limited as as many groups as desired may be organized.

Material for Seven Courses on Shelves of New Reading Room

Texts, offering material, in part, for seven liberal arts courses, now grace the shelves of the new "Reserved Book Room" opened in the sub-basement of the new wing of Bascom hall recently, according to L. A. Wolf, university library assistant.

The course covered by the volumes now on hand include, French, Speech, Philosophy, Journalism, History, Economics, and Education. Directories, giving the call number and the name of the book and author, are conveniently posted on bulletin boards down the center of the room.

Books are issued from the desk by attendants on the presentation of a special card bearing the author's name, the title of the book, call number, signature of the borrower and his Madison address. In an effort to serve a maximum number of readers, books are loaned for two hour period only, subject to renewal at the desk if the books are not in demand by some other reader.

According to Mr. Wolf, the collection of volumes will be increased proportionately to the demands and needs of the various students and courses.

In the opinion of G. A. Chandler, assistant secretary of the faculty, the new quarters will serve a triple purpose. In addition to serving as a library the room will be used for registration purposes and for housing many students.

1927 PROM QUEEN WRITES FROM CHINA

Martha Walker Now on Staff of Peking Newspaper; Calls Conditions Unsettled

Miss Martha H. Walker, queen of the 1927 Junior Prom, is now doing newspaper work in Peking, China. Miss Walker graduated from the College of Letters and Science, course in journalism, last June.

In a letter written on Feb. 20 to the department of journalism, Miss Walker wrote that, although affairs in Peking were becoming more and more unsettled, she did not know if she would be forced to leave the city.

Miss Walker conducts a column in the North China Standard, a paper of rather mixed interests. It is a Peking newspaper, published in English. The owner is Japanese, and the editor is Canadian.

The column conducted by Miss Walker is composed of local stories and news of foreign residents in Peking. She procures her news from such sources as the American Legation, the American Express office, and hotels. Activities such as dances, concerts, parties, and lectures are written up in the column.

"Topics of Two Towns" is the title of a column which Miss Walker conducts for the North China Star. It is similar to the column in the Peking paper, but as the name implies, it gives news of the foreign residents of both Peking and Tientsin.

Her copy for the North China Star must be on the express to Tientsin which leaves at 4:30 p. m. daily.

In addition to her newspaper work, Miss Walker teaches physical education and art work in the American school at Peking. She is beginning to write for American Periodicals. She also takes part in various amateur theatricals.

Miss Walker lives with her family in Peking where her father is a practicing attorney. Unless the present disturbance in China sends her home sooner, she may return to America next summer or fall to get a journalistic position.

In 1924 Miss Walker came to the University of Wisconsin from De Pauw university where she had been for two years. She had lived in China for sometime before that, and she and her sister, Miss Mary Ann Walker, had attended Peking university. They were the only white girls in the school.

Miss Walker is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and of Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalistic sorority. She was campus editor of the 1927 Badger, and was on the staffs of the Daily Cardinal and the Literary magazine.

"An Analysis of the North China Star" was the subject of Miss Walker's thesis.

Koehring Heads Annual Military Ball in State Capitol

Following a reception at 8:30 o'clock in the governor's room of the state capitol, approximately 450 couples attending the fifteenth annual Military ball will assemble in the central rotunda of the state house to dance to the music of a picked Thompson orchestra.

Two buglers will sound assembly promptly at 9 o'clock, at which time Cadet Captain Calvin A. Koehring and Honorary Colonel Margaret Parham will step out to lead the grand march. Conducted by a small boy in a naval officer's uniform and a little girl attired as a red cross nurse, the procession will pass under an arch of crossed sabers and in and out among the central corridor. The first dance will start immediately after the usual group picture has been taken.

Use Flags and Lights

Military designs are the keynote of the decorations, flags and colored lights being employed profusely on the main floor and balcony to lend a martial air to the event.

Full dress officers' uniforms will mingle with attractive formal gowns to make the last university event in the capitol an impressive one.

Taps at 1 O'clock

Sharply at 1 o'clock the buglers will sound taps, and the curtain will fall on the fifteenth annual Military ball sponsored by the Wisconsin R. O. T. C. corps.

The only entrances open for those attending the Ball will be the W. Washington street and Monona ave. entrances. Tickets will be placed on sale at 8 o'clock this evening at the W. Washington street entrance.

Diversity Marks
Graduate Recital of Marion Pelton

BY R. L. M.

A highly diversified program that ranged from light gavotte to dramatic sonata and called for a severe test of virtuosity, musicianship and intellectuality was last night given a splendid presentation by Marion Pelton, senior student in piano in the School of Music, as her graduate recital in Music hall.

The crown of Miss Pelton's entire program was her interpretation of the "Sonata Tragica" which Edward MacDowell was moved to write by the memory of his grief over the death of his master, Raff. From the sounding of the tragic note in the brief introduction through the ingratiating loveliness of the second subject, the fierce striving of the middle section, the noble and sombre largo, and the dramatic and impassioned close there was a splendid perception and performance that never once faltered.

It was a splendid interpretation and one that well merited the warm applause that followed the last chord.

Haresfoot Troupe Takes Road
Early This Morning; "Meet
The Prince" Is 29th ProductionPete Hits The Trail For Farm
and Guernseys

In the tiny white lunch room known over on University avenue as "Pete's" there is sadness and gloom today. Hungry college boys come and go the same as ever, but there is no air of gaiety and happiness in their old familiar cries of "On the roof," "Bowl of Chili," and "Two over with a U"; for Pete dear, beloved old Pete Larson has gone.

Early this morning, while most of his boys still dreamed of their mid-semester, Pete bade Madison goodbye, and in his little green roadster took the road that headed north for Spring and the realization of his life-long dream—a dairy farm with a herd of registered pure-bred Guernseys.

Over on University avenue Pete is almost an institution. His quick, homely humor, his keen, sagacious philosophy, and his rare, resilient sympathy have made him a personality beloved by hundreds of college boys.

For six long years the chubby little man with the kindly clever blue eyes and the smile that is an ecstasy of friendliness, has faithfully served his "boys," feeding them with philosophy and food that is of the best. Many a lonely little freshman, hungry for a friendly word and a meal like "mother makes" has found them both at Pete's and he's generally come back, and bought a "ticket," and become "one of the family."

Perhaps that explains a little why there is an air of sadness cast over the little shop today, and maybe that's why George, who's Pete's successor, finds it hard to get the boys to talk. But they'll come around, for George is a mighty fine fellow, and he'll do his best to fill the place Pete has left.

"Of course I hate to say goodbye to everybody," Pete said yesterday, "but I've got 80 acres of fine land and 25 head of wonderful cows up north that have been calling me for many a year, and now I'm going to answer. Sure, I hate to leave, but it means all the happiness in the world to me, and I know the boys will be well taken care of. George is a dandy fellow, and the boys are going to like him fine."

And so Pete has gone in quest of his Bluebird. Behind him he leaves his boys, who'll miss him mightily.

A Short Story
—Happy Ending

To the Memorial Union office yesterday came Jack Wilson, prom chairman, with a check for $619.49. He was admitted.

POTTER TELLS OF
MEXICAN CRISISDifference in Temperaments
Cause of Disorders in Latin America

Until the political, economic, and social conditions between the United States and the countries south of Rio Grande, reach a plane of equality, we must expect an unsolved problem as regards the trouble today between this country and Mexico and Nicaragua.

This was the text of an address given by Prof. Pitman Potter of the social science department, before the Spanish club last night.

"Despite the different mixtures that make up the strata of American society," said the speaker, "there is a great difference in temperament between the United States and other countries."

"Despite the fact that we as a country originated from a sentimental nucleus in 1776, we have been inclined to discount this sentimentality for the last quarter century."

In Prof. Potter's opinion, there are two controversial issues in the Nicaraguan and Mexican affairs today; the question of republican government in those countries, and the question of commercial exploitation.

President Dislikes
State Department
in Collection RoleSees Flag Following Trade to Strengthen Investments

BY CLARENCE O. SCHLAVER
"As an American deeply concerned in industrial prosperity, I want to see American trade follow the American flag. But as an American deeply concerned with my nation's honor and justice and the peace of the world, I do not want to see the American flag necessarily follow American trade, using the State department and the national armed forces as collection agencies for shaky foreign investments."

It is the president of the university of Wisconsin speaking at a meeting called last night at the state capitol to protest any lifting of the present arms embargo against Mexico.

PROTESTISMS

"We Americans are prone to move along our usual everyday course and not to pay much attention to war until the time comes when we can't avoid it."

CHARLES A. ROSA.

"The developments during the last month have made me particularly fearful as to what the United States will do in trying to coerce Mexico into doing something held unjust. It will rankle not only Mexico but the rest of South American republics." — Prof. William Gorham Rice.

"I maintain that the interests of 15,000,000 Mexicans are more important than the interests of 30,000 United States investors in Mexico."—Rev. Robbins W. Barstow.

Is "Watching Drifting"

But this time Glenn Frank speaks as a citizen and not as a university president. He comes before an audience of legislators, university students and Madison citizens to protest against a policy, not "watchful waiting," but of "watchful drifting," in the relations of this country to Mexico.

Thus was sounded the keynote of a protest meeting that ended with the unanimous opposition of a resolution offered by B. F. Mathiowitz urging the State department to submit the Mexican land and oil disputes to an international court of arbitration. Charles A. Rosa presided and speeches were delivered by Rev. R. W. Barstow, Prof. W. G. Rice, and President Glenn Frank.

President Frank assailed the common supposition held by American business men that their economic interests are jeopardized by a liberal government such as the present Calles government in Mexico is trying to be. "It must be plain by now that no artificial advantage gained by winning over this or that Mexican president to the side of the foreign investor class can be permanent," he asserted.

Critic Praises New Orpheum Building, But Can't Hand Program Much

By FLORENCE M. SCHAUER

(Theatre Editor, the Daily Cardinal)

With flags and streamers flying, bands playing and mobs pushing and waiting impatiently for their turn to get in, the new Orpheum theater located in the 200 block on State street opened at 12:45 p. m. yesterday.

It was a big day for Madison, for it's been a long time now since people here have had a chance to see vaudeville. Long before noon the crowds formed in long lines, and last night the rows of waiting people extended beyond into the next block.

But gradually the eager crowds poured into the elaborate ticket lobby designed in architecture of the modern Renaissance. Over black gold, and red carpeting they plied their way through the grand foyer and promenade to the auditorium.

"Flashily Decorated"

Here flame and gold draperies, ornate lighting fixtures, and sparkling curtains give color to the room. The entire auditorium, which seats 2,300 is rather flashily decorated, but, nevertheless, attractive.

As ushers clothed in uniforms of dull red kept the crowds at bay, now and then, as a seat was vacated, allowing one or two to slip by, the curtains rolled back and the first vaudeville number of the New Orpheum had begun.

The Lomys, with their vaudeville surprise, set the ball a rolling in a sturt-jumping and tumbling act. The main tumbler was excellent. His daring acts kept the audience on edge continually and because of him the act was one of the best. The harp was all right as background.

Lots of Silly Talk

Bartraza and Saxon were cheap entertainment. Nothing but a lot of silly talk and attempted harmony.

Nine Jolly Sailor Maids performed with an orchestra which might be good for a girl's but we've heard lots better right in Madison. They had pep, and the trombone player could produce some mean jazz. But otherwise, most of their comedy was slapstick stuff.

The Wilson Brothers in "Oh Emma" seemed to bring the house down. They were funny, at times, but much of their humor was over done. They sang and dialogued for the most part.

Movie Was Poor

Will Higgle and His Six Magnetic Misses relies for its good points on Higgle's dancing and on that of his main female partner. Her Egyptian dance was decidedly good, probably the next best thing on the program, although it did not take as well as the Wilson Brothers.

As for the feature photoplay, "Nobody's Widow," with Leatrice Joy and Charles Ray, it was way over drawn-silly and nothing but farce. We can't understand why the Orph for their opening bill should present such a movie.

On the whole the vaudeville was not nearly as good as it should have been for the opening night. While we congratulate John Scharnberg for his new building we do not praise him for his program. It leaned too much toward cheap slapstick.
