Oneida Travels

In the summer they harvested wheat (in Kansas). We went to work for some time in the summer and threshed wheat. It was sure hot and they paid us four dollars. Then I came back after the thirty days that I worked. I got in a train in Chicago and arrived back in Green Bay when the Oneida soldiers got their money. then I went back in the fall and it was sure good to travel and get in a train when it wasn't too hot. I was down south too - nothing there. We went swimming in the ocean way down south.
