New Oil Company Buys the Wichmann Property

Appleton is to have a new oil concern known as the Buth Oil company, and one of its principal stations will be on the site of the former Wichmann Funeral home, Oneida and Franklin streets. Purchase of the property was confirmed by George Buth, proprietor of the new company. He also has purchased a vacant lot at E. Wisconsin avenue and N. Union street for a second station.

Mr. Buth was commission manager for Wadhams Oil company for the last ten years and resigned to establish his new company. He will handle B Square products of the Barnsdall corporation of Tulsa, Okla., known as the "world's first refiners."

The Buth Oil company will have a bulk storage warehouse of 110,000 gallons capacity in Appleton and will serve the neighboring locality as well. A super-station will be built on Oneida street for greasing, washing and other service. The Wisconsin avenue station will be confined mostly to gasoline and oil sales. Attractive buildings will be erected, and the retail business will be ready about June 1. The bulk station will start operating about May 1.

Mr. Buth has been in the oil business for twenty years, and formerly was located at Wausau, Ripon, and Beaver Dam, but has been in Appleton for the last ten years.

Sheriff Lappen Captures Wausau Jail Breakers

Four persons who are alleged to have assisted in the escape of Roy Johnston from the Marathon county jail Monday night, were apprehended through Sheriff John Lappen's department Wednesday. They are Mrs. Roy Johnston, Mrs. Emory Bodoh, Mrs. Johnston's mother, Everett Bodoh and Henry Schiessel, an employe of the Bodoh's. They were arrested at the Bodoh home in Clintonville Tuesday. Undersheriff Edward Lutz and Officer Peter VanOudenhoven working under the direction of Sheriff Lappen, made the arrests. The quartet was turned over to Marathon county officials.

Mrs. Johnston is alleged to have confessed buying a plumber's wrench and cutting tool which Schiessel dropped by a string through Johnston's window. M. Lyons, Shiocton, telephoned Sheriff Lappen and told him that he had taken Mrs. Johnston to Wausau the day of the jail break and also that he brought her back to Clintonville that night. Mrs. Johnston told him, he said, that there would probably be a jail break and police would undoubtedly look for her. Lyons said he agreed to take Mrs. Johnston to Wausau to visit her husband. The Johnstons were alleged to have been implicated with the Gale Bandy gang in the robbery of the Fashion shop here last fall.

Junk Ordinance Passed by Council, Amendment May Clear Objections

A bitter argument, during which charges of misunderstanding and misinterpretation and intimations of political scheming were rampant, preceded the adoption of the finance committee report by the common council Wednesday evening. The report indicated that the finance committee, after an investigation of city accounts, found no evidence of overcharge.

The investigation was the result of a charge by Alderman VanderHeyden, Fifth ward, several weeks ago that the city of Appleton paid more than it ought to for its purchases. Members of the council resented this charge, alleging it was a reflection on the integrity of local merchants, and demanded that this charge be substantiated with facts. VanderHeyden consequently was asked to bring in a report citing specific cases where an exorbitant price had been charged. At a subsequent meeting of the council, the alderman submitted a list of vouchers representing purchases on which he claimed the city could have secured a better price. These vouchers were referred to the finance committee for further investigation.

When the finance committee report was presented to the council Wednesday evening, Alderman VanderHeyden claimed the action of the finance committee was irregular in that he was not present at the meeting when the investigation was made. It was brought out by Alderman Packard that he had endeavored, and this statement was corroborated by the city clerk, to get the members of the finance committee together at three different times. Finally, when a meeting date was set for a Monday afternoon, Alderman VanderHeyden was unable to attend because of the illness of his mother. The committee, according to Mr. Packard, took no action on the matter, but postponed further consideration until such time when Alderman VanderHeyden could be present. However, he declared, in order to have something definite to work on, the finance committee instructed him to make a preliminary investigation, which he did. Alderman VanderHeyden charged this particular action was unfair to him.

A meeting was held on the following Tuesday, when Alderman VanderHeyden was present.

VanderHeyden claimed his original message to the council had been misunderstood. He said it was not his purpose or desire to accuse merchants of overcharging, but that there seemed to be laxity in the methods of purchasing, and that savings could have been made in some instances if buying had been done under competitive conditions. He said the city buys large quantities of commodities at prices equal to the usual retail value, but that he believed the city, as a large consumer, should have obtained lower prices. He cited two bills, one which read "soup meat, $1.57" another which read "soup meat 9 cents." "The bill may be correct," he stated, "but its makeup led me to believe it was an overcharge. If the bill should have been different, it's too bad it wasn't." He referred also to a rebate which is being made to the city by a local merchant, stating that this indicated an overcharge. He conceded, however, that there may have been an oversight in this instance. It was brought out during the argument that the city poor department had purchased coal in half ton lots, and that the usual charge for such lots had been made. This is slightly higher in proportion to ton lots. It was further stated the city has no contract for coal deliveries other than those to the city properties.

Hints of political plotting, charges to "get certain aldermen" and similar expressions brought a call for order.

VanderHeyden charged that he had been misunderstood, but Vogt of the Sixth ward said the language of the alderman had been unmistakable, and quoted from his original message. VanderHeyden denied this, to which Vogt retorted that it was unfortunate that the city of Appleton did not have a stenographer present at the meeting who might have taken down the statement verbatim. VanderHeyden concluded his defense by claiming that he intended to convey to the council that the system used by the city was not a good system, and that a plan should be worked out for closer check. He said perhaps he was not explicit enough when he presented the matter to the council, and that the report of the finance committee was not what he asked for.

The junk ordinance was brought up for passage Wednesday night, but not without objection. It was carried by a vote of 10 to 2, Aldermen Richards and Thompson voting against it. The city attorney was instructed to prepare an amendment to the ordinance which it is believed will clear away any objection. Since Wisconsin avenue was put in the local manufacturing district, one junk yard, that of J. Greenspoon, is not in the residence district, and the ordinance provided for the cleaning up of junk yards in the residence district within a period of six months. The amendment will make the ordinance applicable to all junk yards in any district other than the heavy manufacturing. Vogt defended the ordinance, stating that under the zoning ordinance the city could order Greenspoon to clean up his

Attempted Store Robbery Is Thwarted By Woman

A robber who entered the Helm Grocery store, 912 W. Wisconsin avenue, about 10 o'clock Wednesday evening, found a woman clerk undaunted by his commands to "stick 'em up" and thus thwarted his attempted holdup. When Mrs. J. T. Helm, wife of the proprietor of the store, answered the bell signifying that someone had entered the store, she was confronted by a man between 28 and 30 years of age who commanded her to hand over the cash and be quiet. Mrs. Helm hesitated, and when the robber repeated his command, she darted to the back room where her husband and two brothers were seated and advised them of the proceedings. The robber followed the woman and ordered the three men to "stick 'em up." Mrs. Helm, standing in front of the robber, grasped his revolver and pointed it toward the ceiling. He pulled the weapon away, turned and fled from the store. He was driving a Chevrolet coach with disc wheels.

Young Man Is Accidentally Shot Thursday Evening

Arthur Hahnen, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hahnen, 831 W. Packard street, is in a critical condition at St. Elizabeth hospital as the result of an accident that occurred at Company G armory about 11:30 o'clock Thursday night. A few members of the company were engaged in restocking supplies in the stock room when Cloyde Schroeder, a captain in Company D, accidentally fired a 30-30 calibre rifle, the blank cartridge of which entered Hahnen's back and penetrated his right lung. He was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital in the Kunitz ambulance. Reports at noon indicated his condition favorable, though serious. Hahnen had been a bugler in Company D since he joined that organization a year ago.

G. D. Ziegler Is Injured in Accident Thursday

G. D. Ziegler, president of the Aid Association for Lutherans, was seriously injured about 10:45 o'clock Thursday night when struck by an automobile driven by Walter Schneider, 1618 N. Appleton street. Mr. Ziegler had attended the services at the Mount Olive Lutheran church and was crossing from the west to the east side of Oneida street when he was struck. Schneider, who was driving north on N. Oneida street, was blinded by lights of an approaching automobile. Mr. Ziegler was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital where it was found that he sustained a scalp wound and a possible fracture of the skull. According to reports from the hospital this morning, his condition was favorable.

Aldermen From Five Wards Will Seek Re-election Next Tuesday

A heavy vote is expected to be registered here next Tuesday when the city will choose six aldermen, six county board supervisors and will vote for a candidate for municipal judge of Outagamie county. In all of the six wards there will be a lively battle for seats on the city council as all incumbent aldermen except George Packard from the first ward are up for re-election. Mr. Packard did not care to continue as alderman but the race in his ward, the first, was nevertheless a very spirited contest with four candidates struggling for nomination in the primary. C. O. Davis and Ray Giese won out and their names will be on the ticket Tuesday. In all the other five wards incumbent aldermen are seeking re-election. They are: Oren Earle, second ward; Walter

Gmeiner, Third ward; R. F. McGillan, Fourth ward; W. H. Vanderheyden, Fifth ward; Philip Vogt, Sixth ward.

A very lively contest is expected in the vote for municipal judge. Judge Theodore Berg, who has held the office of municipal judge since the death of the late Judge A. M. Spencer, is seeking re-election. He is opposed by John A. Lonsdorf, former district attorney of Outagamie county.

Candidates for county supervisors who are seeking re-election are: L. F. Bushy, First ward; P. H. Ryan, Second ward; T. H. Ryan, Third ward; Peter Rademacher, Fifth ward, and Fred Kranzusch, Sixth ward. John Tracy, veteran supervisor from the Fourth ward, is not a candidate for re-election.

Municipal Court Has 73 Cases During March

Speeders constituted the greatest number of offenders brought into municipal court during March, according to the monthly report of the municipal court. Sixteen of the 73 cases in this branch of the justice department were speed law violators. Drunkenness was the cause of twelve persons appearing before the municipal court judge, while five were arrested for drunken driving. There were three cases of arterial jumping; one of parking law violation; one assault and battery; two reckless driving; three no license; one tampering with fire alarm; two embezzlement; two non-support; one homicide; one vagrancy; one petit larceny; one rape and one resisting an officer. Twenty civil cases were on the March calendar. Activities in the municipal court enriched the county's coffers by $556.95, a check for that amount having been turned over to the county treasurer on Thursday. The total, which covered both fines and court costs for the month of March, was made up of $70 in state fines; $336.05 in city fines; and $10 in county fines. Municipal court costs were $97.65, including $6 state court costs, $54 city court costs, $3.80 county court costs, $33.85 civil costs S. M. Shannon fees $3.00; R. H. McCarthy fees $3.55, city officers fees $27.55; fees to city $9.15.

Roman Simon, Kaukauna, was arrested Wednesday evening for failing to stop for an arterial at the intersection of E. Wisconsin avenue, and Lem-inawah street. He paid a fine of $1 and costs in municipal court Thursday. Officer George Behrent made the arrest.

Keep Men in the City Council Whose Record Shows They Can Run City Affairs with Economy.

We are seeking re-election as aldermen of our respective wards on the basis of performance during the last year. It is not necessary for us to make a lot of flowery statements about services rendered, or even to enter into a lot of arguments with opponents. We merely reprint below a verbatim copy of the comparative statement of city expenditures for the years 1929 and 1930 as prepared by W. J. Schenck, certified public accountant, who prepared the city audit in January. This speaks for itself so conclusively with its reduction of $115,339.86 in expenditures that we need say no more as to whether we deserve to be retained in the council.

OREN EARLE, Second Ward Alderman
WALTER GMEINER, Third Ward Alderman
ROBERT MCGILLAN, Fourth Ward Alderman

KILL THE LICENSE REFERENDUM

Voters will express themselves at the polls next Tuesday on the desirability of having automobile licenses issued by the county clerks instead of the secretary of state's office. The state legislature was unable to decide this matter in a satisfactory manner and passed the issue on to the voters in a statewide referendum.

Issuance of the licenses is a huge task no matter where it is handled but the efficiency of the present system makes a change to the counties seem absurd and wasteful. About the only argument in its favor seems to be the delivery of plates to the automobile owner immediately instead of waiting until they arrive by mail from Madison. That is a flimsy argument on which to base the county distribution idea.

It will cost a much larger sum to maintain seventy-one license offices than one central office. Anybody can see that. Each county will be obliged to provide office space for the licensing department. Cabinets must be installed in which to store the plates. Records, printed forms, typewriters, desks and other equipment must be purchased. A staff of clerks must be hired to handle the applicants, make up the records and handle the funds. Even though the state might allot a sum of money received to take care of expenses in each office, there will be added expense not covered by such allowances and this must be borne by the county.

Persons living at the county seat might find it convenient to call at the court house for their plates. To those living at the other side of the county it will mean driving twenty or more miles back and forth to obtain licenses which are now delivered to their mail box by the postman. We venture to say that most of the people in Appleton would rather drop their application and check in the mails than to stand in line at the court house with hundreds of others waiting to be served.

There is no hardship in being obliged to wait a week or two for license plates to arrive, as sometimes happens during the rush season. The service from Madison is consistently prompt. It has been made exceedingly simple to the motorist, who receives an application card completely filled out, to be mailed to the capital with remittance. Purchasers of new cars usually are accommodated by the dealer in making out an original application. The state has invested thousands of dollars in special equipment, recording devices and files and has spent years training an organization to handle the work. It is exceedingly remote from good common sense to abandon this setup and throw the whole arrangement into chaos for a year or two until the counties learn something about it.

It will be a serious handicap to law enforcement officers to have the records scattered over seventy-one offices instead of having them concentrated in one place. Much time will elapse before reports reach the secretary of state on licenses issued and serious consequences may arise where ownership of cars cannot be traced quickly. Now the records are instantly accessible concerning every automobile owner in Wisconsin. This convenience can never be duplicated by a change.

Voters will exercise good judgment and guarantee themselves continued economy if they reject the referendum.

CASHMAN BARKS AT MEATING

Senator John E. Cashman's latest bill in the Wisconsin legislature prohibiting school officials from arranging travel tours for teachers and students illustrates aptly why our statute books are so burdened with laws that the public courts disrespect for their observance.

Resentment against the prohibition laws is universal because an attempt is made to regulate personal conduct. Sunday blue laws likewise are in disfavor because they infringe on people's rights to do what they wish on the Sabbath day. The Cashman bill is in the same category, an attempt to regulate by law a matter that is purely personal.

Why is it necessary to invoke the law to stop students and teachers from going to Madison, Washington, Europe or somewhere else? If there is anything seriously wrong with the practice, school boards and the state department of education, or even the people in a given community in public meetings could quickly control policies of this kind. Laws once made are not easy to change, and a measure of this kind is sure to be regretted in the future. Then the old weakness enters. The law will be unpopular and will be disregarded by the public. Another gain will be made on the side of disrespect.

Our own county superintendent, A. G. Meating, originated the idea of these trips which took Outagamie county pupils to Madison and Washington. He saw the value to pupils and is enlarging on the idea by making it possible for the teachers to visit Europe. It is a form of education many times more effective than book learning. The awe and inspiration of a visit to the state and national capitals, to be addressed by governors and presidents, does more for good citizenship than years of admonition in the classroom. Likewise geography and history take on a new meaning through experiences of this kind.

Abuses may creep in, to be sure, but the good accomplished by these trips far outweigh any incidents such as Senator Cashman describes. Such conditions can be corrected, and as a last resort the people have the ballot. The county superintendent is an elective official who can be removed if he resorts to partiality or persecution because a teacher or pupil did not patronize one of these trips.

This bill looks to us like an excuse for Senator Cashman to continue playing to the grandstands, nothing more. His sun was about to descend with the passage of his famous highway bill. He could not stand obscurity for the remainder of the legislative session, inasmuch as he has been mentioned as a possible candidate for congress from the Ninth district.

The legislature should ride his bill to oblivion so effectively that no senator or assemblyman in the future will try to abridge personal privilege when it is so sublime and outstanding as these educational tours have been.

TUESDAY AN IMPORTANT DAY

Important offices are to be filled through the voting at the general election next Tuesday. It should not be necessary to urge the citizens to vote, but many treat their privilege of franchise lightly and the election is not always a complete expression of choice. We therefore urge everybody to go to the polls and do at least this much in the interest of good citizenship and good government.

Offices sought at this election are important because they are nearest to our every day lives and interests. An alderman and a county board member are to be elected from each ward. These men are the most direct political representatives we have, and can contribute more to good government and public economy than anybody in our municipal structure. The choice therefore is important and it is the duty of every voter to study the qualifications of the candidates and make a conscientious choice.

Municipal and county judges also will be elected, as well as a justice of the supreme court. We have urged the re-election of Judge Theodore Berg for the municipal court because of his consistent and satisfactory handling of that office for the last six years and our belief that he should be retained. Likewise we have emphasized the value of experience in the choice of other officers, especially in our common council where the incumbent aldermen have made genuine progress in reducing city expenditures.

A Digest of Events and Trends for Busy People

Navigation on the Fox river, between Green Bay and Lake Winnebago, was officially opened at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning, Nelson Wightman, federal engineer in charge of the Fox River Improvement offices in Appleton, announced. Ice has not entirely disappeared from Lake Winnebago, but it is believed boat travel will be possible within a few weeks.

Modern language department of Lawrence college presented four one-act plays at the Lawrence Memorial chapel Tuesday night. A German, French, and two Spanish plays were presented. The cast was selected from advance students in each class, and rehearsed under the direction of F. Theodore Cloak, director of dramatics at the college. Charles Peerenboom, Roger Williams, Emma Salzman, Lawrence Roeck, and Helen Hacker took part in the German play, "Unter vier Augen;" Kenneth St. Clair, Mary Joy Alter, Robert Lawe, Forest Bennet, and David Fulton presented the French play, "Maitre Pierre Pathelin;" and Julia Ladwig and Lullie Kranhold had principal parts in the Spanish plays "La Pena" and "Lo Que Tu Quieras."

A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, has been named county better homes chairman by Miss Marie C. Kohler, state chairman. The state chairman has suggested a better homes program during Better Homes week, April 26 to May 2, for all county schools.

Dr. V. F. Marshall was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Rotary club of Menasha at Hotel Menasha Wednesday noon. His subject was "The Cost of Sickness."

Appleton high school band presented a program at Lawrence college student convocation Wednesday morning. The program included Weber's "Euranythe Overture," the second and third movements of the "Egyptian Ballet" by Laigini, Goldmark's "Bridal Song" from the Rustic Wedding Symphony, and the "City of Ballarat" by Code. "Stars in the Velvety Sky," a coronet solo, was rendered by Carl Given. Other special numbers were "Slidus Trombones," by Lake, by the trombone quartet composed of Neil Given, Stanley Zahrt, Ramona Bartlein, and Norman Pope; and "Two Little Bull-fishes," by the piccolo quartette composed of Ruth Cole, Doris Toll, Dorothy Wallace, and Veronica Boehme.

Twenty-eight applications for the Citizens' Military Training camps have been filed from Outagamie county, Raymond P. Dohr, Appleton, chairman of the county committee, has announced. The county's quota is 26. Mr. Dohr stated that despite the fact the county's quota is filled, applications will still be received since other counties in the state may not reach their quota and in this case additional entries will be taken from counties that have gone over the top.

Excavation work on the new post-office, to be erected at the corner of Superior and Washington streets, is progressing rapidly and if weather conditions do not interfere, the contractors, Greunke Brothers Construction company, expect to have this part of the work completed by the end of next week. Tapager Construction company, who has the general contract, has a crew of six men at work preparing for the general construction.

The couple has been supplied with its first actual home since their marriage, but needs such furnishings as dining room table, chairs, day bed, heater, gas stove, tubs, wash board, dishes, and a few rockers. Anyone who has household goods to contribute to this home is asked to get in touch with the Home Aid office.

The Oldsmobile coach owned by Morris Gorwitz, 120 W. Pacific street, which was stolen from its parking place near the Masonic Temple Monday evening, was recovered Tuesday afternoon by the sheriff's department at Winchester. It had been abandoned by the thieves at Winchester, but was not damaged.

The Outagamie county highway committee awarded the contract for a carload of culverts to be used in county road work this summer to the Bark River Bridge and Culvert company of Bark River, Mich. The approximate cost is $2,200.

Investigation is being made into the alleged theft of $350 from Chauncey Powless, a World war veteran, of Oneida. Powless, an Indian, had been confined to the Resthaven hospital at Waukesha for treatment, and obtained a furlough. He secured a loan under the new loan plan for ex-service men and started home for a visit with his wife and three children. He is said to have stopped at a roadhouse en route to his home, where he displayed the roll of bills. He was taken to his home by two companions. The day following he discovered that his money was gone. Sheriff John Lappen and District Attorney Stanley Staidl are working on the case.

George Pruchnopske, 714 W. Winnebago street, paid a fine of $1 and costs in municipal court Wednesday after pleading guilty of making a "U" turn on College avenue. The arrest was made by Police Chief George T. Prim.

John DeGoey, Kaukauna, was taken to Waupun Tuesday by Sheriff John Lappen. DeGoey was arrested for non-support several months ago and paroled to the state board of control for two years. He was arrested several weeks ago for violating his parole and sentenced to Waupun for two years.

Students in the county rural schools will test samples of grass seed from their parents' farms as an experiment in connection with their school work. Two hundred and fifty grass seed testers have been procured for this purpose by Gus Sell, county agricultural agent.

Appleton Pure Milk company was awarded $518 damages in its suit for $750 against Harry Stutz, proprietor of the Cottage restaurant on W. Wisconsin avenue. The jury was out about an hour. On the morning of October 9, 1930, a milk wagon owned by the Pure Milk company was demolished in a collision with a car driven by Stutz. The milk wagon had been parked on the side of the road while the driver made a delivery. Stutz claimed there were no lights on the wagon, but testimony indicated that two lighted lanterns were on the wagon at the time of the accident. The jury held Stutz guilty of careless driving.

The county highway committee will open bids for the construction of two bridges in the town of Buchanan, at a special meeting at the county highway commissioner's office Monday afternoon. One of the bridges is to be 14 feet long; the other is to be 16 feet.

Saturday's storm, though it brought the largest amount of snow of any storm this winter, cost the city about $900. This brings the total amount spent for snow removal since January 1 up to about $2,500, which is no more than some previous single storms have cost. About $92 was spent for cleaning snow from private sidewalks, but this is assessed against the property.

Dr. E. W. Cooney talked to boy scouts of Troop 1 in St. Joseph parish hall on First Aid Tuesday evening. Mothers of the scouts attended the meeting and assisted in plans for an open card party to be given next Monday evening. Plans for the court of honor ceremony next Tuesday evening were also discussed.

High School Clinic Will Be Started on Monday

At 8 o'clock next Monday morning, doors to the clinic, sponsored by the health department of the Appleton Woman's club and the Outagamie County Medical Association, will be opened to 300 high school seniors and juniors. The clinic is part of the national Early Diagnosis campaign, and was arranged for high school students because a need was indicated for such a clinic by the number of cases of tuberculosis which had been reported among high school students in the last few years. After the high school students have been examined, the clinic will be conducted for Appleton Vocational school students.

Local doctors will work on two hour shifts, with three doctors and several nurses on each shift.

The cost of the clinic will be paid from part of the proceeds from the sale of Christmas seals last fall. Mrs. L. J. Marshall had charge of the seal sale, and is also chairman of the health committee of the Appleton Woman's club.

OPEN NEW AGENCY HERE

An agency has been opened in Appleton by the Sorter-Graf company, Detroit, Mich., with W. C. Williams in charge. The company makes machines for the quick assorting, indexing and classifying of records and has offices in all principal cities in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

One of the sorter-grafs has been installed in Appleton public library, where filing formerly requiring three hours can be done in about ten minutes. The device consists of index "jaws" on rollers, operating on tracks so the whole alphabet is at the worker's finger tips. The library installation here was the first of that kind in the state. Mr. Williams is the representative for north-eastern Wisconsin.

Valley Scout Council drum and bugle corps met at the old Alexander gymnasium Wednesday night. Instructions in drumming and bugling were given after the music study period.

"Dracula" Will Be Presented At Midnight Show Saturday

Tod Browning is Hollywood's leading collector of skeletons. As the motion picture's leading director of weird, fantastic stories—morbid tales of strange lands and stranger happenings—there is not merely a skeleton in Browning's closet, as the saying is. There are many.

For many years he has directed, as well as written, most of the screen stories in which the late Lon Chaney has appeared, and he has become famous throughout the industry as the creator of some of the weirdest characters in the fiction of filmdom. "The Unholy Three," that strange story of thieves, is one of them. "The Unknown," dealing with the adventures of an armless man in a traveling gypsy circus, is another; still another is "London After Midnight," in which members of a vaudeville act are engaged to impersonate human vampires, and bring to the store an atmosphere of intense creepiness. Another of Browning's productions, though one in which Chaney did not appear, was "The Thirteenth Chair," involving a "spooky" seance, with dead men in the circle.

But now the director has just completed the filming of "Dracula," which far exceeds the others in the strangeness of its story.

"Dracula," in short, among all the motion pictures which have been shown since the inception of the industry, is absolutely in a class by itself, since it is the only picture dealing seriously with this strange subject of vampires. In fantastic horror it far exceeds anything that Chaney ever did during his lifetime and takes its place at once as the most unusual production in the history of the screen.

Local theatregoers will have an opportunity to see this strangest of all motion pictures when "Dracula" opens an engagement at the Warner Theatre starting Sunday, with a cast which includes three members of the original stage company—Bela Lugosi, as Count Dracula; Edward Van Sloan, as Dr. Van Helsing; and Herbert Bunston, as Dr. Seward. Other members of the screen cast are Helen Chandler, Dwight Frye, David Manners, Joan Standing, Frances Dade, Charles Gerrard and Moon Carroll.

The production also will feature the midnight show tomorrow night.

Seven Girls on Vaudeville Bill At Fox This Sunday

You won't be disappointed in not seeing the act with the seven beautiful girls last Sunday because they are going to be here this Sunday without fail. It wasn't their fault they weren't here last week. They were stalled in the snow about 62 miles from Appleton and couldn't even get to a railroad station.

There are two more vaudeville acts. One is Bert Byton in "Fashion Plate of Vaudeville." Bert is a comedy monologist and he surely knows his game. The other is Bussey and Case in "A Smooth Comedy Offering." This is a comedy singing, talking and juggling act.

The overture is by Mickey and his commodore orchestra. He has a beautiful program arranged for this Sunday and Marshall Tooley will be at the organ. Don't fail to come to the Fox Theatre Sunday.

On the screen Sunday will be William Haines in "A Tailor Made Man." William Haines plays the part of a pants presser in a tailor shop—later becomes a big business executive—does some serious dramatic acting and much delectable clowning, and tells a typical story of American business success in this new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which will be shown at the Fox Theater Sunday only.

The story is an ultra-modern drama of New York, of business and business depression. It offers a cure for bad times and a recipe for prosperity, sounding a most timely note of optimism.

All of which is serious—but not Haines, save in the serious spots. His whimsical comedy was never better than when contrasted with some very forceful dramatic work.

Sam Wood, who recently scored with "Paid," directed the new picture, and injected many deft little touches that keep the plot moving at breakneck speed.

One of the most elaborate casts in a long time appears with the comedy star. Dorothy Jordan, of "Min and Bill," plays the feminine lead as Tanya, the tailor's daughter—a demure little thing but very charming.

Others of the cast are Joseph Cawthorn, Henry Armetta, Marjorie Rambeau, Hedda Hopper, William Austin, Hale Hamilton, Ian Keith, Forrester Harvey, Walter Walker, Joan Mash and Martha Sleeper.

Lions Club Will Bring WLS Radio Entertainers Here

Ten entertainers will take part in the WLS National Barn Dance Frolic when Appleton Lions club puts on its benefit program for Outagamie county blind at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Friday evening, April 17. These will all be stars from the WLS radio studio conducted by The Prairie Farmer in Chicago.

These players will stage a typical "back on the farm" program made up of a variety of numbers interspersed with rollicking humor. Accordion players will vie with fiddlers, harmonica, banjo and guitar players in lively music of a popular variety, including solos, duets and ensemble numbers. Plenty of vaudeville will be added, with laughable skits and old-fashioned dances.

Equipped with an endless repertoire, the entertainers will give the audience all it wants in the way of amusement. The program will last for an hour and a half, starting at 8:15. A nationally known master of ceremonies will accompany the troupe here and he will enliven the program with his funny stories and unique introductions.

The Lions club is building up a fund to assist blind persons in making articles for sale, and for assistance in marketing the products. This project will be started as soon as a large enough amount of money is at hand adequately to finance the work. Members of the committee in charge are George Johnson, chairman, E. E. Cahail, chairman of the club's blind committee, E. C. Moore, A. G. Meating, and G. A. Sell.

Filing of library books in the Appleton public library has been facilitated by the installation of a new sortigraph. The new implement costs about $170 and accomplishes in ten minutes the amount of work ordinarily done in three hours. The machine was given a good test on Monday when the general circulation was over 1,000. There were 729 books handled in the adult department and 302 in the children's room.

Matt Grose, Green Bay, paid a fine of $1 and costs in municipal court Thursday after pleading guilty of jumping an arterial at the corner of Lawe and North streets. Officer George Behrendt made the arrest.

The county poor committee on Wednesday afternoon renewed twenty-two mothers' pensions, granted three new applications, and held over five for further investigation. Anton Jansen, Little Chute, is committee chairman.

INSTALLMENT IV

"The girl and I—funny, I never did learn her name—were in the lead because we had stuck to the old train. The girl was close behind me. That thoroughbred she rode was built for speed, not distance. A race horse, blooded. I could hear him blowing. He was trained to short bursts. My Indian pony was just getting his second wind as her horse slackened into a trot. We had come nearly sixteen miles. I was well in the lead by that time, with the girl following. We had left the others behind, hundreds going this way, hundreds that, scattering for miles over the prairie. Then I saw that the prairie ahead was afire. The tall grass was blazing. Only the narrow trail down which we were galloping was open. On either side of it was a wall of flame. Some skunk of a sooner, sneaking in ahead of the Run, had set the blaze to keep the boomers off, saving the land for himself. The dry grass burned like oiled paper. I turned around. The girl was there, her racer stumbling, breaking and going on, his head lolling now. I saw her motion with her hand. She was coming. I whipped off my hat and clapped it over Whitefoot's eyes, gave him the spurs, crouched down low and tight, shut my own eyes, and down the trail we went into the furnace. Hot! It was h—l. I could smell the singed hair on the flanks of the mustang. My own hair was singeing. I could feel the flames licking my legs and back. Another hundred yards and neither the horse nor I could have come through it. But we broke out into the open, choking and blinded and half suffocated. I looked down the lane of flame. The girl hung on her horse's neck. Her skullcap was pulled down over her eyes. She was coming through game. I knew that my land—the piece that I had come through hell for—was not more than a mile ahead. I knew that hanging around here would probably get me a shot through the head, for the sooner that started that fire must be lurking somewhere in the high grass ready to kill anybody that tried to lay claim to his land. I began to wonder, too, if that girl wasn't headed for the same section that I was bound for. I made up my mind that, woman or no woman, this was a race, and devil take the hindmost. My poor little pony was coughing and sneezing and trembling. Her racer must have been ready to drop. I wheeled and went on. I kept thinking how, when I came to Little Bear creek, I'd bathe my little mustang's nose and face and his poor heaving flanks, and how I musn't let him drink too much, once he got his muzzle in the water.

"Just before I reached the land I was riding for I had to leave the trail and cut across the prairie. I could see a clump of elms ahead. I knew the creek was near by. But just before I got to it I came on one of those deep gullies you find in the plains country. Almost ten feet across this one was, and deep-

No way around it that I could see, and no time to look for one. I put Whitefoot to the leap and, by G—d, he took it, landing on the other side with hardly an inch to spare. I heard a wild scream behind me. I turned. The girl on her spent racer had tried to make the gulch. He had actually taken it—a thoroughbred and a gentleman, that animal—but he came down on his knees just on the farther edge, rolled, and slid down the gully side into the ditch. The girl had flung herself free. My claim was fifty yards away. So was the girl with her dying horse. She lay there on the prairie. As I raced toward her—my own poor little mount was nearly gone by this time—she scrambled to her knees. I can see her face now, black with cinders and soot and dirt, her hair all over her shoulders, her cheek bleeding where she had struck a stone in her fall, her black tights torn, her little short skirt sagging. She sort of sat up and looked around her. Then she staggered to her feet before I reached her and stood there swaying, and pushing her hair out of her eyes like some one who'd been asleep. She pointed down the gully. The black of her face streaked with tears.

"Shoot him!" she said. "I can't. His two forelegs are broken. I heard them crack. Shoot him! For God's sake!"

"So I off my horse and down to the gully's edge. There the animal lay, his eyes all whites, his poor legs doudled under him, his flanks black and sticky with sweat and dirt. He was done for, all right. I took out my six-shooter and aimed right between his eyes. He kicked once, sort of leaped—or tried to, and then lay still. I stood there a minute, to see if he had to have another. He was so game that, some way, I didn't want to give him more than he needed.

"Then something made me turn around. The girl had mounted my mustang. She was off toward the creek section. Before I had moved ten paces she had reached the very piece I had marked in my mind for my own. She leaped from the horse, ripped off her skirt tied it to her riding whip that she still held tight in her hand, dug the whip butt into the soil of the prairie—planted her flag—and the land was hers by right of claim."

Yancey Cravat stopped talking. There was a moment of stricken silence. Sabra Cravat staring, staring at her husband with great round eyes. Lewis Venable, limp, yellow, tremulous. Felice Venable, upright and quivering. It was she who spoke first. And when she did she was every inch the thrifty descendant of French forbears; nothing of the southern belle about her.

"Yancey Cravat, do you mean that you let her have your quarter section on the creek that you had gone to the Indian territory for! That you had been gone a month for! That you had left your wife and child for! That—"

"Now, mamma!" You saw that all the Venable in Sabra was summoned to keep the tears from her eyes, and that thus denied they had crowded themselves into her trembling voice. "Now, mamma!"

"Don't you 'now mamma' me! What of the land that you were to have had! It was bad enough to think of your going to that wilderness, but to—" She paused. Her voice took on a new and more sinister note. "I don't believe a word of it." She whirled on Yancey, her black eyes blazing. "Why did you let that trollop in the black tights have that land?"

Yancey regarded this question with considerable judicial calm, but Felice, knowing him, might have been warned by the way his great head was lowered like that of a charging bull buffalo.

"If it had been a man I could have shot him. A good many had to, to keep the land they'd run fairly for. But you can't shoot a woman."

"Why not?" demanded the erstwhile southern belle, sharply.

The Venables, as one man, gave a little jump. A nervous sound, that was half gasp and half shocked titter, went round the Venable board. A startled "Felice!" was wrung from Lewis Venable. "Why, mamma!" cried Sabra.

Yancey Cravat, enormously vital, felt rising within him the tide of irritability which this vitiated family always stirred in him. Something now about their shocked and staring faces, their lolling and graceful forms, roused in him an unreasoning rebellion. He suddenly hated them. He wanted to be free of them. He wanted to be free of them—of Wichita—of convention—of smooth custom—of—no, not of her. He now smiled his brilliant, sweet smile which alone should have warned Felice Venable. But that intrepid matriarch was not one to let a tale go unpointed.

The federal postal department has issued an order against the use of envelopes which are smaller or larger than the standard sizes. Envelopes of a more uniform size facilitate handling the mail both at the postoffices and in the mail cars. The largest standard size envelope is four inches wide by nine inches long.

EASTER SATURDAY LUNCHEON BEGINS SOCIAL SERIES

When the pall of Lent is lifted on Easter Saturday there is everywhere a spirit of gayety and rejuvenation. So many hostesses select this day for the reinstatement of their social functions that carry on through the late spring until houses are closed and families are off to the country for the summer.

An Easter Saturday luncheon can be a very effective affair. The hostess with food imagination has an opportunity to give it a wide range of play. The soft pastel shades that are so fashionably combined this year can be emphasized in table linen, service and decoration. In this matter, however, your personal tastes may be your guide, but this menu may offer suggestions that will catalog you as a most original hostess.

Easter Saturday Luncheon

- Pineapple Canape
- Creamed Sweetbreads on Rosettes
- Buttered Peas
- Miniature Hot Cross Buns
- Calla Lily Butter Molds
- Curled Celery
- Radish Rose Buds
- Kumquat Salad

- Fragrant Hot Tea

Baking Powder Hot Cross Buns

- 2 cups flour
 - 4 tsp. baking powder
 - 1/2 tsp. salt
 - 4 tbsp. fat (half butter)
 - 3/4 cup milk
 - 3/8 cup water
 - 1 egg yolk or 1 egg
 - 1/3 tsp. cinnamon, or
 - Grated lemon rind
 - 1/4 cup currants
 - 1/4 cup raisins
- Mix and sift dry ingredients until light and well blended. If lemon rind

- Dash pepper
 - 2 tbsp. flour
 - 1 cup boiling water
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1 pair sweetbreads
 - Milk
 - Cracker crumbs
 - Salt and pepper
 - Butter
 - 1 can mushrooms (1 cup)
- Prepare a white sauce of first 6 ingredients. Parboil sweetbreads in boiling water to which 1 tbsp. vinegar has been added. Remove membrane and separate sections. Dip in undiluted milk and crumbs which have been seasoned with salt and pepper. Brown slowly in butter. Add mushrooms to white sauce. When heated through, serve with sweetbreads on rosettes. Yield: 6 servings.

Floral Easter Ice Box Cake

 - 2/3 cup milk

 - 1 tsp. vanilla
 - 2 1/2 dozen lady fingers, or an equal amount of sponge cake
 - 1/2 cup milk
 - 1/2 sq. bitter chocolate
 - 3 1/2 tbsp. sugar
 - 1/4 cup water
 - 6 flower blossoms, real or made from decorative icing
- Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sugar and milk together with well-beaten egg yolks. Cook slowly over boiling water until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Cool, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and vanilla. Line 6 individual molds (small custard cups or jelly glasses) with lady fingers. Add prepared, cooled filling, and let stand in ice box for 12 hours to set chocolate mixture. Just before serving, scald the 1/2 cup of milk in top of

is used in place of cinnamon, add it after sifting. Work in fat, using a fork, with a stirring motion; or cut it in with two knives, rapidly catching the balls of fat between the knife blades as you cut. Continue until fat is separated into balls as fine as cornmeal granules. Add currants and raisins and then stir in the combined liquids—milk, water and beaten egg. Mix lightly and as little as possible. Shape into balls about half the size of finished product. Place on an oiled baking pan. Bake in a hot oven (425° F.) until delicately browned. When buns are nearly done, brush with milk in the form of a cross and sprinkle with sugar. Return to oven for a few minutes. Yield: 15 buns.

Creamed Sweetbreads on Rosettes

- 1 1/2 tbsp. butter

double boiler. Cool, then chill in a bowl surrounded by chipped ice and salt. Whip until stiff. Melt chocolate over hot water, add sugar and blend well with chocolate. Add water and boil directly over flame, stirring continuously, until a thick sirup is formed. Cool thoroughly and fold into the whipped milk. Remove cakes from molds and put on paper doilies on chilled service plates. Spread chocolate whipped milk on top and insert a washed hyacinth or other spring flower. Yield: 6 edible Easter flower pots.

Marriage licenses were granted by County Clerk John E. Hantschel Thursday to Elwood R. Outland, Green Bay, and Alice Peterson, route 2, W. Depere; Michael Grawitch, Jr., Kaukauna, and Mary Buteleske, Menasha; and Harry Moeller, Black Creek and Marguerite Kronz, Black Creek.

Junk Ordinance Passed By Common Council

yard, but Thompson insisted that the ordinance should be specific.

A copy of the new proposed labor ordinance is to be given to each alderman at the next council meeting, before that ordinance is presented for passage and publication. The ordinance provides for the employment of local labor on public works contracts, an eight hour day, and a minimum wage scale of 50 cents an hour.

The matter of salary for bridge tenders, which has been set at $70 a month, was referred to the street and bridge committee upon motion of Alderman Wassenberg. He urged that these workmen be classified as is other city labor and paid accordingly.

The application for use of land on College avenue near the Hassmann-Ferron store for a popcorn wagon was returned to the board of public works for a more definite report and proposed rental fee.

The board of public works report, which was adopted except for the bridge tender and popcorn stand items, included recommendation for use of old concrete ornamental posts for park purposes, purchase of tires, connection of the Triangle school with the city sewerage system for $100 a year; raising of sidewalk near Marshall Paper company, on Richmond street; connection of sewer to ravine on Catherine street; and purchase of manhole covers.

The report of the rebate committee was adopted.

Temporary licenses were granted to the Interstate Transit company, owned by the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company, and the Northland Greyhound bus line, a subsidiary of the Great Northern railway. Representatives of both lines appeared before the council and explained that they proposed to operate routes from Minneapolis to Chicago. The matter was referred to the license committee. The Northland Greyhound company has already commenced operation, and the Interstate Transit company expects to begin about April 15.

A communication concerning cleaning the exterior of the city hall was referred to the grounds and buildings committee; the park board was instructed to negotiate with owners of Telulah park for the acquisition of that land for park purposes; an offer of a Kimberly resident to provide a dumping ground for citizens of Appleton was referred to the street and bridge committee; class A permit was granted to Fred Calmes 730 E. Wisconsin avenue; garbage collectors license was granted to John Calmes; appointment of chairmen of the Citizens Committee on Employment were approved; a report was received to the effect that Mrs. Miller, who owns a parcel of land the city desired for parking purposes, has declined to sell her property; and the sale of the Horn property near the Wisconsin avenue viaduct was referred to the board of public works with power to act.

The council will hold an adjourned meeting on April 8.

In accordance with action taken by many business establishments throughout the Fox river valley, several Appleton merchants closed their doors from 12 to 3 o'clock today in deference to Good Friday.

Appleton Teams Among the Elk Tourney Leaders

Four Appleton bowling teams went into action in the Elks state tournament Wednesday evening and knocked over so many pins that when the smoke of battle had cleared away these quintets had accomplished a great deal in changing the looks of the list of leaders in the state meet. The Cub squad of the Elks National league did some remarkable maple smashing, and now hold second place with a score of 2851. They are topped only by the Menasha Elks who still lead the field with a count of 2915.

The Tigers of the Elks American league finished not very far behind the Cubs and are in third place with 2829. The Appleton Shamrocks hold seventh place with a score of 2722 and the Pirates of the Elks National league hold the tenth position with 2687. The Electric City squad of Kaukauna also did some accurate pin shooting and now hold sixth position. Score—2722.

Knowing Our Children Better

By

Edith D. Dixon

A Chance To Choose

"When I bring my 6-year-old boy home from sled or wagon coasting he suddenly finds he cannot pull the sled or wagon on the homeward stretch, yet if I had not interrupted his play he would have continued for hours," writes a father. "The boy also realizes his feet are cold, and tired of walking. Why should a child as healthy as mine act this way?"

Have you had the experience of becoming absorbed in something interesting and not realizing how tired you were until you stopped?

Coasting is fun but pulling the sled is work. Of course the child wants help if he can get it, for as he begins to realize how tired he is, he becomes increasingly conscious of all his aches and pains.

One way to get around this situation would be to anticipate the difficulty. The next time he went coasting you could say, "Since you got so tired yesterday that you couldn't pull your sled home, perhaps it would be best for you to come in a half hour earlier today."

Then when he refuses you can say, "All right, but I shall expect you to pull your sled and come home without complaining." He sees the reasonableness of such a statement and, having made his choice, it is up to him to abide by it. He begins to realize that with every privilege goes certain obligations and that one cannot expect to benefit unless one is willing to pay the price.

To scold him for complaining is only to hold the fault before him and encourage him to play for the attention that he most desires. A statement of fact which puts him on his own responsibility brings a healthier response and makes him more self-reliant.

Recent Deaths

Thomas Clancey

Thomas Clancey, 66 years old, died Thursday morning, after having been ill since last September. He formerly made his home at 302 S. State street. A sister and a brother, both of New York, survive. The body was taken to the Schommer Funeral home. Funeral services will be held at the funeral home at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, with a prayer service at St. Mary church at 10:30 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Mary cemetery.

SCHOMMER FUNERAL HOME

Distinctive Funeral Service

210 W. WASHINGTON ST.

Prayers will be said at the funeral home at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening.

Mrs. Lydia Gorges

Mrs. Lydia Gorges, 71, widow of the late Albert Gorges, died at her home, 900 N. Superior street, Friday morning. She had been ill three weeks. A son, Harvey, is the only survivor.

Mrs. Anna Maier

Mrs. Anna Maier, 75, died Thursday afternoon at her home, 709 W. Lorain street, after a week's illness. She was a member of the Christian Mothers and Third Order of St. Francis of St. Joseph church. Survivors are one daughter, Mrs. Michael Kerrigan, Appleton, and one son, Richard Loessel, Milwaukee. A brother, Charles Goessel, Sheboygan, eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild also survive. The body was taken to the Wichmann Funeral home where it may be viewed from Saturday afternoon to the time of the funeral. Prayer service will be held at the funeral home at 7:30 Saturday and Sunday evenings. Funeral services will be held at the Wichmann Funeral home at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning and at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph church. Burial will be in St. Joseph cemetery.

Items of Interest

Perhaps but few of Appleton's voters will have to be sworn in at the polls next Tuesday, in the belief of the city clerk, who Thursday stated that as far as he could ascertain, there were comparatively few persons who through failure to vote in the last two years, failed to register. Poll lists are checked every two years. Stenographers are preparing the poll lists now for the regular election next Tuesday.

Application for absent voters' ballots may be made at the city clerk's office until Saturday noon. The ballots may be cast at the city clerk's office on Monday.

The fire department was called to a residence at 1824 W. Spencer street at 7:45 o'clock this morning where sparks from a chimney had ignited the roof. No serious damage was done.

Miss Jennie VanWyk, 1115 N. Morrison street, sustained an injured shoulder Wednesday afternoon when the car she was driving collided with a car driven by Alex Bernard, 718 W. Wisconsin avenue. The injured woman was taken to a doctor's office in the police car. The VanWyk car was tipped over on its side and badly damaged. The front end of Bernard's car was also damaged.

Campus Comment

By Russell Davis

By the time that the customers read this students of Lawrence college will be at their respective homes. The Spring vacation will last until Wednesday morning at eight o'clock. After this brief recess the school year will enter the home stretch with all students constantly between the two fires, i. e. studies and the fine spring weather.

The Appleton high school band under the direction of E. C. Moore presented a fine program in chapel Wednesday. The numbers were enthusiastically received by the college audience and it is the hope of the school that the organization can present another program before the year is at an end.

The boxing and wrestling championships were run off this week at the gym. A lot of good talent showed on the respective cards and as a result the campus resounded with creaking bones throughout the week.

Members of the Lawrence debate team, which is touring in the east, seem to be enjoying themselves if their letters and cards back home may be taken as any criterion. It is reported that Marcus Plant, the spellbinder from New London, wanted to interview Herbert Hoover on the subject of Amos and Andy.

Ben Rafoth, the beanpole local lad who was a varsity basketball mainstay during the last campaign, celebrated his return to the court last Sunday in Milwaukee by caging nineteen field goals and five free throws for a total of forty-three points. Ben played with the local St. Paul Lutheran team against the ranking Lutheran squad of the Cream city. Gib St. Mitchell potted six field goals as his share in the afternoon's entertainment.

April Fool's day found a warm welcome in one of the fraternity houses where all of the clocks were set an hour ahead of the regular schedule. Several of the Greeks left for their eight o'clock at seven in the morning.

During the big snow of the last week several of the more hardy on the campus used skis to make their way to classes.

The Rockford, Illinois, high swimming team defeated a team composed of Lawrence and local high school students last Friday. The Rockford team is one of the finest high school squads in this part of the country and it demonstrated its superiority over its older rivals in all but one event. Delta Iota fraternity entertained the Rabs during their visit in the city.

Harvey Burmeister, Cicero, was to appear for trial in the upper branch of the municipal court today on a charge of lewd and lascivious conduct. Burmeister had a preliminary hearing several weeks ago and has been at liberty under bond.

City Now Has $106,000 More Than a Year Ago

The city of Appleton has $106,058.39 more in the general fund on March 31, 1931, than it had on the same date in 1930, Mayor John Goodland reported to the common council Wednesday evening. This year the general fund shows a balance of $124,062.18 compared to $18,003.79 a year ago. The balance in the general fund on January 1, 1931, was $56,020.43, while on January 1, 1930, there was no balance. A year ago, when Mayor Goodland took over the reins of his office, the city had to borrow $15,000 for current expenses, and by July 1, of 1930, the loans had reached the $90,000 mark. Mayor Goodland stated that if the economy program is continued, and if departments stay within their budgets, it will probably not be necessary to borrow any money before July. At that time, under present plans of operation, and barring unforeseen problems, loans to carry on the city business will be less than one-half of what they were the preceding year. At the present time the city has no debts outside of current expenses.

M. M. Bacon Named Head of Game Association

M. M. Bacon was elected president of the Outagamie County Fish and Game association at a meeting of the special committee empowered to select officers, at the Actual Business college Tuesday night. Alfred Bradford was chosen vice president, and Douglas Kaufman, secretary and treasurer. George Egan and T. W. Lindstrom of Kaukauna; Steve Otis and Arthur Colar of Hortonville; and R. J. Meyer and H. L. Bowlby of Appleton, were named members of the board of directors.

The association has gone on record as willing to cooperate with the Izaak Walton league, though it desires not to consolidate with this group. The Walton league is a national organization, while the Outagamie County Fish and Game association confines its activities to the county. Bass propagation and pheasant planting will be two of the projects the association has decided on for this season.

Legionnaires Asked to Bring Sons to Post Meeting

"Son's night" will be observed by Oney Johnston post of the American Legion at its monthly meeting at 8 o'clock Monday evening at Elk hall. Each member is to bring his own son or borrow some other for the occasion. Boy Scouts of troop No. 4, sponsored by the Legion, will be guests and will put on a part of the entertainment. The high school band also will furnish a concert.

Arrangements will be made to conduct the sale here during April of the "Stamp out Crime" seals, a statewide project of the Legion to raise funds to finance research and a revision of crime legislation so as to combat the orgy of banditry and murder in Wisconsin. This matter and other business received consideration at a meeting of the executive committee at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening.

Peter Goerl was made chairman of the committee handling the sale of seals. A committee consisting of W. H. Miller, Marshall C. Graff and M. G. Clark was appointed to organize junior baseball teams. A tentative committee list also was made up for the Independence day celebration contemplated by the post. Another committee was appointed consisting of Carl McKee, Commander Fred Heinritz and H. H. Helble to investigate an offer of a concert here by a tenor soloist. Memorial day plans also were up for discussion and will be brought before the post for consideration.

Hold Public Hearing on New Labor Ordinance

Fifty laborers, contractors, and city officials attended the public hearing on the proposed labor ordinance at the city hall Tuesday evening. Both the eight hour day and the fifty cents an hour minimum wage elicited objections. There was also criticism of the section stipulating that only persons who had lived within the city limits for a six months period be employed on public work. The fifty cents per hour rate was said to be over the normal rate for unskilled labor. The eight hour day was declared to be a hindrance on certain classes of seasonal work. Advocates of the ordinance declared that working men are entitled to a living wage and that fifty cents an hour is not too high. Labor legislation everywhere tends toward an 8 hour day, they claimed, and that this specification in the ordinance was a forward step. This group also objected to hiring outside labor when there are unemployed local men. F. E. Bachman, president of the Trades and Labor council; Carl Smith, president of the Carpenters' Union; Adolph Guyer, William Campshure, Samuel Sigman, Frank Young, Chris Mullen, Charles D. Thompson, Paul Hoffman, and J. W. Nerhood talked on the ordinance. C. J. Wassenberg presided in the absence of Philip Vogt, chairman of the ordinance committee, who was ill.
