REGISTRATION for the 1934 summer session already tops that of last year by more than four hundred students. All indications point to a total of between 3,500 and 3,600 students for the six weeks' and nine weeks' courses. . . . The Memorial Union has just placed more than one hundred additional chairs and about twenty-five additional tables on the terrace in the rear of the building. A doorway has been opened leading from the cafeteria to the terrace, enabling patrons to take their trays directly to the shady spots on the cool lakeshore. . . . Theta Delta Chi, one of the oldest fraternities on the Campus, has given up its house and will probably turn in its charter. From the looks of things several more houses will do the same thing before the start of next semester. . . . Jimmy Watrous, '32, is now working on the first murals of Paul Bunyan's legendary deeds ever to be made in the world. They will be hung in the Paul Bunyan room of the Union when completed. This is one of several P. W. A. projects for Campus artists which are now being pushed to completion. . . . The engineers refused to call a halt to their traditional rivalry with the lawyers at the commencement exercises this year. Although the lawyers gave a skyrocket for the engineers as the graduates of that college arose to receive their degrees, the engineers refused to call the lawyers by their proper title when it came their turn and gave a lusty skyrocket for the "shysters." Just good, clean fun. . . . Be sure and visit the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation's booth in the Hall of Science at the Century of Progress exposition if and when you attend this summer. . . . The annual summer session prom, the most important event of the summer social season, will be held in the Memorial Union on July 27. Each of the women's organizations on the Campus will select one of their members to take part in the race for the queen's position. Of these, ten will be selected as finalists and from this group the queen will be selected. She, in turn, will choose her "king." . . . Most fraternity houses are giving loud huzzas this summer as they are doing a better business than last year, when pickings were pretty slim for those houses that stayed open. . . . Just a word about your football ticket applications. Don't forget that these must be in the University ticket office on or before September 1 in order to receive preference. Don't send in your application with someone who has not a preference blank. If you do, neither

PROF. CHARLES D. COOL
Toastmaster at Alumni Banquet

MYRON T. HARSHAW, '12, was unanimously elected president of the Alumni Association for the coming year at the meeting of the Board of Directors on June 16, Alumni Day. Mr. Harshaw served as vice-president of the Association during the past year. He has long maintained his interest in the University and the Association through his work with the Chicago Alumni club of which he served as president at one time. He is associated with the Carroll Dean Murphy advertising agency of Chicago.

Walter Alexander, '97, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Union Refrigerator Transit company of Milwaukee and a member of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association since 1924, was elected vice-president. Mr. Alexander is also one of the alumni representatives on the Athletic Board. Basil I. Peterson, '12, was elected treasurer for the coming year.

At the morning meeting of the Association, results of the recent election of directors were made known. Lewis L. Alsted, '96, Appleton; Jesse E. Higbee, '05, La Crosse; Mrs. Henrietta Wood Kessenich, '16, Minneapolis; William S. Kies, '99, New York City; Marc A. Law, '12, Chicago; Roger C. Minahan, '32, Green Bay; Basil I. Peterson, '12, Menominee Falls; William E. Ross, '17, Chicago; Al T. Sands, '14, Eau Claire; Christian Steinmetz, '06, Milwaukee, were declared duly elected. Guy Sundt, '22, William Purnell, '22, and Miss Alice V. King, '18, acted as tellers in the counting of votes. This is the first time this system of mail voting was in force and more than seven hundred members of the association cast their votes for their favorite candidates.

Herman M. Egstad, general secretary of the Association, presented his annual report at the general meeting in the morning. The complete text of this report will be found on page 288.

Led by Burr W. Jones of the Class of 1870, approximately one thousand alumni, relatives and friends returned to the Campus to participate in the annual reunion week-end on June 15, 16, 17 and 18.

The reuners started registering at the Association headquarters as early as Wednesday morning when F. W. Lawrence, '06, of Detroit, came in to be the first to sign the reunion register. Albert S. Ritchie, '76, once again maintained his long record of attending class reunions. Mr. Ritchie has earned the nickname, "The Spirit of '76," because of his constant loyalty to the University and his unbounded enthusiasm at each succeeding reunion. Practically every graduating class from 1880 to the present was represented at the various occasions of the week-end, with the class of 1899 leading the rest by a slim margin.

Each of the classes had its own idea of what a reunion should be and alumni will find it interesting to glance at the stories of the activities of the individual classes found on page 292.

Too much praise cannot be heaped upon the broad shoulders of George I. Haight, '99, for the part he took in making the 1934 reunions a notable success. Not only did Mr. Haight furnish his own classmates with a series of startling surprises, but he brought some of these surprises with him to the banquet hall on Saturday night. The first treat on the program was the presence of Miss Coe Glade, famous contralto of the Chicago Civic Opera. Miss Glade was most generous with her beautiful songs, singing six before the enthusiastic audience permitted her to return to her place at the '99 table. The second surprise of the evening was the presence of the Norsemen quartet of Columbia Broadcasting company fame, also a contribution of the ever-generous Mr. Haight. This group of splendid singers, all graduates of the University of Minnesota—what irony—were equally well received and favored their listeners with many encores. Many thanks to you, George Haight, for a most enjoyable evening.

Professor Charles D. Cool, famous for his spontaneous and delightful wit, acted as toastmaster for the banquet and

Alumni Association

General Secretary

THE ASSOCIATION has not appreciably restricted its services during the present year, neither has it undertaken any new projects requiring additional expenditures. Because of the depressed business conditions which continue to prevail, we anticipated, in common with other organizations dependent upon voluntary dues of members, a possible decline in income from such sources. In spite of this we have planned several new projects which will be put into operation as soon as the time is opportune to do so. I will refer to them later in this report.

BUDGET

The budget adopted by the Board of Directors last fall was conservative and also provided that revisions when necessary should be made in order that expenditures be kept within income. Substantial reductions were effected in such items as printing costs, postage, mailing charges and office expense. Salary charges were fixed to conform with the reductions made in the University salary schedule. But our total reductions were greater due to the fact that we put in a reduction last year of 20 per cent over the year before and 33 per cent over 1929.

MAGAZINE

The Magazine absorbed no reduction except that resulting from lower prices for printing. We felt that as the one tangible evidence of membership received by every member it should be the last item to be cut. Therefore, while some associations have found it necessary to drastically curtail their publications we have continued to maintain at least as high a standard as before. That this is true is borne out I think by a survey of alumni publications made to the last convention of the American Alumni Council and in which the following comment appeared concerning our magazine:

"Fortunate Badgers! Are there any who do not subscribe? Mostly about Wisconsin, but occasional articles on education, music, journalism, economics, law and science. Excellent treatment of University life. Fine monthly calendar. Editorials are good commentaries. Alumni briefs a good feature. Sketches of noted alumni well done. Class items not numerous but newsy. Excellent illustrations, magnificent covers."

In connection with our Magazine, I should like to point out also that our advertising revenue might have been increased by a very substantial amount had we accepted liquor advertising. When this question came before the Board of Directors it was decided (and by a very close vote) that for the present at least it might be better not to accept it. In a further effort to ascertain alumni sentiment we selected from our files every hundredth name and mailed to each a questionnaire. The replies favored rejection. Since this advertising has been available, however, the number of associations accepting it has steadily increased, and it is now carried by Harvard, Princeton, New York, Notre Dame, Pennsylvania, Oregon, Washington, Yale, California, Columbia, Cornell, Case, Barnard, Boston, Cincinnati, St. Louis, and others.

Because the volume of this advertising available seems to be increasing, and objection to it seemingly diminishing as evidenced by an increasing number of magazines accepting it, and also because, due to the N. R. A., costs for paper and printing may be higher next year, it may well be that the matter should be given further consideration at this time.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

The problem of public relations is one to which the Association has devoted considerable thought this year. Misunderstanding and false impressions concerning the University exist in some sections of the state. Part of this is due to wilful misrepresentation and part is due to the publicized activities of small and unrepresentative groups in the University community. The result has been controversy and press comment to an extent far out of proportion to the matter's true significance and importance. Such publicity has, however, influenced to an extent public opinion. This situation together with vigorous recruiting campaigns of competing institutions (both in state and out of state) has resulted in the loss of large numbers of desirable high school graduates. The situation is further aggravated by the fact that the University has no scholarships available to freshmen and can offer no awards which are effective in inclining students to enter here.

The matter was first discussed by the Directors at a meeting in June of last year and later taken up with President Frank. In October, Mr. Vits was authorized to appoint a committee to work out a suitable plan and it was stipulated that such plan should include participation by the University.

Mr. Vits appointed as members of this special committee, to be known as the "Committee on State-University Relations," Mr. Alsted of Appleton, Chairman; Dr. James P. Dean of Madison; Mrs. George Lines of Milwaukee; and Mr. Howard T. Greene of Genesee Depot.

This committee, after a series of meetings and consideration of the problem from all angles, presented its first report to the Board of Directors on January 31st. It was, after a full discussion, unanimously adopted.

The report calls attention to the fact that the Alumni Association to a degree represents the viewpoint of the citizens and taxpayers, that as a supporting body to the University its importance in the past has been under-estimated, and that the University in its larger relationship to the state, needs a closer bond to the people of Wisconsin than just the efforts made by the University itself.

The committee is strongly of the opinion that to bring about this better relationship it is essential that our alumni and the citizens of our state be brought into closer contact with the University and its work.

As a first step in achieving this objective, it is proposed that the Laws of the Regents creating the Board of Visitors be changed. The amendment proposed would not alter the size of the Board or its duties and powers but would increase the Alumni Association representation from four to eight and decrease the respective representation of the Governor and Regents from four to two. Such revision will place upon the Alumni Association the responsibility for the reports and recommendations of such board. Such reports are, of course, advisory and made to the Board of Regents. It should be pointed out furthermore that the question involved is primarily one of responsibility rather than control. At the present time there are on the Board of Visitors in addition to the four members directly appointed by the Association four additional members of the Association, two of whom are former Association officers.

MRS. CARL JOHNSON
On Board of Visitors

It is the opinion of the Directors that delegation of this responsibility to the Association will give opportunity for the organization of alumni along broader lines than at present. First, all members would under this plan participate in nominating and electing the alumni members of the Board. Second, every section of the state would be represented and such representation would be chosen from persons willing to assume a real responsibility for the work and thereby bring about a better informed and more active alumni organization for the support of the University. Thirdly, there will be provided the University a means for more readily and accurately obtaining the views of alumni, citizens and taxpayers. It is for these reasons that the Directors feel if the change is made, the Association can produce a closer bond between the University and the people of Wisconsin.

The University can lose nothing by giving its whole-hearted co-operation to this experiment. If it should not accomplish what we hope it will or if it should prove unsatisfactory in any respect, the Regents may terminate it at any time. It seems obvious, however, that whether this plan or some other is adopted one thing at least is essential. There must be the fullest co-operation between the University and the alumni if the desired results are to be obtained and a co-ordinated and effective program carried on.

The proposed change in the Board of Visitors is but one step in the committee's program, however. An intensive effort to organize our alumni within the state is another and most important step. The groundwork will be laid this summer so that a full schedule of meetings may be begun early in the fall. This phase of the program will be worked out and carried on by our committee and the Public Relations Committee of the faculty working together. The plan as it has thus far developed is as follows:

The objectives in general are:

1. To develop a healthy attitude toward the University and its program on the part of the people of the state.
2. To develop a realization that the educational program of the state is a continuous and natural process from the kindergarten through the University.
3. To develop a program of active co-operation between the secondary schools of the state and the University.
4. To encourage high school graduates to attend the University.

As a first step in attaining these objectives it is proposed:

1. To conduct a series of "University Days" in all sections of the state.
2. To arrange visitations at the University by various professional and other organized groups.

LEWIS L. ALSTED
Heads Relations Committee

In order that the program may be gotten under way with the opening of the University in the fall, the preliminary work will be done by the Association during the summer. The Secretary will visit each of the communities in which it is expected to hold such "University Days" and create the necessary organization. The plan is to select in such cities an advisory committee, the chairman of which shall act in the capacity of a counsellor in his community. It is expected that such committees will be permanent; that they will assume the responsibility of maintaining contact with alumni, sponsor necessary meetings, assist in presenting the University to prospective students and aid in the dissemination of authentic publicity regarding the University.

The administrative details involved in carrying on the whole program are to be left to the chairman of the Public Relations Committee of the University and the Secretary of the Alumni Association.

It should be pointed out that this is expected to be a continuing program to be carried on each year. It is a most necessary one and merits the support of every alumnus.

MOTION PICTURES

In this connection and to bring more vividly to the alumni the work of the University, we are beginning another series of motion picture films. They will be in the form of current news reels. Interesting developments in the various fields of University work as well as campus events will be depicted. We believe that these pictures will prove even more popular and instructive than those made previously and which are still in demand. Among the groups that have seen our first picture, "On to Wisconsin," are those at Philadelphia, Denver, Seattle, Cleveland, Grand Forks, Syracuse, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Indianapolis, Spokane, New York, LaFayette, Akron, Eau Claire, Beaver Dam, Marshfield, and others. The response to the film exceeded our expectations, all groups commenting on its interest and excellence of photography and stressing its publicity value to the University. We feel, therefore, that further work in this field is desirable. The new reels like the others will be available without cost to alumni and other groups who may wish to use them. The first reel should be ready by early fall.

CRITICISMS

At the suggestion of the Board of Directors I am going to refer briefly to the criticisms recently made of the Association and the medium for such criticisms. They center around the student newspaper and began several years ago when Judge Evans, then president of the Association, expressed to the Regents the opinion that certain articles published in the paper were bringing unfavorable comment upon the University as evidenced by letters from alumni and editorial comment in newspapers of the state.

The Association has been charged by various student writers with attempting to impose a censorship upon the Cardinal. This is not the case. In fact, when the suggestion that a censor be appointed came before the Board of Directors of the Association, at the meeting of June 18, 1932, the Directors resolutely refused to approve the suggestion. They asked simply that the University authorities keep the columns of the Cardinal "within the bounds of good taste, common decency, and loyalty to our University." How this is to be accomplished, the Directors declared, is a problem to be solved by the administrative officers of the University. The Directors were wise enough not to assume responsibility for administrative details.

The Association has been charged by certain student politicians with having failed to function satisfactorily. Attempts have been made to reduce the vague charges to the status of constructive suggestions but with no tangible results. Not a single constructive suggestion has evolved out of all the discussion. The suggestions do not have behind them an evident desire to assist the University through the organized alumni. This is regretted, for the Directors of the Association are sincerely desirous of having suggestions that can be put into effect.

It is to be emphasized that no quarrel exists between the student body and the Association. No student group has sought the co-operation of the Association but what has received it. To this there is not a single exception. As evidence of this the Association has received many letters of appreciation from student leaders.

ALUMNI SERVICE

The Alumni Association can well be proud of the service it has rendered to the University and its student body. Members of this Association contributed to the construction of this Memorial Union Building several hundred thousand dollars; the members of the present Board of Directors and their families subscribed more than $7,000.00. Only recently under the leadership of Judge Evans the Association raised an emergency loan fund from which more than $9,000 has been loaned to needy and worthy students. To this fund the Association itself contributed $2,000 and paid all expenses incident to raising of the balance. It is significant that practically the entire amount was subscribed by members of this Association although every alumnus was invited to share in this worthy undertaking.

To date 258 students have shared in this fund; 214 men and 44 women. Of this number, 184 were from Wisconsin and 74 from without the state. The average out of state loan was $62.00; the average state loan, $28.00.

In addition the Association has from time to time given financial aid to various student and University projects. When our crew made its last trip to Poughkeepsie and lacked a suitable shell with which to enter this race, a new $1,400 shell was provided by members of this Association, and a member of the present Board contributed more than half the necessary amount. When our band was invited to play at the Century of Progress last year it was enabled to go because our alumni in Chicago agreed to house them and did so in one of the city's fine clubs. Several years ago the University authorities, wishing to give recognition to students winning scholastic honors and lacking the funds necessary, asked the Association for aid. The Association has made possible the presentation of such awards each year since that time.

Last year the Association received a request for financial aid from the Badger and a contribution was made. This year, in addition to a contribution, the Board of Directors voted to buy fifty copies of the year book which will be distributed to various high schools in the state with the compliments of the Association.

Through the Records Bureau, the Association has rendered special services to twenty-five University departments and organizations during the year. Two hundred and eighty-five hours were spent on this work and it involved more than 100,000 items. The cost to the University of maintaining this bureau has been reduced, since its transfer to the Association in 1930, from $13,290.15 to $5,127.00, the cost for the present year, or approximately 61 per cent.

Other examples might be cited showing alumni co-operation and the readiness of the Association to aid the University and its students in every possible way.

It may be of interest in this connection also that a recent compilation by the Secretary of the Board of Regents shows that alumni have contributed to their University more than $3,980,000.

FUNCTIONS

Any discussion as to whether an organization of alumni such as ours is carrying out its function must necessarily revolve around the question, "What is the aim and purpose of an alumni association?"

The purpose of our Association as stated in its constitution is "to promote the welfare of the University and to interest the alumni in the University and in each other." The Board of Directors by unanimous agreement re-affirms its interpretation of this purpose as follows:

1. It is the function of the Association to foster a public opinion favorable to the University to the end that it shall receive the support necessary for its development.
2. It is the function of the Association to actively interest itself in matters of legislation affecting the University when in the judgment of the University authorities such procedure is advisable.
3. It is the function of the Association to bring to the attention of the University authorities any criticisms from alumni or other sources which may

APPROXIMATELY twelve hundred seniors and three hundred graduate students marched across the flower laden platform in the men's field house to receive their respective diplomas on June 18 at the 81st annual Commencement exercises while approximately 5,000 parents, friends and alumni applauded. There were 1,120 who received bachelor degrees, 175 who received master degrees and 144 who were granted the coveted doctor degrees.

In addition to these students, six outstanding national figures were awarded honorary doctor degrees. In this group was John L. Savage, '03, chief designing engineer of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation, who received a Doctor of Science degree. Karl Young, who was professor of English at Wisconsin from 1908 to 1923 and who is now professor of English at Yale university, was granted an honorary Doctor of Letters degree. Others who were awarded honorary degrees were John Alden Carpenter, composer, Doctor of Music; Robert Barber Goodman, lumberman, Doctor of Laws; Albert Russell Mann, provost of Cornell University, Doctor of Laws; and Karl Taylor Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Doctor of Laws.

The Right Reverend Benjamin F. P. Ivins, M. A. '18, Bishop of Milwaukee, opened the ceremonies with a beautiful invocation and gave a benediction at the close. Governor Albert G. Schmedeman and President Glenn Frank gave brief charges to the graduates before the diplomas were handed out. James Delmar Karlen, president of the Class of 1934, presented the University with the Senior Class memorial, a check for $1,000 which is to be added to the student loan fund to help needy seniors.

Announcement was also made at the exercises of eight prizes which have been awarded to outstanding seniors. Frank J. Donner was awarded the Jubilee Gold medal for the best baccalaureate thesis in the Division of the Social Sciences. The John Lendrum Mitchell Memorial gold medal for the best undergraduate thesis in industrial relations was won by Wilbur Cohen. The William Jennings Bryan prize for the best essay on the science of government was awarded to Mary C. Trackett. Stella Whitefield was named the winner of the Edna Kerngood Glicksman prize, awarded each year to a member of the senior class in recognition of intellectual attainments, high womanhood, and service to the college community. The Theodore Herfurth Efficiency prize for the senior man who excels in efficiency and initiative was won by Benjamin Franklin Lounsbury. Willard W. Blaesser was awarded the Kenneth Sterling Day Memorial prize, awarded to a senior man on the basis of moral character, scholastic attainment and participation in Campus activities. Robert Schiller was named the winner of the Western Intercollegiate Conference medal for athletic prowess and scholastic attainment. The Salmon W. Dalberg scholarship prize for high scholarship in the law school was granted to Ernest R. Feidler.

Revision of democracy that it may function more effectively in these "dishevelled hours of transition from old to new circumstances of American life and enterprise" is the problem facing the present and coming generation, President Glenn Frank advised the graduates at the baccalaureate services on Sunday, June 17.

With thousands of parents, relatives and friends of the graduates in attendance, President Frank outlined for the young men and women who were closing their university careers four fundamental questions the answers to which will determine the destiny of the American people, he said. The sermon was broadcast over a nation-wide radio hook-up to all parts of the country.

These four questions are: Are we to strengthen democracy or surrender to dictatorship? Are we to pursue our enterprise in freedom or under regimentation? Are we to establish control of this age of plenty or execute a return to an age of scarcity? Are we to walk the ways of a realistic internationalism or go in for the economic monasticism of the nationalists?

The class of 1876 was entertained at luncheon by Mr. A. S. Ritchie of Omaha, on Alumni Day at the Memorial Union.

There were present of those graduated in 1876 besides Mr. Ritchie, Mrs. Nellie Williams Brown, and Mrs. Mary Oertel Atwood. Associate members present were Mrs. Jessie Turville Thwaites, and Mrs. Mary Clark Hoyt.

Mr. Ritchie also had as guests, Mrs. O. D. Brandenburg, Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Smith, Mr. C. E. Buell, and Mr. George McConnell.

Golden Jubilee Class of '84

Some fifteen members of the Class of '84 returned for the 50th reunion. The members with wives were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moseley at a delightful luncheon on Alumni Day. On Sunday at an early hour the class went by auto to Nisse Dahle for a picnic luncheon, returning in time for the Baccalaureate Address. The Class felt much honored at the Alumni Dinner, when President-Emeritus Birge said that no class at the University had given three greater men to the world than the Class of '84—Dr. Turner, preeminent scholar of American History, an International authority; Dr. Albert J. Ochsner, a surgeon of renown, both here and abroad; and Judge Aad J. Vinje, Supreme Justice of Wisconsin, an able and distinguished jurist.

The returning class attended together the Baccalaureate address and the Commencement exercises.

The Reunion of 1889

With a membership of seventy-two, excluding law and pharmacy, '89 was the largest class graduated, up to that date. Large enough to have great diversity of interests, small enough for friendly acquaintanceship. From the very beginning '89 has been a decidedly intimate and select group. Every five years, with one Dix-plan extra, 1889 has had a successful reunion. The forty-fifth, just held, was no exception. That sixteen members should have returned at the end of this time indicates the good time always had by those attending.

Luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Hanks, on the shores of Lake Mendota, brought Claire Bird from Wausau; Lena Hoffman Conway from Watertown; Erik Eriksen, Chicago; Sophie Goodwin, Madison; Dr. Cornelius Harper, Madison; Louis M. Hanks, Madison; E. B. Hutchinson, Chicago; Justice Chester Fowler of the Supreme Court; F. G. Kraege, Madison; E. B. Lawton, De Pere; E. C. Meland, De Forest; Fannie McIlhon, Chicago; Edgar Nethercut, Chicago; Annie Nunns, Madison; Adolph Rietbrock, Milwaukee; and John Stevens, Appleton. The invitation to the luncheon permitted "one husband and one wife each," and with this as a limit twenty-five people sat down to tables spread on the porch, overlooking the lake.

All reuning classes, past, present and future could learn how to hold successful reunions if they were permitted to attend one of the grand affairs held by '89.

'89 has always held bigger and better reunions, and the class is looking forward to the 50th, with promises from several members to attend, even though they have failed to appear at earlier ones.

The Great '99 Reunion

The class of '99 met at breakfast at the Hotel Loraine on Friday, June 15th. They had as their guests, members of the Faculty of their time. Those who were able to attend were:

Dr. E. A. Birge and Miss Birge
Dr. and Mrs. James C. Elsom
Dr. and Mrs. Harry L. Russell
Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Skinner
Dean and Mrs. Charles S. Slichter
Dean Turneure
Miss Lucy Gay
Dr. and Mrs. Fred T. Kelly
Professor and Mrs. F. C. Sharp
Dr. and Mrs. Edward Farrington and Professor and Mrs. Julius Olson.

The Loraine Hotel did itself proud in the beautiful table arranged in a hollow square in the Banquet Hall. The center was decorated with low-lying ferns and palms.

The meal included, among its viands, brook trout from Colorado. The breakfasters were most pleasantly regaled with songs sung by Miss Coe Glade, contralto of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, and by the widely-known Norsemen quartet of Chicago. There were one hundred and thirty-eight at table. The members of the Class who attended the Reunion were:

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Allen, Miss Helen G. Andrews, Jay B. Baldwin, Walter S. Cate, Front Row: W. H. Miner, E. F. Wilson, Dr. W. R. Boorman, Mrs. W. R. Boorman, Mrs. M. D. Peterson, Mrs. Alice Lamb Updegraf, H. L. Moseley.

Back Row: Margaret Shelton, Mrs. Reddington, Mrs. McClelland Dodge, McClelland Dodge, Mrs. Miner, M. N. Parkinson, Mrs. C. J. Hicks, C. J. Hicks.

Mrs. Arthur W. Chapman, Wilfred E. Chase, Frederick H. Clausen, Miss Mathilde V. Cook, Dr. William S. Darling, Rollin H. Denniston, William Dietrich, Mrs. Joseph P. Donovan, Miss Mary Dopp, Clarence B. Edwards, Alva Eighmy, Emerson Ela, Mrs. Paul C. Foster, Charles E. Gabel, Dr. Frederick J. Gaenslen, George I. Haight, Mrs. Thos. H. Hill, Miss Zoe L. Gray, John A. Hagemann, Carl Hambuechen, Miss Estelle M. Hayden, Warren G. Jones, Carl A. Keller, William S. Kies, William H. Kreis, Frank H. Kurtz, Mrs. C. W. Lockhart, Vroman Mason, Thomas G. Nee, Louis W. Olson, Martin C. Olson, Arthur V. Scheiber, James D. Shaw, Joseph L. Shaw, Mrs. Horace E. Stedman, Miss Alma Stock, Mrs. Herbert H. Thomas, Sharp W. Todd, Theodore B. Torkelson, Dr. Thomas W. Tormey, Ernst vonBriesen, Mrs. H. S. Williams, John F. Woodmansee, Luther M. Wright.

At noon on Friday a picnic was held at the lovely and hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Thomas on the shores of Lake Mendota. When the call for a camera was made, none was available. Thereupon, Timothy Brown, Madison lawyer who was present as a guest, produced one. The result of his artistry was a picture of Miss Coe Glade, the members of the Norsemen quartet, their accompanist and the Class President—which picture is reproduced herewith.

On Friday evening the Class Dinner was held at Tripp Commons in the Memorial Union Building. No set program was arranged. Many spoke. There was much mingling of good humor, real sentiment and the joy of the Reunion. On Saturday the class members went their own ways in groups and otherwise, visiting friends and recollection-stirring scenes. Several attended the Alumni Association meeting in the morning. All gathered again for the Alumni Dinner in the evening. Here they occupied one long table. They were readily identified by their caps of silver and their capes of blue—the class colors. For the entertainment of the large gathering, they brought with them Miss Glade (who sang two selections from "Carmen," among other delightful numbers) and the Norsemen quartet (which proved itself one of the finest musical organizations of its kind in America). Miss Coe Glade has an outstanding place as an operatic and concert star and is known to all music lovers in both Europe and America.

How pleasant it is for classmates to meet again at the place that gave rise to their common interests—there to recall the old days and to learn of each others' doings throughout the years! How much happiness it brings to see again, though much too briefly, the remaining members of the Faculty who served from '95 to '99. Spiritually, emotionally and in all other ways Ninety-Nine's Thirty-fifth Reunion, as all reunions so easily can be, was a real success.

Jubilee Class Adheres to Traditions

The old traditions of the class of '04 were faithfully honored at the Thirty-Year Reunion of the Jubileers. There was the picnic at Bungalowen, where Ray and Theo did the honors in the usual hospitable manner. Ray added a new tradition this year by donning a chef's apparel and grilling a hundred tenderloins on his Paul Bunyan grill. There was the trip along the high road to Little Norway, where Ike Dahle and his mother and Prof. Hobson and his wife entertained their guests during a long and delightful afternoon. There was Ruth Phillip's special tree at Bungalowen, which tree has grown during twenty years to such a size that Ruth and Ray could barely clasp hands as they stretched their arms around its trunk. There was the Virginia reel with Walter Reineking carrying off the honors.

Gathered in Ray Owen's big living room at the end of the picnic on Friday, the class awaited with eager anticipation the showing of the class pictures taken during the past twenty years. Delighted recognition greeted the first few feet of film. "That's my poppa!" and "There's Jean and Margy!" came in surprised gasps from startled beholders who had forgotten how handsome "Poppa" had looked when he had his hair and teeth and how small Jean and Margy had been once upon a time. The pleased exclamations died away, however, as the projector began to get temperamental. The motor ran more and more slowly, converting the scenes into slow motion pictures. Kinne, Whitby, and Ernie Moritz arose from the ground with the deliberation of a group of rheumatics; the girl ball-players capered slowly and gracefully as though not subject to the law of gravity; and Florence Bennett gave Bill Bennett a ten-foot kiss in the best Hollywood style. Even her best friends had never suspected such technique. Finally, the machine flickered to a stop, and the show had to be called off until the next day when there was a second attempt at a showing at the Engineering Building. The second attempt went better; the speed was stepped up until Florence Bennett's ten-foot kiss appeared in its true proportions—a proper marital peck. However, the 1914 pictures were not on hand due to some misadventure. Art Quan promises that at the next reunion the pictures will be shown with a flourish, even if nothing else is so served.

Henry and Mrs. Jebens, Jack Staack, Lew Parks, Phil Lehner, and Tillie Case Fowler were the early arrivals on Friday morning. They received a warm welcome in the comfortable library of the Union, which had been assigned as headquarters for '04 and their friendly rivals of long standing, '09. The mixing of the rivals had no serious results, for '09 did not show up on Friday, and '04 did not use headquarters on Saturday.

Front Row: Miss Sybil Hanks, Mrs. Louis Hanks, Miss Sophie Goodwin, John Stevens, Miss Annie Nunn, Mrs. Lena Hoffman Conway, Mrs. C. A. Harper, Miss Fannie McIlhon, Mrs. John Stevens, Mrs. Ed. Lawton, Miss McIlhon.

Back Row: Erik Eriksen, Ed. Lawton, Mrs. F. G. Kraege, F. G. Kraege, E. C. Meland, Chester Fowler, Louis Hanks, Claire Bird, Harry L. Russell, E. B. Hutchinson, Dr. C. A. Harper, Edgar Nethercut.

Letters of regret from class-mates who were prevented from attending the reunion were read with interest by those present. Earl Schreiber, the Bennetts, the Peturas, the McCormicks, Morris Fox and the Royces were among the absentees who were unable to rally with the clan. There was many an expression of regret from those present over the missing friends. The absence of Asa Royce was especially noticeable because his mellifluous baritone lends courage to less gifted singers and results in marvelous melodies when the shades of night fall over Monona and the lawn of Bungalowen. There was no singing this year. Even the coaxing fiddles of Art Quan and Lew Parks could not start the songs.

More footage was added to the class picture by Dr. Diemer, who generously recorded both the picnic and the trip to Little Norway. The executive committee of the class, fearing the effects of the long depression, had hesitated to assume the expense, but the demand for more pictures was so unanimous, and the financial contributions were so generous that it was possible to make a substantial addition of this year's doings.

Why a reunion? To those members of the class who have failed to find a satisfactory answer to the question, we commend the remarks of Tille Case Fowler. "I hesitated to come," she said, "because I felt that unless my own particular friends were present I would be lonesome. Instead, I find that I have found delightful new friends whom I had not known while in college." You are invited to come to the next reunion and test the theory.

The 1909 Twenty-fifth Reunion

Some eighty loyal members of the Class of 1909 found their way to Madison, June 15-16, to attend the twenty-fifth anniversary of that class. The first function was a dinner for the class at the Maple Bluff Golf Club at which fifty-two were present. The program was for the most part informal with each person present telling something of himself, his attainments as to size of family, his present occupation, etc. The dinner was concluded with a more formal talk by Edwin E. Witte, professor of Economics, University of Wisconsin, who spoke on some of the changes that have taken place in the last twenty-five years at our university and on present conditions. This was followed by numerous questions from those present which Mr. Witte very ably answered.

Saturday morning was spent in the greeting and meeting of friends at the 1909 headquarters in the library of the Memorial Union. The Saturday noon "get-to-gether" luncheon was attended by about seventy. After everyone had made himself known and the new arrivals had given "their speeches," greetings from several absent members of the class were read, and news of various other members given by those present. After a short business meeting for election of officers and the laying of some plans for the thirtieth reunion, the class adjourned to the steps of the

Most of those present Saturday remained for the Alumni dinner, Saturday eve, and were pleased to be joined by several new arrivals, who had been unable to reach Madison sooner. Those attending the reunion seemed to enjoy themselves and the committee in charge was quite gratified by the response of the class. It is hoped that the thirtieth reunion to be held in 1939 may be even better attended.

1918—1919—1920—1921

Harry Thoma, ye ed of the Alumni Magazine, has asked us to tell the tale of the "Corps of the Illustrious" reunion, so that there might be a permanent record for the guidance of future harassed reunion committees.

Our dance, put on in proper style by Larry Hall at the Sigma Phi house, really got under way, as all good dances should, about ten thirty, and the dawn was coming up over Mendota before the last stragglers went home. Bill Ferguson led his best band in the grand manner and was generous of encores, the floor was good, the girls excellent dancers, the kitchen cabinet, with Ken Curtis, Bill Balder-ston and Paul Kayser in charge, settled the affairs of nations, and the Sigma Phi butler presided with all of the urbane dignity that the occasion called for over the punch bowl, which grew better and better as the evening grew long. It was a grand party!

Saturday morning in the Union, Patty King, Molly Stanchfield Trebilcock, and Harold Groves greeted all of the incoming reuners, and signed them up for the luncheon picnic. Adelin Hohlfeld's cottage, across Mendota was our next objective, and by the time that Bob Benson and Moose Hansen arrived with the food and Larry Hall speed-boated up with the kegs of Fauerbach's best, the crowd of over a hundred hungry luncheoners had found congenial groupings under the trees with handsome Ken Harley, Hal Schubert and Al Fiedler all seeing that the girls were supplied with beer. There was food and drink for everyone, and Larry Hall won the hearts of all the mothers by taking groups of their youngsters out in his swell speedboat, so that reminiscing could go on at full force undisturbed. Bill Chandler was extremely modest about his record of being the only living basketball coach who has taken Doc Meanwell's teams into camp well over fifty percent of the time, and spoke with enthusiasm of the growth of pleasant athletic relations between Wisconsin and Marquette. Zilpha Bohan Gillies and Sue Ramsay Balderston staged a Detroit reunion. Ann Briggs Laughin, Helen Snyder, Verna Carley and the other New Yorkites claimed they were the most loyal reuners, but were beaten out by Walt Thiel, who had travelled all the way from Los Angeles to be with us.

Carroll McMillan Reid told amusing bits of the dance salons she and Jerry Ochsner conducted, while "Winkie" Hall explained what a good chaperon does not see in these modern times. Marie Bird and Carl Harris both breezed in late, but in time for beer, and Fred March, nee Bickel, hovered over us in spirit, "Death" taking a holiday, as it were. Fred had hoped to make it, he had written Bob Benson, but as his date for his next picture was with Anna Sten, all of the men agreed that they quite understood, while a murmur of something that sounded much like "cat" came from the assembled girls.

Finally, after a perfect afternoon, with Mary Ella Ferguson Beyer, and Marge Lewis both explaining that they really never had drunk so much beer before, the clock got around to Banquet hour. A great many dinner and evening engagements were made on the spot, leaving the official Alumni Banquet flat. Dates were made for future gatherings, a final toast was drunk to the absent ones, Adelin Hohlfeld was voted our thanks for her hospitality, and our reunion of the "Corps of the Illustrious" folded its tents and stole away.

—ROBERT BENSON, '20, Adjutant, Corps of the Illustrious.

The Class of 1909 on the steps of the Union

Crew Corporation Meeting

Members of the Wisconsin Crew Corporation held a small but enjoyable reunion on June 16. Those who returned met in the Round Table room of the Union where a luncheon was served. After the luncheon an election of new directors was held. Walter Alexander, '97, Curran McConville, '98, and Dr. Stanley C. Welsh, '02 were re-elected to their positions on the board.

Art Thomsen, hockey coach and assistant director of intra-murals, and William Aspinwall, business manager of athletics, were elected associate members in appreciation for the work they have done for the crews in recent years.

The Kappa Breakfast

The Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae had a very pleasant and successful breakfast at the Chapter House on June 17 during the regular University Commencement and Reunion Week-End. Sixty-two former members, about half of whom were from out of the city, attended.

Everyone was enthusiastic about making this breakfast traditional and each person agreed to try to bring one other member next year. Before that time an attempt will be made to communicate with each alumna personally but those who see this item are urged now to keep in mind, in making plans for next June, that the reunion will be held on the Sunday morning preceding Commencement Day.

The Glee Club Reunion

The Wisconsin Glee Club celebrated its tenth anniversary as a corporation and the fifteenth anniversary of the leadership of E. Earle Swinney. A buffet supper was served on Friday evening in the Paul Bunyan room of the Union, a very appropriate place for the retelling of experiences on trips in former years. Following the supper a number of songs that have been in the repertoire of the club in the last fifteen years were sung through and then the twenty who were there adjourned to the terrace of the Union and gave a short serenade. Oscar Christianson's wife had been confined to her bed for several weeks, so another serenade was given at his home to the great enjoyment of both Mrs. Christianson and the neighbors.

A rehearsal was held in room 35 in Music Hall on Saturday morning in preparation for the alumni banquet that evening. "Bell's of St. Mary's" with Ed Otis and Billie Ross singing the solo parts, "Sweet Kentucky Babe," and "Go To Father" were the numbers chosen.

There were twenty-three who sat at the Glee Club table at the banquet. Due to the necessity of a last minute change of the program, the club sang at a time when few knew what was going on, and afterward many spoke of their disappointment at not having heard the numbers. The over-enthusiasm of the accompanist of a Minnesota quartette prevented Bob Nethercut from playing "Varsity" at the close of the program. Following the banquet, quite a number of the members of the club with their wives and some who didn't have wives, gathered in the Round Table room to listen to an impromptu recital by Bob Nethercut, including his famous "Hot Time Fantasy."

The only business that was transacted was the decision that the plaque stating that the Wisconsin Club had won first place in the Intercollegiate Glee Club Contest in 1923 should be presented to the Union if and when a suitable place were found to hang it; that Norris Wentworth be the alumni member of the active corporation; and that the reunion be made an annual affair.

Those attending all or part of the reunion were: E. Earle Swinney, Whitford L. Huff, '23; Edward H. Otis, '24; Gerald C. Wade, '24; W. Norris Wentworth, '24; Oscar Christianson, '24; Charles F. Twomey, '26; Robert C. Nethercut, '25; Earl Brown, '22; Harry Schuck, '26; Rufus Dimmick, '27; Malcolm C. Beardmore, '28; Homer M. Kline, '25; Sherman Hendrickson, '26; Theodore Paullin, '31; Robert Wright, '33; Robert Pelz, '34; C. W. P. Walter, '34; and Shirley Heider and Lehman Rosenheimer of the active club.

Regents Approve Salary Cuts After Long Arguments by Wilkie

THE HARASSING ghost of salary cuts rose again to plague the University administration when the board of regents, over the outspoken opposition of one-third of its members, at their June meeting, voted approval of a salary and wage waiver scale of from 12 to 25 per cent, to match exactly the scale in effect for the year just ended.

Harold M. Wilkie, '13, Madison attorney and vice-president of the board, clashed over the cuts with Pres. Glenn Frank, vainly offered a substitute proposal spreading the salary reductions over a range from 12 to 30 per cent, and then peppered the board with a series of motions intended to salvage something from the wreckage of his report.

The approved waiver plan follows:

First $500 or fraction . . . 12 per cent.

Next $500 or fraction . . . 16 per cent.

Next $2,000 or fraction . . . 19 per cent

Next $2,000 or fraction . . . 19 per cent

Next $2,000 or fraction . . . 21 per cent

Next $2,000 or fraction . . . 23 per cent

Next $1,000 or fraction . . . 25 per cent

The total waiver on the entire amount of one salary cannot exceed 20 per cent.

The waiver schedule represented the majority report of the regent finance committee, but its chairman, Daniel H. Grady, Portage, refused to sponsor it, joining with Wilkie in leading the opposition attack on its provisions.

Wilkie moved that the administration scale be eliminated in favor of a schedule "running from a minimum waiver of 12 per cent having that net effect upon salaries up to and including $1,000, and from there progressively and proportionately raise the brackets of waiver so as to produce a net effect on salaries ranging proportionately from 12 per cent on the first $1,000 up to 27½ per cent on a $10,000 salary and that from $10,000 on the steps be adjusted so that on salaries in excess of $10,000 it would take a net effective waiver of 30 per cent on the cash amount of that salary."

Wilkie's substitute waiver schedule was supported in the vote by Grady, Mrs. Meta Berger, Milwaukee; Mrs. Clara T. Runge, Baraboo, and Carl Drexler, Menasha, besides himself. When they were voted down by the remaining 10 members of the board present, Wilkie, Grady, and Drexler refused to vote for the administration scale although Mrs. Berger and Mrs. Runge did.

In his broadside on the administration plan Wilkie pointed out that the smaller salaried employes of the University will take a disproportionate reduction as compared with those in the upper brackets. He declared that his proposal of 12 to 30 per cent beginning with the first $1,000 did not level off before reaching the higher incomes, as is the case, he said, with the majority plan.

REGENT WILKIE
Fights for lower salaried employes

Moving to save something from his schedule's intended effects, Wilkie proposed a provision that exemptions of $200 be granted for each employe's child under 16, but he was the only one to vote for it despite the fact that Grady seconded his motion. Undaunted, Wilkie moved that $15,000 be set aside for additional maintenance and service work to aid low paid workers. His motion carried unanimously, but only after an amendment by Mrs. Berger adding the significant clause "if funds are available" was approved.

Wilkie tried again, moving this time that the emergency board be asked for additional funds for maintenance and construction to provide added employment. His motion this time carried unanimously, and without amendments.

Dr. Fred Named Graduate Dean

EDWIN B. FRED, professor of bacteriology at the University, was named dean of the Graduate School by the board of regents at their June meeting. Dr. Fred will succeed Prof. Charles S. Slichter, who has been dean of Wisconsin's world-famed Graduate School since 1920. Dean Slichter retired from the office July 1, and will be research advisor to the Graduate School and professor emeritus of mathematics.

Dr. Fred has been a member of the Wisconsin faculty since 1913, when he was named assistant professor of bacteriology. In 1914 he became associate professor, and in 1918, he was raised to a full professorship.

DR. E. B. FRED
Heads Graduate School

The new dean was born in Middleburg, Va., in 1887. He graduated from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and obtained his doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Goettingen, Germany, in 1911. He is married and has two children.

He served as first lieutenant in the chemical warfare service of the A.E.F. in 1918. He is a member of the National Academy of Science, Sigma Xi, Gamma Alpha, and Phi Sigma. He is co-author of a volume entitled "Textbook of Agricultural Bacteriology," and author of a "Laboratory Manual of Microbiology."

Dean Slichter, who is 70 and thus automatically retired under faculty rules, has served State and University for nearly half a century, since 1886, when he first became an instructor of mathematics at Wisconsin. He was made assistant professor of mathematics in 1889, and became professor of applied mathematics in 1892.

New Arboretum Dedicated

WISCONSIN'S largest laboratory—the newly-established 500-acre arboretum at Madison near the University—was formally dedicated on June 17 at an early morning breakfast service held on the arboretum grounds. More than 150 people attended the dedicatory event, at which eight speakers, representing the State and the University, explained the meaning of the arboretum to the State and its natural resources.

Among those who spoke at the dedication service, which followed breakfast of bacon, scrambled eggs, fried potatoes and coffee prepared by University students, were Aldo Leopold, professor of wild life management and research director of the arboretum; Prof. G. W. Longenecker, executive director of the arboretum; Prof. E. M. Gilbert, chairman of the arboretum committee; Gen. Ralph M. Immel, of the State conservation department; John Callahan, who read a message from Pres. Glenn Frank; George Mead, Wisconsin Rapids, who spoke for the regents; John Nolen, famous city planner; and Chief Yellow Thunder, Wisconsin Winnebago Indian.

The arboretum is located along the shore of Lake Wingra, on the southwest outskirts of Madison. Established about two years ago, this 500-acre tract gives the University and the State an excellent opportunity for experimentation in reforestation and propagation of wild life.

Both reforestation and the propagation of wild life are extremely important to Wisconsin, which must constantly look after its reputation as vacation ground and recreational center for the midwest. In line with this idea, development of the area has been pushed forward rapidly during the past year.

More than 15,000 pine and spruce trees have been planted in the tract, which at present is the home of 12 species of game birds and 22 species of mammals. These are expected to be increased rapidly in the future, since the particular kinds of foods and cover needed by each species has been greatly improved. A roadway through the arboretum has also been built, and barracks and experimental laboratories have been constructed.

The arboretum not only provides the State with a huge outdoor laboratory in which to carry on experimental work on forestry and wild life propagation problems, but is also useful as a demonstration ground in teaching land owners, especially farmers, the technique of conserving wild game and making marginal lands useful as hunting preserves.

Garbed in full Indian regalia, Chief Yellow Thunder declared at the dedication that he felt that he and his people were being recreated in the arboretum project. He pointed out that his people are like the trees—a dying race, leaving behind them as their only monument the natural forests and streams of America.

Prof. Leopold reminded the audience that the heaviest task of the next half-century would be the rebuilding of the land, while Adj.-Gen. Immel hailed the arboretum as "the symbol of a reawakened consciousness on the part of the white man of the importance of preserving natural beauty and resources of the State."

Wisconsin alumni and their friends are most cordially invited, in fact, most cordially urged to visit the arboretum whenever they are in Madison.

Research Foundation Gives Added Funds for Special Research Awards

ESTABLISHMENT of a limited number of special fellowships in the natural sciences, for young men of "very exceptional talent and originality," has been made possible at the University for the coming year by a grant of $10,000 from the Wisconsin Alumni Research foundation, it was announced recently.

The grant for the special fellowships is in addition to a grant of $139,321 given to the University to aid its research program during the coming year. This figure represents an increase of about $17,000 over the amount granted the University by the foundation last year.

Stipends for the special fellowships, which will permit young graduates to carry on research in the natural sciences, will vary but will be greater than the usual amount, according to Charles S. Slichter, retiring dean of the Graduate School. In selecting the candidates emphasis will be placed on unusual scholarship, exceptional personality, and originality of the candidates, whose records will be closely scrutinized.

"Candidates should not be over 25 years of age, and they should possess such high personal qualities as well as extraordinary talent, that we may hope that the holders of the fellowships will be found among the leaders in their field of work within the next decade or two," Dean Slichter said. "Fellows will be appointed at any time during the next year when a suitable candidate is discovered."

In order to find suitable candidates for these fellowships, a thorough search is now being made throughout the entire central area of the country, from Maryland and Pennsylvania on the east to Montana, Utah, and Arizona on the west.

These special fellowships will be known as the Alumni Research foundation fellowships, and their creation constitutes one more example of the "solicitude and wisdom applied by the foundation to the promotion of advanced scholarship" at the University, Dean Slichter said.

Ordinarily each year the foundation has used all of its interest income from its invested capital in supporting University research. But in the emergency which obtained last year and still continues, the trustees of the foundation have decided they could render no more useful public service than to add to the customary support they give the University a material sum from the anticipated income of the coming year to help meet the critical financial condition confronting the University's research program.

With the aid from the foundation continued for the coming year, the University will be able to carry on its plan, started last year, of master-apprentice graduate instruction. This plan permits graduate students to work as apprentices in the laboratory with the mature scholars directing the major research projects. Many research assistants will also be provided with work as a result of the grant of funds.

Entire State to Benefit from University's C. W. A. Projects

ALL OF Wisconsin will share in the benefits of increased education facilities at the University, and the survey of needs in adult education throughout the State, resulting from state-wide C. W. A. research projects administered by the University during the winter months.

The report, prepared by F. O. Holt, registrar and executive director of the University civil works program, has recently been filed with Charles A. Halbert, chairman of the Wisconsin emergency public works administration.

Co-operating with the State to help solve Wisconsin's unemployment problem, the University gave jobs to 1,081 persons, mostly college graduates, for 15 weeks beginning Nov. 27, 1933. Although pay checks stopped Mar. 29 for University C. W. A. workers, many conscientiously continued through April, either to complete or more satisfactorily to terminate the 295 separate projects.

A statistical summary of answers to a questionnaire by 460 University C. W. A. employes, filed with Mr. Holt's report, reveal many interesting facts about workers and the significance of C. W. A. employment to them. These college graduates had an average of 4.12 years of college or university training, 5.8 years out of college, 4.5 years of experience, 16.9 years residence in Wisconsin and an average of one dependent. These professionally trained workers, from 22 to 60, who had earned annual salaries of $1,500 to $25,000 prior to unemployment, earned only an average of $379.84, less than $24 a month, at odd and part time jobs during an average unemployment period of 1.3 years, the summaries show.

The significance of C. W. A. income to these college graduates is shown by removal of the burden of support from parents by nearly half the workers on University projects, by 161 paying for loans obtained for their education, by 212 keeping life insurance in force, by 355 paying bills past due for an average of one and a half years, by 312 purchasing new clothes for the first time in periods of one to three years, by many having medical examinations and treatment and dental work delayed on an average of two years, and by many saving money from C. W. A. income to serve as a reserve fund while seeking employment after C. W. A.

Attitudes of college graduates on University research and adult education projects indicate that employment served as a check on lowered morale, which in many cases had reached the breaking point, and that much was done by C. W. A. work to overcome pessimism and despair and "rusting" in professional practise, and to instil new hope, courage and optimism.

"The research and adult education projects, primarily for the relief of unemployed college graduates, teachers, clerical and technical workers—the "white collar" class—was the first of its kind set up under C. W. A. in Wisconsin," the report says.

"In spite of the speed requirement at the outset of the research and adult education project, a fair representation of graduates from colleges and universities other than of the state university was selected. Graduates of Wisconsin teachers' and private colleges furnished 35 per cent, out of state college graduates living in Wisconsin 21 per cent and out of state university graduates with residence in Wisconsin 15 per cent of the total number employed, while graduates of the State university provided 29 per cent of the University C. W. A. employes.

"A geographic distribution of these people shows that every section of the State was represented and the University state-wide project was one of the few that employed about half as many women as men."

Research work included experimentation in various fields, devising new methods and approaches to problems and teaching in major divisions in the University, compilation of bibliographies, construction of new and improved laboratory equipment, studies in economic, educational and social needs of Wisconsin citizens and many economic, education, social and legal surveys and analyses. Adult education C. W. A. workers went directly to hundreds of persons in each county for whom scores of lectures were given on economics of the recovery program, recreation, music and drama, and among whom business and unemployment surveys were made.

Federal funds totaling $322,774.03 were spent for salaries and materials, the report shows. Office and laboratory space for the work was furnished free by the University, which also provided the use of its staff and property. An estimate of the value of services contributed outside regular University duties by University professors who supervised projects is $80,997. This figure was determined by multiplying the number of hours devoted by professors to supervisory work by the value per hour of the average University professor's salary.

Because of the death of their beloved leader, Maj. E. W. Morphy, members of the University concert band decided to turn down the invitation to play at A Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago this year. The band presented several concerts at the exposition last year and was accorded high praise from their listeners as well as from officials of the Fair. Although the boys were prepared to present this concert, they felt that without the "Major" present, the performance would be empty.

Meanwell Named Athletic Director

*Majority Report Accepted
After Frank Breaks Tie*

FOR THE FIRST TIME since the resignation of Irvin Uteritz in 1932, the University of Wisconsin now has an athletic director. Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, present basketball coach, was named to that position by a vote of 9 to 8 by the Board of Regents at a special meeting on July 13. Dr. Meanwell was recommended by the Athletic Board by a vote of 5 to 2.

The recommendation of Meanwell was the second made by the Athletic Board. George F. Downer, '97, director of publicity for the athletic department, was recommended by a 4 to 3 vote of the board at the June meeting of the regents. Walter Alexander and Myron T. Harshaw, Alumni Association representatives on the Athletic Board, and Dean Scott H. Goodnight, recommended the appointment of Dr. C. W. Spears. The minority report was prepared and presented by Harshaw and Alexander. The regents refused to accept the majority report at this time and referred the matter back to the Athletic Board.

The two alumni members again presented a minority report in favor of Dr. Spears at the second meeting of the regents. When the vote stood at 8 and 8 on accepting the majority vote of the Athletic Board, President Frank broke the tie by voting in favor of accepting the wish of the majority on the Faculty controlled board. In casting his vote, President Frank made the following statement:

"I vote aye, not as a judgment on the respective abilities of the candidates who are alike able, but on the ground that, in my judgment, the only proper procedure for the regents is to accept or reject the majority recommendation of the Athletic Board charged with the administrative oversight of athletics, and I do not find arguments that convince me that the majority report should be rejected, whatever may be the merits of the minority report."

The report of the Athletic Board was in the following words:

"The Athletic Board met on July 12 and thoughtfully reconsidered the question of the directorship of intercollegiate athletics. We now recommend the appointment of Dr. Walter E. Meanwell to the position at the salary already provided for him in the budget for the next year.

"May we reiterate our conviction that it is inexpedient to combine the duties of a head coach with those of the directorship. Dr. Meanwell will, therefore, upon assuming the directorship, resign as coach of basketball, turning his duties in the latter capacity over to a successor. Our recommendation has no budgetary implications for 1934-35."

Dr. Meanwell, like Bob Zuppke, '05, football coach at Illinois is generally considered as one of the most proficient coaches in a sport in which he never took part. "Doc" devised his famous short pass game while coaching a group of boys at a slum social settlement in Baltimore twenty-five years ago. He came to Wisconsin in 1911 and proceeded to win a championship in his first year here and to be the first coach to produce a 1,000 per cent team in the Western Conference. "Doc" left Wisconsin from 1917 to 1920 when he was coach and athletic director at the University of Missouri. He is a member of the rules committee of the national basketball coaches association.

Meanwell's teams have won eight championships, have been runners-up in three seasons, third in three years, fourth once, and only four times have dropped into the second division in his twenty years as coach at Wisconsin.

The Board of Regents took action on two other athletic matters at this same meeting. Ralph Hunn, on recommendation of the intramural board and the athletic board, was named crew coach to succeed George W. Murphy, who resigned on July 1 and Syracuse university was definitely placed on the 1935 boxing calendar. George F. Downer, '97, is manager of boxing at the University. Hunn will take over the coaching duties immediately as the post has now been placed on a twelve months basis instead of ten. He has been active in rowing circles in the University for the past three years and was named captain-elect for next year's crew at the close of the past season. For the present he will work primarily under Prof. Guy Lowman, intramural director, inasmuch as crew is now on a more or less intramural basis.

Dr. Meanwell will present alumni with a statement of his aims and policies in an article which will appear in the October issue of the Magazine.

About Football Ticket Applications

We have been informed that the University ticket office will not mail application blanks to alumni living on the far East, West, or South sections of the country. Alumni living outside of the Middle West who wish to purchase tickets for any of the home or out-of-town games, can send their application to the alumni Association office and we will take care of your order.

Prices for the games are as follows: Marquette, $2.20; South Dakota State, $1.10; Purdue, $2.20; Notre Dame, $3.00; Northwestern, $2.75; Michigan, $2.75; Illinois, $2.20; and Minnesota, $2.20.

In Search of the Radio Ghost

The University of Wisconsin is one of a number of the nation's leading universities which have been asked to help the federal government solve the mystery of a radio beam "ghost" that is raising havoc with aviators, especially those whose courses lead them over mountainous country.

The radio beam "ghost" has never been seen, but it is often heard, according to the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, which is charged with the duty of keeping aviators straight in the air by means of radio control beams.

It is this federal agency which is most interested in the "ghost"—radio's latest phenomenon. Aviators flying over mountainous areas have been reporting for some months now that they are getting peculiar "on course" radio signals when their maps clearly showed they should be getting "off course" signals.

Radio beams were first devised to help aviators follow a straight course in bad weather when they cannot see the ground. The "on course" radio signal or radio beam is a steady hum in the radio receiver, which breaks after a few seconds, when the call letter of the sending station is repeated in dots and dashes. Then comes the steady hum again, followed by the dots and dashes.

The "off course" signal is a dot and dash, or dash and dot, depending upon which side the pilot is off his regular course.

An aviator may be purposely going off his regular course to avoid a storm, and the off course dots and dashes will be buzzing in his ears, when suddenly a break will occur, and then the steady humming of the on course signal will begin, just as if he were on his regular course. This "ghost" beam has been known to lead aviators off their regular course, thus making them lose valuable time, not to speak of dangers incurred in this way, especially over mountainous country.

It is in the mountainous regions where the aviators run into the "ghost" beams, which have not been found over level country. And it is over the rough country that the direction beams are most needed.

Several theories concerning the "ghost" radio beams have been advanced. One is that they are caused by sun-spots, the powerful electrical disturbances on the sun. Another is that the "ghost" beams may result from the reflections from mountain sides or tops, or that magnetic ores in the mountainous regions may cause them.

Wisconsin, along with 70 other leading educational institutions, has been asked to assign its radio engineering experts or graduate students to the task of solving the mystery and to help improve the efficiency and reliability of the radio range beacons or beams for aviation guidance.

It is rather fitting that Wisconsin radio engineers should be asked to take part in this search, since Station WHA was the pioneer educational radio broadcasting station in the United States.

A. A. A. Picks Four Badgers

Four of the nine regional directors in charge of the land policy section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration are graduates or former students of the University College of Agriculture. These directors are to develop a land use policy for each of the nine regions into which the United States is divided.

Noble Clark, assistant director of the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station is in charge of Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin with headquarters at Madison. L. A. Schoenmann heads the work in Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Iowa and Indiana. W. A. Hartman is director for South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Florida. R. L. Thompson is in charge in Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Texas.

The regional directors are establishing contacts between federal and state agencies so that the long time programs of each may be directed toward the same objective. They are initiating preliminary investigations for a definite program of land utilization in each of the regions, and are aiding the agencies in several states in finding new opportunities for farmers who may want to leave sub-marginal land.

The regional directors have also been loaned to the sub-marginal land committee which is directing the expenditure of money appropriated through the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation for the government acquisition of sub-marginal land.

Fred Clausen, '97, who was re-elected president of the regents at their June meeting. Harold Wilkie was elected vice-president.

Fraternities Begin Rushing

Because of the new regulations governing fraternity rushing next fall, summer rushing is to play an important role during the vacation months, it is generally believed among the Greek letter organizations.

"Summer rushing will begin with the ending of school and close with the beginning of orientation week in the fall. During this time no rushing may be done in the fraternity house itself," said John Wood '35, explaining the rules of the new fraternity code.

Several houses have already had groups of prospective rushees out for weekends, while others are making extensive plans to get ahead of the new regulations by having men lined up during the summer months. In all cases a much more active summer seems in store than under the old system.

New Finance Course for Commerce School

To meet a growing demand for technical experts in the field of municipal finance and civic administration, the School of Commerce recently announced that it will open a new course designed along these lines for the first semester of 1934-35.

In offering the course, the School of Commerce is answering a growing demand from municipalities, counties, villages and all organizations under the level of the state government.

"All government officials," said Prof. Chester Lloyd Jones, director of the school, "have begun to realize the complex character of problems of municipalities, the solution of which can be brought about only by technical experts trained especially to cope with such problems.

"Municipal finance is felt to be a rapidly developing field which will call for increasing numbers of university trained men in the future."

Present organization plans call for the administration of the course by the departments of economics and political science and the School of Commerce, although the active direction of the course will be in the hands of the latter groups. All three units, however, have contributed to the development of the project.

Syracuse university has for some time offered a major under the title of "Public Administration." Similarly, the University of California provides a municipal administration course in its "School of Government." Emory E. Olson, dean of the School of Government at Southern California, took his preparatory work at Wisconsin.

The National Association of Municipal Finance Officers have gone on record as heartily approving the new course to be introduced here next fall. Prof. Fayette H. Elwell will be in charge of the course.

WHA Gets Power Increase

Wisconsin has been granted permission by the Federal Radio Commission to raise the broadcasting power of WHA from 1000 watts to 2500 watts. This substantial increase will give the station a power unsurpassed by any other in the State and will appreciably extend its service area.

Work on the new equipment has been started by University radio engineers. It is expected that the full power will be in use by September 1. The station's new and entirely modern studios are now near completion.

WHA, in Madison, is owned by the state of Wisconsin and operated through the University. Its objective is to extend the benefits of the many state governmental, agricultural, educational, and other service agencies. No advertising is broadcast, the station being strictly non-commercial.

Among the features which listeners in new areas will hear are the Wisconsin School of the Air, for classroom use; the Wisconsin College of the Air, for out-of-school groups; the Farm Program, Homemakers' Program, Music of the Masters, Cathedral Echoes, and others. State-station programs are designed to benefit the listeners rather than advertisers.

With the further development of WHA, Wisconsin will have two 2500 watt stations. The other, WLBL, at Stevens Point, broadcasts certain features simultaneously with WHA. Together they serve the greater portion of the State. Improvements are constantly being made which will ultimately extend the service to all parts of the State.

Jobs Made to Order

Women journalists are learning "to make jobs for themselves" at the Wisconsin School of Journalism. Among the senior women enrolled in the course, "Women's Departments in Newspapers and Magazines" last year under Prof. Helen M. Patterson, 75 per cent made positions for themselves in various journalistic fields as the result of a required class project.

Each senior girl made a survey of the community and the publication or firm where she thought she might be able to "make a job for herself," and a study of the opportunities for applying her journalistic ability to convince the future employer that she could bring in enough new business, either in advertising, circulation, reader interest, or increased patronage to at least pay her salary.

The positions which the girls planned and "sold" to employers included resort hotel publicity, educational and social welfare publicity, shopping columns on daily newspapers, specialized department store promotion, broadcast of a woman's page on the radio including an advertising tie-up, developing a trade publication, and a specialized fashion-advertising service on a newspaper.

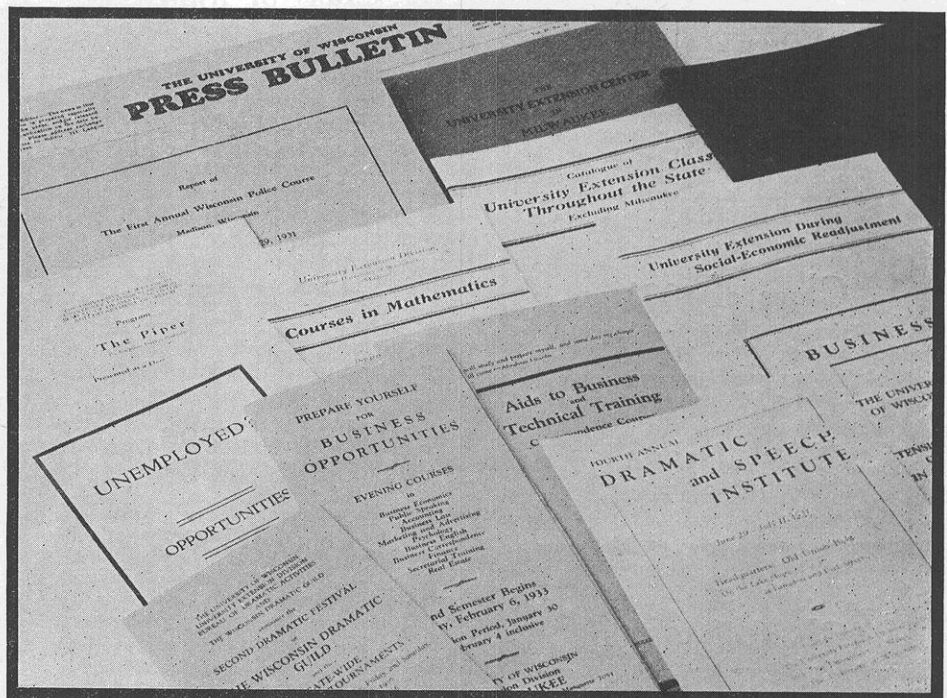

One senior "made herself a job" upon which she started work in June.

Faculty Abolishes Student 50c Football Tickets

Accepting a recommendation of the athletic board, the University faculty recently voted to discontinue the 50 cent rate for individual tickets to athletic contests. In effect, the action applies only to football tickets which in the past have been sold for individual games to the students at the 50 cent rate, with the public rate higher. There is no special student rate for other athletic contests. The action does not affect coupon book prices.

The recommendation was presented by Prof. Andrew T. Weaver, chairman of the board, who told the faculty that Helen STEENBOCK Brinsmade writes: "Every time the Magazine is due, I look eagerly for names that I could hear about in no other way, and thus have kept up with class news for over twenty years while resident in Old Mexico. It might be of interest to remark here that I'm the proud mother of seven youngsters ranging in age from twenty-two to six. Five of them are boys and the two oldest of these are twins. Preceding and following the boys there is a girl to calm the masculine tone of the family. The twins, Robert and Harold, are graduating from the University of Texas and A. & M. College of Texas, respectively. The former gets his M. A. and the latter his B. A. with enough extra credits to enable him to get his degree in mechanical engineering within a year. Virginia, the oldest daughter, expects to finish her work in the home economics department of Wisconsin next February. Akbar, four years younger than the twins, finishes high school in Mexico City this month and will enter college next semester. Lyon L. and Alan, ten and eight respectively, and Christine, who is six, attend the English School here in San Luis Potosi where they study everything in Spanish. Nobody need inquire now what I've done with myself these last twenty-six years. Let me add, however, that in spite of all, I've found time to study at the University of Mexico and also attended one summer session at my Alma Mater. In addition I've never tired of studying the customs, history and language of my Mexican neighbors and thereby have learned what no college course could ever have hinted at. I invite all Wisconsin people who come to Mexico to look me up at Av. Centenario 219, San Luis Potosi, Mexico."—Benjamin A. POLZIN writes from Wilmette: "I really have nothing to report. Things being what they are, we feel lucky that our family unit is still a going concern. The tremendous readjustments which have had to be made have caused us to find solace and happiness at the family hearth where the abiding and enduring values of life are to be found."—William M. There was an immense celebration. Our flat is just opposite the Botanic Gardens, Conservatory of Music and Government House ground where the parade was to form. Scotch Highlanders with their bagpipes, mounted police, infantry and artillery battalions, Red Cross, Junior Red Cross divisions, etc., etc., arrived in hundreds. Altogether some 18,000 people gathered to march in the parade, so it was quite a sight. A massive service was held in the Domain at eleven o'clock. The music was especially impressive. All this followed a dawn ceremony at the Cenotaph at 4:30 A. M. People here take this day seriously, and everyone wears a sprig of rosemary 'for remembrance.' The shopping district reminds me of the feeling one has under the elevated in Chicago, minus the 'El.' Almost all the shops have projecting veranda-like coverings made of wood and reaching out to the street. I suppose it is a protection against the sun in hot weather but it serves just as well for an umbrella. The Australian appetite and beds are my two constant sources of amazement. Every other shop is a tea shop and even business people have their morning and afternoon tea. And the beds are park benches,—I have a permanent indentation across my shoulders from the ridge on mine." Tom C. ALLEN, Ph. This and That ABOUT THE FACULTY

TWO more University faculty members have gained international recognition for their scholarship and the valuable work they are doing in their field. They are Prof. Paul Knaplund, of the history department, and Dr. Louise Kellogg, '97, of the historical society's research staff. They have been honored by election to the Royal British Historical society.

There are only approximately 60 members of the Royal Historical society in the United States, and membership is confined only to Anglo-American countries. Both Prof. Knaplund and Dr. Kellogg are members of the American Historical society also.

Another faculty member recently gained international honors for his scholarship also when Alexander Vasiliev, professor of ancient history, was elected to the Academy of Sciences at Belgrade, Jugoslavia. This honor was conferred on Prof. Vasiliev in recognition of his contributions to the field of Byzantine history, in which he enjoys a world-wide reputation as one of the foremost scholars.

TWO MEMBERS of the faculty are contributors to the July issue of the American Mercury. Prof. Grayson Kirk is the author of an article entitled, The Credit Mobilier Scandal, and Prof. William Ellery Leonard is the author of a book review entitled, The Best Book on Chaucer, a review of John Livingston Lowe's book, Geoffrey Chaucer.

Ernest L. Meyer, well-known Madison newspaper columnist, has an interesting story on Prof. William Ellery Leonard in the same issue.

REGISTRAR FRANK O. HOLT, '07, was granted an honorary Doctor of Pedagogy degree by Milton College at the recent commencement exercises. Mr. Holt delivered the commencement address at the college.

WITH the close of the past school year, Prof. Julius Olson ended his fiftieth year of service in the University as student, instructor and professor. Although not doing any active work in teaching his famous Norse classes, Prof. Olson remains in constant contact with the University through his chairmanship of the committee on scholarship and loans.

FOUR UNIVERSITY agricultural extension workers have completed twenty years of service to the State and nation and their names will be included in a national honorary list soon to be published by the United States Department of Agriculture.

They are K. L. Hatch, associate director of agriculture extension since 1909; E. L. Luther, first county agricultural agent, whose service dates from 1911; J. E. Wojta, state county agent leader, who has served since 1914, and T. L. Bewick, state leader of boys' and girls' work, who has served since 1914.

RAYMOND F. DVORAK, director of the University of Illinois glee clubs and assistant director of the Illini bands, will succeed the late Maj. E. W. Morphy as director of the University of Wisconsin bands. Mr. Dvorak will come to Wisconsin with a splendid reputation as an accomplished concert master as well as a creator of ingenious formations for marching bands.

LEWIS R. JONES, emeritus professor of plant pathology and former head of that department at the University, has been appointed by President Roosevelt as one of the six scientific men on the United States science advisory board. He will serve until June 1, 1935. Prof. Jones has been recognized as one of the leaders in the field of plant science for many years. He has been the recipient of many honorary degrees granted by universities in this country and abroad.

DR. LEOPOLD VON WIESE, professor of political economy and sociology at the University of Cologne, Germany, will be a Carl Schurz exchange professor at Wisconsin during the first semester of the coming school year.

Prof. von Wiese will be on temporary leave from the University of Cologne while he is here. He will teach several courses in "Systematic Sociology" and "recent Social Developments in Europe."

WALTER A. MORTON, associate professor of economics, has been granted a social science research fellowship for one year. Mr. Morton began his year's leave on June 1. He will spend part of the coming year in this country and part in Europe, making investigations of international, commercial and banking problems.

GEORGE W. MURPHY, crew coach at the University since 1928, has resigned his position effective July 1. His resignation comes at the close of a season in which more interest was shown in crew than ever before.

Approximately two hundred and fifty men took part in intramural and intercollegiate rowing this year. A series of elimination races were staged during the late spring months and Psi Upsilon fraternity was crowned the victorious eight of the twelve Greek houses which participated. The varsity boat won its only race of the season against the St. Louis boat club in a regatta staged in Milwaukee on June 2. The freshmen had three races against St. John's military academy in which they lost two and tied one.

"Mike," as Murphy was familiarly known, came to Wisconsin at the request of George Little, after having served as freshman coach at Yale for three years. He learned his rowing at the University of Washington under Ed Leader, now head coach at Yale. He was one of the lightest strokes to ever pull an oar in a winning boat at the historic Poughkeepsie regatta.

DR. EUGENE A. GILMORE, a former member of the faculty of the Law School, was recently elected president of the University of Iowa at Iowa City. He had been acting president for several months. Dr. Gilmore was on the Wisconsin faculty for 21 years, from 1902 to 1923. He left Madison to become vice-governor general of the Philippine Islands where he served until 1930 when he became dean of the Iowa Law School.

Deaths

REV. JOHN G. TAYLOR, '68, died at his home in Arlington Heights, Massachusetts, late in December 1933. Mr. Taylor was one of the University's oldest and most beloved alumni.

Rev. Taylor was born in England in 1844 and came to America just four years later. After spending a few years in the East, the Taylors moved to Wisconsin where his father was associated with the mining industries in the State. Rev. Taylor entered the University with the class of 1867. The University was still small then and there were only fifteen students in the class. Shortly after entering the University, Mr. Taylor enlisted in the Union forces and saw two years service in the Civil war. He re-entered the University at the close of the war, and received his degree with the class of 1868. Instead of entering the practice of law after graduation, as he had originally intended to do, Mr. Taylor returned to school for a year of graduate work to fit him for the ministry. He then graduated from the Chicago Theological Seminary, after which he accepted a position with a church in Nebraska. He gave up this position after four years to do further study at the Andover Theological seminary. He then took over the work in a church at Melrose Highlands, Mass. Later he answered the call of a church in California, only to return to Massachusetts in 1900 when he assumed duties of pastor in the Arlington Heights church. At the time he was seventy years old, he resigned his position and was named pastor emeritus of the church, a position he held at the time of his death. He is survived by his widow, two brothers and a sister.

E. M. WEBSTER, '75, one of the founders of Glenwood, Minn., died at his home on May 14. After graduating from the Law School, Mr. Webster went to Glenwood, which was then just a trading post, and opened his law office. He served his community as mayor, county attorney, state senator, and benefactor to many public projects. He maintained his practice until the time of his death in spite of his 81 years.

JOHN TAYLOR KEAN, '77, died on October 25, 1933, at his home in La Jolla, California. Mr. Kean was a former Lieutenant governor of South Dakota, a member of the Park Board and City Council of Minneapolis, and president of the Planning Commission of San Diego, California. He was active in all civic affairs and was a member of the Masonic lodge and of the Kiwanis club.

MRS. E. E. CAMPBELL, '82, wife of Eugene Campbell, '82, a retired newspaper publisher, died at her home in Rice Lake, Wis., on May 27.

CHRISTIAN DOERFLER, '85, former justice of the Wisconsin supreme court, former president of the Milwaukee and Wisconsin bar associations, and for years one of the most outstanding and widely known attorneys in the State, died at a Milwaukee hospital on June 10. Mr. Doerfler was assistant district attorney of Milwaukee from 1889 to 1891; school commissioner during the same period, and a member of the committee to appoint school directors from 1896 to 1900. A Progressive republican, he was a delegate to the republican national convention in 1912, delegate at large in 1916, and alternate delegate in 1920.

The late John J. Blaine, former governor and United States senator from Wisconsin, appointed him associate justice of the supreme court in April, 1921, to which office he was re-elected without opposition in April, 1924, for the ten year term ending 1935. Ill health forced his resignation in May, 1929.

MRS. MYRTLE RUNDLETT BLISS, '89, died at Green Bay, Wis., on April 27. Mrs. Bliss had spent all her life teaching, about twenty years of which were spent in the high school at Mazomanie, Wis.

CHARLES WAKEMAN, ex-'91, died at his home in Oshkosh, Wis., recently. Mr. Wakeman was a druggist in Whitewater, Wis., at one time. He later moved to Oshkosh where he became a successful business man. He was 66 years old.

GEORGE HOXIE, '92, died at a Green Bay, Wis., hospital on April 25. Mr. Hoxie, a graduate of the Law School had been a practicing attorney in Gillett, Wis., for the past 28 years.

FOSTER LARDNER, ex-'93, died of a heart attack while giving a sleight of hand performance in Milwaukee on May 17. He died before aid could reach him. Mr. Lardner began his stage career early in the century and later became affiliated with the executive end of the theater. He was a director of the Albee stock company in Providence, and for many years was an executive of the Keith-Albee theatrical interests.

HERBERT HASKELL, '93, prominent civic leader of Long Beach, California, died at his home in that city on May 1. Mr. Haskell had practiced law in Long Beach since 1908.

PARKE H. DAVIS, Grad, '94, football coach at the University in 1893, died at his home in Easton, Pa., on June 5. Mr. Davis maintained an active contact with the sport all during his life, and at the time of his death was considered one of the ablest historians on football matters in the country.

FRED W. ARTHUR, '96, who had been with the Wisconsin supreme court for 33 years as assistant reporter and reporter, died at his home in Madison on June 26. He had been ill for only a short time. Mr. Arthur was in the employ of the Wisconsin State Journal at the time he was appointed assistant to Frank J. Conover, supreme court reporter, in 1907. He held that position until 1919 when he was appointed to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Conover's death. He was active in the Masonic and Elks lodges. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie M. Arthur.

GLENN R. BABRICH, '98, of Medford, Oregon, was accidentally killed while hunting deer on October 13, 1932. He was fifty-six years old.

HENRY V. STAHL, '99, died in Portland, Oregon, on April 14. Mr. Stahl was a prominent insurance man in the northwest and was public spirited and well known.

DALE OWEN, Sp. '00, died on October 15, 1933 in Denver, Colorado. A heart ailment caused his death.

MAY GENEVIEVE FOLEY, '01, passed away at her home in Wauwatosha, Wis., on May 25. Miss Foley had been a Latin teacher in North Division high school in Milwaukee for the past twenty years. Prior to assuming that work she had taught in various schools about the State.

REGINALD O. SCHOEN, '02, died at his home in Markesan, Wis., on November 25, 1933.

DR. DAVID L. BARNARD, '03, prominent Salt Lake City physician, died on May 21. Dr. Barnard received his M. D. degree from Northwestern University in 1907. He then went to Salt Lake City where he had practiced ever since. He was well known for his work on internal diagnosis and internal medicine, in which he did post-graduate work at Columbia in 1917 and 1918. He was company doctor for the Utah Copper company and a member of the staff of the St. Mark's hospital in Salt Lake City. He was active in the Masonic lodge as well as in medical circles.

HUGO A. KUEHMSTED, ex-'06, passed away in August, 1933.

E. P. CRAIN, '07, died on May 11 after a heart attack. For many years Mr. Crain was a deputy in the Department of Public Instruction of North Dakota.

ROLF B. ANDERSON, '08, son of Prof. Rasmus B. Anderson, famous teacher, historian, writer and U. S. Envoy, died in a Madison hospital on May 23. He had been a state conservation warden for a number of years and was recently active in Madison political circles.

FRED R. PETERSON, '12, succumbed to a heart attack on December 12 1933. He was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

WILLIAM F. BOSSMAN, ex-'12, died at his home in Milwaukee on June 8. Mr. Bossman had been a practicing architect in Milwaukee for the past eight years.

STANLEY G. GORDON, ex-'13, well known La Crosse attorney, died at his home in that city on June 16, following an emergency operation for a ruptured appendix. Mr. Gordon was prominent in political affairs of the Republican party in Wisconsin.

EVERETT WESLEY WEAVER, ex-'14, died at St. Luke's Hospital, Chicago, April 24, after a month's illness with a rare form of meningitis for which no cure has yet been found. Since leaving school Mr. Weaver had been connected with the American Silica Sand co. and the Higby Canyon Sand co. of Ottawa, Ill., in executive capacities as general manager and superintendent. The last four years he had been president of the Illinois Silica Sand co., of Ottawa, Ill. He is survived by his widow, formerly Frances Bechtner of Milwaukee, and two sons, Everett and William.

MRS. ELIZABETH HEAD GUNDERSON, '19, wife of Dr. Sigurd Gunderson of La Crosse, died at her home on May 28. Mrs. Gunderson was a daughter of the late Dr. Louis R. Head, '82. She was a member of Delta Gamma sorority.

CHARLES KING CHAPMAN, M. A. '19, died on May 28, 1934. Mr. Chapman had almost completed his work for a Ph. D. at the University of Michigan at the time of his death.

WARD H. WILHELM, ex-'22, passed away on November 21, 1933, at his home in Knox, Indiana. Besides his widow, one son, Ward Jerome, survives.

WORTH SHOULTS, '23, died on June 5 in Washington, D. C., after a two weeks illness. Mr. Shoults was active in Campus activities while in school. He was president of the University Y. M. C. A., founder and editor of the Athletic Review, president of

Her address is 715 North ave., Dayton. Helen HOOD is teaching English at a language academy in downtown Chicago. W. G. HOTTENSEN says: "Sorry not to be able to attend Commencement this year, but I expect to make it next. I have been working in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for over a year in a grain merchandising office in the capacity of grain buyer." His address is 421 Merchants National Bank.

The 81st Commencement fairs," President Frank told the graduates that revision of democracy, but not renunciation of democracy in favor of dictatorship, is needed.

Two suggestions respecting the necessary revision of democracy, "as the price we must pay for the avoidance of dictatorship," were outlined. First we should establish a fixed procedure for "crisis government" for emergencies, since the normal processes of democracy are not designed to deal with such crisis of the magnitude the world-wide depression assumed, he said. Secondly, we should effect a reallocation of functions between the legislature and the executive in government, since parliamentary democracy is not adapted to the effective administration of a vast, complex, and swiftly moving national life.

Discussing regimentation of enterprise by government, President Frank said that some measure of social control of private enterprise has become imperative.

"We have reached a point in our economic evolution at which some force above the battle of private interests, whether it be the force of organized industry itself or the power of the state, must insure the adoption, throughout our business and our industrial system of minimum policies respecting wages, hours, prices, and profits that will bring our capacity to purchase into such relation to our capacity to produce as will keep our industrial system a going concern ministering effectively to the maximum needs of the millions," he declared.

Warning that governmental intervention in business processes is often inept, President Frank said that governmental inspiration of broad economic policy, and if necessary, its imposition, may now and then be imperative. He asserted that if "government will but keep clear and distinction between the broad guidance of economic policy and the detailed regimentation of business administration, the United States has the chance to evolve a sounder relation between economics and politics than either the communisms or fascisms of the hour can possibly achieve."

In respect to the issue of an economics of plenty versus an economics of scarcity, President Frank declared that the most disturbing fact of the time is the number of Americans, in high position and low, who are falling victim to a defeatist mood, apparently assuming that progress has come to a dead end, that science and technology have been too efficient in producing a limitless output at low prices, and that the thing to do is to plan a lesser output at higher prices.

"To restrict production and to raise prices, as a general policy, is not liberalism but reaction, not statesmanship but surrender, not creative advance but cowardly retreat," he maintained. "That way lies the subsidizing of inefficiency. That way lies the sabotage of superior management that knows how to bring both the cost of production and the price of products down. That way lies a permanent and perilous lowering of living standards for the swarming millions.

"It was not for this that the pioneers builded their blood and sacrifice into the foundations of this Republic. More goods at lower prices, not fewer goods at higher prices, is the logical goal of an age of science and technology."

Turning to the issue of internationalism versus nationalism, President Frank pointed out that at the moment the economic relations of the world are paralyzed by a baffling paradox, in that while the processes of the world's life grow daily more international, the policies of the world's governments grow daily more national.

"I am convinced that the modern world cannot be run effectively in terms of isolated economic nationalisms. The modern world is bound together by the lithe arms of rapid transportation, instantaneous communication, and the frontier-crossing agencies of credit, contract, capital and corporate organization.

"We cannot reverse this basic fact by transient ventures in swashbuckling nationalism. Ultimately some sort of world policy must dominate world trade relations. Such policy seems impossible of achievement at the moment, but it will be one of the major obligations of your generation to surmount rather than surrender to the difficulties that today tie statesmanship to the parish pump the world around," he told the graduates.

A special memorial concert to the late Major E. W. Morphy, director of the University bands and orchestras, was presented on the Lincoln terrace at seven o'clock Sunday night. A drenching rain interrupted the proceedings for a time, but the concert was resumed in Music hall. It was sponsored by the Wisconsin Men's Union, the University bands and orchestra and the Wisconsin Alumni Association.

Past Year and the Association

adversely affect public opinion regarding the University and which may call for action on the part of the University authorities.

4. It is the function of the Association to bring to the University authorities any constructive suggestions from alumni or other sources which if put into effect may result in advantage to the University.

5. It is the function of the Association to do what lies in its power to protect the University from the influence of political pressure either upon personnel or educational policy.

6. It is the function of the Association to further to the best of its ability such projects as will make for larger educational opportunities for the students.

7. It is the function of the Association with the co-operation of the University to encourage the formation of alumni groups in order that there may be developed a closer contact between alumni and the University and thereby bring to the institution greater organized alumni support.

8. It is the function of the Association to act as the medium of contact between the University authorities and the alumni.

9. It is the function of the Association to keep the alumni correctly informed upon University matters.

10. It is not the function of the Association to act as a fund gathering agency except with regard to such projects as it may consider within its sphere.

The best interests of the University and the Alumni Association can be served only through mutual understanding, co-operation and support. Both have a common objective—an institution that will offer to future student generations larger opportunities and to our citizens and state ever greater service. To attain this objective the University has a right first of all to look to the alumni, and the alumni in the performance of their obligation have the same right to look to the University for sympathetic consideration of their point of view in any matters relevant to the attainment of such objective.

An alumni association may be one of two types. It may be supported in part or entirely by university funds, with the university recommending or selecting its personnel, and be for all practical purposes an integral part of the university organization, or it may be entirely independent, finance itself, choose its own personnel and determine its own policies.

Our alumni have chosen the latter and, I think, wisely. If the Association is to be what President Frank has said it should be, "a medium through which a critical loyalty will be able to expose the weakness and promote the strength of the University," it must be in a position where it can exercise freedom of thought and action. If it is its function, and we think it is, to render effective support to the University it can best do so as an independent organization. An association under university domination would have little to commend it in the eyes of the public and its view would carry little weight.

Furthermore, an institution which has contributed so much to the common welfare does not need that type of blind support. It attained its highest position in the educational world without it and it can go on to greater accomplishments without it. Any policy to the contrary would be at variance with the ideals to which this University has always held.

The problem of securing a more active participation on the part of a widely scattered membership such as that of an alumni association is a difficult one. It has been discussed at almost every convention of alumni secretaries. We have tried through the magazine and by letters to encourage the submission of suggestions, criticisms, projects to be undertaken, etc. The results have been in most cases disappointing. Members, instead of offering suggestions and criticisms, expressed satisfaction with what was being done.

Approaching the problem from another angle, therefore, there was submitted to the membership this year a list of amendments to the constitution providing for a mail ballot. Not only will directors be voted upon in this manner, but it is also the intention to submit to the membership for its consideration and opinion questions of policy.

The amendments were overwhelmingly approved—only four votes being cast in opposition.

The first election for directors under the plan has just taken place. In selecting the nominating committee, various alumni groups were consulted and their choices were appointed to the committee. The nominating committee in turn consulted various alumni groups, went over our membership lists carefully and in making its selection, took into consideration every section of the state as well as our larger groups without the state. We believe that the plan will prove much more satisfactory than the old method in that it makes possible active participation by all members and also provides a means whereby those charged with the administration of Association affairs can gauge more accurately alumni opinion.

In concluding this report, I wish to emphasize the fact that the usefulness of the Association can be greatly extended through the cooperation and support of a greater number of alumni. The Public Relations project to which I have referred, for example, will require not only additional funds but if it is to succeed, the active support of alumni in every section of the state. In an alumni body as large as ours there will at times be sharp differences of opinion. Such differences of opinion, however, should not be permitted to divert attention from our main purpose—a well rounded program that will better serve the University, the alumni and the student body.

"The University of Wisconsin offers exceptional advantages to those students who wish to fit themselves not only for a diploma but for serious participation in the broadest type of social work."—John B. Andrews, secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation.

The 1934 Reunions

did a masterful job. He called upon Dr. E. A. Birge, president emeritus, for a few words, and the beloved former president responded in a most fitting manner, paying due tribute to the fiftieth anniversary class, 1884, as well as the other classes whose numerals ended in 4.

President Glenn Frank gave the principal speech of the evening, stressing the many accomplishments of the University during the past year and giving public thanks to the directors of the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation for the vital part they are playing in the maintenance of the University's research program.

Reuning members of the Glee Club corporation and the Glee club sang several songs during the program to prove to the alumni present that their training under Prof. Swinney has not died with the years but has become more useful with the passage of time.

The singing of "Varsity," led by those gallant Norsemen from Minnesota—to prove their versatility—closed the banquet program.

President and Mrs. Frank and Mr. and Mrs. Harshaw, assisted by Miss Marjorie Mueller, '26, received alumni and their friends in the reception room of the Union following the dinner.

Delmar Karlen, president of the senior class, aided by several of his classmates and several members of the Junior class, staged the traditional Pipe of Peace ceremony on the Union Terrace during the interim between the close of the banquet and the start of the dance. This ceremony, instituted in 1894, is one of the few traditions remaining at the University and has had a hard time maintaining its unbroken run of performances for the last forty years.

The senior-alumni dance which closed the general reunion activities, was held at ten o'clock Saturday evening and was attended by approximately three hundred couples. Bill Ferguson, '21, and his orchestra played for the dancers.

While the Clock Strikes the Hour

Wisconsin is the only conference school which grants students the special 50 cent rate, and that this special rate to students has contributed to extensive "scalping," which has continued despite all measures designed to eliminate it, resulting in losses to the athletic department and unfairness to the public.

Prof. Weaver also explained that the 50 cent student rate was originally set 28 years ago, in 1906, when it applied to all University people. In 1910 it was changed to apply only to students, but in 1921 was revised in its original form. In 1932 the faculty made it apply only to students again.

The faculty also approved two proposed amendments to the intercollegiate conference rules. The first of these would permit opening day for football practice to begin Sept. 10 instead of Sept. 15 as at present. If finally approved by all conference schools this year, the change will go into effect in 1935.

The second amendment would include soft ball or kitten ball along with baseball, basketball in that section of present conference rules which prohibits participation by students in games other than those of their school except where there is no admission charge.

The federal government has promised to give the University sufficient funds to complete the erection of the proposed bell tower on the Campus.

Momsen Heads New York Club

WILLARD MOMSEN, '29, one time Junior Prom chairman, was elected president of the New York alumni club at their annual meeting on June 8. Other officers elected were Burton White, '22, 1st vice-president; James Halsted, '15, 2nd vice-president; Phyllis Hamilton, '20, secretary-treasurer; Carl Adsit, '24, assistant secretary; Carl Beck, '12, retiring president, Edward Fronk, '29, and Marion Simonsen, '22, were named to the executive committee for three-year terms and Milton Stangel, '25, was named for the two-year term. R. Worth Vaughn, '27, Helen Zuehlke, '21, Hobart S. Bird, '94, Irene Staab, '21, and Warren M. Persons, '99, are the other members of the executive committee.

Following the business meeting, members of the club took part in the monthly round table meeting which was held in one of the branches of the telephone company. Following the supper, which was served at the exchange, the members were escorted through the various departments of the exchange and shown the intricacies of that modern wonder, the dial telephone.

The annual dinner-dance of the New York club was held at the Park Central on May 5. It was really a gala and eventful occasion with almost one hundred and fifty alumni taking part in the festivities.

The entertainment feature of the evening was a number of songs rendered by a fine quartet from the Follies. Jim Kitson, alias Kittelson, '31, is the leader of this group of singers. Heinz Rubel, '23, erstwhile radio star, Episcopalian minister, and script writer for Joe Penner's broadcasts, was scheduled to be present and present some of his famous and favorite songs, but was ill at the time and is saving his songs for next year's affair.

Glenn Frank Visits California

PRESIDENT GLENN FRANK and the gracious first lady of the University honored the alumni of Northern California on Saturday in mid-April at their 31st annual dinner at International House on the University of California campus at Berkeley.

The turnout was the largest on record going back to the first in 1904; nearest in point of numbers was the annual meeting held on the diamond anniversary of the founding of the University when we had seventy-five. Ten of our thirty past presidents were on hand and there were several alumni attending born since that first meeting thirty years ago in San Francisco.

The President told how Wisconsin was continuing to extend its leadership as well as to maintain the old traditions. Arnold Perstein, '21, was toastmaster, and H. H. Hindman, '19, led the vocal program of the music, Glen Halik, '18, entertaining with his violin.

Following the President's informal talk to the banqueters, adjournment was taken to the auditorium to hear his public lecture entitled, "The Sword Over Education." This was the last of a series of lectures he had been giving in California beginning at Long Beach the Monday previous and coming north to take in the main centers. President and Mrs. Frank also spent an afternoon in Palo Alto, where they were guests of former President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

E. V. Olson, '20, was elected president of the alumni to succeed Helen Thursby, '11, Mrs. E. A. Stokdyk (Virginia Gibson), '21, vice-president, and Frank V. Cornish, '96, secretary-treasurer.

Minneapolis Elects Officers

THE MINNEAPOLIS group of Wisconsin alumnae closed its year with a bridge luncheon at the Country Club on Saturday, May 19. Twenty-eight members were present.

After the luncheon the annual meeting took place. The reports of the secretary and the treasurer were read and accepted. The list of candidates for the Association's Board of Directors was read and discussed and all eligible voters urged to vote as our Henrietta Wood Kessenich was one of the candidates.

Mrs. Flora Karel Templeton read a short article from one of the Wisconsin papers telling of the high standing awarded the graduate departments of the University in a recent survey.

Our president, Ruth Remington Carneghan, presented her predecessor Pauline Lewis Sitar, with an attractive gift in appreciation for the splendid work she did during her term of office. Mrs. Carneghan then spoke briefly of the prominent people in the club, concluding with our new College Women's Club president, Sally Spensly Michener, whom she presented with a colorful bouquet of spring flowers. Mrs. Michener acknowledged with a graceful speech.

The business meeting proceeded with the report of the report of the nominating committee which presented the following slate of officers for the coming year: president, Agnes Bache-Wiig; vice-president, Maxine Sperry; treasurer, Rena Beck Williams; secretary, Lorraine Martens Koepke. The entire slate was unanimously elected.

The meeting was then adjourned and turned over to the social chairman, Grace Gerhauser, who took charge of six tables of bridge.

Chicago Alumnae Suspend Activities

THE University of Wisconsin Alumnae Club of Chicago closed its meetings for the summer with a luncheon program on June 2 at which Mrs. Rhea Hunt Ullestad president, presided. Elizabeth Johnson Todd, vice-president, gave a talk on her hobby, the collecting of early American bottles.

Dean Louise Troxell Greeley, dean of women at the University, spoke at the May meeting and Prof. Abby Marlatt, director of the Department of Home Economics at the University, spoke at the April meeting.

The benefit bridge parties held this spring for the raising of money for the Wisconsin Alumnae club loan fund at the University, netted $55. Additional contributions may be sent to Helen Zepp, treasurer, 7746 East End Avenue, Chicago.

The next meeting will be held the first Saturday in October in the regular meeting place, the Republic building, 209 S. State Street.

—Upton Sinclair.

Sooners Hold Annual Picnic

THE WISCONSIN alumni at the Oklahoma A. and M. College at Stillwater, Oklahoma, held their annual picnic on May 19. Mr. Z. B. Wallin, '12, has been chairman of a committee which has been responsible for the various activities of the local group of alumni during the past three years. Horace J. Harper, '23, was elected to serve as chairman of the committee for 1934-35.

Wisconsin was well represented in the National A.A.U. track and field championships at Milwaukee on June 30. Johnny Follows, '31, took second place in the 5000 meter run. Phil Roden, '33, placed second in the 100 meter hurdle race in the junior championships and was well on his way to another second place in the senior event when he fell on a hurdle and dropped out of the race. Allan Pray, a sophomore who has been ineligible, placed third in the 3000 meter steeplechase in the junior meet. Trainer Bill Fallon, as usual, was one of the official trainers for the meet.
