Freshmen Pledge $25,300 To Memorial Union Fund

Yesterday Biggest Day of Drive; Solicitors Report
Over $9,000

Approximate results of the freshman Memorial Union campaign announced at the Union office last night at the official close of the campaign brought the total amount pledged up to about $25,300.

Final amounts cannot be published for several days as many of the chairman had several possibilities outstanding and others had students on their lists who had to hear from home before they could make their promises. Any of those who wish to pledge may do so at the Union office any time.

Yesterday Biggest Day

Yesterday was the biggest day of the drive, as it was estimated that over $9,000 was pledged, while only about $8,000 was taken in on each of the first days. This was accounted for by the fact that many of the solicitors had been able to get in touch with their prospects.

Late yesterday afternoon and last evening, several of the campaign leaders paired up and went out to see students who felt that they did not know about the Union Pledge. Reports turned in showed that many of these changed their minds and pledged on second thought. Jerome Sperling and Allan Edgerton turned in a report from the night before of "seven seen and seven pledged."

Collects Unique Pledge

Frances Campbell claims to have collected the most unique pledge. When she returned to the Union office last night, she found Art McArthur '30, and Ken McFarlane '27, preparing to spend the night on the porch as candidates for the two free Badgers. McFarlane already had pledged, so she collected a promise from McArthur.

As the result of a visit by one of the solicitors, George Little made a large contribution to the building fund which he wanted to have credited to the Frosh total.

"LIT" MAKES FINAL BOW ON CAMPUS

Jim Chichester Contributes Art and Poetry to May Issue

The fourth and last issue of the new Wisconsin Literary magazine will make a final bow when it comes out today, according to C. Gibson Scheaffer, editor-in-chief.

Jim Chichester seems to be the star of the May issue of the Lit, being both poet and artist. The three poems on page nine are his very best, and the somewhat impressionistic cover he has cut from wood especially for the Lit.

Stew Palmer, erstwhile humorist, poet, and man about the campus, has contributed some of his verse, and J. M. S. Cotton has also contributed. Her poem has a Latin title but its sentiment is intriguing in spite of the fact.

There is the usual prose, a story about bootleggers and human beings by Viola Wendt; and another story, a character study of a campus aristocrat, by Dorothy Kornhauser.

Virginia Hoiles, to whom the honor of first position in the magazine has been given, has presented an understanding sketch of a college girl, but a college girl who is different. Margaret Fuller may someday become a second Sherwood Anderson, as evidenced in her story "The Middle House."

Al Gottlieb's "Kansas Portraits" are so well done that the editors of the Lit thought them good enough for the American Mercury. However, they grabbed them first for the readers of the Lit. "Demigods," by Jim Hatcher, is the title of a group of so-called campus sketches, not too much disguised to make a new guessing game practical.

SENIOR PLAY TRYOUTS
HELD TONIGHT AT 7:00

Tryouts for the Senior play "Dulcie," will be held at 7 o'clock tonight in 2 Law building. Seniors will be given preference in the final casting of the play, but all students carrying a full time schedule who have a weighted average of fair, and are not first semester freshmen are eligible to tryout. There are three women's parts and seven men's parts, none requiring character acting.

Appointments to the editorial and business staffs of the Daily Cardinal were officially announced Thursday afternoon by the Board of Control. Besides the list of appointments, the Board of Control also announced the awarding of gold Cardinal charms to James M. Nelson managing editor and Norbert W. Eschmeyer, business manager of this year's paper. Desk editors appointed for the coming year are Gene S. Duffield '29, Edward H. Jenison '29, Warren C. Price, Hampton Randolph '29, and Lester Veltz '29.

Special writers include Margaret Alsop '29, Kirk Bates '29, Sylvia Dermanly '29, Alfred Eichler '28, Frances Holman '29, Bernice Izaakowitz '28, Mary Lloyd '28 and Helen Weil '28.

Those appointed reporters are Ileene Brough '29, Arthur Hoiles '28, Esther Kissinger '30, Seymour Korman '30, Margaret Ludden '30, Elizabeth Maier '30, Maxine Stiles '30, Jean Polk '30, Sam Sherman '29, George Schmid '30, William Steven '30, Bernice Tweed '30, Doris Zemurray '30, and Edward Crouse '29.

Holt, Fink, Palmer Are Nominees to Head Red Gauntlet

Dorothy Holt, and Margaret Fink were nominated from the floor as candidates for the presidency of Red Gauntlet, sophomore women's organization at the Green Button banquet at the Hotel Loraine last night. Marian Palmer is the W. S. G. A. nominee for this office.

Two hundred attended the banquet in the Crystal ball room. Dean Davis and Professor Gordon were the speakers. Marian Horr acted as toastmistress and extended her best wishes for the continued success of the present Freshman class.

Final elections will take place Tuesday in Lathrop hall.

FRESHMEN BURN GREEN CAPS IN BONFIRE TONIGHT

To Climax '30 Week With Annual Celebration on Lower Campus

As a climax to '30 Week members of the freshman class will gather on the lower campus at 7:15 o'clock this evening to celebrate Cap Night, a part of the annual Varsity night celebration.

George Little will open what may be the last spring Cap Night promptly at the stated time with a short preliminary talk. He will be followed by Vernon Carrier, senior class president, and Edward Cole, sophomore class president, who will extend welcomes to the first year men and women. Jerome Sperling, as freshman class head, will give the reply.

Burn Caps At 8

After the speeches, shortly before 8 o'clock, the big bonfire will be lighted and the green caps, the official emblems of the class of '30 will be cremated, thus bringing the Freshmen "into the full fellowship of Wisconsin life." Immediately following the fire, the crowd will form into a great snake dance down State Street and around the Square.

This year's Cap Night is in charge of John Parks, who is assisted by Ted Otjen, Joseph O'Connell, Arthur Brandt, and Stanley Golden.

Last Freshman Event

"We want everyone out tonight. This may be the last Cap Night to be held in the spring if the Student Senate ruling goes into effect. Moreover, this will be the last thing which we can do as freshmen in this school, and we want to put it over big," Parks said yesterday.

OFFICIALS FAIL TO AGREE AT MEETING

Failure of union labor officials and Jacob Pfeffer, contractor, to come to an agreement prevented an immediate settlement of the strike at the Memorial Union building at a meeting held yesterday morning. After a three-hour conference with no settlement, representatives departed to ask the assembly labor committee to postpone the hearing until Tuesday afternoon. Possibilities of agreement appeared remote from the beginning this morning, for only two of the sub-contractors were present.

Wooster, Franey, and Weinke Play in Recital

By M. N.

A program in piano, voice, and organ, presented by Eleanor R. Wooster, soprano, Kathryn E. Franey, pianist, and Lucille Wienke, organist at Music hall last night brought to a close the series of School of Music senior graduate recitals. Adelheid Wagner '28, accompanied.

A fine sense of musicianship and careful preparation was shown by each of the student musicians. Miss Franey's playing of the Beethoven Sonata opus 14, left nothing to be desired in the matter of phrasing and general interpretation. Debussy's "Danseuses de Delphes," modern in its chord structure and tone coloring and Chopin's Nocturne opus 15 were sympathetically done.

Miss Wienke's performance of the ungrateful Guilman's "Fifth Sonata" with its difficult pedal passages and numerous voices showed careful preparation and a definite mastery of the instrument.

The clear soprano voice of Miss Wooster was at its best in the Puccini, "Vissi D'Arte." Delightful legato, and clean interchanging of registers made for pleasing singing.

Petition Presented to W. S. G. A., Senate This Noon; May Draft Referendum

At a joint meeting of the W. S. G. A. council and Student senate at the University club this noon, action will be taken on the petition advocating a change in the Daily Cardinal Board of Control which may result in the drafting of a referendum that, if passed at the polls, will provide a complete reorganization of the Daily Cardinal's supervisory body.

Persons who have been circulating the petition on the campus announced late yesterday afternoon the number of signers exceeded by 100 the necessary five per cent of the student body.

Majority Vote Decides

If the board is to be changed, it now remains for the W. S. G. A. and Student senate to approve the petition, draft a formal statement of the proposed referendum, and submit the question to voters in a special election. Only a majority vote of those students voting is necessary to pass the proposed amendment.

All members of the Student senate and W. S. G. A. council are requested, by the presidents of the two bodies, to be present at the joint meeting, which will be held at 12:10 o'clock this noon at the University club.

Since there has been some opposition expressed to the placing of four staff members on the board, it may be possible that, providing the petition be approved, the original plan of reorganization be changed to a certain extent. To facilitate the formulation of a most feasible plan, members of the present Daily Cardinal editorial board and of the Board of Control will be present to offer suggestions.

Not Factionary Movement

Leaders in the movement to alter the present board organization yesterday stated that they wished to rectify any campus opinion that might have interpreted it as an action caused by the recent staff "strike." It is, they said, an action sponsored by those actively engaged and interested in campus publications, and not by any particular faction.

The meeting at the University club this noon will have a curious significance in that it will be, for some years, the first joint meeting of the two bodies.

STUDENT LEAGUE MEETS MONDAY

Plans to Improve Conditions Between Workers and Employers

The Wisconsin Student Worker's league, university student labor union, seeking to correct conditions in the student labor situation in Madison, will take final organization steps when it meets at 8 o'clock on Monday in Music hall.

Arnold Dresden, associate professor of mathematics; E. M. Groves, instructor in economics; and R. E. Conner, head of the executive committee of the league, will address the gathering Monday night.

Major points in the official platform of the league follow:

To institute collective bargaining in the establishment of standard rates of pay for work done by the students.

To cultivate mutually satisfactory relations between student workers and their employers by insisting that students give a fair hour's work for a fair hour's pay and that employers give a fair hour's pay for a fair hour's work.

To aid (in co-operation with existing agencies) the student in finding a job, and the employer in finding workers.

COURTS ARE TOPIC OF TWO LECTURES

William Searle Holdsworth, Oxford Professor, Speaks on English Law

Two lectures were delivered yesterday by William Searle Holdsworth, Vinerian Professor of law and a Fellow of All Souls College at Oxford University.

The first lecture in the morning was on the subject "Frederick William Maitland." The second lecture, given in the afternoon, was a discussion of Dickens' novel "Bleak House," and its information on the courts of chancery existing throughout England during that middle period of the nineteenth century.

This novel was one of the most typical reform novels of Charles Dickens, which gives a graphic picture of the striking conditions which existed in the courts of that period, Holdsworth stated. Dickens develops the central theme of his story on one particular case which came up in a court of chancery, and by skillful movement, he emphasizes the evils of the court system.

Among the abuses and faults in the procedure of those English courts of chancery, were long periods of waiting before a case was settled, the tedious processes of the court itself, the inhuman treatment of prisoners while waiting for trial, and the complicated modes of questioning witnesses which was unnecessary to a settlement of the case, all of which almost resulted in a denial of justice.

Wisconsin Track Team Leaves For Dual Meet With Northwestern

Badgers Set for Tough Battle With Strong Purple Outfit

The Wisconsin Track team left for Evanston this morning to meet Northwestern in a dual meet in the new Dyche stadium. The Badgers have reason to remember this stadium for it was just last week that Ohio State handed Wisconsin a one point defeat there in the quadrangular meet.

Although Wisconsin scored 56 points to Northwestern's 40 in the quadrangular meet, Coach T. E. Jones anticipates a much harder battle with the Purple than last week's score would indicate.

Northwestern Strong

Northwestern is especially strong in the dashes, the half mile, shot put, discus throw, hammer throw, high jump, and pole vault.

Wisconsin is expected to make good showings in the hurdles, quarter mile, two mile, javelin throw, hammer throw, high jump, pole vault, one mile, and half mile.

Robert Kreuz, javelin thrower, was at home last week to cure an ailing shoulder, and it seems that he will again remain because his shoulder has not yet recovered.

McGinnis After Three Firsts

Capt. "Chuck" McGinnis was suffering from a sprained ankle last week but it has considerably improved during the past few days and he will make a bid for three first places. In the pole vault McGinnis will meet his Waterloo, Droege-muller, Northwestern star, who defeated McGinnis last week at the quad meet has done 13 feet 3 inches. McGinnis cleared the bar at that same height in practice Monday, and it is expected that if he is not too fatigued from his other competition he will fight Droege-muller to the finish.

In the high hurdles McGinnis will meet Little competition from Northwestern. But in the high jump he will have to better Rettig, Northwestern high jumper.

Herman Fast Sprinter

Northwestern has a lad named Hermansen who recently discovered that he could travel the 100 yard dash in 9.9, and do the 220 in 22.4.

Gil Smith, Wisconsin's hope in the dashes, will be forced to step if he wishes to keep pace with Hermansen, Wisconsin's premier

Phi Delta Phi Head First Division by Beating Theta Chi

The championship in the first division of fraternity baseball was definitely settled yesterday when the Phi Delta Phi defeated the Theta Chi team by a score of 3-2.

All of the games played off yesterday were hard fought. Theta Xi whipped the Alpha Delta Phi by the one sided score of 9-0. Theta Delta Chi trounced Tau Kappa Epsilon 5-2.

The Phi Delta Phi-Theta Chi game was the closest game yet played in fraternity baseball. Going into the ninth inning both teams were tied 2-2. Al Simpson, Phi Delta Phi, swatted the first ball pitched for a homer and thus won the game and the division championship 3-2.

A no hit, no run game was pitched by Anderson, of Theta Xi, to lead his team to a 9-0 victory over the bewildered Alpha Delta Phi's.

The Theta Delta Chi team cinched a victory over Tau Kappa Epsilon when Miller hit a homer in the 3rd inning to bring in two others who were on base. From then on the game just proceeded until Theta Delta Chi won 5-2. Zimmer, Theta Delta Chi pitcher, upheld his record as one of the best fraternity pitchers by holding down the TKE's.

Theta Chi will play against Delta Sigma Tau tomorrow to determine the second place winner in the first division. Other games tomorrow are as follows:

Kappa Sigma vs. Kappa Psi on field A, at 4:30.

Phi Kappa Sigma vs. Phi Beta Pi on Frosh No. 1, at 5:30.

quarter miler, is practically assured of a victory in his race. Stowe, another Badger quarter miler, will probably run second to Dougan in the race.

Wisconsin Strong in Mile

Wisconsin has exceptional strength in the one and two mile, with Petaja running the mile, and J. Zola traveling over the longer race.

On the other hand Northwestern is exceptionally strong in the weight events and in the half mile. The Purple will probably take all three places in the shot with such stars as Lewis, Karsten, and Bagge throwing.

INTERSCOLASTIC MEETS HELD HERE TODAY, SATURDAY

One Thousand Athletes to Compete in Track, Tennis, Swimming

Wisconsin's high school track athletes will settle all questions of state supremacy tomorrow at the 33rd annual Interscholastic track meet to be held in conjunction with the 9th annual tennis meet, and the 3rd annual swimming meet.

The first competition will start this afternoon with the tennis matches. At 8 p. m. under the direction of Coach Joe Steinauer, varsity swimming coach, the swimming meet will officially start.

Track Meet Saturday 1:30

Rivalry in the track meet will start Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. At this time the qualifying trials will be held, and it will not be until 1:30 that the meet will get under way. This meet will not conflict with the Michigan baseball game because that game will not start until 4:30 p. m.

Three classes of schools will compete in this track meet. The best competition will be seen in class A, which is composed of entries from schools with an enrollment over 750. Class B, however, will have equally hard fought competition. Class C, representing schools with an enrollment less than 150 has 28 schools entered with a total of 180 men.

Class A Rivalry Keenest

Championship in class A will be a nip and tuck battle between Milwaukee high schools and a capable team hailing from Kenosha. The latter team has been creating an enviable record this season, and is generally rated as a championship team. Recently the Kenosha team repeated its last year victory in the Big Six track championship and was able to best its nearest opponent by more than 40 points.

Milwaukee high schools, however have a likely looking field of athletes. Riverside is accorded an unusual amount of strength. Folsom, half miler; Bell and Wright, quarter milers; Carley, in the dashes; and Hapke and Mangen in the jumps.

In class B, Fort Atkinson and West Green Bay seem to have the most powerful teams, although it is probable that other schools might subdue the stars on these teams.

WHAT DO YOU CALL IT

THE STATE MEET

Another hefty week-end athletic program starts this afternoon with Wisconsin and Northwestern opposing each other in a dual track meet at Evanston. Then comes the state high school meet at Randall tomorrow and the Michigan-Wisconsin ball game immediately afterward.

Aside from the technical difficulty which they will encounter in trying to defeat Northwestern, the Badger trackmen are faced with the necessity of learning how to pronounce the name of the Purple stadium. The spell it "Dyche," and you pronounce it "Dike," "ditch," "diche," or "dish," just as you happen to feel.

"Pat" Dougan, best of the Wisconsin quarter-milers, will probably be pleased, gratified, not to say intrigued to hear that the Daily Maroon refers to him as "Dougan of Ohio State." Similarly, Harland Stowe, another Badger 440 man should be tickled to learn that he is a 100 yard dasher as far as the Daily Northwestern is concerned. All this, while not very important, makes something to talk about.

Benjamin J. Oosterbaan, known popularly as "Benny" to every Big Ten sport fan in the middle west will appear as the lord high custodian of sack No. 1 when Michigan comes to Randall field tomorrow for a set-to with the Badgers. It is the first official trip Benny has made to Madison this year; we hope he won't be disappointed much.

High school athletes from every town and village in the state are coming in today to prepare for their annual assault upon the Wisconsin interscholastic track and field records. Pacetti, Kenosha quarter-miler, Bell, whose sensational finish won the two-mile relay for Milwaukee Riverside in the Midwest games, and Folk, great Janesville weight man, will be among the individual stars entered in the competition. All in all, there should be plenty of fast races on the program.

MICHIGAN HERE TOMORROW FOR BASEBALL GAME

Contest Will Not Start Until 4:30; After Track Meet

The Wisconsin baseball team, having gotten its confidence back from the cleaners after two close but undeniable Western conference victories, will charge into one of the season's toughest opponents on Randall field tomorrow afternoon. The opponent happens to be Michigan.

Both Michigan and Wisconsin started to win baseball games on the same date, Saturday May 14. Previous to that time neither nine had shown much more than the right idea; since then, they have crowned three first division teams, including Illinois, and just now, both the Badgers and the Wolverines are looked upon as the comingest comers to be found.

A youth by the name of Don Miller has been the chief figure in Michigan's remarkable come-back. Displaying no apparent weakness, Miller hurled the Wolverines to shut-out victories over Illinois and Iowa over the past weekend, allowing twelve hits for the two contests.

The Michigan nine, however, will be handicapped by the fact that it must play Northwestern at Evanston today and come on to Madison tonight or tomorrow. Since Miller is the only dependable Wolverine hurler, Michigan must make a choice between starting him against Northwestern or against Wisconsin.

Stoll, Clausen Available

In contrast with this pitcher's dilemma, Wisconsin will have Capt. George Stoll, whose three-hit victory over Illinois is still the talk of the conference, and Stanley Clausen, port side star, fresh for duty against the Wolverines. Theodore Thelander and Ray Ellerman are also available, and any of these four is capable of pitching a good game.

Although the Wolverines are not great hitters, they seem to have developed a knack for punching hits in a way that means runs. Weintraub, the lad who displaced Benny Friedman at third base, Puckelwartz, Kubicek, and Davis are all fairly dependable batters. Kubicek got a home run and a triple against Illinois, Benny Oosterbaan, Michigan's three-sport star, star is playing first base this year.

The Latest Petition

Perhaps some word of explanation regarding the petition in circulation to change the present form of the Daily Cardinal board of control by referendum is desirable. The facts of the matter were stated in an article in yesterday morning's Daily Cardinal, but it is doubtful whether the outgrowth and purport of the new movement is understood by all.

It must be explained in the first place that the petition is not an aftermath of the recent controversy between the junior editors and the board of control regarding the 1927-28 staff appointments. In fact the propagators of the petition are not necessarily connected with the Daily Cardinal, many of them being on the staffs of other university publications, a fact which shows the development of a general feeling that the governing body of this paper is not adequate in its present form. The writer of this editorial, one of the leaders of the so-called "insurrection," was not even so much as aware of the existence of the petition until he read the morning paper over his coffee, and as he is writing this he has not yet signed on the dotted line. We wish to discourage the notion that the petition was drawn up and circulated by the junior editors of the Daily Cardinal alone.

The fact of the matter, as explained before, is purely and simply that the governing body of the paper has for years gradually become estranged from the actual inner workings of the Daily Cardinal itself, a situation which might be likened to a hypothetical case of a king and his counsellors on a prolonged hunting trip in the interior of Africa, and at the same time dictating the policies of a far-away country. Perhaps our analogy is somewhat far-fetched and over-strongly made, but we feel that it will serve to clarify the situation which has provoked much wonderment on the part of many who are not familiar with the complicated machinations of a student publication.

The petition has come into being with a general realization of the situation, and the proponents of its principles maintain that it is a natural outgrowth of the ever-widening breach between the staff of the Daily Cardinal and the board of control.

The complications involved in bringing about this change are self-evident from the article in yesterday morning's issue. The Daily Cardinal corporation is referred to in the account, and it might be well to reiterate that every student in the university is a member, or stockholder, in the corporation. All of which means that according to the corporation laws a plurality of student vote must be cast in favor of the change at the referendum which the petition proposes.

The attempted solution of the difficulty is expressly stated in the petition. It has been explained that the connections between the board of control and the staff of the paper have been long straining at their halters, until now a general sentiment feels that they are almost completely severed. The remedy proposed is to the effect that the board of control be composed of two members of the editorial board of the Daily Cardinal, two members of the business staff, two seniors, two juniors, and one faculty advisor, to vote only in case of a tie.

As soon as 450 names are affixed to the petition which was in circulation all day yesterday the document will be presented to W. S. G. A. and the student senate and will await their action.

Praiseworthy Undertaking

The history of the Memorial Union at the university, from its earliest conception to the present day, has been a history characterized more by hope than anything else. For years undergraduates and alumni ardently hoped for its materialization; for years it was talked of as a dream, and regarded as an intangible something that sometime might be realized. And even now, when the building is going up by leaps and bounds, when to all outward appearances it will only be a matter of a short time before it is ready for occupancy, still the element of hope insists on pervading the atmosphere.

Campaigns among the undergraduates and alumni for pledging to membership are obviously the only possible way of accumulating sufficient funds for its completion, but the very intangibility which is the essence of all pledging foretells the supposition that those intimately connected with the welfare of the Union can sit back in their chairs and nonchalantly blow contented smoke rings. They are thankful, to be sure, but still they hope—hope that the money pledged will to the last cent find its way into the coffers of the cause. And so it is fairly self-evident that until the whole cost has come in and been paid out there will still be a lot of hoping.

The whole point of what has just been thrashed over for perhaps the thousandth time is merely for the development of a background against which the possibilities for a great deal of noble work present themselves. We cannot imagine anything more pleasingly gratifying to Porter Butts than to have someone saunter into the Union office and hand over some money which was never even pledged, and consequently quite unlooked for.

Doubtless this does not come to pass often, but for the instance of service to the Union which we are undertaking to laud the principle remains essentially the same. We wonder how many students on the campus appreciate the fact that Mu Phi Epsilon presented a musical program on the evening of May 12, the whole proceeds of which were turned over to the Memorial Union. A praiseworthy undertaking such as this might receive endless favorable comment, but let it suffice to say that it is reassuring to see a campus group fully realize the situation at hand, put forth its efforts, and turn over the results in cold cash.

Just how many similar enterprises might in the future be undertaken for the same purpose it were impossible to enumerate, but the possibilities are nevertheless unlimited. Mu Phi Epsilon has taken a forward step in a forward movement, and deserves much commendation.

Among the ominous rumblings which begin to forecast a time of trial and tribulation for this fair hill of learning comes the announcement that this weekend will be the last pair of 12:30 nights this semester. Campus date hounds are faced with a deadline. They will probably finish neck and neck.

Other Editors Say

EXAGGERATION.

The floating university is defended by Henry J. Allen, former governor of Kansas and recently dean of journalism on the novel educational institution which has been touring the world aboard the liner Ryndam. He ridicules reports of romance on the boat, says that the American youth applies himself better on shipboard because there is no chance to cut classes, and he cannot visit college inns.

Reports of drinking on the trip have been grossly exaggerated, Mr. Allen says on his return to this country, and he explains that the main difficulty was that 12 of the boys drank too much saki while in Japan. He doubts if any college in the United States with 450 students could show a higher standard of conduct.

The false reports which have been spread over the country as to the failure of the floating university, of irregular conduct aboard, and the like, are but further examples of those stretched truths which the credulous mind likes so well to believe, but which if investigated are found to be nothing more than carelessly concocted tales of misinformed persons.

All those in favor of owning, or giving the finest—whether for Graduation, Birthday or Wedding Gifts, or for prizes at Bridge or Golf—will signify by stepping in to the nearest Parker pen counter. Orph Bill Almost Too
Good; Three Acts
Excellent

BY L. C. E.

With the exception of one bad act, we put our unquailied stamp of approval on the whole bill at the New Orpheum this last half. This is just as good a show as the Orph has had since it started. It's almost too good. Burr Nickles, who appears in person, presents something unusual in his nature picture. He takes us through a thrilling experiences in Mexico, Borneo, and Singapore. His picture, "Wonders of the Wilds," is educational, yet event that doesn't spoil it in the "popular" mind.

Three of the vaudeville acts are excellent, featuring good singing especially. One act is passable, and one is rotten.

George and Ethel Livingston

They do some good tumbling. The lady gives her teeth a fast work out by hanging by them in various positions.

Hilton and Chesleigh
This act belongs far, far out in the sticks.

Bert Gordon and Co.

Excellent. Desperate Sam is a Jewish boy who stars in a bar room scene. Six persons in this act sing and act foolish. The lines are clever. The short cowboy, whom we suspect is an American Legionnaire has a fine tenor voice. Plenty of good, wholesome humor in this act.

Lester

Excellent again. We've never heard a better ventriloquist. Lester even ventriloquizes when he drinks and smokes.

Florence Hedges and Co.

More excellent yet. Florence and her talented company of six give refreshing sketches from popular Broadway hits, among which are "Blossom Time," "The Chocolate Soldier," "The Vagabond King," "Rosemary," and "The Student Prince." This is something that we could stand to have more of in vaudeville. The singing is very good. In "The Song of the Vagabond King," the man who impersonates the vagabond king gives a splendid version of Dennis King's acting.
