URGE STUDENT RESPONSE TO CITY ELECTION

Expect Record Number of Ballots in Municipal Election

CLOSE FIGHT EXPECTED

"Every university student who is of voting age and is a legal resident in the city of Madison should vote in the municipal elections today," said Scott H. Goodnight, dean of men, yesterday.

"Students should not be careless and indifferent in regard to their suffrage," he continued. "If a student is more interested in the municipal elections in his own town than in those of Madison, he should vote in his own town by means of mail as is now provided for in this state. But it is his privilege to vote in Madison if he has complied with the local requirements for citizenship."

Requirements Enumerated

These requirements are that a person shall be a qualified voter as soon as he has resided in Madison 10 days and in the state at least one year.

Dean Goodnight also emphasized the fact that very close scrutiny of ballots is to be made at the polls today and that any illegal voting will be dealt with severely.

"Rumor has been going about," he said, "to the effect that non-registered students plan to vote under the names of other students who are registered citizens but who have permanently left Madison. The penalty for such an offense is from two to five years in state penitentiary."

"Both the candidates for mayor, Mr. Kittleson and Mr. Blied, are urgent that the students realize that neither of them want to receive office thanks to illegal voting. They want them to be cognizant of the regulations and adhere to them strictly."

The voters will elect a supreme court justice, senior and junior superior court judges, a complete city

PLAN TO HONOR FRENCH WRITER AND DRAMATIST

Present Comedy of Moliere in Tercentenary Celebration

"Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," a comedy by Moliere, will be presented April 27 by the department of Romance languages, as part of the tercentenary celebration honoring the birth of this well-known French playwright and author.

The plays of Moliere have long been favorites on the French stage, and this year has been set aside by lovers of French literature in France and America, as an anniversary year to be devoted especially to his writings. Columbia university, the University of California, and other American schools are carrying out Wisconsin's plan of dramatizing some one of his works.

"Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" is one of Moliere's most popular comedies. It will require much training for presentation, and 17 students are included in the cast. Especially elaborate will be a Turkish ceremony, worked out in great detail and at much expense. Practices have been going on for some time. Although the comedy involves more training than the average student production, its plot is one with a wide appeal to students.

Legion Resolution Copy Sent to Birge

A copy of the resolution petitioning the Student Senate to take immediate action against the Social Science club, drawn up at a meeting of the university post of the American legion at a meeting held Thursday night, was sent to President Birge Friday.

The resolution brands the club as a "small group of un-American radicals and extremists who are inciting unrest among the student body."

The Student Senate will not call a special meeting to act on the petition, but it will be taken up at the regular meeting on Wednesday, according to Robert B. Stewart '23, president of the Student Senate.

The legion will take no further steps until the Student Senate has acted upon the petition.

PHI KAPPA PHI INITIATES 49

Expansion and Aims of Organization Are Outlined

Forty-six graduates and undergraduates and three faculty members were initiated into Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholarship and activity society last evening in the banquet room of the city Y, M. C. A.

A banquet preceded the initiation ceremony, which was followed by an address on the history and purpose of the organization by Dr. E. E. Sparks, honorary president of Phi Kappa Phi and president emeritus of Pennsylvania State college. Prof. B. H. Hibbard, president of the local chapter, presided as toastmaster.

Organization Discussed

The organization was first discussed by the presidents of the University of Maine, Pennsylvania State college, and the University of Tennessee in 1895, according to Dr. Sparks. Two years later, these three men, together with two other college presidents, started the society, but no expansion resulted until 1909, when Dr. Sparks was elected president.

From this time until 1911, Dr. Sparks remained at the head of the society and the number of chapters increased to 21. At present, there are 28 chapters in universities throughout the country.

Turner Enters Race For Athletic Board

Gilbert C. Turner '24 has entered the field as a candidate for the Athletic board. Turner, who is a "W" man in crew, is out for the position on the board as representative from that sport. He was a member of last year's crew, served on Homecoming and Prom committees, and is on the circulation staff of the Athletic Review. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Prof. Walker Sails For Europe Today

Prof. J. C. Walker, of the department of plant pathology, who was recently commissioned by the United States Department of Agriculture to study crop diseases in Europe, is expected to sail from New York today. Mr. Walker has been in Washington, D. C., the greater part of the past week preparing for his work abroad. He will resume his duties at the university upon his return in October.

Choral Union to Present Concert In Music Hall

A concert of unusual interest will take place this evening when the University Choral Union sings at Music hall. The Choral Union is composed of about 75 voices and is conducted by E. Earle Swinney, of the university School of Music, with Leon L. Iltis as accompanist.

The program will consist of two numbers, the first being Gounod's cantata, "Gallia," in which Temperance Johnson '24, soprano, will sing the solo parts. The second is "The Erl-King's Daughter," by Gadi, a work in which the music is brilliant and the choruses full of colorful harmony. The solo parts are as follows: Erl-King's daughter, Aagot Borg '22, soprano; Olaf, Kenneth Damon '22, baritone; Mother, Erma Duncan, mezzo-soprano; Erl maidens, Winifred Collier '23, Florence Robb '25, and Martha Chandler '22.

CARDINAL HAS 30TH BIRTHDAY

Publication Organized As a
Daily Paper in

Today is the thirtieth birthday of The Daily Cardinal, which was established as a University of Wisconsin paper in 1892 by W. W. Young, now head of the National Editorial service in New York.

The University Press, a monthly paper which was founded in 1870 was adequate for the 383 students enrolled at that time in the university. Increased registration necessitated a larger paper, and the Aegis was started as a weekly. As the number of students increased, a larger paper was again needed, and the Cardinal was started.

Staff Was Small

"At that time the staff, composed of both men and women, was comparatively small," said Prof. W. G. Bleyer, the second head of the Cardinal. "The paper had few advertisements but as much reading matter as it has now. The editorials dealt with national politics as well as campus activities."

In 1894 the Cardinal became a member of the Intercollegiate Press association, and in 1898 it was incorporated in the state as the Wisconsin Cardinal association.

Prof. Lorentz Leaves For Chicago Lecture

Professor Lorentz, who recently delivered lectures here, left Saturday for Chicago. He will stop at the University of Chicago only a short time to deliver but two lectures. Then he plans to give a lecture at Cleveland, and later, to attend the meeting of the National academy at Washington, D. C. From there he will embark for Holland.

Varsity Movie to Be Shown Here April 6

The Varsity movie "Not Responsible" will be given here again on Thursday, April 6, at the Grand theater. The performance will be given both afternoon and evening. "Not Responsible" under the direction of Herbert Stolte '21 has been shown in many different universities all winter. The scenario has been carefully worked over, some 10 or 12 titles changed, the rough spots smoothed over, and some campus scenes worked in. Stolte has given up school this winter and has taken complete charge of "Not Responsible" en route.

Activities and Social Life Said to Be Pushing Studies
Back

COLLEGE LIFE OVERDONE

Using a fund of anecdotes and stories from his own experience to drive home his points, Dr. Edwin Earle Sparks, president emeritus of Pennsylvania State university, stated that outside activities and social life are pushing scholarship to the background, at a special convocation held in Music hall Monday afternoon. Dr. Sparks said that he does not believe in doing away with activities, but he made a strong plea for a small corner of the stage now held by activities for scholarship.

Life is Overdone

"So many of the nervous breakdowns attributed to studies, are not due to studies but to over-society, over-organization, and improper food," said Dr. Sparks. "I have seen students walking down the street with half of their noon meal in each hand—a dill pickle in one, and an ice cream cone in the other. It is no wonder that such a student writes home that he or she is overworked and will have to come home."

"The college student is the great entertainer of the present day. He belongs to the great class of 'go aloners' who are easily led into careless habits that result in the neglect of the more important things. Let us get back to the fundamental purpose for which our universities were founded—study. We are losing sight of the real purpose of education."

Study is an Activity

"A student once told me when I was questioning him about the various activities of his fraternity that study was not an activity. Of course it is not. But it should have at least an equal footing with activities. By all means let us keep the activities but give scholarship its due. A member of Phi Kappa Phi or Phi Beta Kappa who has

Goodnight, Sellery and Stewart Go to Mid-West Meetings

Educational Conferences Are Held in Lexington,
Kentucky

Dean Scott H. Goodnight, Dean George C. Sellery, and Robert B. Stewart '23 will represent the University of Wisconsin at the mid-west educational conference to be held April 20, 21, 22, at Lexington, Ky.

Three conferences are to be held at that time, one for the deans and advisors of arts and sciences colleges, which Dean Sellery is to attend; one for the deans and advisors of men of mid-western institutions, which Dean Goodnight will attend; and the mid-western students' conference, which Stewart will attend.

Organized Last Year

The organization of the mid-western students' conference was begun last year as a result of the efforts of the students of the University of Missouri to get a meeting of representatives of all the larger colleges and universities to discuss student activities and undergraduate government. The definite plan was drawn up at the first meeting, held last April at Columbia, Mo., with 22 schools from 14 states represented.

HERMAN ENGELKE, who is playing politician at present, asked us to give him a little publicity in the col. this week. We are therefore publishing one of Van Pelt's contributions. Readers are asked to remember that Herman was one of the assistant basketball managers during the past season.

Expect Heavy Vote In City Election Today

ticket and two members of the board of education.

Close Race Expected

The results of the elections of the two candidates for the supreme bench will in all probability be extremely close. Judge Burr Jones of Madison, who took a seat in the supreme court on the death of the late Chief Justice Winslow, and John C. Kleist, of Milwaukee, who is running on a socialistic platform, are the two aspirants for this office.

Two candidates, I. Milo Kittleson and Frank C. Blied, will be voted upon for city mayor. The former has been mayor of Madison for one term of two years; the latter was defeated for this office in 1920.

Judge A. C. Hoppmann, who has served one term as senior superior judge, and Attorney James H. Feeney are opposing each other in the race for senior superior court judgeship.

School Board Candidates

In the election of two school board members it is expected that women will hold a prominent position. The candidates are John Moran, to succeed himself, and Miss Regina Groves and Mrs. F. L. Paxson to succeed Mrs. Bleyer, whose term expires and who expects to leave the city within a short time. Mrs. F. L. Paxson is the wife of Prof. F. L. Paxson, head of the history department of the university.

In the fifth ward, which includes a large part of the Latin quarter, the race for alderman will be unusually close. The candidates are Henry Ceaser, present incumbent, and A. R. Rhode, who is the candidate of the Fifth Ward Voters league, of which Prof. A. P. Haake, of the economic department, is chairman.

It is estimated that the votes will number as high as 16,000 to 17,000. In the elections of 1920, the first time the women of the city held full suffrage, 14,072 votes were cast. It is believed that on account of the city's growth and the heightening of interest in municipal matters in the last two years that this number will increase by at least 2,000.

According to Professor Haake, there will be an advisor at the booths to help students and to tell them if they can vote. Professor Haake himself will be at the twenty-second precinct booth. He makes a special plea that all voting students turn out to exercise their privileges today.

Five or six lines in the daily papers of a college town will tell the story of a professor's death, if they are not crowded for space that day, while whole pages are devoted to the society news of the college."

Isolation is Over

Dr. Sparks said that we are in competition with the world and the days of our isolation are over. The leaders in each branch of science and each special phase of invention are not to be found in America any longer, but in Europe. Time spent in wishing that these leaders were Americans, is time wasted. The need is to get to work and bring back our former prestige.

"We can protect our industries, we can subsidize them, we can advertise them, but we cannot protect our brains so long as other nations continue to work as they have worked. I am not an alarmist but I do want you to take some heed, make some effort, to see that American scholarship shall not perish from the earth."

THE SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB

NOW that Mrs. O'Hare has left Madison and the American Legion's fiery resolutions are safely shelved until the next regular meeting of the Student Senate, it may be safe to express an open opinion of the Social Science club without provoking an assault. It may even be possible to express an opinion without acquiring the appellation of Bolshevik or Reactionary.

Free inquiry is a Wisconsin tradition. Somewhat battered, but nevertheless a tradition. It has developed through generations of academic life. A tradition grows; it cannot be made. It may die or rot away, but it cannot be summarily killed or abolished. An individual, whatever his authority, or a small group of individuals, cannot kill a tradition. The Student Senate found that out last spring when it tried to abolish traditions much less venerable than that of open-mindedness. The student body, as a whole, believes in free inquiry; it is proud of the bronze memorial to that tradition at the entrance to Bascom hall.

The Social Science club states that its purpose is to bring to the university speakers both conservative and radical, in order that the student body may hear both sides. No one objects to that purpose, though some doubt that such is the purpose of the club. The club has acquired a reputation for radicalism. Whether listening to speakers on social and industrial issues results in radicalism, or whether only radicals are vitally interested in listening to such speakers, is uncertain. Does the egg cause the chicken or the chicken cause the egg?

The club has succeeded in one aspect of its expressed purpose; no one could ask for a more representative radical than Scott Nearing. But such speakers are comparatively easy to get; talking is the business of the iconoclast. In the other aspect the club has not been successful; it could not be. The students would like to hear some distinguished speakers on the other side of the fence; but what conservatives the club has secured have been of much less relative importance to conservatism than Mr. Nearing is to radicalism. Can anyone imagine men of the type of Judge Gary or Frank Vanderlip coming to the university to speak at the solicitation of a small self-constituted group with a reputation for radicalism? But it is entirely conceivable that men of this calibre would come at the request of a representative organization expressing the desire of the student body.

Let's have free inquiry; let's have speakers on both sides; but let's have them brought by a representative organization. The bringing of such speakers should be put in the hands of such a body as Union board or Forensic board. A representative organization with such a purpose would be above suspicion of malignant motives, and it would have enough prestige to receive the attention of important men.

FACULTY INSPIRATION

MR. MCINTYRE, in a scathing article on the faculty of the university in the Wisconsin Farmer, quotes an editorial from the Daily Cardinal which he claims was "faculty inspired." The editorial in question remarked that college presidents are considering the restriction of college attendance by requiring strict preliminary tests for students entering and by weeding out delinquent students who have entered. Mr. McIntyre considers it "deplorable" that a student publication should "voice the sentiment" of a faculty which he claims has formulated a policy of limitation.

In the first place, the Daily Cardinal does not "voice the sentiment" of the faculty. Its policy feels criticism is due; it supports when it believes that support is due. Surely its policy in the last few months has not "voiced the sentiment" of certain important faculty members.

In the second place, it would be strange indeed if faculty inspiration were not reflected in these columns. Mr. McIntyre himself characterizes distinguished professors as lodestones that attract students to the university. These men are "lodestones" because they have ideas and inspiration to give; they would not have been selected if their influence were not for the best. Would it not be deplorable if student publications did not reflect their teaching and inspiration?

With regard to the quotation cited, the Cardinal may as well make its opinion clear. Mr. McIntyre reads into it much more meaning than is there expressed; as quoted, it merely states the fact that some presidents advocate restriction and does not commit the Cardinal to any policy.

In a limited sense, the Cardinal does advocate restriction. It believes in democratic education, equal opportunity for all. It believes that every person should be given the opportunity to get just as much education as his willingness and ability permit. But it does not believe that the individual who is deficient in desire or competency to learn should be allowed to drag down the academic standards of the university.

The man or woman who comes to the university merely to get "college life" should get it, and get out. There are few enough competent instructors to care for the students who want to learn, as Mr. McIntyre's article indicates; their time should not be monopolized by dogs in the manger. The Cardinal has nothing to say for the unfair teacher, but the university faculty is with few exceptions ready to be square with the student who wants to learn.

The student who has not the ability to learn is a subject for sympathy, but he should not be allowed to waste his time in hopeless endeavor. A man who has the ability to be a good plumber and nothing more, might better be fitting pipes than struggling with calculus and mechanics.

Speaking of Vacation

When the train pulls in at the old home town and you grab your bag full of soiled laundry and you hot foot it at the rate of something around ten flat for the old homestead, "ain't it a grand and glorious feeling?"

Mother and dad, who have waited lunch twenty minutes because your train was late, greet you with open arms; shortly you put your feet under the family table in the place you occupied since childhood.

"It's great to be alive! you say; and so it is, for what could be sweeter than having plenty to eat, to wear, to spend, and a good place to sleep, while mother and dad pay the bill.

You say its good to be alive? Suppose—just suppose the old black wagon met you at the station to take you on your last journey.

Still—mother and dad pay the bill.

Better have a policy of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance with the university agency (talk it over with mother and dad).

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

INTER-COLLEGE TANK MEET IS HELD AT 4:30

Four Events Planned
As First Half of Schedule

Four events in the annual inter-college swimming meet will be run off at 4:30 this afternoon in the gym tank. The remaining four will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Although Varsity tankers have been selected to captain the four college teams, they will not be allowed to compete. Only non-letter men are eligible to enter events, winners of which will receive college insignia.

Captain-elect "Johnny" Bennett will handle Letters and Science swimmers; Lamboley has charge of the Engineer paddlers; Gilbreath has been chosen leader of the Commerce aggregation; and Ellicott will attempt to put the Ags in first place.

An inter-fraternity dual meet is scheduled for Thursday and Friday. Keen rivalry between Sigma Chi and Phi Delta Theta outfits resulted in a challenge and an acceptance which will bring representatives of the two fraternities together in eight events. "Johnny" Bennett will be the Phi Delt mainstay, and Gilbreath and Storey will strive to put the Sig Chis in the lead.

Non-Varsity swimmers will get another chance to perform in the gym tank when the annual inter-class meet is run off on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Psi Upsilon, scoring 26 1-3 points, won the inter-fraternity swim meet which was held last week. The Chi Psis were in second place with 23 points, and the Phi Sigma Kappa squad captured third position with 15 1-3 markers. Cups will be awarded to winners of the first three places.

Elder, who was lone point winner for the Zeta Psi team, scored 10 1-3 points. Ewald, Psi U, was another individual high point man.

Romney is Ineligible For Big Ten Sports

Milton Romney, captain-elect of University of Chicago football team, was declared ineligible for further Big Ten competition after the meeting of Conference representatives in Chicago last week-end. Romney took part in different branches of athletics for two years at Utah and at the Midway.

His case came under the new rule preventing athletes from prolonging their undergraduate courses to remain eligible for a longer period of time. Romney might have finished this spring, but left school.

Joint Meeting of Conference Schools Adopts Amateur Rule

Wisconsin voted for a strict interpretation of the amateur rule, to lengthen the residence rule of migratory athletes from one to two years, and disapproved of post-season inter-sectional contests at joint meetings of presidents of conference universities, faculty representatives, and athletic directors held in Chicago during the past week-end.

Athletic Director Thomas E. Jones and Prof. F. A. Pyre, chairman of the athletic council, represented Wisconsin at the meetings. Pres. E. A. Birge was unable to attend because of an injury he sustained last week.

Enforce Freshman Rule

Beginning on September 1, 1923, no contests will be permitted with institutions which do not enforce the freshman rule. The ruling will prevent many practice games, especially during the football season when the larger elevens clash with those of minor institutions. Wisconsin's schedule will have to be changed to drop South Dakota Agricultural college, Carleton college, Minnesota, and minor Wisconsin institutions unless they adopt the freshman rule before the 1923 season get under way.

Professionalism Hit

The amateur rule to govern baseball was made more binding. It now forbids college players to play on teams which charge admission to games. Collegians can not play on town teams or factory nines without violating the new dictum. In case any players infringe upon this rule, their cases will be communicated throughout the Big Ten by any coach or athletic director who discovers the violation.

University presidents adopted a resolution which urged consideration of the following proposals:

First—That the conference vigorously condemn the indefensible and demoralizing methods now being resorted to by unofficial agencies to secure promising athletes.

Second—That the conference maintain the amateur rule and continue its efforts with renewed vigor to reduce and eventually to eliminate even the suspicion of professionalism from college and university athletics.

Third—That serious attention be given to some method of eliminating inter-sectional games involving long trips and long periods of absence from classes.

Limited to Two Sports

After this year, athletes can participate in only two sports, according to a resolution proposed at a faculty committee session. Final action will be taken at the June meeting in Iowa City. An athlete will not be permitted to play football and baseball. He must choose either sport along with some other. Cross country running and track work were considered one sport. This decision will affect "Rollie" Williams, who takes part in football, basketball, and baseball.

Ineligible athletes who migrate from one Big Ten institution to another will not be eligible for competition until they have been in residence at the latter institution for two years. The rule strikes at the "tramp athlete" who will now have to enter colleges outside the conference for competition.

Although inter-sectional contests are looked on with disfavor, no definite decision was made to abandon them. Chicago and Princeton, Iowa and Yale, and Chicago and Georgetown will meet next fall in accordance with their schedules.

Students who prolong undergraduate courses for the purpose of extending their period of athletic eligibility will be debarred from further competition. "Mit" Romney, all-around Chicago athlete, is the first man to be hit by the order.

Big Ten basketball officials who work in professional games will be dropped from the conference list.

Attempts were made to change basketball schedules so that each team will meet every other team in the future. Wisconsin officials were unable to put through a change calling for an 18-game schedule.

The rotating schedule proposed slates Wisconsin to play Minnesota, Chicago, and Illinois every year. Michigan, Indiana, and Iowa are to be met in 1922-23 and Purdue, Northwestern, and Ohio State in 1924.

Final action on this proposal will be made in June.

CINDER SQUAD MIGRATES TO CAMP RANDALL

Jones Announces Entries For Annual Track Relays

Varsity track men made their annual spring migration to Camp Randall yesterday afternoon. Practice for the squad will be on the Randall track beginning this week. Workmen have put the cinder path in shape for outdoor work.

Coach Thomas E. Jones announced his entries for the annual Drake relays which will be held at Drake college, Iowa, on April 29. Badgers are entered in the quarter, half, mile, two-mile, and four-mile relays, but entries in some of these events will be scratched. Field men are to compete in the six special events.

Entries in the relays are:

Quarter mile relay—Spetz, Johnson, Knollin, Ellingson, McClure.

Half mile relay—Spetz, Johnson, Knollin, Ellingson, McClure, Roberts, E. H. Gibson, Krohn.

Mile relay—Wade, Holbrook, Woods, Hofacker.

Two mile relay—Wall, Hohlfield, Ramsey, Wade, Blodgett.

Four mile relay—Wall, Ramsey, Wille, Schneider, Rossmessel, Moorhead, Hohlfield, Daniels.

Guy Sundt is scheduled to compete in the shot put and broad jump special events. Merrick, Hammann, and McClure, are entered in the pole vault, but it is doubtful if Merrick will compete. He will probably go to the Penn relays which are to be held on the same date.

Platten and Gibson will represent Wisconsin in the high jump, and George Stolley will start in the hurdles and the quarter mile event.

Capt. "Al" Knollin, who is also entered at Drake, may go to the eastern classic at Penn instead.

BOWLING SPREAD

The annual bowling spread for all those who have bowled this year is to be held in Lathrop, Wednesday noon, when all will take their trays upstairs and eat together. Varsity bowling team will be announced, and the championship junior team will put on a stunt.

He maintained that he left to earn more money so that he could return to Chicago next fall.

BASEBALL SPREAD

The baseball spread, which marks the end of the indoor baseball season, will be held at Lathrop at 5:45 Wednesday. Varsity Indoor baseball team will be announced, and will play a picked team after the spread. All those who have played indoor baseball or who are interested sign up on the Lathrop bulletin board.
